CALL TO ARMS IN IRELAND ISSUED

Proclamation by Provisional Free State Government

Conspiracy to Override Will of Nation Broken by National Army, but Increase in Force Needed to Cope With Possible Future Attempts.

(Canadian Press Cable)

Dublin, July 6.—A call to arms was issued this morning by the provisional Free State government in the form of a proclamation opening the way for the enlistment of those citizens who last week were declined by the government because it was confident of the ability of the army single handed to meet and defeat any attack made upon it.

The valor and patriotism of our national army has broken the conspiracy to override the will of the nation and subject the people to a despotism based on brigandage and ruthlessness, regardless of the people's inalienable right to life, liberty and security.

"Spontaneous and eager offers of army service made by citizens last week were declined by the government because it was confident of the ability of the army single handed to meet and defeat any attack made upon it in the way of open warfare, and it desired to teach the exterminators' army that needed lesson.

"The present active strength of the army has been sufficient to deal adequately with the recent situation, there is a possibility of continued sporadic action which makes an increase in the army establishment virtually necessary.

"People of Ireland! You have regained for the first time in centuries those powers of government from which a nation may develop and cultivate in peace order and prosperity its own national genius.

"A wicked, sanguinary attempt has been made to thwart your will and thrust you back again into the house of bondage, with your capacity for self government discredited before the whole world.

"The courage and devotion of our national army has preserved you. But the armed conspirators to overthrow the present government and to substitute a despotism in its place remain and may attempt to continue to carry out acts of brigandage and other acts of interference with the moral and economic life of the country.

"Such attempts must be summarily and drastically dealt with until the person, home and property of every law-abiding citizen is rendered completely secure.

"The provisional government has instructed the general headquarters staff of the volunteer organization to place its establishments on an active service basis. The headquarters staff is directing officers commanding local units to appeal to all members to accept service for three months.

"All other citizens who desire to join the national ranks will also be recruited for the volunteer organization.

COMPENSATION BOARD CASE. Argument was begun yesterday in chambers before Mr. Justice Barry in the matter of the Workmen's Compensation Board vs. The Bay View Lumber Co., an action which has been before the court for several months.

THE DIAMOND SCULLS. Healey, July 6.—In another heat for the diamond sculls, A. A. Baynes, of the Commercial Rowing Club, Brisbane, Queensland, defeated Earl, Great Britain, by 1-2 lengths. The time was 9 minutes, 35 seconds.

MAY LEAD MANITOBA FARMERS. Geo. F. Chipman, editor of Winnipeg, and a candidate in the Manitoba provincial elections. It is probable that he will be selected as leader of the United Farmers party in the legislature when he is elected.

Fred H. Trifts Found Murdered in Automobile In Douglas Avenue

WENT THERE AT 10.30 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT IN RESPONSE TO FATAL TELEPHONE CALL

Found Dead This Morning With Head Battered, Car Engine Running and Lights On—Watch and Money in Pockets Not Taken—Robbery in Service Station Nearby, and Wrench Among Stolen Articles—No Word of What Happened Between 10.30 p.m. and 3.15 This Morning.

OUTSTANDING FACTS IN DOUGLAS AVENUE TRAGEDY

F. H. Trifts, Trifts' Garage proprietor, received call to Douglas avenue at 10.30 last night. About 3.15 Mrs. George Keefe saw his car stopped there.

About 4.15 two morning newspaper printers noticed the car there as they were on their way home to the West End.

About 5.30 street car conductor Harry Williams saw the car there as he made his first run on a Fairville car.

About 6.30 George Rose, a milkman, noticing lights on the car, investigated and found Mr. Trifts dead.

When Mr. Trifts left the garage he had planned to return to the city about eleven o'clock to drive his wife home from the residence of a sick woman upon whom she had been calling.

There was money in Mr. Trifts' pockets and his watch had not been taken.

An automobile service station near the scene was broken into last night and a heavy wrench was among the things taken.

An autopsy reveals that the unfortunate man received heavy blows on the head with some heavy instrument.

Frederick H. Trifts, proprietor of a garage in Paddock street, was the victim of what, on the face of it, appears to be one of the most brutal murders in the annals of crime in this city.

His wife went to Richmond street on the wrong side of the wheel of one of his cars, with the engine running and the headlights on full, Mr. Trifts was found dead about six o'clock this morning by George Rose, a milkman, making his rounds in Douglas avenue.

The car was drawn up alongside the curb on the wrong side of the street. The news of the dreadful discovery spread through the city this morning with remarkable rapidity and Mr. Trifts' many friends and acquaintances received the news with profound regret.

The Fatal Call. The last time Mr. Trifts was seen alive was about 10 o'clock last night when he talked with his wife at his garage. It has been ascertained that about half an hour later he received a call from Douglas avenue and, all his drivers being away, took the call himself.

His wife went to Richmond street on the wrong side of the wheel of one of his cars, with the engine running and the headlights on full, Mr. Trifts was found dead about six o'clock this morning by George Rose, a milkman, making his rounds in Douglas avenue.

So far no tidings of either Mr. Trifts or his car have been heard between that hour and 3.15 o'clock this morning when Mrs. George Keefe, 286 Douglas avenue, saw a car stopped in the street with the lights on.

Two printers on their way home to the west side about 4.15 o'clock reported that they also saw the car, but did not investigate.

At 6.03 o'clock Motorman Harry Williams, 266 1/2 Pitt street, operating Fairville car No. 79, passed along Douglas avenue and saw the car standing there; on his return trip, twenty minutes later, it was still there, and before he had made the outward trip along the crime had been discovered.

About 6.30 o'clock a newsboy named Mowry, delivering papers in Douglas avenue, passed on the other side of the car, but thinking nothing unusual had happened, passed on without investigation.

Five minutes later, Mr. Rose passed the car, and thinking it was a car belonging to a friend, he drove on.

At 10.30 o'clock last night a telephone call came to Douglas avenue and Mr. Trifts, who had been called to the residence of a sick woman upon whom she had been calling, went to the garage.

Negotiations for Settlement of Strike of Shopmen

Some Disorders Reported, and Troops Called for—One Man Shot in Clash of Strikers and Guards—New England Situation.

(Canadian Press)

Chicago, July 6.—The strike of the railway aspect today, the sixth since the walkout, and feeling became more general in rail circles that the last twenty-four hours had shown a marked trend toward peace, despite increased disorders at other points.

It was believed that an exchange of letters yesterday between B. W. Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board, and B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the A. F. of L., probably opened the way to negotiations for an early settlement of the controversy.

Jewell's statement that the shopcrafts "are willing to confer with anybody authorized by the railroads to bring peace proposals" was accepted as a promising indication of a speedy return to normal conditions in the railroad shops.

The Chicago and Alton, upon whose lines some of the most serious disorders of the strike have occurred, continued to employ new men at the unemployment office which the railroad opened yesterday in Chicago.

At Alton, across the Mississippi River from New Orleans, clashes occurred between striking shopmen and guards for the Southern Pacific. One man was shot, his home in Hartland.

Railroads for the most part announced passenger and freight traffic still to be unhampered.

The Boston and Maine, Boston and Albany and New Haven systems reported yesterday that striking shopmen in varying numbers were applying for the jobs they were to take last Saturday morning.

HORNBY AND WILLIAMS TIE

Former Promises to Eclipse National League Record

(Canadian Press)

New York, July 6.—Rogers Hornby, slugging second baseman of the St. Louis Nationals, promises to excel this year the National League season home run record that has weathered the test of time and clouting for thirty-eight years.

Edward Williamson, of the old Chicago Nationals set the record at twenty-seven in 1884, a mark that such sluggers as Anson, Brouters, Delahanty, Schulte and Cravath have sought in vain to better.

Hornby clouted out his 20th homer yesterday while the Cardinals were trimming Cincinnati 11 to 4, and with the season only half gone his chances not only to exceed but establish a figure to shoot at for years to come is especially bright.

Incidentally, he tied his American League rival, Ken Williams, of the St. Louis Americans for the leadership in both leagues.

Cravath set a modern National League mark with 24 homers in 1915. George Kelly, of the Giants, led the league last year with 23, and Hornby was second with 21.

The Chicago Cubs hammered out an 11-5 victory over Pittsburgh while Detroit grabbed an 11 inning triumph from Cleveland, 6 to 3, in the only other games played yesterday in the major leagues.

Speaker caught one of Pillette's curves for a homer in the first inning.

Feats in both leagues will shift battlegrounds today, western contenders of the American League invading the east while the eastern clubs in the older circuit take up the struggle in the west.

The Giants will start their trip against the bidding Pittsburgh Pirates, while the Browns will open against Boston. Cleveland is scheduled to play a double-header with the Yankees.

Dundee and Sharkey. New York, July 6.—Johnny Dundee, junior lightweight champion, and Jack Sharkey will meet tonight in a fifteen-round contest at Ebbetsfield, Brooklyn.

They are required to make 120 pounds, the junior lightweight limit for the bout.

Grand Circuit. Cleveland, July 6.—Six of the best troopers in training were scheduled to start in the trotting sweepstakes at North Randall today.

This evening's attention in Grand Circuit turned to horse racing circles, with the Fasig, the first sweepstakes of the season for three year old trotters.

The trotting sweepstakes at North Randall is the first test of the season and is open to the 2,055 class. Ten were named to go in the Fasig, which carries a purse of $2,000.

Other events on the card were the second division of the 221 trot, with eight probable starters, and the 212 pace, which twelve were named.

The first division of the 221 trot will be raced tomorrow.

Tennis at Buffalo. Buffalo, July 6.—Favored by another fair day the contestants in the tennis tournament for the women's national court title today will compete for the title.

Leslie Bancroft of Brookline will be opposed by Helen Hooker of Niagara Falls in the upper half of the draw and in the lower half Mrs. Harry Bickel of Toronto will play Mrs. Frank Godfrey of Brookline.

In what should prove to be the best match of the tournament, Mrs. Bickel slightly favored to win, Miss Hooker is not expected to extend Miss Bancroft.

Toronto, July 6.—By the formation of the Ontario Cricket Council, a meeting held in the King Edward Hotel last night, the first step was taken toward having all cricket clubs, councils, leagues and associations in Canada organized under one head.

In fact, last night's meeting was called to organize the Canadian Cricket Association, but after considerable discussion it was decided to form provincial bodies first, and when this had been done to go on with the Dominion organization. It is expected that other provinces will organize cricket councils in the near future.

MRS. JOHN SPROUL OF SUSSEX DEAD (Special to The Times.) Sussex, N. B., July 6.—Mrs. Frances Sproul, wife of the late John Sproul, who for forty years was conductor of the Sussex train, passed away at eight o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Warren. She was eighty-three years of age, and was in excellent health until about seven months ago. Mrs. Sproul was a woman of sterling character and a devoted member of the Presbyterian church. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John McNicol, of Vancouver, and Mrs. Warren, and three sons, Dr. Jasper Chatham, Dr. Heber of Newcastle, and Dr. Beverly of Montreal. The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, interment in Kirk Hill, Rev. A. V. Morash officiating.

TRAINS COLLIDE AND 75 PEOPLE ARE HURT Chicago, July 6.—Seventy-five persons were injured, only one seriously, when a Chicago-bound Pere Marquette passenger train crashed into a New York Central engine on a siding near Porter, Ind., late last night. The train proceeded to Chicago this morning after the injured received first aid.

"TURN TO RIGHT" IN N. B. AFTER DECEMBER 1

Frederick, N. B., July 6.—The provincial government passed an order in council last night authorizing the issuing of a proclamation which will make it the duty of the driver of the road in New Brunswick on and after December 1 next.

This was at six thirty-five. Policeman MacFarland was dispatched to the scene and proceeded to investigate. Mr. Trifts was lying on the front seat with his head against the window of the car which is a sedan.

There was a great deal of blood about the car, the running board was covered with it and the windows splattered. Just over the unfortunate man's left eye was a mark which resembled a bullet hole, and there was another mark on top of his head which might have been made with a blunt instrument.

The first theory was that Mr. Trifts had been shot, that the bullet had entered his head over the left eye and come out at the top of his head. Some doubts of this were later entertained, and the bullet could not be found and the wound on the top of the head looked as if a blow had been struck.

Detectives Power and Biddiscombe were notified and were at the scene a little before half-past seven.

FILLING STATION BREAK; WRENCH WAS STOLEN. There is a possibility that a break which was made into the gas line filling station, near the scene of the crime, was made by a man who was driving a car on Douglas avenue and Prospect street road between midnight and seven o'clock this morning, may have some connection with the crime.

Arthur McColgan, who is assistant to Mr. Patchell, found the front door of the place open when he arrived there this afternoon, and he noticed evidence that thieves had been busy during the night. The window in a small toilet in the rear of the building had been broken, and the catch unfastened and the window yanked. Inside it was found that a desk had been rifled, and some goods stolen.

Papers and clothing belonging to Mr. Trifts, which it is believed might have been scattered about the floor. Amongst the articles missing was an eight-inch West-coast wrench, which it is believed might have made a good weapon for the carrying out of the crime.

Other missing goods included three keys to the tank locks, key to safety deposit box, twenty-five packages of cigarettes, six boxes of chocolates, 11-2 boxes of gum, thirty-one cents in coppers and sixty-seven packages of Old Cham tobacco. The one who entered the place must have been of small size as the window through which he made his entrance was quite small. There were some footprints outside but they were almost indistinguishable, as the surface is gravelled. The filling station is about a mile farther up the avenue than the spot where the murdered man was found.

Called to Avenue AT 10.30 LAST NIGHT. This morning a memorandum was found on Mr. Trifts' desk in his office in Paddock street, containing the words "McLean, Douglas avenue, Observer." Nothing more is known of the unfortunate man's movements until his car was seen by Mrs. George Keefe after three o'clock near opposite the observatory. Mrs. Keefe heard the clock chime 3.15, 3.30 and 3.45, and then fell asleep.

When Mr. Rose found the body of Mr. Trifts apparently had been dead for some time. He was found by George Rose, a milkman of Adelaide street, when on his early rounds about half past six. The matter was immediately reported to the police who are busy on the case.

To a Times reporter Mr. Rose said this morning that when coming up Bentley street toward Douglas avenue he had noticed the lights of a car. He had been curious as to why the lights of a car should be on in broad daylight, and, turning into the avenue, drove up close to the car and was horrified to see the dead body of a man. The car was headed toward the city and parked on the wrong side of the street directly in front of the residence of Dr. J. D. Maher, and almost opposite the meteorological observatory.

Mr. Rose went to the observatory, and endeavored to gain admittance in order to telephone to the police. Being unsuccessful in rousing anyone there he went to the next house, occupied by George Keefe. Mrs. Keefe answered the ring and on Mr. Rose's request telephoned to the North End police station. Central station was notified. This was at six thirty-five.

Policeman MacFarland was dispatched to the scene and proceeded to investigate. Mr. Trifts was lying on the front seat with his head against the window of the car which is a sedan.

WEARING APPAREL PRICES MUCH LESS IN LARGE CENTRES

Wearing apparel prices are considerably lower than a few months ago, according to S. C. Young, manager of the Oak Hall Bargain Basement, who has just returned from Boston, New York, Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal on an extensive buying trip.

Although Mr. Young went away with the expectation of making some good buys, he was agreeably surprised with the unusually low prices that he was able to take advantage of.

The reason Mr. Young gives is that just about this time every year the large manufacturers sell out at great reductions all their summer stocks to make room for new fall lines in the process of making. Fortunately for Oak Hall, Mr. Young went away just at the psychological time, and was able to make such exceptionally advantageous purchases that the month of July will certainly be a banner bargain month in the Oak Hall Bargain Basement.

There will be arriving during the month for Oak Hall's Bargain Basement wonderful bargains in blouses, sport sweaters, skirts, dresses, hosiery, shoes and underthings, as well as shirts, undershirts, hosiery, overalls, and other things for men and boys. These will be put on sale from day to day as they arrive, so that it will well repay every shopper to visit Oak Hall's Bargain Basement every day.

FUMES BETRAY

HUGE STILL IN AN APARTMENT

Scientifically Planned Liquor Plant Discovered, With 400 Gallons of Whiskey—Former Janitor Arrested.

New York, July 6.—Fumes from a chimney on a five-story apartment house at 105 East Ninety-sixth street have disturbed persons living in that neighborhood for several weeks. The curiosity of the neighbors led finally to a "tip" to Federal prohibition headquarters and the "tip" led to a visit to the apartment by Agents Van Tassel and Emanuel Morgans.

In the guise of gas inspectors, Van Tassel and Morgans got into the apartment and went down to the cellar. There they reported, they found a completely equipped distillery. Two fifty-gallon stills were used for specially constructed chimney carried off the fumes. A charcoal filter to remove fusel oil and give the proper coloring was a part of the apparatus. Four hundred gallons of whiskey in kegs and jugs of from one to twenty gallons lined the walls of the cellar and twelve barrels of mash stood in the centre. According to the agents, it was the biggest privately owned distillery found in the city. Everything was systematically arranged. The distilling was done in one room, the bottling in another, and there were special compartments for filtering, coloring and other steps in the whiskey-making process.

The agents called a van and then made a search for the occupant of the premises. They found Isaac Periah, who three years ago was janitor of the Periah was charged with the manufacture and possession of liquor.

BOY TUNNEL BUILDER BURIED BY CAVE-IN

Quick Work of Policeman and Workmen With Shovels Too Late to Save Lad. Sharon Stewart, 18 years old, lost his life when a tunnel he was building at Riverside Drive and 19th street, New York, caved in and buried him. His 6-year-old brother, Robert, a cripple, was saved by the prompt action of 18-year-old Alfred Williams.

CHOPPED BODY FOUND IN LONG ISLAND FIELD

Hatchet Which Nearly Severed Victim's Head Picked Up Near By. New York, July 6.—James Henabery of Elmhurst, L. I., was walking through a field belonging to the Leverich estate with a pet dog when the dog came to a stop near a tree and began to bark. Henabery went to the spot, which is about 800 feet north of Park avenue and found the body of a man lying in a pool of blood. Inspector Formosa, Captain Ernest Van Diericks and Captain Martin Bowe of the Newton Precinct, with Detectives Knapp and Digilio hurried to the scene and noticed the homicide squad in Manhattan.

The man was about thirty years old, well dressed in brown, with brown stockings, brown oxford shoes, cotton underwear and a white shirt with green and white stripes. His head, which was nearly severed from the body, had been cut to pieces by a hatchet which was found in the grass about thirty feet from the body.

The man had a knife, small scissors, nail clip, gray silk handkerchief and a pipe in his pockets. There was no money or any mark of identification. The cap which the man wore was new.

and had the name of the Kaufman store at 155 Front street, Worcester, Mass. The victim was an Italian. He had just been shaved and had his hair cut. There was part of an Italian daily paper of this city near the man bearing the date of Sunday. It was the opinion of Dr. Howard W. Neal, medical examiner, that the man had been killed late Sunday afternoon or evening. The body was sent to the Newton police station.

What Every Woman Should Know
It isn't necessary any longer to work and worry over the bread problem. We've settled that question for St. John housewives. All they've got to do to get bread of the most superior quality is to call up their grocer and ask for DWYER'S BREAD

DWYER'S BREAD

Clothes Count

The day has passed when men of affairs can afford to be careless about their personal appearance.

The modern business or professional man gives the same thoughtful care to the purchase of his clothes as to any other piece of equipment for his vocation.

You can simplify this selection by consulting Gilmore's and looking over the extensive line of cloths for custom tailored suits, or the select stock of ready-tailored clothes.

FILM STAR'S MOTHER JUMPS FROM WINDOW

Mrs. Miriam Oestrich, in Ill Health, Commits Suicide at Hotel in Albany.

Albany, N. Y., July 6.—Mrs. Miriam Oestrich of the Hotel Gotham, New York, widow of a manufacturer and mother of Mrs. Muriel Oestrich Brady, film star, committed suicide by jumping from the window of a room on the eighth floor of the Wellington Hotel here.

Mrs. Oestrich and her husband, Frank Brady, an architect, were asleep in an adjoining room at the time, and knew nothing about the suicide until employees of the hotel aroused them after passing by had discovered the woman's body on the sidewalk.

Mrs. Oestrich motored to this city with her son-in-law and daughter. They started from the Belleaire Hotel in New York last Saturday, stopped over at a hotel at Poughkeepsie on Saturday night and arrived here Sunday afternoon. They were on their way to Saratoga, where they intended to remain for several days.

BETTER THAN HARD COAL
Soft coal so free from soot that it does not make whistlers on stove covers or pipe and does not mat or cake when burning. It is far better than Hard Coal for general household use. Quicker to light, takes less to make a fire, cheaper in price and can also be used for open fires and small heating stoves. Such a coal is Broad Cove soft coal. The main thing is to insist on getting the genuine article. No other soft coal burns just like Broad Cove. You will know it by the above characteristics.

and then go to the Berkshires, where Mrs. Brady and her mother were to remain for the rest of the summer. Mrs. Oestrich had been in ill-health for several months, and had recently suffered several fainting spells in her suite in the Hotel Gotham. Although the Bradys expressed belief that her death was due to an accident, Coroner Muller declared that she jumped out of the window.

A total of 1,055 packages of cheese were auctioned at a regular meeting of the Kings county cheese and butter board yesterday afternoon in the Board of Trade rooms. The selling price was sixteen cents per pound, but this was not obtained until after considerable dickerling. The producers threatened to sell unless they received sixteen cents.

SAVING LIVES.

Mr. C. E. Turner, assistant professor of biology and public health in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says that probably the greatest opportunity for saving life in the next few decades will be found in health education. There is very great significance in this remark. Hon. Dr. Roberts has many times pointed out that if we in Canada would save the babies born in this country we would be doing a greater service than in getting foreign immigrants with no knowledge of or regard for Canadian ideals, and perhaps diseased in the bargain. The more we think about this assertion the more impressive it becomes. Reduce the death rate and develop healthy children born in Canada, and there is an immense contribution to the country's welfare.

Prof. Turner, in the address delivered by him before the National Education Association in Boston last week, was dealing with the subject of health in its relation to the schools. He pointed out that health progress must depend upon the individual, and that therefore "we must translate a considerable body of yet unassimilated knowledge into the lives and habits of the average citizen. On this point he said:

"This task develops primarily upon our great system of public instruction and the present enthusiasm for the improvement of the school health programme is modifying and improving health teaching in two important respects. The first innovation is what might be called applied personal hygiene or training children in healthful living. Instead of merely giving children facts about physiology and anatomy they are given training in all the essential health habits under the stimulus of watching their growth and by various projects for motivation. The second development in health teaching which is immediately before us is the translation of a considerable body of new knowledge regarding health and disease into the public school programme. Much basic information accumulated by the public health profession in the subjects of hygiene, physiology and sanitation must become the property of the general public if it is to be useful in disease prevention."

Another speaker, Dr. C. E. A. Winslow, professor of public health in Yale School of Medicine also condemned the "dull and profitless memorizing of anatomical structures."

"We are adopting a system of teaching which will aim at habit formation and shall be vitalized by direct appeal to the imagination and competitive instinct of the child. This is an admirable tendency, but we must be careful not to swing the pendulum too far, and to remember that habit formation if it is to continue effective throughout life must rest upon a sound theoretical knowledge of the principles upon which hygiene is based. We must recognize also that whatever inspired geniuses may accomplish in a few individual instances the incorporation of hygiene as a vital subject in our schools throughout the country can only be accomplished by its recognition as a part of the formal curriculum."

The object of all this is not merely to save the life but to increase the physical and mental efficiency of all. Pre-natal care, baby clinics, medical inspection, education in health subjects, public health nursing, health clinics, standardization of hospitals and other portions of a complete public health programme should be matters of universal interest and assured of universal support.

The surrender of the insurgents in Dublin came after great damage had been done to property. The responsibility for the destruction rests upon them. They refused to accept the verdict of the people and rebelled against the constituted authorities. The success of the government forces in Dublin should have a healthy effect upon the rest of Southern Ireland. Most of the leaders of rebellion are now prisoners. It would be unfortunate if De Valera were not added to the list of those under lock and key. He is the arch-conspirator, who has pursued an utterly indefensible course since the moment negotiations looking toward the establishment of the Irish Free State were begun.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson has been telling the people of British Columbia that the Ontario Conservatives will go into the next provincial elections with a liquor policy more "generous" than prohibition. If the Conservatives want worse drubbing in Ontario than they got the last time they could not adopt a more favorable policy. The people of Ontario are very pronounced in their views on prohibition, and pilgrims who go to British Columbia in search of the sign by which to conquer are merely deluding themselves and wasting their time. Ontario has settled the liquor question and wants nothing short of national prohibition.

HYDRO BRINGS PROSPERITY.

Winnipeg is looking for large industrial growth as a result of hydro development. Mr. A. J. Nesbitt of Montreal offers this testimony:

"It is the history of all hydro-electric developments that once the power is available large industries can be induced to locate in the vicinity and I foresee for Winnipeg a great future as a manufacturing centre."

The experience not only of Ontario but of Quebec bears out this statement, although Ontario is the particularly bright and shining example because there the rule is power at cost, and private corporations do not figure in the case as profit takers. New Brunswick has adopted the Ontario policy and will therefore get the fullest possible benefit from the industrial expansion resulting from cheap light and power. The half-century number of the Toronto Mail and Empire, from which the Times quoted yesterday, says:

"The central portion of Canada is indebted for its great industrial expansion of recent years to its water powers."

The people of New Brunswick must take heed of this testimony. The Mail and Empire says further:

"The widespread distribution of electricity in Ontario is now taken more or less as a matter of course. A map of the province showing the transmission lines of the Hydro Electric Power Commission very clearly reveals how wonderfully the water powers of Ontario are being utilized for the benefit of the people as a whole. Hundreds of communities large and small are now supplied with electricity at such low rates that rich and poor alike share in its many advantages, such as safety, cleanliness and convenience."

It is because of such results as this that Premier Foster urges his fellow citizens in St. John to secure the full benefit of the Musquash development, and that Mr. Kribs, late of Sir Adam Beck's staff, and now chief electrical engineer for the New Brunswick Electric Commission, assures the people of cheap light and power without a dollar in civic taxes to provide it, and of an industrial expansion such as in Ontario has followed the introduction of hydro.

The Financial Post has issued a special supplement giving valuable information about each of the provinces of Canada. In introducing the excellent article on New Brunswick it says—"Scarcely touched are the resources of New Brunswick, not one of the largest of Canadian provinces but one of the oldest and one of the richest. Agriculture, fishing and lumbering are the predominant industries, while mining is becoming of more and more importance. The province has an all-year-round ocean port which is an invaluable asset. Provincial finances are sound, and the municipalities are in a position of enviable stability."

Toronto Globe—"The Saskatchewan court of appeal rules that a provincial legislature has no power to prevent export liquor from being transported by motor car. A law similar to that which has been declared ultra vires in Saskatchewan is on the Ontario statute books and is being enforced. If the court of last resort upholds the Saskatchewan judgment the dry provinces must find some other method of combating the liquor interests, and they have a right to look for every co-operation from the federal parliament. The speediest remedy would be a federal law forbidding exports to a prohibited country."

It is announced that Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of immigration, will confer with the governments of the four western provinces on the question of a joint immigration policy, to prevent overlapping and to make everything so satisfactory for newcomers that they will remain where they locate. The maritime provinces also need immigrants, and joint action is most desirable. The co-operation of the three governments, and by them with the federal department ought to be the policy here as in the west.

POSSSESSION.

There's some of us has this world's goods,
An' some of us has none—
But all of us has got the woods,
An' all has got the sun.
So, settin' here upon the stoop,
An' don't drink a single drop,
I never care a single whoop—
For I am satisfied.

Now, take the pine on yonder hill,
It don't belong to me;
The boss he owns the timber—still
It's there for me to see.
An' 'twist the owin' of the same
An' smellin' of its smell,
I've got the best of that there game,
An' so I'm feelin' well.

The boss in town unrolls a map
An' proudly says, "It's mine."
But he don't drink a single sap
An' he don't smell no pine.
The boss in town he figgers lands
In quarter-sections red;
Lord! I just set with folded hands
An' breathe 'em in instead.

The boss his forest wealth in read
In cent an' dollar sign
His name's written in the deed—
But all his land is mine.
There's some of us has this world's goods,
An' some of us has got the woods,
An' all has got the sun.

—Douglas Malloch, the Lumberman Poet.

LIGHTER VEIN.

According to Experience.
Father—Gracious! The baby swallowed a piece of worsted!
Mother—That's nothing! The yarn she'll have to swallow when she grows up.

The Other View.
He was just coming from his girl's house. "You seem put out," remarked a friend who met him.
"I was," he said. "Her father came home earlier than usual."

Too Dear.
"Yes," said the specialist, as he stood at Joe Mulholland's bedside. "I can cure you."
"What will it cost?" asked Joe faintly.
"Ninety-five dollars."
"You'll have to shade your price a little," replied Joe. "I have a better bid from the undertaker."

His Part.
"You say," asked the lawyer, "that you personally saw the quarrel between the defendant and his wife?"
"I did, answered the witness.
"What did the defendant seem to be doing?"
"He was doing the listening."

OCEAN LIMITED WRECKED; ONE DEAD

Campbellton, July 6.—The Ocean Limited express train, which left Halifax at 7:40 o'clock yesterday morning for Montreal was wrecked by a cow at a late hour last night near the village of Moles (Que.), eighty-three miles west of Campbellton. Mail Clerk Matte, of Lewis, was killed, another mail clerk, name unknown here, was severely injured and the engineer, Ollie Matthews, of Campbellton, was seriously scalded.

Although the passengers were badly shaken up none was killed. The train was torn up for a long distance, and the wreckage had not all been cleared away by 1 o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

TEXAS LEADS IN LYNCHINGS.
Twelve Reported There in Six Months, Tuskegee Reports.

Tuskegee, Ala., July 6.—Twelve of thirty lynchings in the United States during the first half of the year were recorded in Texas, according to a statement of the Department of Records and Research of Tuskegee Institute. Missing was second to Texas with seven lynchings, while four were reported from Georgia. Arkansas had two lynchings, and one each was reported from Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Oklahoma and South Carolina.
The number lynched during the period is six less than for the first half of 1921 and eighteen more than the number recorded for the first six months of 1920.
Of those lynched two were white and twenty-eight negroes. Eleven of those put to death were charged with attacks upon women, and nineteen were charged with other offenses. Five were burned at the stake and three were put to death and then their bodies burned.
Four of those lynched in the year 1921 first put to death before their bodies burned.

At the request of George E. Day, the use of the school buildings was granted to the Playgrounds Association on the usual conditions.

BUILDERS' HARDWARE

If You're Going to Build—Build Right.

Put good materials into your building if you expect to be thoroughly satisfied.

In building a house you are building for the future and the life of your home depends to a large extent upon the kind of hardware and other material you put into it. The use of cheap materials will sooner or later be the cause of heavy repair bills, so that the building will cost just as much, if not more than good materials would have cost.

Good Builders' Hardware is one of our specialties—we buy it carefully—we choose discriminately because we realize that it pays to put good hardware into a home.

We shall be glad to help you make desirable selections.

RECENT DEATHS

James W. Lingley.
The many friends of James W. Lingley, of 208 Douglas avenue, north end, will regret to learn of his death which occurred yesterday at the home of his son, L. T. Lingley. The late Mr. Lingley had been only slightly ill until shortly before his death. As late as Friday last he was out of doors. For twenty years he had been accounted with Sleson, Cutler & Co., lumbermen, of Indiantown. He was seventy-four years of age and is survived by three sons and a daughter. The sons are L. T., and Osborne S., of St. John, and Frank H. Lingley, of Fredericton. The daughter is Mrs. G. B. Thompson, of Stoughton (Mass.).
The funeral will take place on Friday at 2:30 p.m. from the residence of his son, L. T. Lingley, 208 Douglas avenue. There will be a service at the house at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Annie A. McDonough.
The death of Annie A., widow of William McDonough, occurred yesterday at Brantford (Mass.). She was the daughter of the late Bernard and Mary Brennan, and is survived by one son, William, of Brantford, and one daughter, sister Mary Augustine of St. Dunstan's convent at Fredericton. The body will be brought to this city on the noon Boston train on Friday and the funeral will take place from Fitzpatrick's Undertaking Parlors on Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock to the Cathedral for high mass of requiem.

Rev. Percy Owen-Jones.
Word has been received here of the death in Norfolk (Va.), of Rev. Percy Owen-Jones, formerly a well known clergyman of St. John and an active worker in the diocese of Fredericton. Father Owen-Jones was of Welsh descent and came to St. John many years ago. He became headmaster of the school conducted here by the late Rev. J. M. Davenport, priest-in-charge of the Mission Church of St. John Baptist, Paradise Row. He was also assistant to Father Davenport at the Mission Church. For several years after Father Davenport resigned his pastorate here Father Owen-Jones was priest-in-charge of the Mission Church.
He became seriously ill several weeks ago, and died on Tuesday evening.

The Greatest Value-Giving Time of the Season With Plentiful Varieties and Dynamic Savings

Twice a year we clear house here. Twice a year we relentlessly cut prices in accordance with our policy of immediate disposal, regardless of original prices. This season's clearance calls for more drastic, decisive action because of larger stocks, due to a backward season, which compels us to make greater price reductions than we have anticipated. Therefore, aside from the irresistibly large mark-downs, the surpluses are so great that favorite selection is assured. Briefly, it is a clearance event offering super advantages — one that overtops any other ever held under this roof. It's your opportunity, and the savings you effect depend upon the amount of your purchases.
Store open Friday until 10 p. m.

THE SCHOOLS AS SOCIAL CENTRES

Not Merely Rallying Places for Children of School Age

An Inspiring Paper Read by Rev. R. A. Robinson Before the Teachers' Institute Last Week.

(By Rev. R. A. Robinson.)
It was with no little pleasure that I accepted the invitation, through your secretary, to read a paper before this meeting. I have been interested in teachers and teaching for many years. Your work is of vital interest to the whole country. Entered upon in the right spirit, with the right ideals, you have golden opportunities for doing your part in the highest development of our people. To use properly your opportunities, your hearts must be in your work. And your hearts are not in your work unless you are endeavoring to set before yourselves the highest ideals, to strive to make these ideals a part of your own selves, and to implant them in the young minds committed to your guidance. We are all liable to be accused of working merely for a living, but your calling in life, as my own, is one in which you may live a life worth living and do a work worth doing. A short time ago I read a letter written by a young native of our great Indian Empire. In the course of it he said, "I am a fully qualified teacher in Madras University. Some of the greatest men that have ever lived have devoted their lives to teaching. The goldsmith works in gold, and the diamond cutter polishes diamonds; but the teacher has to fashion immortal beings, far more valuable than the most precious gems."
You may have a modest idea of your own capabilities—or you may not. Genius, you will remember, has been defined as "an infinite capacity for taking pains." But I should go behind that and say that genius is generally possessed with a great idea which impels him irresistibly to its painstaking. "The world," says an American writer, "is not reserved for geniuses. Roosevelt told us of his essential commonplace-mindedness. His vital flame of sympathy and his thirst for a better world lifted him from the ranks. He wanted what the people wanted, but he wanted it more, he wanted it harder. His serviceableness grew out of this vast capacity to take pains. We see each one of us to achieve some special pinnacle of power by the abnormal exercise of normal talents." Combine, then, your strenuous effort with an aim worthy of such effort.
Another definition came under my notice not long since. It described education as "the preparation of the child's mind to fit into its environment." That has rather a good sound. Yet a moment's thought makes us doubt its accuracy, or perhaps I should say, its completeness. Is the environment of the child now what it ever will be? Go into the city slum or the backward district in the country and are we only to fit the child for its present environment? It would appear that that is one of the greatest of the obstacles which meet you in your teaching. How many farmers, for instance, will say, "My son has enough schooling now for a farmer?" If you are an enthusiast in learning or teaching, you must have been tempted to be disheartened when you have realized the nature of the environment of so large a proportion of our population. It is this, which in so many respects needs to be altered. Barely what a child may appear to need for the attainment of material prosperity is a new ideal, indeed. As servants of the State, a divine office in its nature, you are to train the young for the highest citizenship. And the highest ideal, again, is service. As has been said, "The boy or girl who in school or at home has had held before him the ideal or service as that which should dominate his life, is getting the best possible training for citizenship. In too much school and home training stress has been laid upon the importance of successful acquisition rather than upon that of using the fruits of acquisition for the benefits of others." You are beginning with the child who is "the father of the man."
The special topic which I was asked to bring before you is "The School as a Social Centre." The term "Social," or "Community Centre," is associated with what we now call "Social Service." Social Service is always with us, but in many cases we should like to reform his. The child, too often, you know, has been taken to the everlasting "Don't do that!" When "Don't do that" becomes a man, he takes the form of "You ought not to do that," and, as the monitor matures along these lines, he seems to be possessed with an ever conspicuous spirit of disapproval. I confess to a speaking sympathy with the artist in the funny papers who holds up before us this extreme type of individual. In my heart of hearts I believe that some of them have an uncomfortable feeling when they see others really enjoying themselves. There is, in fact, something radically wrong with the reformer who is simply negative. And so the modern high-minded individuals who wish to benefit their fellows want to do something in a positive way. They recognize, also, that the influences which make for good or evil are manifold. The nature of the home life, living and working conditions, social intercourse, recreations—all these are seen to have their important bearing on character. Hence the term "Moral Reform" has been dropped, because it has come to stand in the popular mind for something which has been superseded. "Social Service," the new term, carries the literal meaning of service of society or of the community.
What I am about to say will have its main bearing on the school buildings in villages and country districts. The larger towns have their own peculiar problems and they are facing these to an increasing extent. They have their playgrounds, their programmes for holiday seasons, as regards the children. Yet the schoolhouse can be used here most profitably in many ways.
Let me remind you, then, that what I am bringing before you is really but an extension of what already to a certain degree exists. School buildings are already centres for the rally of the children and their teaching and training in citizenship. I believe they might be more effective in this direction. That might be if all of you teachers were fired with enthusiasm, an intelligent enthusiasm, for what our best patriots would consider the highest ideals of Canadian and of Empire citizenship. If it were permitted me to make a suggestion to the higher powers in educational matters, it would be that the departments of these Maritime Provinces should combine in engaging the services for their Normal Schools of an inspirational lecturer, spending portions of the time with each, to send forth each generation of teachers, not simply instructed sufficiently to follow the required curriculum, but thrilling, if that were possible, with such ideals.
Many schoolhouses have been used for years past for the meetings of debating clubs and other societies. This is strictly along social service lines. So it is proposed that the buildings should be devoted to more diverse uses; that they should not only be rallying places for the children of school age, but centres for the promotion of everything possible that makes for local improvement and development, and for the good of all ages and conditions.
We speak of the "Rural Problem." An important phase of it is the loss of population to the cities. Ten years ago, Hon. E. C. Drury, now the farmer premier of Ontario, said "In all the settled sections of our Dominion, that is, in every province east of the Great Lakes where agriculture has passed out of a pioneer or settlement stage or reached what we might call normal conditions, there is in every one of these provinces an actual decline of population; and when we come to look through these same provinces, we see schools with their attendances cut in three, and country churches barely able to keep going, slim congregations in churches built to hold 200 or 300, accommodating, perhaps thirty-nine, as I know in several cases; we see that the social life of the farm is not keeping pace with the social life of the city." Up to that period, it was reported, the old settled part of Quebec had lost since confederation, 100,000 of its rural population and old Ontario a quarter of a million. Last summer two clergymen in the beautiful and prosperous Annapolis Valley, in Nova Scotia, were speaking to me on the great decrease in their respective districts. In the United States they have experienced the same thing. As a student of country life has expressed it, "Lack of facilities for recreation and rational social intercourse is a potent factor in the depopulation of the 'boy and girl' problem of our smaller communities. The white slave traffic is largely fed with country girls who lack the opportunity for wholesome and well-regulated recreation of mind and body." An American college president has defined the rural problem as that of "maintaining on our soil a population which shall not only supply the nation with its food and raw materials of industry, but also measure up to the level of our American civilization and standard of living, individual and social—a standard that shall make adequate provision for development of body, mind and spirit."

GOOD YEAR
MADE IN CANADA

STOPS 50 YEARS' DYSPEPSIA
Mr. James amazed at quick results with Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin.

Mr. G. James of 6 Norfolk Ave., Galt, Ont., found such a fortunate combination in Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, which gave him relief from 50 years of dyspepsia. With the same remedy Mrs. Ellen Laird of Pictou, N. S., now in her 87th year, freed herself from a lifetime of chronic constipation.

This remarkable medicine is a vegetable compound of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin, the greatest of all the digestants. It acts mildly and gently and does not gripe, and hence it is ideal for old people. It is so safe, however, that thousands of mothers give it to babies in arms. Every druggist sells Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, and a dose will cost you less than a cent. People who once use this medicine never afterwards resort to strong physics, calomel, etc.

HALF-OUNCE BOTTLE FREE
Few escape constipation, so even if you do not need a laxative at this moment, let me send you a Half-Ounce Trial Bottle of my Laxative Syrup Pepsin FREE OF CHARGE so that you will know it handy when needed. Simply send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, at Front St., Bridgewater, Ont. Write me today.

BAND CONCERT.
In the event of favorable weather, this evening the band of the St. John Fusiliers will give a concert in King Square.

BALL GAME POSTPONED.
The ball game between the St. John's and Milltown, scheduled for this evening, has been cancelled on account of the weather.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams of Golden Grove announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Annie Gertrude, to H. Arnold Johnston of this city, the wedding to take place the latter part of July.

BANK CLEARINGS.
The weekly bank clearings in St. John amounted to $304,008. Last year they were $298,728, and for the same week in 1920 they were $4,980,959. This week's clearings in Halifax amounted to $3,988,678.

SHAMROCKS WON.
In a ball game on the Queen Square diamond on Wednesday morning, the Shamrocks and the Martellos, the former team won, 7 to 5. The batteries were--For the winners, Cunningham, Blair and Belcher; for the losers, McKellar and Beckwith.

NO WORD OF MR. MARR.
It was reported at search headquarters today that there were no new developments in the matter of the search for Henry G. Marr, missing now for two weeks. Several rumors about town this morning were said to have no foundation.

AN AFTER ELECTION CASE.
An aftermath of the dominion election last fall was taken up in the city court this morning in a case of Captain Tufts against James Sprout in which the former is suing the latter for money which he says is due him for his services as janitor of the Market Building, the Conservative headquarters for Kings, Prince and Wellington wards, during the election fight. He claims to have been the janitor of the building and also says that, during this election, he solicited votes for Mr. Wigmore. The witnesses called this morning were F. McInerney, William Seabury, L. P. D. Tilley, Commissioner Wigmore, Walter Sprout and James Sprout. The case was set over for one week.

A HORSE CASE.
Harry Hayes, arrested this morning on a charge of drunkenness, when brought before the sitting magistrate was informed that there might be a more serious charge against him brought by Mr. and Mrs. Stephens, to whom it was said he sold a horse for $65. The complainants said that he guaranteed the animal to be sound and that Dr. A. J. Boyce declared, on examination, that it was almost dead from the heaves. The sitting magistrate said there might be a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. There was a suggestion that Hayes consider refunding the money. He spoke of himself as "an honest man" and he had not guaranteed the horse and that he would rather go to "the poor house" than refund the money. The case was postponed until tomorrow afternoon.

JOHN SHIRREFF JOHNSON.
P. Campbell Johnson of T. McAvity & Sons King street store received news this morning of the death of his brother, John Shirreff Johnson of Chatham, aged seventy-seven years. The late Mr. Johnson was a well-known citizen of Chatham, and was the eldest son of Hon. John M. Johnson, one of the fathers of confederation, who, after succeeding sively the offices of postmaster-general, solicitor-general and attorney-general of New Brunswick, went to Ottawa in 1868. He had lived to see the Dominion of Canada established, but died a year later. John Shirreff Johnson had been confined to his bed for a long time, and his death today was not unexpected. He leaves two daughters and two sons. One daughter and son live in the United States, and one daughter, Carrie, and one son, Clyde Johnson, live at home. His brother, P. Campbell Johnson of St. John, is the last of the older family. He will leave for Chatham tonight to attend the funeral. His son, Walter, was in the train wreck on the C. N. R. reported this morning, but escaped injury.

PRESBYTERIAL AT CHIPMAN

The thirty-third annual meeting of the presbytery of St. John was commenced last night at Chipman, with the president, Mrs. W. H. Irving of Moncton in the chair. The meeting opened with the doxology and an invocation by the president, and devotion exercised by Mrs. C. Flewelling, president of the Chipman auxiliary.

Sixty-six delegates answered the roll call. The minutes of the last annual meeting were adopted.

An address of welcome to Chipman was read by Miss Marguerite Porter of Chipman, and replied to by Mrs. R. Moorhead Legate of St. John.

Committees were appointed by the president, with conveners as follows: Nominating, Mrs. W. F. Morrison; executive, Mrs. MacDougall; resolution, Miss Henderson; press, Mrs. Elliot and Miss Jamieson.

Reports of the county vice-presidents were read and accepted.

A paper was read by Mrs. W. F. Morrison on "The Urgency of the Gospel". The session closed with a hymn and a prayer.

MARRIED IN WEST.

The following, of interest to many in St. John, is from a Winnipeg paper:--
"The marriage of Janet Baird, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cairns, to Harry Kilpatrick of Dufrost, Man., took place on Wednesday afternoon, June 21, at Gregor. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a cape frock of rose crepe net and white tricolette veil crowned with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses and white lilies. Mrs. Cairns, the bride's sister, played the wedding music and Miss E. Rogers sang "All Joy Be Thine" during the signing of the register. Thirty guests sat down to luncheon after the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick left later for Regina and points west, the latter traveling in a suit of embroidered sand bringing with blouse of crepe de chine in sand and tangerine shades and a sand georgette hat."

Mr. and Mrs. Kilpatrick will reside at Dufrost, where Mr. Kilpatrick is a prominent C. P. R. station agent. He is the youngest son of Henry Kilpatrick, a popular ex-sergeant of the St. John police force. Many friends in St. John wish the bride and groom much happiness.

COAL MATTERS AT CITY HALL

Question of High Price, With Freights Down

Dealers to be Asked About
Matter--Veteran Police
Sergeant Presents Request to the Commissioners--The Employment Work.

The coal supply for the city was again to the forefront at this morning's committee meeting of the common council. A list of persons to compose the employment council in connection with the employment bureau was also submitted by the common clerk, as arranged by K. G. Christie, maritime superintendent of bureaus. Arrangements were also made for police protection for the regatta on Lily Lake, and reference was made to this morning's murder.

Commissioner Thornton read a letter from J. S. Gibbon & Company concerning delivery of coal as per their tender. They said that they could make immediate delivery of chestnut coal, and felt sure that the anthracite could be delivered before needed. If they could not deliver hard coal on time, they would deliver national coal at $2.50 a ton less than their tender.

The commissioner remarked that their letter did not seem satisfactory to him. Their original tender was $14.50 and $14.90 for the two grades of anthracite respectively. Commissioner Thornton moved that the tender of the Maritime Fuel Company for hard coal at $18.50 a ton be accepted. The motion was carried.

The mayor spoke of alleged shortage in weight by some dealers and said that it was up to the commissioners to see that they were not imposed upon in any case. Commissioner Frink wanted to know why when freight charges were 77 and $7.50 a ton in 1918, coal sold here for from $15 to $17 a ton, and now, when freight was from $1 to $1.25 a ton, it still sold at $15, with exchange at 1 per cent.

Commissioner Frink moved that the mayor communicate with the coal dealers of the city and ask them to define the difference in average cost between 1918 and 1922. The motion was carried. Commissioner Thornton read a letter from Frank White re the regatta on Lily Lake on July 15. He said that as the meet would be a big advertisement for the city, they asked for the co-operation of the police department. Commissioner referred to the skating championships here last winter and moved that the request of the committee be granted, and that the commissioner of public safety be authorized to make arrangements for police protection. Carried.

Commissioner Thornton referred to the Trifts murder case. Commissioner Thornton said that, as often happens in cases of this kind, the police were the last to be notified. They were not notified until about seven o'clock. In future, he wished that cases of the kind, the police be notified at once, and asked that publicity be given to the police through the press. Commissioner Thornton read a statement from Sergeant Aaron Hastings, that owing to ill-health, he was advised to resign his position as sergeant and to go to the country for a while, and asking that he be given six months leave of absence with half-pay. He had been on the force for forty-two months, and that of which were spent as sergeant and that in that time there were no black marks against him. It was suggested that he be given six months full pay and his resignation be taken. The matter was stood over until the suggestion could be communicated to the sergeant.

Commissioner Frink brought up the matter of employment money. An agreement was made that in work undertaken by the city last winter, in order to relieve unemployment, excess charges over what it would cost in normal times would be paid, one quarter by the dominion government and one quarter by the provincial government. The accounts, amounting to $4,200, had been sent to Alex Gray, government engineer and passed by him, and the dominion government were now prepared to pay their share. The provincial government were holding back. It was decided that each commissioner whose department was affected, should write a follow up letter to the provincial government, in order that the matter be settled.

Commissioner Frink read a letter from S. H. McCutcheon, of No. 10 Millidge avenue, asking that a sidewalk be constructed in front of his residence and store, and offering to pay half the cost. The commissioner moved that the request be complied with, provided Mr. McCutcheon pay fifty per cent of the cost, and that it be laid under the direction of the road engineer and to conform to grades already established. Carried.

Commissioner Bullock submitted a report of men in the ferris department who had lost time through illness. The report comprised: C. Dodge, J. A. Ingham and W. H. Mayhe, at half pay amounting to $82.89. There was some discussion of the half-pay through illness question and the meeting on next Thursday was set as a time for full discussion of this and the holiday question.

The common clerk read a report from K. G. Christie, of the employment bureau, in which the following names were recommended to form an employment council: L. W. Simms, John Flood, William Vassie, Roy Willet, Felix McMullin, George Melvin, a lady to be appointed by the Women's Council, and a chairman to be appointed by the others, making a total board of eight. Discussion of the housing and town planning commission act occupied some time and further discussion will take place on the matter later. The commissioners have been supplied with copies of the act to make themselves familiar with it.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court this morning, one man, charged with drunkenness, pleaded guilty and was given his choice of paying $8 or boarding for two months with the city. DEACONESSES IN CH. OF ENGLAND

Action of Lower House of Convocation at Canterbury Today.

London, July 6.—(Canadian Press) The lower house of convocation of the Church of England at Canterbury today approved of the report of the committee appointed at the Lambeth conference in 1920 to consider the subject of the work of deaconesses in the church, and presented yesterday, but with two amendments, which were carried by large majorities. These prohibit deaconesses from reading morning and evening prayers in the church and prohibit them from preaching at church services.

IN WALL STREET.

New York, July 6.—(noon)—Cotton carriers led the more general advance of rails during the morning. Atlantic Coast Line increased its gain to 4 1/2 points and Louisville and Nashville showed a four point advance. Gains of 1 to 2 1/2 points marked the demand for cooking, especially Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Reading, Lehigh Valley and Erie First preferred. Further pronounced strength of Domestic oils, with Standard Oil of New Jersey, gaining 5 1/2 points, was offset by renewed weakness of Mexican. Constant pressure caused a reaction of 5 1/2 points in Mexican Petroleum and Pan American. Also became heavy. Coppers, independent steels, and gas shares were firm to strong. Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent.

WET WOOD DOES NOT DECAY

It is a common idea that moist wood is more subject to decay than dry wood. That this is only true within certain limits is pointed out by the Forest Products Laboratory of Canada (Dominion Forestry Branch) who state that recent investigations indicate that wood which contains less than 25 per cent or more than 60 per cent of water is not subject to decay by wood-destroying fungi. Examples of the protective effect of moisture extend further back in time than the foundations of medieval buildings to the pre-historic piles of the Swiss Lake Dwellers. The latter timbers have been submerged in water for thousands of years without becoming unsound. This sprinkling not only prevents rotting but is a most efficient means for the prevention of fire.

THIS ASSASSINATION PROVES BUT RUMOR

London, July 6.—A rumor that an attempt had been made to assassinate the Russian delegates to The Hague conference caused considerable excitement in the Dutch capital today, says an Exchange Telegraph despatch. There was no confirmation of the report up to noon. London, July 6.—Both the police and the Russian delegation at The Hague denied that any attempt at assassination was made. The report probably grew out of the action of the police in turning back from the Dutch frontier fifteen hundred Russian soldiers, who were traveling under false passports.

FIRE TOLL IN PROPERTY AND LIVES IN N. S.

Halifax, N. S., July 6.—One man, two women and three children lost their lives through fires in Nova Scotia during May, so the monthly report of provincial fire marshal Rutland states. One man was severely injured. The number of fires during May, 1922, was 142 as compared with 101 in May, 1921; the loss was $766,839 as compared with $227,875 for the corresponding month last year. Insurance on losses for May, 1922, was $71,792, compared with $71,879. Seventy per cent of the fires during May occurred in dwelling houses, and seventy-five per cent were traced to causes classed as preventable.

OPERATE DREDGE BY ELECTRICITY

Ottawa, July 6.—What is believed to be the first electrically operated dredge in Canada, has been constructed by an Ottawa firm and when fittings are installed in the dredge, which moved out of Victoria Island shipyard a few days ago and is now en route for Kingston, an initial outlay of approximately $175,000 will have been involved. The dredge is to be used in connection with the construction of the Queenstown Power Canal.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

Lesson No. 45. THE COIL AERIAL.

During the war it was possible by means of the valuable directional properties of the coil aerial to locate the position of radio outfits operated by the enemy in the trenches, on vessels, or in the air.

By means of a fog signalling system operated by a lighthouse, vessels equipped with a direction finder using a coil aerial may determine their location in a fog so dense that it cannot be pierced by the powerful rays of the warning light.

Simplicity of construction and ability to receive waves from a particular direction without interference from other waves are two marked advantages of this type of aerial. As shown by the following diagram it may consist of a few turns of wire mounted on a wooden frame which is arranged for rotation through an arc of 180 degrees, and small enough to be located in an ordinary room. By rotating the coils, signals from a particular station may be received and other signals practically eliminated.

The Coil Aerial.

This type of aerial offers considerable contrast therefore to the outdoor aerials in general use, such as the "inverted L" and "T" types which require the mechanical support of masts, guys, spreaders, and insulating connections. In comparison with the outdoor aerial the coil type can transmit only small amounts of power which precludes its use as a transmitting aerial but it possesses important directional characteristics, as more intense waves are emitted parallel to its plane than at 90 degrees to it.

As a receiving aerial, when the plane of the coil is in the direction of the advancing waves, the strongest signals are obtained and although not as powerful as the large antenna, it is capable of receiving signals from long distances when connected to very sensitive amplifiers.

Signals have been received in the East, from the Pacific Coast and from Germany on a coil aerial consisting of a few turns of wire used in conjunction with highly sensitive amplifiers. As a direction finder, it serves a valuable purpose for it not only receives the electric waves but determines the direction of the transmitting station. It may be used therefore by government radio inspectors in the detection of stations which violate the radio law governing transmission. When the plane of the coil is in line with the advancing wave, the strongest signals are received, whereas when the plane of the coil is at right angles, the energy induced in the coil is at a minimum. The induced current circulates around the coil instead of oscillating up and down as in the case of the ordinary type of outdoor antenna.

UNDERWATER WIRELESS.

Submarines completely submerged and at a considerable distance below the surface of the ocean have received radio signals from far distant points by the use of a heavily insulated wire supported on short masts and grounded each end to the metal hull of the submarine. Not only is it possible for the submarine to receive messages beneath the waves, but it may transmit radio signals and in this way communicate with a nearby vessel. By use of this type of coil aerial with its directional properties, the submerged submarine not only detects the wireless waves but can determine their direction. In this manner a ship may exchange signals of recognition with an invisible protector.

SURRENDER OF THE INSURGENTS

Burning of 20 Dublin Buildings Attends On It

One Report Says De Valera Wounded and Captured; Another That He Made Escape on Tuesday Night—Burnings in Sligo.

Dublin, July 6.—Twenty buildings in O'Connell street, Dublin's main thoroughfare, were completely destroyed by fire following the surrender of the insurgent Republicans last night. They had turned the buildings into fortresses in their resistance to the provisional Free State government.

The fires, which raged through the night, were not completely under control this morning, but only smouldering ruins remained where the insurgents made their last stand. It is believed the damage will reach several hundred thousands of pounds. Four snipers were shot dead during the night.

R. C. Barton, former minister of economics, in the Dail cabinet, were arrested at the home of Erika Childers. The official account of the final surrender of the insurgents, issued by the national army headquarters today says: "At 7.30 p. m. a party of men led by Art O'Connor left the Granville Hotel under a white flag and surrendered to Lieut. Craney. One of the party said they were given orders to surrender by Cathal Brugha. Mr. Brugha, brandishing a revolver, then dashed out. When he saw the face of the troops he was wounded and was removed to a hospital."

REPUBLICAN STATEMENT.

Cork, July 6.—An official statement issued by the Republican insurgent military headquarters at Malloy, says the Republicans forced the Free Staters to surrender the Sheehy barracks on Tuesday, after which an agreement was signed by the rival commanders that hostilities should cease forthwith. It was agreed that the Free Staters should hand over their rifles and ammunition to the Republicans, the latter undertaking not to use them against the Free Staters. The body brought to the city of a "fight with the common enemy."

The merchants have been asked to forward invoices of the commandeered goods to the Republican headquarters. "The credit of this brigade has always been good and we mean to keep it so," says the statement.

Burnings in Sligo.

Belfast, July 6.—Latest reports received in Belfast today from Sligo said the republican insurgents there had destroyed all the telegraph and telephone instruments in the post office and had burned the police and military barracks and the republican headquarters.

Trains Run Again.

Belfast, July 6.—Railway communication between Dublin and Belfast was re-established today. Passengers from the north were allowed to enter Dublin with permits, but military passes must be obtained if the persons thus admitted desire to leave Dublin again.

De Valera Reports.

London, July 6.—The Daily Mail says it is reported early today that de Valera has been wounded and captured. Another report is that he left the Sackville street stronghold on Tuesday night. Cathal Brugha, Valera's minister of defence, who was wounded, is reported sinking rapidly.

OVERWHELMINGLY FOR WOMEN RABBIS

Ordination Approved of as Recognition of Modern Status.

The ordination of women rabbis was approved by the thirty-third national convention of the Central Conference of American Rabbis at Cape May, N. J., last week. The following resolution was carried by an overwhelming vote: "The ordination of women as rabbis is a modern issue due to the revolution of their status in our day. The Central Conference of American Rabbis has repeatedly made pronouncement urging the fullest measure of self-expression for women as well as the fullest utilization of their gifts in the service of the Highest, and gratefully acknowledging the enrichment and enlargement of congregational life which has resulted therefrom."

SOMERVILLE TRAM ON WAY

W. J. McMahon, manager of St. Peter's Park, received word this morning from Mr. Keenan, manager of the fast Somerville team, that they had arrived in Bangor, en route to St. John. They are traveling here by automobile. They will play two games with St. Peter's on Saturday, and as they have a great reputation it is expected their clashes with the local boys will be great exhibitions of baseball.

ELOQUENT ADDRESS

The members of the Commercial Club at a luncheon at Bond's today, listened to a brilliant address by Walter MacQuay on "Democracy and the Empire." Ronald McAvity was in the chair. Mr. MacQuay followed a graphic review of the growth of the British Empire with one of present conditions existing in the world and the relation of Anglo-Saxon unity to future peace and progress. His eloquent address was heard with profound interest and he was most heartily applauded.

MARRIED IN MONTREAL.

A marriage of interest to friends in St. John was performed by Rev. Gerald McShane in St. Patrick's church, Montreal, on July 5, when Blanche, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert T. Ring, Westfield, N. B., was united in marriage with Percy L. Markey of Montreal. The bride was attended by Mrs. Amelia Dufresne, while J. A. McNeil supported the groom. After a short honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Markey will take up their residence at 1119 St. Henri street, where they are employed with the C. P. S., Limited. The bride was formerly of West St. John, and the groom is well known here. Mrs. Ring, mother of the bride, was present at the wedding.

BURIED TODAY.

The funeral of Mrs. Frances L. Knight was held this afternoon, with service at her late residence, McLaren's Beach, and at St. Ann's church, Musquash. Rev. R. A. Armstrong conducted service. Interment was at Musquash. The funeral of George Hoppy was held this afternoon from the residence of his daughter, Old Westmorland road, to Fernhill. Rev. J. K. King conducted service.

Funeral of Charles W. Till

The funeral of Charles W. Till was held this afternoon from his late residence, Quispamsis. Rev. Canon A. W. Daniel and Rev. F. S. Dowling conducted service. The body was brought to the city on the suburban train and interment was in Cedar Hill. Service at the graveside was conducted by the Sons of England, of which he was a member. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

Funeral of Mrs. C. J. Larsson

The funeral of Mrs. C. J. Larsson was held this afternoon from her late residence, 8 King street, West St. John, to Greenwood. An effort is being made to locate a man who is reported to have seen two cars crossing the bridge over the falls about three o'clock this morning. He is said to have reported that the cars looked as though one was towing the other and he presumed it was an accident. Roy Winters, 304 Douglas avenue, told the detectives today that when he returned home about one o'clock this morning there was no sign of a car in the vicinity of the spot where the Trifts car had been found.

At The Garage Last Night.

Mrs. Trifts last saw her husband about ten o'clock last night at his garage in Paddock street. She talked to him for a while and then went to visit a sick lady in Richmond street. He told her she would call for her about eleven o'clock to take her home but when he did not appear she went alone, passing the garage about ten o'clock and left it at about that time. When she returned at 10.35 o'clock he found it locked. Mr. Trifts's son, William, arrived soon afterwards and entered the garage. He found an entry on the order slate saying "Observatory, Douglas avenue, 10.30" and a note on the desk with the inscription, "McLean, Douglas avenue, 10.30." Soon after this the son left for home, locking up the garage.

Was Widely Known.

Mr. Trifts for some time had been conducting a garage and automobile service in Paddock street. Some years ago he was best known as the manager of the Gem theatre, Waterloo street, at first one of the owners with S. P. Gerow and H. J. Anderson. Later Mr. Trifts became sole owner and carried on the business very successfully until fire wiped out the building a few years ago. While yet with the Gem and after the theatre was burned he and Mr. Comeau conducted the Central garage, Waterloo street. During last year Mr. Trifts was seriously ill in the St. John Infirmary for some months, but had recovered nicely and was devoting himself with the marker of industry to the business of him to the building up of his Paddock street business. He was a clever mechanic, skilled in electricity and a man of good business ability and sound principles. Naturally his theatrical and automobile business had brought him into close touch with the public and he had won a great number of friends in all circles.

Mr. Trifts is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Trifts; his wife, formerly Miss Mary O'Brien; three sons, William, Fred and Arthur; and one daughter, Mary.

Rockefeller Foundation to Pay Cost of it for Two Years—Arranged by Hon. Dr. Roberts.

(Special to The Times.) Fredericton, N. B., July 5.—The government last night decided to accept the offer of the Rockefeller Foundation, made through the personal efforts of Hon. Dr. Roberts, to pay the cost of the medical inspection of schools of the province for two years, at a total cost of $54,000, on the condition that at the expiration of that time the province take over the undertaking itself.

F. H. TRIFTS IS MURDERED IN HIS AUTOMOBILE

(Continued from Page 1.) $10.16 was found, nine dollars of which was in a hip pocket. A Boy's Story. Harry Williams, 266 1/2 Pitt street, motorman on Fairville street car No. 70, saw the car standing on the avenue after the supposed crime had been committed, although he did not suspect that anything was wrong until after the body had been discovered by Mr. Rose. Mr. Williams took his car out the avenue at three minutes after six. He saw the automobile standing on the wrong side of the road with lights on, but believing that it had just stopped there, he did not investigate. About twenty minutes he returned and the car was in the same position with the lights still on. On the car with Mr. Williams on his first trip was Lawson Mowry, 28 Harrison, a newspaper carrier boy. He alighted from the car at the corner of Douglas avenue and Main street and started delivering his papers along the avenue. He told a Times reporter this morning that he saw the car standing where it was seen by Rose and Williams and noted that the lights were on. He could not say for sure if the engine was running. He was on the other side of the car when he saw the body enter his mind, he said, that there was any trouble until he met Mr. Rose further along the street while he was on his way home. When he passed the car, he returned to the car, Mowry said, and the alarm had already been sent in and there were several people gathered about the car.

SECOND DEATH OF M'ADAM AUTO ACCIDENT

Russell Moffat, thirteen year old son of Mrs. George Moffat, of McAdam, was seriously injured when struck by a motor car last night at McAdam, died this morning from his injuries, according to word received from relatives of the family. His young cousin, Marshall Gillies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gillies of McAdam, who was playing with him at the time the accident occurred, was killed almost instantly. Mrs. Moffat was a sister to Mr. Gillies. Both were former residents of St. John, and the sympathy of their many friends in this city will be extended to them in their sad loss.

EX-SOLDIER ROUTS TRAIN ROBBERS

Lone Policeman with Pistol and Shotgun Battles with Gang of Seven or Eight.

New York, July 6.—Edward Hamilton, an Erie railroad policeman, ex-soldier and Medal of Honor man, prevented a gang of seven or eight men from looting a through freight train carrying merchandise valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars near Waldwick, N. J., early this morning. Hamilton, riding in the caboose, surprised the robbers after they had cut the air hose and stopped the train.

Just as they had broken into a car laden with tobacco and cigarettes, Hamilton attacked the robbers, although wounded, fought with pistol and sawed-off shot gun until he sank exhausted from loss of blood.

The noise of the firing, the shouts for help from the train crew and the shrill whistling of the locomotive aroused the countryside. When they saw help would be at hand before they could kill the indomitable policeman, the robbers fled in two high-powered automobiles. The Erie Railroad police said last night that not a dollar's worth of freight was missing.

As the robbers fled the train crew summoned help for Hamilton. Dr. S. E. Robinson of Waldwick hurriedly gave him first aid and then ordered that he be rushed to a hospital. The locomotive was uncoupled and the wounded policeman was carried to Suffern, ten miles distant.

The hold-up was attempted at about 2.40 in the morning. The train, No. 81, with fifty-six cars, bound for Chicago, had just passed Hobokus and was ascending a grade on the curve that leads into Waldwick. At that point there is a bank sloping to the tracks on one side and on the other a small lake or pond. All along the railroad there is heavy woodland.

bridge a quarter of a mile east of Waldwick, when there came the hiss of escaping air as the brakes set. The train, which had been making fair headway up the grade, slowed down and stopped. "I don't know why we are stopping here," said the policeman to the conductor. "I think I'll have a look."

Hamilton climbed to the top of the rear freight car and hurried through the darkness, darting his flashlight to the left and right. He had just jumped across the space between two cars when he heard someone clambering up the side of the car he had reached. Hamilton drew his pistol and crawled along the narrow platform on the car roof.

He had almost reached the end when he saw dimly the head and shoulders of a man. The policeman threw himself forward on his stomach as a bright flame stepped the darkness followed by the report of a pistol. The bullet whined above his head.

"Get back there where you came from," he heard a voice say, "or I'll fill you full of lead."

Hamilton's own pistol now answered with a crash. The robber ducked beside the train, another pistol cracked six times and the bullets sang about the ears of the railroad man.

Gets His Sawed-Off Shotgun.
Hamilton crawled back swiftly, dropped to the ground and ran back to the caboose. Telling the conductor and trainmen to hustle back along the tracks for help, he seized a sawed-off shotgun, which is part of every railroad policeman's equipment, and ran up the side of the train where the robbers were. With a pocket full of shells loaded with buckshot, Hamilton felt himself a match for any number of bandits.

He had passed the car when the man had shot at him and was nearly under the bridge when he saw four or five men in the darkness about an open car door. There was a chorus of startled yells and the shotgun roared and roared again.

The gang scrambled up the bank into the woods and from cover their pistols answered the shot-gun. The policeman followed cautiously, shooting at the flashes.

Suddenly Hamilton heard a shot from overhead and then another and another, the bullets splattering the dirt at his feet. He had just made out the crouching figure of a man on the bridge, when he felt a sharp blow in the leg, felling him to the ground.

Opens Fire Toward Bridge.
The policeman was up in a minute and his buckshot tore splinters from the bridge planking. The man ran back and Hamilton attempted to crawl up the bank after the gang. But his leg was practically useless and he could feel himself growing weaker from loss of blood.

But the neighborhood, deserted as it appeared, was now aroused. Shouts were heard in answer to the locomotive whistle. Lights appeared on the bridge and voices inquired what the matter was.

George Scott, an Erie Railroad policeman, and Herbert Seranin chief of police of Hobokus, and other officers from Ridgewood, arrived speedily and they found Hamilton lying on the ground in front of the open freight car.

All day the police searched the countryside for the robbers. Persons living in the neighborhood told of hearing the exhaust of two cars hurrying northward through the night. But no traces of the fugitives were found. Last night the Erie police picked up an aged man in the woods near Ramsay. He denies any knowledge of the crime.

Hamilton was resting comfortably in the Good Samaritan Hospital at Suffern. The bullet had been taken out of his leg.

THE TAMARAC IS NOW THREATENED

In Six Maine Counties it is Being Attacked by Borer.

Augusta, Maine, July 5.—Considerable attention has been called to the browning of the larch or tamarac in Kennebec, Lincoln, Knox, Waldo, Hancock and Washington counties. In many localities large stands of larch appear as if a fire had swept through, whereas a few weeks previous they had been green.

In places where the larch occurs in large stands making up a high percentage of the forest, while hill-sides or valleys looked brown.

The first thought was that the larch sawfly was again sweeping over the state. This insect destroyed practically all of the larch in the state in 1882 and has practically made the larch tree extinct in some of the eastern states.

Within the last few years, however, large quantities of larch have again begun to fill in on old pastures. The larch is an extremely valuable tree, the wood being durable so that it is used for the upper kness of small vessels, telegraph poles, fence posts and railroad ties, besides being used in cabinet work and for interior finishing.

Examination of the stands of larch have shown that the trees are being attacked by a comparatively new insect to this region. It is known as the "Larch Case Bearer" and is very common throughout Europe where it is a serious pest. It was first recorded in this country in 1886 where it had probably been brought on European Larch, a tree that is quite widely planted in the northeastern United States. At that time it caused considerable injury to a thirty-year-old stand of larch at Northampton, Mass. It has been known for a good many years at the Arnold Arboretum at Boston and has also been observed at Albany, New York. At no time, however, was it found in sufficient numbers to cause any grave apprehension, as it apparently did not multiply rapidly. At the present time very little is known as to the life history of the insect. Observations are now being carried on by the Maine Forestry in an effort to determine whether the insect is likely to prove serious or not.

There is apparently but one generation a year of the insect. The small delicate gray moths started to emerge from the small cigar-shaped cocoons about June 20. The moths which are only about 8-16 of an inch in length lay their eggs on the new needles and the young larvae hatching out immediately begin to tunnel or mine within the needle, causing it to turn yellow and then brown, starting from the tip. When very numerous practically all the needles on a tree may be injured and in many cases destroyed, as in the present outbreak.

As soon as the mine is long enough to form a case, a portion of the needle is cut off and the larva proceeds with this protection to another leaf. When attacking a needle the larva first cuts a circular hole through which its head and later its body may extend for feeding purposes. The case, which at first is whitish, gradually becomes gray with age, and is lined with cold weather the larva carrying its case, retired to a sheltered place on the branches or beneath bark and lichens on the main trunk. The larvae again become active early in the spring and continue feeding. Owing to the fact that nearly all the feeding is done within the leaf, it will probably prove a difficult insect to check. There is at present every indication that considerable damage may be done to the larch for the insect is becoming extremely numerous.

The native larch known scientifically as Larix Laricina is called by a large number of common or local names. In Maine it is commonly referred to as Hackmatack or frequently even as Juniper, but the latter name is very misleading as two real species of Juniper

MOTHER AND SON IN SAME
HOSPITAL DIE ON SAME DAY

A mother and son died the other day in Bellevue Hospital, New York, neither knowing the other was fatally ill, and each giving the name of the other as that of nearest relative. The son was David Cronin, forty-five years old, who was taken to the hospital Sunday afternoon, suffering from acute kidney trouble.

An hour later Mrs. Kate Cronin, eighty years old, with whom David had made his home, was taken to the hospital suffering from advanced stages of pneumonia. She died about half an hour later. The nurses and doctors were unaware of the relationship existing between the two patients until the cards were compared in the hospital office. Cronin was a lithographer. When he was taken from home his aged mother thought he would soon be back with her. The son, for his part, did not suspect his mother was so near death.

VETERAN WITH GUN HOUNDS A WOMAN

Appears Armed with a Big Pistol at Home of Her Relatives After a Threatening Note—Denies He Intended Harm.

New York, July 6—Louis Seeger, 27, ex-soldier and ex-sailor, stuck a loaded .45-calibre pistol into a holster slung under his coat and left the farm on which he had been working in New-town, N. J., with what he now declares as "a strange premonition of trouble."

Mrs. August Colonell of 18 East 120th street, who has been stopping with her uncle, A. W. Hannington, in Freeport, L. I., had a similar premonition at about the same time. Her foreboding, indeed, was so grave that she had fled the home of her uncle and taken refuge with friends.

But there was nothing "strange" about Mrs. Colonell's anticipation that the normal currents of her life were about to be deflected. Repeating on her table was a letter in Seeger's hand which said:

"You have just five days yet to live in Freeport, L. I., N. Y. Take this or leave it, just as you like."

"LOUIS." That was not the only letter. Another threat of death had been turned over by Mrs. Colonell to the Federal authorities with the explanation that Seeger had an incurable infatuation for her and was disposed to be violently resentful of the determination to end it which had driven her from her Manhattan home.

The letter quoted in the foregoing was handed by Miss Vera Hannington, to daughter of Mrs. Colonell's host, chief of Police Hartman of Freeport. Seeger appeared at Freeport yesterday. He found Mrs. Colonell gone and Mrs. Hannington cold to his suit. While discussing their "interference," and explaining that he believed that Mrs. Colonell loved him, but that communication between them through the mail had been prevented in some mysterious manner. Seeger, fumbling in his pocket, "just happened" to produce a .45-calibre bullet.

He did not display the pistol, but when Chief Hartman arrived in response to a telephone signal prearranged with Miss Vera the weapon was there in its sling.

A few minutes at night putting the family wash to soak in the rich, cleansing Rinso suds saves hours of rubbing next day.

Do not put the Rinso direct from the package into the tub. Make the Rinso liquid first.

Mix half a package of Rinso in a little cool water until it is like cream. Then add two quarts of boiling water and when the froth subsides you will have a clear, amber coloured liquid; put it in a tub of cool or lukewarm water and you have enough for a batch of clothes. If the clothes are extra soiled, use more Rinso.

Seeger was arrested on a charge of having threatened Mrs. Colonell's life. He was arraigned and held in $2,000 bail for the Grand Jury. Falling to supply a bond, he was taken to the Minerva jail. There Seeger said that he came from Wilkes-Barre, where he lived at 184 North Washington street, that he had served in the army and had failed to get across, but had been imprisoned for assaulting a corporal and that he had finished honorably a subsequent enlistment in the navy. He talked freely of his association with Mrs. Colonell. She had married Frank A. Colonell, a cotton goods broker living at Eye, Seeger said. Their marriage ended in the divorce court, and Colonell had another wife, according to the prisoner.

VARSITY TROUPE OF KING'S AT HAMPTON

The Varsity Troupe of King's University presented their delightful comedy "Ann," to a large and appreciative audience at the Hampton hall last evening. Every member of this splendid cast of players carried out their respective parts with exceeding cleverness. Miss Hazel Stevens in the title role was charming and soon won the sympathies of her audience in her endeavor to teach a shy, self-conscious author a little about the ways of women. Willard McCulloch of Frank Fuller fame, here last year, was equally as good in his portrayal of Edward Hargraves. A. Selwyn Coster, as the Very Rev. Dean of Milchester, could scarcely be recognized as the much abused John Brown of last year, but even in his stately robes he did not fail to produce roars of laughter. Miss Retna Lavers, who played the part of Mrs. John Brown last year, was still on her dignity, even more so, as Evangeline Lipscomb. Miss Katherine Jones and Gerald Teed are new members on the Varsity troupe cast, but from the delightful manner in which they fulfilled their respective parts as Mrs. Hargraves and Billy, we trust that they will again be with the troupe when they return to Hampton. A very pleasing feature of the evening's performance were the renditions given by Wilbert Avery on his wonderful violin, and which were repeatedly encored.

QUESTION OF THE PRODUCTION OF RUBBER

London, June 14—(Associated Press, by Mail)—The rubber industry in British colonies and protectorates has had time ahead of it. That is the opinion expressed by the committee appointed by the colonial secretary to investigate the situation. The committee has just made its report. It says the total world stocks of crude rubber at the beginning of the year were estimated at 810,000 tons. That was much more than the world required. Therefore it advises Winston Churchill, the colonial secretary, to "contemplate with grave concern the position of the industry in British colonies and protectorates unless steps are taken to reduce stocks and further to prevent over-production of rubber so long as the potential normal production continues to be substantially in excess of consumption." The committee adds it is of the opinion that consumption is not likely to overtake production for some years. "There is no doubt," the committee goes on to say, "that much can be done in the direction of stimulating new and extended uses of rubber." But that may not help much for the committee takes care to add: "This cannot in itself provide an immediate solution of the problem, since much time must necessarily elapse before any new and extended use of rubber becomes sufficiently operative to bring about materially increased consumption. Further it should be realized that improved methods of manufacturing rubber products, such as tires, undoubtedly prolong the life of the article and consequently curtail the demand for raw rubber."

In the matter of the compulsory restriction of the production of raw rub-

OWES LIFE TO COAT COLLAR

Man's Head Nearly Severed, But Collar in Wound Saved Him from Death.

Babylon, L. I., July 6—John Shurada of Falp, L. I., owes his life to his coat collar. Although his head was nearly severed from his body and his jugular vein cut, in an automobile accident, he is in a private hospital at Bayshore and is expected to recover. Shurada was thrown from a motorcycle through the windshield in a head-on collision. Physicians at the hospital said Shurada's coat collar was in the wound and saved him from death.

HIRE TIRAS WORN AT COURT

British Nobility Pretty Well Shorn of Jewelry by Heavy Taxation.

London, July 6—It has been remarked as a singular thing that the jewelers' shops in Bond street were kept open very late on the night the first court was held in Buckingham Palace. Inquiries into the matter disclose an interesting development of these times. The main reason the shops were kept open was to take back the tiras and other jewelry that had been hired to wear at the court. Those who hired the gems were not jackdaws dressed in peacocks' feathers, nor the "new people," but mainly members of the old families who have gone to court time out of mind. The extent to which these territorial families have been hit by the war taxation and the slump is only partly indicated by the pages of advertisements of castles and mansions for sale that once seen in the fashionable magazines. Some grand ladies, by letting their grounds to market gardeners and living in a portion

The Borden Co. Limited That the Canadian Mother May Have Quick and Ready Information On Feeding Her Child BORDEN'S EAGLE BRAND MILK

In the following charts and data, we provide the Canadian mother with the necessary information she may require for the use of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk for her child. You will note that the directions provide for a child from three days of age through until the child is 24 months old.

In addition to the directions for feeding Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, the mother should read carefully the suggestions which should be adopted in connection with the use of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk. The Borden Company Limited is proud of the fact that it has been helpful in the raising of many, many Canadian infants into sturdy boys and girls and men and women who are a credit to their country. For further information, do not hesitate to write direct to The Borden Company Limited—Montreal.

TABLE OF DILUTION STRENGTH AND TIMES OF FEEDING "EAGLE BRAND" CONDENSED MILK

Table with columns for AGE, Hours Between Feedings, Feedings During the Night, Quantity At each Feeding, Quantity Fed in 24 Hours, Teaspoonfuls of "EAGLE BRAND" to ounces of boiled water, and Feedings in 24 Hours.

IMPORTANT.—In preparing feeding mixtures it is imperative that all utensils, bottles, nipples, etc., should be sterilized in boiling water before using. Use a dry spoon in removing contents from the can, and in measuring be careful to pour the milk in the spoon to level itself. Repeat this procedure with every spoonful measured, using the same spoon every time. This will insure accurate measurement and produce the best results.

DIET FOR CHILD DURING THE SECOND YEAR

Usually after the twelfth month, the mother should select a diet schedule. Every new article of food should be carefully prepared, and given at first in very small quantities. All meals are to be given regularly, with nothing between meals. With many children this expansion of the diet list is attended with considerable difficulty. They are thoroughly satisfied with milk, and refuse all other form of nourishment. In such cases, withhold the milk until the more solid articles of food have been eaten. If both are given at the same time, the child will prefer the milk and when he has finished drinking it he will refuse the solid food. The following diet schedule will permit the mother to select a suitable meal from the foods listed. It is never advisable to make a change in diet during very hot weather.

NOTE: One teaspoonful of EAGLE BRAND CONDENSED MILK added to one ounce of boiled water results in a mixture equivalent in nutritive value to whole milk. Whenever the word milk appears in the following diet, EAGLE BRAND should be diluted accordingly.

- 12th to 15th MONTH—FIVE MEALS DAILY
7 A.M.—Oatmeal, barley, or wheat jelly, one to two tablespoonfuls in 6 or 8 ounces of milk. Stale bread and butter, or rusk and butter.
9 A.M.—The juice of one orange.
11 A.M.—Scraped rare beef, one to three tablespoonfuls, mixed with equal quantity of bread and moistened with beef-juice. Or a soft-boiled egg mixed with stale bread-crumbs; a piece of rusk and 8 or 9 ounces of milk.
3 P.M.—Beef, chicken, or mutton broth, with rice or stale bread broken into the broth. Six ounces of milk, if wanted. Stale bread and butter or rusk and butter. Many children at the above age will take and digest apple-sauce and prune pulp; when these are given, milk should be omitted.
6 P.M.—Two tablespoonfuls of cereal jelly in 8 ounces of milk; a piece of rusk. Stale bread and butter.
10 P.M.—A tablespoonful of cereal jelly in 8 ounces of milk.
15th to 18th MONTH—FOUR MEALS DAILY
7 A.M.—Oatmeal, hominy, cornmeal, each cooked three hours the day before they are used. When the cooking is completed the cereal should be of the consistence of a thin paste. This is strained through a colander, which upon cooling will form a mass of jelly-like consistence. Of this give two or three tablespoonfuls, served with milk. 8 or 10 ounces of milk as a drink. Toast.
11 A.M.—A soft-boiled egg mixed with stale bread-crumbs, or one tablespoonful of scraped beef mixed with stale bread-crumbs and moistened with beef-juice. A drink of milk. Rusk or bran biscuit, or stale bread and butter.
3 P.M.—Mutton, chicken, or beef broth, with rice or junket or with stale bread broken in the broth. Custard, corn-starch, plain rice pudding, junket, stewed prunes, baked apple or apple sauce.
6 P.M.—Farina, cream of wheat, wheatena (cooked two hours). Give from one to three tablespoonfuls, served with milk. A drink of milk. Rusk or stale bread and butter.
18th to 24th MONTH—FOUR MEALS DAILY
7 A.M.—Cornmeal, oatmeal, hominy (prepared as in the above schedule). Serve with milk, or with butter and salt. A soft-boiled egg every two or three days. Bashed chicken on toast occasionally. A drink of milk. Bran biscuit and butter, or stale bread and butter.
9 A.M.—The juice of one orange.
11 A.M.—Rare beef minced or scraped; the heart of a lamb chop, finely cut. Chicken, spinach, asparagus tips, squash, strained stewed tomatoes, stewed carrots, mashed cauliflower. Baked apple or apple-sauce. Stale bread and butter. After the twenty-first month, baked potatoes and well-cooked strained beans.
3 P.M.—Chicken, beef or mutton broth, with rice or with stale bread broken into the broth. Custard, corn-starch, or plain rice pudding, junket, stewed prunes. Bran biscuit and butter or stale bread and butter.
6 P.M.—Farina, cream of wheat, wheatena (each cooked two hours). Give one to three tablespoonfuls, served with milk, or with butter and salt. A drink of milk. Rusk or stale bread and butter.

The following suggestions have proved to be helpful when properly used with bottle feedings, and they may be used in conjunction with Eagle Brand Condensed Milk.

Always pour the milk from the can into the spoon—allowing it to level itself but not run over. You can readily understand that by dipping the spoon into the can you get more than a level spoonful, because of the milk that would adhere to the bottom of the spoon.

When you have added the milk to the water stir thoroughly. This is important. After opening, it is safe to leave the milk in the original can. We recommend that you cover the can tightly with an inverted cup, and keep it in a cool, clean place.

- ORANGE JUICE: When baby is four months old, give one teaspoonful of strained orange juice, diluted with equal quantity of boiled water, once daily before feeding time. Gradually increase the amount until you are giving the strained juice of a half of an orange undiluted, once daily before feeding time. Orange juice may be continued until child is old enough to eat other fruits as well as oranges.
OATMEAL JELLY: When baby is five months old, add one teaspoonful of oatmeal jelly to each feeding. Gradually increase the amount until you are adding three tablespoonfuls of oatmeal jelly to each feeding. To make oatmeal jelly add four ounces of oatmeal to one pint of water; boil for three hours in a double boiler, and add enough water so when cooking is completed a thin paste will be formed. This while hot is forced through a strainer to remove coarser particles. When cold a semi-mass will be formed. Oatmeal jelly may be continued until child is old enough to eat well cooked whole cereals.
CONSTIPATION: Oatmeal water very often relieves this condition. To make oatmeal water add one heaping tablespoonful of oatmeal to one pint of water, and boil for three hours in a double boiler. This will make a little more than half a pint of thick gruel to which add one pint of water that has been boiled. After straining mixture through fine strainer, you should have a little more than a pint of whitish liquid. Barley or rice water may be used instead of oatmeal water. If necessary two to three drops of plain cod liver oil may be given twice daily added to the morning and night feedings.
DIARRHEA: Give nothing but plain boiled water for twenty-four hours. Then start feeding with barley water, or rice water, to which has been added a little salt to improve the taste. If these feedings are retained, and bowel movements lessened, small amounts of very weak regular feedings may be started and gradually increased according to baby's condition. If your baby does not improve after trying the above suggestions, consult your doctor at once.
BARLEY WATER: Obtain the very best barley flour. Add one rounded tablespoonful to one pint of water. Boil for thirty minutes, strain; then add enough water to make one pint.
RICE WATER: Add one tablespoonful of rice to a pint of water. Boil three hours, adding water from time to time so that you will have one pint of rice water at the end of the three hours.
LIME WATER: It is seldom necessary to use lime water with Eagle Brand Milk but should there be undigested particles of food in the bowel movements (which seem to be otherwise normal) or should there be vomiting of large curds shortly after feeding—or colic—it would be then advisable to try lime water. Obtain freshly prepared lime water at the Druggists, of which add 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls to each feeding.
COLIC OR VOMITING: These conditions may be due to over feeding, or constipation. Reduce quantity of food and use constipation formula, or lime water formula, as given above.

The Irish Wit

Judge Henderson says that the oldest joke is the one about the Irishman who was in a brown study on the street. Another Irishman met him and said: "Why so downhearted, Mike?" "Well, Pat," said Mike, "my wife told me to get her something for dinner and for the life of me I can't remember what it was I was to get." "Oh, cheer up," said Pat. "Here, have a cigar, maybe you can recover your memory while you smoke." After a few minutes Mike brightened up and said, "You are right, Pat. That cigar made me think what the wife wanted. She wanted cabbage."

Review of Business Condition in Canada by Bank of Commerce.

Agricultural reports from various sections of the Dominion are uniformly encouraging. The acreage sown to wheat this year was, according to the most recent estimates, slightly under normal, owing to the unusual amount of precipitation in the spring, which had the effect of delaying seeding from one to two weeks. More recently, however, the rainfall has not been so copious, and this has permitted a large acreage of coarse grain to be sown. The crops are emerging from the most critical period of their growth in a healthy condition, and during the early in case present crop prospects materialize.

The industrial situation shows comparatively little change during the month. There is more hopeful feeling, however, among manufacturers since parliament finally determined the provisions of the budget. Some factories are busy while others report buyers as being still cautious. Pulp and paper makers continue to expand their operations owing to the heavy demand from the United States. Boot and shoe manufacturers report a good crop are definitely assured, wholesalers anticipate a volume of orders which it will tax their requirements and inadequate in case present crop prospects materialize.

The lumbering industry is experiencing a stronger demand from the domestic and United States trade, but exports to the Orient have fallen off. Fairly heavy consignments are going from the Maritime Provinces to the United States and British markets. There are comparatively few large contract sales local, although there is a steady flow of moderate orders. There is a noticeable tendency on the part of some prospective buyers, however, to hold off, pending an anticipated drop in freight rates.

Pacific Coast exporters are finding difficulty in selling to Japan, where the banks are now required to insist on a deposit of sixty per cent. on all letters of credit, which raises an almost insurmountable barrier against Canadian lumber. An experiment in shipping logs to the Japanese market some months ago was not a success, and is not likely to be repeated.

Reports on the fishing industry vary greatly, but indicate that, on the whole, operations will be attended with a substantial measure of profit. Lobster fishing on the Atlantic coast has been somewhat unsatisfactory to such an extent that the catch has fallen off in certain sections that the Government was petitioned to extend the fishing season. The request was not, however, granted. Mackerel and other fishing has been attended with success. On the Pacific

WALTER HOOVER WINS HIS HEAT IN DIAMOND SCULLS COMPETITION AT HENLEY

Henley on Thames, July 6—Walter M. Hoover, of the Duluth Boat Club, U. S. A., today won his first heat in the Diamond Sculls of the Royal Henley regatta, defeating R. J. C. Tweed of Cambridge University by a length and a half. His time was 10 minutes, 41 seconds.

Dreary at Course.

Three days of rain have made the Royal Regatta week a dreary spectacle of umbrellas, raincoats and bedraggled summer girls instead of the usual fashion displays.

This year's competition in England's blue ribbon sculling event, it is considered, will virtually decide the world's amateur championship and the contest is likely to be the keener in its long history, with Hoover, J. Berford, Jr., winner in 1920, G. H. L. Gollan of the Thames Club and A. Baynes, the Australian, the strongest four men of the clubs.

The foreign crews will be seen in today's races, the Grasshopper Club of Zurich, Switzerland, opposing the Thames Club, eight, the French eight rowing against Jesus College, Cambridge and the London Rowing Club against the Christiansia Rowing Club in the grand challenge cup. In the silver goblets heats, the Dutch pair will oppose the Thames Club team.

London, Eng., July 1.—For the next week beautiful Henley-on-Thames will be the lodestone for those whose eyes turn to the greatest of aquatic sports, amateur rowing. Competitors from many countries will be on hand to match their speed and endurance, and to the successful will go the highest honors that can be won by amateur oarsmen.

Henley Royal Regatta for well on to a century has gathered together the best amateur oarsmen of the world. It was founded in 1839, when at a public meeting it was decided to raise a subscription and purchase two challenge cups, the Grand Challenge Cup, to be rowed for annually in eight-oared boats, open to all amateur crews, and the Town Challenge Cup, for four-oared crews residing within five miles of Henley. Two years later the Seward's Challenge Cup for fours, open to competition under the same conditions as the Grand Challenge Cup, was added to the programme. Additional were made periodically, and there are now eight events which make up the four days' regatta.

One-half the events—the Grand Challenge Cup, the Seward's Challenge Cup, the Silver Goblet for pair oars, founded in 1845, and the Diamond Sculls, for single scullers, founded in 1844, are open to all amateurs, as defined by the Amateur Rowing Association. Two of the remaining events, the Ladies' Challenge Plate (eight oars) and the Visitors' Challenge Plate (four oars), are open to crews from schools and colleges in the United Kingdom. Restrictions are also attached to the Thames Challenge Cup (eight oars), and to the Wyford Challenge Cup (four oars), which complete the programme.

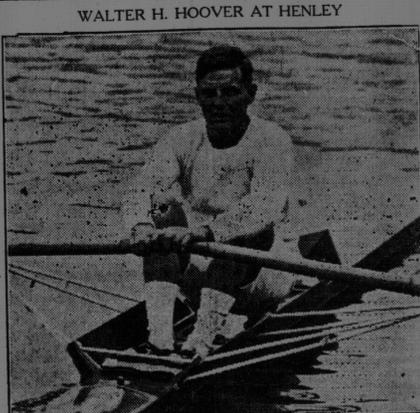

Entries for this year's regatta, which will open on Wednesday, July 5, compare very favorably with those of the last pre-war regatta, 1914. For the Grand Challenge Cup entries have been received from four foreign countries, Norway, Switzerland, Belgium and France. The appearance of the Ghent Club of Belgium is particularly welcome, as this club in its seven quests for the Grand Challenge between the years 1900 and 1911 was successful three times, 1906, 1907 and 1909. The Christiana Club of Norway won the Thames Cup last year, and the experience gained by that young but powerful crew a year ago should prove invaluable when they meet the much stronger English crews in the major event this year. This year will mark the second time that France has sent in an entry, the former occasion being in 1892, while Switzerland will make its debut in the Grand Challenge at Henley next week. The Grasshoppers' Club, as the Swiss Club is named, has a very strong crew. At the Olympic regatta in 1920 they put up an excellent fight against the powerful Leander club, representing England. The Grasshoppers have also been entered in the Stewards' Cup.

Keen competition is expected for the Diamond Sculls. Baynes, amateur champion of Queensland, has undergone a strict training course at Marlow under George Towns, ex-champion of the world, in preparation for the event. M. Schmidt of Switzerland has entered for the Diamond Sculls, as has also Walter Hoover of the Duluth Boat Club, who some three weeks ago won the Gold Cup Race at Philadelphia in record time. The Canadian entrant for the Diamond Sculls, Hilton Belyea of St. John, New Brunswick, withdrew his Henley entry immediately following his defeat by Hoover at Philadelphia. F. E. Eysken of Delft University, Holland, the winner of the Sculls last year, has not entered for this race next week.

The course over which the regatta is rowed is one mile and 850 yards in length, and about 110 feet in width. The races are rowed against the stream and the time usually occupied by the winning crew of the Grand Challenge Cup is within a few seconds of 7 minutes. The fastest time in recent years was that of last year, when the crew from Magdalen College, Oxford, rowed the course in 6 minutes, 54 seconds. During the war years of course rowing was out of the question, but at the first regatta following the war Magdalen were victorious in the Grand Challenge, winning again last year.

As might be expected in any event with such an extended lifetime, many unique incidents have featured the Henley regatta. In 1848 the famous "seven oar" episode took place. At the last hour one of the members of the Oxford crew was incapacitated through illness and the opposing crew refused permission to the Oxford crew to put on a substitute. Nothing daunted, the Oxford crew took to the water with one man absent, and won undying fame by winning the Grand Challenge cup with seven oars. Ten years later Oxford defeated Cambridge in the Grand Challenge by only eighteen inches. In 1897 New College, Oxford, set up a record for the course for the Grand Challenge when they won from the Leander Club by two feet in six minutes and 51 seconds. From 1897 and onward the competition from foreign crews has been a feature of the regatta. In 1906 the Club Nautique de Grand, Belgium, carried off the Grand Challenge, and the Belgian club repeated in 1907 and 1909. In 1912 the Sydney Rowing Club, New South Wales, was the winner, and in 1914, the last regatta before the war, an eight from Harvard University carried off the rowing title.

CROSS IN MEMORY OF TWO MISSIONARIES

Since, Ont., July 6—About 1,500 people from all parts of Ontario attended the ceremonies at Brant Hill, Port Dover, when a huge cross erected in memory of the two daring explorers and missionaries, Gallie and Dollier de Casson, the first white men to touch the shores of Lake Erie was unveiled.

NOTORIOUS HUN COMMITS SUICIDE

"Bluebeard" Had Admitted Killing Four Women and Was Suspected of Slaying Twenty.

Berlin, July 6.—Germany's notorious "Bluebeard" Karl Grossmann, committed suicide in his cell by hanging, yesterday, half an hour before he was to be taken to the criminal court, where he was undergoing trial for murder. He admitted killing four women and was suspected of murdering twenty.

THINKS SAVINGS LOST, SO HANGS HIMSELF

Jamaica, B. I., July 6.—Andrew Vechner, 45, did not believe in banks. But he had saved $2,000, and relatives convinced him it was unsafe to carry so much money about with him. So Vechner reluctantly deposited it all in a savings bank. Returning from the bank he met a friend, to whom he told what he had done. The friend told him the bank to which he had entrusted his all was unsound. Vechner rushed back to the bank. It was after noon and the bank was closed. And only an hour before the receiving teller had assured him he could withdraw his money at any time.

Vechner returned home melancholy. He walked to the outskirts of the town carrying a small bundle. At dusk his body was found hanging from a limb of a tree.

The police reported that Vechner hung himself, using his overalls for a rope, believing his life's savings were gone.

THINKS CHAIN STORES WILL HAVE TROUBLES

Babson, Statistician, Advises Small Merchants to Adopt Modern Methods and Advise More Largely.

Wellesley Hills, July 6.—In an interview, Roger W. Babson has appealed to merchants to study the "self help" system. He believes that the small merchant has great opportunity if he will only adopt modern methods and advertise more. He insists that the public does not demand the chain stores but rather demands economical and convenient service. People buy from the chain stores because that is the only place in their community that they can get such service, he continued.

"Chain stores are having a tremendous run today. They are springing up like weeds in every community. Local merchants are beginning to become panic stricken. They fear that the chain store is to swallow up everything. Grocers, druggist, and clothing dealers are especially troubled. Considering the tremendous number of small merchants this is a problem in which every one should be interested. There are for instance over 800,000 independent grocers in this country. To have their business wiped out would result in a tremendous economic appeal. All together there are over 1,000,000 small merchants in America who are vitally interested in this problem, as they will be wiped out if the chain store proves to be the legitimate method of merchandising.

"Personally I feel that this change is due to the fact that the chain store comes nearer to giving the public what it wants and prospers for that reason. If the local merchants will adopt the same up-to-date methods of economical merchandising he need have nothing to fear from chain store competition. These establishments are doing a splendid business because their plan is practical and because they are being operated by young men with initiative and enthusiasm. The railroads did a fine business when they were so operated, twenty or thirty years ago. Chain stores, however, will have their troubles just as the railroads have had theirs. Clerks, truck drivers, and buyers will some day be organized and as saucy and independent as the typical plumber is today. Then as the chain store sales will drop and operating expenses will increase and they will have to adopt a more modern form of merchandising or give way to a new order. The "self help" system eliminates labor difficulty to a considerable extent and presents a most interesting study both as to service and to cost.

"I appeal particularly to merchants of the older school and urge them to study very carefully these "self help" stores, with the "self help" service. It is true that the average merchant cannot get the advantage of collective buying unless he himself joins a chain. Any merchant, however, can install a "self help" system of selling independently. Of course, this means more than reorganizing the fixtures of his store. He must change his entire attitude. The "self help" stores for instance are very dependent upon advertising much more so than are the chain stores and local merchants. The latter must advertise more than ever if he is to adopt the "self help" system. I am not a merchant, merely a statistician. Statistics, however, clearly indicate that if the local merchant continues as at present, he will be eliminated from American industry to make way for more modern machinery of distribution.

THE WAR IN IRELAND

A scene in Belleek immediately after the occupation by infantry and armored cars.

"In regard to chain store securities. Most of these merchandising companies should do well for the next few years. Mail order concerns will also prosper, but I predict that even stores like A. & P. will some day change over to a "self help" system. They will be forced in order to survive. When the change is made their securities will become "self help" securities. It is not my purpose," concluded Mr. Babson "to recommend them as securities, but rather to try to awake the local merchants before it is too late, and to get them to adopt the methods or more economical distribution which are winning out today."

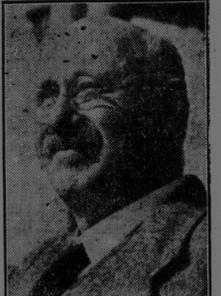

BOY DIES MEETING A "DARE."

Called "Yellow" by Playmates, He Climbs Pole, Touches Live Wire.

Harrison, N. Y., July 6. — Tommy Murray, fourteen years old, died in the United Hospital from the shock of touching a live wire, which he did to demonstrate how far he was from being "yellow."

Playing "follow the leader," Francis Drummond, Howard Webster and Lester Gilbert climbed up one of the supporting columns of a steel structure carrying power wires of the New Haven Railroad. Murray refused to climb because of the danger from electricity. Arriving at the top of the structure thirty feet above the ground, one of the climbers shouted: "You're yellow." Then Murray hastily climbed up.

"I'll show you," he said. He walked out on the steel skeleton of the signal bridge, stooped and touched a live wire carrying 11,000 volts.

There was a puff of smoke and he fell to the bridge. He was conscious almost to the moment of his death.
