Correspondence.

For the Standard.

Mr. Editor.—In your last issue a letter appeared from a correspondent "Visitor," who makes some statements which are not correct. There is no club of rowdies who blacken themselves up and pounce upon any unfortunate individual who may be out at night; the only persons who get "in free ride on the car" are the drunks who belong to the town, who are around the street; they are put in a cart and hauled to their homes.

"Visitor" seemed to be afraid that he could not imbibe his favorite beverage, and lie down and have a nap on the warm side of a telegraph post; so he got disgusted, and tried to injure the town by misrepresentation. 'Tis true that, owing to the manner that the mail is distributed, there is a good deal of annoyance around the post-office, which if attended to by the proper authorities, would add much to the harmony and quietness of our beautiful and quiet town.

Yours,

KELLY.

The bones of a mastodon have just been discovered near Newburgh, N. Y. A farmer's boy was digging a ditch on his father's farm, when he came on what he supposed was a log about two feet in length and several inches in diameter. Examination showed it to be a section of the leg of a huge mastodon, and subsequent excavations revealed a large number of bones, including the skull, many of the ribs, leg bones, parts of the spine, &c.—nearly enough to complete the skeleton of one of the largest of these immense creatures yet unearthed. The height of the skull is 2 ft. 5 1/2 inches; the length of the upper jaw, 3 feet 9 inches; width of lower jaw, 2 feet 4 inches. Its weight is estimated at about 600 pounds. The fore leg measures 7 feet in length, and the longest rib 3 feet 10 inches. The land on which the discovery was made is part of a swamp, which fifty years ago formed the bed of a small pond. About 1820 the water was drained off. The morass is formed of rich black mud, to the depth of twenty feet.

Pontiac, Port Huron, and St. Clair, Mich. were visited Friday by a destructive storm which damaged the spires of the Congregational and Episcopal churches, the jail, and Sewell's livery stable, and unroofed a number of dwellings at Pontiac. The damage to the crops and orchards was very great. At Port Huron the wind blew down the new Methodist church, inflicting a loss of $15,000, and blew the side out of Taylor's Planing Mill. The Pine Grove brewery was demolished, Barren's photograph gallery was unroofed, and the Grand Trunk freight house and the Minnie and Graham blocks, as well as many houses and barns in different sections upset or unroofed. A street-car driver was seriously injured by flying bricks.

Memphis, Tenn., July 15th. The city remains very quiet, no new cases having been reported, and it is anticipated that all quarantine restrictions now in force against Memphis will be removed.

Toronto, Ont., July 15. The sentence of Edward Thompson to be hanged in September for the murder of Catherine Thompson at Markham, has been commuted to imprisonment for life.

The memoranda of Senator Edmunds, speech delivered in the secret session on the resolution to terminate the fishery treaty between the United States and Great Britain, show the amount of duty saved by Canada from July 1, 1873 until June 30, 1878, to be $1,063,821, while the estimated value of all fish taken by Americans under the provisions of the treaty was $559,370.

AN OUTRAGEOUS PROCEEDING.—On Monday last an American schooner, carrying 19 men, anchored between the Horseshoe and the Fox Island nets, where a purse seine was thrown and a very large quantity of mackerel taken, together with other fish. All day long the crew were engaged cleaning the fish and throwing the offal into the water alongside, polluting and damaging our river fisheries. This is only one case out of many which illustrate the maliciously destructive manner in which the Americans abuse their privileges under the Washington Treaty. We presume Overseer Williston informed himself of the name of the vessel and that he will report the facts to the Department.—Mr. Adair.

Subscribers we trust, will be prepared to pay promptly a collector from this Office, who is on a collecting tour.

The St. Andrews Standard.

SAINT ANDREWS, JULY 23, 1879.

ST. GEORGE, ITS INDUSTRIES, AND GRAND SOUTHERN RAILWAY.

A flying visit to St. George, last week, enabled us to see the state of the country between St. Andrews and that picturesque and romantic locality. Before mentioning its industries and other matters, we may allude to the state of the road. In many places it is very rough owing to the large number of small stones, and lack of repair; the necessity of a thoroughly practical roadmaker having charge of the highway and seeing the labor on the road properly performed will suggest itself to any one who travels over it. A highway, which for the last forty or fifty years has had such large sums of money granted annually to keep it in repair, should be in better condition, and it is a question whether the system of letting the work out by contract could not be improved, by having the work performed by daily labor, under the direction of a competent official from the Public Works Department. Of this there is no question; there has been sufficient money expended on the roadway since 1830, to pave the line from St. Andrews to St. John. The bridges are well built structures, and equal to any in the country, and the line generally dry, except in low lands, where the roadway has not been properly crowned.

Having arrived at St. George, one is reminded, forcibly of the lack of business, owing to long continued bad times. Scarcely any business is doing—money is not to be had, and the wheels of commerce are consequently clogged; its hitherto principal source of manufacture—lumber, does not realize more in the English or American markets, than the bare cost of production, not even allowing interest on the money expended, much less a profit, while the lumber is getting scarcer every year. Still, as Burns says, "folk mean do something for their bread," and the Gillmills mills at Upper Falls are kept going, the deals and boards are rafted and float down the river to the Falls at the Town, from whence they are sluiced into the salt water. There are large piles of lumber on the wharves for shipment and a market. We are sorry to say, that there are no marks of improvement for the past two years; the people are all anxiously awaiting "the good times and prosperity" promised them prior to the last Dominion election, and live in hopes, that if not realized from the political change, the crops at least will not deceive them. The grass crop it is said will be above the average; potatoes notwithstanding the visitors from Colorado, the bugs, look well, and give promise of an abundant yield, as do corn, oats, wheat and barley. A larger breadth of land was sown in wheat than in previous seasons, and it is head, ing well. Potatoes, carrots and other crops are also coming forward satisfactorily.

We visited the Granite works, carried on by two or three small companies formed by men formerly employed in the Bay of Fundy works, which have ceased operations; they were busily engaged in the manufacture of monuments, columns, &c. Messrs. Taylor & Black, are working on steadily; the largest concern is that of Messrs. Farquharson, Trill & Co., at the end of the bridge near the town. They have been working full time during the season, and are busily engaged filling orders for distant parts of the country. They recently discovered a quarry with a fine description of grey granite dotted with cream color specks, which is really beautiful when polished. During the present year they have manufactured monuments and columns for various places in the United States, as far off as Alabama, Ohio, and even California, and also for London, England. They have also supplied St. John and other parts of the Province with that description of work, well manufactured, and at lower prices than formerly. They are enabled to do so for the very good reason, that they execute the work within themselves, not having any outlay to pay a secretary, treasurer or manager; in a word, they mean business, perform it promptly and efficiently, at reasonable cost. Farquharson & Co., are bound to succeed, if industry, attention and good work at moderate prices can attain that end; and have all the modern machinery required for carrying on the work; being themselves thorough workmen, are prepared to execute all orders entrusted to them. The next matter which we may allude to is the "Grand Southern Railway." A number of New York capitalists met the Directors at their office in St. George on Saturday last, to enter into arrangements for placing the Railway in running order; and we are safe in stating that an agreement will be entered into for that purpose, and still further, we believe that the line from St. John to St. Stephen will be opened for traffic before the show flies, unless indeed, it should come on some weeks in advance of winter. The rails have been purchased in England, and it is probable have been shipped by this time. The whole line is graded, and the sleepers laid with the exception of a couple of miles. Col. Green, contractor of the road is expected from England shortly. We congratulate the people of St. George on the bright prospects of having an early connection by rail with the outside world, and that they will no longer be "left out in the cold," as they have been, while other places with less pretension, have had railway connections with all parts of the Dominion and United States. There is no doubt that the opening of their line will result in new industries springing up, give an impetus to business, and that a traffic will follow, as the line is shorter as well as more direct than the St. John and Maine line. Of this there cannot be a question, that mainly through the influence of Mr. Stevenson, having the people of St. George succeeded in getting the Grand Southern Railway.

Topics of the Week.

Every election that takes place in Quebec serves to show that the people have confidence in Mr. Joly and his Government. In Vercheres, Mr. Achille La Rose, a Liberal, defeated Mr. Brillon, Conservative, by a majority of 45. At the last general election Mr. Brosseau, a Liberal, was elected by a majority of 6. He was unseated, however, on the ground of want of proper qualification. Mr. Joly, secures a supporter in this place with an increased majority of four.

An unoccupied house owned by James Holt of Bocabee was struck by lightning on Thursday afternoon last, at the gable. The building caught fire, but with the aid of the farmers in the vicinity it was put out; fortunately there was an abundance of rain water in the drains on each side of the road.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday afternoon while turning from Water into Edward Street, Mr. James Doherty was pitched out of his wagon, and struck on the crown of his head, receiving a slight scalp wound; he was picked up and taken into Williamson's drug store, where the wound was dressed, and he was driven home by his son. We learn that he was able to be in town next day.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. William Ingram, who was in ill health for some time, died suddenly on Sunday evening, at 8 o'clock while sitting in his chair. He was an old resident of the town, having lived here for forty-five years. He leaves a widow and one daughter to lament their loss.

AN ALARM OF FIRE on Monday night was responded to promptly by Engine Co. No. 1, which was rapidly drawn to Indian Point. A pile of brush and boards erected as a snow fence on the Railway took fire and was burnt.

Mrs. Chief Justice Wood and her son, E. M. Wood, Esq., of Manitoba, and Mrs. Rutledge of Brantford, are here on a summer visit. The ladies are nieces of H. Hatch, Esq.

Rev. C. M. Sills and wife, of Halifax, are visiting the family home at the Rectory.

E. Lee Street, Esq., of Newcastle has been visiting his friends here for the past few days. Mr. Street's many friends gave him a gratifying reception on his arrival.

Persons visiting St. George, will find Bogue's Hotel a pleasant retreat, with an agreeable landlord and attentive waiters.

St. Andrews Country Market.

Veal 4 to 5 cts. per lb; lamb 6 to 8 cts. mutton 6 to 8, beef corned 7 to 8, butter 10 to 12, eggs 10 to 12, potatoes new (scarce) 50 cts per peck, strawberries 10 to 12 cts. per qt.

Fish at the wharf—from 5 to 8 cts each, haddock 4 to 6, mackerel (scarce) 5 to 6 cts each. Dried cod fish $2.75 to $3 per qtl., haddock $1.50 to $1.75, pollock $1.25.

ARRIVED.—Mr. Thomas McCracken, wife and child, whom we mentioned a few weeks ago, as having departed for California, arrived safely in San Francisco, on the 6th July, having been a fortnight on the journey from St. Andrews. Their trunks however were broken open during the passage, and but little stolen. They express themselves pleased with their new home. Times are dull in that land of gold, and many persons find it difficult to obtain employment. A recent letter states "that young men who can get employment and work as hard as they do, could do as well in Canada as out here in California." This being the case, every inducement should be given to the youth of the Dominion to remain, and make it what they are doing in a foreign land a prosperous and happy country.

The Globe says that—Mrs. C. P. Wetmore of Fredericton, [now on a visit to St. Andrews] made and presented to "All Saints' Church" of this town, a beautiful pair of Communion or Altar cushions, 22 feet long and 12 inches wide, worked on canvas with crimson, green and gold colours. When the fine texture is considered it must have taken considerable time and attention of that lady to make them; they are truly a valuable gift.

THE CROPS.

What a gratifying fact it must be, and what cause for thankfulness, to be assured that in no part of this continent will there be a total failure of the crops. Last year, which was generally called a bountiful year, did not surpass what can reasonably be expected the coming harvest. In many of the Western and Southern States and also in the wheat growing sections of the Dominion, the yield, according to reliable reports, will be greater than last season. It is probable however, that should there be the slightest unfavorable report, it will be magnified by interested speculators who trade upon the necessity of the masses. Even now, in consequence of some wet days in Europe, reports of injury to the crops are heralded far and wide, to make what is termed "a corner" in wheat; this is calculated to enhance the profits of speculators, without in the smallest degree benefitting the agriculturist. It is true, that the crops in some sections are somewhat backward, but even so, they promise an abundant yield. It is estimated by the leading authority in the United States that the wheat crop this year, will amount to the enormous sum of 385,000,000 bushels. What it will be in the Dominion we have no means of ascertaining, as the Agriculture Bureau has not yet perfected its means of ascertaining the breadth of land sown with wheat, but it is certain, that in the Maritime Provinces a very large extent of land has been devoted to that cereal, and that the crop is doing well; and it is likewise satisfactory to learn that the other crops promise a good yield. The grass crop will be abundant, and so far, that foreign pest the "potato bug," has done no serious injury.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE for August will pleasantly surprise even these readers who from long experience have come to expect in each successive Number a new revelation of the possibilities of wood-engraving. Never has even Harper's contained in a single article so many and at the same time so varied and excellent a series of landscape engravings as those which illustrate Mr. Benjamin's paper on Lake George. These engravings are from Mr. J. D. Smilie's drawings, twenty-three in number, covering every picturesque feature of the lake from Caldwell to its northern extremity.

Of an entirely different character, but of equal excellence, are the engravings illustrating Mr. Gibson's paper, "Song Hamlet and Hometown." The drawings are by the author, who has taken for his theme an artist's vacation among the scenes of his childhood. The old New England homestead, with its inevitable garret, the studies of insect life, of the beautiful landscape views along the Housatonic, and of Hometown characters, and finally the reminiscences of school life, afford unusual opportunities for illustration; and the result here shown is very beautiful, apart from the glamour always cast over reminiscences of this kind. The beautiful engraving of butterflies with which the paper opens has been executed by Edward King, and is only equalled by the engraving of the peacock's feather, by the same artist, in the Harper's for August last year.

Mr. Roger's illustration of character for Mr. Rideing's paper, "The Nautical School 'St. Marys,'" are very striking, from their novelty and spirit. The paper is one of unusual interest.

Among the illustrated papers in this Number is one entitled "Chautauqua," giving an interesting review of the peculiar educational features which have been developed in connection with the Chautauqua Sunday-school Association.

William E. Griffin contributes a curious and exceedingly interesting paper on "Japanese Rock-Crystal," with illustrations.

In fiction this is a remarkable Number. William Black's yachting romance, "White Wings," opens in the most promising manner, and with spirited illustrations.

An exceedingly important contribution is the paper by Dr. Edward G. Loring, the celebrated oculist, entitled "Consequences of Defective Vision."

The Editorial Departments are full of interesting and timely matter.

G. W. Powell contributes a brief but pointed paper entitled "American Forests."

Negotiations between Russia and the United States, relative to the fisheries near Alaska, have resulted in an arrangement by which vessels of the United States are allowed to fish in Russian waters in return for the payment of a money compensation.

Haymakers have been busy for the past week, and many of them have housed the crop in good order.

The terrible epidemic, diptheria, continues its ravages in Bessarabia. A rescript of the governor is published ordering the universal fumigation of dwellings and clothing of the peasantry. The rescript states that the epidemic has been raging for seven years carrying to the grave in some districts almost all the rising generation.

IRRELIGION IN LONDON.—A London journal contains a most astonishing article, setting forth that in East London the working class do not go to church, or care about religion, and that no movement is made to provide those people with religious instruction, and that they number upwards of a million. How is it possible, that in the richest and most civilized capitals of Europe such a state of things can exist? A million of people fairly fed, orderly and intelligent, who care nothing about religion. We could believe that people living in China might be guilty of such apathy, but surely it cannot exist in a christian country, and yet the "London Spectator" states it to be a fact, that "East Londoners have no church and want none."

VISITORS TO ST. ANDREWS and travellers generally, will be pleased to know that Mr. ASKE KENNEDY has opened the building formerly called the "International," on Water Street, opposite the Manchester House. The hotel has been newly painted and papered, and a large hall erected, which affords increased accommodation. As usual, this house is supplied with the best from the English and United States markets. The popular character of KENNEDY'S HOTEL will be maintained; and the genial disposition of its proprietor, will render his house as deserving of patronage as heretofore, as he spares neither pains nor expense to accommodate his guests. my21-1y.

Mackerel fishing on the southeast coast of Cape Breton is a failure, a good catch however being reported on the western coast, especially at Point Miccaux. The catch of codfish is fair thus far. Haddock are more plentiful in Ladise Bay, than for years. Herring have not been caught yet in any quantity.

The Serbian government has advanced a claim against the Porte for 3,000,000 francs on account of raids by Albanians into Serbian territory.

The Reichstag voted the protective tariff Saturday and was closed. The constitutionalists will resume the anti-tariff agitation in August, and call a national meeting in September to prepare for a vigorous campaign against the new tariff at the Prussian elections in October.

State Assayer Hitchings of Waterville reports the discovery of a gold bearing vein of quartz in the eastern part of Penobscot county. From assays which he has made of it he thinks it will prove of value.

In consequence of the depression of trade many Lancashire, England, operatives will emigrate to America.

The prospects of a speedy peace in Zululand are brightening.

The famous pastor of Brooklyn church, the universally known Henry Ward Beecher, is coming to New Brunswick on a lecturing tour. He will lecture in Fredericton on the evening of Friday, August 1st.

ical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author in this admirable Essay

clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured, without the dangerous use of internal medicine, or the application of the knife;

pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

FOR THE FAIR SEX.

A Glimpse at Jenny Lind.

And, before I quit the theme of song and of singers, writes a correspondent, let me mention a glimpse that I caught before leaving London of one of the celebrities of the past. On leaving the home of Mme. Albani I crossed the street to look at the dwelling of Jenny Lind. The house stands back from the street and a garden that must in summer be a very bouquet of flowers and verdure stands in front of it. A bust of the great singer, life size, and in marble, stands in the large bay window that fronts the garden. And besides the bust sat an elderly lady, in a white mob cap and white cushioned shawl, engaged in partaking of the afternoon cup of tea that forms so prominent a feature in English social life. She was talking to some one in the room, and, as she turned to the window, I saw again the face that I had last looked upon, crowned with roses and lighted with inspiration, on the stage of Tripp Hall twenty-eight years ago. Under the disfiguring cap, the fair hair, now plentifully streaked with gray, was seen rolled in precisely the same fashion as that which set all the girls in America to twisting back their tresses in loose bygone years. In other respects Jenny Lind has greatly changed. Few could have recognized in the pale, worn lineaments of the elderly lady the well-known angelic countenance of the greatest singer of our day and generation. I permitted myself but one glance, not wishing to violate even by a look the sanctity of that tranquil home. I am told that Mme. Lind-Goldschmidt, as she styles herself, is very eccentric and peculiar. She still interests herself in music, being the leader of the Bach Choir, a private association, to which some of the first ladies in London belong, and so severe is she in her requirements, and so strict in demanding their fulfillment, that her high-born pupils are often tempted to rebel.

Materials Worn as Mourning.

Thin materials of light weight are chosen for summer dresses worn as mourning. The preference this season is for spun silk grenadine with smooth continuous surface, differing entirely from the square meshes of canvas grenadine. This is a durable fabric, because the silk threads each way are precisely alike, and are twisted the same way. This comes in jet black used for the deepest mourning, and costs, single width, from $1.75 to $2.50 a yard. It is made up over a waist lining and skirt of silk, and is trimmed with English crepe for first mourning, and is afterward lightened by plaits of the grenadine crepe with crepe pipings. The iron grenadines with small square meshes are also worn as deep mourning. Broad-cloth and satin-striped grenadines are used as the lightest mourning, called complimenter mourning, or else when the wearer is about to leave off mourning dress altogether. The seaside grenadines of pure wool, or mixed with a little silk, are excellent for wearing at the seashore, as they do not get stringy nor peevish after being dampened; these are twenty-four inches wide, and when all the wool they cost from seventy-five cents to $1.35 a yard; they are more expensive when silk is introduced. One of the richest fabrics for summer wear is Byronic tulle—a dull semi-transparent fabric, or the deepest mourning attire, made of silk and wool mixed, and closely woven. The wide and costs $1 to $1.75 a yard. Satin-plaid byronic is also worn to be used in combination with the plain goods after the first plain mourning is left off. The soft pure wool barges make graceful dresses, but are very warm; these can be bought, if double width, at the best bargain, wide, without the objectionable fold down the middle of the goods; silk they cost $1.15; satin-striped barges are used for overdresses and for plaited waists; these are $1.50 a yard, and are only twenty-four inches wide.—Harper's Bazar.

Fashion Notes.

All muslin gowns are made with elbow sleeves. White muslin is now worn as a veil by some ladies. Some satin gowns have no waist except a batiste jacket. Short dresses for dancing are very popularly draped. Crosswise shirrings are worn on some thin, open overskirts. Necklaces are now made up of repetitions of small designs. Quaker mitts are economical as well as fashionable for misses. Dresses that button behind are scarce in the furnishing shops. Bangled hair is rapidly going out of fashion by ladies. Straw hats, jauntily turned up, are universal worn by young ladies. Overskirts that open in front are fastened together by large buckles. The channel dresses, trimmed with Hercules in the end, are worn by young girls. Warm wraps for summer are made of corded lawn, trimmed with Breton lace. Vinaceous mitts are worn by very young girls. Must preference to lisle thread gloves. Time-worn and undershirts of plain cambric worn with plaid dresses by young misses. of the oppy buds, green wheat, oats or country flowers are the proper flowers for daisy stands. The comfortable and pretty gowns have proper skirts of black satin and grenadine who wears. Rows of bows are worn down the front. Dolomites by those who still cling to the useful garment.

New York Romance.

Since last New Year's a certain young lady living on Lexington avenue has been the recipient of marked attention from a rather fast young man of "great expectations" and the son of a wealthy merchant lately retired from business. This young girl—for she is only eighteen years old—is not beautiful, but more of the order called charming; slender and lithe in figure, delicate in feature, with hazel eyes and a quantity of soft brown hair usually worn in a chateaufort braid; winning in her manners and tasteful as a French woman in the arrangement of her simple toilets. She was always noticeable and well known in the upper portion of the avenue upon which she resided. Her mother, a straight-laced widow in straightened circumstances, eked out a scanty income by taking boarders, including certain young men about town, and it was in calling upon one of them that the merchant's son first saw the maid with the nut brown hair. Then followed the usual routine of Central Park and ice-cream, rows on the river and moonlight wanderings, with a liberal dash of love-making; but alas! no mention of marriage. The mother, foolishly proud of the handsome and apparently wealthy wooer, did not worry herself about the wedding. She took for granted that the young man would follow, and the daughter was too infatuated to doubt the honor of her lover. At last, however, he proposed a secret marriage, alleging as the reason that his "expectations" would never be fulfilled should his father become aware of what he would consider a mesalliance. The young girl begged that her mother might be taken into their confidence, but to this the gallant youth would not accede, and finally, by dint of much persuasion and appeals to her love, he won her consent to meet him at the Astor House, where he would come provided with a license, and they could be quietly married.

The evening came, and in a dress of Quaker gray, and nothing suggestive of a bride about her save a cluster of white flowers that, womanlike, she could not resist wearing at her neck, she stole quietly out of the house on pretence of visiting a friend, and taking the cars was soon at the Astor House. With a beating heart she entered the empty parlor, where in a few moments she was joined by her lover. As he approached she timidly inquired if he had procured the license.

Some touch of shame must have entered "this man's" bad heart, for on the spot he confessed he could not marry her. It would ruin his present and future prospects, when it was found out, as it was sure to be; but if she loved him truly she would not desert him now. What difference could a few sentences mumbled over them by a man in black make?

At his words shame and terror took possession of the girl, but before she could reply the door opened and her mother, outraged and indignant, walked in. At the sight of her poor girl, gave a convulsive gasp, and as quick as thought drew from her pocket a vial of laudanum, took a swallow and threw the vial out of the window. Then a violent scene ensued between the mother and the lover, though neither seemed to suspect that the daughter had taken sufficient of the drug to endanger her life.

The three left the hotel, but had only walked a short distance when the girl, with a low groan, sank to the ground insensible. Terrified, the young man hailed a passing cab, and lifting her into it, drove at once to the Chambers Street Hospital. There she was put under the care of Dr. G. W. Davis, and prompt and efficient treatment soon restored her senses. Two days and nights she lay there too ill to move, and which time the mother, untouched by her sufferings, constantly upbraided and reproached her, until those about interfused.

The lover, thoroughly frightened, called frequently to see her, and vowed on his knees by her bedside that if she would only get well, come what would, he would marry her. On the third day the sick girl was lifted into a carriage, and with her two companions drove away—where is only to be guessed, for the mother gave a fictitious name at the hospital, the young man withheld his, and it is only the wise who know.

A Farmer's Pest.

The California ground squirrel, commonly known as the gopher, is a most industrious and audacious forager, and though he seems very innocent, is a veritable pest. He consumes an inordinate quantity of grain, and does a vast amount of mischief to gardens and orchards. He and his farming are declared to be absolutely incompatible, and the Golden State is greatly concerned as the best manner of exterminating him. Poison has been tried, and has proved effective on many squirrels; but they are so cunning that they refuse to swallow it after one session, unless it is offered in a new form. Strychnine, arsenic and phosphorus have been tried, and now other mortal agents must be adopted to get rid of the aggressive rodents. It is estimated that their damage to the wheat crop alone was last season nearly $1,000,000, and to gardens and orchards fully $500,000 more.

Here would seem to be a good chance for some clever inventor to make a good thing for himself and a better for the State. A wide-awake California boy, after a study of "gopher" habits, ought to be able to outwit the little pests. A successful gopher trap would be worth a small gold mine.—Scientific American.

Hungry Red Men.

Writing about her life on a farm in California, a lady says: There was no scarcity of Indians about the valley, mostly Diggers and Wagon-Wallies, a harmless lot of vagabonds, but quite inspiring to women not accustomed to their little peculiarities. One day an old fellow came to the door and said he was "moocha" hungry. His wants were supplied, and the next morning he returned with a dozen of his comrades, who were all "moocha" hungry. These also were fed, and the next day he came with the whole tribe, including squaws and papooses, who he claimed were all in the same miserable plight. Nothing daunted by this influx of guests, my father conducted them to a large kettle filled with meat, diswater and kitchen refuse in general, which was intended as a meal for the dogs. Of this repast he invited them to partake, which they did with much gusto, cleaning the kettle to the last drop, and then indulging in "all hands round" in token of their satisfaction. The next day they came, but the support of a tribe of Indians was more than he had bargained for and he declined to give them anything. They then asked the privilege of gathering the grasshoppers on the ranch, and the hay and grain being all in, their request was granted. Grasshoppers are esteemed by them as a delicacy, and they captured them in the following manner: They first procured several large flat stones, over which they built a fire, and, leaving one of their number to feed it, they disposed themselves in a circle around a field five or six miles in circumference. They all moved slowly toward the center, each carrying a piece of brush, with which they beat the ground, allowing none of the grasshoppers to go backward, and constantly closing in on them until they all met, when several that were provided with bags held them open and the others drove them in. In this way they secured about five bushels, and it wasn't a good day for grasshoppers either.

When the fireman saw them coming with the bags he dragged the hot stones from the fire, the string from bag No. 1 was loosened, and a layer of them dextrously placed on one stone and covered with another, and here they were kept until they were cooled, and then repeated until all were cooled and rebagged, when they took their departure, the time occupied being about ten hours. The slight-of-hand part of this work was the way they managed to transfer them from the bag to the oven without allowing one to escape. Their next visit was made when mamma was alone, and their persistent demands for food so frightened her that she took to flight. When she returned with assistance, which was over a mile distant, they had left after taking everything eatable about the place. She was much chagrined to learn that she might have put them all to flight with a broom.

The Crops in Europe.

The calamities of Central and Eastern Europe seem likely to be supplemented by a season of dearth, consequent upon the unfavorable state of the crops. The Spanish harvest, though it is not expected to equal the average, is looking better than was at first anticipated, and Sicily, despite the recent devastating eruption, also makes a tolerable show. On the other hand, Northern Italy is in a very unpromising condition from the recent floods, and the same cause has done much mischief in Hungary, likewise. Russia, however, seems to be the most unfortunate. Along the whole northern coast of the Black Sea, from the Pruth to the Caucasus, corn-beetles and grasshoppers have made terrible havoc, their ravages being supplemented by several of those terrific hailstorms which are the curse of the Russian corn-lands in summer. The worst of these took place just ten years ago, in July, 1869, destroying 11,000 acres of magnificent corn in two hours and a half. Many of the hailstones were as large as tennis balls, and the noise of the fall was like the distant beating of countless drums. In one place the bodies of a number of wild fow were found literally pounded into the earth; and two or three men who failed to find shelter were so badly bruised as to be completely disabled for the time being. Curiously enough, the storm appeared to strike in alternate swaths, one field being sometimes untouched while the next was completely destroyed.

Dr. Cox Fy, a Chinese physician, of San Francisco, at a recent inquest in the case of a Chinaman, was asked, "How many lungs has a man?" He replied: "Seven." Dr. Cox Fy further stated that there are five holes in the human heart, and that the function of the heart is "to catch air."

One Word Covers the Advice.

Which should be given to nervous, slender, delicate persons—Invigorate! Sedatives, opiates, appetizers, are comparatively useless. The system must be built up with a genuine tonic in order to the recovery of vigor and tranquility by the nerves. A course, systematically pursued, of the leading invigorant, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, should be resorted to by those who suffer from weak nerves and general debility. The stomach, always more or less dyspeptic in cases of nervousness and loss of vitality, is toned and regulated by this medicine until the organs act with a precision akin to that of a steady-going piece of mechanism. Complete digestion and assimilation are, through the influence of the Bitters, followed by gain of vigor and flesh, and the disappearance of biliousness and irregularity of the bowels, where such exist, as they usually do. Appetite and sleep are then regained.

It costs but one cent to send a postal card to the Mason and Hamlin Organ Co., Boston, New York or Chicago, who will return, postage paid, their catalogues and circulars, with much information about organs. No one should buy an organ without seeing these.

Everybody knows that so long as there is a proud flesh in a sore or wound it will not heal. The obstacle is speedily removed and the flesh reunited by Henry's Carbolic Salve, the finest emollient in existence of that supreme purifier, carbolic acid. Its emollient ingredients modify its pungent acid basis, so that it never cauterizes, stings or scorches the diseased part. Sores and eruptions of all kinds are cured by it. All druggists sell it.

Indian Depredations.

The fair reader shudders when she thinks of the settler's wife watching, from the door of her rude hut, the retreating form of her husband going out to his daily labor—going out perhaps to return not again, for before nightfall a savage hand may have laid him low among the prairie grasses. Or it may be a child, a bright-eyed daughter, is snatched away in an unguarded moment, to grace the next war dance. When we read the heartrending details of these savage depredations, we are not to blame the government for not taking more strict precautions to insure the settler's protection. But we daily read of the depredations of that arch-fiend, consumption, with scarcely a thought of the terrible inroads it is making in human life. Tens of thousands of homes are annually desolated by consumption to one by Indian outrage. Like the Indian, consumption often comes stealthily, and no danger is apprehended until the victim suddenly finds himself hopelessly ensnared, and death's fatal arrow ends the scene. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a powerful alternative, or blood purifier and tonic, has restored thousands of consumptives who had tried every other remedy recommended to them, without obtaining any relief, and are willing to testify to its beneficial power.

For coughs and throat disorders, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having tested their efficiency by a test of many years. Twenty-five cents a box.
