CARLETON PLACE.
Wednesday, Nov. 23rd, 1864.

We are happy to be able to inform our numerous readers, that the circulation of

We publish, to-day, a synopsis of the new constitution framed at the late conference in Quebec. Some of the newspapers which have published it, claim that it is genuine, others deny its authenticity. We are not in a position to decide which are correct; nor are we prepared to say whether or not its adoption will be for the good of the country. At all events, there is no harm in discussing the question fully, in all its bearings, and we shall be happy to give publicity to the views of any of our readers who may feel inclined to express their opinions. We publish, to-day, a letter from a correspondent who takes strong ground against the scheme as it appears at present. We think it will be easier for them to form a correct opinion when the policy of the government is more fully developed. In the mean time we observe that every Atlantic mail steamer, now, brings fresh English opinions as to the propriety of to be confronted with the strong circumstantial evidence of his guilt, and his conviction by an impartial jury, after a trial—the fairness of which the prisoner, himself, acknowledged—altogether presents a spectacle that should prove a terror to evil doers and a satisfaction to honest men. The English, therefore, may well be excused, if they pride themselves on these things, for happy and prosperous must be the land where law is so powerful to maintain order.

The death of Mr. James Leech, of the "London Punch," is a great loss to the editorial staff of that paper, with which he has been connected for over twenty years. The London correspondent of the "Globe" pays him a just tribute. In referring to his ability, he asks—How delicate was his satire; how bonnie were his English girls; how charming his children; how admirably he hit off all the peculiarities and changes treated him. For years past he had scarcely ever been seen to smile, thus adding another example to the many on record of the "frown of the great." But he was not these humourists, too, do not get through their work as easily as might be expected. Tom Moore spent many weary hours over some of the shiestest of his poems, and he was never at ease at his funny dialogues nor him infinite pains. Yesterday John Leech was buried in Kensal Green cemetery, almost by the side of his departed friend Thackeray, only a little distance from the "graveyard of the poor" places. The scene was one of real grief. There was not a dry eye in the crowd, and even the clergyman's voice was at times rendered almost inaudible by his emotion. The funeral cortege included the aristocrat present; but the throng included those whom Leech loved best—authors and men of letters, his own colleagues of the press, and almost every artist of celebrity. On the whole, the child's death seems to have been held at his house. No nothing remains for the children whom he loved but to plant flowers on his grave.

ment will meet on the seventeenth of January, for the despatch of business. The confederation question will probably be fully discussed and the session may be expected to be an interesting one.

Mr. Abraham Farwell, of Oshawa, has, in reply to numerous solicitations, expressed his willingness to be a candidate for the representation of the South Riding of Ontario, if such should be the desire of the Liberal party in the constituency.

It is very much to be regretted that religious differences are carried to such an extent as they are in Canada. All lovers of their country have heard with regret of what has lately taken place in Toronto, on the 5th of November, between the Fenians and the Orangemen. The trouble is not yet over. It appears that the Fenians have demanded from the city authorities the numerous pikes taken from one of their number by the police. Sergeant-Major McDowell, the officer in charge of the police who seized the pikes in McGuire's house, was served with a lawyer's letter informing him that unless the pikes were at once returned to McGuire an action would be brought against him for the recovery of them. McDowell cannot comply with the demand, as the weapons are in the hands of the authorities of the city, by whom, no doubt, they will be re-

Upper Ottawa Correspondence.
The Brockville and Ottawa Railway is being steadily pushed forward, and, in a few days, it is expected the track will be laid to Arnprior. Some delay has been occasioned by the want of spikes, but they are now being made at Ottawa, and the work will now progress rapidly. It is said that as soon as the cars enter Arnprior, the people of Renfrew are to have a grand procession, with bands, a supper, and a ball. The delegates from the various Provinces were kept in a jolly state of excitement during their stay here, and imitating each other the examples are determined to celebrate the great railway approaching by feasting, drinking, singing and dancing. No thing like being merry these hard times; it makes the countenances of the harassed and woe-begone change their grim aspect for a time, and clothes the face in smiles. The cars are now being completed, and all they are now waiting for is the cars.

The Municipal Council of this Township has petitioned the County Council to keep open a road which has been travelled for thirty-four years, and which the Arr prior Council are about to block up. A new road has been made, and a good one, and I think the Township fathers of McNab are giving themselves unnecessary trouble for nothing.

PEMBROKE.

A good many trades are now in the Building Committee's hands for the completion of the County Buildings, backed by good securities, and it is to be hoped that this vexed question will now be finally settled. The Provisional Council is soon to meet, in order to give out the contract, as it is expected the buildings will be completed next summer. Then there will be a struggle for office. A Sheriff, Clerk of the Peace, a Clerk of the County Court, Deputy Clerk of

When real difficulties will arise and obstacles intervene, which no human foresight could prevent and no prognostications, however mature, could indicate. Besides all the difficulties which may arise to disturb the execution of the plan, there are certain ones under the aegis of the new constitution, the matter of expense must be taken into consideration. The expenses for the administration of the government and the same in the civil list, must be met out of the contribution to an enormous extent; and as all the expenses are to be defrayed by the general government, and by those sections of the Confederation which are most populous, Canada has to contribute more than any other of the federates. We are now deeply in debt, and federal parliaments, federal departments, and federal governors would not diminish our liabilities or decrease the taxes which our countrymen are obliged to pay in consequence. As a matter of necessity the expenditure must be trebled, and who is to pay this augmentation. The people of course. What people? The ratepayers of the cities, the proprietors of the land, the shareholders of the companies, the paid by would tend to assimilate the institutions of this country to those of the United States. Notwithstanding the ample details which are published and the voluminous character of the new constitution as adopted by the delegates, we are still of the opinion that the Bill as finally passed by the British Parliament, will be a legislative and not a federal union of all the colonies. If such a Bill were submitted to the people, it would receive the almost unanimous assent of the inhabitants of Canada, while that enforcing the federal principle would be almost unanimously condemned.

McNab, Resolved, That, whereas, at the last session of council, Mr. Bennet and Mr. Dogg were authorised to advertise the closing of the Bruley road, from Bennet's Corners to the government road, which they have done, but as a counter petition has been presented to this council, praying that the said Bruley road be kept open for the use of the public generally, we therefore, Resolve That the said Bruley road, from Bennet's Corners to the government road, as heretofore laid out, be still travelled and kept open.

—Carried.

Moved by Mr. McNab, seconded by Mr. Airth, Resolved, That this council do now adjourn for one hour.

In accordance with the adjournment the council do now meet again.

Present: the Reeve, Eady, Airth, McNab and Farrall.

Moved by Mr. Eady, seconded by Mr. Airth, Resolved, That this council do hereby call on Mr. James New and Mr. William Eady commissioners to procure cedar for the covering of a bridge at, or near, Mr. New's residence, the timber to be sound and good, and to be left on the ground, as the said council have granted the sum of six pounds for the same, the logs to be sixteen feet long.

was elected more because he was a Republican than because he was a member of the present Cabinet, or because he favored the policy of the administration. He is a man of the highest kind of integrity, and is well respected in some circles. When Mr. Bell was offered an office, it was a very generous tribute of respect which his constituents conferred on him by electing Mr. McDougal as his representative. It is a very gratifying acknowledgment that Mr. McDougal is a very worthy successor to Mr. Bell. For seventeen long years Mr. Bell has represented North Carolina, and not one of us has been given during that time the honor of being elected to the office of the interest of the party of which he was an adherent. This fact has been very greatly appreciated by the result of the contest. His retirement is a very wise move on the part of the party, and it is a very great thing beyond the range of possibility to secure the services of a representative whose career would be more free from political mistakes and inconsistencies which they imagine are going on the impulse of a moment of excitement, or may be there personal interest was involved. Of course this does not apply to

to help them to 'waken granny.' The huntsman, followed by another gentleman, examined the old woman, saw that she had fainted, and taking a flask from the other proceeded to rub her temples and hands with the liquor, and presently brought her to her senses. Having made her drink some of the spirits, the huntsman helped the old woman to her feet, slipped a handful of gold pieces into her withered palm, and went his way, followed by the 'gentleman' and the blessing of the poor old creature, whose delight, on learning that her benefactor was no other than the Emperor of Austria himself, may be easily imagined.

Headquarters, Army of the Potomac, Nov. 15. The rebels are lately been playing a game of hide-and-seek in front of our line near the Appomattox. At this point there is a small creek in front of our works, across which they have built a dam, which has threatened to force back our picket line to a dangerous extent. To counteract this movement, General Grant has ordered the line supervised personally. On visiting one part of the line on Sunday night a rebel sharp-shooter succeeded after several attempts in wounding him, the ball entering the right arm, passing down several inches and coming out at the elbow. The wound is painful, but not dangerous. He is very brave and is expected to live. He is to be held to-morrow on leave of twenty days, and it is to be hoped he will be able to return to his command by the time his furlough expires.

The Tribune's Washington special says, the report gains currency that Mr. Fessenden will be succeeded by R. J. Walker.

Secretary Stanton's illness is so severe his physicians have advised him to abandon his official anxieties.

The Times' Washington special says, Gen. Hancock has been temporarily relieved of his command and, on his own request, to attend to his wound.

Portland, Nov. 16.—The U. S. revenue cutter Mahon Webster, reports going into Casten last Sunday, at one p.m., and was fired upon by a battery, while two miles and half distant. One blank cartridge and two excellent live shots fell short. She had her colours flying. It was blowing a gale at 5th, and Fatham Hole on the morning of the 7th, for repairs. She had captured a bark and two schooners. Names unknown were reported.

 New York, Nov. 15th.—The Commoral's Washington special says later Richmond papers are received, and they show great anxiety concerning Sherman's movement. It is expected that the rebels are with Hood far in his rear, the reports showing that he has no fears for the rebel General's movement, but is prepared to carry out a new plan upon a gigantic scale. It is also expected that the rebels are carefully unprepared for this grand coup of Sherman, and they have perpetrated a great blunder in sending Hood to invade Tennessee.
 Johns, Nfld., November 15th.—The

 for Liverpool, passed Cape Race on Sunday.

and Thomas Williams were charged by Henry Grimm with larceny; and two others, Patrick O'Brien and Timothy McCarthy, were also charged with larceny by Hugh Ross, but were remanded until the following day. Three of the boys profess to have come from Ottawa, the other says he came from Montreal, and on one of the Ottawa boys (O'Brien) was found a variety of suspicious looking articles, a proof of his being so new hand at the business, although probably not more than fourteen years of age. This boy sold a revolver on the steamer "St. Helena" on his way up, the cartridges for which were found in his possession.

THIS OLD, time tried, standard remedy, still maintains its popularity. When all others have proved inefficient, the Syrup alone continues to give satisfaction.

TWENTY YEARS AGO this Syrup first made its appearance; and even then in its primitive and imperfect state produced such extraordinary results that it became, at once, a general favorite. Many have made it, what it really is, a FAMILY MEDICINE.
