Copose Increases.

While the chief protest from other cities has been against the proposed message charges which are not applicable here there is strong opposition here to increases of any kind. The former increase asked by the company was opposed vigorously by London along with other cities, but to no avail.

No action has been taken yet to protest to the rallway commissioners against the second increase being granted. Mayor Little thought the lack of success, which had attended the former effort of the municipalities, might discourage them from making a similar attempt this time.

Several aldermen, however, are determined that the city shall make a strong protest, and will raise the question at microal system was warmly indorsed by Philip Pocock, a member of the public utilities commission.

No Justification.

"I can see no justification or the increase whatever," he asserted. "They are most unreasonable. Why the cost of electrical apparatus is actually on the decline, so that certainly cannot be urged as a reason for these tremendous increases. They obtained an increase another. It is certainly a strong contrast to the hydro-electrical system, which has kept its rates down even in the face of the increased cost of materials. I certainly think it is up to the city council to protest.

"The establishment of a municipal system would be a good way of making the protest felt. The automatic exchange is the coming thing, and it would continued on Page Three.

C. N Beard, local manager for the company, stated today that this district would not be affected by the changes which are proposed for Toronto and other larger cities, whereby a charge will be made for each call over a stated minimum a day.

The new tariff of rates for exchange service are grouped. London is included in the third group, comprising exchanges having approximately 5,000 to changes having approximately 5,000 to changes having approximately 5,000 to group atton. Annual Session—New Officers Will Be Elected

Tomorrow Morning.

More than 250 delegates, representing practically every point in Western Ontario, has registered before noon today for the 36th annual session of the 1, O. F. High Court of Ontario, which is being held in this city today and Wednesday. The opening session was held in the Masonic Hall at 10 o'clock this morning, when the high court degree was conferred on a large number of delegates attending the court for the first time. High Chief Ranger John Laughton presided.

Because she happened to have two bottles each containing a small quantity of French brandy in a room adjoining her restaurant at 263 Wellington street, when Inspector J. B. Keenleyside and the police visited on August 4, Lucy Wilson was fined $200 and costs in police court today. Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon interpreted the law in the light that the sitting-room where the liquor was kept with a door leading to the restaurant was not a private dwelling under the meaning of the Ontario. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King Is Young London Bank Clerk Loses Life When Canoe

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Hon W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, is not overlooking his social duties, in the heat of his present political campaign in his own constituency of North York. The Star today tells how, last night, after he had addressed a meeting at King City, all the chairs were cleared away and the young people danced. According to one of the ladies present Mr. King "danced with every maiden in the hall."

The dead youth's relatives in London were notified of the drowning about noon, and immediately left for Port Stanley.

Someone asked the little girl, "Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how does your gargen manage to grow?" And Mary replied: "I've wondered about that myself. It has rained on an average of twice a day for the past three weeks—but I've a good crop of floating kidney beans"

Sees Greater Prosperity In Canada Than In U.S.

New York, Aug. 17.-By the Canadian Press.-The Wall Street Journal's Boston correspondent quotes a Boston banker, who has just returned from Canada, as follows: "Canada is getting strong, recovering by leaps and bounds from the depression caused by war. While unrest and lack of co-operation seem to be holding things back on this side of the border, the Dominion to the north faces an era of unprecedented activity and prosperity. One of the basic reasons for this brilliant comeback is the rich yield of the great northwestern wheat fields."

One of the most seriously injured citizens is Reeve George Richings, who in doing his duty at the town hall was beaten. Crown Attorney Cowper, who is himself injured, could not be located by telephone today, so it is not known what criminal action might be taken.

Criminal Proceedings.

There have been no criminal proceedings started this morning, but legal action is expected. A special meeting of the town council is necessary on account of the damage to the town hall, and as several thousand dollars of town funds had just been expended upon improving the structure, the affair is bound to receive municipal attention.

That lynching was to have been resorted to after the mauling given McNeal is shown by the finding of a noose already tied in the rope on the town flagpole. The eloquence of McNeal in his successful appeal to the mob last night was most remarkable. He concluded with these words: "Men. I'm through. I can't say more. I've been badly hurt, I'm weak. Women Are Holding Meeting
This Afternoon To Organize.

A meeting is being held this afternoon to organize a women's auxiliary in connection with the G. W. V. A. J. W. Cuffliffe, secretary of the G. W. V. A. stated to The Advertise; that there have been more than 200 applicants.

"By the end of the year," he said, "I expect there will be more than 500 women in the organization. Their aims and accomplishments will be practically the same as ours. Several returned nurses in the city have handed in their applications for membership, and think some of these will hold office."

It is thought that with the forming to of a women's auxiliary to work in conjunction with the soldiers, that several out-of-town branches of the G. W. V. A. will endeavor to form similar organizations.

To held this afternoon to of the yells from the outside of "Throw him down," and an occasional rumble of a stone or tin can on the dioor, McNeal quite calm and collected, made his first statement. "Say that I am innocent," he declared. "I never did that awful thing. I'm as innocent as you are. I always liked little Margaret and I left her at St. John's Church corner that afternoon." "Is there any truth in the seatement that you and Boucock had a row previously?"

Neighborly Spat.

Well, I had a little trouble with Roub; I'll not deny that, but it was only a neighborly kind of a spat."

When the suggested motive of revenge was mentioned as being out of the question as far as McNeal was concerned, he was most emphatic in fils manner, his remark being "Good God, man, could anyone let revenge set so far as to kill a baby?"

THOROLD TAKES M'NEAL JAIL: PRISONER'S PLEADINGS

David McNeal, and Police Driven From Burning Jail, Surrender To Crowd-Rope Prepared, But McNeal's Cry For Chance To Speak Is Heard—Crowd Listens and Hearts Soften.

Hearts Soften.

St. Catharines, Aug. 16.—Canadian commonsense and spirit of British fairplay tonight saved the life of David McNeal, who had been committed for trial during the afternoon at the town hall at Thorold on a charge of having murdered 4-year-old Margaret Boucock on July 13 last. The mob which clamored for possession of the prisoner numbered several thousand persons. The town hall was set afire after the prisoner and police officers had been smoked out. About 10 o'clock, when darkness had set in, the mob, which had grown to immense proportions, determined to get McNeal. and began to storm the town hall with bricks and stones. Before long every window in the newly-built building had been snattered, and then the mob attacked the doors.

McNeal and the police officers saved their lives by crouching in the corners and holding chairs in front of them, as yoleys of rocks swept through the building. At first several shots were and holding chairs in front of them, as yoleys of rocks swept through the building. At first several shots were fired out of the upper windows to frighten the crowd, but it did not hinder of men rushed a bundle of hay saturated with gasoline into the ground floor. Soon the flames burst out, and eventually the smoke and flames drove themen, who had been besieged since early afternoon, down the stairs and out.

Yells "We surrender."

"We surrender." the prisoner yelled, as he came down the stairs with Chief Frank Collins of Thorold, hanging to Frank Collins of Thorold, hanging to has elevation. A Buffalo reporter. Harold White, was just ahead of McNeal, and the McNeal was seized and rushed over in front of the town hall to an automobile. A rope taken from the town flag pole was run up a pole and preparations made to hang him.

He screamed for mercy while the mob howled like demons.

"Give him a chance," called someone and that met with popular approval. He screamed for mercy while the mob howled like demons.

"Men, if you are men, give me a chance to make a statement," cried the poor, bloodstained wretch. "It may be my ast words on earth."

Moved To Library.

McNeal and the crowd later moved to the public library steps, due to the council, finally submitted his report on the investigation conducted by that committee into the charges preferred by Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, now special officer under the authority of the license commission. Charges claimed rum-running, disorderly conduct, vice

Held Crowd at Bay.

After the courtroom had been cleared, of the Ontario police, Niagara Falls, held the angry crowd at bay at the stairway with drawn revolvers, while newspapermen and court attaches rubbed sore spots that had been received in the onslaught.

Crown Attorney Cowper, who had been hit by a flying chair, had a lump on his head and received first aid from a press reporter.

The tree companion, was ordered held on $2,000 bail for attempted rape. Arrests of the two men were made late last night by Officer Gordon Pillon of Sandwich police force. The men, according to the police, drove down to Sandwich with Mrs. Mary Lains, widow, and Mrs. Elsie Primo, divorcee, of Detroit drove into a sideroad and attacked the two women near the residence of Sheriff Anderson on Sunset avenue. Screams of the women awakened the sheriff, who summoned Constable Pillon.

World Conditions Are Affecting Market and Keeping Prices Firm.

Despite the recent heavy rains and bundance of pasture, butter prices for he future are most uncertain." said A. Silverwood in discussing the situation today with The Advertiser. He would not even venture a prediction as to what may happen to the market.

"World conditions vitally affect butter quotations," he said.

"The United States started buying sixty days ago, and these buyers are responsible for keeping up the price. The Americans did this by taking Canadian butter and offering a good price for it. The holdngs in the United States are far in arrears of the consumption, hence there is a certain amount of speculation in butter, and it is exceedingly difficult to guess at future prices.

"Then there is the sentimental effect," continued Mr. Silverwood, "and I am very sorry myself at present today with The Advertiser.

Neither would free access to Canada's pulpwood give the United States publishers cheaper or more abundant paper as had been claimed.

"The real question at issue," he said. "is not whether this material ris not wnether this material shall be available for the use of the United States publishers, but whether the material cut from these lands shall go in the form of raw pulpwood to the United States or shall be put through the form of raw pulpwood to the United States or shall be put through at least one stage of manufacture in Canada. On the present basis, as has been shown, at least a high percentage of this material, so far as it is being cut, already goes to the United States in one form or another, together with a very high percentage of the unmanufactured product from the lands not in dispute as well, throughout Eastern Canada. Therefore, without a very heavy increase in the rate of cutting, involving the destruction of the supply, any relief to the United States publishers from this means would be impossible."

A speech delivered in the Quebec Legislature by Premier Parent in 1903 was quoted to show the wide variance existing between estimates of Quebec's pulpwood resources in those days and what is known actually to exist today. Premier Parent had stated that Quebec's pulpwood resources were sufficient to United States or shall be put pulpwood resources were sufficient to last for 4.000 years at the rate of consumption then in force, while today, the best-informed expert opinion places the possible duration at not more than 50 years, unless reforestation is undertaken immediately on a comprehensive scale. The change had been brought about by increased consumption and losses from fires and other destructive losses from fires and other destructive agencies. Quebec's pulpwood is now being consumed at the rate of over a million cords a year, the amount steadily increasing. Pulp mills which formerly had their raw materials at their doors now have to go back many miles into the forests, their log drives taking sometimes two to three years to aking sometimes two to three years to Grossly exaggerated statements as to

GREAT OUTING Criticizes Recent Visit Made Mocha Temple Patrol and Band Will Be There.

SHRINERS PLAN

Band Will Be There.

Detroit, Aug. 17.—America's labor problem is not with the men who toil, but with the soft-handed men who do no useful work. Rev. M S. Rice told the Shriners' picnic August 25 at Stratford, and wearers of the red fez from all over the province are expected to attend. London will send a large crowd of merrymakers for the fun, and Mocha patrol and band will be on hand to provide extra entertainment.

Noble John Stevenson, mavor of Stratford and illustrious potentate of Mocha Temple, will direct the festivities, assisted by members of the Far-Qua Club of Shriners of the Classic City, of which Charles Farquharson is president. The outing will be staged in Victoria Park, and all nobles with ladies and children are invited, on condition that they leave their money at home for the day.

"London will have to appropriate money for storm sewers or else pave streets on which there are car tracks, streets on which there are car tracks, if we are to do any paving at all next years," City Engineer H. A. Brazier declared today. "We have got along this year all right because there are some streets we should go ahead with. but next year we should commence on those streets where it is intended to lay storm sewers. We can do no paving till these are laid, and if we leave them the only main thoroughfares left will be those on which the street cars run."

Many men and women of St. Marys had and had the perfect confidence of his anty, he asserted. He compared the Liberal members of the new party to Lord Ullin's daughter, with the irate troubled waters. Then mixing his metaphors slightly, he declared that the young Lochinvar "out of the west" who had carried away the "daughter" was quite capable of taking care of her.

Meighen Avoids Politics.

Premier Meighen carefully avoided politics. "Very often it has been my task to address audiences of my fellow-citizens under many circumstances, but so different is this occasion from any in my experience, and profoundly must I, no matter how hardened, be moved by what has been said and done, that emotion becomes stronger than words and performance of this duty becomes next to impossible," he said in replying to the numerous congratulatory addresses to him.

"When I was asked some weeks ago by the mayor of St. Marys to accept at your hands a reception in my native town. I had no thought that anything of the magnitude of this event was in your minds. something commendable don't hesitate to tell him. You don't fail to tell him when he does something you don't like. It is only fair to make it work both ways," he declared. Referring to the premier's recent speech, in which he attributed much of his success to the inspiration he received from his present home town, Portage la Prairie, he declared this was not the case, and that the most important event in his life had taken place when he was born at St. Marys.

his home town and his new home, Portage la Prairie.

Fortage la Prairie.

His success was attributable no less to his sterling qualities than to the general qualities of the people of the district where he was born. He declared that if in the premier's school days a vote had been taken amongst his playmates as to which of them would one day be premier of the Dominion there was not the slightest doubt that they would have named Arthur Meighen. The premier owed something to these former schoolmates, he said, as it was because of the interaction among them that his splendid qualities had been developed.

Schoolmates Proud of Him. Schoolmates Proud of Him. Rev. Father Egan said that among

General Joseph Okolowicz of Montreal, who has just returned from Washington, where he has been conferring with other present and the future, they could have no higher ideal than the present premier, who could not help but be an incentive to them. Even if in the future the schools of the town should send out another premier there could be none worthier.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—That the operation of the adolescent school attendance act would be postponed, was the prediction made this afternoon by Hon. R. H. Grant minister of education. This act, which calls for the compulsory attendance at school of adolescents from fourteen years to sixteen, as from September 1, 1921, and, in certain cases, of those between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years, from September 1, 1923, was made law by the lieutenant-governor a short time ago.

"It is not likely that the act will come into operation at the time set," stated Hon. Mr. Grant, "in fact, I think that the time limit will have to be extended because the municipalities are not prepared, and evidently will not be prepared. We will probably give them a further time, perhaps six months, and we will then expect them to be prepared to enforce the act."

No difficulty is expected in regard to the attendance of adolescents between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years, from September, 1923, was made law by the lieutenant-governor a short time ago.

KING VS. PUT-OFF. The Toronto Globe, which has not particularly been supporting the Liberal party and Mr. King, declares in its leading editorial of yesterday that the tariff question is the issue of the coming election. It denounces the high protection policy of Mr. Meighen as unjust. especially to the farming population of Canada and therefore injurious to Canada's national interests in these days when we need more people on the farms and greater production of food. The Globe and all moderate thinking, public-spirited citizens will welcome, then, the declaration of Mr. King for substantial tariff

This is in accordance with the Liberal party's platform drawn up last August, and Mr. King means what he says. There is a sort of conspiracy to spread the idea that Liberalism in Canada has become since 1900 only a synonym for Toryism. Sir Wilfrid is represented as a successor of Sir John Macdonald in carrying on the National Policy to the profit of the Big Interests. Farmers and labor men are urged to regard Conservative and Liberal as twins that look alike except for the names, and are told that the Liberal party is practically protectionist. But what are the facts? Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced the British preference, a great relief to the Canadian consumer, denounced at the time of its initiation as a ruinous blow to Canadian industry. That was no small matter, as the Tory leaders emphasized at the time. And now Liberalism proposes to place on the free list a number of articles required for consumption and for production. Mr. King makes it perfectly clear that a tariff will still be needed for years to come in order to meet Canada's financial needs, but he promises in no equivocal terms that there will be a very considerable reduction along the lines definitely specified by the Liberal platform. "It will be a tariff for consumers and producers and not a tariff to further the interests of combines, monopolies, or any special or privileged classes."

On the other hand what is Mr. Meighen proposing to do? What does the "National" Tory Government offer the country? As Mr. King points out in his great speech at Toronto, kindergarten debating society, where in the absence of constructive thought and ideas the most obvious platitudes are made to serve the purposes of national policies." The old talk of adequate protection is kept up, with more talk of inquiry by commission. "Neither Mr. Meighen nor his Government has any views as to the means to be taken toward our financial ends." Only this is clear that he serves the purposes of profiteers and neither practices administrative economy nor holds out any promise of relief to the burdened consumer.

Mr/ King speaks on the tariff and taxation the same clear word to west, east and centre Air and the Liberal policy is defined, explicit and detailed. It is one of moderate protection where needed, of relaxation in many particulars for consumption and production. The Liberal leader is strong for direct taxation in certain forms to supplement the revenue from tariff in paying off our debts and developing our resources. Frankly and fearlessly he declared that "more and more should the revenues of the country be derived from direct taxation, and profits that have been made during the war should be the first wealth to be taxed." Returned soldiers will heartily indorse this view and Mr. King's close attention in general to their special needs and the pronounced liberality of his ideas on reconstruction. The Government was deservedly castigated for its protection of profiteers against even the mild inquiries of its own hand-made Board of Commerce. Why is no investigation proposed of Mr. Murdock's open charges? Mr. Meighen should be fe-christened Premier Put-off. He puts off any party convention of the so-called Nationals; it might not be healthy. He puts off specific and detailed pronouncement on the tariff. He puts off the date for the liquor referendum vote in Ontario, in spite of his written word. He puts off the work of the Board of Commerce, and most tyrannical delay of all, he puts off both the writs for by-elections and the general election that the whole nation demands. Amidst his usurpation of power, his Government spends money on increased police, evincing a fear of rioting or even uprising against unconstitutional government. Canadians are having a splendid chance to compare and judge between the two leaders, both presenting their case to the public. Look on this picture and on that. One speaks for the forces of privilege, plunder and menacing tyranny. The other speaks for the permanent principles of Liberalism, fairness, freedom and equal opportunity for all.

THE RED MENACE. .

perhaps it explains to a large extent the Bolshevist defiance of the Allies, Trotzky, the Red war minister, who was one of the leading figures of the congress, knows well that if his forces can take Warsaw it will provide a magnificent position from which to throw the torch of disorder into western Europe. Let us not be mistaken about this matter. Lenin has re-peatedly stated that he will wherever he gets the chance destroy utterly the present social and political system the world over. He will put on other nations the same bloody and degrading rule he has compelled Russia to accept. Writing to this paper on the Russ-Polish crises an Advertiser correspondent says:

The latest war news in the papers should set the most careless reader thinking. The bare suggestion that Canadians may be called upon to fight the new Russian Republica seems as ridiculous as it is wicked, but unless "the common sense of most" asserts it-self quickly, our people may suddenly find themselves committed to what is surely a ening of our own national vitality through continued bloodshed, besides the sin of attacking a people with whom we are not at warselves from the most brutal rule in history sides by enemies-namely, the landlords and the class who drew huge profits from the econ along with Czardom-all the standardized stories and every hoary calumny, which has done duty against fundamental reforms through system—but because the soul of Russia was sound, even though her poor body was in desperate straits with many disabilities, she the Poles, aided by the Allies, and urged on offensive." which also has-so far-failed.

Now it seems we may be asked to send our Canadian boys over to have a try at the dastardly job Peradventure they may su in destroying the democracy, which has vived in spite of French help, American fliers and £56,000,000 sterling, which the English Government admits having spent in equipping the Poles. Surely there is work more worth hope there is enough manhood and woma in Canada, and especially in the ranks of Labor to resist to the uttermost. Let us sound the slogan "Hands Off Russia" all over Poland, despite the explicit and repeated warning of the Allies, embarked on an mperialistic adventure at Russia's expense. ceiving today. But it is not true that Great Britain, the United States and France have been aiding Poland with the object of destroying Russian democracy. To speak of Soviet Russia as a "democracy" is nonsense. The one representative parliament that Russia has had was destroyed by Lenin the moment he discovered that he and his outlaw gang would not be in control. Today Russia is ruled by an autocracy more iron and brutal than any that prevailed under czarism. And it is this rule that Lenin hopes to spread rapidly through Europe with Warsaw as a jumping off place.

Soviet Russia stands openly for destruction as a preliminary to the establishment of its system and holds that any brutality is justified | says all that. that that end may be attained. Canada is not going to mix in with the Russ-Polish struggle, but if any Canadian desires to take part in the new war we cannot imagine his being better employed than in helping to halt the march on presently, apparently refreshed. western Europe and the new world of the Russian Bolshevist with his hateful doctrine of discontent, disorder and ruin.

GREAT BRITAIN'S FINANCES.

Mr. Austin Chamberlain, the chancellor of the exchequer, is optimistic as to Britain's finances. It is clear, he says, that it will not be long before the great burden of the debt has been wiped out. He declares: "We have made gigantic reductions. and I shall be deeply disappointed and greatly surprised if we are not able to make large reductions again when we come to frame the estimates for next year."

"The gross national debt instead of growing larger and larger, has been reduced by two hundred millions." This means approximately billion dollars.

After referring to Great Britain's financial ccomplishments he looked to the future with hope and confidence and felt more certain than at any time in his life that Great Britain could hold its own in finance, in commerce and in industry. "So," he added, "we have been tried in the balance and not found wanting. Our resources in the great war were the backbone of the alliance which brought victory to liberty

The governor of the Bank of England stated their object was to regain the gold standard, and they were bending every effort towards that end, and Mr. McKenna said, "The governor of the Bank of England had referred to the return of the gold standard. We should recover the gold standard automatically when oru exports exceeded our imports, or in other words, when the energies of the industry of this country could be devoted to the manufacture of exports to send abroad instead of to the manuacture of goods to be consumed at home."

Altogether the chancellor was quite optimistic and left the impression that those in charge of Great Britain's finances would prove as successful fighters as her soldiers in the

And one day she told it, and she went, and she came back, seeming more satisfied, and a day or two afterward there came a gentleman who looked like a lawyer, and he stopped a day or two, and he came again and again, until one day she came to me and she says: You don't know what that gentleman is that's come so much lately?' she says. 'Not I,' I says, 'unless he's after you,' 'After me!' she says, tossing her head. 'That's the gentleman that ought to have married my poor sister if that scoundrel Maitland hadn't tricked her into throwing him over!' 'You don't say so? I says. 'Then by rights he ought to have been the child's pa.' 'He's going to be a father to the boy,' she says. First knowledge of the sect was reported about the middle of the eighteenth century. By 1840 they had become so numerous as to disturb the authorities of the Russian Church, and when they then refused to participate in military service the czar banished them from Taupris to Transcaucasia, near the Turkish frontier. In the course of half a century they had converted the wild country into flourishing colonies and had made friends of the warlike hillmen.

Film Destroys Teeth

That slimy film which you feel on your teeth causes most tooth troubles. Every modern dentist knows that. Dental science, for many years, has sought a way to end it. That film is what discolors, not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. So the major object in cleanig teeth is to keep them free from film.

Old-time methods fail to do that. Teeth still discolor, still decay, as millions of people know. The reason is that brushing does not end the film. The film is clinging. It gets between the teeth, enters crevices and stays. Day and night, month after month, it is a potential source of danger.

Now a Way to End It

Science now has found a way to end it. Five years of tests have proved this. The way is now embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. And we urge you to see Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

But pepsin must be activated, and the usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed barred. But science has now found a harmless activating method. It is made use of in Pepsodent. Now millions of teeth are daily cleaned as they never were before. Try the method ten days on yours.

Send this coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Use like any tooth paste. Note how clean your teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. HOME ECONOMICS

Now that the price of olive oil has gone skyrocketing out of reach for most of us, we have returned to the boiled dressing of an older day. Or we have learned to economize oil by using it only in French dressing instead of in our beloved mayonnaise. Some of us even have learned that cream may be used instead of oil in marinating meat and vinegar in the proportion of two of oil and one of vinegar, or for people who dike oil, three of oil to two of vinegar, thoroughly beaten with a fork, seasoned with salt and pepper, and, if desired, onion juice or celery salt. Cream may be used to replace the oil in this dressing, or melted butter. Only enough dressing should be used in marinating to spread the flavor all through the salad; ingredients should not be soaked in dressing and allowed to become soggy and mesy.

For boiled dressing, mix a tablespoonful of cornstarch with a teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and mustard. Add cayenne to taste. Stir in either one whole egg, or the yolks of two eggs, a cup of cold milk, and quarter of a cup of vinegar, and a tablespoonful of melted butter or crisco. Heat slowly, stirring constantly until thickened; whip while still hot with a Dover egg-beater until smooth and light.

Potato Salad—Cut two cups of cold boiled potatoes into half-inch dice, and marinate for an hour. Cut two hardboiled eggs into dice, and place with the diced potatoes in piles on lettuce leaves, just before serving. Serve with boiled dressing.

Stanley, aged fourteen, and his sister. Dorothy, aged thirteen, graduated in the same class from grammar school Stanley had dropped back a year because of an attack of St. Vitus' dance, from which he had made a perfect recovery in the usual time, under the regular observation and care of the family doctor. He was a fine type of boy and his sister was a bright, healthy girl with fine prospects. Their parents girl with fine prospects. Their parents were justly proud of them and meant to give them the best of educations each in his own preferred direction. They had attended the best school in a city of 200,000 population. Yet

Nearly ten minutes later two automobiles came along. In one was a man and his wife and children. The man and his wife and children. The man heard the cries of the people on the landing and being a swimmer he promptly dived and brought up Dorothy's body. In the class was one boy who had been trained as a Boy Scout to administer first aid to the drowned. And it seemed that no one else in the little party, not even the teachers, could swim. A pretty state of affairs, for presumably educated people.

Well, Stanley plunged in to the rescue of his sister, like the little man he was. He even reached her side and endeavored to support her. But in the struggle she clasped him about the neck, and while everybody screamed and bustled about on the landing in the settling gloom, Dorothy and Stanley drowned—not ten feet from the shore.

Part One.

Rocks was a small puppy—not more than six months old. His life had not been an adventurous one, and he wished something would happen to make it worth while.

"Just you wait your turn," his mother told him. "Something will happen to you some day. You won't always be shut up here with me in this run. Soon you'll be old enough so that you won't run away when you are let out, and then our master will let us both run free."

What a wise collie Rocks' mother was! That very day their master decided that they had been shut up long enough, and that the garden was too far advanced for them to do any harm to it, so he opened wide the gate and freed the dogs. How Rocks and his mother did play about the yard. At first Rocks had an inclination to run away, but when he thought of the supper he might miss, he decided it was best to stay. DYSPEPTIC DIET NO LONGER NECESSARY The old plan of prescribing strict diet no longer popular among progressive medical men partly because of its weakening effect, but mostly because of the discovery that nearly all stomach trouble is due to excessive acidity. The organs of digestion are themselves all organs of digestion are themselves all right, but acids in the stomach irritate and inflame the delicate stomach lining and cause sourness and premature food fermentation. The logical treatment, therefore, is to get rid of the acid, when natural painless digestion will follow. For this purpose a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little material stress the acid store the features. tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water neutralizes the acid, stops the fermentation of the food, dispels the gas, and thus permits the stomach to proceed with its work without hindrance. Owing to its prompt and certain action Bisurated Magnesia, which is obtainable from any druggist, in either tablet or powder form, should always be used in preference to the other forms of magnesia, such as the milks, citrates, carbonates or oxides. Stomach sufferers are advised to try this plan for three weeks and note results.—Advt.

MINT PATTER

Morrisette said yesterday "I have nothing to conceal—not even a baseball bat." He didn't.

O'Hearne was working, too, but the hits show that the umps didn't have anything to do with it. Most of the fans think now that Morrisette will spend the rest of his days posing for dental ads.

You can take it either way—that it's the teeth or above 'em. It works either way and they're both

Bill Kuhn was the big hitter of the piece yesterday. He got three out of four times up. If the ap-parently slow-moving first sacker could only unbend a little more after grounders he would be one

The Beavers had little luck yes-terday. McCallum allowing just six-teen hits. Babe Dye batted 1000 in four trips to the plate, showing that the amateur phenom is getting

Those silk shirts the Beavers got for getting into the first division must be worn to ribbons by now.

Brantford, with the chances of selling at least three players this year, will make a good season of it. London is about the only place where the gate alone will make returns look like the mint issue. A Cub scout looked over Estelle yesterday in one of his best cames.

If President Maines watched the game yesterday he must have had a warm tingling sensation in the vicinity of the ears.

It's possible that he takes the assault as one for the civil courts to look after. That's the principle that lets a mad dog bite everybody while they wait for a policeman. Anyhow, if Morrisette was parading in his true colors when he donned a colored bathrobe any number of London fans are willing they can guess the color on two guesses.

The detectives who were on the trail afterwards could find no small scales, so it is deducted that the Frenchman didn't weigh his bat.

A lot's been deducted from the little affair—but nothing from Morrisonals.

Now, Kearns and Dempsey have received Mr. Cochran's offer of £50,000 for their end of a Carpentier-Dempsey purse. The Miske-Dempsey bout is being staged by Floyd Fitzsimmons, wo on the Benny Leonard-Charley on the Belly Dempsey is being guaranteed $50,000. The bout is Miske's first in over a year. He went the limit twice with Dempsey before the latter won the championship. An Old Discovery.

When Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, was asked what he chiefly attributed his ring success to, he smiled and replied: "My success is founded on the advice I always give to youngsters who strive to become champions. 'Don't be afraid to hit. Hit with both hands, and hit anywhere except below the belt, but hit. hit. Hit with both hands, and hit anywhere except below the belt, but hit. If the referee orders you to break clean do it as well as the other fellow will let you, but don't forget to hit him if he gives you the chance. If the crowd rides you, hit him again."

After all, there are two really important points in boxing. One is to hit and the other is to keep from being hit; but if you hit your opponent more and harder than he hits you you are almost bound to win.

FUNCTIONS OF WATER IN PLANT GROWTH.

1. It gives strength and form to the balloon-like cells of which plants are composed, by keeping them fully distended.

2. It serves as food. Its elements 2. It serves as food. Its elements, hydrogen and oxygen, are separated and built into the structure of the plant tissues; and, in addition, water as such is an essential constituent of many plant materials. Water and its elements make up about 50 per cent of the dry weight green weight.

3. Water dissolves plant-food in the soil and carries it into the plant. It also distributes the elaborate materials in the plant to the part where they are

4. By evaporation the plant is protected somewhat against the temperatures high enough to cause injury to its delicate tissues.—Cornell University.

Wall Street Journal Tells of Ferdinand Ward's Career.

PARTNER OF GEN. GRANT

His Failure in Early Eighties Was Followed by Sensational Trial.

New York, Aug. 16.—By Canadian Press.—Referring to Charles Ponzi of Boston, the latest "get-rich-quick" wizard, the Wall Street Journal recalls wizard, the Wall Street Journal recalls the career of another "wizard" of earlier days, Ferdinand Ward, who startled Wall street in the early eighties, became the partner in business of Gen. Grant, formerly president of the United States, and was later the defendant in a sensational trial for fraud. His failure ruined the Grant family. The Journal gives this sketch of Ward:

There came to New York in 1877 a pale, slim young man, who introduced

He explained to the general and to young Grant that the day before Mr. Tappan, the city chamberlain, had drawn on the Marine Bank, which the bank held on deposit for the city. Mr. Ward further stated that it would be necessary to the control of the city.

A peculiar fact about the silkworm is that it is actually a domesticated insect. Neither the animals nor the fowls in the barnyard, remote as they are from the wild types, need so little restraint as this creature, which, prodigiously industrious as it may be, has never been ale to meet the world's demand for its spun-product. As a matter of fact, the silkworm has been so domesticated that it would become extinct now were it not for the aid of man. not for the aid of man.

A curious circumstance in connection with the feeding of the worms lies in their periods of diet. For instances, just after they have been hatched the little creatures will eat for a space of five days, this being followed by a sleep of two days. Later another change comes in their feeding habits. When they awake their appetites are not so keen inasmuch as they will, generally speaking, eat for four days only and then sleep for one.

animals did he invade and overrum other parts of the old world, and more recently the new world. This theory is believed to apply also to many species of the lower animals now generally distributed.

Assuming this surmise to be correct, the scientific investigators hold that it is useless to look for the first fossil ancestor of man, in the earlier stages of his evolution from the ape, in hamerica, or even in Europe. They believe the most promising field for such discoveries will be in the regions nearest to the centre of evolution and dispersal, that is, in time interior of China and westward through Tibet and Turkestan to the shores of the Caspian Sea. All this part of Asia is practically unexplored for fossils.

Upon the attainment of their full size and strength the worms proceed with the spinning of their cocoons, a task that consumes from four to seven days. The spinning having been acomplished, the worm turns its attention to the business of stripping the cocoon, and about a week later each little cultivator is ready with its silken harvest. The harvests of all, duly gathered, go to make up the bales of the native Chinese traders.

GERM OF YELLOW FEVER DISCOVERED BY JAP DOCTOR

Not a Single Case in Ecuadorian Capital Has Developed

Since Last May.

Has Hindered the Fight.

New York, Aug. 16.—That the germ of yellow fever has been discovered and that a serum has been evolved which will rid the world of that terble plague is the growing conviction of scientists. But, with a conservatism that leaves nothing to chance, their dislike for anything that smacks of sensationalism and a fear that something untoward may happen, they are withholding any positive assertion that this wonderful thing has been done.

Not since Shibasaburo Kitazato discovered the germ of the bubonic plague in 1894 and stamped out that dread disease, which had claimed millions of human lives, has medical science made the first of the more important stores of the and of the more individual small, is directly traceable to the influence of the women's clothing in all of the more important stores of the same and small, is directly traceable to the influence of the women's winderful the world of that terble plague is the growing conviction of scientists. HAS HIS UP AND DOWNS.

Washington, Aug. 16.—The world's championship for straight up-and-down traveling is claimed by James B. Evans, for 32 years elevator operator at the Washington monument. He figures he has covered 50,000 miles, and says he is going to double it before he quits.

RECESS OF COURTS IS SLOWING UP WAR ON THE PROFITEERS

Attorney-General Figg Denies That Politics Has Hindered the Fight.

Kitazato, the hero of the war against yellow fever, is a Japanese, Dr. Hideo Noguchi, bacteriologist of the Rocke-yellow fever, is a Japanese, Dr. Hideo Noguchi, bacteriologist of the Rockefeller Institute.

There is a close analogy between Kitazato's refusal to announce to the world that he had conquered the bubonic plague until long after he had succeeded, and the position taken by Dr. Noguchi. The latter does not assert that he has discovered the inciting germ of yellow fever, but says he wishes to test his results in Guayaquil. Ecuador, by further investigation in other plague centres.

But the outstanding fact is that whereas eighty-one cases had been reported in Guayaquil during November last year, eighty-eight in December and eighty-five in January of this year, while the control work was being organized there, the number dropped to forty-three in February, seventeen in March, three in April, two in May and none in June, with not a single case "e-"

Numerous special sales of the summer are traceable to the activity of the department of justice, started soon after President Wilson delivered his cost of living message to congress. Mr. Figg claimed this campaign has been largely educational, but there has been also criminal procedure against profiteers.

"Prosecution of the profiteer," he explained "is not a tremendous factor in keeping down prices. It eliminates a few unconscionable dealers from the trade. The main thing is keeping the public agitated on the need for practicing economy. That has been done effectively.

"The recent nation-wide slashing of the same period by 30 per cent. In 1914 it amounted to $210.000,000,000 and $400.000,000,000.

"The recent nation-wide slashing of 1914 America owed Europe $10,000,000,

Mr. Figg contends that the sugar prices have been broken. He secured the aid of New York financiers in bringing to the United States several thousand tons of Argentine sugar to be sold at 21 cents. This is now arriving. That sugar prices were held down and the public saved millions of dollars through the price agreement reached on the Louisiana crop is the contention of the department of justice.

MAYOR WINTER MAKES DISCOVERY

WINDSOR, Aug. 16.—Special investigations by Mayor Winter of Windsor, one of seven appointed by Western Ontario municipalities, to probe the natural gas supply question, were concluded tonight, when he learned that two companies in Wallaceburg, alone, Wallaceburg Glass Company and Wallaceburg Sugar Refineries, consumed $80,000,000 cubic feet of gas annually, which, added to other industrial concerns in the area affected, totals 1,276,000,000 cubic feet for all manufacturing plants given special permission by the Government to use this fuel. Windsor during the past year used but 1,759,233,000 for domestic consumption.

much in favor of corporal punishment. This gentleman says that the pupils' spelling and arithmetic are much improved by the fear of the blue beech. His experience of the effectiveness of stimulating the brain by the mechanical application of pain to the skin is analogous to the experience of the Russian convict prisons, where the science of corporal punishment was brought to such a high state of perfection that by simply increasing the suffering produced to the necessary degree of severity, it was found possible to make the men do just what was wanted. In some cases the number of strokes necessary to produce the desired effect was so high that the men selfishly expired before they had completed their punishment; but this difficulty was overcome by the ingenuity of the prison officials, who adopted the practice of not giving more than one thousand strokes at one time, then waiting for the wounds to heal up before inflicting the remainder of the punishment.

The question remains, however, whet there the desired effect cannot be produced by more intelligent methods. The question remains, however, whet there the desired effect cannot be produced by more intelligent methods. Certainly many countries get as good and better results without resorting to corporal punishment. In fact, some prison governors, like Mr. Osborne, actually declare that the more you treat a criminal as if he was a man, and not a beast, the better results you will get. Many people aver that the old methods of treating the convict neither benefit him nor anyone else; that he only becomes worse. Is it not probable that in the case of children the ultimate effect is the same? True, the convict can be forced to obey in this manner, and the children as our "educationist" points out, can be made to spell, but the "blue beech" has very many other effects which are not so desirable. It affects the mental attitude of the pupil towards his teachers; it affects the general morale and self-respect of the whole school. I have seen children who are more distressed and ashaned if one of their number is whipped than they would be if they received the punishment themselves.

ness. He says that if a horse is a regular demon it is because someone has made him a demon. He says that a horse will reflect accurately the character of his driver or trainer.

May not all this be true as regards boys and girls? A boy may be an incorrigible scamp, and the law deals with him as such. It does not ask how he got that way. If we were to make careful inquiries, we would find that either his parents, his teachers, his companions, or the magistrate, were more to blame

If the most refractory horse can be cured by intelligent kindness, cannot a refractory child be cured in the same way. Few people can exercise such ability with horses or dogs, and not every well-intentioned man can do the some with a boy. That is why children's courts are so necessary. Abstract justice is not enough. You may treat a boy with kindness, but if the real or higher self is invisible to you, and you horse inevitably becomes what his trainer and others believe him to be, even if they do give him sugar.

I simply don't believe in the incorrigibility of boys, who, after being let off, start stealing again. We don't treat them with true sympathy or intelligence, and so they go from bad to worse. We imagine that if we send them to the Sunday school and read them a story about King Eglon, or Nebuchadnezzar, or Jehosaphat, that they will reform. It never enters our stupid heads that if we were to read them stories like "Ishmael," or Canon Farrar's or Dickens's, or any book that presents a vivid and, high ideal of manhood, it would do a thousand times more good than all this Bible stuff, and yet wall admit the frequently fatal effect of the dime novel What was the secret of Judge Lindsay's marvelous success in reforming these "terrible young criminals" many a time with just a few kind, blunt words? AT LOEW'S

A story of the appealing type, i which Ethel Clayton has been specializ-ing lately, is unfolded in "A Lady In Love," which opened a three-day en-gagement at Loew's Theatre yesterday afternoon.

The central figure is an innocet convent girl, Barbara, who mistakes a romantic temperament for love and elopes to marry, as she thinks, a suave rascal. He is the ne'er-do-well brother of her guardian. The latter takes her into his home when her "husband" disappears, sought by law for frauds. Her presence arouses the jealousy of her guardian's wife, who is carrying on a love affair with a man, who, unknown to her, is a friend of Barbara's fugitive "husband." Barbara, despite her feelings, falls in love with Jack Brent, a very prosperous young lawyer from New York. Brent, at the behest of Barbara's guardian, takes up the case of proving her marriage invalid, owing to the discovery of a wife and child of her "husband's." Through

WHITE Electric Sewing Machine

The housewife whose pride calls for the ultra-modern and the husband who loves to lighten the burden, should join hands with the Hydro Shop in this campaign. This White is the highest development of men who have made five million sewing machines, and it comes to you from a Canadian plant—rotary, shuttle, silent mechanism.

Driven by a tiny, but powerful electric motor, controlled at any variation of speed by the mere pressure of a foot pedal. Fitted with special blades the motor serves the multiple purpose of a high speed electric fan, or it will buff the silver or grind the knives.

Anywhere else you will pay upwards of a hundred dollars for it.
