HAILEYBURY REBUILDS
Provincial Government Sends Lumber to Refugees for Homes.

BULLETIN.
Toronto, Oct. 7.—Eight thousand people homeless and eight million dollars property damage, was the estimate given by Provincial Premier Drury on arrival at his home at Crown Hill, Ont., this morning from the devastated districts of Northern Ontario.

A meeting of the Ontario cabinet will be held Monday to confer with executives of relief organizations in regard to systematic assistance and reconstruction.

Cobalt, Oct. 7.—As search parties return from outlying sections of the district devastated by fire on Wednesday the list of reported dead increases. One report states that fifty bodies have been definitely located, but there is a hope that there will be in this list some duplications.

An official statement is expected tomorrow, when all reports will be in and comparisons completed.

Relief work is going on rapidly, and it is stated that all sufferers who have been located are being well taken care of. Search parties are expected to find serious cases on isolated farms and settlements and some of these are not yet reported. Property damage is now reported at any place between seven and fifteen million dollars. The government is using airplanes in an effort to determine the extent of the catastrophe and assist the survivors.

The town of Haileybury and other places destroyed are commencing to rise again from their ruins. Stout-hearted residents and business people have built temporary shacks and are on their old sites, and many of them are already settled there.

PROVINCE SENDS LUMBER.
North Bay, Oct. 7.—Premier Drury last night said that the government had ordered 175,000 feet of lumber to be sent to aid refugees of northern fires to build homes, and would order a million feet if necessary. The government was prepared to see that the refugees got enough lumber that each could build a home 14 by 16 feet with two rooms and a building for storage of similar dimensions. He saw no reason why Haileybury should not continue to be the county seat, but that would depend on the citizens themselves rebuilding. There is a report here that an official investigation into the cause of the fire, which is believed will clear the government fire-raging department of any blame, will be started at once.

CLAIMS RAILWAY AWARD IMPROPER

Murdock Believes Roads Had Previous Knowledge of Decision.

Calgary, Oct. 7.—"Evidently the Canadian Pacific and certain other railways had a knowledge of the conciliation board's award, or what it would be, some days before the award was filed with the department of labor."

This statement has been made by Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, replying to a letter of protest against such a practice sent to him by Robert T. Alderman, secretary of the Federated Shop Trades of Calgary.

M. Murdock characterizes the proceedings as "improper," and intimates that he will endeavor to have the industrial disputes act amended so that such unfair divulgence of information will constitute a violation of the act.

In the letter to Mr. Murdock, the union men pointed out that the Canadian Pacific Railway paid the reduced rates of wages as set by the conciliation board prior to the announcement of the award by the department of labor.

REFUGEES POUR INTO ATHENS AND SALONICA

Washington, Oct. 7.—According to latest reports received by the national headquarters here of the Red Cross, there are 100,000 refugees in Athens, and 40,000 in Salonica, with thousands pouring into these two cities from the territory overrun by the Turks. The greatest need is for food and blankets, clothing, medical supplies and food.

Council Will Fight Mayor On Milk Test Bylaw

ASTOUNDED AS WILSON TAKES
HOSTILE STAND

Declares Citizens To Be Protected
Despite Attitude
of Chief.

AROUSSED OVER SPEECH

Register Protest as Mayor
Tells Dairyman He Opposes Scheme.

Members of the city council, led by Ald. Dr. O. I. Cunningham, are prepared to wage a battle royal with Mayor Wilson before they will rescind their bylaw of a week ago demanding the tubercular test of cattle in the London district.

"Mayor Wilson not anyone else will upset this bylaw without a fight," Alderman Cunningham declared decisively Saturday, "and if necessary, we will take the entire question to the ratepayers for a decision. As a last resort we will ask the people, who purchase and consume the milk, whether they desire that the milk dealers should have their cattle tested by experts for signs of tuberculosis." Alderman Cunningham expressed the additional opinion that he was at a loss to understand how any person could oppose a precautionary measure of this nature—an undertaking designed for the best interests of the citizens as a body and more particularly for the children, the citizens of tomorrow.

Aldermen Speak.
Apropos of Mayor Wilson's declaration at a mass meeting of milk dealers Friday night, that he had opposed the passage of the legislation at issue, Ald. H. J. Childs, chairman of No. 1 committee, commented Saturday that to the best of his recollection he could not remember any strong opposition from his worship or from any others present.

Ald. Childs pointed out that personally he was like other members of the city council, not in much of a position to know anything about tubercular cattle, and was, therefore, compelled to accept the opinions of the civic health authorities and others conversant with this subject.

He stressed the point that the bylaw had been supported by these people, and by those aldermen who were representative of the medical profession.

Answering the report credited to Mayor Wilson, that the actual test as conducted by the provincial authorities is nothing more or less than obsolete, Ald. Dr. Cunningham gives assurance that if any improvements are to be noted in that respect the council will be the first to adopt them.

Defends Methods.
He points out, however, that even should the test be antiquated as charged, it is that which is conducted by the federal authorities, whose opinion is supreme. He adds, "In that instance it would not be the fault of the board of health. In any event who is to say that the test is inadequate?" he questions.

"I can't understand opposition to the project, especially when government experts have come here to conduct the same test that they have made, and are still making, throughout the country, with evident good results."

"It is certainly too bad when the council grapples with one of the biggest things that has ever come before it, that there should be such a fight waged against them. This legislation should not be repealed, and will not be without a scrap."

"It is all well and good to talk about working a hardship here and working a hardship there, but this legislation is for the benefit of the people, who are at this moment maintaining a big sanatorium at Byron for tubercular patients. I do not say that all cases of that disease can be traced to affected milk, but I do maintain that a goodly portion of it can be."

Protect Citizens.
"Londoners are certainly entitled to tubercular-free milk, and it is up to the present city council to see that they get it and that the bylaw just passed remains on the books." In the meanwhile, civic health authorities and other members of the board of health profess amazement at the attitude just adopted by Mayor Cameron Wilson and question what is to be the result. They are frank in their condemnation of this further complication.

While the provincial inspectors stated at a public hall Saturday morning, as they prepared to resume their investigations, that they would proceed as usual they anticipated that they would encounter little success, if any, until the situation is cleared up again. They explain that the milk dealers are now bound to refuse the test.

WEATHER KEEPS FANS GUESSING

Makes Fourth Game of New York Series Doubtful Issue.

Miller Huggins Also in Quandary Regarding Pitcher
for Day.

New York, Oct. 7.—This was a morning of uncertainty for the baseball fans. The weatherman and the club managers seemed to be in a conspiracy to keep the customers guessing. The biggest was as to whether there would be a game. Up to noon the weatherman knew the answer.

The day dawned with an overcast sky, but that didn't mean much, for days have a habit of dawdling that way in New York. Frequently it is only a haze which burns off by 8 o'clock.

This morning it proved to be something more serious. The heavy clouds hung over the city throughout the morning, and there was an occasional light drizzle. At noon the possibility of the fourth game of the series being played was an uncertainty.

The other guessing was in regard to batteries, and there was much speculation in fandom on this question. Early reports coming from the Yankees indicated that Miller Huggins was in a state of uncertainty similar to that of the weather.

May Use Mays.
Huggins, it is reported, believes that Earl Mays, who has not been having any great success with his underhand delivery this year, might halt the advance of McGraw's men. If Mays does not bear out this belief, Huggins may make a still more desperate play and send Bush into the game with but two days rest.

McGraw, with two victories chalked up, can afford to take chances, and he has nominated Hugh McQuillan for the pitching duty. Ryan is to be kept ready for relief.

Meusel Hero?
Six of the nine runs scored by the Giants since the series began were driven home by "Irish" Meusel. His clout in the first game drove across the two runs that tied the score, and advanced a runner to third, so that he was able to score with the winning run on a sacrifice fly. The second day, Meusel swatted a home-run with two on bases, giving the Giants all of their scores for the afternoon.

Yesterday his single in the third sent Groh across the rubber. He got only one hit a day, but each came when it was of utmost value.

Babe Ruth couldn't hit the ball beyond the infield. Three times Scott pitched to him with such exceeding skill that the home-run slapper tipped the ball so that it took a high bound and was fielded between first and second. The only time the Bambino got on base was when Scott curved the ball into his ample anatomy.

Hoos and boos were sounded by Giant fans every time the Babe struck at the ball or had a strike called on him.

Thieves Steal 19 Geese at McMurray Farm, Near Kintore

DETECTIVES received a report this morning that thieves had taken nineteen geese from the farm of Benjamin McMurray, near Kintore.

This is the second report of thieves in the surrounding district received within a few days. Twenty chickens, a set of harness and several bags of wheat were stolen from the farm of C. J. Vanslyke, near Kintore, Thursday.

Stealing of poultry means a loss to the farmers, more than to the farmers themselves, for, in the majority of cases, the proceeds of the sale of the birds go to the women as pin money, police say.

CITY LABOR PARTY TO MEET WEEKLY

Organization Will Hold Sessions to Further Plans
for Election.

Gathering in special session at the Labor Temple Friday night, members of No. 1 Branch of the London Labor Party considered plans for the approaching civic election.

It was decided that from this time on, regular sessions will be held at least once a week for the furthering of plans and the admission of new members. Sunday gatherings will be arranged for those who are unable to be present during the week.

The leading civic problems will be considered, and special attention will be granted to the proposal that a full quota of candidates be placed in the field for every municipal office.

Although Ald. Watkins' name was mentioned Friday night in connection with the obvious move to introduce him as a mayoralty nominee, the majority of the members religiously refrained from too open expression of opinion.

"Gunner" Moir Held As Slayer Asleep In Flanders

IN HERO'S GRAVE.

DURING the Didsdale trial the question came up as to the whereabouts of "Gunner" Moir, who, following a trial for murder was found to be subject to epileptic seizures and was committed to the Ontario Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Hamilton. The following letter tells what became of Moir after he was released for service overseas.

Written by Mrs. A. Marshall, convener of the Church of England Visiting Committee to Prisons, the letter says:

"I take this opportunity of letting others know, especially those who believed in his innocence as we did, that after Gunner Moir was released, after several years' imprisonment, his old regiment, 'The Scottish Highlanders,' sent for him and paid his passage, so he might rejoin it.

"Step by step he rose, until word was sent to his superior officer that he died as he wished, gallantly leading his men toward the enemies' lines in 1918.

"As convener of the Church of England Visiting Committee to our jails, I often say this young 'Scottishman,' whose trial did not come off for nearly a year after his arrest, and I know of the sorrow and remorse he felt at the death of his friend.

DECLARE ACT FORCES CITY TO EXTEND MAINS

Dr. H. Stevenson Believes the Council Bound to Serve Whole Community.

LAW PASSED LAST YEAR

Claims Southeast London
Residents Can Demand
Water and Sewers.

"Mahaffy brothers or any others who may decide to live upon their property in the southeast section of the city have power within the meaning of the water act of 1922 to demand water, light and sewer facilities despite the objection registered by Mayor Cameron Wilson and the city council, according to Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson, M. L. A.

The member for London adds that the act in question, No. 249, which received its first reading May 9 last, was considered at a special committee session of the Legislature last week, when complaints were heard from several municipalities.

"Although all communities were notified, London was not represented," Dr. Stevenson declared Saturday. "If the city councillors had any objections to any clauses of the act, they had their opportunity then to send representatives."

Means Commission.
It is his belief that the word "company" as contained in the act may be interpreted in local respect as meaning the public utilities commission.

Section 87, subsection I, and clauses A, B and C to which Dr. Stevenson refers, follow:

(1) Any company supplying the inhabitants of a municipality with water may be required by the municipality to make as far as is applicable to the license:

(a) Any reasonable extension of the company's works to other parts of the municipality;

(b) Such repairs and alterations as are reasonably necessary.

"Margaret K. Smith" Leads Blue Nose in Nova Scotia Race

HALIFAX, Oct. 7.—(On Board C. G. S. Tyrian).—The Margaret K. Smith, Captain Frank Whynacht, showing surprising speed in light airs, took a comfortable lead at the start of the opening race today in the Nova Scotia fleet series and held it for the first two miles of the course.

The Blue Nose, international champion, which got away to a very poor start, showed increasing speed as the wind freshened to eight knots from the northeast and forty minutes after the start had passed to the weather of Canada, Captain Joe Conrad and Mahaska, Captain Paddy Mack, the remaining two competitors, and was on even terms with the Smith.

FAVORS REPEAL OF ADOLESCENT ACT

Trustee Rowe Declares Employers Not in Sympathy With Entire Law.

Termining it "unwise legislation," School Trustee Thomas Rowe, the "dean of the school board," favors the repeal of that portion of the adolescent school attendance act compelling children to attend school until 16 years old.

"Aside from the academic viewpoint," Trustee Rowe says, "this question can also be considered from the industrial point of view, and I have yet to meet one employer of labor wholeheartedly in favor of the movement."

While expressing his opinion in this respect, Trustee Rowe would not lend himself to such an undertaking as featured the Brockville board of education proceedings early in the week, when the trustees of that center voted to throw all discretion to the winds, ignore the act and let the provincial department of education do the worst.

"That is hardly the proper attitude for a civic body to adopt," he says. "We must have some respect for law and order. It would not be becoming for a board to assume such a rebellious demeanor when there are other weapons to be employed. It would be setting a poor example."

There are better and more legitimate means of rebuttal, he points out, and suggests that the school boards of the various communities throughout the province could take up the question at the Urban School Trustees' Association and through similar channels.

REDUCE RATES ON FREIGHT TO UNITED KINGDOM PORTS

Steamship Lines Effect Decrease in Some Instances as High as 40 Per Cent.

New York, Oct. 7.—A general reduction in ocean freight rates to ports in the United Kingdom, effective Monday next, by steamship lines members of the United Kingdom Conference, was announced here yesterday, following a two-day session.

The reductions range from five to as much as forty per cent below recent rates. Some of the conference members said the reason was to adjust the discrepancy between rates to the United Kingdom and to the continent.

Other members said that the reduction is the declaration of "an open war" with the United States Navigation Company, general agent for Rear-Admiral Smith Limited, the leading non-conference competitor in service both to the continent and the United Kingdom.

WANT ONE-MAN CARS BARRED

City Labor Men Consider Injunction to Restrain Use in London.

Ask Mayor to Have Council Rescind Permission to Operate.

The London Street Railway corporation must be restrained from its proposed operation of one-man cars at all costs, stated representative labor men Saturday, adding that they were at this moment considering the advisability of seeking the services of an injunction to gain their end. In the meanwhile, they state that it is now incumbent on Mayor Wilson and his city council to rescind their permission to the company for the inauguration of the cars in question preparatory to an amendment of the street railway bylaw.

Mayor Wilson has already declared that this will be accomplished if imperative.

The union men say that they could appeal to the provincial authorities, but question whether this would be of any real advantage, and cite the efforts of the city to prevent the recent passage of the street railway bill, permitting the increased fare.

In any event the question will receive close attention from now on by members of the labor party in their regular sessions, and they gave assurance Saturday that the fight had not been abandoned by any means.

PROTEST HIGHER SHIPPING RATES ON WHEAT IN WEST

Saskatchewan Growers Urge Immediate Cancellation of Coastal Laws.

Winnipeg, Oct. 7.—Immediate abrogation of the coasting laws is urged by the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association as the result of increased rates of eight cents which the shippers are demanding on wheat, from Fort William to Georgian Bay ports. A. J. McPhail, central secretary of the association, speaking for the executive at a meeting in Winnipeg, stated last night that the following message has been wired to Hon. J. A. Robb, minister of trade and commerce:

"Under yesterday's date, Winnipeg papers report shippers demanding 8 cents per bushel on wheat, Fort William to Georgian Bay ports, as compared with 2 1/2 cents a year ago. Quotations today, Fort William to Buffalo, 5 cents. This is an intolerable situation, and we believe fully justified immediate abrogation of the coasting laws."

KEEPING THRACE FREE OF TURKS PENDING TREATY

Cabinets Consider General Agreement Reached by Conference of Representatives.

OPTIMISM AT MUDANIA.

Ismet Pasha Takes Conciliatory Attitude on Behalf of Kemalists.

BULLETIN.
Paris, Oct. 7.—It was announced that the cabinet had fully approved the instructions sent the French representatives at Mudania by Premier Poincaré as the result of this morning's conference.

Paris, Oct. 7.—Great Britain and France as represented by Foreign Secretary Curzon and Premier Poincaré, have agreed in principle that the troops of the Turkish Nationalists shall be allowed to occupy Eastern Thrace only after the conclusion of a peace treaty.

This general agreement will now be submitted to the French and British cabinets, which are in session, and will be referred to Rome by the Italian representative here.

There is considered to be little doubt, however, that all will accept, and that the details will be worked out this afternoon, so that the allied generals at Mudania can resume their conference in full agreement with each other as to the terms to be offered the Turks.

The solution agreed upon provides three steps for the return of Thrace to the Turks as follows:

First, the Greek army and those of the population desiring to leave must evacuate immediately.

Second, a Turkish civil administration will be installed at the same time the allied troops evacuate the zone of the Greek forces to preserve order.

Third, the Turkish army will be allowed to cross the straits of the Dardanelles and enter Thrace only upon conclusion of a peace treaty, and it will not be till that time that Eastern Thrace is completely restored to Turkey.

The conversation between M. Poincaré and Lord Curzon consumed two hours and a half, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning. It was understood the British cabinet was awaiting a report from their foreign minister and the French cabinet had already gathered in an adjoining room of the foreign office when the two ministers came from their conference.

Hope for Agreement.
"We hope to reach a complete agreement during the day," Lord Curzon told the correspondents when leaving the foreign office to inform his government of the developments.

"We went over the situation at Mudania and some other matters," he added, "and are now referring them to our respective cabinets. We will meet again at 2 o'clock. We are agreed in principle."

The modified program of the Allies, it is believed, will give the Kemalists added assurance that the three powers intend that Eastern Thrace shall be returned to Turkey as soon as adequate measures have been taken to make the transfer without danger to the Christian minority.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS.

URGES LIBERAL CLUB MEMBERS TO ORGANIZE

Dr. Arthur B. Rankin Delivers Address On "Organization" in Hyman Hall.

FOUR TYPES OF LIBERALS

Stresses Increased Membership As Essential To Accomplish Needed Reforms.

"There is no limit to the good influence the London Liberal Club might exert in this city, and for this city it is properly organized," asserted Dr. Arthur B. Rankin in his address on "Organization" at the opening meeting of the Liberal Club in Hyman Hall Friday evening.

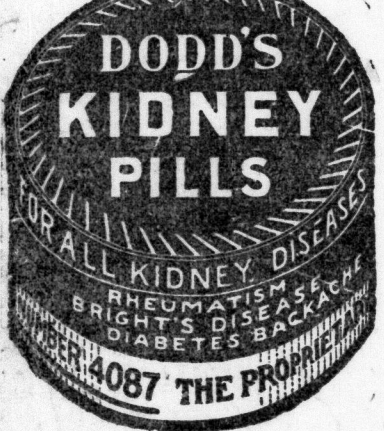

"Organization implies more than hard-working officers," he continued. "It also implies a strong man-power behind the officers."

Dr. Rankin, in opening his remarks, pointed out that this is the age of organization. Everywhere, in every branch of life, in every kind of business, organization was to be found. It was not out of the ordinary, then, that organization had a place in politics.

Medical Profession Organized. And just as organization of the proper kind, with adequate support and unending, unselfish co-operation was enabling the medical profession to attain great strides in recent years, so would organization in politics, with unselfish and unified support work out to the general good of the community.

"Organization can be carried too far," cautioned Dr. Rankin, relating a humorous story to illustrate his point. "But you can't down the question of political organization, neither can you down the question of organization of the Liberal Club. You will find four types of men in the Liberal Club. First there is the dove in the wool 'grit,' who hates everything that is not Liberal, and despises the Tory. He's a strong member at election time, but he's never around any other time. Second there is the man who takes an active interest in the Liberal Club and knows something of Liberal principles. The third class is composed of men who enjoy politics and who have money enough to afford it. And the last class are those who follow the crowd. They will always be found behind the loudest band."

Purpose of Organization. The first thing in organizing or re-organizing any club, and particularly the Liberal Club, Dr. Rankin stressed, was the convincing of all four classes just what the organization was for. "If the organization of this club is primarily to have a meeting-place for an occasional game of cards or to listen to an occasional address, then it was no real value to anyone in it. But if, on the other hand, its organization is for the purpose of setting up in the community a power that must be reckoned with in every department of civic life, then it has a value—a value that will be reflected in the betterment of the community. "Unfortunately," continued Dr. Rankin, "there is always, as I have said before, a group of men who during the year are never heard from, but at election time they are always looking for office. In this age it seems to be the common thing in politics for a man to seek the office, instead of the office seeking the man. Just think for a moment of the men who have been elected from time to time in this city and see if I am not right."

Pilgrims Again Storm Lourdes Seeking Miracles

PARIS, Oct. 6.—This remarkable picture of the annual pilgrimage to the shrine at Lourdes, France, just over, has just reached Canada. In the foreground are seen the sick, halt and blind in wheel chairs and other conveyances. The famous Virgin of Lourdes is seen in a crypt in the background. In the background are scores of crutches thrown away by pilgrims said to have been cured by prayer to the Virgin.

That is where organization should count, Dr. Rankin stated. Whether the official was the member of the Dominion house, whether provincial or municipal, even down to the street cleaner, he should be the man for the job. "He should satisfy this organization," said Dr. Rankin, "but you can't do anything with a small organization. You can, if you will, make this organization so powerful that no man will abuse his office without hearing from you. It's just as easy for 5,000 members to represent 5,000 as it is for 50 to represent 500. Get out and get members. Every man here should bring in from one to four new ones at the next meeting. Do that for three or four months, and you will have something to make a real live organization out of. You will have an organization that will have a say as to whether a mayor can fool around for a year and then come out for re-election. You will be able to formulate a complete municipal slate from mayor down to the aldermen in each ward, and you will have the power to see that something is accomplished."

Raps Movies. "I will go one step further," continued Dr. Rankin. "There are a number of things going on that you might take in a movie supposed to have been produced for our edification and innocent pleasure. And you go home and wonder if your boy or girl has seen it. Civic authorities pay no attention to complaints of actors. Have we nothing to say?"

Dr. Rankin urged members to remember that they would be rated, not by their good deeds, but by their faults if the outside world could find them. They would be rated by their weaknesses as a club. The only remedy was work, and every member who considered himself a member would have to work. "There's just one thing the Liberal Club needs—and that is more man-power. When you get that," concluded Dr. Rankin, "there's nothing in the wide world can stop you."

J. S. Brown acted as chairman, and Andrew Robson, president of the club, also spoke. Frank Ashplant sang.

INVITE WOMEN TO BIG MEETING

American College of Surgeons To Stage Public Session On Community Health.

Union Mothers' Clubs Advance Date of Meetings To Hear Prominent Doctors.

Anxious to hear the message of outstanding men in the medical profession of North America, the Union Mothers' Clubs of London through their sub-executive, have decided to advance the date of their monthly meeting to October 13, in order that the members may attend the Community Health Mass Meeting of the American College of Surgeons, to be held in the Majestic Theatre on the evening of Monday, October 16.

Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland will address this meeting on the subject of "Experimental Medicine," and will treat some phase of the cancer problem from the viewpoint of public welfare. In addition, Dr. John Osborn Polack of Brooklyn will speak in everyday language to the mothers present on the subject of "Parental Care."

As both these men are eminent in their profession, enjoying international reputations, their visit to London will produce fruitful results, and it is expected that the theatre will be filled to capacity with Londoners desirous of hearing their addresses. The women are especially invited to attend.

London will be surgical headquarters for the province of Ontario on Monday and Tuesday, October 16 and 17, when the members of the American College of Surgeons and International Organization will meet here.

In conjunction with the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine, a two-day program has been prepared and will include clinics at the Victoria General and St. Joseph's Hospitals, a hospital conference on Monday afternoon at Western University Medical School, and a scientific meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. George MacNeill and Dr. George A. Ramsay of London are on the executive responsible for this opportunity to London.

On Aug. 16 last Dr. McEachern in London, when he inspected Victoria Hospital for standardization purposes, and in an interview with The Advertiser at that time, he declared that this hospital is one of the best-administered on the continent. He will return to London on Oct. 16 and 17, when he will participate in the program of the Ontario section of the American College of Surgeons in session here on those dates.

BOOST HEALTH MASS MEETING

Various London Organizations Co-operate to Make Community Lectures Successful.

400 Members of Medical Profession in Ontario to Convene in London.

That the community health mass meeting to be held in the Majestic Theatre Monday, Oct. 16, is creating a lot of interest and will draw a record crowd was evident Friday night when the committee in charge of the meeting met representatives of the leading London business, civic and social organizations and won from them their hearty co-operation.

The mass meeting, free to the public, is being held in connection with the convention of the Ontario division of the American College of Surgeons, Oct. 16 and 17, when more than 400 members of the medical profession in the province will assemble in the city.

This is the first time in the history of the organization that the province of Ontario has been honored in such a manner, and the fact that London was chosen as the convention center proves conclusively that the fame of the Forest City as an ideal convention community is spreading far and wide.

A local committee of surgeons in charge of Dr. George McNeill, chairman for Ontario, and Dr. Geo. Ramsay, is arranging for the gathering.

It is pointed out that a precedent will be established at the London convention when for the first time in the history of the college a medical gathering will be thrown open to the general public, and for their benefit.

The medical men who will address the mass meeting October 16 are all internationally known as specialists, and the majority will visit the city for the first time.

Among the subjects to be dealt with are "The American College of Surgeons," "Scientific Medicine and the Public," by Franklin H. Martin, M.D., C.M.G., director-general of the American College of Surgeons, "What Can Be Accomplished by Routine Pre-Natal Care," by John Osborne Polak, M.D., Brooklyn, New York, professor of obstetrics and gynecology, Long Island Hospital; "The Ontario Medical Association and the Hospital Standardization," by E. E. Secord, M.D., president Ontario Medical Association; "Hospital Standardization in Canada," by M. T. McEachern, M.D., president American Hospital Association, and associate secretary for Canadian affairs of the American College of Surgeons; "Experimental Medicine," by George W. Crile, M.D., Cleveland, Ohio; "Better Hospitals," by Rev. C. B. Moultrie, S. J., president of the Catholic Hospital Association; "Modern Public Health," by Dr. A. Craig, M.D., provincial commissioner, Nova Scotia division, Canadian Red Cross.

Morning sessions, featuring operative clinics, will be held at Victoria and St. Joseph's Hospitals. The Western University medical school will be the scene of the afternoon sessions.

Reports to Bradstreet's say that business here at wholesale and retail stores is on the upgrade, and merchants are feeling confident.

Orders from outside points are increasing in number and volume, and while there is not a great deal of buying for spring as yet, it is likely that this will come later on, as retailers find the public buying more freely.

Manufacturing plants are fairly busy, and there is little unemployment. Textile mills are busy. Biscuit and confectionery plants are at full capacity. Metal working plants are fairly busy. The building trades have been pretty well employed, and it is reckoned that fully 500 homes will be completed this season, most of these being of moderate cost. Collections are a shade better.

Corn has turned out well up to the average, while potatoes and other roots are also giving good clean yields.

HELD FOR KILLING.
Kenora, Oct. 7.—Richard Anderson committed suicide by hanging in his cell in the district jail here on Thursday night. He was accused of the murder of John Surmound, junior, at Sioux Lookout, on August 12.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What time I am afraid I will trust
in Thee.—Psalm 56:3.

FEAR is more painful to cowardice
than death to true courage.—Sir Philip Sidney.

A GENERAL MEETING of the Great War Veterans' Association will be held in the club rooms Tuesday night to draw up final arrangements for the fall and winter program.

CHIEF JUSTICE R. M. MEREDITH presided at the weekly session of the supreme court at the courthouse this morning. He disposed of a few motions of minor importance.

REV. F. H. PAULL, formerly of Toronto, and a son of the late Edwin Paul and Mrs. Paul, of 615 Waterloo street, has been appointed by the Bishop of Huron as incumbent of the parish of Atwood and Hefryn in the County of Perth. Mr. Paull assumes the duties of his new charge Sunday,
Oct. 15.

Refuse Extension.
At the last regular session of the city council the Mahaffy plan, proposing that a certain portion of land in the southeastern section of the city be subdivided into building lots,
was considered and finally rejected,
despite a favorable report by the Ontario railway and municipal board.

Subsequently the public utilities commission was directed not to furnish water or light to this district
until the city can be consummated.
Dr. Stevenson claims that persons who should take up residence in the debated section can secure these conveniences by another appeal to the municipal board and the provincial board of health as well.

IRISH PARLIAMENT BRINGS DOWN BUDGET FOR YEAR

Minister Estimates Expenditures at $37,700,000 to Cover All Provisions.

Dublin, Oct. 7.—The Irish finance ministry issued yesterday its fiscal estimates for the year 1922-23. They show a total expenditure forecast at £27,709,586. The government will ask the Dail Eireann to vote a credit of £18,953,475 to cover the expenses
from April 1, 1922, to the present time.

The cost of the army for the year is given as £7,245,000. Ten million pounds are assigned for compensation for destroyed property. The total to be allotted the postoffice department is £2,750,000, and to education £4,000,000.

WINDSOR PAPER ENDS PUBLICATION

Windsor, Oct. 7.—Canadian Press.
—The Windsor Telegram ceased publication today. It was founded April 25 of this year. In a little over five months it is understood the paper has lost a large sum of money in operating expenses. Mr. A. F. Healey, director of the Windsor Telegram, in a statement today, declares that after spending much money he is fully convinced that there is no room in the border cities for two first-class
daily newspapers.

SAYS NEW SCHOOL TO DO CITY CREDIT

Trustee A. A. Bice Commends
Plans for Oliver-Trafalgar Street Building.

"It will be a school that will be a credit to the city of London, and will relieve a long-felt want."

This is the declaration emanating from Trustee (Rev.) A. A. Bice, chairman of No. 2 committee of the board of education, who Saturday viewed the plans for the new public school, designed for the corner of Oliver and Trafalgar streets, Southeast London.

These plans will be considered finally at the regular session of the public school committee Wednesday,
the chairman explains. "We have plenty of time to make a decision.
Our option on the property does not expire until Monday, and we have ample opportunity to close the deal."

Trustee Bice expresses the belief that the general public have a misconception of the situation in Southeast London, and pointed out that while the school trustees did consider certain property offered by ex-Ald.
Adam Palmer, they were compelled to disapprove of the same for legal reasons.

Asserting that members of the board of education receive too much abuse and little or no credit for their efforts in educational affairs, Trustee Bice expressed his determination to retire from the board for good in December.

"I will be through then," he stated decisively. "Let someone else have it."

WOODSTOCK COLLEGE ALUMNI PLAN REUNION

Special to London Advertiser.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 6.—The announcement that there would be a reunion of the Woodstock Baptist College students this fall has resulted in many letters being received by Dr. Wearing, principal of the college, and much interest is being displayed
in the event. It is not possible, however, that the reunion will be attempted on a large scale.

Ernest Long, a Woodstock boy, brought up in this city and educated at Woodstock College, is one of the prime movers in the attempt to weld
the alumni of this institution into an organized body. Former students from Toronto will arrive on a special train on Saturday, October 28, and will spend the day in the city. A series of games between the former and present students of the college will make the day interesting.

I SPIED TODAY

PRIZE FOR BEST ITEM DAILY.

YOU must see something going on every day. Perhaps not a big thing, but interesting. The Advertiser wants you to send it for use in the "I Spied" column. Every reader a reporter is the idea behind the plan. The items must not be written to "take a stab" at any person. If so, they will not be published.

In order to create interest in the column, the GRAND OPERA HOUSE has donated two seats each night as a prize for the best item of the day. Your name and address must accompany the item, and it can run with only your initial attached if you desire. The contest is on. WHO WANTS TO GO TO THE GRAND?

If "O. D." in Friday's "I Spied" column will call at The Advertiser office today or Monday, he will be given two tickets for the

GALT MAN DIES BY OWN GUN WOUNDS

Galt, Oct. 7.—John Martz, who a week ago this afternoon attempted to murder his son-in-law, E. La-marble, and who then put a bullet in his head, died early this morning.
He took a turn for the worse Tuesday morning and died at 11 o'clock.
An inquest was opened at 11 o'clock this morning and adjourned until Thursday next. Martz had been a resident of Galt for 40 years, and was about 62 years old. Two daughters, Mrs. Gibb of Elora and Mrs. E. La-

Champion Pie Eater Comes Into His Own Before Gaping Restaurant Help

Things, nice and otherwise, have been said of the man who fork should be held and about what to do with the unemployed hand, the "pie-fend"
made short work of the pie with an utter disregard of all such useless rules.

If the pie was "heavy" (and it is doubtful) his solid grip near the tines, would obviate any chance of descent on his shirt front. Even then,
as if to make doubly certain, the left hand was pressed into a "pressing" use.

When too much pie had to find an entrance to an overcrowded mouth,
what could be more natural than to use the fingers of the idle left to help. And use them he did.

In shorter time than it takes to tell,
he had come, fulfilled his mission and gone. And an energetic waiter had to remind the spellbound spectators that they had come to eat, and that their coffee was getting cold.

Authorities to Act Against City Milk Dealers Filling Bottles on Street

London milkmen who still persist
in filling their bottles on the street
will be severely dealt with, civic sanitary authorities assured Saturday morning.

One complaint in this respect was made Friday, they explain, implicat-

and from present indications he will appear in police court in the near future.

The officials point out that it is a direct breach of the sanitary regulations when a milkman fills his bottles
as the occasion demands on his route.
While this is not a general practice,
the sanitary inspector states that a complaint was registered Friday, and he is conducting further investiga-

YOUNG BAPTISTS TO STAGE RALLY

Fall Gathering Will Begin on Monday in Adelaide Street Church.

A large attendance of Baptist young people is expected at the rally of the City B. Y. P. U., which is to be held Monday night in Adelaide Street Baptist Church.

"Choosing a Straight Path for the Sake of Those Who Follow," will be the subject of the main address of the evening, given by Rev. T. J.
Hind, M. A., of Guelph.

Song service will be in the hands of the junior choir, led by Rev. G.
A. Leichter, and devotional exercises will be led by N. J. Melitzer and Miss Jean Coleman, junior.

Pennants will be awarded for the year's work, and for the best attendance, and reports given by both secretary and treasurer.

Preceding the rally, there will be a round table conference held by the city executive, with Rev. Dr. Bowley green leading them, on the subject:
"Contributions to Church Life of the

EXPECT J. NELSON TO SPEAK AT LONDON ROTARY CLUB

Kansas City Boys' Work Film To Be Shown at Monday Luncheon.

A double program of unusual interest is expected at the Monday
meeting of the London Rotary Club,
according to recent announcements
made by the secretary.

Although his coming is not assured there is every possibility that John Nelson, a Vancouver Rotarian and former proprietor of the Vancouver World, will be in London and speak to the club.

In addition, the Kansas City boys' work film, which was exhibited at the Los Angeles convention, will be shown. The committee had much difficulty in securing this film, as it was necessary to speak for it months ahead.

In view of the extra long program
proposed, it has been deemed advisable to call the meeting at 12:15 sharp.

LAUDS SUCCESS OF POSTAL MEETING

D. J. McLean Returned From Ottawa Conference of Dominion Officials.

"I was more than pleased with the success of the postal conference held in the capitol during the week.
I think it is a splendid idea," was the comment made by D. J. McLean, postoffice inspector for the London district, who returned Friday from the gathering of dominion postal officials being held in Ottawa this week.

Mr. McLean was warm in his praise for the interest displayed by the officials of the department at Ottawa in the workings of each and every postoffice throughout Canada,
declaring that the new ideas received by personal contact with postmasters and officials more than re-compensated the delegates, who came from far corners of the country, for the time and trouble attendant.

Thomas Duncan, postmaster, and W. J. May, inspector of the railway mail service, also represented London at the conference, but they are not expected to return until Saturday on account of attending special committee meetings.

One of the special features of the conference, Mr. McLean stated, was the demonstration of new devices for use in the mails, which are at present being tested by the department. Among the most outstanding were a postoffice
computing machine, a new time-clock,
an improved device for locking mail
bags, and a letter-stamping machine.

WOULD OUTLINE POLICY OF CITY

Philip Pocock Believes Street Railway Company Should Be Enlightened.

Merely Business to Inform It What Future Will Bring.

If the ratepayers do not intend to purchase the London Street Railway, and favor, rather, to extend the franchise another ten years, say, the company should at least be acquainted with this determination, and not left in the darkness entirely, is the opinion of Philip Pocock, chairman of the L. and P. S. Commission, and a member of the special transportation commission just appointed to consider the local situation.

"It is purely a straight business proposition," Commissioner Pocock asserts, "and the London Street Railway Company is entitled to know a few years ahead just what the city wishes to do about the question. I do not wish to criticize the corporation, but there is no citizen but will agree that the service is not of the best.

"Then in a way you can hardly blame the company if it appears reluctant to invest further when there is no definite assurance of what may develop by the time the franchise expires. We should tell the company before the contract expires. They should not be left in the dark.

"A good street railway service is an important factor in any progressive city, and it is only in the best interests of London that something should be accomplished in this direction without too much delay."

Commissioner Pocock expressed himself as highly favorable to the municipal ownership of the street railway lines, and cited Toronto and Detroit as two outstanding examples.
There has been a wonderful improvement in these and other instances where private ownership is a thing of the past," he said.

Teaching Sedition.

TO what extent are forces working in this country seeking to spread sedition and undermine the basic principles on which the government of this country is founded? A resident of Alliston has returned from Western Canada, and in the course of his remarks on conditions there declares he was surprised and shocked at what he heard. At one point where the Alliston resident, Mr. BAYCROFT, visited he noticed that the population favored the confiscation of the entire national wealth and making an equal division of it. This idea, he seems certain, is so prevalent in some districts that it passes the teachings of socialism and enters the realm of anarchy.

Proceeding with his narrative, Mr. BAYCROFT tells of one resident named SMOXHOUSE, who seemed to be the center and circumference of the agitation in the district. While Mr. BAYCROFT was in the place he got in touch with a sturdy Britisher, a Presbyterian minister, who openly attacked this sedition talk from his pulpit, with the result that SMOXHOUSE called a mass meeting to answer him. The Alliston visitor was one of the speakers at the gathering, and states that speakers openly advocated the upheaval of workers to overthrow our present social order, and such statements were received with much acclaim. It was only after the best efforts on the part of the Alliston man and the preacher that the meeting was dispersed, they having attended to combat the theories advanced by SMOXHOUSE and his associates. It is quite natural that in Ontario a man should ask, on his return, if the people of this province really know that this sort of thing is going on.

One can go to many places in Western Canada and find similar conditions. Especially in the mining and lumbering camps of the West is this idea of forcibly taking possession taught and accepted. And in these centers foreigners, new to this land, and unaware of our customs or ways of government, meet these men who are preaching common ownership and the duty of the workers to unite in preparation for the day when they will lose their chains and gain the world. The poor feature of the situation is the small effort that is made to put any opposing current of thought in movement. The agitators in many places have the field to themselves, and find the mind of the foreigner very good ground in which to sow the seed of positive sedition.

First Things First.

THE Methodist Conference at Toronto has passed a resolution calling upon representative Christian men and women to meet together to discuss economic conditions, and discover if there is anything that can be done to bring our methods and ideas more in line with the teachings of the Master, and also intimating the belief that the church in Canada today "contains the scientific and practical knowledge and the moral energy to effect great and beneficial reforms in our whole economic life."

It is well that such a representative body as the Methodist Church in Canada should bring such a matter as this to the front. It will not only provoke discussion in that particular denomination, but in others, and may help to bring out some fairly salient features in determining to what extent it is within the power of members of any church to improve the economic conditions under which the business of today is transacted.

In one way it gets back to the idea of whether we can have better methods before we have better men, or whether the better men will be a result of the better methods. In the final analysis, the whole thing rests with the individual, because our whole economic system is made up of individuals, whether we realize it or not. Our system of doing business is not apt to rise much higher than the conceptions of the men who are conducting these businesses. The way in which a man carries on his daily business speaks at times more eloquently of the state of his heart than the manner in which he conducts himself on the Sabbath day.

There can be no doubt that the world today is looking for something practical in the way of the application of religious professions to the conduct of everyday affairs. Were these principles put into effect it would be very hard indeed to justify some of the present competitive methods that are employed in this and other countries. They cannot be squared up with the teachings of the Master. They do not have in them the spirit of humility, nor justice, nor toleration, nor do they line up at all with the idea of "in honor preferring one another."

The critics of the church and all things connected with the church are quick and anxious to take up and use all the ammunition they can find in the way of the inconsistent lives of church members. They can see that they are not applying to their own lives the theories and principles they advocate as being good for others.

Whether there can be a movement forward in this by the coming together of people is a matter for surmise. The reformation must take place in the individual, and once it has taken place it will seek an outward expression in the way of positive deeds that will speak of the things that are stored up and cherished in the heart of the man. Men and women with Christian hearts can solve the problem. Otherwise they cannot.

Missionaries at Home.

THE Chesley Enterprise boasts an associate editor, and it's well to have one around to hang the mistakes on. The editor of the Enterprise was sure a real six-foot error had stalked into the columns last week, when reference was made to an "unpeaceful session" of the township council. So a search party went through the premises and found that "unpeaceful" it was. It is quite evident that WILLIAM McDONALD, the editor, took charge of the situation after that, for he proceeds to read a sermon to the township fathers and to the people in the community where the trouble took place.

"Usually the members of township councils in session are as peaceful as a litter of pups in a basket," says the Enterprise, "and our readers will not be surprised that we came to the conclusion a mistake had been made. But when the operator produced the copy, there it was as plain as a pikestaff. It seems that over near the church at Arran Lake, 12th concession, Arran, the people are badly at loggerheads. One Arkwright man informed us that they wouldn't help one another out at threshings, and that it is necessary to get hands sufficient for threshing operations. This is not a nice thing to say about a community which is sending missionary money to tame the savage hearts in Asia when there are so many at home. In regard to those in a community living at peace with each other, St. Paul, in his epistle to the Roman Christians, says: 'If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.' This exception, 'if it be possible,' lets out these 12th of Arran neighbors who are not finding it possible to live at peace with all men."

The article goes on to deal in a very pointed way with several members of the community as well as councillors for their actions in recent months, concluding: "We never heard of proceedings at a municipal council where the reeve had occasion to exercise his authority in a matter of order, and we expect it will be a long time again before an 'unpleasant session' is recorded. The bad feeling among the Arran Lake ratepayers is at the bottom of the whole trouble."

Much better that a courageous editor should wade into such a situation and have it over with than allow the fires of trouble to burn slowly and smolder badly.

One way to keep a man's memory in good shape is to owe him $5.

Two Chatham men are charged with being drunk. They were found in a spot known locally as Dynamite Alley, which, by the way, ought to be a good place for a blowout.

A number of young men attending Western University were painted, pelted with ripe tomatoes and eggs and mugged up generally. It's a great thing to get an education that sticks with you.

Why does some person always bring up this discussion on "Who's the greatest man in the country?" Any man with a bit of sense can call off the names of half a dozen other men who have succeeded.

Every newspaper in the country has had an editorial article on the price of coal. It's a nice topic to write about, because most of the readers don't know whether you're right or wrong, and most of the editors are in the same position.

A woman stopped in front of a Pratt, Kan., home she intended visiting, says the Republican. Noting a small boy in the yard mowing the grass, she interrogated him. "Is your mother at home?" she asked. The boy replied: "Well, I should say so. Do you think I'd be mowing this lawn if she wasn't?"

An exchange points out that the tax rate in Kingsville is 45 mills on the dollar this year. In addition to this property owners pay the full amount of sidewalks and pavements. About the time the tax notices are sent out some live quack ought to hit the town with a trunk full of nerve tonic and heart remedy.

Street car motemen and bus drivers do not particularly see eye to eye in London, and the joy of life for the bus driver to run just far enough in advance of the rail charlots to pick up the fares. All right and fine provided that the competition does not bring a crash in which someone gets hurt.

The smaller cities of the province are fond of taking a fall out of Toronto whenever occasion arises for so doing, but these same cities are right now willing to pay tribute to the way Toronto responded when the call came to help the burned areas of Northern Ontario. Supplies poured in to the places where they were being received until word had to be passed that no more could be accepted. The heart of Toronto is sound.

What strange habits civilization has wished on this continent. Now they find out in Los Angeles that eight boys at a home are entitled to a state grant of $515. But there comes a nurse and inspector to see that the money is spent, and in all 16 commissions have something to say in the matter. The outcome of the whole affair is that it takes several times $515 to see that the amount is spent. We are so used to red tape that too often it comes to a situation where the winding and unwinding of the old tape ball is the only thing in sight.

that will go through 16 inches of hardened steel and then explode. The gun has a range of 25 miles. In the meantime, while all this experimenting and perfecting of death-dealing machinery is going on in United States that country stands aloof from all conferences that are being held with a view to ending wars and to bringing back the devastated nations of Europe to something approaching a basis where they can go ahead and make living possible.

The Chatham News, describing a session of the city council in which there was considerable pointed discussion, states:

"Underlying this was, doubtless, the historic antagonism betwixt the city council and the board of education—an antagonism which the board earlier in the year did much to stimulate by its attitude on the interest question, its delay in putting in its estimates and its apparent tendency to refuse co-operation with the city council."

For some reason or other there are places—too many of them—where the board of education and city council can not, or will not, get along together. The council too often gets the idea that the one reason why the board of education exists is to spend the money while the council gets the abuse for collecting it.

BRITISH POLITICS MIXED.

CHAOS marks the British political situation. All gossip centers about Lloyd George and these chief questions:

When will a general election occur?
Who will be the next premier?
Barring unforeseen circumstances—Lloyd George!—there will probably be no general election until the summer of 1923.

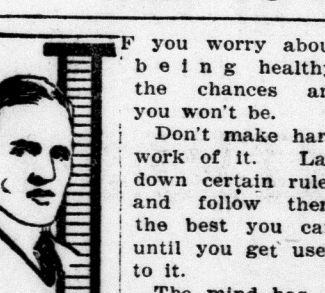

When it comes it is likely that a coalition will be the rule. Neither the Conservative nor the Liberal party will have a clear majority, and it is not thought now—contrary to recent beliefs—that the Labor party will be swept into power, though it is sure to have from 200 to 250 members in parliament.

Premier possibilities are confined to these men:
Conservatives: Lord Derby, Earl Balfour, Bonar Law, Austen Chamberlain, Lord Birkenhead.
Coalition Liberals: Lloyd George, Winston Churchill.

"Wee" Frey, Liberals: Viscount Grey, H. H. Asquith.
Labor: Arthur Henderson.
A Labor government would be regarded as little short of a revolution, but most Englishmen would feel safe with the reins in the hands of Henderson, who is not in any sense a radical. In the event of Labor winning, Henderson would be the certain choice for premier.

The so-called "Wee Frey" Liberals are improbable, for their section of the party is badly split between the followers of Grey and Asquith.

"IF I OWNED CANADA!"

By T. H. YULL.

If I owned Canada I would immediately push the development of her immense natural resources, taking particular care that these did not get into the hands of foreigners.

If I owned Canada I would see to it that Canadian natural products were used in every possible case, rather than import foreign goods and send away Canadian money to develop other countries.

If I owned Canada I would want to see every Canadian have a stake in the country's future—something to live for; something to work for; something to hope for; something to co-operate for.

A hill of solid marble at Bancroft, Ont. Great blocks weighing tons have been taken out. The dark line down the centre is a partition of earth and iron, dividing the different colored marble beds.

Here is a solid marble wall, superbly colored and veined. The illustration cannot do justice to the remarkable beauty of this stone. Millions of tons like this are found on our properties at Bancroft, Ont.

An Investment in Bancroft Marbles, Ltd., Gives You a Share in One of Canada's Finest Natural Resources!

Yesterday's "Advertiser" contained a page announcement proving the existence of millions of tons of the world's finest marble in fifteen different varieties at Bancroft, Ont. Read it over again before you go any further.

The marble is there in unlimited quantities—worth millions and millions

We have the reports—as given in this paper yesterday—of Government surveyors, Canadian, American and European marble experts, professors of mining, Dominion Mining Department, Vermont State geologist and others.

We have the personal inspection of this property in the last ten days by prominent London and Toronto business and professional men, including the man who took the photographs shown here and the man who wrote the advertisement.

Anybody can make the journey to Bancroft, Ontario, and be shown over the property, on application.

The market is at hand and export trade can be secured

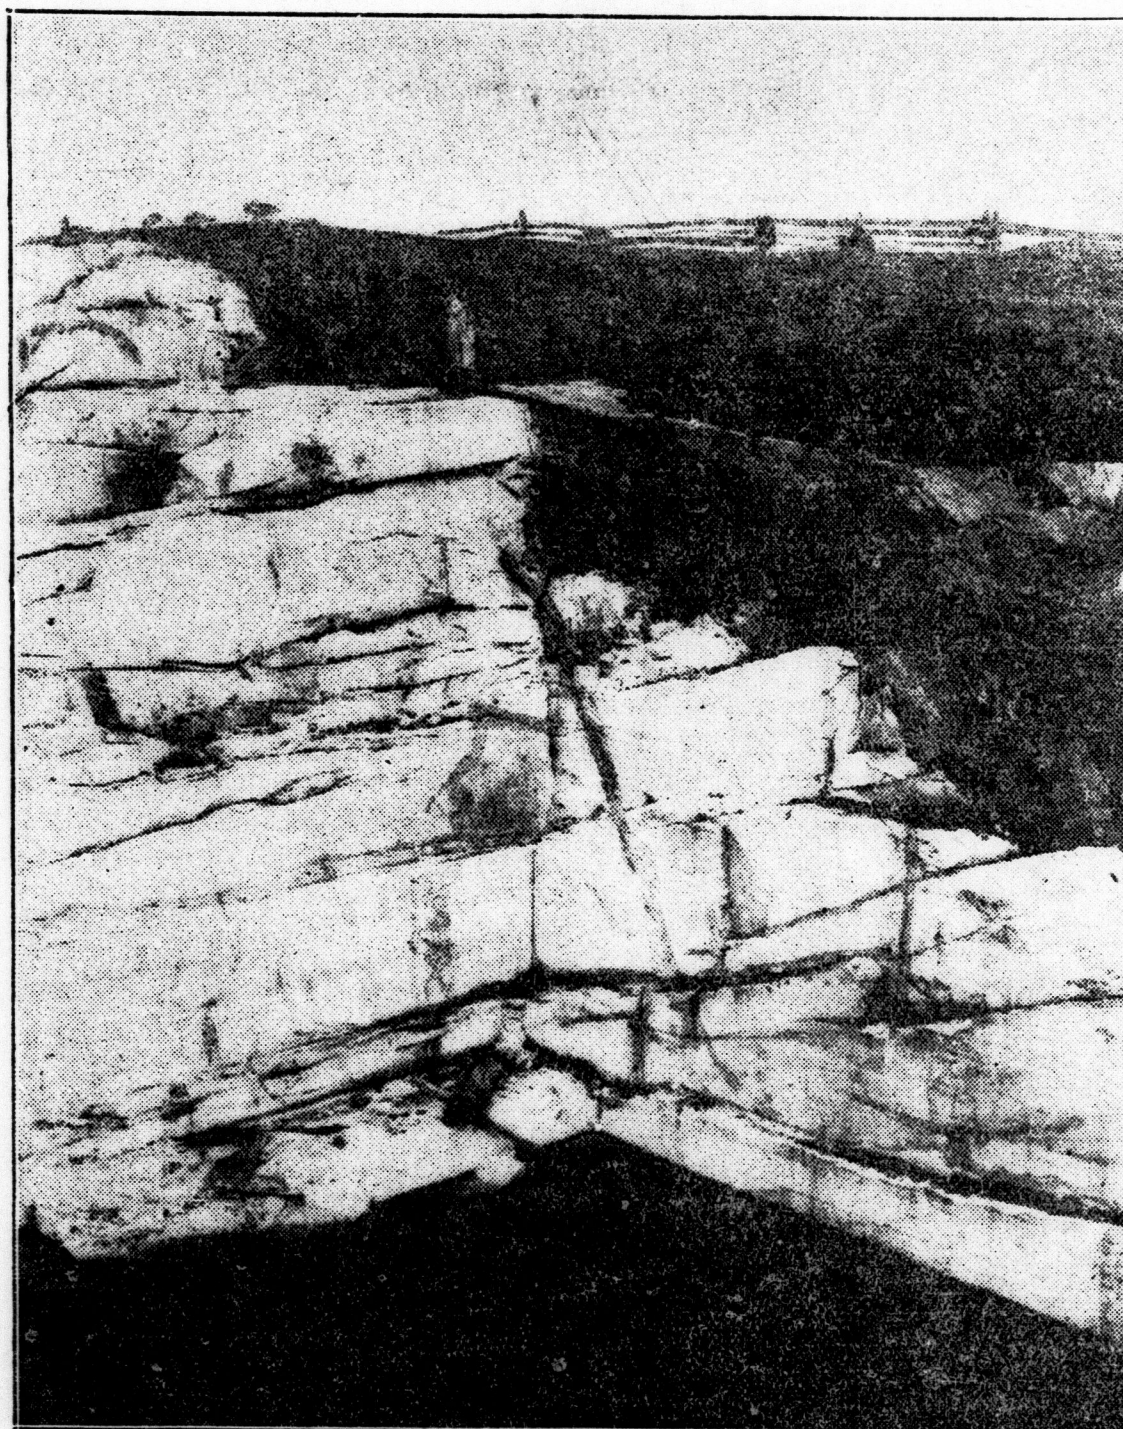

Canada paid out in eight years ending 1919 over three million dollars for imported marble FOR INTERIOR WORK ONLY. This does not include immense sums for foreign stone imported for exterior work. Furthermore, nearly five years were "war years," when imports were small and building was at a standstill.

A very conservative estimate of Canada's marble requirements over the next five years would be at least $5,000,000 worth, and the increasing population and wealth, with the extensive building construction necessary, may easily double that figure.

The Bancroft Quarries can supply all demands of the trade in marble for interior work and high-class building marble for exterior work.

The letter of Mr. J. J. Lamigeon, Italian marble expert, of London, England, as published in this paper yesterday, gave it as his opinion that an extensive trade could be secured in Europe.

We have the assurances of Government officials and departments, also many Canadian architects and building contractors, that Bancroft marble will be specified for all work as soon as we are in a position to deliver in quantity.

View at one corner of a Bancroft white marble quarry. By judging the height of the man at the top one gets an idea of the depth of this cut, and as one government expert says: "You have only scratched the surface."

This investment is different to gold shares because while some few gold mining stocks have proven of high value, not one in a hundred is a good investment, and the public never share in the really valuable mines.

Furthermore, a gold mine, even if a producer, may suddenly "peter out" and be worthless, as has happened many times before.

There is no such danger with this great marble property. One expert mining professor said, after examination of our lands: "If this generation took out all the marble it could, you have enough there for a thousand generations after this one."

This investment is different to oil shares because with oil stocks you are only too often pouring money into "a hole in the ground." Who ever heard of the public being enriched out of an oil proposition? People buying oil stocks are frequently asked to put up more money, and more money, for the purpose of sinking deeper in search of oil, which only too often is never found.

Here, again, the real money-makers in oil stocks are confined to the fortunate few, and the public is not "on the inside."

War Memorial Hospital Committee Reports Work well Advanced For Opening.

Names Representatives To Assist in Preparing Program For Oct. 28.

"At last!"

Here and there in the clubroom of the King street Y. W. C. A. the whisper was heard on Friday afternoon, when the point was reached in the proceedings of the October meeting of the War Memorial Hospital committee for the convenor, Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, to announce: "And now we have come to the time to make plans for the opening of the hospital."

Committee members who had been all through the grand campaign from the very beginning settled back in their chairs with contented smiles on their faces. Three years before the War Memorial Children's Hospital was just a great idea. Friday afternoon the work had progressed to the point where the committee endorsed china, decorated with red poppies, in echo of Flanders, and nursery rhyme songs. Mrs. H. J. Sutherland, convenor of the sewing committee of the King Niven Chapter, I. O. D. E., announced that already enough linen supplies have been finished with which to open the hospital.

Since no answer has been yet received from Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, president of the War Memorial Hospital, formerly commander-in-chief of the Canadian overseas forces, to the invitation to officiate at the opening on Oct. 28, it was decided to send him a night letter.

Name Program Committee. Five members of the hospital committee, with the convenor, Mrs. A. H. Smith, were named to co-operate with five members of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., and the hospital trust, in arranging the opening day program. The importance was pointed out of consultation with military authorities, especially if Sir Arthur Currie, with Lady Currie, is to be here. The hospital committee

A Good Medicine For the Baby

Nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets as a medicine for little ones. They are a laxative, mild but thorough in action, and never fail to relieve constipation, colic, colds and simple fevers. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. James des Aulnais, Quebec, writes: "I always keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They are the best medicine I know of for little ones and I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.—Adv.

Difficult to Keep Your Hair Wavy? Read This

If you have not yet tried the new way, the alkaline way, by all means do so. Whether your hair be long or bobbed, you'll never again use the ruinous heated iron. The alkaline way will so perfectly natural and the hair will be so beautifully lustrous, instead of dried and parted down the middle. It should be applied with a clean toothbrush before putting on the hair, drawing the brush through the hair from root to tip. The hair will have the loveliest curls and waves imaginable in a few hours, and it will be easy to manage, no matter how you do it up. A few ounces of the liquid from your druggist will last a long time.—Adv.

Daughter of Rectory Becomes Bride Of Well-Known Young London Man

The marriage took place at 3 o'clock Thursday at St. John's Church, London Township, of Frances Annette, youngest daughter of Rev. William Lowe and Mrs. Lowe of London Township, to George Gunn, son of Mrs. W. A. Gunn of this city. Rev. Canon G. B. Sage of St. George's Church officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white beaded tulle, with a circle of silver leaves and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white lilies. Mrs. C. B. Ross, sister of the bride, in a gown of wallflower georgette, with black picture hat and carrying a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, was matron of honor. The groom was attended by his brother, Kenneth Gunn. The Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by the bride's mother. During the signing of the register Mrs. Dufferin Douglas, also a sister of the bride, sang "Oh Perfect Love." Mrs. Douglas wore a gown of black velvet hat and a corsage of roses. The church was decorated with autumn flowers and foliage.

representatives appointed were Mrs. Niven, Mrs. G. Routledge, Lambeth; Mrs. A. E. Miller, Mrs. E. H. Nelles and Miss Mary Grant, also representing Middlesex County.

A message from Mr. J. J. Foote, given by Mrs. A. H. Smith, that only $12,000 remained to be collected in the special campaign under way in Western Ontario, was greeted with applause, which became still more fervent when the added information was given: "And it is fully expected this will be in by the 25th of October."

Mrs. C. L. Campbell, honorary treasurer, reported that $182,500 of $180,000 pledged, had been paid over to the building committee, and $2,356.54 for materials. A balance remained in the bank on Oct. 6 of $8,896.68, though several calls were to be met out of this amount.

Linen Ready for Opening. Mrs. H. J. Sutherland reported that the splendid total of 2,500 articles had been completed in the way of linen and garments for the little patients, and 2,050 articles had been cut and given out to be made up since May.

Warm tributes were paid the sewing committee by the convenor, and other members of the hospital committee.

On motion of Mrs. J. S. Niven it was decided to make all plates to be used in connection with endowments of uniform size. While the hospital committee has made arrangements to pay for the plates, it was recorded that if any organizations making endowment wished to pay for their own this would be most acceptable.

In addition to the provincial president, Mrs. Arthur H. Smith, and the provincial secretary-treasurer, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, London will be represented next Monday at the annual convention of Ontario United Hospital Aides by Mrs. Niven and Mrs. Routledge.

A letter was read from Gen. W. B. King, G.O.C., consenting to act on the hospital committee and advisory board, and also one from Mr. James Gray, stating he would be pleased to act on the building committee. The name of Miss Emery was added to the hospital committee. Mrs. E. H. Young reported that the Princess Mary wedding gift fund to endow a cot had reached $671. It was voted to add to this the balance from the Scots Guards band concert, and also the proceeds from the musical held this week in the home

NO. 9 MOSA W. I.
The No. 9 Mosa branch of the W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Archie Burke on Thursday, Sept. 28, with Miss Anne M. Walker, president, in the chair.

Miss Jessie Mitchell and Miss Sarah McLachlin were appointed delegates to attend the London convention, to be held on Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

An interesting paper, entitled "Making Our Lives a Success," was given by Mrs. D. C. Graham, and a vocal duet was rendered by Miss Sarah McLachlin and Mrs. Stuart Nisbet.

Godfrey McMurchy and Mrs. J. C. Graham were appointed to take charge of the program for the next monthly meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. D. C. Graham. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

WITH THE BRIDES

STEWART-LACEY.

Knox Church manse was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, Oct. 5, when Miss Florence Edna Lacey and Wayne A. Stewart of this city were united in marriage by the Rev. T. A. Symington, M.A. The bride was attended by Miss Clara Walker, and Leonard Brennan supported the groom. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stewart left for a motor trip, and will later take up residence in this city.

AUTHORESS-JUDGE IS COMING TO TOWN

Judge Murphy, Alias Janey Canuck, To Address Women's Canadian Club Monday.

Janey Canuck is coming to town, and all the chapters, clubs, or whatever the organization may be that have taken the name of this gifted Canadian woman, are looking forward with eager interest to perceiving, obtaining a glimpse of her.

Under the more sedate name of Judge Emily Murphy, or Mrs. Arthur Murphy of Edmonton, she is going to address the Women's Canadian Club on Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, in the Central Collegiate Auditorium.

After angling for years in order to capture for the club, a visit from this distinguished woman, a telephone message to the home of her sister, Mrs. Ferguson Burke in Toronto, on Thursday evening brought about the happy results.

Whatever she talks about is bound to be interesting and informing, as everybody knows who has read her breezy books of past years, during which she has gone back, back, back to discover the causes of crime with which she is daily confronted as a woman magistrate in Edmonton. The drug traffic has had good cause to tremble at the beginning of the week, and it is due to her efforts, in this connection that she is very much in the public eye just at the present moment.

Though her mission in life is to eradicate and not encourage crime, Janey Canuck has as many aliases as an international crook.

Under the name of "Emily Ferguson," her very own maiden name, she gave to the world her first impressions of the Canadian west, when a dozen or so more years ago she trekked towards the land of wheat and promise, with the family "padre," and her two young daughters. Even going up on the boat to Port Arthur, she called to see nothing when sailing but the dining-table and the engine because of the pistons, wheels, belts and shafts that strain, sweat and growl under driving steam, possessed such a fascination for her, offered such endless mystery to be solved.

Her interest in knowing "what makes the wheels go round" has caused her to delve far under the surface of things-as-They-Appear in the building of national life, or in the police of juvenile court proceedings, and this is why her discoveries have been regarded as worthy while, and thinking people have come to look upon her statements as authoritative.

And still Janey Canuck manages to keep amusing, as humorous as the day she echoed the sentiments of Gail Hamilton, "I thought I was a Christian, but we've been moving."

Immediately after her arrival in London she will be carried off for luncheon by members of the Women's Press Club, who consider they have very first claim upon her. Not only is Janey Canuck a writer of books, and a journalist who manages to sell her articles. For seven whole years she was president of the Canadian Women's Press Club, during all the long war years and the readjustment time when the triennial meeting of women scribes was quite unthinkable.

Coming to Western Ontario she is coming back home, coming back to the garden spot of Canada, where her girlhood and early married years were spent. Coming to London she will be welcomed by many old friends, who are proud of the fact. She is a Canadian woman who has been mentioned in many quarters for the Canadian Senate.

THORNDALE W. I. ENDOWING COT

The question of donating $500 to endow a crib in the War Memorial Children's Hospital was presented by Mrs. B. Fitzgerald, presiding officer, at the October meeting of Thorndale Women's Institute, held in the home of Mrs. James H. Wheaton. After thorough discussion it was decided to canvas the Township of West Nisour, and a member in each ward was appointed to take charge of the district. The ladies appointed were Mrs. E. McMartin, Mrs. (Dr.) Morrison, Mrs. Joseph Mossip and Mrs. James Kennedy.

About fifty were present at the meeting, answering roll call with current events, after the singing of the institute ode.

Mrs. George Edwards of Komoka, president of the Ontario Federated Institutes, was a guest of the afternoon, delivering a helpful address on the value of community service, in which she complimented the Thorndale Institute on its excellent work in improving the cemetery of the township, and the fine community spirit that prevailed. She congratulated the institute on its decision to aid so substantially the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

An awakening address was given by Miss Florence Harrison on the topic, "What Money Cannot Buy," in the course of which she mentioned wealth, health, home and heaven. "We owe debts to our friends," doctors, leader, industrial and religious, that we can never pay with gold," she declared, adding, "It is our duty to preserve our health. God made us all to be happy, surrounding us with a world of beauty even the poorest can enjoy."

Other numbers on the program were: Piano solos, Mrs. R. H. Wheaton and Miss Elsie Murphy; vocal solo, Mrs. P. K. Walters, and a reading by Miss Ida Cunningham. Mrs. George Colbert, Mrs. (Dr.) Walters, Mrs. R. R. Wheaton and Mrs. H. B. Mossip arranged the program. Mrs. F. Opait and Mrs. W. Woods

The FLAMING JEWEL

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

©1922 GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

The lure of the flaming jewel, that priceless jewel stolen from the royal jewel casket of the north, was the COUNTESS OF ESTHONIA, was drawing a group of clashing and violent spirits to the "hell's kitchen" of the Adirondacks, the disreputable "hotel" owned by MIKE CLINCH.

Here lived a life of crime, surrounded by the riff-raff of the north. The only good influence over him was his beautiful step-daughter, EVE STRAYER. To give her the education of a lady was the sole passion of Clinch, and to do that he would stop at nothing. There arrived at his hotel

JAMES DARRAGH, known to Clinch as JAL SMITH, who has sworn to restore the flaming jewel to the countess, from whom it had been stolen by QUINTANA, the great international thief.

Go on with the story.

EPISODE TWO.

The Ruffian.

CHAPTER I.

NOBODY understood how Joe Quintana had slipped through the secret service net spread for him at every port.

The United States authorities did not know why Quintana had come to America. They realized merely that he arrived for no good purpose, and they meant to arrest and hold him for extradition if requested; for deportation was an undesirable alien anyway.

Only two men in America knew that Quintana had come to the United States for the purpose of recovering the famous flaming jewel, stolen by him from the Grand Duchess Theodora of Esthonia; and stolen from Quintana in turn by a private soldier in an American forestry regiment on leave in Paris. This soldier's name probably was Michael Clinch.

One of the men who knew why Quintana might come to America was James Darragh, recently of the military intelligence, but now passing as a hold-up man under the name of Hal Smith, and actually in the employment of Clinch at his disreputable "hotel" at Star Pond in the North Woods.

The other man who knew why Quintana had come to America was Emanuel Sard, a Levantine diamond broker in New York, Quintana's agent in America.

Now, as October days passed without any report of Quintana's detention, Darragh, known as Hal Smith at Clinch's dump, began to suspect that Quintana had already slid into America through the meshes of the police.

If so, this desperate international criminal could be expected at Clinch's under some guise or other, piloted thither by Emanuel Sard.

So Hal Smith, whose duty it was to wash dishes, do chores, and also to supply Clinch's "mountain beef,"—or deer taken illegally—made it convenient to prove every day in the vicinity of the Ghost Lake road.

He was perfectly familiar with Emanuel Sard's squat features and parrot nose, having robbed Mr. Sard of Quintana's cipher and of $4,000 at pistol point. And one morning, while roving around the wilderness at Ghost Lake Inn, Smith beheld Sard himself on the hotel veranda, in company with five strangers of foreign aspect.

During the midday dinner Smith, on pretense of inquiring for a guide's "se," got a look at the inn ledger, a signature was on it, followed by the names of Henri Picquet, Nicholas Bazar, Victor Georgiades, Harry Beck and Jose Sanchez. And Smith went back through the wilderness to Star Pond, convinced that one of these gentlemen was Quintana, and the remainder Quintana's gang; and that they were here to murder if necessary in their remorseless quest of the flaming jewel. Two million dollars once had been offered for the flaming jewel, and had been refused.

CHAPTER II.

CLINCH'S dump was the disposal plant in which collected the human sewage of the wilderness.

It being Saturday, the scum of the North Woods was gathering at the Star Pond resort. A venison and chicken supper was promised—and a dance if any women appeared.

Wake Klon had run in some Canadian hootch; Darragh, alias Hal Smith, contributed two fat deer, and Clinch cooked them. By 10 o'clock that morning many of the men were growling noisy; some were already drunk by noon. Shortly after midday dinner the first fight started—extinguished only after Clinch had beaten several of the backwoods aristocracy insensible.

Towering amid the wreck of battle, his light gray eyes a-glitter, Clinch dominated, swinging his iron fists.

Brown Is Favorite Color of Fall

There is never any use ignoring shades—copper, sable, bronze, cocoa, amber, beaver, topaz, chocolate. Muffin and maple sugar are new shades of tan. Cana and well-flowers are new henna shades. Bob-o-link is a new brown that is very popular.

A good thing to remember this season when asking for a certain shade of brown is that "wood browns" is a name that will cover them all.

WE will leave Jack Daw for today and go back and peek in on his widowed mother. Hard times have overtaken her and she is worried because rent is due.

Clinch, now obsessed by his mono-named Earl Leverett, slung hastily by mania, went on with an oath: "I can't make no money on the level after what Harrod done to me. And I gotta fix up Eve. What the hell do you mean by asking me would it pay me to travel straight? I dunno." "I was only thinking of Eve. A lady isn't supposed to have a crook for a father."

Clinch's gray eyes blazed for a moment, then their menacing glare dulled, died out into wintry fixity.

"I want a crook," he said. "I ain't got no choice. And don't worry, young fella; they ain't a-going to get me."

"You can't go on beating the game forever, Clinch."

"I'm beating it—," he hesitated; "and it won't be so long, neither, before I turn over enough to let Eve live in the city like any lady, with her automobile and her own butler and all her swell friends, in a big house like she is educated for—"

He broke off abruptly as a procession approached from the lake escorting the battered gentry, who now were about as wealthy about a little.

One of them a fox-faced trap thief

CHAPTER V.

Bethmann.

I HAD been well acquainted since my youth with Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg. When I was in active service for the first time in 1877, as lieutenant in the Sixth Company of the First Infantry Guard Regiment, he was quartermaster at Hohenzollern, the home of old Herr von Bethmann, father of the chancellor. I was attracted by the pleasant family circle there, which was presided over by Frau von Bethmann, a most worthy lady, born of Swiss nationality, amiable and refined.

Often, as prince and later as emperor, I went to Hohenzollern to visit the old gentlemen, and I was always on every occasion by the young head of the rural district administration; at that time neither of us imagined that he would become imperial chancellor under me.

From these visits an intimate relationship sprang up little by little, which served to increase steadily my esteem for the diligence, ability and noble character of Bethmann, which were much to my liking. These qualities clung to him throughout his career.

As chief president and as imperial secretary of state for the interior, Bethmann gave a good account of himself, and while occupying the last-named post, made his appearance successfully before the Reichstag.

Co-operation with the chancellor was easy for me. With Bethmann I kept up my custom of daily visits whenever possible, and of discussing with him, while walking in the garden of the chancellor's palace, on politics, events of the day, special bills, and occurrences and of hearing reports from him. It was also pleasure for me to visit the chancellor's home, since Bethmann's spouse was the very model of a genuine German wife, one whose simple distinction earned the esteem of every visitor, while her winning kindness of heart spread around her an atmosphere of cordiality. During the Bethmann regime the custom of holding small evening receptions, instituted by Prince Bulow and most enjoyable to me, was continued, and this enabled me to keep on associating informally with men of all circles and walks of life.

In the journeys which the chancellor had to make in order to introduce himself, he won esteem everywhere by his distinguished calm and sincere methods of expression. Such foreign countries as were not hostile to us considered him a factor making for political stability and peace, to the maintenance and strengthening of which he devoted his most zealous efforts. This was entirely to my liking.

In foreign politics he bustled himself from the start with the position of England in relation to Germany, and with the policy of "encirclement" of King Edward VII, which had made itself felt more and more since Reval, and was a source of worry to Bethmann. This was likewise true of the growing desire for revenge and enmity of France, and the unreliability of Russia. During his regime as chancellor it became clear that Italy was no longer to be reckoned with militarily; the work of Barriere in that country made "extra tours" chronic.

Upon assuming office, Herr von Bethmann found the situation with regard to France cleared up to such an extent that the German-French Morocco agreement had been signed on Feb. 9, 1909. By recognizing thereby the political predominance of France in Morocco, Prince Bulow had put the finishing touch to the German policy.

SUDDENLY she heard a horse gallop up to her door. A rural mail carrier greeted her as she stepped out on to the little porch. Then he handed her a letter.

He and Smith followed the procession of damaged ones into the house. The big unspiced room where a bar had once been was blue with cheap cigar smoke; the air reeked with the stench of beer and spirits. A score or more shambling forest louts in their dingy Saturday finery were gathered there playing cards, shooting craps, rolling around tables, and tilting slopping glasses at one another.

Heavy pleasantries were exchanged with the victims of Clinch's rancor as they re-entered the room from which they had been borne so recently feet first.

"Now, boys," said Clinch kindly, "act up like gentlemen and behave friendly. And if any ladies come in for the chicken supper, why, god darn it, we'll have a dance."

Radio Radiations

THIS MAY SOON BE A COMMON SCENE IN MOST ANY HOTEL TEAROOM, LATEST REPORTS INDICATE. MISS HARRIET BERGWOLL AND MISS MILDRED ANDERSON, BROOKLYN, ARE SIPPING A COLD DRINK WHILE ENJOYING A RADIO CONCERT.

WIRELESS apparatus will be the newest convenience added to modern hotels in the not distant future, according to latest reports from hotel managers. As an accessory to hotel interests its possibilities are said to be almost without limit.

Improvements in radio communication are coming so rapidly that hotel men say they cannot much longer do without it. Numerous hotels have already instituted radio service for their patrons. Others are falling in line.

The wireless is expected to play an important part in the entertainment of hotel guests. Plans and systems are already being evolved whereby guests may secure such entertainment as desired.

Like Arcade Machine.

One of these plans is for receiving sets that operate only on deposit of a quarter—"two bits."

Desiring radio entertainment, the hotel guest or hospital patient goes through much the same performance and detachments from the Indian and Colonial contingents, all in the traditional attitude of mourning—heads bowed, hands crossed over the butts and hilts of their reversed arms.

The old gray hall, covered by its great Gothic wooden ceiling, towered imposingly over the catafalque, lighted merely by a few rays of the sun filtering through narrow windows. One ray flooded the magnificent coffin of the king, surmounted by the English crown, and made marvelous play with the colors of the precious stones adorning it.

Past the catafalque countless throngs of men, women and children of all classes and strata in the nation passed in silence, many with hands folded, to bid a reverent farewell to him who had been so popular as a ruler. A most impressive picture in its marvelous medieval setting.

I went up to the catafalque with King George, placed a cross upon it, and spoke a silent prayer, after which my right hand and that of my royal cousin found each other, quite unconsciously on our part, and met in a firm clasp. This made a deep impression on those who witnessed it, to such an extent that, in the evening, one of my relations said to me: "Your handshake with our king is all over London; the people are deeply impressed by it, and take it as a good omen for the future."

"That is the sincerest wish of my heart," I replied.

At the funeral of our king I was a witness of the tremendous and impressive demonstration of grief on the part of the vast multitude—estimated at several millions—on streets, balconies and roofs, every one of whom stood with bowed head, among all of whom reigned perfect order and absolute stillness. Upon this sombre solemn background the files of British soldiers stood out all the more gorgeously. In splendid array marched the battalions of the English Guards, Grenadiers, Scots Guards, Coldstream, Irish Guards—in their perfectly-fitting coats, white leather facings and heavy bearskin headgear; all picked troops of superb appearance and admirable martial bearing, a joy to any man with the heart of a soldier. And all the troops lined the path of the funeral cortege stood in the attitude of mourning already described.

During my stay I resided, at the special desire of King George, in Buckingham Palace. The widow of the dead King Queen Alexandra, received me with moving and charming kindness, and talked much with me about bygone days; my recollections stretched back to my childhood, since I, while still a little boy, had been present at the wedding of my dead uncle.

The Pichon Conversation.

The King gave a banquet to the many princely guests and their suites, as well as for the representatives of foreign nations, at which M. Pichon was also present. He was introduced to me and, in conversation with him, I told him of the wishes which the imperial chancellor had communicated to me regarding our interests in Morocco and some other perfectly well understood that a man of pacifist inclinations should act thus in the hope of avoiding a war thereby. His object was entirely in accord with my policy. The ways and means whereby Bethmann sought to achieve it were, in my opinion, unsuitable. Nevertheless, I backed his endeavors. But I certainly did not believe that real success would result. It became ever more apparent, while he was chancellor, that he was remote from political realities. Yet he always knew everything better than anybody else. Owing to the overestimation of his own powers he was always unwavering in his ideas, even when things all turned out differently from what he had expected.

His reports were always admirably prepared, brilliant in form, and, hence, impressive and attractive. And in this there was an element of danger. In his opinion there was always but one solution, the one which he proposed! The apparent solidity and thoroughness of his reports and suggestions, the illuminating treatment of the matters reported upon from every angle, the references to experts, to foreign and native statesmen and diplomats, etc., easily led to the impression that solely the Bethmann solution was worthy of consideration. In spite of these thorough preparations, he made mistake after mistake.

Thus he had an actual share in our misfortune. When I returned from my Norwegian trip in 1914 he did not place his resignation in my hands, to be sure, but he admitted that his political calculations had gone wrong. Nevertheless, I left him in office, even after his Reichstag speech and the English declaration of war of August 4, 1914, because I considered it most serious to change the highest official in the empire at the most critical moment in German history. The unanimous attitude of the nation in the face of the challenge from the Entente might have been impaired by such action.

Moreover, both the chancellor and the chief of the civil cabinet maintained that they had the working classes behind them. I was loath to deprive the working classes, which behaved in an exemplary manner in 1914, of the statesman whom, I had been told, they trusted.

THE letter explained how the money had been a reward for Jack's bravery. Tears of gladness rolled down his mother's cheeks. Continued in next chapter.

What Women Are Accomplishing in London.

ST. MARY'S M. U.

Meeting recently, the Mothers' Unit of St. Mary's School made plans for the bazaar, to be held Tuesday evening in the auditorium. Mrs. M. Carney, president; Mrs. W. J. Hoy, vice-president, and Mrs. Charles Conroy will be joint convenors. The refreshment committee includes Mesdames J. Arkin, T. Kinsella, E. McCormick, Haines and Ryan. Music will be supplied by the Lethbridge orchestra.

ST. JAMES' CHURCH BAZAAR.

All the women's organizations of St. James' Church, South London, are co-operating this year in the annual bazaar, which will be held in the church school on Nov. 15 and 16.

COLBORNE ST. M. C.

The October meeting of Colborne Street Mission Circle was held on Thursday night at the home of Miss Edna Merkle, Piccadilly street.

Mrs. (Dr.) Weeks, who has recently returned from attending the forty-first annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in Toronto, gave a very profitable and interesting account of the convention. This included latest news of missions as given by returned missionaries and others at the gathering.

The rest of the program consisted of a short talk by Mrs. Albright on "The Mission Circle and Its Aim," a solo by Miss I. Elliott, a reading by Mrs. J. Henderson. The circle accepted an invitation to go to Exeter and put on their play, namely, "Cranford." Refreshments and a social half-hour were spent at the close of the meeting.

COLDSTREAM W. I.

The regular meeting of the Coldstream Women's Institute will be held at the home of Miss Laura Wood on Tuesday, Oct. 10. The program is being prepared by the girls of the institute, which will close the contest between the married and single ladies.

political matters, which M. Pichon readily agreed to carry out. All other combinations connected in various quarters with this talk, belong in the domain of fancy.

Although the period between 1909 and 1914 demanded extraordinary attention to foreign events, interior development was, nevertheless, promoted zealously, and efforts made to meet the demands of commerce, transportation, agriculture and industry, which were growing rapidly. Unfortunately, endeavors in this direction were made much more difficult by the discord among political parties.

The chancellor wished to accomplish everything possible of accomplishment. But his inclination to get to the bottom of problems and his desire to deal only with what was, from his meticulous critical standpoint, thoroughly matured, tended, in the course of time, to hamper progress. It was difficult to bring him to make decisions before he was thoroughly convinced of their being absolutely free from objection. This made working with him tiresome and aroused in those not close to him the impression of vacillation, whereas, in reality, it was merely overconscientiousness carried too far.

In addition, the chancellor eventually developed a strong and growing inclination toward domination; in discussions this tended to make him obstinate and caused him to lay down the law to those thinking otherwise as dogmatically as a school teacher. This brought him many enemies and often made things hard for him. A boyhood friend of the chancellor, to whom I spoke once about this, replied, with a smile, that it had been so with him even in school; there Herr von Bethmann had constantly taught and schoolmastered his fellow-students, of whom my informant was one, so that finally his classmates had nicknamed him "the governor."

He added that this trait was a misfortune for Bethmann, but that it had so grown into his very being that he would never be able to get rid of it.

An example of this is Bethmann's relationship to Herr von Kiderlen, whom he desired to have as secretary of state, despite my emphatic objections. Herr von Kiderlen was an able worker and a man of strong character, who always sought to assert his independence. He had been about one year in office when Herr von Bethmann came to me one day, complained of Kiderlen's obstinacy and insubordination, and asked me to appeal to his conscience. I declined, with the observation that the chancellor had chosen Kiderlen against my wishes and must now manage to get along with him; that the maintenance of discipline at the foreign office was a duty devolving upon the chancellor, in which I had no desire to interfere.

Finally, with Bethmann.

Meanwhile, Bethmann's inadequacy to the post of chancellor became evident. Deep down in his heart he was a pacifist and was obsessed with the aberration of coming to an understanding with England. I can

AUTOMOTIVE SECTION

ADVISES BEST WAYS TO CLEAN OUT OIL BASE

Vice-President of Canadian Oil Companies, Ltd., Gives Timely Advice to Motorists.

RECOMMENDS BEST OILS

"Lack of proper attention to the lubricating system of an automobile motor has cost more money than all accidents or break-downs in the entire use of a motor car," says Frank H. Littlefield, vice-president of Canadian Oil Companies, Limited, makers of En-ar-co motor oils, who was in town recently.

"When a motorist sees a tack or a eal in his tire he pulls it out; if the steering gear shimmys he has it tightened, and if there is a piston slap he gets it corrected," Mr. Littlefield added; "but too many are inclined to let the oil take care of itself, and do little else other than add a quart or two when the spirit moves them."

"This is the worst possible practice. The automobile motor is a highly refined mechanical product. Close-fitting, accurate machining, and the necessity for 'sealed' pistons if the car is to develop its full power, are all necessary to secure what the average owner means by a good running motor.

"Lubrication must be right or everything goes wrong. In the circulation of lubricating oil through the motor it must run up along the piston walls, some of it goes by the piston rings, a little gets on top of the pistons. The heat in the cylinders causes carbon. Look at the oil gauge of any car with a sight feed indicator. When the new oil is put in, after the crank case has been drained, it runs through as a clear stream for a short time. Then it starts to darken, until it finally gets black. If it were not for carbon and other dirt in the cylinders and lubricating system, the oil would stay clean and hold its original color.

"After 500 miles of running, with a new motor, and after each 750 to 1,000 miles of running with a motor that has been thoroughly worked in, it is absolutely necessary to drain the oil and replace it with fresh lubricant. Not only is draining necessary, but the lubricating system should be washed out. This can be done by pouring a quart of light oil into the crank case and running the motor on the starter or turning it over with the crank for a few minutes. Then this oil should be drained out and the regulation amount of new oil put in.

"This cleaning process is necessary on account of the accumulations of dirt and carbon in the oil grooves in the crank shaft bearings and in the oil leads through the motor. The fresh oil, run without heat in the motor, washes these accumulations out.

"Proper attention to lubrication will greatly lengthen the life of any motor, and add immeasurably to the satisfaction of owning a car."

"The same kind of attention should be paid to the transmission and the rear axle. Dirty oil acts like a grit compound, grinding and wearing on the working parts. Loose, chattering gears, noisy transmission and rear axles, can usually be traced to improper lubrication.

"Manufacturers put oil drains on their motors, gear cases and rear axles for a definite purpose. This purpose is to enable the owner to drain out the old oil and put in new.

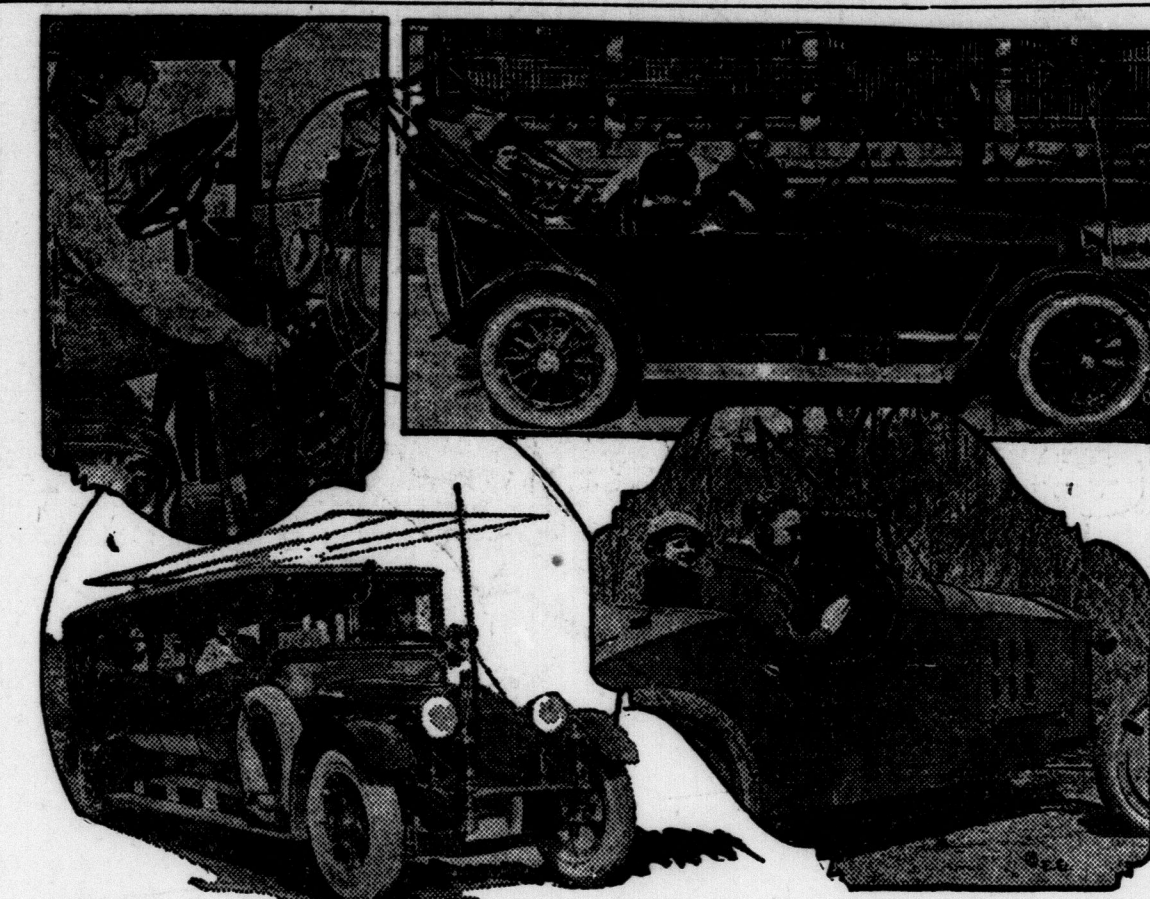

"But the average owner thinks the job is too dirty. In many cases it does mean soiled hands and clothes. Canadian Oil Companies, Limited, has endeavored to offset this condition and render a real service to the car owner, where the representatives of En-ar-co products will examine the oil in the car, and if a change is necessary will drain the old oil off. The draining service and examination are free.

"Not only should the owner be careful to have this attention rendered to his car at regular intervals, but he should also be careful in his selection of lubricant. Any old oil is worse than no oil at all. A man would not oil his watch with axle grease. Poor oil is as bad as water after a few miles of running.

"The car owner should select a grade of oil which he knows is right for his car, and then stick to it. The careful motorist usually takes a supply of his particular oil with him when he starts on a long trip, and saves money and time by doing so.

"These free lubricating stations are really schooling points for the motorist, and we are endeavoring to get him to accept them in that sense, so that he may get uniformly good service out of his car."

Radio and Auto Twin Brothers in Rapid Development

TWO of the latest achievements of mankind have joined hands. Automobiles and radio.

Henceforth, these children will grow up together, almost as twins, for their own increased benefit and pleasure.

Signs of their progress come from

CLEAN SPARK PLUGS. When the cylinders pump oil the spark plugs will foul. A temporary prevention is to attach a half-inch 45-degree L to the cylinder head in place of the spark plug. The plug can then be screwed into the L so that it is safe from the harmful spray of oil.

all parts of Canada. Automobiles are going on tours, hand-in-hand with younger brother, radio. Even automobile buses have taken radio along for the pleasure of the occupants.

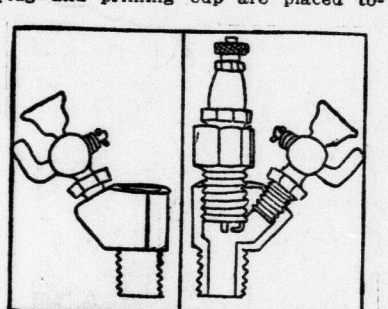

A Winnipeg enthusiast has rigged up his machine with a complete radio receiving set so as to keep in touch with the city wherever he may be.

The United States, Great Britain, Canada and France own more than 93 per cent of the world's automobiles. Illinois is preparing a huge illuminated map to show progress of its road construction.

FINE HUNTING "Where To Hunt, Fish and Paddle in the New North" is the title of a new publication, dealing with territory along the Transcontinental line of the Canadian National Railways in Northern Ontario and Quebec. Full information is contained therein relative to where game may be found, guides, camps, equipment, etc., and, in addition, a series of comprehensive maps. This virgin country offers ideal sport for the hunter. Apply to City Passenger Office, Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways, corner Richmond and Dundas streets, London, Ont.

His aerial takes the form of a flat-top, 16-wire type. The receiver has a vacuum tube detector and three stages of amplification connected to a loud speaker. The automobile's storage battery furnishes the filament current, and a radio "B" battery is under the back seat for plate current.

PRIMING CONNECTION. By means of a double joint, spark plug and priming cup are placed together in such a way as to keep the spark points away from splashing oil and direct the gasoline for priming to flow by the plug. The joint is screwed into the base of the spark plug.

The world's smallest factory-made auto is so small the entire four-cylinder power plant can be held in one arm.

Is your factory a museum?

YOUR job as a manufacturer is to keep in touch with the buying public and to make it trust you. Otherwise, the buyer is indifferent to your product, and your factory becomes a museum for dead stock.

Your closest contact with your customers is your advertising in the Daily Newspapers. The people who buy this newspaper today did so yesterday and will do so tomorrow for one prime reason—to get the news. The shopping crowds at any department store prove how closely such news is read. Perfect your contact through the advertising space you rent for today, and give them more news—today's news of your product, your prices, your service and your avenues of distribution.

You can do this in only one way—through the Daily Newspapers.

If you tell the truth and do your job as well by the readers as the daily newspaper does by you in providing and retaining them, you will not need to advertise in any other way.

FIRE PREVENTION—CLEAN UP AND PAINT UP

Protect Your

CAUTION WILL PREVENT FIRES

Fire Prevention Week Impresses Need of Thought On All Citizens.

TO REDUCE LOSSES

Clean Up of Business and Residential Districts Necessary For Protection.

It has been said that fire, under control, is man's greatest friend, and that fire, out of control, is man's greatest enemy.

In Fire Prevention Week, there is a seeking after the perpetual chaining of man's greatest enemy so that it becomes man's most powerful friend.

The campaign has as its object not only a reduction of the stupendous fire loss which the Dominion suffers yearly, but in addition the general improvement of homes and their surroundings, to the end that all danger
of fire may be a thing of the past.

Carelessness and neglect of rubbish
are two great causes of fire, and with a general clean-up campaign and the installing into home-owners and tenants a pride in their surroundings,
these two sources would be removed.
Ambition cannot be furthered without pride in what has already been accomplished, and a city cannot forge ahead unless citizens can sit back in their few leisure moments and view with complacency what has already been accomplished.

Citizens Must Help.
Houses, well painted and in good repair, with neatly-kept back yards and gardens, can be a source of pride
to any city, but dust and rubbish piles, and sordid vistas of worn and weather-stained lumber can be an inspiration to nobody, much less an aid to the advancement of a city.

To the end that London may keep step with cities of similar size in the Dominion, and that her share in the national loss by fire may be greatly diminished, the movement for fire prevention has been widespread amongst citizens.

Prevention is decidedly better than a cure, in the case of fire, and fire cannot be prevented without an attendant clean-up of homes and buildings in the city.

No fire-prevention campaign can be carried to a successful completion
without the aid of the women of London. The use of electricity has, somewhat contrary to the general trend of opinion, done away to a great extent with danger of fire, since it caused the passing out of the old oil lamps and other dangerous implements, but there is still an element of danger caused by carelessness, and neglect of children which allows them to indulge in pranks.

However, equal responsibility rests
upon men who are careless smokers,
and between the two, that is to say,
amongst all the citizens of London,
there must be a close co-operation,
that the city may be genuinely improved and all danger of fire reduced to a minimum.

Issue Timely Warning.
The Dominion fire commissioner at Ottawa recently compiled a list of common causes of fires, named under two headings. Under the first is mentioned the spontaneous combustion of oils, paper, waste, benzene,
rubbish, oily rags and paint materials,
the second, careless handling of matches, gas fires, cigarettes, electricity, chemicals, pipe ashes and clear stumps. There follows the significant question, "Are we as careful as we should be?"

Out of an experience of long standing, the Dominion fire commissioner says:

"Don't overvalue your property
when placing insurance.
"Don't start fires in stoves, furnaces or fireplaces, unless you are sure the flues and chimneys are clean.
"Don't allow a stove pipe to come in contact with wood. Use cement, tin or galvanized iron where the pipe
goes through.
"Don't wash clothing or other articles in gasoline, benzene or naphtha,
nor allow it to be kept in your house.
"Don't throw water on flames caused by burning gasoline, benzene, naphtha or coal oil, as it spreads the flames. Smother the fire with a rug or covering of some kind.
"Don't use any but safety matches;
others are dangerous.
"Don't permit children to play with matches or start bonfires."

Special to London Advertiser.
GUELPH, Oct. 6.—About 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon two prisoners at the Ontario Reformatory deserted from the swamp gang and made a smart get-away from the institution, but after being pursued by a party of guards, who scoured the Guelph districts, the pair, Romeo Williams, was captured about 9 o'clock last night near Little Germany. The other man, William Osborne, made good his escape, and is still at large, but the reformatory authorities are expected at any minute.
His arrest is expected at any minute.
Williams, who is a colored inmate,
hails from London, Ont., where he was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from three to twenty months for breaking and theft. Osbourne was sentenced at Toronto on a similar charge. They were both admitted to the reformatory last June.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(By Canadian

tee of the National-Liberal Club last night passed a resolution welcoming the prospect for the return of peace conditions in the Near East, but relying on the government to secure the creation of adequate machinery for the protection of minorities in Thrace and Asia Minor. The resolution expresses the view that this machinery should be devised in collaboration with and place under the control of the League of Nations.

Dock.

Special to London Advertiser.
CHATHAM, Oct. 6.—When city firemen took steamer
number "two" out of the central fire station to fight a fire on the city dump the other day the steamer refused to function.
Subsequent examination showed that certain things were not acting as they should,
so the necessary repairs were carried out.

On the city dock at the foot of Fourth street this morning
the pumping capacity of the engine was tested, but while the test proved satisfactory, potenders from the firebox nearly set fire to the dock. A small stream of water was used to "cool" the dock, while the larger test stream hit the air.

BLAMES DEFICIT ON GOVERNMENT

Sir Adam Beck Says Legislature Responsible For Nipi-gon Power Loss.

Gives Evidence At Hydro Inquiry That Western Ontario Municipalities Absorbed Debt.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—That the Ontario government was responsible for the deficiency on the Nipigon
plant and should, without recourse to the municipalities, assume the interest charges until the plant was placed on a self-sustaining basis,
was the contention of Sir Adam Beck
in his evidence at the hydro inquiry today.

"It is entirely their fault we have not the revenue," The hydro had been directed, he declared, to provide for the Great Lakes Company,
but had been humbugged by that company which wanted power below cost.

Sir Adam conceded that the government was within its legal rights in charging 6.2 per cent interest instead of 5 per cent as claimed by hydro representatives.

Sir Adam said that ultimately he believed Nipigon district would have cheaper power than elsewhere.
Chairman Gregory pointed out that in the auditors' statement of the Nipigon development no provision had been made for sinking fund.

"Have you ever taken legal opinion as to whether you had the power to defer sinking fund?"

"No," The hydro, he said, had carried on in a businesslike way.

"How do you propose to meet the deficit on the Nipigon development?
Is there any fund out of which that can be paid?" "Yes. The province of Ontario is primarily and morally responsible for the fact that there is not enough business there."

Sir Adam explained he would eliminate entirely sinking fund charges and depreciation charges until the plant became self-sustaining, and would merely make an effort at the present time to take care of the interest charges on the money.

He claimed there was a precedent for the government taking care of the interest. "When we built the line to Windsor the government was warned there would be a deficit. The government said: 'Go on, we will carry the interest.' Sir Adam said that deficit had been wiped out; in three years the municipalities took care of it, and last year there was an excess profit with a 25 per cent reduction in price of power.

In connection with the Nipigon plant, Sir Adam took the view that for certain parts of the undertaking
the period for reduction of the capital cost should be extended from 30 or 40 years to 50 years. He would even extend it beyond 50 years, and would, in fact, let the government fix
the time for each development according to circumstances.

Sarnia Wife Swears Husband Set Fire To House To Get Insurance

SARNIA, Oct. 6.—A wife and moth-

city police court that the husband and father, Charles T. H. Roberts, of this city, in March last deliberately set fire to a house he was occupying on Wellington street, owned by C. Bel-off in it, and a fairly accurate description was furnished of them. The descriptions were sent to the neighbouring police officials by County Constable Hill, who was this afternoon notified that three men answering to the descriptions had been arrested in Brantford. The stolen car was this morning found abandoned one mile north of Woodstock. The men who were arrested were fair hangers-on, who had been conducting

"Think Fire" Before It Happens

DON'T allow children to play with

DON'T leave everything to the landlord; inspect your own house
from cellar to garret.

DON'T throw away lighted matches,
cigars or cigarettes.

DON'T go into dark closets, bedrooms, or cellars, using matches or candles to light your way.

DON'T use coal oil, benzene or naphtha in lighting fires or to quicken a slow fire—it may result in death.

DON'T use gasoline or benzene to clean clothing near an open flame, light or fire.

DON'T use alcohol lamps, especially if made of glass; they often break
and the fluid is ignited at once.

DON'T fill any lamp with gasoline or coal oil while the lamp is lighted. Keep the burners of all oil lamps thoroughly clean.

DON'T fill oil lamps after dark or within fifteen feet of lights or fire.

DON'T put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels. Keep ashes away from boards.

DON'T use oils with a low flash
point.

DON'T accumulate rubbish in premises, cellars, or workshops. While awaiting removal, keep such material in covered metal-lined receptacles.

Now know ye that we, by and with the advice of our privy council of Canada, have thought fit to appoint and do appoint Monday, the 9th day of October, in this present year, as "Fire Prevention Day," and we do recommend to all our loving subjects that on that day or at some time during the week immediately preceding as may be found most practicable,—

1. All dwellings and their surroundings be carefully inspected by their occupants and all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fires removed.

2. All public buildings, stores, warehouses and factories be inspected and cleaned of rubbish
in order to reduce fire hazards and maintain health and safety.

3. All hotels, theatres, asylums, hospitals and other institutional buildings be inspected and provision made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants from danger in the event of fire.

4. Fire drills be held for the children in all schools, for the inmates of all institutions and for the employees in all large stores and factories, in order that a greater degree of safety may be insured by acquainting the occupants with the best and most expeditious mode of exit in time of danger.

5. Special instruction on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by municipal officials in the schools, and that such appropriate literature as may be available be distributed to the pupils.

6. Boy Scout leaders give instructions to the troops under their control as to the best means of co-operating with municipal fire departments in the prevention and extinguishment of fires, and especially as to the desirability of qualifying for the Fireman's Badge.

7. Operators of lumber camps, settlers, campers, hunters and others who may from time to time enter our national parks and forest areas acquaint themselves with all laws, regulations and precautionary rules devised and established for the safeguarding of the woods against fire.

8. All legislation and regulations enacted or issued by Dominion, provincial or municipal authorities dealing with fire prevention be given publicity by the municipal officials, and that by public meetings or otherwise, as may to them seem most fit, they endeavor to impress upon the citizens the national importance of safeguarding life and property from loss by fire.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY

October 9, 1922

PROCLAMATION

Extract from Canada Gazette, Aug. 12, 1922.

Read and Heed

ASHES should be kept in metal receptacles and never in paper or wooden barrels or boxes.

OILY RAGS OR WASTE should be kept in standard metal waste cans
and contents removed and burned
each night.

RUBBISH should never be allowed to accumulate in or near buildings.

GASOLINE, NAPHTHA and other volatile oils should not be kept in buildings and should be used only with extreme care.

STEAM PIPES should be kept clear of all wood and other combustible material.

OPEN FLUE HOLES should be protected with sheet iron, or, better,
be bricked up.

ELECTRICITY, when improperly installed, is hazardous: lamp cords should not be hung on nails or worn around piping; paper shades should never be used. Do not tamper with electrical installations.

STOVE PIPES should be securely riveted and run direct to brick chimneys and never through floors or partitions: protect floors under and above stoves with brick, cement, or sheet metal.

STAIRWAYS should be kept closed
and clear at all times; never place any stock or shelving thereon.

AISLES OF GOOD WIDTH should be maintained; never pile stock in front of windows or against doors, as it handicaps the firemen in case of fire.

FIRE DOORS AND SHUTTERS should be closed every night and stock should never be placed so as to hinder the ready closing of fire doors. Use metal frames and sash with wire glass.

SEE THAT ALL FIRE EXTINGUISH-ING APPARATUS is in good working order.

DAMP LAMPBLACK will spontaneously ignite. So will slack and pulverized coal and charcoal, when wet.

USE SAFETY MATCHES; they cost
no more.

REQUIRE ALL DOORS TO SWING
OUTWARD in public buildings, schools, theatres, etc., may prevent
the loss of many lives.

ALL buildings over two stories in height should be provided with FIRE ESCAPES and STANDPIPES for Fire Department use.

The PLAYHOUSE and the MOVIE THEATRE

"Sonya" Brings Breath of Love And Romance To Grand Theatre

Producers of "Ben Hur" Send Guaranteed Play To Please Theatregoers of London—Story Based On Intrigues of Court In Country of Eastern Europe—Is Replete With Intense Drama.

THEATREGOERS of London will be pleased to hear that Marc Klaw, who produced "Ben Hur" and many other equally famous plays, will send to this city his production of "Sonya," on Monday and Tuesday next, to be the attraction at the Grand Opera House, for evening performances only.

This is the delightful comedy which had a long and successful run at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, New York city, last season. It is a guaranteed attraction.

The caste has been selected with care, and is of unusual merit. It has been staged exactly as it appeared when produced in New York last season.

The story has a delightfully romantic theme, broad enough in its scope to please the most varied tastes. Besides being a hauntingly beautiful love story, there is dramatic intensity, suspense and uncertainty sufficient to satisfy everyone.

The scene is laid in the royal palace of the young prince, heir apparent to the throne of a small kingdom in Eastern Europe. The prince, a lovable character, is bored with life, and takes recourse in his gymnasium. Envious of him, a rascally cousin seeks his undoing by an idea all his own, which brings the throne nearer to him. This he does by introducing a beautiful young dancing girl into the prince's suite, disguised as a boy athletic instructor. She is to use her feminine wiles on the young prince.

Instead, however, when her identity is discovered, she proceeds to fall deeply in love. She helps him to assert his strength and brings him to a realization of the true need of his people.

Ensues excitement in full measure, for it seems inevitable that the prince will have to marry an unknown princess to gain his throne. Sonya pleads with him not to sacrifice for her, and just what is going to happen appears most uncertain. As is to be expected, it works out satisfactorily in the end, and the stubborn old uncle gives the young couple his blessing, and love is triumphant.

Scene From "Unloved Wife"

THE amazing play, "The Unloved Wife," will be seen at the Grand Theatre Wednesday only, matinee and night.

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN IS COMING TO GRAND THEATRE

Will Be Seen in Newest Film, "Evidence," Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Elaine Hammerstein comes to the Grand Opera House next Thursday, Friday and Saturday for a three days' presentation of her newest film play, "Evidence." Niles Welch, who has supported her in the more recent Selznick plays in which she has appeared, is again Miss Hammerstein's leading man, with Constance Bennett, who was with her in "Rackless Youth," once more heading the feminine contingent in support.

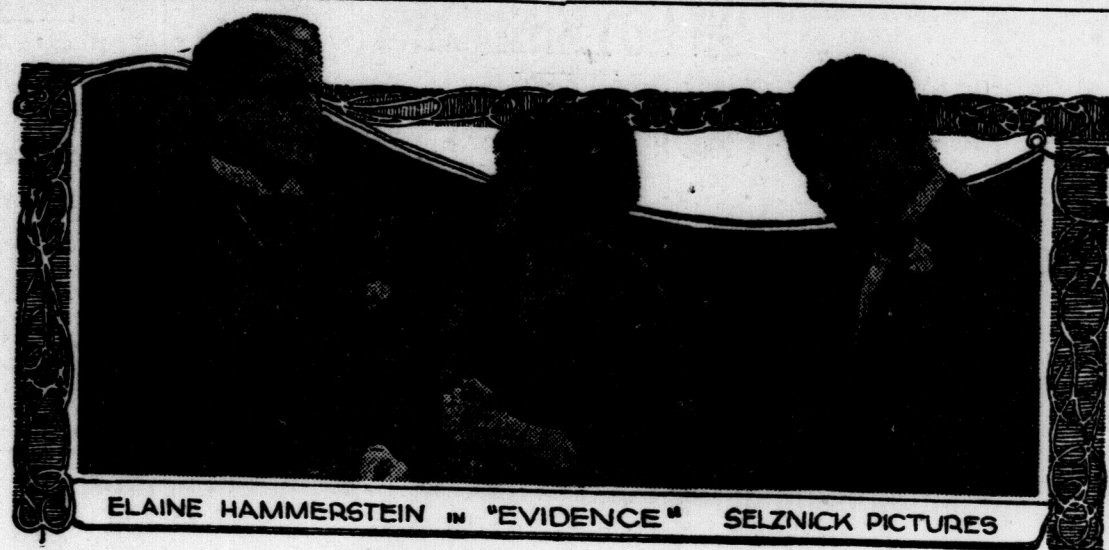

"Evidence" presents vistas of fanciful condition on the stage and in society. An actress marries into a family of snobs and gets just the treatment she anticipated. Facing these unhappy conditions, the actress is making good headway until an actor, bent upon revenge for a jilting, steps into the scene and attempts to compromise the girl. Enter now a scion of the snobbish family to overpower her with his inexorable demands for a divorce. "If I must be divorced," says the actress, "I'll at least choose my own correspondent"—and she chooses the overbearing snob who would not listen to her explanation. Because of the clever manner in which she presented her "Evidence" there is no likelihood of a divorce—because there was originally not the slightest grounds for action.

In turning the tables on her tormentors the actress proves that she is a better "actress" than she has been given credit for being—proves that a woman with wit and self-assertion can battle against odds and still win an easy victory. The "trick finish" that "Evidence" carries as a prelude to happiness for hero and heroine is one of the cleverest "dodges" the scenario writers have yet devised.

In addition to the Hammerstein picture, the Grand for the latter half of next week will have a particularly attractive vaudeville bill, including the Carlisle Duo, in a western novelty offering; Virginia Millman, character singing comedienne, appearing with special scenery and six changes of costumes; Solana and Company, spectacular illusionists;

ELAINE HAMMERSTEIN in "EVIDENCE" SELZNICK PICTURES

"EVIDENCE," attractive photoplay, will be shown at the Grand Theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Fordie and Dean, versatile comedians, and The Gauthiers, novelty athletes. There will also be a Harold Lloyd comedy, "Pistols for Breakfast," and the ever-popular Topics of the Day. Altogether, great big show value.

"THE UNLOVED WIFE" PLAYS AT GRAND WEDNESDAY

Matinee For Women Only, But Evening Performance Open To All Over 16.

The best of the latest comedy dramas, "The Unloved Wife," a play in three acts, is by Florence Edna May, and comes to the Grand Opera House, matinee and night, Wednesday, Oct. 11, with matinee for ladies only, although at night everybody over 16 years of age can secure seats.

The play is new, and it is a success because of two essential reasons—the play is remarkable, and because of the acting, you receive an evening's enjoyment. "The Unloved Wife" is decidedly one of the best things of the season.

It is a thrilling drama, with some enchanting stage pictures, and there is even more than the usual interest in it. For every one who has seen it in other cities says: "You must see 'The Unloved Wife' when it comes to town. It is wonderful."

Many patrons of the theatre have asked why we don't print the story of the play. There are several reasons, but there isn't any likelihood that Miss May, the authoress, or her representatives will make any statement about it. It will remain just another mystery, as the play is written on the subject of marriage—what wedded couple have not their family secrets or mysteries, as you may term it.

A good company of Broadway players assure a remarkable evening's entertainment.

FREDA HEMPEL WILL BE HEARD AT WINTER GARDEN

"Some persons go to musicals to see the musician; others to hear the music."

In this line from a well-known music novel, the critic of the Charleston (West Virginia) Gazette began his review of Freda Hempel's concert there.

"Probably some such emotions sway the public always," he went on, "and always there are the conflicting ones concerning the personality of the performer or the quality of the music. In the case of Freda Hempel, who gave a concert here last night, there were no emotions that rioted with each other, for a blind man would have heard in the song, and a deaf mute would have offered up a prayer of thankfulness that he was permitted the joy of seeing."

Hempel came, saw and conquered. No artist, who ever appeared in Charleston before provided so much sheer enjoyment as this singer. The ensemble of a beautiful woman, a wonderful gown, a liquid voice or flawless quality, and a program of variety had the potent quality of appealing to all the aesthetic senses and one could only describe the recital through the medium of superlatives.

London music lovers will have an opportunity to hear and see this fascinating singer at the Winter Gardens on Nov. 16.

A splendid program has been prepared and circulated among the teachers and school boards. R. Stonehouse of Goderich Victoria School is president.

R. G. Selton has received a car of pea coal, which he is delivering to customers at $19 a ton.

The Exeter high school will attend Parkhill field day on Friday. Only one day is being taken this year, and Lucan, Exeter and Parkhill are joining in the program of sports.

Miss A. R. Cowan of Galt, the newly-appointed teacher in the high school, began her duties on Tuesday morning. There are now five teachers in the public and five in the high school. Every room is filled to capacity.

L. B. Doyle has taken charge of the Huron Garage, which he rented from Chas. Pilon.

Thomas Pryde was elected to fill the vacancy on the school board caused by the removal of F. W. Gladman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Stewart left this week for New York. They go by Hamilton, where they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paisley, who will accompany them on their motor trip.

The South Huron Choral Society met in James street on Monday evening and organized for the coming season. The members purpose giving an entertainment in the near States.

NEW COMPANY SUPPLIES WELL ALL LUMBER NEEDS

London Wrecking & Construction
Co. Gives Large Assortment at Fair Prices.

For years London has been handicapped with few lumber merchants,
but within the last few years London has been fortunate enough to acquire several new establishments.

Among the new ones the London
Wrecking and Construction Company
thrives in the heart of the city at 509 Bathurst street. The direct railroad connections and general situation offer excellent facilities for serving the general public.

One has only to take a slight glance of the large, well-stocked yard to realize the large assortment of lath and lumber there is to pick from. The company specializes in all classes of building material, both rough and dressed, from forests in all parts of Canada and America.

There has been a general cry amongst the public that lumber is high in price. Within the last two years lumber has dropped as much as 50 per cent. Fine sheeting, that used to sell at $85 a thousand, can now be bought around $40.

One must only stop and consider that the freight is one of the largest factors in the lumber prices; that out of a thousand feet of British Columbia lumber, which would sell around $40
a thousand, the railways claim from $22 to $25, to realize that the lumber business is not all cream.

The London Wrecking and Construction Company sells high-grade goods at moderate prices. Whether for a mansion or a chicken coop, all needs can be supplied at a price which leaves the lumber bill at what you would expect to pay.

The company's tremendous turnover and low overhead expenses enables them to work on a smaller margin than the larger companies.

A fleet of motor trucks cover all parts of the city daily.

Whether one is from out of town or live in the city, whether one is to build now or some time in the future,
one is cordially invited to call and inspect goods, compare prices and draw one's own conclusion.

EXPLAINS REASONS FOR OVERHEATING OF TIRES

London Tire Repair Depot Gives Advice on Worries of Motoring.

The heat that is noticeable in a tire after it has been run on for any distance or length of time, is generated by the tire itself, due to the bending and flexing of the fabric and rubber. The amount of heat in a tire depends upon the rapidity and extent of this action.

A tire on a car overloaded or an under-inflated tire heats more rapidly than it would if it was properly inflated and properly loaded. Similarly, an old tire, due to weakness, is more susceptible to this heat producing action than a new tire.

Experts of the London Tire Repair
Depot, 354 Wellington street, point out that there is absolutely no reason
so far as a blow out is concerned, for a reduction of air pressure before going on long journeys or during hot days.

The maximum increase in air pressure that could be expected under any conditions, would not exceed fifteen pounds—the average would not be greater than six pounds. Anyone can readily see that this small increase in pressure will not blow out the casing.

Succeed In London

COMMENCEMENT of construction operations on the new Western University buildings, is a noteworthy indication of the pinnacle of educational facilities which London will very soon have attained. It proves that the people of Western Ontario are those with the best ideals and ambitions, and that they consider London to be a city worthy of becoming a center for the advancement of that which makes the youth of a country strong, both mentally and physically.

A university famed for the ability and knowledge
which its graduates have when they leave their Alma Mater,
will naturally attract more of the prosperous and cultured people to the Forest City. Parents will come because their sons and daughters are desirous of their presence in the city which they have learned to love and admire. Consequently they will build homes in the city, will transfer all their interests here.

London will be advertised, as it were, in such a way that industries will grow up, and the whole effect which the Forest City will have upon Eastern Canada will be that of a prosperous city whose popularity is ever increasing and where education, industry, finance and culture work in conjunction with each other toward the one far-reaching end—the making of a greater London.

KINGSVILLE

KINGSVILLE, Oct. 6.—A big gang of men started work here yesterday on the pier at the harbor. New timber and planking is being laid, which will make the big structure as good as new when completed. The work is being done under the supervision of Colin Quick, of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Urahns and two children, of South Bend, Ind., came through to this village in their auto on Wednesday, and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Woudis, here, this week. Mrs. R. Middleton will accompany them on the return trip, and will be the guest of friends and relatives at Michigan City, Ind., for two weeks.

A dog belonging to one of our townsmen sneaked up behind John Herrington and buried his teeth into his leg. This happened over a week ago, and since then his leg has commenced to swell and is very painful.
It is thought the dog will be ordered shot.

Edward Voakes and family left here on Tuesday for Leamington, where
Mr. Voakes is employed with the British-American Oil Company of that town.

The members of the Baptist demonstration here are holding a reception and banquet for their new minister and his wife on Thursday night. The members of the Brookfield Church will attend, and a chicken supper in the basement of the church will be held.

At the Women's Institute meeting,
which was held at the home of Mrs.
J. H. Clark on Tuesday afternoon, over 75 members attended and transacted much business pertaining to the society, which is fast growing in numbers.

Workmen are busy building an addition to the waterworks, and in other ways making improvements to the building, which will add greatly to the appearance of the structure
when completed.

The fishermen along the shore are a busy bunch these days, and already some fine catches of perch
have been brought into the harbor here, where they are sorted over and shipped to the markets.

BLYTH

BLYTH, Oct. 6.—The electric light plant is again in working order and is giving splendid satisfaction.
Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Chambers and
Mr. James Beatty are on a motor

Kinardine, visiting old friends and relatives in these localities. The weather is ideal for such a trip.

LONDON GARMENT CARE GIVES RAPID SERVICE

Collect, Press, Clean, Mend and Deliver Clothes By Speediest, Up-To-Date Methods.

Satisfaction is a word covering a wide field, but to the London Garment Care, 339 Dundas Street, it means but one thing, and that is always foremost in their minds.

Some ask what the one thing is.
Their answer couldn't be in a more businesslike way or plainer. "Call 4890W. for our fast auto to collect and deliver your pressing and repairing and give this firm an opportunity to satisfy you."

The London Garment Care is in a position to offer real service to the public. A man, in many cases, when he has his suit pressed, needs it back to him within a short time, perhaps when he is to take a railroad trip or do one of those thousand things that must be done in a hurry. Experts of the firm say that eight out of nine of the suits they are asked to call for are wanted back within a very short time. That is why they have a speed wagon and that is why they will have another one when the fast growing business calls for the use of it.

The expert tailoring department in connection with this cleaning establishment, supervised by John Framenti, cannot be surpassed, and it gives this firm a great advantage over the average cleaner, aside from the distinction of having the best cleaner obtainable.

SCHOOL REPORTS.
Report of S. S. No. 8, Lobo, for September, based on term work.
Names are in order of merit.

Senior IV—Donald Graham, Meredith Jackson.

Junior IV—Mary Kilbourn, Gordon
Steel, Walter Flannigan, Gordon
Campbell, Thelma Ferguson, Everett Arrand, Belva Topping, Isabella Irvine, Earl MacIntyre, Wilfred Reep.

Primer A—Donald McCaw.

COLOR SEASON.
According to Paris dispatches,
black has passed almost entirely out of style save for the matron. Girls are appearing in brilliant purple,
blue and all shades of red and brown.

DECORATIVE.
Smart costume blouses for summer wear are of gold or silver lace
over light foundations of metal cloth. Usually a few French ribbon flowers are added to advantage.

VELVET FROCK.
A black velvet gown of unusual beauty has a draped skirt, lined with supple royal blue satin revealed by the drapery. The upper part of the frock is heavily beaded in blue,
matching the lining.

MORE LIGHT.
A canny housewife says if you wipe off the electric light bulbs with a damp cloth each week, and do it carefully so as not to jar the bulb,
you will get more efficient lighting.

Life and Character Reading.
OCTOBER 7.
 When spiritualized, the scales of this sign hang evenly balanced, and the work can be accomplished by the Libra people, for humanity cannot be over-estimated. Among these are poets, writers and musicians. They soar high because of the most rarified air in their native element.
 Very few people can understand Libra children. They are exceedingly true and good, but lovely, or very prone to evil, very unreliable and quick-tempered.
 The governing planet of this date is Venus, the goddess of love, who is highly responsible for the passionate love desire of both sexes of this sign and the governing sign is Libra, the sign of the scales.
 The Want Ads are always cheerful helpers, better by far than the celebrated Cold Feet and Love Letters. They help in any line, use the Want Ads they are always at your service.

Come To Church Tomorrow

"YES, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the Creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house, just as well as in a church. But I also know as a matter of fact the average man does not thus worship."

Here are a few benefits to be derived from church attendance:

"You will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if you are not familiar with the Bible, you have suffered loss."

"You will take part in singing some good hymns."

"You will meet and nod or speak to good neighbors. You will come away feeling a little more charitably inclined toward all the world, even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance."

"Join in church work for the sake of showing your faith in your works."

Make your start in church service tomorrow. A fair trial of church attendance will convince you it's well worth while.

Opposition to Church Union

A CONVOCATION of those who are interested in the continuance of the Presbyterian Church in Canada will be held in St. Andrew's Church, corner King and Simcoe streets, Toronto, on Thursday evening, Oct. 12, at 8 o'clock, and will continue on Friday at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

The convocation will be open to men and women alike, and circulars issued throughout the country point out that it is the duty of all true friends of the church to rally to her support at this crisis, when her very existence is threatened.

The circular says: "Bills are now being prepared, setting forth the legislation necessary to consummate organic union, the same to be submitted to the next General Assembly for approval."

"Now it is evident that opposition to union is steadily increasing. It is certain that any attempt to consummate organic union will cause a disruption in the church, and that in any case the Presbyterian Church will be continued. We face today the alternative of dropping the union agitation or an inevitable disruption."

In accordance with this feeling existent in the church throughout Canada, the following resolution opposing organic union, at the same time affirming belief in spiritual unity, is to be brought before the convocation for support:

"We, the members of the Presbyterian Church Association of Ontario, assembled in St. Andrew's Church, Toronto, with a firm belief in the spiritual unity of all believers, our cordiality towards our brethren of other communions, and our willingness for all feasible co-operation with them in the interests of the Kingdom of God, express our conviction that under present conditions, it is hereby resolved that the existence and continuance of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is essential to the work of the Kingdom of God in the world, and to the moral and spiritual welfare of this Dominion; and to maintain and defend the same we solemnly pledge ourselves."

The first report of its union committee, in which was the following declaration of policy: "It was universally recognized in the joint union committee, that a union of churches, to be real and lasting, must carry the consent of the entire membership."

"In 1911 the assembly asked a vote of the people, when, of 298,914 communicant members, 113,000 voted for 'union' and 73,735 against it."

"In 1916 the assembly, ignoring the greatly increased opposition of the people, and its own previous declarations and pledges as to the necessary unanimity, resolved to proceed to union."

"In 1917 the assembly, to avoid division among the membership of our church, again halted the movement, called a truce to controversy, and unanimously resolved: 'That no attempt to made at the present time to set forth in detail the action appropriate to a future period, but that the church patiently await the new light which it may receive by divine guidance, through the growing experience of the people and the lessons of the war.'

"In 1921 the assembly without regard to the terms of its unanimous agreements in 1905, 1912 and 1917, resolved 'to consummate organic union' as expeditiously as possible."

"And whereas, the foregoing facts indicate that the case in favor of the proposed organic union has not been established; and whereas, legal opinions recently obtained at the instance of the General Assembly make it clear that with a divided church organic union is impossible; therefore, in view of these facts and under present conditions, it is hereby resolved that the existence and continuance of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is essential to the work of the Kingdom of God in the world, and to the moral and spiritual welfare of this Dominion; and to maintain and defend the same we solemnly pledge ourselves."

DEFENDS DELAY IN PROCURING CHURCH UNION

Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Replies To Criticism Against Presbyterians.

HOLD SPIRITED DEBATE

Methodist General Conference To Appoint Delegates To United Church of Canada.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—By far the most interesting debate of the Methodist general conference since it opened in Toronto about ten days ago was that on church union, which occupied both sessions today and which was precipitated by the presentation of the church union committee.

The first speaker to offer a criticism of the methods by which church union was being brought about was Rev. James Smythe, principal of the Wesleyan College, Montreal, who emphatically declared his opposition to amalgamation with the Presbyterian Church if that body was not unanimous on the question.

"I would rather," he said, "have another vote taken on church union than draw into church union by the nose of the neck any part of any church against its will."

He was followed by a number of speakers, who, while declaring their opposition to his attitude, complimented him on his presentation of his viewpoint. Among them were several delegates from Western Ontario, who avowed that if church union was not consummated, there would be a new denomination in their part of the Dominion.

It was left for the Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., to reply to the criticisms levelled against the church amalgamation, and when he had concluded the report of the joint committee on law and legislation dealing with the united church act, which he presented earlier in the day, was adopted unanimously.

Dealing with the alleged delay of the Presbyterian Church in consummating the union, Mr. Rowell pointed out the many difficulties which had to be met, and expressed his belief that every honest effort had been made by the leaders of that church in co-operating with those of the Methodist conference, and regretted that any intimation of insincerity should be directed at men who were nobly endeavoring to fulfill their obligations.

The act of the amalgamation of the churches was now before them, and he pointed out the recommendations of the general assembly, which, as far as it could be made, declared Mr. Rowell, and it does not lie in the mouth of a single Methodist to offer a word of criticism for what the assembly has done.

At the afternoon session a motion was adopted to appoint 150 delegates to the first general council of the United Church of Canada. The delegates have yet to be appointed. Another important question taken up during the afternoon was that of women in the ministry. This question was up before the quadrennial conference at Hamilton four years ago, when women were permitted to enter into the courts of the church. Since that time votes have been taken on the matter by the congregations, and resulted adversely to the women. The committee on memorials have recommended to the Methodist Church was not negotiating with the Presbyterians, as the Presbyterians had the right to look only to the recognized Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the ministry. This view that union was not desirable unless it was with the major body of the Presbyterians. But he did not agree with Dr. Salem Bland that within a year there should be an ultimatum served on the Presbyterians to enter church union.

The Methodist Church must move along the lines it thought right and trust to the good judgment and Christianity of the Presbyterian Church to do its duty.

Regrets Words Said.

"What right have we to pass judgment upon the action of the Presbyterian General Assembly?" asked Mr. Rowell, with considerable feeling. "I deeply regret that anything has been said that would suggest to our friends in the Presbyterian Church that they had not acted loyally and as honestly as the members of the Methodist Church. With all the facts before them, they have proceeded just as rapidly as it was possible for them to do so."

Mr. Rowell proceeded to review the efforts that had been made to bring about church union, pointing out that the Presbyterian body had placed itself on record several times in favor of the amalgamation. "What right has any Methodist to say that the General Assembly did not mean what it said when it put itself on record in favor of the union?" he asked. "It considered the draft of the united church act, which is now before this conference in accordance with the resolution, just as fast as it could, and it does not lie in the mouth of a single Methodist to offer a word of criticism for what the assembly has done. What more can you ask? What more have you the right to expect?"

"Do what you think right and fit in the interests of the Methodist Church, but do not couple with it an ultimatum that the others have not appointed it as fairly and as honestly as we have."

Canada Should Be Proud.

There had been complaint, he continued, that this effort of church union had consumed twenty years, but after all, what was twenty years? What was twenty years for a great country which was their own, or for the great purpose of God in achieving His mission? The fact was that in no other country in the world had there been such advancement in a similar movement. After the comparatively short period of twenty years they were that day considering legislation to bring church union into effect.

Canada should be proud to be the leader in such a movement. In Scotland there was a broader outlook among the churches, and in England the great Methodist Church was taking keenly to church union. And so, he considered it a most distinguished thing to be associated with the great leaders of a movement that had for its object the unification of the churches in the work of the Kingdom of God.

He concluded his remarks by saying that he was proud to be the leader in such a movement. START SALE OF BUILDING LOTS ON FOXBAR SURVEY

Bert Weir to Dispose of Fine Residential Survey of South London.

Foxbar Survey, the property of Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore and known as the finest residential subdivisions in London, has been listed for sale by Bert Weir, according to recent announcements made.

The street plan has been laid out in an original plan, completely new to London, with possibilities for an exceptionally beautiful and up-to-date appearance.

Col. Gartshore has been at great pains, both with time and money, to get away from the old style angle streets, and the easy terms upon which this property can be sold makes it a very attractive proposition.

The grounds are made more attractive by reason of the fact that the pavements and street cars run practically to the door, and it is in close proximity of Tecumseh School.

Until this year, the sale of building lots in London has been at a standstill, and Mr. Weir states that there have been more lots sold from his office in 1922 alone than in the six years previous, and that the spring of 1923 will see a great demand for building lots.

$5,000 BLAZE ON FARM NEAR WALLACEBURG

Joe Bogaert Loses Outbuildings, Crops and Machinery in Early Morning Fire.

Special to London Advertiser. WALLACEBURG, Oct. 6.—A big fire took place at the farm of Joe Bogaert, a Belgian, on the Dufferin avenue, this morning about 3 o'clock.

Some young men returning from a dance at Wallaceburg first noticed the flames coming from the outbuildings of the farm and hastened to the spot. The Wallaceburg fire department were called, but owing to the farm being some distance from a hydrant and shortage of hose prevented much assistance being given, and further owing to the headway which the fire had made, very little could be done to save the buildings, which were burned to the ground.

It is fortunate that owing to the wind the house was placed in no danger, however, the loss which is approximately $5,000, and is partially covered by insurance, include loss of all outbuildings, unthreshed grain and machinery. The cause of the fire is unknown.

SCHOOL CHILDREN ENTER CONTEST

Scores of school children in every school district of the Dominion are competing these days in the national school essay competition on forestry and tree-planting, inaugurated recently by the Canadian Forestry Association.

Questions as to the forest resources of Canada, the damage done by forest fires, what trees to choose for planting, and how to plant them are being asked by a multitude of young people, and the resultant information is being applied to the essay competition. Three substantial cash prizes are being given in each province, and the effect of the national effort to stimulate juvenile interest in the forest resources of the country and the multiple benefits of tree planting has secured the hearty indorsement of all the departments of education, which are giving every co-operation.

Better Furnished Homes Week

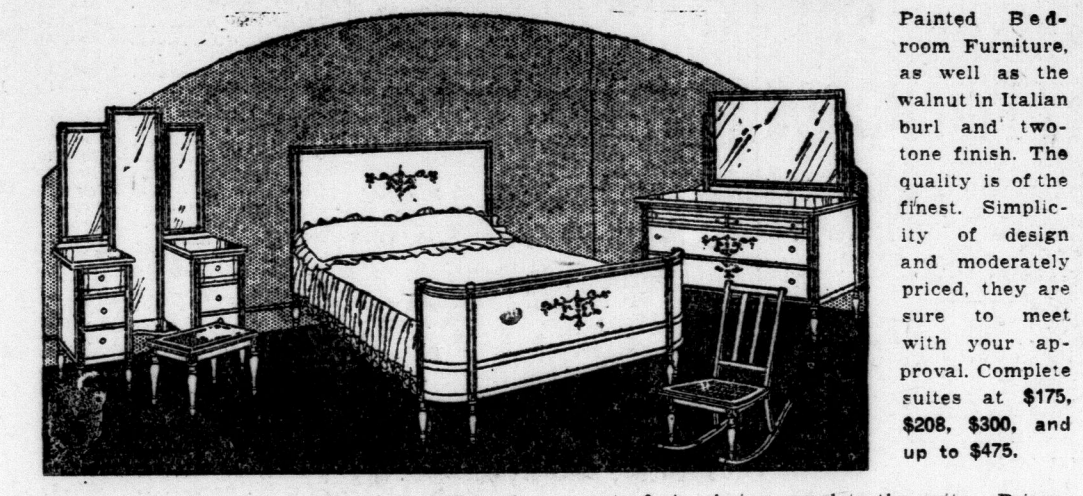

October 9 to 14, At This Store

This whole store has been practically commandeered for this Home Furnishing Display, and home things are displayed everywhere. What the Fashion Show meant this week to the ladies who are interested in the style changes, so next week what we might call the Home Furnishing Fair will be of equal interest to every woman who is interested in improving and beautifying the home. On the Furniture Floor, where the main exhibit will be staged, complete suites will be arranged and furnished in the most modern manner for your inspection and criticism. Throughout the store on the Third, Fourth, and Main Floors, and in the Basement will be seen displays suggesting all modern equipments, home furnishing and beautifying ideas. We invite housekeepers to come and view the exhibitions with the assurance that they will be interested and delighted with what is shown. Come and see the new furnishings, whether you have purchases to make or not—you may get dozens of new ideas for your fall refurnishing.

This Furniture Has a Hospitable Air.
Perhaps moving has left a lonesome place against the wall; perhaps there has been a lonesome place for some time now. Perhaps there is a wonderful new home to furnish. How ever it may be, at this season, when nights are long and good friends come in to spend them, thoughts do turn to furnishings. And there's a thrill in store for furniture-seekers in this department, for attractive values are everywhere.
