Russian Rout Races Through Mukden Japs Hanging On To Flanks and Rear

KUROPATKIN SUFFERS HEAVILY AS HE FIGHTS A REAR GUARD ACTION

Mikado's Armies Converging to Head Off and Surround Czar's Troops North of Mukden.

Japanese Now Occupy Yentai Mines—Rumors That Port Arthur Has Fallen.

Mukden, Sept. 6.—1:40 p.m.—The commissariat and columns of artillery are arriving here and proceeding northward.

Gen. Kuropatkin's army is engaged in an extensive rear guard action.

Japs Occupy Yentai.

Tokio, Sept. 6.—It is reported here that the Russians have retired beyond Yentai. Gen. Kuroki has occupied the town.

Alexieff at Harbin.

Harbin, Sept. 6.—Viceroy Alexieff and his staff have arrived here from Vladivostock.

Has Port Arthur Fallen?

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—1:20 p.m.—The Novoe Vremya this morning got out an early edition announcing the fall of Port Arthur, but it was recalled before the paper reached the street. Such a report is current, but it seems to have no basis in fact.

Almost Wiped Out

Mukden, Sept. 5.—It is reported that Gen. Kuropatkin's rear guard has been almost annihilated, and that the main Russian army is in imminent danger of being surrounded.

Close to Railroad.

Yentai, Monday, Sept. 5. — Delayed. — There was heavy fighting northeast of this place today. The Japanese troops are now pressing northward along the northeast of the railway, and several skirmishes have already taken place within twenty miles to the southeast of Mukden.

THE RACE TO MUKDEN

Japanese Armies Converging to Head Off Russian Rout.

Mukden, Sept. 6, 1:40 p.m. — The retreat of General Kuropatkin's army is being carried out in good order, despite the terrible condition of the roads, rendered sodden by the rains which fell yesterday and today, which mire the lumbering guns and heavy transport trains. Long lines of wagons, drawn by steaming mules, horses and even bullocks are straining their way north over the soaking, cut-up main road from Yantai. Behind them come long trains of artillery, and back of them still, Kuropatkin's army. The Japanese are hanging on Kuropatkin's flanks, keeping the Russians engaged in a continuous rear-guard action. The progress of the retreating army has been slow owing to the necessity of first getting through the baggage and guns; but, the heads of commissariat trains have already passed through Mukden and are continuing their way toward the north.

The main Japanese army is marching up along the roads eastward of the Russian lines of retreat, which converge at Mukden. Another Japanese force is also heading for Mukden from the westward coming from the direction of the Liao River.

Marshal Oyama seems to be making a race for Mukden. He evidently has great superiority in numbers, especially in artillery. As this dispatch is filed the correspondent of the Associated Press can hear the booming of the Japanese cannon, which are in place 14 miles from Mukden.

The skies are black and the air is stifling with the sense of suffocation, which is felt here before a storm breaks—strange harmonies between the elements and the menacing attitude of the contending armies.

Oyama In Close Pursuit.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5. — Field Marshal Oyama's whole army is across the Taitse River and is pursuing General Kuropatkin's forces.

It is officially stated that the united Russian forces are now north of Yentai except a detachment left at that place to cover the retreat.

The Japanese swarmed across the Taitse River near its junction with the Pensi. The bulk of the Japanese forces is marching direct on Mukden.

Racing to Mukden.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5. — A dispatch from General Kuropatkin, forwarded yesterday evening, indicates that Kuropatkin's army, and General Kuroki's army are racing for Mukden, and that the result is in doubt. General Kuropatkin says that the retreat is being conducted in perfect order. The Japanese repeatedly attacked the Russian rear on Sunday, but in every case they were repulsed.

Under date of Sept. 5. — General Kuropatkin telegraphed the Emperor as follows: "The retreat of our troops from Liao Yang on the night of Sept. 4 was carried out in good order. The enemy's insignificant attempts at pursuit were stopped by our rear guard. During Sept. 4 the Japanese strengthened their forces operating against our left flank, extending their line from the Yentai mines northward. Japanese also on Sept. 4, crossed from Liao Yang and its environs."

Russ Loss 16,000.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5. — The Russian losses during the fighting at Liao Yang are estimated at 16,000.

There is no doubt here that a number of guns, especially siege artillery, have been abandoned.

One report says Kuropatkin was obliged to abandon 200 guns at Liao Yang.

General Kuropatkin's defeat caused a drop of a quarter point in Russian fours on the local bourse.

A NEW PERIL

Japanese Gunboats Hurrying Up River to Prevent Crossing.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—4:08 p.m.—Apparently the war office is not greatly disturbed by fear that Field Marshal Oyama will cut off Gen. Kuropatkin before he reaches Mukden. According to the latest advices the Russian retreat is being effected in good order. The heads of transport trains passed through Mukden yesterday at noon and the fact that the baggage trains continued on their way northward of Mukden, the war office explains, does not mean that Kuropatkin is bound further north at this time, but is simply a natural precautionary measure, even if he intended to hold Mukden. The Russian formation during the operations of an army locating the baggage train fourteen miles and the ambulance corps four miles in the rear of the main body of the troops.

The news from the front indicates that Oyama, having failed to surround Kuropatkin at Liao Yang, is pressing Kuropatkin's rear with all the power of his tired troops, while hurrying forward a column, which crossed the Taitse River at Banshan, 30 miles northeast of Liao Yang, and 5 miles east of Yentai, in the hope of cutting the Russian line of retreat below Mukden. This column may consist of fresh troops in light marching order. The Benshu road joins he main road from Yentai when the latter is intersected by the Hun River, three miles below Mukden. Once this point is passed Kuropatkin's army will have the Hun River between it and Oyama. The only uneasiness is due to the possibility that Japanese light draft gunboats, which according to reports are coming up from New Chwang, might suddenly make their appearance, the river below being navigable to this point. As Kuropatkin was just north of Yangai when the heads of the transports entered Mukden yesterday it is evident that the retreating column is over fifteen miles long.

FELL BY THOUSANDS

How Stakeberg's Men Beat Off Desperate Assault on the 30th.

Mukden, Sept. 6. — The following message, detailing the events of the Japanese attack on General Stakelberg's corps southeast of Liao Yang, Aug. 30, was written on the battlefield by M. Kiriloff, one of the Associated Press Russian correspondents, just before he was shot through the lungs, and was sent to Mukden for transmission:

"This morning, around Liao Yang guns thundered unceasingly. The heights forming a semi-circle around the city were dotted with jets of flame and little black-and-white clouds. The spectacle was clearly visible from the water tower of Liao Yang. The Russian left alone was not engaged.

"At 7 a.m., the correspondent rode to the Russian center, where the Japanese were concentrating in an attempt to break through, and climbed the neighboring heights, following a detachment sent to relieve the skirmishers, who had been covering the battery commanded by Pokotiloff, one of the heroes of Kiuliencheng. The Japanese, according to custom, were shelling places where they believed the Russian reserves were located. Before the correspondent could reach the battery he had to cross a danger zone of 150 yards, projectiles falling and bursting until the very ground seemed to quiver. There was a touching scene when the skirmishers were reached. A Russian soldier met a brother whom he had last seen in their native village. There were joyous greetings and a quick exchange of news from home. Then each went his way, and settled down to the work of firing, coolly and deliberately. The Japanese fire was spasmodic. Two hours later the correspondent reached the battery and found that Pokolitoff and another officer, Costroff, had been killed. Out of 60 gunners, 40 were killed or wounded, Capt. Tarasoff was in charge of the battery.

"The Russian officers had not eaten anything since the previous day, and the corespondent shared with them what provisions he had. Prudence urged the correspondent to leave the spot, but he was fascinated. Here the message ended.

The officer, who sent forward M. Kirlioff's last dispatch added:

"M. Kiriloff, who was an enthusiast in his work, had gained universal respect and sympathy. He was shot through the right lung, while standing by our battery and fell back suffering intense agony, the blood spurting from his mouth. Yet his devotion to duty enabled him to overcome his suffering. He insisted upon being placed on a horse, so that he could get to Liao Yang, and file his dispatch. It took him five hours to cover the five and a half miles to Liao Yang. When he reached there, he was so exhausted and weak from loss of blood that we got him into the hospital, although against his protest. He asked me to complete his message for him. I am a soldier and no writer, but I will say that after the awful fight today we are still holding our positions. Japanese bodies bestrew all the heights. Their losses must run into the tens of thousands. We have lost 5,000 thus far. A shrapnel shell burst two paces from General Stakelberg (who remained for fifteen hours under fire), killing two officers. The general was slightly wounded in the leg."

Making the Best of It

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5, 1:15 p.m.—The feeling of national grief and disappointment caused by Gen. Kuropatkin's unsuccessful attempt to make a stand at Liao Yang, deep and bitter as it is, is tempered by the fact that the Russian commander-in-chief had removed the bulk of his stores northward before the battle, leaving a mere shell at Liao Yang, and that he succeeded in extricating his army, and especially Gen. Stakelberg's corps, from the clutches of the Japanese.

The war office believes that the battle is virtually ended and Kuropatkin's line of retreat is open. While admitting that Kuropatkin sustained a severe reverse the war office considers that the failure of Field Marshal Oyama to hold and cut off Kuropatkin is a stategic defeat for the latter. The Russian military authorities figure that Oyama has a numerical superiority of 60,000 men in the operations against Kuropatkin.

The exact position of the Russian r'ght flank is not known at the war office, but it is not believed that the Japanese can now develop enough strength to endanger its retirement, themselves. The absence of news from Tokio of anything decisive is also regarded as a good indication that Kuropatkin is free.

PROGRESS OF THE FIGHTING AROUND LIAO YANG.

Aug. 23—The Japanese began outpost skirmishes about Lia Yang.

Aug. 24—The Japanese began a general attack on the southern defenses of Liao Yang.

Aug. 25-26—The Russians were forced to give up An Shan Shan and An Ping, and draw back on their main defenses.

Aug. 27-28—The Russian south front was routed and a full retreat was made. The Japs captured the right bank of the Lan River.

Aug. 29—The Japanese won continued victories along the southern front.

Aug. 30—Generals Oku and Nodzu attacked the Russian line to the south and southeast of Liao Yang. The fighting lasted sixteen hours, but the Russians held their ground. Kuroki failed to cross the Taitse River at San Kan Kan Ku Tuan and marched west towards Liao Yang.

Aug. 31—Oku and Nodzu renewed their attack and Kuroki crossed the Taitse and turned the Russian left. Kuropatkin withdrew all his forces to the inner defenses of Liao Yang, with the Japanese following him closely.

Sept. 1—Kuropatkin, finding his rear threatened, after his left had been pushed back, abandoned Liao Yang and moved his entire army across the Taitse and the Japanese occupied Liao Yang. Kuroki, with the Japanese right, moved swiftly to the west, and part of Nodzu's army crossed the river.

Sept. 2—Kuroki reported in battle at the Yen Tai Mines, northeast of Liao Yang. The city of Lita Yang on fire. Kuropatkin attempted to cut through Kuroki's column before the entire Japanese army could cross the river to the latter's support.

Sept. 3—Oyama almost succeeded in cutting off Stakelberg's division, which composed the Russian rear guard, and which got across the Taitse River with the greatest difficulty.

Sept. 4—Finding himself menaced by another army north of Kuroki's, which threatened to cut his communications, Kuropatkin ordered a general retreat to Mukden.

Sept. 5—Heavy fighting reported on the road to Mukden at Yen Tai Mines, the Rusisan rear guard being almost wiped out.

Sept. 6.—The first section of the Russ'an retreat has has reached Mukden and passed through to the north. The Japanese are in close pursuit in the rear and on both flanks, the two latter forces converging on Mukden to head off the main force of Kuropatkin.

BRITAIN AND U. S. PREVAIL IN PROTEST RE CONTRABAND

Russia Will Be More Careful in Future—Makes Big Concessions.

London, Sept. 6. — The preliminary representations made by Count Benkenderoff, the Russian ambassador to the foreign office, indicate that Russia is on the point of making substantial concessions to the United States and Great Britain, regarding the question of contraband of war, as a result of the submission by Foreign Minister Lamsdorff of the report of the general commission to Emperor Nicholas today, together with information transmitted by Ambassador Benkenderoff, showing the views of the British Government. The Russian foreign minister is expected to present to the British Government through Sir Charles Hardinge, the British ambassador to Russia, tomorrow, the formal reply of the Russian Government. It is understood in official circles here that Russia, while not acknowledging herself at fault, for the captures made by her ships in the past, will more specifically describe the conditions under which certain goods, such as foodstuffs and cotton, become in her view contraband. The British foreign office is satisfied from the representation made to it that such substantial concessions will be made by Russia as will lead to an easy settlement of the vexatious question.

A Non-Union Parade

Cripple Creek, Col., Sept. 5.—Labor Day was observed here with a parade of 3,000 independent workmen. It was the first time in the history of the camp that the union men failed to parade, and probably the first observance of Labor Day by strictly non-union men in America. Banners reading, "They Cannot Come Back," "Cripple Creek Is Still in America," and "We Don't Hire Salaried Agitators," were carried. Army officials, the fire companies and the local militia participated.

In the Far North

Hammerfest, Norway, Sept. 6. — The Norwegian steamer Virico, which has arrived here, reports that she met the Ziegler relief expedition steamer Frithjof, Aug. 17, in latitude 79 north, and longitude 52 east. The Frithjof up to that time had been unable to reach Franz Joseph Land.

TAKING NO CHANCES

Japanese Fleet Watching Enemy's Vessels at Shanghai.

Shanghai, Sept. 5. — The Chinese have decided that the crews of the Askold and Grozovoi, while in treaty ports are under the control of customs officials and Russian consuls. A Japanese fleet of five cruisers and six destroyers is off Shanghai. The Japanese torpedo boats enter the harbor regularly for dispatches. The fleet will remain until the Askold leaves her dock and her big guns are removed.

Fire at Dawson.

Dawson, Y. T., Sept. 6. — The Klondike City sawmill, owned by the North American Trading and Transportation Company, was completely destroyed by fire today. The loss is $75,000, with no insurance.

The Klondike output this year will be close to $10,000,000 in gold.

Immigrants Held Up.

New York, Sept. 5.—Three thousand six hundred and sixteen immigrants, who reached this port on six ocean liners, which arrived today, were compelled to remain on the ships owing to the closing of the Ellis Island immigrants' station on account of labor troubles. They will be taken to Ellis Island tomorrow.

NORTH PERTH ELECTION VOIDED

Court Throws Out Election After Trial of Protests at Stratford.

Stratford, Ont., Sept. 6. — The North Perth provincial election has been voided.

"DUDE KING'S" BAGGAGE

Russia Objected to His Taking Seven Tons to Far East.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—The court of Berlin is agitated and mystified by Prince Frederick Leopold of Prusia, who married the Empress' sister, and so is not only Emperor William's cousin, but his brother-in-law.

The Emperor ordered the prince to attach himself to Gen. Kuropatkin's headquarters in Manchuria. All society is certain that this order resulted from the Emperor's anger over some scandal in which Prince Frederick Leopold held part, but of which the particulars are not known. However, everyone knows that the prince inherited peculiar tendencies toward wife-beating from his father, the "Red Prince," Germany's greatest general of cavalry.

Prince Frederick Leopold, who is the richest and most luxurious of the Hohenzollerns, entered into elaborate preparations for his journey to the far east. His baggage, weighing seven tons, was packed with numberless splendid uniforms, when the Russian War Department bluntly informed the prince—who is nicknamed the "Dude King"—that it could not transport his impedimenta over a railway which is being used for much more serious purposes.

It was perfectly plain that feeling in St. Petersburg was strongly against permitting the dandified Frederick Leopold to saunter through the stricken Russian army.

It is given out now that the prince is ill, and that his departure to Manchuria is postponed indefinitely.

DOMINION'S DEFENSES

Prof. Smith Thinks Relationships Would Prevent War With U. S.

London, Sept. 6. — Mr. Goldwin Smith, in a letter to the Manchester Guardian on the defense of the Canadian frontier, refers to being present at a picnic of the Reesor clan of Swiss origin and says they multiplied on both sides of the line. Do you expect he says one-half of these people to expend the fruits of their labor to take up arms against the other half? Mr. Smith quotes a speech made some years ago by Sir Richard Cartwright, in which the latter said he knew of great regions in Canada where one could not find one single solitary Canadian family which had not a son or daughter or brother or sister in the United States. Judge whether the members of the family who remain in Canada will gladly give up their earnings to provide means for fighting those who have gone to the States. An old Canadian once said to Mr. Smith: "They talk of bombarding New York. My three sons live there."

"Lord Dundonald" the letter concludes, "tells us we live in a fool's paradise. Perhaps that paradise is not unshared."

Will Be Married at Berlin

Berlin, Sept. 6.—The wedding of Crown Prince Frederick and the Duchess Cecilia of Mecklenberg-Schwerin will take place in Berlin, where the members of royal families can be entertained better than at the bride's home. The marriage will probably take place early in the new year.

CROSSED RIVER; BURNED BRIDGES

Liao Yang Evacuated During Night of September Third.

ANOTHER REPULSE FOR KUROKI

Japanese Got Within Twelve Miles of Railroad, But Were Driven Back, Say Russian Dispatches.

Yentai, Sunday, Sept. 4. — Delayed in transmission. — The Russians evacuated their positions around Liao Yang during the night of Sept. 3, crossing the Taitse River and burning the bridges behind them. In the meantime a strong force was holding General Kuroki back from Yentai.

During the combined attack on Liao Yang, which commenced Aug. 30 by General Oku, attacking from the southeast, and General Nodzu, from the southwest, the shell fire was terrific, in one instance 56 shells bursting at the same time.

The Japanese made a fine infantry attack, rushing the Russian trenches, but were repulsed with heavy losses. The Japanese shrapnel, as a rule, burst too high. On the whole the day went well for the Russians. The Japanese were driven from the villages along the railroad.

On Aug. 31 the shelling commenced at daylight from all sides, but the Russian infantry pressed forward. Late that afternoon the news came that Kuroki was threatening the railroad at Yentai, and the Russians commenced to retire, enabling the Japanese to bring up two batteries and enfilade the Russian force along the railroad.

During the night the transport moved into Liao Yang.

On Sept. 1, the Russians retreated from the main position, which formed a circle around the city, while the transports crossed the river. At 2 o'clock the Japanese succeeded in placing two guns in position, and shelled the railroad station, resulting in many casualties. At the same time the Japanese infantry brought up heavy guns and used shimoz powder to shell the Russian towns. The Russians held the position till the night of Sept. 3, when they retired across the river.

On Sept. 2 a strong Russian force was moved east from Yentai to hold Kuroki back. Kuroki attacked it, and was repulsed, being driven from his positions on the left. The Japanese poured in a terrific shrapnel fire, one shell annihilating two Russian companies. In the evening the Russian artillery, which had been reinforced, shelled the Japanese position, and Kuroki pushed his right forward and got within twelve miles of the railroad at Yentai. Later he was driven back to his original position.

Yentai, where the Russian concentration of troops occurred, is ten miles northeast of Liao Yang.

They give the garrison no rest. Assaults no sooner cease than the artillery increases its thunder. The garrison is said to be greatly worn and weary, but determined to continue resistance, always hoping that General Kuropatkin will soon gain sufficient strength to come to their relief. The Russians in Che Foo fear that the recent Japanese victory at Liao Yang will have a despairing effect on the Port Arthur garrison when they hear of it. When this information will reach them is uncertain, as the Japanese blockade is very tight. The Associated Press messenger was put to work carrying Russian dead and wounded upon entering Port Arthur. He escaped on Thursday and boarded a junk, which was promptly overhauled by Japanese torpedo boat destroyers.

Finding seven copies of the Port Arthur Novi Krai concealed on the messenger, the Japanese took him to Dalny, where he claims that he was beaten and suspended by the queue for the purpose of compelling him to admit that he was a spy. He was finally recognized by a Chinese official, who secured his release.

THE ELOPING PRINCESS

Louise of Cobourg Intends to Prove That She Is Sane.

Vienna, Sept. 6. — A lawyer, who is in the confidence of Lieut. Count Mattassch-Keglevitch, and who has just returned from visiting the Princess Louise of Cobourg, declines to reveal the whereabouts of the princess. He gives a statement, which he says she made to him, according to which, throughout her immurement she expected to be rescued by the count. The princess said: "Now, happily, I am free, and shall use my liberty, so that I can remain free. My next important move will be to take legal steps to have my guardianship set aside. I shall ask the Austrian court chamberlain's department to grant me a new medical examination, and I can bring 50 witnesses to prove my sanity. I am not thinking of divorce or remarriage and reports of such intentions are spread for the purpose of injuring me. The lawyers said that the princess made his statement in the presence of Lieut. Count Mattassch-Keglevitch, adding that the friendship between the count and the princess had always been idealistic. He said she could scarcely return to her husband, but would fight any efforts which might be made to compel her to return to an asylum.

Has Not Escaped.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 5.—There is no truth in the statement printed in London that Sassanoff, the murderer of Interior Minister Von Plehve, has succeeded in escaping from prison.

WORN AND WEARY BUT FIGHTING ON

Stoessel's Little Band Again Beat Off Besiegers.

THE SECOND ASSAULT FAILS

Japanese Besiegers of Port Arthur Lose 8,000 Men From Aug. 27 to 31—Russians Lose 3,000.

Che Foo, Sept. 4. — The second general assault on Port Arthur assumed crushing proportions on Aug. 27, and continued unabated till the morning of Aug. 31, when the Japanese returned everywhere except from Palichuang, which they have apparently firmly secured. This information comes from a Chinese messenger sent to Port Arthur by the Associated Press, and it confirms previous fragmentary advices. The messenger adds that Itzshan was reattacked Aug. 30 with great fury, but the Japanese were unable to secure a position.

Another Chinaman who departed from Port Arthur, Sept. 2, says a fierce assault was made on the left flank at 3 o'clock in the morning of that day. The assault lasted until 6 a.m., when the Japanese retired. The bombardment then recommenced, the Japanese firing chiefly from Guishiying and Palichung, the Russians from Atszzhan.

The Japanese losses, according to the Russian estimate, were 8,000 during the four days from Aug. 27 to Aug. 31. The Russians' losses are placed at 3,000. During the assault shells from the field guns and rifles fell in the city. The Russian ships in the harbor participated occasionally in the firing.

A reliable authority, in touch with the events at Port Arthur, declares that a week ago the garrison numbered approximately 15,000. Itzshan, Palungshan, Anszzhan and other positions frequently mentioned, are sustaining the most desperate and repeated assaults and bombardments. All directly or indirectly block the Japanese. The arrangements of the forts, affording mutual support, renders the Japanese scheme exceedingly difficult of execution. No Japanese have been near Litati for some time.

KUROPATKIN IN FIGHTING LINE

Had Two Horses Killed Under Him While Directing at Liao Yang.

Rome, Sept. 6.—The Russian embassy has received a dispatch stating that Gen. Kuropatkin, while personally directing the fighting at Liao Yang, had two horses killed under him.

One half of the town of Liao Yang and a number of storehouses have been destroyed by fire. The greater part of the Russian supplies stored at Liao Yang has fallen into the hands of the Japanese.

WANT LABOR MINISTER

Trades Congress Would Have Appointment One of Cabinet Rank.

Leeds, Eng., Sept. 6.—The Trades Union Congress decided at today's session to send a delegate with a greeting to the international peace congress to be held in Boston.

The congress also adopted the following resolution: "That in the opinion of this congress the time has arrived when a minister of labor should be appointed with cabinet rank to whom would be intrusted the administration of labor enactments, and who would also collect and use such information as the various consuls could supply in relation to labor legislature abroad, and would be responsible for taking the initiative on questions such as the attempted cornering of raw material so necessary to our industrial prosperity.

ELECTION TRIALS

North Perth and Muskoka Protests Before Courts Today.

Bracebridge, Sept. 6.—The trial of the protest against the return to the Legislature for Muskoka at the bye-election of Mr. A. A. Mahaffy will commence here today before Chancellor Boyd and Mr. Justice Teetzel. There is also a cross-petition against Dr. Hart, the Liberal candidate. The Liberals will be represented by E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., and Mr. A. H. Beaton while Mr. Geo. Tait Blackstock will be the leading counsel for the Conservatives. Chancellor Boyd arrived here by boat from Parry Sound, where he has been spending the vacation, and Mr. Justice Teetzel, Registrar M. C. Cameron, and the counsel on both sides came up from Toronto on the afternoon train.

The North Perth protest against Mr. Brown, Liberal, will also be begun today before Chief Justice Moss and Justice Street.

Burglars Busy Today; Get Away With $8,000

Lansdale, Pa., Sept. 6.—Six masked robbers early today visited the Lehigh Valley Traction Company's car barns at Soudrton, a few miles above Herem, and after beating and gagging four employes, blew open the safe and escaped with between $7,000 and $8,000, the Labor Day receipts of the company. The men were all armed and when the employes of the company attempted to resist they were assaulted with black jacks and then bound and gagged. There were two safes in the office, but only one of them was broken open. The burglars had made preparations to crack the other safe, but the alarm in the office sounded and they were frightened off. They had stolen a wagon in which they made their escape.

LABOR DAY FITTINGLY CELEBRATED BY THE ORGANIZED WORKMEN OF LONDON

Parade to Queen's Park in Which Many Trades Unions Participated and Made a Splendid Showing---Sports of Various Kinds Followed.

TOILERS AND THEIR FRIENDS TO THE NUMBER OF 5,000 AT THE GROUNDS

Ideal Weather Marked the Day and Nothing Was Wanting to Make the Demonstration a Success—The Committees Which Did So Much for the Occasion—Prizes Awarded Four Unions for Their Appearance in the Parade.

Labor Day—the day given over by statute to the demonstration and pleasures of workingmen the Dominion over—was yesterday favored with the finest weather the first Monday in September has yet brought forth. For a while in the morning there was an ominous hovering of clouds which many thought boded ill for the day's success, but towards noon the sun shone in unimpaired splendor and in the ideal early September sunshine a large number of the workingmen of London marched in procession to the music of two bands to Queen's Park, where an excellent programme of sports and games was held.

The procession was not as large possibly as those of other years, but it was a very creditable one, nevertheless, and embraced representatives of nearly all the skilled and unskilled labor which finds employment in the many and varied manufactories of London. And those who were not in the parade were on the sidewalks to view the procession.

All along the line of march the crowds stood for over an hour in the sun and patiently awaited the arrival of the representatives of union labor, and to cheer those familiar to them as they passed along. There was scarcely any delay in starting the procession, Marshal George Grisman and Assistant Marshal Harry Clark placing the different unions in their correct positions without error, and the parade was got into motion without a hitch of any kind.

The long march was also made in good time, and at Queen's Park the different unions entered the race track and marched past the grand stand, where each was accorded an ovation by several thousand persons in the stands and probably as many more who were lined up along the fence on either side. Here the men left the procession and were free to pass the day as they chose. The committee speedily got to work, too, and the lengthy programme was carried out in a satisfactory manner. The waits were few, and these were enlivened by the rendering of popular airs by the Seventh and the Twenty-sixth Regiment bands, both of which organizations greatly pleased the large crowds along the line of march and at the park.

Outside of the inclosure were fully as many people as occupied the stands, making up a crowd of somewhere in the neighborhood of 5,000 or 6,000 persons. These latter found plenty to amuse themselves in the many games which were conducted on the grounds, and the little ones were delighted patrons of the old but always new merry-go-dound.

Late in the afternoon the committee awarded the prizes to the various unions, which in their opinion made the best showing in the parade. The Stove Mounters were awarded first, Metal Polishers, Platers and Buffers second, the Painters third, and the Barbers fourth. There could, of course, be no dissatisfaction with the awards, and the judges' decision met with general approval.

For some reason or other the Builders' Laborers Union did not walk in the procession. This union is a very strong one, numerically, and it has in past years carried off several prizes for the best appearance in the parade. Consequently it was greatly missed by the crowds. There was also but very few bricklayers in the parade. Had the builders' laborers turned out as in former years in their trim white suits the present prize-winners would have been given a run for their money.

The several committees yesterday worked hard to make the big demonstration a success and they were greatly pleased with the large crowds which filled the stands and grounds. From a financial standpoint, the demonstration was a great success and it is understood that the local Trades and Labor Council will be quite a sum ahead. For this state of affairs the committee which had the demonstration in charge are to be thanked, for they certainly were unselfish and generous in their labors to help the work along.

These committee were as follows:

Finance—J. Maker (chairman), J. Forster, C. Meaden.

Music—F. Floyd (chairman), G. Grisman, L. Paladino.

Grounds—G. Grisman (chairman), F. Floyd, J. Conn.

Attractions—L. Paladino (chairman), W. Stone, J. W. Suton.

Sports—W. Stone (chairman), H. Clark, J. W. Sutton.

Printing—F. H. Ryan (chairman), J. Marks, W. Cooney.

The Procession.

The parade was a very creditable one, both in point of numbers and appearance. Of course, the unions with the greatest strength and the showiest uniforms, took best with the crowd, but along the line of march many complimentary remarks were passed by the spectators regarding all of the organizations.

The parade was led by the splendid band of the Seventh Regiment, under the leadership of Bandmaster Hiscott, and headed by Drum-Major Cockburn. Then came Barbers' Union, No. 366, with about 40 members, looking natty in neat coats of white. The barbers also carried canes, and in point of appearance they were not excelled by any union in the procession.

Then followed the International Association of Machinists. All of these were without uniforms, but wore handsome badges. There were about 30 men in the union. The metal Polishers', Platers' and Buffers' Union came next, and the appearance of the men was very fine. Each wore a uniform, composed of white shirts and blue overalls, the latter being such as are used in the shops, and the effect was excellent. There were in this union about forty men. As usual, the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union came out strong, mustering about 70 men, ranging from old veterans of the handsaw to the younger generation of builders. Each man wore a badge.

At this point in the parade a band of Highland pipers made things lively with the lilt o' the pipes. They were followed by the boilermakers, probably 40 strong; the plumbers, broommakers, electrical workers and garment workers, all of whom made a creditable showing. The Bartenders' Union mustered about 25 or 30 men, all of whom carried natty canes. Next came the Twenty-sixth Regiment Band. Fully 50 or 60 men walked in the Stovemounters' Union, and all wore the conventional blue-striped overalls of the shops. This union made an especially fine appearance in the parade. It was followed by the Painters' and Decorators' Union, No. 97, 40 strong, all in a uniform of white overalls. All along the line of the procession the crowds showered praises upon the painters and decorators for their neat appearance. The Journeymen Tailors' Union, the Brewery Workers, the Brassworkers' Union, the Industrial Union, and the Theatrical Employes' Union of America followed in the order named. With the exception of the latter the turnout was large, but the theatrical workers only mustered eight or nine men. Of course, in a place like London, such a union is bound to be numerically weak.

As usual, the printers made a splendid showing, having between 50 and 60 men in line. Several of them were old-timers, who have been members of No. 133 for many years. Next to these was the Teamsters' Union, the railway employes and the Iron Molders' Union. There were over 60 men in line in the last union, and the showing made by the men was creditable. The sheet metal workers came second last, and last but not least came the cigarmakers. As has been the rule since Labor Day parades were first known in London, the cigarmakers' turnout was the largest in the procession, there being somewhere over 125 men in line, and, of course, such a large body completely overshadowed all other unions. This year the men simply wore badges, but they were so conspicuous by their numbers that they needed no uniform to distinguish them.

A "Rube" band of a dozen pieces added a comedy part to the parade, and made barrels of fun for the young fry, who followed in shoals.

Some splendid floats brought up the rear. The Carling Brewing and Malting Company had three wagons in the parade, all of which were lavishly decorated. One was loaded with kegs of lager, one with huge cask, and another carried a pyramid of ale bottles. A number of nicely-decorated wagons followed the Carling display and added greatly to the appearance of the procession.

Sports at Queen's Park

The sports in front of the grandstands at the fair grounds were witnessed by a very large and enthusiastic crowd. Although the start was delayed the programme was finished before 6 o'clock, and everybody went away satisfied.

The feature of the afternoon was, judging by the interest taken by the people, the running race,in which three horses were entered. Both heats were fast, and the race was certainly one well worth seeing. The trotting races were also of great interest, and altogether the horses provided some grand sport. There was not an accident.

Although the running race was last on the list, it was first in point of interest. The three mounts were Australia (Norton & Walsh), Miss Canada (J. Kilborn), and Donnybrook (E. Kilborn). The last of these horses was ridden by the owner, Miss Canada was under young McLeod, while Australia was ridden, and ridden to win, by little Jack Malin. This 14-year-old jockey deserved the plaudits of the crowd, as in each heat he came in a good distance ahead, a length in front in the first case and still more in the second heat, ahead of Miss Canada, which won second money. The time for the half-mile was :50¼ and :50½.

In the open trotting event there were three entries, and three heats had to be taken. Sheik Indrum (W. Robinson) came in first in this, Lady Black (Dr. Wood), second, and Gay Rex (H. H. Parmer) third. The start was a good one, and the timers said the half-mile was done nicely in 1:09¾. Sheik Indrum broke in the next two heats and Lady Black took the lead, with Gay Rex second. The time for the last two heat was given as 1:11½ and 1:09¾.

Four horses entered in the "green" race and only two heats were necessary, the finish in each case being the same. They were Edward, the King (H. H. Parmer), 1, Big Jack (D. H. Flanigan), 2, Nellie Gay (C. Smale) 3, Gray Pointer (George H. Flanigan, jun.), 4. Time, 1:20¾, 1:18¼. The judges in the horse races were Dr. Hugh Stevenson, Dr. Routledge, M. P. P. and T. Gillean. Mr. Gillean was starter and had to exercise his lungs in the absence of a megaphone.

Messrs. Sutton, Floyd and Conn had charge of the other races. The first race went off without a hitch, the winners being J. Sweeney 1, J. Hodge 2, S. Delaney 3. The boys' barrel race resulted as follows: Willie O'Rourke 1, Victor Backus 2, V. Short 3. Of course, some of the boys were sure they had won the prize, but the judges knew better in this case. Then came a very interesting race—especially interesting to the judges, who had to choose the winners according to the turn in which they came in. Mrs. Font, of Pottersburg, took first prize: Mrs. Cowherd second and Mrs. Mabel Peters third. There were four entries and all were good runners.

The fat man's race was run a second post at the first attempt. The winners were E. W. Rau, W. F. Bullen and F. Floyd.

The sack race for union men only was won by W. Bennett, E. Parsons 2 and S. Delaney 3. In the race for girls under 14 years of age Miss Emma Clark came first, Miss Lizzie Burnoe second and Miss Vera Shoebottom third.

The barrel race, which followed, gave a good deal of scope to the experts, for there was a technical point raised, and for a time it was the cause of some annoyance. S. Delaney came in first. The second man, N. Rogers, a colored man, had an ingenious way of rolling his barrel to the finish. Instead of running behind it and pushing it with both hands, he ran along the side and dashed it with one hand. For this he was ruled out and Wm. Bennett got second and Wm. Aldredge third. Rogers, however, was later given a special prize.

The young ladies' race resulted thus: Miss Nellie McNiff 1, Miss Grace Fleming 2, Miss Pearl Bugg 3.

Then came the shoe race. The prizes went to C. Swazie, E. Rau and S. Delaney. The race was to run one way, and remove shoes, put them on again, tie them up and run back to the judges. The man who came in second was neither Rau nor Delaney, but Wm. Oldridge. Oldridge, however, had his shoes undone, or, at least, one of them, and the other was not very well tied. The judges ruled him out, but he maintained that as he had tied them before running back to the satisfaction of the judge at that end of the course, he should get second prize. It was not his fault the shoes came untied, he claimed, but the judges refused to listen to such argument, for they said if he had properly tied them they would not have come undone. And so it ended as far as the judges were concerned.

There was a neat dancing contest on the platform in front of the grand stand, union men only competing. The winners were M. Delaney, buck and wing dancing, 1; R. Rowan, Irish dancing, 2; S. Drennan, buck and wing dancing, 3. Louie Stewart did a neat turn at exhibition buck and wing dancing, which was equally applauded by the spectators.

Between races some excellent vaudeville acts were given. Rupert Holliday, comedian, appeared in some of his latest successes, and the Grayson children contributed several dancing numbers. Master Anthony Adair, the boy soprano, sang "Big Indian Chief" and won applause, while Master Percy Perrin proved himself to be an excellent cornetist.

In the evening the same artists appeared and also Sandy Drennan and son, comedians; Mr. Eddie Starr, black face comedian, and the Kenwick Male Quartet, all of whom added to the day's pleasure. Mr. W. Spence's illustrated songs were a feature of the entertainment, and altogether the show was well worth seeing and hearing.

BUSY CANTERBURY

Primate Views Toronto Exhibition and Schools.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—The Archbishop of Canterbury and Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan spent a busy morning yesterday. Beginning with a visit to the exhibition, which they found so attractive that they were delayed for other appointments, the archbishop visited the institution and hospital of the Sisters of St. John, the Bishop Strachan School for Girls, the Deaconess' Home and Havergal Hall Girls' School. At 1 p.m. they were the guests of the Canadian Club at luncheon. His grace delivered a most inspiring address on the duty of citizenship, and the inherent qualities of the British race for government. Mr. Morgan did not speak. Among the 450 present were Rev. Principal Caven, Rev. Chencellor Burwash, Rev. Provost Macklem, Rev. Chencellor Wallace, and other heads of educational institutions. In the afternoon the party were driven about the city and viewed some of the public buildings. Last evening they were entertained by Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., at dinner. They leave at 9 a.m. today for Niagara Falls, where his grace will be formally received by representatives of the American Episcopal Church, whose convention he is about to attend.

RUSSIANS RACE THROUGH MUKDEN

The officials of the war office do not expect a renewal of the fighting for several days, which they think the Japanese will employ in recuperating, while Kuropatin collects his army preparatory to pushing the troops northward. He has a double railroad, and the high road. When the fighting recommences, it is expected here that it will be in the nature of a series of rear-guard actions, as the final withdrawal is effected. There are facilities at Yantai for defense. According to the military authorities, all Kuropatkin's hopes and plans for victory were dashed by the wonderful celerity with which Oyama's right pushed northward after crossing the Taitse River. Here Kuropatkin's information evidently was at fault in believing that he had before him the whole of the Japanese forces which had crossed over to the right bank. He had already completed a preliminary bombardment of Kuroki's force on Friday, and was about to strike him, when he discovered that another Japanese column had crossed the river further up stream, and he worked around still further northward. The latter column was marching with great rapidity westward to cut the railroad and close the doors on the Russian retreat to Mukden. Just at this point there is a hiatus in the reports. Whether Kuropatkin actually attempted to deliver a blow against Kuroki is not clear. At all events, if he did he was compelled to desist upon the discovery of the northerly Japanese column. The latter took him by surprise.

Gen. Orloff's division, which suffered so severely, had just arrived from European Russia. Although his division was thrown into confusion, and lost a frightful number of men, the temporary check it was able to give the Japanese probably saved the railroad for Kuropatkin. In the meantime, Kuroki, freed from Kuropatkin, moved hastily westward to interrupt Gen. Stakelberg, who was crossing the river from the left bank. It was then that Kuropatkin thought Stakelberg's corps was lost, and so reported to the war office. But Kuroki was too late. Stakelberg not only succeeded in getting his corps across, but marched at high speed 30 miles to Yentai, actually arriving in time to come to the support of the hard-pressed Orloff.

The war office professes ignorance of the loss of the guns and men sustained by the Russians, but there is no doubt that many thousands have fallen.

The retreat of Kuropatkin has evidently thrown everything into confusion at the front and the reports received are meager and incomplete.

The military expert of the Novoe Vremya says the chief queston of the moment is wether Kuropatkin will succeed in collecting all his forces from Liao Yang and effecting a retirement to Mukden, in view of the flanking position taken up by the Japanese. "Reinforcements," the paper says, "have undoubtedly arrived at Yentai from the north. Our main hope lies in the probable exhaustion of the Japanese after the bloody and long and severe fight, which practically continued day and night from Aug. 24 to Sept. 3.

Czar Feels Bad

St. Petersburg, Sept. 4, 1:15 p.m.—From Aug. 24 to Sept. 3 the Emperor has undergone a great strain during the past week. His main fear during the last few days has been that Kuropatkin would be cut off. Like his subjects, the Emperor has taken Kuropatkin's defeat greatly to heart, but the preservation of the army organization has been a great relief, and his answer to the battle of Liao Yang will be the mobilization of two army corps. So far as can be learned, the Emperor shows no disposition to blame Kuropatkin.

All classes of the population are awaiting with intense eagerness the receipt of details of the battle and estimates and particulars. Crowds hang around the bulletin boards. The wives and families of many of the lower classes of the people spend most of their time in the church, praying that their loved ones may be spared.

The accounts of the battle published in the newspapers here are very incomplete. Some of the papers evidently have not yet awakened to the full force of the disaster; but without exception they try to put a brave face on the situation. There is not the slightest suggestion of yielding. The cry of the papers is that the war must go on till Russia is victorious, if not this year then next year.

Not Annihilated?

St. Petersburg, Sept. 6.—4:13 p.m.—The Associated Press is authorized in the name of the Russian general staff to deny the report which was in circulation here last night of the annihilation of Gen. Kuropatkin's rear guard. According to the latest advices of the staff no Russian force was cut off and it is believed that there is little danger of the Japanese intercepting Kuropatkin below Mukden. Tre information here is that the Japanese force at Benishu does not exceed two divisions at the most. It is added, however, that the staff has not yet received news from the front.

The Diana Will Disarm.

Tokio, Sept. 6.—The French Minister today formally notified the Japanese Government that the Russian cruiser Diana will disarm at Saigon, French Indo-China, where she sought refuge Aug. 20, after taking part in the battle of Aug. 10 off Port Arthur.

Labor Day.

Labor Day was observed in the centers of industry in the usual fashion. The organized demonstrations were confined to the trades unionists, though all classes in a country like Canada could enter into the spirit of the day, since there is, strictly speaking, no distinctively labor class. The stalwart manhood that marched in the procession yesterday was in no way differentiated from the mass of the people. Thank Providence, there are no "lower orders" in this new country. We have some self-styled upper circles, but one generation back disposes of their claims. Only in the old civilizations can we see and realize what the term "working class" really means. In a European country the artisan uncomplainingly wears the badge of his condition. His ancestors were factory operatives, his children will be the same, and he aspires to be nothing else. He is content to dress in a peculiar way, to be recognized everywhere and at any time as a member of a class. His identity is stamped in his garb, his speech and his bearing. In Canada or the United States, however, the keenest observer would fail to divide into classes a holiday crowd or draw even a rough line between those who earned their living in mechanical occupations, and those who did not. In the new world there is no hereditary working class, upon which generations of factory life or hard manual labor have placed an unmistakable imprint. This is the land of opportunities; the children are not compelled by hard necessity to follow in their father's footsteps, and every workman has the prospect of becoming an employer. There is no caste system as in older countries, where social conditions have become stereotyped. Labor is more honored, self-respecting and independent: the sons of the rich turn towards practical science, and enter the higher branches of mechanical industry.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, speaking at Toronto a few days ago, made the remark that since he came into the world, eighty years ago, there had been many changes, and while some of the changes might have their doubtful side, they also had their good side. Nothing, he said, was more fixed in his mind than that the lot of the laboring man is greatly improved. "His lot," said Mr. Smith, "has become much more pleasurable and enjoyable than it was when I was a boy. The means of transportation have enabled him to buy his necessaries and even his luxuries in various parts of the world. The means of locomotion have become very much greater, his trolley corresponds to the rich man's carriage." Instead of living in the slums of the city, he is now able to live in the outskirts, in purer air, and he has, among other things, the advantage of many institutions, free public libraries, parks, picture galleries great exhibitions of art and industry, and a constant cheapening literature. In fact, there is a constant tendency to the development of democratic institutions whose aim is to give to the man of smalls means every advantage which the wealth of a rich man may purchase for him. The desire for exclusiveness is rapidly ceasing to exercise an influence upon human affairs. Indeed, the course of events in the moral and intellectual world is steadily giving to all men, rich and poor, great and small, equal interest in the affairs of the world.

The Late Robert Elliott.

Mr. John Dearness and Mr. Frank Lawson have edited the verse of the late Robert Elliott, of Westminster, whose recent death at an early age removed one of the sweetest singers in the choir of Canadian poetry. The collection embraces about 50 poems, the majority of which appear in print for the first time. It is prefaced by tributes in verse and prose from Mr. Dearness, Mr. Warman, Mr. Lawson and other local admirers. Mr. W. E. Saunders describes Robert Elliott as "the one man in the London district who seemed to take such an intelligent and inquiring interest in each branch of natural history that every specialist took profit as well as pleasure out of intercourse with him." From Mr. Dearness we learn something of his uneventful but beautiful and serviceable life. The youngest of four brothers, and of delicate constitution, he was not tied by the regular routine of farm duties. He studied for the teaching profession and entered the Normal Training School at Toronto, but illness compelled him to relinquish his ambition. He fought against his invalidism with infinite cheerfulness,and found his chief delight in the companionship of books and nature, to which his poetical temperament inclined him. "Not even Gilbert White knew his parish of Selborne better than Robert Elliott knew the beautiful and winding Thames in the neighborhood of the valley that he named Plover Mills." He wished to be useful to his fellow-citizens, and served at one time or another in every local organization—of school, church, or municipality.

His verse gives the impression that he wrote poetry because he lived and felt it. The habits of birds, of plants, of flowers, and all the sights and sounds of the country appealed to the poet in him, as well as the trained student of nature. This example of his verse will suffice to show the true poetic feeling which idealizes common objects:

TWILIGHT FIELDS.

A quail's clear whistle, tremulous,
With broken beat now floats across
The shadowy mead, all odorous
With trampled grass and bruised moss;
A falcon to the white clouds soars,
A squirrel chatters in the tree,
And bees now seek their honeyed stores
From all the flowers that bless the lea.

The cardinal lobelia nods,
Amid the marish weeks, and by
The running stream the golden-rods
Nod to the choral harmony
Of wind and wave. The gossamers,
Seen in the sun's departing ray,
Glimmer like mists about the firs
That bend above the little bay.

Then come, my love, and let us leave
The village din, the dusty road;
Come let us in this haunt of Eve
Pilfer the sweets of Cere's load.
Ere yet the halcyon like a shaft,
Of flashing light shall seek his home,
We may of nectar quaff a draught,
As these the twilight fields we roam.

Most of his sonnets are in this vein, but he is happy also in his contemplative verse, and in all he shows a graceful lyrical gift. The editors and publishers have done a service to Canadian poetry by preserving these offerings of a gentle soul, attuned to the beauties of the field, the woods, the river and the quiet scenes, amid which he loved to roam.

A Light on Trust Methods.

When trust magnates fall out, the public gets a glimpse at the methods of high finance. Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, was one of the inside ring which manipulated Amalgamated Copper. Lawson claimed that he was victimized by his confederates, and in revenge he gives the history of the Copper Trust to the world in the September issue of Everybody's Magazine. The moving spirits were Wm. Rockefeller, and Henry H. Rogers. They bought the Anaconda and other copper mines for $39,000,000, but the men who sold out agreed to leave the company for a certain time in the National City Bank, which is a Rockefeller institution. Then a meeting was held in a room in the bank, made up half of capitalists and half of lawyers, clerks and office boys, at which the Amalgamated Copper Company was formed and capitalized at $75,000,000. As Rogers and Rockefeller owned the copper properties, the entire capital stock of $75,000,000 came into their hands, although considerable juggling with a dummy check, described at length by Mr. Lawson, seems to have been needed to accomplish this result. The National City Bank then placed this stock on sale, offering to loan its deposits at the rate of 90 cents on the dollar on Amalgamated stock; the public bought the stock for $75,000,000, and Messrs. Rogers and Rockefeller were enabled to pay the $39,000,000 to the original holders of the copper properties, and have $36,000,000 left, all without a dollar's expense to themselves. Mr. Lawson adds:

"Thirty-six million dollars — and Alaska cost us but fourteen millions, and Spain relinquished to us her claims on the Philippines for only twenty millions! Thirty-six million dollars—more than a hundred times as much as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and 'Abe' Lincoln together secured for the patriotic labors of their lifetimes. And this vast sum was taken from the people to enrich men whose coffers were already, as the results of similar operations, so full of dollars that neither they nor their children, nor their children's children, could count them—as the people count their savings, a dollar at a time—as thoughtlessly taken as the apples that the schoolboy steals after he has eaten so many that he can eat no more."

Amalgamated Copper stock has fallen from above par to about 57, and thousands have been ruined in the process of squeezing out the water. If this is not robbery, what is it? Yet the promoters of the trust are not only beyond the reach of law, but they do not seem to be visited with any penalties by public opinion. Apparently the standard of morality in commercial affairs applies only to a small deal.

Sixty per cent of the western wheat crop is in stook and the average yield is 20 bushels to the acre. That means another good year for the Dominion.

The Western Fair is only five days' distant. If it keeps pace with the prosperity of the country it should be the greatest on record.

Pierpont Morgan has been judging Shorthorn bulls at the Toronto Fair. He probably knows more about the Wall-street variety.

It is amusing to hear the Opposition organs complain of the amount taken from the people in customs taxation, and then argue that the duties should be still higher.

The election courts today reduced Premier Ross' majority to one. That's where it was a year ago, and the chances are that it will grow again.

As Mr. Dooley truly remarked: "The Rooshyans is sweepin' ivrything before thim in their mad rush to Saint Pethersburg."

The late M. Bloch, who was supposed to have said the last word on modern warfare, advanced these theories:

"That frontal attack would be impossible without great superiority of numbers (say six to one);

"That battles would seldom be decisive, the victors not being in a position to pursue, and the retreating force falling back on new positions a few miles to the rear and entrenching themselves for fresh resistance;

"That turning movements with immense numerical superiority would be the only means of gaining decisive victories.

But the Japs have put theories to rout. They have executed frontal attacks and turning movements with no great numerical superiority, and are now giving the Russians a long chase.

The Limit of Politeness.

[From an Exchange.]

The Japanese proprietor of a tea-shop in the east end of London has been much annoyed by the incessant howling of his neighbor's dog under his window while he was trying to sleep. There came a night when his patience gave way. He raised the window, stuck his head out, and called to his neighbor in terms that indicated that his English environment was gradually undermining his native politeness.

"Mist' Jones," he said, "will you do the kindness for request the honorable dog that he stop his honorable bark? If you don't, by gosh, I'll knock his head off!"

Apple Pie.

[W. D. Nesbit, in Ainslee's.]

Let others praise the red, red rose,
Whose haunting scent none may forget,
But almost anybody knows
The apple pie is sweeter yet.
Let others sing the damsel fair
Who thralls them with bewitching art—
But apple pie drives off my care
And trips the highway to my heart,
And if it's cold—
Say one day old—
I want all of it I can hold!

When apple pie has held the shelf
Until it's cool and crisp and firm,
I'll eat a whole big one myself
And never murmur—not a murm'!
Why, when it's sliced it fairly smiles,
And chuckles when its honeyed juice
In tantalizing drips beguiles
The cravings that it has set loose.
O, if it's cold—
Say one day old—
I want all of it I can hold!

I think I'd give away my crown,
Were I a man of royal birth,
To eat, while holding upside down,
The last piece of it on this earth!
Why, every summer smile and song
Is held within an apple pie—
And that's the place where they belong,
All peace and dulcetness! O my!
When it is cold—
Say one day old—
I want all of it I can hold!

Regrets to Report.

[Chicago Daily News.]

No Use for It.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.]

The Czar—Viskyvitch.
The Orderly—Your highness.
The Czar—Go and take down that sign in the front parlor window.
The Orderly—Which sign, your highness?
The Czar—Boy wanted.

Proper Precaution.

[Chicago Record-Herald.]

The poetess of passion, having cornered the editor, started to read the "little thing" which she had brought for his consideration.

"I am aflame," she began, "aflame with the fire of love.
In my bosom, tumultuous, seething, there ——"

"Just a moment, please," he interrupted, "till I give the signal for our fire drill."

Which Goose?

[Cardiff Mail.]

One of the leading merchants of a large town was given a dinner. Among the guests was the mayor, who was seated to the right of the host at the table. When dinner was about to be served a gose was placed opposite his lordship. The mayor jokingly said, "Shall I have to sit so near the goose?" Then smilingly looking at the host, he continued: "Ladies and gentlemen, I mean the roast goose."

Coming to Canada.

[Chicago Chronicle.]

In the near future marksmen in some parts of the United States will probably find themselves opposed on the shooting range to one of the cleverest rifle shots in England—Miss Florence Lewes, the young woman whose exploits at the annual British shooting competition this year have attracted wide attention all over the world. Miss Lewes, who is a grandniece of George Henry Lewes, explained just after she had made 33 out of a possible 35 bull's-eyes at 200 yards, that she took up shooting not long ago, because she intends to emigrate to Canada shortly. So her appearance on American ranges is likely.

In After Years.

[Chicago News.]

Mrs. Green—William, what objection have you to that young man who is calling on your daughter?

Green—He is silly, Mary.

Mrs. Green—Oh, that's because he is in love. I remember the time when you were a very silly young man.

Green—Silly isn't the proper name for it, Mary. I was a measly idiot—that's what I was.

PROSPECT DARK FOR A PEACE

The Russian Autocracy Will Push War to the Uttermost

NO CHANCE FOR INTERVENTION

Interests and Leaning of the Various Powers Do Not Favor an Effort to Settle the Struggle.

London, Sept. 6. — Assuming, as practically every Englishman does, that Russia has lost this campaign, the question is asked, "Will she fight another?" The best information goes to prove that the governing group at St. Petersburg has already answered the question in a decisive affirmative, and nothing hinders except the risks of a general internal revolt, now somewhat remote. Men and money will fail Japan before they fail Russia, and the Russian position in the Far East must grow much worse before the Russian autocracy will accept what they would regard as a shameful peace at the hands of the despised Asiatic.

The idea of intervention is put aside. As the Spectator says, the desire to stop bloodshed hardly ever suffices to deflect the action of great states, adding: "With the exception of France, which is excessively disinclined to disturb the general peace, the weakening of Russia relieves the powers of a sort of nightmare. Great Britain ceases to fear for India; Germany ceases to apprehend an invasion from two sides at once, each an invasion of half a million of men; Austria recovers her old position of safety in the Balkans, and is relieved from the danger of a summons to support Germany in a war from which she could reap little direct advantage. No peace that can be expected would enable Russia to assist Germany to secure practical possession of the Shan Tung Peninsula. America has been cured of her old sentimental friendship for Russia. Italy, whatever her wishes, will not dream of acting alone. Only France is really concerned to maintain Russia as she is, and France will not move without the consent of Great Britain, even to save her immense pecuniary stake in Russian solvency. Intervention then must be limited words, and words have no effect, either upon Russia, which feels that the alternatives are victory or a complete upset of her existing system, or upon Japan, which regards intervention as a device for depriving her of the just rewards of her enormous sacrifices and great success."

Great hopes for Ireland center in the doings of the new Reform Association. Of course, the pitfalls are many. The Radical Speaker heralds the movement as a sign of the crumbling of the system of privilege, an ascendency which must be replaced by a national Parliament in Dublin, with a responsible cabinet. The London Times and the Irish Times take alarm at earlier Radical and Nationalist utterances of a similar character, and, with much shaking of fingers, warn the Irish Unionist landlords, who largely form the association, that any coquetting with the Nationalists will lead to prompt repudiation of the association's proposals; but what Horace Plunkett is doing for co-operation in Irish agriculture, despite political railings, other Irish patriots may do for co-operation in the working of the land purchase act, in county administration and in promoting a solution of the university problem. With the best Irishmen working together in these matters Ireland will soon enjoy what has been called a beneficent revolution in moral climate. Even Mr. Jones must admit that the Irish local bodies are doing their work better than was expected, and the success of Mr. Plunkett's department also indicates possibilities of devolving upon Irishmen in Ireland the Irish work now so bungled at Westminster, without limiting the proper functions of the Imperial Parliament.

KAISER'S SON BETROTHED

German Crown Prince Engaged to Duchess Cecilia.

Altona, Prussia, Sept. 6. — During a dinner, which Emperor William and the Empress Augusta Victoria gave at the Kaiserhof Sunday night to the leading officials of Schleswig-Holstein, the Emperor announced the betrothal of Crown Prince Frederick William to the Duchess Cecilia, sister of the reigning Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. The announcement was received with great enthusiasm.

Details of the announcement of the engagement of the Crown Prince Frederick William to the Duchess Cecilia, sister of the reigning Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, show that the Emperor, while dining with the notable people of Schleswig-Holstein last night, received a telegram from the Crown Prince, who was at Gelbensand, the home of the Duchess Cecilia and her mother. His majesty thereupon arose, raised his glass and said that the engagement of his royal highness and the duchess had just taken place and called for a threefold hurrah for the couple. The banqueters greeted the announcement with tremendous cheers. The Crown Prince had, as it transpired, visited the duchess and her mother at their lodge at Mueritz, on the Baltic, and while resting there, over a cup of tea, he asked her to marry him. Upon receiving the consent of the duchess, the Crown Prince called for telegraph blanks and immediately wired to the Emperor and Empress.

ALDERMEN ENTERTAINED

Manager of Street Railway Provides Pleasant Evening for Them.

Saturday evening Manager Carr, of the London Street Railway Company, entertained the city council and the city officials of London, and the party spent a very pleasant time. Among those present were Ald. Stevely, Judd, Abram, Gerry, Forristal, Wyatt, Matthews, Cooper, Fire Chief Clark, Treasurer Pope, Assessment Commissioner Grant, Auditor Jewell, Inspector McCallum, Harry Merritt, and Mr. Abram, of Hamilton, a nephew of Ald. Abram.

The party took the private car Victoria at the city hall and went to Springbank, where all were taken to the summer theater by Manager Carr. On the way down light refreshments were served. At the theater the performers made a deal of fun for the audience by working off jokes on the luckless aldermen, much to the amusement of all, the manager of the road included. The party was subsequently taken to the London Club, where Mr. Carr's hospitality was again enjoyed. After a number of short speeches and an hour spent in a free and easy manner, the company dispersed.

BAYLEY'S.

Cry of Fire Was Raised And a Stampede Followed

Igniting of Decorations at Salvation Barracks Might Have Caused Trouble.

The Salvation Army Citadel on Clarence street was the scene of a panic last night, which certainly would have been attended with very serious consequences were it not for the prompt work of several of the officers, who succeeded in stamping out a fire which broke out in the stage of the auditorium, and caused the audience to rush for the doors.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock when the stampede occurred. An entertainment of a striking character was being put on by Adjutant Smith, of Toronto, and the large crowd present was greatly interested. The adjutant was talking on signalling at sea, both by day and night, and to illustrate his remarks he gave some brilliant examples of how the work is done. The stage was appropriately set for the occasion. The background was a scene representing a coast town with a harbor and lighthouse. The interesting affair was about to be brought to a close with the illustration of a big ocean liner in distress in a storm, and signalling with rockets for help. The adjutant, attired in a sea captain's uniform, was sending up the rockets, unaware of the fact that in the arch overhead was a large quantity of green boughs, bunting, flags, and other decorations. This lack of knowledge of conditions almost resulted in a catastrophe, for in an instant the rockets ignited the bunting, and flames broke out on the stage.

With the first flash the cry of "Fire" rang through the auditorium, and women and children began screaming and rushing for the doors. The auditorium is located on the second floor, the only exits being a door in the rear and the big doors in front.

The women and children completely lost their heads, but great credit is given the men by the officers, who, they say, acted in a firm and manly manner and took the matter coolly.

While the babel and stampede were in progress in the auditorium and while the people were tumbling into the street, the flames on the stage were leaping toward the roof. A general alarm was rung in and the Central hall men were on the scene in less than a minute.

But the army officers, with a praiseworthy courage, did not stand idle and wait for the firemen to arrive. Instead Adjutant Smith, Staff-Captain Perry, and several other officers and members of the band attacked the fire with a will, pulling down the decorations and stamping out the flames. There was an odor of smoke in the hall, however, which greatly frightened even the bravest of the audience, who had refused to join in the rush for the stairs.

In the rush one lady fell, but she was not trampled upon, and was dragged to the street. Another lady fainted in the audience and had to be removed.

The firemen from the Central station rushed up the stairs and into the hall, but the flames were already extinguished, and their services were not required.

The stage suffered but small damage, the top of the archway being slightly scorched and burned. The stage properties of Adjutant Smith were also slightly damaged. On the whole, however, the officers feel that it was through an act of Providence that a fatal panic was avoided. When quietness once again reigned those of the audience who had retained their seats sang the doxology. The lecture, which had been brought to such an abrupt and unexpected close, was not resumed.

FIRST DUTY IS TO CONGREGATION

Rev. Dr. Ross Will for a Time Devote His Whole Energies to His Own People.

Rev. Dr. Ross, the new pastor of St. Andrew's Church, does not intend to be bothered by cranks. He intimated this on Sunday morning, when he delivered his opening message to his flock. His first appearance in the pulpit as pastor of the church was marked by a sermon, in which he outlined the duties of a minister and his relations with a congregation.

Preceding his sermon, he asked that all members or adherents who knew of any sick connected with the church should be kind enough to notify him, so that he might call. He took occasion to remark that if he could be helpful in any way that he would be pleased to act, but he expected to be too busy to have anything to do with cranks or doctrinaires.

In his sermon, Dr. Ross pointed out the transmission of opinion in reference to the Bible which marked the present period, and he claimed that if the lowest estimate of the Bible were taken, it would still be the Word of God. In the Bible were the sayings of the old teachers, who led up to the preaching of the Unique Man. There were the stayings of this Unique Man and the sayings of his disciples. These formed the message of the Christian minister of today.

Ministers, he said, had not time to be original scholars, but they should keep fairly abreast of the ablest men, so as to present their views to the people, and prevent the stampeding of an intolerant dogmatism. He had been studying the Bible for 30 years, but felt he was only at the surface.

If the purpose of the ministry were to interpret the divine will, then there were some things to consider. The minister had no special means of knowing the divine will that was unknown to the people. In this connection he pointed out the difference between a priest and a minister. The former told the people to come to him when in doubt, whether it was as to how to vote or any other matter. The minister taught the principles of truth, and threw the people on their responsibilities.

It was not necessary for a minister to be in the front rank of every organization, and it was a good principle for a minister not to do anything in the congregation that he could get somebody else to do. For instance, why should he carry financial responsibilities when there was a board of management for that purpose? While later he expected he would have some public duties, he gave notice that he would not be of any service to any outside congregations for some time to come, as his first duty was to his congregation. They had not called him to be an inspector of poor or the secretary of an employment bureau.

In conclusion, he said he scarcely knew why it was he gave up a position that was considered the summit of a man's desires in the church, unless it was through the prayers of some devout men in this congregation. He asked that they would sustain him with their spiritual sympathy.

The New System Treatment, Anti-Pill, Continues to Work Wonderful Cures.

When Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., gave Anti-Pill to the world he had undoubted faith in the treatment, but he did not forsee the world-wide and wonderful results it is now achieving in the cure of disease.

Here is the story of another Anti-Pill victory:

"For many months I have been troubled with dyspepsia, dizziness in my head, cold chills and suffered most of the time from constipation, and was unable to do my housework. I tried every kind of pill and medicine that either the doctors or myself could think of, and finally tried Anti-Pill. This treatment has practically made a new woman of me. I am able to do all my own work. The dizziness has all gone, my stomach feels much better, and I am no longer troubled with constipation. I cannot praise Anti-Pill too highly." — Mrs. Thos. Tabb, 287 Emerald street north, Hamilton Ont.

Mrs. Tabb's letter is only one of many.

Anti-Pill is sold by all druggists at 50c, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada.

HOW TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of scientific study of the effects of extracts of certain roots and herbs upon the digestive organs. Their use has demonstrated in many instances that they regulate the action of the liver and the kidneys, purify the blood, and carry off all the morbid accumulations from the system. They are easy to take, and their action is mild and beneficial.

NO PERSON should go from home without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial in their possession, as change of water, cooking, climate, etc., frequently brings on summer complaint, and there is nothing like being ready, with a sure remedy at hand, which oftentimes saves great suffering and frequently valuable lives. This Cordial has gained for itself a widespread reputation for affording prompt relief from all summer complaints.

KNIFE BLADE IN HIS HEAD

Alleged Stabbing in a Street Fight Last Night—Victim Taken to Hospital.

A Labor Day crop of drunks and disorderlies was garnered into the police court this morning. The most serious case was enlarged for a week. This was the charge against Frank Clampitt of assaulting and wounding. He was arrested last evening between 10 and 11 o'clock at the corner of York and Clarence streets by P. C. Thomas Noonan, the prisoner having been found in a fight with a man named Arthur Shaw. The latter fell as the policeman approached, having been stabbed in the head, it is said, by Clampitt. The ambulance was summoned and Shaw is now in the hospital. Dr. John D. Wilson was called last night, and took out a piece of a jack-knife blade, which had broken off in Shaw's head just back of the ear. The blade must have broken off in two places, as there was one piece, which could not be extricated, and it was arranged that an operation should be performed at the hospital this morning. The wound may prove serious, as blood-poisoning may set in. The cause of the quarrel is unknown, but in the police court this morning it was intimated that self-defense would be claimed. Mr. J. F. Faulds is acting for Clampitt, who was remanded for a week, bail for the present being refused.

William and James Mitton were charged with being disorderly at Queen's Park. They had been fighting with another young man, as was evident by the appearance of the latter. The Mittons were fined $5 or ten days each. The third party paid $5.

Fred Lenger had been drunk, and had taken a fancy to a horse and rig that was standing on the street. He got into the rig and drove furiously. There was a smile in court as he explained this by saying that he could not hold the horse. He was ordered to pay $5 and $2 costs, or 20 days.

LABOR AND POLITICS

Movement in England to Secure Parliamentary Representation.

London, England, Sept. 5. — The 37th annual trades union congress opened in the town hall here today under the presidency of Richard Bell, M. P., general secretary of the Amalgamated Society of Railway Servants, and chairman of the parliamentary committee of the trades union congress. Nearly five hundred delegates, representing a million and a half of working people, were present.

Politicians are much interested in the decision of the congress on a resolution regarding parliamentary representation, which will be introduced by the Boilermakers' and Iron Shipbuilders' Union, as follows: "That this congress is strongly of the opinion that the time has arrived for all trades unionists to be represented at the trades union congress, and upon the labor representing committee, in order that the forces of trades unionism can become more closely combined for political action, to remedy the injustices labor is suffering from."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Insurgents Successful Against Turks in Asiastic Turkey.

Paris Sept. 5.—A dispatch to the Temps from Constantinople by way of Sofia, says that an official report, which has reached one of the foreign consuls there, states that the Armenian insurgents at Van, Asiatic Turkey, are successfully resisting the Turkish troops, which have been unable to reduce or disperse them. The Armenians advanced to within about 400 yards of the French consulate. The population of Venis is seeking refuge in the schools and convents.

It is expected that Turkey will mobilize the fourth army corps and draw troops from Asia Minor in order to suppress the uprising.

SIX MEET DEATH IN BURNING HOUSE

Father, Mother and Four Children Perish in Fredericton, N. B., Blaze.

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 5. — In a fire which destroyed the farmhouse of Alfred Jewett, the leading farmer of Douglas, 6 miles from here, early yesterday morning, 6 people were burned to death. Mr. and Mrs. Jewett alone of the household escaped.

The dead—Edward Clarke, of Caverhill, N. B., aged 62; Mrs. Edward Clarke, aged 58; Mary Clarke, their daughter, aged 16; Zella Jewett, aged 15; Wesley Jewett, aged 12; Ethel Jewett, aged 6, children of Alfred Jewett.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke and their daughter were the Jewett's guests for the night, and all slept upstairs, occupying three rooms. About 4:30 this morning Mr. Jewett woke to find the house on fire. He hurried his wife downstairs and out to a place of safety and then tried to get back for the children, whose screams for help he could hear.

The fire had gripped the whole upper interior, however, and he could not get upstairs again. He tried a ladder from outside, but it collapsed. Neighbors hurried to the scene, but could do nothing.

This morning the remains of the six victims were found fearfully burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke leave nine children.

Mr. Jewett was severely burned and he and his wife are under a physician's care.

The house was old and a defective flue is thought to have caused the fire. The property loss is $2,000; insurance, $700.

EXECUTIONERS WORKED

Labor Day Not Celebrated in Prison Death Chamber.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 5. — Work was suspended in Auburn prison today except in the execution chamber, where one more mortal was sent into eternity by State Electrician Davis. His name is entered in all the records as Guiseppe Varsacia, and he was the accomplice of the late Antino Giorgio, who was electrocuted last Tuesday for the dual murder at West Almond, N. Y., in May last.

On the trial it was proved that Giorgio killed Van Gorder in Versacia's presence, and compelled the latter to kill Miss Farnham, half-sisted of the first victim.

The electrocution proper, from the time the victim entered the room, until he was pronounced dead, had occupied just three minutes. Versacia was only 21 years old.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine." — MRS. MAY HAUKE, Edgerton, Wis., Pres. Household Economics Club. —$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

MANY LABOR DAY DEMONSTRATIONS

Parades, Sports, Music and Speeches Features of the Day.

Stratford, Ont., Sept. 5.—Labor Day was celebrated here by a demonstration under the auspices of the local labor unions, commencing with an aquatic sport in the early morning, and concluding with a grand concert in the rink tonight. A trades procession and calithumpion parade during the morning and a march of the massed unions to the athletic park in the afternoon, where various sports were contested filled up the day.

New Hamburg, Ont., Sept. 5. — The Labor Day celebration here was a great success.

Guelph, Ont., Sept. 5.—The labor organizations of the city held a grand demonstration here today, commencing in the morning with a procession of all the different trades of the city, and was at least half a mile long.

Galt, Ont., Sept. 5.—The Galt Trades and Labor Council celebrated Labor Day with a trade procession of very large dimensions. In the morning there were games and sports. In the afternoon a band concert and acrobatic performances. In the evening singing and dancing at Dickson Park.

Winnipeg, Sept. 5. — Labor day in Winnipeg was observed by the usual parade in the morning and sports of all kinds in the afternoon, ending with a display of fireworks in the evening. The different unions turned out in full force, there being about 600 in line. The streets were thronged with thousands of people to witness the parade.

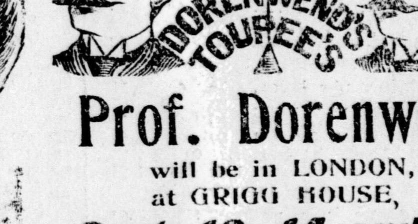

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 5. — The labor unions held a parade here this afternoon headed by the Fourteenth Regiment Band. There were about eight hundred in line, including some members of visiting unions.

Ottawa, Sept. 5. — The Labor Council of Ottawa started its celebration in Ottawa today with a parade which was decidedly a fizzle. There were not 400 in line—a fact largely due to the breaking away during the year from the international unions, and the fact that the newspapers did not give it the usual booming. The Trades and Labor Council decided a few months ago to bar reporters from the meetings of the council. The newspapers refused to accept the report handed out for publication, and the council has dropped largely out of sight.

Sarnia, Ont., Sept. 5. — Labor Day was celebrated here by about five thousand people. Locals from Port Huron and St. Clair and Marine City, Michigan, turned out in full force, and at 11:30 gave a monster parade to Bayview Park. After footraces, etc., a friendly game of baseball was played between Port Huron and Sarnia, resulting in a victory for Port Huron.

Waterloo, Ont., Sept. 5. — Labor Day was fittingly celebrated here today. The bowling games and open-air concert on the square by the band enlivened the games in the morning.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stock broker, Bank of Commerce building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, Sept. 6.—Nothing happened over the holiday to disturb the bullish feeling which was prevalent last week, although perhaps corn has not progressed towards maturing as fast as might be wished, still it has sustained no damage and encouragement was derived from the Missouri State report showing an improved condition as compared with last month. Commission business was light, but there was no pressure to sell. The London market bought and sold, taking a good deal of Southern Railway common and disposing of some thousands of Union Pacific. Reading was especially active and strong on the circulation of old rumors that the second preferred was to be retired by an issue of first preferred and common

TO ISOLATED INGERSOLL

Vicious Dog Goes There and a Police Court Case Ends.

There were a couple of civil cases at the police court this morning, in one of which Mrs. Crawford was the defendant. She was charged with keeping a vicious fox-terrier. Mr. E. B. Stone, acting for Mrs. Crawford, presented a letter showing the dog had been sold and was now in Ingersoll. The magistrate remarked that the dog was now in such an isolated place that no harm would ensue if he dismissed the case.

John Mooney had a wagon to fix. It was too big to be taken into his shop, and he had left it standing outside the place all night. He was therefore summoned to court. His explanation was accepted.

Michael White appeared in a very much battered condition. He was not charging anyone with assault, however, but was charged with that offense himself. The complainant, who is a hotelkeeper, at whom he had thrown a beer glass, withdrew the charge, the young man paying the costs of the court, amounting to $2 50.

Fred Lyons and Patrick Quinn were told they had not been in the dock for some time, and they smiled as they thought they would get off for being drunk. They were fined just $2 each and given until Saturday to pay them.

POISONED BY SALMON

Mr. Norman Graham Taken Violently Ill on Sunday Night.

Mr. Norman B. Graham, of 363 Oxford street, is recovering from a violent illness with which he was seized at midnight on Sunday, and which was caused by eating canned salmon. Mr. Graham had partaken of some of the salmon for his supper, about seven o'clock, but did not feel ill until shortly after twelve o'clock, when he commence to suffer severe pain. His physician was summoned and after two hours succeeded in getting the patient out of danger. He pronounced it a case of poisoning, due, he supposed, to the salmon.

LONDON'S PROGRESS.

Mr. John Burden, of New York, a former London Old Boy, and his little daughter May, are visiting Mr. Harry Burden, of Tecumseh avenue. Mr. John Burden sees a great improvement in London after an absence of 20 years. He thinks we have a park at Springbank that we may well be proud of.

DEATH OF MR. N. TACKABURY.

The death of Mr. Nathaniel Tackabury occurred last evening at his home, 362 Ohford street. Mr. Tackabury was 74 years of age and leaves no family. He lived with his nieces, the Misses Wheaton. Two brothers, Samuel, on the homestead on the fourth concession, London township, and Robert, in Detroit, and one sister, Mrs. Payne, near Strathroy, survive him. He was born in London township and for the past quarter of a century had lived in the city. Paralysis was the cause of death, for three days the deceased having been unconscious. He was a member of the Colborne Street Methodist Church. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

NO CHARTER FOR NEW COMPANY

Ontario Government Against Cash Mutual Fire Insurance Concerns.

It is understood that the efforts of certain prominent Londoners to form a cash mutual fire insurance company, to be known as the "Universal," have failed, the Ontario Government refusing to issue a license to any such concern in the Province, objecting to such forms of insurance business. There is also some talk of the promoters applying to the Ontario Government for a charter to do business under the joint stock companies' act.

The proposed new company was the outcome of the huge increase in insurance rates in this city, and it was intended to have the business public of London subscribe to the "Universal" as a sort of co-operative concern.

CONSIDERING THE REDUCTION.

The sub-committee appointed by the Canadian Underwriters' Association is in session in Toronto today, considering the mayor's proposals for a reduction in the key rate in London. If the underwriters do not grant the city all it thinks it is entitled to, a meeting will be arranged to take place in Toronto, when a deputation will be sent from London to discuss the matter with the

WANT PAVEMENTS LAID THIS YEAR

Special Meeting of Council Called to Rush Through Two Bylaws.

A special meeting of the city council has been called for Wednesday evening, to take action on the two pavement bylaws, which have been given a first and second reading. Friday night the bylaws came up, but the Dundas street one was blocked in its third reading by Ald. Matthews, and the Queen's avenue bylaw by Ald. Cooper, both of whom declared there was no hurry, and that the bylaws should not be rushed through. Ald. Matthews also declared that inasmuch as the council had passed a resolution declaring against pavements, for which there was no competition, the aldermen could not vote for bitulithic, which is a monopoly.

Ald. Greenlees, who was in the mayor's chair at the time, refused to rule urgency, and the third reading was laid over.

When the Queen's avenue asphalt bylaw came up, Ald. Cooper blocked it on the third reading, as Ald. Matthews had blocked the bitulithic bylaw.

Now the mayor is anxious to have both pavements put down this year, and for this reason has called the special meeting to put the bylaws through. The asphalt bylaw is for a pavement on Queen's avenue, between Richmond and Maitland, and the bitulithic calls for a pavement on Dundas street, from Adelaide to Elizabeth.

Judge Macbeth's decision in the Queen's avenue pavement case gives the greatest satisfaction around the city hall, where the practice of ratepayers placing their names on petitions for local improvements and then asking to have them taken off, has led to no end of confusion. It is pointed out now that under the judgment, even after the county judge has given a ratepayer authority to remove his name from a petition, the name stands on the petition unless the ratepayer goes to the city hall, and removes his name from the petition. He cannot send in a written notification and have his name removed. He must appear in person and erase his name himself.

LAST NIGHT'S STABBING AFFRAY

Part of Knife Found in Shaw's Skull—Doesn't Want His Chum Prosecuted.

An operation was performed at Victoria Hospital this morning upon Arthur Shaw, the young man who was the victim of the stabbing affray at the corner of Clarence and York streets, for which Frank Clampitt is now in jail. Dr. John D. Wilson succeeded in removing the end of the broken blade from the man's head. It was three-sixteenths of an inch long and was imbedded in the inner table of the skull. It had gone through the outer part of the skull and was piercing the brain. Shaw is progressing favorably and unless a clot forms on the brain his recovery is looked for.

Shaw refuses to talk much about the affair, though it is surmised from some of his remarks that he and Clampitt were chums. He made a request that Clampitt should not be prosecuted.

AN INTERESTING SIGHT.

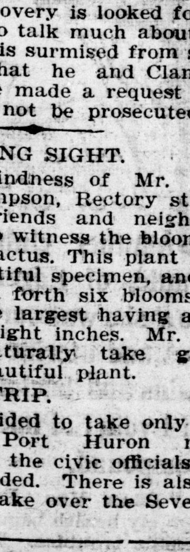

Through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Simpson, Rectory street, a number of friends and neighbors were permitted to witness the blooming of a cereo-cactus. This plant is a particularly beautiful specimen, and on this occasion put forth six blooms simultaneously, the largest having a diameter of over eight inches. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson naturally take great pride in this beautiful plant.

REV. D. DRUMMOND NEW MODERATOR

Unanimous Choice of London Presbytery—Hyde Park Wants a Pastor.

The regular September meeting of the Presbytery of London was held this morning at 10:30 in the beautiful new schoolroom of the First Presbyterian Church. The attendance was large, including the moderator, Rev. W. Moffat; the clerk, Rev. A. Henderson; the acting clerk, Rev. Jas. Rollins; Rev. Dr. Ross, Dr. McCrae, and Messrs. John Currie, Belmont; J. G. Stuart, A. J. MacGillivray, H. Mackay, London; W. J. Reede and D. R. Drummond, St. Thomas; J. F. Scott, Rodney; A. H. Kippen, J. R. Barnett, W. A. Craw, Geddes, Kelso, Watson, Kay, Shearer, Hosie, Jamieson, Leitch and others.

The Rev. D. R. Drummond, B. D., of St. Thomas, was unanimously elected moderator. A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring moderator for his services in the chair.

Rev. Dr. Ross was introduced to the court and received a most cordial welcome.

The proposal to unite West London to Hyde Park and Komoka was left over for future consideration.

Hyde Park and Komoka asked leave to call a minister as successor to Rev. W. A. Wylie. The request was granted and the congregations will shortly meet to extend a call.

The General Assembly having decided that the minimum stipend in the smallest fields shall not be less than $800, the presbytery arranged for a visitation of the smaller congregations to seek to have the action of the assembly carried out as soon as possible.

It was arranged that the claims of the augmentation fund be specially brought before every congregation within the bounds. Unless this fund is more liberally supported this year, there will be great loss to the church in her work.

The presbytery adjourned for lunch at 12 o'clock.

EARLY MORNING UNDRESS SPRINT

Startling Exhibition Witnessed at Corner of Dundas and Richmond Streets.

"Shirts That Pass in the Night," is the title of a new story by an eyewitness. The scene is the corner of Richmond and Dundas streets. The time—Sunday morning about 5 o'clock. The dramatic personae are P. C. Tom Noonan, a man who has just come up from the station, having arrived on the Detroit train, which was late, and the man who assumed the title role.

Unlike the policemen of Hamilton and St. Thomas (if there are any policemen at the latter place), the keepers of the peace in London do not sleep on their beats. Certainly no one ever accused Tom Noonan of such neglect of duty. On Sunday morning the air was chilly, and as the lone man with his suit case approached and recognized the policeman on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, the latter remarked about the weather. Then the man stopped and began to talk.

But the conversation was rudely interrupted by what seemed to be the yells of an Italian or a Brazilian gypsy. Both men looked down the west side of Richmond street and an apparition in white approached at such a rate that it resembled chain lightning. It was a man who had got out of bed so quickly that he had not taken time to dress. Although his dress was of the style worn this season in the interior of Africa with the addition of an ordinary white shirt he was not cold, but was perspiring greatly. He was praying at the top of his voice. No policeman could have caught him had he once got in front of him, for he could beat Kuropatkin on the way to

NEW ENGINES ON FLYER.

One of the new engines to be placed in service on the Grand Trunk Flyer and the International Limited is already running, having made its first trip a few days ago. The engine is of the 900 class, and besides being capable of hauling a very heavy train, can retain a high rate of speed. The engine is being used only between this city and Toronto, but in a short time another will be used between London and Windsor. The new, 800-class engines for the through passenger service are arriving on the division, and are giving perfect satisfaction. On No. 2 express the other day, one of the new engines covered the 43 miles from Hamilton to Niagara Falls in 47 minutes, which is remarkable, considering that a great portion of the distance is up grade.

—The London Conservatory of Music has opened for the fall term.

Mukden.

Noonan knew this as soon as he saw him, so decided to head him off. He remarked to the man by his side, "He's crazy." Such was not expressive enough for the peaceful citizen who drew on his vocabulary to the extent of saying "Why, he's bug," with the accent on the "bug." Then the traveler turned on his heel and made east as fast as he could.

The policeman did not take time to laugh at his friend's timidity, but crossed the road and seized the demented man by the unlaundered whitewear, hustling him off to the police station before anyone could see him. The man continued to pray and vowed he would never touch another drop and such things that men who have "the snakes" are inclined to say in their troubles. The fugitive, who was a boarder at the Clarence House, was taken to the hospital, where he is undergoing special treatment.

WILL BE A HOME FOR VAUDEVILLE

Change in Management of the London Opera House—Place To Be Remodeled.

London is to have a first-class, up-to-date vaudeville theater. Today the announcement was made that the London Opera House has been leased by Mr. Alex Harvey for a term of years to Mr. C. W. Bennett, former proprietor and manager of the large and well-known Pacific Coast Vaudeville Circuit. The house is to be remodeled and refurnished throughout, and when completed will be a first-class vaudeville theater in every sense of the word. The front is to be finished in white and gold, as will also be the entire entrance inside. It will also be brilliantly illuminated with electricity, and the whole building will be a credit to the city.

Mr. Bennett, who has been in this city the past few days, left today for the coast, but was seen by a reporter before his departure. He is a wide-awake theatrical man, who has been a success in the business, and to the reporter he stated that after a thorough investigation he is convinced that London will support a high-class, refined vaudeville house, at moderate prices, and having catered to the amusement public for years, will undoubtedly make "The London" a popular house.

He will open about the middle of October, and will play vaudeville six nights a week, with, probably, three matiness a week on the start. His intention is to book acts that are played tention is to book acts that are played in the Shea, Kieth and Proctor circuits, and in order that this house shall have all the up-to-date eastern performers to be had from eastern circuits, he had engaged the services of W. C. Fleming, late manager of Philadelphia's largest vaudeville house, to come here and take the position of business representive and attraction manager. Mr. Fleming needs no introduction to the theatrical world, and is a man who has worked his way from the bottom round to the top in the profession, So with this combination it may be expected The London Vaudeville Opera House will be second to none.

Mr. Fleming will arrive here in about ten days to do the preliminary work.

Mr. Bennett emphasized the fact that he was going to especially cater to the ladies and children, for, as he puts it, it elevates the moral standard of any house. When the ladies and children go, the men will surely follow. "I know this to be a fact from personal experience," he said, "for when my wife and children go, it is good enough for me."

Mr. Harvey will run off some of his bookings, and then shut down in time for Mr. Bennett to make the many improvements, both interior and exterior, that he contemplates before opening for vaudeville. The house will be known as "The London Vaudeville Opera."

TOSSED UP HOOFLETS.

Fire Chief Clark and Foreman Case had an ugly experience with one of the new gray fire horses on Sunday. Both were in the chief's buggy on Queen's avenue, near Colborne, when the harness broke and allowed the rig to strike the horse. The animal at once began to kick, the chief and foreman doing their best to keep out of range. The animal smashed the shafts and harness to flitters, but was finally got under control. Mr. Case was not injured, but the chief's arm was grazed by a flying hoof, and suffered a small abrasion.

The two left on this morning's train for Cass City.

Sweet as a Rose.

"I'll show you what I've done when we get an opportunity," says Mr. Palmer. "Eh? dinner? Very well. Where are the young people? Oh, here they are," as Stancy and May come in, followed by Paula and Alice and Bob, the later looking as if the whole thing were a nuisance, and his dress-clothes in particular a hardship almost too great to be borne.

Alice has found time to don her daintiest dress, and looks as cool and sweet as a garden lily. Paula, on the other hand, has just had time to change her dusty dress for a plain simple sateen of cream, with a big sash, but strange to say it is upon her that the major's eyeglass falls, and if he uttered his thoughts aloud he would have said, "There's the promise of a beautiful woman."

"And where's Sir Herrick?" says Mr. Palmer, with a marked air of disappointment. "I do hope he's coming."

There is silence for a moment, then Bob says bluntly:

"Paula saw him last. Is he coming, Paula?"

All eyes go to the face, and for a second a vivid blush burns there, then it fades, and she says, quietly enough:

"Yes, he said he would come; but he had to go to the inn first."

"Oh, we'll wait; of course we'll wait," says Mr. Palmer.

Paula raises her eyes.

"He wished me to ask you not to wait," she says, as carelessly as she can.

"Oh, but—" begins Mr. Palmer protestingly, but the major breaks in with "I really think, if you will allow me, that Herrick would rather we did not wait."

"As you please, of course, major," assents Mr. Palmer. "Will you give your arm to Miss Estcourt?"

With courtly grace the major leads Alict in, and the rest follow. Paulo finds herself by chance sitting next the empty chair reserved for Sir Herrick, with Stancy on her other side; that estimable young gentleman has, with the change of clothes, regained all his old confidence and self-satisfaction, and inwardly rejoicing at the absence of Sir Herrick begins to pay Paula immediate attention.

"So glad you weren't hurt this morning," he lisps, affectedly.

"Well, I don't know yet," responds Paula, mischievously, "one doesn't discover at once whether one is injured or not, you know."

"Awful nuisance," he says, "It really wasn't my fault, you know; if Sir Herrick hadn't interfered I should have pulled them round."

"I thought you'd say so," says Paula, looking at him with an innocent face.

"Oh, yes, any one could see that," he says, confidently. "Stupid thing to interfere with a man who's got the reins. I expect you're tired out, walking all that way. Dreadful bore for you."

The faintest flush comes into Paula's face as she thinks of that homeward walk an' all its delicious ecstasy.

"I wasn't much bored," she says, quietly.

"I suppose Sir Herrick is quite knocked up, as he doesn't put in an appearance?" he goes on, with a sneer. "Got a shock, perhaps; he seems awfully nervous."

"I don't know," says Paula.

"You must let me give you a ride in the new dog-cart," he says, condescendingly. "Tandem, you know; we shan't have anybody to interfere with us there."

Paula colors angrily. What does he mean by it? Hitherto he has confined his attentions to Alice. Alice can ride in the dog-cart if she likes, but as for her— Something like an angry refusal rises to her lips, when the door opens and the footman announces Sir Herrick.

Paula keeps her eyes down, and bends over her plate, determined to crush down the blush which threatens to rise to her face, determined also that she will not look up. But the temptation is irresistible, and when she lifts her eyes slowly, and with forced carelessness, she almost starts.

Is this tall, patrician-looking figure the indolent young man, dressed in a suit of cords, she parted with scarcely an hour ago?

The sensation of surprise and awe were girlish and unsophisticated, of course, but scarcely without reason, for Sir Herrick was one of those men who, distinguished-looking in any dress, look particularly so in evening attire. As he stood in the door-way, his glance slowly traveling round—stood in the assured, easy attitude peculiar to a well-born, highly-bred man—the difference between him and Stancy was marvelous.

Stancy with all his Poole-cut clothes and gorgeous jewelry, seemed to shrink into a commonplace young man disguised as a gentleman, and Mr. Palmer appeared twice as red and common-looking; the major alone bore the comparison.

The feeling of pride that shot through Paula's heart as she thought, "and this prince among men belongs to me," was girlish too, but equally reasonable.

With just a smile and a little bow that comprehends them all, Sir Herrick follows the butler to the empty chair and takes his place, and the butler brings him his soup:

"Hope you'll forgive us for going on, Sir Herrick," says Mr. Palmer, apologetically. "Your uncle thought you'd prefer that we didn't wait."

"My uncle is always right," says Sir Herrick, calmly. "I should have been sorry if you had waited."

Then he goes on with his soup, and not a word does he speak, but Paula is satisfied, for, as he takes his seat, his hand just touches her arm, lightly as a feather, but as distinct a caress as if he had kissed it.

"None the worse for the accident, I hope?" says Mr. Palmer, from the head of the table.

"No, thanks," replies Sir Herrick, "We all escaped I think."

"Thanks to Mr. Stancy's excellent coaching," says the major, unblushingly.

Bob grins, and Stancy colors sullenly.

"It wasn't altogether my fault," he mumbles, all his confidence and self-assurance vanished at the entrance of Sir Herrick.

"Fault!" says the major, with a gentle smile and a shrug of the shoulders. "If it comes to fault, I'm afraid my stupid man was as much to blame as any one. He must have been in the middle of the road. I've been a great mind to ask Hurstely to discharge him.

A faint smile curves Sir Herrick's lips, as he says to Paula, in a low whisper:

"That was nicely done, wasn't it? Of course his man was on the right side."

He says this in a whisper, but honest Bob blurts out bluntly—

"That wouldn't be fair, major; the man was all right enough."

"If you say so, my dear sir," responds the major, sweetly. "I will overlook it."

And Bob, utterly crushed by the deferential air of the compliment, bends over his plate.

"Yes, he is beautiful" murmurs Paula. "I was quite right."

Sir Herrick raises his glass, and looks at it with a curious smile.

"Wait! You'll admire him still more fervently," he says, in the same low voice. "He hasn't really had a fair opportunity of displaying his qualities yet."

The dinner goes on; it is really wonderful how the cook has managed to produce so many courses in so short a time; and the major's voice is heard to dulcet tones addressing May, whom all his attempts at drawing out, however, seem to frighten further into her shell.

The meal comes to an end at last, and the three girls file round the table into the drawing-room; and Mr. Palmer, ordering some special claret in, requests the gentlemen to draw nearer together.

Then indeed it is beautiful to see how the major plays his men. Very much as Paula had fished for her trout, he throws conversational flies for Mr. Palmer and Stancy, and, aided by the special claret, he succeeds in getting them to talk and display all their little weaknesses, all their little foibles, till Mr. Palmer grows as big and pompous as a bull-frog, and Stancy as conceited and self-sufficient as only a cad can be.

Bob—sturdy, single-minded Bob—drinks his claret in silence, and Sir Herrick leans back, drinking nothing, and as deaf to the soft voice of the major and boastful ones of the father and son as if he were out of hearing. In fancy, as he leans back with half-closed eyes, he sees that sloping bank of moss with the grand pines above it, and the beautiful girlish face so close to his own. It is Paula's voice he is listening to through the confused buzz of the ones actually speaking.

The Londons Get Tighter Grip on the Championship

Defeat the Rockets in a Slugging Match—Game Awarded to McClarys.

The games in the City League yesterday were interesting, even if the one in the morning did have a bad wind-up, and the match in the afternoon was a mighty slugging bee. The result does not affect the position of any of the teams in the standing. The Londons won their game and got a tighter grip on the championship, and the McClary team was awarded a victory by the executive, which many thought it had no right to claim.

Strangely enough, the dispute came about in the ninth inning, when the official score showed the standing to be 4 to 3 in favor of the Blue Labels. Summerhayes got first on a single to center, the next man flew out, and Beaton drew a pass. Then Edwards came up and drove to shortstop. Beaton was retired at second. Edwards stole second, Richardson drawing a pass. Then Early knocked out a hot one and Summerhayes scored. The ball was returned to third promptly, and Richardson was caught coming from second. Edwards had come home, but there was a question whether he got to the plate before Richardson was retired, which made the third man out. The run was not credited in the official score, and this left the score tied. The McClary men protested that they had made the run, which gave them the game, and they were upheld by the executive. The game was one of the snappiest played this season, and by far excelled that of the afternoon for cleanness. Errors were scarce on both sides, and the two pitchers, Early and Smith, turned out gilt-edged articles of ball all through. The Blue Labels started their scoring in the first, when they picked out two runs. Hits by Mines and Stein started the work, and both men scored on an error, and Perkins' long drive to left, on which the batter was retired.

The McClary nine came up lucky in the third, two errors, a pass and a fielder's choice counting two runs, Taylor and Beaton, doing the scoring. Then in the fifth Edwards came home on a passed ball by Mines. It was a scratch run, and one the foundrymen shouldn't have been presented with. The Blue Labels, after the first inning went out in almost, one, two, three order up to the ninth. Very few of their men found Early. In the ninth Stein drew a pass and then Howell drove an easy one to third. Breen fielded the ball, but Beaton let it get past him, and both men were safe. Maxwell put out a pretty drive to left field and the two men scored. The side was retired immediately after.

The two runs by the McClarys in the ninth won them the game. The score:

"A SLUGGING BEE.

Probably no greater surprise could have come, than the manner in which the two teams in the afternoon, went after each other. It seemed as if every man was a heavy hitter, and that Labor Day had some inspiration for ball players. The Londons hit in every inning, nineteen hits being made off the deliveries of Phillips and Jackson. Every man on the team had a hit or hits to his credit, and the batting averages will consequently be swelled. Up to the sixth inning the game was a pretty one. The errors were scanty and at the fourth inning the score was tied. In the sixth, however, the Londons got on a batting streak, which they kept up till the end. In the sixth the deciding stroke came, when the champions made an even half dozen tallies, clinching the victory. Then in the seventh three more were made and this seemed to make the Rockets recover themselves, for in the eighth and ninth they came up strong and succeeded in making seven runs, which brought the score much closer.

During the game Jackson replaced Phillips in the box, and in the eighth Sheere was taken out and Gibson was put in. The changes, however, did not put an end to the batting streaks. The score:

HEAVIEST BATTER OF WHOLESALE LEAGUE THIS YEAR WAS PERKINS

Henley, Also of Perrin Nine, Headed the Pitchers' List—The Averages.

The averages of the Wholesale League for the season just closed have been compiled by the official scorer, Mr. C. G. Moorhead, and in them will be found some figures of interest both to the players who participated in the series and the fans who week by week went to Springbank to watch the games.

The averages show the following to be the leaders:

Pitchers—Henley, of Perrins.

Individual Batting—Perkins, of Perrins.

Club Batting—Bennets.

Club Fielding—Perrins.

Individual fielding — Catcher Summers, Perrins; pitchers, Clark, Perrins; first base, Doidge, Whites; second base, Roberts, McClarys; third base, Maxwell, Bennets; shortstops, B. Clark, Perrins; left fielders, Cochrane, Bennets; center fielders, Woods, Perrins; right fielders, Leach, of Whites.

The averages do not include any of the games that were protested or thrown out, as these cannot be allowed. This will most seriously affect the standing of the Perrin team, which thus loses twenty hits made in games ordered to be played a second time. The White nine also lost thirteen hits and the McClary nine were deprived of seven hits.

The figures are:

TWO LONDONERS ON BISLEY TEAM

Capt Dinnen and Capt. McCrimmon Qualified in Aggregate at Rockliffe.

The Londoners who attended the annual matches of the Dominion Rifle Association at the Rockliffe ranges, Ottawa, have returned home. In every match in which they participated, the marksmen from the Forest City, as is invariably the case, made a very creditable showing, and carried away a fair share of the prize money.

Of course, with every man who goes to the Rockliffe matches, the greatest interest is centered in the grand aggregate match, for it is from the men who make the biggest scores in this event that the team to represent Canada at the Bisley ranges the following year is chosen. The thirty competitors making the highest figures are entitled to go on the team, and if any of them should find reason to withdraw the vacancy is filled by the next highest in the list. Of the first thirty men in the aggregate last week, the names of two Londoners appear. They are: Capt. Dinnen, of the First Hussars, who did so well at the Ontario rifle matches at Toronto, and Capt. McCrimmon made a total of 306, and stood The possible in the aggregate was 350, and by making 314, Capt. Dinnen stood pretty well up in the list. Capt. McCrimmon made a tota lof 306, and stood twenty-seventh. Lieut. Murphy, Major Hayes and Pte. Allin were also in the match, but experienced a little ill-luck and did not do as well as they were expected to.

This is the fifth time that Capt. McCrimmon has shot in the aggregate at Ottawa, and the third time that he has qualified for Bisley. Capt. Dinnen has shot three times in the same match, and has qualified for Bisley twice.

A remarkable thing about the shooting is the fact that of the men who went to Bisley this summer and tried for a place on the team next year, not one was successful. Staff-Sergt. Crowe, of Guelph, was the nearest to getting within the line, being thirty-fourth on the list.

QUOITING CUP WON BY WALSH

Interesting Match Played at Queen's Park on Labor Day—Defender Lost.

A quoit match for the cup presented by the Irish Benevolent Society was played at Queen's Park yesterday, and it attracted considerable interest among the members of the Forest City Quoit Club (to whom the contest was open), and outsiders as well. The match was a handicap, thus giving every player as near an equal chance as possible.

The cup was won recently by Mr. R. Errington, of Glanworth, one of the oldest quoiters in the west, but it is now in possession of Mr. R. Walsh, another equally enthusiastic player. Mr. Errington attempted to retain the prize, but he was defeated in the second draw by Walsh. The final dwindled down to Walsh and John Talbot. For a time it looked like a sure win for Talbot, although Walsh started out much better. At the twentieth end the score was 13 to 12 in favor of Talbot, who in the next ten ends increased his lead to six shots. At the fortieth end Talbot was eight shots to the good, and from then to the finish of the game he weakened. In the last twelve ends Walsh played an exceptionally strong game and won out by three shots. The score by ends:

Walsh—1 2 0 2 0 1 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 1 0 0 1 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 1 1 0 0 0 2 1 0 1 1 1 0 0 2 1 1 0 0 0 2 2 1 0 2 0 2 2 1—41.

BOYS CARRIED THE REMAINS

Sunday School Companions Officiate at Funeral of Little Christopher Biggs.

The funeral of Christopher Biggs, the bright little 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Biggs, of 216 Rectory street, was held from the family residence yesterday afternoon, interment being at Woodland Cemetery.

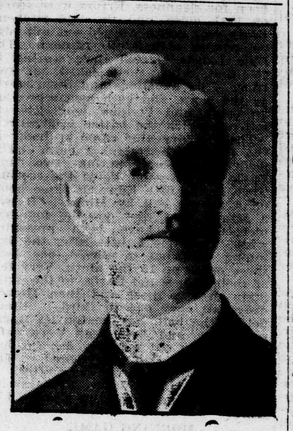

The child was the victim of an accident at the Rectory street crossing of the Grand Trunk on Saturday afternoon, about 5 o'clock. He left home with a playmate, the son of a neighbor, and went to the railroad tracks, where, after taking a drink from a tap near the engine pit, in front of the depot, he proceeded to cross to the north side. As he was about to do so, the express due to leave London for the Bridge, between 4 and 5 o'clock, pulled through the yards, and, noticing its approach, the little fellow and his companion waited until it had passed. At the same time an engine which had been at the chutes for a supply of coal was coming westward, but the children did not notice it, and before the Biggs child could be warned of his danger he walked on the tracks in front of it. He was thrown across the rails, his body being cut completely in two. The other boy was a short distance behind, and narrowly escaped the same fate. Death was instantaneous. Dr. McLaren, the coroner, was notified of the accident, and after examining the engine crew and a number of other persons who were in the vicinity at the time, decided that blame could be attached to none of the railway employes for the lamentable affair, and that an inquest was unnecessary.

The unfortunate little chap was connected with the Sunday school of All Saints' Church, on the Hamilton road, and at the funeral yesterday afternoon Rev. T. B. Clarke, the rector, officiated. The pall-bearers were chosen from the boys of the Sunday school, there being four sets of four, and all wearing white sashes.

AS GREAT BIG MAN HELPING SOMEBODY

How Rev. T. Shields Wants Every Member of His Church To Be.

Rev. T. T. Shields delivered his inaugural sermon as pastor of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church on Sunday morning, and was welcomed by a congregation that completely filled the edifice. He took the first three verses of the fourteenth chapter of Second Samuel for his text — a portion of the story of Absalom's flight, the inclination of King David to the erring one, and the plan of Joab to induce the king to have Absalom return. From this he drew many interesting and instructive lessons. He said in his introductory remarks, in dealing with the object of the church and Christians, that their mission on earth was similar to that of the Master, one thing for which the church did exist, for which every Christian should live, being simply to save men. It was not simply to get men and women to make a profession of religion. Heaven does not mean being saved from hell. It means that, of course, but it means rather being saved from sin, its power, and consequences, to holiness. "There is nothing that interests God today so much as the saving of men," said Mr. Shields. "The war of today is all because God's heart is towards Absalom. See if it does not come to pass that God is opening doors where this Gospel may go, where men with the cross may go and bid the multitude to God."

Mr. Shields, in speaking of the widow's appeal in behalf of Absalom, dealt with the right of intercession, and said that some Christians were not called to preach the Gospel, but simply to pray, and that in proportion as they waited on God in prayer, so would they receive blessing in that proportion. The woman who pleaded for Absalom was a feigned mourner, and in this connection Mr. Shields said he was not in the pulpit of Adelaide Street Church to plead for a long-faced, melancholy religion. "As Christians," he said, "we should be the happiest people in the world. We all should be of that stamp. We all believe that, but we seem to think it is a virtue to put on a long face. I think it would have been quite appropriate if some of us had been engaged in the undertaking business.

"Is it true that there are some who are dead to God today, and have no expectation of an inheritance incorruptible? Is it really true that he that believeth not shall be damned? Your husband is not saved. Your wife is not a Christian. Do you mean to say, then, it is not appropriate that we should put on mourning apparel and mourn as if for the dead? We would feel like putting on mourning apparel and mourning for those who know not Jesus Christ."

The fact that the woman who appealed to David was only a sham mourner, brought from Mr. Shields a few remarks about sincerity in the Christian work, and caused him to strongly urge his hearers not to insult the majesty of heaven by asking God to save men if they did not mean it. Do not, he said, make such requests, unless you mean business. He also urged the necessity of personally approaching God in behalf of others, instead of asking the pastor or somebody else to do it. To go and ask for someone in particular was not enough, as personal access to the King was essential, and only through it could success in Christian work be achieved. In conclusion Mr. Shields told a story of the late Sir Bartle Freer, once governor of Cape Colony, whose new coachman was sent to a station in old London to meet him on a certain train, and who, though he had never before seen Sir Bartle, was simply told to look for a big man helping somebody. So it was, Mr. Shields said, he wanted every member of the church to be as a great big man, helping somebody, and the church, to be the same.

In the evening Rev. Mr. Shields preached a powerful sermon from Lamentations of Jeremiah. Chap. i., verse 12: "Is it nothing to you, all ye that pass by? Behold and see if there be any sorrow like unto my sorrow." The preacher suggested that Jeremiah's words of lamentation over the fall of Jerusalem were prophetic as well as historical, typifying in a faint degree the immeasurable sufferings of the incarnate Son of God and the sorrows which he bore in expiating the sin of a fallen world." He was the Prince of Sorrow, the King of Griefs, the Emperor of Woes." The preacher closed his eloquent discourse with a most earnest appeal to his unconverted hearers to no longer treat with indifference the matter of their eternal happiness or everlasting woe, but to at once accept the salvation that Christ had purchased at such a stupendous cost.

The appropriate selections, so well sung by the quartet at the two services included 'Oh Come Let Us Sing Unto the Lord," "Hallelujah, for the Blood," "Consider the Lilies," (Sudds); and "He's the One" (solo and quartet) McKay. Miss Nellie Rendell presided at the organ.

Coffee Drinkers Want It Stronger and Stronger.

"I have been a hard coffee drinker all my life," says a Pittsburg man, "and the longer I used it the stronger I wanted it—two or three cups at each meal. At times shortly after meals I would be in distress, would spit up large mouthfuls if bitter, yellow stuff and would have sharp pains in my chest and feel dizzy and water would run out of my eyes and nose. My mother kept telling me it was because I drank coffee but I did not believe her, for I thought I could not eat a meal without my coffee.

"Finally I got so bad I had to lay off working entirely. One day I saw a Postum article in the paper that made me think and told mother to get a package and we would try it. At first it was not boiled enough and tasted flat, but next day it was made better and I got to liking it better and better and in a few days I told mother not to make any more coffee, that Postum was better. Oh, how glad I am I found Postum. I am a different man, my troubles gone and know I can thank Postum for it for I am back at work again strong and healthy.

"I had a dear friend that was a coffee drinker and I could see he was not well. One day he did not come to work and that night I called on him—he was walking around looking like a wreck. I told him I thought I would find him in bed soon, but he said, 'No, I am not that sick but I just cannot work, in fact can't do anything for I can't sleep or eat.' He said he had not taken a bite all that day and all he had had was three cups of coffee, the last one he could not keep down. He said, 'I just feel so bad I don't know what to do,' and he looked it, too. He was as yellow as a John Chinaman, his eyes were sunken with dark rings around them, the fact is he was coffee poisoned.

"Then I told him what was the matter with him and said it was coffee. I told him my experience and he laughed at me. I wanted him to quit coffee for a week anyway and see if he did not feel better. I told him tht Postum was better than coffee anyway.

"He said he did not know how in the world he could get along without coffee, but I finally made him get a box of Postum and make it according to directions.

"In three days he was back at work and to make a long story short he has got entirely well by leaving off coffee and using Postum. I will give you his name and address, too." Names and addresses given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

GOOD PROGRESS IS BEING MADE WITH TRACTION COMPANY'S LINE

Gang of Men Working Northward to Connect With Rails Near Lambeth.

Did you ever take a trip over a radial railway in course of construction? A railway of this kind now being built, and which is of special interest to Londoners, is the Southwestern Traction Company's road, the tracks of which are being laid between London and St. Thomas. Saturday was payday with the men, and a representative of The Advertiser, accompanied Mr. A. E. Welch, the manager, on the trip.

The line now extends from the outskirts of this city to a point a mile or so south of Lambeth. Construction is also going on from the city limits of St. Thomas northwards, and on Saturday the line crossed the Port Stanley road at Five Stakes (Talbotville). It was only a couple of miles' drive from St. Thomas to the work camp, near where the supplies have been unloaded from the Wabash tracks directly into the Traction Company's yards. The party drove from there to Five Stakes, where the majority of the men were working. The road runs on a private right of way from St. Thomas, striking the Port Stanley gravel road at Mr. David L. Gilbert's splendid farm. From there to Five Stakes, the track runs along the inside of the farm fences. At Five Stakes the track crosses the road and comes north along the west side. Extra work had to be put on the crossing, all of which was done Saturday. On the west side of the road the Traction Company has had to move back two dwellings, and a hall, to make room for the track. The ties and rails were laid for several hundred feet this side of the cross-roads by Saturday evening.

When the paymaster arrived late in the afternoon a large gang of men were working at this end of the line. A steam engine, called a "dummy," because it is closed in to avoid frightening horses, is used to draw two large flat cars, on one of which rails are brought from the camp, and, on the other, ties. The engine had brought its last load to Five Stakes for the day. These had been thrown off, and the ties and rails had been taken ahead on lorries. As the roadbed, previously graded, was prepared by the shovelers, the ties were distributed, afterwards being put the proper distance apart. When enough were placed, the lorry, or hand-car, containing a dozen rails, was pushed to the end of the line. The heavy rails were then located properly, the standard gauge being brought into action. The connecting plates were bolted on, and with the big sledges the rails were spiked. By this time more ties would be in place. And so the railway gradually grows. Thursday, Sept. 1, a little over half a mile of steel was laid—a record performance.

That the work is progressing so favorably, and is being done so well, is due to the energy and ability displayed by Superintendent Wm. Evans. He manages his several score of men with skill, and every mile of the road laid so far is wonderfully well done.

After a number of rails had been put in place (and Saturday's work included the laying of a very neat curve), the engine was run up the line to the terminal, where the men jumped aboard the flat cars. First, however, the Italian workmen were paid, as most of them are staying in the vicinity of Five Stakes. The ride back was a surprise. To the St. Thomas end the cars ran as smoothly as on a steam railway track. The levels were first-class, and there has been no ballasting yet. When this is done, Superintendent Evans will have the satisfaction of having completed a perfect electric railway as far as the road itself is concerned.

After the payment of the wages to the rest of the construction gang and their foremen, all sat down in the big dining tent, where the cook and his assistant served a clean and wholesome meal. The rest of the camp consisted of two sleeping tents and the cookhouse.

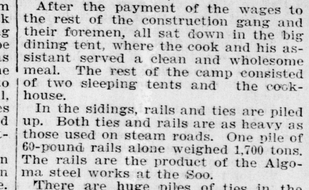

In the sidings, rails and ties are piled up. Both ties and rails are as heavy as those used on steam roads. One pile of 60-pound rails alone weighed 1,700 tons. The rails are the product of the Algoma steel works at the Soo.

There are huge piles of ties in the sidings, 34,000 having been brought in. Poles to the number of 800 await placing, while all other supplies are there, too. Two cars of fish-plates, two cars of spikes, and one car of bolts, were included in the 128 carloads of material. Everything except the overhead material is on hand, and this is being specially made, and will be ready as soon as required. Everything looks like business with the Southeastern Traction Company.
