In Gethsemane BY T. C. UPHAM.

O let me not forget! Twas here Earth of the Saviour's grief and toil ! He knelt; and oft the failing tear Mingled his sorrows with thy soil, When, in the garden's fearful hour, He felt the great temptation's power.

Here was the proffered bitter cup; "THY WILL BE DONE," the Saviour said; His faith received and drank it up : Amszed, the baffled tempter fled Repulsed, with all his hate and skill, Before an acquiescent will.

O man! in memory of that hour, Let rising murmurs be repressed, And learn the secret of thy power Within a calm and patient breast. "THY WILL BE DONE," 'tie that which rolls

Here in the Saviour's place of tears-The lesson that the trueting mind Has strength to conquer griefs and fears, And doomed upon the cross to die, Finds death itself a victory.

Jesus Lives.

Oh, show me not my Saviour dying. As on the cross he bled; Nor in the tomb a captive lying ; For be has left the dead. Then bid me not that form extended For my Redeemer own. Who, to the highest heavens ascended. In glory fills the throne.

Weep not for Him at Calvary's station ; Weep only for thy sins; View where He lay with exultation; Tis there our hope begins. Yet stay not there, thy sorrows feeling, Amid the scenes He trod; Look up and see him interceding At the right hand of God.

Still in the shameful cross I glory, Where His dear blood was split : My soul is melted at the story Of Him who bore my guilt. Yet what, 'mid conflict and temptation, He lives, the Captain of Salvation !

Therefore His servants live. By death, He death's dark king defeated, And overcame the grave ; Rising, the triumph He completed ; He lives, He reigns to save ! Heaven's happy myriads bow before Him : He comes, the Judge of men : These eyes shall see Him and adore Him Lord Jesus! own me then.

The Resurrection. A pathway opens from the tomb. The grave's a grave no more!

Stoop down; look into that sweet room; Pass through the unsealed door ; Linger a moment by the bed Where lay but yesterday the Church's Head. What is there there to make thee fear ?

A folded chamber-vest, Akin to that which thou shalt wear When for thy slumber drest : Two gentle angels sitting by ; Howewest a room, methinks, wherein to lie

Ne roomy vault, no charnel cell, No emblemn of decay, No solemn sound of passing bell. To say, " He's gone a way !" But angel-whisper soft and clear, And He, the risen Jesus, standing near. Why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?

'Tis not the gardener's voice, But His to whom all knees shall bow. In whom all hearts rejoice; The voice of Him who yesterday Within that rock was Death's resistless prev.

Why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou? The living with the dead ?" Take young spring flowers and deck thy brow. For life with joy is wed;

Why fear to pass that bridal chamber-door? -Lyra Angelicana.

DEAR MR. EDITOR .- To us, my" better half ind myself, the Provincial Wesleyan is ever a velcome measenger. Its weekly visits are always hailed with pleasure, and when it fails to ome, as it occasionally does, through some fault n postal arrangements, or other causes, there is blank that no other newspaper visitant can well supply. In the absence of correspondence with old friends, beloved, and not forgetten, the Wesleyan forms a connecting link with scenes, associations and labours of other days, upon which the memory loves to linger, awakening in he bosem emotions differing in their character. stances that call them into existence. Sometimes the silent tear moistens the cheek as we read of death's ravages in different circles, thinning the ranks of those who were warm, fast friends in the days of our earlier ministry. But recently Bro. John Schureman, of River Philip, was celled to his reward. Many a happy hour have we spent beneath his hospitable roof; and among our cherished recollections is the memory of Bro. Schureman, his excellent wife, and good old sister Atkinson. We had not heard of his union with the church militant until the tidings came of his departure to the church triumphant. Father Read of Maccan, too, has been called home. For many years his house was the minpresent report, in crease the revenue of Dalhousie Good word and work. Loved ones depart peacefully to rest, triumphantly to glory, and the question often presents itself, who is to fill their places? Our prayer is that in each of those different localities, the mantle of Elijah may fall upon some Elisha, for while God buries his workmen he carries on his work." Then again as we read the Wesleyan the heart ened lines of black" in the Watchman, of somefills with joy that in some fields of labour, we thing of more than ordinary melancholy interest, gracious revivals of religion; and we wender whether this one and that one have commenced to love the Saviour. FALL OF RICHMOND .- Of the fall of Richmond and its effects upon the Confederacy the Boston Past says:

"All that gave the rebellion a semblance of its safety in flight. Its political pretentions are every one gone: Its military power, upon which alone the former rested, has been forced to its feet for the little accurity that remains for it." ANDY JOHNSON'S DRUNK -That Andrew phason, Vice President of the United States was drunk when inaugurated, and ourraged, in a frightful manner, all the proprieties of the oc-casion, is a notorious fact, and is being noticed with extraordinary freedom of speech. The indignast virtue of the people has full scope. Busit might not be improper to remember, when indulging the wrath that is entirely proper, that Mr. Johnson is not the first of our public men who have advertised their drunkenness in the Senate Chamber. At least four United States Senators have been intoxicated a great portion of their time during the late session of Congress, and a new recruit for the drunken squad has ust been obtaine! And, if the exact truth were just open of the personal habits of a great many distinguished individuals, good people might be seriously troubled in their minds, and the "miserable scribblers" who dared to tell it would be denounced. Mr. Johnson had been drunk for some time before he son and deen drunk for some time before he reached Washington, and found that a bad place to sober off in. It is rather expected of a "great man" there, that he shall consume a large ration of whisky. The Vice President elect fell in with his old friends, and the temptation to have a good time was irresistible. The presumption was indulged that, as he was an important personage, he would be competent to contain much whisky; and that, as he had reached an official altitude quite conspicuous, he should work himfrom Lunenburg against the school law.

Mr. Miller introduced a bill relative to expenditure upon public works, its object being to provide that workmen be paid in each the monies so man is disgraced. Other drunkards will look to the drunkards will be dru ection not to exceed $300.

The remainder of the evening was occupied find a committee of Congressmen who never n considering the recommendation of the Comportion of the Capitol, and it was necessary t that no member of the Assembly should interfere with the payment of road money. The House in Committee, discussed and passed the remaining clauses of the School Bill. With respect to Halifar the city is to be one section, with a board of twelve trustees, two for each ward, to be appointed by the Commissioners, the advantages of any existing sobool may be made available for the section, the assessment to form a portion of the city rates, the pupils of one ward to be entitled to school privileges in any other ward.
