By Courier Leased Wire. Rome, Aug. 31.—In Vatican circles Pope Benedict is said to have signified his intention of issuing a reply after receiving the responses of all the belligerents to his peace proposals.

The Government, the premier added, feels confident that these objects have been attained to a very considerable degree and is convinced that an overwhelming majority of the nation is deeply democratic and prepared to make sacrifices for liberty and the defence of the country.

As an instance of the high prices for food stuffs, it is said, a sack of flour costs $40 and a pound of pork $2. Fat is very scarce and less than a pound in fifteen days is allowed for each person.

Before President Wilson's reply was read it was said at the Vatican that the responses from the various governments were expected to be more favorable than the tone of press comment.

"I am sure," the premier said, "that the truth learned by the whole nation at the conference will not fade away. On the contrary it will have an effect for a long time to come and will burn in an ever-increasing flame."

MOSCOW CONFERENCE FAILS IN ITS PURPOSE; BREACH IS NOT HEALED

Naked Truth As To Russ Convention Told by a Correspondent; Army Merely an Armed Mob, While Soldiers Delegates Pay No Heed To Warnings

London, Aug. 30.—The following despatch from Robert Wilton, Petrograd correspondent of Times, telegraphing from Moscow on Tuesday, amplifies previous reports of speeches, and depicts the atmosphere of the conference. It also gives the correspondent's private impressions of the situation in Russia. Readers will recall Wilton's despatch from the south-western fronts, when accompanying Korniloff and also his recently cabled interview with Korniloff but would do well not to regard his opinions on the broad situation as representing necessarily the editorial opinions or expectations of the London Times. The situation in Russia is too remote and obscure to warrant offhand opinions on future developments.

(By Robert Wilton. Moscow, Aug. 28.—[Delayed]—If any hope lingered in Russian breasts that the Moscow conference would accomplish a miracle of social healing that hope was extinguished to-day. The Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Deputies and their followers paid no heed to the eloquent appeal resounding from representatives of the four Dumas that the Socialists and middle classes sink their differences to save the country. They still refer to "Revolutionary Russia" to "Victorious Russia," they still remain deaf and blind to the consequences of defeat. Rather let Russia perish than be anything but "revolutionary." It would be unwise, says the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Deputies and its friends, to refuse to fight, so they merely contend that the war has become impossible without the maintenance of the council's committees and the whole revolutionary apparatus, and they absolutely decline to accept the solemn warnings of the military chiefs about essential conditions of army reform. At this point they even accepted the concessions made by the Provisional Government in introducing the death penalty, but they are more than disposed, in reality, to quarrel with the autocratic Prime Minister and wrest the power from his hands. Although the great majority of the packed house rose to greet him, the benches of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Deputies, including all the soldier delegates, remained sitting, and refused to cheer, heedless of cries of "Shame!" "Cowards!" "Traitors!" which resounded from the galleries. This attitude of studied disrespect was observed throughout Korniloff's speech, which was heard in an intense and awed silence. Clearly and concisely, he delivered that speech like the blows of a hammer. He gave the naked truth about Russia's armistice. They have been demoralized by influences from the outside, by men ignorant and careless. Shame and disaster had followed. Stern measures had saved the situation for a time. Traitorous propaganda, nevertheless, continued. Revolting scenes of hoodlaming were recurrent. Unfortunate officers were being butchered by men who howled like cravens for mercy when reprisals were taken against them. Prior to the revolution, said Korniloff, our armies could fight. They were now converted into an armed mob. Some regiments had concluded a separate peace and even offered to pay indemnity to the Germans. He had presented a programme of reforms to the Provisional Government. Discipline must be restored.

SCHOOLS LIKELY TO BE CROWDED

Problem of Accommodation For Children Being Dealt With

The problem of school accommodation is no light one in the city, and with the re-opening of the schools for the fall term only four days distant, Inspector Kilmer issues a warning to all parents, mothers and other persons, that children should be sent to school promptly on Tuesday morning next, that the work of enrollment may be proceeded with at once. In the case of children unable to attend, through illness or other reasons, notification should be sent to the school principal, or children coming a few days late may be assigned to any school in which they can best be accommodated. The schools have been thoroughly renovated and cleaned during the summer vacation, and the teaching staff brought up to full strength once more. The usual kindergarten classes in the public schools are to be discontinued, but the kindergarten primary classes will be conducted all day, in place of only half the day, as previously.

All Eventualities Are Now Regarded With Absolute Confidence

Rumanian Army Headquarters, Jassy, Aug. 29.—[Delayed]—The great battle which lasted a fortnight on the south-western and southern fronts in Moldavia was one of the most sanguinary of the war. The troops in the first and second Rumanian armies have shown a warlike capacity that has excited the admiration of all the foreign officers who have seen them work, and many of the prisoners were astonished when they found they had been fighting against the Rumanians. The Germans attacked and continued to attack in compact masses as at the battle of the Yser. It is stated that in one village where the Rumanians counter-attacked, 2,500 German corpses were counted.

THE SITUATION.

The Italians continue to make excellent progress towards Trieste, so much so in fact that the Austrian Emperor, who had announced his intention of visiting that important Adriatic port, has abandoned the trip.

The London Times correspondent at the Moscow convention, draws a far from reassuring picture of the state of affairs manifested at that gathering. He states that the soldiers and workmen's delegates, filled with the speedy success of the recent revolution, did not manifest any appreciation of the breakers ahead.

Continued rough weather on the Western front makes operations of any moment absolutely impossible. Washington reports that by co-operation of British and American naval forces, submarine losses to merchant vessels will probably be reduced to one half of one per cent.

The Toronto Star (Liberal) once more defines the issue as regards Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and during the course of its remarks, uses the following language:—"There would have been a Coalition Government to sponsor the Act and carry on the war, but for the fact that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would not give his personal support to compulsory service."

"They cannot support him in this attitude. And because of the kind of support that this attitude will draw to him, they must oppose him and compass the defeat of the forces that will gather behind him."

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier, like many others, appears to have the view that this is a private war in which anybody may quite properly decide for himself whether he will take part or remain neutral. It will scarcely do to entrust the government of the country in the midst of a war to men committed to such a view as this."

"They cannot support him in this attitude. And because of the kind of support that this attitude will draw to him, they must oppose him and compass the defeat of the forces that will gather behind him."

"They cannot support him in this attitude. And because of the kind of support that this attitude will draw to him, they must oppose him and compass the defeat of the forces that will gather behind him."

THE APPLICATION OF CLOSURE.

Some critics are speaking of the application of closure in connection with the debate on the purchase of the Canadian Northern Railway bill as un-British. It is nothing of the kind. The object of the measure is to close a debate when the matter in hand has been discussed sufficiently and the principle was adopted at Westminster as far back as 1882.

With regard to the Canadian Northern measure, the Canadian Pacific Railway interests are putting up a bitter fight. They would probably like to acquire the road themselves, and in any event do not like the entering of the thin edge of the wedge with regard to the nationalization of Canadian lines.

HONORS GAINED BY HEROIC DEEDS

Records of Gallantry And Resourcefulness By The Canadians at Lens

SPLENDID FORTITUDE

List of Men Decorated For Exceptional Acts in the Capture of Hill 70.

(By Stewart Lyon) Canadian Press Correspondent With the Canadian Forces. Canadian Army Headquarters, Aug. 31.—During the operation which culminated in the capture of Hill 70 and the pressing of the enemy backwards into the centre of Lens many heroic deeds were performed by Canadian officers and men.

Here is a story of heroism and resourcefulness that is not often paralleled. A battery of Canadian Field Artillery was under a concentrated fire from enemy guns. Gunner William MacLean was in an old German gun pit during the bombardment when a direct hit caused twelve casualties. Wounded in the chest and hand, MacLean turned at once to the duty of rescuing those who were in a worse case than himself.

One of the victims was pinned down beneath heavy debris, and there was a danger that if left in the position in which he was he could not survive long. A medical officer, who could not reach the spot because of the needs of other wounded, was consulted, and he advised amputation of the shattered leg so that the victim might be released. With great nerve in the smoke-filled gun pit MacLean performed the amputation, thus showing that the official reports record, as a splendid example of bravery, determination, and devotion to duty, for which the Military Medal has been awarded.

Wounded, "Carried On." Gunner Gilbert Leslie Waters, of the heavy artillery, has been awarded the Military Medal because during the attack on Hill 70, he maintained communications on part of the captured ground throughout the day, under extreme difficulty and danger. This he did, although partially wounded in the hand at eleven o'clock in the morning. It was not until seven in the evening that he was relieved and had his wound dressed.

Lance-Corp. Wesley Ross Zinck, of a Nova Scotia battalion, has received the Military Medal for conspicuous gallantry while operating a Lewis gun near Avion. The patrol to which he was attached was surprised by an enemy party, which opened fire at a range of only five yards. Zinck was wounded in four places, two of the wounds being severe, but he at once opened fire with his Lewis gun and continued firing until the enemy was dispersed, leaving one dead and several wounded behind, one of whom was afterwards captured.

Rescued Commander. Private Wilfrid Kilbourne, of a Western Ontario battalion, received the Military Medal for displaying great coolness and daring during a raid on an enemy trench. His section commander was hit and lay wounded in the German wire. Kilbourne, although wounded himself, assumed command, carried his section forward personally bombed along the enemy trench for a considerable distance, and while our men were returning to our own lines stayed to disentangle the section commander from the enemy wire and bring him in. Corp. Daniel MacLean, of a Central Ontario battalion is awarded the Military Medal for capturing single-handed while bombing an enemy trench near Avion a German officer and five men who he safely delivered at battalion headquarters, passing en route through an area in which gas shells were falling. Private James Kinscock and Herbert George Cannaby, of the same battalion, captured eighteen of the enemy on the same occasion, fifteen with arms in their hands. Both get Military Medals. Faced Great Peril Private Charles Joseph Gagnon, of a Manitoba battalion, is given the Military Medal for fortitude under imminent peril. Gagnon was bringing up a lumber full of bombs when a shell burst near by, shattering his right arm, which was afterwards amputated, and blowing away the tail-board of the limber. The miles bolted, but Gagnon, knowing the highly dangerous nature of the bombs he was carrying, and realizing that the lives of many soldiers in the vicinity depended on him, stuck to his post and with his uninjured hand brought his frightened team to a standstill. He was the only assessor representing the Western portion of Canada who was given an opportunity of addressing the gathering. Great interest was displayed in the system that is being applied in this city and many were the questions asked Mr. Ludlow regarding the outcome of the experiment. All the aldermen and city officials who attended the meeting speak highly of the valuable information gleaned from attending this convention of men engaged in the various departments of municipal administration throughout the country.

PARIS COUNCIL IS AFTER COAL

Following Lead of Brantford Body In Action On Fuel Supply

WANT TO BUY 500 TONS

Special meeting of Council Last Evening On The Subject

OTHER NEWS OF PARIS

Corp. Geo. Inksater, A.M.C., Home on Furlough From Front

(From our own Correspondent) Paris, Aug. 31.—A special meeting of the council was held last evening, with Reeve Pitts in the chair. Present, Deputy-Reeve Stewart, Ald. Blake, Daniel, McCammon and Wooler.

On motion of Ald. J. P. McCammon and Deputy-Reeve I. Stewart, a by-law was introduced and duly passed to license and regulate junk shops and junk dealers. All parties now going around Paris from outside points and buying up old trucks, must pay a license fee of $20.

On motion of Ald. W. Wooler and J. A. Blake, the by-law regulating autos and vernicular traffic was amended. Any person driving a rig or auto must use the right hand side of street from the centre of same. All autos when parked in business section must have right front wheel not more than 12 inches from curb, and rear right wheel at angle of about 45 degrees. Room about 2 feet must also be left between adjoining autos to allow passengers to enter or alight from same. Autos must park in same way outside churches.

The dog by-law was also amended, on request of board of health. Heretofore, dogs were allowed to run at large, but muzzled from June till August 30th. Last night, the council extended the time for dogs to be muzzled till Sept. 30th. It is understood that rabies has broken out in adjoining counties and hence the precaution.

The question of the poor delivery of hard coal was brought before the council. It appeared from the statements made that no definite time could be obtained as to when coal could be secured, and summer was rapidly going. It was also definitely stated that the council desired all the trade possible to remain in town in the hands of the local dealers, but people had approached the council to see if something could not be done by that body to relieve the situation. It was pointed out that a Burlington coal dealer had offered to supply Brantford with coal from Hamilton at $6 per ton, f.o.b.

A committee was appointed consisting of Deputy-Reeve Stewart, Ald. Walker and Wooler, to interview the local dealers, and falling satisfactory results, to communicate with Bowby, of Brantford, and also to write Mr. Bothman, of Burlington. Further that the coal situation as at present existing in Paris be explained to Mr. McCartney, the Government Fuel Controller, at Ottawa. The coal question was one other municipalities were handling, and the committee were instructed to ascertain the price of 500 tons of coal, delivered at Paris, and report as soon as possible.

Corpl. Geo. Inksater, of the Army Medical Corps, is home on three months' furlough. He left in 1914. Mr. Thos. J. Murray, of Winnipeg, an old Paris boy, has been visiting in town. He brought his sister, Miss Lena, back to the scenes of her childhood, in the hope that the milder climate will benefit her health. She is staying with Mrs. James Randall, of Upper Town.

as to where the national convention would be held. The appearance of the arrangement committee of the peace council in Hudson, Wis., yesterday, aroused the citizens to a high pitch. Indignation meetings were held during the day, the common council passed an order forbidding the holding of the convention, and at a mass meeting in the evening resolutions were adopted protesting against the convention and calling upon Governor Phillip to stop it. Excitement ran high and from an orderly meeting there developed an unorganized mob, which went to the hotel where the pacifist delegates were stopping, hustled them into an automobile and took them to the depot, where they were put aboard a train for Minneapolis with orders never to return.

Shortly after the pacifists were driven from the city a truckload of peace literature for the meeting arrived and it was at once made the object of another attack. The driver, innocent of the situation, tried to make terms with the crowd, but quickly learning its temper, wheeled the truck around and started at breakneck speed for the Interstate bridge, followed by a hooting crowd until it reached the Minnesota side.

WASHINGTON ADMITS CENSOR BUREAU FAKED BATTLE YARN

Secretary Daniels in Letter to Senate Acknowledges That 'Attack in Force' by Submarines on Troopships Incorrect—Official Explanation of Playful Ways of Enterprising People

Washington, Aug. 31.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels in a letter to Senator Tillman, of the Naval Affairs Committee, gives an explanation of the elaborate submarine attack story sent out by the Government bureau.

He virtually admitted that the American transports which arrived in France several weeks ago were not "attacked in force" by German submarines; that there was no "battle with submarines," and that no German submarines were proved to be sunk, despite the fact that the official announcement "elaborated by George Creel, head of the Censor Bureau, and published as an official statement to the Secretary of the Navy, used all of these phrases."

Mr. Daniels offers to show the Senate Committee the originals of the official reports from Rear Admiral Gleaves, in command of the destroyer flotilla, with the understanding that they shall not be made public. Mr. Daniels' letter is expected to forestall the resolution introduced by Senator Penrose demanding the originals of the Gleaves report. The letter reads as follows:

"Late in the afternoon of July 3 the welcome news came that the last ships of the convoys and transports carrying the first American soldiers and marines to fight in France had reached their destination in safety, without accident or injury to men or ships. The Navy Department had known for five days prior to their arrival that two attacks had been made and you can well understand the painful anxiety lest torpedoes should have caused the loss of some of the brave men who were carrying on this hazardous enterprise.

"You may imagine, therefore, the unspeakable relief to me which the news announcing the arrival of the last ship brought. This relief was of course shared by all others in the department who had been apprehensive every minute since June 28, when Admiral Gleaves in a brief cable had reported that submarines had made attacks upon two divisions of the transports.

"As soon as the news was communicated by an officer of the department I hastened to the War Department to apprise the Secretary of War of the fact, for I knew he felt the deepest solicitude, as he, too, was informed of the attacks. It was in no formal manner, I assure you, that the good news was given to Secretary Baker, and we shook hands in exultation over the safety of our sailors and soldiers and the accomplishment of the first stage of giving present military aid to the allies.

"At once a statement was prepared and given out that evening, which I knew would intensify gratify all Americans. The message of Rear Admiral Gleaves announcing the attacks of course, had not been given to the public and consequently it had been spared anxiety.

"The statement which I gave to the public conveyed the feeling of all who had been waiting and hoping for the reassuring telegram. It began with these words: 'It is with the joy of a great relief that I announce to the people of the United States the safe arrival in France of every fighting man and every fighting ship.' And then followed the account of the dangers which had been encountered.

"These facts were stated not in the very words of the Gleaves cablegram for it is the immemorial policy of the department in time of war not to employ the language of a message coming in code. Otherwise it would be easy for the enemy to learn the cipher. Moreover, the message of the rear admiral contained the names of the ships, which for military reasons are never given out during the war. The language used, as reference to the cablegrams will show, therefore, was not to the identical language of the cablegram, but contained the transports of the safe arrival of the transports and convoys, the deliverance from submarine attacks and the successful conclusion of that part of the enterprise.

"The important part of the statement given to the public was that all our soldiers and marines and ships had been conveyed to France in safety. Two of the groups arrived without being attacked and two were unsuccessfully attacked. The rejoicing over their arrival was heightened by the fact that far outside the so-called danger zone they had been twice unsuccessfully attacked.

"If the terms, 'battle' and 'attacked in force' are open to criticism, the fact still remains that the rejoicing was warranted. If the torpedoes, either of the attacks had sunk Admiral Gleaves or the torpedoes would not have concerned itself with the difference between what might have been called a 'battle' or an 'encounter' or 'brush'.

"The cablegrams from the rear admiral, which have not been given to the public for reasons stated above, are, of course, subject to the inspection of the Naval Affairs Committee."

MCGRAW TAUGHT TO HOLD HIS TONGUE Usually Talkative and Pug-nacious Giant Manager Now Mute as a Clam

New York, Aug. 31.—Manager J. J. McGraw of the Giants, to-day refused to comment on the action of the National League in handing him a public reprimand and a fine of $1,000 as a result of his findings in the now famous reputation case.

The usually talkative leader of the Giants closed up like a clam when asked what he thought of the league's action, and Harry M. Hempstead, President of the Giants, had little to say beyond expressing the belief that the fine is beyond anything he expected.

McGraw's silence is attributed to the fact that he is somewhat stunned over the fact that his last expression of opinion concerning Governor Tener and the National League has cost him in the neighborhood of $100 a word.

FIRST GAME FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP Dominion Steel and Cordage Will Commence Series Tomorrow

Interest is running high in the baseball battle that is to be staged at Agricultural Park on Saturday afternoon when the supremacy of the City League will be decided when the Cordage Company and the Dominion Steel Products teams come into contact. The D. S. P. won last Saturday's game by a score of 6-0, but a decision given by Umpire Hamburg, that changed the whole course of the game, was considered wrong by a large number of fans. The game, as played on Saturday was not between the regular players of either team, but each aggregation was strengthened by members of the other teams in the League.

WAGNER HAS QUIT BASEBALL FOR GOOD Flying Dutchman Played His Last Game on Wednesday

New York, Aug. 30.—Honus Wagner played the final game of his long and brilliant baseball career at the Polo Grounds yesterday. The famous shortstop will permanently retire at the end of this season. He has slowed up in fielding, and has lost his batting eye, hence his determination to quit the game forever.

The Pirates recently purchased first baseman Mollwitz from the Kansas City, American Association club. Mollwitz a fine player will report to Manager Bezdek next month and "Honus" will take a seat on the bench. Wagner came back this year simply to help the Pirates and his old employer, Barney Dreyfus. The Dutchman may be employed as a Pirates' chief scout next season, but he will not attempt to play ball.

HAD BEEN DOWN IN BED NINE WEEKS

Her Son Advised Tanlac and She Was Up Soon After She Began Taking It

"When I began taking Tanlac I had been down in bed for nine weeks and if you had seen me then you'd be surprised to see me in here now," said Mrs. K. Thompson, who resides at 12 Wood street, in a conversation at Parke & Parke Ltd., Hamilton a few days ago.

"My health had been falling for two years," Mrs. Thompson continued. "I was all run-down had no appetite and suffered from gastritis. I had dizzy headaches, was nervous and shaky as any one gets to be. I could scarcely sleep at all and felt, so tired stupid and bad in the mornings that I could hardly get out of bed. I finally got so bad off I couldn't do my work and just had to give up and go to bed. I had awful smothering spells on my stomach and the gas on my stomach caused by so much that it embarrassed me. My chest was full of pain and my heart would flutter and jump like it was coming out. I tried any number of different kinds of medicines but it was just taking that much water as for the good they did me. I fell off three pounds and was getting weaker and more despondent all the time.

"My son advised me to try Tanlac and I was up and about shortly after I began taking it. I now have a splendid appetite and can eat most anything without it hurting me. The gas has stopped forming on my stomach and I don't have any more smothering spells or palpitation of the heart. I'm not nervous and dizzy any more, my headaches are gone and I sleep every night like a child. I now weigh one hundred and eight pounds and I get up in the mornings refreshed and really enjoy doing my work. Every symptom of my troubles is not only relieved but entirely gone and I can truthfully say I really feel like a different person. I will always have a good word for Tanlac and several of my friends are now taking it on account of what it has done for me."

Music and Drama

THE BRANT
An exceptionally strong motion picture bill heads the week-end program at the Brant Theatre, featuring such noted stars as Sessue Hayakawa, Vivian Martin, Tom Forman, Lonessome Luke and Ruth Roland. The three first named appear together in a powerful Lasky production, "Forbidden Paths," a tense and absorbing film drama of modern life a true to nature story with a strong moral for all. Lonessome Luke, more properly yelet Harold Lloyd appears in his latest comedy production "Stop, Luke, Listen," and it behooves all to stop, look and listen similarly less they miss this, one of the funniest pictures of the year. Chaplin's elongated rival here appears at his best, and produces more of the original humor which characterizes his films. Ruth Roland, Corene Grant and others co-star in "The Neglected Wife." A musical offering of unusually high quality, and bound to prove pleasing to all, is that offered by the Three Chums in A Few Minutes at the Club, a classy singing and musical bill.

THE BRANT
"A Night in Chinatown," a pretty riot of catchy songs, snappy humor and whirling girls, is the miniature comedy being staged by the Byrne and Byrne Company at the Rex Theatre for the latter part of the week. Triangle Fine Arts, present Dorothy Gish in one of the best successes in which she has appeared, in production "Gretchen the Greenhorn." In this production Dorothy Gish has a role as delightful and refreshing as in her other pictures that have secured her the popularity which she now enjoys. The 13th episode of Pearl of the Army, and another of the Country Life Stories, are the other attractions on the week-end bill.

THE BRANT
"Little Lord Fauntleroy" now being offered by the Edward Keane company for the last of this week, was presented at the Grand Opera House for the first time last evening, the company giving a masterly rendition of the ever-popular story, which is bound to prove pleasing to old and young alike, a human interest story of spontaneous laughter and tears, which when reproduced upon the stage loses none of the exquisite touches of the author, Frances Hodgson Burnett. Those who witnessed "The Lion and the Mouse," early in the present season, will recall the great hit made by Edward Keane in the role of John Burroughs, the elderly financier, and in "Little Lord Fauntleroy" gives another such masterly interpretation in the character of the crusty Earl of Dorchester, whose life in the end is sweetened by the influence of Little Lord Fauntleroy and his mother. The wonderful performance of Kyrle Paul, the child actress, in the role of Lord Fauntleroy, is deserving of the highest commendation, and the cast throughout is well adapted and the production in every way a notable one.

PARAMOUNT PARAGRAPHS
Greenwich, Conn., is still talking about the wild untrammelled taxi cab that whooped through its classic streets with Marguerite Clark at the wheel. The Famous Players star is so tiny that several of the rural Sherlock Holmes thought the car was running away, but investigation developed the fact that it was all for a Paramount picture—an adaptation of one of the episodes from Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Sub-Del" stories which will be called "Bab's Burglar."

Thomas Meighan, the champion all around inter-studio leading man, is doing considerable gymnasium work in preparation for a semi-caveman role in support of Billy Burke in an adaptation of W. Somerset Maugham's "The Land of Promise." Meighan is over six feet tall, and has an excellent foundation upon which to build a caveman character, but thinks that the gymnasium work will put a few finishing touches to the role.

The youthful American sailor who gets the sweetest which Pauline Frederick is knitting for the Navy need not be surprised if he catches cold, for there are going to be a number of drop stitches and other curious aperatures in the sweater. Who could sit in a 75 H.P. airplane Simplex going at top speed and connect to get every stitch correct? Paramount star declares that frequently it is a case of passing a stitch or her life, and so far the stitches have suffered.

Ann Pennington is having considerable difficulty in rehearsing for the Zieffeld Midnight Follies now that the diminutive Paramount star has completed "The Little Boy Scout." Having worked before the camera for so many consecutive weeks, Miss Pennington has contracted a habit of waiting for the call to the camera before starting her action.

If William C. De Mille does not stop playing Simon Legree to Sessue Hayakawa Uncle Tom, the Lasky studio is going to be forced to pay overtime to its Japanese star. In the production in which Hayakawa is now appearing for Paramount, there are a number of Japanese being used as "atmosphere." Inasmuch as most of them do not speak English, Hayakawa is forced to act as interpreter in addition to playing the stellar role.

Word-of-Mouth Advertising and Newspaper Advertising

¶ It will always be true that "we are advertised by our loving friends."

¶ A store is advertising very effectively, within small limits, by the favorable word spoken of it by one person to another.

¶ If a woman tells a friend that a certain store is offering an attractive line of things in some particular department, and recites to her the excellent values she has secured at that store—That is valuable advertising for that store.

¶ But the store which is most effectively advertised in newspapers is usually the store which secures, as an indirect result of its newspaper advertising, the greatest share of his word-of-mouth advertising.

¶ For, in nine instances out of ten, the woman who is pleased and enthusiastic about a bargain which she has secured, and who tells her friends about it, was influenced to buy that very thing through the store's advertisement in her newspaper. If it had not been advertised she would not have bought it—she would not have learned about it at all—and thus she would not have had it in mind later as something worth while telling to her friends.

¶ The merchant who hopes to get his share of favorable word-of-mouth advertising must establish the basis for it through very aggressive newspaper advertising. The wisest of the merchants understand this.

SHANNON STOLE HOME IN NINTH

Toronto, Aug. 31.—One run only was made in yesterday's Baltimore-Toronto ball game, and the Orioles got that. Moreover, they stole it, but the theft was quite legitimate. Shannon, of the Orioles dashed home from third base in the ninth, with two out, and slid across the plate before Catcher "Micky" Lalonge could put the ball on him. The game was a very pretty pitching duel between "Tommy" Thompson and "Rube" Parnham.

Excuses never yet won a pennant. "Albiss" are in bad taste. Lamer than "Joe" Schultz's maimed leg would be any attempt to belittle the 1 to 0 victory of the Baltimore flock. Nevertheless, the conditions under which the Ladies met defeat admit of explanation. It was a crippled team that lost to the Orioles, Schultz can scarcely walk, let alone run, owing to a strained tendon. Whitman sat in the stand with his right hand bandaged heavily. Enright hit him with a pitched ball in the second inning of Wednesday's sixteen-inning battle. The throwing hand being caught between the bat and the ball. The flesh is torn and bruised to such an extent that several stitches were necessary.

Whitman continued in the overtime struggle Wednesday until the fourteenth inning, before getting out of the game. He cannot throw, swing a bat, or catch a ball. Pitcher Warhop played left field, and Thompson batted in third place, the position usually occupied by Whitman. Schultz and Whitman are two of the Toronto trio in the 300 batting class. The fact that they are "casualties" weakens the Leafs very materially. "Whitley" may be able to play next week.

BATTLE OF MESSINES MOST SCIENTIFIC IN HISTORY; A TRIUMPH FOR BRITISH STILL

Foe Guarded Ridge to Utmost—Model of Battle Ground Studied in Advance—Same Tactics Used Since With Great Success—Coolly Calculated Effort and Most Satisfactory Enterprise of the War up to That Time

Up to the evening of June 6th a British soldier in or near Ypres felt as if he were at the footlights of a theatre, with enemies looking down at him from tier above of comfortable seats in the semi-circular auditorium. If you wanted to cross the main square of Ypres by day, you had to run your hardest, so as not to give the shell of some sniping German field gun time to arrive. When you approached the city by motor there were stretches of road that had to be rushed at the top speed of your car, in order to make the German gunners' aim of the exactitude of our artillery barrage during the advance. "Never saw anything like it!" was the verdict of old N. C. O.'s who had walked at the heels of many barrages since 1914. But this is advancing matters too fast.

Opened at Dawn. The battle began about eight minutes past three on the morning of June 7th. One is always thrilled in witnessing the opening of these modern battles in which so many enormous aggregations of physical power, of many kinds, plunge straight from motionlessness into maximum activity with the instantaneousness of a spring leaving the mark. The first moments of the battle of Messines were rendered thrilling in a new and singular way by the explosion of our row of large mines—abrupt volcanoes of turbid flame ripping and tearing ridges which they had underlain and rocking the neighboring hills under foot like small boats shaken by the swell of a passing steamer. The same instant all our artillery broke into fire together.

More than in any of our previous heavy bombardments the effect of the British cannonade on the ear was like that of an extremely rapid piece played on a piano. There was almost a touch of the grotesque in the combination of so thunderous a sound with so much agility in its manipulation, as there might be in an elephant dancing a hornpipe. But the swift, nimble regularity of the execution of this music was wonderfully expressive of efficiency. The constant even sequence of the reports of field-guns, heavy bombardments and snipers' rifles, the regularity of the larger guns, recurrent at exact intervals proportioned to their several calibres, produced a perceptible heavy rhythmic repetition like a refrain, so uniform in the minimum time in which a gun of a certain size can be loaded and fired and so perfectly in tune with the British guns keeping down to the minimum, it was like the recurrent air, or sequence of symmetrically spaced-out sounds, which the air can disengage from the din of a ship's engines or of a train under full steam.

Wonderfully Guarded. The enterprise was not easy. To the enemy the ridge was a treasure and it was guarded like a treasure. Its defensive system of trenches, wire and concrete dug-outs, emplacements and observation posts was more than a mile deep. Throughout this mile wide belt there was scarcely a patch of ground that was not either trench or wired or built into no complete surprise was possible. You cannot make a great attack, as attacks go in these days, without great and long preparation. And every preparation that was made above ground in the Ypres salient was made with the enemy looking on from his hills. As we brought up more of our men he brought up more of his. When our artillery was strengthened his was strengthened too.

There was only one form of preparation that he could not see. By months of tedious and always perilous work we bored tunnels from far back in our lines to nineteen points of the German front and snipers' trenches. At these points our engineers laid the 19 largest mines ever used in war. The charge of a Mills hand grenade, which can kill every body within a ten-yard radius of its explosion, is from 6 to 8 ounces of ammonium. In these mines there were nearly a million pounds of ammonium. For detonation they were switched in groups, so that one pressure of one finger would blow at the same second all the mines under a special sector of the German front. All the rest of our preparations were made under the enemy's eyes. When the day came he was as ready as we. It was the nearest approach yet made in this war to the old crucial trial of strength by pitched battle on open ground.

Model of Battlefield. Sir Herbert Plumer's army was specially educated for the battle. A model of the battlefield, worked out minutely in relief and covering more than an acre of ground, was visited and studied by all ranks of officers and N.C.O.'s so that no detail of the ground over which they were to advance should surprise or perplex them. For many months the enemy's lines had been raised incessantly by constantly changed parties of our troops; when the battle came, almost every man had been across to the German firing trench before and was now no stranger to the wire on the way.

The last stage in the preparation for a modern battle covers the clearing of the air and the destruction of the enemy's wire and trenches on the point attacked. From June 1st to June 6th our airmen were chasing the German airmen out of the sky. They utterly destroyed 24 enemy machines and drove down 23 others "out of control." As the reports of our airmen are, by a custom of that service, "conservative," the destruction of most of the 23 was probably as effective if not so spectacular as that of the 24. The artillery preparation lasted for seven days and was the most complete that British ar-tilery have ever carried out. From nowhere along the front of attack did there come back with the wounded on June 7th a complaint of destroyed enemy wire. There are no critics of artillery more exacting than their own infantry, whose casualties are generally the inverse of the efficiency of their artillery. If a wounded infantry private can by any means persuade himself that he was hit by his own barrage and not the enemy's, he will generally do it. After the Messines battle there was nothing but enthusiastic acknowledgment of the German gunners' aim of the exactitude of our artillery barrage during the advance. "Never saw anything like it!" was the verdict of old N. C. O.'s who had walked at the heels of many barrages since 1914. But this is advancing matters too fast.

Most Successful Fight. It was not the greatest battle of the war, in point of magnitude of successful volleys with the new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy attractive women. This new, rich, red blood is supplied in abundance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these pills thousands of women have found a prompt cure when suffering from anemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, rheumatism, general weakness, and those ailments from which women alone suffer. There is no part of the prompt cure when suffering from anemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, rheumatism, general weakness, and those ailments from which women alone suffer. There is no part of the prompt cure when suffering from anemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, rheumatism, general weakness, and those ailments from which women alone suffer.

U.S. FIGHTING FOR GERMAN PEOPLE

Preparation For War Surest Means of Producing Effective Peace

Secretary of the Navy, Daniels, speaking here to-day at the breaking of ground for the government armory-plate and projectile plant, declared that America is fighting not only for the democratic nations of the world, but is waging "the battle of the people of the German Empire themselves."

Mr. Daniels asserted that "in preparing for a terrible war the navy is taking the surest means to bring about a permanent and effective peace." "Let there be no mistake," he said, "of peace or possibilities of a cessation of the struggle will cause us to permit one moment our activities on sea and shore." "Not until the peace treaty is actually signed will we remit one single item from our program of preparation. Our citizens here have no fear that we will be lulled into any relaxation or deceived by the mirage of peace which is no peace, into slackening of our activities."

"The Poor Man's Potato" has become the rich man's luxury. Whether at three dollars a bushel, or twenty-five cents a bushel, potatoes are not a complete food. Two or three Shredded Wheat Biscuits with milk furnish more real, body-building nutriment than a meal of potatoes or meat, are much more easily digested and cost much less. Shredded Wheat is 100 per cent. whole wheat, nothing added and nothing taken away—gives mental vim and physical vigor for the hot days. Delicious for breakfast, or any meal, with sliced bananas, berries or other fruits, and milk. Made in Canada.

(From Thursday's Daily.)
A reminiscent chuckle punctuated his account, but struck a key in Sally's humor. Moveless and mute, the girl sat unconsciously clutching the edge of the table as if it were the one stable fact in her whirling world; all her bravado dissipating as her gaze wandered yielded successively to doubt, suspicion, costerantion.
"I said there was plenty of time, and so there was, barring accidents. But the same wouldn't be barred, I manufactured the first delay for myself, forgetting to ask Alec for the combination. I knew where to find it, in a little book locked up in the desk; so I felt obliged to break it open, and managed that so (famously) I was beginning to fancy myself a bit as a Raffles when, all of a sudden—Pow!" he laughed, "that fat devil landed on my devoted neck with all the force and fury of two hundred-weight of professional jealousy."
"And then," he added, "you walked from God knows where—"
His eyes alighted the point of interjection to the usually in response, divided between impulses which she had no longer sufficient wit to weigh. Should she confess, or try to lie out of it? Must she believe this glibly simple and adequate account or respect it on grounds of pardonable skepticism?
If this man were what he professed to be, surely he must recognize her borrowed plumage as his sister's property. True, that did not of necessity follow; men have so little understanding of women's clothing; it pleases them or it displeases, if thrust upon their attention, but once withdrawn it is forgotten utterly. Such might well be the case in this present instance; the man gave Sally, indeed, every reason to believe him as much bewildered and mystified by her as she was by him.
On the other hand, and even so—the infatuate impulse prevailed, to confess and take the consequences. "The affair—" she began in a quaver.
"No need to be—none I know of, at least," he volunteered promptly, if without moderating his exacting stare.
"You don't understand—"
She hesitated, sighed, plunged in desperation. "It's no use; there's nothing for me to do but own up. What you were not to-night, Mr. Savage, I was."
"Sounds like a riddle to me. What is the answer?"
"You were just make-believe. I was the real thing—a real thief. No, let me go on; it's easier if you don't interrupt. Yes, I'll tell you my name, but it won't be any of your business. I'm Sarah Manvers. I'm a shop-girl out of work."
"Still I don't see—"
"I'm coming to that. I live on your block—the Lexington Avenue end, of course—with two other girls. And this afternoon—the studio was so hot and stuffy and lonesome, with both my friends away, I went up on the roof for better air, and fell asleep there and got caught by the alarm. Somebody had closed the scuttle, and I ran across roofs looking for another that wasn't fastened down, and when I found one—it was your house—I was so frightened by the lightning I hardly knew what I was doing. I just tumbled in—"
"And welcome, I'm sure," Blue Serge interpolated.
She blundered on, unheeding; "I went all through the house, but there wasn't anybody, and—I was so wet and miserable that I—made myself at home—decided to take a bath and—borrow some things to wear until my own were dry. And then I thought—"
She halted, confused, realizing how impossible it would be to convince anybody with the tale of her

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH CAMERON
THE UNSCRUPULOUS WOMAN.

The business unscrupulousness of perfectly good women is a thing at which I continually and extremely conscientiously about many things. She will not even go to a place where drinks are served because she says that counterfeits the business. And yet she would not hesitate to use unscrupulous methods of getting her money back for a pair of stockings she herself had spoiled.
I should have thought her word sufficient.
Here is another case. A very high bred, sweet appearing woman on whose sense of honor I would have staked much, let a house to some tenants giving them a two years' lease. The month after it was let she tried to sell over their heads, calmly explaining that her lawyer had told her a two years' lease did not hold. I should have said that her lawyer alone would have been sufficient guarantee and here she was trying to avail herself of some lawyer's quibble to break her bond.
Could anything be more naive than that entire sidestepping of the question whether it was the right thing to do, by bringing up the fact that she had not consulted the most conscientious appearing women I ever met.
Of course men are unscrupulous too, but not the kind of men who otherwise represent the best breeding in the community.
Thank goodness women are growing away from such unscrupulousness. But altogether too slowly!

LADIES' BLOUSE.

By Anabel Worthington.

At first glance it seems like a coat, but it is really only a very smart-looking blouse with a cord-like closing. No. 8373 is typical of the style of separate blouse which will be most worn this season. A large sailor collar joins the wide revers. The collar hides the tiny yoke underneath, to which the fronts and back are gathered. This gathering gives a becoming fullness which is particularly attractive in thin materials. The blouse is double-breasted and is trimmed with large self-covered buttons. A small breast pocket and two pockets on the lower part are an effective trimming as well as a great convenience for the outdoor girl. A loose sash ties at the left side.

The blouse pattern, No. 8373, is cut in sizes 32 to 44 inches bust measure. The 36-inch size requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material.

CATHCART

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
The Women's Institute held their annual "At Home" at the home of their president Mrs. John G. Weir, on Tuesday last. The programme consisting of instrumental music by Mrs. Will Taylor and Miss Victoria Secord and vocal selections by Miss Laura Secord and Miss Christina Rathburn and little Miss Christy McKay was much enjoyed.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

UNABLE TO STEM ITALIAN ON RUSH

Whole Of The Bainsizza Plateau Wrested From The Austrians

FOE TASK THANKLESS

Reinforcements Now Being Hurried Up Cannot Save Situation

BREACH WAS MADE

Manoeuvre Which Resulted In Destruction Of The Teuton Line

London, Aug. 30.—The Times prints a despatch from its correspondent in Italian headquarters which bears date of August 27. "The battle on the uplands of Bainsizza," says the correspondent, "continues altogether in favor of our allies. The enemy is hurrying up reinforcements and making a gallant effort to stem the advancing onrush of the Italians, but he has a thankless task in front of him, for the Italians are attacking virtually the whole of the Bainsizza plateau is now in Italian hands. To the south the occupation of Koblek and Madoni gives us possession of the southern outlet of the Chiappovano valley.

"I was beyond the Vodice ridge this morning and had a magnificent view of the Gargaro valley and the backs of Monte Santo, San Gabriele and San Daniele, which we looked at so long from the west. Only the necessity of returning in time to telegraph prevented me from making a much longer journey. The Vodice ridge and the saddle to the east are torn and blasted by thousands of shells. Here is still all the ghastly litter of war—broken trench wire, rifles, cartridges, helmets, and all the refuse of battle, cumber the tortured ground. As you go on, the battlefield changes its aspect. The ridge has clearly become a battle. The movement of the Italians' advance from the north had turned the Austrians out of their trenches and caverns more effectively than the smashing blows of the heavy guns.

Enemy Dead Lay Thick

"Just below where I stood, on the Slatka road, the enemy dead lay very thick. They had been caught in the shell-fire as they retreated or perhaps they were reserves coming up in the open to try to save the day, but had already been lost. I met a wounded Italian hobbling up the road, smiling all over. He was wounded yesterday, and he did not know where he was.

"We have advanced far, far, signor," he said, "but we could have gone further still if we had had more artillery."

OVER BILLION AND HALF ON U.S. WAR LOAN

Final Installment of $400,000,000 Paid Into Treasury Yesterday

By Courier Leased Wire. Washington, Aug. 30.—Nearly $400,000,000 was paid into the treasury in the final installment of the liberty loan. Approximately $1,615,000,000 already has been paid representing principal and interest on the liberty bonds.

To-day's payments completes the financial transaction with the issues of the bonds and it is thought likely that the bonds themselves will be ready for distribution within a short time.

Now that the first loan has been fully disposed of, it is likely that an announcement concerning the second issue of bonds will be made shortly by Secretary McAdoo.
