CHAPTER IX.

Though years of honored peace and happiness have come and gone since that memorable night, I cannot yet bear to think, much less to write, of the things she then said to me.

I made no resistance whatsoever, did not attempt to utter a word of retort, protest, or appeal, but stood for a few moments, inert and quivering, under the stinging lash; then, with my hand to my ears, I fled from the room into the hall, which I found already half filled with wondering, terrified servants, attracted by the sudden uproar. The infuriated woman pursued me hence, and, hating my passage to the stairs, denounced me to them all as a consummate hypocrite, a base, abandoned wretch, whose black ingratitude and heartless villainy had actually disturbed the holy rest of the dead.

She heaped the foulest abuse upon me, made the wildest accusations, her voice getting louder and more piercing at each sentence, until at last it reached a choking shriek that died away in a fit of violent hysterics.

Mrs. Massey and her mother rushed to her assistance with sympathetic effusiveness. The servants, in obedience to their directions, hurried off for brandy, hartshorn and sal volatile; but all these remedies proved of no avail; the shrieks and sobs continued with increased violence until little Miss Johnson came suddenly upon the scene, and promptly dashed a cup of water in her sister-in-law's face, whispering a few words in her ear that acted like magic and brought her at once to her senses.

'Miss Bernard,' said Mrs. Massey, addressing me with a shudder of aversion, 'will you excuse my suggesting that you should retire to your room for the present? The effect of your presence on this most unfortunate and afflicted lady just now—'

'I am going,' I interrupted, suddenly recovering my power of speech. 'Open the door for me—quick, please. The hall door I mean—I am going that way.'

One of the servants turned the big key, drew back the heavy bolts, and I stepped out into the chilly, blustering dawn, and into the arms of Sir Richard Nesbitt, who was

The Bread and Butter Miss.

PART I.

He was spoilt—deplorably, absurdly spoilt. But, so far, that was perhaps the worst that could fairly be said against him. There was genuine manliness still, some chivalry even, yet struggling spasmodically to make itself felt, and what was practically, perhaps, of more account as a preservative—some small amount of originality in his character. He had still a good deal to learn, and something too to unlearn before he could take rank as pastmaster in the stupid worldliness of his class and time. For he was neither so base nor so cynical as he flattered himself, but young enough to affect being both, to the extent of believing his own affectations real.

He was popular; his position and income were fair enough to have secured this to a considerable extent in these, socially speaking, easy-going days, even had he been without the further advantages of good looks and a certain arrogance, not to say insolence of bearing, which, though nothing can be acquired with greater facility and at less expenditure of brain tissue, appears to be the one not-to-be-disputed hall-mark of the period.

Why he went to Mrs. Englewood's reception that evening he could scarcely have told, or perhaps he would have vaguely shrunk from owning even to himself the real motives—of sincere though feeble loyalty to old associations, of faintly sterling gratitude for much kindness in the past—which had prompted the effort. For Mrs. Englewood was neither very rich, nor very beautiful, nor—worst of all—very fashionable indeed—to reckon as of note monde in any very exclusive sense of the words, though kindly, and fairly refined, irreproachable as wife and mother, and so satisfied with her lot as to be uninterestingly free from social ambition.

But her house was commonplace, she herself not specially amusing.

'If she'd be content to ask me there when they're alone—I like talking to her herself well enough,' thought Despard, as he dressed. In his heart, however, he knew that would not do. He was more or less of a lion from Mrs. Englewood's point of view; she was not above a certain pride in knowing that for 'old sake's sake' she could count upon him for her one party of the season. And, for this, as she retained a real affection for the man she had known as that delightful thing—a bright, intelligent, and unspoilt boy, and as she thought of him still more highly than he deserved to be thought of, her conscience left her unrebuked.

Year after year, it is true, her husband wetblanketed her innocent pleasure in seeing the young man's name on her invitation list.

'That fellow! In your place, my dear Gertrude! and an expressive raising of the eyebrows said the rest.

'But, Harry,' she would mildly expostulate, 'you forget I knew him when he was—'

'So high—as Whipmore. Oh, yes; I know all about it. Well, well, take your way of it; it doesn't hurt me if you invite people who don't want to come.'

'But who always do come, you must allow,' she would reply triumphantly.

'And think themselves mighty condescending for doing so, Mr. Englewood put in.

'You don't do Despard justice. It's always the way with men, I suppose.'

'Come now, don't be down upon me about it,' he would say good-naturedly. 'I don't stop your asking him. It isn't as if we had daughters. In that case—' but the rest was left to the imagination.

And this particular year Mrs. Englewood had smiled to herself at this point of the discussion.

'One can make plans even though one hasn't daughters,' she reflected. 'If Harry would let me ask him to dinner now—but I know there's no chance of that. And, after all, a good deal may be done at an evening party. I should like to do Despard a good turn, and give him a start before any other. If I could give him a hint! But then there's my promise to her father—and Despard is sure to be sensitive on these points. I might spoil it all. No; I shall appeal to his kindheartedness; that is the best. How tender he used to mount her upon his shoulders when she couldn't see the fireworks! I will tell Maisie that story! It is the sort of thing she will appreciate.'

It was a hot, close evening. Though only May, there was thunder in the air, people said. Despard's inward dissatisfaction increased.

'Upon my soul it's too bad,' he ejaculated while examining the flowers in his button-hole. 'Why, when one's made up one's mind to do a disagreeable thing, should everything conspire to make it more odious than it need be, I wonder? I have really—more than half a nini—not to—'

Chicago, Ill.—'I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good and wanted me to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me.

'I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman if that medicine does not help her there is nothing that will.'—Mrs. JANETZKI, 2903 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WINDARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARGET IN COWS.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Portrait of Ruth Cameron.

There is ample room for many kinds of people in the world. But there are many people who do not seem to realize that fact. Some weeks ago I wrote a little article urging people to do what they could to lighten the burden and prevent the abuse of delivery horses. Several letter friends kindly commended this, but one wrote rebuking me for wasting my space and sympathy on the delivery horses "when there are so many poor, suffering children in the world who are surely more important than soulless animals."

Madame, your letter expresses an attitude which I have met many times, and which always arouses my antagonism. Does the fact that there are so many poor, suffering children in the world need to prevent everybody from pitying the sufferings of dumb animals? To be tender to one form of suffering must be callous to all other forms?

I know a wealthy old man who gives almost all of his charity money towards various schemes for alleviating the sufferings of dumb animals. He is often criticized by people with my letter friend's viewpoint. "Just think of all the human beings in the world who are suffering," they say, "and he gives all his money for cats and dogs and horses. It's outrageous."

Now I can't see it that way at all. It seems to me a beneficent law of the universe that some people should be sensitive to one form of suffering and some to another. There are other people who will give liberally to relieve the condition of unfortunate fellow beings, who could, nevertheless, unfeelingly drive away the shivering, starving, lost doggy that fawns on them, or see nothing so very pitiful in that gaunt skeleton of a horse, hitched to a load that two strong young horses might tug at, and lashed on and on by a brute of a master, until he dies in the traces. Folks like my wealthy old friend are the balance for this kind of people and help to make up a symmetrical world. Think how many charities and philanthropies there in the world. Is it not well that there should be so many different kinds of people to found and support them? Is it not fortunate that one man should be pitiful to the sufferings of old people and give gladly to any scheme to make them a little happier, and that another should feel for the blind babies, and another for the heathen, and another for cripples, and another for the dumb doggies, and another for the fallen women, and a million others for almost as many kinds of suffering and need?

I, for my part, am not against anyone who is fighting to cure or relieve any form of abuse or suffering. I'm for him. His corner of the vision of responsibility may not be mine, nor mine his, but we are both set toward the same great goal. The only tragedy, the only failure, the only culpability is not to have been softened and taught by your own sufferings to pity the sufferings of some other creature, animal or human being.

I was greatly impressed by the following sentence in a letter from Harriet Beecher Stowe to a friend, regarding the death of the authoress' little boy.

"It was at his dying bed," she writes, "and at his grave, that I learned that a poor slave mother may feel when her child is torn away from her. In those depths of sorrow which seemed to me immeasurable, it was my only prayer to God that such anguish might not be suffered in vain."

How little in vain that suffering was, millions of people know.

There is ample room for many kinds of people in the world—the kind who pity the horse and dog, the kind who want to help the negro, the kind who love the homeless children. The only kind of people for whom there is not ample room is the kind who have not been taught by their own experience to be eager to help some corner of the suffering of the world.

Sidewalk Sketches.

By H. L. RANN.

THE POLITICIAN.

Portrait of H. L. Rann.

The politician is a profound and peripatetic patriot, whose mission is to tell the common people how they should vote. If it were not for the politician, a whole lot of people in this country would still be voting for Andrew Jackson, or who would become a candidate for the presidency. There used to be quite a difference between statesmen and politicians, but it is getting so in these days that a man has to put on his specs to distinguish the brand. The politician never seeks an office unless he is fully occupied in plotting for his native land. It sometimes happens that after he is elected he does a little bleeding with reverse English on it. The politician never gets tired of having the untutored masses lean upon him, unless they lean a little too hard at some primary election, whereupon he buys two columns in the home paper and forecasts the fall of the republic. Very few politicians get as high as they think they ought to go, but some of them reach quite an altitude, and vocalize with ease in their ear. Every community has one or two politicians, who know when the polls open, and how many votes were cast for county auditor in 1908. These gentlemen usually attend to such little details as choosing the county central committee, naming the delegates to the state convention, and building a neat picket fence around candidates who speak a familiar and conciliatory language. This is a great boon to the average voter, whose mind is given to the things of this life, such as replacing a defunct spark plug, or mending a month's salary against two pounds of butter. The successful politician breaks the sixteen hour law regularly, but he never jars the law of self preservation to any extent.

SURE CURE FOR THRUSH

Worst Cases Yield To Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. Mr. J. L. Boyes, secretary of the Napanee Driving Park Association has had a good deal of experience with thrush on horses' feet, and has tried various remedies. He writes: "I have cured bad cases of diseased feet or thrush on horses with Douglas' Egyptian Liniment with two or three applications, after salting, salt, soil, etc., had completely failed to do the work. I consider it a waste of time to use anything but Douglas' Egyptian Liniment for thrush."

Such an emphatic statement from an experienced horseman speaks volumes for Douglas' Egyptian Liniment. Another man who has found it most effective is Mr. John Garrison, Morven, Ont. He says: "One of my horses had thrush so bad that his feet became offensive, and the neighbours advised me to shoot him. Before doing so I decided to try Douglas' Egyptian Liniment, and in a short time my horse's feet were as sound as ever."

Star Card Tournament.

A large number of members of the Star of the Sea Society attended the card tourney in their hall last night. The affair was in aid of the funds of the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Mr. J. J. Lacey presided. Mr. F. Wiseman took the first prize, scoring 17 out of the 19 games played, and the second went to Mr. W. Canning. Messrs. J. Vinnicombe, S. Coplan and J. Brien took over the tournament. Tobacco supplied by Mr. C. Tessler was smoked with pleasure by players and spectators. A goodly sum was realized. A lecture will soon be delivered also for the benefit of this worthy charitable organization.

Visits Have Been Abandoned.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 15. All projected visits of the King and Queen to foreign Courts have been abandoned for this year. The change of the Royal programme is attributed officially to the coal strike; but the probability of the change is the Anglo-German tension, and the possibility of unpleasant incidents if the King and Queen visited Berlin.

At the City Hall.

The weekly session of the Municipal Council took place yesterday afternoon, Deputy Martin in the chair. It was decided that where necessary the ice and snow would be removed from all the streets in the city as well as the opening up of drains. A communication was received from Messrs. Furlong and Conroy on behalf of the promoters of the recent hockey matches, that their clients were not liable to pay any tax under the Amusement Law. Letter was referred to Council's Solicitor.

Sealing News.

MESSAGES BY WIRELESS. Last evening Messrs. Bowring Bros. had the first messages by wireless which are appended herewith, from the sealing fleet. Capt. A. Kean, of the Stephano, and his son Joe being the first to be heard from:— "Bowring Bros. "Via Point Amour and Quebec. "S. S. Stephano. "Stephano beats all records as an "ice-breaker. Five miles ahead of "the steel fleet. Bonaventure next, "and Florizel second. Took outside "cut. Other ships held inside water; "abreast of us now. Just passed sev- "eral whitecoats; ship's position 30 "miles south by east of Funks. "A. KEAN."

Sailed for the Fishery.

Crosbie's new sealer, the Sagona, Capt. S. R. Winsor, sailed for the seal fishery at 5.30 p.m. yesterday, and if the Erna should not go she (the Sagona) will be the last sealer to leave. Before he left Capt. Winsor was aware of the location of the seals from messages received yesterday, and the belief is that he will strike a big trip of fat. The Sagona took 170 men. Shipwrights Butler and Taylor sheathed her decks, bridges, etc., and gave general temporary repairs to the vessel. Some of the crew had been taking a drop too much and a few "scraps" occurred before the ship sailed, but beyond some damaged noses no particular damage occurred to anybody.

Sudden Death.

Yesterday afternoon the Minister of Justice had a wire from Judge Oke, of Harbor Grace, saying that Capt. Thomey had died suddenly on the street at 4 p.m. The Captain for some time past has driven a horse and rig of his own, and was after taking a fare who had gone to a business place for a few minutes leaving the Captain in the sleigh. While waiting for his fare to return the old man was stricken and died instantly of heart failure. Capt. Thomey was a veteran sealing captain of the old school and was over 70 years of age. His sudden death will be heard with sorrow by all in Harbor Grace and many in St. John's.

The Sealing Liar Abroad.

The sealing liar who, like the poor, is always with us, has commenced his business earlier than usual this year. Yesterday he had five of the Gulf fleet manoeuvring about in the ice in the neighborhood of St. Pierre, evidently in the seals. Ships on the front were reported by him to have any work, but of course none believed those yarns. Wireless messages will put the "liar" out of commission eventually.

Insensible From Alcohol.

At 7 p.m. yesterday Consts. Bussey and Pittman found an unfortunate man on the steps of Wesley Church insensible from alcohol. They carried him to the Western Station and thence to the lock-up in a cab. His name could not be had as he could not utter a word, and not until this morning could it be known who the man was.

A Narrow Escape

Yesterday afternoon a seven year old little girl named Skinner, while sliding with companions on hers on Bennie's Pinch, narrowly escaped being drowned. This particular time she attempted to go across the river on her slide, when she went through the ice. Her cries attracted two young ladies who were passing at the time and they ran to the water's edge and succeeded in rescuing the little one, who felt the effects of her icy bath.

Damaged in the Storms.

On her voyage down to Pernambuco to haulin' Lake Sinoce met very stormy weather and was compelled to jettison considerable of her cargo. As a result of the damage received Shipwright Butler and a staff of mechanics are giving the vessel new stands, in part, new wheel box and stand, new companions, floors to galley and forecastle and caulking to the decks.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 15. The Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph wires: Bad news received here from Madrid. The Spanish Government is reported to have refused all the principal French requests for compensation in Morocco. Opinion is unobtainable, but I can say that the French Government will not accept the terms.

Special Evening Telegram. PARIS, March 15. The Spanish Government's reply to the last French note, on the subject of Morocco, is a flat refusal. France would gain nothing, the Temp says today. It is Spain's last word on the subject, and that it is difficult to foresee what will be the next step in the negotiations.

Special to Evening Telegram. BERLIN, March 15. The note issued by Churchill, in presenting the Naval Budget, in which he said that the estimates were framed on the assumption that existing naval programmes of other naval Powers would not be changed, but that, if they were, supplementary estimates would be submitted to the British Parliament, has made the German jingoes angry. Their newspaper organs are printing warm comments, on daily calling it impudent British bluff. The Post argues that the German Government answer Churchill immediately by publishing the naval bill in its original form, and at the same time issuing a statement in regard to the unbearable pressure which Germany has silently suffered from England for years. That might mean war, says the Post.

Special to Evening Telegram. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 15. In the belief that a battle between the rebels and federal troops is likely to be fought at Torreon, 3,000 refugees, mostly women and children, have left en route for North of that place. Most of them left by train Wednesday. Two coaches, crowded by Chinamen, also left, fearing a repetition of the massacres that marked Madero's revolution.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 15. The Chronicle is becoming alarmed at the prospect of a collapse of the Conference, and protests against the Government's policy of secrecy. It demands that Parliament and the Nation be fully informed as to how matters stand, so that the force of public opinion may be brought to bear upon those responsible for the continuance of the deadlock.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 15. Coal strike negotiations are broken off. The Government will now introduce a Bill establishing a fixed minimum wage.

Special to Evening Telegram. BERLIN, March 15. The situation in the Westphalian coal regions, where upwards of 200,000 miners are on strike, is unchanged. Serious disorders are reported to-day from the affected districts. Two persons were killed at Wattenscheid yesterday by gendarmes. It has now developed they were workers at the mines, not strikers. The men were slain mistakenly by a police officer, who was shot twice in the face and received another bullet through the helmet.

Special to Evening Telegram. BERLIN, March 15. Herr Witte, the well-known aviator, was killed to-day. The biplane collapsed and fell, killing him instantly.

Zam-Buk Does Cure Piles.

Mrs. C. Hanson, wife of the proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, Poplar, B.C., suffered from piles for years. Went to doctor after doctor in vain. Finally went to Spokane and had an operation. Twelve months afterwards she was as bad again. She says, "One day I read about Zam-Buk and thought I would try it. The first one or two boxes gave me more ease than anything else I had tried, so I went on with the treatment. In a short time I began to feel altogether different and better, and I saw that Zam-Buk was going to cure me. Well, I went on using it, and by the time I had used six boxes I was delighted to find myself entirely cured." If you suffer from this painful ailment, or from eczema, ulcers or any skin disease, don't waste time. Try Zam-Buk 50c. all druggists and stores.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Willis H. Pike took place last evening and was attended by a large number of sympathizing friends.

Monday night we are promised a treat in the form of a play that is to be put on the boards by the local company that has accomplished such good work on former occasions. The play to be put before the public on Monday is "Hazel Kirk," one that has been played several times in St. John's. We are looking forward to a pleasant night.

The young man who thought himself so smart at the railway station a few nights ago by making a sound like a distant train, and thereby deceiving people, forgot to notice that he was smart only in his own estimation. Young man, that train can come in and go-off without your help.

Mr. Foster, an optician from Truro, N.S., is now here and intends starting business in this town. He has taken a premises on Water Street and is fitting it up for business. We wish the new firm much success.

Several of our industrious young men made good pay this week gathering mussels, and sold them readily at 20 cents a bucket. One man we heard of sold enough in one day to give him $3.00. Not a bad day's work.

An enjoyable time is in store for those who attend the sociable at the C. of E. High School on Monday afternoon.

Shannahan on Changing the Tune.

The Cute Man was down to see the parade and attended the meeting in the new hall the other night. The Cute Man says 'tis a pity Delaney and Tucker are so old, for they are just about going to kick the bucket when all the good things are coming along. The Cute Man says that it is fine to be a "son of toil" now-a-days, for on all sides you meet people tumbling over one another endeavouring to get at you first in order to do you some good. The Cute Man says we will be called the "bone and sinew" thousands of times before the next election, and now that we are likely to have four or five parties in the field, there's a grand opportunity for one of the leaders to discover a more popular term to apply to us.

Mrs. Tucker went down town to have a look at the ruins of Collins' fire, and on the way down she saw a big lot of bunting flying on Callahan the tinsmith's building. She backed off a bit to read the mottoes, and the next thing caught her eye was a man on the roof; on enquiry she learned that the object in question was stuffed with straw and supposed to represent one of the "bone and sinew" hanging out of one arm was a large size codfish, while a delapidated white coat dangled from the other. Mrs. Tucker says the body of the man was good and prosperous looking but he looked a kind of shaky on the legs, while the features denoted a scarcity of grub. Mrs. Tucker thinks that the day is gone when the "bone and sinew" should be represented by a worn out suit of cheap Canadian tweed stuffed with straw and a penny sack, and the people who think that this kind of a game is going to appeal to the electorate have the wrong idea of the feelings of the fishermen. This way of appealing for notoriety is as dead as Confederation, and an insult to the intelligence of the "sons of toil."

Mrs. Tucker says before now the fishermen of this country were looked upon as a class who were able to look out for themselves, but to-day the idea is that they are a class that needs the assistance of every cheap politician in order to save them from starvation. We hear no one get up and spout on the hardships of the St. John's tradesmen, no one loses any sleep in trying to make life easier and better for them; yet we all know they work harder and pay more towards the Revenue in one year than the fishermen do in three. The fishermen of the outports work about half the year and live better than the ordinary working man engaged in other lines of labor; still we don't hear any politician talk of bettering their condition. Mrs. Tucker knows men who have saved up life in the outports and come to St. John's to live, and who after being here for a few months found 'twas so difficult to knock out a living that they backed up their belongings and made tracks for the home if their youth is less than no time. The fisherman isn't the only pebble on the beach that needs attention. Where would the fisherman be were it not for all the other sections of the great army of toilers. What about the miners over on Bell Island, what hardships do they undergo and what concessions do they receive. What about the laborers of the city who have to work and drag from carb' morning to night in order to knock out a living, and only a living for themselves and their families; we won't hear here of any public meetings being called to address them and get at a way that will mean an improvement in their existence. The fishermen are absolutely necessary and we give them all the credit they deserve, but this slopping of sympathy over them by every man with an eye in a snug seat in the Assembly is becoming disgusting and 'tis high time to sing out for a rest. No one knows this, down in his heart, better than the fisherman himself, and what we want around here is for people of capital to work their brains and give the fisherman and working man, a fair show without waiting till some fellow with more gait than brains kicks up a dust, gets some better concession from the employers of labor, and keeps on prating about it till he lands himself in the House of Assembly, and becomes one of the makers of the laws to direct the intelligence of the country.

What about the miners over on Bell Island, what hardships do they undergo and what concessions do they receive. What about the laborers of the city who have to work and drag from carb' morning to night in order to knock out a living, and only a living for themselves and their families; we won't hear here of any public meetings being called to address them and get at a way that will mean an improvement in their existence. The fishermen are absolutely necessary and we give them all the credit they deserve, but this slopping of sympathy over them by every man with an eye in a snug seat in the Assembly is becoming disgusting and 'tis high time to sing out for a rest. No one knows this, down in his heart, better than the fisherman himself, and what we want around here is for people of capital to work their brains and give the fisherman and working man, a fair show without waiting till some fellow with more gait than brains kicks up a dust, gets some better concession from the employers of labor, and keeps on prating about it till he lands himself in the House of Assembly, and becomes one of the makers of the laws to direct the intelligence of the country.

Several of our industrious young men made good pay this week gathering mussels, and sold them readily at 20 cents a bucket. One man we heard of sold enough in one day to give him $3.00. Not a bad day's work.

15 Guinea Coat Wanted.

Capt. Adams who came out as guarantee man on the Sagona and went to the ice as navigating officer, reported at the police station yesterday afternoon that he had been victimized of a valuable brand new overcoat for which he paid 15 guineas in Glasgow. After the ship arrived Wednesday night Captain Adams accompanied by the Chief Steward boarded a cab and drove to the Crosbie Hotel. On arrival there the cabman was allowed to put off the baggage of the owner, the latter not troubling about the coat until Thursday when he went to put it on discovered it missing and has since been without it. The Captain claimed he was positive the article did not leave the sleigh, and yesterday afternoon accompanied by a police officer was endeavouring to identify the team he drove in, but 'cabby' was not to be found. Detective Byrne is now working on the case.

How to Grow Hair.

It has been proved that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-looked-for article is proven every day. This preparation is called SALVIA and is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed, SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. McMurdo & Co., your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into St. John's and a large generous bottle, can be procured for 50c.

Speech of Sir Robert Bond ON THE TEACHERS' PENSION SCHEME.

He Denounced It as Unjust, Inequitable and Preposterous.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

March 14th, 1912.

SIR ROBERT BOND—Before these Resolutions proceed further, I desire to express my views in respect to them. Education, with which they deal in part, does not require any lengthy effort to commend it to the careful attention and sympathy of this House, for every thoughtful man fully recognizes that it is the duty of the State to do all in their power to bring the advantages of a sound, practical education within the reach of the very poorest of its citizens. The only question that can cause conflict of opinion is, how best to accomplish the end that all have in view, namely, the creation of clean, honest, thrifty and intelligent citizens. But we are not called upon at this time to deal with this general question. If we were, then we might with advantage traverse the wide range of educational effort through Europe and America, and possibly in the educational system of Switzerland find the best model upon which to build, for that great educationalist, Matthew Arnold, declared that Switzerland possessed the best educational system in the world. If my memory serves me right, that State devotes about fifty-three per cent. of its educational grants in the direction of technical education. I could have wished, sir, that these Resolutions dealt with that subject, for I am convinced that the hope of this country lies rather in what shall yet be done in that direction than in the furtherance of what is termed "higher education." It seems to me that the principal aim of a higher education in this country should be to make fit the rising generation to fill the best positions in our industrial enterprise. In our factories, smelting shops, paper mills, mining industries, in civil, electrical and mechanical engineering, and also in the undertaking of agriculture upon a scientific basis. Our education so-called, will not—cannot—so fit them, and the result of this failure is that the stranger comes within our gates and seizes those prizes, while our youths have to go without our gates and become strangers in foreign lands. Last year in this House I expressed my views as to the desirability of our taking up the matter of technical education without further delay, and I intimated that this session I would bring forward resolutions so as to draw out a discussion on the subject with a view to something of a practical nature being done. Upon reflection I concluded that unless the Government were in sympathy with the movement it would simply be a waste of energy and time to do as I intended.

Now, sir, to come right down to the subject matter of the Resolutions before us, namely, Teachers' Pensions. It would appear that this proposed legislation is the outcome of a movement on the part of teachers throughout the Colony to improve their position. I do not think that they are going to have their position improved under these Resolutions. I think that when the teachers have fully considered them they must arrive at the conclusion that whereas they asked for bread, they are given a stone. Unless I entirely misunderstand the working out of the scheme proposed by the Government for the adoption of this House, the mass of teachers in this country will hereafter stand in a most unfair and inequitable position as regards those who hold first places or highest rank in the profession. Such a scheme as this should have been submitted to an actuary or other competent authority. It is quite evident to me that this was not done, and the consequence is this unjust, inequitable and utterly preposterous suggestion. I am aware that the Government consulted the Superintendents of Education in this Colony on the matter of this proposed scheme, but I am also aware from a perusal of the correspondence that passed between them and the Government that these gentlemen based their reply upon the assumption "that the figures furnished in connection with the proposed pension scheme are correct." They say so in their letter to the Premier of date January 5th, 1912. Let me state, sir, the actual position from my point of view, and it will then be the duty of the Government to show wherein I err. If I am correct in my view, then these Resolutions should be amended or withdrawn. If I am not correct in my conclusions, then, sir, I shall be delighted to have my error pointed out.

The present position as regards "the Teachers' Pension" is, that at the age of sixty years every teacher, male, after payment of certain annual premiums, varying according to age, secures an annuity of one hundred dollars.

The teachers in approaching the Government by petition suggested that at the age of fifty-five years, provided he had served thirty years, a teacher shall be entitled to receive an annuity of two-thirds of his salary at time of retirement. This suggestion was based upon the following reasons, namely:—

1. Educational success depends upon the work of the teachers.
2. That at present salaries are so low that teachers cannot save from their earnings to make provision for old age.
3. That large numbers of teachers leave this Colony owing to the smallness of stipends and present outlook as regards pension.
4. That new teachers have to be educated to take their places, and this makes a demand on the training fund of ten thousand dollars per year, so splitting it up that new teachers do not obtain adequate training.

There is force and cogency in the reasons advanced, but it might be observed that they affect the whole scheme of education, and form an argument not so much in support of the prayer of the petition as for a more equitable distribution of the vote for education under which the teachers would receive a larger stipend than they do at present.

The scheme which the Resolutions proposed by the Government are supposed to embody provides:—

1. That at sixty years, and after thirty years of service, a teacher shall receive two-thirds of his salary averaged over the years immediately preceding his retirement.
2. That the amount at present standing to the credit of the "Teachers' Pension Fund," under section 68 of the Education Act, 1902, shall be paid into the Treasury for the use of the Colony.

Now, sir, this is not in accordance with the prayer of the teachers' petition, or in accordance with the amended petition received by the Government from the Executive of the Teachers' Association.

The teachers asked "that the present" Teachers' Pension Scheme be discontinued, and that all the teachers who have claims on the fund be allowed to withdraw the amount of their claims; and that the balance of the fund then in the hands of the Government on account of Teachers' Pensions go towards a sick benefit fund for teachers. The amended petition sent to the Government by the Executive of the Teachers' Association suggested "that the accumulated funds of the present Pension Scheme—amounting to nearly sixty thousand dollars—be handed over to the Government as a nucleus from which to pay the proposed new pensions; and, that teachers continue to pay the same premiums as under the present scheme."

Neither of these proposals have been met, for the second Resolutions before us provides "that the amount now standing to the credit of the Teachers' Pension Fund shall be paid into the Treasury for the use of the Colony." On the other hand the first Resolution provides that "there shall be established a fund to be known as the 'Teachers' Pension Fund.'" This is apparently a new fund, but there will be no fund on the first of July next, the old one having passed into the general revenue, and nothing will be paid into the new fund until twelve months after July next. It is quite evident that the Government have become muddled in considering the two proposals and the Resolutions before us portray this fact. With regard to the proposed "new Fund," I would observe that the original teachers' petition does not ask for the establishment of such a fund, and neither did the teachers contemplate the payment of any premiums. They evidently desired and expected that the payment to the Treasury of sixty thousand dollars contributed by them to the "Pension Fund" and taken over and passed into the general revenue of the Colony for general purposes, was to be regarded as a payment in full of all demands, and that hereafter they would be placed on precisely the same footing as civil servants, who do not contribute anything out of their salaries towards their pensions.

What a keen disappointment then awaits the teachers under the operation of the Government's proposed scheme. The Government have adopted in this particular the recommendation of the Executive of the Teachers' Association, and in sub-section 1 of their Resolutions it is provided that teachers shall continue to pay the same premiums as under the 1902 Pension Scheme. Now without disputing the principle of the contributory scheme, there are two classes of objections to the adoption of the 1902 premiums in order to provide for pensions proposed under the Government's Resolutions. The first objection is that Schedule J. of the 1902 Act provided that teachers could be beneficiaries under that scheme by entering on the scheme at any age between sixteen and fifty, and serving up to the age of 60. In other words, the premiums are based on services varying from forty-four years to ten years; for instance, a teachers serving forty-four years pays an annual premium of $4.29; a teacher serving thirty years pays $10.84, and a teacher serving ten years pays $64.92; while under the Government's proposed scheme teachers are called upon to pay the same varying premiums and to serve for at least thirty years. That might mean that a teacher entering service at thirty years of age must pay for thirty years an annual premium of $10.84, while a teacher entering at fifty must pay for thirty years annual premiums of $64.92. In principle there is no reason for this difference, because the scale of Schedule J. is based on a varying term for payments and not on a fixed service of thirty years. The second objection is that the scale adopted in Schedule J. is based on the principle of all contributions receiving the same amount of pension, namely, one hundred dollars per annum. It is not only based upon a fixed pension of one hundred dollars but the contributors purchased by their annual premiums the annuity provided, whereas under the Government's proposed scheme the contributors receive annuities not according to the purchase value of the premiums, or according to their contributions, but according to a standard which has no relation whatever to the premiums they are called upon to pay. For instance, two teachers of the same age, say thirty years, enter at the same time; both are called upon to pay an annual premium of $10.84 for thirty years. The two teachers therefore pay into the funds exactly the same amount. One teacher however has an average salary during the last ten years of service of eighteen hundred dollars per annum in one of our colleges, the salary of the other teacher is say three hundred dollars per annum; under the Government's proposal the highly paid teacher would be entitled to a pension of twelve hundred dollars per annum while the poorly paid teacher would be paid only two hundred dollars per annum. Yet the poor man has contributed as much to the scheme as his richer brother in the profession. Does the Government deem this equitable or just? I deem this unjust and preposterous. The teachers I venture to say never contemplated such an injustice when they petitioned the Government for a redress of their grievance. I do not think that the Executive of the Teachers' Association contemplated it, and I should hope that the Government do not intend to inflict the injustice. I would prefer to inflict the injustice, I would understand the working out of their own scheme. The fact is that the working out of a proper scheme should engage the attention of an actuary. The Government have attempted what they are incapable of dealing with. That is entirely clear, I shall not further criticise these Resolutions until the Government have answered the positions I have set up, and if they cannot answer them, then the whole responsibility in this matter shall rest with them alone.

Collision in the Harbor.

Shortly before leaving port yesterday afternoon the Sagona, Capt. S. Winsor, while coming up the harbour collided with the boat Jean which was anchored off Davey's premises; as a result of the crash nearly all the stem part of the vessel was carried away. A couple of hundred dollars worth of damage was done.

All You Need is a Cascaret To-Night

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipated Bowels by Morning.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

ROSALIND'S LARGE FREIGHT.—The S. S. Rosalind sailing at midnight will be filled to the hatches leaving port this trip, as she takes a full outward cargo which includes fish, oil, herring, etc.

The Ingredients of Cakes.

These are—flour, butter, sugar and eggs, with perhaps milk, flavouring and fruit, and to make good cakes you must have sound and wholemeal flour.

The one who bakes at home can be sure, of these, and also of the quality throughout. After that, to take at home with success you must have a good raising powder. The raising powder is "PAISLEY FLOUR." It is mixed 1 part to 8 parts of ordinary flour, as a rule. It does the work of raising with certainty, and gives soft and even raised light and digestible bakings.

The 22c tin contains 14 ozs. and will raise half a stone of flour; the 14c tin contains 7 ozs. and will raise 3 1/2 lbs. of flour; the 5c tin contains 2 ozs. and will raise 1 lb. of flour.

The quality of their fabrics and trimmings is unequalled in popular-priced Corsets.

W. B. NUFORM CORSETS

are made of fine durable batiste and coutil, artistically trimmed with lace and ribbon. Their lines harmonize with your lines. There are no awkward breaks or angles, for they follow the natural lines of the perfect figure. They beautify and perfect, at the same time offering the greatest comfort. The large variety of shapings and styles enables every figure to be faultlessly fitted.

Try a W. B. CORSET and see how scientific corset making has produced a garment combining perfect comfort with the correct features of the latest mode.

Prices $1.50 upwards.

The Public Demand

is for prompt settlements in times of distress—when every dollar is in value as big as a cart-wheel. Ask any of my policy holders how long it has taken me to square up their losses. I am willing to stand or fall by what they say.

There's SOLID Comfort IN A CUP OF TEA.

Well, that depends.

And it all depends upon the quality of the tea if the Tea is flat and flavorless—no comfort.

But—if it has a deep golden brown color in the cup,

And—a fine, rich, satisfying flavor,

Then, you are sure of your solid comfort.

OLD HOME TEA combines a deep, golden brown color with a fine, rich, satisfying flavor, and full body in the liquor.

If you steep Old Home Tea carefully and according to directions enclosed in each packet you will surely get solid comfort and rare enjoyment.

One Cup Means Many More.

For sale at all Grocers.
