CHAPTER III.

LORD LASSELLES.

"No, dear, I could hardly be accused of that," she says, frostily.

"No, I don't think you could," is his reply.

It is already getting late, so we go upstairs to prepare for dinner. Theo comes into our room, ostensibly to see if there is anything we want.

"Theo," I say, sharply, "are you going to marry that man?"

"Certainly. Have you any objection?"

"Do you care for him?"

"I don't dislike him."

"Theo, you are telling a story!" I cry hotly. "I saw him touch your hand, and you drew it away as if he had been a leper."

A pained look crosses her face, but she does not answer me; she only stands quite still, waiting for me to speak.

"You absolutely hate him!" I cry, vehemently; "and you know you do! Is it possible you are going to sell yourself for the sake of a title and a little money?"

Theo shakes her head.

"For neither of these reasons."

"Then it is out of pique," I continue.

She shivers violently, and the same stricken look I had seen in the writing room at Eastwood Station is in her eyes. I wish I had left it unsaid.

"I think you might have spared me that," she says, with an effort.

"If I can forget it, you need not remind me of it. I don't think it is kind of you, Audrey."

In an instant my arms are round her neck; if I am hard-spoken, it is out of my intense affection for her, and I tell her so.

"Very well, dear; but we will not speak of this again. If Lord Lasselles satisfies me, no one else need mind his personal peculiarities."

Then she goes away, and I fling myself down upon the bed, and sob passionately. I am more convinced than ever, in spite of what Theo says, that she is miserable at the idea of her marriage.

"It's of no use trying to move

Theo," says Loys, from beneath a mass of hair; "because when we were little bits of things, she always had her own way with everyone."

"Yes," I reply, "even about cutting the doll's nose off."

"Well, then, after all, we might as well be civil, because, if she means to marry this man, she will, and it won't be pleasant afterward if we have been disagreeable about it."

All this is perfectly true; but I cannot help breathing a sigh to the memory of the time when we had seen Theo in love, and how different she was then.

"Ah, that's all very well," says Loys, slyly; "but, you know, we never saw that Arthur St. Clair, either of us. And very likely, after all, he wasn't good-looking at all. I never could get anything out of Theo about him, except that he was big. That seemed to be the chief attraction; and, between you and me—" dropping her voice and looking cautiously around—"I don't half believe he ever meant anything. I think Theo was excited, and fancied what he said in joke was real earnest. And, besides, just suppose she had married him—she might have turned out to be a pawnbroker; that would have been a nice thing, now, wouldn't it? I'm sure Arthur St. Clair is too fine a name for everyday life."

"Yes, perhaps it is," I admit.

"Well, now, this man—be certainly isn't much to look at, but he is a viscount, and is very rich, and he must be very fond of Theo, or he wouldn't marry her."

"No, of course not; but, then, if Theo doesn't even like him—and I'm sure she doesn't—"

"Oh, nonsense! Theo has grown older; and, besides, she has had enough of romantic impulses to last her lifetime. I should think it would never do for a viscountess to suddenly stretch out her arms and announce: 'Oh, he is splendid—he is splendid!' as she did about Arthur St. Clair."

"Ah, but she felt it so—why shouldn't she say it?" I ask, for I cling desperately to my own ideas of love, though I no longer see the advisability of anything underhand.

"Well," says Loys, as the bell for dinner rings, "you take my advice and hold your tongue about it altogether. Putting one's finger into other people's pies, never did any good in this world, and it never will."

I am afraid Loys is about right; but, I must say, I cannot see the force of her argument about the viscountess. Why, because a girl has married, or is going to marry, a nobleman, she should at once become inanimate and completely without impulse or feeling. I cannot tell, I make another vow, as we descend the stairs, not to marry a nobleman myself, if that is to be the necessary consequence of such a step; but there is no need to alarm myself, for most probably I shall never have the chance.

At dinner Lord Lasselles sits opposite to me, and I believe less than ever in Loys's theory. Certainly he does not do much toward keeping up the dignity of his rank. If I did not know him to be what he is, I should set him down as a third-rate lawyer, or something of that sort. Can that be the cause of Theo's stately dignity—because she feels the necessity of giving his share, as well as her own, toward the family manners? That is the most probable conclusion of all that I am able to come to.

When we three are alone in the drawing room afterward, Loys asks Theo when the wedding is to take place.

"On the first," says Theo.

"In ten days!" I ejaculate. "It's impossible, Theo!"

"Not at all," she answers, with a smile. "You forget I have known Lord Lasselles three months."

"Where did you meet him?" says Loys.

"In Brussels. He went with us wherever we went afterward and he came home with us."

"And he is very fond of you?" says Loys, just as she had asked about Arthur St. Clair.

"Oh, yes, very!" answers Theo gently.

"And how many bridesmaids are you going to have?"

"Eight—you two, of course, and I wrote to ask Helen and Gertrude Vincent. Then Edith and Rose Lasselles will make six, and two of the Rest girls have promised."

The Luttrells of Rest, whose father is the head of the family.

"And what are we to wear?"

"Well, I thought that Lasselles' sisters ought to decide, and they have chosen pale blue. It is rather strange—all my bridesmaids are fair."

"Have you seen his sisters?" I ask, after a long silence.

"Yes; we stayed a few hours in town, and they came to the hotel to see me."

"And what are they like?"

"Fair, and rather nice-looking. Lady Lasselles is very nice. I liked her extremely."

I do not ask any more questions, for it is on the tip of my tongue to inquire if they at all resemble their brother. I check the query, which would probably give offense, just as it is coming out, and saunter outside into the garden.

After all, there is no reason for me to be so very bitter about Lord Lasselles' appearance; it is Theo who wishes to marry him, not I. Beauty is but skin deep, and who looks for or cares about anything of that sort in a nobleman? With his wife it is different; everyone expects it.

Presently I smell the scent of a cigar, and Lord Lasselles comes through the trees toward me.

"Well, Miss Audrey," he says, as he gains my side, "and where are you off to at this time of night?"

"Oh, nowhere in particular!" I say, not very pleasantly.

"Better come to the stables with me," he suggests.

"I don't care about it, thank you," I say, civilly.

"Don't care about horses, eh?" with great good humour. I believe he is good-tempered; well, that is something. "Ah, great mistake, that! Only things worth caring for in the world!"

"Better than women?" I say, maliciously.

"Oh, pooh—nonsense! One doesn't care about women in general—at least, I don't. Don't you see, child, one admires all the fine horses one sees."

"Does a woman never care but for one man in her life?" I say, breathlessly.

"Of course, my child. Some people marry twice, but they don't put both of them on the same pedestal."

"Then what about the good woman who had two husbands, who, when the second one asked which of them she would sit beside in the next world, answered, 'Why, honey, I'd just sit between you?'"

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, June 26. The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times learns that, in the event of war, Roumania will take the field in support of Bulgaria.

KINGSTON, June 26. Eight Italians lost their lives in an explosion of dynamite, which occurred early this morning at a construction camp, about 10 miles from Pucham. Three bodies were recovered. The accident occurred in one of the Company's short lines.

LONDON, June 26. Queen Mary's adhesion to Victorian proprieties, is doubtless responsible for an edict issued by the management of the International Horse Show at Olympia, that all women competitors, appearing in the equestrian procession, before the King, Queen and President Poincaré, must use side-saddles. The announcement has awakened much criticism.

LISBON, June 26. A violent scene occurred yesterday in the Senate. Senator Arthur Costa, brother of Premier Dr. Alfonso Costa, objected to the remarks of Jose de Freitas, and advanced upon him. Senator De Freitas drew a revolver, and levelled it at the other's breast. For a dramatic moment the two men stood facing each other. Then several Senators sprang upon De Freitas and disarmed him.

LONDON, June 26. News comes from South Africa that a new flying machine has been invented, which will take a prominent part in the coming air race. The inventor, Shaw Hunter, of Kimberley, calls the machine an "Araucaria." It is a powerful affair, with a carrying capacity of fifty tons dead weight, 100 passengers in addition to the crew. Length, 300 feet; height, 45 feet, and width 22 feet. Driving force is by engines, aggregating 3,000 horsepower. He claims the machine cannot possibly capsize, that it will remain in flight ten days, and travel at a speed of from 50 miles, minimum, to 120, maximum, an hour.

LONDON, June 26. An indiscreet jingo speech made by General Count Gleichen, Commandant of the 16th Infantry Brigade, at the Lord Mayor's banquet at Belfast was referred to by Swift MacNeill in the Commons, who asked the Secretary of War if his attention had been called to it. Gleichen said that Kell Hardie, Carnegie and various Peace presidents said because they had a big army they had introduced militarism. He considered that people of that sort, however well-meaning must be suffering from softening of the brain. In another version he was represented as saying that he was delighted to know that the Government was bringing in a bill for the care of the feeble-minded, and would commend to their first charge Kell Hardie and Carnegie. Swift MacNeill asked if such language contravened the King's regulations, and what action was contemplated in the matter. The Financial War Secretary said that Count Gleichen had submitted a statement saying that the published account of his remarks conveyed an erroneous impression. He had expressed regret at certain references. Appropriate action would be taken. MacNeill then asked if he would have been an English General if he had not been a German Count. No reply was given.

Father's Lullaby.

Hush, my child, eat out the yelling! it will do no good, by day; for I fear there is no telling when your mother will return. Father's here to rock the cradle and to sing a dullest note of father's here, sweet child to lullie paregoric down your throat in your couch of wood and wattle take your rest, my little sweet, drinking cow's milk from a bottle, while your mother's on the street, tells about the Women's Battle for their Sacred Rights, by jing; here's your little wooden rattle, here's your silver teething ring. Ah, this imitation nursing brings to baby's face a frown, while your mother's nobly cursing laws that keep the women down. Milk from can and milk from bottle, and the milk the druggists make, seem to paralyze your throttle and to make your tummy ache; but my child, your mother's doing work too long undone, alas! She is storming round, and shoeing poor male critters off the grass. With her woman suffrage rables she is frothing at the snout, and she can't take care of babies—that's for dad, the poor galoot. So, my dear, be bright and chipper; sing and smile as fine as milk; father's here to pour a dipper of the predigested milk.

Tucker Asks The Campers

TO RETURN TO CIVILIZATION.

Tucker says that a deputation of citizens should be sent up on the South Side Hill to induce the fresh air seekers to break camp and return again to civilization. Tucker says the sun has refused to shine since the South Side Hill has been converted into a wigwam slope, and he further asserts that we will have cold winds accompanied by sleet on draught as long as we allow the campers to grig the Toronto man. There is an excuse for the campers this season, as the warm weather of April slightly unbalanced them, but they should "come in out of the wet" or there won't be enough of 'em left to hold a decent post-mortem on. Tucker knows there is a certain amount of empty pride about campers, for, although the Toronto man makes desperate efforts to turn them into icicles, still they will not give up the game for fear of being made a laughing stock of. But, Tucker says, we have a bunch of garden parties to run off this season, and if we want a change in the weather we must persuade the campers to quit, and if after getting a square show for their lives they still refuse to return to the bosom of their families, then the Rifle Club should take a hand in and compel them to take shelter 'neath a diamond quilt on a feather bed.

Football Match A Draw.

The Star and Collegians were the opposing teams in last evening's football match and, as anticipated, a close contest was the result. The game ended in a draw, neither side scoring a goal. The attendance was fairly good. Shortly after the opening it began to rain causing the ground to get slippery, the ball greasy and made conditions unfavourable for good football. Both teams got in some effective work, but owing to the players finding it difficult to keep on their feet the shooting was poor. Power, for the Star, and the Barnes brothers, for the Collegians, played well. The line ups were:—

Collegians.—Wernell, G. and A. Ayre, E. and H. Barnes, Pike, E. Ayre, Peet, Maddock, Squires, Barrett.
Stars.—Clare, Dunn, Hart, Kavanagh, W. Duggan, T. Duggan, Brian, Kelly, Power, Cull, Murphy.
Referee.—J. Miller.

Anarchist Was Posing as Priest.

Rome, June 16.—The notorious Neapolitan anarchist, Francesco Caccozzo, who mysteriously disappeared on Friday from Naples and caused much worry to the police, who telegraphed everywhere and watched all trains for the man, was arrested on Saturday afternoon, disguised as a priest, in the Chamber of Deputies. The pseudo-priest was sitting in the Straneri's Gallery, calmly listening to the debate when a detective noticed him and thought he recognized the anarchist. The detective stood behind the man and whispered the word "Caccozzo." Turning suddenly around the anarchist betrayed himself. He was taken to a police station and searched and put through the third degree concerning his disguise and the reason of his visit to Rome. He refused to give any explanation. The police believe he had sinister designs, as his visit coincides with the closing of Parliament and King Victor's departure for San Rossore. Caccozzo was unarmed, but had plenty of money.

It is officially announced that the following M.P.'s will visit Canada, Australia, and possibly New Zealand: Lord Emmott, Lord Sheffield, Lord Hill, Lord Castlemaine, Stephen Collins, Sir Hildred Carlisle, Will Crooks, Norton Griffiths, H. Cured Diseases of the Kidneys

And is Depended On, to Right, Stomach and Liver Disorders. Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago: "Mrs. John Wright, 23 McGee Street, Toronto, Ont., states: 'We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders.' "One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Notes and Comments.

We have had placed in our hands another case of "boosting" of Sir Edward Morris in the English press. Yesterday we commented on the extraordinary intelligence to which publicity was given in "Colonial Life." We have now before us the Financial News of June 5th. In it the public are told that Sir Edward "has been instrumental, since his accession to office, in giving new life and prospects to the whole commerce and industry of Newfoundland, by specially encouraging railway construction, by legislation, and by otherwise promoting the flow of British and American capital into his country. To him must be given the credit of bringing about the establishment of great paper and pulp industries and of mining enterprises, and of stimulating the agricultural and the great fishing industries."

Fergus Macrol might have taken this romancing text for the great romance about Sir Edward Morris and his work which he publishes in the Daily News this morning. These "boosters" of Sir Edward Morris do not however, agree among themselves. The regeneration of commercial and industrial life is assigned to different dates and different causes. Montague Blight assigns the commencement to 1898, and the cause to the Reid Deal of that year. From that contract, he tells us farming grew out of its infancy, mining began to be seriously attempted, and lumbering became an important industry. Indeed the effect was so marked and wonderful that the public at large now realize the wisdom of the Deal.

Fergus Macrol will have none of this. He dates it all from 1909 and assigns it all to Sir Edward. The Financial News gives some of it to the Grand Falls and Bishop Falls enterprises, but divorces all credit of these enterprises from the Bond Ministry as an administration and gives the whole credit to Sir Edward Morris personally. This is a surprising award of praise, but it all events shows how these "boosters" of Sir Edward Morris differ among themselves, and it proves in any case that the picture of stagnation before 1909 of Fergus Macrol is largely imaginary and not well founded on fact.

Fergus Macrol tells us that Sir Edward Morris left the Bond administration because the country was stagnant and the administration an incapable and do-nothing one. We would point out to Fergus Macrol that in making these statements he is impugning the veracity of Sir Edward Morris. He does this, we believe, unwittingly but none the less in clear contravention of the written word of Sir Edward. In his letter of resignation, Sir Edward assigned as the reason of that action, lack of loyalty to him, based on a charge that Mr. Gushue had misled him with the alleged approval of Sir Robert Bond, in regard to the decision to raise the pay of the Kilbride laborers from $1 to $1.25. Sir Robert, in reply, denied the charge, pointed out that he had authorized the increase and declared charges were untrue, and declared he was led to conclude from the frivolous cause assigned for the resignation, that Sir Edward Morris had been moved to that course of action by "reasons other than that set forth in his letter." Now in that letter there was not the slightest reference to the general policy of the Government, in his reply, Sir Edward Morris denied emphatically that he was moved to resign by any other causes than those alleged.

S. A. Revival Services.

There was another large attendance at the service in the S. A. Citadel, last night, despite the unfavorable weather. Mr. R. K. Barnes had charge of the meeting, which under his capable management was piloted to a successful issue.
After a short service of song and prayer, in which every one seemed to unite, the meeting was thrown open for testimony, led by Adjutant Harcourt, and as men and women rose and told of what great things God had done for them, many were made to feel that it was none other than the House of God and the very Gate of Heaven. After a selection by the Band which, although not up to its full strength, played with their usual whole souled spirit "Grace there is my every debt to pay." Mrs. Harcourt with guitar accompaniment sang "Heed the knock of the nail pierced hands." Mr. Barnes then read the Scripture, taking his text from Rev. 20: 12. The address was in every way a most practical one, and was listened to with rapt attention. His appeal to the men and women to heed the voice of conscience as the voice of God in the soul, went home, and in the prayer meeting which followed many rose for prayer.
Next Tuesday night, Rev. J. S. Sutherland, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, will address the meeting and will give a brief account of the great Presbyterian Congress recently held in Toronto, attended by nearly five thousand ministers and laymen from all parts of Canada and Newfoundland. That meeting will also terminate the special services and a most interesting and enjoyable time may be expected.

Brutal Conduct.

The brutal conduct of the Herald in connection with its report of the baseball match of Wednesday has set the city aflame. A young respectable player, an ardent and fair minded sportsman, had his name blazoned forth in yesterday's Herald as "Dummy" Ready. This young man was not born dumb, he lost his speech as the result of an attack of illness, and to remind him of his disability in such a brutal way is what the friends of the young man resent.

Footballers of the different League teams are loud in their complaints over the wretched condition of St. George's Field, which at present is covered with ruts. If a remedy is not made promptly some unfortunate player will break his leg, as was nearly the case last evening.

I have associated M. Frank Summers, Esq., Barrister and Solicitor, with me in practice at my office in the Board of Trade Building, St. John's, and from and after the 1st of July the firm will be known by the name of Morine & Summers. ALFRED B. MORINE.—jun27,3i LANDED IN CHAINS.—The story of the treatment of two stowaways on the Morwenna, told in the Sydney Post, has aroused adverse comment. The boys were 12 and 13. They stowed away and when found they smiled when reprimanded. They were placed under lock and key and fed on bread and water. They broke the lock to escape confinement and this led to their being landed in chains and placed in the lock-up for deportation. Such is the story of the Sydney Post. It must surely be exaggerated. Smiles and even the breaking of a lock, added to the offence of stowing away would not justify excessive measures towards boys of twelve and thirteen.

BORN.

Money Stolen.

Between six and seven o'clock last evening a man and wife, living in the West End, locked their house with their seven-year-old boy left all alone in it and went down town. Returning they found the doors still locked and apparently untouched but later discovered that the sum of five dollars and a half in silver was stolen. Somebody must have entered through a window but the little boy who was in the house all the time had no knowledge of it and did not see anybody. The police are now working on the case. The police condemn the practice of parents going out and leaving children of tender years alone in a house, as very often fire occurs.

Met With Accident.

Yesterday afternoon an American lady, a round-tripper on the S. S. Stephano, while taking a walk to Cabot Tower, on Signal Hill, to take in the sights there, met with mishap. She slipped and fell twisting and severely injuring one of her legs near the ankle. The ambulance was telephoned for in which the injured woman was conveyed to the Stephano and attended by a doctor.

Prince Had Good Sport

The special train which went out with Mr. H. D. Reid, Mr. Beech, A.D.C., Dr. Mitchell and Mr. Herb Russell, and in charge of Conductor Howlett, arrived here at 10.30 last night. The party were away on the West Coast for 10 days and met Prince Albert with Commander Smith of the Cumberland and eight of the officers of the ship at Bay St. George. The train proceeded slowly along and the party fished all the rivers about, including Robinson's, Harry's River and other noted haunts of the trout and salmon. Excellent sport was had and 50 salmon were caught, Prince Albert landing his share and some of them were 20 pounds. Those who were with him on this excursion say he is a fine jolly young man, with no affectation of manner, and as the weather was ideal he has a most favourable impression of the country. Mr. Russell was the only one with a camera and took several snaps of the Prince alone and the party also.

City of Sydney Arrives.

The Black Diamond Liner City of Sydney, Capt. McDonald, arrived this morning from Montreal via Charlottetown, Summerside and Sydney. From the latter port the passage was made in thirty-one hours, which is the quickest run made this season. She brought one-half cargo and these passengers: Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McIsaac, Mr. W. B. Savin, Mr. J. Kelly, Mr. J. O'Reilly, Mr. Roy, Mr. Young, Mrs. M. McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Dobson, Mr. A. Castle, Miss Castle, Mrs. E. Richardson, Miss M. Cleary, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dowling, Mr. and Mrs. Slipper, Masters A. Bruce, M. Winter, S. Bennett, E. Winter, E. Clouston, J. McGrath, C. O'Flaherty, Miss B. Moore, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Murray, Miss Lockhardt, Miss Ida Munro, Miss G. Booth, Miss S. Cairns, Dr. Russell, H. Tappan, Mr. and Mrs. G. Herr, Mr. and Mrs. H. James, Mr. M. Tobin, Mr. A. Small and three in steerage.

Invermore Tows the Home

The Invermore, towing the disabled s.s. Home, arrived here at midnight. The ship had a good run up to Nipper's Harbor. She took the Home in tow Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock and had a heavy swell all the way up with ice from Twillingate, Long Point, to Stag Hr. Run, where the ship and tow remained that night until 3 a.m. Thursday and resumed the run. When the Home was backing out of Nipper's Harbor a pin in the revolving gear broke, the engineer lost control and the ship went stern first in on the cliff. The stern post was smashed but the rudder did not receive injury, though a part of one of the blades of the propeller was knocked away. The ship will be docked for immediate repairs.

Fire This Forenoon.

At 9.30 this morning children in Mr. J. O'Neill's house, at the corner of Adelaide Street and Dummer's Lane set fire to the curtains, at the windows in the attic and in an instant the place was in flames. The fire burst out through the roof and it looked as if the house was doomed when the men of the city works, who were flushing a drain near, with their hose and in command of Sanitary Inspector John Beer, directed a stream of water on the blaze, and then forcing their way into the building hooded the blaze out. Councillor Martin, who was also on the scene, and officer Nugent, worked with a will, and all concerned in the matter deserve great praise. The sanitary men were drenched as they handled the hose. A good deal of the house was burned and some clothing and effects destroyed.

Be Yourself.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"And do you know, the speech he made at the audience... I was queer. It was a little friend of mine who had been to the theatre to see one of the most successful plays of the season, who made the above discovery. What one of us has not had a similar experience in one way or another? Because we are afraid that we will not be understood or will be thought queer, we suppress our real thoughts and feelings, and when we hear some braver person boldly speak out these same thoughts, or when we read them in a book, or listen to them in a play, and find that the world applauds, we feel that we ought to have had that applause.

But the applause did not belong to us because we were not brave enough to be our real selves. Doubtless many of the people who applauded that speech at the theatre so heartily did so just because they recognized their own hidden sentiments. Most of us have real worth-while thoughts and ideas inside of us, but only a few dare to bring them out. And that is one of the reasons why there are only a few successful men and women in the world. It is very hard for anyone to accomplish much in this world unless he is expressing himself in his daily work. Whatever we can do, we can do it best if we are natural. Anyone who spends his life imitating others and trying to conform to some general type, may win some measure of success but it will never be as much as he could have won if he had been himself. You see he is eternally hampered. He is like an engine that must use the larger part of its energy overcoming defects within its own mechanism.

Be yourself, be natural. In your intercourse with other people try to talk and act yourself. Say and do the different things you think of. I most emphatically don't mean that you shall deliberately try to be odd and original. Such forced originality is more artificial than any conventionality, but be natural and simple; be yourself. And not only will you get more out of life that way, but you will help other people to get more. For, if you are natural you will teach other men to be. Surely you have sometimes had the experience of striking a natural note with some friend with whom your relation had formerly been stereotyped and conventional, and of finding that he caught the note and responded in the same key, and that in the few moments or hours in which you held in the same key you came closer together than in all your years of intercourse.

To adapt a beautiful sentiment, "Be natural, and the naturalness that lies in other men, sleeping, but never dead, shall rise in majesty to meet thine own."

Ruth Cameron

Fashions and Fads.

The summer bathing cap is very ornate. It is large, has a becoming brim of silk and glories in flowers and ornaments.

The separate blouse of white chiffon has appeared. Some are finely tucked; others embroidered in white and colors.

The tennis girl is wearing gay, warm colors this season. They are very attractive in contrast with the stretches of green.

A pretty collar to wear with summer dresses is of sheer white linen, edged with a narrow pleating of lemon-yellow linen.

When selecting a gown, it is wise to purchase only those which have a distinguishing feature, and you will never grow tired of them.

The frocks of heavy linen are not so popular. The light-weight materials, such as voile, crepe, etamine and sheer linens, are used.

A hat for a young girl is of white pique with a border and facing of dark blue straw and trimmed with a rosette of white soutache braid.

Maline trims many hats. It is used in crisp, pleated frills around the crown, on the edge of the brim, and to hang rosettes around flower centers.

Snakeskin serge is new. It is dark gray with dots of red, black and blue over its surface. It is a favorite for outing and traveling.

Bargain gowns can be made distinguished by adding one or two novelty touches. For instance, the square neck can be cut to a deep V so fashionable now.

Have a bolero effect in your summer dress; combine it with an under-blouse of net or lace. This small jacket can be prevented from riding up by fastening it to the bodice.

Frocks for the young girl grow more and more charming. Tub frocks of flowered cotton crepe, pique, linen or voile are trimmed with lace or embroidered in dainty designs.

Cotton crepe in cool attractive coloring is a favorite for children's dresses. It is not easily muddied and presents a little lot in good condition after playtime as well as before.

Three-piece suits represent the best afternoon ideas in fashion. Ratine, brocade, sponge in silk and cotton form, in combination with lace or net for the bodice, very excellent results.

Some of the smart new gowns have a butterfly bow which finishes the girdle at the back. These vary in proportions from the small bow with the buckle center to that of huge dimensions.

A striking black and white costume is composed of white crepe de chine, trimmed with bands of black chiffon and alienon lace. A coatee of black chiffon lined with white completes the costume.

A charming fichu of maline lace is worn over a gown of soft silk or sheer material. The lace is draped in soft folds across the back and shoulders, gradually sloping toward the front, where it ends in two charming points.

PRESCRIPTION "A"

CURES INDIGESTION & DYSPEPSIA IN ALL ITS FORMS.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say:—Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing.

I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a bottle of Prescription "A". A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

Will Report on Friedman Cure.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Ont., To-Day.—In order to allay public excitement and afford the medical profession and people of Canada an authoritative statement regarding the value of Dr. Friedman's treatment, the Canadian Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis nominated a committee of five members to study and report upon cases inoculated by Friedman at Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and London. The committee reports it has carefully studied the histories of patients treated by Friedman. These number altogether 116, namely: For Montreal, 10; for Ottawa, 10; for Toronto, 31; for London, 25. As a result of the committee's observations from March 11, it finds the results have been disappointing, and that claims made for his remedy by Friedman have not been proven, and that nothing has been found to justify any confidence in the remedy.

The Day of Rest.

The King Opposed to Unnecessary Sunday Travelling.

LONDON, To-day.—The Duke of Sutherland died last night. He was, with the exception of the Emperor of Russia, the largest land-owner in Europe. His Scottish estates embrace nearly a million and a half acres.

QUEBEC, To-day.—The steamer Empress of Ireland left here yesterday afternoon for Liverpool with the largest number of passengers ever carried by a steamer from a Canadian port to Europe, 308 first, 330 second, 502 third.

PANAMA, To-day.—It has been decided to close the spill-way gate at Gaitun Lake on July 1, after which the lake will be allowed to fill continuously. On June 22nd it was 48½ feet. The maximum level will be about 65 feet and will probably be attained by December.

Buckingham Palace, June 9th, 1913.

To the Editor "Church Family Newspaper." Dear Sir,—The answer to the question contained in your letter of the 7th inst., is in the affirmative.—Yours faithfully, Stamfordham.

The King's praiseworthy attitude (adds the journal) is not a recent development. It may be remembered that Canon Bickersteth Otdley, the hon. secretary of the Imperial Sunday Alliance, who has done so much to form public opinion on the question, received the following message from the King in July, 1910:—"The King heartily sympathizes with any movement towards securing to working people rest on Sunday."

Banker Lands Sick Captain.

The banking schooner Cactus put into port last night, to land her captain, James Courage, of Catalina, who has his body and legs badly swollen. He has a serious internal complaint, as well as is suffering much pain. Dr. Roberts examined the patient who was brought to the hospital this morning in the ambulance. The Cactus is owned by Snelgrove, of Catalina. She was fishing on the Grand Banks and has thirty quintals of fish on board now. Her crew reports cod scarce.

THE CORONATION SPORTS.

The Inter-Brigade Sports Committee held a meeting last night in the C. L. B. Armoury, the officers of the three brigades being present. Matters connected with the Coronation Sports were discussed, and the sports will be held on July 9th on St. George's Field. All the brigade lads are now hard at work at practice and the games will be keenly contested.

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion. Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

PANAMA, To-day.—It has been decided to close the spill-way gate at Gaitun Lake on July 1, after which the lake will be allowed to fill continuously. On June 22nd it was 48½ feet. The maximum level will be about 65 feet and will probably be attained by December.

LONDON, To-day.—A Belgrade despatch to the Times says the crisis has been ended by the agreement of the ministers who resigned to resume their places in the Fashitch Cabinet. It is understood the Government is now preparing to report its case for submission to the Russian Government.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., To-day.—Anti-Jap sentiment at Hemet, a small town near here, manifested itself yesterday, when a party of citizens met an apricot picking crew of Japs from this city and ordered them to leave at once. The baggage of the Japs was thrown aboard the train after them. There is not a Jap in Hemet.

WASHINGTON, To-day.

With a view of averting the threatened strike of ninety thousand Rwy. employees in East Chicago, the Senate yesterday rushed through the amendments to the Erdman Mediation Act sought by railways and railway employees as affording suitable machinery for the settlement of pending disagreements.

LONDON, To-day.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst's medical attendant, Dr. Flora Murray, addressing a meeting of suffragettes in London last night, explained the speedy release recently of imprisoned suffragettes, as due to the fact that like Mrs. Pankhurst they adopted the water strike. The abstention from water, she said, compelled the authorities to liberate prisoners before they were poisoned.

MONTREAL, To-day.

Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, accompanied by his white wife, arrived at Montreal yesterday, coming direct from Chicago. During the day he moved from six houses where he had engaged rooms in an effort to evade newspaper men and the possibility of a clash with the immigration officials. Last night, however, he called at the Montreal Gazette office and made the following statement:—"I will remain in Montreal until next Tuesday, when I am booked to sail for Europe, and intend going direct to St. Petersburg, where I have a contract to fight Sam Langford and Gunner Smith. These fights will be pulled off sometime in September. Johnson is under a $15,000 bond in Chicago, pending an appeal from a sentence under the White Slave Act to serve one year in the penitentiary."

Big Shipment of Films for Rossley's.

There was not a vacant seat at Rossley's Theatre last night. And despite other attractions the Lorraine Buchanan Co. still continue to draw big houses nightly, they have given us some very fine acts. Billy DeVan excelled himself last night, by his wonderful singing; his rendering of Kentucky Babe and singing in a woman's voice was greeted with great applause. Harry Ingram also sang very well. Rossley has received by the S.S. Digby a shipment of splendid films. There are many feature films amongst them, and several beautiful Irish plays taken in Ireland, and all the very latest Graphics and Pathe Weeklies with other surprises in store.

Special Notice.

We take pleasure in announcing the appointment of Mr. Richard C. Power as our Newfoundland Representative for the sale of one of the most attractive securities that we have marketed during the long period of forty years in which we have served the investing public.

We refer to the 7 per cent. Cumulative Preferred Stock of the Maritime Mail Company, Limited, a prosperous corporation operating at St. John, N.B., with the largest output of any single mill of its kind in Canada.

This issue is unusually well secured by assets appraised at $160 for every $100 share of Preferred Stock, exclusive of the amount covering the Bonds outstanding. The earnings record of the issuing Company is alike exceptionally strong and rapidly expanding under the present efficient management. Two other desirable features are the 50 per cent. Common Stock Bonus and the alternative plan of payment, cash or instalment.

A fully descriptive circular has already been mailed to our many Newfoundland patrons. We advise these friends of ours and all other interested persons to immediately get in touch with Mr. Power, from whom additional copies of the circular and further particulars may be had. His office address is given below.

BELGRADE, June 26.

The official report says that when the Servians went into action, heavy forces of Bulgarians broke and fled, leaving many dead and wounded, and abandoning all the positions they had besieged in Servian territory. According to advices, 1,500 Bulgarian troops with 500 bomb-throwers, attacked the Servian position at Zletova. Eventually the Servians charged with fixed bayonets, and all along the line the Bulgarians retreated. The combined losses exceeded 500 men.

In honor of Alexandra Day, a bunch of roses was put up at auction yesterday, at Christie's, during the sale of Sir John Murray Scott's collection, and was purchased by Bond Street dealers for $42. Scores of peonies have been selling roses in the streets to-day, the money going to the charities in which Queen Alexandra is interested. London was a garden, everyone from the peer to the costermonger, wearing them. Every vehicle had pink and white flowers somewhere. Twenty thousand women acted as sellers. President Poincare paid $25 at York House for a small garland. No one escaped. Queen Alexandra, accompanied by Queen Mary, drove through the city. As she passed through the Strand, she handed roses, with which her carriage was full, to several poor people who ran out from the curb to receive them. As the two Queens drove without an escort, there was no one to hinder the receipt of them, and this incident was noted with much enthusiasm by the spectators.

Will Men Wash The Dishes When Women Vote?

Will men go to the kitchen when women go to the polls? Will they sweep and iron and scrub and darn? It might be almost worth while to have a man do these things if he would only dress as attractively as a woman does when the work is done.

Anything that would keep the average man from looking like the average tramp would be well worth while. And, if making him do housework for six hours a day will do it, by all means make him do housework.

Our men have not learned—or will not learn—to wear clothes. That is why any woman who goes abroad for a season comes back perfectly willing to sell her husband for cash or let him go cheap in part trade.

Now there are some thousands of you men, reading this little tirade to-day and it will only occur to about half of you that you are the one being talked about.

You won't look down at your own baggy pants; you won't stop to think of your own shaggy shirt and frayed collars; it will never occur to you that your own splay-shoes are under discussion.

You will probably stop for a moment and say, 'That's so; Newfoundland men are a pretty shabby lot as a matter of fact.'

But you are the one we are talking to. They are your pants and your shirts and ties and shoes that are under discussion.

So, suppose you take the lecture to heart and resolve to reform.

The advertising in this paper will show you the way. There is everything here that will convert you into a well-dressed man. Column after column of this advertising news is waiting for you now.

These ads will tell you just where to go to get the best to be had for the least to be paid.

Turn over these pages now. Read each ad carefully. Then take stock of your own careless clothes and go out and reform.

Students Use Soda Syphons on Professors.

New York, June 21.—A London cable says:

Lively scenes marked the summer graduation ceremony at Glasgow University, yesterday. Principal Sir Donald MacAlister, who presided, was accompanied by Lord Provost Stevenson, whose recent attitude toward Lord Roberts' campaign has been causing some feeling among the students.

When the civic chief appeared he was greeted with stentorian cries of "Put out the Lord Provost!"

Several professors left the platform and mixed among the undergraduates to restore order, but the students aimed themselves with seltzer water syphons and easily succeeded in routing the Professors. The capping ceremony was carried out practically in dumb show.

Bubonic Plague Raging in Hayti.

Port au Prince, Hayti, June 17.—An epidemic of bubonic plague has broken out at the seaport of Jacmel, 30 miles from here.

Numerous cases have been reported, of which many have resulted fatally.

Jacmel has been isolated from the rest of the country by a cordon of troops, and the government is taking energetic steps to prevent the spread of the disease.

The administrative authorities here, in spite of the detailed reports from Jacmel, deny the existence of bubonic plague there.

Rome, June 17.—The police have just discovered that a wealthy old man, named Benzullo, and his nephew, who disappeared six years ago, were enticed to a house and murdered by Camorristas, and that subsequently, the bodies of the murdered men were sent to the anatomical laboratory of the University where they were dissected. In this way all trace of the murderers was destroyed.

The Girl Graduate.

By H. L. RANN.

The girl graduate is a youthful adventuress who is not afraid to cross the Rubicon in a white dress and nubuck shoes. Every year the Rubicon is crossed in several different parts of the country in the presence of admiring friends and relatives who are in doubt whether the graduate is referring to a river in Brazil or a new form of concrete bridge.

For some reason or other, there are more girl graduates than any other kind. The average girl student puts in more time camping on the trail of the Latin suffix and the German umlaut than she does trying to locate the side pocket, and as a result she does not flunk in the final examinations with so much thoroughness and abandon. In some schools boy graduates are so scarce that the senior class can't put on a one-act comedy without compelling several of the members to don male attire.

The husband and father who graduates five daughters from the High school at one and the same time gets a fair idea of what it costs to own an automobile. Very little expense is attached to graduating a boy, as his trousseau consists of a two-piece suit and a string tie, but a girl has to have a change of costume for everything from the baccalaureate sermon to the alumni banquet. A neat, girlish effect can be produced on the stage by investing $42 in a simple white gown that can be laid away in a trunk after graduating and used as a relic.

The girl graduate usually has a very pronounced opinion of that popular form of peonage known as the state of matrimony, and will not consider any proposition to put her domestic science exercises into full force and effect by experimenting on the appetite of a long-suffering husband. This state of mind sometimes lasts for several weeks, and is succeeded by a change of heart, which calls for another heavy appropriation for dry goods. Nothing would reduce the cost of living quicker than a law compelling girl graduates to get married the same week they graduate.

Methodist Conference.

The annual conference of the Methodist Church is now in session at Carleton.

The first public meeting was held in the beautiful spacious Church on Monday night. Addresses on Temperance and Moral Reform were given by Dr. Moore, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of America, and Rev. Chas. Lench, President of the Conference.

The ministers and laymen arrived in large numbers by train on Monday night and Tuesday morning.

During Monday, several committees met dealing with various plans of the work of the church. On Tuesday night a large gathering assembled in the Church to hear Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite lecture on "Fifty years of Ministerial Life and Work in the Methodist Church." For more than an hour the Doctor held his audience and delighted all by his good humor and interesting reminiscences as well as by the good advice given the brethren in the active work.

The Conference assembled at 9:30 on Wednesday morning. The retiring President, Rev. C. Lench, addressed the Conference and reviewed the work of the past year. The most gratifying part of his report being that which related to the large increase of membership.

The officers for the year were then elected: Rev. James Wilson, on first ballot was elected President; Rev. F. R. Matthews, Secretary; Rev. J. W. Bartlett, Journal Secretary; Rev. C. A. Whitmarsh, Statistical Secretary; Revs. R. Maddock and W. J. Morris were elected Assistant Secretaries.

Rev. James Wilson has highly deserved the honor conferred upon him by his brethren. He has rendered the Church of God and Newfoundland splendid service during the last 338 years.—H.G.

Methodists Want Boxing in Prize Fight Class.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., June 17.—At the New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Methodist Conference yesterday afternoon, the Temperance and Moral Reform committee reported commending the Prince Edward Island government for passing nearly all the amendments to the Prohibition Law asked for by the Provincial Temperance Alliance, including forbidding treating on trains and in public places, also selling liquors to minors.

The report regarding the Criminal Code left the way open for betting and gambling. The Minister of Justice was commended for the anti-slavery legislation, and the report suggested asking the Federal government to make so-called boxing bouts a violation of the Criminal Code, putting them in the same class as prize fights.

Wellington's Black Trousers.

Knee breeches survived in fashionable quarters until well into the last century. They were ultimately displaced by trousers, but the trouser on its first appearance was a tight fitting garment—a sort of extension of the breeches from the knee to the ankle. Mr. T. C. Wright tells us in his book, "The Good Old Times," that "the Duke of Wellington was refused admission to Almack's in 1814 because he wore black trousers instead of breeches and silk stockings; but it would appear from a later reference that trousers were admitted to these fashionable assembly rooms in King street, St. James' in the course of the following year."

The bride was attired in a very handsome costume and was assisted by her sister, Miss Ellen O'Neill while Mr. Augustus Wadden, brother of the groom, attended that happy personage. After the ceremony and reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents after which the happy pair motored to Forest Pond to spend the honeymoon. Many pretty and valuable presents were received. The Telegram extends congratulations.

Stowaways on Board.

The Morwenna, which arrived in port last evening, had two young stowaways on board. The young lads, Thomas Rahall and Michael Kean, twelve and thirteen, respectively, belong to St. John's, Nfld. About ten minutes after the ship had cleared they were found in the stokehold, and when reprimanded, smiled as if at a joke. They were placed under lock and key in the steerage and fed with bread and water. They tried to escape from their close confinement and succeeded in breaking the lock. This caper landed them in chains. On the boat's arrival they were taken in hand by the immigration officer and placed in the city lockup. The lads will be deported on the City of Sydney, Tuesday.—Sydney Post, June 23.

Emigration.

A little controversy has recently taken place between the News and Telegram over the exodus from the Colony, the News maintaining that more are returning than leaving the country, while the Telegram asserts to the contrary. The Budget took the trouble a few days ago to make enquiries from the proper authorities for the correct figures, which shows that during the past four months 860 persons more left the Colony than returned.—Twillington Sun, June 21st.

Poor Whaling Voyage.

For three weeks no word has been received as to the success or otherwise of the different whalers operating on the coast. It is believed that all the steamers are poorly fished. Operations are retarded by adverse weather conditions. The total catch to date for five vessels is only equivalent to what one had this time last year. Whales are reported scarce and the present outlook is that the voyage will be the worst, without exception, in the history of the country.

Wireless From Kyle.

The Reid Nfd. Co. had the following wireless last night from the S. S. Kyle through Venison Island and Fogo: "Left Bolster's Rock at 1.40 p.m., wind S. fine; from Grey Island south ice off the shore; passed a large fleet of schooners off Venison Island bound north. Due at Battle Harbour to-night."

INSPECTED THE CONDUIT.—Yesterday the Premier and Mayor Ellis with Engineers Hall and Ryan went to the conduit and inspected the part which is defective, and the Engineers will decide as to the quickest and best means to make repairs. There is no danger of the city water supply being affected as the result of the defect in the conduit.

Not Stuck-on Itself.

The built-in—not stuck-on—tire like Dunlop Traction Tread is the only successful Anti-Skid. Manufacturers of the stuck-on type dare not make the corrugations big enough to prevent skidding without fearing to make them so big that they will destroy resiliency.

The Cheapness of Satisfaction.

The cost of the safety which you obtain by purchasing Dunlop Traction Tread tires is insignificant in comparison with the price of neglect.

Takes a Grip on the Road.

Dunlop Traction Tread grips the road. It doesn't matter where the road is or what it is made of.

Success is Always in Evidence.

We predict that Dunlop Traction Tread will become the standard Anti-Skid tire of this country. Watch the tires as the cars go by.

Have You Read "SPANISH GOLD"?

(By Geo. A. Birmingham.)

The most delightful novel we have read in ten years. You simply cannot help becoming enthusiastic over it, for the red-headed Curate of Ballymoy (the principal character) is one of the most droll and lovable characters in recent fiction, for ever getting his friends into trouble, and for ever laughing at them and blaming them out of them.

A sure cure for the blues and a tonic. The book is bound in cloth and the price is 50c. Post paid 52c.
