The Old Marquis

The Girl of the Cloisters

CHAPTER XVII.

SHE MUST BE MY WIFE.

The day wore on and Lord Edgar still remained in attendance. He waited impatiently and anxiously for Lela's answer, but Mr. Palmer did not return. The valet came in now and again, but the marquis seemed, though apparently dozing, to be so fully on the alert that Lord Edgar did not like to disturb him by sending a message to Palmer by the valet. Toward the afternoon, however, his impatience would brook no further delay, and approaching the bed, he said to the marquis, quietly: "Do you feel well enough to permit of my leaving you for half an hour, sir?"

The marquis closed his eyes in token of assent and Lord Edgar passed out. As he did so the marquis turned to the valet. "Send Palmer here at once," he said. Mr. Palmer came hurrying in, and the marquis handed him the note. "You could not find Miss Temple," he said, curly. "That was all, but Mr. Palmer quite understood, and went in search of Lord Edgar."

Lord Edgar hurried down the stairs, caught up his hat, and almost ran around the terrace. The change from the hot, darkened rooms to the bright, fresh air made him as excited as a school-boy; the thought that he should see his darling in a few minutes thrilled him with a thrill of joy, and made him feel inclined to shout, until he remembered that the slightest noise could be heard in the sick-room.

Vaulting over the coping he walked boldly toward the door, for he meant to have it out with the professor this time; but before he reached it he stopped short, dead short, brought to a stand-still by the sight of the shutters which Lela had drawn before the window of the sitting-room just before they left.

It puzzled and perplexed him, and the presentiment against which he had been battling all the morning returned with twofold force. But he put it from him impatiently and pushed

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

And Was Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Told By Her Mother.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For three months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I didn't know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. FROST, 516 Marcy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

If Child is Cross, Feverish and Sick

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver, and bowels so nicely. A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels and the result is they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhea. Listen Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

up wrapped in a fur dressing-gown. He looked up calmly as Lord Edgar entered, and with something like the flicker of a smile in his cold gray eyes.

Lord Edgar expressed no surprise at his improved condition, but came and stood in front of him.

"Are you better, sir; well enough to talk to me?" he asked. The marquis inclined his head.

"I will make the effort," he said, coldly. Lord Edgar hesitated a moment; then he said in a low voice, but with a steadfast gaze:

"Are you aware, sir, that Mr. Temple has left the Abbey for good?"

"Yes, I know that he has left the Abbey. For good, I trust."

"That he has left quite suddenly—this morning, in fact?"

The marquis inclined his head. "I imagined that he would not do so."

Lord Edgar stared, and his face grew paler than before.

"You know! May I ask, sir, the cause of his sudden departure?"

"Certainly," said the marquis, almost pleasantly, "though I would remind you that it is a matter of fact entirely his business and mine. You appear interested."

"I am, sir. Permit your man to leave the room."

The marquis nodded to the valet, who stole out.

"I am, sir, deeply, intensely interested."

"Yes?" Nothing could be more placidly freezing than the tone of this "Yes."

"I am so deeply interested that I trust you will give me every information in your power, both as to the cause of their departure and their destination."

The marquis could not repress a smile. It was the speech of a headstrong boy, and amused him. He was too unworthy to understand the torture which his son was undergoing; the torture of suspense and anxiety.

"Really, Edgar, if you will permit me to say so, your manner is rather impetuous and quixotic. Mr. Temple was a—I hesitate at the word 'servant,' let me say 'retainer,' and if I chose to dismiss him, or he chooses to leave my service, I can not see why you should be so unbecomingly excited."

"If you know—"

"But I will answer your question," went on the cold, impassive voice. "Professor Temple has left the Abbey because he considered a change of air necessary for his granddaughter."

Lord Edgar flushed, but waited.

"Ye—s," drawled the marquis. "She is an extremely pretty girl, and required a change. Perhaps you have not noticed her."

"Stop, sir!" said Lord Edgar, sternly. "Before you add a word more let me tell you what I should have told you ere this, if I could have found an opportunity. I love Miss Temple."

He made the declaration in a quiet voice, but with intense earnestness, and stood as if expecting a storm to break out from the marquis' cold lips.

But the marquis smiled serenely, and as he reached for a flask of scent said, quite coolly:

JUST THE DRESS FOR YOUR GROWING GIRL

2437—Here is comfort, good taste and good style. The model is nice for the new, pretty voiles, for dimity, taffeta, silk, batiste and dotted Swiss. The surplice effect on the waist is very pleasing. You may finish the dress with a belt over the back or with a smart sash of ribbon, silk or material. The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 requires 3 1/2 yards of 44-inch material. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

AN "EASY TO MAKE" APRON

2785—This model is nice for seersucker, gingham, lawn, percale, drill and jean. The body portion is finished with strap ends that are crossed over the back and fastened to the front of the shoulders. In this design, all waste material is avoided, and the garment is cool, comfortable and practical. The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 32-34; Medium, 36-38; Large, 40-42; and Extra Large; 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size Medium requires 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

New Relief For Constipation, "LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

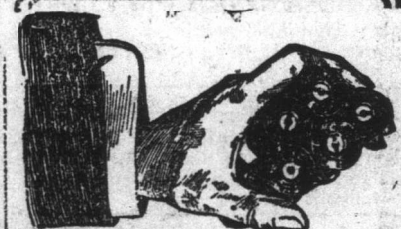

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandra leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.

Legislative Council.

The Council met at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The Committee Stage of the Elections Act Bill was gone through and was read a third time. While in Committee, Hon. Mr. Gibbs urged that the "voters' list" be taken, and also Hon. Mr. Anderson. The Bill passed without amendment, this proposal not being adopted.

The Committee Stage of the Loans Bill was marked by much discussion. Mr. Anderson thought it was wrong to order $250,000 for the Lunatic Asylum and nothing for the Poor Asylum. He thought a warehouse might be built which would be of more service to the trade.

Hons. Templeman, Goodridge, Harvey, Gibbs and Billis also spoke. The first saving money was being squandered as in the case of last year when about $30,000 was spent on fixing an office for a typist in the Court House.

The Bill passed Committee, and was read a third time next sitting.

The Rabies Prevention Bill passed Committee without comment, and also the Bill respecting Documentary Evidence and Extra-Judicial Oaths.

The Bills respecting the Department of Justice, and the keeping of dogs passed Committee.

The Compensation to Workers for Injuries Bill passed with an amendment to the effect that an Act would not become law until Oct. 31st of the present year.

The Ejection of Tenants Bill was deferred until Monday, after lengthy discussion, in which Hons. Squires, Gibbs, Harvey, Bishop, the introduction and Hon. the President took part. Hon. Mr. Squires did not object to the Bill in a more modified form being introduced. The Bill before the House would work considerable hardship and practically deprive the landlord of his rights now held by him. A similar view was taken by the other speakers, except Hons. Gibbs and Anderson, who thought the Bill would work out in its present form.

At 7 o'clock the House rose without passing a single section of the Bill, and adjourned until four o'clock Monday.

Municipal Council Report.

Subjoined is a detailed account of the City's expenditure and revenue for the year ending December 31st, 1918. The Mayor's Report, which lack of space prevents our publishing, contains much of interest, and no doubt will repay careful perusal. The Fire Insurance Profits' Tax, the Housing Problem, Sanitary matters, the Streets, the question of the War Memorial, the Charter and other important matters are exhaustively dealt with. It will be interesting to note that the report favors the erection of a monument of imperishable material in a prominent place in the city, which should bear upon it the names of those who have fallen in the war. The location of this monument should be that historic spot known as the King's Beach. The Council is prepared, as its share of the cost of the memorial to prepare the site suggested.

Constipation,
FRUITS"

Physicians agree that the modern habits of life, constipation is likely to be always with us. We also agree that the use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly requires a constantly increasing dose because the constant use of it goes up from the stomach. It will be interesting to know that an ancient re-discovery of a great success by Arabia far back in the history is called "Les Fruits" entirely of figs, dates, and raisins, each with the raisin leaf for the raisin if, not to say delicately satisfactory.

BRIEF SYNOPSIS.

PARIS, May 2. Peace Treaty comprises fifteen to twenty chapters, says Marcel Huthin of the Echo de Paris. The preamble is contained in the first chapter, setting forth the reasons why the various contracting parties entered the war, and mentioned the necessity for a League of Nations. The second chapter deals with the German Frontiers, and the third contains all connected with alterations of frontiers resulting in changes in the sovereignty of territory. The fourth sets forth the military naval and aerial clauses, and the fifth takes up the disposition of German Colonies. Other chapters are not as yet completed, but they will concern reparations, economic and financial questions, and will deal with the International Labor Legislation Treaty. The Treaty concludes with a chapter concerning guarantees for the execution of treaty conditions by Germany. M. Huthin adds, "There is every reason to believe that the German Delegation really has full powers over and will end negotiations by signing the preliminaries of treaty."

THE DAY.

NEW YORK, May 1. The Associated Press to-night issues the following: "The Peace Congress at Versailles has formally begun its sessions and the eventful day, which the world has awaited since the signing of the armistice on Nov. 11, last year, has at last arrived. The German peace delegates have met the representatives of the Allies and Associated Powers, and across the green baize table have carried out the first preliminary, which probably will mean a return to actual peace in the not far distant future. This preliminary was the handing to the representatives of the Allied and Associated Powers, by the Germans, of their credentials, certifying their right to act for Germany in accepting the Peace Treaty, which later is to be given them, outlining the terms, which the Peace Conference in Paris has decreed Germany shall meet, in order to secure that peace and a return of normal conditions, which Germany has professed she desires so ardently. Similar credentials of the Allied and Associated representatives then were handed to the Germans. Scarcely five minutes were taken up with the procedure. The formality of addresses was entirely dispensed with. When the brief ceremony ended the Germans immediately the Trianon Hotel Premier David Lloyd George of England, did not attend the function, neither did Premier Clemenceau nor President Wilson, who were represented respectively by Jules Cambon and Henry White. Lord Harding represented Great Britain, and Ambassador Matsui, Japan. The Italians were unrepresented."

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

COPENHAGEN, May 1. Munich despatches say that Bavarian Premier Heffmann has refused another request for an armistice, and insists upon the unconditional surrender of the Communist forces within the city.

HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT OUSTED.

BERLIN, May 1. The Hungarian Government has been overturned, according to Vienna reports published in the Berlin newspapers. The Hungarian Foreign War and Food Commissioners have arrived at Vienna with their families, and are supposed to have fled from Budapest.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

COPENHAGEN, May 1. Italian troops and war material are being landed at Sebenico and Zara, on the eastern coast of the Adriatic. According to advices from Spala, the troops are advancing eastward, and the Italians are bringing up reinforcements to the debarcation line.

OBJECTIONABLE IMMIGRANTS.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 1. From to-morrow, and until further orders, immigration of Doukhobours, Hutterites and Mennonites is prohibited. An Order in Council to that effect was signed by the Governor General this afternoon. It was passed under the provisions of the existing Immigration Act, with authority to this end.

MISS PANKHURST ARRESTED.

LONDON, May 1. May Day in England was celebrated peacefully. The only untoward demonstration was when Sylvia Pankhurst and some supporters tried to force an entrance into the House of Commons. The police prevented the entry and arrested Pankhurst.

CELEBRATION RESULTS.

PARIS, May 1. At eighty thirty-to-night calm had been restored in the city, following a few disorders of the day, in which three were killed, twenty-six wounded and one hundred and fifty arrested.

MISERABLE MUNICH.

BERNE, To-day. Artillery fire of German Government troops is audible in Munich, and constantly creeping nearer, according to private advices, and the misery of the people is said to have reached an unbearable point.

POLICE SUFFER MOST.

PARIS, May 2. Two hundred and fifty policemen were hurt, one seriously, during yesterday's disorders, according to preliminary reports. One person was killed.

GOVERNMENT HAVE MUNICH.

PARIS, May 2. Bavarian troops captured Munich from the Communists Thursday morning, according to advices received to-day.

ALLIES WILL DECIDE.

PARIS, May 2. The naval terms to be embodied in the Peace Treaty, when finally completed, do not provide for the sinking of larger German warships, but disposition of these vessels is left to be decided upon later by the Allies.

Five Million Died of Spanish Influenza. London, April 25.—Almost five million persons have died in British India from Spanish influenza, and fully a million others are believed to have died in the native states from the same cause, according to a report of the Indian government made public here. The area affected contained a population of 238,026,240, and the number of deaths was 4,899,725, or 20.6 deaths per thousand. In a few months, it is observed, influenza has claimed half as many victims as in the dread plague in a period of twenty years.

ORIGIN OF JAZZ.

How many people know the real meaning of the word Jazz? Authorities on Jazz dancing say it is a word used by niggers to denote a scramble. The dance itself has been known in the Southern States of America for many years. Crude and vulgar, it is performed by niggers to the accompaniment of two or three banjoists and a drummer, whose chief business is to make noises. In fact, the dance has been defined as "a number of niggers surrounded by noise."

Some possibilities were seen in it of a music-hall turn for New York, and it was performed there with an augmented band of twenty banjoists, several sither players, and a drummer, whose acrobatic antics in producing noise brought down the house and made the band so popular that it was promptly multiplied.

Band and dance eventually found their way to this country, and it is sometimes said rather unkindly that some white people have made the dance scarcely less vulgar than the blacks.—Ex.

Mr. F. J. Canning Returns.

Mr. Fred. J. Canning, of Geo. M. Barr's, who has been in the States for the past couple of weeks, returned by the Sackem yesterday. Mr. Canning states that the American interest in the Transatlantic flight is very keen, and Newfoundland as a consequence, much in the limelight. The correspondents' reports to their papers have been so filled with the bad weather news that it has become quite a joke there, and it must be confessed that our reputation, as far as climate is concerned, will suffer. It always does seem to happen that, when there are any foreign journalists here the weather is vile, and a very bad impression is left on their minds. The weather man should try and behave at such times.

Sudden Seizure.

An employee of Anderson's while in the "Evening Advocate" office this morning, was suddenly seized with some kind of a fit, and fell to the floor. Restoratives were applied and the man was quickly brought to consciousness.

From Cape Race.

Special to Evening Telegram. CAPE RACE, To-day. Wind north, fresh weather, dull; two steamers, a tern schoer, and ten other schooners passed in this a.m.; several ice bergs are in sight all grounded; Bar. 29.95; Ther. 48.

C. C. C.—A good attendance of members turned up at the C. C. C. Armoury last night for the C. C. C. weekly meeting. Many returned soldiers were present and displayed interest in increasing the ranks of the Brigade. Major Garty was in charge and various drills were performed by different squads and companies. The C. C. C. promises to increase materially in the future.

SCHOONER SPRINGS LEAK.—The Deputy Minister of Customs received word to-day that the Onato from Oporto to New York, put into Burin for repairs, being in a leaky condition.

The Charm o

By RUTH

RUTH CAMERON

There are some people who always regard a rainy day as a complete loss in the calendar of their existence. It is not so with me.

Without being polyanish about it I can really see several reasons to be glad of an occasional rainy day.

In the first place, there is the very obvious reason that the dullness of the rainy day sets off the jewel day that follows. Is there anything in the world lovelier than the rain-washed brilliance of a morning in May or October following a period of rain?

But quite aside from its value as a foil, the rainy day to my mind has a rich charm all its own. When I awake to the pattering of rain on the roof and go to my window and see bare boughs tossing in the rain and great clouds hanging low in the sky and the earth rich and dark with the dampness, I feel a certain sense of contentment and affluence.

A Rainy Day Seems To Have More Time In It.

It would be difficult to tell just what causes this feeling. Perhaps it is partly founded on a notion which I have never been able to rid myself of, that a rainy day has more time in it than other days. If I am in an energetic mood I briskly decide to utilize this unexpected time wealth in attending to one of those ever waiting special tasks—the cleaning out of a trunk in the attic, the reorganization of those top shelves in the china closet, the filing of accumulated bills. If I am in a lazy mood I look upon the rainy day as a heaven-sent opportunity to browse and dream and renew my soul in a way I should never think of doing in the routine atmosphere of sunshine.

The Delicious Shut-In Feeling. There is one queer contradiction in my feeling towards a rainy day. I love the shut-in feeling—there is a piece of romance about it that calls for an open fire even in summer; it suggests the lonely countryside and

The Charm of a Rainy Day.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON.

There are some people who always regard a rainy day as a complete loss in the calendar of their existence. It is not so with me. Without being polyanth about it I can really see several reasons to be glad of an occasional rainy day. In the first place, there is the very obvious reason that the dullness of the rainy day sets off the jewel day that follows. Is there anything in the world lovelier than the rain-washed brilliance of a morning in May or October following a period of rain? But quite aside from its value as a foil, the rainy day to my mind has a rich charm all its own. When I awake to the pattering of rain on the roof and go to my window and see bare boughs tossing in the rain and grey clouds hanging low in the sky and the earth rich and dark with the dampness, I feel a certain sense of contentment and affluence.

A Rainy Day Seems to Have More Time in It.

It would be difficult to tell just what causes this feeling. Perhaps it is partly founded on a notion which I have never been able to rid myself of, that a rainy day has more time in it than other days. If I am in an energetic mood I briskly decide to utilize this unexpected time wealth in attending to one of those ever waiting special tasks, the cleaning out of a trunk in the attic, the re-organization of those top shelves in the china closet, the filing of accumulated bills. If I am in a lazy mood I look upon the rainy day as a heaven-sent opportunity to browse and dream and renew my soul in a way I should never think of doing in the routine atmosphere of sunshine.

The Delicious Shunt-In Feeling.

There is one queer contradiction in my feeling towards a rainy day. I love the shut-in feeling,—there is a spice of romance about it that calls for an open fire even in summer; it suggests the lonely countryside and the old days before towns and good roads and automobiles and telephones had substituted intimacy for isolation. In a paler way it reflects the snowstorm spirit "all friends shut out, the housemates sit around the radiant fireplace enclosed in a tumultuous privacy of storm."

On the other hand—and here lies the contradiction—I also love to get out and walk in the rain. When I owned a horse I liked nothing better than a ride in the rain,—repeating aloud, now and then, when a deserted road kept my sanity safe from question, Kipling's glorious line "the smell of the wattle at Lichtenburg 'tides' in the rain" (I don't know what is "wattle" or where "Lichtenburg" is, nor who rode in the rain, nevertheless, I love the sound of that line.)

But I Don't Like the Day of Unshed Tears.

I love sunshine and I love rain (if it does not last too long) but there is one kind of a day that I don't like. I don't like the gloomy uncertain day, that can't make up its mind to anything, that tries to rain and can't and tries to clear off and can't. There is the sadness of unshed tears in the lowering day and, of course, you know that the sadness of tears is peace and happiness compared to the sadness of the tears that lie heavy in the heart and cannot find their way out.

Will Germany Refuse to Pay?

What will happen if the Germans refuse to sign the peace treaty, if they simply fold their arms and decline to do anything?
Had Germany won, and had France then tried this method, France would have been made a desert and the survivors among her people would have been reduced to slavery.
Such a remedy, however, is hardly open to the Allies. They might destroy Berlin and one or two other Teutonic cities as an object lesson, but that is about as far as public opinion would allow them to go.
What else can they do? That they would occupy Germany, is unlikely. The consent of the Allied armies would be necessary for such a course, and the soldiers are too anxious to get home.
Economic pressure can be applied, but will it do the work? German foreign trade can be prevented from reviving, except with Russia, which pays in paper money of doubtful value. But if the Germans are really willing to live by themselves and to remain practically shut off from the rest of the world rather than make reparation, they have to be allowed to do it until they change their minds.

Of course their threat to convert the Allied armies of occupation to Bolshevism is the wildest nonsense. The people in the western democracies are far from being satisfied with things as they are, but they know that greater progress can be attained by utilizing the existing electoral machinery than by volcanic eruptions.

LIFE'S GARDEN.
My dream is of a garden fair where perfect roses bloom.
Where peonies and columbine send forth their sweet perfume.
In fancy I can see the yard as I would have it be Aglow with life and loveliness, but sorrow comes to me
For notwithstanding all the care and labor I bestow
Among the roses day by day the weeds contrive to grow.

I battle with the stubborn soil with each returning spring
New hopes of conquering, the target unto the task I bring.
I have in mind a garden fair that shall some day own
Where only beauty shall be found and nothing rank is known.
And yet despite my hope of joy and all my visions fair
I find the burdock springing up and thistles growing there.
How like a garden is my life, how different from my dreams
Of what I hope to make of it, is that I really seem.
I pledge myself to what is best, in fancy I behold
A work that I shall smile to see at last when I am old.
And yet the dream is far away for in among the deeds
That shine like roses, I can see the tangled growth of weeds.

Wise Men Say—
That good manners and good morals are companions.
That industry is the key to success.
That there's no time to begin like the present.
That the boat built to carry another man's cargo may capsize under yours.
That the worst use that can be made of success is to boast about it.
That gossip has no use for people who refuse to furnish material for them.
That a man always making excuses leaves himself no time to make anything else.
That a man sometimes longs for tomorrow because he is ashamed of what he didn't do to-day.
That it is a shallow mind that suspects or rejects an offered kindness because it is unable to discover the motive.
That the man who never made a success of anything in his life always wonders why other men do not heed his advice.

Fashions and Fads.

Striped handkerchief linen is excellent for the afternoon gown.
Yellow and silver lame combine to make a most attractive gown.
Raspberry, lemon, almond, are the newest colors for summer frocks.
Long peasant blouses of heavy white linen are embroidered in black.
Loops of narrow leather appear on the handles of the latest umbrellas.
Taffeta afternoon dresses wholly of black have a distinction all their own.
The new-fashioned "fitted" bodice has neither bones, seams nor corsets. Smart is the white organdie collar edged with white linen cut on the bias.
Printed toile de Jouy is used by the French for blouses for tailored suits.
Short, full, box-pleated skirts are a feature of many of the new suits.
Full box pleatings of fabric are often used instead of belts around the waist.
Jet and metal embroideries are appearing on tailored serge suits and dresses.
A novel train is made of six great ropes of pearls which start from the waist.
Waistlines are often very bulky.
Apron tunic fronts are heavily embroidered.
Buttons travel up the front of a dress, and down the back, in a continuous line.
Evening gowns are still very daring in décolletage, some having no material whatever under the arms.
A double skirt of black tulle and a bodice of beige etamine embroidered in silver composes an attractive costume.
Black on white predominates over every color combination for afternoon gowns; and next to it comes jade green.
Put a strong solution of washing soda, followed by clean, hot water, down the bathroom pipes at least once a month.

Novel Submarine Indicator.

One of the many inventions used in the war against submarines was of a grimly humorous nature. This was the indicator net.
In its early form it was a fabric of fine wire, which, when run into by a submarine travelling below the surface, was dragged from its moorings and remained attached to the enemy, accompanying him wherever he went, not impeding his progress, and possibly unnoticed by him, but dooming him to destruction. For attached to this net by a long line was a buoy containing a torch which was ignited automatically when the strain of the tow came on the buoy. So the unconscious enemy travelled on underneath announcing his presence by the flaming torch which accompanied him overhead.
In practice the operation was by no means always so simple or so successful. But that early type of indicator net has been superseded by a much more deadly invention.

Shirt as Writing Paper.

Quite a romance attaches to the original manuscripts of several books that are to be published shortly.
One novel, with an after-the-war plot, was written by two officers belonging to the Royal Air Force and Sutherland Highlanders respectively while they were prisoners of war in the hands of the Turks. The difficulties they had to overcome in order to obtain paper were tremendous, and when the book was eventually finished it had been written down on the backs of old letters, paper taken from parcels, and—a piece of a one-time white shirt.
Another author, repatriated from Germany before hostilities ceased, had his manuscript taken from him by the frontier guards on the German-Dutch border. It has just come to hand from Berlin, our authorities having been the means of securing its return to its rightful owner.

SONG OF PRAISE.

Oh, the day is bright and sunny, and the winter-time is gone, and I'm chipper as a bunny that is playing on the lawn; all cares and woes are banished and I'm standing on my head, for the wintertime has vanished and it didn't leave me dead. Many things there were to fret me when the winter days were here; punk diseases tried to get me and to lay me on my pier; I had jaundice and rheumatics till I almost gave up hope, and the doctors combed their attics, raking up all sorts of dope. I had itchy and bilious fever and a lot of other ills, and the druggist, like a beaver, worked hard, compounding noxious pills. Every hour I sought the basement, there to feed the furnace coal, which was shoveled through the casement by a man who got my roll. And my uncle saw me daily, soaking pictures from my wall, which I'd purchased blithely, gayly, in the summer and the fall. Oh, for winter there's no pardon, and I'm glad the blamed thing's gone, as I woop around my garden, turning dingsprings on the lawn. When this ding-donged poem is written, I shall bust a lot of chairs, for I'm happy as a kitten, and I have no woes or cares.

Outport Sentiment.

"I can assure you that we would be only too pleased to do everything in our power to assist you in defeating the present Government."

The foregoing expression taken from the letter of an esteemed correspondent may be said to crystallize the sentiment in the outports, a sentiment which is the national outcome of popular hostility against the Government of the day.

Land and water traffic during the over four years of war was regulated by law, and as certain curtailments were placed upon the latter, the volume of haulage over the main line of railway from Port aux Basques to St. John's was enormously increased.

The Rhodes Scholarships.

The Rhodes Trustees announce that the election of scholars will be resumed this year, when there will be an election for two candidates to fill up the scholarships for 1918 and 1919.

Next year the Trust again proposes to choose two candidates for 1920 and 1921, after which the annual elections will resume their normal course.

Candidates must be British subjects and unmarried. They must have passed their nineteenth birthday but must not have passed their 25th birthday, on the first of October of the year for which they are elected.

Candidates must have had two years of training at some degree-granting University or College, or a course of study accepted by the Trustees as an equivalent.

The Trust is very anxious, other things being equal, to give first consideration to men who have showed their patriotism by going on active service.

Amongst those applying there may be some who have not been able, on account of service, to get the two years of university life required by the regulations. Oxford has arranged to excuse such men from Responsions, and the Trust thinks that they should be allowed to compete.

On the other hand the local committee has been strongly urged not to select anyone who by the want of preparatory training is not fairly prepared to get good results from a course at Oxford.

Men who have not been on service will be expected to meet the University requirements.

The Scholar elected for 1918 will be expected to go into residence not later than January 1920. The one elected for 1919 will take up work in Oxford in October 1920.

Applications for the 1918 scholarship to be accompanied by ten copies of certificates and testimonials should be made to the undersigned not later than July 1st of this year.

The candidate for 1918 will be eligible if he were not more than 25 years of age on October 1st, 1917. The date for receiving applications for the 1919 scholarship will be announced later.

STOLE MONEY.—A few nights ago a young man visited a schooner in the harbor and pleaded that he was less, and the skipper offered him night's lodging aboard. While the man was eating breakfast the next morning, the captain went to the fore-cabin and on returning to the cabin found his visitor gone, and also $10.00 which had been in a pocket of his trousers in the cabin. Thus was his honesty and kindness repaid.

The Superior Sex.

I know a guy,
Who is very fast.
When dressing himself,
And the other night,
He and his wife,
Were going out.
To shake their feet,
At Lester court,
So they both retired,
To their private kennels,
And started dolling,
For the dance,
And pretty soon,
This friend of mine,
Called to his wife,
I'm nearly ready,
Shake it up,
And she replied,
For goodness sake,
I've only started,
Putting 'em on,
And pretty soon,
This friend of mine,
Took his overcoat,
And buckled the belt,
Fixed his hat,
And went in to see,
Why his wife,
Was so darned slow,
And she looked around,
And let a whoop,
And sat on a stool,
And laughed and laughed,
And laughed and laughed,
And he got sore,
And said: Haw! Haw! Haw!
Funny, ain't it?
And she held her sides,
And wiped her eyes,
And pointed down,
Towards his feet,
And he looked down,
And then he said,
For the love pete,
I must be nutty,
For he was dressed,
Ready to go,
Only he hadn't,
His trousers on.

Forgotten Money.

Strange though it may seem to some, there are many thousands of pounds lying unclaimed in British banks. In some countries it is compulsory for bankers to publish particulars of these dormant accounts, but the rule does not hold here. There have been many instances where a woman—for this happens less frequently in the case of men—has saved up a nice little sum and deposited it in the bank, without saying a word about it to her relatives. Perhaps she hides the receipts in some secure place, and at her death, if she leaves no will, no one knows of the existence of the money. Other unclaimed accounts are due to a misapprehension on the part of depositors. They lose their receipts, and imagine that they cannot claim the money without them. Yet another class must be set down to sheer neglectfulness. The depositor adds up the amount of the cheques he has drawn, and calculating that there is nothing further owing him, he imagines his account to be closed. He may have neglected the interest given by some banks on current accounts.

There's Gold in Sea-Water.

That there is gold in the sea is well known. Someone has even taken the trouble to compute the approximate amount. Every ton of seawater contains about one grain of gold. Every cubic mile of the ocean contains 4,304,650,000 tons and the oceans are estimated to hold at least 302,000,000 cubic miles of water. There are, therefore, 1,270,106,300,000,000,000 tons of salt water, and it is a simple arithmetical calculation to determine that this contains something like 90,000,000,000 tons of gold. A little fortune, surely, for the man who knows how to get it. It has been asserted that a process for the precipitation and collection of gold thus held in solution has been perfected. But the method is not practical on a commercial scale. The difficulty is how to avoid working the same water over and over and over again. Plainly every ton of seawater than is robbed of its gold must go back again into the ocean. There it would dilute the gold contents until by and by, each ton would yield a constantly diminishing fraction of a grain of the precious metal.

Assumes New Position.

Mr. S. J. Hefferton, for some time on the reportorial staff of the Telegram, leaves this paper to-morrow to assume the editorship of the "Industrial Worker." During the time Mr. Hefferton has been with the Telegram, he has proven himself to be a brilliant writer, and this coupled with his keen grasp on matters concerning the general labor questions of the day, will undoubtedly fit him to fill the position he is about to assume. Mr. M. J. James, late editor of the "Industrial Worker," has, we understand, vacated his position there on account of a difference of opinion with those responsible for the publication. We wish Mr. Hefferton much success in his new undertaking.

WE ARE EXCLUSIVE AGENTS FOR NEWFOUNDLAND.

BISHOP, SONS & COMPANY, LIMITED

House of Assembly.

(Yesterday.)

The House met at 3.30 p.m. Petitions were presented by Messrs. Stone and Abbott.

The Colonial Secretary tabled the annual statement of the Reid Nfld. Co. to June 30, 1918.

Mr. Currie gave notice of questions for to-morrow.

The following questions were asked:-

(1) Mr. Currie-To ask the Hon. Colonial Secretary if the Reid Newfoundland Company have presented a claim against the Government, on account of, or arising out of the 1910 Railway Contract, and if so, to state the nature of such claim, and what sum of money is alleged to be due the said Company, also if the Government has recognized the claim by making any payment on account of same or has promised that any such payment shall be made during the current year.

Answer 1-The Reid Newfoundland Company sent in a statement of accounts on 6th August 1917 in connection with the Branch Railways Construction Contract of 1910. The account can be divided into three classes (a) with reference to balances unpaid on the general contract which is simply concerned with the payment of $15,000.00 per mile for each mile built on each Branch Railway. None of the Branches has been accepted as completed, and the Company alleged that the Government Engineer has not paid sufficiently for the work done, in other words he was retaining too much money to cover cost of completion out of the definite and fixed sum to which they will be entitled when the railways are completed; (b) items which are considered extra work under the terms of the Contract regarding which disputes existed between the Company and the Government Engineer as to measurement or price, or both; and (c) items not considered as extras by the Government Engineer, but as portion of main line contract embraced in the figure of $15,000.00 per mile. There was also a request that the Company be paid for lands to which they are entitled in cash at the price fixed by the Contract. As regards (a) the Government took no action as the Government Engineer is the sole judge of how much money to retain to complete the works; (b) and (c) in the matter of extras the Government had both parties appear before them and argue the points at issue, after which they decided how the Government Engineer should deal with the matters in dispute.

As regards payment in cash in lieu of lands, the Government exercised their option under the contract and acceded to the request of the Company.

In all the Company alleged (omitting the "Cash for Land" claim that $685,041.28 were due them, of which amount a sum of $132,546.94 was paid them without prejudice. No further payment on account has been promised this or any other year.

(2)-To ask the Hon. Colonial Secretary to lay on the table of the House a statement showing the amount of freight and numbers of passengers, exclusive of excursionists, conveyed over the Branch Railways, each and every year since they were opened for traffic, the statement to indicate distinctly the traffic earnings of the respective lines.

Answer-The Government have not got the figures asked for as the Schedules (e) of the Railway Act of 1901 under which the Branch Railways are operated present the figures only in the aggregate for the whole railway system and not separately for each branch of same.

(3)-To ask the Right Hon. the Premier, if it is the intention of the Government to demand that the Reid Newfoundland Company shall proceed without further delay to construct the Branch Railways to Fortune Bay and Bonne Bay, which were contracted for in 1910, or if it is the intention of the Government to release the Company from the obligation to construct those Branch Railways and cancel the contract. Also what steps have been taken by the Government, or are to be taken, to compel the Railway Contractors to make the railway safe for public traffic.

To this question the Prime Minister replied that the Government had no information to give; the questions were still under consideration.

The answers to the other three were deferred on account of the absence of the Minister of Public Works from the House.

The Premier gave notice of the following bills:-

1.-An act to prevent the introduction of spreading of insects, pests, and diseases destructive to vegetation.

2.-An act respecting second hand stores.

3.-An act to amend the act relating to Central and Harbor Graving District Courts for the protection of domesticated Deer.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries gave notice of a bill to amend the law relating to Merchant Shipping.

The House adjourned till 3 o'clock to-day.

At the City Hall.

The Municipal Council held its regular weekly session last evening. The Mayor presided and Councillors Morris, Brownrigg, Vincombe, Mulaly and Tait were present. After reading of minutes, etc., the following matters were disposed of:

The Colonial Secretary wrote in relation to Council's letter re certain sections of the Charter, and would bring the matter to the notice of the Executive Committee.

Blackwood & Emerson on behalf of the General Protestant Cemetery Committee, wrote re subsidences that had occurred on their clients' property, Waterford Bridge Road. They claimed that these should be attended by the Council. It will be notified as to the liability according to law.

J. G. Callanan submitted claim for damages to his house on Pleasant St. referred to the Solicitor for report as to liability, etc.

Job Brothers & Co. asked for refund of tax paid on insurance company of which they are the agents, and which had already been paid by another branch of the same company. They will be notified as to the liability according to law.

R. G. Silverlock applied for permission to install a gasoline tank and pump on the sidewalk in front of his garage on New Gower St. Permission was ordered to be given subject to the approval of the Inspector General as to fire hazard.

Permission for a similar apparatus was also given to Job Bros & Co. under the same conditions.

I. C. Morris was given permission to start excavation for concrete building on Queen St.

The employees of the Sanitary, Water Works, Roads East and West, and the Sewerage Depts. applied for an increase of wages. Referred to a special meeting to be held next week.

John Hooker, 23 New Gower St., wrote as to the conditions of a lane on George St. This is private property and the Sanitary Inspector will visit the place and get the parties responsible to clean up the place.

Mrs. S. Joy was given permission to repair roof of house, New Gower Street.

John Rose requested permission to repair front of house 50 New Gower St. W. J. Hickey's plan of extension to house, Charlton St., passed.

Knight and Taylor's plan of improvements at 192 New Gower St., passed.

A petition was read from the residents of Cochrane Street protesting against the erection of a garage in that locality. Permission for the erection was withheld pending further report.

George Walters asked permission to extend house on Franklin Avenue.

C. J. Cahill, on behalf of P. J. Maher, asked for the extension of water and sewerage on Mullock St. and Bonaventure Ave. Provided the owner pays for the extension, the work will be done.

James R. Johnston applied for street line to build a garage at 114 Barnes' Road. Plan will have to be submitted.

A Burt offered some material for road work. If suitable it will be taken.

Dr. N. S. Fraser wrote in relation to the Convalescent Home, endorsing Dr. Tait's views as to the taking over of the building. It was pointed out by the Mayor that the place was not being taken for a Maternity Home.

The Solicitor reported that parties of the Royal Forces of Marconi Station are not exempt under the Act, from taxation from driving motor cars or other vehicles. One of the prerogatives of the Crown is exemption from taxation and this extends to the Colonies, and unless it can be shown that cars were the property of the Crown and used for Government purposes, applicants could not claim exemption by prerogative.

Decided to take some land on Waterford Bridge Road to improve the street there.

The City Engineer reported on the work of clearing out catchpits, repairing washouts, new service laid, leaks located and repaired, and several other matters disposed of during the past week.

Decided to do some repairs to the embankment, South Side Road.

Necessary repairs to hoppers were ordered to be done.

The Health Officer's weekly report was submitted.

After disposing of some other routine business and passing the pay rolls and bills, the meeting adjourned.

FROM JOAN OF ARC COMMITTEE.

Hon. John Harvey received the following message yesterday from the Joan of Arc Committee of New York. It will be remembered that this is the Committee of the Joan of Arc Statue Society which forwarded the two medals to be taken across by aeroplane.

"Joan of Arc Committee of New York wishes aviators Godspeed and success.

At the Majestic.

Eva Tanguay, who now appears on the screen for the first time, will be seen at the Majestic Theatre this evening in a big picture entitled: "The Wild Girl." Eva Tanguay, it will be remembered, was formerly a celebrated comedienne of the legitimate stage, so called, but recently forsook this to become a devotee of the silent stage. All movie-goers, particularly Majestic patrons, will be pleased to hear this, for Eva Tanguay's fame has gone before her. The first picture in which she appears, "The Wild Girl," is a story of gypsy life. A young infant girl is given to a gypsy king by her dying father, to be taken care of. The child grows into a strikingly beautiful girl, and leads the life of a wandering gypsy. In the meantime, her uncle, unknown to her, has inherited a large fortune which would have been hers had she been there to claim it. Eventually the girl, disliking her roaming life, runs away from the tribe, and is found by a young journalist, who, of course, falls in love with her, and is the means of regaining her fortune. They become married and live happily ever after-which is the conventional way of telling all stories. This is surely a picture that will appeal to everyone, and a good reception for it is looked for. The usual comedy will be shown.

Llewellyn Club.

Last evening the club had the privilege and pleasure of hearing Rev. Dudley B. Ashford of the Congregational Church give a talk on some aspects of life in Australia. Mr. Ashford was in a happy mood and gave a very vivid presentation of facts gained by a seven years' residence in that great island continent. Life on the sheep stations, vast and thinly populated, glimpses of the mining country, the romance of Broken Hill, of Koolgardie and Kalbarrie, the strikes, the unions, the labor government, the climate, the flora and fauna, and of the great Tattersall's sweepstake in Tasmania were given with much richness and humor, and a very pleasant and profitable hour or more was spent listening to the lecture. At the close the chairman, Rev. Dr. Jones, in well-chosen terms, thanked the lecturer for the really able lecture given by him in such a genial and brotherly manner, and the audience dispersed, with clearer views about this great land at the Antipodes, the land of the wildly grotesque, of tropical rains and withering droughts, of wool and of gold, of the sage brush and the eucalyptus, of the kangaroo and the platypus, of emu, and bell bird, of great cities and lonely back stations of Jacko' Forrest and 'Billy' Hughes, of Henry Clarence Kendall and Adam Lindsay Gordon. Next week, on Thursday evening, the session of 1919 closes with a tea and concert.

G. F. S. Sale.

The Girls' Friendly Society Sale was opened in the Synod Hall last evening by His Lordship Bishop White. The attendance was large during the evening, and the stalls, which were at the outset well stocked, were rapidly emptied. The tea tables were well patronized, and at night a concert was given to the delight of the large audience, among which were His Lordship the Bishop, Rev. Canon Bolt, Rev. J. Brinton, and others. The programme included songs by Miss M. Mitchell, violin and piano selections by Miss Margaret McNeil and Mr. Ralph LeMessurier, respectively, and the farce "Ic on parle Francais," in which Mrs. Outerbridge, Misses Emerson, Coen, and Coen, Capt. Campbell, Lieut. R. Cooper and Mr. Knight took part. All the items were splendidly rendered and the evening an undoubted success in every way.

Zam-Buk cured him. This money might have been saved by Mr. Z. D. Moore of 722 Papineau Ave., Montreal, had he only known of Zam-Buk sooner. Writing to the proprietors, he said:

"For over a year I suffered with eczema which nothing seemed able to cure. I had treatment from three doctors, which cost me $50, but none of them were able to cure me. I suffered intensely from the irritation and pain, and I thought I should never get relief, until one day a friend told me about Zam-Buk and I started using it right away. From the very first application I felt better. Zam-Buk relieved the irritation and seemed to cool and soothe the sores. Gradually the sores began to heal, and, with perseverance, Zam-Buk completely rid me of the disease."

"I should like to be able to tell all sufferers from eczema to stop experimenting with useless remedies and use Zam-Buk. By using this ointment in the first place they would save themselves needless suffering and expense."

Zam-Buk should be in every home, not only for skin troubles, boils, rashes, pimples, chancres and ulcers, but also for cuts, burns and scalds, for which it is indispensable. Get a box today. It will keep indefinitely and still retain its strength and purity. All dealers, 50c. box

Bolshevist Portraits.

Some Commissaries.

IV. KRILENKO.

It would be unfair both to Sverdloff and to Znoviëff to include Krilenko in the same classification. And yet Krilenko's portrait is given next in order, not so much because of its resemblance to the preceding types, but because it affords a striking example of the depths to which the mind, soured against society, can sink in its contorted perversion.

Krilenko, the ex-Commander-in-Chief, the author of the notorious fraternizing order which finally destroyed the Russian Army, the inspirer of the murder of Dukhomin, has become to-day Krilenko the Blood-sucker, Krilenko the Bolshevist Public Prosecutor. Of all Bolshevist types this is assuredly the most degenerate and the most perverted. Indeed, it may reasonably be doubted whether Krilenko is in reality quite sane. Even in crime it would be a compliment to compare him to Marat, and yet in his thirst for blood and in his hysterical shrieking for the death sentence he is as insatiable as a drug fiend in his craving for cocaine or morphia. And yet this is a man who has received a university education and who has practised as a lawyer. Still a comparatively young man, his heavily lined face bears all the marks of early degeneration. Famous since his student days as a demagogic orator, Krilenko to-day employs all his talents in exciting and inflaming the blood lust of the mob. The rumours which appeared in the English Press regarding his capture and death at the hands of the Cossacks appear now to be untrue. The latest news from Russia states that he is still alive and still exercising his nefarious powers as Public Prosecutor.

BUCHARIN AND KAMENEFF.

One of the most interesting Bolshevist types, in that he is not a mouthpiece of Lenin, is Bucharin, son of a Court official and a man of good education, Bucharin has maintained an independent position inside the Bolshevist Party without ever taking any responsible office. He was the chief Bolshevist opponent of the Brest Treaty, and has written several good pamphlets on the Bolshevist movement. One of these is his notorious "Programme of the Communists"—a book which reveals with almost brutal nakedness the real aims and aspirations of the Bolshevists. Still under 40, of small stature but of great personal courage, he is theoretically more extreme and more doctrinaire in his ideas than Lenin. He is, moreover, the one Bolshevist who is not afraid to criticize Lenin or to cross swords with him in a dialectical duel.

As far as pure intellect is concerned, Kameneff must rank after Lenin as one of the chief intellectual forces of the movement. Only 35 years old, with his black moustache and beard Kameneff looks very much older than his age. Like the majority of his colleagues, he is a Jew, his real name being Rosenfeld. He was born of rich parents, and under the old regime was a "hereditary honorary burgher." A graduate of Moscow University, he acquired his Socialist tendencies during his student days, and like many Russian students came into collision with the police before his 20th year. He was a member of the first Brest delegation, and has written a book on this much-discussed treaty. After the Brest peace he was appointed Bolshevist Ambassador to Vienna, but was unable to proceed to his post owing to his arrest by the Finns, who kept him in prison until last July. To-day he fills an important role as President of the Moscow Soviet. He is a man of theories rather er than a man of blood, and is more moderate in his views than the majority of his colleagues.

LUNACHARSKY THE VISIONARY.

A type very different from any of the preceding is represented by Lunacharsky. This man is a Russian of good family and the son of a State Councillor. Tall, with slightly drooping shoulders, silky beard and moustache, and pince-nez, he is a man of mild appearance, mild manners, and soft speech. He radiates mildness and softness, and he dabbles in Bolshevism as he dabbles in art. He is essentially the amiable visionary, the Bolshevist crank, the Bolshevist educationist. While no one could possibly be afraid of Lunacharsky as a revolutionary force, there is no doubt that this revolutionary idealist is of considerable service to the Bolshevists as a propaganda agent. He is at the head of the Bolshevist Department of Education, and in this position he has been responsible for a number of decrees, many of them admirable in theory, for the free education of the whole people. In reality these reforms exist only on paper, all education having broken down under the oppression of a regime which in spite of all Bolshevist inducements has alienated the sympathies of that hitherto most revolutionary body, the Union of Russian Teachers.

Lunacharsky, however, has been instrumental in bringing back Gorki, if not as a Bolshevist sheep, at least into the Bolshevist fold. Gorki now directs a Bureau of Literature in Petrograd, where talented but starving members of the aristocracy and the intelligentsia are engaged in translating William Morris and Ruskin for the edification of the proletariat.

Lunacharsky, too, has been useful to the Bolshevists in another respect. When it was found that the Bolshevist persecution of the Church was creating a bad impression amongst the workmen and the peasants, Lunacharsky, as an original adherent to the Orthodox Faith, was called upon to pour oil upon the troubled waters and to start a "Bolshevizing" movement inside the Church itself. In the autumn of last year he engaged, therefore in a number of public "disputes" with the more liberal priests of the Orthodox Church, at which each side was allowed to state its own case. It was on one of these occasions that Lunacharsky made his famous speech in which he compared Lenin's persecution of the capitalists with Christ's expulsion of the money-lenders from the Temple, finishing with the startling peroration that "if Christ had been alive to-day he would have been a Bolshevist."

MINOR LEADERS.

Of the other Commissaries, Stekloff Nakhauskis, a man of no substance but a clever writer, is editor of the official Isvestia. Uritsky, the former head of the Petrograd Extraordinary Commission, and Volodarsky, the former Petrograd Censor, were both assassinated in the summer and autumn of last year, in each case by a Socialist Jew.

Both Jews themselves, they were men of considerable ability, and their death has been a serious loss to a party which has not succeeded in attracting many able men. This is especially the case with regard to Uritsky, who, like Trotsky and Tchitcherin, was originally a Menshevist. Strangely enough, Uritsky was at one time private secretary to Plechanoff, the father of the Social-Democratic movement in Russia, who died last year, stricken down with grief and sorrow at the ruin brought upon his country by a party which he had in some way helped to create.

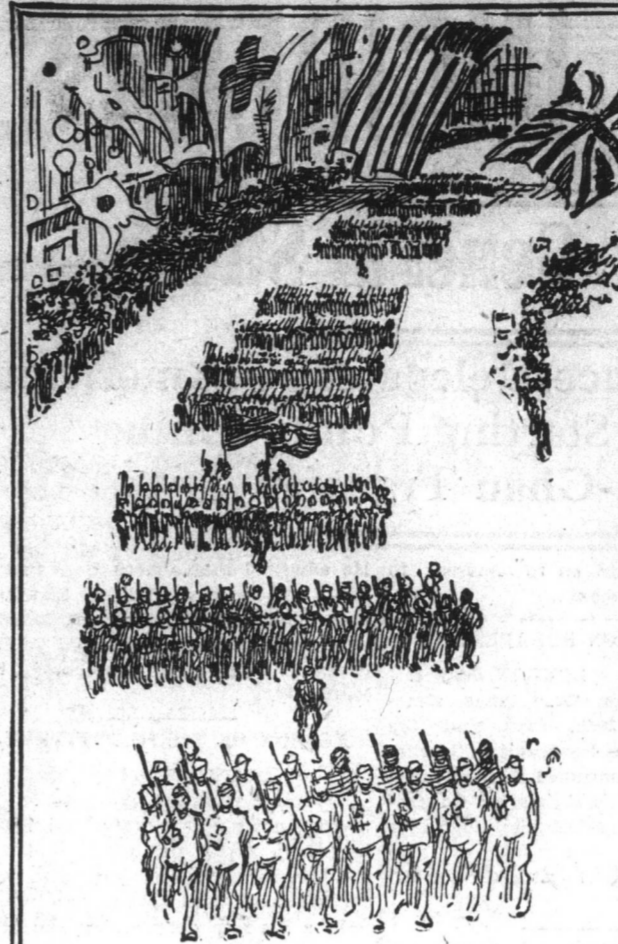

Most Remarkable Man Alive.

Nothing more serious than mumps was the cause of a Canadian soldier being discovered who is claimed to be the most remarkable man in the world. This is an unquestionable conclusion to be drawn from a description of the extraordinary warrior given in the 'Lancet.'

The man was originally a Breton sailor. He emigrated to Canada eight years ago, and enlisted in the Canadian Army. Later he developed mumps and was sent to a military hospital, where his remarkable qualities were discovered.

MAY-DAY INCIDENTS.

Celebrating by General Strike.

First Meeting of all Peace Delegates --- Americans Select Trepassey as Starting Point---China Protests Kiau-Chau Transfer.

MAY DAY CELEBRATION.

Buenos Aires, May 1. May Day is being celebrated by a twenty-four hour strike throughout the republic. In the city the paralysis of business is complete.

PARIS GLOOMY.

Paris, May 1. Paris to-day presents a gloomy aspect. There are no carriages, auto-buses or taxicabs on the streets and no newspapers. The metropolitan railway shut down for two hours. The weather is unfavorable for celebration of May Day.

MET GERMAN YESTERDAY.

Versailles, May 1. The first official meeting between Allied representatives and German Peace Delegates will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon to receive the German credentials.

DISCUSSING LESSER DETAILS.

Paris, May 1. Various lesser details of the Peace Treaty were taken up to-day by the Council of Three. Among them is the question of the captured German cables.

CONSPIRACY FRUSTRATED.

New York, May 1. With the frustration of a nationwide bomb conspiracy here yesterday against the lives of many prominent men, every agency was at work to-day, not only trying to trace authors but to guard against the Reds' boast of a "countrywide surprise on May Day."

WILL FLY FROM TREPASSEY.

New York, May 1. The start of the transatlantic flight by United States navy seaplanes will be from Trepassey, Newfoundland, it was announced to-day by Commander Towers. The planes will fly from their starting point to Halifax, then to Trepassey, and on to Azores, to Lisbon and Plymouth.

MOVING ON BUDAPEST.

London, May 1. The Hungarian War Office statement on April 30th, says that the Franco-Serbian-Roumanian-Czechoslovak forces continued their advance on Budapest. The Hungarian Government also has asked the Jugo-Slav Government for a cessation of hostilities, offering territorial concessions.

ASKS PROTECTION OF ITALIANS.

London, May 1. The Hungarian Telegraph Bureau, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Budapest, announces that General Serge, on behalf of the Italian Government, has requested Belakun and the Communist Government to take charge of the protection of Italian subjects in Fiume.

REFUSED INCREASE.

Melbourne, Aus., May 1. (Via Reuter's.)—Owing to interference of the New South Wales Government by appointing a Royal Commission to inquire into the coal trade, the colliery proprietors have refused to sign an agreement increasing miners' wages by twenty and one-half per cent., the Commonwealth Government in return sanctioning an increase of three shillings per ton in the price of coal. The Commonwealth Government has consequently decided to take power to commandeer all coal in the Commonwealth.

JUSTIFIES PAYMENTS.

London, May 1. (Via Reuter's.)—The Minister of Labor defending the payment of the unemployment donation, pointed out that the million recipients included 350,000 members of the forces, 180,000 former munition workers, and 100,000 cotton operatives, who were unemployed owing to the blockade.

He admitted that abuses were inevitable, but he was confident that half the complaints were without foundation. Any frauds which might be discovered would be prosecuted relentlessly.

REASON OF THEIR ATTITUDE.

Washington, May 1. Several Republican Senators of the group known as Progressives, let it be known to-day that they opposed the League of Nations' Covenant, considered at a Republican conference, with a view to determining the attitude of the party towards the document as proposed by Senator Lodge.

WILL TRANSFER TO BERLIN.

Basle, May 1. The German National Assembly probably will be transferred from Weimar to Berlin next week, the Tageblatt of Berlin reports.

A VICTORY FOR "REDS."

London, May 1. A Russian wireless official statement says that along the Salmysch River, northwest of Orenburg, the Reds obtained complete victory over Admiral Kolchak's fourth army corps, wiping out eight regiments and capturing more than 1,500 prisoners. The general in command of the Siberian fifth division also was captured. The Bolshevik statement adds, the banks of the Salmysch are covered with bodies. More than six hundred have been counted. Many of the enemy were hurled into the river by bayonet thrusts.

WILL WITHDRAW TAX.

London, May 1. (Via Reuter's.)—In the House of Commons to-day, replying to Mr. Colbourne, Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain said he did not propose to renew the tax of two shillings in the pound, in respect to dividends on Canadian Pacific Railway stock not loaned to the British Treasury. The tax would be withdrawn as from May 4th as soon as the House approved the income tax resolution.

CHINA PROTESTS.

Peking, April 30. The Chinese Parliament protests against the transfer of Kiau Chau to the Japanese.

RETAINED BY GOVERNMENT.

Washington, May 1. Postmaster General Burleson refused to-day to consider President MacKay's request for immediate return of postal telegraphs to private ownership.

The Cost of Living.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir:—In the morning's News I read with a deep interest the letter on the subject of the Minimum Wage by T. M. White, President of the N. I. W. A. Men's Association.

It has now come to a time when the wage-earners cannot do anything else but demand Legislative enactment, because it can be plainly seen by anyone with common sense, after reading the bill of fare which can be obtained for a family of six, published this morning in Mr. White's letter, for $14.43, not including clothing, and only allowing $52 a year for house rent, for which sum no house in the city can be rented. No mention of school fees, doctors or druggist, beds or bedding, soap, towels, wood, etc., is made, and the father of that family of six must pay $70 for a suit of clothes to-day which he could get for $25 sometime ago.

I republish the bill of fare from T. M. White's letter:—

Articles.	1908	1914	1919
3 Stone of Flour	$1.20	$1.50	$3.60
6 lbs. Pork	60	90	1.62
3 lbs. Butter	60	75	1.35
1/2 lb. Tea	18	20	25
1 gal. Molasses	50	60	1.20
4 gals. Potatoes	40	48	1.90
4 lbs. Cabbage	20	28	48
4 lbs. Fish	30	28	48
7 pints Milk	28	56	70
3 qts. Kero Oil	15	18	30
1/4 ton of Coal	65	100	2.25
House Rent	50	80	1.90
	$5.46	$7.43	$14.43

And Mr. White admitted saying that if the father of a family of six happened to be taken ill for a week his money in a good many cases is stopped; and let anyone deny that a week's money stopped puts that man back for a month. We cannot, as an organization bound together by the cords of love, ask for Legislative enactment, but we must demand it. A "Labour Department" which will give serious consideration to such problems as Hours of Labour and Child Labour must be organized.

Let those who have full and plenty sit down and digest the bill of fare published above. Some can have their grapefruit or oranges for breakfast; their turkey, roast meat, etc., for dinner, and just what they please for tea, while so many of our brothers and sisters have not bread and butter.

A Socialistic spirit, you say, exists in the writer? Ah, no! but fair play or a fair wage to the working classes is all we want to see. In writing before I mentioned this fact:—"There are members sitting in our House of Assembly with hearts as large and big as you want to find. All is needed is time to consider. Now, then, we are waiting and watching for the one who will stand up in our Legislative Chamber and see that these weaker brothers and sisters get simply fair play."

The working classes have awakened out of their sleep, and have found out we are all made of the one common clay, and the God that placed us here wishes every creature of His to have at least the necessary wants of life supplied, which cannot be so under existing conditions.

Yours truly,
JULIA SALTER EARLE,
President Ladies' Branch of the N. I. W. A.
May 1, 1919.

Very Resourceful.

He was discussing Australian resourcefulness, and told how an Australian and his dog were lost in the Bush. They were starving. The man loved his dog too well to think of killing him for food, not wishing to survive his faithful companion.

At last he had a brilliant idea which would serve to keep them both alive. He kindled a fire, cut off the dog's tail, cooked it ate the meat, and gave the bone to the dog.

"What is This Nerve Food You See Advertised in all the Papers, Some Kind of Patent Medicine?"

"PERHAPS that is what you might call it."

"Well, do you know anything about it?"

"I certainly do, and have a box right here in my grip. Why, say, in my estimation, it is the greatest thing ever invented in the medicine line."

"You seem to be rather enthusiastic. You are not selling Nerve Food, are you?"

"No, I am not selling it, but I am recommending it. When I find a good thing I like to tell others about it."

"What did it ever do for you?"

"I was on my back with the flu for two weeks, and when I got up was so weak that I did not get out of the house for ten days. I started out on my trip on the road, but did not have the energy to sell goods."

"What seemed to be the matter?"

"The doctor said my nerves were in bad condition. I could not sleep nights, and after talking to a customer I seemed to be all in. There was so little nerve force in my system that I went all to pieces with a little exertion.

"I did not get right until I had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two weeks. By that time my appetite was good and I began to feel like myself again."

"For a month I scarcely missed a dose of the Nerve Food, and am now feeling fine. I eat and sleep well, and take the same old pleasure in my work that I always did when in good health."

"You must be all right, then."

"Yes, and I certainly appreciate what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for me, for I thought I would have to quit the road entirely. You can call it a patent medicine if you like, but, anyway, I swear by it."

Dr. Chase's Medicines are sold by all

Northcliffe is Preparing Plan
 to Knife "L. G."

London, April 30.—The Easter Recess gave the politicians an opportunity to lay their plans for a battle which is likely to involve the premiership of England. The first battle, which may be declared, will probably come when Austin Chamberlain introduces his budget at the re-assembling of parliament.

By that time, it is expected, the Paris conference will have completed the bulk of its labors, and the critics of the government will no longer have to face the charge of injuring Britain's international position by the desire to make domestic changes. The budget, while it will hit all classes, will serve as a good weapon to use against the government.

Lord Northcliffe, who is a crafty, passage fighter, pretends in his paper that Lloyd George's attack is hardly worth considering, but it is plainly evident that the famous publisher is planning already to overthrow the Premier at the first opportunity. The presents itself to him. When Northcliffe starts, it will be no futile blow but a thrust, backed by all the power of the publisher, who controls as many politicians as newspapers, and that is a considerable handful. J. J.
 Garvin, a Whittical expert, says that Northcliffe is doomed to defeat if he tries to unhorse the premier in the near future, because Lloyd George is moving steadily towards the left, enlistering new supporters from the ranks of the Radicals. One rumor has it that Lord Northcliffe will try to defeat the Premier in the commons and then, without a dissolution of Parliament, form a Tory coalition, headed either by Lord Robert Cecil or Winston Churchill. I put little faith in this rumor for several reasons. In the first place, Lord Robert is not likely to accept leadership under such conditions and Churchill is too dependent on the premier to allow himself to be used by Lloyd George's enemies. Besides, there is no certainty that the majority could be obtained against Lloyd George in the present House of Commons on any important question.

It is much more probable that Northcliffe will carry on a campaign of criticism, hoping thereby to undermine Lloyd George's strength in the country.

Meanwhile the premier can pay more attention to domestic reconstruction, following closely the program laid down by labor, and when he thinks the attacks are serious he can appeal again to the electorate.
 His National Industrial Council gives him excellent material with which to work. There is always the possibility that he can make it almost as important as the Commons itself. North-cliffe's great difficulty is to find an angle from which to fight.

Twelve months ago when he told me of his scheme for resettling soldiers after the war, he described a plan that would have revolutionized land owning conditions in England. These views appeared frequently in his papers and he can hardly make a face about at this time. It might win him parliamentary support, but would not increase his popularity. On the other hand he can hardly hope to fight Lloyd George from positions further to the left.

Training for Rugger.

On Saturday afternoon the Fellites will play their first practice game at Rugby football for the season.
 Considerable interest is being centered upon the coming series of inter-collegiate games, and it is wished all round that St. Bon's would inter a team and so make the series so much more interesting. Rugger is a splendid game, one that calls for precision and judgment, and one that, without, is excellent for muscle building. It is expected that the Methodist College will soon begin to prepare for the forthcoming bouts, which will be witnessed by many fans of the game.

All About Eggs.

In a hen's egg only one-fifth of the substance is nutritious. One-ninth is refuse, and the greater portion,
 about two-thirds, is water.

White-shelled eggs are not so good as yellow ones, for they contain a trifle more water and less fat.

Judged by the amount of nutriment,
 a goose's egg is the most valuable,
 next in order are ducks', guinea-fowl's,
 hens', turkeys', and plovers' eggs.
 Eggs contain a large quantity of sulphur, which is purifying to the blood and good for the complexion.
 To get the best egg you must feed your fowl on grain. And to cook it in the most digestible way you must not boil the water. Heat the water to 180 degrees and leave the egg in it for ten minutes. You will then digest every morsel. But if you boil it for three minutes no less than one-twelfth of it will fall to be digested. Thus, if you eat two eggs boiled at 212 degrees every day you waste five dozen in a year.

Select a Responsible Investment House

For the average investor, one of the most important considerations in selling or buying bonds is to be assured of the character of the firm with which he is doing business, its experience and the facilities which its various departments afford for selling, buying and investigating the worth of any security.

As an investment house with eighteen years' experience in buying and selling high-grade Canadian bonds we invite you to consult us in regard to your investment problems.
