CHAPTER XXXV.

"The earl is not well," Lady Marcia said, angrily. "He has told me his trouble. Leave the room, sir."

"I refuse," replied Collins. "I refuse to take notice of anything you may say, Lady Marcia. My business is with my lord," he sneered. "I do not propose to let him conspire against me with Lord Cecil. I can be revenged upon both. I can forego the ambition of a lifetime for vengeance pure and simple. If my lord is madman enough to fly in my face he shall be arrested to-day."

The earl looked up, and Lady Marcia never forgot the expression on his white face. He spoke quietly, saying: "Come with me, and you shall have your reply."

He strode toward the door, and Collins followed at his heels, a leer of triumph on his face; but when they were in the hall my lord flew at his throat with the ferocity of a tiger. He seemed to have the strength of ten men, and shook the steward until he was black in the face, and his lips flecked with foam.

"That is my reply!" hissed the earl, dashing him senseless to the floor.

He would have killed the steward had not the servants held him back; he was delirious, and knew not what he was doing.

His valet was sent for, and he was put to bed, raving wildly of things that none understood. The local doctor was sent for, and a telegram sent to the family physician, Sir William Jennings, the most famous doctor of his day.

Finally my lord was pronounced sick unto death. It would be next to a miracle if he recovered. His delirium was succeeded by complete prostration and he lay like one was dead. The physician declared that it would be a mercy if he passed away in this state, for he was beyond suffering. If he lived, the stupor of the brain would pass into madness—the outcome of which would probably mean a violent death. It was clear that my lord had met with a terrible shock—a shock that had caused paralysis of the nerves and it was strange that the heart had not failed at the same time.

The story of his strange condition was kept as quiet as possible, and those who anxiously inquired about his welfare was Lord Cecil Stanhope.

He was frank with Lady Gladys, and she found his sympathy of good service.

"Let us meet on friendly terms," he said; "if you care to renew the old friendship toward one who will turn out to be a nobody. The blow has been a terrible one for me, and upon no account will I remain here when the exposure comes. It is hard to think that that man is my father—and, bad as I am, I despise him."

His brows lowered and a ferocious expression was half-stifled on his lips.

"When he threatens me he mistakes his man," he continued, "and I wish the earl had choked him to death!"

Recovering himself, he apologized humbly, to Gladys.

"I have been a brute to you, but it was because I cared for you a good deal. No matter, that is all over, and I am telling everybody that there never was any engagement between us. The meddlesome newspaper men will soon take it up. Now I am going to devote myself to helping you, if you will let me. I shan't be here very long."

Gladys listened in troubled silence. It was easy to forget and forgive now, he looked so sad, so cast down, and so penitent. She remembered the old days when he had been her boyish slave—when he had called her his little sweetheart without rebuke. That was before he had contracted evil habits, and evil companions; when he had a breezy, innocent laugh, and a thoughtless, good-humored face.

"Must you go away?" she asked.

"Must I? Well, rather! I am not so senseless a clod as some people seem to think! That man has threatened me, but if he does not keep a civil tongue in his head, I fancy I shall get the drop on him! He sent for me, and intimated that the earl's illness would not effect the arrangements being carried out. On the other hand, it would facilitate matters, and he desired an immediate marriage. He commanded me to see you to this end; he was certain that you dared offer no opposition. When I declined, he became mad. I told him that if he dared approach you in your trouble I'd knock him into the middle of next week. He's had a sample of my temper!"

Lord Cecil gnawed his mustache; and an evil look crossed his face.

Lady Marcia came in, looking tired and worn. It was four days since the earl's attack, and he had neither moved nor spoken yet. The physician's new hypothesis was that the shock had caused the bursting of a small artery, and deposited a clot of blood on the brain. Until the pressure could be removed, my lord would remain insensible. He had known total insensibility to last for periods varying from two to six weeks in cases of this kind.

Lady Marcia's belief that Edgar Emden still lived was stronger than ever. She and Lady Gladys had gone into the whole of the terrible story, and with Lord Cecil's assistance, advertisements were sent to newspapers in all parts of the world.

During this troublous time Lady Elwood and Captain Frederick had gone to their own place in Somersetshire, and that day Gladys had received from him a letter, couched in the tenderest terms:

Dear Lady Gladys—It is rumored that your engagement to Lord Cecil Stanhope has never really existed, and I have read in to-day's Post that there is an official announcement to that effect. Pardon me for writing to you in your present affliction, but you know how much I care for you—and I jump, like a drowning man, at the first straw, I only want one word of hope. I trust that your father will soon recover, and if I can help you in any way, you have only to command me.

Yours very sincerely,
Frederick Elwood.

So the news was spreading, and Gladys wondered if Sir Charles Hastings would hear of it. There was a little thrill of gladness in her heart—it was so sweet to know that she never now need even bear the name of another.

"Your friendship is precious to me," she wrote to Captain Frederick, "but I am pained to learn that you still cherish a passion which cannot be otherwise than hopeless. I shall never marry, but I am deeply sensible of the honor you have done me. I may want all my friends soon, and, when in need, I shall not forget you."

And now she discussed with Lady Marcia the question of freeing Sir Charles and his mother from the cloud that hung about them—that had darkened their lives for so many years. It was a terrible thing for any woman to be in doubt whether or not her husband had been guilty of the murder of her brother—it was a terrible thing for a son to question his father's innocence of so awful a crime.

"We can at least bring peace to their minds," said Gladys, her pansy eyes burning with the joy of penning a few lines that would give pleasure to her lover. "And they may know that the truth will soon be given to the world."

So Gladys wrote to Sir Charles, with Lady Marcia's concurrence. It was right that the mystery should be a wronged man no longer. This is the letter she sent to her lover, and the pages were blotted with tears:

My Dear Love—You will be surprised to see my handwriting, and still more surprised by what I have to write to you. There are changes here that have almost appalled me. I cannot go into long details—my heart is so covered with bitterness, and it seems strange that our lives should be so closely interwoven with all that is sorrowful. My father lies ill, insensible to everything about him, crushed by the secret burden of an accident by which your uncle, Edgar Emden, lost his life, or vanished, for some reason of his own. Your father was innocent. Mine was guilty. Mention no word to any one but your mother, and if you will come to me you shall hear all. I tell you this with shame and horror; and if my father recovers it will only be to stand his trial for murder.

My engagement to Lord Cecil is broken, and I am free to think of you forever. I shall never be trammelled by another man's name, and I rejoice that I am not forced to lead what would be at best a double-life. I think of you every day. I dream of you by nights, and as long as life lasts.

Your own,
Gladys.

How anxiously she waited for a reply, but none came. A week drifted by—two weeks, and Christmas was at hand, the most sorrowful Christmas she had ever known.

No waste with Carnation Milk

Housewives who use Carnation never waste milk, summer or winter. Bought even by the case, it keeps - for several months in the can and for several days when opened. And Carnation Milk can be used as cream, for it is thick and rich. Add water to Carnation Milk for all ordinary uses. For tea and coffee, for fruit and cereals, for whipping, use it undiluted as it comes from the can. Carnation Milk is just pure, cows' milk, brought to you safe and doubly rich. Part of the water is taken out by evaporation and nothing added. It meets all milk needs of every home, and you always have it on hand. Carnation Milk is bought the convenient way - from the grocer. Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans with your next grocery order. Send for the Carnation Recipe Book. It's a beautifully illustrated book of more than one hundred recipes which will be sent free to you at your request. All the recipes have been tested by domestic science experts. Write for this book today.

CREAMED CHIPPED BEEF
½ teaspoonful salt, 2 tablespoonfuls butter, ¼ cup Carnation Milk, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoonfuls flour, ¼ teaspoonful pepper, 1 pound of chipped beef. Melt butter, add flour, stirring constantly until thoroughly blended; add the liquid, salt and pepper. Let boil until thickened, stirring occasionally. Add beef and continue cooking until beef is heated through. Turn on to a hot platter and garnish with toast points. This recipe will serve four people.

Fat a Disease.
HOW TO CURE IT.
Barely one in five persons over forty years old weigh what they should. Next time you weigh yourself have a look at the scale on the machine, and see if you "go" your correct weight. The chances are you will see a little on the heavy side!

Now, a certain amount of fat is useful—indeed necessary. The fat beneath our skin acts as a sort of elastic padding to save us from shocks and jars. It also maintains the body heat.

It is a store of energy, and people who are too thin cannot stand prolonged strains as well as those who are plump.

But fat in excess is bad, and the trouble is that so many people who, in their youth, were very athletic, find themselves running to fat as soon as they are too old to keep up strong exercise.

They then get short of breath, they suffer from palpitation of the heart, and the increased weight of the body tells on the legs, producing pains which are often—but wrongly—called rheumatic.

Fat is a disease which can be cured, but the curing requires self-denial and much exercise of will. Drugs are perfectly useless. Diet is everything in such cases.

The foods the fat person must give up are sugary and starchy. Thick soups, sardines, salmon, and other oily fish, rice, macaroni, sago, peas, beans, potatoes, sweets of all sorts, pastry and beer, spirits and cocoa—all these must be absolutely abandoned.

There is, however, no need to give up butter, for butter gives energy, not fat. Lean meat, poultry, game, white fish, green vegetables, gluten bread or digestive biscuits, and tea without milk. These form the diet for reducing fat.

Exercise is essential. Walking, at first, then, as the fat diminishes, rowing and riding.

Turkish baths are useful, but they do not suit everyone. An excellent substitute is the electric light bath, which not only reduces fat, but has great curative value.

Worth Knowing.
In scraping new potatoes it is a good plan to lightly grease the fingers before beginning. This will keep them from getting discoloured.

Never fill a kettle in the morning with the first water that comes from the tap for this has been in the lead or iron pipe all night, and is likely to be unwholesome.

Wipe furniture with a leather wrung out of cold water, to which a little vinegar has been added before using furniture polish; it will then shine readily.

Household Notes.
Serve purees of spinach with thin crisp slices of fried bread.

Pour fresh apple juice or sweet cider over a ham before baking it. A dainty relish is cold Brussels sprouts served in French dressing.

Stains left from fly paper can be removed by a rag dipped in coal oil.

Eggs are delicious baked with creamed fish and finely chopped peppers.

Chopped white cabbage may be used instead of celery in tuna fish salad.

An excellent way in which to increase flesh is to take cream after meals.

If the stove is painted with aluminum paint, it will not need repainting for a year.

If boiled frosting becomes too thick to spread, add a few drops of lemon juice.

When using sour milk and soda use a pinch of baking powder to every pint of flour.

Equal parts of cooked carrots and string beans are good served in a rich cream sauce.

The two-piece mattress will last longer if the parts are regularly turned about.

Tomatoes may be filled with slightly melted aspic jelly and chilled before serving.

Finely chopped walnut meats are delicious in squash croquettes. Serve with cream sauce.

Steamed blueberry pudding is also served hot with blueberries stewed with a little sugar.

To cut thin silk lay between two pieces of tissue paper and cut with very sharp scissors.

A few chopped nut meats and a slice of onion give a savory flavor to lima bean timbales.

Vegetable goulash can be canned now and used as desired for a vegetable or in soups or stews.

Bake sausage cakes on slices of apple, and serve on buttered toast circles with white sauce.

Strike Will Germans a Tragedy

SYDNEY STRIKE

After a conference which closed this morning, the basis of settlement between the British Corporation and the United Mine Workers Executive agreed to a new schedule of wages for the organization. The agreement is as follows: From August 15th, the rate of the miners' pay, retroactive to August 1st, 1922, with a minimum of $1.80. The schedule of wages for the Executive for recognition is as follows: The rate shall be $1.80, an increase of 10c, and fifty-two cents in similar increments. (C) Contract. The rate of workers' wages shall be retroactively extended to December 1st, 1921. It is understood that Robert Baxter and McLaughlin of the Executive will accept the new schedule. The Executive is said to be undertaking to re-employ the rank and file workers. The new schedule will be submitted to the miners of Nova Scotia for ratification. The immediate effect of the strike is removed. The strike is made to-day at a place Bay, before it reached.

Basis of Settlement Reached With N.S. Miners

Strike Will Not Take Place—French Expel Germans From Alsace—Griffiths Death a Tragedy for Ireland.

STRIKE POSTPONED.

SYDNEY, Aug. 13. After a conference, lasting from 11 o'clock this morning until midnight, a basis of settlement was reached between the British Empire Steel Corporation and the Executive of the United Mine Workers, District 26. The Executive agreed to recommend a new schedule to the rank and file of the organization and in the meantime to call off the strike set for Tuesday, August 15th. The original demand of the miners was for 1921 rates of pay, retroactive to January 2nd, 1922, with a minimum total wage of $120. The schedule accepted by the Executive for recommendation to the rank and file is as follows:—(A) Minimum total rates shall be $32.25 per day. This is an increase of forty cents per day, the same to be given all detail men, and fifty-two cents at Sydney. (B) In similar manner. (C) Contract to be advanced ten per cent. (D) Contract to include all classes of workers included in the Montreal agreement of 1921. (E) Contract to be retroactive to July 1, 1922, and to extend to December 31, 1922. It is understood that both President Robert Baxter and Secretary J. B. Magellan of the miners will sign the recommendation asking the men to accept the new contract. The Executive is said to be unanimous in undertaking to recommend the new offer to the rank and file of the miners. The next step will be to submit the new scale to twelve thousand miners of Nova Scotia for rejection or ratification but in the meantime the immediate menace of a strike is removed. Elaborate preparations for the strike on Tuesday were made to-day at a mass meeting at Place Bay, before the agreement was reached.

GERMANS EXPELLED FROM ALSACE.

STRASSBOURG, Aug. 13. Expulsion from Alsace Lorraine of fifteen hundred Germans, including wives and children of married men, has begun in compliance with the order issued by commissary general. Married men are each allowed to take sixty-five pounds of baggage and ten thousand marks; and single men one half of this sum. The list of five hundred Germans who were served with expulsion notices, comprise persons who were known to have been outspoken in anti-French attitude. Agitators and other "undesirables" it was announced, have been permitted to dispose of their property or transfer it to others. Simultaneously the sequestration of the account of Germans in the Alsace-Lorraine Banks went into effect to-day.

CORK RUMOURS.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 13. Persons arriving from Cork yesterday stated that Government House and other buildings in the city are burning. Others reaching here from Queenstown, reported some of the buildings in that port on fire. Latest advices from Cork are to the effect that, with the exception of the postal service, conditions are normal.

PRESIDENT GRIFFITH'S DEATH.

DUBLIN, Aug. 13. Dublin was shocked early yesterday to learn of the sudden death of Arthur Griffith, President of the Gaelic League, and everywhere it was commented on as one of the most tragic and wholly unexpected events in troubled Ireland. Death came at a nursing home apparently from heart attack following an operation a few days ago for tonsillitis. Few people in Dublin even knew that the ardent worker for the Free State cause was ill. Immediately the signs of mourning were displayed on buildings and ships in the harbor. The first question on all sides was what effect the death of the leader would have on the solution of problems before the Provisional Government. His Colleague, Michael Collins, recently has devoted attention almost entirely to military operations against irregulars while the country looked to Mr. Griffith to manage affairs until the rebellion was suppressed. Though President of Dail, Mr. Griffith held no ministerial portfolio. William Cosgrove, Minister of Local Government, acted head of the Irish Executive during Mr. Griffith's illness. The President's associates are stunned by the news of his death. Not one is prepared to discuss its effects. All are agreed that Ireland has sustained a great loss.

Salvage Notes.

Mr. Stephen Oldford, schooner Al-sace, of Squid Tickers, arrived here from Port-aux-Choix last week hauling for 600 qts. fish. He has now left for the Labrador trip.

From letters received by last mail, we learn that several of our schoolers and planters on the French Shore, are doing very well with fish. We trust the good beginning may be but the first fruits of a ripe harvest of the sea. Such will materially help in balancing trade and living conditions in our island home.

Miss Elsie Humphries, of Newtown, spent an enjoyable fortnight at Salvage, being a guest at the Rectory.

Mrs. Alex. Oldford of Grand Falls, is in Salvage, on a brief visit to relatives and friends. We hope the change of scene will help Mrs. Oldford to bear her recent bereavement (loss of two children).

Mr. John Oldford, son of Stephen Oldford, Squid Tickers, left last week enroute for Boston in search of employment. We wish Jack lots of success.

Nurse M. MacDonald, daughter of Dr. MacDonald, returned to duty at Hear's Content last week, after spending a most enjoyable three week's holiday with her parents.

Messrs. (Rev.) Humphries and company, who were up to Newman's Sound for 3 days, spent a most enjoyable time trying to hook the flann inhabitants of the big brook.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Miles (nee Miss Brown) arrived in Salvage by last Malakoff. We understand that Mr. Miles, who held the school at Clarke's Head, Gander Bay, last year will take charge of Salvage Bay school during 1922-23.

Miss R. Curtis, King's Cove, is spending her annual summer vacation with her aunt, Mrs. John Moss at Bishop's Harbour.

The circuit of connections between Salvage and surrounding places was completed Saturday by the installation of the telephone at Happy Adventure. CORRESPONDENT.

Aug. 8, 1922.

Rose Lore.

It is probable that a greater amount of lore attached itself to the rose, England's national flower emblem, than to any other flower.

The Syrians take the rose as their emblem of immortality, and in China it is planted over graves. Persians believe that on a certain charmed day—a secret which but few have ever discovered—the rose has a heart of gold.

If in a garden a white rose blooms in autumn, the belief is widespread that some member of the household will shortly die—a maid in her teens, for choice. To get good luck in any undertaking which concern itself with love, rose leaves should be thrown on the fire, and a wish murmured as they curl and die.

In Germany the custom still prevails of girls carrying a rosebud in the breast to ensure the fidelity of their lovers, and in most European countries rose leaves are used to discover which, out of many lovers, is the true one. Finally there is the queer belief that a red rose will not bloom over a grave until the person who planted it is dead.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Schr. Elsie Smith, Capt. L. Pike, was docked here during the week.

Mrs. Ed. Hancock (nee Miss Louise Yetman), and infant, who has been visiting her parents for the last few weeks here, returned by Tuesday morning's train en route to New York where she will join her husband for their home in Philadelphia. She is accompanied by her brother, Mr. Moses Yetman, formerly of the Western Union Cable Staff, Bay Roberts, who will seek a position in the big city. We wish him well.

Rev. F. S. Coffin, Pastor of St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, arrived in town again on Thursday, of last week by S.S. Meigle. Rev. Coffin was a round tripper on this boat on his last trip, and stopped off at Shoal Bay Islands, where he spent a short while, the guest of R. S. Munn and family. The trip was a most enjoyable one.

The marriage of Miss Annie E. Forward of Carbonear, to W.W. French, son of Mr. Robert French of this town is announced. The wedding is to take place in the near future.

Mr. R. F. W. Strong, who has been on a business trip to London, Eng., for the past five months, arrived by S.S. Digby at St. John's yesterday morning, and came to town last night.

Keeping Out Intruders.

In her biography of her famous husband, Mrs. Jack London tells an amusing story of his plan to outwit un-welcome visitors.

When at work at a new novel it was his custom to retire to what he called his "summer house," a sort of bungalow-shaped building miles from anywhere, and with two doors, front and back.

On the front door was this sign, in big, bold, staring letters:—"No admission except on business. No business transacted here."

The legend on the back door was like unto it:—"Please do not enter without knocking. Please do not knock."

ADDITIONAL PASSENGERS.—S.S. Silvia, which sailed Saturday for Halifax and New York, took the following additional passengers:—G. R. Bages, Miss E. Davies, W. T. Robinson, C. C. Hole, and Wm. Hogan.

In the Realms of Sport.

This evening at St. George's Field, the Cubs and Wanderers will take the field for a second time this season in the League fixture. It is to be hoped that old Sol will shine down brightly upon us during the day as the base-batters cannot allow any postponement, considering that another round of baseball has to be played. Up to date the Cubs are leading the League by a slight margin. The brand of ball that has been doled out of the clubhouse has been of a very high order, while Joe Murphy's pitching has been the mainstay of that team. On the other hand the Wanderers have not as yet given up trying and expect to take a fall out of the Cubs this evening. They have been practising very hard of late and have strengthened their battery line-up for this evening. It is to be hoped that the fans will turn out in large numbers, while those that have not seen a game of baseball would do well to attend this week's games, mainly to get an insight on the game by the series comes about. Thursday game will be played between the B's and Red Lions.

TRIE TO FORM.

The expert guys are on the job. Their cheer arises. For "Billie" Gosse. They bowled him out a month ago and now they shout "I told you so!"

Some batsmen are so kind hearted that they endeavour to ease the burden of the umpire by calling balls and strikes.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUERIES.

- Dempsey's first recorded fight was in 1915.
- There was a dead heat in the British Derby of 1884, the stakes being divided between Harvester and B. Gatter.
- If batter hits a home run over the fence, but fails to touch a base he may be retired as soon as the umpire tosses in a new ball.
- If ball rolls fair inside of line and does not roll out again until outside of flag, it is considered fair.

SPORTSFOLIO.

Did Carpentier ever hold the French heavyweight championship? Is there any record for the running high kick? Is a runner from third permitted to score when a runner is hit by a batted ball or do all base runners have to hold their bases.—(R.M.)

SPORTS POSTPONED.

The sporting public will no doubt be disappointed to hear that the C. L.B. Sports Day which had been arranged for Wednesday next has been postponed for this year. Too bad the energetic ladies of the Church Ladies' League did not get together earlier in the season and make the final preparations before going into camp.

JESS AND JACK.

Jess Willard has received a congratulatory letter from Tex Rickard offering him a bout with Jack Dempsey on October 14th.

Willard has accepted Rickard's terms except the date, which he holds for October 31st.

The next League football match will be played to-morrow, Tuesday evening between the Cadets and Highlanders. A lively match should be the outcome.

CITY DEFEATS DIGBY.

Saturday evening match on St. George's Field between a city aggregation and a team from S. S. Digby resulted in a win for the former by a score of goals to 1. The attendance was fair and the game fairly good, although not so fast as was expected. In the first half Phelan and Goldstone did the necessary for the locals and repeated the performance in the second half. Charley Quirk and Meaney did some effective work, the former being responsible for one of the goals. Quinn of the Digby scored the one and only goal for the visitors. Second engineer Loyden of the Digby was referee and carried out his duties in his usual satisfactory manner. The following were the teams:—

CITY:—Goal, W. Clare; backs, A. Galgay, S. Constantine; halves, M. Maddigan, W. Hallyard, W. Elton; forwards, J. Snow, E. Phelan, R. Meaney, C. Quirk, Goldstone.

DIGBY:—Goal, Wright; backs, Furlong, Blundell; halves, Griffiths, Blundell, Fallon; forwards, Dowd, Quinn, Sillsbury, Sellars, Shortason. It is hoped on the return of the Digby to arrange a match between one of the regular League teams.

INTER-TOWN GAMES.

At a meeting of the Newfoundland Football League held Saturday evening the discussion was lively over the matter of encouraging football in the outlying towns. All the League delegates were present and it was decided to present a silver cup for competition, in a series of games, the first of which will take place at Grand Falls this week. A city team to visit the paper town has been arranged and will be in charge of Messrs. R. F. Innes and R. H. Tait. The party leaves by special car attached to to-morrow's express.

VISIT POSTPONED.

It was the intention of a city eleven to leave for Grand Falls to-morrow with the footballers, but owing to several cricketers being unable to arrange the necessary leave the visit has been postponed until later in the month.

SATURDAY'S CRICKET.

On Saturday last in St. George's Field a very closely contested game was played. The contesting teams were the Shamrocks and Fiddians and after a stiff contest the former were winners by 24 runs. It was a one-innings match, and it was a pity that the full two innings game could not be played. The batting and bowling of both teams was up to the average, but the fielding was very inferior. Several catches were missed, whilst wild throwing accounted for a good many runs. A feature of the game was the performance of the hat trick by M. Finn of the Shamrocks, and his team have undertaken to honor the event by purchasing the best straw in town. The Fiddians opened the game and D.

Our Telegraph Service.

Editor Evening Telegram
 Dear Sir:—Your editorial of Aug. 10th inst., under the above heading, shows a commendable interest in an important factor of our public service. Taking your statement of the decline in wireless business at Cape Race since August 1921, as authoritative, the financial results of the station and our public treasury. It is open to question, however, whether the diversion of traffic from ships via Cape Race, to direct Canadian and United States wireless stations is to be attributed to increased land tolls. There has been no increase in telegraph rates since the time you mention, August 1921, and only a very slight increase before that time over the pre-war charges. I think the cause is to be found in scientific development, which has made long range wireless signalling more general. If this is the reason for the diversion, it is purely a business one, as passengers could not be reasonably expected to consent to their messages going by a roundabout and more expensive route when a direct one became available. The tax of four thousand dollars per year levied on the Cape Race wireless station is the same as that imposed on all cable landing in Newfoundland. To annul this tax would be disastrous against the cable companies, to reduce the landline tolls on radiograms would be to do the same thing against our own people. Concerning your reference to Mount Pearl Wireless Station being used to give a cheaper trans-Atlantic rate. To my mind an agreement between the Cable Company such as the Government has recently put into effect with the Commercial Cable Company meets general approval for obvious reasons. The Postal Telegraphs with its two hundred and fifty offices, and over one hundred telephones, is a much more extensive system than any other locally engaged. For instance in one day at the main office G.P.O. messages to the number of thirty-six hundred have been handled, in addition to the daily routine, which includes, a detail of credit and debit account telegraphed to St. John's from each office. An outgoing news despatch of about two hundred and fifty words or more sent on all lines, and the movements of coastal steamers reported on the different sections concerned. The Postal is the main channel of communications in Newfoundland, a large amount of traffic from other systems circulating through it, and its capable staff hands handle messages of every description.

A telegraph company generally offers reduced rates when its traffic is light enough to warrant it, or when it has sufficient or additional equipment to handle it. The Postal lines and its operators at the main office have always been overtaxed. To inaugurate a cheap service such as local day, or night letters would hopelessly inundate the system. For local purposes the Anglo and Postal are similarly equipped. You say, "The Anglo, too, is open both day and night, for the convenience of the patrons." I may say that the Postal, like the Anglo, is open continuously, and offers a 24 hour service at its main office. The confusion on this point has probably resulted from the fact that an eight hour day, for six months of the year has recently become effective in the outport offices. Doubtless the Postal Telegraphs, like other systems, is not perfect, but the Telegraphers' Association co-operating with the heads of the department aims at a constantly improved service.

yours truly,
 F.

B. C. DIVIDES $600,000 IN SIX MONTHS WITH MUNICIPALITIES. How the government liquor control system in British Columbia is adding to the income of the municipalities is shown by figures of the disbursements by the Provincial Government to the 62 cities and districts in the province which are benefiting. Over $600,000 has been allotted to the municipalities out of the profits for the period from September 30 last to March 31 of this year as their share. The total profits during that period were $1,231,365 and since June 15 last when the act came into force $1,729,972. After making provisions for reserves the balance of the profits goes into provincial revenue.

Sell Sunlight Soap for Quick Sales and Sufficient Profits.

Are you in business or just keeping shop? If you are keeping a shop you'll no doubt be able to keep it as long as your money lasts.

If you're in business, then you want your shop to keep you, and it will if you make quick sales and sufficient profits.

If you try to sell to your customers any goods which they do not want, you may be able to do it; but the chances are against you. As a business person you should supply the goods your customers want and should try to make a profit on every transaction. Now take soap as an example: When you are asked to buy a box of soap which is said to be just as good as Sunlight Soap, consider carefully this important question: Is this other soap really just as good as Sunlight Soap? Unless this other soap will sell as well as Sunlight Soap, it certainly is not just as good as Sunlight Soap FOR YOU.

The soap which people want is the easiest and most profitable soap for you to sell. Sunlight Soap being the soap which people want, is therefore the easiest soap to sell; in fact, it sells itself—people ask for it.

Sunlight Soap requires no pushing, and because it sells best—it pays best.

Stick to Sunlight Soap, it always has been and always will be the very highest quality of household soap.

Sunlight Soap is the soap your customers want. You will sell 5 cases of Sunlight Soap whilst trying to sell 1 case of any unknown soap.

Buy Sunlight Soap from Your Jobber.

Riga Beggars Are Able Linguists.

RIGA.—There has been so many delegations of French officials and business men in Riga this summer that the French language is becoming popular, adding another tongue to the three others—Latvian, Russian and German—already recognized in the new Baltic state. Because of the polyglot population of the country, Latvian money has the wording in Latvian, Russian and German. The telephone "hello" girls all speak these languages and some of them also English, French and Estonian. Many of the Latvian government officials speak English and French. At the postoffice and at many other government bureaus the public notices are in the three official languages and this summer, with inauguration of the aerial post, French has appeared on signs pointing directions to the public for the proper posting of mail intended for the aviation service. In Riga the few beggars there are nearly all able to speak five or six languages, and some of them use very good English, picked up along the water front.

Put off Town.

Did you ever go to Put-Off Town. Where the houses are old and tumble-down, And everything tarries and everything drags. With dirty streets and people in rags?

On the street of Slow lives Old man Wait. And his two little boys, named Langer and Late. With unclean hands and tousled hair, And a naughty little sister named "Don't Care."

Grandmother Growl lives in the town, With her two daughters, called Fret and Frown; And Old Man Lazy lives all alone Around the corner on street Postpone.

Did you ever go to Put-Off Town To play with the little girls, Fret and Frown Or go to the home of Old Man Wait, And whistle for his boys to come to the gate?

To play all day in Terry street, Leaving your errands for another's feet; To stop or shrink, or linger, or frown Is the nearest way to this old town.

Salvation Army Congress Opens.

MAYOR PRESIDES AT PUBLIC MEETING.
SATURDAY.

The Salvation Army Congress is now full in session, and judging by the spirit of enthusiasm displayed in the meetings of Saturday night and all day yesterday the Congress this year will equal if not surpass any gatherings of a similar nature in this city.

The meeting on Saturday night was for officers, local officers and soldiers, and took the form of a preliminary welcome to the Commissioner and party. The No. 1 Citadel was well filled for the occasion and enthusiasm ran high throughout the whole meeting. "Stand up stand up for Jesus," lined out by Colonel Martin, was sung heartily by the congregation. Commandant Stuckland invoked the divine blessing on the gathering, after which Staff Captain Tiley, General Secretary, led the congregation in singing "Oh Boundless Salvation."

Colonel Martin in a few well chosen words expressed the pleasure he felt at having the Commissioner and his wife here for the Congress and called upon Sergt. Majors Barber, Cummings and John, and on behalf of the No. 1, II, and III Corps respectively. The words of these comrades left no uncertainty in the minds of the Commissioner and his wife as to the feelings of the St. John's Salvationists regarding their visit, but they were assured of the royal welcome. Sergt. Major Barber embodied his words in a song which he sang to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia." The following are the words:—

God bless you sir, we welcome you from across the sea,
To help to lead us in the fight
That sets poor sinners free.
And may you and your dear wife
A mighty blessing be,
To all whom we met on the island.

Then soldiers sing, sing a welcome home,
Come shout aloud a joyous welcome home.
With hearts of burning love to-night,
We gladly welcome here our Commissioner and wife to the Island.

Commissioner Sowton on rising received a great ovation from the people. He spoke of the pleasure it gave him to again visit Newfoundland and how much he appreciated the warm welcome received, he spoke of his travels in various parts of the world and told an interesting story of a visit he paid to an Indian settlement in Alaska. The visit of a Commissioner to this settlement was a great event and he was told by an officer who met him on the train that the Indian villagers intended to ask a great many favours of him when he arrived among them. He accordingly prepared himself to listen to a large number of requests. Great was his surprise therefore when he attended meeting after meeting and no requests were asked for and no requests proffered. When he came to the last meeting of the series he said to the officer in charge what about these requests your people have to make of me? Then he handed him a slip of paper on which was written these words: "The Commissioner he warm our hearts and make us strong," meaning that since receiving the inspirations of the Commissioner's presence and counsel they were striving to bear their own burdens and fight their own battles. "That," said the Commissioner, "is our desire in coming among you for this Congress,—warm your hearts and make us strong." Judging by the fervent sames heard on every side the Salvationists present were open to receive the Commissioner's message and extract all possible help and blessing therefrom.

Colonel Adby was greeted with loud applause and was sometimes before he could make himself heard. He stated that he was the bearer of greetings from Mrs. Adby, Col. Morehen and Otway, Commandant and Mrs. Hiscock and a number of other officers who were formerly connected with the work in Newfoundland. He assured the congregation that he brought his own salvation love with him (loud applause) and asked each officer and soldier to remember their individual responsibility for the success of the Congress.

The band then played, after which Commissioner Sowton gave a short address on the four essentials of soldieryship stating that the four essential qualities for successful service in the ranks of the army were Godliness, Salvationism, Duty, Constancy, and Earnestness. Space will only permit of a more than passing reference to what was a really splendid address. Summe to say that it was listened to with rapt attention by the congregation and in the prayer meeting 19 persons came forward to the Mercy Seat, to recommence themselves to the service of God.

Mr. Sowton made her initial speech to a Newfoundland audience, and it is no exaggeration to say that she captured the hearts of her audience right off. She spoke of having come in contact with the Army when quite young and expressed her great pleasure at being able to visit Newfoundland and become acquainted with its people.

Another Nobleman Feels the Pinch
of Hard Times.

LONDON (Associated Press)—The Duke of Northumberland is hard up, as are many other members of the old nobility in these days of excessive taxation, and is compelled to retrench like many untitled folk in order to make both ends meet. He has sold many of his northern properties, including several large hotels. To a wealthy Paris art dealer he recently rented his magnificent mansion on the Thames, near Kew. It is one of the biggest residences in the country. And still the Duke feels the necessity of cutting down expenses. He has decided to close Alnwick Castle, which has been the Northumberland home of the Percys since early in the 14th century. He will retain only a few rooms in the castle for use when he and the Duchess are in the north. The rest of the place will be shut up. The shooting on the estate is to be let.

World's Future
None Too Secure.

LONDON—Sir Rider Haggard is of the opinion that Western civilization is by no means so secure as many Westerners believe. "We have an idea that the West is going on forever," he said, lecturing before the Norwich Rotary Club, "but we are quite sure of that? Those who have studied and know the East; its enormous power of reproduction; its simple habits of life on the land, and its system of moralities which make every woman think it her duty to have children, know that it contains an enormous potential power which must one day break out. "Whether it can be curbed I do not know, but I have grave doubts. I shall never forget my friend, Theodore Roosevelt, saying when talking of Japan, "Look out for your Australia; it will be the first place to go." If once Japan secures the control of China the Western World will be very cloudy." The speaker said he thought our existing civilizations in the end probably would go the way of other civilizations that had preceded it. "Who would have thought a dozen years ago," he said, "that there would be such horrors in the world as we have recently seen in Russia. Even in Ireland it has been revealed that the savage is uncommonly near the skirt of civilized man, and so always it will be."

Harbor Grace Regatta.

Our Regatta, which was to have taken place on Wednesday, was postponed owing to the inclement weather until yesterday. Yesterday morning was fine and the stores and business places were kept closed, and at any early hour hundreds of our people repaired to Lady Lake where the contests were to be held. The first race was called for 10.30, but owing to one of the buoys necessitating replacement it did not take place until about noon. The first race, the Tradesmen, promised to be a well-contested one, but at the last moment the crew of the Maggie withdrew, so that the race was between the two boats, Winnie and Prince Albert. The Winnie seemed to have things all her own way, winning every race for the day. The weather was good and the day in the country was greatly enjoyed by the large number of people who attended. Many refreshment tents were on the course and catered to the needs of the inner man, while parties held picnics, and at dinner time numerous smokes could be seen in all directions where meals were being prepared. The Committee in charge did their utmost to provide a pleasant day's sport and everything connected with the programme was carried out without a hitch. The following was the programme in order of races with crews and time:—

Prince Albert—J. Garland (cox); A. Martin, Eugene Martin, Andrew Martin, Nath. Sheppard.
Maggie—M. P. Stapleton (cox); J. Mercer, Wm. Stevenson, Const. Smith, N. Parsons.
Won by Winnie, Prince Albert second. Time, 11.16%. Cash Prize.

The Winnie is owned by Mr. F. C. Archibald, M.H.A., the Prince Albert by the Fire Brigade and the Maggie by Mr. W. Carson.

One great feature, to our mind, towards the monotonous results of the races is the boats depend on picking crews at too late a date to get the required practice. The Winnie's continued successes yesterday were largely due to the fact that her crews were selected in good time and given the opportunity of at least three weeks' practice.

On the whole the day's proceedings, if perhaps, less exciting than in former years, were thoroughly successful, and all the many townspeople present found the day among the splendid scenery and health-giving breezes thoroughly enjoyable.—Hr. Grace Standard, Aug. 11.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Sachem left Halifax Saturday at 4 p.m. for this port.
S.S. Fortia arrived from Sydney yesterday after a 36 hours' run, having a cargo of coal which will be discharged at T. A. Bown's premises.
The French cruiser Ville D'ys, which arrived from the Banks last night for water and supplies berthed at Harvey's pier.
Schr. Lucille M. Colp of Lunenburg arrived in port Saturday evening to obtain medical assistance for one of her crew. The schooner is fishing on the Banks, and came here from Holyrood where she took a bait supply. The banker sailed again yesterday morning.

The Songs and Tunes of Long Ago.

The songs they sing the tunes they play, to-day I have to laugh at them. Such silly stuff I never heard in all my life before. They're wanting wit and common sense, I guess in more than half of them.

And the sort of folks that after them include the rich and poor. Oh! God be with the good old days, when mother used to sing to us, the song of "Highland Mary, and the Cottage by the Sea". To-day when musing on the past, what pleasure it does bring to us, the memories of those happy hours when we were young and free.

Now, father how he'd hum for us, the lively tunes of olden days, while mother sat and watched him with her pleasing face aglow; Oh, Father Time can ne'er efface, the pleasures of those golden days. The songs and tunes of childhood in the merry long ago.

The "fox trot" so they tell us, is the title of a dance they have. A "Jazz" band renders music for our country's growing youth; More fun and real enjoyment now sure often to my aunts they'd have. From a "break down" with sweet music from a fiddle or a fute.

Alas, those days have passed away, the kindness and the grit of them, The pleasures seem around us now are mostly empty show. The songs they sing, the tunes they play, there is no sense nor wit in them. Oh, give me back the good old songs, and tunes of long ago.

New Pastor at Gower St. Methodist Church.

REV. HAMMOND JOHNSON PREACHES.

At the services in Gower Street Methodist Church yesterday, Rev. Hammond Johnson occupied the pulpit. The attendance at both morning and evening services was unusually large. In the morning Mr. Johnson occupied the pulpit and was supported by Rev. Dr. Fenwick, Chairman of the St. John's District, and Rev. T. W. Atkinson, Assistant Pastor. The subject selected, was the Great Commission, and the central theme the responsibility of all. Preaching the Gospel was not confined to clergymen. The most effective sermons were those of human lives. At night the text was, "Enter Ye in at The Strait Gate" and the theme "Life," the central point being that though the entrance was narrow, no narrowness is found in religious life. Mr. Johnson is a pleasing speaker, and a thoughtful preacher. Strongly evangelist, he has the rare gift of interpreting old truths in new language, and arresting the attention of his hearers, by apt illustration. He used neither manuscript nor notes, but his utterances denoted that careful preparation, which is expected from the student and thinker. HIS DIARY.

Aug. 13th. (Lord's Day).—The astonishing thing is that much to my great discontent and to the disgust and displeasure of the master of the gas propelled boat "Hawke," we find ourselves back at Bonne Bay, having been obliged to depart from Bay of Islands, in great haste as I did find that I had left great many pricy valuables at the former place, while breaking the journey from Hawke's Harbor, along the coast, and must needs have the yacht go back for them post haste. To-day, a tempest is raging and the waters of the bay are in great turmoil, so much so that no boat can put out. My speedy return to the city is therefore much delayed, and I may not make it before Thursday, for the same being exceedingly sorry. It doth irritate me exceedingly that I should be thus held back, but the wind and the seas obey no man, therefore will I have all the more excitement of adventure to relate when it pleases Providence to permit of the continuance of my journey.

SIDE TALKS.

FIND THE MISSING LINK.

Have you noticed the great change in advertising methods in the past ten years? When I turn over the advertising pages of some of the hand-made magazines one of the bare mechanical cost of a certain well known magazine is 30 cents per copy; it sells for 15c. I am impressed by this change in method.

This is what I mean. Once upon a time advertising was a very simple affair.

In those days the advertiser had a picture of his producer made, and either printed the picture with a blurb stating flatly that it was best thing of its kind on the market, or perhaps gave a few reasons for its superiority.

A Guessing Contest.

Of course there are some advertisers to-day who still follow that obvious course, but the most popular idea at present seems to be to get a picture that arrests the eye by its attractiveness and subtly fills the mind with a sense of luxury and beauty, and then link it up to the article advertised.

I find it interesting to notice how long and tenuous this link often is. I defy anyone to guess from some of the pictures what the article to be advertised was.

Here are a few of the examples I have picked out at random:

Revolvers or Bacon.

A very lovely bride standing ready to throw her shower bouquet over a balcony. Now I cannot conceive of any article that a bride might not be advertising under the modern rules of the game. Nothing could be too alien to that picture. Name an article and I will tell you how to link it up. Somebody's ball bearings? Surely. They have been used on the car which her father gave her for a wedding present and her perfect day is made more perfect by the thought that that car is going to wear so much longer. A course in accounting? Why, of course. That is how they were enabled to get married. He took that course in accounting and doubled his salary the first month, and hence the wedding bells. A brand of bacon? She is thinking of the first breakfast she will prepare for him. A revolver? She knows he has purchased the only make of revolver that is guaranteed to protect against burglars, and so she feels perfectly safe about her wedding presents and is able to smile that carefree smile.

As a matter of fact, the bride is advertising the articles of toilet ware which she received among her gifts.

Here are a few more examples.

A mother leaning over the crib of an adorable baby. Will baby have beautiful hair when she grows up? Yes, if Molly uses somebody's soap in shampooing it.

Mother and daughter in a lovely room exchanging confidences after the party. A certain kind of electric light bulb is supplying the light without which those confidences would lack savor.

Why the Batterfly!

A lovely lady coming down a stair case to join the gentleman in evening clothes who waits below. Somebody's glue. (Explanation, lovely lady has torn her dress and is going to mend it with glue!)

But the prize of the lot to me is the picture of a butterfly alighting on a spray of flowers which adorns the advertisement of somebody's physic. The advertiser has not bothered to explain the connection. He gives us the picture and a line of praise of the obliging qualities of his physic, and stands pat. If we want a connection we may supply it. He has done his part. Perhaps he is very subtle, perhaps his idea is that people will do just what I am doing, puzzle as to what the connection is and in thinking about it fix the name of his product in their minds. I wonder.

MAYFLOWER TO RACE IN TRIALS.

Canadian Trustees Have Changed Minds on Her Fishing Qualities.

PORTLAND, Me., July 22.—That the Boston schooner Mayflower will be eligible to race in the elimination trials to select a challenger for the International fishing vessel trophy seems assured. The American race committee is unanimously in favor of giving her an opportunity to demonstrate in competition with other fishermen.

Thus the much-maligned Mayflower appears to have won the good graces of the committee by consistent performance in the industry for which she was built. On the occasion of the International race last year she was not allowed to enter the trial races, the reason given by the Canadian trustees of the trophy being that she did not comply with spirit of the deed of gift in that she is a yacht schooner.

CHANGE OF HEART.

It is apparent, now, that the Canadians have experienced a change of heart concerning this schooner which has kept the sea continuously since April, 1921, for her trips have averaged as well as any of theirs.

It is now possible to state that the American race committee, within a few days, will probably notify representatives of the Mayflower of her acceptance; also, favorable reports on the schooners Henry Ford, Elizabeth Howard and, possibly, the Boston schooner Yankee are anticipated.

Should these vessels start in the trials, about Oct. 1, a spirited contest is likely. The Ford was built this year as a cup contender, the Elizabeth Howard is about four years old and known to be fast, while the Yankee is somewhat smaller, and a year old, has made quick trips under all conditions of weather. At the present time the Henry Ford is on the Grand Banks and a few days ago Capt. Cleyre Morrissy reported from St. Pierre 160,000 pounds of fish with prospects good for a large catch before returning to market.

A rather peculiar situation exists in connection with the elimination trials because, although the American race committee may name a challenger for trophy, their selection may be objectionable to the Canadian trustees who, under the rules, have the right to bar the vessel if, in their opinion, she does not meet requirements. Therefore, the fact that a particular schooner is nominated to meet the Britisher of Gloucester for the series to be held between Oct. 15 and 25 does not necessarily imply that she will be accorded the honor. Not till the international series really begins will all doubt be removed.

CANADIAN NON-COMMITTAL.

The Canadians are non-committal when asked what chance the Mayflower has in the big event should she be named by the race committee. The question was put to H. R. Silvers, chairman of the trustees, following the meeting of the committee and trustees in this city. He said the matter had not been considered officially by the trustees and, under the circumstances it would not be right for him to discuss the matter. However, the Canadians know that the Americans are a unit in favor of the Mayflower. Also, that the fishing interests of Gloucester, Boston and Provincetown desire that the vessel be not discriminated against this year.

A report that the Lunenburg schooner Bluenose, which wrested the trophy from the Elsie of Gloucester last year would be over length and therefore not eligible for the coming series, undoubtedly is not borne out by the fact. W. J. Rouse of Halifax, designer of this vessel, states she is not down to the limit by a matter of three inches notwithstanding continuous service since last fall which includes salt fishing and two voyages to the West Indies with cargo.

NEW DISPLACEMENT RULE.

As for the new Lunenburg schooner Mahaso, built for a try at the cup, Capt. Angus Walters of the Bluenose is quoted as saying his schooner is much faster. This, however, will be proved next September when the Canadian schooners race off Halifax for choice of a defender. Designer Rouse and Designer T. F. McManus of Dorchester, the latter having planned the Henry Ford, will be requested to work out and submit for consideration a displacement rule to prevent the building of vessels of extreme type, thereby preventing the international race from becoming a mere sporting event.

Ever since the Esperanto won the trophy in the first contest, two years ago, schooner owners have not been in accord with the construction of big craft on the ground they are not economical in upkeep and operation. Both the Mayflower and Bluenose are close to the limit of 112 feet waterline with tonnage measurement of about 160 tons. It has been recommended that new schooners be smaller, not more than 110 feet waterline and tonnage of about 130 tons.—Sunday Herald.

FOREST FIRE REPORTED.

S.S. Susu, Capt Roberts returned to port from the Fogo Mail Service on Saturday evening having made the round trip in quick time. The ship reports the trap voyage at Fogo as over, the fishermen doing well on an average. At the Wadhams the fishery has been fairly successful, and the same applies to Catalina. A forest fire of small dimensions was seen when coming south and was supposed to be between Horwood and Gander Bay. The Susu brought a part inward freight and the following passengers:—Misses Diamond, Wittshire, E. Green, M. Newell, E. Mullett, J. Abbott, E. Melandy, Furze, B. Payne, Newhook, F. Great Film of Mother Love Here Soon.

“THE OLD NEST” TO BE SHOWN AT THE NICKEL.

The Nickel Theatre announces another great screen triumph, which will be shown in a few days. The picture is captioned “The Old Nest” and is Rupert Hughes heart-grIPPING story of the home. One of the greatest motion pictures of all time. The author tears down one of the walls of the American home of to-day, and you walk in and know the family. A marvelous, stirring, beautiful, vivid drama that will be talked of for years to come. The story opens in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Horace Anthon. The children are lively young people and there are spankings as well as kisses. One by one they leave the old home as they mature and go out into the world to make their own way, until finally the old folks are left alone. The home ties severed, the children become forgetful even of “Mother's” birthday, and her only pleasure is in recalling the days that have gone by. One of them, a hardworking young lawyer, is appointed attorney general of the United States. In the hour of his great happiness he remembers the old home and with his brothers and sisters pays father and mother a visit.

Beef.--There has been no change in the beef market the past three weeks. Beef has reached such a low level that it is difficult to imagine that prices can go lower. The present price of "Boneless" figures out at about 4 cents per pound to the producer, which is the lowest price shown for many years. During this week 335 barrels were imported. The favorable situation in the local beef market is attributed to the recent more favorable freight rates. Bos.

Molasses.--Price is firm at Bar-fancy molasses, and business is fairly active at this figure, which is equal to thirty cents additional landed here.

The schooner Isatol Moore is now at Barbados taking a cargo, and the Robert Dale is due there while the Donald H. is on her way down. Fancy is firm in this market at 80 cents per gallon wholesale, while Choice is 75 cents. The imports to date are 7,300

punchons, as compared with 4,500
this week last year.
Sugar.--The market continues firm.
Present stocks are selling at 11 and a half cents per pound wholesale, although sugar at recent quotations is costing $12.20 to land here. As soon as present holdings are exhausted the public must expect to pay the latter figure with the usual profit added. There is no likelihood of any lower prices until the next crop is available. The present stocks held in St. John's will last for about three weeks. Those who require sugar for jamming would do well to buy now.
Potatoes.--The S.S. "Rosalind" brought in 105 sacks of new potatoes this week from Montreal. The local householders are now using the home grown, bought in gallon quantities at 25 to 30 cents. This price is bound to fall early according as the potatoes get more plentiful, especially as imported new are now down to $3.00 and $2.50 according to quantity taken at one purchase. Next week's quarter barrels of home grown are expected to be in the market at 80 cents to $1.00.
Hay.--The season of abundance is now on. The local crop is the best for years, but there are few sales as all purchasers are confident of a big decline. A city importer wired this week to Montreal for guidance in placing orders, and a reply came back advising him to hold off and that Canadian hay could be landed in St.
John's for $40 per ton and was still on the down grade. The crop was large and no one was yet laying in stocks. It is believed that the price will drop to $25 this month. The imports this week were 190 bales by the S.S. Canadian Sapper from Montreal, via Charlottetown. The price of both local and imported will hold around $45 till next big importations come in.
Oats.--There is no activity in oats beyond the purchase of small quantities by the truckmen of the city at the old prices of $4.00 per sack for White and $3.80 for Mixed. The importers will not order their nine months stocks till late in the season

owing to the big harvests in Canada.
Prices are almost certain to decline in the fall not less than 70 cents per sack. In this expectation purchasers are all holding off.

HOPE ON.
Hop on, hope ever, say the seers, who're
packed with wisdom to their ears, and have good sense to burn; though things look dark," the sages say, "and crises face us every day, the good times will return." The wild men raise a frightful noise; but through it all the wise old boys keep saying, "Don't lose faith;
'tis true conditions are a scream, but shortly all these things will seem a pipe dream and a wraith." There is a carnival of crime, and undertakers spend their time embalming murdered men; but still the wise old sages say, "These crazy times will soon pass by, and sense will come again."
Suspended are established rules; the workmen throw down their tools at every passing whim; and still the sages make their cracks: "The world will soon get down to tacks, we'll all be in the swim." When I wade through the daily news I'm threatened with a case of blues, so many things are wrong; delirium each nation has, and life is like a Darktown jaz, that should be one sweet song.

But while I'm sighing I can hear the cheer-up message of the seer, who does a grouch disdain; "These ragtime things will pass away, and there will dawn a better day, when we will all be sane."
If your family does not like plain baked apples try sprinkling them with cinnamon and nut meats.
Set cubes of cheese on crackers and brown in the oven. These are good to serve with salad.

Corns Go

Just say Blue-jay
to your druggist

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it) and in extra thin plasters. The action is the same.
