M. K. PIPER,

PROPRIETOR AND PUBLISHER.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 13, 1908.

The depression which has attended the financial situation in Canada and the United States has in a large degree subsidized, and financiers are prophesying that the coming season will witness a return of prosperity. In our own favored province we have felt the depression in a less degree than our neighbors even though the chief source of income for our Valley people, the apple crop, proved a severe disappointment. Should this be accepted as a warning to our farmers not to place unqualified dependence upon their orchards as inexhaustible treasures, the loss will not be in vain. Certain arguments are exaggerating the situation to the extent of prophesying that our orchards will in time fail us altogether but it will need more convincing arguments than any yet advanced to persuade us that our soil and climate will fail to make us ample return for our well-directed efforts through the intelligent study of nature's open book.

Referring to the general business depression and the probable reaction, an English writer, Mr. H. H. Kennedy, who visited Canada in December last and who has great faith in the future of our Dominion says—

"It is quite evident to all who have intimate knowledge of Canadian conditions that the trouble here described is but a passing incident in the Dominion's history, a great development in the Canadian architecture and factories is as certain as anything in the world. While the setback here is disagreeable, but already there are signs that it will not be long before the long and dark winter of trouble will have far less in Canada than in the United States, so the recovery in Canada is likely to be more rapid.

One very healthy sign is the remarkable fact that the number of farmers in the United States who are acquiring land in the British side of the water this year than ever before."

"The trouble, too, may have a valuable result. One of the sweet uses of adversity is that it teaches us by severe experience lessons that the careless will not learn by any milder means. A famous preacher once said that the trouble which is descending upon the world is

A Living From an Acre of Land

The story of how a railroad engineer and his wife made a living from one acre of land is told in the March Century. The "One Acre Ranch" is laid out as follows:

"The orchard occupies one-fourth of the acre. In it are one hundred and thirty trees, including eight varieties of peaches, seven of cherries and four of apples; also plum, apricot, quince, English walnut, Spanish chestnut and almond. Between the trees and on the other fourth part of the acre are garden berries and vegetables, thirty varieties of more, including potatoes peas, beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, beets, onions, squash, parsnips, asparagus, peppers, pickles, turnips, cabbage, strawberries, grapes, currants, gooseberries, raspberries, and blackberries. The fence on three sides of the place serves as a grape arbor and in season forty groans with the weight of the fruit.

The yearly income from these products would easily support the proprietors of the One Acre Ranch, but the poultry yard, with five thousand eggs, which sold at prices ranging from twenty to forty-five cents per dozen. Two hundred and fifty settings were sold for hatching purposes, netting approximately one dollar a setting.

While the husband experimented with every variety of fruit and vegetable and found which were the best growers and sellers, the wife experimented with her preserves until they became as famous as her husband's crops.
I rode down to see the owner of the other day, and found him industri-ously ploughing the orchard with his horse and plough.
"I am my own horse and plough and farm hand, and even my own rainmaker. I tell you," he said, earnestly "with irrigation, and careful supervision there's nothing in the way as a profit producer that can beat the small farm."

NOT HERE BELOW.
Two employes in a large establishment were talking about their work.
One said: "I believe every man working at the same job ought to get the same wages. That's fair for every one."

"Well," replied the other, "that may please the fellow who isn't willing to do his best. But for me, I want the satisfaction of knowing that if I work harder and more intelligently than the average man I can get more money."

"Yes," said the first, "and you are just the kind of fellow that upsets everything."

"Upsets what? Upsets a soft job for some fellow that can't do his work. I ain't a man that works at anything that wouldn't be better off in the long run if he got paid for just what he does."

"I'll do more when I get paid more, and not before. If I get two dollars I'll do two dollars worth of work, and if I get three dollars I'll do three dollars' worth of work. What's the matter with that?"

"Well," said the other, "you'll look a long while before you find anybody that will pay you more in the hope that you will do more. The world ain't built that way. It may be that way in the fool's paradise, but not down here below."

HATS OFF, LADIES.

(Hartford Times.)

Why should not women remove their hats in church, as well as in the theatre, especially at a time when such enormous headgear is worn by them as that which is now in vogue?
The experiment was tried in one Providence church, Sunday. A dispatch from that city says: "Easter hats were removed by every woman but one who attended to-day's services at the Calvary Baptist Church. That one exception, with her large creation of milliner's art, attracted as much attention as the pastor's unlimited sermon. This church has one of the largest congregations in Rhode Island.
A stand of triplicate mirrors was provided in the rear of the auditorium, and the women took off their hats and carried them in their hands into the church. After the service they again had the aid of the mirrors in "setting them on straight." We are not surprised to hear that "everybody voted the new custom a grand success."

Weak women should read my "Book No. 4 For Women." It was written expressly for women who are not well.
The Book No. 4 tells of Dr. Shoop's "Night Cure" and just how these soothing, healing, anesthetic suppositories can be successfully applied. The book and strictly confidential medical advice is entirely free. Write Dr.

Before the Morn.

We watched her breathing thro' the night,
Her breathing soft and low,
As in her breast the wave of life Kept heaving to and fro.

So silently we seemed to speak,
So slowly moved about,
As we had lent her half our powers To eke her living out.

Our very hopes belied our fears,
Our fears our hopes belied, We thought her dying when she slept And sleeping when she died.

For when the morn came dim and sad,
And chill with early showers, Her quiet eyelids closed—she had Another morn than ours.

THE MOST COMMON CAUSE OF SUFFERING.

Rheumatism causes more pain and suffering than any other disease, for the reason that it is the most common of all ills, and it is certainly gratifying to sufferers to know that Chamberlain's Pain Balm will afford relief, and make rest and sleep possible. In many cases the relief from pain, which is at first temporary, has become permanent, while in old people subject to chronic rheumatism, often brought on by dampness or changes in the weather, a permanent cure cannot be expected, the relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. 25 and 50 cent

OPPORTUNITY.

They do me wrong who say I come no more,
When once I knock and fail to find you in,
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake and rise and fight and win.

Wait not for precious chances passed away; Weep not for golden ages, on the wane, Each night I burn the records of the day,
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys and hopes, and dead and dumb,
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead, but never kind moment yet to come.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

A popular contributor to a certain weekly paper recently died, and a visitor to the office the day after the funeral found the editor and his staff talking about their loss disconsolately.
"It has been a sad loss, friends," the visitor said. "A sad loss indeed." He sighed and looked about the room.
"And I am pleased to see," he went on, "that you commemorate the melancholy event by hanging up crepe."
The editor frowned.
"Crepe?" he said. "Where do you see any crepe?"
"Over there," said the visitor, pointing.
"Crepe be blowed," said the editor.
"That isn't crepe. It's the office towel."

Don't Believe This Pessimist

The following letter from Mr. W. N.
White, an old apple grower in the locality, appeared in the Halifax Herald recently:

To the Editor of the Halifax Herald: Sir,—In your issue of the 25th inst., you published an article from W. C.
Archibald, on the subject of fruit growing in the Maritime Provinces, wherein he says: "Cornwallis and Annapolis Valley has an export trade of nearly $2,000,000, which by 1925, is likely to reach $5,000,000." To these figures I join issue and say that the export trade of the past season will not net back $1,000,000, and that next year unless things alter will be much less. I have known the apples from Nova Scotia for thirty years, and say that for some time the returns have been gradually falling off.

Two years ago after a very exhaustive trip through your apple growing sections, I tried to wake up your growers and got back some strong letters in reply. Since that time, your bye-products, such as evaporated apples, cider and apple-vinager, have been receiving more attention.

Mr. Archibald seems to think your sea-fog which he says "is very dense and most persistent," is a benefit to your apples. On the contrary, that is the principal reason Nova Scotian apples are now covered with fungus, which is one of the worst diseases known to apple growers and in particular, destructive to such sorts as Gravenstein and Ribstone. Outside of San Jose scale more damage has been caused by fungus than any other disease known. All apples grown near the lakes in Western New York have to be sprayed regularly or they would be useless. Plenty of Nova Scotian apples have been sold at ruinous prices on account of this fungus, and unless your growers fight the disease for all it is worth, Nova Scotian apples in the year 1925 will be a thing of the past.

I am acquainted with apple culture in all parts of the world and know many countries that used to produce very large quantities in the past, but now their commercial value is a by-word. Yours faithfully, W. N. WHITE,
76 Park Place, New York, April 27.

Tired nerves, with that "no ambition, nothing doing" attitude, in the spring or early summer, can be easily and quickly altered by taking what is known to druggists everywhere as Dr.
Shoop's Restorative. One will absolutely note a changed feeling within 48 hours after beginning to take the Restorative. The bowels get sluggish in the winter time, the circulation often slows up, the kidneys are inactive, and even the Heart in many cases grows decidedly weaker. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is recognized everywhere as a genuine tonic to these vital organs. It builds up and strengthens the weakened nervous system, it changes the failing appetite, and universally aids digestion. It always quickly restores strength, life, vigor, and ambition. Try it and be convinced.

DISINFECTION OF HOUSES.

A very wholesome practice that bids fair to become an established custom is the disinfection of a house before a new family moves into it. This is done now where a case of very contagious disease, such as smallpox or diphtheria, has been known to exist; but how can we feel sure that the house a man not had in it an unrecognized or a suppressed case of measles, scarlet fever, or tuberculosis, or typhoid fever? Disinfection after these diseases is of the highest importance. Then, again, there are those diseases that are not fatal, perhaps, but, being communicable, may certainly become nuisances. This precaution, therefore, should be demanded of every landlord by those who are planning to rent the house.

Gentlemen:—
"Some time ago I began to lose flesh and failed every day until I had to quit work. My physicians and all my friends said I had contracted consumption. I failed from 165 pounds down

"I tried Psychine and since starting its use I have gained from 119 to 141 pounds. I have used $100.00 worth of the medicine. I am a well man and I cannot say too much in praise of Psychine. The strongest recommendation would be weak in view of the fact that I believe it has saved my life. It is without doubt the best remedy for run-down conditions and weak lungs.
"I sincerely hope and trust that you will continue your good work of saving run down people and consumptive from the grave. Wishing you and Psychine continued success, I remain, one of Psychine's best friends."

Major Powell-Cotton's African Travels.

Clawed by a Lion—The First White Woman to Stay Among Natives.
(London Leader.)
Major Powell-Cotton, accompanied by his wife, has arrived in Rome, completing his travels in Africa, which in their scientific results will prove more valuable than his travels of 1902-1903.
The explorer was unaccompanied by any white man from start to finish. A romantic interest is to be found in the fact that Major Powell-Cotton, who had intended on the conclusion of his expedition to return to England and get married, decided not to interrupt his journey, and arranged for his fiancée to go to Africa. The marriage took place in East Africa in 1905, and since then Mrs. Powell-Cotton has shared her husband's hardships and dangers. The explorer and his wife are both in fairly good health, though the former shows traces of the hardships he has endured, and has seventeen wounds, the result of a terrible attack by a lion near the Albert Edward Lake.
The explorer and his wife are both in fairly good health, though the former shows traces of the hardships he has endured, and has seventeen wounds, the result of a terrible attack by a lion near the Albert Edward Lake.
Speaking to Reuters's representative, Major Powell-Cotton said: "One of my objects was to go into the little known part of Congo, south of Lado, in search of the white rhinoceros, of which I have secured splendid specimens. The authorities made concessions never before given to a foreigner in the way of hunting in the reserves and giving permission to kill a limited number of rare animals."
"So far as it has been possible to examine the specimens which have reached this country, it has been found that they include six species of forest animals previously unknown to science. These are the dusky African cat, a new animal about the size of a leopard, the honey badger or black hurt rat, elephant shrew, an antelope armed with tusks which dives under the water, a new black and white monkey, and a huge red buffalo.
"Resembling in this matter all other English travellers, I have not only seen a living live okapi—although I was once within twenty yards of one in the bush. I have sent home to the national collection, the skin and complete skeleton of an adult male okapi, which, I am informed, is the most perfect specimen of it yet brought to this country."
"After reaching Khartoum," Major Powell-Cotton continued, "I travelled to Lado and back to Kiro, the most north-easterly Nile post. At Wadi-lai, one of the officials told me a curious story of how the natives in the vicinity dispose of the old folk when they become a burden. As soon as the infirmities of age assert themselves, the old people are given a wooden draught and wrapped in a fresh antelope skin. Thus attired they are carried by members of their family to a spot some distance from the village and are abandoned in the grass close to a native track. The first person coming by sees what he thinks an antelope, and spears it, whereupon the victim's family emerges from their hiding-place and express horror and surprise at the unfortunate incident."
"We were marched to an almost impenetrable part of the Great Forest, where some four years previously a Belgian officer had been murdered by outlaws, who, owing to the nature of the country, have never been brought to justice. The place had become a rendezvous for these outlaws, who had assembled in great numbers, and simply over-ran the country in small bands. We took the greatest precautions, which we did not relax, even when we were informed on our arrival that they would not interfere with a British caravan.
"Speaking of the pigmies Major Powell-Cotton said: "The excitement of these little people when they first saw my wife was extraordinary, for they had, of course, never previously beheld a white woman. Perhaps the chief source of wonder was her long hair, which, for the special benefit of the dwarfs, she would let down, while they crowded round our tent in speechless wonder."
"During our many months' stay we never had the least difficulty with the forest tribes, some of whom I employed as hunters. Occasionally when away I would leave my wife alone. She had learnt a little of their language, and did excellent medical work among them. In my absence she took charge of the caravan, and was always treated with the greatest respect by the people."
"During our wanderings in the forest we were told several ghost stories, which we were told were ghost houses. These were built to propitiate the shades of departed chiefs, who, until a resting-place is provided for them, nightly disturb the pigmy villages."
On the conclusion of the work in the forest the expedition proceeded to Lake Albert Edward, where the explorer visited a tribe of lake dwellers—a little closed community, who spend their whole lives on the water. Their houses are all built on floating platforms, anchored to long poles. The main floating village consists of thirty huts, while two others comprise ten and seven respectively.
In October, while on the banks of the Sanga River, near Lake Albert Edward, Major Powell-Cotton had the narrowest possible escape from death. The expedition was in a country in-

NOW I AM WELL

THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Ell, Manitoba.
I wish to state, for the sake of others who may be sufferers like I was, that I suffered from severe indigestion and constipation for years and that there was also much trouble with unpleasant pains in my back which made me miserable, constantly. I tried physicians and took many remedies but got no relief. I was induced to try "Fruit-a-tives" and I can truly say this was the first medicine that ever did me any good. "Fruit-a-tives" quickly relieved the constipation and indigestion and completely cured me of all symptoms of womb trouble. I cannot express too strongly my great gratitude to this medicine as I am well now in every way as ever I was, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives". I can strongly recommend "Fruit-a-tives", it is easy to take and the effect is always mild like fruit.
(Sgd) Mrs. M. BERLAND.
Many women suffer with what the doctors call "Womb Trouble"—"Disordered Ovaries"—"Female Complaints" etc.—when Constipation is causing all the pain. Cure the liver and make the bowels move regularly with "Fruit-a-tives" and the "Womb Trouble" will be cured at the same time.
"Fruit-a-tives" or "Fruit Lax Tablets" are sold by dealers at 50c a box of 6 for $2.50—or will be sent on receipt of 6c. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"And you went?" asked the Man, lazily.
"I hope I have too much good breeding to refuse, if she asked me to go to the cellar!" exclaimed the Girl.
"It was a clean kitchen, a model kitchen in fact, still, it was the kitchen. But I saw that at last the woman was perfectly at her ease. She sat on the cane-bottomed chair with a grace she had not been able to assume in the parlor, and I found myself thinking that she was growing quiet and dignified. When the tea was ready she threw the folded tablecloth across the table—then I saw the tragedy of it all!"
"And you couldn't drink the tea?" inquired the Man.
"No, I swallowed it, hot as it was, but my empty cup did not suggest a return to the parlor. We sat there so long! And while she talked, all the life of that household seemed to fold itself to me by means of that folded, untidy tablecloth. Here in the kitchen, was all they knew of home. The meals for the day were good, and were cooked in this spotless apartment; then came, amid the clutter of pans and skillets and pans (for the better the meal the more of utensils are required) from a carefully set table. While the dishes were being washed, the husband would read the evening paper, the children study their lessons; then the man would wander out to meet his friends, and the woman would read the news, sew and talk with the children until bedtime. The upstairs chambers, well and daintily furnished, were only known as places to sleep in; the parlor and dining room were only entered when company came or on special occasions, and the others were as much strangers there as the mother-in-law. The closet were pretty china, silver, napkins, and many table-cloths—I know not if they were ever used."

"Yet in this house were the means of refined living. Both mother and father were fitted to enjoy it, and a little willingness on their part would have drawn to them congenial people. The result to the children would have been of untold benefit. Instead of growing up without the ease which we give, they would be accustomed to beautiful things in their own home, and would not have to grow acquainted with them elsewhere. Eating in the spacious dining-room, at the well-appointed table, would be something more than the mere gratification of appetite. The entire tone of the family would be raised by simply coming to enjoy the little luxuries and many comforts that abounded in the house."
"And, most important of all, the father might spend his evenings with his family," observed the Man. "We don't say much, but we do like to enjoy all of the home we have built. Again, it is the children, to see that any one thinks things like carpets and chairs and silver are too good for our daily use. The entire trouble, my dear Girl, is that you women think too much of things. What is a carpet, that a man and his children should be interested in placing a foot upon it, save in the awful presence of visitors?"
"Perhaps," said the Girl, defending where she had been blaming, "if you had to sweep a carpet after a man and his children had spent an evening on it, you would find how momentous a thing it can be."
"Sweeping is good exercise," he rejoined. "I read the other day that a celebrated actress says the best ardelevopier is the use of an old-fashioned broom."
"But the actress doesn't have to hake and hake, make and mend, and do a thousand and one things besides," observed the girl. "If she did, what is the use of arguing! But I do wish every woman would determine to enjoy every bit of beauty, comfort, and happiness her home affords, and train up her children to do likewise."

Mrs. Joseph Eccles of Dromore, says: "I took 4 or 5 bottles of Psychine, and a cough I had continually since my childhood disappeared. It is the best remedy for chronic coughs that I ever used."
Thousands of living witnesses pronounce Psychine the greatest medicine in the world. It is not a patent medicine, but a prescription of a great physician. Put it to the test in any case of chest, lung or stomach trouble or any run down or weak condition. At all druggists, 50c and $1.00, or Dr. T. A. Stocum, Limited, Toronto.

Refining Influences.
"Apropos of nothing," began the Girl. "will some one tell me why some people, whom I should say (for the man who never gets past it eventually drifts to the club-house or the saloon), find their idea of home centered in the kitchen?"
"Illustrate your remark," suggested the Man from Ohio, "and we may be able to throw some light on the problem."
"The other day a matter of business took me to the home of a woman whom I had met on several occasions. She presents quite an appearance, you know, just the sort of a mistress you would expect to find in the pressed-brick house in the refined neighborhood to which her street address brought me. She met me at the door, but under her own-roof somehow, the dignity and self-possession which I had so much admired in her abroad had abandoned her, and she stood, instead, a fussy, inconsequential housewife, less at home in her tastefully furnished parlor than a stranger. I was. Scarcely was I seated when her hospitality drove her to the kitchen to make me a cup of tea. But she was loquacious as well as hospitable, and as we could not very well carry on a conversation with the reception hall and dining-room between us, she invited me to come to the dining-room. Still she seemed to be out of her element in this well-equipped apartment, and then she asked me if I would not put formality aside and come to the kitchen."

The many friends of Miss Florence Flaquer, who summered here last year with Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lingley, will regret to learn that she died at the General Public Hospital, St. John, on Monday last, as the result of an operation for appendicitis.

An old landmark passed away on the first day of this month. It was Captain Benjamin Hunt. He had been sick several months with heart disease and had reached the advanced age of ninety years. There were none better nor more favorably known than deceased, and his going caused genuine sorrow among all classes of the community. He had the presence with the remote past, and he possessed that sturdiness of character that marked many of the early settlers. On that account he was held in high respect, and he will long be remembered by his neighbors and fellow-citizens. In early life Captain Hunt began going to sea, and when very young rose to the rank of Captain. His sea-faring career was a very successful one. He was a sailor for many years, and devoted his energies to farming and the management of the Imperial Hotel, which for many years has been the headquarters of the travelling trade. He died three months ago he sold his hotel and property to A. M. Gidney, M. P. P., and went to live with his son, Harvey. There is another son, Benjamin, living in Boston. A widow also survives. The funeral took place on Sunday last under Orange auspices, the late Mr. Hunt having been a prominent Orange man in his day. Rev. Mr. Carter conducted the services, which were very impressive.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

TO OPEN IN BRIDGETOWN.

We are pleased to inform our patrons that The American Amusement Co. have decided to open a Moving Picture and Illustrated Song Theatre in Bridgetown. It will be called the Royal and will be located in the Y. M. C. A. building. We understand the show will be a continuous performance from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock, each evening in the week and Bridgetown will get the same service pictures and entertainments as given in any of the large cities. Nothing will be allowed at these concerts that could offend the most refined or the most sensitive. Mothers need not be afraid to take their children. Gentrymen will be most welcome. Everything will be interesting, entertaining and instructive. For only a nickel one can practically go to all the world. Continually passing before the eyes will be stirring scenes taken in European capitals. Drama, tragedy, comedy, follow in rapid succession. You laugh and you cry and then to bring you back to mother earth, the management have secured Mr. Weston, the great Boston Baritone, who is now singing in Vaudeville, to sing each evening the latest songs illustrated by colored photographs. These Circulars will be sent all over the County each week and the subjects exhibited with the program for each week will appear in this paper each issue. Watch our next issue. They plan to open May 21st.
