CORONATION OF POPE PIUS X.

One of the Grandest and Most Imposing Ceremonies Ever Witnessed by Human Eyes.—Triple Crown Placed on the Supreme Pontiff's Head before a Vast Multitude at St. Peter's.

Free Press. | The central figure in the long cor-Rome, Aug. 9.—The ceremony of tege was Pius X. borne in the Sedia the coronation of Pius X. took Place to-day in the basilica of St. Peter's in the presence of the Princes and high dignitaries of the Church, diplomats and Roman nobles, and with all the solemnity and splendor associated with this, the most magnificent rite in the Roman Catholic Church. As Cardinal Macchi, the dean of the Cardinal Deacons, placed the triple crown on the head of the venerable Pontiff, the throng of 70,000 persons gathered within the cathedral, burst into unrestrained acclamations; the choir intoned a hymn and the bells of Rome rang out a joyful peal.

It is 57 years since the Romans and Europe assisted at such a function in St. Peter's. The great basilica, popularly supposed never to have been quite full, was overflowing with humanity. The papal throne, a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver, occupied the Place in front of the high altar. On the altar, which was dressed in White, stood the famous silver gilt candlestick and a magnificent cru-All the available standing within the cathedral was divided into two sections by wooden barriers, which, to a certain extent, kept the vast crowd in order.

Thick Fog in Rome.

In the early hours after sunrise a thick fog hung over Rome. The effect was magnificent on entering the piazza of St. Peter's. At times Michael Angelo's great dome disappeared completely from view, while at others it appeared through the flowing golden mist. As the morning wore on the clouds disappeared and the sun shone with all its southern intensity until it became unbearably hot.

At 6 a.m. the ringing of bells announced the imminent opening of the doors. A gigantic crowd had waited for hours and the police and Italian soldiers had a difficult task to maintain order as the crushing and fatigue had begun to tell on the patience of the people. When the doors were opened the rush was terrific. Many who started from the bottom of the steps outside Were lifted off their feet and carried into the cathedral

A Human Torrent.

It was a great human torrent let loose, thousands of people rushing erushing, amid screams, protests, gestures and cries for help. Women fainted in comparatively large numbers and even men were overcome by the heat, but no accidents were reported. After their entrance the people had further long hours of waiting and it is computed that the majority were on their feet altogether ten hours, five before the ceremony, and five hours while it lasted.

The Pontiff, answering in a copes and white mitres and the the Pope, singing Palestrina's "Cotrembling voice, warmly thanked Pope was borne to the throne amid rona Aurea Super Caput Ejus," while the choir burst forth into song, giving the dramatic touch. Cardinal Macchi then recited the 'Pater Noster" and offered the following prayer: "Omnipotent and ever eternal God, dignity of the clergy, and author of sovereignty, grant thy servant, Pius X., grace to fruitfully govern Thy church so that he, who by Thy clemency, becomes and is crowned as father of kings and of all the faithful, by Thy wise disposition may govern well." "Amen," rang out from all corners of the cathedral.

Joyful Acclamations.

Degcon Segna then raised the Pontiff's mitre and Senior Cardinal Deacon Macchi placed on the venerable white head the triple crown. At this moment the church was filled with the ringing bells, the blowing of silver trumpets, the triumphant strains of the choir and the acclamation of the multitude which could no longer be repressed.

When comparative silence had been restored Cardinal Macchi addressed the Pope in Latin as follows: "Receive the tiara ornamented with three crowns, remember thou art the father of princes and kings, the rector of the world; the vicar on earth of our Saviour, Jesus Christ, who is the honor and glory of all centuries." "Amen," burst forth from the concourse.

The Pope Fatigued.

Pope Pius was quite overcome, and had scarcely strength left to impart the apostolic benediction. Cardinal Macchi, granted a plenary indulgence to all present, and the procession then reformed and left the basilica in the same form as it came. The Pope was visibly fatigued and his right hand shook as he raised it time after time to bestow his blessing.

When the ceremony was over all the exits to the basilica were opened, and within less than an hour the vast cathedral was empty.

Strong as Pius X. is physically, he supported the ordeal of his coronation to-day perhaps with less fortitude than Leo XIII. when he was crowned, although the latter was merely a shadow of a man.

The Venetians at Rome.

Rome, August 8.—After receiving several Cardinals, Pius X. this morning admitted to a private audience Signor Andre Azza, Mayor of Ries, the Pontiff's birthplace, and some of the municipal authorities.

The meeting was full of interest, as Andre Azza knew the Pope familiarly years ago. The mayor and his companions are little better than peasants and presented a most incongruous group in the gorgeous setting of the Vatican. They were bewildered and evidently too timid to ask where they should go, so they stood huddled together, twirling their hats in their hands, until a guard set them on the right way. The Pope soon put them at ease, saying: "Come here and sit next to me.'

From that moment Pius spoke in the Venetian dialect. He inquired after various people in the village, recalling with evident satisfaction his personal intercourse with them, saying, "Throughout my career, and even now, I remember with joy Mass was then celebrated with and emotion my youthful days among you, which were also my happiest."

> The mayor and the villagers tried to express their gratification at the great honor accruing to their small village from Sarto's election, and also what a great triumph it was for him personally.

Can Hardly Realize It.

The Pontiff answered: "I cannot Holiness left the Sedia Gestatoria and Archbishops kissed his foot and yet realize it. On coming to Rome to appear what I am not." POPE PIUS X., FORMERLY CARDINAL GIUSEPPE SARTO.

Cardinal Giuseppe Sarto, now Pope Pius X., is sixty-eight years of age. At the time of his elevation to the papacy he was the patriarch of Venice and one of the most unassuming prelates in the Catholic church, in which most of his work was done as a lowly parish priest. He is strongly liberal in his views as to the proper relations of church and state. Pope Pius X. was born in the little town of Riese, in northern Italy, and was created a cardinal ten years ago. In April, 1902, Pope Leo predicted that Cardinal Sarto would be his successor.

St. Peter's Gorgeous.

By special permission the representative of the Associated Press was allowed to enter St. Peter's to-night to observe the preparations for the coronation to-morrow. In the central aisle a wide space has been fenced off for the passage of the cortege. The chapels, including that of St. Gregory, where the Pope pauses, have been richly decorated with red damask fringed with gold. The papal throne rises majestically at the farther end of the great building, being a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver, and appearing altogether too gorgeous to be sat upon.

On the right a space has been reserved for the diplomatic body, the Knights of Malta, and special representatives and envoys; and on the left another space has been reserved for the Roman aristocracy. Close at hand stands the bronze statue of St. Peter, dressed in full pontifical robes, and looking strange to profane eyes, the great toe worn away by much kissing of the faithful. There are 12 retreats, to which persons who happen to be taken sick may be transferred. The portico of St. Peter's has been closed by immense curtains to prevent any one from looking in as the Pope passes, which would seem to confirm the statement that Pope Pius X. will not bless the people from an outside balcony as was half expected.

Pope Upsetting All Customs.

The new Pope has been upsetting all customs at the vatican when courtiers thought to-day to give him pleasure by saying that he would have a tremendous reception at St. Peter's on Sunday. The Pope, to their surprise, was much displeased, and absolutely forbade anything of the kind. He called his major-domo, who thereupon issued the following proclamation, which was distributed as widely as pos-

"It is the warm desire of His Holiness to have no acclamation at the vatican, or basilica, and that the most devout and most religious silence will be maintained."

His Kindly Nature.

Another innovation at the vatican is the Pope's refusal to permit everybody to be sent away when he appears. A gendarme had ordered away some masons, who were working about the grounds, because the Pope was about to come forth. The Pope himself witnessed this action, and had the gendarme severely reprimanded. The masons were recalled and the Pope spoke to each, laying his hand on their heads.

The Pope also insists on continuing his habit of accompanying all persons whom he has received to the door, no matter how humble, notwithstanding efforts to have him abandon the custom.

Rev. Father Lee, of Oakwood, N. Dakota, and Brother Ambrose, of Laprairie, P.Q., were visiting at St. Boniface and Winnipeg last Tuesday and Wednesday. Winnipeg in their estimation is a really modern and promising city.

MEANS AND MEANS-WAYS AND WAYS.

A friend from the Province of Quebes has recently sent us a marked copy of "Ia Presse," of Montreal. We read there of a sermon given at St. Lin by the Rev. J. B. Proulx, P.P., in which he recalls the glorious deeds accomplished by the lamented Leo XIII. Among other things the following passage is quoted from the papal encyclical on the Manitoba School question: "Everything demands in this question and in conformity with justice, that full provision be made therefor, that is to say, that the immutable and sacred principles we have above touched upon be sheltered and secured. Such must be the aim in view, such the object to be pursued with zeal and prudence. Now, nothing can be more contrary to that than discord: for that purpose the union of minds and harmony of action are absolutely necessary. However, as the object intended to be attained, and that must be attained in effect, does not A true Catholic is always with impose a determined and exclusive trary, admits of several, as it usually happens in matters of this sort, it follows that there may be concerning the course to be pursued a certain multiplicity of opinions one therefore lose sight of the rules the respect he owes to others, but Ere her cause bring fame and pro- let all weigh maturely that which fit, and 'tis prosperous to be just; circumstances demand, determine what is best to do, and do it in a thoroughly cordial agreement, and Doubting in his abject spirit, till his not without having taken your advice . . ."

We do not know what the object of our friend could be in sending us this marked paper, neither do we cling to one method in preference to do this properly he should util- legislation, which at present has become a practical impossibility, we never upheld the principle that it was the only means open to settle our school difficulty. NISCENCE.

Last Sunday at 1.30 p.m. the Reverend Pastor of the Immaculate Conception received from Stony Mountain what might have proved a rather puzzling telephone message had he not at once recognized the voice of an old travelling companion. The Rev. Father Cloutier, the well known Penitentiary chaplain, had his memory wits suddenly awakened at the above hour of the day, and he thought he would extend his congratulations to Father Cherrier, as it was exactly then 25 years since both had landed into the holy land of St. Boniface. Of course the congratulatory message was reciprocated.

The voyage from Montreal to St. Boniface viz Sarnia, Duluth, Glindon, Fisher's Landing and Red River had taken II days, and II was the number of the little caravan. The two named above are the only ones that are still in Manitoba. Of the others, two-the Hon. J. Royal and the Rev. Father Renehave died, the rest have left in search of new homes.

How many changes have taken place in these 25 years! The flourishing prairie city of Winnipeg then was not much more than a small town, neither had St. Boniface been adorned yet with its grand college, convent boarding schools and magnificent hospital.

What will the next quarter of a century bring? We know not, but we heartily wish the two reverend gentlemen to live long enough to once more have the opportunity of extending to each other their congratulations upon a second 25 years of labor like those that have already formed for each of them a rather enviable crown of good
