SAFEGUARDING PURITY OF THE WATER SUPPLY

Tests Made by Dr. Abramson Show Necessity of Protecting Source—Boating, Bathing, Etc., Ordered Under Ban for Present.

Following up a notice of the Minister of Public Health in this morning's edition advising the people on the eastern side of the harbor to boil their food water, the sub-district board of health was specially convened this forenoon by Chairman John Kelly to hear a report from the provincial bacteriologist, Dr. H. L. Abramson and to confer with the board members, the civic authorities and inspectors as to means by which the sudden danger of polluted water can be averted and checked while present at the session were: Chairman John Kelly, Dr. William Warwick, sub-district health officer, Dr. Charles M. PLANS A FLIGHT ACROSS PACIFIC

Sydney, N. S. W., July 8.—An airship flight across the Pacific ocean is to be attempted soon, so it was announced yesterday at a meeting of the Sydney Aero Club.

CHIEF BLAKE THOUGHT THE COTTAGES ON THE LAKE SIDE AND ON CONTIGUOUS LANDS SHOULD BE DEALT WITH PROMPTLY AND STRINGENTLY TO ASSURE THE PURITY OF THE ADJACENT WATERS.

Chief Blake thought the cottages on the lake side and on contiguous lands ought to be dealt with promptly and stringently to assure the purity of the adjacent waters. This applied to east and west St. John. While some of them in fact most of them, have septic tanks installed, there was still a lurking danger, Dr. Abramson thought a thorough survey be made of the properties touching the water supply boxes, an inventory taken of their households, cattle, the disposal of sewage and all such important data as bearing upon the question. This would give the officials a fuller grasp of the situation. It was explained that such information is already pretty well listed. Dr. Warwick making this one of his investigating duties. Chairman Kelly reminded the meeting that thirty-five years ago he headed a delegation to the provincial government to urge a bill favoring the acquisition of the watershed properties roundabout the city's supply at Lake Latimer but a counter-delegation headed by a prominent physician had the measure nipped in the bud. The argument for this counter movement, Chief Blake explained to Mr. Kelly, was that it was not the sources of supply that needed protection, it was the distribution. This bit of ancient history at least disclosed to the meeting that the question of safeguarding the food waters was not a new one.

Resolved: "That in view of the danger of pollution of the city's water supply the St. John Sub-District of Health hereby prohibit and forbid boating, fishing, bathing or the pollution or committing of any nuisance in or near Loch Lomond, Lake Robertson, Lake Lat-

ONE THING WE HERE HAVE TO BE THANKFUL FOR

There was a light and refreshing breeze blowing in from the Bay, which was walking a pleasure. The highest temperature recorded this month was seventy-nine.

OVERTURES BY GREAT BRITAIN?

Remored That There is Proposal of a Conference on Whole Eastern Situation.

London, July 8.—Great Britain, it was said here today in a quarter usually possessed of reliable information, is believed to have made overtures to the United States, Japan and China on the possibility of a conference to discuss the whole eastern situation. If this is correct, it is pointed out, it might explain what Lloyd George meant yesterday when he said in the house of commons that he was awaiting replies from U. S. and China before making a statement to the house concerning the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

Ruth went to bat before the 800 children of the orphanage and was fanned the first time up by Mike Randakski, aged twelve, crack pitcher of St. Paul's. Then Maranville took Mike's place and the home run king smashed the ball all over the lot to the delight of the fans.

London, July 8.—(Canadian Associated Press)—The wage dispute in the building trade of Great Britain has been settled on lines which, it is believed, will result in a speedy expansion of construction work on a considerable scale.

Owing to the coal shortage the underground railways of London have decided to suspend operation of all their trains after midnight.

This involves the dismissal of 800 men, a step which the unions admit necessary. General train services are still seriously curtailed.

IN WALL STREET.

New York, July 8.—(10.30.)—The feature of the stock market at the dull and heavy opening of today's session was United States Rubber, which fell 4-8 points to the new low price of 49 as a result of the postponement of dividend action. A few obscure issues made slight gains.

Noon Report.

As the session progressed increased heaviness was shown by most leaders. On comparatively moderate offerings prominent industrials and specialties lost one to almost five points. American Sugar, United Fruit, Harvest, Mexican Petroleum and several of the motors steels and equipments were under marked pressure. United States Rubber declined slightly only to fall below its early quotation. Trading in rails was desultory and without material change, although C. P. and some of the south and southwestern issues were heavy. Call money opened and renewed into next week at 3-2 per cent.

BOSTON MAN LOSES HIS FINE CELLAR STOCK

(Montreal Herald.)

There is a good deal of discussion in pulp and paper circles in regard to the wage issue, and considerable difference of opinion exists as to the ultimate outcome. With the re-opening of the mills the question has again come to the front. The employers have demanded a ten per cent increase, or more, on the 1920 schedule, while employers are looking for a reduction of thirty per cent. It is clear that neither side expects to get its demands, and that both have put forward their scale, knowing full well that a compromise must be arrived at. In the case of Price Bros., a reduction of twenty per cent. has been decided upon, and accepted by the men. In some circles an attempt is being made to settle on the basis of the 1919 scale, which would mean a reduction of fourteen per cent. on that of 1920.

MARRIAGE A LUXURY.

(London Times.)

The very sharp decline in the number of marriages which occurred at the end of last year, according to the latest report of the registrar-general, shows how severely the financial position reacts on social life. The number of persons married during the last quarter of the year was 36,098 fewer than in the fourth quarter of 1919. The year 1919, the last of the "boom" years, showed a very large number of marriages, and it seemed as if 1920 would do the same until the break in trade occurred. The incidence of taxation, the unemployment, the excessive cost of everything, has made marriage increasingly difficult, and the idea that it is becoming a "luxury of the well-to-do" is not perhaps entirely absurd.

GIRL THRICE DODGES DEATH IN TUMBLE

Elevated Train Feed Wires and 35-Foot Fall Fall to Hurt Child Seriously

Anna Cunningham, 9 years old, slipped from her mother's grasp as a train was pulling into the Myrtle Avenue station of the Broadway elevated line in Brooklyn the other day and dropped off the edge of the platform. The train missed her, but she tumbled off the structure, thirty-five feet to the street below. An electric fee wire, which was insulated, broke her fall. As she struck the pavement she fell over on her back and began to cry. Her mother, Mrs. Anna Cunningham, of 788 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, who ran down from the platform, found her in the arms of Policeman Henry Boesche. The girl was taken to Beth Moses Hospital, where Dr. Brody ascertained that she had broken three teeth and sustained cuts on her left side. There were no fractures, and so far as he could determine, no serious injuries. Mrs. Cunningham took her daughter home. They were bound for the picnic of the Sixth Assembly District Republican Club at Dexter Park.

Bread-Line Memorial
To Foster Misleading

The Man Who Wrote "Old Folks at Home" and "My Old Kentucky Home" Did Not Die in Such Straits as Legend Pictures.

The memory of Stephen Collins Foster, writer of "The Old Folks at Home," "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Old Black Joe" is to be perpetuated, according to plans now in the making, by an endowment fund, the income from which is to support a bread-line. The decision to honor him in this unique fashion seems to have been prompted by the legend that Foster, in his last days, subsisted on such charity as was available on the Bowery in 1864. Yet, praiseworthy as the proposed institution is, the story that Foster died in such straits as legend pictures, is not altogether fair to a man whose history already suffers from sentimental distortions.

Despite the alluring irony in the picture of Foster dying practically in the street, a dependent on a saloon-keeper's bounty, while all America sang his refrain about comfortable friends, the portrait is unjust. The Foster legend came into being within fifteen years after the composer's death. He had drifted from his family and was struggling in New York, scanning together a few dollars here and there for which made publishers rich. He lived in a little room in Elizabeth street, in the Five Points district, eating down his deathless lyrics on scraps of brown wrapping paper. He was a friendless, intemperate wanderer, who was pointed out by plying bartenders as "Steve Foster, a fellow who has written songs." In short, the few tragic facts about Foster's end that are definitely known have been elaborated by hysterical romancers until Foster has passed into American chronicles as (in this respect) another Poe.

Had a Good Income. It is only recently with the publication of Harold Vincent Milligan's thoughtful biography on the unfortunate writer, that the truth about Foster has been approximated. The popular notion that Foster's work was neglected and unappreciated falls before the fact that his signature on a piece of sheet music was sufficient to insure heavy sales for the composition. "The Old Folks at Home," which was not sold outright, but placed on a royalty contract, is said to have netted him $18,000 or more, although one writer quotes Foster as having said that he made only $2,000 on the song. Foster was notoriously improvident, and the fact that he sold out most of his rights may account for the comparatively small sum which his most celebrated effort brought him. In his later years he made over his output to various publishers at about $25 a song under contracts which netted him $100 annually. But at this time his best work had been done, and the only surviving tune of his last period is "Old Black Joe."

Foster's adventures as a songsmith-rhetorical as it sounds, the description is unfortunately accurate—were mirrored in his life. He was a man of many parts. For $15 or $25 Foster would permit the minstrel to assume the authorship of his ballads, although Foster's name would appear on later published editions. He was always striving to turn out current topics, and most of his topical efforts were failures. Of a score of Civil War songs only "We Are Coming, Father Abraham," made any impression on the public. The fanged negro ditties, for all the loving tradition that surrounds them, are no lightness. Blackface actors were in vogue, and Foster followed the styles. A biographical sketch by Morrison Foster, the composer's brother, gives the genesis of "The Old Folks at Home."

The writer had made a rough draught of the piece now known as "The Old Folks at Home," but he was dissatisfied with the opening lines. He visited his brother's office on the banks of the Monongahela and asked him for the name of some American river which had two syllables. Morrison Foster produced an atlas and suggested the name "Way down upon the Yaxoo River." "Way down upon the Yaxoo River" failed to please Stephen, and he substituted the Pedee River. Finally he hit upon the Swanee, a little Florida stream emptying into the Gulf of Mexico. By this synthetic and scientific process the culmination one of the most famous lines in American musical history was written.

An catalogue of Foster's songs, compiled by W. R. Whitteley and O. G. Sonneck, indicates how many of Foster's efforts failed to survive the success which greeted them at first. Who knows "Comrades, Fill No Glass for Me," "Eileen Bayne," "The Holiday Schottisch," "Little Ella's an Angel," not to mention such modern sounding titles as "No One to Love," "A Thousand Miles From Home," and "Way Down in Ca-lor-ry?" Publishers always waded to accept Foster's offerings, although they took advantage of his naive in business matters. At his death there was a great scramble to publish "Foster's last song." There were at least three entries, one of which was heralded with a publisher's blurb, reproduced in Messrs. Whitteley & Sonneck's book. It follows, verbatim and literally: "Three days after he handed this his last composition, for which he promised to write a biographical sketch of the subject of this song, death summoned him to his last account. "We therefore were (sic) obliged to fill up this space with the present sad remarks." Foster, says Mr. Milligan, gave way to drunkenness in his last years, but he was never dissolute. For all his shabbiness he was a simple, wondering soul—anything save the Bowery hanger-on that the legend has made him.

BUSINESS LEADERS
CONFIDENT WORST
DEPRESSION OVER

Inspiring Nation to Hasten
New Era by Attack on Immediate Problems.

(New York Commercial, June 30)
Outstanding in the present business situation, as the quiet summer season begins, is a dominant note of confidence, such as has not been heard during the last two years. Bankers in widely separated districts are announcing that the general banking condition throughout the country is promising strength and that, by and large, credit conditions are sound and firm. Manufacturers and merchants in many lines are repeating the same note, setting forth in statements before committees and to the public their contentions that the post-war readjustments in costs have been accomplished and that a stable basis has been reached upon which it is safe plan ahead. This widely indulged new tone is an encouraging sign that the reconstruction crisis is now a matter of past history.

Confidence that business is headed out of depression is gathering weight among the nation's business leaders and the characteristic vigor tone of American enterprise is now being heard frequently. Such appears in strong statements to inspire the representative business men in more encouraging reports from widespread parts of the country and in widespread and to the public their contentions that the post-war readjustments in costs have been accomplished and that a stable basis has been reached upon which it is safe plan ahead. This widely indulged new tone is an encouraging sign that the reconstruction crisis is now a matter of past history.

President Harding's notification to business leaders from all parts of the country that the Government intends to free a hand to honest enterprise to meet and solve the difficulties now confronting it and his direct summons to them to get themselves and the country into a "full speed ahead" attitude of mind has excited a widespread mobilization of the best energies of the land for the task of reconstructing the country. The representative business men of restoring general wellbeing and of firmly representing America of the advantages of her leadership. President's summons put a new punch into individual leadership, which, gathering momentum, bears promise of a follow through.

"Defeatism," whether in war or in business endeavor, whether in struggle with problems at home or for the American economic prizes, is a wholly un-American philosophy and is being repudiated by many parts of the country have begun teaching. These men are uniting to urge characteristic American vigor and decision, pointing out that Great Britain, France and Germany, laboring with great hardships, are still endeavoring to bring their countries to a state of normalcy. They are calling upon the people of the country to stand along the economic line of fire and they are pooling a valuable and convincing body of information to show how sound is the strength upon which American business bases and how certainly the country is equipped with more highly trained and more energetic leadership.

President Harding's declaration of the new administration's attitude toward business and his summons to business men to meet present national and international emergencies was given direct to business leaders from all parts of the country at a dinner arranged for the important expression by the New York Commercial, July 1, 1921. There was a prompt and strong response on the part of the business leaders and there has since Mr. Harding's notification of the Government's policy of encouraging business purposes and of encouraging confidence and decision throughout the country, and it is receiving much well considered, helpful opinion.

The president outlined a fine, constructive programme upon which future prosperity can be built, it is the opinion of Charles H. Saben, president of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "It is the signal that a war torn world and a depressed country has been scanning the horizon for," was the comment of Simon Guignebien, president of the American Smelting & Refining Co., whose business interests reach into many states in the union. "The President's address was very encouraging," said the president of the Pennsylvania System, Samuel Rea, and the president of the American Woolen Co., William M. Wood, added: "The knowledge that the administration is practical in its ambitions and in its efforts to achieve that it recognizes the importance and the general confidence which it honestly believes it deserves." "I have noticed a tendency on the part of great business leaders to express more optimistic feeling toward the future than at any time before," said Frank C. Munson, president of the Munson Steamship Line. "These are but a few expressions of renewed confidence from among the many received from leaders in all parts of the country. They but illustrate the birth of a new spirit for accomplishment and for an aggressive clearing of the field of worn and destructive 'defeatism.'"

MORNING NEWS
OVER THE WIRES

The Munson liner Munabro sighted a strange vessel which approached to within a few hundred yards of Cape May on June 30, and disappeared without making her identity. The Munabro is a 10,000-ton steamer, built in 1914, and is owned by C. T. White & Son, Ltd. of Sussex. The Munson line has been trying unsuccessfully for two days to establish radio communication with their passenger steamer Calabodie and due in New York on Sunday from Buenos Aires.

A warehouse belonging to W. S. Logie & Co., Ltd., at Westhampton, was badly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon and its valuable contents of foodstuffs, feed etc. were seriously injured by fire and water. As the result of a conference of the board of trade and city council of Halifax a public meeting will be called for the purpose of dealing with the unemployed situation in that city. It is estimated that there are from 600 to 700 unemployed with the prospect of about 100 more being added in the next few months.

Miss Florida Savage, aged twenty-five years, an amateur pianist, was badly injured by a fall from a balcony at the Hotel de St. Philippe, Quebec, when she was descending a staircase. She was taken to the hospital and is now in a critical condition. A dispatch has reached the city to the effect that some St. John people are mixed up in a triangle drama at Toronto. The husband is said to be a prominent St. John business man who suspected that all was not well when his wife suggested that she take a trip to visit friends in Nova Scotia. She went by boat and he by rail and arrived in Toronto about the same time. While there he saw her pass his hotel in company with another man. He had then shadowed and found that they went to a hotel and registered as man and wife. The law was then called in and the errand couple confronted.

SAVES A WOMAN ON THE BRINK OF NIAGARA

Niagara Falls, N. Y., July 8.—A movement has been started to obtain a large sum of money for the rescue of a woman who is said to be on the brink of Niagara State Reservation, credits with rescuing Mrs. Joseph Raines from the river near the brink of the American Falls. "Moody walked into the stream and brought the woman to shore and then disappeared in the crowd. Smith aided in the rescue. Mrs. Raines' rescue, reservations records show, is the most remarkable travel so far in the river at the point above the falls and to have been saved. The spot where she was rescued is approximately 100 feet above the brink and 20 feet from shore. She floated down stream 1000 feet.

GERMANY MAY SEEK LOAN IN UNITED STATES

Wall Street Hears Berlin will
Ask Money on Seized Property
Used as Collateral—
Official Advice Lacking.

(New York Times.)
Reports were current in the financial district yesterday that the German government would make application within a short time for a loan in this country. The reports were not confirmed, and bankers who probably would be interested in such an undertaking said they had not heard of it. These reports were to the effect that the German government would propose that all the property seized during the early part of the war by the Alien Property Custodian be turned over to the committee of American and German trustees for the life of the loan, and that this property—estimated at approximately $200,000,000 in value—and comprising assets of every sort—be used as the collateral behind a proposed loan rather than the private bankers, and sold, in the usual way, through syndicates to investors.

It also was reported that the German government had made a canvass of its nationals now in Germany who owned property in the United States, and that in many cases consent had been given that the property, when released, be used in this way. It was the reported intention of the German government to establish a dollar credit in the United States through such a loan, using it for purchasing raw materials and foodstuffs and for the purpose of having credit there on which reparation payments might be made without further demand.

The problem of floating a German loan in this country already had received the unofficial consideration of bankers. They hold the opinion that it is a difficult financial feat to float such a loan, but that it probably would have to be done at a rate rather than a market loan, and bear the going rate of interest. In negotiating such a loan much would depend upon the attitude of Washington. In the first place, as explained by officials of the Alien Property Custodian, it would require an act of Congress to authorize such disposition of German property.

YELLOW FEVER
TAKES BIG TOLL IN PERU, S. AMERICA

(Associated Press, by Mail.)
Lima, Peru, June 14.—Nearly 1,000 deaths occurred from yellow fever during the last ten months in the department of Lambayeque and La Libertad, in northern Peru, according to statements published here attributed to Doctor Henry Henson, an American physician, who is in charge of the sanitation campaign directed against the fever by the Peruvian government and the Rockefeller Foundation.

The Rockefeller Foundation contributed $20,000 to fight the epidemic which is now reported to be decreasing as a result of the campaign and the approach of the winter season. It was estimated there were about 10,000 cases in the affected area. The features of the campaign have been the use of the stegomyia mosquito and the closing of water containers and stagnant pools in which mosquitoes breed. Doctor Henson's staff is composed of three supervising inspectors, five Peruvian physicians and 100 inspectors. It is believed the affected districts will be entirely rid of the fever by the end of the year.

HAMILTON WANTS
SUNDAY BATHING

Aldermen Not in Sympathy With Attempts of Alliance to Stop It.
Hamilton, Ont., July 8.—The Lord's Day Alliance is planning to stop Sunday bathing in Hamilton, but it is not meeting with much support from the authorities. "Too ridiculous," said A. J. Wright, of the Parks Board, when asked his opinion of the latest scheme. The Lord's Day Alliance is strongly opposed to dips on hot days in the cooling waters of Hamilton Bay and Lake Ontario, and the Alliance members are active against allowing this. City council members and members of the Parks Board, who control the bathing privileges of this city, do not intend to interfere in the matter, and so far as they are concerned, the pleasure will continue.

These boots are well finished, good fitting, not too heavy for general wear and will give splendid satisfaction. Open Friday evenings and all day Saturdays until 10 p. m. FRANCIS & VAUGHAN 19 King Street.

THE FIRES.
Reports from Westfield this morning are to the effect that the fire which is burning about two miles back of the village, seems to be abating although residents in that vicinity are still battling with the blaze. A stronger wind sprang up about noon and it was feared that this might fan the fire. A heavy pall of smoke which was hanging over the river has lifted.

From reports received from Silver Falls, the fire in that vicinity is also diminishing although it is thought that if rain does not come the fires may spread worse than ever through the dry brush.

MARRIED IN MEXICO

John McGrath, Nephew of Mrs. T. J. Cronin, Weds Senorita Maria del Refugio Solis.

The following from Excelsior, one of the principal newspapers of Mexico, will be read with interest by many people in St. John. The paper says:—
"A delightful wedding in the highest society of El Oro took place last week, when John M. McGrath was married to Senorita Maria del Refugio Solis.
"Both bride and groom are very popular in the town, and all business was suspended during the ceremony. The church was most beautifully decorated with electric bulbs and orange flowers. The bride wore a lovely white satin wedding gown with full court train, covered by a tulle veil held by a coronet of orange blossoms, which was most becoming to her pretty style of beauty. The bridesmaids were selected from among the most beautiful girls of El Oro. The wedding-bearers reminded one of fifties with their smiling faces. The groom was dressed in a suit of light blue, and the bride was also his groomsmen.
"The father of the groom, the well-known mining engineer, John McGrath, directed the music at the organ. Mendelssohn's Wedding March, Schubert's Serenade, Gounod's Ave Maria, 'Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms' and Gounod's Grand March were softly played during the ceremony.
"After the wedding there was a large lunch at the home of the bride's parents. The festivities were ended with a reception and dance at the El Oro Club. The happy couple left on the midnight train for Mexico City and Lake Chapala, where they now are."

Story of Boy in Police Court—More Evidence in Lang-bien Case.

Albert Arnold, a resident of the United States, was before the police court this morning, charged with acting suspiciously and not giving a satisfactory account of himself. He was arrested about 12:50 o'clock this morning in the C. N. R. depot and taken to the central police station. The defendant said he was sixteen years of age and that he had come from Chelsea, Mass., partly on foot and partly by auto rides that he had secured. He had come to St. John to look for a job and said that he had left home because of misunderstandings with his step-father. He wished to get to Prince Edward Island where he had relatives. The magistrate told him that St. John was a poor place in which to look for a job at present and said that he would have to be turned over to the immigration authorities who would dispose of him as they saw fit.

THE STREET CAR NEGOTIATIONS DECLARED OFF

No Result From Men's Offer of 48 1/2 Cents—Parade Will be Held Tonight—Manager Says Recognition of Union is Point of Issue.

Hopes of an early settlement of the dispute between the New Brunswick Power Company and the street railway employees went skyward again this morning, when Mayor Schofield and Dr. J. B. M. Baxter reported before a meeting of the men's union that the offer of the men to return to work on the basis of 48 1/2 cents an hour, with recognition of the union, was refused by Percy W. Thomson, manager of the power company. They said that Mr. Thomson informed them that it was not a matter of wages now that mattered, but recognition of the union. He said that he had no intention of recognizing the men who are now operating the power and gas plants should the men decide to come to work again, and that the 200 men who are out there would be room for only about seventy.

The mayor and Mr. Baxter, according to the union officials, said they had done all they could to effect a settlement of the difficulty, but confessed that their negotiations had not met with success. Both volunteered to do anything they could should a further opportunity present itself.

Mr. Thomson, interviewed by a Times reporter after the mayor and Dr. Baxter had submitted the offer of the men, said that he was not prepared to say whether or not there was any hope in a settlement on the basis of the offer made by the men through the mayor and Dr. Baxter. He said that the company would keep faith with the men already engaged. He said that he considered it very creditable that the mayor and Dr. Baxter should interest themselves in the matter and try to reach common ground on which a settlement might be effected. Other than this he declined to say anything regarding the men's offer.

At the union headquarters this morning it was said, that the reason the parade was called off last evening was to await the result of negotiations which were being carried on between the parties by the mayor and Dr. Baxter. Now that the negotiations had failed to bring any result, tonight's demonstration was decided upon. The parade will be headed by the Martello Band, which will be assisted by the Coldbrook Pipe and Drum Band and the Dominion Pipe and Drum Band.

In a statement issued to the press on Wednesday, Mr. Thomson offered to accept the services of any former employees who were satisfactory to the company if application was made before the end of the month. He said that he very little response to this offer, which was now closed. The union officials said that none of the members of the union had taken advantage of the offer.

Wouldn't You Like to Have A Room Like This?

Many times illustrations are merely children of artists imagination, and not reproductions of the real article.

But here you see the Kroehler Daven-O with armchair to match both of which are now showing in our store.

You've only to see the Daven-O in action to appreciate it. It makes two rooms grow where but one grew before.

It is a 24 hour piece of furniture that's serviceable as well as ornamental and more than pays its way in the matter of comfort and accommodation. Why not let us show you the line?
