Closing in on St. Quentin From North and South

Both British and French Report Progress

English Attack Between Havrincourt Wood and St. Quentin—French Capture the Town of Benay—Germans Appear to be Preparing for Evacuation of St. Quentin

London, Sept. 21.—The British attack against the Hindenburg line, northwest of St. Quentin, was resumed this morning east of Epehy, says the official report from Field Marshal Haig today.

Further steps forward have been taken by the British on the Flanders front. Field Marshal Haig's statement today announces the improvement of the British positions west of Mesines, to the south of Ypres, where a strong point was captured.

Northeast of St. Quentin the British continued their progress through the main Hindenburg line, advancing their front northwest of Belleglise. North of Gauche Wood, west of Villers-Guislain, one of the British advanced posts has been pressed back slightly after a heavy bombardment.

A British detachment of a corporal and six men was surrounded and believed to have been captured when the Germans took Moeuvres. Their post was in the northern part of the village and they held it with great gallantry for two days during the German occupation, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy. When the village was retaken, the entire party rejoined its unit without loss.

BRITISH ATTACKING

With the British Forces in France, Sept. 21.—(By the Associated Press)—English troops attacked the German lines midway between Havrincourt Wood and St. Quentin at half-past five o'clock this morning on a front of from two and one-half to three miles.

Field Marshal Haig's thrust was made toward the strip of high ground in front of the Hindenburg defences which cover the Scheldt Canal.

REMOVING POPULATION

Paris, Sept. 21.—The Germans appear to be hastening the removal of the civil population and St. Quentin, and fires have been observed in different parts of the city, says Marcel Hutin, in the Echo de Paris. The Germans, he adds, are placing numerous batteries in St. Quentin.

BOMBARDMENT OF METZ

Geneva, Sept. 20.—"The bombardment of Metz by American heavy artillery causes surprise, but no panic," says the Metz Zeitung, "the enemy merely copying the method of the German bombardments of Paris."

The paper adds that few persons were killed and the damage was insignificant.

It is learned from Basle, however, that the American bombardment of Metz caused an enormous sensation in Germany. Many of the inhabitants have left the fortress, but neutrals are prohibited from departing. It is the first time since 1870 that Metz has been under artillery fire.

French Statement

Paris, Sept. 21.—French troops have made progress east of Essegny-Le-Grand and the Moly Farm, on the Picardy front, south of St. Quentin, according to the official statement issued at the war office last night. Artillery activity continues in the region of St. Quentin and along the Aisne sector. The statement says:

"Our progress east of Essegny-Le-Grand has been accentuated and prisoners have been taken. Artillery activity has been maintained in the region of St. Quentin and north of the Aisne. The day was calm on the rest of the front."

"Eastern theatre, Sept. 19: In spite of the vigorous resistance of the enemy rear guards, the offensive between the Cerna and Vardar rivers continued to progress today. Allied cavalry gained a foothold on the left bank of the Cerna in the region of Dunyev."

"The Serbians have succeeded in accumulating their progress in the direction of Konoplashta, where they have availed particularly difficult ground on a range of hills between the Belash-tza River and the Boshava. French and Greek forces have taken the village of Tushin and have gained a foothold in the town of Deena."

"Because of difficult communications over the vast amount of ground covered by the operation, it is not possible as yet to estimate the number of prisoners taken, but it is known that 5,000 prisoners and eighty cannon have been captured."

"The offensive of the Greeks and British in the Lake Dorian region which has been marked by furious battles, continues to progress. Counter-attacks have been made in vain by Bulgarian forces' fifth Casualties."

London, Sept. 21.—British casualties in the week ending today follow: Officers killed or died of wounds 487; men, 8,153. Officers wounded or missing 1,516; men, 17,200.

UNREST IS REPORTED

Demand for Democratic Reform—Government Crisis Approaches Decisive Stage—A Socialist Attack—No Promise of Relief From Hunger

Amsterdam, Sept. 20.—An official communication issued in Berlin says the German ambassador in Vienna today presented Germany's reply to the recent Austro-Hungarian peace note. The German note announces the readiness of Germany to participate in the proposed exchange of ideas.

Reforms Urged. Copenhagen, Sept. 21.—The German Socialist organ International Correspondence, publishes an article pointing out the necessity for democratic reform to unite the people in their resistance to a war of conquest.

Police Dissolve Meeting. Copenhagen, Sept. 21.—A meeting of the Independent Socialists in the first Berlin district was dissolved by the police, according to the Berlin Vorwarts, a copy of which has been received here. These leaders of the Socialist minority, was refused permission to speak and the police arrested Adolf Hoffmann, who was chairman of the meeting.

Foodstuffs Scarce. Paris, Sept. 20.—Chancellor Von Hertling, replying to complaints made by German syndicates and the Socialist party about the scarcity of foodstuffs, admitted that he could not promise to meet entirely the demands which had been made, according to a despatch from Basle. The chancellor said the scarcity of food in Germany is not so much due to defects in organization, as the petitioners asserted, as to the lack of labor for agriculture and the scarcity of food itself.

Attack on Government. Amsterdam, Sept. 20.—At a meeting at Kiel of the German Society for International Law, which was attended by representatives of the foreign office, the supreme army command and the navy department, a resolution was passed to appoint a commission to draft proposals which should govern the organization of a league of nations.

BRITISH AIRMEN SET NEW RECORD

Achievements During Last Week Among Most Remarkable of the War—Important Places in Germany BombarDED

London, Sept. 20.—The achievements of the British air forces in the last week have been among the most remarkable of the war. From information supplied by the air ministry, the Associated Press has learned that sixty tons of bombs were dropped on German territory in five days by British machines. This exceeds the record for any previous fortnight.

These long distance raids have been directed chiefly against poison gas and airplane factories at Mannheim, the Daimler works at Stuttgart, the railway station at Frankfurt and the docks and sidings at Karlsruhe. Their destructive effect is shown by photographs.

Aerial assaults over the battle area have been numerous. Acting in conjunction with the Franco-American offensive, thirty-five separate raids were made between Sept. 18 and 16 against important enemy airbases and vital railway junctions. Thirteen of them were against the Metz-Sablonz railway.

Altogether British airmen have dropped 120 tons of bombs upon the western battlefield in the course of the week. The number of German machines destroyed altogether in the week was 101, while thirty-seven were disabled. The British losses totalled fifty.

Defeat of Bolsheviki Due to Their Mutiny—A Russian Appeal for Salvation From Bolshevism

Amsterdam, Sept. 21.—The recent Bolshevik defeat on the northern front is attributed to a mutiny of Lettish regiments, according to a Petrograd despatch to the North German Gazette of Essen. The telegram says that the Lettish soldiers, who hitherto have been faithful allies of the Soviet government, refused to fight against the British.

To End Reign of Terror. Amsterdam, Sept. 21.—At a recent meeting of members of the Russian Duma and the Russian imperial council at Kiev, it was resolved, says a telegram from that city, to issue an appeal to the public opinion of Europe and all governments to put an end to the Bolsheviki terror.

The Ukrainian council, the despatch adds, has decided to send a protest to all countries against the arrest and shooting of Ukrainian subjects in Russia, and the "inhuman" form of political struggle now existing. The appeal will ask the various governments to associate themselves with the protestants.

The Ukrainian government has also decided to ask Germany to undertake the protection of Ukrainian Russia.

Sink Enemy Ships. London, Sept. 21.—Entente naval units and Allied troops operating along the Vardar River, in Northern European Russia, have sunk two enemy ships and have captured three guns, according to an official statement issued by the British war office today. Heavy losses were inflicted on the Bolsheviki forces by the Entente Allies.

Threaten Communications. London, Sept. 21.—In their advance northward the Serbs have passed the line Kravovo-Strigovo-Poloshke.

The cavalry is north of this line. More than ten villages were liberated in one day. In the head of the Cerna we have taken the village of Godiyak. Aviators continuously bombarded the retreating troops and attack them with machine guns.

"We have taken a great number of prisoners, including a lieutenant-colonel. Several guns are reported to have been captured, the number has not been ascertained owing to the speed of our advance."

"The population is welcoming the arrival of our troops with enthusiasm. The soldiers of new Serbia who had been captured to enlist in the Bulgarian army are throwing away their arms and passing to our side."

Threaten Communications. London, Sept. 21.—In their advance northward the Serbs have passed the line Kravovo-Strigovo-Poloshke.

Kragovo is nine miles southwest of Dombray, the nearest point on the Vardar River and the Usku-Saloniki railroad from the advancing Serbian line. Should the railroad be reached here the Bulgarians fighting the British and Greeks around Lake Doiran would be cut off from their base of supplies and reinforcements.

This result is regarded as a triumph for Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who in his vigorous reply to the pacifist objections, said he had been in England three weeks and had seen no flame of peace flying through the world, as has been described by some one calling himself a Socialist. What he had seen, said Mr. Gompers, was a spark here and there of fire from a torch carried by British and French labor movements on their way to discover an opportunity to live their own lives and prevent frustration from any longer becoming a menace to the world's liberty. Until that way is made clear, for the world democracies, he said, the labor movement of the United States will stand undivided behind the Allies.

More Prisoners Than He Knew What to Do With. With the British Armies in France, Sept. 19.—(By the Associated Press)—The story is told of a British brigadier-general who left his garrison near a quarry which he supposed had been cleared of the Germans and went forward to watch the advance of his men, upon returning finding the quarry garrison surrounded by forty armed Germans, demanding that the garrison accept their surrender.

RECALL IS DECIDED ON

Labor Delegates Present Resolution to Mayor Asking for Proceedings in Matter of Commissioners McLellan and Hilyard

That they would immediately take action for the recall of Commissioner McLellan of the public safety department and Commissioner Hilyard of the water and sewerage department, was the decision of a committee of labor delegates who waited on Mayor Hayes this morning and asked for his decision as chief magistrate of the city with regard to the stand taken by the city officials in the policemen's trouble.

Fred Campbell, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Council, officiated as chairman of the delegation which represented twenty-five labor organizations. He asked Mayor Hayes to give his decision regarding the stand taken by the city officials in the matter of the policemen's trouble. He said that the labor men had applied to the mayor for a hearing and had been willing to abide by the decision of a board of conciliation whether or not a decision would be for or against them. As a body of organized labor, he said, they would take a stand on the grounds of a recall.

John Stevens said that the present situation should never have arisen. He considered that the trouble had been brought about by officials of the city. He looked up to avoid just what had occurred. They considered that these men had no longer the confidence of the public. He did not think that the policemen had overstepped their mark in seeking liberty. The boys in France today were fighting for the same freedom that they were in the streets here. They were in receipt of a communication from the minister of labor saying that to prevent policemen from forming an organization. He asked why city officials should take the stand "you must not do what you want to do, you must do as I say." He said that they were present representing twenty-five labor organizations with a representation of 5,000 men in this city, asking that the policemen be reinstated. There was nothing in the constitution which would or could prove detrimental to their police duties.

M. P. Donovan said that he was a representative of the longshoremen, who were 1,000 strong and whose views were as a unit against the stand taken by the city commissioners in the police trouble. He said he could not call it a strike as it was nothing more or less than a lock-out. His organization had taken a stand against the commissioner of public safety because of "too much Kaiserism," and also against the commissioner of the water and sewerage department because of his remarks regarding German money behind the movement. He wished Commissioner Hilyard to contradict those statements flatly. He said that a resolution to be presented had been endorsed by 1,000 longshoremen and he hoped his workshop could see far enough ahead to avoid trouble.

Mr. Campbell then said that they could continue the discussion for some length of time if they so desired, but he did not think it necessary. He then asked Mayor Hayes for a definite reply. He said that he had no authority to make a change in the motion. He said that their time had expired and he had approved by vote and until it was rescinded it would have to stand. He said that he had no authority to rescind for the council.

Recall Resolution. Mr. Campbell said that as voters and petitioners they would have to take a stand on a recall as the mayor had no authority to make a change in the motion. He said that their time had expired and he had approved by vote and until it was rescinded it would have to stand. He said that he had no authority to rescind for the council.

IN HONOR OF LATE LIEUT. MANNING

Tablet to Perpetuate Memory of Gallant Soldier Will be Unveiled in Stone Church Tomorrow

A memorial tablet to the memory of the late Fred C. Manning of the 88th Nova Scotia Highlanders is to be unveiled in St. John Stone church at the morning service tomorrow. In the absence of the rector, Rev. G. A. Kuhring, the service will be conducted by Rev. William B. Armstrong. The tablet is of brass and is being placed in the church by the family. The inscription on the tablet reads as follows:

"In loving memory of Frederick Charles Manning, B. A., Lieutenant (Canadian 88th Nova Scotia Highlanders), born July 20, 1896. Died April 15, 1917, of wounds received at the battle of Vimy Ridge. "He loved honor more than feared death. "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

The late Lieutenant Manning was a son of Dr. James Manning of this city, who went overseas with the 88th Battalion and at the battle of Vimy Ridge, where the Canadian troops made a name for themselves that will pass down in annals of history. Lieutenant Manning made the supreme sacrifice.

His opportunities for the future in civil life were great, but he chose the greater opportunity when he volunteered his services and his life in the cause of humanity and freedom.

Liquor Seized at Fairville. Inspector Boards Montreal Train and Heads Off Importer With Two Well-Filled Suit Cases

Its a poor day these weeks when liquor inspectors McAlish, Garnett or Gibbon do not catch somebody smuggling in the forbidden liquids. Yesterday it was a rather spectacular haul in the peaceful and respectable hamlet of Renforth on the Kemptown; today the scene of confiscation is Fairville-St. John and the trackway between.

A man named Colohan, living in Somerset street, Fort Howe district, is the accused smuggler and two suit cases of mixed hard liquors lie in the government working fast and must not lose time.

Inspector McAlish was casually watching the Fairville station as the Montreal train came in, when Colohan is said to have peered out from the platform of one of the cars. Glimpsing Officer McAlish he withdrew into the car again, taking his suspiciously heavy grip with him. The inspector got aboard also, and when the train reached the depot in town a search was made.

The suit case seized in possession of Harry Colohan of Somerset street, contained five gallons of liquor in two and fourteen bottles of different varieties. Like Generalissimo Foch, the liquor detectives are zig-zagging their offensive and mixing their strategy so much that the peddlers and importers are getting cross-eyed trying to keep track of them.

The Game Laws. J. B. Jones, the registrar, said this morning that of late he has had many inquiries as to whether or not there was any law prohibiting the licensed gunner from carrying a gun on Sunday. Mr. Jones pointed out this morning that there was not, provided the gun was being carried out in the forest, or some place not very handy to a public park or a residence. So far this season eight game licenses have been issued in this district.

Now that the regulations require that no shooting of game shall be done on hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, it will mean that many of the old hunters will have to change their method of landing the larger game. In the early morning about daybreak and in the evening about dusk are two of the finest times that a gunner may expect to get his game.

TRIUMPH FOR GOMPERS IN LABOR CONFERENCE

London, Sept. 20.—The Inter-Allied Labor Conference has been more protracted than had been expected, but after another extended discussion yesterday, arising mainly through the criticisms of the small pacifist groups, the entire report of the committee on war aims was adopted by virtually unanimity.

This result is regarded as a triumph for Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who in his vigorous reply to the pacifist objections, said he had been in England three weeks and had seen no flame of peace flying through the world, as has been described by some one calling himself a Socialist. GERMANY'S DEAD

(George Harvey's War Weekly.) To gloat over the destruction of our fellow men. We sincerely wish that we never necessary for anyone to die save according to the benign order of Nature, at a patriarchal age. But, cleanliness being as they are, we must note a cheerful degree of public opinion fortitude and resignation at the estimate made by M. Marcel Huttin, the eminent French military expert, that 1,620,000 Germans have been killed in this war. It is not that we want Germany to die, but that we want Democracy and freedom and humanity to live. And the tragic truth is that if these are to live, many Germans must be slain. The war must be won, and it is to be won only by killing Hunks. It is a terrible thought that more than a million and a half men, on that side, have already been killed, and that probably as many more will be killed before the war ends.

NO FAIR TONIGHT

Because of the very heavy rains the management of the Knights of Columbus Fair being held in connection with the E. C. appeal for Army relief funds, have decided not to run the fair tonight. The grounds are in such a condition owing to the wet weather, that they are in many cases impassable. A change in plan therefore has been made and the fair instead of closing on Monday night, will be continued until Tuesday night. With fine weather for the first of next week record breaking crowds are expected.

THE HORSE IN WAR

Early in the war at Mons a shell crashed right into the midst of the section with which I was working. Our gun was wrecked and the driver in front was blown to bits. As I mounted a fresh horse I turned and saw my two horses struggling and kicking on the ground to free themselves, but was unable to go back and help them. My feet were indescribable. A French charger dashed up and cut the traces, and although they drove a long way off, the horses galloped after him, and followed him for four days. They were not needed, but they kept following in the line like trained soldiers.

After every engagement at the front riders were found near their dead masters, or following them. It was very touching to see two whole days he remained there, when some of our men crawled out and found him standing by the side of the dead body of his rider, the horse himself unharmed. It was with difficulty he was able to leave the spot, and only by blindfolding him could he be persuaded to let his dead master and return to the British lines.

During the many visits I have paid to the hospitals at the front I heard several remarkable stories of the faithfulness, loyalty and tenacity of our army horses.

"Many of them," said an officer to me "have very retentive memories and display great aversion to go near or pass any point where they have been frightened or injured. In one striking instance of this came under my personal observation just before our great offensive at the end of 1917. I had acquired one from a brother officer who was returning to the front after a successful march. He assured me that I could have no better charger on which to ride forward than the horse I was offered. As I mounted a lion, yet as mild and obedient as a lamb when answering the reins, an absolutely trustworthy steed, and as soon as the owner's words as we concluded our bargain. And, truth to tell, I found nothing to confirm his behavior. I rode until one afternoon when, riding out of the ruined village of — in — I found the horse turned and saw my two horses struggling and kicking on the ground to free themselves, but was unable to go back and help them. My feet were indescribable. A French charger dashed up and cut the traces, and although they drove a long way off, the horses galloped after him, and followed him for four days. They were not needed, but they kept following in the line like trained soldiers.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN

Within a year Rev. W. W. Kenyon, evangelist, has been invited to assist the churches of St. John on three occasions. His last call to the city was from the Laymen's Evangelistic Committee, composed of business men representing all the denominations of the city.

It will be an inter-denominational evangelistic campaign. The city pastors are invited to co-operate and great work is expected.

The committee secured the old Brasils Street Baptist church. They have cleaned and lighted it in modern style. Mr. Kenyon is assisted by Prof. Earl Small and his gifted wife. Prof. Small and wife are singers of national reputation. Mrs. Marion Small has a rich soprano voice of rare quality. Their solo work will prove a great feature, but their duets will inspire the hearers.

Come early and enjoy the song services. Sunday 9 a. m., first meeting.

SPANISH INFLUENZA IN NEW BRUNSWICK

Fredericton, N. B., Sept. 21.—There is little doubt that the Spanish influenza, which has caused many deaths in Europe and which appeared in the United States some time ago, has made its way into this part of Canada. The sickness, which is much like the grippe, but with more violent symptoms, has been quite epidemic in towns and villages of New Brunswick, and reports from the rural districts are to the effect that there has been a heavy loss of stock from the same disease. Coming as it does in a harvesting season, in which there is a scarcity of labor, this epidemic will further handicap the harvest operations.

Those Who Are Conducting The K. of C. Army Huts Appeal in Montreal (Montreal Star.)

The appeal for contributions to further the work of the Catholic Army Huts is nationwide. No particular sect is addressed by reason of the fact that since its inception your Canadian soldiers have catered to Canadian soldiers of all creeds. No organization of this nature working at the front today has a larger scope than the Catholic army huts. This is testified to by the following list of those who have consented to act as patrons of the campaign and which includes Canadians of every religious denomination:

THE SLAYING OF MRS. C. E. CHAPIN

Further Details of Tragedy in New York

Husband Was Worried Man

Wife of City Editor of New York World Found in Her Home With Bullet Through Head—Chapin Also Meant to Kill Himself

(New York Times.) Mrs. Charles E. Chapin, wife of the city editor of the New York Evening World, was killed by a bullet which struck her near the right ear and was fired while she was in bed yesterday morning in the apartment she and her husband had occupied for three years in the Hotel Cumberland, Fifty-fourth street and Broadway.

Her husband was seen leaving the hotel seven hours previous to the finding of the body, and last night the police sent out a general alarm for his arrest in a charge of murder. Chapin, the police asserted, had taken precautions to prevent discovery of the body until some hours after his departure. Late last night they were investigating the report that the editor had gone to Washington.

On the door of the Chapin apartment, facing the elevator corridor on the eleventh floor of the Broadway side of the hotel the police found this notice written on a sheet of paper: "Don't Disturb." The paper was fastened to the door with one of Mrs. Chapin's small napkins. A member of the Evening World staff identified the writing, and said it had been written by Chapin.

Threatened to Kill Himself. Although the police were searching for the editor last night, one of his friends and associates said Chapin had suffered a mental collapse and undoubtedly would commit suicide. A letter found in the Chapin apartment and identified as the editor's handwriting announced that he intended to take his life. It was addressed to Harry P. Simson, president of the Hotel Cumberland, a friend of the Chapins, who had sometimes been their guest on their yacht, Edison while they had lived at the Plaza. The letter read:

I have been suffering from what I have not mentioned to my wife, but my symptoms are leading rapidly to a complete nervous breakdown and I am on the verge of collapse. I cannot look forward to spending the rest of my life in a sanitarium. My wife has known nothing of this. I cannot bear the condition from her and without from her my fear of impending insanity. Please forgive me. I could not help doing what I have done. My wife has no relatives and is so dependent upon me that it would be impossible for her to live on when I have gone. She died in her sleep and never knew. We have been married thirty-nine years next November. They are all happy men. For a long time I have been unable to sleep. My nerves are unstrung. I am tormented with pain. My wife died this morning. In a few minutes I also shall be dead. I have been ill for a long time, fighting with all my strength and it to prevent a breakdown. I can fight no longer the pains that have been raging for months. Good-bye and forgive me. CHARLES E. CHAPIN.

Letter Led to Discovery. It was through another letter written by Chapin and sent to Don C. Seitz, business manager of the New York World, that led to the discovery of Mrs. Chapin's body. The editor evidently had mailed this letter immediately after leaving the hotel. In this he made similar references to his married life, and added: "I am conscious of being on the verge of a nervous breakdown, and it is apparent that the time is close by when I will be dead. My wife has been such a good girl, I cannot leave her alone in the world."

The letter concluded with personal matters and directions to certain persons concerning the disposal of his property, and requested that he and his wife be buried together. Mr. Seitz telephoned to the Hotel Cumberland and requested Manager Paul Ullman to go to the Chapin apartment, Ullman and Patrolman Gross of the West Forty-seventh street station opened the locked hall door with a pass-key. In the first room of the four room suite—the parlor—a piano near a window on the Broadway side was open and sheets of music were on the keys. In another room a meal had been served on the dining table, but the food was untouched. In the fourth room Mrs. Chapin was found dead on one of the twin beds.

done. The only clue to his movements after he disappeared from the hotel was supplied by a chauffeur, William Conway, to Assistant District Attorney James Magee of the homicide bureau. Conway said Chapin had rode in his taxicab to the Forty-fifth street and Vanderbilt avenue corner of the Grand Central terminal. Then Captain Carey of the West Forty-seventh street station detectives sent out a general order for his arrest. Chapin, who is a nephew of Mrs. Russell Sage, was born in the west sixty-seven years ago. He began his newspaper work in Chicago as a lake ship news reporter for the Chicago Tribune. In 1887 he went to the Chicago Herald and shortly afterward was appointed city editor, serving the newspaper in that capacity for two years. He was engaged by the late Joseph Pulitzer in 1889, and since that time has been associated with the Pulitzer publications in varying capacities, most of the time as city editor of the Evening World in this city. He also held executive positions on the Morning World

MORE DEADLY THAN BULLET

Anopheles Mosquito is Unconquered Monarch of the Malaria Fighting Country—Armed Cannot Live in the Jungle. With the British Armies in Macedonia, Aug. 21—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—The right of the British line in Macedonia is formed by the Struma valley. British troops arrived there in June, 1918, when the temperature was 105 in the shade, and they have been there ever since. It is an area of varied fighting. A few miles of trench warfare, then a vast patrolling area of No-Man's Land and No-Man's Sea, the latter being the lake with its stillness of tropical bosta. Most of the fighting has taken place in the Seres plain, once the most fertile grain area in the world, but now a jungle of monstrous wild plants. The anopheles mosquito is now the uncrowned monarch of this whole country. It is a far more deadly enemy than bullets or shells, and armies cannot live in the jungle, so that this vast area is now only a district for patrols. The British have their positions on one range of hills, the Bulgarians on the other, and their patrols often meet in that vast, forest No-Man's Land. The War Industries Board has put a ban on all new building construction while the war lasts.

THE WAR

The outstanding war news of this morning came from a part of the fighting line where there has been little fighting of late. It told of a mighty blow struck by the British and French, and also friendly Arabs against the Turks in the Holy Land.

THE NEW VICTORY LOAN

The people of Canada will, in a few days, be asked to subscribe to a new Canadian Victory Loan. And the response should be prompt and hearty. There must be money to carry on the war and Canada cannot borrow from Great Britain now as she could in the peace days.

HUNS WILLING TO TALK PEACE, SOME OF REASONS WHY

(Continued from page 1) Philip Scheidemann, Socialist leader, in the Vorwärts, the Socialist organ, makes a slashing attack on the government, asking whether it is striking with blindness and what will happen should the Entente Allies decline a peace of maintaining and enforcing a peace.

UTTERLY DISCREDITED

Says The New York Times: "Austria and Germany have themselves to blame if, when they confess defeat and propose peace, the proposal is summarily rejected as insincere. Sincerity, good faith, truth, honor, common honesty, all these are no longer credited with. They have forfeited the last shred of reputation by bringing on this war and by the manner in which they have conducted it.

LIGHTER VEIN

A certain admiral whose addiction to strong language is well known in the navy was one day inspecting one of the ships under his command, relates Life. When he came to the brig (ship's jail) his piercing eye travelled from one to another of the prisoners, who were evidently ill at ease under his scrutiny.

ORIGIN OF THE LIMERICK

The origin of the limerick, the nonsense verse of modern England, appears to be a mystery which has baffled even the editors of the New England Dictionary. The subject is discussed in a recent issue of the Cornhill, and the author, G. L. Graves, reminds his readers that "before limericks were vulgarized by newspaper competition they often furnished a field for the irregular activities of men of wit and talent."

DOG-PROOF SHEEP

A New Breed in North Carolina That Knows How to Fight. Some years ago the Observer started a story about a rabbit that could whip a bulldog for its own kind. As a matter of course it had discussed in the papers, many of which contended that such a thing could not be. They began to say "Fruit-a-tives", and in 10 days, the pain was easier and the rheumatism was better.

MR. P. H. McHUGH. 108 Church Street, Montreal, December 10th, 1917. "I was a great sufferer from Rheumatism for over 16 years. I consulted specialists, took medicines, used lotions; but nothing did me good. Then, I began to use 'Fruit-a-tives', and in 10 days, the pain was easier and the rheumatism was better.

A tale of two Trade Marks

For over 59 years Turnbulls have been making good knitted underwear in Canada—and underwear exclusively. They came from the Old Country with the knowledge of how to make good underwear bred in them.

The reason for this tremendous growth and popularity can be summed up in one word "Quality" first and all the time. You cannot get away from the fact that Canadians appreciate "Quality" more than anything else.

UNDERWEAR This brand is on all Turnbull's ribbed underwear which is extremely popular with ladies and children because of its great elasticity and comfortable fitting. Made in all sizes in separate garments and union suits with special closed crotch.

Sold by good dealers everywhere. Made only by The C. TURNBULL COMPANY OF GALT, Limited, GALT, ONTARIO

ATTEMPT TO BLACKMAIL FAMILY OF J. P. MORGAN

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 21—Charged with an attempt to blackmail the family of J. P. Morgan to the amount of $20,000 by use of the mails, B. B. Thorn, fifty years old, janitor at a local newspaper building, was arrested by government authorities here after an investigation extending over more than fifteen months.

According to officers the first of the series of letters, addressed to Mrs. James Nichols, daughter of Mr. Morgan, at her home, Glen Cove, L. I., was received by her eighteen months ago. In it the writer purported to be representing a gang in such close touch with the Morgan family that it had been able to inoculate the entire family with a germ which would produce death within three years.

The plan, it was said, was to sell to Mrs. Nichols the antidote for the germ. Thorn was unable to furnish $10,000 bail, and was taken to Detroit by a United States Marshal.

RECENT WEDDINGS MacKenzie-Hinton.

Bathurst, Sept. 14—A wedding of more than ordinary interest, on Wednesday, September 11, was that of Miss Marion Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Cooper, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with aster, sweet peas, palms and ferns.

CANADIAN HORSES FOR IMPERIAL ARMY

Representations of Ottawa Secure Placing of Order by War Office. Ottawa, Sept. 21—The delegation representing the Horse Breeders of Canada, which visited Ottawa last week, and asked the government to use its good influences with the British War Office so that remounts for the Imperial forces might be purchased in Canada, has been successful.

In response to cables the War Office committee has signified its willingness to take all the horses offered that are suitable for remounts and has placed a credit balance with the Dominion government for this purpose.

It is expected that a remount purchasing party, under the direction of a Canadian veterinary officer who recently returned from the front, will start west early next week.

FRENCH WOMEN AND PEACE

The answer sent to the Women's Congress of The Hague in 1915 by the Women's National Council of France contains 120 feminist associations and by the eighty federated suffrage societies bears reading at the present time. "How would it be possible," says this document, "for us at such a time as the present to meet women of the enemy countries and again take up with them the work so tragically interrupted? Have they denounced the political crimes and this against humanity perpetrated by their government? Have they protested against the violation of Belgium, against the criminal acts of their army and their navy? If their voices have been raised it has been too feebly for their protestations to reach us. We can only resume co-operation with them when they accept, as we do, respect for their material strength has been crushed by the heroic defence of their victors."

"We in France nursed the dream of peace and understanding, if not universal at least European; we refused to believe those who pointed out to us the growing menace on the other side of the frontier. How we have been swayed to the reality—you know, and history will keep the record forever. Since even we have proved the danger and futility of a one-sided pacifism, we shall only resume our propaganda when the peace to come has given us efficacious guarantees against the domination of one nation. But is this the moment to discuss peace? With sorrowful amazement we read your programme for an armistice. How can we think of such a thing when our provinces are still subject to the enemy's yoke, and Belgium stands martyred before all eyes? Do you ignore what France demands of this peace? Her material strength has been crushed by the heroic defence of their victors."

Of such fibre are the women of France made. Had Russia's women been possessed of the same ideals and the same courage, what anxiety and sacrifice would have been spared the Allies? It is reported that a German officer predicted that the war would end whenever the women concerned so decreed. French women and their sisters of the Allies are evidently determined that cessation of fighting shall mean peace and not merely an armistice.

RECENT DEATHS Thomas McMaster.

Many friends in the city will learn with deep regret of the death of Thomas McMaster, a former resident of St. John, which occurred in Montreal yesterday. Mr. McMaster at one time conducted a haberdashery in Main street, and a few years ago retired and went to Montreal to live. He visited St. John about six weeks ago, and on that occasion was warmly greeted by a host of old acquaintances. He is survived by his wife, one son, George, who is now in California, who will be remembered in St. John as a clever musician; one daughter, Mrs. C. M. Barton, of Montreal. The funeral will be held on Sunday from Fairville station, to Cedar Hill cemetery, on arrival of the express from Montreal.

The death of Mrs. Hannah M. Coughlan of Newcastle occurred recently. She was seventy-five years old and is survived by five sons.

Local influence is being exerted in London to facilitate arrangements there relative to military guards for the alien enemies who are to be brought here from the internment camps. Just how many men will be sent here or from what camps they are to be selected is as yet unknown here, although the tobacco growers in Essex County are well satisfied with the action taken at Ottawa.

George Creel gave his version of the withdrawal of the book entitled "Two Thousand Questions and Answers About the War," in a letter to the National Security League, and denounced "singular dishonesty and even indecent publicity" of statements in reference to the withdrawal of the book.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 21—Interned aliens will be freed to harvest the Essex tobacco crop, it was announced from Ottawa today. Arrangements are now pending with the Militia Department whereby military guards will be furnished from the troops quartered at Carling Heights, London.

As the result of the acute labor shortage in this district, the crops of tobacco throughout Essex County have been endangered with the approach of cold weather, as one frost will suffice to ruin the entire season's growth. Every

Ordnance Branch Like a Vast Workshop

Many Types of Guns

Improvements Have Been Adopted by Other Nations—Skilled Workmen Recruited to Ensure Efficiency in Important Work

Central France, Sept. 8.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—American ingenuity is fast making itself felt in the construction of field guns in the vast workshop of the ordnance branch of the American army here.

The results have been astonishing, permitting an ordinary field piece to be elevated to 80 degrees, or almost straight up.

The American design has now been adopted as the standard French model, and it is going into all the new guns made at French arsenals. Official photographs made by the ordnance branch are now going forward for public exhibition in America, showing this split-trailer firing at an elevation of 78.40 degrees.

Most of the nations are making two forms of these machine-guns, the heavy model was ready.

In this same arsenal one could compare the rifles and bayonets of all the combatant troops. The American bayonet looked like a long, sharp-edged knife. But the French bayonet was more like a slender rapier, two feet long and without cutting edge, meant for stabbing. The Russian bayonet has no sharp point, but is like a screw-driver with a flat edge, cutting and stabbing at the same time.

And besides the guns of all kinds is the ammunition stored in vast quantities in arsenals and warehouses and in huge parks and ammunition dumps all the way from the coast up to the fighting front. The great stacks of shells are very orderly in arrangement, each stack representing a car-load, and each graded by caliber and lot-number. Each lot of shells differs slightly in power, and the only way to insure uniform accuracy in the fire of a battery is to keep it supplied with the same lot of shells.

Realizing the need of highly skilled men for this work in France, a special recruiting campaign was carried on in many of the American industrial centers last winter. The result is shown in the equipment of the ordnance branch with a staff of skilled workmen equipped with the best factory sections.

It is largely a patriotic service in which skilled mechanics have given up large wages to accept the soldiers' pay of $30 a month. The foreman of one of the extensive Detroit automobile factories, who received $200 a week, is now a volunteer among these enlisted men receiving $30 a week. There are scores of cases of this kind.

Separate from the shells, are the fuses and grenades kept in small detached lots owing to their highly explosive character. In one of these large dumps there were eighteen different kinds of gas, hand and rifle grenades.

There are now some 8,400 men, formerly skilled mechanics in large American factories, who are enlisted soldiers carrying on this huge work of keeping up the supply of guns and ammunition. Realizing the need of highly skilled men for this work in France, a special recruiting campaign was carried on in many of the American industrial centers last winter. "DOUGHOYS." (From the Stars and Stripes.) A doughboy is an American soldier, and American soldiers, infantrymen, medical department, signal corps, sharpshooters and men alike, all are called doughboys. Our cartoonist is one, so is General Pershing. The term "doughboys" dates back to the Civil War when army wit was aroused by large globular brass buttons on infantry uniforms. Somebody (he must have been a sailor) dubbed the buttons "doughboys" because they reminded him of the boiled dumplings of raised dough served in ships' messes and known to all sailors as doughboys. Originally it referred only to an infantryman, but the A. E. F. applies it to all branches and all grades of the service.

GENEROSITY "COLOSSAL." London, Sept. 21.—P. O'Connor, M. P., at a committee meeting of the Armenian Refugees Fund, expressed his profound appreciation of the great work which he found on his recent visit to America, was being carried on by the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, of the keen enthusiasm of their workers and of the hearty sympathy which he found on all sides.

He was deeply impressed with the "colossal" generosity of the American people, and with the "republican" spirit of the committee, both within Turkish territory and in the regions adjacent to the various battle fronts.

Wm. D. C. M. Lt. Col. G. W. Adams, 140 Britain street, has received word that his brother, Regimental Sergeant-Major Thomas Adams of the 18th Battalion, has been awarded the D. C. M. He is a South African war veteran.

"I want to know," said the grim-faced woman, "how much money my husband drew out of the bank last week."

"I cannot give you that information, madam," answered the man in the cage. "You're the paying teller, aren't you?" "Yes, but I'm not the telling payer." —Boston Transcript.

CATCH BASINS BLOCKED
Several catch basins were blocked up this morning as a result of the large amount of refuse carried into the basins by the heavy flow of water due to the rain fall. Members of the Water and Sewerage department were kept busy keeping them open. A small break also occurred in Main street and a crew of men were sent to make repairs.

TO START ON MONDAY.
R. Tobias, who recently was given a contract to dig a trench from the One Mile House to East St. John for the installation of the new water main, will put a crew of men at work Monday morning drilling a rocky section near Kane's Corner. It is expected that the installation will be completed before the winter weather sets in.

JOY RIDERS AND OTHER MOTORISTS

Public Willing to Save Gasoline by Sabbath Observance But Some Have Excuses—The Rationing Plan

The second Sunday of patriotic abstention from pleasure riding in automobiles comes tomorrow and will in all probability be as willfully observed as was last Sabbath. However, there are numerous conditions and circumstances in this matter which are apt to place well-intentioned people in a very bad light and bring them, innocently enough, under censure.

For instance a household may have a country place at which the family spends week-ends in September and October and early Sunday forenoon it is their habit to motor to it, a matter of possibly three to ten miles out of town. No "joy riding" in the popular sense of the term is intended and yet for citizens to see a car filled with family leaving town the impression that the occupants are not co-operating in gasoline conservation is at once created.

The auto as a means of purely utility transportation has become indispensable to campers and cottagers in every city and town and business men such as clerks and Saturday night workers in general feel they are being placed in a most unfavorable light when conditions prevent them getting to their week-end abodes before Sunday morning.

Last Sunday night a citizen in a crowded automobile was heard apologizing to a jocular friend on the sidewalk that the reason for his car being in service was the necessity of getting his five children into town from the country place for school. Some car owners, fearing jibes and jokes at their expense, motored from city to the suburbs and back under cover of night at a late hour.

The sale of gasoline on Sunday having been discontinued in a voluntary spirit of co-operation by numerous dealers, there was a rush for car fuel last Saturday which will possibly be repeated today. This does not necessarily indicate Sunday motoring, however, as it is a custom with car owners who drive sparingly throughout the week to "bunker up" their tanks on Sunday.

A leading official in town and one who motors extensively suggested to "The Times" that if conservation of gasoline is continued for any length of time it might prove a better plan to issue "gas" cards limiting the automobilist to a certain quantity per week. Heavy fines could be imposed on car owner and gasoline dealer for over-supply and non-fulfillment of the obligation generally. In a sense it would be rationing like in sugar, etc.

Some car owners have suggested a card system for auto fuel—with quantities for commercial car, pleasure vehicles—would then give the working classes that opportunity to enjoy restful week-ends at their country places, to visit rural relatives or indulge in other innocent pleasures not by any means to be classed as joy-riding. These people would be willing, no doubt, to forego the whole week's use of gasoline to carry out this harmless Sunday visiting at distances requiring mechanical transportation and in places not served by boat or railway.

FORTRESS OF METZ CAN BE REDUCED Can Be Overcome as Well as Hindenburg Line, Says Gen. Maurice

London, Sept. 21.—"Will the fortress of Metz meet the same fate as those of Namur and Liege?" This is the question which Major-General Maurice considers in his article in the Daily Chronicle, saying: "The armament of the fortress of Metz is not likely to be as vulnerable by howitzer fire as was that of the Belgian fortresses, and it is too much to expect that it will be silenced in the same way as were the guns of Namur, but permanent defences are not likely when the attacker can bring against them as many heavy guns and howitzers as it can find positions for, and has all but an unlimited supply of shells, to prove more difficult to crack than elaborate field defences such as the Hindenburg line.

Watters Loses Presidency of Labor Congress

Thomas Moore Now Head of National Organization After Lively Election Fight—Registration Methods Condemned

Quebec, Sept. 20.—The Trades and Labor Congress selected new officers for the ensuing year at its session this afternoon and the result of the voting was a defeat for several of the men who governed the organization last year. J. C. Watters was beaten for the office of presidency by Thomas Moore, of Niagara Falls, by 155 votes to 148.

The struggle for the offices of three vice-presidents was very keen and resulted in what a delegate described as "crooked work" in the voting. A Martel, Montreal, and R. Baxter, Glace Bay, were soon elected by large majorities.

After the fourth ballot Mr. McAndrew was declared elected by Stuart Hayward, fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor, who was acting as chairman. The great jump in the total vote on the fourth ballot aroused suspicion and the result was challenged.

It was obvious that more votes had been registered than there were in the hall. An investigation showed that the authorized ballot papers had been used. Some delegates apparently had taken advantage of this and had torn up sheets of paper used to cover the tables.

Mr. Rees was declared elected. The vote followed: Rees, 180, 128, 121, 121, 121; McAndrew, 128, 120, 206, 128.

CURRIE PRAISES CANADIAN CORPS

Speaks in Flattering Terms of Glorious Victory Which Broke the Queant-Drocourt Line.

At British Army Headquarters, evening Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press despatch from Reuters Limited)—Reuters correspondent writes: A letter to the Fourth Division, expresses his high appreciation of the Canadian Corps for the splendid part played by the fourth division during the recent operations. He says: "Your task from beginning to end was an exceedingly difficult one. You took over in the middle of the battle and advanced steadily against over half a ground against most serious opposition, fighting up by what must be to you one of the most satisfactory operations in which you have ever participated. Your success on Monday last in keeping with the best traditions of the fourth division testified in the most forcible manner to the fine fighting qualities of the troops composing it. To me it was a prouder satisfaction to have the fourth division succeed as it did because it was by them that the First Canadian Division received its first instructions in the art of war. Monday's battle was not merely a success; it was a glorious victory."

The battle referred to is the attack that succeeded in breaking through the Queant-Drocourt switch line.

The Best Habit in the World

It is the habit of health. The way to get it is to train your bowels, through the liver, to move naturally, at a fixed time, every day.

Take one pill regularly (more only if necessary) until you succeed. Then you can stop taking them, without trouble or annoyance. This has been the good-health rule for 80 years.

Premier Foster, Tells of Flourishing Communities Along the International Railway

"I see that the opposition organ here announces that I have been absent on a pilgrimage," remarked Premier Foster last night, in speaking of his trip of inspection throughout the northern sections of the province, "and I would like to say that it would be more correct to say that I was very much interested in the people of our province if the public men would make more pilgrimages. Then they would learn of existing conditions and when questions came before them in the House they would be in a position to discuss them intelligently."

er children under her care. After her father marched away to war this brave girl neglected none of her accustomed duties but managed her father's large farm so well that the Prefect thanked her publicly. In another district two young girls, orphans, were left alone when their three brothers were called up. They took over the care of a sixty-acre farm, with twenty-five cows and five horses.

All over France it was the same story. Where the Hun penetrated and sowed devastation on every hand, all able-bodied women under fifty, and boys and girls of fourteen and over, were deported to Germany as slaves. It was the old women who set to work patiently to reclaim the land, with the help of the little children. They planted vegetables among the ruins of their burnt houses, and even tried to plough the down-trodden fields and sow crops. Many societies of French women are undertaking to help in the devastated districts. Many women have undertaken to work independently, living with the people and sharing their hardships and sorrows. Thousands have disappeared from these villages never to return, victims not of shrapnel but of deportation. Hundreds fell by the wayside, and hundreds became separated from their families in the mad evacuation before the oncoming Hun. Boys and girls by the thousand are lost forever to the Hun. To help these tragic cases of cruelty is the special work of the Women's Societies.

The spirit of French women is shown in their attitude towards the Women's Congress of the Hague, which met in April, 1918. Not a single French Society sent a delegate to this pacifist meeting. The 150 feminist associations and the eighty suffragist societies refused to accept the proposed programme. As long as that spirit survives, victory is assured to the Allies.

Fifty Mexicans from Toledo, Detroit, and Cleveland, in charge of immigration officials were taken to the international boundary to be deported. They were taken, motherless, and with three young-

PATRIOTISM OF FRENCH WOMEN

A Whole Volume Not Enough to Tell Facts of Their Response to Call of Country

A whole volume would not be enough to tell simple facts of every day occurrence in the French woman's response to the call of her country. At the very first call for mobilization French women answered simultaneously with their men folk, and not once have they failed to "carry on" since that fateful August day. Women of all ranks and of every occupation responded. From the very air of La Belle France they had absorbed as truth that every woman must give ungrudgingly of her dearest and of herself for defence of home and country. First of all they, like the Spartan women of old, handed to each soldier his shield with the message: "Come home with it or on it." Then they turned to the pen or the plough, whichever task they could do best of all those laid down by the departing soldiers. Because she is always her husband's companion and comrade, the French woman is always thoroughly acquainted with the business side of living.

It was not difficult therefore (except for foreboding and anxiety and real terror) to assume entire control of shops, cafes, and even of farms, running them to the benefit of the whole community. Fields, vineyards, and orchards were tended, and crops were garnered by the women with scarcely a hint from the government. French women became managers of big businesses, and there is a long record of women who are acting as mayors, head teachers, post mistresses, and servants in posts by no means devoid of danger. They have performed their work with an efficiency that is not qualified by any charitable allowances because of emergency.

French women have taken over the work of train conductors and drivers, ticket collectors. Over 650 women were employed as tramway conductors in Paris alone in January, 1918, and 1,200 more in the Metro-tube. Over 6,700 were employed by railways, and thousands in the various banks. Munition workers are recruited almost entirely from the ranks of women. Lace-makers, dressmakers, porcelain workers from Limousin, embroiderers from the Vosges, tulle cutters, those whose hands and eyes had been trained to the distinct, finest work turned out shells which on a random visit to a workshop employing 845 women produced but one bad shell among 80,000. Like their British sister, the French women volunteered unhesitatingly for the most dangerous work. Effective canteen work was from the start the idea of French women for their sisters, and has been most efficiently managed. By sheer merit women have won first place on agricultural committees. There is on record the case of a girl of fourteen, motherless, and with three young-

Submarine's Fight With a Submarine

Notable Sea Adventure Reported From an Italian Harbor

A notable sea adventure is reported by G. Ward Price from an Italian harbor. It began with the chance meeting of an Italian submarine and an Austrian submarine.

fading into night, and after dark it is difficult to see clearly enough through a periscope to aim a torpedo. If the Italian commander was to make sure of his shot, therefore, he would have to rise to the surface. But while he was counting up and getting ready to loose off—a matter of three minutes—the enemy craft, which was stationary, might see him and get in a shot first. He chose to take the chance of emerging. Enemy's Move Too Late.

Sir Sam's Reply to Criticism

Answers Charge Attributed to the Premier

Some Other Matters

Did Not "Bulldoze" Cabinet—Had to Fight Interference by Colleagues—Prevented Election in Fall of 1914

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 20—General Sam Hughes, ex-minister of militia, proposes to hit back whenever his record or his administration is attacked. And in hitting back he is likely to add considerable interest to the coming session of parliament and illumine some interesting dark places in the history of the pre-Union administration during the first two or three years of the war.

He gave out for publication today a Highsenian interview in reply to a statement which he says is going to be made in Toronto and elsewhere, quoting one of the most prominent members of the cabinet as saying while in Toronto three weeks ago at the National Exhibition that "Hughes, while in the cabinet rendered himself offensive to his colleagues by seeking to become master of the administration and to control, not only the militia but all other departments."

Sir Sam does not specify for publication the name of the cabinet minister, but does not deny that his friends who have asked him "to tell the whole story," saying that the prime minister himself is the uncouth intruder. Incidentally, in defending himself against the charge of attempting to "bulldoze" the government, Sir Sam confirms the story that he bought a certain motor truck at nearly $1,000 more than its price to ordinary dealers and at about twice the amount that we could get one of the best trucks on the continent for. After four months' delay in war time, the prime minister induced the opponents of his policy to stand aside. Meantime, the second division of legislation had been seriously impeded. And yet I never "squealed," and I never "took a club" to the other ministers who "butted" into his department. He concluded his remarks with an epigrammatic warning that in the struggle to overthrow democracy in Canada through government orders, it is not a matter of right and wrong, but of the right and wrong of the rights and responsibilities of parliament.

Is Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?

Modern Methods of Cooking and Living Have Made an Alarming Increase in Iron Deficiency in Blood of American Men and Women

Why Nuxated Iron so Quickly Builds Up Weak, Nervous, Run-down Folks—Over 3,000,000 People Annually Taking it in This Country Alone Increase Their Strength, Power, Energy and Endurance.

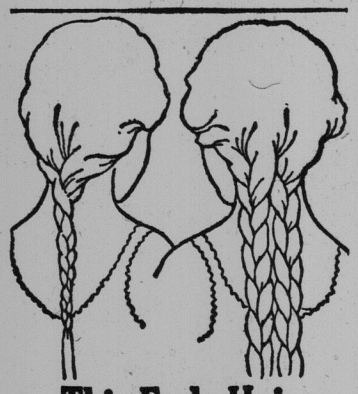

"Is your blood starving for want of iron? Is your blood food? If you were to go without eating until you were weak, thin and emaciated, you could not do a more serious harm to yourself than when you let your blood literally starve for want of iron—iron that gives it strength and power to change food into living tissue." says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.) New York and the Westchester County Hospital.

"Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this country live have made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marveled at the large number of people who lack iron in the blood, and who never suspect the cause of their weakness, nervous, run-down state. Lack of iron in the blood not only weakens a man's physical and mental vigor, but it robs him of that vital force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body, something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

"For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable, and all 'run-down,' while at fifty or sixty with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy.

"As proof of this take the case of former United States Senator and Vice Presidential nominee Charles A. Towne, who at past 68 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy. Senator Towne says: 'I have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and regenerative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this remedy, and I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to those who feel the need of renewed energy and the regularity of bodily functions.'

"But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forceful men and healthy, happy women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well known physicians, thousands of people still insist in dosing themselves with metallic iron simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron just as we use salt when our food say at the outset it is devoid of some particle of truth.

"I have ever recognized the joint responsibility of the cabinet. I have also ever recognized it to be the right and duty of each and every minister to discuss fully in the cabinet important matters of policy. But while I held it to be my right, I never interfered in any other department except on two minor occasions concerning incidents in my own riding. My policy, and I claim it to be the constitutional one, was, and is, that the full cabinet should be consulted on matters of policy and on all important questions, but that on minor matters each minister should consult the prime minister alone, and not bother the cabinet. But what are the facts? While I never either directly or indirectly interfered in another department, some of the ministers of other departments, day in and day out, 'butted' into mine, even in matters of petty detail.

"First, some of them sought to force me to buy a certain motor truck at nearly $1,000 more than its price to ordinary dealers and at about twice the amount that we could get one of the best trucks on the continent for. After four months' delay in war time, the prime minister induced the opponents of his policy to stand aside. Meantime, the second division of legislation had been seriously impeded. found by the post office authorities, and the militia officers sent to locate the place could not do so, until a distinguished Toronto statesman interested produced the 'man' who was going to get up a company. Instances of this kind by the score were pressed on me, by some of my colleagues.

"Third—the finance minister, not only posed and acted as dictator in his own department, but in 1914 when his policy had brought Canadian industries hard times bordering on bankruptcy, he sought to control in detail each and every other department. My policy was this: The cabinet meets and each minister presents his estimates. They are, of course, always high. But the total amount available is made known and the whole cabinet decides in general terms what the reduction in the proposed figures should be; in short, what sum should be allotted to each department. Then each minister in consultation with his own officials, should cut down his estimates in the items which could best spare the amount. The minister would then report to the cabinet. If further reduction were deemed necessary, the process would be repeated.

"The finance minister's plan, however, was after the general reduction had been decided on to call each minister in turn to his office and, assisted by the minister concerned, would appropriate the reductions. When the finance minister invited me to go to his office for this purpose, I promptly informed him that the reduction would be appointed by my own officers and myself, that his function was to raise a proper revenue to keep the finances of the country buoyant; and that the ministers of the spending departments could be trusted to look after the expenditures. After my officers and I had apportioned the reductions, the finance minister called to my office and I showed him the list of reductions. On that occasion I pointed out to him that we intended to have a power of money, and a sort of meddling ruler, and not a financier.

"When the war broke out later on, I illustrated my principle by establishing in Canada the manufacture of shells, and munitions generally from tin, copper, etc. From these have come, despite intricate financing, Canada's good times. Reviews Facts.

"Fourth—I also am charged, I am assured, with bull-doing the whole cabinet. The idea of one man bullying fifteen colleagues in preventing an election in October, 1914. The facts are these: When we broke out the question of having a session or an election was discussed. I favored an election at once; that is, before a session, but I found no fault because the majority of my colleagues decided on a session. It will be remembered that the Liberal party as a whole favored an election at once. It may be suggested, however, it is unfortunate they did not continue to do so. The minister in that session, officially pledged himself and the government that party politics should not be introduced during the war, while I followed suit as minister of militia and minister of justice. I was in the house of parliament in action. On my return from Gaspe Basin, in October of 1914, I immediately repaired to the prime minister's office and gave a detailed report of everything that transpired. There were seven people in Canada who had decided to leave the continent, would sail, and no secret was ever so well kept in the annals of warfare. I then informed the prime minister that I was going to England, to see the boys properly established.

"My surprise he informed me that it had been unanimously decided by the cabinet, in my absence, to have a general election, and my opinion was asked. I was so dumb-founded that I merely asked: 'How can you, in the face of your return to parliament and the people of Canada?' But I further informed him that I was not sailing until the afternoon and asked him to wait for an answer the following morning. That answer was handed in in a brief memorandum to parliament and to the people of Canada. It was concluded with the simple expression that in view of his pledges in parliament and in the house of commons, party politics should not be introduced, and in view of my own promise that party politics should not be introduced, I could not see how any man of honor could under such circumstances consent to force a general election. There was no threat, there was no bull-doing. I never spoke to a human soul on the subject until my return from England. I now learn that for four years this has been trumped up against me as 'having wrecked the Tory party by bull-doing the government in October, 1914, and preventing a general election.'

Sir Sam and Election Efforts.

"Let me here repeat I did favor in August, 1914, a general election before a session, but I accepted loyally the decision, not to have one. I did oppose, not in October, 1914, a general election, for the reasons assigned, and as above stated.

"Hundreds of other instances could be given of meddling on the part of a few of my colleagues, but I challenge any man, from the prime minister down to the slightest justification for the statements recently made in Toronto by, at least, one most distinguished member of the cabinet. While a member of the cabinet.

NIGHT WAR SUMMARY

New York, Sept. 20—The Associated Press tonight issues the following: Holyland is aflame under the impetus of a mighty stroke by the British, French and friendly Arab forces, and the Turks from east Jordan river eastward to the Mediterranean Sea seemingly are in rout. Added to their of twelve miles, taking more than 3,000 Turks, prisoners and overturning the entire hostile defensive system. Railway and highway junction points were captured and strong forces of cavalry at last accounts were well in advance of the attacking troops, threatening to carry out a turning movement against the fleeing Turks which might prove disastrous to them.

Meanwhile along the shores of the Mediterranean naval units were clearing the coastal roads of the enemy by their gunfire.

In addition to the large number of prisoners taken great quantities of war materials had fallen into the hands of the Allied troops and the pressure against the enemy was going on unabated.

The predicament of the Turks is heightened by the operations of the Hedjaz tribesmen on the eastern side of the Jordan, which have prevented them from taking refuge across the stream in the Jordan valley and compel them to fight their way out of their trouble west of the river as best they may.

Women! Keep It On Dresser!

Never Let Corns Ache Twice

Instantly! Few drops stop corn-softness, then corns and calluses shrivel, loosen and lift out with fingers—No pain!

The world owes thanks to the genius in Cincinnati who discovered Frezema. Not a bit of pain or soreness is felt when applying frezema or after wards. It doesn't even irritate the skin or flesh.

For a few cents one can now get rid of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of feet without any pain. Ladies! Keep it on the dresser.

How to Recognize and Avoid Kidney or Bladder Troubles

Medical Research has Proven that Diseases Arising from Congested Kidneys Can be Cured if Detected in Time

The Symptoms of These Afflictions Should be Understood and Recognized

Kidney and Bladder complaints are among the most common afflictions that the human body is heir to. Thousands of people suffer for years with pain in the back, swollen joints or difficult urination, and never once try to rid themselves of their agony because they don't understand the cause, nor seat of their trouble.

Perhaps the best-known disease resulting from kidney derangements are Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Inflammation of the Bladder, Stone and Gravel. These diseases are all the result of deranged kidney action, and can be cured only if the kidneys are restored to perform their proper function of cleaning the blood—before the trouble becomes chronic.

THE KIDNEYS AND THEIR FUNCTION. The Kidneys are classified among the most vital organs of the body; and the importance of taking the greatest care of them—cannot be accentuated too strongly.

If the health of the body is to be maintained, every effort must be made to keep these delicate organs in such perfect condition that they will perform their proper function with regularity and ease.

The duty of the Kidneys is to filter the blood and keep it freed from the poisonous wastes that are being constantly thrown off by the body and collected up by the blood stream. The Kidneys—two in number—are situated just over the hips in the small of the back. Each Kidney is composed of a mass of fine spongy tissues that are fed by a multitude of minute blood vessels.

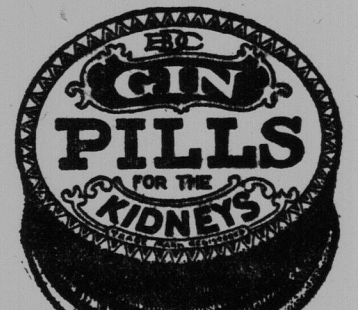

These blood vessels are so small that they separate the blood into its three-like streams, and make it easy for it to filter through the tissues. This filtering process removes the impurities and waste matter.

You can readily understand, then, that when for any reason at all, the Kidneys become congested and die to this congestion fall to filter the uric acid and other impurities from the blood, trouble starts. All the poisons that otherwise would have been expelled from the body now remain in the blood stream and circulate through the system again. In a short time these impurities lodge in joints and muscles, setting up infection and fostering disease. Poisoning of the blood stream is the direct cause of most suffering to-day. We have studied the cause of these afflictions, let us go further and learn how to detect them before they get a fatal grip on the system.

THE SYMPTOMS. The first evidences of poison in the blood are headaches, followed by dizziness, and a general feeling of lassitude. The affected person feels drowsy, dopy and listless. This state is followed by the chief danger signal—that pain in the back—when it comes—be warned, for your health is in danger. If this pain in the back is allowed to continue, Painful Urination and Brick Dust Deposits will likely follow. With some people the joints and ankles begin to swell, and evidences of Rheumatism are noticeable. Kidney troubles soon tell upon the appearance—a gradual wasting away is noticed, the skin becomes sallow and draws, dark circles begin to appear under the eyes, while deep wrinkles mar the features, and the whole aspect of the person is one of depression and lifelessness.

The symptoms stated above are the forerunners of the most serious state of health. Once the kidneys are performing their function properly, the blood is purified and the infection removed by Nature itself—that is, providing you deal with the cause as soon as the symptoms appear. Don't wait until that time or good luck will restore your kidneys to their former healthy condition. A few Gin Pills as prevention are worth many dollars of cure.

There is the point. Don't hesitate and put off till to-morrow. Once your kidneys are out of order, you must get them into proper shape again—or fatal results will surely follow. Stick to the tried and proven remedy, Gin Pills. They have relieved thousands of others. They will do the same for you. You can buy them anywhere—a box, or if you prefer, write to us and we will send you a simple box of Gin Pills free. A trial will see convince you that Gin Pills remedy Kidney and Bladder troubles.

The Great Work of The Cyclist Corps

(By Lacey Amy, Special Correspondent of The Times.)

With the Canadian Forces, France, Aug. 14—The more I see of the details of the war the more I am convinced that the real history of it will never be written. For, after all, the great struggle is made up of its separate incidents. We learn in bulk the scheme of operations, the results, with here and there the individual accomplishments of those who have been fortunate enough to come under official notice. But there are as big things that never reach the public; many of them, indeed, are forgotten by the participants themselves.

So it was that today I spent among the armored cars, the motor machine-guns, and the cyclists. Right up at the front of operations they were when the drive was in its height on the 8th and 9th, working along the Amiens-Roye road. It was a location bristling with excitement—so crowded that most of its details were missed and will recur to their minds only as the days pass and events assume their proper proportions. By their reconnaissance and other work these mobile fighters played an important part in these operations. In the course of their route they were faced with machine guns and anti-tank guns, with snipers who fought from hiding in the last moment, with big guns that knew to the foot the whole of that main highway. That they accomplished their purpose is a full share in the glory of the day.

Tanks and Cavalry.

Ahead went the tanks and the cavalry. After these followed despatch riders whose duty it was to scout for enemy posts and to discover the presence of Germans in the villages. If there were no Hunns the going was good. If there were—well, there was a fighting chance of reaching a ditch or of escaping with a wound not disabling. Sometimes the D. R.'s, as they are called here, were so far ahead as to have tiny little scraps of their own. One of them, passing south of the Roye road into the territory over which the French were attacking, entered a village at one end while the French were entering the other. The Germans were at- tacking, entered a village at one end while the French were entering the other. The Germans were at- tacking, entered a village at one end while the French were entering the other.

WOUNDED GIVE THEIR BLOOD BY TRANSFUSION

London, Sept. 21.—Stories are being told from the Canadian casualty clearing stations of the self-sacrifice of men not seriously wounded willing to give blood by transfusion. This often means the saving of life of more seriously wounded comrades. "We have no difficulty in getting volunteers for transfusions," said an officer. "Last week we had eight cases of transfusion. When we ask for volunteers a dozen men in the wards offered themselves. In one case of a severe wound in the leg, less of blood put the patient's life in danger and amputation was necessary, but the loss of blood made this risky. A Canadian boy with a broken ankle offered to give blood to save the life of his comrade. While the leg of one was being amputated the blood of the other was being transfused. The man whose leg is now doing well and the other is little the worse for giving blood."

BRIDGE REPAIRED.

The work of rebuilding the Ashburn bridge has been completed and the new structure is a credit to the city workmen. The bridge is supported by large pine girders set on solid foundation and the floor is made of heavy timber so placed that any strain will be well divided. Guard rails have been placed to act as a safeguard to traffic and eliminating any danger of a team or automobile, out of control, breaking down the railing and being precipitated into the gully. The work has been supervised by Engineer Hatfield and Street Superintendent Clifford Price, and the cost of construction is said to be $400 less than the lowest tender submitted for the work.

VIOLATORS OF THE WAR-TIME STATUTES SOON FACE TRIAL

United States Courts Nearly Ready for Cases of Jeremiah A. O'Leary and Other Enemies of Eateute Cause

New York, Sept. 21.—Preparation of important prosecution stories is nearing completion, according to federal attorneys, who hope to charge today Jeremiah A. O'Leary and other alleged obstructors of the nation's military progress will be placed on trial this month and next.

The case against O'Leary and six associates on charges of conspiracy to commit treason and espionage will be one of the last heard, said officials of the Department of Justice, because case of the sensational John J. Ryan, a Buffalo, N. J., lawyer, still is at large.

Others involved in the case, including William Robinson, Paul Kipper and Albert Paul Pricke, all of New York; Lieutenant Commander Hermann Weissenel of the German navy, because known in this country as Carl Rodiger, and the Baroness Maria von Kratschmann, who spent here under the name of Mme. de Victoria, are in jail here.

O'Leary, who was captured on the Pacific coast in the Tombs, is held on the eve of his trial for espionage as a writer in the anti-British magazine, Bull, also is in the Tombs.

The lesser charge against O'Leary, in which he is a co-defendant with publishers of "Bull" and editor of the American Truth Society, charged with attempting to interfere with conscription, is scheduled for trial October 14.

The first case on the "espionage calendar" is that Max Eastman and the staff of "Masses," set for September 28. Hearing last spring a charge against this Socialist magazine and its makers, indicted for alleged anti-entente agitation, resulted in a disagreement of the jury.

Trials likely to be moved in October, officials stated, are those of Edward A. Rumsely, charged with having bought the New York Evening Mail for the German government, and Scott Newsum, former college professor, indicted for conspiracy to obstruct recruiting and enlistment. Rumsely is under a writ on an indictment accusing him of perjury in concealing from the Alien Property Custodian the alleged fact that the Mail was enemy owned. Hearing's speeches and writings last spring caused his indictment.

LABOR CONGRESS ON RUSSIAN SITUATION

London, Sept. 20.—The inter-allied labor conference today adopted as amended the report of the international relations committee regarding Russia, in which it was declared that the Brest-Litovsk treaty, if permitted to stand, would confirm the collapse of the Russian revolution and affect adversely the future of the democracy of the world.

The report says: "This conference is of the opinion that, in conformity with article VI of President Wilson's fourteen points, the present efforts of the allied governments to assist the Russian people must be influenced only by a desire to preserve liberty and democracy in order to obtain a durable world peace in which the beneficial fruits of the Russian revolution shall be made permanently secure."

Three hundred prisoners in Sing Sing were registered under the new draft law.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The house late today passed the war revenue bill, designed to raise by taxation approximately $3,520,000,000 of the twenty-four or more billions needed by the nation for the current year. The huge measure, the largest of its kind in the history of any nation, now goes to the senate.

Passage of the bill was unanimous. A formal roll call, demanded by majority leader Kitchin recorded 350 yeas and no nays, which announced by Speaker Clark, was greeted by a roar of cheers and applause.

French Creep on All Fours Over Pla eu and Up Ravines—Water Up to Their Knees. (By Robert Berry, Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.) With the French Armies in the Field, Sept. 20.—Creeping on all fours over plateaux and up ravines dotted with German quick-firers, the French are seeking out hidden machine-guns and ridding them with grenades when found. General Mangin's troops are making one of the most courageous and most admirable fights of this war south of St. Gobain forest, against what a French officer has described as a "natural citadel" that men have been perfecting for four years. The French made 600 more prisoners in this region today under conditions of difficulty which can scarcely be appreciated except by persons on the ground. They gained 1,000 yards over a front of two and a half miles, which would seem insignificant in proportion to the effort and the position less important. Every 100 Yards Weakens Pillar. Every hundred yards of an advance made here weakens a pillar in the German resistance in St. Gobain Forest. An order signed by the general commanding a German division defending this position was found on a prisoner. The document pointed out how vital it was to hold the line, "It prevents the enemy from obtaining a view of both sides of the canal from the Oise to the Aisne. If it falls into the enemy's hands it gives him a most favorable point for future attacks. "It expects," concludes the order, "that the division will be able here to maintain its previous reputation and will hold the position integrally against all attacks." Advancing from shellhole to shellhole, General Mangin's men defeated this crack division and five others that were put into a line over a front of five and a half miles between Alenast and Vally. In doing so they conquered four caves at the summit.

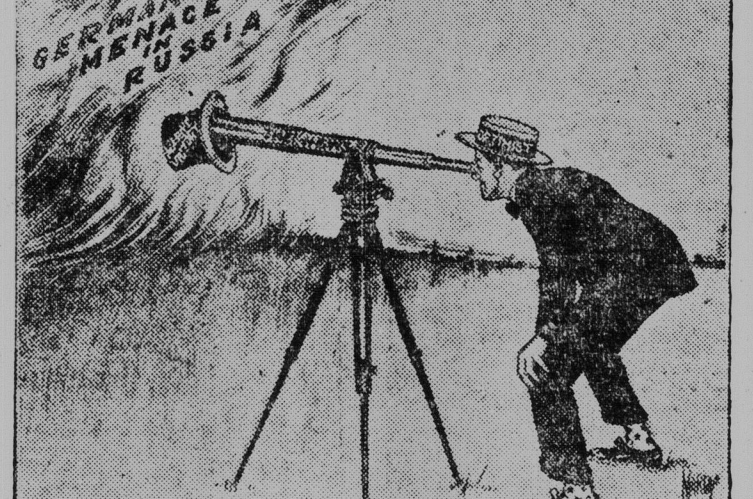

SHOT IN MISTAKE

(Sackville Tribune.) Every year during the shooting season there are fatal accidents through carelessness. There is insufficient caution exercised in the handling of the loaded gun. Somebody's blunder is paid for, often in the twisting of an eye, with a toll of human life. There are a hundred ways of causing fatalities with the gun through sheer indifference and thoughtlessness for the safety of the other man, and in many cases there is exhibited a foolishness for one's own welfare too. Perhaps the biggest blunder is that of the over-enthusiastic sportsman who mistakes his game; a rattle among the bushes; some object spotted; the crack of the gun echoes through the woods—but what then? Perhaps a group of human anguish and all is still. The sequel is given in the newspaper heading "Shot in Mistake." We would not wish, however, to dampen the ardor of our sportsmen by presenting a too dismal picture. But don't forget that men are scarce!

SHORT CUTS TO SUCCESS.

Publishers Apt to Praise Extravagantly So-Called Inspirational Books. Success in life ought to come easier for the present generation than for those that have gone before. Short cuts to the achievement of ambition were never more available. All are familiar from the days of their childhood with the popular receipts of famous men for obtaining success. One said "industry" was the sole reliable method. Another said "honesty," another, "thrift," another, "keep a savings account," another, "early hours," another "abstinence from tobacco," etc. But modern knowledge has gone the old-fashioned philosophers one better. Books, forsooth, are being printed that teach the ambitious how to be successful. All that need be done is to read the book. In that act, according to the publishers, you obtain "a new lease of life," learn to have confidence in yourself, banish fear and reach the goal of the ordinary man's earthly desires. That is a great deal for one book to do. Success is not so easily captured. If it were failures would be relatively fewer. Success is the result of various factors, among which, usually, are character, native ability, industry, perseverance, ambition. Books may help, even one book may do much, but alone and unaided it is not likely to insure success. Books that aim to teach men how to succeed are like the books, or the collection of books, that pretend to conprise in them all that is necessary to develop a cultured man. Read these and no others, say their publishers, and you will have a liberal education, thus establishing the superiority of the collectors to the colleges, which take from four to six years to impart an education to students who work hard enough. Short cuts to success or to education are not complete substitutes for elements that are sure guides to success. Neither is success ordinarily acquired without painful plugging and brain-racking industry.—Indianapolis News.

Empire joined France or not. The "Old Contemptibles," the little army which made the retreat from Mons to the Marne, played its part long ago, but the "New Contemptibles," the "Kitchener mob," have come, and come, and come to take their place. "A stubborn people, the English," was the Kaiser's reflection, when the British declaration of war reached him; "their entrance will cause the war to be prolonged." The reflection has proved true. It is over four years since the German troops crossed the border with the promise that they would be home again for Christmas, with the loot of Paris in their knapsacks. The fifth Christmas in the field is approaching, and it is perfectly safe to say that though they are not home, they are on the way home.

Helping To Carry Rifles

Besides making shells to be used in teaching lessons in international righteousness to the Hun, the French government has missed no opportunity to preserve and increase the splendid morale at home and in the trenches. No one knows better than the French women her own worth as a moulder of that same morale, and as soon as the desire of the government became known, French women set to work to study their strong points and their weak ones, determined that heroism and honor in France should increase through the support afforded by her women. The president of the "Union Francaise" issued a pamphlet which was sent throughout France asking wives, daughters and women to strengthen the faith and courage of their men when home on leave. At the very beginning it was decided to allow to those at the Front seven days' leave every four months, whenever possible.

The appeal read as follows: "Women of France! Our hearts beat with joy at the news that some among us will have our husbands and sons home on a short leave, as the needs of the army will permit. Again we shall see their faces to face, clasp them to our hearts, show to the fathers how the little ones have grown, say the many things which cannot be written. French women, we who are sisters in love of our country and in our duty to defend it, let us not forget that we are about to be put to a severe test, that all the world will now be able to judge what is the quality of our souls, what the value of the spirit animating us. By the effect of this leave on our soldiers, the manner in which we receive them and, above all, the way in which we send them back to their duty, we shall show whether we are women worthy of France, or merely poor loving creatures without courage or noble ideals, unworthy to be wives and mothers of French soldiers.

"Our responsibility towards them is overwhelming for the attitude of the women may be a decisive influence. Let us never forget that our inner thought reflects itself upon the face and in the speech, and that ignoble thought like noble emotion will find an echo in the hearts of our men. Remember that we have not the right to be feeble and that re-vivifying tenderness testifies to a far greater love than exalting tenderness—our soldiers will never mistake the difference. Any woman who at this hour destroys in a man the high sense of duty toward his country will be a criminal, since we are fighting not only for France, but for the principle of right and justice in the world, and this duty should be accepted not as a heavy charge but as an honor and a joy."

It is just about four years since the Kaiser gave the British army the name it at once adopted for its own of the "Contemptibles." On this Sedan Day the Kaiser must have been engaged in some mental reconstruction, and the Potsdam vehmgericht must be wondering if, after all, the decision was a sound one to simply "risk it," whether the British Fellow Canadians!

"HOW much thought do you give to the War—I mean honest, sincere thought on how we should live in order to win the war?"

"I mean you who live from day to day in all the comfort that you enjoyed before the war, some of you in even greater comfort—

"You who spend as much or more on your enjoyment—who indulge in as many of the good things of life as you ever did—

"You who buy what you want to, eat what you fancy, go where you please—who deny yourselves nothing.

"You have no idea what it means to stand knee-deep in mud—in a dirty trench—with a cold drizzle chilling you to the bone.

"You have never heard the shells shrieking overhead—or seen bombs drop from the sky.

"But you know these things are.

"And yet you go on spending—as if this war were in a story-book—as if the menace of the Hun could never touch you.

"But it could—and it would—but for your armies.

"And we—the soldiers who make those armies.

"Do you think we could "carry-on" if we thought for a moment you were not backing us to the limit?"

"Do you think we could stand it all—the terrible fighting and the tiresome toiling—if we dreamed, "over there," that you were trifling with this war?

"If we knew that you were spending money on frivolous things?

"Don't you see that when you spend a dollar on a thing you don't absolutely need, you are using the labor of a man who should be either fighting or making something that will help us—your soldiers—to fight?

"Oh, you chaps with money in your pockets—and comfort in your homes—and love of ease cankering your souls!

"If you could know—as I know—all that war means—you'd stint yourselves down to the barest necessities—so that Canada's money and Canada's material and Canada's labor could all go into guns and shells and boots and uniforms and food—for our boys over in France to fight with."
