London, Jan. 21, 11.25 p.m.—The battle for the trenches in Flanders and France continues, almost without cessation, from the sea to the Swiss border. In the mud of Flanders, the floods of the Aisne Valley and the snows der. In the mud of Flanders, the floods of the Aisne Valley and the snows of the Argonne and the Vosges the soldiers of Germany and the allied nations keep up a continual fight, to hold what they possess and take something from that held by the enemy. According to a long official report of the fighting during the past two months, issued by the French was staff today, this method of siege operations has largely favored the Allies, who, while they have gained ground on almost every part of the front, have been forced to give way in only one region—that of Soissons. They are being put to a test, however, similar to that which obliged them to retire from north of the Aisne, near Soissons because the Germany, realizing the danger to their communications. near Soissons, because the Germans, realizing the danger to their con tions with Metz as a result of the French advance near Pont-A-Mous have sent reinforcements there, and have begun a battle for the positions which they lost during the past week. The Germans apparently have regained a por-tion of them, and fighting for the remainder is now in progress.

A Brief But Interesting Review of the War From Nov. 15 to January 15

Germans Outfought at All Places with the Exception of the Region Around Soissons-Some of Their Destructive Work-French Made Important Advances in the Territory From the Meuse to the Swiss Border.

Paris, Jan. 21, 2.53 p. m.—There was given out this afternoon an official statement under the caption of "The war from November 15 to January 15,"

Ypres, and up to the complete resumption of the great German offensive move-ment against our left wing, the war has taken the character of a siege. In such a warfare, it generally is expected that the advantages obtained by one side or the other virtually offset each other. But in this case it can be said that with one exception, we alone have gained ground. With this one exception, the Germans everywhere have gone back,

THE "POINTS" GAINED ON BOTH SIDES. "The following recital of points gained makes it possible to get an idea of the progress on either side:

"By the Germans—destruction of the market, of the cathedral, and of the hospital of Ypres; destruction of the town of Nieuport and of the Nieuport baths—and the bombardment of Armenteries, Bethune and Areas. Bombardment of Soupir and of Soissons; recapture of hill No. 132 and of an eminence near Grouy, and a gain of from 1,200 to 1,800 yards to the north of Soissons; advance of 200 metres in the Argonne along the front of 800 metres at a point near the Brook Des Meurissons, bombardment of a church at Nancy and of the hos-

"From the sea to the Lys recapture of all the left bank of the Yser between Knocke and Petsas and an opening on the right bank between the sea and St. Georges. The installation of a bridge head four kilometres (two miles and a half) into this region, and the installation of one bridge head to the south of Dixmude. Capture of St. Georges, and of the house of the Ferryman and of Korteker. The general extension of our front around Ypres; the success of Wybendrert and the cessation of the attacks of the enemy's infantry.

"From the Lys to the Oise, the capture of the chateau and of the village of Vermelles and of Ruterle, the capture of numerous German trenches between Aix-Noulette and Carency; the partial recapture of Saint Laurent and of Blangy, near Arras; the capture of La Boisse I; the capture of German trenches at Lihons; the capture of Quesney-En-Santerre; (the end of October), and progress to the east followed by the general extension and consolidation of our feest

"From the Oise to Rheims, the capture of the German trenches at Nampcel, and of the plateau of Noubron; the taking of Sur No. 132 and of the eminence and of the plateau of Noubton; the taking of Sur No. 132 and of the eminence at Crouy both of which, however, we lost again; the destruction of numerous pieces of German artillery, the reduction by four-fifths of our previous percentages of infantry losses, thanks to the greater efficiency of our artillery, and the consolidation of our defensive system.

"From Rheims to the Meuse, advance of one kilometre (two-thirds of a mile) in the region of Prunay; advance of more than two kilometres in the region of Perthes and the stopping of seventeen German counter-attacks; advance of nearly one kilometre in the Argonne, in the forest of La Crurie and of Bolants and the repelling of numerous counter-attacks the extension of our front in the neighborhood of Verdun, and the destruction of numerous German bat-

"From the Meuse to the Swiss frontier important advances in the forest of Consenoyle, in the forest of Apremont, in the forest of Ailly, in the forest of Mortmare and in the forest of Le Pretrie; the checking of all the German at-Mortmare and in the forest of Le Pretrie; the checking of all the German attacks here; progress to the northwest of Nancy; in a locality called the forest of Parroy, progress to the north and to the south of Senonnes and in the entire meighborhood of Ban De Sapt; capture of the Tete De Vious, which commands Sainte Marie and of the Tete De Faux, the complete checking of thirty-four counter-attacks delivered by the enemy; the capture of Steinbach, and progress in the direction of Munster, Cernay and Altkirch. SUMMED UP TO ADVANTAGE OF ALLIES.

"Summing up, we get ten general advances on the part of our troops which were distinctly perceptible at certain places, as compared to twenty general withdrawals on the part of the enemy, always with the exception of the situation to the northeast of Soissons. This is a comparison of the last two months. To complete it, it should be added that, first, the German offensive in Poland has been restrained for a month past, second, the Russian's offensive continue in Galicia, and in the Carpathian mountains: third, the Turkish asmy in the Caucasus has been in large measure annihilated; fourth, Germany has exhausted her resources in officers (an average of twelve officers to a regiment) and will her resources in olineers (an average of twelve olineers to a regiment) and will not in the future be able to develop her resources in effective men except at the expense of the existing units; fifth, the armies of the Allies, on the contrary are finding it possible to further strengthen themselves to a measurable degree.

"It can consequently be observed that to attain final victory it is sufficient to say that France and her Allies know how to wait for it and at the same time to prepare for it with inexhaustible patience.

"THE GERMAN OFFENSIVE HAS BEEN BROKEN, THE GERMAN DEFENSIVE WILL BE BROKEN IN ITS TURN."

These are some of the phrases, full not, of course, talk on the political aspects or the causes of the war, but can speak from a military standpoint.

"It was forced upon us by the Russian mobilization, in the face of which we could do nothing else but arm ourselves. Russia had been advised and warned by his majesty and through our ambassador that if she mobilized we must, in self-defence, order a general mobilization, and take the steps necessary to protect our national existence. Russia, nevertheless, went ahead with its mobilization, while continuing diplomatic negotiations.

"If a man comes into your room for a discussion with gun drawn, you can scarcely be expected to wait for him to cock and level it at you before reaching for your own to defend your life.

"Our present situation is excellent. We have no cause to complain. We have carried the war into the enemy's country on both fronts; we are still there after five months of war. Our present lines are very strong; the advantage is all on our side thus far.

"If our first advance against Paris," said the general in response to a question, "had succeeded fully and in all respects, it would have been reckoned as a most brilliant achievement. As it stands it is an admirable one. I can say so freely, because I had nothing to do with the conception of the plan of campaign. But one cannot expect to carry on war without some checks, and when we fell back we swung over to the present line of action in which we have been thoroughly successful.

"It is wrong to interpret the operations in Flanders as an attempt on our part to reach Calais and outflank the Allied armies. On the contrary, that phase of the campaign is the result of an attempt on the part of French and British to force their way north to separate us from the sea, and envelop our right flank and rear, relieve Antwerp and oblige us to retire from Belgium.

"Their plan was the failure, our counter-stroke the success, of the operations in Flanders. They have not outflanked us, and we are still here."

Kitchenge's New Army.

"What is your view of the widely-heralded general offensive and Kitchen-er's new army?" he was asked.

"The offensive," replied the German chief of staff, "was to begin, according to General Joffre's order, on the day of Dec. 17. So far, we have no reason to be dissatisfied with its results. We have not only held our lines successfully, but have even regined ground. More of such "As to Kitchener's army, the British are good fighters, and I have all respect for them, but an army without necessary officers and non-commissioner officers are search an army according to sary officers and non-commissioner officers, is scarcely an army, according to present-day standards. They may send them over to attack us, but I think we are strong enough to beat them and drive them back with bloody heads.

"What effect."

We are fully prepared for any attempt in this direction; the sooner it comes the better."

"What effect upon the German conduct of the war," General Von Falkenhayn was asked, "has the British blocksade and contraband policy exercised?"

"Practically none at all," he replied "Of food we have enough. Have you mourns his loss.

After the attack the aircraft sailed in a southwesterly direction. One man was found outside his home on St. Peters Plain. His head had been crushed. He was identified as Samuel Smith, a shoemaker. A woman, who has not yet been identified, also was found dead, while a soldier was discovered in Norfolk square with a wound in his chest.

So far as can be ascertained these are the only casualties in Yarmouth, but owing to the complete darkness that prevails as a result of the cutting off of the electric light service, this statement cannot be accepted as definite.

The greatest damage done by any of the bombs resulted from one that fell in St. Peter's Plain, near St. Peter's church, which damaged a whole row of houses, breaking all the windows in them and littering the street with debris, consisting of slate from the windows in them and littering the street with debris, consisting of slate from the roofs, and brick.

Morning Post, discussing the air rand on the east coast of England, questions the wisdom of the recent announcement by the government of its intention to indemnify the residents for loss of property, pointing out that the Germans may take advantage by sporadic attacks to drain the government resources.

"Such a pledge," says the Post, "encourages the enemy to proceed with its destruction in the hope of crippling our government financially. The damage done to a country by an enemy is not properly a liability of the government of that country. Dr. Johnston had suffered from hear ouble for several years.

A GERMAN ZEPPELIN AND HOW IT IS WORKED

Germany is said to have forty-five of these war machines and they are reported to be rather active of late although they have not thus far proven themselves of any great use except for dropping bombs on unfortified towns. Each is provided with a wireless outfit, while the bomb dropper is suspended in an armored cage 2,000 feet below the balloon. His hombs are attached to the bottom of his car and are released by a pressure of the foot.

RUSSIA HERSELF AGAIN, HE SAYS

She Has a Great Life Before Her, Says Writer-Fighting for Herself.

(By Stephen Graham in Collier's.) One of the commonest headlines in Russian papers is "Holy War." A war, if it is going to have any success in Russia, must be a holy war. The Crimean war was a holy war to protect the Russian pilgrims from the persecutions of the Turks. The Japanese war tions of the Turks. The Japanese war never succeeded in getting thought holy—that was why it failed so disastrously. This war is holy to everyone, and its motto is: getting rid of the German spirit in life, getting rid of the sheer materialistic point of view, getting rid of brutality and the lack of understanding of others.

The great spiritual power of the war has worked miracles in the social life of the people.

It reminds me of the crisis in the drama of Peer Gynt. You remember when the button molder came and said to Peer that his day was done and that he must be put into the melting pot and recast as some one else. Peer
