

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE

Special Telegram to the Tribune. HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

FREDERICTON, April 1. Mr. Wedderburn resumed his speech after recess yesterday. The Government should enforce the School Act, to which a large and respectable minority were opposed, in a kind and conciliatory way. No man should be disfranchised while the bill is still pending in the Courts. If the Act were sustained by the Privy Council it would then be right to enforce its penalties. Dr. Palmer would oppose the bill. The taxes might be paid under protest, and, if the Act were disallowed, the money should be returned. The Attorney General moved that the bill be postponed three months. Carried—22 to 12. Wedderburn and Covert voting with the minority. Mr. Butler introduced a bill relating to intervals land in Queen's and Mr. Hibbard, a bill authorizing St. George to loan its credit to the Great Southern Railway. Mr. Landry's motion for a donation of $80 to Robidoux was negatived, only Gough, McFarlane, Blanchard, Landry and Hamilton voting for it. A resolution giving George Grant, a soldier of the 104 Regt., 100 acres of land; the bill relating to the St. John Corporation suits; and the bill incorporating the N. B. & C. Ry. were agreed to. Hon. Mr. Stevenson introduced a bill to incorporate the Bay of Fundy Red Granite Co.; Dr. Palmer, a bill relating to the construction of certain railroads and a petition in favor of the bill enabling Albert to aid the Branch Ry.; and M. Blanchard a bill to incorporate the Town of Milltown, Charlotte Co.

MAYORALTY ELECTION. Mr. Weldon's friends met every evening in Lawrence's building, King street. The meetings are open to all who take an interest in his election. The prospects are getting better every day. CIVIC ELECTIONS. The elections are going on quietly to-day, there is no excitement at any of the polling places. The number of votes cast is small on account of so many being disfranchised. The various candidates themselves sitting with their friends in the polling offices, smoking and telling stories. In Duke's Ward where the place is too small for more than half a dozen to get in, the rival candidates promenade up and down the sidewalk.

REWARD OF $100 for the Discovery of Scripturae Authority for Infant Baptism. It is reported that a clergyman in St. John has offered to bet $100 that no one can find a proof of Infant Baptism in the Bible, and that the bet has been covered by another divine. Another version, and probably the correct one, is that one clergyman offered $100 as a reward to the discoverer of the Scriptural authority, and that another has declared his ability to earn it. If the offer of the reward should not be satisfied with the proof, as he certainly will not, and refuse to pay, he certainly will, the discoverer may sue, and then we shall have the discovery question eternally set at rest by the courts of law. The case will undoubtedly be carried to the Privy Council, no matter what may be the decision in our courts. We hope there will be unnecessary delays in getting this case into the lawyers' hands. One good will result from the report to law, to wit, the lawyers will be come interested, for once in their lives, in the study of the Scriptures.

McClintock's Horse Lottery. To the Editor of the Tribune. Sir: In this morning's issue of the Freeman Mr. McClintock writes an article to contradict some statements in the TRIBUNE of yesterday. I must confess that my admiration of him is so great that I must let him down as easily as possible lest the honors of honest John should be injured. In justice to his character he says he must contradict the statements of the News, and in conclusion he declares the statements of "Fair Play" as a tissue of falsehoods; but, upright, honest man that he is, he does not dare to contradict them. I feel for him, because he is fresh as all are, and his conscience smites him pretty keenly when he reflects on his conduct. We find his pockets well lined though and this is him in Gilead to him. He has changed the name from "traffic" to "lottery." Is it not pretty? It was not a "traffic" but a "lottery" that was held in his honor. Oh! dear! McClintock he says, refuse to purchase a ticket from him and, baffled in selling one to him, he politely requested him to allow the use of his name. Now I should like to know why he wanted the use of another man's name. Is it not prima facie evidence that something was wrong that his intentions were to say the least, unscrupulous? Now "Fair Play" wishes to refund John's money with this statement. Mr. McClintock met McClintock on last Wednesday, when the latter asked the former to buy a ticket. McClintock said he had no money, and McClintock remarked that it made no difference—all that was necessary was the sale, and said that whenever it would be convenient he could pay him. To this McClintock agreed. "And whenever," said McClintock, "you come to pay me I will show you the number of your ticket and what was thrown for you." It was a bargain. I would also remind him that McClintock was from the beginning of his own motion and I can assure friend John that McClintock is not the simpliciton he supposed him at first. If John wishes not to be a party to a fraud, he should not have allowed himself to be deceived by another man's money. At present I will leave him in the dirt into which he has plunged himself. Adieu, John! Your conduct shames you from me as a shunk shields himself from his partners. "Your occupation's gone." Fair Play.

name. Is it not prima facie evidence that something was wrong that his intentions were to say the least, unscrupulous? Now "Fair Play" wishes to refund John's money with this statement. Mr. McClintock met McClintock on last Wednesday, when the latter asked the former to buy a ticket. McClintock said he had no money, and McClintock remarked that it made no difference—all that was necessary was the sale, and said that whenever it would be convenient he could pay him. To this McClintock agreed. "And whenever," said McClintock, "you come to pay me I will show you the number of your ticket and what was thrown for you." It was a bargain. I would also remind him that McClintock was from the beginning of his own motion and I can assure friend John that McClintock is not the simpliciton he supposed him at first. If John wishes not to be a party to a fraud, he should not have allowed himself to be deceived by another man's money. At present I will leave him in the dirt into which he has plunged himself. Adieu, John! Your conduct shames you from me as a shunk shields himself from his partners. "Your occupation's gone." Fair Play.

P. S.—McClintock, who threw for McClintock, will swear that the horse was properly won and his intention was that McClintock should get the animal. F. P.

The French Government is sending strong reinforcements to the troops stationed on the Spanish frontier.

Ten thousand armed citizens maintain order in Malaga, but refuse to admit regular troops or government customs officers nor allow vessels conveying soldiers and other articles to remain in port.
