The War Situation Summarized.

Spain has taken decided action by virtually dismissing the United States Minister to Madrid. This means war as soon as the rival war-

The opening of the Spanish Parliament was spectacularly effective, and well calculated to evoke at least temporary sympathy and Castilian enthusiasm. The Queen-Regent read the Speech from the Throne in person, with the boy-King at her side. The Speech endeavored to throw the whole blame for the threatened rupture, and for the failure to pacify Cuba, on the United States. Determination to retain Cuba to the last breathed throughout the message.

Except Great Britain, the European powers are not cordial towards the United States, fearing its growing power and disliking the Monroe

All signs, however, indicate a complete understanding between Great Britain and the United States. That this friendly feeling is indorsed throughout Greater Britain is shown by the concensus of opinion, printed elsewhere, from every part of the Empire, collected by the enterprising London (England) Mail. For once there is the happy spectacle of the whole English-speaking world practically at one in friendly accord. Long may that concord continue!

Washington, April 21.—Yesterday was day of important events in the history of the Cuban question. The signature by the president of the joint resolution requiring intervention in Cuba; the notification of that action to the passports; the department's prompt reply to the demand; the departure of

The next between the United States and Spain, step is Spain's answer, if she is to it will be the policy of this government make any, and the movement of the not to resort to privateering. The gov-United States army and navy on Cuba.

The ultimatum was sent to the Spanish minister by a messenger, who was not kept waiting long at the legation, but in the course of an hour had returned to the state department with the minister's application for his passports. At 3:30 the messenger made his second trip, carrying with him the desired paper. The text of the ultimatum to Spain will be given out by Mr. Porter, secretary to the president, at the White House some time today, probably.

NOW FOR SPAIN'S REPLY. The next move must now be made by Spain. The government of that country may deem the language and terms of the congressional resolutions insulting, and promptly hand Mr. Woodford his passports. On the other hand, if it should neglect to return a satisfactory answer before Saturday noon, that policy would amount to refusal of the demands of the United States. In such case the president would proceed imme- of Madrid gathered in the senate diately to use the naval and mili-tary forces of the United States to was occupied. How arival of the queen regent, and the this would be done, what steps shall be first taken, whether Havana shall be blockaded or whether an attempt shall be made to make a speedy campaign by hurling a large force of troops to Havana, under cover of a really tumultuously patriotic demonbombardment by a fleet, are matters stration.

The Cuban colonial delegation also terminated its relations at Washington in the afternoon. Senor Anguelo left for New York at 4 p.m., and his associates accompanied him. Thus both the representatives of Spain and of Spanish rule in Cuba have terminated their relations here.

The house passed an emergency war measure, the bill empowering the pre- pathy." sident to call out the volunteer forces, and providing for their organization. Both the president and Secretary Alger drafted by the war department, intro-

During the five hours of discussion in the senate yesterday afternoon of its recent action upon the Cuban reso- territory of the nation." lutions, in the course of which several extended speeches were made by senators who voted against the conference report upon the resolutions, only one new point was developed. That was made by Mr. Foraker, of Ohio, in the course of a brief statement concerning the recognition of the Cuban Republic's independence. He said: "I think, quickly, speedily, possibly even now, on the very day when the ultimatum has been sent to Spain, pursuant to the resolutions that passed here, this government has practically recognized the Republic of Cuba, and I think possibly it is true we will all know by tomorrow that that government is today being officially dealt with by the representatives of this government, as it should against the Spanish fatherland. This utterance, coming from a member of the foreign relations committee, created a profound sensation.

IN REGARD TO NEUTRALS. One of the policies to be followed by he United States Government in the treatment of neutrals and the privateering, is contained in the following statement: In the event of hostilities ernment will adhere to the following rules: First, neutral flags cover enemy's goods, with the exception of contraband of war. Second, neutral goods, not contraband of war, are not liable to confiscation under enemy's flags. Third, blockades, in order to be binding, must be effective.

This policy is substantially in lines with the rules practiced in the Chinese-Japanese war, and places the United States in a most advanced position, so far as the protection of individual property and neutral goods at sea is concerned. By it Spanish goods are made free from seizure on the seas in the bottoms of a neutral power. This decision on the part of the American Government will doubtless be welcomed in Europe.

Baginaw, Mich., April 21.—A petition being circulated at this place, which already bears the signatures of over 100 citizens, denouncing Sunday baseball and praying to the mayor and members of the board of police commissioners to exert their influence against Sunday games within city limits. EASTERN LEAGUE PLAYERS KICKING.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 21.-From some of the members of the Syracuse base-ball club, which has just returned from tts spring trip, it is learned that the Eastern League may before long have revolt among its players. The trouble is caused by all the clubs keeping within the $200 salary limit, and the hortening of the playing season to four end a half months. Last year the players signed contracts for four and a half months, but were paid for five. This year nearly all signed, before the schedule meeting, the same kind of contract, many of them signing for contract, many of them signing for for. [From the Prescott Journal.] There is no man in the township of Edwardsburg who is better known than Mr. John Sherman. He is one of the many Canadians who at the outbreak of the American rebellion joined the army of the North, and to the exposures and hardships which he endured during that trying and perilous time does he owe long years of suffering which he has since undergone. The writer remembers seeing Mr. Sherman a few years ago when he was so crippled with rheumatism that is was impossible for him to walk, and having heard that a cure had been effected,

At the close of her majesty's speech there was renewed cheering, after which Premier Sagasta declared the cortes opened, and the queen regent and the boy king, accompanied by the court, left the building amid wild bursts of enthusiasm.

After the opening session of the courtes, the ministers met in council extraordinary, and discussed exclusively naval and military matters. No statement has been issued regarding the decisions reached.

WILD ENTHUSIASM.

London, April 21 .- The Madrid correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphs: "On few occasions has Madrid witnessed such scenes of popular enthusiasm as today (Wednesday), when the queenregent, accompanied by the king, dressed in the uniform of the infantry cadets, with the insignia of the Golden Fleece, traveled in state, with all the pomp that makes the Spanish court famous, from the palace to the senate hall. The distance is very short-not more than four minutes' walk. The Plaza de Oriente and the Plaza Ministeries, which the court and procession had to traverse, were most densely crowded, chiefly with people of the upper and middle classes. The moment the batteries announced the departure of the queen-regent and the king, the excitement became intense. The queenregent appeared much moved, though she is usually of impassive demeanor. The king looked on the crowd with evident pleasure, and saluted every moment in military fashion. "Long live the Queen!" "Long live the King!" "Long live Spain!" were the cries incessantly given. The spirit of the crowds in the streets pervaded the secluded halls of the senate, and when the doors were citizens of London," that there would to enter, thousends of distinguished spectators who filled the galleries, deputies and senators, rose to their feet and received the queen and king with thundering acclamations. Her majesty read the speech from the throne while seated, in a calm, clear voice, all others standing. It is against Spanish etiquette to interrupt the reading of a speech from the throne; but the enthusiasm and emotion were too great, and the solemnity of the occasion was too impressive. Twice had her majesty to stop, while the cheers, acclamations and vivas for Spain, the queen-regent and the king made her speaking almost impossible. The cheering was still more frantic when their majesties left the senate, and so it was in the streets. "ANGLO-SAXONS SOLID." London, April 20 .- The Daily Mail, under the caption, "Anglo - Saxons Solid," this morning prints opinions collected by its correspondents in many parts of the British Empire respecting the action of the United States. the introduction of the opinions, the paper says: "The solidarity of Anglo-Saxon sentiment is, perhaps, the most noticeable feature Spanish-American dispute has brought into prominence." The Philippine Islands will probably share in the liberation. Their people are little known, but they are highly intelligent. They are quite capable of guiding their own destinies. The flag f an American admiral would be hailed in the Philippines as the symbol of newly won liberty." The reporter of the Daily Mail, in Sydney, N. S. W., says: "The Spanish-American dispute is not fervently discussed here, but the press and public sympathize with the American side. One hundred New South Wales men have visited the American consul and offered to enlist in the service of the United States." The Press of Kingston, Jamaica, strongly upholds the righteousness of America's cause, and quotations in proof of this are given. In Malta, public feeling is on the side of the United States. The Bombay correspondent says that the Indian press is unanimous in recognizing the dight of the United States to intervene in Cuba, and wishes the Americans success. In Rangoon the press and public warmly support the United States. AT THE MANSION HOUSE BAN-

United States Ambassador Hay's seat was at the left hand of Lord Mayor Davies, and the Spanish ambassador, Count Rascon, was allotted the place at his right hand, but at the last moment Count Rascon wrote that a sudden indisposition would prevent his being resent. The talk of the evening was the expected presence of the represen-tatives of the United States and Spain, and much disappointment was felt at the Spanish ambassador's absence. The consuls of the United States and Spain were present. At the reception before banquet the Duke of Cambridge specially singled out Col. Hay, cordialshaking him by the hand, and ter the Canquet Col. COL. HAY'S STATEMENT. Col. Hay's reply was the event of the evening. He was frequently applauded by the company. Speaking of the relations between the United States and Great Britain, he said: "We are sometimes accused of looking after our own interests with a certain energy and pertinacity. I might say in the spirit of pride, rather than contrition, that only shows what stock we are of, but this truth is incontestable, that for nearly three generations of men, and in spite of constant differences, there has been peace between us and friendly regard-a peace growing more firm and solid as the years go by, and a friendship which I am sure the vast majority of both peoples hope and trust may last forever. The good understanding between us is based on something deeper than mere expedi-ency. All who think cannot but see there is a sanction like that of religion which binds us in partnership in the serious work of the world. Whether we will or not, we are associated in that work by the very nature of things, and no man and no group of men can prevent it. We are bound by ties we did not forge, and that we cannot break. We are joint ministers in the same sacred mission of freedom and progress, charged with duties we cannot evade by the imposition of irresistible hands," Col. Hay, in an impressive peroration, which elicited outbursts of cheering, recalled the sudden illumination through the fog by the searchlight of the British and Amerition and good government. The iNorth China Daily News, and the Daily Press are also favorable to the Ameriby expressing the hope that the two them, as with ourselves, mistakes only flags might ever float united. DON CARLOS TALKS. London, April 21.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Ostend, telegraphing Wednesday, says: "Don Carlos and his wife, traveling under the names of the Duke and Duchess of Madrid, arrived here this morning by the train de luxe from Vienna, having come by way of Lucerne. He intended remainway of Lucerne. He intended remaining a few days, but on hearing that the season had not yet begun, he left at 4 o'clock this afternoon for Brussels. Before he started I had a conversation with him on the platform off the railway station. He was extremereserved, alleging that he had been inaccurately reported so frequently that he had to be cautious. With regard to the Hispano-American crisis, he said he had nothing to add to the sentiments he expressed to Senor Mella, the Spanish deputy, in his letter of April 13, already published. In that communication he said: 'If the Span-ish Government do their duty, every-body should support them.' As the crisis remains unchanged, he said he could merely confirm that opinion. On the probable issue of a war Don Carlos was absolutely silent."

Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender, claims the throne through his father, Don Juan, brother of Charles VI. of Spain. He was born March 30, 1848. In 1872 the standard of rebellion was raised in his behalf in the north of himself in 1873, and in spite of the efforts of the various governments he could not be dislodged from his fastnesses in the north. When the republic came to an end and the eldest son of ex-Queen Isabella came to the espouse his cause as against the son of Isabella. A stubborn struggle ensued, which the Carlist maintained for twelve months. At length their last stronghold, Tolosa, fell, Don Carlos flying to Paris. In 1881 he was expelled from France on the ground that he had allied himself with the Comte he had allied himself with the Comte de Chambord and other enemies of the French Republic. Since the death of Alfonso XII., Don Carlos has not actively preferred his claims.

Press Comment. ON THE QUEEN-REGENT'S

SPEECH AND THE SITUA-London, April 21.—The Times, editorially, says this morning: "At the opening of the cortes, the wildest enthusi-asm prevailed, and the American ultimatum may almost be said to have been answered by anticipation. The queen-regent's speech, couched in dignified and even touching language, breathed an unalterable determination to fight to the death for the honor and dignity of Spain. Though the Spanish people are unanimous for war, and, in fact, can-not be induced to listen for a moment to any practicable expedient for avoiding it, there are few signs that they have any adequate comprehension of what they undertake with a light POORLY PREPARED. "The Spanish preparations, so far as they can be judged, at this distance, are by no means advanced to the condition which alone can give value to popular enthusiasm. The Spanish fleet is thousands of miles away from the scene of action, and can arrive in Cuban waters only after the first moves have been made by the United States. Unless Spain keeps command of the sea to such an extent as to be able to land provisions and munitions of war at Havana, the game is lost so far as Cuba is concerned. As for the conduct of the war in general, the exact nature of which the Spaniards may vary to some extent by vigorous initiative, it does not seem that they enter upon it with such financial resources as patriotism might desire. It is by hard facts such as these, and not by enthusiasm, however keen, or courage however high, that they will find the issue determined. They may be sure the United States will enter the struggle with that pertinacious energy which is one of the standing evidences of that COMMUNITY OF BLOOD, ORIGIN AND TEMPER so eloquently referred to yesterday at the Mansion House by the American ambassador. As the Americans have been stirred up to interference by feelings which have again and prompted serious action by Great Britain and with which English-speaking people here and in our colonies sympathize, so will they carry on the contest in the Anglo-Saxon manner. They will probably make some mistakes, as we almost invariably do; but with

THE UNITED STATES HAVE RIGHT ON THEIR SIDE. The Daily News says: "The Spanish royal speech presents a version of histial minds. The allegation that the United States interfered because afraid that home rule might succeed and put an end to the civil war is preposterous. It is all very well to talk of filibus-tering expeditions, but these are not spontaneous or in any large sense American. Nor are Spanish ministers wise in attributing the policy of congress to a part only of the American people. Sentiment must not blind them to the fact that in this struggle for human freedom the United States have the right on their side. As for the prospects, the Spaniards would undoubtedly make a bad beginning if the first shot fired was directed against vessels conveying supplies to their own fellow subjects."

The Standard says: "We can not doubt that the enthusiastic cheers which broke out in the cortes at the end of the queen regent's speech truly represented Spanish feeling. But the ultimate issue is hardly open to question, nor can there be any doubt that in the end it will be for the good of Cuba that she should be delivered from Spanish domination. There have been few greater failures in history than the attempt of Spain to maintain order and civilized government in that great West Indian island. For some considerable time, however, the struggle may be a se-

Do the scales tell you-does the fit of your clothes tell you-you're losing flesh? You need Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They so vitalize the nerves, improve the digestive powers, increase the appetite, strengthen the heart and enrich the blood, that the angularities of your body fill out with healthy flesh, your muscles become firm, your spirits revive. The scales tell you you're gaining in weight. You feel your old buoyant, vigorous health returning—Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done their work well. Here's what Mrs. D. N. Ostrander, of Trenton, Ont., has to say about them:-"I have been a great sufferer for many years with my heart and nerves. When going around the house I would get so bad that I had to lie down on the lounge until I could recover my breath. At night I could hardly sleep at all, and when I would drop off to sleep would wake up with a start, followed by a suffocating feeling as if my heart had stopped beating forever. I got very languid and weak, had no ambition, and thought that everything was going wrong with me. I grew morbid in mind, lost my appetite, and had to force myself to eat what I did. I was reduced a most to a ske eton, weighing only 90 pounds at the time I started to use Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I can tell you that I would have given but little for my chances of living much longer. Several doctors attended me, and I have taken al. kinds of proprietary medicines, but without avail. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and thought I would try them as a last resort. The results were simply marvellous. I began to improve from the first few doses, and noticed a big difference before I had taken one box. Now I sleep well, the suffocating feeling is completely gone. I have splendi I strength and my appetite is such that I have to restrain myself for fear I eat too much. I can eat anything that is set before me and am better that I have been for years. Am increasing in weight right along, and feel that life is worth living, thanks to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills cost 50c. a box, or 3 for $1.25, at all drug stores, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. One of the obstacles that has prevented manufacturing and farming development of Canada in the past has been the comparatively high rate of interest which has had to be paid for money, compared with that which competitors have had to pay in rival countries-particularly in Great Britain. The banks have hitherto made the excuse that in this matter they were governed by the rate of interest paid in the savings banks. This statement is to a considerable extent well founded. How ought the Government to meet the situation? By continuing to tax one section of the people to enable the comparatively small number who are depositors in the savings banks to draw a higher rate of interest than the Government can obtain money for in the open market? Fifty-two per cent of the postoffice savings bank depositors have less than $20 each invested. Striking the average at $10 each the reduction in interest means a loss of 5 cents per depositor per annum. Yet the Opposition orators bewail this as an injustice to the poor man. As a matter of fact, 90 per cent of the depositors have less than $100 in the postoffice bank. 8 B

The vice-president of the United States is a man of some humor. A summer hotel keeper at Asbury Park, N. J., wrote him asking if it would be safe to do business in view of the probability of war. Mr. Hobart replied that the Spanish navy would have more serious business to attend to than the bombardment of seaside hotels $ 35

A St. Marys Man Badly Done Up

Sharpers at Sarnia.

Sarnia, April 21.-J. D. Moore, a prosperous business man of St. Mary's, Ont., was swindled out of $9,000 at Sarnia Tuesday night by a gold brick scheme. One week ago a stranger, giving the name of David Brown, called on Moore and interested him in a gold mine in Arizona. Moore was induced to come to Sarnia and look at samples which were in the possession of Brown's partner, a Mexican. Moore was taken to the camp of the Mexican two miles out of the city. He looked at the bricks and together with Brown, came to Sarnia to have them assayed. Another confederate was at the Belchamber Hotel in the person of a "United States assayer." After considerable talk he assayed the bricks and stamped them "U. S. 20 karat fine." Moore was not satisfied and went back to the camp, where he was allowed to take some of the filings to be tested. The filings were pronounced genuine by a Sarnia jeweler, and Moore drew $9,000 in bills. He bought the bricks, which were supposed to be worth $20,000. Later the jeweler pronounced the bricks copper and Moore made complaint to the police. Provincial Detective Griffin is on the trail of the swindlers.

Then, as if she felt that these words were worse than vain, she turned the subject abruptly, while a spasm of pain for the moment convulsed her

Rudolph, on his side, was sorry she had mentioned the 'little dinners.' They suggested a past life in which there had been something more than frivolity; something with which he would have dissociated Mrs. Dale if he could. But innocent Mabin, wishing to say something, brought the conversation back to the point it had left. "But why can't you have pretty dinners now if you like to?"

Mrs. Dale's fair face grew whiter as she answered gently: "I will tell you-presently-some day -why I don't have anything pretty or nice about me now." And Mabin, feeling that she had touched a painful chord, became more to rise.

Perhaps it was her sudden subsidence into absolute gleom which caused the other two to make a great effort to restore something of animation to the talk, and, being both young and of naturally high spirits, they succeeded so well that, before the meal, which had begun so solemnly, was over, Mrs. Dale and Rudolph were talking and laughing as if there had never been a shadow upon either of their lives. At first they made brave attempts to drag Mabin into the conversation; but, as these efforts were in vain, it naturally ended in her being left out of the gaiety and in her sitting entrenched in a gloomy silence of her own. And when dinner was over, and they all went into the little adjoining room which Mrs. Dale called her "den," it was quite natural that Mrs. Dale should sit down at the piano, in the goodnatured wish to leave the young people to entertain each other, and equally natural that Rudolph, on finding that Mabin had nothing to say to him, and that she was particularly frigid in her manner, should go over to the piano, and by coaxing Mrs. Dale to sing him his favorite songs and hers, should continue the brisk flirtation begun at Mabin had brought it all upon herself, and she tried to persuade herself that it was quite right and natural, and that she did not mind; and when Rudolph was gone and she was alone with her hostess, she succeeded in convincing her that she had not felt neglected, but had enjoyed the merriment she had refused to share.

But when she got upstairs into her pretty bedroom, after bidding Mrs.Dale good-night, she had the greatest diffi- grow rigid with fear. culty in keeping back the tears which were dangerously near her proud eyes. She did not care for Rudolph-of course not; she wanted him to fall in love with Mrs. Dale-if, indeed, he had not already done so—and marry her and console her for all her troubles, and stop the persecution of "the cat. But somehow this hope, this wish, did not give her all the unselfish satisfaction it ought to have done. And Mabin, wondering what had nappened to take the prettiness out of the room and the pleasure out of her friendship with Mrs. Dale, fell asleep with her heart heavy and full of name-

She awoke with a start to find a white figure standing motionless in the middle of the room. Mabin sprang up in bed and rubbed her eyes. Was she awake? Or was she only dreaming that the body of a dead woman, stiff, rigid, but in an upright position, was standing like a marble statue between the bed and the nearest window? She leaped out of bed, and, not without uncanny fears, touched the statuesque figure. 'Mrs. Dale!" she almost shrieked, as the great eyes suddenly turned and fixed a blank, wild gaze upon her face. "Oh! what has happened? What is the matter?" The figure, which, in white night

Mabin was taken so thoroughly by surprise, on seeing the wild self-abandonment of her unhappy companion, that for a few minutes she stood staring at the crouching figure on the floor like one only half awake.

Was this really Mrs. Dale, this haggard, panting creature, with the hoarse voice, the twitching hands, the wide eyes full of unspeakable terror? "Yes, oh, yes, I am all right. I am not ill. I am so much ashamed of myself for disturbing you. Very quietly Mrs. Dale lay down on the couch between the windows, and, drawing the sofa blanket over her, and refusing any other covering, closed her eyes. Mabin knew that this apparent ranquility was assumed only, and she placed herself on the bed in such a position that she could watch her friend while appearing to be herself asleep. higher than Shiloh's Cough and Consumption Cure, known throughout the United States and Canada for its soothing, healing and expectorant virtues. Mrs. Jean Hamilton, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was much prejudiced against so-called patent medicines until I realized in person the value of one which had cured a friend after suffering three years from distressing chills and colds. I took but four doses when my chills ceased. This experience made me believe Shiloh's Cure efficacious for coughs and colds, so I tried it and wish to recommend it to every one who needs a good cough medicine. If people live in the country, I'd advise them to keep a stock of it in their medicine closets. It will save them lots of worry about croup, coughs and la grippe, for it will stop these very quickly." Dr. Moorhouse replied that this could be done better after the specifications were ready. Without them they had no guide to go by. The doctors, he said, were desirous of assisting this committee in every way possible. Dr. Roome supported the request for the plan. The members of the committee said they would be willing to grant it.

Dr. Campbell, continuing, said that the profession thought it would be better if the isolation ward were a some time he practiced law. He held that if the contagious disease building were put on the southeast portion of the grounds it would interfere with the children's pavilion. Mr. McBride, in answer to Ald. Hunt, said it would cost no more to make the contagious disease ward a separate building, but the children's pavilion would have to be moved.
Dr. Moorhouse differed with Dr. Campbell. Personally he saw no serious objection to the contagious disases building in its present position. He had always been a strong advocate of purchasing the property through to Waterloo street. The soil was dry and porous and the site high and rounding. If this property were purchased the private pavilion could be put on Waterloo street and the contagious diseases pavilion on Colborne street.

The mayor said he had obtained the city solicitor's opinion that this land could be purchased if the county counil chose to put up the funds. Dr. Campbell's suggestion to change the location of the contagious ward was not pressed, in view of Dr. Moorhouse's recommendation. "It's a question of whichever way the wind blows," said the mayor. Dr. Campbell made a further suggestion that the Provincial Board of Health's scheme for plumbing be fol-

The architect said to do this would ost about $1,500, and the doctors held that it would be money well expended. The plans already provide for 5,000 feet of concrete in the cellars. Dr. Moorhouse strongly urged that the cement or concrete be put in. It uld keep down the ground moisture and allow of its being readily flushed and kept clean. He would never think

Ald. Wilkey said that he for one did not think they had. The mayor was anxious to please the dissatisfied aldermen who had been complaining because they had had no say in the adoption of the plans. Ald. McPhillips asked what position they would be in if the council refused to ratify the adoption of Mr. Mc-Bride's plans. To report before taking one step further would delay the matter a couple of weeks. He did not wish to keep any information from the council, but on the other hand he did wish to put the committee in a position that the council might not thwart them in their work.
