GOVT'S WORD MUST BE KEPT; HOUSE BACKS UP PRESTON

The Opposition Backs Down When Challenged to Make a Definite Charge.

PREMIER OFFERS TO GIVE NAMES TO MR. BORDEN

Ottawa, June 4.—With the statement of the Prime Minister that he had looked over the names of the shareholders of the North Atlantic Trading Company, and found they were respectable firms in Holland, Germany, and Russia, and with an offer of confidential submission thereof to the leader of the Opposition or any committee he might name, which offer was rejected, the House today absolved Mr. W. T. R. Preston from the obligation to make the names public in the committee of agriculture. This off-dressed subject was revived by Mr. Monk in a motion that Mr. Preston be summoned to the bar of the House and required to answer the questions, "If there is anything on which any British country prides itself it is that its word, once given, is to be respected under all circumstances." With that stirring appeal Sir Wilfrid Laurier met the arguments of Mr. Monk. The Premier quoted Todd, the well-known parliamentary authority, against unwarrantable intrusion in private affairs except for just cause, and in the absence of any specific charge he said no just cause existed. He moved an amendment referring to the exceptional circumstances of continental work, requiring secrecy, averring that the House would not compel the minister or any officer of the Government to violate an engagement thus made. Mr. R. L. Borden's remarks were brief; his chief point was that if secrecy had been promised it had been broken by bringing down the contract last year. The debate following lasted till 11 p.m., and when the division came the amendment was carried by a majority of 48. Mr. Bourassa and Mr. Armand Lavergne voting with the Opposition.

Mr. Monk's Argument.

Mr. Monk quoted authorities and presented arguments to show that Parliament was the proper body to compel a recalcitrant witness to answer questions, and Parliament, both by British precedent and Canadian practice since Confederation, had the undoubted right to question witnesses and power to enforce its authority in the matter. He sketched the various stages of the negotiations between the immigration department and representatives of the syndicate, culminating in the agreement which was made and to the refusal of both Mr. Smutt, ex-deputy minister of the interior, and W. T. R. Preston, commissioner of immigration, to disclose the names of those who conducted the negotiations or composed the company. Although notice of cancellation of the contract had been given, Mr. Monk doubted whether, as claimed by the company, it would be terminated in less than four years. He read the evidence given by Mr. Preston before the committee on agriculture, stating that he could not, without violating a principle of honor, which he was sure the committee would not ask him to do, disclose the names of the syndicate, which had been entrusted to him under the seal of confidence, without the permission of the committee. It was, Mr. Monk argued, contrary to the principles of representative government that the people of Canada should make a contract with people in Europe, to whom they would be required to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars, and that they should not be allowed to know to whom they were paying the money. There was, he contended, no question regarding the legality of the agreement, and, therefore, no need for secrecy respecting the personnel of the company. The contract provided that the company should not contravene the laws of the countries in which they operated, and the Government of Canada had lived up to its part of the contract.

The Premier's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in reply, said there was no question as to the power of Parliament in reference to the matter, but the motion was in the nature of an appeal from the decision of the committee of agriculture. Mr. Preston had answered all the questions fully and satisfactorily, except one that he would not give the names of the parties with whom he negotiated the contract, because the relations with them were carried on under a pledge that their names would not be disclosed. The question before the House was whether it would order Mr. Preston to answer the question. The committee on agriculture, had not deemed it advisable to force Mr. Preston to answer the question. There the matter rested. The sentiment of that committee was not in favor of forcing Mr. Preston to go back on the word he had given. Personally, Sir Wilfrid said, he had always taken the position in the House that it was good policy to support the decisions arrived at by any committee to which a subject was relegated. Under all such circumstances it was better to follow the decision of the committee unless the dominant paramount interest of the public necessitated different action. The question was whether or not it was advisable now to go behind that decision and take a new departure. As to the evidence taken by the committee, the Premier said, he was forced to take Mr. Monk's version of it, and he was prepared to do so. Discussing the general question of business integrity, Sir Wilfrid took the ground that anybody would hesitate before requiring an official to go back upon his bonded word given, unless, indeed, it was shown that public necessity made it imperative that all ordinary considerations which governed men in business relations should be aside. It was a fact that for the last 30 years the Government had had an immigration propaganda in certain countries in Europe. A different course had been followed in those countries to that followed by Great Britain, the United States and France. In those countries Canada had her own agents, but in Germany, Holland, Austria, Hungary, and in other countries in Central Europe Canada had departed from that system, and had paid a host of booking agents based upon the number of immigrants they have sent to this country.

Lord Strathcona's Letter.

With regard to the conditions under which the contract was made, Sir Wilfrid said he could not do better than quote the letter of Lord Strathcona, which gave the history of the transaction from the commencement. The Premier then read the letter, which has been continued on Page Nine.

ASKS PRESTON'S DISMISSAL

Montreal Metal Workers Say He Ran Crooked Business.

Montreal, June 5.—Resolutions condemning the immigration policy of the Government, and demanding the dismissal of W. T. R. Preston, immigration commissioner, were adopted at last night's meeting of the Iron and Metal Workers' Association. Some of the members expressed the opinion that it would be better to wait until the Government had made a pronouncement upon the question.

Some of the speakers said that Preston was the originator and promoter of the alleged dishonest immigration bureau at Charing Cross, London.

LONDON STUDENTS' FINE SHOWING AT THE TORONTO VARSITY EXAMS

Ex-Collegiate Boys and Girls Carry Off High and Many Honors.

The London Collegiate Institute staff have every reason to be proud of the standing taken by a number of the Forest City students at the recent Toronto University examinations. Mr. F. C. Bowman, son of Prof. Bowman, a fourth-year student, stood first in the first class honor list in chemistry and mineralogy. Mr. Bowman simply repeated his work in the three preceding years, when he headed the honor list for his class. He also has the proud distinction of winning more scholarships at Toronto University than any other London student who has ever attended the big institution. Mr. J. W. Cahoon, a fourth-year student, also did very well, being second in the first class honors in classics. Mr. Cahoon has stood second each year in his class. He was a scholarship winner at his matriculation. Among the other successful ones were:

Fourth Year, General Arts—G. A. Little completed his course. Miss G. A. Hodge also completed her fourth year in arts, with the exception of Latin and modern history, on which she must pass supplemental exams. Moderns and History, Fourth Year—Class II, Miss M. K. Jackson (fifth). Fourth Year, Philosophy—Class III, L. E. Davis and Miss K. R. Thompson, first; R. B. McElheran, seventh.

In the third year, Miss A. L. Horton took third-class honors in moderns and history. Miss F. Harrison, in the general course, must pass supplementals in Latin and modern history. In the third year, medicine, L. B. Gaham and A. A. McLearn were among the successful ones. In the Trinity University list, Miss Olive Weld, of this city, was in Class I in the final examination in arts, and Mr. J. F. Biala passed the exams in anatomy and therapeutics.

GUEST KILLS GUEST AT A BRIDAL PARTY

Wedding Festivities in a Brooklyn Home Wind Up Tragically.

New York, June 5.—In the midst of gaiety attending a birthday party in South Brooklyn early today, one of the guests killed another, and subsequently shot and fatally wounded the latter's wife. The alleged murderer escaped.

In honor of the birthday of his bride John Keller gave a party last night to thirty of his friends, and among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Keller. While supper was being served at 12:30 o'clock this morning John Kilbright, one of the guests is alleged to have made in an undertone an insulting remark to Mrs. Keller. Her husband overheard it and immediately demanded an apology.

Without answer Kilbright is alleged to have risen to his feet and shot Keller through the head, killing him instantly. In terror and confusion the guests as well as the Kellers fled, except Mrs. Keller and Kilbright.

Keller went to call an ambulance from the Northern Hospital, which arrived very quickly, and the surgeon said Keller was dead. He then drove away.

When the Kellers re-entered their home they heard groans, and when they found Mrs. Keller lying under a bed in a room on the second floor. She was fatally wounded, but said that when the others ran away Kilbright had pursued her with his pistol, to the upper floor, and following her into the bedroom had shot her. The ambulance was recalled and she was taken to the hospital.

PAVEMENT COMPLETED

Warren Company Gets Through With Richmond Street Work.

The Warren Paving Company completed the pavement on Richmond street north last evening. The pavement, from Fullerton to Oxford streets, cost about $32,000. The city will pay for about one-third of this, and the property owners for the remainder.

CHARGED WITH RAPE

Farmhand Near Bowmanville Arrested on Serious Accusation.

Bowmanville, June 4.—William Cole, a farmhand in the employ of William J. Snowden, Darlington, lies in the lockup awaiting trial on a charge of rape.

As the little 6-year-old adopted daughter of William Tordiff, who lives two miles northwest of Bowmanville, was going to Sunday school alone yesterday afternoon she was seized by a young man and carried into a clump of bushes and criminally assaulted. She afterwards went to Sunday school at Maple Grove, and on returning home informed Mrs. Tordiff of what had happened.

She brought the little maid, who is only in her seventh year, to town, and had her examined by a doctor, who confirmed her story regarding an assault.

Mr. Tordiff then laid a charge of rape against the young man, who was immediately arrested by Richard Jarvis, chief of police, and incarcerated in the jail here.

This morning he appeared before Police Magistrate Horsey and was remanded to trial tomorrow for trial. The young man has lived in the neighborhood six or seven years and has heretofore borne a good character.

TULL SENT FOR TRIAL

Caradoc Farmer Must Face Court on a Serious Charge.

Thomas Tull, the young Caradoc farmer, who is alleged to have seriously wounded Edwin Sparksman, a neighbor, during a fight on May 18, was sent for trial for the offense yesterday by Squire Chittick.

The only witness examined was Sparksman. He is still very weak as a result of the injuries received. He told about the quarrel with Robert Tull over a cow that had been injured, and of the subsequent attack by Thomas Tull. It was a most brutal and cowardly assault, according to the statement of Sparksman.

J. M. McEvoy made a plea for Tull's acquittal, alleging that the injuries were received in a fight commenced by Sparksman, but Squire Chittick thought that a prima facie case had been made out, and sent it on to a higher court.

FOUR EXPEDITIONS SENT TO FAR NORTH

Deputy-Minister of Marine Tells Committee of Various Sailings.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, June 5.—When the special committee appointed to investigate supplies purchased for the steamer Arctic met today, Mr. Caron, deputy minister of marine, first examined to give an idea of the outfitting and despatch of the steamer.

Witness said that there had been in all four expeditions to the far north. The first was under Capt. Gordon, the next under Dr. Wakeham, the third under Low and Woods, and the fourth under Major Moodie. Col. Gourdeau explained that the object of these expeditions were for purpose of exploration and for establishing Canadian outposts in the northern parts. Major Moodie was in command, and Capt. Bernier was sailing master. The Arctic was outfitted for three years, but had to return in one year with disabled winds.

NEW MANAGER FOR SOUTHWESTERN

Mr. F. W. Mower, of Detroit, Appointed—Some Changes in the Directorate.

The annual general meeting of the Southwestern Traction Company was held in the offices in the Masonic Temple yesterday.

President F. G. Rumball occupied the chair, and a large number of the shareholders were present.

All reports presented were found to be highly satisfactory.

Mr. F. W. Mower, of Detroit, was named as the new manager of the line, to succeed Mr. A. T. Welch, who managed the road during the construction period.

Mr. Mower is a man of large experience, and the company felt that it would be in the interests of all to have a practical man at the head of the line now. He has been for several years with the Detroit United Railway Company, and has had much experience in inter-urban lines. He will commence his new duties at once.

A slight change also took place in the personnel of the directorate, the following being elected:

President—F. G. Rumball.

Vice-President—Dr. Mackay, Ingersoll.

Secretary—A. E. Welch.

Directors—H. M. Rumball, chief; Capt. T. E. Robson, Elderton, and Col. McEwen, Byron.

The reports presented showed that work is being rushed on the line to Port Stanley, and that everything possible is being done to open traffic with the lake at once.

Work will also be begun on the lines to Ingersoll as soon as the line to the Port is completed.

COTTON UP IN SMOKE; LOSS ABOUT $200,000

Two Great Warehouses Destroyed at Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

New York, June 5.—A second fire within a space of two weeks today destroyed two more warehouses of the American Cotton Dock Company at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, and caused a loss estimated between $150,000 and $200,000. The buildings were partly filled with manila and hemp. Two weeks ago two other buildings in the same plant were burned. The origin of the fires is unknown. Fireman George Brader was crushed and partly buried under the ruins of a brick wall of one of the burning warehouses. His legs were broken and it is feared that his skull is fractured and that he is fatally injured.

DEBENTURES FOR SCHOOL EXTENSION

Council May Issue $10,000 If Board Reduces Estimates a Thousand.

The board of education meets this afternoon. It is quite likely that an attempt will be made to reduce the board's estimates by the sum of $1,000, so that this amount may be handed over to the city. If this is done, the council, or at least a part of it, has agreed to sanction the issue of $1,000 debentures for school extensions in London.

However, it is possible that there will be a lively time at the board meeting, if the matter of cutting off the $1,000 is introduced. It is a well known fact that the trustees are divided as to the advisability of building the proposed additions this year. Some of the trustees argue that even in Chesley avenue school, where the congestion is the greatest at present, a couple of transition teachers would obviate the trouble, and would save the city the expenditure of the $10,000 asked for. These same trustees say that a rearrangement of the school districts will result in the congestion in certain schools being relieved. As matters now stand, some schools are crowded, while plenty of unused space is to be found in others.

It is not unlikely that the non-representative pupils matter will also come up today in the discussion.

Chairman Gammage, of No. 2 committee, has been assured by Manager King that the street railway company is willing to do everything in its power to help make the school plan successful.

Superintendent King is ready to give the children a 5-cent return fare, but adults accompanying the children will be carried to Springbank and back again for 10 cents.

This matter will come up at the meeting today.

DELCASSE MAY RETURN

Indications That Combes Will Again Be the French Premier.

Paris, June 5.—From the statements of influential deputies, it is now obvious that the Radicals and Radical Socialists will combine to form a working majority in the chamber, while the Collectivists and Jean Jaures, will hold the moderate centre in the cabinet, represented by MM. Poincare and Barthou, will be eliminated. It is likely that M. Clemenceau will also be sacrificed owing to personal antagonism between the Minister of the Interior and M. Jaures.

In this case M. Combes will come back to power, and the anti-Clerical movement will gather in strength. A Combes cabinet would be welcome in England, and might lead to M. Delcasse's return to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

SCIENTIST KILLED

Dr. Streun, of Switzerland, Victim of Elephants' Attack.

Geneva, June 5.—Mme. Streun has just received details of the death of her husband, Dr. Streun, the Swiss scientist and explorer, who was killed by an elephant in Sumatra.

In the doctor and the natives who accompanied him left Patembang for the interior of the island, and had just entered a great forest when an enormous bull elephant rushed out at them.

The doctor was thrown to the ground with such violence that his rifle was broken in several places, and he was knocked senseless. The servant succeeded in attracting the elephant's attention, and had to run for his life. The infuriated brute then returned to the doctor, who was lying helpless on the ground, and trampled him to death.

DUNNE WANTS MUNICIPAL PLANT.

Chicago, June 5.—Impelled by disclosures at the stock yards, Mayor Dunne announced a new municipal ownership project last night. He declared himself in favor of the city owning a slaughtering plant where the packers would be compelled to kill their cattle and prepare the meat for sale to the public under strict municipal supervision.

REVOLTING CONDITIONS FOUND IN CHICAGO PACKING HOUSES

Terrible Arraignment of Beef Packing Establishments in U. S.—Official Report Sent to Congress.

PRESIDENT SAYS SOMETHING MUST BE DONE AT ONCE

Everybody Cleaning Up Now.

Chicago, June 5.—The Tribune today says: One of the immediate effects of the President's disclosure of packing house conditions was seen in an attempt in at least three of the big plants yesterday to remedy the conditions condemned in the report. Toilet arrangements were renovated, floors cleaned, walls scraped, and light and ventilation improved. The surroundings of the workers in these three plants were improved 50 per cent in one day.

The general manager of one big plant spent the morning in a downtown plumbing establishment picking out the latest sanitary plumbing. Besides renovating the plumbing, the packing companies put up a variety of signs all over the plants enjoining cleanliness. The foremen were told that the rule against expectorating must be enforced or discharge would result. Another new rule posted conspicuously was that forbidding the use of tobacco in all food producing rooms.

Washington, June 4.—President Roosevelt today submitted to Congress the following message to the Senate and House of Representatives: I transmit herewith the report of Mr. James Bronson Reynolds and Commissioner Charles H. Neils, the special committee whom I appointed to investigate into the conditions in the stock yards of Chicago, and report thereon to me. This report is of a preliminary nature. I submit it to you now because it shows the urgent need of immediate action by the Congress in the direction of providing a drastic and thoroughgoing inspection by the Federal Government of all stock yards and packing houses and of their products, so far as the latter enter into state or foreign commerce. The condition shown by even this short inspection to exist in the Chicago stock yards are revolting. It is imperative necessary in the interest of health and of decency that they should be radically changed. Under the existing law it is wholly impossible to secure satisfactory results.

When my attention was first directed to this matter an investigation was made under the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture. When the preliminary statements of this investigation were brought to my attention they showed such defects in the law and such wholly unexpected conditions that I deemed it best to have a further immediate investigation by men not connected with the bureau, and accordingly appointed Messrs. Reynolds and Neils. It was impossible under the existing law that satisfactory work should be done by the bureau of animal industry. I am now, however, examining the way in which the work actually was done. Before I had received the report of Messrs. Reynolds and Neils, I had directed that labels placed upon any package of meat food products should state only that the carcass of the animal from which the meat was taken had been inspected at the time of slaughter. If inspection of meat food produced at all stages of preparation is not secured by the passage of the legislation recommended I shall feel compelled to order that inspection labels and certificates on canned products shall not be used hereafter. The report shows that the stockyards and packing-houses are not kept even reasonably clean, and that the method of handling and preparing food products is uncleanly and dangerous to health. Under existing law the National Government has no power to enforce inspection of the many forms of prepared meat food products that are going from the packing-houses into

NEARLY A HUNDRED WENT HIS LIFE THREATENED

Chinese Interpreter at Montreal Incurs Enmity of Brothers.

Montreal, June 5.—Mr. King Tung Sung, the official Chinese court interpreter, received a letter from someone in Vancouver yesterday, advising him of threats against his life.

Mr. King states that the letter tells him that a certain portion of the Chinese colony in Montreal are against him, and that they are preparing a subscription fund of $5,000 to present to the man who will end the interpreter's life. Mr. King has advised Chief Carpenter, and an investigation will be made.

The supposed reason for this attack upon the life of Mr. King is that he has been acting too honestly with the Chinese in this city. Since his appointment to official court interpreter, he has been considered unfriendly to some of the Celestials of the city, because they think that he does not take their part in court enough, and he tells too much truth when he is translating from Chinese to English. King is a Christian, and has a wife and a little child living in the city.

THE CANANEA OUTBREAK

Authorities Discover That Last Week's Disturbances Were Revolutionary.

Bisbee, Ariz., June 5.—A telephone message was received here last night from Cananea to the effect that the town is still under control of the Mexican military authorities. General Torres and Col. Kostelitzky now have sufficient force to control any outbreak that might occur. So far there has been no disposition shown on the part of the Mexican miners to return to work and the smelting plant of the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company and the mines are working short-handed. The banks and stores were opened for business after remaining closed since Friday.

That the outbreak of Friday was of a revolutionary character was proven by the discovery of a circular, copies of which had been distributed among the Mexican miners.

MURDER AT WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, June 5.—Another murder occurred in the Galician quarter of the city last evening, when guests at a wedding became too jovial under the influence of liquor, and a fight ensued. The victim was Martin Soley, aged 20. He was struck on the head by a stone, and when he fell was battered to death with a chair. The murder was committed on the street, and three fellow-countrymen have been arrested and charged with the crime.

Thomas Harding, a young man aged 20, was almost instantly killed this afternoon by falling beneath a street while alighting from it.

At the 30-foot level the hoist was stopped and Kerr was hailed and asked if everything was all right. No reply being received the hoist was started toward the surface, when the bucket overturned and Kerr fell to the bottom of the well, a distance of 110 feet. His death was instantaneous.

DOWN LIKE A SHOT CAME THE AIRSHIP

Aeronaut, Taken Unconscious from the Debris, Is All Right Now.

Cleveland, June 4. — Lincoln J. Beachey, the aeronaut, today fought for life in his new airship, Kambasene II, high in the air. Struck by a strong current, the machine was disabled, and he struggled for fifteen minutes to retain control of it and guide it safely to earth. The thrilling spectacle was witnessed by terrified thousands, who had gathered in Luna Park to see the flight. The airship came down like a shot in a near-by open field, and Beachey was taken unconscious from the debris, but showing no injuries. The airship was released shortly before noon and it ascended to a great height. Beachey steered for the city, soon he was seen to stop and slowly turn around. A stiff breeze had been encountered, making further flight toward the city impossible. Then he tried to make the inclosure in the park.

He was 1,000 feet above the buildings when he struck a strong counter current, which wrenched the framework carrying the motive power. The propeller, dug into the ground, containing hydrogen gas and the ship began to sink.

Beachey was seen to drop the ballast and then his small form dangled from the ropes. The escaping gas was slowly rendering him unconscious. Cries of horror arose from the spectators. Beachey threw himself again into his seat and the machine ascended. But the remaining gas soon escaped, and the airship shot down.

People hurried to the spot where it had fallen, expecting to find Beachey dead. They dragged his limp body from the debris and summoned the park physician. Within a few minutes Beachey regained consciousness and declared he was not hurt.

"I can fix that ship so she will sail all right," he said. "Both Kambasene and I thought we had a machine that could battle successfully with the wind, but, of course, we now know that she is not strong enough."

"When the propeller cut open the gas bag I thought that death was near. The escaping gas made me deathly sick. I dangled from the ropes until I was nearly unconscious, and then dragged myself back into my seat. Soon everything became dark and I grew so weak that I thought I would tumble from the ship. Then I became unconscious and knew nothing until I found myself on the ground. I expected to be killed."

FRUIT CROP REPORT

May Frost Had Ill Effect on Berries—Good Apple Bloom.

Ottawa, June 4.—The first fruit report of the year just issued from the fruit divisions, states that the frost in Southern Ontario the second week in May affected the early blossoms of the strawberry crop, but will not seriously reduce the whole crop. No injuries to the trees from winter killing were reported, but strawberries and to a less extent raspberries and black berries suffered slightly everywhere. The show of apple bloom was never better. Early and fall apples show somewhat better than winter fruit. Pears are on the whole a medium crop. The commercial plum sections of Ontario are reporting a very light crop. In some cases an absolute failure. Peaches indicate an average crop. Cherries show well everywhere. Grapes are reported in good order except in sections that depended on snow protection.

SAY PEARS WERE ORDERED

And Refuse to Accept Car Load of Plums Sent

Toronto, June 4.—A dispute over a shipment of canned fruit came up in single court today, where Flynn Bros., of St. Catharines, are suing Kelly, Douglas & Co., Vancouver, for the value of a car load of canned plums valued at $1,300. The defendants say they ordered canned pears and refused to accept the plums, the car of which is standing in the yard at Vancouver. The defendants today asked for a postponement on the ground that a commission that had been appointed to take evidence had not reported. The case was ordered to go to the trial judge.

METHODISTS TALK CHURCH UNION

Conference Favors It, But Thinks It Distant

OPPOSED TO RADICAL CHANGE

Change in Ritual Suggested—Board of Finance to Operate as a Loan Company.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Windsor, June 4. — Church union formed the basis of an animated discussion this afternoon before the Methodist conference. The subject came up in the form of a memorial to the general conference. The original recommendation as presented by the committee was as follows:

Resolved, that we recommend that our approaching general conference make no important or radical change in our present book of discipline, as any serious changes might endanger the proposed union.

The discussion indicated a sentiment in favor of church union, but it was generally expressed that the proposed union would not come for a few years.

The resolution went through after the words "important or radical" were omitted.

What Does It Mean?

There was another memorial "to change the discipline that we may change what it means by stating the salary of ministers be either $750 inclusive or exclusive of honoraria. Many of the delegates were unable to interpret this clause and the resolution was passed without comment.

According to another memorial it was stated that the deficiencies in pastors' salaries in London, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Bay of Quinte conferences amounted to $75,311.

A Change in Ritual.

The conference passed a resolution to substitute a change in the ritual from "let the congregation bow in silent prayer" to the words: "At the close let the congregation remain standing with bowed heads in silent prayer."

Reference was made in a memorial from Walkerville circuit to the difficulty in financing church loans and the high rate of interest charged by loan companies. In this memorial was incorporated a clause recommending that the general conference appoint a board of finance to operate as a loan company.

A memorial was introduced by Rev. P. E. Malet, recommending that the time limit of pastoral terms be abolished. This was passed without comment.

The conference accepted the invitation of Goderich to meet there next year, beginning May 31.

Wants to Marry.

Objection was taken to the request of H. Harris, who was ordained Sunday, that he be left without a station for one year. It is understood that he planned to marry a Windsor lady, take up a course in Yale University and supply a pulpit. A station was made by Rev. Jasper Wilson that the request be granted, but an amendment by Rev. J. R. Gundy that the matter be left to the stationing committee was carried.

Late in the afternoon a memorial service was held in memory of two ministers who died during the conference year. These were Rev. Mr. Scratch, Leamington, and Rev. Mr. Morden, Arva.

Miss Miller, of Australia, and Miss Morton, of Toronto, both engaged in evangelistic work, were introduced and gave short addresses.

The following lay delegates were selected for the general conference: John C. Hay, Listowel; John Reaycraft, Ridgeway; W. F. Lawrence, Sarnia; A. W. Humphries, Parkhill; E. S. Hunt, Scottville; W. J. Fawcett, Brussels; J. H. Hume, Watford; Wm. Kerley, St. Thomas; Wm. Lewis, Crediton; C. B. Keenleyside, London; G. W. Brown, Dresden; R. W. McKensie, Goderich; E. J. Beal, London; C. E. Naylor, Essex; T. B. Shillington, Blenheim; E. C. Taylor, Lucknow; C. M. Elliott, Goderich; Isaac Hord, Mitchell. Thomas Magwood, of Stratford, was selected as the first alternate, while the reserves are Wm. Riden, St. Thomas, and R. M. Calder, Petrolia.

The ministerial delegates selected to noon were Revs. David Rogers, Joseph Philip, A. Langford, J. Wilson, J. H. Oliver, W. J. Ford, A. K. Birks, J. R. Gundy, A. H. Going, R. J. Garbutt, G. N. Hazen, James Livingstone, R. D. Hamilton, S. Bond, G. W. H. McAllister, R. I. Warner, I. B. Wallin, William Kettleworth and T. T. George.

It is stated that the new British battleship Dreadnaught will have only a foremost, the mainmast being done away with. Her funnels will be very narrow, so as to make as little broadside target as possible, the flat being seen from and aft. She will be fitted with lifts, the compartments having no doors.

Apparently the descendants of the late Admiral William T. Sampson will be numerous in the United States navy, as two sons and a grandson are likely to be members of the class which will enter the navy academy this spring.

PACKING EXPOSURE STIRS BRITAIN

Press Recommends That the Colonial Meats Alone Be Imported.

London, June 5.—President Roosevelt's message to Congress on the meat scandal has substantially confirmed some of the worst of the charges against the packers, is the subject of general editorial discussion in the London newspapers this morning, and is used as a warning to British consumers to avoid all American products of the kind until a sweeping reform is established.

The papers urge the public to pay no attention to assertions that meat products for export are any better inspected than those for American consumption, and while the President's courage in attacking the scandal is highly praised, the public is counseled to purchase only British or colonial products.

The Standard insists on the soundness of its position, and press the advantage of the Chamberlain colonial preference scheme as applied to this particular instance.

The Daily Telegraph says: "Americans will not expect the meat products to be restored for many a long year."

AUSTRALIA WAKES UP

Will Attempt to Divert Immigration from the Dominion

London, June 4. — The Postmaster-General of the Commonwealth says the Canadian immigration boom has awakened us to the need of doing something to push Australia to the front. We can offer as satisfactory prospects for the emigrant from Great Britain as Canada.

Canada is nearer, but it must be remembered that the railways of Canada are in private hands, while the railways of Australia are in the hands of the state. The result is this, that when the emigrant reaches Canada the cost of transit to his destination in the interior adds a considerable sum to both individual and country, and is greater than the cost of transit to Australia, where special facilities are afforded immigrants on railways. These things ought to be known, and preparations are being made with the view of placing these facts before intending emigrants.

BOTH LEGS SEVERED

A Former Ridgeway Man Meets Terrible Death at Detroit.

Ridgeway, June 4. — A terrible fatality happened at Detroit Saturday by which a Ridgeway man lost his life.

Richard Robinson, who spent about 35 years of his life in Ridgeway, but who for the past year had been working in Detroit, was engaged with a number of other men splicing a rope on the scenic railway at Detroit's famous summer resort, Electric Park. When the work had been completed the men climbed on to a car standing at the top of the grade and gave it a start. Down the hill it went with great rapidity, and it nearly reached the top of the opposite grade, when its speed was spent, and it started running backwards.

Robinson, who was on the back of the car lost his hold, and fell beneath the wheels, with the result that both legs were severed. The injured man was at once removed to a hospital, where he lingered until Saturday evening, when he died.

Deceased, who was about 60 years of age, was twice married, but had been a widower for several years. A son, Vester, resides in the States, and a daughter, Mrs. Fether, lives in Buffalo.

The remains will be brought to Ridgeway tomorrow for interment.

GLENCOE GOES AHEAD

Passes Bylaw to Help Erect a Large Knitting Plant.

Glencoe, June 4. — The vote taken today of the property-holders of Glencoe to advance $8,500 to the Messrs. Hogg Company to enable it to erect and equip a knitting factory at Glencoe was triumphantly carried, the vote being, for the bylaw 219, against it 7.

Great satisfaction is felt here at the result, and it is believed that the town will now enter upon a new era of prosperity.

A proposal for aiding in the development of another industry already established here is before the council, particulars of which will shortly be announced.

How to Enjoy an Ocean Trip.

There is a strong tendency nowadays on the part of experienced ocean travelers to avoid the overcrowding and corresponding inconveniences of record-breaking steamships, and to seek accommodations where the voyage can be made in perfect tranquility and freedom from all excitement. The change from the old-fashioned steamships to the very noticeable this season, and is giving more than usual prominence to the Anchor Line, which seems to be making a distinct following of its own, since the addition of the new twin-screw steamships of the ocean cruise, contain the most modern and comfortable conveniences devised by twentieth century ingenuity. The Anchor Line is one of the oldest in the Atlantic passenger service, and is considered the ideal line for persons seeking the most beneficial use of the ocean cruise. The rule of the company is to provide for the individual comfort of each passenger, so that proper enjoyment of the voyage is assured. The low rates of fare, the excellent food, the comfortable accommodations, and the beautiful illustrated book of tours can be had free by addressing Henderson Bros., 17 and 19 Broadway, New York.

LONDON, TUESDAY, JUNE 5.

A SICKENING STORY.

Bitter indignation will be felt in every country in which the products of Chicago packing houses find a market, over the disclosures in the report which President Roosevelt yesterday submitted to Congress.

Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle," which claimed to reveal the secrets of the stock yards, startled the American people, and prompted the President, after a personal interview with Sinclair, to order an inquiry by officers of the Department of Agriculture. Their report was sufficient to show that Sinclair's book was not wholly fiction, and the President at once commissioned Charles Neill, commissioner of labor, and James Bronson Reynolds, to make an independent and more searching investigation. He also caused to be introduced in Congress a bill which revolutionized the methods of inspection in the stock yards and packing houses.

This bill went through without debate, and it was suggested by the newspapers that it was not opposed by the beef trust and its representatives in Congress because the President had agreed to withhold the damaging evidence collected by Messrs. Reynolds and Neill. Since then there have been angry protests on all sides against the suppression of the report which the President has now given to the public.

In his message to Congress the President says the report is only preliminary, but the conditions shown, even in a short inspection, to exist in the Chicago stock yards, are "revolting." This is extraordinary language to be used by the head of the nation, but it is more than justified by the facts. Even a public inured to muck-raking will be nauseated by the story told by officials who are answerable for the truth of their statements. "The report," says the President, "shows that the stock yards and packing houses are not kept even reasonably clean, and that the method of handling and preparing food products is uncleanly and dangerous to health."

The passages of the report dealing with the sanitation of the packing houses are given in another column of The Advertiser, and the conditions exposed by the President's commissioners are a disgrace to civilization. As the two commissioners say, "Even the ordinary decencies of life are completely ignored."

In one establishment the officials came upon fresh meat being shoveled into barrels, and a regular proportion being added of stale scraps that had lain on a dirty floor in the corner of a room for some days. In another establishment was found a long table covered with several hundred pounds of cooked scraps of beef and other meats. Some of these meat scraps were dry, leathery and unfit to be eaten, and in the heap were found pieces of pigskin and even some bits of rope strands and other rubbish. Inquiry evoked the frank admission from the men in charge that these were to be ground up and used in making "potted ham." All of the canned products bore labels stating that the contents had been inspected according to act of Congress and that the quality was "guaranteed."

As a matter of fact the Government inspectors passed only upon the healthfulness of the animal at the time of killing, but they did not know what else might have been placed in the cans in addition to "inspected meat." Physicians state that tuberculosis is unusually prevalent in the stock yards, and the victims of this disease expectorate on the spongy wooden floors of the dark work rooms from which falling scraps of meat are later shoveled up to be converted into food products. As to the alleged use of dyes, preservatives, or chemicals in the preparation of cured meats, sausages, and canned goods, the commissioners are not yet prepared to report.

It is doubly exasperating to the American people to learn that while meat shipped to foreign markets is inspected at the time of slaughtering, there is no provision forbidding the sale of uninspected meat within the United States. These revelations come home to millions in America and Europe who are consumers of Chicago meat products, and there will be an almost universal outcry against the millionaire heads of the beef trust who are directly responsible for what amounts to a crime against humanity. The immediate effect will be a curtailment of the consumption of United States packing house products, which will strike a crushing blow at a great industry. It will be felt by every cattle rancher in the United States, and by thousands of retail and wholesale establishments which are stocked with Chicago canned meats. The whole foreign trade of the United States will suffer through the damage inflicted by the packers on the commercial reputation of the country. Thus the innocent are made to suffer with the guilty.

ANOTHER "SCANDAL" EXPLODED.

The Opposition's demand that Mr. W. T. R. Preston be summoned to appear at the bar of the House of Commons was shown yesterday to be mere stage play.

Mr. Preston refused, upon a point of honor, to divulge to the agricultural committee the names of the persons known as the North Atlantic Trading Company, because he had given them a pledge of secrecy, which was necessary to their operations on the continent of Europe, where emigration propagandas are prohibited by law. Lord Strathcona, in a letter written at the time of the formation of the company, had approved the scheme, and agreed that it was essential that the personnel of the syndicate should not be made public.

Mr. Haggart, in the House yesterday, insinuated that Mr. Preston himself was one of the members of the company, and therefore in the illegal position of being a party to a contract with the Government, of which he is a paid servant. Sir Wilfrid Laurier took up the challenge immediately. He said that no pledge given by Mr. Preston, or even by a minister of the crown, would be allowed to stand in the way if any member of the House would make a definite charge. Mr. Preston had sworn that he had nothing to do with the contract, and "instead of crying," added the Premier, referring to Mr. Haggart, "it would be the part of a man to stand up now and say 'I charge him.'"

Mr. Haggart, however, would do nothing of the kind. Later on the Premier threw a bombshell into the ranks of the Opposition by producing a list of the names of the members of the company and offering to furnish it in confidence to the leader of the Opposition, or anyone whom he would designate. Mr. Borden refused the offer and his whole case collapsed.

The Premier informed the House that the members of the syndicate were respectable firms in Holland, Germany and Russia. The honor of this country is pledged to their protection, and the publication of their names would be a cruel betrayal. The Opposition, if it prizes the good faith of the Dominion, will let the matter drop.

Moral: Eat Canadian meat.

James J. Hill is a far-seeing man; but he must look a long way ahead for that 20-foot Georgian Bay canal.

The sleuths of the Opposition discovered they have been on a false scent.

The old joke about the Chicago meat packers utilizing everything but the squeal is shown to be literally true.

After those Chicago exposures, Canadian meat will get a real preference from British consumers, without any tariff favors.

The members of the general assembly will visit London at the right time. They will return home filled with praises of the most beautiful city in the Dominion.

Imagine Mr. Borden's cruel disappointment when the Premier offered to tell him, in confidence, the names of the shareholders of the North Atlantic Trading Company. Mr. Borden didn't want the names; but he did want a scandal.

A BARGAIN SEEKER.

[Columbus Dispatch.]

"You don't seem to have any pride at all," said the kind lady, as she handed out a large hunk of home-grown pie. "Dat's er fact, lady," replied the un-laundered hobo. "I'm waitin' fer it to show up on de bargain counter, den I'll buy it er supply."

"What do you mean by pride being found on a bargain counter?" queried the kind lady.

"I'm sprised at yore ignorance, lady," rejoined the hobo. "I tought de Infants uv this enlighten'd country knowed dat pride wuz bound t' have er fall."

MR. FITZPATRICK'S RETIREMENT.

[Toronto Globe.]

The retirement of Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick from the Federal Government in order to become chief justice of the supreme court of Canada is an event upon which the judicial life of the country may sincerely be congratulated, while it is, nevertheless, a distinct loss to Parliament. Mr. Fitzpatrick had made "himself" a sure place there. His urbanity did not conceal from his opponents the strong personality and the unusual intellectual gifts which accompanied it. He was unquestionably one of the best debaters in the House, and his ability to carry his measures successfully through it grew greater from session to session. His bonhomie, his knowledge of men, and strong tincture of Hibernal humor enabled him to gauge the temper of Parliament and to gain the complaisance and regard of the opposing host to an unusual degree.

The Premier will find it no easy task to fill the void which his departure leaves. So far as the ministry of justice is concerned, it is fortunate, however, that Mr. Aylesworth's recent admission to the Administration makes it easy to provide Mr. Fitzpatrick's immediate successor. If this proves to be Sir Wilfrid's solution of the task of reconstruction, a change will be necessitated in other portfolios, and in filling these we may be sure that he will put aside every other consideration except the duty of making the cabinet as strong as strong men can make it.

A CHAMPION OF ORTHODOXY.

[Hamilton Herald.]

Rev. Mr. McDonough, a Methodist minister in the London Conference, comes pretty near accusing the whole Methodist denomination of heresy. It may turn out that this "fighting Mac" will be obliged to form a religious denomination all by himself in order that orthodoxy may be preserved in all its purity.

THE FIRST SAFETY PINS.

[Minneapolis Journal.]

"There is a strange story connected with the safety pin," the clerk said. "An Englishman invented this pin some 30 or 40 years ago. For this admirable invention he was highly honored. Fetes and applause were showered upon him. If I am not mistaken, the man was even knighted."

"About three years ago, in excavating in Pompeii, they came upon—what do you think? A perfect safety pin. The details of the ordinary safety pins. The Englishman's invention wasn't new at all. It was 2,000 years old."

"The man had been feted and honored all his life—he had even been knighted, for an invention that he did not invent."

LORD DUFFERIN AS A PUBLIC SPEAKER.

[W. J. in T. P.'s Weekly.]

Professor Byers' very interesting description of the late Lord Dufferin as a public speaker brings me back to a period fifteen years ago, when, as one of the University Extension students in Belfast, I had the opportunity of hearing the famous statesman at the opening meetings of the society. Lord Dufferin was a great "draw," and the fascination he exercised over the meetings will not soon be forgotten.

At the same time, Professor Byers would hardly claim the great man as an orator in the accepted sense of the term. Lord Dufferin, however, possessed the equipment of a public speaker in a degree that I personally have never known excelled. His manner was superb; voice, action, pose, were under perfect control. There appears to be no doubt that he carefully memorized his speeches, which displayed the most elaborate preparation. His exquisite manner, his well-modulated voice, his grace of gesture, and the fact that his diction was full of surprises of phrase-combination and that "curious felicitas" which Coleridge speaks of, made up an unusual and delightful experience to his hearers. So far as technique goes he was perfect; but he had not the abandon of the orator, hence, while he fascinated his auditors, he did not move them. At the same time, speaking for myself, I look back upon these meetings as having given me the rare delight of hearing a master in the art of speechmaking.

QUEER.

[American Spectator.]

BRIDGET KNEW.

[Yonkers Statesman.]

"My ancestors were all soldiers, Bridget."

"Sure, I do, ma'am. That's why I left my last place, ma'am!"

APPROPRIATE.

A JUDICIAL PRIVILEGE.

[Harper's Weekly.]

In a southern court one day, says a well-known attorney, one of the counsel paused in his argument, remarking to the judge:

"I observe that your honor shakes his head at that statement. I desire to reaffirm it, although your honor doubts."

"I am not aware," coldly responded the judge, "that I have intimated how I shall construe the evidence, nor what my decision will be in the premises. Your remark is, therefore, entirely uncalled for."

"Your honor shook his head."

"True," said the judge, "there was a fly on my ear. And I'll have you know, sir, that I reserve the right to remove a fly in whatever manner pleases me."

LUTHER BURBANK.
PLANT WIZARD

[Hugo de Vries in the Independent.]

"Wizard" Burbank, who performs astonishing stunts in his dealings with the vegetable world, lives in Santa Rosa, a little town 50 miles north of San Francisco.

Hundreds of visitors go up to see him every year, and Burbank always gives them some of his precious time; but he enjoys your visit only when he perceives that your eyes are quick at the small differences by which he selects his new types.

Visitors who expect to see long rows of beautiful plants will not find what they supposed, but instead will see a workshop, with its utter chaos of tools, the tools being the individual plants, with their almost imperceptible differentiating marks.

So far as the ministry of justice is concerned, it is fortunate, however, that Mr. Aylesworth's recent admission to the Administration makes it easy to provide Mr. Fitzpatrick's immediate successor. If this proves to be Sir Wilfrid's solution of the task of reconstruction, a change will be necessitated in other portfolios, and in filling these we may be sure that he will put aside every other consideration except the duty of making the cabinet as strong as strong men can make it.

In person Burbank is slender, almost to frailty. It is now nearly thirty years since he came to California from Massachusetts, where he was born. He is about 60 years of age. He is a tireless worker, spending many hours each day at his experimental grounds.

The finer experiments he conducts at Santa Rosa on the farm where he lives; but he owns other grounds in the neighborhood, at Sebastopol, where his larger cultures are to be found. His house is a little cottage, where he lives with his old mother, a lady of about 90. It is approached through closely trimmed box borders.

In outward appearance he is a plain man, more a gardener than a scientist, with clear blue sparkling eyes, full of life and fun. He appreciates humor in others, and told us stories that kept us constantly laughing. He began his business as an ordinary gardener, cultivating fruit trees, shrubs and flowers for sale. In the beginning he had a big nursery and won money enough to increase his business rapidly; but he preferred the improvement of his varieties and the production of new ones. So, as his means allowed, he disposed of his nursery.

He now sells only novelties, and leaves their multiplication for trade to other men. For some of those varieties large companies have been founded, and the one seedling, which Burbank may have won and sold, hundreds of thousands of trees have to be produced before the novelty can profitably be brought into trade.

When talking his eyes glow with love of his plants, many of which he remembers individually even for years. Some kinds of flowers are his special darlings. He tries to make their bloom brighter and richer, to extend it over a longer season, and to make them more so as to bring them within the reach of the poorest people.

He is always watching the flowers of the fields and woods. As soon as he discovers a type which is new to him or which in some qualitative quality he will take the plant or its seeds home with him for experiment.

By crossing and selection he will improve the type almost beyond recognition, as in the case of the wild tiger lilies and of the Shasta gladioli, whose blossoms are as large as the palm of one's hands.

His most important recent achievement with fruits is the production of a stoneless prune. The seed is naked, unprotected by the ordinary woody shell, so that one can bite right through the fruit. These stoneless prunes are not yet ready for trade, as they have still to be improved by renewed crosses.

When this has been done all the existing varieties of plums will be crossed with the stoneless prune, so that they, too, will be stoneless, although they will not lose their distinctive flavor. Stoneless prunes and plums will be as common then as seedless oranges now are.

A single instance will show what a valuable asset Luther Burbank is to the wealth of the country. His first contribution to our production was a new potato, which now bears his name.

According to an official statement of the United States department of agriculture at Washington, made a few years ago, this Burbank potato is adding to the country an annual amount of $17,000,000. To convey an idea of the enormous number of Burbank potatoes, someone has calculated that if all the tubers produced in one year were arranged in a row, touching one another, the line would be three the distance between the earth and the moon.

TIED UP CHILDREN AT SCHOOL

OUT

Every day in the week and every week in the year, men, women and children feel all used up and tired out.

The strain of business, the cares of home and social life and the task of study cause terrible suffering from heart and nerve troubles. The efforts put forth to keep up to the modern "high pressure" mode of life in this age soon wears out the strongest system, shatters the nerves and weakens the heart.

Thousands find life a burden and others an early grave. The strain on the system causes nervousness, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faint and dizzy spells, skip beats, weak and irregular pulse, smothering and sinking spells, etc. The blood becomes weak and watery and eventually causes decline.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are indicated for all diseases arising from a weak and debilitated condition of the heart or of the nerve centers. Mrs. Thos. Hall, Kelso, Ont., writes: "For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. I decided at last to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and I would not now be without them if they cost twice as much. I have recommended them to my neighbors and friends."

TANGLED THREADS

The very next evening Mr. Hubert Alton called, to give them a cordial "welcome home," and bringing the loveliest handful of Jack roses that he could find.

He had not allowed himself to be forgotten by either mother or daughter during the six weeks of their sojourn in the mountains. Every day he brought them some reminder of him, in the form of either a magazine, or paper, in which some article had been marked for their especial perusal; with now and then, a letter containing bits of harmless city gossip, also references to, and discussions of, the marked passages referred to above, and these he spared no pains to make entertaining.

He was greeted most cordially, particularly by Mrs. Seymour, who could never forget that he had saved her darling from a tragic death. Knowing him to be almost alone in the world, her grateful mother-heart had just gathered him into it, and her manner toward him was characterized by a certain confidence, and almost affection, which Hubert was quick to perceive, and which almost impelled him to make the most of, since he reasoned that she would be his strongest ally— if she could be won to that point—in the winning of Helen.

The trip spent a very pleasant evening together, talking over their varied summer experiences, and, before they separated, they had arranged, at Hubert's suggestion and invitation, for an outing on the following Monday, which would be Labor Day.

Monday proved to be a bright and lovely day—cooler, too, than the weather had been during the preceding week, and our three friends started forth upon their outing with anticipations of a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. Seymour had put up the delectable lunch that her generous heart could suggest, and young Alton carried a mysterious box under his arm, and which bore the name of a noted caterer on its cover.

Their destination was Arley-on-the-Hudson, a fashionable resort about 20 miles from New York, on the New York Central Railroad, and owned by a wealthy club.

Mr. Rice, the manager of the firm during Mr. Lancaster's absence, was a member of this club and had arranged for Hubert to spend the day at the place, having given him a card that entitled him to the entire and privileges of the organization.

On arriving at the resort, our friends spent some time wandering about the lovely grounds, the sight being a most attractive one, just on the edge of the river bank, affording a grand view not only of the beautiful Hudson, but also of the hills beyond, which stretch up from its brink.

They also went through the clubhouse, which is a fine structure, containing every modern luxury and attraction, spent some time on the golf and tennis grounds, watching the various players, after which Hubert chartered a boat, for a sail on the river, where they spent another delightful hour. Upon their return, the noon hour having arrived, they repaired to a pretty pavilion, to partake of their lunch, and also of some other tempting viands, which Hubert ordered from the casino.

They had a merry time by themselves. It was far more enjoyable, Helen affirmed, to lunch out-of-doors in that free-and-easy style, where they could have such a fine view of the river, upon which to feast their eyes, than to go inside the casino, and order from a menu-card, and be surrounded by

Breakfast

It Is an Important Question and Here's a Little Help for You.

As we have previously said in these columns, our food has a tremendous influence on our lives, and this is especially true in summer, when the body does not have all the vigor that it possesses in the winter. We must exercise care as to what we eat, estimating the value of our food not so much on the amount of nutrition it contains as on the ease with which it is digested, and the nutrition taken up by the blood. That is the one final test of a good food.

We feel safe in asserting that no other food so fully meets the demands of the human body all the year around, and especially during the hot months when we cannot afford to waste our strength on the digestion of a lot of heavy food, as does Malta-Vita, that delicious malted whole wheat food. This is because Malta-Vita is so rich in nutrition. It contains all the food elements of the finest white wheat and best barley malt extract, and is so easily digested, giving perfect nourishment to body and brain alike and never overheating the system.

Malta-Vita is the whole white wheat, steamed and cooked until the starch is gelatinized, then freely mixed with pure barley malt extract, which converts the gelatinized starch into malt-rose or malt sugar. Physicians recommend it, and Malta-Vita is the fashionable frequenters of the place. Afterward, Hubert proposed another sail upon the river, but Mrs. Seymour said the sunlight on the water was too strong for her eyes, and she did not feel like going out again.

"You two may go," she said, not wishing to deprive them of their pleasure, "and I will sit here and read. I did not half finish the morning paper, and I would like to look it over again."

So the young people went away by themselves, the young man being secretly delighted at the prospect of having Helen all to himself for an hour or two, while Mrs. Seymour, drawing forth the paper from her bag, settled herself for a comfortable perusal of current events.

She soon became so absorbed that she did not observe a couple of gentlemen, who came sauntering from the clubhouse, and finally established themselves upon a rustic seat just in the shadow of the pavilion, and where, after lighting their cigars, they fell into conversation.

It was not until the utterance of a familiar name attracted her attention, and sent an electric thrill to her fingertips, that she was aroused from her reading, and to the fact that there was any one in her vicinity.

"By the way, I saw Jack Wilton a few weeks ago," one of the gentlemen observed to his companion.

"Ah! I did not know that he was in this part of the country," was the reply.

"He has been spending a portion of the summer in the Adirondacks, hunting and fishing."

"How does he look—like the same old Jack?"

"No; he looked old and worn-in fact, as if he had just got up from a fit of sickness. He has never been the same since."

"I wonder what has happened to that wretched scandal, years ago, although I've been told that he has been making money hand-over-fist ever since."

"That was a tough affair, wasn't it? Though I never dreamed that there would be any trouble there, but the bomb burst and never really got at the inside history of it, either."

"Well, it was all the outcome of a jealous woman's revenge, I believe. I used to visit there a good deal, you know, and I never liked the way that Walbridge carried on. I had known Margaret Wilton from her childhood up, and I would have staked my life on her honor. This Miss Walbridge had been a schoolmate of Margaret's—she had lost both parents, and was absolutely penniless—who, out of the goodness of her generous heart, invited her to come to her until she could find some congenial employment. The girl lived on her for more than a year, making no effort to get anything to do, and worried herself into her confidence, only to abuse it."

"She herself was in love with Jack Wilton, and I was told that she deliberately laid the plot to compromise her friend—admitted the lover to the house for an interview, then brought the jealous husband upon the scene just in the nick of time to produce an infernal row."

"What a wretched little fiend!" "Indeed, she was; but he was a high-spirited fellow, and, though I know he worshipped his wife, he would listen to no reason, or explanations, declared her false and unfaithful, and ordered the man to get out of the house, or be horse-whipped out of it."

"What a devil of a row, I should say!" "Well, Margaret was a sensitive creature, high-strung, as well as her husband, and when she found that he would listen to no defense from her, she quickly disappeared that very night, and has never been heard from since."

"Poor girl! And they hadn't been married very long, I believe."

"No, only a little over a year. My sympathies were always with her, for I know that she simply adored her husband, and, though I also know that the other fellow was dead-gone on her, I'd stake my soul that she was innocent of all wrong. I'm sure that that meddling girl was at the bottom of the whole disgraceful affair. I'd give a great deal, though, to know—"

But what he was about to observe was left uncompleted, for a messenger boy, from the clubhouse, appeared upon the scene just at that moment, and presented a letter to the speaker.

He hastily broke the seal, ran his eye hastily over the inclosure, and then sprang to his feet, glancing anxiously at his watch at the same time.

"By George, Mortimer! I've got to go back to town by the next train!" he said. "I'm deuced sorry to have our afternoon broken in upon like this, but it is important business, and I shall be obliged to excuse myself."

"All right, old boy. I know business must be attended to before pleasure, and we will run out again some day," was the good-natured reply.

The two men arose, and retraced their steps to the clubhouse, wholly unsuspecting of the fact that their conversation had been overheard by one of the victims of the scandal which they had been discussing so freely.

Margaret Seymour had sat, white and frozen, in the little pavilion through the whole of that trying ordeal, a look of haunting agony in her lovely eyes, her sweet mouth convulsed beyond all recognition.

She would have flown from the spot, had she dared, the moment she became conscious of what the two gentlemen were talking; but she knew that she would be recognized if she moved, and she had no wish to be identified by any old-time acquaintance; thus, she was obliged to sit out the interview, and bear it as best she could.

"Oh, God!" she breathed, as they disappeared. "I thought I had lost myself—that no one would ever find me on this side of the continent. Ah, this great world of ours is, indeed, a very small place, after all—and it seems almost an omen of evil that so many of those who have known of my past should just now have appeared upon the scene to confront me."

She leaned forward, and looked after the retreating forms of the two men.

"Yes, it is he! I thought I recognized that voice," she continued; "and, Henry Arnold, I bless you from the depths of my aching heart for your brave championship of a wronged woman this day, and also for your faith in me."

It seemed to the agitated woman as if she must go home and hide herself away from every eye, where she could give vent to the conflicting emotions that were raging within her; but she knew that his boon was denied her, and that she must assume a brave front as possible for the remainder of the day, or destroy the pleasure of those with whom she was spending the holiday.

ALFONSO HEADS SOLDIER SPECTACLE

Magnificent Military Review Marks Resumption of the Wedding Festivities.

Madrid, June 4.—The populace of the Spanish capital gradually is recovering its composure and the programme of wedding festivities is being carried out, although the nerve-racking tragedy of May 31 is likely to leave a lasting impression.

The principal event today was the military review at Carabanchel camp, at which King Alfonso and Queen Victoria were present. The former, who wore the uniform of captain-general and who was mounted on a handsome bay, galloped along the lines. His escort was composed of officers of all nations in variegated uniforms.

The 15,000 soldiers and sailors participated in the review. The tribunes occupied by the members of the royal family, the princes, envoys, etc., were gorgeously decorated. The military review was followed by a musical competition this afternoon, and a gala ball tonight at the palace of the Duchess Fernan Xuman, which was attended by the members of the Spanish royal family and the visiting princes and envoys.

The newspapers of Madrid are confidently giving their attention to the need of measures for the protection of society against anarchy, but point the difficulties which even the freest countries, such as the United States and France, have experienced in restraining the activities of this element.

Members of the family of Manuel Morales, the perpetrator of the bomb outrage, are expected to arrive in Madrid tonight. The burial of the assassin probably will take place tomorrow in some obscure place.

CAUSE OF REBATE SYSTEM

Senator Cox Thinks It Due to Abnormally Large Conditions.

Toronto, Ont., June 4.—The competition of great insurance corporations vying with each other to break the record for new business, was described by Hon. George A. Cox this morning as the cause for the rebate system, again, of commissions paid to agents.

Hon. Mr. Cox was on the stand before the insurance commission all morning. From the large commissions which have grown abnormally in the past decade, Mr. Cox related the rebate system arose. He described the system as being against the interests of the agent, the policyholder and shareholder, but admitted that when he was a district agent he had allowed rebates in order to get a good policy. Mr. Cox declared that the expenses of Canadian companies were not so high in comparison with those of English companies as would appear, because of the large amount of renevas in English companies.

TORREY AFFRONTS OTTAWA

Refuses to Go Unless U. S. Edition of Hymnal Is Used.

Ottawa, June 4.—Considerable feeling has been aroused over an incident in connection with the forthcoming Torrey-Alexander meetings. It is over the hymn books. The Ottawa committee bought 600 copies of the British edition of the revival hymnals, but Dr. Torrey has wired that he would not come to Ottawa unless the United States edition of the Torrey-Alexander hymnal was used. Needless to say, the message had the effect of a bomb thrown into the evangelistic camp here. Many strong opinions were expressed. The Ottawa members were indignant at the national affront. The Pembroke members coincided, and there was a strong disposition to cancel the mission altogether. This, however, was overruled by reason of the expense already involved in preparation of the visit.

JUST A CHAT WITH MISS TERRY

A Delightful Talk Over the Teacups.

TO WRITE REMINISCENCES

Speaks of the Horrible Feeling That One's Memory May Fail—Her Jubilee.

London, June 4.—A representative of the Chronicle, in view of Miss Terry's jubilee, secured a chat with the famous actress "over the teacups." The account of it is as follows:

I had thought it was going to be an interview, and I was a little startled at the change. I had received a message that Miss Terry would see me that afternoon, and one naturally thought of all the many things of interest she must have to tell of her wonderful stage career.

This idea was in my mind as I found my way to Chelsea, to the house which Miss Terry's London home, a delightful Old-World house, where the paneled walls, the wide staircase, the spring flowers in the vases, the antique furniture, and bits of quaint pottery, the personality of the owner.

But Miss Terry did not talk much about her career; and she did talk about many other things, and while she talked they seemed just those very things one had come on purpose to hear. And at the end—which came, indeed, a great deal too soon—it appeared to me that I had had something better than an interview, but something that was much harder to convey to that "public" to whom Miss Terry's sayings and doings are all dear; for it is easy to write down what people say, but difficult indeed to show what they are.

"Come and sit down and have a cup of tea," was her welcoming remark, as I entered the room, and as she filled my cup she said, "I am better today than when you last saw me."

This was an allusion to a visit I had paid her a few days before her appearance in "Captain Brassbound's" in the review. Then, after a long rehearsal, she was lying on the sofa too exhausted to talk.

"It is a very great strain," she went on, "preparing for a new part. Directly after the first night it is different, the tension over. The strange part is that one never gets used to it. At least I do not. I think, indeed, I feel the strain more than I used to do. It's just excitement and a sort of fear—not a fear of not succeeding 'with the public,'" explained Miss Terry with a smile. "It's whether one will be a success in the new part to one's self. Then my memory is not so strong as it was—though, indeed, I remember pages of poems that I have not looked at for years—but sometimes I forget."

And for a moment she seemed to give way at a critical moment—well, that gives one a horrible feeling.

"What do you think of the jubilee?" she went on. "Everyone is being most kind about it, but suppose we put it off for a few days? Besides, I haven't anything to say. No, really I haven't. The public knows it all. Oh, of course, there is a little still to tell, and I mean to tell it myself one of these days. But now—"

Then one day, I asked, "We are to have your 'Reminiscences,'" and Miss Terry assented with a smile. She had no intention whatever of being catechised.

"I never have said anything in the newspapers. You can see that in the interview the interviewers build it up themselves."

"Sometimes we have to," I admitted regretfully. Miss Terry laughed. "Now don't go and say—Miss Terry with her beautiful blue eyes and her golden hair—it's quite white, as you can see," and Miss Terry parenthetically—"clapped her hands and danced across the room with the charm and grace to which we have all grown accustomed in her. That is what they love to say in interviews. Now don't say it."

"I said I wouldn't. What did it really matter if Miss Terry then, instead of talking in the way dear to the interviewer of the different parts she had played, and merely off approving of some delightful honey she was pressing on my attention, to the new 'thirty-two bites at a cherry' theory of digestion, and ideas of certain great theorists as to what you should eat and drink and how long you should take about it. I could not help fancying that if Miss Terry only said the alphabet through, she would in some way make one feel that one had never heard anything of the kind before, and that in fact one never had appreciated the delightful possibilities of the alphabet."

Nicholas, the fox terrier, next imperatively interrupted the conversation.

"Did you ever see such an ugly dog?" said Miss Terry. "We have tried to lose him," she said with a smile that betrayed her; "but he is so ugly no one will steal him. However, he's a dear." And Nicholas, quite untroubled about his personal appearance, ate a sandwich and smiled agreeably on the company.

"I'll show you a charming picture of my dogs," said Miss Terry; and she took up a large album full of photographs of herself in her many parts.

"There I am, over and over again," she said. "No, I haven't got one of myself at eight; or, indeed, of many of my earlier characters. I had many other things to think of then. But my daughter has gathered everything about me that she could."

Miss Terry had just shown me the picture of herself with her dogs, when the maid announced Mr. Tree.

"You will excuse me; I must go," said Miss Terry; and in a moment the interview, the conversation, the casual talk—all it what you will—has over, and only a delightful memory remained.

MAY BE MR. INGRAM

His Name Mentioned in Connection With Railway Commission.

Toronto, Ont., June 4.—Mr. James Lettich, K. C., of Cornwall, the recently appointed chairman of the railway and municipal board, had a consultation with Premier Whitney at the Parliament Buildings today. If possible, offices will be furnished in the buildings for the commission. This would necessitate some rearrangement of offices, as there is very little room to spare.

It is reported that Mr. Andrew Ingram, of St. Thomas, M. P. for East Elgin, will be a member of the commission. The third member is likely to be a Hamilton man.

HILL HANDS OUT ADVICE

Would Have Us Build the Georgian Bay Canal at Once.

Ottawa, Ont., June 4.—James J. Hill, the American railway magnate, today addressed the Canadian Club upon the transportation problem.

Should the Georgian Bay Canal be built, he said, it would bring Montreal fifteen miles nearer to Chicago and Duluth than is Buffalo.

A 20-foot canal would permit the passage of boats carrying 40,000 bushels of grain, which, at 2 cents per bushel from Duluth to Montreal, would net $2,600, a profitable trip.

This would afford the best route to the seaboard for the products of the west, both Canadian and American, from all points north of Kansas City. He said if it were built, the bulk of the trade north of Kansas City would follow the line of the least resistance, and go by the St. Lawrence.

The canal, he had been informed, could be built for $55,000,000.

Speaking of the invasion of the Canadian west, he said the Canadian Pacific controlled 2,200 miles of railways in the United States, and it would be only fair that Americans should control some railroads in the Northwest.

He gave the advice that Canada should not be in a hurry to settle the Northwest, but should select her population for it as a key to land and for the people who would live on it.

He thought the Northwest capable of supporting comfortably a population of fifteen or twenty million people.

Mr. Hill was the guest of Earl Grey this evening at Government House. Later, Mr. Hill left on his private car for New York.

China Reaffirms the Customs Loan Agreements of 1896.

London, June 3.—The Times correspondent at Peking says: The customs question is closed. The Waiwai has sent a note to the British legation reaffirming the customs loan agreements of 1896 and 1898. The imperial edict conferring on two Chinese officials control of the entire personnel of the customs service, including Sir Robert Hart himself, remains in force, however, though partly shorn of its authority by this note. The customs revenue for the first quarter of 1905 was the largest on record, being £190,000 greater than for the corresponding period of 1905.

The Tonic of Health.

Must be more than a stimulant—must be a food as well. There is one medicine that is both a food and a tonic—it aids digestion, promotes assimilation, converts food into nutrient that builds up nerves, blood, brain and bone. That tonic is Ferrozone, which contains exactly what a man's system needs. Ferrozone supplies oxygen to purify the blood, phosphorus to develop the brain, iron to harden the muscles. No wonder it makes such vigorous men and women. You'll eat, sleep, think and feel better by using Ferrozone, try it now. Fifty cents buys a box of 50 chocolate-coated Ferrozone tablets, at all dealers.

Does Your FOOD Digest Well?

When the food is imperfectly digested the full benefit is not derived from it by the body and the purpose of eating is defeated; no matter how good the food or how carefully adapted to the wants of the body it may be. Thus the dyspeptic often becomes thin, weak and debilitated, energy is lacking, brightness, snap and vim are lost, and in their place come dullness, listlessness, depression and languor. It takes no great knowledge to know when one has indigestion, some of the following symptoms generally exist, viz.: constipation, sour stomach, variable appetite, headache, heartburn, gas in the stomach, etc.

The great point is to cure it, to get back bounding health and vigor.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

"FUSS" STARTED OVER PASS WORDS

Colored Men Have Scrap Over Society Matters and One Is Fined.

Some time ago John Anderson (colored) laid a charge against William and Isaac Groat (also colored) for assaulting him, and striking him with some sharp instrument, which caused a severe scalp wound. William Groat was arrested, tried and discharged, but Isaac had fled the town and could not be found until a day or so ago, when he came back and was arrested. He appeared behind the bars at the police court this morning, and pleaded not guilty to the charge of assaulting Anderson with a weapon.

Anderson was called, and he told of how he had gone to Mr. Hurst's house on the night of the alleged assault. The prisoner Isaac Groat, William Groat and another man, whom he did not know, were there. Anderson and Isaac Groat were both Knights of Pythias, and when the prisoner tried to give him (Anderson) some "pass words" and "grit" the "fuss" commenced. Groat struck Anderson and knocked him off a box, on which he was sitting. Anderson asked the prisoner, why he struck him, but the "fuss" continued and both William Groat and the prisoner attacked Anderson, who sustained the wound on the head. Anderson did not know exactly what he was hit with, but it was some blunt instrument, he said. He did not know whose hands the weapon was in. George Hurst, in whose house the row took place, told of the commencement of the trouble and how he had warned them against "fussing" in his house, and finally turned them out. After a while Anderson came back with a wound on his head and said that someone had struck him with something more than a fist, and that he was going to the hospital. Hurst saw William Groat take Isaac, the prisoner, away, and that was all he knew about the affair.

Groat took the stand and gave evidence in his own behalf. He told of the row, and admitted assaulting Anderson by striking him with his fist, but denied using an instrument. He admitted drinking that day. His reason for the assault was that Anderson had insulted his brother William. When asked why he left town after the assault, and where he had gone, he said that he had secured a position on the steamer Huronic, and while working there had heard of the affair, and came back like a man to stand his trial.

None of the witnesses denied that there had been considerable drinking, and as there was no proof that Isaac Groat had struck Anderson with anything other than his fist, he was convicted of common assault, and fined $5 and $4 50 costs or one month in jail.

WANT $10 A DAY

Cabbies Present Bills for Services at Grey Reception.

Chairman Gillean, of the reception committee, is very angry with cabbies these days. He has placed on $1 an hour for the cabbies, but great was his surprise today when he received a bill for $10 a day, or $140 for the fourteen hacks.

The chairman says the city will go to law before it will pay the bill.

All other accounts coming in are alleged to be exorbitant.

"Some people appear to think it is fair and honest to have the city pay," said Clerk Baker to The Advertiser. "I don't believe the council will sanction some of the accounts thus far presented."

The trouble seems to be that everything had to be done in a hurry, and now certain people are trying to take advantage of the city, according to the committee's side of the case.

THE SAUNBY CASE IS ADJOURNED

Plaintiff's Counsel Insists Upon Having Certain Waterworks Records.

The assessing of damages in the case of Saunby vs. the City of London came to an abrupt ending this morning before the arrival of Judge Finkle, who has been appointed to fix the damages. When Mr. Fisher, of Meredith & Fisher, for the city, and Mr. Ivey, of Ivey & Dromgole, for the plaintiff, met at the court house, they had a conference and the result was that the argument before the judge was adjourned sine die.

Mr. Ivey informed Mr. Fisher that unless certain records of the waterworks department he had asked for were produced, he would refuse to go on with the case.

As the documents have not as yet been found by the waterworks staff, there was nothing to be done but adjourn, and this was done. Judge Finkle was then notified and he did not come to London.

It is said that the records asked for were left in court by the waterworks department some time ago and that they cannot now be found. That the plaintiff deems them of the utmost importance is evident from the action of Mr. Ivey, who refuses to proceed until they shall have been found.

It was said today by a gentleman in close touch with the case that the city is willing to rest its side of the question on the statement of damages made by an engineer, Mr. Wisner, for the plaintiff some years ago. At that time the engineer quoted is alleged to have stated in a written report that when the water was 3.55 feet over the top of the dam, it would injure Mr. Saunby's business, or rather his water privileges, to the extent of about $450 a year.

And it is further alleged that the records of the waterworks department will show that the water has been at this point but very few days during the past seven years.

Thus it would appear from these alleged facts, that the city would be very anxious to base the damages on the statements of Mr. Saunby's engineer.

It is not known when the case will be proceeded with. It may be that the parties to the suit will now get together and settle the matter of damages without resort to a judge.

THERE IS NO MEDICINE on the market that can compare with Rickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup in expelling from the system the irritating germs that colds engender in the air passages. It is suicide to neglect your cold. Try the cheap experiment of ridding yourself of it by using Rickie's Syrup, which is a simple remedy easily taken, and once used it will always be prized as a sovereign medicine.

TO FINANCE G. T. P. BRANCH LINES

Bill for Incorporation of Company Before the Railway Committee.

Ottawa, Ont., June 5.—The Grand Trunk Pacific branch line company bill was up at the railway committee today. It was called for several times this session, but was always held over. Today Mr. Biggar, solicitor of the G. T. P., said that the company was required to finance the branch line bonds, which could be floated easier under the guarantee of the G. T. P. than otherwise.

Mr. Carvell (Carleton) said that he wanted to see the Minister of Railways present before the bill was proceeded with. He was opposed to the dropping of the Maritime Provinces branch line which was done at the suggestion of Mr. Emmerson, because the minister was opposed to competition to the Intercolonial. If the I. C. R. would not put its grade in shape to haul freight from Moncton to Halifax, then the G. T. P. should have an opportunity to do so. He was in favor of a branch line from Champlain to St. John.

It was agreed to hold this part of the bill over until Mr. Emmerson returned.

Several members of Parliament complained that the branches were not properly defined. Mr. Aylesworth said that he went over the bill with the Minister of Railways and prepared amendments specifying more definitely where the lines should run. These amendments are to be presented. It was agreed to give a line from Edmundston, N. B., to Fraserville, Que.

BIG MEN ARE SCARCE

Difficulty Found in Obtaining Them for Police Force.

Big men are very scarce now. At least Chief of Police Williams finds it very difficult to secure recruits for the police force. He could get plenty of little men, he thinks, but big men are few and far between.

Fire Chief Clark had difficulty some time ago in getting men, but now the increased pay attracts good men to the brigade.

CUTS OUT ADDRESSES

Large Attendance at Mr. Fitzpatrick Mounts Supreme Bench.

Ottawa, June 5.—There was a large attendance at the supreme court today, when the Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick took his seat upon the bench as chief justice. Among those in attendance were the Secretary of State, Minister of Customs and the Speaker of the House of Commons. At Mr. Fitzpatrick's special request, there were no congratulatory addresses.

THE BOOKMAKERS' CASE

Saunders and His Staff Fined Fifty Dollars and Costs.

Toronto, June 5.—Jake Saunders, a bookmaker, and four of his employees, A. McDonald, Jerry Jones, Alex. Mitchell, and John Sullivan, were fined $50 and costs by Police Magistrate Denison for keeping and assisting to keep a gambling establishment, and for placing bets with Saunders every day, and at the end of the meet was $1 ahead of the game. The case was adjourned to Oct. 15, pending a decision on this case.

TRYING A NEW PLAN

The Society of St. James' Presbyterian Adopts It for Meetings.

The Home Missionary Society of the New St. James' Presbyterian Church is trying a new plan in its meetings. Last evening an open meeting of the society was held in the schoolroom, the men of the congregation taking full control. The pastor, Mr. Mitchell, presided.

Mr. Ed Wyatt, of St. George's school, gave the reading of the evening from the Book of Deuteronomy. He spoke of the urgent necessity of work in the home mission field.

Mr. J. P. Anderson gave an interesting and instructive reading on the topic, of the evening, "Galileans, Former Home and Characteristics." He spoke of the crude methods of living of the 6,000,000 inhabitants of Galilee, and of the almost aboriginal custom of keeping pigs and hens in their dwellings.

Mr. Goetz Quantz also spoke on "Galileans and Their Present Conditions in Canadian Northwest." Their life is very simple, he said. Many of their houses consist of a room for the cattle and one for the family, the only entrance being through the former room. Mr. Quantz ventured to say that in a couple of generations the Galilean emigrants would be as good as British citizens as the Canadians themselves.

Solos were rendered by Mr. John McLoughlin, who gave "O God be Merciful" (Bartlett), and Mr. A. F. Lettich, who gave Rodney's "Calvary."

RUSSIAN SOCIALISM.—Total Abolition of Private Property Held to Solve Problems.

St. Petersburg, June 5.—The extent to which socialistic theories have taken possession of the proletariat is evidenced by the agrarian programme adopted by the radical peasant-workmen group in the lower house, which aims ultimately, not only at the complete nationalization of land with its attendant total abolition of private property, but the socialization of industry. The programme provides for the creation of a national land fund from the crown, church and private property exceeding a certain amount in value, the state to pay for expropriated property, and in the cities, the factories and mills to be gradually transferred to the state for the benefit of the workmen. After taking such land as needed for state and public needs, the remainder would be distributable to any body desiring to till it, preference being given to the local agriculturists. The workers of the soil would gain an occupation tax, varying

OTTAWA.

March 14, 1906—Mr. Fitzgerald, Superintendent of Insurance, stated that: "There were companies like the STANDARD LIFE OF EDINBURGH, for instance, so substantial and secure that there was really no need why they should make any deposit at all. The trouble was, however, that some companies were anxious to put up as little as possible."

A Sewer Matter.

The awarding of a tender for a sewer on Colborne street, to Fred Harding at $740 and 30¢, for a foot for side drains, caused a little flurry in the council, when Chairman Gerry stated that this was not the lowest tender.

Ald. Booth asked why the lowest tender was not accepted?

Forced for an explanation, Chairman Gerry said that Mr. Harding was given the contract because he was deemed a better contractor than Mr. Ben Johnston, who was the lowest tenderer.

"The last time Johnston put down a sewer for us it cost us $160 to fix it, less than two years after it was built," Ald. Wyatt said.

Ald. Greenlees said he thought No. 2 was acting properly. Give the work to the men who will do it properly.

WILL FRAME ANTI-DUMPING BYLAW

The City Council Takes Action

Under the Amended Municipal Act.

The clause of No. 2 committee report presented to the city council last night, which recommended that a by-law be passed to prevent the "dumping" of goods in auction-rooms in London to the detriment of local merchants, elicited a lengthy speech from Ald. Cooper, who opposed the recommendation very strongly. He said the city should not interfere with the auctioneers. Why not get after the men who come to London, rent a room in a hotel, remain a few days and sell their goods and the like, which can be bought on Dundas street here? Why not get after the men who sell jewelry at Christmas time? And the patent medicine man, too. He declared the city needs no better bylaw than the one now on the books. He moved no action be taken on the recommendation of the committee.

Chairman Matthews explained that the Legislature has amended the municipal act, so that the city may pass a bylaw which will prevent "dumping" in London. A few months ago the city had asked the Legislature to make the amendments which had been effected at the last session.

It was then agreed to have the city solicitor draft a bylaw on the lines laid down by the new act.

Junk Dealers Turned Down;

Council Upheld Committee

Move to Have Unsightly Billboards Taken Down—

Reception Echo.

The city council last night finally disposed of the application of Moses and Samuel Leff, to be allowed to conduct a junk business on the corner of Maitland and Nelson streets, when a clause from No. 2 committee report, recommending that no action be taken, was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Mayor Judd was absent, and Ald. Gillen filled the chair in a most satisfactory manner. In fact, the alderman proved himself a very capable presiding officer, so much so that the members of the council were able to get through with their business by 9 o'clock.

When the junk matter came up, a number of persons opposed to the request of the Messrs. Leff were present, but they were not called upon. It had been expected that the junk men would ask the council to be allowed to deal in scrap iron only in the south end, but the people were prepared for this, and lodged a petition, which bore over 100 names, against the proposal. However, the junk men did not make the request, and the petition will remain on file to be brought forth if the scrap-iron application ever comes forward.

Ald. Matthews, the alderman presiding, said that the members of the council were able to get through with their business by 9 o'clock.

Reception Echo.

An echo of the reception to the Governor-General was heard, when Ald. Armstrong moved, seconded by Ald. Forrester, that a vote of thanks be extended to Chairman Gillean and City Clerk Baker for the way in which they had worked to make the reception to the earl the success it proved. The motion carried unanimously.

Ald. Greenlees read the report of the reception to the earl. It gave a little praise to everybody who had assisted the committee in receiving the earl.

Unsightly Billboards.

Ald. Armstrong drew the attention of the council to the unsightly billboards against buildings in all parts of the city. He said they are a disgrace to the city, and he asked that they be removed.

Ald. Garratt said those in charge of the Government buildings should be censured for allowing the unsightly billboards to be placed against the custom house, and other public offices.

The names of several wholesale houses were also mentioned, the alderman declaring that the boards are a public disgrace.

Ald. Armstrong moved, seconded by Ald. Stevenson, that all the boards be removed forthwith, and the motion will come up at the next meeting of the council.

THOUGHT IT WAS CHICKEN

Colored Man Tells of Finding of Body of Dead Child.

The coroner's inquest in connection with the death of the infant found in an outhouse on Tait street some time ago, was resumed at the police station last night, but owing to the absence of Crown Attorney McKillop, all of the evidence was not heard.

Timothy Sullivan was called, and he told of the finding of the body by James Harris and himself. The body of the child, he said, was found just beneath the surface.

Harris was called and he told the coroner that he at first thought the body was that of a chicken. He did not think it was badly decomposed.

Mr. D. A. Stewart, the undertaker, to whose morgue the body of the child was taken, was also called to give evidence about the removal of the body to his establishment, and the holding of the post-mortem.

Detective Rider was the last witness called.

At the request of the crown attorney, who could not be present, only the preliminary part of the evidence was heard, and the inquest was adjourned until tonight.

Advertiser Correspondence

THE CITY SCHOOLS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The board of education is asking for $10,000 to erect new school buildings. Now, before this money is granted, would it not be well to examine a little more closely into the real needs of the case? It is said on good authority that most of the schools have room and to spare, and that if a little change were made in the boundaries all the scholars could be comfortably provided for. Some schools have room for one hundred more scholars.

Besides the non-resident scholars number over a hundred and twenty, and not 15 per cent of them are paying. Now while the poor ought not to be barred, the ones who can afford it—and most of them can—should pay. Each scholar costs the city $17 a year, and only $10 is asked from the non-resident scholars, so the city to begin with is educating the outside children at less than cost—even if they pay the tax—which 85 per cent of them do not do.

Then, before more new schools are built, the sanitary arrangements of the schools now in use should be improved. Only one school is well equipped in this respect, and the others range from bad to vile; and very vile. This is a serious matter, and should be looked into. It has a marked effect upon both the health and the character of thousands of bright children, who are daily compelled to make use of these unsanitary places. Let us perfect our boundaries and improve our sanitary arrangements, and we have room enough for years. And above all, don't let fads and faddists rule. Yours,

"ONE WHO HAS TO PAY."

A NEW MANEUVER

The Seventh Regiment Introduced It at Trooping of Colors.

An immense crowd went to Tecumseh Park again last night to see the Seventh Regiment troop the colors. The weather was sultry, and very threatening, but the interest taken in the "sojers" has come to such a pitch that weather is not taken into consideration when the boys march. From the armory right over to the park the streets were lined, and the grand stand at Tecumseh Park was filled to overflowing.

The colors were trooped in splendid form, and when the regiment marched past the grand stand it was greeted with an outburst of applause. The trooping of the colors has been mastered, and last night a new maneuver was introduced, which consisted of advancing rapidly and extending, as they marched, into open order, then falling flat, and firing, then advancing again, and falling and firing. This maneuver is supposed to be similar to that which would take place while advancing on an enemy in active service.

Next Sunday morning the whole regiment will probably attend divine service at Carling's Heights, along with the soldiers in camp there.
