THE MINISTER OF MILITIA AFTER A CHIEF OF STAFF

Sir Frederick Borden Communicates With War Office for a Man---Would Like Colonel Lake.

THE NEW ALIEN LABOR BILL UP IN THE COMMONS

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Ont., July 29. — Sir Frederick Borden has applied to the Imperial authorities for an officer to fill the position of chief-of-staff of the Canadian militia. Under the new bill there will be no general officer commanding. Instead there will be a military council, and one of the most important positions on this council will be the chief of staff. The Minister of Militia is now in communication with the war office on the subject.

It is understood that Sir Frederick would be well pleased if he could get Col. Lake, chief of staff of the first army and signal corps under Sir Evelyn Wood, to take the office. Col. Lake was at one time quartermaster-general in Canada, and has been on several occasions acting general officer commanding. His appointment to the chief of staff in the Canadian militia would be popular. Upon leaving Canada he was highly recommended by Sir Frederick to the secretary of state for war.

Sir William Mulock introduced in the Commons today his alien labor bill. It provides against importation of alien labor under promise of employment, and it is made an offense to import under contract. If there is a case where labor cannot be obtained in Canada, the application can be made to a judge for judicial permission to import.

The old act required the permission of a judge to bring an action for violation of the alien labor act.

This is done away with now. Provision is made to prevent the law being violated, which prevents the bringing in of labor by advertisement. It is made a criminal offense to import aliens by fraudulent representation. The Italians brought to Montreal was a case in point.

Another section imparts the spirit of Crow's Nest Pass contract into the act. This will require Government ordered lines to be constructed by British or Canadian labor, and whenever possible by British contractors or by construction companies incorporated under Dominion or provincial legislation, and of which a majority of the directors and capitalists are British. The amendment makes those infringing the act liable for the cost of deportation and an obligation is cast upon the ship bringing such persons out knowing them brought in contravention of the alien labor law. It is proposed to forbid the landing of idiots, lunatics, paupers or persons liable to become afflicted with loathsome or dangerous diseases, anarchists, prostitutes and convicts other than those convicted of political offenses. The Minister of Labor gets power of deportation. This was done before by the Minister of Justice. The Government is given power to appoint special officers. If found necessary the Government can examine emigrants at port of embarkation.

SINKING OF SHIP WAS JUSTIFIABLE

Russians Had Right To Destroy Knight Commander

ACCORDING TO RULES OF WAR

Germ n Shippers and Consignees To Be Fully Indemnified for the Recent Seizures.

Vladivostock, July 29. — The naval men here cannot understand why the British and American papers should be questioning the legality of the action of the Vladivostock squadron in the Pacific. The Russian cruisers, it is asserted, are acting under the rules formulated in regard to prizes and impartially confirmed March 27, 1895.

They were then published for the information of all the powers and for nine years neither Great Britain nor any other power has protested. Paragraph 21 of these rules reads:

"In extreme cases, where the retention of ships is impossible owing to by the enemy, when at a great distance their bad condition, when they are of small value or in danger of recapture from a home port, or when there is danger for the ship, which has taken the prize, the commander, upon his personal responsibility, may burn, or sink the captured vessel after having previously taken off her crew, and as far as possible her cargo. Her documents must be preserved, and even witnesses can be held, for the purpose of giving testimony before the prize court."

The destruction of the British steamer Knight Commander is held to have been justifiable under the above rule.

Berlin, July 29. — The foreign office today informed the Associated Press that Russia has agreed to fully indemnify German shippers and their consignees for any losses sutained by the seizures of German ships and the detention of the Prinz Heinrich's mail. An inquiry is now in progress to determine what claims shall be presented. Russia also agrees to restore and forward the contents of the two seized mail packages.

THE FRENCH AND THE VATICAN

Pope's Note Re Bishops Arrives at Paris—Believed a Rupture Is Imminent.

Paris, July 29. — The Vatican's reply to the French note demanding the recall of the letters summoning the Bishops of Dijon and Laval to Rome, was received at the foreign office this morning, and is being translated for the council of ministers. It consists of two notes dealing separately with the cases of the two bishops. The impression prevails that a rupture is imminent.

GENERAL ATTACK ON PORT ARTHUR

War Dispatches Say It Has Already Begun.

GEN. KUROPATKIN WOUNDED

An Unconfirmed Report Says the Russian Commander-in-Chief Has Been Disabled.

London, July 29.—Special dispatches from Shanghai and Yokohama report that a general attack upon Port Arthur has begun.

A report that General Kuropatkin is wounded, seems to have originated at Tien Tsin, but it is not confirmed.

Tokio, July 29, 3 a.m.—The Russians abandoned Ta Tche Kiao at noon, on Monday, July 25, retiring before the advancing army under General Oku, They applied the torch to Ta Tche Kiao and the surrounding towns, and when the Japanese arrived they fouad the flames still raging. The Japanese pursuit extended beyond Ta Tche Kiao and the Japanese left wing occupied Yin Kow. The position held by the Russians south of Ta Tche Kiao consisted of nine miles of trenches and fortifications.

St. Petersburg, July 25, 8:35 p.m. — A telegram received from Gen. Kuropatkin today announce that the position at the front had not changed. It is generally believed here that startling developments are imminent. All the war correspondents have been ordered to Harbin.

New Chwang, July 28. — Takayama, the Japanese administrator of New Chwang, has arrived here, and has issued notification to the population that New Chwang and Yin Kow are now under Japanese control, and that lives and property will be protected.

Che Foo, July 25, 7 p.m. — Chinese refugees who left Port Arthur thirty-six hours ago, say that three large warships have left that port. The Chinese cannot give their names or their destination. It is impossible to confirm this story from foreigners.

Washington, July 28. — The following cable was received by the Japanese legation, dated at Tokio, today: General Oku reports that, pursuing the enemy with his forces, he advanced on the 25th inst. to the north of Ta Tche Kiao. The enemy retreated northward, leaving Ta Tche Kiao and New Chia Tun in flames.

Tokio, July 28, 9:30 a.m. — The Vladivostock squadron is reported off the Province of Awa today. Awa is about two hundred miles southwest of Yokohama, and is at the eastern entrance of the inland sea.

Entirely Blameless.

Windsor, Ont., July 29. — Peter A. Belleperch, the suspended postoffice clerk, will be reinstated in a few days. An investigation as to how far he could be blamed in the Moir theft of several letters from the office has been completed by the postoffice inspector, and it has been found that he was entirely blameless in the matter.

SUDDENLY DEMENTED

Canadian Woman Taken From Train at Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., July 29.—Becoming suddenly demented on her way from Denver to her former home in Canada, Mrs. Ada Lohf, 25 years old, wife of Carl A. Lohf, of Denver, was taken into custody yesterday by the Chicago police, and she will be examined by a city physician at the Harrison street station.

Mrs. Lohf's strange actions became noticeable shortly after the train left Denver, and when Chicago was reached the conductor decided to turn her over to the police, so that her relatives could be notified.

CABLE TO ICELAND

Northern Danish Island Will be Buckled to Europe.

London, July 29. — The long-discussed telegraphic communications between Denmark and Iceland is about to be realized.

Several years ago the Great Northern Telegraph Company proposed to establish such a cable if it could obtain subsidies from the parties interested. Denmark, Iceland, Sweden and some other countries promised subsidies, but some refused.

Now the commercial communication between Denmark and Sweden is steadily increasing, and so day by day a cable is more important. A new attempt is therefore to be made to establish it. The Great Northern means very soon to take the initiative.

SOO WORKS OPENING

The Plants to Commence Operations About August 15.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 29.—The Algoma Commercial Company is advertising for 1,000 men for the lumber camps, an indication that work in connection with the Lake Superior Corporation plants will be pushed as soon as possible. The men will be employed in the woods getting out pulpwood and wood for the charcoal ovens, the sawmill and the veneer plant, which will be operated at once. Negotiations have been going on for the purchase of pig-iron and other supplies, and the steel plant will commence operations about Aug. 15. General Manager Shields and his assistants have labored indefatigably to get things in working order. Many of the employes who occupied important positions with the old company have returned.

It has been announced for a certainty that coke ovens will be built in the American Soo to supply coke for the blast furnaces. Heretofore this has been bought at lower lake points and shipped here, entailing some loss on account of breaking and handling. The building is being placed on the American side on account of the duty on coal. The gas by-product will be used for lighting and heating purposes.

CAPTAIN BROKE FAITH

Coaled Up for Cadiz and Stopped Merchantmen.

London, July 29.—Premier Balfour, in a printed reply to the question announced by Thomas G. Bowles (Conservative) in the House of Commons, July 27, asking for information regarding the actions of the Russian armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi in the Mediterranean, confirmed the facts recited by Mr. Bowles, and added that the British Government's view is that any ships using coal for purposes other than that for which it was obtained should not thereafter be accorded coaling facilities.

Mr. Bowles asked the Government if it were aware that the Russian armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi after being allowed to take 500 tons of coal at Port Said, and after her captain had given his word of honor that he would proceed at once and by the direct route to Cadiz, remained off Port Said and stopped and examined six vessels which were about to enter the canal, and a few days later repeated the stoppage off Alexandria. Mr. Bowles also wanted to know what steps the Government took to prevent belligerent ships securing at British ports coal to be used in the operation of the war.

LIGHTNING BOLTS CREATE HAVOC

Great Damage Done in Oxford County by an Electrical Storm.

Woodstock, July 28. — A very severe electrical storm passed over the city and district last night, lasting for several hours. The barns of Smith Hill, near Foldens, were struck by lightning and burned, with their contents, which included the season's hay crop. Mr. Hill's implements, three buggies and a number of hogs. There was $500 insurance in the Dereham and West Oxford Farmers' Mutual on the buildings, and a small amount on the contents. A barn near Bright, owned by Joseph Evans, on the farm occupied by Wm. Blair, was also burned, with a loss of $3,000. The horses were rescued, but the hay and implements were destroyed. Eight cows belonging to Joseph Gerrish, of the eighth concession, were killed while standing under a tree. In Innerkip village the house of Ebenezer Knight was damaged to a slight extent, the family being dazed by the lightning stroke. In Elgin County the barns of John S. Moore, Bayham, and John Nesbitt, Malahide, are reported to have been destroyed.

WAS OUTCOME OF A CONSPIRACY

Killing of M. de Plehve Part of Terrorist Plot,

BY WHICH MANY HAVE DIED

Greshunin, a Jewish Agitator and Revolutionist, Now in Prison, Is Held as Chief Conspirator.

St. Petersburg, July 29. — The name of the assassin of Interior Minister de Plehve is given by the Bourse Gazette as Prozef, but this is not confirmed by the police, who, if satisfied that they have established the identity or even the nationality of the murderer, are carefully guarding the facts, perhaps to throw his accomplices off the scent.

The general public is disposed to regard the crime as intimately connected with the far-reaching terrorist plot revealed last summer by the arrest of Greshunin, the Russian revolutionary agitator at Kief, where he had gone to organize an attempt on the Emperor's life at Saroff during the ceremonies incident to the canonization of St. Seraphim. The subsequent trial established the fact that Greshunin was the head of a murderous conspiracy, similar to the Nihilist conspiracy of the early eighties, the object of which was to create a reign of terror in the Russian by killing ministers, governors and the Emperor. Grashunin is a Jew, and was a former petty official of St. Petersburg. The perpetrator of the murders, as well as the victims were to be selected by lot.

The series of crimes resulting from this conspiracy began with the attempt on the life of Privy Councilor Pohiedonostseff, chief procurator of the holy synod (who was fired at by a man on March 22, 1901), and included the killing of M. Boghanovitch, ex-governor-general of Ufa, European Russia (who was assassinated on May 19, 1903), M. Bogolepoff, former minister of public instruction (who was shot by Peter Karpeovitch on Feb. 27, 1901, and died on March 15 of the same year from the effects of his wounds), and M. Sipaguine, M. Von Plehve's predecessor (assassinated on April 16, 1902, by a student named Balmashoff), and the attempts on Prince Obolenski (now Governor-General of Finland), while Governor of Kharkoff), he being fired at four times on Aug. 11, 1902, and Prince Galitzsin, Governor-General of the Caucasus (who was stabbed by 3 natives in the outskirts of Tiflis, Oct. 27, 1903.)

The more recent murders of Governor-General Bobrikoff of Finland, who was shot by Eugene Schaumann June 16, and died the following morning, and of Vice-Governor Andreiff, of Elizabethpol Trans-Caucasia (assassinated July 17 last), probably were not connected with this plot. The latter crime was undoubtedly due to private vengeance. The arrest of Gershunin was conducted under dramatic circumstances. He had been shadowed by the Austrian police and upon his arrival at Keiff tried to escape by jumping from an electric car, after an exciting chase. Greshunin was captured and he and two others, one of whom was a woman, were tried, convicted and sentenced to death, but the Emperor, with M. de Plehve's acquiescence, extended mercy, and commuted the sentence to 15 years' imprisonment. Gershunin is now serving his entence in Schlusselberg prison.

All the newspapers this morning agree that in the assassination of Minister of the Interior de Plehve, a great personality has been cut off in the midst of his work.

The Novoe Vremya says: M. de Plehve was a strong, intellectual man, but some of all he had a thorough insight and knew well the particular features to make up a balance of Russian national life.

The Russ declares that the dead minister's faithful name will live in connection with agriculture and peasant reforms and that it is an infinite pity he was taken off in the midst of his work, leaving his plans all unperfected.

The Official Messenger says: His death is an irreparable loss to all truly patriotic Russians. He was a faithful servant of the throne and the fatherland. He was intellectual and of firm will, not sparing himself in health, strength or private interests where public duty was concerned. He did not accomplish all he set out to do, still his name must be handed down on the list of the great and true servants of his country.

Nothing has yet been discovered to throw any light on the antecedents of Leglo, the assassin.

Twenty bystanders were injured by the explosion of the bomb, but only seven of them were seriously hurt.

M. de Plehve's funeral will probably be held tomorrow.

CHILD BENEATH MOWER

Distressing Accident on a Farm Near Ridgetown, Ont.

St. Thomas, Ont., July 29. — What may prove to be a fatal accident took place Wednesday afternoon at the farm of John McLaren, of the eleventh concession, Howard, near Ridgetown. His young son, Dougal, 3 years old, was lying sleeping in the grass near the house, when the father with the mowing machine went into the paddock to mow. Not until he saw his child under the cutting bar of the machine did he know that he was out of the house. The unfortunate child had a large piece of flesh cut from the thigh, one of his arms almost severed, and a nasty gash cut in the side of his head.

FOUND BODY IN SWAMP

Strange Death of a Crimean Veteran at Palmerston.

Palmerston, Ont., July 28.—On Saturday, the 16th inst., David Gibson, a veteran of the Crimea, left his boarding-house in town, and failed to return. Inquiry was made for him in the neighboring towns, where he had acquaintances, but without success. Tonight William Lawrence was looking for his cow in a swamp half a mile north of the town, when he found the body in a partly decomposed condition. The coroner and police were notified, and took charge of the remains. Nothing of any value was found on him. Deceased, who was 72 years of age, is said to have a brother resident in Toronto.

UNDER THE UNION JACK

United States Commerce Carried on British Vessels.

Toronto, July 29. — The visiting members of the Michigan Banker's Association are the guests of the Toronto bankers.

W. Livingstone, Detroit, president of the association, says that the currency issue is entirely out of the present presidential election. The iron and steel trade of the United States is reviving, and he believes that the steel manufacturers there will have all they can do to attend to their own market.

The United States has now 205,000 miles of railways, which last year carried 13,000,000 tons of freight and 700,000,000 passengers. The charges on the carrying trade of United States exports are $200,000,000, most of which goes to British ship-owners, who frequently receive an amount equal to the combined earnings of all the railroads in the United States.

There are more men in the United States navy than in all the ships in the merchant service. Last year only one United States merchantman went through the Suez Canal.

Mr. Livingstone hopes that the work of the commission on the encouragement of a merchant marine will be productive of substantial results.

POPULAR ABERDEEN

The Former Governor-General Is Vivacious and Mercurial.

London, July 29.—Lord Aberdeen does not look like the father of a marriageable daughter. He is one of the most vivacious, mercurial, black-haired, and popular of peers, says the London Chronicle. On board an ocean steamer he is the life and soul of everything calculated to make time pass pleasantly, and promote good fellowship among all classes of passengers. After the fall of Mr. Gladstone's first home rule government, in which he held office as Irish viceroy, he voyaged to Australia, and had a splendid reception from the Irish residents of Melbourne, Sydney, and other cities. When Mr. Gladstone came into power again, the Earl of Aberdeen was appointed Governor-General of Canada. Not content with the diligent discharge of his official duties, Lord Aberdeen started ranching, on an extensive scale, in the western part of the Dominion. Coldstream Ranch, British Columbia, is still one of his addresses.

$50,000 BLAZE AT QUEEN CITY

Upper Portion of Blain & Co.'s Grocery Warehouse Badly Gutted.

Toronto, Ont., July 29. — A serious fire started this morning about 10:30 in the four-story brick building, corner of Frank and Scott streets, owned and occupied by E. B. Blain & Co., wholesale groceries. It was first noticed by one of the junior clerks about the tackle of the elevator on the top floor, and it is supposed to have been caused by friction.

The fire brigades were slow in responding, and were hampered by the wires on the street, when they did come. In the meantime, the fire spread rapidly through the top floor and broke out through the roof. Fortunately the firemen were able to attack from the sides and also ascended to the roof of H. P. Eckhardt & Co.'s wholesale grocery, on the opposite side of Scott street, from which point they poured several streams on the flames. By hard work the firemen had the flames under control within an hour.

The damage by fire was confined to the top floor and roof, but tons of water poured down through the other floors into the basement. The total loss is hard to estimate, but probably will reach $50,000. There was an insurance of $125,000 on the stock and of $40,000 on the buildings.

CZAR TO PRESENT BIG BILL TO THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT

Russia Claims That Britain Could Have Prevented Shipment of Contraband to the Japanese.

WILL NOT DISCUSS DARDANELLES AS DESIRED

London, July 29.—Russia has filed a formal protest at the foreign office against British shipments of contraband to Japan. The Associated Press learns that the Russian Government, since the beginning of the war, has carefully watched the manufacture of goods intended for the use of the Japanese Government, and so soon as it was established, that such goods were about to be shipped to a hostile destination the facts were officially communicated to the British Government with the request that measures be taken to put a stop to it. It is further asserted that in many cases the Government has not taken action, and it is understood that when the war ends Russia proposes to present a bill for damages to the British Government which will offset the indemnities claimed for the seizure of the British steamers.

It is also learned by the Associated Press that Russia does not intend to hasten the settlement of the question of the right of vessels of the volunteer fleet to pass the Dardanelles as desired by Great Britain. Russia might be forced by the existing situation to grant concession she would afterwards regret.

IRISH PARTY BANQUETS BLAKE

Former Canadian M. P. Is Honored by Nationalists.

OUTSPOKEN FOR HOME RULE

Declared If Irishmen Remain True to Emerald Isle Home Rule Will Never Die.

London, July 28.—The banquet accorded to Hon. Edward Blake by the Irish party today in appreciation of his services was one of the most splendid affairs which has taken place in the House of Commons dining-room. Mr. John Redmond, the chairman, said that Mr. Blake's Canadian record was one of the proudest in the possession of that free and great community. All through his career he had been an outspoken friend of Irish liberties. In 1882, before many of those at the banquet had entered public life, Mr. Drake had moved a resolution in the Dominion House in favor of home rule, which had raised against himself prejudices in many quarters. For the sake of the land of his fathers, giving up the Canadian Premiership, then almost within his grasp, he came to Ireland, bringing that transparent disinterestedness and calm judgment which today made him the most valuable asset in the Irish councils.

Hon. Mr. Blake, replying, said that as long as Britain refused them constitutional freedom they had to remain estranged from the remainder of the assembly. To attain freedom they must subject themselves to party discipline and the decisions of the national council. Home rule was not dead. If they were true to Ireland it would never die. The great current of public events was with them. If offered some installment of self-government at the next elections he would favor acceptance, putting it into the till as home rule money for Ireland. The question he desired the country to address itself to was the present situation, forgetting the barren past.

Mr. Redmond, in his concluding remarks, said he had sent out addresses to the Irish people, which were only an echo of Mr. Blake's speech.

The following cable was received from the United Irish League at Ottawa: "Heartily join you in honoring our own Edward Blake. (Signed) Freeland Bargen."

GEORGE'S ELM IS DOWN

Famous Tree Was Saved by General 125 Years Ago.

Morristown, N. J., July 29. — Saved by George Washington a century and a quarter ago, no friend arose to intercede for the historic elm which for more than 175 years, stood at the corner of Elm and Morris streets. Today it was cut down. Washington had his headquarters here in the winter of 1779-1780, and at that time there was talk of felling the tree. Because of its age and beauty, Washington himself interposed and prevailed upon the owner to leave it standing. Since then it has been famous as the Washington Elm. Lafayette, when he visited Morristown early in the nineteenth century, made an address beneath its spreading branches. The tree was removed to permit of public improvements.

PRESCOTT'S MEMBER DEAD

Mr. Isidore Proulx Passes Away at the Capital.

Ottawa, July 29.—The third vacancy by death in the membership of the House since the present session began occurred yesterday, when Mr. Isidore Proulx, the Liberal member for Prescott county, passed away at his home at Plantagenet. Mr. Proulx's death came suddenly, for he was in his place in the House as late as last Friday. On Saturday he went on a fishing trip, caught cold, was taken with inflammation of the bowels, from the dire consequences of which he could not be saved by the best medical skill. Mr. Proulx had complained for several years of a defect in his feet, and a few months ago gangrene set in. This was overcome and his life saved by the amputation of his right leg in Ottawa during last winter. Since then Mr. Proulx went about on crutches, but recently he had hoped soon to cast them aside and use an artificial limb. Since his election to the House in 1891 Mr. Proulx had gained steadily in the esteem of his friends. He was quiet and unassuming, and he rarely participated in the debates of the House. He was one of the two French-Canadian representatives from Ontario in the Dominion House, the other being Mr. Speaker Belcourt.

LEADER GOLDEN; HIS WATERLOO

Head of the Chicago Strikers Refused to "Shut Up."

ARRESTED AND BAIL REFUSED

Great Excitement Amongst Stockyard Strikers Over Outrage to Their Leader.

Chicago, July 29. — President George F. Golden, of the Teamsters' Union, turned strike picket today, defied Police Inspector Nicholas Hunt and met a Waterloo. The inspector, with his club whirling in the air, ran up a flight of stairs leading to Golden's office near the stock yards, and seizing the labor leader by the arm, marched Golden to the street. The teamsters' president was put in charge of a sergeant and sent to the stock yards police station a prisoner. Thus for the first time a chief of the striking thousands was taken into custody.

Golden discovered a wagon owned by C. Terry & Co., being driven past his office. Putting his head out of the window, he called to the driver: "Where are you going?"

"Anywhere I please, so long as I attend to my own business," was the reply, whereupon Golden ordered the driver to turn back.

The inspector heard the command and reassured the teamster, telling him to go on about his business. Then came a war of words. Golden paying his compliments to the inspector. Hunt shaking his club at the strike leader, declared there would be an immediate arrest if Golden did not "shut up."

Golden would not be silent, and his arrest followed.

The arrest caused intense excitement, and within two minutes several thousand men had gathered to watch the proceedings.

"This is an outrage," declared Golden, "I have been guilty of no offense against the law, yet I am taken up like a common criminal. I shall see whether a high and mighty inspector of police is more high and mighty than the rights of a citizen."

At the time of Golden's arrest the police also took into custody G. T. Buser, who was in the teamsters' headquarters. He was charged with interfering with an officer. A patrol wagon was called from the nearest police station, whither the prisoners were taken. Golden had two bondsmen at the station when he arrived there, but the captain in charge, acting under orders from the inspector, refused to liberate Golden or Buser on bail. Both prisoners were sent to cells violently protesting against what they declared was an outrage.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Kippen Farmer Had Just Housed His Cattle When Stricken Down.

Hensall, July 29. — On Wednesday about 8 o'clock a terrible thunderstorm passed over here, going towards the south. Mr. W. Chambers, about 18 years old, who lived about three miles from Kippen, was killed by lightning. He had tied the cattle in the barn and was in the act of closing a door when struck by the fatal bolt.

About six miles north from here a barn was destroyed by lightning.

THREE OF FAMILY WERE DROWNED

Four Meet Death While Attempting to Ford Old Man River.

Winnipeg, July 29. — A sad drowning fatality occurred at MacLeod on Tuesday night, when two sisters, Nellie and Katie Higgins, aged 20 and 26, respectively, their brother, Eddie, aged 6, and a girl friend, Mary Robinson, aged 21, all met death while attempting to ford Old Man River. The current, swollen by heavy rains, was too strong for them, and they were swept down stream, disappearing from sight before help could arrive. The bodies of Nellie and Katie Higgins have been recovered, and search parties are actively engaged looking for the other two.

J. John Stewart, 16 years old, son of A. Stewart, a retired merchant, of Rainy River, Ont., was drowned Wednesday while bathing in the river. The boy could not swim.

ENDS RULE OF SWORD

U. S. Troops Recalled From Cripple Creek District.

Denver, Col., July 28.—Governor Peabody today issued a proclamation calling off military rule and placing the Cripple Creek district in charge of the civil authorities.

This action was taken by the governor in the face of opposition from many influential citizens of Cripple Creek, who desire to prevent deported union miners from returning to the district. Before issuing his order, however, the governor received assurances from Sheriff Edward Bell that his forces were able to control the situation.

Military rule was proclaimed in Teller County on June 8 in consequence of disorderly acts following the explosion at Independence, June 6, by which many non-union miners were killed or injured. Previous to that there had been a large force of soldiers on duty for many months in the Cripple Creek district, but before the explosion occurred these had all been withdrawn. No troops are now under arms anywhere in Colorado, and good order prevails in all the mining camps.

The military expenses of the state during the last eighteen months, due to strikes, are said to aggregate about $1,000,000.

To Fight Steel Trust.

Pottsville, Pa., July 26.—Stockholders of the Eastern Steel Company, an organization backed by the Vanderbilts, Archibald White and other big capitalists, today voted to increase the capital stock of the company from $5,000,000 to $9,400,000.

The sum of $2,500,000 is to be used to complete the company's mammoth new plant in Pottsville, on which $3,000,000 has been expended. These steel mills, furnaces, rolling mills, bridge works and billet mills, when completed, will be able to turn out 150,000 tons of steel annually. The company will fight the steel trust.

A prominent New York buyer for one of the largest drug houses in the world, when shown our package for the first time, went into ecstasies over it. "Never before," he said, "have I seen a neater, cleaner or more portable box nor such a beautiful, pure-looking and inviting tablet. And the name! Well, at last we have something sensible. For years chemists, professors, scientists and a myriad of wonder-workers have been putting out preparations with names unintelligible to the public, who are asked to remember a different name for each ailment, and it is usually of such a character as not to have the slightest bearing on the subject. But —here is a name that speaks for itself." If your head is wrong and you want to make it right, why not use a simple name which appeals to the public and covers the subject. This is the age of brevity. If we were to give the name of our new discovery in Latin we would only be understood by college professors. We want to cure every headache in Canada, and as we are the only headache specialists in the world, are confident we can do so. Sample box sent free on request. A PRIEST-HERO

Hedrite

Struggles With Mad Woman in a Third-Story Window.

New York, July 29. — For five minutes last night the Rev. James Berry, a priest of the St. Augustine Church, in East Houston street, fought on the window-ledge of the third floor of No. 32 Second avenue with Mrs. Jennie Saxen, an insane woman determined to end her own life by throwing her body to the street.

The priest, hearing that the woman had been ill, called on the family to see of what assistance he could be. She talked wildly to him, and when all others had left the room, sprang up, crying that she would kill herself, ran to the open window.

The priest caught her by the skirts as she was about to throw herself out. She turned savagely on him and with all her strength tried to fight him off. She kicked him and beat him with her fists crying all the time for him to free her.

A crowd was attracted to the strange scene, and policemen ran to the flat. Mrs. Saxen's husband arrived at this point and was the first to go to the assistance of the struggling priest. When aid arrived the priest had all but given up hope of being able to restrain the woman.

Police were called from the Fifth street station, nearby, to help hold her while awaiting the arrival of an ambulance from Bellevue. She became so violent it was necessary to place her in a patrol wagon and take her to the station house. From there she was taken to Bellevue by Dr. McLeod.

SMILE AT KUROPATKIN

The Japanese Hold His Strategy in Contempt.

Tokio, July 28.—The Japanese here regard as a foregone conclusion the complete success of their arms at Hai Cheng, Anshanhen and Liao Yang, where the greatest battle of the war is expected. Those of their military experts who are still in Pekin speak contemptuously of the strategy of General Kuropatkin. They consider he has violated every canon of strategy laid down by modern military authorities, and his men, under constant defeat, are becoming demoralized. The Russian intelligence service appears to be singularly defective. Until yesterday they seem to have been ignorant of the position of the fourth army corps, under General Nodzu.

Bobs Not Coming.

Toronto, Ont., July 28.—A personal letter received in this city from Lord Roberts announces his lordship's inability to pay a visit to Canada during the present year. It had been hoped at one time that Lord Roberts would attend the Industrial Exhibtion, and be present at several functions in his honor during the autumn, but his inability to attend shatters all such hopes.

That Was All.

New York, July 28. — He was a fussy little yellow terrier, covered with mud from the street, but he was a thoroughbred. He stood outside of the Waldorf-Astoria quizzically surveying the driveway. Suddenly a streak of yellow dashed by the gorgeous footman and reached the corridor. Then he sniffed speculately, and sneaked into the dining-room.

Two well dressed women and an escort were toying fashionably with chops at a dollar and a half a pair, when the dog with a little whine sprang on the vacant fourth chair and panted. He was friendly.

Before they had recovered from their amazement there was a flash of yellow across the table and with a chop in his jaws, the terrier was on his way out of the hostelry with a speed most amazing. That was all.

STOCKYARD MEN BACK AT WORK

Packers Say They Are Deserting Strikers in Large Numbers—A Maniac and a Knife.

Chicago, July 29. — According to the employers there were 13,479 men at work in the big packing plants here yesterday, taking the places of more than 25,420 strikers. Reports that freight handlers in the employ of the Chicago Junction railway companies went on strike were denied by officials of the company. According to President Skinner, of the Union Stock Yards and Transit Companies, 600 stock handlers became dissatisfied with the prospects of the strike and returned to work in the yards caring for the live stock.

Yesterday afternoon 133 men, all members of the union, deserted the strikers and returned to work at Armour & Co.'s plant. Twenty-eight of this number are carriers. The others are skilled butchers, who were formerly employed in the cattle, hog and sheep department. Every man was put at work at once.

"We have got this strike won right now," declared Supt. Conway, of Armour & Co., yesterday afternoon. "Every packer is going ahead as though there were no strike, and the operations are in full swing. The strikers and union men are deserting and coming back in droves."

Word reached the union head quarters that two train loads of white and colored strike breakers, gathered in Buffalo, Cleveland and Cincinnati were stopped by strike sympathizers who flagged the train between Whiting and Hammond, Ind., and that the strike breakers were driven off and scattered. The trains belong to the Erie and Lake Shore roads. Their coming had been foretold by railroad men in sympathy with the strike, and the attack followed. Two hundred non-union men were diverted from their destination at the stock yards in consequence.

Intense excitement was aroused in the crowded exchange building in the stock yards by an attempt by a maniac to kill George T. S. Ward, a member of the commission firm of Alexander Ward & Co. Ward's appearance running through the building pursued by a man flourishing a big knife, caused a general excitement. Before the belligerent could accomplish any harm, however, he was over-powered by a policeman. The assailant is a Lithuanian, unable to speak or understand English. He gave the name of Anton Doreskiotz.

KAISER'S SON HAS CANCER

Prince Oscar Sent to Switzerland for Treatment.

Interlaken, Switzerland, July 29.—The two young sons of the Emperor, August Wilhelm and Oscar, are now at the Heustrich Baths in Bernese Oberland, near Spiez at the foot of the great Neisen. The newspapers here have not referred to the matter — in fact there seems to be some sort of an agreement among them not to speak of their visit at all, but all the same it is full of significance.

The younger son, Oscar, who is about 14 years old, is seriously ill with a pulmonary complaint that has developed a growth in the throat similar to the Emperor's trouble. In the case of the son it is stated on good authority that the growth is of a cancerous nature.

The visit of Oscar was made on the earnest recommendation of the German physician, Dr. Gerhardt, an authority on throat diseases. He advised the Kaiser to put the boy there at once; believing that the cold sulphur springs, which are of an exceedingly good quality, and the modern equipment in special use there, would be directly beneficial.

The boys are enjoying their stay at the baths very much. The mornings are occupied in the water cure for Oscar, and in the afternoons they ride and drive. Yesterday they climbed the Neisen—over 9,000 feet—and, gathering some Alpine roses and edelweiss, sent them in a box to the Kaiser.

FLED FROM KOREA

American Woman's White Hair Secures Her Release.

Elkhart, Ind., July 29. — Mrs. G. K. Johnson, formerly Miss Mary Lang, of this city, has arrived in San Francisco from Korea, and gives an interesting account of conditions that prevailed there just prior to her departure. Mrs. Johnston spent three years with her brothers, who are in the mines in the northern part of Korea, and shortly after the war was declared she, with several other women and a few children, were ordered away by the American minister. The trip out was beset by many hardships.

The traveler tells an interesting episode connected with her arrest as a spy. She was attempting to take a picture of the fortified terraces of Modji, a beautiful city, when she was arrested. She had trouble in securing her release.

Mrs. Johnston, who is a young and beautiful woman, has a crown of snowy white hair out of keeping with her years. It was this that saved her.

The Danish captain of a little vessel, which was to take the Americans across to Japan, played upon the reverence which the Koreans and Japanese have for age, and removing Mrs. Johnson's hat he talked long and exaggeratedly of her years, extending them to nearly 100, securing her release.

Again the entire party were placed under guard and remained so for four hours.

ADMIRAL DEWEY LOST

He's a Railroad Dog With a Pass on All Trains.

Rye, N. Y., July 29. — "Admiral Dewey," the only dog in the world who enjoys the distinction of riding on a railroad pass, and known to every railroad man between New York and Boston, and to thousands of commuters, is missing from his home in this village. The fox-terrier, which is the property of Miss Katherine J. Hughes, the telegraph operator at the Rye station of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, left here six weeks ago and has only been heard of once since that time. Then he was seen riding on a mail wagon in Jersey City.

"Admiral Dewey" has a mania for riding on railroad trains. Being acquainted with the majority of conductors, engineers, firemen, baggage masters and brakemen, he has ridden on the Federal express, Boston flyer and all the expresses on the road.

It is estimated that "Admiral Dewey" during the last year has traveled at least 25,000 miles. The tag on his collar reads: "Pass Admiral Dewey on all trains."

MR. PROULX VERY ILL

M. P. for Prescott County Lies at Death's Door.

Ottawa, Ont., July 28. — Mr. Isadore Proulx, M. P., for Prescott county, is dangerously ill at his home in Plantagenet, with obstruction of the bowels. His constitution was greatly weakened by an operation a few months ago in which a leg was amputated for gangrene, and the outlook is doubtful.

FEAR RECIPROCITY

London Paper Says It Would be Empire's Death-Knell.

London, July 28. — The Daily Telegraph says: "If Canada were driven, as she will be if we are too long in making up our minds, into a reciprocity treaty with the United States, it would be the death-knell of British hopes for trade and empire.'"

The promoters of the Canadian Stores, Limited, of which Sir Frederick Young is president and Mr. Nursey general manager, have applied for an injunction restraining the directors from repaying any moneys to shareholders. T. Burbidge and one or two other directors are determined to repay every penny to the shareholders.

The C. P. R. has decided to reduce the Antwerp fleet from six to three vessels. It is believed the venture has not culminated in the success anticipated.

A LEAP-THE-GAPPER HURT

Toronto Young Man Fractures Skull at Crystal Beach.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 28. — In sight of hundreds of spectators, Oliver Belz, known as "Daring Belz," 253 Simcoe street, Toronto, fell about 40 feet from a trestle at Crystal Beach yesterday afternoon, and was seriously injured. Belz has been doing a high jump into the water at Crystal Beach. He was brought to Buffalo, and taken to the general hospital, where it was found his skull had been fractured. Belz is expected to recover.

The performance of the young Torontonian was regarded as highly sensational, and a large crowd was at hand to witness his daring act. No sooner had he begun his act of "leaping the gap" than he apparently lost his self-control and plunged headlong from the trestle. A cry of horror went up from the crowd as his body fell, and several women fainted. He was picked up unconscious and medical aid was quickly summoned. That he did not meet death is believed to have been on account of his remarkable good luck and wonderful constitution. Relatives have been summoned from Toronto. He will probably be a patient in the hospital here for some time.

Pains in the Back Almost Constantly

NOW ENTHUSIASTIC IN PRAISE OF DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS BECAUSE THEY CURED HIM.

Mr. W. Gilroy, Blenheim, Ont., general merchant, states: "I am rather enthusiastic in the praise of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and believe I have good reason to be. For several years I was a great sufferer from kidney disease and had pains in my back almost constantly. I tried a great many remedies, but did not succeed in obtaining more than slight temporary relief.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and I did so with great satisfaction. I had not taken half a box before I began to feel better and now realize that I have entirely recovered. I often wonder now why people go after newfangled remedies when this tried and proven medicine is so easily obtained and so certan to cure."

Tommy Lipton Says He May Yet Lift the Cup.

Albany, N. Y., July 29.—Doctor Andrew S. Draper, state commissioner of education, has received from Sir Thomas Lipton a letter, in which the latter speaks about the possibility of sending another yacht to America to compete for the America Cup. In the letter he says "Whether or not I shall make another attempt, I cannot say with any certainty, as this depends upon many things outside of my control, although I may say I have not given up the hope of lifting the famous old trophy, and I do not imagine I could rest content to leave it in its present environments. I presume it has by now become somewhat naturalized, nevertheless, I think a change of air and a visit to its original home might do it good."

Piles To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

FOR INFLAMMATION OF THE EYES —Among the many good qualities which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills possess, besides regulating the digestive organs, is their efficacy in reducing inflammation of the eyes. It has called forth many letters of recommendation from those who were afflicted with this complaint and found a cure in the pills. They affect the nerve centers and the blood in a surprisingly active way, and the result is almost immediately seen.

WERE THE GUESTS OF EMPLOYERS

Leonard & Sons' Men Spend a Very Pleasant Day at Springbank.

Yesterday afternoon the employes of E. Leonard & Sons held their annual picnic at Springbank Park, and it proved to be most successful and enjoyable. The weather was perfect. The events of the day were brought off without a hitch, all being most keenly contested, especially the ladies' races, in which a large number of competitors entered, as many as 18 starting in one race. The 100 yards dash (open) drew a large field, there being 28 starters.

The cricket match between Wolseley Barracks and the Leonard eleven was won by the former. Owing to the deadly bowling of Quartermaster-Sergt. Dunlevy, Leonard's team were out for the small score of 10 runs, and it being a bowler's wicket the Barracks team was disposed of for 31 runs. Leonard's men are eager for revenge, however, and a return match will take place on Monday, Aug. 1, when they will battle for the city championship.

The baseball match between the boiler shop and machine shop was won by the machine shop by 10 runs to 6.

The other events resulted as follows:

75 yards race, boys under 14 years—1 R. Corrin, 2 W Dutton, 3 W. Archer.

75 yards race, girls under 14 years—1 H. Moore, 2 E. McGowan, 3 E. McIntosh.

Ladies' 50 yards race (special)—1 Miss Barnes, 2 Miss Reddall, 3 Miss Cox.

100 yards consolation race—1 G. Kibbler, 2 W. Brooks, 3 R. Atkinson.

After the sports the employes and their families adjourned to the pavilion, where dinner was served to over 350 who did ample justice to the good things served. Leonard & Sons invited all to be their guests for the day, providing dinner, transportation and music for dancing, which was kept up to a reasonable hour. All returned home having enjoyed one of the most successful picnics this firm ever held. In the afternoon and evening bon-bons were distributed to all on the grounds. The committee of management included A. H. Morgan, chairman; George B. Tagg, secretary; John Johnson, treasurer; Fred Dowling and A. Garside, starters; C. W. Leonard, James Hutton, James Harper, Thomas Maitland, R. S. Holmes, judges; E. T. Leonard and Ed Moore, masters of ceremonies.

Letters to the Advertiser

THE LICENSE INSPECTORSHIP.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I notice a communication in this morning's Free Press re the license inspectorship, signed "Temperance Worker." Is the writer the "disgruntled" office-seeker about whom the Free Press is kicking up such a fuss. When did he join the temperance ranks? The conversion of such a champion of the liquor cause would indeed be quite a victory for temperance. If, however, you read between the lines, you will readily discover that he is still an ardent supporter of the liquor interests. It is the same old dodge:

"When the devil was sick, the devil a monk would be;
But when the devil got well, the devil a monk was he."

I would kindly suggest to "Temperance Worker" to travel in his own livery and not in borrowed plumage, as temperance workers are usually particular as to their associates.

The quaint aphorism of President Lincoln, which "Temperance Worker" credits to P. T. Barnum, fits this case very well. "You can fool some of the people all the time, and all the people some of the time; but you can't fool all the people all the time."

In appointing Mr. Brown license inspector for the city of London, the Ontario Government seems determined that the law shall be carried out, and that the sentiments of the great majority of our citizens shall be respected. The people cannot be fooled all the time. TOTAL ABSTAINER.

Madame Plehve, widow of the deceased statesman, arrived here this morning. She is broken down, but is calm. She drove to the official residence of the late minister. Friends tried to persuade the widow not to look at the remains of her husband, but she could not resist the impulse. The sight of the body caused the widow, who suffers from heart trouble, a terrible shock, and she fell to the floor fainting. Doctors revived her, and she went to the minister's villa on the islands of the Neva.

Later the correspondent of the Associated Press learned that while the identity and nationality of the assassin and his accomplices (apparently a Finn, but whose name is unknown, who was arrested last night) are still not definitely established, the police are making progress in unraveling the skien. They are amazed to find how far-reaching was the conspiracy. The documents found show the existence of a wholesale plot to murder ministers, but the most remarkable feature is that it did not include the Emperor.

The newspapers print unusually full and free accounts of the crime, having been officially notified that no restriction would be placed on news or comment, save as they might interfere with the work of the police in unraveling the conspiracy back of the crime, which work is already well under way.

DIED IN MONTANA

Telegram Announces Demise of a Former Londoner There.

A telegram received in the city at a late hour last night contained the announcement of the death in Montana of Robert Roberton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberton, of 191 Central avenue.

The deceased, who was 38 years of age, was well known to many Londoners, having resided here from his childhood days until ten years ago, when he went west. He was a carpenter by trade, but since he went to Montana he had been engaged in mining. He was at one time a member of No. 5 Company of the Seventh Regiment, and served with it during the Northwest rebellion of 1885.

He is survived by his parents, four sisters and one brother—Mr. Frank Roberton, of the local fire department. The telegram received by the family did not give the cause of his death, and particulars have been asked by wire. The remains may be brought home for interment.

A Good Servant.

At the centenary anniversary of Hawthorne's birth in Salem, Dr. Edward Waldo Emerson, of Concord, said, apropos of sympathy and compassion:

"I used to know an aged man servant whose heart was singularly kind. In him the quality of compassion, of sympathy, of pity, was brought to nearly perfect development.

"This man was driving his master and me through the country on a certain winter day.

"As we approached a new house that the master was building we saw an aged and bent woman peep forth at us from an unfinished window. She recognized us, and in a shame-faced way went slinking off. She had been taking a little wood. There was a bundle of wood under her old shawl.

"The master tugged excitedly at his servant's sleeve.

"'Jabez, Jabez,' he cried, 'do you see that old woman taking my wood?'

"Jabez looked with pity first at the old woman, and then with scorn at his master.

"'No, sir,' he said, stoutly, 'I don't see her; and, what's more, I didn't think that you would see her, either.'"

The Hen of Commerce.

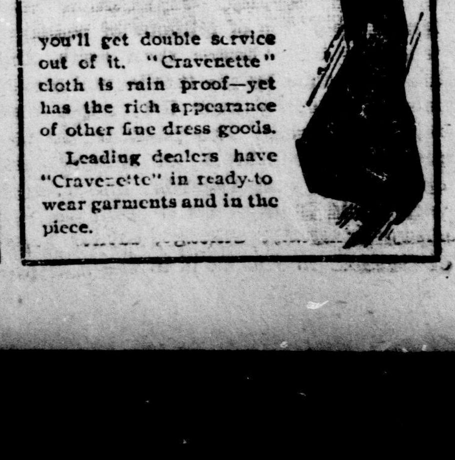

A Kansas paper tells of a man who gave his daughter a hen in order to test her business abilities, telling her that he would feed it for two years, then hear her report. She has just reported that the proceeds of the hen are $64 in the bank and 200 chickens ready for the frying pan.

It is this sort of story that brings wrath, disappointment and a general sense of injury to many a once hopeful individual and into many a household. As an easy money maker nothing is more proming and enticing than the hen—until she has been tried. The example of the traditional milkmaid who bought a silk dress with chickens not yet hatched has been emulated many and many a time in days more recent and with equally unhappy results.

It seems so easy to raise chickens, and the profits, according to all the tales that get into print, are so very large compared with the investment needed that innumerable people undertake the experiment and as many more dream of doing so in the future. The dreamers have the best of it. The amateur chicken raiser fails to take into account the gapes, the cholera and other poultry epidemics; knows nothing in advance of the havoc that can be wrought by rats, cats, weasels, not to mention human creatures of prey, or the disasters to young broods which can be caused by the stupidity of the mother hen herself. In the end the amateur becomes a misanthrope who hates hens and those who print things about her.

The hen is a pleasing object in financial perspective; in actual experience she is a disenchanting bird.—Terre Haute (Ind.) Star.

Dundonald's Exit.

Lord Dundonald was given an enthusiastic send-off at Ottawa. There was no pretense that the demonstration was anything but a party hurrah. The organizers sent out printed circulars appealing to party feeling by insulting references to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Five bands, a procession, and an Earl combined, make a strong attraction for the multitude, so there is nothing surprising in the statement that many Liberals were on the streets. It is fortunate for Imperial sentiment that Dundonald is not a type of the British functionary who is brought into official relations with the colonies. He has done his best to work mischief in this country, but he is powerless because Canadians have faith and confidence in the wisdom of British statesmanship. If British public men made a practice of interfering in party politics in this country, they would endanger British connection. Lord Dundonald has deliberately thrown himself into a party agitation, but it can be pleaded in excuse for him that he is by training a soldier, and has not been schooled in the constitutional principles upon which the relations of the mother country and the self-governing colonies depend. British statesmen recognize his blunder, and the Imperial Government has made haste to recall him, though the Canadian people are quite capable of taking care of themselves in this matter.

Lord Dundonald came to Canada with the goodwill of Canadians, who had favorable accounts of his record in South Africa, and were hopeful that they had found at last an Imperial officer who understood this country. His short tenure of office has revealed personal defects which were not suspected. His overgrown egotism shows itself in an almost childish delight in popular adulation, such as being carried on the shoulders of husky youths, and distributing handshakes from his carriage. It leads him to imagine that these popular demonstrations are a purely personal tribute, but every Canadian knows that he is merely a pretext for politicians to work up party feeling by insidious appeals to race prejudice. Lord Dundonald, in his speeches at Renfrew and Ottawa, dropped phrases which were intended to convey the impression that the question of loyalty and British sentiment was involved in this dispute. The Conservative party in Ontario is too ready to jump at that sort of thing, and the history of Canada is full of illustrations of the danger and mischief of such a course. It is to be hoped that Lord Dundonald, who is now in Quebec, will not be guilty again of unjust and inflammatory utterances of this character. The Montreal Herald sounds a note of warning as follows:

"Montreal, judging by its history, both recent and remote, is not the place where the match may be touched to the loose materials with the minimum of conflagration risk. Four years ago we had ample proof of that. True Canadians may well pray that such scenes as then disgraced the metropolitan city of Canada may now be avoided, but some apprehension must remain with those who remember the incident, and how it was differently reported for city and country readers by the paper that is now doing its best to excite prejudice against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and to that end most actively exploiting Lord Dundonald. The people of Montreal, we venture to believe, are tired of that sort of thing, and Lord Dundonald, if he is at all anxious to carry with him the undivided respect of the people of this city, will do well to be on his guard against those who count upon him to supply more material for their campaign of race prejudice against Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

Unhappy Russia.

The supposition that the assassin of M. de Plehve is a Finn is a reminder of the woes of Finland, for which the murdered statesman was perhaps more responsible than any other influence in Russia. The late Czar was a reactionary, but the subversion of Finnish liberties was not one of his legacies. For a hundred years no Emperor except the present one has laid an oppressive hand on Finland, the most enlightened and prosperous portion of the Russian Empire. It was wrested from Sweden in 1808-9, the Czar Alexander swearing to observe the Finnish constitution, under which the country was given control over its internal affairs, and the extent of military service was limited. De Plehve was credited with being the bad angel of Nicholas, who has been seduced from his solemn oath to respect the rights of Finland and carry on the benevolent policy of his predecessors. Less than two months ago, the Governor of Finland, a creature of de Plehve's, sent to dragoon the Finnish people, was assassinated by the son of a Finnish senator. Whether de Plehve has perished by the hand of a Finn, a Jew or a Russian, the motive for the crime is the same, and reveals the blind, perverted instincts of justice and freedom which have been trampled upon by a brutal despotism. The rulers of Russia walk in the shadow of the assassin, but it may be questioned whether assassination has ever yet tempered the policy of tyrants. Unhappily in Russia the system of oppression is based upon the loyalty, superstition and ignorance of ten of millions of peasants who are little better than serfs, and are untouched by the intellectual movements sweeping over the upper and middle classes. The peasant is the product of centuries of slavery and oppression, and regards his wrongs with stolid indifference or with the resignation of despair. The chief hope of freedom in Russia is in the new industrial life which is arousing a class consciousness among the workingmen. Every industrial center is a hotbed of liberalism and is diffusing the political ideas which will eventually triumph, though perhaps not without a baptism of blood.

Russia Backs Down.

The danger caused by Russia's high-handed treatment of neutral ships in the Red Sea and Pacific Ocean has been minimized by prudent second thought at St. Petersburg. Russia has agreed to recall the volunteer ships which slipped through the Dardanelles under false colors and exercised belligerent powers in the Red Sea. She has given assurances that no more ships of this character will issue from the Black Sea. This gives a definite interpretation to the treaty of Paris and settles an important principle in favor of Great Britain.

The sinking of the British steamer Knight Commander in the Pacific Ocean by the Vladivostock squadron, raised another issue. The Russian warships were regularly commissioned and there was no doubt of their right to search neutral ships; but the destruction of a British ship merely on suspicion that it carried contraband of war was an outrage which Great Britain could not tolerate, and which other neutral nations must condemn in self-defense. The British Government at once demanded reparation, and the Premier, in the House of Commons, laid down the proposition that any ship reasonably suspected of carrying contraband of war should be taken by the belligerents to one of its own ports for trial by a prize court. The sinking of the Knight Commander was so plainly a violation of international law and practice that the commander of the squadron must have been acting on his own initiative. The present war will assuredly lead to a convention of the powers, at which the right of search and the nature of contraband goods will be more clearly and rigidly defined.

The Free Press today crawfishes on the question of the license inspectorship and shows a desire to escape by the back door. Its assertion that Col. Gartshore and Mr. W. J. Reid could afford to praise Mr. Brown because neither of them aspired to the license inspectorship is really funny. However, now that our contemporary wants to get away from the subject we have no desire to add to its mortification. We hope that the next time it opens its mouth against a Liberal and a good citizen it will keep its foot out.

Swinging On the Gate.

[Leslie's Weekly.]

I can see a picture painted, I can smell the drying hay,
Where the busy mowers rattle through the lazy summer's day;
I can see the hungry plowboy wading through the billowed corn
With expectant ear to windward, list'ning for the dinner horn;
While unconscious of necessity, the future or of fate,
I make wondrous childish journeys as I swing upon the gate.

Strange how back among the many recollections of the past
Memory will grope and wander, till it brings to us at last
Some poor foolish, fond remembrance, seeming hardly worth the while,
Yet somehow made wondrous potent like a tender passing smile,
Fleeting, gone, and soon forgotten—yet remembered by and bye
With a swelling in the bosom and a dimming of the eye.

Now my temples fast are graying and my eyes have sober grown
With the years of varied happiness and sorrow I have known;
Still, I sometimes hear the echo, when the evening lights are low,
And without my darkened casement ghostly breezes eerie blow,
Of the friendly, rusty rattle of the latchet as when late
In the hazy, lazy summer-time we swung upon the gate.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

[New York Press.]

The way to be unpopular with others is to be popular with yourself.

A girl hates to break a man's heart almost as much as her favorite hair comb.

A man can have a good time when he goes away on business, and a boy when he doesn't go with his father.

You can never make a woman see that when you take out burglar insurance it doesn't mean he is guaranteed not to come.

Either a man growls because if he sleeps late on his holiday there is so little of it left, or if he gets up early there is no chance to get rested up.

The Farmer's Enviable Position

[Goldwin Smith in Farmers' Sun.]

To attend a farmers' picnic is to see, in its holiday attire, the calling which is the mainstay of national wealth, health and strength. Farming might also be supposed to be of all callings the happiest. Certainly it ought to be more interesting, and in that respect happier, than the monotonous toil of the mechanic or even of the bank clerk. We are told, however, that too many farmers are giving up their farms and going to live in the city. It is not surprising to hear that some of them repent the change, and find that with nothing to do and no crops to watch the interest of their life is gone. In the city there is more of occasional excitement, but there is less society than there is in the country. In the country neighbore know each other, and go round. In the city you may not know the man who lives next door. Living, including house rent, is dearer; the air is less pure than that of the country; life therefore is less healthy and not so long. Farming meanwhile is being made less manual, more scientific and more interesting by the improvements which our Agricultural College, under its late president, has been largely the means of introducing. It will soon be, if it is not already, on a par in those respects with any city employment.

The Sources of Wealth

[Goldwin Smith in Weekly Sun.]

There are two sources of national wealth. The products of the country and its natural advantages are one; the industry and intelligence of the people are the other. There are good people, however, who believe that there is a third source and that this source is taxation. There are other good people who firmly believe that a vast increase of wealth would be produced by the adoption of an unlimited paper currency, in other words by issuing an unbounded quantity of promissory notes and refusing payment.

Canadians Coming Back.

[Montreal Herald.]

A dispatch from Sherbrooke states that the trains are bringing in many French-Canadian mill-workers who are returning to Canada to live.

Their wages in the New England mills have been cut down 15 to 40 per cent, while in many cases the mills have been shut down altogether, owing to the depression in business.

The return of workers from a high tariff country to a moderate and sane tariff country is one of the object lessons of the day.

Under a high tariff business inflation is produced and balloon ascensions result. But the balloon comes down.

Canada has, and will, weather business storms better than the United States.

This is being proven now, and the lesson will be made still plainer in the next twelve months.

WANTS COLONIES TO CONTRIBUTE

Towards the Expenditure of the Imperial Navy.

MATTER UP IN BRITISH HOUSE

Lord Dundonald To Have a Command If His Canadian Blunders Haven't "Queered" Him.

London, July 29. — In the debate on the finance bill in the House of Commons last night Sir J. Colomb anticipated an increased expenditure on the navy, and he urged that the question of colonial contributions be brought to the notice of the colonies. Mr. Austen Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, replied that he never concealed his hope that in the years to come those great nations of our own flesh and blood would take a larger share in the welfare of the Empire as a whole, but after the sacrifices made by the colonies in recent years and during the South African war it was a difficult matter to make their present contributions the subject of criticism or reproach in debates in the House. They were less likely to secure the good-will and assistance of the colonies that way than by making a direct appeal when they met to discuss common interests. Any contributions which they might make now or hereafter must be their free gift to the service of the Empire. "We value their present contribution," he said, "chiefly for the sentiment they show in the common ties. If in the future these ties be strengthened in any way the least of the many advantages we shall reap is that the Empire will be more united, the whole feeling more keenly its common interest and common duties to the flag sheltering us all.

Mr. Broderick regretted these calculation regarding the share of the colonies in the navy upkeep. They were irritating to the colonies. We had control of the fleet, and a good many colonies might not need a fleet. Those who did—he would not say all — had subscribed something to the fleet. Other colonies subscribed very largely to their own defense. Those who paid the piper called the tune. They could not expect that the colonies, whose foreign affairs were administered for them by the House of Commons, would contribute equal shares with those controlling the administration.

Mr. Robertson—Why did you ask them to?

Mr. Broderick said a great deal had passed between the ministers of the colonies and Mr. Joseph Chamberlain. There had never been any indisposition on the part of the colonies to bear a fair share of the expenditure, but this was not the occasion to press the matter.

Premier Balfour, replying to Sir E. Vincent, said the problem of the calculation of the number of land forces necessary to have available at home for strengthening the forces in India and Canada, where the Empire was not capable of defense, depended largely on the character of the troops.

Before the incident ending in the recall of Lord Dundonald, said the Premier, it had been intended that he should be given a command under the new army scheme and would shortly have been recalled for the purpose. His appointment would now be subject to the finding of the army council upon the merits of the Canadian affair.

The new Canadian fishery cruiser attained seventeen knots in her speed trials on the Clyde.

KING'S NEW MOTOR

Made After the Latest Models, Is Handsome and Commodious.

London, July 29. — King Edward's latest motor car is an exceptionally handsome and commodious vehicle and, with its 28-36 horse-power Daimler engine should travel speedily as well as comfortably. Following the most approved models, the car has side entrances, reached by convenient rubber-covered steps. Hinged windows can be let down to fill the space between the side doors and the fixed canopy, and in this way the car can be rendered stormproof. On the other hand, there is ample provision for light and ventilation. The glass window behind the driver's seat — over this latter the canopy, of course, projects—is made to open in the center; there are sliding windows in the sides of the carriage, and a smaller fixed window is let into the panneled back. The interior is upholstered in blue leather, while a blue pile carpet covers the floor. The car is sufficiently roomy for five persons inside, a revolving arm-chair seat being placed near each side entrance, while there is a fixed seat at the back, which is designed for three occupants. The revolving seats and the electric light in the center of the canopy are, it is understood, provided at his majesty's special request. The car is painted royal lake, with the mouldings out in red. The royal crown, garter, and crest appear on the side doors and back panel. The coloring of the wheels and the bonnet coresponds with the rest of the vehicle, and the large brass head-lights as well as a tail part constitutes an effective contrast. Colliers' pneumatic tires are fitted to the wheels. The car, which has been constructed by Messrs. Hooper & Co., Ltd., is a fine example of that combination of the coach-maker's art and the motormaker's

BAYLEY'S.

JAP LOSS 5,000, SAY RUSSIANS

In the Desperate Fighting at Ta Tche Kiao.

BRILLIANT BAYONET CHARGE

Vladivosook Fleet Believed To Be Close to Yokohama—Alexieff Going to Vladivostock.

Liao Yang, July 28. — Further details of the fighting below Ta Tche Kiao, July 23 and 24, indicate that the Japanese losses may reach 5,000 men. The Russian losses are officially stated to be about 700. The Rusian front was much extended before the Japanese concentrated their attack against the Russian left, but were repeatedly repulsed. The Russians made several brilliant bayonet charges, and for the first time the Russian artillery was used in high angle fire from behind a hill, the fire being directed by telephone from an imminence and attaining great precision. The Russians did not retire until it was established that the Japanese had seven divisions. The Russian forces are concentrated at Hai Cheng and probably will not retire further. It is expected that the Japanese will now advance against the left flank of the Russian southern army.

Tokio, July 29, 11 a.m. — It is believed that the Vladivostick squadron is off Yokohama today. The steamer Korea, which has safely arrived at Yokohama, evidently passed close to the Russian vessels.

St. Petersburg, July 29. — It is announced that the Baltic Sea squadron's departure for the far east will not occur for at least two weeks.

Vladivistock, July 29. — It is definitely established that Viceroy Alexieff is coming here, and quarters for him and a suite have been prepared in the gymnasium.

St. Petersburg, July 29. — The general staff deny the report circulated in European papers of the wounding of Gen. Kuropatkin at the battle of Ta Tche Kiao. The general, it is added, is perfectly well.

CURED AT SHRINE

Remarkable Miracle Reported From St. Anne, Ill.

Chicago, July 29. — Matilda Cunnea, daughter of the president of the Calumet National Bank, for years an invalid unable to move from her chair, was suddenly cured while praying before a shrine of St. Anne, and walked, unassisted, from the church.

Her father, when informed of his daughter's restoration to health, was so overcome as to be unable to speak.

The cure occurred at the shrine of St. Anne, in St. Anne, Ill., whither thousands of pilgrims made their way yesterday to participate in the feast day exercises held in honor of the saint.

Miss Cunnea was accompanied by a Sister of St. Joseph, of the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Englewood.

Her devotion there attracted the attention of the priests, and as the relic of the saint was passed around the priests brought it to her and rubbed it over her lifeless limbs.

"I feel that I am cured, that I can walk," she said. "Help me, please, to my feet."

The sister, in astonishment, helped the girl to stand. The crowd fell back before her in amazement as she began to walk slowly but steadily forward.

HELPS INDEPENDENTS

Packers Outside of the Combine Having Hands Full.

Chicago, July 29. — Although the managers of the packing companies claim to have enough men working, so that their production is almost normal, in several of the plants the price of meat continues to rise in the local markets. This is largely due to the fact that the products of the big plants have been almost wholly sent to outside points. The meat served to Chicago customers all comes from the independent plants.

Figures obtained at the five largest independent packing houses in the yards where there is no strike in progress show that these plants have more than doubled their force of men and their output of meat. The men are working in three shifts of eight hours each, and the killing and preparing of meat is continued day and night. Previous to the strike these five plants were employing 410 men. This force has been increased to 960. The weekly output of the plants has increased from 3,300 cattle, 900 hogs and 4,700 sheep slaughtered before the strike, to 8,500 cattle, 1,600 hogs and 10,700 sheep, for the week ending yesterday. All of this meat goes to supply the retail markets in Chicago.

A NEW ROAD

Runs From Burketon on C. P. R., to Bobcaygeon, Ont.

Bobcaygeon, Ont., July 29. — The opening of the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Pontypool Railway, from Burketon, on the Canadian Pacific, to this place, was celebrated in a fitting manner yesterday. This railway gives direct communication with Toronto, a distance of about 86 miles, and will add greatly to the charm of the place as a summer resort, at the same time marking a most important event in the commercial and industrial progress of the village and vicinity. On the arrival of the train at 3 p.m., Mr. Harry J. Wickham was presented with an address and gold-headed cane by Reeve Byng. It was through Mr. Wickham's zeal, in conjunction with the other directors, that the road was finally completed. Water sports, races and fireworks filled up the balance of a very eventful day for Bobcaygeon.

PERRY'S HOMECOMING

Toronto Preparing to Give Crack Shot Big Reception.

Toronto, July 29. — Private Perry, winner of the King's prize at Bisley, will be given a rousing reception on his return to Toronto, probably about Aug. 8. A cable was sent to him saying there was a desire to give him a reception here, and asking if it would be acceptable. He replied: "Accept with thanks." In consequence of this a meeting of representatives of the different corps was held in the brigade office with Colonel Otter in the chair. It was decided to raise a substantial sum from the different militia corps of Toronto for the purpose of a testimonial, and committees were appointed to carry this out. Major Henderson was appointed chairman.

ENGLISH DECLINE TO BID

Restrictions on the New London Street Too Irksome.

London, July 29. — Some of the choicest sites on Kingsway, Aldwych, the new avenue connecting Holborn and the Strand, were offered at auction this week, but failed to secure a bidder. The probable purchasers declared that the restrictions imposed by the London County Council were too irksome, while the eighty years' lease offer was too short. They demand a ninety-nine years' lease, which will probably be granted.

Even an appeal to patriotism failed, for the statement that trans-Atlantic offers would not be considered until Britishers had had a chance was only laughed at.

M. de Plehve's Death Due To a Widespread Plot

Anarchists Blamed for the St. Petersburg Atrocity.

A Finn Under Arrest Said to Have Confessed Crime.

Assassination of the Minister of the Interior May Cause Downfall of the Russian War Party.

St. Petersburg, July 29. — The assassination is believed to be the outcome of a widespread plot, the existence of which has been suspected for several days. Numerous arrests have already been made, including that of the assassin, a young man who is believed to be a Finn, named Leglo, and who is now in a hospital severely and perhaps fatally injured by the explosion of his own bomb. An accomplice of Leglo, also apparently a Finn, but whose name is unknown, has been arrested. He had in his possession a bomb which he tried to throw, but he was overpowered by the police just in time to prevent great loss of life. The assassin stood on the sidewalk, just as Minister de Plehve's carriage was about to cros the canal bridge, near the station. The minister was escorted by a number of detectives on bicycles, and one of them jostled the assassin, who then rushed into the road and threw the bomb after the carriage.

Police Were Scared.

The missile struck the hind wheel and exploded with fearful force, killing or wounding over a score of persons. Minister de Plehve and his coachman were killed outright, and an officer of the guard was fatally injured. One of the cyclist detectives arrested the assassin, who endeavored to escape, though wounded by splinters in the face, arm and abdomen. He made no attempt at resistance, however, when seized by the detective, and confessed his crime, but refused to give his name. The police, immediately after the explosion, arrested a suspicious individual who took refuge in a hotel opposite the scene of the tragedy. He carried a bomb similar to that thrown by Leglo. As soon as the police saw the bomb, they scattered, but an employe of the hotel rushed up behind the accomplice and pinned his arms. The explosive is believed to have been composed of proxolin, as it gave off little smoke. The force of the explosion was so terrific that it not only broke every window within a radius of half a mile, but reduced the heavy paving stones to powder, heaved up the pavement, and flung a heavy piece of the iron work of the carriage across the canal, severing the thick mast of a barge, which fell, stunning the captain of the barge. Everybody in the street was knocked down, and more or less bruised.

Bystanders Injured.

Fourteen bystanders were injured by the explosion, Captain Tzvetsinsky, of the guards, sustained a fracture of the skull. He is not expected to recover. The bomb was filled with nails, not bullets. The outrage is connected by the police with the explosion at Kharkhoff three days ago. It is supposed the bombs were manufactured there.

An Anarchist Plot.

The crime is believed to be the outcome of an international anarchist movement, with which Gerschunin, the Russian voluntary agitator, who was arrested at Kieff, in June, 1903, was connected. Gerschunin, it is asserted, was the organizer of the murder of M. Bogodenoff, formerly Russian minister of public instruction, and of M. Sipiaguine, who was minister of the interior before M. de Plehve. According to the official version, the assassination occurred at 9:50 a.m. The assassin, who was standing on the sidewalk, tried to break through the crowd as the minister's carriage approached, but, being interfered with he jumped into the street and threw the bomb at the rear of the carriage, which was a closed one. The assassin was severely wounded in the stomach, and over twenty persons were injured, including the officer of the guards previously referred to. The minister's death was instantaneous. When the body was undressed at his residence, not a single wound was found on the trunk, but the lower part of the face was literally blown away.

Assassin a Young Man.

The news was broken to the minister's wife at Kybinsk, on the Volga, while on her way to their country seat, with their son, who is 37 years of age. A daughter is married to M. Voutch, an official attached to the council of ministers. De Plehve saw his wife and son off last night, and then drove to the residence of Gen. Bogdanovitch, with whom he remained until a late hour. The minister appeared to be preoccupied, and some of the guests asked him if he had received any more threatening letters, and remonstrated with him for going about unprotected. Curiously enough, de Plehve replied: "I am safe every day in the week except Thursday. No one knows of my movements beforehand except on that day, when everybody knows I go to present my weekly report to the Emperor." The assassin was dressed in the uniform of a Warsaw railway guard. He is a comparatively young man. The cyclists escorting the minister's carriage were powerless to prevent the bomb being thrown. The assassin, who was wounded in the abdomen by a splinter, underwent a successful operation. When throwing the bomb he shouted, "Long live freedom," with a little Russian accent. His name has not been ascertained, and the prisoner told the police that he had no accomplices. It is believed, however, that the assassin is not a Jew, as at first reported.

Muravieff Assailed.

St. Petersburg July 28.—As Minister of Justice Muravieff was driving to the Peterhof Palace this afternoon to report to Emperor Nicholas the assassination of Minister of the Interior de Plehve, stones were thrown at him, and the carriage windows were broken. The identity of the minister's assailants has not yet been discovered.

A Requiem Mass.

When the officers of the law, headed by Minister of Justice Muravieff, had terminated the necessary formalities by drawing up a written report of the crime, the mangled remains of the Minister of the Interior were conveyed to a humble chapel adjoining the station, the windows of which miraculously escaped destruction. The priests and people, with characteristic Russian piety, at once joined in a solemn requiem. The square in front of the station was filled with a reverent crowd of peasants and laborers, and the busy hum of traffic was silenced. A priest lifted up his voice and proclaimed "The eternal memory of the departed servant Wenceslas," while all those in the congregation dropped to their knees.

A no less impressive service was conducted at the minister's stately residence this evening, to which only intimate friends were invited by M. de Plehve's assistant, M. Durnovo, who is temporarily in charge of the ministry of the interior. The magnificent staircase and the reception rooms were draped in black. The body of the minister was completely covered by a white shroud, which concealed the ghastly mutilations. It reposed in a black and silver casket in a corner of the west hall surrounded by luxuriant palms. Gendarmerie, and non-commissioned officers stood sentinel at the head of the casket, while at its foot were two high officials of the ministry. The hall and the adjoining rooms, which were decorated in the Byzantine style, somewhat resembling a church, were crowded with distinguished personages, including Grand Duke Alexis, the high admiral; Admiral Avellan, chief of the admiralty; Prince Kilkoff, Minister of Railroads; Minister de Plehve's associates, M. Wahle, M. Durnovo and M. Sevastianoff, and the members of the diplomatic corps in full force, including Sir Charles Hardinge the British ambassador; Spencer Eddy, American charge d'affairs, and M. Bompard, the French ambassador. A special edition of the Official Messenger, which was distributed late this afternoon, contained only a brief announcement of the death of M. de Plehve, and the intimation that a requiem would be conducted.

The Minister of Justice, M. Muravieff, went to the Peterhof Palace this afternoon to report the assassination of Minister de Plehve to Emperor Nicholas. His majesty did not leave the palace during the entire day, although he had arranged to go to Oranieunbaum (nineteen miles from St. Petersburg), to attend the consecration of the new harbor.

The Empress has not been informed of the tragedy in view of the hourly expectation of the birth of an heir to the throne.

A Severe Blow.

Paris, July 28. — News of M. de Plehve's assassination caused great regret and horror in official quarters, in which it is regarded as being a severe blow to Russia, an event of considerable international importance. The impression prevails in well-informed circles that his death will greatly weaken the influence of the powerful war party, favoring an aggressive policy in Manchuria, of which De Plehve, with Viceroy Alexieff, Grand Duke Alexander Mikhailovitch, M. Bezobrazoff and General Wogack, was the most prominent member, thus possibly influencing the future course of events in the far east. Though public opinion is likely to suggest that M. Witte be De Plehve's successor, in well-informed circles it is considered improbable. M. Witte, it is said, might exercise a sort of temporary dictatorship, but it is regarded as more probable that if it is decided not to change the existing policy, that M. Gorimykin, who preceded the late M. Sipiaguine, as minister of the interior, will be again called to office.

RAINED HATS

Hotel Guests Are Coy About Confessing Ownership.

New York, July 29.—A man's straw hat sailed out of a window in one of the upper stories of the Victoria Hotel shortly after 9 o'clock last night and somewhat startled pedestrians on Broadway. A seedy looking wanderer grabbed the hat and compared it with his own. Then, discarding his dilapidated headgear, he hurried away with the hotel hat on top of his head.

Soon afterward a woman's picture hat descended to Broadway from the same direction. A woman halted and gazed at the hat that had fluttered down from above.

"My own's better," she remarked and walked briskly on. A street urchin carried the hat into the hotel and deposited it with the clerk. The latter sent bellboys through the building to make inquiries at the various rooms. No one was found who would admit having lost a hat of either gender.

WEDDING AT WARDSVILLE

Interesting Event at the Home of Mr. Archibald McVicar.

On Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock, a pretty wedding party assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. McVicar, Wardsville, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Sadie, to Mr. M. C. Elliott, manager of Glencoe branch of the Traders Bank of Canada. Mr. J. C. Elliott, barrister, London and Glencoe, supported his brother, and Miss Jennie McVicar performed the duties of bridesmaid. The bride, who is one of Wardsville's most popular young ladies, looked very lovely in an elegant dress of white silk with overdress of brussels net, beautifully flounced and trimmed with satin baby ribbon. The bridesmaid looked charming in a dress of white silk covered with silk organdie. The presents were valuable and chosen with excellent taste, coming from friends near and far. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott left after partaking of a daintily prepared luncheon, for a trip on the St. Lawrence.

SOMETHING THAT SHOULD BE RUBBED IN.—Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; pour a little in the hand, and, applying it to the surface beneath which the pain lies, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The Oil will gradually penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

The largest loaves of bread baked in the world are those of France and Italy. The "pipe" bread of Italy is baked in loaves two feet or three feet long, while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls, four feet or five feet in length, and in many cases six feet.

YELLOW JOURNALISM.

It is not service, nor even alleged service, to the public that constitutes yellowness; it is boisterousness, vaunting, morbidness, extravagance, the magnifying of slight accidents into tragedies and bonfires into holocausts. Whatever it may be to the tenement man who takes the Journal, that paper is not credited by more experienced readers until they find the news duplicated in the white papers. We do not doubt that many minds are stocked with facts that are not so, because they read them in the yellow journals, never learning what has really happened. White papers are sometimes taken in by dispatches from Europe, because yellowism exists there as well as here; but they do not originate those dispatches; they do not "dress up" news in the home office; they print only what they believe to be true, and print it without trying to make the reader believe that it is the most awful, the most tremendous thing that ever happened.

Sensationalism is like other agencies for excitement in that it creates a constant and increasing demand for more; hence the tendency of the yellow paper is to grow yellower and yellower, because any lapse into sobriety and calm is resented by its almost illiterate patron. He must be kept going by mental cocktails. He wants his news strong rather than true, and if he ever reads an editorial he wants it to reflect his view of his right to other men's property and place; he wants it to excuse the baseness of his politics and the brutality of his trades union; he does not want it to preach or inform but only to rouse. And if its editor thrusts himself into his vision and modestly announces himself as the greatest of men, the reader's mind has been brought by his reading to a state that makes him almost ready to admit it.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Telephone Manners.

What should our code of manners be when we converse over the wire? In the first place, we should avoid the violence that accompanies undue haste. We would not think of ringing the doorbell of a friend otherwise than gently; we would allow a reasonable length of time to elapse before ringing again, if our summons were not promptly answered. Why, then, should we rattle away at the telephone bell, or move the receiver up and down in a slashing, slam-bang style, which we should never think of using elsewhere? Truly, a summons of this sort must be very irritating to "central," and is not "central" in many cases a young woman of refinement? Occasionally we know "central" is an inattentive boy, whose slowness is exasperating to the summoner. Even in this case, is it not possible to be brisk and businesslike without being aggressive? We must never forget that we are dealing with people—not with a machine alone. Why should the fact of their invisibility make a difference in our behavior? Should we be less polite than the blind man, who can never see those with whom he converses?—Good Housekeeping.

PAINFUL PERIODS

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to have been the plan of nature that woman should suffer so severely. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most thorough female regulator known to medical science. It relieves the condition which produces so much discomfort and robs menstruation of its terrors.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular menstruation, backache, bloating (or flatulence), leucorrhœa, falling, inflammation or ulceration of the uterus, ovarian troubles, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences, and be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for further free advice. Thousands have been cured by so doing, and by the use of

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — I suffered for six years with dysmenorrhea (painful periods), so much so that I dreaded every month, as I knew it meant three or four days of intense pain. The doctor said this was due to an inflamed condition of the uterine appendages caused by repeated and neglected colds.

"If young girls only realized how dangerous it is to take cold at this critical time, much suffering would be spared them. Thank God for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that was the only medicine that helped me any. Within three weeks after I started to take it, I noticed a marked improvement in my general health, and at the time of my next monthly period the pain had diminished considerably. I kept up the treatment, and was cured a month later. I am like another person since. I am in perfect health, my eyes are brighter, I have added 12 pounds to my weight, my color is good, and I feel light and happy."—MISS AGNES MILLER, 25 Potomac Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: — A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did nothelpme. Iremembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine."—MRS. MAY HAULE, Edgerton, Wis., President Household Economics Club.

STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stock broker, Bank of Commerce building, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington today:

New York, July 29—Noon.—Dullness has prevailed to some extent throughout the forenoon session, and the general outlook is not for increased activity during the forenoon. There was a general setback during the first hour, but it was not pronounced, and the tone of the market might be considered fairly steady. During the second hour there was a slight betterment and prices advanced almost to the opening figures. The feature of the market has been the strength of the Metropolitan stocks, which is not explained either by the news developments or the gossip. Steel, preferred, reacted, and has recovered part of its loss, but the tendency of the stock seems to be towards lower prices. There has been good buying of Atchison on the break, but there is a good supply of it for sale. Sales to noon were 189,300 shares.

LOCAL LICENSES ALL RENEWED

Commissioners Hold a Meeting and Relieve the Tension in Local Liquor Matters.

The tension in local liquor matters was relieved today, when it was announced that at a meeting of the license commissioners it had been decided to renew all licenses in the city.

As is known, last May the commissioners refused to renew the local licenses, but instead granted an extension of three months to each license-holder. This extension expires on Aug. 4, and action had to be taken this week in the matter of the renewals.

At the meeting of the commissioners Chairman Reid and Messrs. Elliott and Rumball were present. The new license inspector, Mr. James Brown, has begun his duties.

SMITH SENT FOR TRIAL.

Chatham News: Jos. Smith, of Ridgetown, was committed for trial by Squire McKinley on the charge of stealing $60 from Sarah Brandon. He was arraigned yesterday morning and elected to be tried by the judge without a jury. The trial was set for Saturday. It is alleged that Smith promised to marry the girl, and they went to Detroit, where, after getting the $60, he deserted her." This is the man that Detective Rider arrested on the London market a day or two ago.

A basalt stele found by Rev. Mr. Scheil, a Roman Catholic priest, in the archeological museum at Constantinople, has on it an Assyrian inscription of King Nobonod, of the sixth century before Christ, telling of the destruction of Nineveh. No other record of the kind has ever been found.

Leave to Appeal Granted In Famous Saunby Case

Case Will Now Be Carried by Plaintiff to the Privy Council.

The important announcement was made today that the application in the case of Saunby vs. the water commission of London, for leave to appeal from the decision of the supreme court at Ottawa, has been granted by the Privy Council. Thus the water commissioners will be compelled to defend themselves once again, this time in England, against the action for damages instituted some years ago by Mr. Saunby.

The action dates back to 1897, when Mr. Saunby instituted proceedings, claiming damages from the water commission for maintaining flashboards on the waterworks dam, thereby backing the water up in the north branch, so that his dam was incapable of furnishing proper power to turn the wheel at his mill. The case hung fire until 1902, when it was tried before Judge Falconbridge at London, and a verdict in favor of the plaintiff was rendered, and the commissioners were ordered to remove the flashboards, and a reference was also made to the master in chancery to assess the damages, the defendant had suffered during the years the flashboards had been maintained.

The water commissioners appealed and carried the case to the court of appeal at Toronto, but the judgment given at London was upheld. Once again the commissioners refused to accept the verdict, and appealed to the supreme court at Ottawa. In this latter appeal the commissioners beat Mr. Saunby, and all appeared plain sailing for the commissioners. This was, however, reckoning without considering what Mr. Saunby might do.

Messrs. Hellmuth & Ivey, acting for the plaintiff, after considering the case, decided to appeal, and made application to the Privy Council, for leave to appeal, which has now been granted. Mr. Ivey said today to a reporter that in the face of all the facts, he felt thoroughly justified in carrying the case to the highest tribunal in the Empire. Of the ten judges who have passed upon the case in Canada, seven have been in favor of Mr. Saunby's contentions, the plaintiff having won in the trial at London and in the court of appeal at Toronto, but lost at Ottawa, though two of the five judges of the supreme court upheld the plaintiff's case, and one of the three judges who went against the defendant had stated that if it were within the power of the supreme court to do such a thing he would issue a mandamus guaranteeing the plaintiff damages against the commission.

The whole case is one of great interest to Londoners, involving, as it does, the expenditure of many thousands of dollars by the city in case Mr. Saunby wins his case. In speaking of the matter Mr. Ivey said today that Mr. Saunby's contention was based entirely on the fact that the city of London built the waterworks dam without the consent of the Government, and that therefore the commissioners were liable. He quoted from the minutes of the water commissioners of 1878 to show that it never had been intended to use a dam. At that time City Engineer Robinson said that he favored hydraulic power, but that he did not favor the changing of the plans, steam pumping having been provided for, because the commissioners would be taking too much responsibility upon themselves. Then, again, under the waterworks act of 1873, which was a special act secured by the city of London, the city did not secure power to construct a dam. The same year, however, the Government put through a general act giving water commissioners power to construct waterworks and perform such other works as might be deemed necessary to the construction of a proper waterworks system, and the city claims that the words quoted cover the building of the dam. Then, again, the city claims that the plaintiff is non-suited by the fact that he did not bring action within 20 years of the time the flash-boards were put on. The reply of Mr. Ivey to this is that the flash-boards were put on the dam in 1880, and action was brought against the city in 1897, or seventeen years later.

Mr. Ivey also points out that he has submitted as evidence the minutes of the proceedings of the water commissioners, which go to show that the flash-boards were put up in 1880, not by the commissioners for pumping purposes, but to accommodate the Thames Navigation Company, which then operated a line of boats on the river. The water, being very low, the boat owners agreed to pay a license of $25 per boat if the flash-boards were put up, and the water commissioners agreed to the proposition, although a clause was inserted that the Thames Navigation Company would be called upon to guarantee the city against all claims for damages which might be entered, as the result of the boards being placed on the dam. The same year the flash-boards were put up, and claims for damages were entered by Mr. Saunby, for alleged loss of power at his dam, and the secretary of the water commissioners was instructed to issue orders to have the flash-boards on the dam reduced a foot in height. Then claims for damages were presented by Messrs. Barrett and E. W. Harris, whose land, it was alleged, was flooded through the presence of the flash-boards, and in 1880 the city settled with Harris for the sum of $100.

"In short," said Mr. Ivey, "we base our claim on the fact that the dam was built without the permission of the Government, and that it was not constructed under the act, and we feel that as seven out of ten judges agreed with us in Canada, we stand a very good chance of winning in England."

It is understood that up to date each side to the suit has spent fully $3,000. If the city loses, it will mean that the water commissioners must either buy the Saunby property, or else remove the flash-boards. The boards are put on each spring, and are kept on the dam all summer. If they are removed, the city cannot secure the necessary power from the dam to pump water, and to run the steam pumps instead would mean an expenditure in coal alone of about $25 per day. As this would be a perpetual drain on the city, it is likely the commissioners would prefer to purchase the Saunby mill. It is understood that in such an event a price would be agreed upon by arbitration. Just what the price would be is difficult to say, but it is said that when Mr. Saunby purchased the place in 1878 he paid $58,000 for it.

STREET CAR MAN BADLY INJURED

Struck a Post While on the Step Collecting Fares—Had a Very Close Call.

Conductor Hector Stephen, of the street railway, was injured the other evening on the Spingbank line, and he is still unable to leave his home on Ontario street.

The posts come close to the cars along this line, and, especially when people are standing on the step, the conductor making his way along the side of the cars is in a dangerous position. This night the steps were crowded, and Stephen had much difficulty in collecting fares. Suddenly, as he attempted to reach another seat, a post struck him in the side and but for some passengers, who caught his arms, he would have been thrown off. He was pulled into the car and remained unconscious for some time. When the city was reached he soon came around. His first word was "transfers."

He was removed to his home and a physician was called. Stephen's side had been badly bruised and it was feared that he might be internally injured.

This is the second accident of the kind to happen on the street railway.

ACCEPTED CALL TO ST. ANDREW'S

Rev. Dr. Ross Informs Montreal Presbytery That He Will Come to London.

A special to The Advertiser from Montreal says that at a meeting of the Montreal Presbytery this morning Rev. Prof. Ross, of that city, accepted the call to the pastorate of St. Andrew's Church, London, and that he would shortly leave to take up his new work.

The call from the London church was prosecuted by Rev. A. J. MacGillivray, pastor of the new St. James Church here. The call contained the names of over 600 members of St. Andrew's and 200 others.

Representatives of the Montreal Presbyterian College, where Dr. Ross has been a professor for some years, expressed at the meeting their regret at the loss the institution was about to sustain.

The acceptance of the call by Dr. Ross was anticipated by the London congregation. The announcement that he had decided to come will be received by them with pleasure.

STEALING FLOWERS.

Park Commissioner Pearce has determined to offer a reward of $10 for information which will lead to the conviction of persons stealing flowers in the park. Last night a couple of pots were ruined and frequently beds are defaced by the vandals. Mr. Pearce declares that driving around in the park when band concerts are being held must be stopped, as the practice is dangerous. Rigs on band concert nights must also go the one way.

TABLES TURNED ON COMPLAINANT

Queer Outcome of an Abusive Language Case in the Police Court.

A respectable-looking colored woman was charged with using abusive language to another colored woman at the police court this morning. The evidence taken turned the tables on the complainant, and she was severely scored by the magistrate.

Last Sunday Mrs. Isabel Marshall went to church, and while returning, she met Mrs. Ruth Smith, the organist of the church. Mrs. Marshall alleged that Mrs. Smith said some unkind things when they met, but the latter and her husband stated that the complainant had done the abusive part.

The magistrate believed the defendant's version, and said he thought the complainant was the one against whom the charge should have been laid.

Several years ago Mrs. Marshall was bound over to keep the peace with Mrs. Smith, and she has appeared in court several times since. The magistrate said he believed Mrs. Marshall was insane in her attitude towards Mrs. Smith. He dismissed the case with costs.

One drunk paid $5 and George Donnelly, charged with being a vagrant, was remanded for a week.

WORK BEGUN ON SOUTH ST. BELT

Street Railway Company Is Losing No Time in Laying the Extension.

It is expected that work on the South street belt line extension will be begun by the London Street Railway Company without delay. Today the company had a gang of men distributing poles along South street, and the other streets upon which the new line is to be laid. All the streets are in a fair condition, and not much grading will be necessary. Some time ago City Engineer Graydon had plans of the intersection prepared, and these were handed to Manager Carr, who at once sent them away to have the necessary intersections made by the railmakers at once. Mr. Carr is out of town now, it is understood, on business in connection with the purchasing of supplies for the extension. The South street belt is to be completed by Oct. 20.

This morning one of the fire department horses was almost put out of business through slipping on the sidewalk in front of the central station. Chief Clark at once registered a complaint against the crossings, and will ask the board of works or No. 3 committee to replace them without delay. Certainly horses are too valuable nowadays to take chances on their breaking their legs on the present slippery crossing, which is merely a horse-trap.

Two aged men made application to Inspector McCallum today for passes out of town. One was sent to Chatham and the other to Woodstock. Considering the fact that the old men have no crimes chalked up against them, their exile to the places named appears cruel.

Today a colored man named Albert Smith, who has been appointed a dog catcher, called on Chief Clark, of the fire department, and wanted to buy a horse.

"Ain't got an old fellow who can step a few?" he asked the chief. "I want one that can dust himself when trouble happens."

"What do you mean?" asked the chief.

"Well, you see, boss," he said, "I am a dogcatcher, and sometimes when you pester a man's dog, you can't get a hump on any too soon. I want a horse that can dust."

The chief saw the wisdom of Mr. Smith's idea, but he had no horse to sell or loan. It is said Mr. Smith was anxious to secure the big black the chief drives.

Mrs. Harvey, a visitor of the Ontario department of neglected and dependent children, was in the city today, and called upon Inspector Sanders at the city hall.

Wm. Copp today took out a building permit for a 2-story brick residence on Beaconsfield avenue. Ed. Clement was also given a permit for a 1½-story brick residence on Duchess avenue.

Major Hays says the receipts of taxes this year on the first installment will be fully up to the amount received a year ago.

MARRIED SIXTY YEARS AGO

Interesting Anniversary Celebrated by a Worthy Couple.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Grigg, of Exeter, was yesterday the scene of an exceptionally interesting event, it being the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage, which took place at Marylebone Church, London, England, July 28, 1844.

The day was most happily spent by the old couple, as many of the family gathered to extend congratulations. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. McFaul, Seaforth; Mrs. Blaikie, of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs Samwell and Dr. and Mrs. Lutz, of Exeter; Mrs. Brown, sen., of Wroxeter; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Grigg, and son, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Grigg, of London; also Mrs. A. Walker, of London.

Many valuable presents were received by the worthy couple. The home was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants.

Speeches and music were indulged in, and not the least interesting speech of the day was that of the groom, who gave unmistakable evidence that although 84 years of age, his faculties are marvelously preserved.

After singing the doxology the company dispersed at a seasonable hour. It is safe to say the event was the first of the kind ever celebrated in Exeter.

ALLEGED THIEF CARRIED A GUN

Detective Rider Arrests Edward Burns on a Charge of Horse Stealing.

A man giving the name of Edward Burns, and his age as 22 years, was arrested on Talbot street this morning by Detective Rider. Burns is wanted at Windsor on a charge of stealing a horse, a buggy and a set of harness, and he will be taken back to that city to stand his trial.

The theft occurred about two weeks ago. The London police were first asked to be on the lookout for the thief on July 21, but until this morning they had been unable to do anything in the matter. A close description was given of the man, and it was from it that Detective Rider accosted the prisoner on Talbot street. The first thing the officer did was to ask Burns, who was walking leisurely along, what he had done with the horse that was stolen at Windsor. Burns gave an unsatisfactory answer, and when Detective Rider said he would have to take him to the lockup he showed signs of fight. The officer caught him by the coat-sleeve with one hand, but with a wrench Burns tore the sleeve almost to the elbow, and might have got away had not a couple of citizens held him until a handcuff was placed on his wrist.

At the police station Burns gave the name of Edward Wilson, later changing it. He claimed to belong to Windsor, but would say nothing further. The police do not look on Burns as being the average class of prisoner. They think he is a pretty hard customer. Burns had a new revolver, loaded, in his pocket, together with a box of cartridges, and he also had $16 50 in money. He declines to say anything about the stealing of the horse and rig at Windsor—if he does know anything about it. The police have learned that he arrived here on Saturday with an outfit, the rig of which is said to resemble in every particular the one stolen from Windsor. The horse, however, is not the same as was stolen at the border, and the police think that it is the one secured at Thamesville. Burns disposed of the outfit to a citizen here for $22 50, and a set of harness, and afterwards made an investment in a trunk. He wanted a much larger amount for the horse and buggy, but the Londoner declined to give him what he asked. The outfit is now in the possession of the police, who will hold it and Burns until the arrival of the Windsor officers.

FIGHTING FOR A NAME.

CHAPTER XLVII.

Ned was greatly distressed, for it was very hard, very sad, to see a proud, strong man weep with such abandonment.

"I hope I have not said anything to wound you, sir," he exclaimed, appealingly.

"No, no; but, my boy, you have conquered my hard old heart at last," he tremulously returned. "I've known, from the first time I met you, that you were made of grander stuff than the Heathertons ever possessed, for they have all been haughty and purse-proud, unless it was my dear wife; I can say no more to show you how I honor you. As for Vera, I would like her to be surrounded by love and sympathy, and something tells me that she would be happier with you and your mother—if you could consent to have her in your home. But I leave everything to your judgment. I have explained to her that her name is Heatherton, and she imagines that her father dropped the latter part of it because of some quarrel with me. Doubtless she will surmise that you are relatives, and you can tell her whatever you think best. And now," turning to Miriam with an appealing glance, "dare I ask you to pardon my past rudeness to you? I am appalled when I recall it."

"Pray do not make so much of it," Miriam interposed, with fast-dropping tears, for it was sad, indeed, to witness the proud man's deep humiliation, to realize how heart-broken he was over his only son's crimes, his grand-daughter's shame, and his own poverty; "and let me assure you," she added, "that both Ned and I will do all in our power to shield Miss Vera from sorrow or want."

He thanked her humbly, and then, the physician coming in, they arose to go, for he seemed very weary, but they promised to come again the next day to confer further with him.

Vera came to them in the parlor, just as they were going out, and thanked them for responding so promptly to the message which had been sent to them.

Mrs. Heatherton's heart went immediately out to the motherless and almost friendless girl, and she felt impelled to take her directly home, in spite of the fact that she was the child of the man who had so wronged her.

That night Mr. Heatherton experienced an unfavorable change, and he wandered in his mind until nearly morning.

Vera refused to leave him, and sat by his side for many long hours, while she learned from his rambling talk that there were dark secrets connected with her own and her father's lives of which she had never had a suspicion.

"Don't tell Vera," was the burden of the old man's cry; "she must never know, for it would break her heart."

"Don't tell Vera what?" she questioned, feeling as if all her strength was leaving her, and she seemed suddenly congealed to ice as the reply came back in a cautious whisper:

"That she isn't really a Heatherton after all, and be sure that she never suspects the awful truth about Dick."

That was enough to tell her that there was some mystery about her birth and that something dreadful had happened to her father, and she knew that she could never rest until it was all explained to her.

He was a little better the next day, and continued to improve for a week; but his physician said that he would never be well again, and advised his removal from the hotel to some more homelike place.

"What shall we do, mother?" Ned asked, when he had told her what the doctor said. "Neither of them has any friends, and, I fear, but very little money."

"Whatever you think best, Ned. I—I do not feel right to be using Mr. Lawson's money for ourselves, when his sister's husband and grandchild are in need," Miriam gravely responded.

"That is just my feeling," the noble fellow returned. "Shall we bring them home and care for them here? Would it be disagreeable to you to have Vera with us?"

"No; she is a sweet girl, Ned, and I think I could love her very dearly for herself," his mother answered.

He leaned forward and kissed her softly on the lips.

"You blessed woman!" he fondly murmured, "I'm sure there will be a crown of gold for you somewhere by and bye."

And thus Thomas Heatherton and Vera went to Mount Vernon street to live, where the young girl devoted herself entirely to the feeble old man during the few remaining weeks of his life.

He did not suffer much pain, but he grew very helpless and childish, and clung to Ned with the most touching fondness and confidence.

When at last he passed away both Ned and his mother felt very glad that they had done everything within their power to make him comfortable during those last days of his feebleness and necessity.

After their return from New York, where they went to lay him beside his wife, Vera sought Ned with a very grave but determined face.

"Mr. Heatherton," she said, lifting her clear, searching eyes to his, "while grandpa was ill and wandering he betrayed that there is some secret connected with my life and my father's absence. I did not like to trouble him when he was ill, so I have waited until now to ask what he meant, and—and please, I want you to tell me all about it."

Ned was both astonished and dismayed, and tried his best to evade her question.

But she was quietly firm and persistent.

"You cannot tell me that there is nothing that you are witholding from me, can you?" she asked.

Ned could not deny this, and finally confessed that Mr. Heatherton had confided a secret to him which he was unwilling she should know.

"Then tell me," she commanded, authoritatively. "I will know."

And he was forced to obey her, but he revealed the truth regarding her birth so gently and tenderly, and making her realize how dear she was becoming to him as a sister that much of the stin gwas taken out of the bitter truth.

But a harder trial was in store for him, for when the matter was all explained she abruptly asked:

"And now tell me where is my father?"

"What did Mr. Heatherton tell you regarding him?" Ned inquired, to gain time.

"That he was gone on a long journey; is that the truth? If so, where, and why?"

"Do not ask me; I cannot tell you," Ned said, firmly, but deeply troubled.

"But I must know. I shall be unhappy all my life if I have to live in suspense," Vera cried, a sharp agony in her voice. "I know—I feel that there is something dreadful about it. It is very strange that papa should go away when we needed him so much, and you must tell me."

Still Ned demurred; he could not bring himself to reveal that the man whom she so trusted and loved was occupying a felon's cell.

Premier Prize of Big Bowling Tourney Captured by McDougall's London Rink

Labatt Trophy Will Come to the Forest City.

Gosnell's Rink From Blenheim Figured in the Final Game.

Victory Was Apparently Easy One —Association Match Nearing Its Finish—Other Events.

To the London Rowing Club falls the honor of winning the premier event of the premier bowling tournament of Canada. The rink known as the "Big Four,p" skipped by J. S. McDougall, went victoriously through the semi-finals and finals yesterday, and the Labatt trophy, the pride of the W. O. B. A. tournament will grace the shelves of the home club for a year at least. The McDougall rink played seven games, and won them all. From the first they were looked upon as formidable, and the victory was not a great surprise—much as it was a popular one. The rink of R. L. Gosnell, of Blenheim, were the runners-up. While they did not do as well as might have been expected in the final game, they certainly deserve credit for their many hard fights to reach the last round.

The semi-finals in the big match came off in the morning. They were between R. L. Gosnell, Blenheim, and

Dr. Hunter, of Goderich, and J. McDougall, of the London Rowing Club, and Fred Davis, of Goderich. The result was not in doubt at any period. The McDougall and Gosnell rinks pulled ahead of their opponents from the start and the majorities in both cases were long ones. The London rink had an advantage of 13 points, while Gosnell, of Blenheim, stood 11 ahead of his opponents. The match was concluded shortly after 1 o'clock.

With the idea that better could be done after a good lunch, the rinks left in the contest agreed to meet for the battle of the tournament at 3 o'clock. On No. 3 green in the upper series. Word of this was passed around quickly and by the time the game was commenced, about 3:30, the green was literally banked with people who were anxious to witness the match. The theory that bowling was not an interesting game for the spectators seemed to be disproved. A large number of those who witnessed the struggle were ladies, and they applauded eagerly when good shots were made—and they seemed to know when a shot was good.

To the strains of "Big Indian Chief," the first bowl was put. It seemed as if the music was asking who would be the "Big Chief," and Skip McDougall started out to give a rather definite answer in the first three ends. Seven points were made, and playing like this is inclined to discourage the "down" men. By the fifth round the locals had gained three more, giving them a clear lead of nine. Blenheim secured two in the fifth and sixth, and two more in the seventh, but McDougall landed a quartet of bowls nearest to the "kitty" in the eighth. This made fourteen points, and a lead of ten. On each of the next four ends the visiting rink scored a point. Then in the fourteenth and fifteenth they secured eight points and two in the seventeenth. This made them fourteen in all. They could not have made up the lead of nine in the last end, and so the game was called. McDougall and his men and the runners-up were cheered, and both deserved it fully. The rinks and scores were as follows:

London Rowing.	Blenheim.

The victory of Jim McDougall in the Labatt trophy match will be heard of with delight by the bowlers of London, and especially by those connected with the London Rowing Club. Every member of the McDougall rink has been connected with the Rowing Club for several years, and all have done their share of the work necessary to bring it to the prominent place it now occupies. This, however, is particularly the case with Jim McDougall, who for a number of years was secretary of the London Rowing Club, and in that capacity had much to do with the success of the early tournaments held under the auspices of the Western Ontario Lawn Bowling Association.

"Here's to Jim" is what every lover of the game will say.

In Ed Weld, William Lind and John Stevenson, Jim McDougall had a combination which it would be hard to beat, no matter where one went.

Dick Gosnell, the Blenheim skip, who went down before the London four, is a past president of the W. O. B. A., and is one of the earnest skips that ever conducted a game. He never loses courage, no matter how the score may stand, and puts up a vigorous fight to the last. He has been coming to the London tournaments for about nine years, but although always close to the winner he has never yet had the good fortune to land the trophy. This was the same with President Jackson last year being the first in nine that he got a half-nelson on the prize mug. There are very few of the "quitting" variety among bowlers, and it is men like McDougall, Gosnell and Jackson who inspire them to stay with the game.

Having dealt with the day's feature, it is not amiss to deal with the tournament generally. Save for a short time in the morning, when it rained, there was nothing to prevent steady playing all day. The sixth round in the association match was entered, and the finals will be reached and played by tonight. The consolation and novice matches were proceeded with. Even the doubles and singles are now going on nicely. The attendance of citizens at the greens was the largest since the tournament began, and the greens never presented as lively an appearance as they did yesterday. Towards the evening a number of the rinks left for home, but none went before expressing their thanks to some of the officials for the good time which they had. "We'll be back next year," was generally the concluding remark.

Six strong rinks are to play today in the association match, which may be concluded tonight. Dr. Alexander, London Rowing Club, is the local representative, and there are three other medical men in the fight. All of the rinks have made reputations for themselves at this tournament, and the best rink is bound to win.

Nineteen rinks are in the novice match, and this event promises to be quite as interesting as some of the others. A rink losing here has no other match to look forward to.

The team winning the doubles will have a long row to hoe. In the first round there were 184 players, and the winners will have to play a good number of games before they can claim the prize. The games are not long, however, and it is not likely that the this match will keep the tournament waiting.

In all earnestness, the singles also started today. Nearly every player who is staying over is entered, and this match will likely not be concluded until late on Saturday.

To have bowled more years than any other man in Canada, and to play second in a trophy-winning four, is the distinction Mr. William Lind possesses. He commenced bowling in Scotland, when he was 22, and at present he is 64 years of age. At this rate, Mr. Lind has bowled for 42 years, and he is good for a good many more matches yet although he says he now intends to retire. Such good men as him should keep right with the game. It needs them.

President Jackson did a handsome little act yesterday afternoon. For some time he was noticed going around among the "white-wings," and the clink of coin was generally heard. It was rumored that the happy-looking director of the association's affairs had lost his ticket, and was throwing himself upon charity. "Dick" Sparrowhawk, the caretaker, gave the lie to this story, however. Mr. Jackson had been making up a nice little purse, and he handed it in a bunch to "Dick" as a recognition of his splendid services. No one could have been more thoughtful, or deserving, and there was no bowler but who was glad to contribute.

"Yes, this tournament beats the Royal Canadian at Toronto," said Mr. J. S. Willison, the well-known editor, who is one of many newspapermen interested in the grand game. Mr. Willison believed that numbers was not the only respect in which it excelled. He has attended a good many tournaments here, but this is the king-pin.

None have worked harder than Mr. Sam Loughrey, the hustling dispenser of lemonade and orange phosphate, in the cafe on the second floor. It takes a lot of work to quench the thirsts of three hundred bowlers on a warm day.

Bowling, like baseball, has its southpaws, and there are quite a number at the tournament this year. The man who uses his left hand does not appear to be at a disadvantage, either.

It is probable that before the tournament closes a committee will be appointed to negotiate with American bowlers in the large cities, and endeavor to promote the idea of holding an international tourney in this city next year. President Jackson, like many others, thinks Western Ontario might as well take the first step, and he intends to push the matter.

DONOVAN PLAYING A SPENDID GAME

Patsy Does Sensational Fielding and More Than His Share of Batting.

The Washington Star speaks thus of "Patsy" Donovan, of the Senators, formerly of the London International nine: "Manager Donovan has been playing grand ball for the Senators. His sensational fielding the past week was one of the features, and he made ten hits in the seven games. Donovan has a tough field to cover and no one acquainted with that fact has anything but kindly feelings for him if a fly ball gets away from him, for the sun is blinding and stares the fielder in the face during the entire game. Donovan has made a happy family out of the team. There is not the least friction, and that certainly counts for something. He does not censure a player for making a mechanical error, and if he makes a dumb play he is told how to do better the next times the opportunity offers. An incident in Saturday's first game showed what a little thing will do. McCormick slipped into the plate and got away from Buelow. Donovan was at his side when Barry got up and patted Barry on the back and praised him for pulling off the clever play. Barry was pleased that he scored, but he felt even better when his manager was there to show his appreciation before the multitude of eyes.

"Manager Donovan is a terror at the bat. Not that he is a hard hitter. Quite the contrary. As soon as he takes his place the fielders change their positions and never know where P. J. is going to chop the ball. Sometimes he turns the infield upside down with a grounder, and has often dumped one over their heads. It was such batting that made Muggsy McGraw and Willie Keeler famous, and no batting alarms a team in the field more than this chop hitting, for it usually rattles the infield and opens the way for a rally. Donovan is so fast on his feet that he beats out numerous infield hits.

LAJOIE STILL AT TOP OF LIST

Heads the American League Batters With a Total of 183 Bases.

Napoleon Lajoie, captain of the Cleveland Blues, not only leads the American League in batting and number of hits, but also in total bases secured on hits. Larry's record is 86 singles, 29 doubles, 9 triples and 3 home runs, his total of bases being 183. "Buck" Freeman is second with 152, "Buck" leading the league in triples. Next to Freeman come Bradley and Hickman, of the Blues, with 143 and 134 bases. Parent and Harry Davis are tied for fifth honors, Davis leading the league in home runs, having knocked the ball over the fence eight times.

Manager Fielder Jones, of Chicago, leads the league in sacrifice hits, having made a martyr of himself twenty-five times. Billy Lush, of Cleveland, is second, and then come Former Manager Callahan, of the White Sox, Carr and Isbell. Bradley is Cleveland's second sacrifice hitter.

In the team record of sacrifice hits, Chicago leads with Cleveland second. The four western teams lead in sacrifices, the eastern second, not paying so much attention to this department of the game.

The Clevelanders, Flick and Bay, lead the league in stolen bases, Flick having a lead of one over the "Silver." Green, of Chicago, and Heidrick, of St. Louis, are tied for third place. Hemphill and Lajoie following in order. In team work in stealing bases, the west again leads, Chicago having the best record and Cleveland second. Boston is last.

When it comes to preventing the opposing base-runners from purloining bases, Eddie McFarland, the Cleveland boy with Chicago, is the premier, only thirteen bases having been stolen on him in 24 games. Kleinow, of New York, the backstop that Griffith secured from Toledo, is next best in this respect, with Powers, Sullivan, Criger Farrell, Bemis and Kahoe also showing up well. Drill of the Senators has been the easiest proposition to steal on. In the individual stolen base and sacrifice record only those who have made five sacrifices or have stolen base are given. In the team record, the tie games which do not appear in figuring a team's percentage, are included.

SOUNDS LIKE A JOKE.

New York, July 28.—A story is current that "Bad Bill" Dahlen, of the New York National League, and one of the best infielders on the diamond today, has decided to quit baseball, and, following "Bill" Sunday's example, become an exangelist. There is a question whether the story is told seriously or is in the nature of a joke, and Dahlen is mum on the subject.

WOULDN'T PART WITH HANS.

Pittsburg, July 28.—The owners of the Brooklyn Club have made an offer to the Pittsburg Club for Hans Wagner, the famous shortstop of the thrice champions. They have offered Babb, Virgil Garvin and $2,500 in cash for the big fellow, and failing on the first try have made offers of a third player. Regarding the case Mr. Dreyfuss says: "I would not give Wagner for the entire Brooklyn team. This may seem like an extravagant expression, but I mean it."

For Travelers' Picnic.

BELTZ'S

TOMORROW IS DRUMMERS' DAY

Every Arrangement Completed for Their Big Picnic at Port Stanley.

The Travelers' picnic, that outing of all outings, which annually draws thousands of merry-makers to the lakeside, will be held at Port Stanley tomorrow, and if attention to every detail and elaborate preparations count for anything the picnic this year will be the greatest that has been. Time and money have been almost squandered by the jolly drummers to make the picnic grander and better than before, and from the beautiful banners, which decorate the store windows of London, telling the people the date of the outing, to the elaborately gotten up programme of the day's doings, the excellent taste of the executive is demonstrated, and each and everything carries with it a promise for a splendid day's sport.

Tomorrow morning the drummers will meet at the Travelers' Club and will form in a procession. Then, led by the magnificent band of the Seventh Regiment, under the leadership of Bandmaster Hiscott, they will march to the Grand Trunk depot, where they will entrain for Port Stanley, and the day's fun will then begin.

First a baseball match for a silver cup presented by Mr. W. H. Grenfell will be pulled off on Erie Flats, and after luncheon the sports programme will be carried out. Though there are many worthy events on the programme, the travelers pin their faith to the baby show and the spinsters' race. "Keep your eyes peeled for these events," the drummers say.

The events are as follows: 1—100 yards race, travelers only, handicapped; 2—75 yards four-legged race, badge holders only; 3—100 yards, over 200 pounds, subscribers, travelers only; 4—25 yards, sack somersault race, open; 5—21st century golf competition; 6—All aboard race, travelers only; 7—Fancy drill; 8—50 yards ladies' race, over 16 years of age; 9—50 yards girls' race, under 16 years of age; 10—50 yards boys' race, under 15 years of age; 11—100 yards championship race, open to all travelers in Dominion; 12—50 yards ladies' sailor hat race; 13—50 yards spinsters' race (special entries to be made to the secretary. A special prize of $25 will be given to winner, if married on the grounds at the picnic), 14—Wheelbarrow race; 15—Rolling the barrel; 16—Judges' race, 50 yards; 17—Baby show; 18—Greasy pig.

In the evening there will be a concert by the Seventh Band, and there will also be a quartet present which will render some splendid vocal numbers. At 8:30 Tony Cortese's orchestra will supply music for dancing in the pavilion. By way of side lines there will also be an assault-at-arms and a slack wire performance.

This year's souvenir programme contains many pithy jokes concerning local travelers, and also photos of many members of the club. On the outside cover is a Pere Marquette coach filled with drummers and their families on their way to the lakeside, and on the inner covers are engravings of the Travelers' Club rooms in the Masonic Temple.

The travelers' uniform for the day has been agreed upon, and will consist of white duck trousers and white bowler hats.

GETTING READY FOR THE FAIR

A Number of Improvements Are Being Made in Several of the Buildings.

Supt. Brown is having many changes made at the Western Fair grounds these days. This year the various newspapers will have their offices in what will be known as the Press building, running east along the north side of the King street entrance. Each paper will have a separate office. The Advertiser being the second office from the east end of the building. The change will prove a pleasant one for the newspapermen, as the tents used in former years were very inconvenient.

Alongside the newspaper offices will be the telegraph and telephone offices, and the small building last used by the Bell Telephone Company for its agency, will be converted into a ticket office.

Last year some of the cattle men complained that there was not sufficient ventilation in the sheds, and this year the board, always anxious to meet the wishes of the exhibitors, is having many new ventilators put in. All the other buildings are also being gone over, so that they will be in first-class condition when the fair opens in September.

On Dundas street, in front of the ticket offices, a splendid cement walk, fully 20 feet wide, has been put down, and is a great improvement.

MAIN BUILDING NEEDS NEW ROOF

Fair Board Asks City To Do the Work—Will Cost $1,000—Referred to Council.

The board of works last night discussed the pros and cons of an application made by Mr. J. A. Nelles, secretary of the Western Fair Association, to have the main building reroofed, the present metallic shingles being next to useless. The engineer reported that it would take nearly 200 squares of shingles to do the job, and this would mean an expenditure of not less than $1,000.

Chairman Wyatt stated emphatically that the board of works had no money for such purposes, and the other members asked why the fair board does not make such repairs as this. After some further discussion it was decided to refer the matter to the city council, though the opinion was expressed that the city council would be doing what is right if it agreed to pay one-half the cost of reshingling the roof.

Engineer Graydon reported re the petition of Caleb Hurkett, et al., that Hill street, between Colborne and Waterloo is in a bad condition, and that he will see it is graveled, and the ditches on either side properly cleaned.

It was decided to refuse the request of the petitioners, who asked to have the sidewalk on the west side of Wellington street, between Horton and Hill streets, moved out to the outside of the boulevard, as it was thought such action would injure the appearance of the street, and would also be detrimental to the interests of storekeepers on the street.

The engineer was authorized to let contracts for a cement curb and gutter on Hellmuth avenue and College streets, and also on John street, between Talbot and St. George.

The matter of letting the contract for the cleaning and painting of King street bridge was left to the chairman and engineer to deal with.

HEATED DEBATE IN THE HOUSE

The Appointment of Mr. Jackson Discussed and a Snap Vote Taken.

Ottawa, July 28.—The Opposition succeeded, by springing an amendment unexpectedly today, in getting a snap vote in which the Government majority was 27. The division occurred in a slim House upon an academic amendment offered by Mr. R. L. Borden to the motion to go into supply, which the Government supporters either had to accept or reject without an opportunity to offer an amendment to the amendment. The debate was introduced by Mr. W. A. Bennett, who denounced the appointment as commercial agent in England of Mr. J. B. Jackson, formerly of Ingersoll, who was a prominent figure in the South Oxford provincial election trial. Mr. Bennett quoted from the evidence and comments of the judges to show that Mr. Jackson should not have received an appointment as a representative of the Dominion in the mother country. Sir Richard Cartwright assumed the sole responsibility and blame, if there was any blame, for the appointment, and exonerated his colleagues in the cabinet. While not defending Mr. Jackson's indiscretions, he contended that he had not done anything to render himself liable to the law, and that there was no difference morally between Mr. Jackson paying for evidence and respectable and honorable gentlemen in the Conservative party advertising that they would pay rewards for evidence which would unseat Liberal candidates who carried their ridings. Mr. R. L. Borden condemned Sir Richard for his inability to find any more forcible language than "indiscreet" to describe Mr. Jackson's conduct in seeking to procure evidence true or false. There never was a more damnable doctrine more unblushingly avowed, said Mr. Borden, than that preached by Sir Richard in this connection. One Government supporter, Mr. Erb, South Perth, voted in the minority. In supply items aggregating $2,250,000 were voted for the public works department.

HUNTING THE SEA OTTER

Quebec, July 29. — The demands of fashion and of sport and the innate love of destruction threaten the extermination of the beautiful sea otter. Many years before the settlement of California by the Americans, Russian fur traders had trading and hunting posts along the coasts of Upper and Lower California for the purpose of securing the pelts of these animals.

The enormous beds of kelp found along these shores were adapted to the habits of this otter, which fed on the sea urchins and shellfish abounding in these sea meadows. In early times, otter were plentiful on the coasts of California, Oregon, Queen Charlotte and Vancouver Islands and the south coast of Alaska, and they were especially abundant throughout the Aleutian and Kurile Islands.

In the last quarter of a century there has been a great scarcity of these beautiful skins, which have come only from a single point off the coast of Washington and from the islands to the south of Behring Sea.

In hunting the otter the natives of these northern islands employ frail skin canoes, called bidarkas, somewhat resembling the kayaks of the Esquimaux. The natives of the Aleutians and the Kuriles are very expert with the spear, which is thrown with a hand board. A number of bidarkas, with two men in each, go in company, and when the game is sighted the canoes form in a half-circle behind the other, and all the hunters who are near enough throw a spear. Then the otter dives, but as the movements of the animal are slow the light skin canoes of the hunters can easily overtake it.

The otter often doubles and comes up behind the hunters, when the canoes again form and the hunters throw their spears whenever the animal rises to the surface to breathe.

Kept under water so much, the otter becomes exhausted and stays longer and longer on the surface, and the hunters are able to approach nearer, until the victim is struck with a dart, when its doom is sealed.

The habits of the sea otter are peculiar. They seldom go to land; in fact never except during the severe storms, when they sometimes take refuge on outlying rocks and reefs in the ocean. Unlike the seal they do not bear their young upon the land, but give birth to them at sea. The pup is taken upon the breast of its mother, who floats lightly upon her back as a favorite position.

THOSE ITALIAN LABORERS

Another Case of Wholesale Fleecing Is Unearthed.

Quebec, July 28. — The Italian labor troubles have been transferred from Montreal to Quebec. This morning a gang numbering two hundred Italian laborers arrived by the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company boat Beaupre, in charge of a man who hired them to work at Seven Islands. On their arrival they were met by a fellow countryman, who advised them not to go to Seven Islands. An altercation followed, which for a time looked serious.

When the C. P. R. interpreter, Mr. John Theodore, who happened to be in the vicinity, stepped in to learn the cause of the trouble, and the Italians told him they paid an agency in Montreal $2 each, and the man now in charge of them $4 50 for their passage to Quebec, with the understanding that they were to receive work. Mr. Theodore was loud in his condemnation of the conduct of the man in charge, who charged a first-rate passage and only afforded a steerage accommodation, thus pocketing $3 from each of the two hundred men.

The boss threatened to shoot Theodore when the police were called. He was arrested, but not before he had thrown away firearms.

The prisoner will be given a hearing at the police court today. In the meantime the Italians are in an excited state of mind at the uncertainty of their prospects.

PUTS END TO TIPPING

The Master of Skibo Attacks an Ancient Custom.

New York, July 29. — Andrew Carnegie has horrified London, but he has accomplished something in the way of reform, according to information just received by New York friends of the master of Skibo Castle, that England never before has been able to bring about. He has abolished the ancient custom of "tips" for the servants of his household and by so doing has infringed an almost legendary custom. English society is aghast, say his friends here, for "tipping" has come to be regarded in exclusive society circles as a necessary evil and long has been considered a fixed system.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie are lavish entertainers. When a visitor arrives in their home he is assigned a footman, valet and a coachman. If the guest is a woman she is given a maid and a hair dresser. It has been customary for visitors on taking their leave to "tip" these personal attendants from $2 to $5 apiece.

Mr. Carnegie has decided this system is pernicious and tends to demoralize his employes, and accordingly has stopped it.

The retinue of servants at Skibo is remarkable, according to a friend of the Carnegies who has just returned from abroad. Each guest, if he wishes, may have ten servants. Twelve gardeners keep in order the sweep of green terraces around the castle, while eight footmen stand in the dining-room every night and do nothing but pour champagne.

ARABIA AT VLADIVOSTOCK

American Leased Ship Caught With Contraband Aboard.

Vladivostock, July 29. — The German steamer Arabia, under charter of an American Company, which was captured by the Russian cruiser Gromoboi, July 22, 100 miles north of Yokohama, has arrived here in charge of a prize crew.

That portion of the steamer's cargo which is alleged to be contraband, comes from Portland, Ore. The Arabia, with two other ships of the Hamburg-American Company, is under charter for three years to the American Trading Company which, it is asserted, is engaged in carrying contraband.

She is commanded by Captain Bahle, and has a crew of ten Germans and 27 Chinese. According to statements by Chinese, many American steamers are engaged in carrying contraband.

The Arabia left Portland July 22 with a cargo of flour and railroad material. The greater portion of the flour, 2,706 tons, is addressed to Hong Kong, and is not liable to seizure, but 466 tons of flour and 542 tons of railway material are addressed to Yokohama, Kobe and Nagaski, and consequently are contraband. The iron of the cargo consists of platform wheels, axles, boilers, and parts of bridges. As the contraband or war aboard the Arabia forms less than half her cargo, the vessel herself is not liable to seizure. After the contraband has been discharged, therefore, the ship will probably be released. The final decision as to her disposition rests with the prize court.

The prize crew on board consisted of Lieut. Vladislade and 42 men from the cruiser Gromoboi.

KILLED A WHITECAPPER

Wife of a Negro Being Ill Treated Shoots With Fatal Effect.

Houston, Texas, July 29. — A gang of masked men parading as whitecappers, early this morning terrorized a negro suburb. Three negroes were dragged from their homes and beaten. At the last shanty the wife of the negro who was taken opened fire with a shotgun loaded with lead slugs. One of the party named Larremore was killed and others were wounded.

The mob returned the fire, but the woman escaped. An inquest was held over the body today, and the killing will likely result in the discovery of the maskers and in their prosecution. The negroes punished were regarded as harmless. Race prejudice was the only excuse for the outrages.

THE GAELIC WARNED

Steamer Ordered to Await Orders at Midway Islands.

San Francisco, July 29. — The Occidental and Oriental Steamship Company's steamer Gaelic, Capt. Brown, now en route from this port to Japan and China, has been warned of the presence of the Vladivostock fleet in the Pacific. The vessel left here on July 16. When she touched at Honolulu, her captain was apprised by cable of the condition of affairs in the Orient, and was ordered to stop at Midway Island to await further orders by cable.

The Gaelic is expected to arrive at Midway today or tomorrow. She is carrying a cargo of merchandise valued at $333,000, and her treasure box contains silver bullion valued at $247,800. The large consignment of flour is destined for neutral ports in the Orient. For Japan she is carrying 66 rolls of leather, 600 cases of alcohol and a miscellaneous assortment of new merchandise.
