Ready-to-Wear TailoredSuits

Two years ago we did not dream of the proportions to which the trade in Ready-to-Wear Suits was to advance so rapidly. To-day we are carrying a stock of Ready-to-Wear Suits of which any store in any city five times our size might well be proud. We have been careful in selecting our stock and have only bought the best values such manufacturer had to offer. That is why we now bear the reputation of having the best assortment and best values in Suits in this vicinity. Of our many styles these are good samples:—

For $4.00—Made of good heavy Frieze, unlined, in black and oxford, flare flounce and liberally stitched with silk.

For $5.75—Made of good all-wool Frieze, in black and oxford, with flare flounce trimmed with a d. of black moire, very stylish.

For $7.50—Made of Zibeline Camel's Hair Cloth in oxford gray, with flounce tucked and trimmed with black moire silk, the newest.

For $5.00—Made of good all-wool Frieze, flare flounce closely tucked, also tucked yoke, in black and oxford, very special value.

For $6.00—Made of heavy Cheviot Serge in black and navy, with three circular flounces, stylishly trimmed with velvet piping.

For $10.00—Made of fine heavy Ladies' Cloth in black and navy, with three circular flounces, stylishly trimmed with velvet piping.

HER CASE HOPELESS

Brussels, Sept. 14.—The Sior says the condition of Marie Henriette, Queen of the Belgians, is hopeless and that King Leopold will probably be obliged to shorten his visit at Bagneres-de-Luchon, France, in consequence.

Queen Marie Henriette has long been ill with a malady of the heart. She is at Spa and it was reported from there last Thursday that the queen had been seized by a severe attack of asthma.

NO BITTERNESS AGAINST BOERS

Amongst the British Residents of Natal—An Afrikaner Bond.

Compensation to Loyalists—Boers Expect to be Received by Dutch Queen.

The Hague, Sept. 13.—The departure from Holland of the Boer Generals, Botha, De Wet and Delarey, has been postponed. According to a rumor in Boer circles, the generals expect to be received by Queen Wilhelmina who opens the Dutch Parliament Sept. 16.

DIDN'T STICK TO TRUTH.
Durban, Sept. 13.—The reasons given by General Botha, who is now in Europe, for leaving Natal are said here to be absolutely unfounded. There is no trace of British bitterness against the Boers; on the contrary, the reverse is true. It is probable that General Botha's true reason was his fear of the resentment of the natives.

AN AFRIKANDER BOND
is being formed at Lorenzo Marquez, the capital of Portuguese East Africa, and it is stated that many Portuguese are joining it. The movement is so strong that a journal to advance the interests of the Bond is projected.

DEMAND THE DUTY.
A curious sequel has followed the recent fire at Lorenzo Marquez, which destroyed much property on the wharves and in their vicinity. The Portuguese customs officials are demanding that the consignees pay the duties on the goods that were destroyed before they had passed the customs house and reached the hands of the consignees.

TWO MILLION TO LOYALISTS.
Johannesburg, Sept. 13.—It is officially stated that the grant of £2,000,000 fixed by the terms of the Boer surrender will be paid out of the Imperial exchequer. There will also be paid from the same source £2,000,000 as compensation to British subjects, foreigners who did not break neutrality, and Kaffirs in both colonies, and to assist in the restoration of their homes and help them to start work again.

AWFUL TRAGEDY

Thresher Throws a Boy into the Machine and is Lynched by Fellow Workmen.

Newaygo, Mich., Sept. 13.—E. D. Shaw, publisher of the Newaygo Republican, says it is rumored that while a gang of threshers was at work on a farm in Otis, this county, the bond-cutter accidentally cut the feeder's hand, and that the feeder instantly grabbed the cutter, a boy, and threw him into the machine, and that he was ground to pieces. The gang immediately stopped the machine, and seizing the murderer, fastened a rope around his neck and hanged him on the spot. Mr. Shaw could give no names, and says he has made every effort to verify the rumor, but cannot. He doubts the veracity of it. It is impossible to verify the rumor.

IS CONVALESCENT

King Edward Again Leading a Strenuous Life—Deer Stalking in Scotland.

London, Sept. 13.—With the arrival of King Edward and Queen Alexandra at Balmoral, His Majesty's convalescence is officially declared to be complete. The fact that the King has already indulged in deer stalking, and is now busy with grouse driving, coupled with the departure of the Queen for Coppenhall next week, indicates the confidence of those in attendance on his Majesty that his health is fully restored. Indeed, the King is enjoying better health than for years. The yachting tour of their Majesties around the English and Scotch coasts was a lazy, drifting cruise, stopping at many spots hitherto unvisited by them. Their reception everywhere demonstrated the personal popularity of their Majesties.

London, Sept. 13.—This was especially noticeable in regard to Queen Alexandra. Scarcely a day passed without recording a pleasing incident of the Queen's womanly tact.

Miss O'Hara will sing at the coronation "At Home" in Christ Church Sunday school to-morrow evening.

METEORIC ORB OF GRANDEUR ILLUMINATED THE HEAVENS

Residents of the Maple City Were Astounded by the Gorgeous Spectacle at an Early Hour This Morning—It Was Comet-like in Appearance.

A heavenly meteoric body of the tower description, passing over the city, gave the early risers this morning a spectacle of a life-time.

"It was the grandest sight I ever saw," said Engineer Hugh Murphy, of the Beaver Mills, to The Planet. "I was coming to work about twenty minutes to six this morning when suddenly I noticed a very bright light shining in the heavens. I got out on the road to get a good view of it. The head seemed about the size of a flour barrel.

"It was going at a most terrific rate and left behind it a tail that gave light for seventeen minutes as I timed it.

"The object was travelling from north to south.

"I've seen meteors and shooting stars," concluded Mr. Murphy, "but nothing to come anywhere near the grandeur of that."

The night engineer at the mills was out on the street and thought the light was that of the engine room on fire.

"I was in the tower at the time it passed over," said A. Webster, the watchman at the G. T. R. diamond, and it was so bright and stayed for so long I really thought the heavens had opened. I don't know how to explain it; it was a magnificent sight to see. The sky was clear and the sun had just started to show himself a little above the horizon. If it had been at night it would have shown up even more brilliantly.

Mrs. Thos. Groves, Sylvester Blonde and Mr. Gervais, Joseph St., saw the meteor. Mr. Gervais gives a good description of the mysterious appearance. He says it was a magnificent sight, like a ball of fire and ran zig-zag through the heavens. It was like a serpent of fire and the spectacle was very thrilling and awe-inspiring.

Fireman "Bob" Coyle wasn't in the tower at the time it passed over, but says he has often seen strange lights in the night passing over and lighting up the city.

"There was a young fellow from Toronto talking about it this morning," said Bob. "He had been putting in a good time yesterday and had just come out of the Waldorf-Astoria (a barn) where he had spent the night and was feeling very squamish, as if he didn't care whether he lived or died, when the meteor passed over. It lasted so long and coming on him all of a sudden he was sure he had seen that all his bad deeds came up before him and he was beginning to repent and feel very unhappy when it was all over and he was still on this cold, cruel earth."

Al. Merrill was another of the lucky individuals who saw the beautiful spectacle this morning. In describing it he says: "It seemed like a large ball of fire with a head the size of a bucket, and went skimming across the sky leaving a white, smoky streak about 18 inches wide, which I could see for twenty minutes after. The distance between it and the earth could not be judged very well, as it seemed to be going straight through the air could be plainly heard. It seemed to be going straight until it reached the C. P. R. and then it went zig-zag just like a rail fence. It was the most beautiful sight I have ever seen," concluded Mr. Merrill.

Napoleon Larin, better known as Frenchy, sees things in the appearance of that meteor this morning. Mr. Larin says that his grandfather saw just such a meteor before the battle of Waterloo. His father saw a similar heavenly disturbance just before the outbreak of the Crimean war. Frenchy saw the phenomenon this morning, and he believes that it forecasts war between England and the United States, as the meteor went from east to west.

THE YOUNG LAD WAS MURDERED

Charles King, the Hired Man, Arrested and Confessed the Crime.

A Sensational Tragedy in Ald-borough Township—Was Jealous of the Boy.

St. Thomas, Ont., Sept. 13.—The little village of Bismarck was stirred up to a high pitch of excitement this afternoon, caused by the arrest and confession of a murderer just a few miles from that place.

Chief Detective John A. Murray, of Toronto, accompanied by Drs. Larin and Duncombe, of this city, left for Bismarck at 7 o'clock this morning with the intention of having the body of little Willie Freeman (who, it was supposed, died from wounds received from a shot gun while in the act of playing with the same last Monday) exhumed and a post-mortem held to be used at the adjourned inquest on Monday.

Detective Murray immediately started an investigation of the suspicious circumstances surrounding the tragedy, and as a result, at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon placed Charles King, a man employed as a laborer upon the Freeman farm, under arrest charged with the murder of Willie Freeman, who is the 15-year-old and the adopted son of Daniel Freeman, a farmer living about three miles from Bismarck.

Shortly after the arrest, King confessed. He said he did not know that the gun was loaded.

When Detective Murray told the prisoner that his story regarding the accidental shooting of the lad was most improbable, King collapsed and made a clean breast of the whole thing. He said that he committed the crime because he was jealous of the boy and that if he could rid himself of him he might enjoy many privileges that were now denied him.

In relating the story of the shooting the murderer said that while the little fellow was out playing in the drive shed, he stole up-stairs, and resting the gun on the floor, aimed at Willie's eye and pulled the trigger. He then ran out and told the boy's parents the concocted accidental story.

The prisoner is an Englishman, 25 years of age, and came to work for the Freeman's six years ago. He was brought to this city on a freight train arriving about 6 o'clock, and did not appear to be much agitated.

Crown Attorney D. J. Donahue deserves much credit for the capable manner in which he has handled the case. He was the first to observe the suspicious circumstances attached to the tragedy.

Dr. D. M. King, son of John King, K. C., Toronto, is visiting his friend, Dr. R. W. Rutherford, city.

CHATHAM BOY IN THE PULPIT

Rev. S. T. Martin Preaches
Two Excellent Sermons at First Pres. Church.

Large Congregations Attend
the Services—Greater Consecration in Christian Life.

A splendid voice, of impressive earnestness, excellent diction and graceful and appropriate gesture characterized the able and eloquent address of Rev. S. T. Martin, B. A., who conducted the services in the First Presbyterian Church on both occasions yesterday. Rev. Mr. Martin is a Maple City boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Martin, Victoria Ave., and deservedly large congregations attended his first services in his native town. Mr. Martin is a young man of exceptional talent and earnestness and his discourses were much appreciated and enjoyed. At the evening service Mrs. John Cooper sang an exceedingly appropriate solo, which was also highly appreciated.

In the morning Mr. Martin's text was, "Be ye holy for I am holy," and, defining holiness as conformity of the mind and will of God, the speaker made an earnest plea for increased consecration. There was a distinct call to holiness, not alone on the Sabbath and in the sanctuary, but also in business life, social intercourse and pleasures.

In the evening Rev. S. T. Martin, B. A., took his text from the Gospel of St. John, i., 46, "Come and see."

Commenting on the incident that led to the invitation in the text, the speaker said that inquisitiveness was responsible for some of the greatest inventions and discoveries, instancing the uses of steam and the law of gravity. While the people were inquiring what was the cause of the destruction of Pompeii, a simple, quiet man was walking the shores of Galilee and, from that day to this, people have been asking who He was and why He came. The Scribes and Pharisees of His day, with all their pompous bearing, are to-day famous only because He noticed them. His followers even then called Him Lord and Master, and to-day His followers do the same. Whence, then, this power over the human race? It was due first to the universality of His nature combined with the keenest individual human sympathy. Think of the great leaders of the world. They have all been ready to sacrifice the individual to the state. Not so with Christ. His work was with the individual and, as the state is made up of individuals, His work bore fruit. Then, too, He combined marvellous majesty with the most sublime meekness and purity. No sooner is a man placed above his neighbors than the news is spread abroad and he assumes a manner the direct opposite of meekness. Not so with Christ. There is no doubt of His superiority, but look at His humility. Naturally, one who is pure and who has high ideals of life cannot understand the frailties of his less favored brethren. Not so with Christ. He was all sympathy for the sinner. Then, lastly, He combined divine wisdom with patience with and tolerance for beginners. It is these things that make the man Christ we are to behold; and we learn them alike from the accusations of His enemies, the testimony of His friends and from what He says of Himself.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 15.

LORD BERSFORD'S ADVICE.

Lord Charles Bersford, with that truthful directness for which he is famous in his utterances upon public questions, gives the British merchant and manufacturer some wholesome advice which touches the secret of British declining trade, says the Toronto News.

British merchants must adopt the methods which give success to foreign nations in the competition for the world's business, they must handle what foreign customers want, instead of what they think they ought to want, and not decline orders however small.

Better advice was never given, for we all know that it's next to impossible to get a British house to turn out goods according to order, if that order calls for anything in the manufacture or putting up of the goods out of the ordinary stock runs, or opposed to the past traditions of the house. The day when the manufacturer or merchant can dictate to his customer what kind of goods he shall have or how they shall be put up, is long since past, and this is one of the things the British manufacturer and merchant has got to learn.

PROPOSING COALITION.

The Toronto Globe comes out with a proposition in more or less veiled language that the Conservatives should agree to a coalition government when the house meets. It is a proposal that is not altogether unexpected and is equally impossible to acquiesce in. In an election campaign during which the Ross government resorted to every method of corruption and brought to bear every influence, legitimate and otherwise that its position could command, to secure itself from defeat it polled a minority of the popular vote, but nominally won by one seat. The Citizen believes, as every Conservative believes, that if gross corruption had not been resorted to by Hon. Mr. Whitney would have been returned to power. Under the circumstances there can be no bargaining with such unscrupulous opponents, whose methods in the past have been unreservedly condemned and have earned the disapproval of the public. We are convinced that the popular verdict will be clearly and unmistakably in favor of Mr. Whitney, because "the machine" has exhausted its resources in the last effort, and without the sinews of war cannot be reorganized on the old efficient plan.

There was some talk a few weeks ago of the Ross government winning over some Conservative members to its support. That having apparently failed, Mr. Ross plays his last card—Coalition. But he might as well go to the country and be done with the farce.—Ottawa Citizen.

Poor Schwab! He has fallen into the hands of the landlord of a $40,000-a-year flat. He has fallen upon evil days. Envy him not.—Hamilton Times.

With Mr. Sifton pulling hard in one direction and Mr. Tarte pulling equally hard in the other, the natural consequence will be a condition of immovability—unless one of the pullers quits.—Hamilton Herald.

According to the Dallas News there are "over 400,000 farmhouses in Texas, and a baby cradle in every one of them." This would seem to indicate that farming is a howling success in Texas.—Chicago News.

Lacrosse bids fair to become as harmless as ping-pong. It has been robbed of most of its terrors. Time was when lacrosse was simply a foot-race between a man with the ball and a bunch of the enemy seeking to do him grievous bodily harm. Now there is less foot-racing and more passing. The game is much more scientific and much less murderous, and it will, in consequence, be much more popular.—Hamilton Spectator.

What are Humors?

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

How do they manifest themselves? In many forms of cutaneous eruption, salt rheum or eczema, pimples and boils, and in weakness, languor, general debility.

How are they expelled? By Hood's Sarsaparilla which also builds up the system that has suffered from them.

It is the best medicine for all humors.

New York houses alone have sold about twenty-five million dollars' worth of millinery during the last month. Between the cool barons and the milliners the average man is going to have an awful winter.—Kingston Whig.

A woman in Bruce County sucked the poison from the wounds in her child's leg made by a rattlesnake, tied the leg firmly to stop circulation, drove fifteen miles to a doctor, and the child is doing well. This method of drawing off the poison is about the only one that can succeed, and is not dangerous to the one performing it. But even this method cannot always be successful, because the poison is so quickly carried into the blood, and because the incision made by a reptile's fangs is so small.—Toronto Star.

The shallow and heartless are making merry over the case of the Rev. Sam Small, of Georgia, a noted temperance lecturer, who has twice appeared drunk on the rostrum in Vermont. Who has a better right than Small to preach temperance? He evidently knows from his own bitter experience what a curse drink is to every man who, like himself, is prone to be overcome whenever he touches it. Now, disgraced, humiliated and laughed at, Small has more reason than ever to preach temperance. It is absurd to sneer at Small as a hypocrite because, being a temperance lecturer, he has got drunk. Doubtless it is because he cannot drink without getting drunk that he mounts the platform at all. It tells of an earnest nature, a nature too high for selfishness, when a man suffering from the consequences of weakness goes forth to urge other men to take warning by him and be strong.—New York American.

HIGH TIME.

London News.
 The knockers still have their hammer out for the St. Lawrence route. It's time the Dominion Government took a hand in the game.

TURNING ON TARTE.

Kingston Whig.
 Mr. Tarte surprised the Toronto people by bobbing up at the great fair. Of course he had to talk. And he told them something that was generally suspected—that he was a tariff reformer on his own account. All the same he is quite an active spirit. His motto is "Success, get there."

ANOTHER SIFTON BACKER.

Toronto Star.
 He does not serve the interests of any railway corporation, nor appeal to any of those classes of men who seek to profit by taxing the consuming public. But as the champion of the people of the west, he has opportunities of conferring more enduring benefit upon Canada than has fallen to the lot of many men.

UNCLE SAM'S OPPORTUNITY.

Harper's Weekly.
 The virtual collapse of the conference of colonial premiers in London is an incident that will benefit the United States if our federal government shall turn it to account. The failure of the conference to agree upon an imperial Zollverein, coupled with the restraining influence of the defeats encountered by the unionist government in a series of by-elections, will deter Mr. Balfour from permitting Mr. Chamberlain to go any further in the direction of imposing duties upon breadstuffs.

BOYHOOD RECALLED

Chief Pritchard, of the fire department, has returned from Toronto, where he has been spending his holidays.

"I certainly did up Toronto," said he this morning, "visiting my relatives and visiting the scenes of my childhood."

Mr. Pritchard was only 8 years of age when he left Toronto with his father and mother, and, queer to say, has not visited Toronto since. While on this trip he visited the old house in which he was born, and also saw an old hall, on which he had many a pleasant toboggan slide when a boy.

BUNGLED SAMUEL

"Yes," said Samuel Simmons, the tenorist artist, as he stopped to strop his razor, "I would like to know who the school boy is who flim-flamed me out of my umbrella."

About three months ago the lad came into my shop. I knew his face, as I had cut his hair several times before, and he looked so innocent that I didn't bother to ask him his name.

He had about three miles to go out in the country, he said, and it was threatening rain. The boy borrowed my rain protector, saying he would return it next day. That was just three months ago. Now every time it rains and I go to look for my umbrella, I feel just like I had been gold bricked."

C. I. L. & M. SOCIETY

The Collegiate Institute Literary and Musical Society held a reorganization meeting in the assembly hall last Friday at 3.30 p. m.

The whole school—masters and pupils—was assembled. After an introductory address by the Principal, nominations were made for the different offices as follows:—

Honorary President—Edwin Ball, LL. B., chairman of the C. C. Board of Trustees, elected by acclamation.

President—Robert Campbell, Form 4, and Jerrold Waddell, Form 3B.

Vice-President—Jessie Patterson, Form 3B, and Belle Weber, Form 2A.

Secretary—Geo. H. Coult, Form 4; Percy Chinnick, Form 4, and Evelyn McLean, Form 2A.

Representatives of Forms are to be appointed this week, and the elections will take place next Friday. An interesting contest is expected.

J. Anderson and Jos. McAlpine spent yesterday in Leamington.

Wm. Cassidy, of Detroit, spent Sunday with his parents here.

Harry Morrison, of Mather's grist mill, leaves to-day for Chatham, where he has secured a position.

THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail is by no means free. He is under the ban of the law and punishment is written over against his name.

Soon or late he will be caught again and bear added punishment for his short escape from his cell.

Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner.

Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time, felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep or follow my occupation (tailoring). Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case permanently cured me. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptic men throughout the land."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets stimulate the liver.

A Languid Japanese Lady.

In a recent address in Tokyo a prominent Japanese educator said: "The indolence of Japanese ladies is something amazing. I know a daughter of a certain peer, but a brand new one, and this young lady's indolence is really beyond the idea of ordinary mortals. She will not even open her mouth to herself. As soon as the time to retire to her bed arrives she issues her order, 'Now I will retire,' and at once three or four maids spread the under-quilt, help her, or, rather, make her, for she simply stands like a doll, to change her clothes, and at last the girl, swaddled in her night garment, is put to bed just like a person suffering from a serious illness, and so the poor thing goes to sleep and releases her maids from their trouble till the morning, when the daily routine is resumed. First of all she issues to the maids waiting in her anteroom this extraordinary order, 'I shall get up now,' and then the process exactly the reverse of that of the night before is forthwith commenced by the girls. Day after day this routine is gone through, and the spoiled child of the proud upstart peer forces herself from her mistaken notion as to dignity to lead the life of an invalid and to cripple the normal development of her body."

Fish Proverbs.

"I have other fish to fry" one says in declining a task. "A pretty little of fish," says another in designating a pretty bad mess. The "kittle" is the tackle of the fish boom, which may easily get into a bad snarl. "There are other fish in the sea," says the rejected suitor. "Mute as a fish," "Dead as a herring," "As uneasy as a fish out of water," "To fish for compliments," are among the best known figurative expressions referring to the finny tribe: "Very like a whale" we may refer to least to Shakespeare's time ("Hamlet," III, 2). "White as whalebone" was coined when walrus ivory was taken for whale's bone. "The shark flies the feather" is a sailor's saying, indicating the fact that this voracious fish will not touch a bird. The use of the term "land shark" is not confined to seamen by any means. Shakespeare makes use of another nautical expression in "Twelfth Night," I, 8.

Flowers are the sweetest things that God ever made, and forgot to put a soul into.

THE OLD PIONEER.

With his axe and gun the pioneer came, To the backwoods years ago, With his bride of a day, sweet, winsome dame.

To hew them out a home.

Through toil and sweat a garden plot Was tilled, and stumped, and cleared, And joy was the sun of their happy lot, As their cabin walls they reared.

And year by year as he tilled and cleared, And the wider ranged his view, The joy in the settler's voice was heard, As in prayer he praised anew.

Soon neighbors came from the dear Old Land, From the home beyond the sea, And labor lightened on every hand, And joy knew company.

And the children came as the years drew on, A handsome, sturdy brood, And each knew a soldier, a happy one, And the soil produced its food.

They grew apace in strength and grace, Till the time of mating came, When each in turn left the old loved place, To seek for themselves a home.

And the Old Couple sat by their lone fire-side, And talked of the days now gone, The sweet fond days, when as groom and bride, They journeyed forth alone.

And their hearts grew sad, but the light of love, Still glorified the shrine, So this hand-in-hand to the Home above They passed in the Father's time.

A stranger's hand now ploughs the land Which the settler cleared of yore, While within the glade last resting place, Is the grave of the Old Pioneer.

THE KING NO FISHERMAN.

When His Majesty Was in Canada He Was Unskilful.

Among the mass of anecdotal matter recalled by the recent coronation of King Edward VII., Canadian sportsmen are interesting themselves in reminiscences of the lack of skill as an angler displayed by the King when, in the course of his progress through the Dominion in 1890, he visited the waters of Canada.

The late Senator Price took the Prince on a trip up the Saguenay to St. Marguerite River, the present preserve of the Ste. Marguerite Salmon Club, and then, as now, noted for the abundance of its salmon and trout. A few small trout were, however, all that the whole party could boast of. Mr. Price hooked a large salmon for the Prince and gave it to him to land, but his attempt was not successful. The Prince had not had sufficient practice in salmon-fishing to enable him to kill a large fish.

The official historian of the tour notes that "it was not for the want of advice; there was plenty of that. Everyone called out what to do, and, as a matter of course, everyone suggested a different mode from every other, so that His Highness was bewildered, and the salmon proved the truth of the old proverb that 'in a multitude of counselors there is safety,' and, breaking the line, got clear away."

King Edward has occasionally angled for coarse fish in Scotland, but has never made any reputation as an angler, though it was recently stated on the authority of Lord Knollys that upon one occasion he really did kill a 21-pound salmon in the Tweed. He has a reputation as a successful hunter, especially of large game, but he is almost the only member of the British royal family who is not also an enthusiastic and fortunate angler.

Many Canadian fishermen can testify from personal observation on the Restigouche and Cascapedia Rivers, the Prince of Wales, and of his aunt, the Princess Louise, Marchioness of Lorne, now Duchess of Argyll, the favorite sister of the King.

It was while visiting her in Canada that the present Prince of Wales and his late brother, the Duke of Clarence, proved to the Canadian anglers their skill, with the fly rod.

The Prince of Wales has, indeed, been called the angler-in-chief of the royal family, and both in Scotland and in the pool in which she killed her largest salmon still bears her name.

$2 PER WEEK

George Alexander Baird was released on suspended sentence on the charge of non-support of his wife. The court ordered him to pay $2 per week towards her keep. Baird thought $1.50 enough, but the judge triumphed and Mrs. Baird will get all of $2 per week to support herself. Rev. J. J. Ross was in court a witness on the Siddals case. He remembered marrying Mr. and Mrs. Baird a year ago.

PETITION FOR HIM

H. F. Aylesworth, who pleaded guilty last week to the charge of stealing leather and hardware from P. Jacques & Sons, was brought up this morning for sentence. A largely signed petition from residents of Watford, where Aylesworth lived, was presented on his behalf. Aylesworth has a wife and family depending on him. Drink is his trouble. Aylesworth told the Judge that he was done with drink no matter what was done with him. Judge Houston remanded the man till this afternoon to consider his case.

FOR THREE YEARS

William Siddals pleaded guilty this morning to three charges, namely breaking into the store of W. H. Curran, the store of Fred Woods, and the Maple City Creamery. It is scarcely two months since Siddals was released on suspended sentence on the charge of tapping the C. P. R. hotel till, where he was employed as porter.

Siddals' story to the judge was to the effect that he knew Chatham too well, and his chums got him into trouble. In a strange town he never got into trouble at all. "I am sorry that I did it," continued the prisoner in a plea for mercy.

"You are sorry you are caught, that is all," was the response of the court.

Judge Houston sentenced Siddals to three years in Kingston Penitentiary.

DEFENCE CONVICTED

Chas. E. Smith was found guilty of horse stealing on Saturday before his honor Judge Bell, and sentenced to six months in the Central Prison. The crown case was unusually weak, but Smith went into the box in his own defence. His wife followed to corroborate and the prisoner's young son was put in the witness box for a similar purpose. Under the examination of W. P. Campbell, of Ridgetown, counsel for the prisoner, the corroborative evidence was made good. It looked rather black for the crown case when Crown Attorney Herb. Smith arose to cross-examine the little boy. Mr. Smith evidently is acquainted with children for he talked to the lad as he would to his own son.

This procedure proved successful and the lad told all he knew, with the result that he spoiled the evidence of his father and mother.

Mr. Campbell argued at the conclusion of the crown case that the crown hadn't sufficient evidence to make out a case. A conclusion of the defence, Crown Attorney Smith thanked the defence for so strengthening his case.

$2 PER WEEK

George Alexander Baird was released on suspended sentence on the charge of non-support of his wife. The court ordered him to pay $2 per week towards her keep. Baird thought $150 enough, but the law triumphed and Mrs. Baird will get all of $2 per week to support herself. Rev. J. J. Ross was in court a witness on the Siddals case. He remembered marrying Mr. and Mrs. Baird a year ago.

BOWLING

In the Kent County League for the fine VonGuten trophy Chatham and Thamesville are tied for first place, with six won and two lost. The contest has been close and well contested and the play-off between Chatham and Thamesville will likely come off shortly in Blenheim.

GIRL INJURED

Miss Mary Pritchard, daughter of Jas. Pritchard, of Park Bros., who is employed at the T. H. Taylor woolen mills, got her right hand caught in the machinery at the mill shortly after seven o'clock this morning. The hand was frightfully mangled and the unfortunate girl, who is only 15 years old, was taken to her home and Dr. McKeough called. The doctor will be able to save the hand. She is suffering very much pain but is doing as well as can be expected.

PETITION FOR HIM

H. F. Aylesworth, who pleaded guilty last week to the charge of stealing leather and hardware from P. Jacques & Sons, was brought up this morning for sentence. A largely signed petition from residents of Watford, where Aylesworth lived, was presented on his behalf. Aylesworth has a wife and family depending on him. Drink is his trouble. Aylesworth told the Judge that he was done with drink no matter what was done with the man till this afternoon to consider his case.

William Siddals pleaded guilty this morning to three charges, namely breaking into the store of W. H. H. Curran, the store of Fred. Woods, and the Maple City Creamery. It is scarcely two months since Siddals was released on suspended sentence on the charge of tapping the C. P. R. hotel till, where he was employed as porter.

Siddals' story to the Judge was to the effect that he knew Chatham too well, and his chums got him into trouble. In a strange town he never got into trouble at all. "I am sorry that I did it," continued the prisoner in a plea for mercy.

"You are sorry you are caught, that is all," was the response of the court.

Judge Houston sentenced Siddals to three years in Kingston Penitentiary.

Persons with ill-intentions tried to force an entrance into the houses of a couple of Syrian women who live on Queen street. Windows were broken in one of the houses, and the midnight marauders raised quite a disturbance. The women think the disturbers of their peace are some colored men who have been seen hanging around in the neighborhood lately.

GREAT CROWDS GREET THE MEN

A Large Congregation Attends Special Service last Night, Stirring Address.

Big Male Choir pay Mark of Appreciation to Their Director and Organist.

The service by young men for young men in the Park street church last evening drew an immense congregation—so much so that many stood throughout the entire service while scores were turned away.

The service was entirely in the hands of the young men. The church was tastefully adorned with flowers and foliage and the sterner side of the service was given by the men.

The male choir numbered exactly 40 voices and was under the musical direction of James Scott Gray, who presided so acceptably at the organ.

In training the choir the services of Miss Ethel Webster, the accomplished choir leader of the church, were invaluable, while Mr. Gray assisted in the work of directing the anthems by Aid. W. E. McKeough and J. W. Plewes. The brunt of the work, however, fell on Mr. Gray and to this energetic and talented musician the success of the service of song is largely due. The musical portion of the service included two excellent organ voluntaries by Mr. Gray, two anthems "Praise ye the Lord" by the full choir, and a quartette, "Lead, Kindly Light" by J. W. Plewes, William Doherty, R. Will Augus and H. W. Anderson.

At the conclusion of the service Aid. McKeough, chairman of the musical committee of the church, was asked to preside over a short informal meeting of the male choir.

J. W. Plewes then moved, seconded by ex-Ald. R. A. Harrington, a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. J. S. Gray for his valuable services as organist and director of the choir. Both gentlemen voiced the sentiments of the entire choir in paying tribute to the energy and ability of Mr. Gray and their appreciation of his assistance.

Mr. Gray replied briefly, expressing his gratitude for the kind words spoken, testifying to the pleasure it had given him to have been able to assist and congratulate the choir on what had been accomplished.

Before his sermon Mr. Cobblecliek spoke a few words of welcome to the young men of the city who were present. "If you are like the general class of young men," said he, "you do, no doubt, attend church more in the autumn and winter than during the summer. I want to say to you that your presence in this church will be very helpful to me, and I will try and make the service as interesting for you as possible.

Everything in the church is thrown open to you, and I hope you will take advantage of it. I also intend to co-operate with the young people of the church in their work, and I would be glad to receive any suggestions from the young men as to ways and methods of conducting any special work in the church. You have in me a personal friend who is always approachable, and I will be pleased to help you in any way that I possibly can."

Mr. Westman then extended an invitation for all to attend the social evening to be given in the Sunday school room on Monday.

The reverend gentleman's text was found in Paul's first epistle to Timothy, the 4th chapter and the 8th verse:

"The first part of this text," said he, "that bodily exercise profits a man much is universally accepted, especially in Chatham, where you have such a splendid park, which has been the scene of so many athletic sports and where your teams have at different times acquitted themselves so admirably in contests. I am glad to see that the schools drill is so prominently brought forth. So you see it is generally recognized by the universe that systematic practice is calculated to strengthen the muscles, quicken the will, and force of the body. There are, no doubt, many benefits to be derived through proper athletic training, principally in manly sports. Of course there are dangers in them caused by the tendency towards professionalism, and there is always a danger of our young contracting evil habits when teams go visiting. Then, too, there is a standing menace that sports will become a craze. But all of these dangers when realized are but abuses of a thing which is in itself good and proper and does not hinder the statement that manly sport is profitable. The more importance which is attached to bodily exercise, the more will be attached to the higher athletics. Bodily exercise profits a man little in comparison with the greater benefits to be derived from the higher athletics."

Mr. Cobblecliek then proceeded to talk of these higher athletics. "In his exhortation towards the higher athletics," continued he, "it is the sincere and strenuous efforts after character that Paul commends. It is not the kind of religion which does not mean gloom. It makes a monk and no woman a nun. It dispenses with nothing which is good and beautiful, but enjoins all more practice and more manly type which finds its fulfillment in the development and proper use of God given faculties.

"One question which should be uppermost in the minds of our young men is how to make the best of both worlds. This can be done and Paul's plan is a very simple one. He says exercise thyself into godliness. This does not mean gloom. It makes a monk and no woman a nun. It dispenses with nothing which is good and beautiful, but enjoins all more practice and more manly type which finds its fulfillment in the development and proper use of God given faculties.

"Naturally this is obtained at some cost. An athlete on the field of sport sacrifices many pleasures in training, so do the higher athletics demand, so do the many things which give a man a more manly type. When is a horse at its best? When it is broken in, and you all know that when it is held down with a tight rein it goes at its fastest speed. No man is such a conqueror as he who is sovereign over himself.

"When a real estate agent first selects ground on which he wishes to build up a village almost the first thing he does is to build a church. Why? It is because he knows that the men who will congregate around a church are the most successful men. Men do not want to have much to do with a man who hangs around the street corners. He may like them and be one with them, but when it comes to doing business he seeks out a man who has higher ideals. You will notice that a religious man is invariably thrifty, foresighted and successful. True some ungodly men succeed but their success is not due to their wickedness but to the little good that is in them. The religion of Christ does not take away qualities in a man and does not give any, but makes the best of what you naturally possess.

"Every man wants to save up enough in his life to keep him in his old age. It costs a man less to be godly than ungodly. It will pay him more to give a full portion of his obligations to the church than it will to disregard all these things. Self indulgence will grow on a man far faster than his salary will increase and will in time reduce him to extreme poverty. Godliness on the other hand will lead to thrift and success. So you see that it is a very false accusation made, that a poor man cannot afford to be religious to-day. That has been very aptly answered by P. T. Barnum, the famous show man, who once said, 'Show me a place where there is no church and I will show you a place where the women are slipshod and slovenly and the men of the devil's hand is printed on the men's faces with tobacco juice.' He concluded by saying 'consider what these things have done for you before you lightly esteem them,' and no one would accuse Barnum of being a religious fanatic.

"No man can do wrong and not be known. It is easy to tell the character of a man by the expression in his face. If we could only see ourselves as we really are, we would, no doubt, live better lives. No man will lose anything by leading a good life, for after all, the forces of God are on the side of righteousness. 'Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all of these things will be added unto you.'"

A GREAT BATTLE.

The One Known in History as the

"Victory of Victories."

The battle which is known in history as the "Victory of Victories" took place at Nehavend, in Ecbatana, and was fought between the new Moslem power in 637 and the empire of Persia, then one of the most powerful of the eastern monarchies. It was one of the most absolutely decisive battles in the history of war, and it was all the more amazing by reason of the fact that it was won by a people which twenty years before had been unknown barbarians, lost in the deserts of Arabia.

Arabian historians place the Persian loss in a single day at 100,000 men killed. This may be and probably is an exaggeration, but the fact remains that the Persian dynasty came to an end when the battle was over and that Zoroastrianism, which had been the religion of Persia for over a thousand years, was at once supplanted by Islam. Its modern representatives, as is well known, are now the Parsees of India.

The victory was so absolutely decisive that it extended the Arabian dominions over the whole of the Indian ocean, and the Caspian sea, and the Indian ocean, which had been the religion of Persia for over a thousand years, was at once supplanted by Is-

lam. Its modern representatives, as is

DR. McLEAN ON INDIANS.

Some Interesting Information About Those

Who Live in the Northwest.

Rev. Dr. McLean, of Carman, Man.,

in a recent talk on our Northwest

Indians said that when he first went west he had not mastered the Indian language so to speak the Gospel he had to employ an interpreter. This man, a curious sort of being, between a negro and an Indian, demanded a dollar an hour. When his hour was up he would turn to Dr. McLean and the sermon was at an end.

Dr. McLean tells of the effect of the climate upon the Indian. Along the ruined coast of British Columbia the redman was short in stature and vigorous in action with strong passions and by nature artists. Where the indentations in the coast are the greatest there reside the more rugged and more lithe. The coast Indian was contrasted with the big-bodied inland Indian, with his undeveloped brain. The Indian who lived inland was too lazy to either work or fight.

The languages of the different races of the Indians were spoken of by Dr. McLean, who probably has mastered more of the languages than any other white man in the west.

Indeed, it has been said that Dr. Mc-Lean could speak every Indian language. He, however, did not claim any such achievement, for he told these present at the talk there were 1,500 languages and if he could speak them all, then he guessed he might be admitted to a professorship in Victoria University.

In the mind of Dr. McLean the Cree language is just as beautiful as the Greek. The struggles of Dr. Mc-Lean in mastering the language were told in a most interesting way. The speaker did not think there was a dialect or language on the face of the earth that did not have beautiful laws. "God had made all laws or language as real as the laws of nature." He believed there was a connection between religion and language, and said that the language of mankind showed the Divine hand.

Next Dr. McLean told of the history of the Indian missions of the Northwest. The work was begun in 1840 at Norway House, when James Evans, a Scotchman, came to that point. Associated with him as missionaries were George Barley, Robert

Rundell and William Mason. Now

Barley is living in England, while

Mason went over to the English church and is a clergyman. Mason, trained to be a House of Commons member, was the first to assist Evans in the translation of the Bible into Cree. A printing press could not be taken into that country because of the opposition of the Hudson Bay Company. Evans made letters out of lead from ten sheets and cut types out of wood. These were stamped in the Indian language on birch bark. Evans, and not Mason, was the first man to translate the Bible into Cree syllabic characters. The Eskimau now had a syllabic system of writing similar to that invented by Evans.

It was George McDougall, who started the mission in the "Devil's Playground," close to the Old Man's River in Alberta, where previous to the eighties the buffalo roamed in great numbers. McDougall was frozen to death during a snow storm in 1876, returning from a buffalo hunt near Calgary.

The Indians of the west had three
