" What Doest Thou Here ?"

BY MARY E. HERBERT.

"And behold there came a voice unto him and as What doest thon here, Elijah ?" 1 Kings xix. 13.

In the whirl of pleasure thy day has been past.

And the snadows of night are gathering fast,

What doest thou here, oh, aged one,

The sauds of thy life shall soon be run :

Hasten, while Mercy is lingering near,

What doest thou here, oh, lover of gold,

In the seat of Commerce, the crowded mart. There is thy treasure,---and there thy heart ;

But the Spoiler will come with a stealthy tread,

Esger as ever for wealth untold ?

And what can riches avail the dead ?

Ambition luring thy steps astray,

Bidding thee cast thy peace away ;

"t doest thou here, ob, weary brain, Seriving the plaudits of men to gain ?

Mcoking and vain shall thy hopes appear,

When the hour of reck'ning draweth near !

What doest thou here, oh, sorrowing heart,

Thy sunken eye, and thy palid cheek,

Betray the grief thy lips may not speak ;

Haste thee, to One who alone, can cheer, Hark, for He whispers, " What dost thou here ?

Is this, oh, Christian, thy seal and love ? Remember, thy vows are recorded above ;

In whose burdens a stranger can bear no part

With hands hung down,-and a listless tread, Fainting with toils thy path o'erspread ;

He only may win, who shall steadfast remain,

To each, and to all, doth the Spirit draw near

With faithful monition, ' What doest thou here ?'

There are pleasures unfading awaiting for thee ;

There are treasures and honors that never shall

"My strength is made perfect in weakness." Hence the explanation of the paradox, uttered by Paul, " When I am weak, then am I strong." The Pealmist presents a glorious truth, when he exclaims respecting the house of God ;-Stength and beauty are in his sanctuary."-This truth gives significancy to the important duty, " wait on the Lord, be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart." Fellowship with God gives power and energy. Sin produces weakness ; holiness strength. Sin has enfeebled human nature, grace invigorates it. Sin separates from God ; hence our moral weakno subject taking shape in the mind, and it is ness. Faith unites to God : hence our spiritual strength.

Separated from Christ we can do nothing ; united to him we can do all things. Christianity is strong, Idolatry is weak. Jesus the Mediator possesses all power ; this cannot be said of the devil. Believers clad with the panopy of God, are more than a match for the great adversary. The strong man armed would fain keep his goods in peace, but a stronger than he overcomes him. The power that works miracles laid the foundations of the Christian religion. No system of error can justly put forth such a claim. It is consoling to God's dear children to know, that His power as well as His mercy endureth forever. " Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and to-day, and forever."

Be not discouraged, then, ye trembling saints of God. Shout with the sweet singer of Israel, "The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid ?" What though we live in troublous times, when the perils of humanity seem to increase ! Let the heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things. Let the professed christian world endeavour to dethrone the King of Zion. Lst the chained enemy vent his latest spite. We will not fold our hands and despairingly give up all for lost. Nay, but in the strength of grace, we will labour on, hope words were accepted as from the Lord. In the on, and exultingly shout, " Hallelujah. the Lord God omnipotent reigneth." The Church of Christ ought to be much stronger than she is. Too often we grieve the Spirit of God, and cause Word, and giving it to his own children in its him to withdraw the joy of his salvation. Hence own sweetness ; and sweet it wasour present failures, in bringing sinners to God. A joyeus church will be a strong church. " The " As manna to the hungry soul, And to the weary rest."

Wild Oats.

11

BY ETHEL LYNN. Saw you the field by morning bright, With fallow earth laid warm and light, For human souls to sow aright With precious seed.

Saw you the gay young sowers there. Their careless hands so firm and fair, Flinging their wild oats everywhere, Like harmless seed.

Heard you their loud exultant shout, As gold-like rain fell round about, Whiist garlands flung their sweetness out, Above the seed.

Soft rippling notes from woman's tongue, Made music/as she idly sung, And pearls from spiders' tents unstrung, Amid the seed.

Say you fair brows wreathed with the vine, Above soft eyes whose gladsome shine Gathered their gladness over wine, As fell the seed.

The while, the sowers' footsteps gay Trod down pale blossoms in their way, And clinging vines went wild astray, Through springing seed.

Only wild oats-a merry crop 'Twould grow, perchance-perchance 'twould stop.

Without a harvest at its top. Tis fearful seed.

See you the reapers' nearing night, With troubled faces worn and white, Dim with remorse and wan with fright ; Yet must they reap.

See you the sickle rise and fall, Through stalwart grain grown swart and tall, 'Mid poison creepers loop and thrall ; Yet must they resp.

The sun is down, the night is nigh, Gray, solemn clouds o'ercast the sky, Presaging whirlwind by and by ; Yet must they reap.

Poor faded garlands lie about, Accusing voices wail and shout, And faces wronged from graves look out ; Yet must they reap.

From many a furrow gaping there Rises some disregarded prayer, (Ob, saddest fruit this earth can bear !). Yet must they reap.

Too late! The reaper falls aghast, Wild oats have ripened full and fast, To crush him 'neath their weight at last. The crop is reaped.
