THE ESTIMATED LOSS $700,000
Two Women Leap from a Burning Building and It Is Believed Are Fatally Injured—Firemen Boldly Hurt In West Pressure Incident.

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—For the second time in a week Toronto has been visited by a terrible conflagration, and by a strange coincidence the second outbreak started within a few feet of the spot where the first was arrested. The buildings devastated by last night's fire were more numerous than not so extensive as those of Sunday, but the total loss, so far as can be ascertained from the imperfect investigation that could be made last night, will be about $700,000, the same as that estimated for Sunday's fire. The second disaster was not attended by any loss of human life, but it was a very serious injury and one woman received terrible injuries in escaping from the building in which she was.

The fire broke out at 7 o'clock, the alarm being turned in at exactly that hour. It started in the Ogogoo building, a mass six-story brick and stone structure on the south side of Melindis street, adjacent to the great McKinnon building, which perished in the ruins of which are left from Sunday morning's fire. It had a frontage of 40 feet, the rear about 30 to 40 feet. The building was put up last year by W.G. Ogogoo at a cost of $50,000. The firemen arrived within two minutes of the alarm; but the building was already blazing furiously from basement to roof, and the flames leaping high above the buildings. In the top flat of the building was the family of the caretaker, Edward Caven. His wife was lying in bed prostrate from the effect of Sunday's fire, when the building came near going. It was her screams that had attracted the attention of the policeman who turned on the alarm. With his wife was a Mrs. Holmes, who was taking care of her, and a little girl, a niece. The child escaped, but did not arrive, and it was evident it could not reach the fire in time to be rescued.

A rope was thrown out of the window, and they were arranged to lower themselves in the frame holding a net suspended from the rope. She turned over once or twice, and then fell. Her injuries were thought not to be serious, but she with her sister was taken to the hospital. The little girl came down in the same way with Mrs. Holmes and escaped serious injuries. Caven himself came down safely.

Measuring the fire was raging furiously and had spread backward into Wellington street, where it attacked the wholesale houses that line the north side of the street.

Two or three firemen met with somewhat serious injuries, though not fatal, from falling walls. Mr. Walter, inadequate appliances the firemen fought bravely, and were aided by the weather, first show and then heavy rain helping to prevent the fire from spreading.

By ten o'clock they had the fire under control. They had devoted themselves especially to keeping the fire from spreading west and lighting the great drugstore of Wyld, Grassett Darling, which carried a stock of $400,000 and was saved by the burning buildings only by a narrow lane. In this the firemen were happily successful.

It is impossible to accurately estimate the various losses but an approximate estimate of the losses placed at three quarters of a million. The insurance reaching about two-thirds of this sum.

The Victims and Their Losses.
Tuesday, Jan. 11.—The loss of Thursday's big fire amounted to $800,000, and the insurance in force on the burned property totalled $750,000, distributed as follows:
W. S. Johnston & Co., printers, loss $100,000; insurance $100,000.
Jas. E. Knox, agent, loss $41,500; insurance $41,500.
Robert Darling & Co., clothing, loss $75,000; insurance $60,000.
Sparre estate, buildings, loss $35,000; insurance $25,000.
Sasdeco & Co., furs, loss $5,000; insurance $5,000.
Dr. Abbott, building, loss $2,500; insurance $2,500.
J. Y. Hild & Co., building occupied by Burnett, Reid & Co., and Hart & Kiddell, loss $20,000; insurance $20,000.
Major Carlaw, building, loss $40,000; insurance $25,000.
Dunnett & Co., furs, loss $20,000; insurance $40,000.
Wyld, Grassett & Darling, loss $35,000; insurance $25,000.
R. H. Gray & Co., stock, loss $100,000; insurance $70,000.
R. H. Gray & Co., building, loss $40,000; insurance $20,000.
Eay, Bennett & Co., loss $100,000; insurance $32,500.
Other losses, $30,000; insurance $10,000.

Mrs. Caven, who was injured by jumping out of a window, is progressing favorably at St. Michael's hospital.
Other great fires in the city were the Iron Block in 1872, loss $400,000; damage to the same premises a few months afterwards $100,000; the Esplanade fire in 1888, loss $200,000, and the University fire, which destroyed nearly half a million dollars' worth of property.

No Diphtheria Near Orlins.
ORLINS, Ont., Jan. 10.—All the Toronto papers have reports of a serious outbreak of diphtheria in the neighborhood of Orlins. The real facts are that at Seabright, a small settlement about eighteen miles from Orlins, there is a number of cases, but the distance is so great that no danger or likelihood of an outbreak in Orlins is at all imminent, and this report should be contradicted.

WINNIPEG MAN SUICIDES IN P. PAUL.

Taylor was president of the First National Bank and the North-western Mortgage Trust Company of Winnipeg, and the bank is closed. There is a great sensation over the developments.

RECOVERING FROM THE SMALLPOX.
WINNIPEG, Jan. 12.—Anderson, the man down with smallpox on Goyan street, is convalescent. He had a very mild attack. Dr. Coventry says it is not likely he will have to go to the new pest house. There have been seven cases of smallpox in Winnipeg, only one of which proved fatal.

REAR ENDING AT DUNVILLE.
DUNVILLE, Ont., Jan. 10.—Mr. Jas. Gault, a miller, and Miss Jennie Noble, of this place, went out for a skate on the Grand river here last evening. They got on thin ice which gave way and before assistance could reach them both were drowned.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

The Prisoners Henderson and Walter Will be Tried at Next Assizes.
St. THOMAS, Jan. 12.—Three sessions were held yesterday to investigate further in the Middleton murder.
At the afternoon session, David Henderson, father of the accused, five W. Moore, J. W. R. Jackson, jeweler, and T. Langan, turnkey Elgin jail, gave evidence proving conclusively that the watch worn by the prisoner Walter was the property of the murdered man, and the one given to the father of the deceased as that of this son, was the property of prisoner Walter.

Walter was questioned in the jail by County Crown Attorney Donahue, he said the watch was his own, that he had got it six or eight weeks before in a trade with a stranger he could not describe, at the Penwarden hotel, giving his own watch and $1 to boot him.

Mr. and Mrs. Ketchabaw, of Bayham told of receiving the telegram announcing the death of Henderson, and that the prisoner had been killed by a tree falling upon him.

W. J. Ostrander, blacksmith, Eden, said that Henderson told him that his nephew had probably been killed by a tree falling upon him. He had bought a new watch in the fall said Henderson, and probably while running for his clothes and watch had been struck by a falling tree and killed. When going to bed in Eden that Friday night a pistol fell from Henderson's pocket, and prisoner produced the other pistol and Ostrander read them both.

Henderson swore at the inquest that he never carried the pistols with him.
Mr. Ostrander, the blacksmith, to whom the murdered man was engaged, detailed a conversation which took place between prisoner Walter and himself while driving to this city soon after the murder, but nothing of much importance was elicited. When going to bed in Eden that Friday night a pistol fell from Henderson's pocket, and prisoner produced the other pistol and Ostrander read them both.

Dr. Lawrence, who made the postmortem examination, read his report, showing a total of numerous cuts and scars on head and body, and that they might have been caused by an axe or similar instrument.

Dr. Gustin and Smith gave corroborative evidence.
Dr. Duncombe, for the defence, said if the ground was soft the deceased's head might have been under the tree and not have been crushed, but said the wounds might have been made by an axe. Gault returns to-day at 9.30.

St. THOMAS, Jan. 14.—At Saturday's session of the Hamilton murder investigation the evidence was mainly in reference to the insurance feature of the case.
Patrick Fitzpatrick and Dr. C. E. Duncombe, of St. Thomas, and Dr. Marlat, of Athens, gave evidence. It was Henderson's attempt to insure the life of Fitzpatrick who struck the evidence as being suspicious.
G. Roche testified as to insurance being placed upon the life of the murdered man.

W. R. Jackson, jeweler, identified the watch found on deceased as one which had been purchased from him by Walter in August, 1891.

This ended the case for the Crown.
Judge Mackenzie asked the prisoner if they had anything to say, both replied in the negative and he committed them for trial to the next assizes.

A FEMALE BIGAMIST.

A Brookville Married Woman Charged With Marrying a Gannacoque Man.
BROOKVILLE, Jan. 11.—Mrs. James Dempster was arrested at Gannacoque yesterday on a charge of bigamy and the circumstances of the case are somewhat romantic. The woman's name was formerly Annie Graham and in 1860 she married a man named James Dempster, a resident of Mallorytown, a village a few miles west of Brookville. The bills usually supposed to accompany marriage were given by the name of Dowley until recently, when she assumed that of Macdonald and took up her residence in Gannacoque, where she met James Harper, who has since been charged with bigamy and in search of a life partner. Marriage was the result and everything went happily along until a few days ago when the first husband, known as Dowley, turned up. He threatened to expose her unless she gave up her new partner. She fled to the farm, and when this was not forthcoming carried his threat into effect. The arrest of the woman was the result.

A Dying Farmer's Queer Notion.
CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Jan. 14.—William Yee, a well-to-do farmer, Traveller's Rest, near Summerside, who has been ill for some time and is now in a dying condition, a few days ago instructed his friend to have made a cedar coffin, covered with sheet lead and made perfectly airtight and after his body has been placed inside the coffin he was hermetically sealed. He also ordered that a vault be buried in the ground merely large enough for the coffin and to be built inside and out and covered with large stones.

Born in the Waiting Room.
TORONTO, Jan. 11.—A young woman who gave the name of Elizabeth Clark and said she hailed from Georgetown, gave birth to a boy baby in the waiting room of the Street Railway Co. at Frank and York streets yesterday. Her mother and child were removed to the hospital, where they are doing nicely.

Recovering from the Smallpox.
WINNIPEG, Jan. 12.—Anderson, the man down with smallpox on Goyan street, is convalescent. He had a very mild attack. Dr. Coventry says it is not likely he will have to go to the new pest house. There have been seven cases of smallpox in Winnipeg, only one of which proved fatal.

TDOWN FELL THE BENTS.

A Terrible Accident on the T. H. and B. Near Dundas.
DUNDAS, Ont., Jan. 12.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday at the trussing work on the T. H. and B. railway in Elniskey's Hollow, causing great loss to the contractors and perhaps the lives of at least three men.

The trussing is built by erecting benches made of square timber, some of which are 64 feet high. These benches are raised up to their places by an engine with blocks and pulleys, one block being attached to the bent, the other to the top, and on this block is the greater portion of the weight and strain of the next bent being raised, although the guy ropes lessen the strain somewhat.

At about 8.30 o'clock in the evening a bent 64 feet high had just been raised to its position and fastened by splicing planks to the bent last raised, and the workmen had nearly all gone back from the spot, only three or four remaining to finish, when, without a moment's warning, thirteen of the twenty-four benches which had been put up came down with a terrific crash, smashing many of the huge square timbers into kindling wood and making a pile of twisted and broken wood out of what had been the finest square timber ever put into a bridge or trestle.

The moment after the crash heart-rending cries of pain came from the wounded men and a rush was made to extricate them. In a few minutes three men who were seriously injured, had been taken out and instantly medical help was sent for from here. Drs. Ross, Bertram and Smith were quick to reach the scene and to take charge of the wounded men.

One poor fellow had both legs broken and left arm broken in two places, besides a number of other injuries. Another had left leg broken and injured internally. The other had no bones broken but it is supposed to be injured internally. Had the accident occurred fifteen minutes sooner twenty or thirty men would probably have been killed or badly mangled. The wounded men were quickly chloroformed and placed on mattresses, covered with blankets and taken to Hamilton hospital. It is thought that one at least cannot possibly recover.

The injured are: Rogers, Hamilton, married, compound fracture both legs, left arm broken in two places, scalp torn very badly, one eye gouged out, one hand and body, and that they might have been caused by an axe or similar instrument.
Dr. Gustin and Smith gave corroborative evidence.

This section of the T. H. & B. Railway is under Supt. Skinner's supervision, with Foreman Finnigan. Both were absent at the time but had been there through the day. An investigation will be held and perhaps a coroner's inquest. The damaged trussing will be replaced by a new one, and it is thought that the accident is slightly improved since yesterday.

FELL SIXTY FEET.

George Howber Falls from the Rims of a Chimney Building.
A frightful accident happened at the ruins of the Globe building yesterday afternoon. Two men were engaged on the high southern wall pulling down the brick chimney with pikaxes and fastening ropes to the walls. The timber was working on a piece of wall next the high chimney, when suddenly it collapsed. The workman nearest the chimney sprang back and saved himself. But his companion, Eli A. Howber, of 68 Humbert street, was not so fortunate. He was carried down with the huge mass of masonry brick fully sixty feet, landing in the cellar of Rooney's gutted store.

A TERRIBLE SECRET.

distressed! It was easy, pleasant work enough, and I am much better off. "There is one thing I must ask, Edith," he resumed after a pause; "a last favor. You will grant it, will you not?"

"I promise," she answered lowly. She could not look at him—it seemed like the Scriptural words, "heaping coals of fire on her head."

He lay back among the pillows with closed eyes, utterly exhausted, but looking very happy. The bitterness of death was passed—a great peace had come. They could not see that the last change was near. Pain had left him—he was entirely at rest.

"Read to me, Edith," he said once as the day wore on. She took up a volume of poems that Lady Helena was fond of. She opened it, haplessly, and read. And presently she came to this, reading of the crosses and trials and sorrows of life.

"Open the window, Edith," he said. "I want to see the light once more." She obeyed. All flushed with rose light, and gold and amethyst splendor, the evening sky glowed like the very gates of paradise.

"It is beautiful," Edith said, "but it is somewhat lonely brought to her without a sharp pang." "Beautiful" he repeated in a ecstatic whisper.

"I love it! It is so beautiful, what must Heaven be like!" "Then she heard him softly repeat to himself the words she had read: "And God shall wipe away from their eyes, and there shall be no more sorrow."

"I love it," he said, "how pale you are—white as a spirit." "Go for a little into the air—don't mind leaving me. I feel really again."

She kissed him and went. All her after life she was glad to remember that their last parting had been so peaceful, so part, a happy smile on his face. She descended the steps leading from the window with unhesitating obedience, and when she reached the door and gazed out at the sunset, she remembered the words she had read.

"I love it," he said, "how pale you are—white as a spirit." "Go for a little into the air—don't mind leaving me. I feel really again."

to cease to ask questions—a superior human organ who kept himself and his knowledge mysteriously sealed up. He told nothing, and they had to contented with their own speculations.

So Lady Catherine became the lady of interest on board. Everybody saw her on deck, her railway rug spread in the sun, her hat to see the water-work chair placed upon it, a large umbrella unfurled over her head, reading or gazing over the sea.

She looked at him. He is in no way changed that she can see—the very same Charles of three years before. "You know I was here," she said.

"Certainly, Lady Catherine. I read the morning papers, and always look for distinguished arrivals. Like the sound of the sea, my aristocratic tastes cling to me still. I thought you would hardly have left the month of Sandpoint—delightful, no doubt, as that thriving township is. I don't need to ask you how you have spent the time for myself you never looked better."

"He meets her steady, respectful gaze, and she would not come to see me," those dark luminous eyes say. His perfectly calm, disinterested, looking at her with the quick.

"No, Charles never; I don't think I did. I didn't tell her. I was afraid she would find out for herself, her family circle would have heard of it. I greatly doubt even now if she has."

"She looks up desperately. "Charles," she exclaims, "mayn't I see them? I have written to them, and they have not answered me. They are in New York, I am sure. They might not feel at liberty to do so, but I have written to them, and they have not answered me."

"I have written to them, and they have not answered me," she says, "but I have written to them, and they have not answered me."

"I have written to them, and they have not answered me," she says, "but I have written to them, and they have not answered me."

for, for this reason she is so. She is an altered woman—her features are more refined, her woman, but the old lover of inquiry is not dead yet.

How two prominent citizens of the Prairie Capital had gained health. One suffered from the effects of malaria, the other from the effects of a cold.

The modern view is decidedly skeptical, and in the case of cures by advertised medicines, it is sometimes remarked that they occur at long intervals.

A Review of Winters. In December some of our local weather prophets said "No snow this winter." Frognosticating the weather for a whole season is exceedingly hazardous business to a man who values his reputation for reliability, and there is positively no man in it; who has not done so in the past.

One of the pleasures of the Honey Bee - With its 200 or 300 eyes (or rather lens) wide open, it enters a flower. That flower to the kaleidoscopic vision of the bee, becomes a magnificent, tinted, perfumed, jeweled, and tiled floor and many shaded tapestries of the floor of the variegated morning glory and the light and splendor of the inner chamber in inaccessible beauty, all inspire in the bee, as a close observer will notice, a manifest delicious delight to see for our seasons nature to grasp.
