Union Blend Tea seems to suit everybody; then, considering the fact that $400 cash goes to its patrons each year, it is no wonder grocery stores that they can sell so much of it.

Mr. Gillespie, of the firm of E. Gillespie & Sons, of Parrboro, was in town this week and arranged the purchase of the schooner Ethel B., which has been laid up here since last fall. The former owner was Capt. Fitzpatrick, of Aylesford.

We learn that Rev. J. D. Freeman, M. A., pastor of the Fredericton Baptist church will speak in College Hall on next Sunday afternoon and that he will preach in the Baptist church in the evening. Mr. Freeman will also conduct meetings in the College during the week beginning Sunday next. The services will be held in College Hall at 7 o'clock of each evening.

The news was received here this week of the death of Mr. B. T. Vaughn, of Leadville, Colorado. Mr. Vaughn was a brother of J. W. and C. M. Vaughn, of this place, and will be remembered as spending some weeks here in the winter of 1898. He had been engaged in mining in Colorado for some years and just previous to his visit here met with severe injuries which considerably impaired his health.

In another column appears the acknowledgment of Mrs. Rand, of Canby, of the payment of $1000 to her, the amount of the policy held by her late husband, Clarence A. Rand, in the New York Life Insurance Co., of which Mr. J. B. Newcomb, of this town, is agent. This is the second payment Mr. Newcomb has made to policy holders during the past week or two and the remittance with which the company in both cases has met its obligation should certainly ensure the confidence of the public.

Mrs A. W. Sawyer.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. A. W. Sawyer, wife of Rev. Dr. Sawyer, of this town. This sad event took place at 7 o'clock on Sunday. The health of the deceased lady had been failing for many months, but her death will be a sad surprise for most of her friends.

Mrs. Sawyer was a daughter of the late Rev. John Chase, M. A., formerly a prominent Baptist minister of this province. She was a lady of innate dignity and refinement, of kind and sympathetic heart, and faithfulness to duty in the various relations of life. Prized by her family for her ability and devotion as wife and mother, she also was honored as a helper in the work of her church, and as a member of the social life which she adored. The bereavement will be especially severe for her husband, whose anxious labors during the many years of his office as President of Acadia, she fully shared. But her children, Prof. E. W. Sawyer and Mrs. Sawyer, will be joined with Rev. Dr. Sawyer in the sympathetic regard of the large number of friends of one of the most prominent families in the Baptist body in these provinces.

The funeral on Thursday afternoon was very largely attended, among those present being Rev. G. R. White, of Hantsport, Rev. W. N. Hutchins, of Canby, and Judge Chipman, of Kentville. The students and members of the faculties of College and Academy led the procession. The services were conducted by Rev. H. B. Hatch, pastor of the Baptist church, and Dr. Trotter, both of whom delivered appropriate addresses.

The choir sang "The Lord is my Shepherd," "Jerusalem the Golden," and "Jesus, Thou Art All Compassion." The floral wreaths were abundant and beautiful. They included contributions from the wives of members of the Faculty, from Mrs. and Miss Parker, of Dartmouth, the teachers and pupils of Acadia Seminary, the students of the College, W. A. Chase and others.

The ACADIAN joins the host of friends of the family in extending sympathy to Dr. Sawyer and those who with him are suffering in this bereavement.

Upper Dike Village and Vicinity.

On Thursday evening, 25th ult., Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Newcomb entertained a large company of friends at their pleasant home at Upper Canard. Mr. and Mrs. Newcomb are model entertainers and provided a delightful time for their guests. Crokinole, cards and dancing furnished the chief amusements, while elaborate refreshments were served.

On Monday evening last a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred B. Cox arranged a very pleasant surprise party in commemoration of the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage. There were over sixty guests present from Kentville, Canby, Wolfville, Cambridge and elsewhere, including, of course, a full attendance of friends from the village. The affair took the form of a "Crystal Wedding" and numerous joyful and handsome articles of glassware gave evidence of the interest taken in the occasion and the esteem in which Mr. and Mrs. Cox are held by their many friends. Among them was an elegant hanging lamp, the gift of the Upper Canard and White clubs. The evening was most pleasantly spent, dancing, cards and crokinole providing an interesting programme. Excellent music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Bohay, of New Minas, and dainty and delicious refreshments were served by the ladies having the affair in hand. At about three o'clock the pleasant company separated wishing Mr. and Mrs. Cox continued happiness in the years to come.

A special despatch from Halifax yesterday afternoon says: "Steamer Pomeroy with second Canadian contingent passed St. Vincent, Cape Verde Islands, at seven this morning. All well on board. Seven horses died."

Be Sensible in Your Dress.

The well dressed woman—and cow-boys she is the genuine woman as well—does not do away with the conventional, but she has it most carefully fitted and adjusted. It is not a bit tighter than she finds it perfectly comfortable to have it. Her gowns fit more smoothly for the "days beneath, and belts look neater. Petticoats are light, and walking is an easy and not a troublesome matter, and to better exercise is there than walking in the fresh, clear air.

A whole day's pleasure may be spoiled by a collar that does not fit. One's appetite fails, one even before a feast if one's bodies is tight. Oh, we all know how an uncomfortable costume will make one out of sort with the whole world. And we cannot be healthy when we are cross.

Do not worry because you cannot afford ultra stylish costumes. Just bend your energies towards having clean and comfortable clothes. Your freshness of appearance will more than make up for your lack of modishness, and, as a matter of fact, the friend of woman's, and man's mind, too, at the present is toward nice "goodness" more than the height of style. The busy woman is learning that it is not a waste of time to look after her clothes carefully and to spend an hour or so every day at her toilet.

The woman who must get into a costume suitable for the street early in the morning and remain so attired throughout the entire day should consider carefully the style of this dress. All day long she is to be at her brightest and quickest, and how can she be all the while feeling the burden of clothes in one way or another? A skirt that is not too long, a collar that is not too high and not too tight all help to ward off the headaches that come from fatigue. If it is possible, she should slip off her heavy shoes when indoors and put on a pair of slippers, if the rooms are well heated.

A prominent physician, said the other day that now when a busy woman comes to him with a painful little story of nerves and headache the first question he asks is, "How do you dress?"

Health is beauty, and a body health and beauty are associated to a great measure with clothes, the dearest woman of all is the one who recognizes the fact that her clothes and her children's need to be something more than just "stylish."

All Men Prize Muscle and Strength.

Paine's Celery Compound Builds up the weak and broken-down.

It has Special Elements that Purify and Enrich the Blood.

IT QUICKLY EXPELS DISEASE GERMS FROM THE SYSTEM.

Heaven's grandest and most glorious creation is the man who is physically perfect—blessed with iron nerves, brawny muscle and fulness of strength.

Half-sick, weakly and broken-down men make their homes unhappy and miserable, and as citizens they are, frankly speaking, of small value.

To be useful to society and our country, and to become fit temples worthy of our great Creator, the weakly, sick and diseased should use every endeavor to acquire health and strength.

Heaven, always good to those who are willing to help themselves, has given to falling and ailing men Paine's Celery Compound, the greatest and grandest of health-giving medicines.

Millions are now using Paine's Celery Compound with mighty and happy results. High encomiums and thankful letters come from high physicians, lawyers, clergymen, bankers, legislators, business men, mechanics and farmers who have been made well and strong after months and years of sickness.

Try it, 50 men who are honestly seeking after health. Disappointed in the past by worthless pills, nervines, sanaparillas and concoctions, you will have cause to thank Heaven for Paine's Celery Compound. The good results that follow the use of one bottle are wonderful and convincing.

Grains of Gold. Nothing is so atrocious as fancy without taste. It is strange how often we think lightly of the gifts we have and wish for those that Providence has denied.

Youth is brave because it cannot foresee the dangers of the future; old age is timid because it cannot cope with the ambuscaded dangers of the time.

When a book raises your spirits and inspires you with noble and courageous feelings, seek no further rule to judge the book by. It is good, and made by a good workman.

Any duty neglected prepares for a new disobedience—any sin committed paves the way for fresh transgression, but duties done, and temptations resisted, set us for new victories in the fight of faith, and greater advancement in the heavenly course.

Where Ignorance is Bliss, Etc. A Portland, Me., clergyman tells this story of himself. Recently he called upon one of the families in his parish. He ascended the steps and knocked at the door. Receiving no response he was about to depart when he heard a woman's voice, saying, "Mrs. Smith, the minister is at the door."

What was the pastor's surprise and amazement when he caught Mrs. Smith's response which gently around the corner of the house, "Oh! don't you suppose I know him? The next Sunday after service Mrs. Smith met her pastor and expressed her sorrow that she was a clergyman didn't let on, but this morning she had a little trouble with her eye as she is a young lady, but she is now a widow."

Women as Judges.

As Color Critics They Say Diamond Dyes are the Best in the World.

As a rule women are by far the best judges of colors. Their vast experience in the innumerable shades and tints brought out by the European professional dyers in dress fabrics, ribbons, silks, trimmings and gloves, give them a knowledge and advantage in color that few men possess.

As color critics and judges, the women of all civilized lands have long ago made Diamond Dyes the popular home favorites for the coloring of all faded and dingy looking garments and fabrics of wool, silk or cotton.

Everywhere, intelligent and economical women, after thorough tests and trials, have found Diamond Dyes to give the richest, fullest and most lasting colors—colors that for brilliancy and durability surpass the best efforts of professional dyers.

To secure ease, comfort and perfect success in home dyeing, the Diamond Dyes should be used at all times.

Working on the great reputation of Diamond Dyes, some unscrupulous people are putting up imitation dyes to deceive. Such dyes are a source of danger to the dyer and the materials to be colored. See that each packet of dye purchased has the name "Diamond."

The Dutch Homesteads. You would like the Dutch homesteads about here, writes F. C. Powell from Cape Town. They suggest to an enquiring mind an elderly gentleman, now getting a little stout, who after a wild youth is beginning to appreciate the blessings of repose and comfort, and is content to sit peacefully by the fire and think upon the days that are gone. Here and there you find avenues as fine as ever you heard of, paths straight and winding, with high hedges or walks, Hottentots, not beautiful, but innocent and obliging, living in whitewashed cottages, which were once the slave quarters or cloister near the mansion. Lydia, a good old Christian woman in our mission, keeps this day, Dec. 31, as high festival, it being the anniversary of the British proclamation that abolished slavery. The old lady still bears on her back the marks of the slave whippings she got in her youth under the Dutch regime.

He Will Interfere Next Time. A Lewiston man was passing through a country district, near the city, one day recently, when off in a field he saw a boy throwing stones through the glass of a deserted house. The man's first impulse was to shout to him to stop, but then he thought that the boy's father would have said to him better things, and it was not his duty to chide another man's children for their wickedness.

So he went home that night, and began to tell the instance at supper to his boy, who had been out in the country hunting all day, begun to turn seven colors, and finally broke out: "Well, pa, you needn't be so roundabout. You know it was me, and I guess the man who owns it knew, for I saw him running after me down the road." Before the evening was passed, sure enough, the owner of the old house drove up and demanded the pay for the glass, $1.84.

His Best Things. A certain militia officer is much disliked by his men. One evening, as he was returning home, he slipped into some deep water. A private in his regiment, however, happened to see him, and after some trouble succeeded in pulling him out. The officer was profuse in his thanks and asked his rescuer the best way he could reward him.

"The best way you can reward me," said the soldier, "is to say nothing about it."

"Why, my dear fellow," said the astonished officer, "why do you wish me to say nothing about it?"

"Because if the other fellows knew I'd pulled you out they'd chuck me in."

Master—How do the dogs like the new food, John? John—They don't take kindly to it, sir.

Master—How do you account for that, John? John—Well, you see, sir, it says on the packet that "dogs will eat it with avidity," and they never eat soon as that; but I'll try 'em again as soon as I gets the other packet to mix with it.

Lieutenant Morris, when he was shown through the old Spanish prison at Manila, noticed a small opening through a brick wall. Upon asking its use he was told that prisoners were placed in a cell behind it and walled up alive.

"You see, senator," said the guide, "as long as the prisoner lived his food was handed in on a plate, and he handed the empty plate back, but when he was walled up the jailer knew he was dead and didn't give him any more."

Canada and England.

THE SERVICES CANADA HAS RENDERED FULLY APPRECIATED.

A prominent Brockville business man Pays a Tribute to the Good Work of a Canadian Institution in England.

(From the Brockville Recorder.) One of the most successful business men in Brockville is Mr. Thomas Nappy, the well known Path street grocer. Mr. Nappy is an Englishman by birth, and the success he has achieved in business here has enabled him for some years past to make an annual holiday trip to the Motherland.

In a casual conversation with some friends in the Bank of Montreal, recently, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills happened to be mentioned and Mr. Nappy remarked that the pills effected many cures as marvellous as one that had come under his notice, he was not surprised that they were so frequently the theme of conversation. Asked later by a reporter of the Recorder to give the story, Mr. Nappy readily consented to do so, and we give it practically in his own words. "Don't be disappointed when I tell you that the cure did not occur in this country," said Mr. Nappy. "As a matter of fact it occurred in England and came under my observation on the occasion of two visits made to that country. During the summer of 1898 I sailed for my old home in England, and while there visited William Decker, a relation of mine living at 45 Fitzwilliam street, Doncaster. In Decker's family was a little girl, Lilly, about six years of age who was absolutely helpless with what the doctors said was St. Vitus' dance, but really seemed to me more like paralysis. This child was one of the most pitiful sights I ever saw; more helpless than a new born babe. She could not move a single limb, and if the head were turned to one side or the other it remained in that position until some one changed it. The poor child had to be fed and looked after like an infant, and as the doctors had not been able to do anything to relieve her, recovery was not thought possible. Indeed, I said to the child's grandmother that I thought its early death would be a relief not only to the child, but to its parents. This was the condition of the child when I left for Canada. Again in the summer of 1899 I made a holiday trip to England and to my amazement when I visited my friend Decker I found Lilly as bright and active as one would find anywhere, with absolutely no trace of the trouble that had made her a helpless babe the year before. I told her parents I had never expected to see her alive again and asked what had effected her cure. 'Dr. Williams' Pink Pills,' said the father. He further said that returning from work one night he found in the home a little book describing the pills, left behind by the doctor, and after reading it decided to use them in Lilly's case. After supper he bought some of the pills and gave the first dose to the child that night. In a few days they saw they were helping her, and in less than two months time there was not a child in the neighborhood, brighter, blemish or more active. I have heard a great deal concerning what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in this country, but this case coming under my own observation is as near a miracle as we can look for in these days, and shows why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so much talked about everywhere."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just as valuable in the case of children as with adults, and many little ones will soon thrive and grow fat under the treatment which has no equal for building up the blood and giving renewed strength to brain, body and nerves. Sold by all dealers or sent post paid at 60c a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Do not be persuaded to try something else said to be "just as good."

A "Growler." "Please don't go in there. That's the growler, and its occupier." It was a young West Philadelphia man who made the remark as she was showing a friend through her new home.

"The growler?" repeated the other. "What's that? Not where you rub the growler, I hope."

"This was said in a jocular spirit, and the visitor was rather staggered by the reply.

"That's it exactly; where we rub the growler, although perhaps not in the way you fancy. You see, my husband is an occasional sufferer from indigestion, which does not improve his temper, and there are also times when my own temper—I tell you this in confidence—is not of the best. Well, when we moved out here and had more rooms in the house than we actually needed, I hit upon the plan of setting aside one as a place of solitary retirement where we could go and be alone when either of us felt our temper getting the best of us. I have called it the growler because we can lock ourselves in there and growl at our hearts' content until we have quite recovered. We both avail ourselves of it, and I think it's a very good idea. George is there now, and I wouldn't disturb him for the world."

At a recent Housing case in Dublin a certain well known ecologist was being cross-examined. I am sure the eminent Dean of the Chapel Royal will forgive me mentioning his name, as he is an Irishman, with more than an Irishman's fondness for wit.

Scene—A police court. Applicant—A blushing inkeeper. Witness—The Dean, appearing on behalf of the Church of Ireland Temperance Society.

"And you, Master Dean of the Chapel Royal, were in that public house?" came the first question.

"I was, Sir," came an unblushing answer.

"And may I ask, Mr. Dean of the Chapel Royal, did you take anything in the public house?"

"I did, Sir," said the witness. "Great sensation in court.

"Oh! you did, Mr. Dean, did you? And may I ask, Mr. Dean of the Chapel Royal, with a strong and decisive accent—what you took, Sir?"

"I took a chair, Sir," answered the quick-witted witness. "And, further than that I took notes, Sir; and here they are, Sir."

We know not the future; its joy and its sadness. Its shadows and sunshine alike are concealed; But we fear not, with Christ as our strength and our gladness. No darkness can come where his light is revealed.

Fresh page of our life! shall thy lines be Shall thy record be one of Immortal power? Shall it tell how He keeps us with garments unsullied? Of triumph through Him in temptation's dark hour?

Shall words be inscribed there so pleasingly spoken— The story of Calvary lovingly told? Shall the record be there of hearts bound that were broken— Of wandering and weary ones led to the fold?

Dear Master! we long to behold Thee victorious! To Thee and Thy service ourselves now we give; Use us such in Thy work, then this year shall be glorious. And, as I breathe in Thee, 'twill be blessed to live.

Lord Roberts, Commander-in-Chief of the British Army in South Africa, is noted for his exact punctuality and his disregard for mere sentiment. That fact makes the more noteworthy his recent testimony on the subject of temperance, indeed of total abstinence, in the military service. "Reports on discipline," he said, "show a remarkable contrast between convictions of abstainers and of non-abstainers. Among abstainers the convictions were 4.12 in the 1000, while among non-abstainers they were 66.38 in the 1000, or nearly nine times as many. Thus drinking men are nearly nine times as apt to break the law as non-drinkers. Moreover, the admissions to hospitals per 1000 were 208.48 abstainers and 301.52 non-abstainers. These," said Lord Roberts, "were two points which it was impossible for anybody to gainsay."

Yes; and it would be difficult to tell why they do not apply to civil as well as to military life. "It is not," he added, "a friendly thing to give drink to soldiers. It is not well, in a larger sense, to put the bottle to our neighbor's lips."

The liquor power has reason to fear "organized mother love" more than any other one thing. An army of 200,000 women banded together to "do everything" for home protection is a formidable foe. Of forty different departments keep King Alcohol's forces in a constant state of agitation and irritation. Just now they "sneer with alarm" the effective work of our medal contest department. "The W. C. T. U. oratorically training women and shipping public sentiment against us. They are making great headway. We should organize to fight them." These are clearing words, and our medal contest workers will doubtless "grow on out" with renewed courage and redoubled vigor.—Union Signal.

Mr. Senkey, in response to request, related at a recent Northfield convention this story of a memorable occasion on which he sang "The Ninety and Nine," with P. P. Bliss, beside him, praying that it might bring some lost sheep to the fold. Across the Connecticut River, in full view of the church windows and of the on-deck platform, where Mr. Moody and the musicians stood, a man who scorned religion sat on his front porch, sipping because his family were at church, a "green on out" with renewed courage and redoubled vigor.—Union Signal.

He began to lead a Christian life, and when Mr. Moody started his school work he helped in every way he could. Nine years after his conversion the corner stone of the new Congregational church was laid, and Mr. Senkey, at Mr. Moody's request, stood upon it and sang "The Ninety and Nine." In one of the Sunday school buildings, some distance from the church, Mr. Caldwell by dying. He said to his wife: "I hear singing; open the window." She did so; and listening to the song that had brought him to Christ he passed into rest.

"My Grace is Sufficient for Thee." DEAR DEAR SIBBALS.—Please allow me to say through your columns that the grace of God is not only sufficient to take away a man's desire for intoxicating liquors, but it will also enable any tobacco addict to give up the use of tobacco. I know whom I speak. I was once a great slave to the cigar habit. But when I went earnestly to God for enough of His grace to enable me to give up the habit, God at once took away my every desire for signs, and although I was an ex-cigar smoker, I have never had the least desire to smoke since. My testimony help some poor struggling brother.

You truly, W. F. BORDEN, Greensboro, Va.

A vigorous temperance crusade has been inaugurated in the city of Mexico. The opening rally was held October 1, in the Trinity M. E. church, in the Mexican capital, and the work is to be pushed to the utmost during the coming season.

Mother—You are a very naughty little girl! Little Girl—After some time, aren't you glad I wasn't twins, Mother?

Mother—Stop pulling the cat's tail, Reggie. Reggie—I ain't pullin' it; I'm just holdin' it.

A child who was delighted with the gift of a candy cat said to her mother as she ate of the hollyhays: "I saved it and saved it and saved it, till it got so dirty I had to eat it."

Minards Liniment Cures Dandruff. Dandruff—Having is almost abolished in our c-hairs. Will—Yes. Since football became popular having has become too tame and lady like.

Miss Fyffe—You look as spruce as a Christmas tree. Mr. Spoonsome (as he led her about amidst yells under the mistletoe)—Yes; but I pine for you!

To pardon those absurdities in our selves which we cannot suffer in others is neither better nor worse than to be willing to be fools ourselves than to have others so.

Nothing more impairs authority than a too frequent or indiscreet use of it. If the original word of the Royal Vintner would excite no more terror than the noise of a mill.

Little Miss Towal—Was that honey we had at breakfast "honey-made," Mr. Stubbs? Farmer Stubbs—Why, surely, Miss. Little Miss T.—Oh! then I suppose you keep a bee?

Minards Liniment Relieves Neuralgia. The intricacies of the English language had an illustration a short time ago in the original word of the Royal Vintner. Hobbs. Two men, in adjoining beds, were overheard relating to one another the experience through which they had passed, when one of the amateurs said: "Was you brought up in the ambulance?" In which the other, in French, replied: "N. Y. was brought up twenty miles from Quebec."

Dear Sir,—I was for seven years sufferer from Bronchial trouble, and would be so home at times that I could scarcely speak above a whisper. I got no relief from anything till I tried your MINARD'S HONEY BALSA-M. Two bottles gave relief and six bottles made a complete cure. I would heartily recommend it to any one suffering from throat or lung trouble.

The village clergyman went away for his holiday, and a benevolent neighbor took his Sunday duties. After the substitute had preached his first sermon he remarked to the clerk in the vestry: "I am sorry that I gave you such a short discourse, but the reason is that the dog got into my study and tore out several leaves."

The clerk gazed wistfully upon the speaker and said: "O, sir, do you think you could spare our parson a pup?"
