WASHINGTON, June 14.-You can ask that july whether they have any communiroom, only to be broken by wild shouts of applause when in a clear tone of voice the foreman stated the verdict was not guilty. Immediately the decrum of the court of justice was forgotten, and oheers resounded from all quarters of the crowded room. Mrs. S. W. Dorsey sprang to her feet, clapping her hands, while tears streamed down her oheeks. There were many ladies in court silently weeping. Davidge asked to have the verdict recorded, which was done, while the deputy marshals vainly endeavored to quell the tumult. S. Dorsey and Brady were the recipients of many warm congratulations, and as they left the court room were greeted with renewed cheers by a crowd in front of the city hall.

The jury were discharged with the thanks of the court. In the ante rooms and the hall they were beset by a crowd of interested persons, prominent among them being the defendants and Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. Peck, who thanked them for the verdict with tears in their eyes. As the foreman reached the sidewalk a large crowd burst into tumulituous cheers, which were renewed as each juror came out of the court. The foreman stated five ballots were taken by the jury.

Ker was the only representative of the prosecution in the court-room when the verdict was returned. Carpenter, Dorsey's conneel, congratulated him as the only one of the government counsel having pluck to show up in the hour of defeat. Ker says he was this morning informed by a court officer that Ingersoll had said the jury would return a verdiet of acquittal. He added that the other indictments against Brady would be pressed. Of course it would be necessary for the court to enter an order setting aside Rerdell's plea of guilty.

But as yet only a very few girls so present themselves, and these, if they begin at the proper time, will receive sufficient Latin teaching to be ready for the matriculation examinations when they have completed their other work. Latin is taught to girls at the same rate of progress as the other subjects. The school does not do coaching work or furnish private tuition. Under these circumstances it is for those who wish to see classics taught to girls to make out a case for the trustee rather than to seek to change the methods of the institute. Because other institutes observe a certain line it does not follow that the Toronto one, which is different in many respects, should follow the same.

LICENSES ON THE ISLAND.

ing to license any hotel on the Island, is a true reflex of the public mind of the city. Even men who are moderate drinkers de not want to see liquor sold on the Island. The idea is to make the Island a park where women and children may go in perfect safety, and where they will encounter neither drunken men nor half drunken rowdies. That there are hardships in connection with this view of the matter is also a certain fact. As the hotel men put it in their resolution in another column it is especially hard on Edward Hanlan. It is also a hardship to many men who go over there not to be able to get a glass of leger beer. There are any number of frequenters of the Island who can take one or two glasses of light beer and offend no one by it. And this light beer, all in all, is about as wholesome a drink as they can take. The temperance people owe it fered beer licenses in previous years took to of a society for the support of those whose fered beer licenses in previous years took to it slightingly. The number of licenses are being reduced, places where drink is sold are being driven out of p urely residence parts of cities, who are drinkers are distrusted more and more. Everyone must have noticed that strong social opposition is being shown to the intemperate, and that this restriction now being applied to the island is only a local manifestation of a wide-spread opposition to drink in all its forms. Until those who favor licensing the island hotels can show that they have the bulk of public opinion in their favor their prayer is not likely to be

Now, how about the rank and file? there not as much patriotism about them And why should they not be allowed to d as they please? The officers mentioned as as they please? The officers mentioned are strict with their men even to the matter of etiquette, and why should they complain of those in authority over them? It is discipline that makes a force efficient, and if either officers or privates do not want to submit to those in authority the sooner they get out the better. Stick to discipline, Col. THE EDUCATION OF GIRLS.

To the Editor of The World. SIR: Your editorial on Miss Balmes's educational course is, as usual, sensible and to the point. No school can turn out proficient scholars unless the root of the matter be in the scholars. At the same time, much must naturally depend on the advanfortunately the very limited amount of Latin taught the girls at the Toronto collegiate institute renders it impossible for them to do themselves justice at the local or other examinations without getting their Latin elsewhere.

This is not as it should be. Why it is, I will not presume to say, but it is.

ibbs of To the Editor of The World ... sit s SIR: No city perhaps on this continent is more distinguished than Toronto for the earnestness and piety of its ministers, whose labors are unceasing to correct the errors of ociety. It is distinguished for its Sabbath bservance, its Sunday schools, and other kindred institutions, designed to promote the moral and religious culture of the people But there is one extraordinary anon that they could place at the head of such societies mere abandoned politicians, who wear the clock of religion to cover deeds of strict with their men even to the matter of etiquette, and why should they complain of those in authority over them? FEMALE STENOGRAPHEES.

To the Editor of The World.

Sir: T. P. T.'s brilliant and disinterested championship of the shorthand profession, against female interlopers, has so interested and convinced me that I have almost decided to retire. I only hesitate because T. P. T. has omitted to state what we are to do. He who could originate, such a triumph of literary skill as T. P. T. has, must have some scheme within his benevolent and active brain. If we retire from the field, leaving for him the laurels and the substantial rewards, is he going to dedicate a portion of this latter to the organization of a society for the support of those whose parents by their frailties or misfortunes have parents by their frailties or misfortunes have parents by their frailties or misfortunes have and a questionable character. To the Editor of The World. SIR: Mr. Carry's letter in Tuesday's World calls for a brief rejoinder. Spelling reformers have no need to indulge in "personalties," nor did I, as a matter of fact, indulge in any in my reply to his former communication. He quoted these line from Milton:

His reign of peace upon the earth began; The winds with wender whist, Smoothly the waters kins,
Whispering new joys to the mild osheean.
And asked how they looked. I replied by giving him Milton's own spelling as fol-

My interpretation of the situation was that Mr. Carry had dug a pit for the spelling reformers to tumble into, and I could not resist the temptation of pushing him in by way of letting him know how it was himself. I inferred also that Mr. Carry had nover seen a specimen of Milton's tages afforded by the educational institu-tions where such students attend, and un-fortunately the very limited amount of word for it if he says he had, but if I do so Perbaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern medicine has been attained by the Dixon treatment for catarth. Out of two thousand patients treated during the past six months fully innety per cent have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less start ling when it is remembered that not five per cent of patients presenting themselves to the regular pracitioner are benefited, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissue, Mr. Dixon at ones adapted his cure to their extermination—this accomplished, he claims the catarth is practically cured and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by hin two years ago are cured set in this manner, and no other treatment has ever cured catarth. The application of the remedy is simple and can be done at home, and the present season of the year is most favorable for a speedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Sinferers should correspond with Mr. A. H. Dixon, 305 and 307 King street west. Toronto, Canada, and enclose stamp for his treatise on catarth. Cararrh-A New Treat

That Match at Last.

Notwithstanding the disappointment of the previous day, there was a large attendance at Woodbine.

Notwithstanding the disappointment of the pre-rious day, there was a large attendance at Woodbine yesterday to see the match race between Bonnie Bird and Disturbance for a total sum of sixteen hundred dollars, the gate money being divided behundred dollars, the gate money being divided between the owners of the horses and the proprietor of the park, Mr. Joseph Duggan. The day was a beautiful one, not a cloud specking the sky, and the track could not possibly have been better. Unlike the previous day when apparently it had been left almost uncared for yesterday the course had been escraped and roile. Mr. Duggan was in the judge's box and Mr. Charles Boyie held the watch. Both horse and mare came to the post in capital trim. In fact Bonnie Bird never looked better in her life and as she proudly paced to and fro on the track before the contest she appeared even then like a winner. Some of the knowing ones declared Disturbance was a bit off, but a close seasning of him failed to show any signs of offiah. ness, and he did not move like a sore animal. He may have been a triffe stale, and from the manner in which he sweated we should be disposed to say he was, but a lusty horse like the son of Terror and Lucy screely needs to be drawn quite so fine as more sinewy and wiry animals. Certainly no fault can be found with his trainer on the score that he was not as fit as he might have been. Always a horse that makes hard work of his races, it is possible he has been asked to do too much at too early a date in the season, but that is not the fault of his trainer but of his owners who set him the tasks to do.

Betting was pretty brisk at two to one on the mare tutil shortly before the time for starting when the friends of Disturbance rath r came to his r scue and a shorter price was sken but not to any great extent. It was approaching four o'clock when the friends of Disturbance rath r came to his owners who set him the tasks to do.

Betting was pretty brisk at two to one on the hard and in short order they were pr ty well filled by excited, bust'ing, interested crowds. The Hon. C. I. Douglas was starter. Having taken a preliminary breather past the stands, the pair cantered down to the starting point at the half mile post for

In conclusion Mace says: "When I come back I will try and arrange two events, one for Slade to spar Sullivan, and the other f r me to spar Mitchell, and you will see what the little man can do with the old master of the scientific game of boxing. I am looking for the best man here to bring him with me, and for that parpose will have an exhibition in London, as the swells have asked me, and will give a belt to the winner and a tenner to second best. manded till to-day. Who is It?
From the Canadian Workman of Essex Centre. Somebody in Toronto wants to get pay for bringing in new members, but that was never the intention of those who planned the order. Members don't ask pay for the order. Members don't ask pay for bringing others into the churches and the work of our order has a good deal in common with them. Every brother should have enough interest in his lodge to bring in good members from a higher motive than the receipt of a small fee. The A. O. U.W. is not an institution out of which to make money, and every member should act on the high principles on which it is based.

Building Notes. The building trade is brisk at present. Workmen are scarce, laborers especially. The architects have lots to do.

The London Spectator, whose editors probably have not seen a dozen Chinamen in their lives, speaks of the Chinamen as "the best industriel in the world, who will work sixteen hours a day and put will into his labor all the time;" whereas it was lately stated that a contractor on a western line found he must give up his Chinese laborers, as their work did nat in the end prove nearly as cheap as a white man's, being so ar London, is in a condition of shameful glect. The gravestone is defaced and ken and the fron fencing is completely broken and the iron fencing is completely wrecked. Three gentlemen have united—one of them an Americau—to erect a new memorial and to place on it, as an epitabh, "Here, a sheer hulk, lies poor Tom Bowling." The sailors' songater deserves better treatment than he has found, if only as a memory of the sast.

A large monument of gray granite is to be placed by the queen over the grave of John Brown in the kirkyard of Crathie. A cairn is to be erected to his memory somewhere near Balmoral—probably one of the neighboring mountains. In addition to a breast in the prince conserve, managing to a press in the prince conserve mansoieum at Frogmore, it is understood that Brown will be commemorated by a tablet which it is proposed to place in the nave of St. George's chapel.

M. Grevy, the president of the French republic, was christened Francois Judith Paul, but long ere he became a celebrated man, he quietly discarded the burdensome trio and dubbed himself simply Jules. The French law list, however, does not entirely respect his desire for a change of name. While confessing that M. Grevy calls himself and is generally known as Jules, it cruelly points out that he is not really entitled to that name, but is stilly legally fettered to Francois Judith Paul.

At one of the recent performances of Henry VIII. in Paris, in which the actor who plays the part of the king appears wearing the order of the garter, a provincial lady was heard to remark: "Really one lady was heard to remark: "Really one might expect the managers of the grand opers to be more particular about the getup of the players. In Clermont-Terraud, where I came from, if an actor took the liberty, as M. Lasalle does, to appear in character of a king wearing only one garter, he would be hissed off the stage, and serve him sight too." erve him right, too."

Condemnation is aroused in Illinois because a project of law affecting important and extensive rights of property was brought into the legislative chamber by a member who refused to stand as its sponsor, and declared that he knew nothing about it, having "found it on his desk." In the English legislature no bill is received unless sponsored by the government or by two members of the house, and in the latter case only upon leave granted. It is ter case only upon leave granted. It is thus made impossible for any measure to be introduced without a responsibility for it resting upon somebody within the reach and power of the chamber.

A suicidal epidemic has made its appearance in the arrondissement of Perigueux, in France, no fewer than thirty-three suicides having taken place since Jan. 1 in a population of about 116,000. This gives the extraordinarily high annual rate of over 730 per million inhabitants, or more than four and a half times the average rate for four years throughout all France. Of these 33 suicides, 8 were by hanging, 8 by drowning and 7 with firearms. It is found that 18 out of every 100 Frenchmen and women who take away their own lives do so bewho take away their own lives do so be-cause of physical suffering. And it would seem that women bear pain better than men, for the proportion of such suicides are 25 men to 7 women.

Mme. Edmond Adam, the editress of the Mme. Edmond Adam, the editress of the Paris Nouvelle Revue, and the lady whose salon is so famous in that city, gave a few days since at her farm at Abbaye de Gif, in the pretty valley of Chevreuse, a garden party, which was quite an artistic event. Mme. Adam, in aid of the sufferers from the inundations in Alsace-Lorraine, had appealed to 100 of the most eminent arsists and sculptors of the day. These artists and sculptors, among whom figured Henner, Bonnat, Belcourt, Bouguereau, Carolus, Duran, Millet, Franceski, and many others, had responded to her appeal, and gave her a number of works, which were so many gems. Mme. Adam issued 1000 tickets at 100 francs a piece, and sent the 100,000 francs to the sufferers.

Prof. Jeffries, the expert in color blind-

Prof. Jeffries, the expert in color blindness. says that the colors commonly used for railroad and steamboat signals—red and green—are the ones that color blind people cannot distinguish. The deeper the shade, the more these colors are assimilated to gray. From tests on the eyes of 30,000 men, he finds that four per cent. are color blind, while in women the ratio is only one-quarter of one per cent. The ratio is mainblind, while in women the ratio is only one-quarter of one per cent. The ratio is main-tained in all nations. Color blindness is in-curable. People affected by it recognize yellow snd blue readily, but in red and green can only distinguish different degrees ot light. Color blindness is hereditary to this extent—that the children of the daugh-ters of color blind people will be affected but not the immediate descendants.

Playfolly g mb ing round,
Was mischievously naughty on the street,
As Susan often found.

And when the sexton shut it out, It frisked and cap red near, Roaming impatently about Till susan should appear.

"What makes the wind plague Susan so?"
Kind he rted young men cried;
""Cause Sus in d. n t object, you know,"
An eldderly maid repu. d.

He kissed me -did I dream it?
Ah, to-day how can I say?
For in summer's starry stillness,
If a dream, 'tis passed away.

And yet, I think this morning,
Whether wrong or whether right,
If I only drea ned he kissed me,
Way, I hope I'll dream to night.

From The Drummer,
A saloon, keeper in a wild western town

ber of the church, but continued at his business, which he proposed to run in a proper manner. One night a crowd of cowboys congregated in his place, and after filling up they began to be very boisterous.
"Hold on, boys," said the saloonist,
this is no place for such riotous conduct.
You know I have experienced a change of heart, and am now an advocate of peace."
"Oh, give he a slack on that chia music," howled the crowd. "We don't want no gospel grease spread on to our hair."
"But, boys, I don't want you to be so of the Rockies! I'm a man of peace; of meek and gentle humility; but this old gun of mine is just what she used to be, and the first d—d skunk of a cowboy that don't like my style will git it right where it will do the most good. I've started in to live the new life, and I propose to act in accordance with it, and any white-livered cyote that raises a howl will chaw dust in five seconds and not be able to spit it out. I'll be d—d if I am't going to run this sheebang on strictly religious principles or shut her up. Now git out o' here quick; there's the church bell, and I've got to conduct the services. You
