On recommendation of the fire wardens of the Victoria, B. C. city council each member of the fire department of that city will be insured in the sum of $1,000 against accidents at a cost of $7.50 per man per annum. CORRESPONDENCE

AN APPRECIATION.

Dear Monitor-Sentinel:—
At their meeting held at the hospitable home of Mrs. and Dr. Armstrong, Friday evening, 29th ult, the Epworth League presented to Madam Lily Hambley-Hobbs, these hearty thanks for her kindness in so materially assisting in the Recital given under their patronage on Thursday evening last. At the close of the church service Sunday evening I took occasion to extend to Mrs. Hobbs the thanks of the church for so generously and gratuitously coming to our aid. Today, with your kind permission I will use a brief space in your bright busy columns to extend the thanks of the League to all who helped to make the recital such a splendid success. It would be imposing upon your liberality to ask for room in which to mention by name the various friends to whom we are so indebted, therefore, I will in this general way ask each individual who assisted in the concert to accept our sincere and hearty thanks. I know Dominion Government Brings Down a Bill for the Advancement of Agriculture and Above Amount Will be Spent This Summer.

(Truro Citizen.)

Rumors have been prevalent during the past few days of big improvements and extensions at the Agricultural Farm.

From good authority we learn that this summer $25,000 will be spent there in the erection of a building to provide more and better accommodation for the ever-increasing number of students who are flocking to Truro for the improvement of their knowledge of agriculture. The Dominion government, acting according to their pre-election promise, have brought down a bill for the improvement and encouragement of agriculture in Canada.

This money which will be voted will be divided among the different provinces and this year, owing to the

Epworth League Concert

Providence Methodist Church Choir, Assisted by English Prima Donna and Local Talent Gives Successful Recital

One of the most interesting and successful events of the season was the Recital given in Providence Methodist church on Thursday evening last under the auspices of the Epworth League. The fine well-trained choir of the church was appreciably assisted by other local talent, by Miss Dodge, violinist of Middleton and Madam Lily Hambley-Hobbs, an English prima donna, the wife of Rev. Mr. Hambley-Hobbs, who gave her assistance for the benefit of the League and in doing so furnished a delightful treat to the music-

Madam Hobbs would sing, resulted in packing the church to the doors. This service was heartily enjoyed and an inspiration to all present. The pastor, Rev. B. J. Porter gave an interesting address on Hymns and their origin, and in the course of it, referring to the power of music, expressed his opinion that if there were "more hymnology and less theology" in the churches there would be more harmony and less strife between the sects, and church union would be perceptibly promoted thereby. Two solos were given by Madam Hobbs, who may be sure of a warm welcome if she ever returns to Bridgetown.

The program of the Epworth League concert is herewith appended:

- Organ Voluntary—Mrs. A. R. Bishop.
- Choir
- Violin Solo—"Ye Banks of Bonnie Doon," Miss B. S. Dodge
- Vocal solo—"My Ain Folk," Madam Lily Hambley-Hobbs.
- Vocal Duet—"Tarry with us," Miss M. Dearness and Mr. F. R. Beckwith.
- Reading—"Prince Eric's Christ-Maid," Mrs. W. A. Warren.
- Vocal Solo—"He was despised," Madam Hobbs.
- Violin—"Theme de Mercadante," Miss Dodge
- Vocal Solo—"Hear my Cry O Lord"—Mr. F. R. Beckwith.
- Vocal Solo—"Nearer my God to Thee," Mrs. H. Ruggles.
- Anthem—"Seek ye the Lord," Choir
- Vocal Solo—"Abide with me," Madam Hobbs.

TWO INJURED BY LANTERN EXPLOSION.

Rev. H. L. Haslam and Thos. Campbell Victims of Peculiar Accident Near Liverpool.

Liverpool, N. S., March 29—While giving a series of lantern views, on the life of Christ, in the Hunt's Point church, last night, Rev. H. L. Haslam, Rector of this Parish, with Thos. Campbell, who was assisting him, were seriously burned about the head and arms, by an explosion of acetylene gas in the machine. Sydney Smith brought them to town, arriving here at ten o'clock last night, and Dr. C. B. Trites was at once called to attend to their wounds. The Rector's vision was saved by his eyeglasses. The accident does away with his Holy Week work and the elaborate programme of Easter music, that

PEOPLE are becoming very careful about what they eat and drink—
The preference for goods in sealed packages—especially in food stuffs—is now quite definite and becoming more so every day.

We must frankly admit that there are sound reasons for this preference. Food stuffs cannot be exposed to varying atmospheric conditions without losing both strength and flavor. Tea—of all articles of everyday diet (excepting coffee, perhaps) needs protection most, and best merchants have been quick to appreciate the fact. So much is this the case that the selling of loose Tea in bulk will soon be a thing of the past.

RED ROSE TEA reaches you with all its virginal flavor, strength and purity—
It is sealed in air-tight packages—dust and damp-proof—
RED ROSE is a blend of the best Indian and Ceylon Teas.

The former assures generous strength and richness—the latter that coaxing, delicate flavor, Qualities for which Red Rose Tea is famed.

for 1912, which was rendered for $50.00 was allowed at $40.00.

The rate book for the year 1912, as approved by the Finance Committee of the Council who were appointed on March 27th, 1912, to revise and correct the same, was laid before the Council by the Clerk, and it was thereupon resolved that the first day of June next 1912 be fixed by the Council as the date on or before which the rates rated and set down in such book in respect to property and income, should be payable.

And it was further resolved that any person, firm, company, association or corporation paying to the town treasurer the amount of his tax or its taxes on or before such date shall be entitled to a reduction of five per cent. thereon. Also resolved that interest at the rate of five per cent per annum shall be charged on any rates and taxes or balances thereof that are unpaid after the first day of October, 1912, and such shall be added to the unpaid rates and taxes or balances thereof due from any person, firm, company, association or corporation.

The water committee reported favorably on the advisability and probable cost, after inspection, of damming the outlet at the Crookill Lake to increase the water supply. A resolution was passed agreeing that a dam be built as soon as practicable at an approximate cost of $50.00 under the supervision of the water committee.

The fire department having asked the Council for new hose, a resolution was passed agreeing to the purchase.

of no more practical manner in which to express to these kind friends our appreciation of their services than by saying that when next Mrs. Hobbs comes to help us in a concert we shall ask all who took part in the exercises of last Thursday evening to again favor us.

Yours faithfully,

OUR FISHERMEN

Dear Editor:—
I have noticed for some time past, through the columns of Monitor-Sentinel, that your Port Wade correspondent seems to be laboring under a false impression regarding our Canadian fish market. He seems to think our fishermen would have fared better had we gotten Reciprocity. I wonder what he thinks of what has been going on in Digby for the last few months. The fine schooner "Dorothy M. Smart" commanded by Capt. Austen Longmire, of Hillsburn, landed on March 6th, 100,000 lbs. of mixed fish, the crew sharing $76.40, and again on March 24th, another good trip, the crew sharing $62.23. These were sold to the Maritime Fish Incorporation at Digby. The former commander of the Smart, Capt. Harry Ross, thinking he would do better under the Stars and Stripes, has taken charge of an American vessel, while Capt. Longmire has reaped a harvest. We are anxious to hear from him again, as he is now on another trip. We have other skippers who have done equally as well, Capt. Amos Snow and Capt. Wm. Snow, so we do not consider it necessary for our "better class" of fishermen to be driven to the United States in order to make their fortunes.

SUBSCRIBER.

lateness of the session, the bill is incomplete, and only a part of the yearly grant to the provinces will be placed in the estimates.

However, Nova Scotia is to get $35,000 in 1912 and of this amount $25,000 is to be expended in Truro this coming summer.

In 1913 the Province of Nova Scotia will receive $70,000, to be devoted to the advancement of agriculture.

This money will be spent in the erection of another college building, etc. So The Citizen has much pleasure in making the announcement that Truro's boom will be even more extensive than the most optimistic had looked for, and when we consider that the amount expended on public buildings this year will tally up to a third of a million dollars, the most confirmed croaker must lose his pessimistic expression.

IMPORTANT PROPERTY SALES.

Several property sales of importance have taken place during the week. Mr. C. F. DeWitt has sold his farm on the north side of Granville street, the former DeWitt homestead, to Mr. Zachary Phinney, who will improve and occupy it, having disposed of a portion of his own farm, Bridgetown East, to his son, Mr. Burpee Phinney.

The pleasant residential property of Mr. E. G. Largely on South Queen street has been sold to Mr. Timothy Chipman, the well-known fur dealer, who will be warmly welcomed as a resident of Bridgetown.

Mr. L. D. Shafner has sold his home some residence to one of Bridgetown's enterprising merchants, Mr. C. I. Piggott.

The Most Gigantic Eye of All

There is to be placed in the observatory on Mount Wilson, in California, the largest telescope by far that has ever been constructed. Hitherto, the instrument erected at Parsonstown in Ireland, by Lord Rosse, nearly seventy years ago, has held the first place in size among those searchers of the heavens, but the one now proposed leaves the Parsonstown monster a bad second. Like the Rosse telescope, the new one will be a reflector, that is instead of being provided with an object glass like the Yerkes instrument or like the ordinary spy-glass, it will be provided with a concave mirror or parabolic curve which will collect the rays of light from the heavenly bodies and focus them at one point at which there will be an eye-piece or microscope to magnify the image thus formed. While the Rosse mirror was six feet in diameter, that of the Hooker telescope will be slightly over eight feet. It will be made of glass without flaw, ground to the required shape and polished and coated with silver or amalgam and placed in position at the bottom of a tube or container, which shall be mounted in such a manner as to be perfectly steady and easily movable in any direction. Objects at which we gaze appear large or small according to the amount of light coming from them which can enter the pupil of the eye. If an eye existed large enough to catch all the rays of light sent out from one hemisphere of the sun, that body would appear as if within twelve or fourteen inches of the eye, in all its conceivable magnitude. The average human pupil is about one-fifth of an inch in diameter, and a telescopic mirror of one hundred inches in diameter will have an area sufficient to collect a quarter of a million times more light than the unaided human eye. This means that the gigantic instrument will increase the brightness of distant objects to this extent and at the same time penetrate into space and bring into view stars hitherto undiscerned and situated at such fabulous distances that it would take 150,000 years for their light to travel to the earth at its known speed of 186,000 miles a second. The maximum limit of the magnification applicable to the image formed by either an object glass or a concave mirror is one hundred times for every inch of diameter of said objective or mirror. The Hooker telescope, with the one hundred inch mirror, would thus theoretically bear a magnification of ten thousand diameters or one hundred million superficial areas. Such a magnification would bring the moon within an apparent distance of only twenty-four miles and the sun within 9500 miles. Such powers, however, can never be practically used because of atmosphere and other conditions. Under the best conditions a power of two or three thousand diameters might be used, and this with the tremendous light-gathering surface of the Hooker mirror would yield such glories to the human sight as never yet have been revealed. The moon will show details of its surface with a clearness hitherto unapproached. The so-called "canals" of Mars may reveal their true nature, the belts of Jupiter and the Saturnian rings unveil their mysteries, and the terrific movements on the solar surface permit of thorough investigation.

When this most gigantic eye of all is turned upon the remotest orb outside our planetary system, the double and multiple stars and the wonderful nebulae will be studied with advantages never hitherto approached, not merely by direct vision but by means of celestial photography and the still more marvellous spectroscopic record. The mirror is to be paid for by Mr. John D. Hooker, of Los Angeles, and the instrument will be known as the Hooker telescope. The mounting will be done at the expense of the Carnegie Institution. The St. Gobain factory of Paris is at work on the manufacture of a disk of glass, homogeneous and flawless, for the huge mirror, and report hath it that the required article will be ready before very long. This marks the apogee of the reflecting telescope, and its unqualified success is likely to decide the final victory of the mirror over the object less of the refractor; and in its construction and possession, the United States will be honored beyond all the honor accruing from the construction and possession of all the implements of destruction shapen by the hand of man - Recorder.

WANTS FERTILIZER OFFERED AT COST.

R. G. Murray Says it is the Only Way Farmers Can Have a Chance.

(St. John Telegraph, Mar. 22.) R. G. Murray, who went to Fredericton last evening on legal business expects to press upon the provincial government, while there, the importance of adopting the suggestion made at the meeting of the Farmers' and Dairymen's Association that chemical fertilizer be made and supplied to farmers at cost to the government.

Mr. Murray believes that this policy is the solution of the problem of filling up the vacant farms of the province. What possible chance is there for the new settler without capital to make a living for himself and his family during the first two years he is on one of these farms? said Mr. Murray in speaking of the matter. "The farm is grown up in wire grass which is worth nothing and it cannot be cropped without fertilizer or manure which the newcomer certainly has not got on the farm. The very highest profit that can be made by growing crops with chemical fertilizer is $40 an acre and on poor soil under unfavorable conditions the margin will be a great deal less, probably not more than $12 an acre. If the farmer pays $40 a ton for fertilizer you can see he will never get a start, whereas if the government could provide the fertilizer at about $23 a ton he would stand a better chance. This recommendation was made to the agricultural commission but so far has never been acted upon."

MARRIED IN PLYMPTON

A quiet, but pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning, the 27th, at the home of the late Mr. Joshua Potter, when his third daughter, Estella A., was united in marriage to Mr. Owen E. Currell, of Bridgetown, Annapolis Co., N.S. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wm. Nightingale, of Weymouth, in the presence of only the immediate relatives. The bride, who was unattended, was becomingly gowned in a navy blue broadcloth travelling suit. After the ceremony and congratulations breakfast was served, the happy couple leaving on the D. A. R. train for their home in Bridgetown. The bride was the recipient of many useful and beautiful presents, showing the esteem in which she was held in the community and elsewhere. The bride, who has many friends on the Bay, will be greatly missed, especially in the churches where she took an active part, being a member of the choir, also of the B.Y.P.U. All join in extending best wishes.

Monarchical Socialism in Germany

Aristocratic socialism and its works, far as they go when observed from more individualistic countries, are rejected by thoroughgoing collectivism as trifling with a great cause. The Emperor and his advisers of the state socialistic school are looked upon as having harnessed a wonderful verity to the service of monarchy and of a modified individualism. Imperial socialism is regarded as vitalizing sick and fading institutions, as hindering the passage of economic and political forms that have been essential to progress but are ceasing to be so. Governmental socialism repels that class socialism from below is a monster of teeth and claws without a brain, tearing at the national life, that the driving emotions are hatred, covetousness, envy and silly destructiveness. Monarchical socialism for all the fervor of the republican collectivist and their numbers occupies positions of commanding strength. The agitators of the Social Democratic party, the possibilities of real danger in the movement, face the monarchists to efficiency and prudence in administration. Hostile criticism searches out the weak places in the system and they are repaired by the government. The constant effort is to make the monarchy with large powers a rational and ethical general manager of a joint-stock company. Mere numbers do not appear to count against trained talent, placed so abundantly at the disposition of the government, especially, when talent takes care to act upon standard principles. Were the large officer class indolent and self-indulgent instead of being kept working up to the edge of nervous strain, or were the permanent civil servant class concerning public money and incapables, or were ambitious devotion to the Crown working haphazard and not according to plan, the tide from below might submerge them. More than all, the prosperity of Germany, while it has demonstrated that the rich are getting richer, has not demonstrated that the poor are getting poorer. The prosperity of the country and the arrangements of the state for allowing the mass of workers to work to spare somewhat in it, have lifted the whole people except the sad thin strata of the unemployed and inefficient at the bottom.

In a monarchist and aristocratic country the principles of socialism have behind them the emotional forces that have won the long battles for political liberty in England and by inheritance in the United States. The thinkers find in it a new day and as a projected system of government and political economy it engaged the hopes and the imaginations of those who see the failures and limitations of the things that are. I know nothing like German socialism in the politics of other countries. The grip it has on the thoughts and emotions of the men and the women who have equal rights within the party. The party organization is quite extraordinary, extraordinary for immediate results in the campaign and more for the long look ahead. The mothers and fathers are persuaded that, while material ease and happy social conditions will most likely never be theirs, their children may win them if they know how to take hold of the levers that the socialist party offers to their hands. These for, the child must learn the meaning of socialism and all that it may do for himself and his class. Socialist mothers undertake to put their children on the path. Numerous little stories and romances with a social moral are in circulation for young people and the socialist lecturer with magnetic lantern entertains and informs. Dramatic and operatic performances, all socialist motive, are given in all cities of importance. Pictures, texts and mottoes with the party thrill in them are on the walls of half a million dwellings. The party owns seventy-six daily newspapers, a press association several illustrated periodicals, and fifty-seven publishing houses. The literature, including a considerable range of excellent non-socialistic books, is immense. The party has two hundred central circulating libraries and three hundred and seventy-seven branches. The management of the party acts upon the principle that all stimulating scientific, poetic, philosophic and romantic literature advances the cause. A variety of special books, designed to detract from the reverence and respect for the Emperor taught in the schools, are circulated. They are written boldly, yet with caution sufficient to keep them within the laws against lese majeste and sedition. From "Monarchical versus Red Socialism in Germany," by Elmer Roberts, in the April Scribner.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY

"Newspapers are vital things in the life of the people, and especially for business men, and that is the reason why we are contemplating their use as an advertising medium in preference to magazines," said Mr. William Kemple, of the Star Safety Razor Company. "The real value of advertising anything intended for use by men comes from using a medium, which enters into their daily lives. Every man reads a newspaper, and an advertisement in it prepared in an attractive way is bound to be read. We can advertise daily or as often as we feel inclined and in the course of a single month could tell our story in many different ways."

Old and New Christians

There are some Old Testament Christians. Their Bible reading has not progressed much beyond the sixth verse of the fourth chapter of Malachi. Their creed is "an eye for an eye," "a tooth for a tooth," "smite and spare not." If they are Catholics, Torquemada is their favorite saint. If they are Protestants, they approve of John Calvin. The plan of Moses, as set forth in the ninth chapter of Leviticus, to exempt the Israelites from punishment for their sins, meets with their hearty indorsement. They would like even at this late day to get a kid, and a calf, and a lamb, and cut the throats of the little bleating innocent things, and pour their blood upon the altar and roast their flesh and so atone for all the lying and cheating and slandering and swearing of which they had been guilty during the week; besides having tender roasted meat for their Sunday dinners, with... hash for breakfast on Monday morning.

These Old Testament Christians reveal in the gospel of despair that Isaiah preached. They love to recall the fourteenth chapter of that book wherein the prophet reminded the Hebrews that the Lord had "smitten them in wrath with a continual stroke," that he had "ruled the nations in anger," and "persecuted, and none hindered." For the future He promised to prepare "slaughter for his children for the iniquity of their fathers, that they do not rise nor possess the land nor fill the face of the world with cities." He promised to "rise up against them, and cut off the name, and remnant, and son and nephew, and make of their land a possession for the bittern and pools of water and sweep it with the besom of destruction. He said to them: "Hell from beneath is moved for thee, to meet thee at thy coming." "Thou shalt be brought down to hell to the sides of the pit." These cheerful recitals of Isaiah are sweet morsels to those who do not seem to recognize the fact that the Old Testament theology of hate and revenge was superseded with the gospel of love and forgiveness taught by Jesus of Nazareth. The central thought of the faith which He inculcated is expressed in His prayer: "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us." He said: "Go, and sin no more." "Thy sins are forgiven thee." "Love one another." He made the blind to see, the lame to walk and the deaf to hear. His commandment was to "love thy neighbor as thyself," and while hanging to the cross in agony, He cried: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

May it not be truthfully said of many men and women who err that "they know not what they do?" Is it not a fact recognized by human experience that deceit, and dishonesty and many sins of commission and omission are often faults of temperament imparted by heredity, or faults of education which are the offspring of environment? The wisest and best of us may need forgiveness. How can we ask if we refuse to forgive? How can we expect kindness and love from some people, if our hearts are filled with unkindness and hate for others? Well did Paul say: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and angels, and have not love, I am become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal." "Love suffereth long and is kind. Bearerth all things, believeth all things, endureth all things." - Los Angeles Times.

COIN IN THE AIR

Big Money to Be Made in the Manufacture of Aeroplanes.

Obviously the most immediate buyer of aeroplanes in quantities must be the British Government. Our War Office admits that we must have all aeroplanes in quantities, and is offering a bonus of $375 to every officer who gets his aviator's certificate, says an English writer. Under this scheme we shall have some hundreds of officers-aviators in the course of the next few months, and hundreds more will follow them. Some one has got to supply the machines to mount them when trained. Those machines can be built and sold to the Government at a profit. The firms who build them will grow and grow as the need for machines increases, and the capitalists who back those firms will reap the benefit.

The ordinary man does not buy field guns or torpedo boats, but the firms who make such things make handsome profits for their shareholders. France has already over 250 military aeroplanes, and M. Messimy, French War Minister, said, only the other day, that this was merely a beginning, and that he foresaw a time when every battery of artillery would have with it light, fast aeroplanes, carrying one man each, to act as range finders, and to communicate the effects of artillery fire.

Every infantry and cavalry brigade will have its air-scout section. And there will be big, fast machines, carrying two or three or four men each, which will do the long-distance scouting far into the enemy's country. Such machines will be needed in hundreds. The army will be a larger buyer when once certain little obstacles have been overcome. One stumbling-block is an institution called the Army Air-craft Factory, originally the "Army Balloon Factory." It has built, so far as I can gather, two aeroplanes. One killed its pilot, the other is of the type which has the engine behind, and is regarded as obsolete for military purposes by everyone with practical experience. Some little dirigible balloons have also been built there, but the last and most ambitious effort is an abject failure.

Now, this "factory" has to justify its existence, and I learn from very reliable sources that it is the present intention of the War Office to obtain the best aeroplane existing, by offering a large cash prize for competition, open to the world, and then to give the winning machine to the "factory" to copy, as the experts there have proved their inability to design a satisfactory machine.

But hardly any constructor will be so foolish as to spend money and brains in designing and testing a machine simply to provide a model for an incompetent Government department. Col. Seely has already announced that the conditions for a competition are practically drawn up, and British constructors have naturally concluded that this competition will be confined to all-British machines, just as the recent French military trials were confined to all-French machines, and that, as in France, the winners will receive large orders.

It is, therefore, probable that the question will be taken up in Parliament, and that the intentions of the moment may be altered under pressure from those far-seeing members who realize that the safety of our army in our next great war, and the saving of many lives in our next little war, must depend on an adequate supply of efficient aeroplanes. As soon as this question is satisfactorily settled, the man who has money to invest and who can wait for a year or so for his first profit, can safely put his spare hundreds and thousands into an aeroplane business which has shown its ability to turn out machines suitable for military purposes.

All Happens In a Second.

A second is the smallest division of time in general use, and when we consider that in one year there are about 31,536,000 of these periods it would certainly seem as if it was enough for all practical purposes. But, after all, a good deal can happen in the fraction of a second. A light wave, for instance, passes through a distance of about 186,000 miles in this length of time. A current of electricity has probably an even greater speed. The earth in itself moves in its orbit at a rate of about twenty miles a second. A tuning fork of the French standard vibrates 370 times per second to produce the note A on the treble staff.

For Cramps.

A piece of old-fashioned candle wick worn around the leg in the garter, placed next to the skin will prevent or cure cramp in the calf of the leg or in the foot. I have proved this by personal experience. I believe this would prove effectual in preventing swimmers' cramp. Those liable to cramp while in the water would be wise to try it. Cotton batting wrapped around the body from the armpits downward saved the life of a man suffering agony from painters' cramp. It gave instant relief.

Having a Hard Time.

"Here I've been running for years," said the hall clock, "and I haven't moved an inch. I wouldn't mind that so much, but ever evening about 8.30 the young lady of the family turns me back because she says I'm too fast, and then in the morning the old man comes along and grumbles because I'm too slow."

Dangerous.

"Why don't you praise that sausage mors?" demanded the grocer. "That sausage is all right." "It doesn't pay to praise sausage too highly," retorted the new clerk. "It might wag its tail."

Deep Joke.

She - Miss Hawty's dimple is awfully deep, isn't it? Looks like a gimlet hole. He - Perhaps that's what gives her such a bored expression.

Facts About Indigestion and its Relief That Should Interest You.

Although indigestion and dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure.

We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it.

We want every one troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets.

In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary.

M. K. PIPER

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3, 1912.

Bridgetown's citizens and the county generally will be interested in the report given elsewhere of the meeting of the executive of the Nova Scotia Horticultural Exhibition which is a joint Exhibition for Annapolis, Kings and Hants counties and which has but once previously been held in Bridgetown.

The 1911 Exhibition was held in Wolfville and was said to excel any previous Exhibition. The Monitor is indebted to the Maritime Farmer for the cut illustrating the fruit show on that occasion which is published on our front page.

It augurs well for the success of the 1912 Exhibition that the Executive comprises a number of our best business men and progressive citizens and that they have shown such good judgment in the selection of the various officers and in the appointment of committees.

The location of the Exhibition building has not been chosen. There is a movement afoot to acquire a driving park and athletic association grounds. Two sites are under consideration, one in proximity to the old driving park, the other near the railway station. If the former is chosen the apple ware house on the Church Road will be chosen for the Exhibition building, if the site near the station, the ware house at the station will be used for Exhibition purposes.

The site near the old driving park seems to be more favored, one reason being that it would be an advantage to have visitors pass through the town to reach the Exhibition grounds as otherwise they might not get a favorable and true impression of the town.

The decision of the Executive to hold a separate floral show will meet with general approval and it is hoped that every resident of the county who can have a garden will plan to contribute towards making this show a success.

In consequence of the vigilance of the Scott Act Inspector, the hotels in Annapolis have closed their doors.

Read carefully the real estate offers in these columns if looking for a farm or residence. See classified list page seven.

Commencing next Sunday (Easter Day) and continuing until further notice, the evening services in all the churches will begin at 7.30.

The re-construction by the C.P.R. of the Bear River railway bridge will begin shortly and a fine steel structure or solid masonry will replace the one now standing.

Anyone looking for a fine residential town property costing less than $5,000, or for a smaller one costing less than $2,500 should consult the editor of Monitor-Sentinel.

The Synod of the diocese of Nova Scotia meets in Halifax next week. The lay representatives of the parish of Bridgetown will be Mr. A. F. Hiltz and the Hon. O. T. Daniels.

Miss Blanche Dodge of Middleton, was the guest of Miss Mary Palfrey last week and rendered some violin selections at the recital in the Methodist church, which added considerably to the interest of the program.

A bill was introduced in the provincial legislature last week providing for an expenditure of half a million dollars on the roads of the province. It is expected that a considerable mileage of permanent road will be constructed this year.

The several departments of the public school, with the exception of Principal Bustin's department closed yesterday noon, to allow the teachers the opportunity of attending the Teachers' Institute at Middleton. The schools will not reopen until after Easter.

Another liquor seizure was made in Annapolis last week. It was made at the railway station by Scott Act Inspector MacDonald, consigned from Montreal to the order L. E. Wilson & Co., and taken to the county jail for safekeeping until otherwise disposed of. — Spectator.

The interior of the store of J. W. Beckwith has been thoroughly renovated since the disastrous fire which so badly damaged it, and presents a bright, attractive appearance. A new plate glass window was put in yesterday to replace the one which was cracked by the heat of the flames.

At a public meeting of ratepayers of Digby recently they decided to spend over $25,000, viz.: $5,500 for school purposes; $300 to advertise the town as a tourist resort, hunting, manufacturing and fishing centre, and $15,000 to buy out the present electric light plant from John Daley and operate the same as a municipal system.

Three men giving their names as Smith, Cobb and Neary were arrested near Digby last Wednesday by a posse of Weymouth citizens, on the accusation of burglary and lodged in Digby jail. They were unknown to Digby county, but it is rumored that they are not strangers in Annapolis County, though known by different names from those given, and that one is a well-known escaped convict.

A private letter requests the Monitor to announce the death of John W. Jenness of Lynn, which occurred some weeks since, by a fall from a ladder while engaged at his work, which was that of building contractor. He fell upon his head fracturing his skull and never regained consciousness, passing away in the hospital. Mrs. Jenness has many friends and acquaintances in the county who will sympathize with her in her affliction.

The work of rebuilding the old bank mark on Queen street, formerly owned by the late John L. Cox, now the property of R. Allan Crowe, has been commenced. Both exterior and interior will be thoroughly rebuilt and a fine modern block with plate glass front, will take the place of the old stand which has served its day. The new establishment will be the quarters of Crowe, Elliott & Co., the incorporated hardware company, having other branches in Middleton and Annapolis.

The funeral was very large, the mills and places of business being closed to enable the men to attend. Rev. Mr. Raymond preached the funeral sermon, speaking highly of the estimable character of the deceased. His favorite hymn, "Jesus lover of my soul," was sung by the choir to the accompaniment of the organ. He leaves a widow and one daughter, besides father, mother, four sisters and three brothers to mourn their sad loss.—COM.

S. P. C. Case

A case was brought before Mr. Elias Messenger, Stipendiary Magistrate, yesterday in which a man named Harris Wilkins was charged with cruelty to his child, a little girl of six years. Some kind-hearted neighbors knowing of his having beaten the child unmercifully, made complaint which resulted in having the man brought before the magistrate, who imposed upon him a fine of $15.00 or an alternative of two months in jail. Crown prosecutor, J. Irvin conducted the case. The man made no defence and pleaded guilty.

The Case of Alcohol vs. The Young Man

We are justified in insisting to all young men who come under our influence that not one of us is fully aware of the latent weakness to which we may be susceptible in regard to our drink-craving.

What ghastly variety we find about the periods of life at which men may take to drink, and how strange are the recurrences of the drink habit after long intervals of abstinence.

Gentle nurture, good upbringing, the possession of a charming character—which is amiable, intelligent aesthetic, even chivalrous—happy home life, golden prospects, not one of these gifts is any guarantee against grievous failure in this besetting sin.

And there is this one deadly characteristic about over-indulgence in alcohol—that the eyes of the victim be come blinded, so that he of ten fails to realize, first this danger, and then the gravity of his fall.

I have spoken throughout of the unjustifiable custom of what I have called intermediate drinking, but may we not now go one step further and beg our young friends to learn both by precept and example that the greatest safety and the greatest satisfaction come from abstinence in their social evening gatherings and at ordinary periods.

This is not asceticism it is reasonable and manly prudence. It means self-control, and a sacrifice of a definite pleasure and of a certain amount of the social amenities of civilization. But let us never forget that the law of sacrifice underlies the best endeavors and the best achievements of our lives.—Sir Thomas Barlowe.

AGE OF THE EARTH.

Prof. Frank Allen of Manitoba University, stated in a lecture on "The Age of the Earth," in Winnipeg that radium had upset all the theories on this subject. "Lord Kelvin," said he "who computed that the earth was 20,000,000 years old, declared that unless some new way of producing heat in the earth's surface could be found his calculations were correct."

"Such a new way has actually been discovered in radium which has the power of giving out heat without diminishing in weight. One pound of radium would keep a house warm for 2,000 years. Radium is scattered throughout the earth's surface, and, therefore, Lord Kelvin's calculations are worthless.

"Radium gives off helium, and helium is scattered throughout the earth's crust," added Prof. Allen. "The amount of helium given off by an actual piece of rock could easily be measured. By comparing the amount of radium and of helium in a piece of rock it would be possible to form an estimate of the earth's age, and if this were done it would be found that the earth was over 1,500,000,000 years old."

TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND MINERS IN FOUR STATES TO-QUIT WORK ON APRIL 1st.

Cleveland, March 20—All the mines in the bituminous coal fields of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, will shut down on April 1st, and 200,000 miners will quit work for at least two weeks, according to the operators and miners union officials who conferred here today. It will not be a strike, they say, but merely a suspension of operations pending negotiations for a two-year wage scale to follow the present one which expires March 31st.

BOMB MAKERS MEET DEATH

Oporto, Portugal, March 21—Five men were killed and nine others wounded by the bomb explosions which occurred in the suburb of Miragal. Among the dead is a barber named Costo, who was the real leader of the party organized for the defence of the republic. He was engaged with the others in manufacturing bombs, the ultimate use of which is not known.

Colonel Hughes And The Cadets

As promoted by Hon. Colonel Hughes the school cadet organization should exercise a powerful influence for good on the rising and future generations. The Minister himself classes his movement with our schools, churches and philanthropic institutions generally, as operating positively for the benefit of the community, and for the advancement of civilization.

Educationalists recognize that children derive marked physical, mental and moral advantages from drill and calisthenics. The training proves salutary. Those subjected to the discipline are observed to carry themselves well, and to possess increased self-control. In an age when parental authority appears to be weakening, the cadet system teaches growing lads the invaluable lesson of prompt, and rational obedience. The trained lad shows the result of the discipline in that he is not led into evil habits. He is not likely to recruit the criminal ranks.

Far better spend time and money on such constructive work than increase our expenditures on police, prisons and other agencies of restraint and punishment. Incidentally Colonel Hughes' plan means that at some time in the future Canada is threatened by an enemy, the Dominion will be full of men who as mere boys learned the essentials of national self-defence. This ideal is the very antithesis of militarism. A nation, the electors of which know how to unite on short notice for the defence of their country and their homes, is never likely to fall under the control of a professional soldiery class or to develop a large standing army.

The first step towards placing the movement on a wider national basis is to be made during 1912. Preparations are under way to train 40,000 cadets in summer camps. The Minister's plans bespeak the co-operation of school inspectors and school teachers, many of whom are already enthusiastic advocates of the movement.

They are to report the number of boys, between twelve and sixteen years of age, in each Public School section, who desire to attend camp and be trained for a week during the latter part of July or August. The lads will be eligible whether or not they are attending school. When these returns are all in, estimates will be made of the number to be called out in each locality. The cadets from a township or similar unit will form a company, and the companies from a given county, town or city will make up a regiment or a brigade.

All the lads who join will be transported, camped and fed at the public expense, and it is hinted that means will be found of feeding them well. They will have plenty of band music, and the prospect is that a week in a cadet camp will become the favorite holiday of most Canadian youths. Clergymen, male school teachers, militia officers and non-commissioned officers will be welcomed to the camps on the same terms regarding transportation and keep as the cadets themselves. They are expected to be leaders in those games and sports in which the boys will indulge outside of drill hours. No person will be allowed to use intoxicants or tobacco in any form in or about the camps. Parents, guardians and friends will be encouraged to visit encampments to see for themselves the conditions under which the boys are being trained. The chance are that they will be highly satisfied with their inspection, for all the time the lads are in camp they will be surrounded by wholesome influences and given a training that should prove highly stimulating to their better physical, mental and moral being.—Toronto News.

WEALTH IS A HANDICAP.

Son of Rich Father Says it is Hard to Make People Believe He Wants to Hew His Own Way.

Wealth is a serious obstacle in the way of ambitious young men who want to advance themselves by their own merit, according to T. E. Kruttschnitt, assistant superintendent of the Tucson division of the Southern Pacific and a son of Julius Kruttschnitt, director of maintenance of way of the Harriman system. The young man, who donned overalls and acted as an engine wiper when the shoppens struck, put his views today in this form: "The rich man's son who starts out in a humble position as I did is not taken seriously by his fellow-workmen. They think he is following some whim and refuse to believe he is in earnest. To make his own living he has a hard row to hoe."

NO DANGER OF OVER-PRODUCTION.

A careful analysis of the industry of apple-growing justifies the statement that there is no danger of over production for so many years to come that it need better be no one.

According to government statistics, the production of apples for the whole United States decreased twenty-nine million barrels from 1895 to 1909. There is, therefore, considerable production back to the point where it was fifteen years ago. It is well to remember in this connection that the decrease in 1895 was due to the discouragement on the part of the growers in warring against insect pests and fungus diseases. At that time the science of spraying was little known.

A Word in Behalf of Preacher

The preacher of today is just one human man on a job big enough for a half-dozen superhumans, says a provincial exchange. If a carpenter cannot fit two boards together, he had better go and leave coal; fitting boards is all there is to carpentering. So with most occupations; they are single, narrow lives.

But the business of being a preacher is different; it is about a hundred lives wrapped up into one man's task, and it is quite beyond any reasonable human requirement to expect any one individual to come out with a hundred per cent. success on all of them.

Give a moment's clear and honest thought to what a variety of abilities a minister's position demands of him. He needs to be a smooth, fluent orator. He ought to have, not merely words, but ideas too. He needs to be a thinker. He needs a lot of book knowledge, but it is not for him to read books all the time; people will not stand for him unless he is also a "good mixer"—perfectly at home among men. Then he must be an organizer, masterful as a general. But should he show a bit of a general's spirit of command, there is trouble. He must manage people; wholly by persuasiveness—which takes enormous patience.

Then the modern preacher is expected to be a business man—acute, accurate, discreet, and at the same time is expected to be spiritually minded. Just see, then, what a tremendous bundle of qualities you have got. You could make a lawyer, politician, business man, teacher, settlement worker, popular lecturer, author, philosopher, a man-around-town an ascetic, military commander, all out of that combination and have a lot of qualities left over to contribute to a whole line of occupation from family physician to church janitor.

All yet there are many who think that they have hired the whole combination in the pastor of their church and expect to get the benefit of each of these various elements of strength—all out of one man.

If your minister is a good preacher, then you complain that he is a poor organizer; if he's a gentle, comfortable pastor, then you declare, he is swishy-swashy in the pulpit—if he is happy to be a deep student, you insist that he is incomprehensible on Sunday and invidious during the rest of the week. If he's a hearty good fellow to meet, then you repeat that he is not suitable for a minister.

In the meantime the modern preacher is the only man who has a job of which the demands and expectations on the part of those he serves are such as to make it big enough for half-dozen superhumans. When you are hard on the preacher, just give a minute's clear and honest thought to what a variety of abilities a minister's position demands of him.—Yarmouth Times.

JURY ACQUITTED WOMAN OF MURDER CHARGE ON GROUND OF INSANITY

Many Witnesses Were Examined The Court Room Was Crowded When the Jury Rendered the Verdict.

The trial of Mrs. Ada McCarron, charged with murder, was concluded last week in the Supreme Court, with the result that the accused was found not guilty of the crime of murder of her infant, on the ground of insanity. The verdict was received by a large crowd that patiently waited in the courtroom for the appearance of the jury and seemed to meet the approbation of the spectators. The case occupied the whole day with the evidence offered by the Crown and defence, and the addresses of Counsel. In the afternoon, Mr. O'Hearn, for the prisoner, called a number of witnesses, including the husband, James McCarron, W. L. Malcolm, the jailor, and Dr. O'Shaughnessy, who proved the eccentricities of the accused.

CHIEF JUSTICE'S CHARGE.

The Chief Justice charged the jury in a very brief speech. He said that the evidence was overwhelming that the child was burnt and the only serious defence was the question of insanity. He reviewed the evidence of the experts and cautioned the jury that they after all were to decide the question, not the doctors. He left the question of sanity to them, if they believed the woman was insane at the time of the commission of the offence they would find her not guilty by reason of insanity. The jury retired and returned at 6.45 with a verdict of "not guilty" by reason of insanity.

Mr. Clancy moved that the prisoner be remanded during the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor. This was granted. This means that the prisoner goes to Mount Hope Asylum.—Chronicle.

A Woman of Few Words

THE CONTRASTS OF LIFE.

Only this week a girl related a lesson in contentment she had learned from the window of a street car. It was one of the recent rainy afternoons and she had taken a north-bound car to the dressmaker. "As we passed along in the vicinity of Bloomfield School," said she, "I noticed a miserably clad woman dragging some pieces of wood which she had picked up evidently from some drift heap and was taking home for firewood. Her burden was sodden with the rain, and while I pictured the kind of home to which the wretched rain-bedragged figure was journeying, there rose before me another picture of a woman I had seen at a hat show in town that afternoon dangling a $50 hat with longing, covetous eyes. For the moment, happiness spelled just one sentence—the possession of the hat. As I watched the other woman toiling along in the dusk, and poverty, the picture struck me as one of the sharp contrasts of life that sometimes startle us because so realistic—and sometimes make us a little afraid.

WHY HE WAS LATE.

"What made you so late?" "I met Smithson." "Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper." "I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble." "Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?" "Sure, that is what he needs." CURIOSITY Prom Many Women To Try PURITY FLOUR

THEY were curious to see exactly what results would be produced by flour consisting entirely of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.

They were curious to know more about a flour that contained none of the low-grade portions, which are found in every wheat berry, but which are separated and excluded from the high-grade in the process of milling PURITY FLOUR.

They were curious to know whether an ALL HIGH-GRADE hard wheat flour was really superior to a mixed hard and soft wheat flour.

They were curious to see and taste the kind of bread, buns, biscuits, cakes and pies PURITY FLOUR would make.

Curiosity prompts you to seek the knowledge they discovered. It's urging you to try PURITY FLOUR.

REMINDER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR it is necessary, for best pastry-results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with an ordinary flour. Add more water when making bread.

Failed to Arbitrate

London, March 26—The twenty-fifth day of the national coal strike ends with nearly 3,000,000 workers idle, many thousands dependent upon charity to keep them from starvation, every manufacturing industry in the land undergoing a throttling, and a settlement apparently as remote as ever.

The sanguine expectations at the beginning of the day that the joint conference of coal owners and miners, dramatically summoned by the Premier would reach an agreement that would end the struggle were replaced by the gloomiest forebodings, when it was learned that no joint conference had been held.

For two and a half hours the Prime Minister and his colleagues labored with the committee representing the coal owners, and for four hours and a half with the miners' executive committee, but they failed so completely gone through the records with a fine-tooth comb and has every fact and ment between them that it was found inadvisable to bring the disputants together again. As in previous crisis in the situation, the Government resorts to mystifying secrecy, the only information vouchsafed in the official statement issued this evening being "the conference adjourned until tomorrow."

TURKISH TROOPS DEFEAT ITALIANS.

(Canadian Press Despatch) London, March 27—The Turkish army in Tripoli has just achieved a great victory over the Italian army whose losses were twenty-seven officers and 8500 men killed and wounded to the report of the Turkish commanders at Benghazi, received here today from a special correspondent at the Turkish headquarters. The location of the battle is not given in the report, which says that the entire camp equipment of the Italians fell into the hands of the Turkish Troops. The Turkish commander says that the casualties among the Turkish and Arabs numbered only one hundred and fifty killed and wounded.

THE CONTRASTS OF LIFE.

Only this week a girl related a lesson in contentment she had learned from the window of a street car. It was one of the recent rainy afternoons and she had taken a north-bound car to the dressmaker. "As we passed along in the vicinity of Bloomfield School," said she, "I noticed a miserably clad woman dragging some pieces of wood which she had picked up evidently from some drift heap and was taking home for firewood. Her burden was sodden with the rain, and while I pictured the kind of home to which the wretched rain-bedragged figure was journeying, there rose before me another picture of a woman I had seen at a hat show in town that afternoon dangling a $50 hat with longing, covetous eyes. For the moment, happiness spelled just one sentence—the possession of the hat. As I watched the other woman toiling along in the dusk, and poverty, the picture struck me as one of the sharp contrasts of life that sometimes startle us because so realistic—and sometimes make us a little afraid.

WHY HE WAS LATE.

"What made you so late?" "I met Smithson." "Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper." "I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble." "Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?" "Sure, that is what he needs." Sold by druggists and dealers.

THE HOME

FOR FARMERS' WIVES.

As I sit and watch the first snowflakes of the season dancing around the buildings and scudding along the pavement, my mind travels back to the many times when from the window of a little farmhouse on the prairie I watched the first snowflakes and thought of the long winter before me, just as many of you are doing today.

As I look back to life on the farm I feel like one who, from a distance, watches a game, and feels that he can tell the players what to do; so, because I am outside of the game, I can perhaps warn you, who are in the thick of the struggle, of a few dangers that are threatening.

First, I would like to tell you how happy you should be in your life of quietness and plenty, but I suppose you will not believe me any more than we believed our parents when they told us our school days were the happiest in life. But note that I said your lives should be very happy, not that they are, because in too many cases the greed for gain is making slaves of our farmers and their families.

We teach our children that the days of idols are passed; that we no longer offer sacrifices, but they will worship idols, and our offering now is always a human sacrifice. Students every year are offering themselves up to the altar of ambition; business men are following the glimmer of gold, regardless of all the other and higher joys of life; professional men are lured by the most subtle of all temptations—fame—to give themselves body and soul; while too often the farmer offers himself and his family to satisfy an insatiable desire for cattle and horses and land.

Just here, it seems to me, comes in the tragedy of life on the farm. It is always possible to get men to garner the harvest, but there is no one to help the farmer's wife, cook and care for the extra harvest hands, and prepare for threshing. Then, too, at this time of year, picking and pressing must be done, and the fall sowing is always demanding time. How our pair of hands can do so much I cannot say; in fact, it has always been a mystery to me, but do it they often do, and very well at that. Of course, they have to work long after the rest of the family are sound asleep, and they have to begin again before the others are up, but they get it done.

You wonder why the husband and father will allow the mother of his children and the woman he has solemnly promised to love and protect to commit suicide, and never raise a hand in protest. It is chiefly because he does not think. When they first started out in life together, they were very anxious to succeed, and both did all they could. Then a child came to the home. The mother was not strong, but she persisted in doing without help, regardless of the fact that she was ruining her physical frame. The husband at first protested but men are very human, and he soon became accustomed to her doing all the work, and expected it of her. She made superhuman efforts, and congratulated herself that she was saving a girl's wages, never thinking that she was violating one of nature's most stringent laws, and that she would in time pay the penalty; never thinking that she was wronging her husband, her child and her children yet unborn, never thinking that in time to come her children might blame her needless and wicked abuse of herself for their lives of torture and blighted hopes. You are paying too dearly for your farms, my friends. Your worldly possessions will only mock you when you come to face the great and inevitable fate of mankind—death.

I am not prepared to offer a solution of the servant girl problem, but it has frequently occurred to me that if farmers advertised as diligently for help for their wives as diligently for help for themselves, the demand would not greatly exceed the supply. I would like to suggest, however, that you lighten your burden by engaging a girl to do your spring sewing. If you had never had one, you will be surprised at the great relief you will feel to have all the sewing for the summer done. In all the districts in which I have lived sewing girls can be engaged at from seventy-five cents to a dollar and a half a day, and it is surprising how much they can do in a couple of weeks if they are reasonably smart.

It will be money well spent, for it eternally true that "The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world," and we do not want a nation nurtured by white slaves, weak in body and mind, but by women, strong in body and intellect, and able to bequeath to their children that which is above the price of cattle and horses and land.—Belle MacDonald in Heath and Home.

THE DANGERS THAT BESET THE GOOD HOUSEKEEPER.

Few there are who, in the pursuit of their daily duties, are exposed to a more poisonous atmosphere than she—the combined effect of a limited field of arbitrary power, and the complete absence of competition. Good housekeeping, if it be a virtue, is one to which many others must be sacrificed and yet how little this is understood. How seldom any one steps forward to warn our sheltered women against the many risks, moral and mental, which they are obliged to run. In the first place, there is the risk of becoming inhospitable; for, contrary to popular opinion, this is the danger, not of the bad, but of the good housekeeper. Eager to offer them anything less, she is always getting ready to play and never playing; occupied with arranging her house rather than with enjoying it. Spring and autumn cleaning, with improving on the last cook, and repainting the kitchen keep the household in a continual state of abnormality, so that there is only occasionally a "dies non" on which a guest may creep in on and be well come.

And if she lacks hospitality upstairs how much more is the area: it is closed against the unexpected visitor. How quickly can she trace the disappearance in the trash chest and the disappearance of an egg when the cook has a friend to supper. Generosity, hospitality, and democracy are alike swallowed up in the higher duty of keeping the bills down.

Then come the risks and dangers of mean-spiritedness, and of the pernicious effects of suspicion and disappointment in small things, of laying traps for dust and deceit, and of the eye—the well-known housekeeper's eye—which is always roving, roving in search of household crimes. Worst danger of all is that of a slow atrophy overtaking all her human relationships, for in making the frame she only too often ruins the picture. Or, to vary the simile, she is apt to be as little a part of the drama of life as the semi-chiffer is of the play. You drop in to tea. The silver is bright, the food delicious, yet your hostess sees not you, but the voice of a strange man in the kitchen. She looks habitually, not at her husband, but at the new laundress's touch on his shirts. She sees in her children, not their warm hearts, but their dirty hands.—From "The Point of View," in the April Scribner.

INSTEAD OF DARNING.

In these halcyon days of guaranteed hosiery—at a very moderate price, too—it can be said with emphasis that it does not pay to spend much time darning stockings. When they have really begun to give out the putting of a whole hour on a large hole is nothing less than wicked. The sensible housewife prefers to put by the ragged socks and stockings and to buy new rather than to spend on prolonging the life of a couple of pairs for two or more wearings the time that would suffice to make a new cutting skirt or a simple tailored waist.

But there is no need to throw old black stockings in the rag bag for want of ways to use them. First of all, a well worn black sock is one of the best things to be had for use in sponging off dark clothes with household ammonia or other cleaning fluid. It leaves no light colored lint and is soft and absorbent to handle. A supply should be always in some convenient place if the men of the household have a way of wearing black or dark blue suits for everyday.

Woven rag carpet is no longer a thing despised. Through the winter many home lovers return to the old fashion of sewing carpet rags, to be woven into serviceable rugs for nursery and sitting room, as well as for the furnishing of the summer bungalow. The touch of black is most delightful. For weaving the stockings are cut around in spiral fashion.

A SONG OF BEING BUSY.

(By Rebecca B. Foresman.)
If you were busy being kind,
Before you knew it, you would find
You'd soon forget to think 'twas true
That someone was unkind to you.

If you were busy being glad,
And cheering people who were sad,
Although your heart might ache a bit
You'd soon forget to notice it.

If you were busy being good,
And doing just the best you could,
You'd not have time to blame some man
Who's doing just the best he can.

If you were busy being true
To what you know you ought to do,
You'd be so busy you'd forget
The blunders of the folks you've met.

If you were busy being right,
You'd find yourself too busy, quite,
To criticize your neighbor long
Because he's busy being wrong.

MISS HELEN GOULD'S CHICKEN FARM AT TARRYTOWN.

There may be 30,000,000 eggs in cold storage in New Jersey or anywhere else, but Miss Helen Gould can snap her fingers and forget about it, for she owns one of the finest poultry farms in New York State. The establishment of this farm has proved Miss Gould to be a good business woman, for it is practically self-sustaining. This is an added comfort to the convenience of having fresh eggs when you want them and as many as you want. The farm is located in Tarrytown, N. Y.

Young Artist to Friend—"Charlie, do you see that lady and gentleman who are looking at my picture, and talking in such low, earnest tones?" Friend—"Yes." Young Artist—"I wish you would saunter carelessly by and find out what they are saying. It looks like business." Friend (after sauntering carelessly up) "She is blowing him up, George, for leaving off his dainties too soon."

Terrible Result of Blood Poison

AFTER THREE OPERATIONS ZAM-BUK WAS TRIED AND PROVED SUCCESSFUL.

If people would only use Zam-Buk for chronic sores, blood-poison, etc., before permitting an operation, scores of limbs would be saved.

Mr. Robt. Patterson of North Pelham, Welland Co., Ont., writes:—"My daughter, Annie, had blood-poison in her finger. The doctor operated twice on the finger, but did not obtain the desired result, and a third operation was considered necessary.

"Three doctors were present at this operation, but after it had been performed the wound did not heal. Try as we would we could not get anything to close the wound.

"We at last tried Zam-Buk, and it was really wonderful to watch how this balm healed the wound. Each day there was a marked improvement. First the wound in the palm of the hand closed, and then the finger which had been bad so long began to heal. The deceased flesh seemed to rise out of the wound and then drop off, and new healthy flesh formed below, pushing off the diseased tissue. In a short time the wound was completely healed. Had we applied Zam-Buk at first we might have saved the finger.

"We had another proof of Zam-Buk's power in the case of my son. When two years old he had his hand badly mangled. One finger had to be amputated and it left a running sore for some months. This wound also was finally healed by Zam-Buk."

For chronic sores, blood-poison, ulcers, abscesses, scalp sores, piles, eruptions, inflamed patches, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises, and all skin injuries and diseases Zam-Buk is without equal. 50c. box all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co Toronto, for price. Have you tried Zam-Buk Soap? 25c. tablet.

PRESERVING MEATS.

New Italian Process Eliminates the Use of Salt.

The public is prone to shudder at the statement of our government investigators who declare that meat can now be preserved a year or so in storage without danger of putrefaction, but what will this same public say to the statement of the Italian experts who have discovered a means of mummifying the fresh killed beef or sheep so that not even ice is required to keep the meat in a perfectly normal and luscious condition in a moderate temperature?

The procedure described sounds so elaborate, that one can scarcely believe it will be feasible for practical purposes. First a simple solution of 100 parts of water, 25 parts of common salt and 4 parts acetic acid is prepared. Then when the beast is killed the veins are drained of blood, and the solution is injected into the system in its stead.

The original experiments were made at Turin, and the animals experimented upon were hung up in an even temperature of 61 degrees F. and allowed to remain there for two months and a half. Then the carcasses were skinned, cut up and prepared for the scientific reveal. While the carcasses were that indulged in the repast is not generally known as yet, but all tests showed that the flesh was tender, exceedingly palatable and in every respect as good as fresh meat, if not superior. It is declared that there need be no time limit to the preservative powers of this exceedingly cheap and simple solution.—Chicago Tribune.

a manner that they cut into each other. The tap is screwed into one and held rigid. The other hole serves as a guide for the rod that is to be threaded, causing the rod to bear against the outside cutting edge of the tap. By turning this rod in a left handed direction a left hand thread will be cut, both the pitch and cutting edge of the tap coming true for this purpose.

TO REPLENISH FORESTS.

Government Has Secured Ten Tons of Tree Seed.

Owing to the immense amount of timber that has been cut from our forests in the past and because the failure to plant new trees has so reduced the supply of certain hard woods the department of agriculture has gathered, through the efforts of its forest rangers and foresters, some ten tons of tree seed, which it is planned to plant in the burned sections of the west and in those sections where certain trees will thrive the best.

When one considers that in one pound of seed there are about 10,000 individual seeds it will be realized how much time and labor were expended to secure ten tons. Out of these 10,000 individual seeds in each pound it is expected that there will mature about 400 plants or young trees. The seed is to be planted where it is desired to have the trees grow, doing away with transplanting and thinning out.

In this manner the department of agriculture expects to be able to replenish the now nearly depleted forests and at the same time to bring about relief from a possible wood famine.—Scientific American.

Sugar as a Food.

In a paper on the value of sugar as food as compared with fat M. Auguste Chauveau maintains that its nutritive value is considerably higher than that deduced from its heat of combustion and that the calculation that 0.756 pound of the former is equal to one pound of the latter is in many cases exceeded. The increase in relative nutritive value is due largely to the fact that sugar promotes assimilation of the proteins and reduces dissimilation and the value of a food must necessarily depend not only on the energy it is capable of supplying, but also on the indirect influence that it is capable of exerting in the renewal and formation of animal tissue. From whatever point of view the matter is regarded, the superiority of sugar over fat as a food, whether for men at rest or at work, is very distinct.

Fish of Canal Zone Waters.

The Field Museum of Natural History at Chicago announces the intention of that institution to make a study of the fresh water brackish and salt water shore fish of the canal zone during the coming dry season. The study will be made before the completion of the canal in order that the fish may be taken before they have had a chance to cross the divide and undergo the changes incident to a new environment.

A very interesting service took place on Friday in All Saints church, when Rev. C. W. Neish was inducted by the Rural Dean into the rectorship of Granville parish. Rev. Mr. Wainwright preached the induction sermon. Warden J. L. Schaffner read the mandate and the keys of the church were presented to the new rector by Warden F. R. Troop. Rev. F. P. Grestorex also assisted at the service. Although Mr. Neish has only been in charge of the parish a few months, he has already, as well as his amiable wife, made many warm friends.

Friends of Mr. Richard Lang are glad to see him home again after a year spent in the much-boomed West. Mr. Lang has travelled over a large part of Western Canada, and, although having done well himself, would not advise other young men to leave the Maritime Provinces. He thinks very few of our eastern people realize the true state of affairs in the West. He has met many who deeply regretted going there. We had had similar information lately from other sources. It is indeed a sad story. Hundreds of honest men from Britain as well as the Provinces hungry and cold and asking for work. And from a former Granville Centre boy now in San Francisco, we quote the following:—"Am doing well, but times are extremely dull in this city. Lots of small business men could not make expenses and have had to close out. Hundreds of empty flats and 'to rent' signs are in sight everywhere, and still the real estate men and railroads are sending word everywhere of the advantages here and men are coming all the time to find there is no work for them.
