at the bye-election in Drummond-Arthursville when prominent men in the party opposite had advised the British to shoot imaginary holes in the British flag in order to show the history of the Conservative party for an alliance with the Nationalists. On the day and the name of Laurier would be honored as a leader of the province by a large majority of the province. The policy of the whole of Canada.

What Britain wanted was not a Canadian objection to the government's proposal, but the moral support of the present form of the moral support is thrown away and the same as a danger. His opinion was the same as it was four years ago. The German seems to become so antagonized that it now places only in such a comparatively unadvised manner as the one heard from the afternoon.

erman Score Worn Out.
Dr. Clark stated that there were evidences that the German score had, like predecessors, the French and Russian scores, died a natural death. The people of Germany were in the first place, they were making money to think of war with Britain. In the second place the memorandum of the admiralty proved conclusively that Britain was ready and able to set any demands which might be made on her strength. Was between Germany and Britain under present conditions would be a cause and a foothold for the future of mankind. Here, however, was a verdict which proposed an emergency situation, where no emergency existed.

The speaker referred to the arguments that the Laurier navy to the effect that the vessels would be obsolete before they were built. What would be the Canadian's dreadnoughts when she decided to take them back. These were to be built before the prime minister's present policy, and the speaker was referring to the arguments advanced that the Laurier navy, he in the strap of the Canadian navy, he in the strap of the Canadian navy, he in the strap of the Canadian navy.

Correct Policy.
The prime minister had stated that the change in the British fleet, maintenance in home waters was a good reason for the proposed policy. The speaker thought that it was the best possible argument for the construction of units in the outlying parts of the empire. Lord Charles was of the opinion that this was the true policy, and that it was the true policy, and that it was the true policy.

Female Railway Guards.
According to the Journal des Debats, an official railway company in Philadelphia for some time been employing women railway guards. The innovation has been so successful that it is proposed to make the adoption of the women-guard general. The company in question was to effect a saving of $120,000 yearly for the wages of the women only twelve, as opposed to the men, ten or nineteen, dollars a week. Need to say, the male railway guards have had an energetic protest against this.

PEACE CONFERENCE ADJOURNED AGAIN

Balkan Allies Chafe at Delay

Fear Turkey Is Sparring For Time to Secure Intervention

Warring States Taking No Chances and Are Reinforcing Armies Near Constantinople—Sultan's Delegates Willing to Treat with Greece Now.

London, Dec. 19.—The peace conference adjourned today. The Turkish delegates announced that fresh instructions had been despatched from Constantinople by special courier; therefore adjournment until Saturday was taken, by which time the instructions should reach London.

Newspapers from the Ottoman capital tonight that the government is empowering the delegates to proceed with the negotiations with the Greeks as well as the Balkan plenipotentiaries. The decision tends towards peace, as there has been a suspicion that the Turks were maneuvering for time, so that they might strengthen their army. The conference is now in exactly the same position as the Portsmouth conference. After the first week's work, the delegates were daily feeling the ground before striking a decisive blow.

Pasha's attitude strongly recalls Count Witte's shrewdness, while the Greek plenipotentiaries can be compared with Komura, in account of his cool attitude and unshakable calmness. There are other very interesting personalities. Dr. Delyanov, a Russian, is being compared with the American politician, Nova Kovich, the premier of Serbia, is an experienced statesman, and the Montenegrin Myshkovic, a keen diplomatist.

Allies Chafe at Delay

After the setting today some of the Balkan delegates expressed their views on the war. They were dragging, while five armies and three besieged towns were enduring all the sufferings of war and the respective countries were in the grey of desolation, misery and death.

A Bulgarian delegate observed that the Turks were much mistaken if they delayed the conference, hoping to strengthen their army with troops from Asia. These reinforcements were chiefly composed of undisciplined Zashi Bazuks, who would prove a serious danger not to the enemy but to the Turkish themselves.

German National Aeroplane Fund Now $1,750,000

Berlin, Dec. 19.—Prince Henry of Prussia, as protector of the committee of the National Aviation fund, announced that the fund has reached more than $1,750,000. An appeal was issued last April asking private persons and municipalities to subscribe toward a fleet of aeroplanes which it was intended to present to the emperor. Prince Henry, in a statement issued today, says that the success of the movement renders it possible "to further aviation effectively for the upbuilding of the industry and well being of the fatherland."

AVIATOR RAINED A HAIL OF BOMBS INTO TURKISH FORTRESS

Paris, Dec. 19.—A veritable hail of bombs was thrown into a Turkish fortress of Iannina by a Greek military aviator and an accompanying comrade who yesterday flew over that city in an aeroplane, according to official advices received here.

The aviator, whose name was Constantas, took a large supply of bombs with him in his airplane, and he and the Greek officer with him hurled these explosive missiles on to the principal buildings to which they caused serious damage. The population was terrorized.

Washington, Dec. 19.—"There could be no money trust. All the banks and all the money in Christendom could not control money. The question of control is personal as to money and credit," declared J. Pierpont Morgan today to the house money trust investigating committee.

The big financier was led up to this answer by the questioning of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, who asked Mr. Morgan if he "did not feel his great power."

Mr. Morgan answered that he did not admit he had vast power, and he did not feel it. He said that he had a million or so in bank stocks, and that he was a member of the Steel Trust Organization.

Athens Report Says Vice-Admiral and Several Officers Were Killed and Warships Were Driven Ashore, Some in Sinking Condition.

Athens, Dec. 19.—Vice-Admiral Halli Pasha, formerly minister of marine in the Turkish cabinet, was killed in the naval engagement between the Greeks and Turks off the Dardanelles on Dec. 18. This is the report received from a Greek captain who has just arrived from the Dardanelles, and made public through a semi-official agency.

Four other officers aboard the flagship were killed and a large number of sailors were killed or wounded. A hospital ship was sent to take care of the wounded.

Three of the other Turkish ships engaged in the battle sustained severe damage. The flagship Barbarossa was wrecked by shell on both the port and starboard sides. Fire broke out, but was controlled. It was necessary to use the military police in order to keep the flagship from sinking. The Greek captain asserted also that three Turkish destroyers were hit during the fight.

New Treaty Gives Them Enormous Privileges—China Considers Them an Infringement of Her Sovereignty.

Peking, Dec. 19.—The terms of the Russo-Mongolian treaty of November 8 are published here. The Chinese regard them as far more comprehensive than the Manchurian agreements which finally led to the Russo-Japanese war.

The features to which the Chinese particularly object as infringing on China's sovereignty are the right they give Russia to send consuls and consular guards to all Mongolian ports and to establish post offices.

The treaty also secures to Russia subjects freedom to trade, establish manufacturing, buy land, arrange concessions for mining, fishing and forestry and for the navigation of the rivers flowing into Russian territory.

WANTS TO TEST THEIR NAVAL POLICY

Mr. German Pours Hot Shot Into Their Ranks

Declares Their Attitude is the Same Now as 100 Years Ago. Centralization of Power—All Reforms in Government Have Been the Work of Liberals—New Bank Act Introduced.

Ottawa, Dec. 17.—There was some frank speaking in parliament today and it was by no means confined to the opposition.

H. B. Ames, Conservative, of Montreal, had the floor and intimated in opening that there was nothing conflicting in the nature of the Borden and the Laurier proposals. The Liberals cheered this as an indication that the government is being rapidly forced to adopt the opposition policy.

Mr. Ames sent a chill down the backs of his Conservative friends by declaring that the "day is rapidly approaching when the overseas dominions, including Canada, will bear the same relation to the mother country that the provinces today bear to the dominion government."

He spoke strongly for the three Dreadnought contribution.

W. M. German, Liberal, of Welsh, followed, declaring that every progressive step which Canada has taken to reach its present status of satisfactory autonomy and responsibility had been forced by the Liberal party against the Tory party.

The Tories under Sir John Macdonald before Confederation had fought against responsible government and its continuing administration by the Conservative party pointed to life by the government-general from the permanent officials.

The Tories had fought against the franchise act and against decentralization of authority which was by the Liberals made the basis of confederation. The government's naval bill was a measure for centralization.

German's Challenge.

German sent a Liberal Conservative of today said Mr. Ames you find a Tory of 100 years ago and disclose the same desire of the few to get power out of the hands of the people and into the hands of a select few.

Amid Liberal cheering and Conservative silence, Mr. German concluded with a challenge to the government to go to the country and test their policy in the election of the two naval propositions which have just been presented to the parliament.

Mr. Wilcox, of North Essex, spoke in support of the Liberal policy and Mr. Oliver concluded it.

The bank act was introduced by Finance Minister White. He stated that the bank act would be renewed until 1922; that shareholders would be required to have an annual meeting; that the bank auditors who could at any time be called upon by the finance minister to make a special report on any bank or on any question connected with the bank. The banks would be allowed to create a central gold reserve in Montreal in the custody of four men, one to be named by the government. The responsibility of directors for a bank's management would be increased by making negligence an indictable offence, where failure resulted.

HEAD HUNTING DORCHESTER

Sensational Turn in the Inquiry Against James Friel

DIDN'T SIGN AFFIDAVIT

Witness on Stand Declares He Didn't Make the Declaration He is Alleged to Have Done—Witnesses the Prosecution Didn't Call for Good Reasons.

Dorchester, N. B., Dec. 17.—The investigation of the charges of perjury against James Friel, clerk of the peace and registrar of probates, began this morning before Attorney General, Grimmer. The prosecution was conducted by Allan W. Chapman, Mr. Friel appearing in his own behalf.

John C. Landry, barrister, of Edmonton (Alta.), who is a son of Judge Landry and a former resident of Dorchester, was the seemingly important witness for the complainant, Mr. Landry, in his evidence, swore that Mr. Friel took an active part in both the elections of 1904 and 1908, which evidence was contradicted by G. S. Hickman, J. H. Hickman and Dr. Shortt Joseph A. McQueen.

Mr. Landry seemed to be laboring under difficulties and his memory in regard to certain incidents which took place on election day was very vague. He denied, when cross-examined by Mr. Friel, that he had come from Edmonton to give evidence before the commissioner, and that he was an applicant for one of the offices, at least.

Admits Affidavit is Wrong.

William Alexander, who is in the employ of the government at the penitentiary, took the stand at the afternoon session and explained that the affidavit in the affidavit applied to 1903 before Mr. Friel was appointed to the office, and not to the election of 1908, as alleged in the statement prepared by Mr. Chapman.

Three of the complainants failed to appear. Mr. Friel asked that they be examined. The commissioner refused at first to consent, but finally yielded to an adjournment. At intervals the sittings were very lively. Mr. Friel insisted that he had been in the province in 1908, and that he had been in the province in 1908, and that he had been in the province in 1908.

A Sensational Turn.

There was a sensational turn given the investigation this evening when Anthony LeBlanc, J. P. of Carleton Place, took the stand. A solemn declaration had been put in purporting to be made by him before Thomas LeBlanc, J. P., January 16, 1912, to the effect that he was no such person at a meeting in the interest of the government candidates held by Mr. Friel, A. J. Chapman and others at the Cove Road, local election of 1908. A speech by Mr. Friel was put in the affidavit. LeBlanc said that he did not make the declaration that the signature was not in his writing, that he had been in the province in 1908, and that he had been in the province in 1908.

The farmers in that district were mostly in a fairly prosperous condition, but until lately had been rather conservative in their methods of farming. At the present time, however, it was noticeable that they were much more inclined to be progressive and were paying a great deal of attention to more scientific methods of farming, with the result that their production would be much increased in the future.

Overworked children will become a feeble and ignoble race of men and women, the parents of more feeble progeny, nor will it be long before the deterioration of the laborer will injuriously affect those very interests to which his physical and moral interests have been sacrificed.

It is not possible to prevent child labor by legislation. It has been done in many countries and states. Legislation in Maryland last year raised the age limit for children workers from twelve to fourteen years.

Action Intended as Protest Against System of Leasing Prisoners

Abuse of Power by Junction of Peace Staggering, Says Executive.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 17.—A vital issue in the convict lease system in Arkansas and other States will be struck here tomorrow when Gov. George W. Donaghy will pardon and free 300 convicts from the State penitentiary.

Three convict camps in Arkansas will be wiped out by the wholesale granting of pardons. These camps are the ones where convicts are leased to contractors and do not include the camps where convicts are employed in building State roads.

The governor has prepared a lengthy statement on the subject to be presented to the State legislature in January. He says: "I have consistently fought the convict lease system since it was first introduced in public office. Time after time I have pleaded with the legislature to abolish it, but in spite of my appeals for relief and the repeated protest of the people of this State and the representatives of the board of penitentiary management by the chairman of the governor and the members of the board, it has been passed at two general assemblies, all in condemnation of this convict lease system, and no adequate relief has yet been given."

"The convict lease system has been grossly abused by the General Assembly, partly due to a confusion of ideas as to what plan just to adopt and partly due to the influence of the contractor who has been in the hands of the State and the representatives of the board of penitentiary management by the chairman of the governor and the members of the board, it has been passed at two general assemblies, all in condemnation of this convict lease system, and no adequate relief has yet been given."

Evaporation of Apples and the Various Types of Evaporators—Paring, Trimming, Bleaching, Slicing, Drying and Packing the Fruit.

Fancy apples should never be evaporated except in such years when the market falls because of an over supply of fruit. The average weight of ripe winter apples may have been as high as 100 lbs. per bushel, but the drying process, when the apples were exposed to the dust of the kitchen, the evaporating of apples may be said to consist in driving off as rapidly as possible by means of artificial heat, enough of their moisture to prevent deterioration through decay or other natural processes.

The various types of evaporators are numerous enough to suit every requirement, from the manufacture on the farm up to the types, complicated in construction, suited to the largest evaporating plants. Two types, suited to the home evaporating of apples, will be here considered.

Some of the cook stove evaporators are small box-like structures, usually made of sheet iron or galvanized iron, of such size that they can be placed on top of an ordinary cooking stove. They are arranged for holding a series of small trays on which the fruit is placed after it has been prepared for drying.

Portable evaporators are especially to be recommended to the farmer. The usual size has a capacity of five to 10 bushels a day, and even more in some cases, although the quantity will, of course, vary with the attention given to them. As they are complete in themselves and are not too heavy to be readily moved, they may be placed wherever convenience from time to time dictates. There is space for ten trays for holding fruit, the dimensions of which are 2 1/2 by 3 feet. Each tray holds about one-half bushel of fruit. There are several other styles of this type obtainable from manufacturers which are made of sheet iron, usually galvanized, any farmer with a little aid from the local blacksmith can make such an evaporator, calculated to do effective service.

Paring—Paring machines are made for operating either by hand or power. Both are satisfactory. With a hand machine, under favorable conditions, an experienced operator will pare 60 bushels per day, if the fruit is medium to large. The fruit is automatically forced from the fork and rolls upon the table, where it is next taken in hand by the operator.

Trimming—In paring the fruit there is more or less skin left around the stem and calyx end of the apple. Blisters and other defects are often present. All such defects are cut out as soon as the fruit is pared by the trimmer. This is done with a sharp-pointed knife, having a blade 3 1/2 or 3 inches long.

Bleaching—The process of bleaching apples is usually done immediately before the fruit is packed. The crates are usually lined with a paper which is bleached. The fruit is placed in the crates, and the crates are packed in a box. The boxes are then packed in a wagon, and the fruit is hauled to the market.

He said he did not know Mr. Triton and that he had made no such declaration. He had signed a paper for Allan W. Chapman about four years ago in the matter of the election in 1910, but would not go further than himself and Frank B. Black, but had signed nothing else. The signatures to the duplicate solemn declaration were not made by him. The statements herein that Mr. Triton had called him into his office and canvassed him for the government candidates were not true. The signatures to the jurats being examined by Mr. Friel said that they were not by Mr. Triton.

Funeral of Jared Tozer Newcastle, Dec. 16.—The funeral of the late Edward-Jared Tozer took place Saturday afternoon. The whole community of South End and many friends from neighboring villages attended the services conducted by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cousins. The body, followed by a large number of teams, was then brought to the Baptist church at Newcastle, of which Mr. Tozer was a deacon, and had been a faithful member and officer for more than twenty years. The service in the church was very impressive. Beautiful wreaths of flowers were offered by different members of the family, an anthem was given by the pastor, and a hymn with broken chords, was presented by the pastor, officers and members of the church. The pall bearers were: Geo. McLean, Isaac Blesing, John Boett, Edward O'Donnell, R. H. Greenley and Andrew Mather.

Children, when blowing soap bubbles or sprinkling the flowers, use a rubber syringe. This can be made from an old raincoat. Round the corners, follow out the neck, bind the edges, and attach a string to the neck and waist.

Let the Electors Vote on Naval Scheme High Guthrie Dares Tories to Test Their Strength—Hon. Mr. Foster Spent 3 1-2 Hours Defending His Somersault on the Canadian Navy Question.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—The last word on the navy which the country will hear before Christmas was spoken in parliament today, and it was a challenge to bring on an election. The gauntlet was thrown down by High Guthrie, the brilliant Ontario Liberal, after Hon. George E. Foster had finished a three and a half hour speech, defending the London policy and denouncing that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. That was all Mr. Guthrie said. He reserved the rest of his remarks for January, because in the house had to rise at 10, Mr. Foster had left, and no time to be wasted. The fact that so clever a speaker had to labor so many hours, gives a new measure of the strength of the Liberal policy and the weakness of that put forward by Premier Borden.

On the floor of the house were seated the Ministers of Connaught and the Prince of Wales, who were also present when Premier Borden, who was not there, was speaking. Mr. Guthrie said his speech was not a personal attack on the government, but a challenge to the government to prove its policy. He said that the government's policy was to build a fleet of five battleships, three cruisers, and a number of destroyers. He said that this was a policy of weakness, and that the government should build a fleet of ten battleships, five cruisers, and a number of destroyers. He said that this was a policy of strength, and that the government should do it.

SEVERE ARRAIGNMENT OF IRON WORKERS' OFFICIALS Government Counsel Claims They Used the Union's Money to Pay Dynamiters to Blow Up Non-Union Jobs—Collected Huge Sums for Defence of McNamaras, Whom They Knew to Be Guilty.

Indianapolis, Dec. 18.—Walking delegates and officials who do not work but who use the funds of labor unions to finance their own power even if it means the disruption of the government makes a charge against labor unions, whose purpose is legitimate and laudable, but whose means are entirely wrong. The government counsel claims that the Iron Workers' Union in Chicago collected huge sums of money to pay dynamiters to blow up non-union jobs, and that they used the union's money for the defence of McNamaras, whom they knew to be guilty.

NEW DRESS MATERIALS At the outset of every season a multitude of new materials for gowns is thrust upon the market, and by gradual elimination we soon know which will prove themselves to be the most desirable. This year's fashion is particularly surprising in several new materials which come in a charming display of colors and changeable effects. The most fashionable material is the much-murmured and is sought by dressmakers for every conceivable type of gown. For the ballroom, cork mats which can be rolled up are among the sensible accessories.

LEVER, MULTI-MILLIONAIRE English Soap Manufacturer, Who, in Competition Not Only With King George But With a Number of American Multi-Millionaires, Bought Stafford House, Finest Private Residence in London—Will Not Live in It, However, as He Has Presented It to the British Nation for Some Public Purpose.

London, Dec. 5.—Twenty-seven years ago a young man was running a small wholesale grocery business in the little English town of Wigan; a few days ago, without a bluster or excitement, that same man bought Stafford House, the finest dual house in London—the house which the late Queen Victoria called "a palace" when comparing it with her own humble abode—and almost in the same moment, presented it to the British nation. Furthermore, he bought the house in competition with not only King George, but three immensely wealthy Americans—Orto, Kahn, the New York banker, Whitaker, Reid, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Miller Graham, the rich Californian society woman, all of whom were anxious to obtain it.

THE NATION'S NEED "What does this nation need?" shouted the impassioned orator. "What does this nation require, if she strides proudly across the Pacific if she steps boldly across the mighty ocean in her march of trade and freedom? Trust me, what she needs is 'Rubber boots'!" suggested the grossly materialistic person in a rear seat. Exchange.
