MINARD'S LINIMENT
 SOLE PROPRIETORS.
 "Twas in the State of Indiana. Farmer Sproggins and his wife, Lizzy Ann, set out to market quite comfortable-like and snug. They were going to the town of Battletown. They took along with them two dozen chickens and six dozen eggs. This had been a great winter for sleighing in Indiana, especially around the town of Battletown.
 "Hitch Ebenezer to the sleigh this morning, Sproggins said Lizzy Ann. Ebenezer blessed the signs in the almanac for sleighing such good wheat-growing winter weather, and obeyed.
 Ebenezer was not a horse; he was a mule. He was white, with fair long ears, and a tail of remarkable intelligence. Over a good feed of hay Ebenezer whisked his tail softly, to show his gratitude and peace. When Sproggins gave the command to start, Ebenezer knew as well as his master that that meant "Git up!"
 When a boy came fooling around, there was a sudden upheaving of the appendage, a storm signal, as it were, to indicate that hereabouts was the earthquake end of Ebenezer.
 Farmer Sproggins was wont to say: "That mule's got more sense in his one tail than the town council of Battletown has in their heads."
 The farmer and his wife had raised their Ebenezer from a gawky, quavery-legged colt. He was born the same year their eldest son was, and Simon is old enough to vote for the next President. This family mule was crowned with years, dignity, and faithfulness.
 "He's the stiddest creature, Ebenezer is," said Lizzy Ann. "You can't startle him no more'n you could Granter Sproggins's family mule."
 That market morning they sleighed on over the snow in happiness and peace. Ebenezer, Sproggins, Lizzy Ann, the chickens and the eggs. At the top of Pigeon Hill there was a rough place. The sleigh jolted slightly. It struck the rheumatism in the old white hen's neck, and she gave a squawk. An egg or two cracked.
 "Huddup, Ebenezer," said Sproggins. Ebenezer looked around and winked. Then he looked ahead.
 Pigeon Hill was half a mile long and very steep. Before the snow came, there had been a heavy rain. The ground froze stiff and icy. Then the heavy snow fell, "splendid bottom for sleighing," Sproggins said.
 The wind had blown the snow off the hill, and left not much else than icy coating. There wasn't much of anything to sleigh-ride on except the splendid bottom. Ebenezer slid slightly.
 "Slow it up, Ebenezer," said the farmer. The mule shook his tail vigorously. He planted his fore hoofs bravely into the ice. They began to go.
 "Back, Ebenezer, ba-a-a-a!" shouted Sproggins.
 By that time the sleigh itself was like the old lady's tongue in a meeting. It had "got a going and couldn't stop."
 It shot forward and touched the mule's hind legs.
 Ebenezer was surprised. Here a dignified grey-haired mule, who had never in his life kicked over the traces, had been hurt and insulted in his tenderest spot. It was too much. He lifted his hind legs to kick.
 Then he was still more surprised. In point of fact, if a gallon of iodized horse radish had been poured up his nose he couldn't have been more astonished. He had been a thing with a leg at each corner. But after that fatal moment, he was a thing with legs only at his front corners.
 The instant his hind legs were lifted off the ground the sleigh still further forward. The shafts snapped off quicker than the corals of gratitude. Sleigh, Sproggins, Lizzy Ann and the chickens went under the mule. Ebenezer was on top.
 Then the strangest thing happened. The sleigh struck the mule's front legs. After that he hadn't legs at all any more, but only just corners. The sleigh knocked him off his balance and scooped him in boldly.
 Ebenezer sat down with the folks to take a sleigh ride.
 "He was a big mule. Part of him sat in Lizzy Ann's lap. Some of him spread itself upon the basket of six dozen eggs.
 There followed a destruction that was pitiful to see. Beautiful lost possibilities of Christmas cake and omelet lay scattered along that icy hill in a way to draw tears from your eyes.
 Ebenezer's tail, Sproggins's feet and Lizzy Ann's spare-room covered were all blended together in that dazzling true sulphur-orange tint which fashionable milliners would give at least half of one eye to catch.
 Still there wasn't enough seat to hold all of Ebenezer. He laid the rest of himself upon the chicken-coop. He didn't look around very long about it, either.
 Next followed a crash and splintering and a sound like the sudden wreck of senatorial hopes in Ohio.
 The old white hen, in spite of her rheumatic knees, escaped to the roadside, and lay a moment fluttering upon her deck. She then gave one flop and all was over. She died of heart disease.
 With a wild scream the Shanghai rooster darted out from the other side.

EBENEZER'S SLEIGH RIDE.

almost to fill the requirements. The scene in the hospital was heart-rending, women and children lay in broken shapes, bathed in their own blood, and faces blackened and grimy, and arms and legs broken, scalps torn and bodies lacerated. The scene at the engine house was horrible. Eighteen lifeless bodies were stretched on the floor in two rows, trapped in sheets and blankets. The bodies presented a terrible spectacle. The clothes they had worn were torn into shreds. A report which came from Rice's Station, about 12 miles from here, was that a house in which there was a wedding party was struck by the cyclone and twenty people killed, including the bride and groom. This has not yet been verified, but it is certain that there was considerable loss of life in the village. The loss to this city is estimated at $150,000.

SAUK RAPIDS, Minn., April 15.—The cyclone struck this city shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and in just six minutes the best portion of the town was in ruins. Not a single business house was left standing on the main street and many residences are demolished. The wind came from the southwest and swept everything before it for a width of about four blocks. The Northern Pacific depot was literally blown away and a large number of freight cars overturned upon the tracks. At the present time 22 dead bodies have been recovered and a number of people were injured. The spectacle is a sad one, people being not only deprived of their friends but of all their earthly possessions at the same time. The total loss of property is not less than $300,000.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 15.—The Inter-Ocean's Council Bluffs special says: A cyclone struck the town of Coon Rapids yesterday afternoon and laid it in ruins. The telegraph wires are all down. Fifty houses were blown down.

A PERFECT BAKING POWDER.
 The great success of the Royal Baking Powder is due to the extreme care exercised by its manufacturers to make it entirely pure, uniform in quality, and of the highest leavening power. All the scientific knowledge, care and skill attained by a twenty years' practical experience are concentrated towards this end, and no pharmaceutical preparation can be dispensed with a greater accuracy, precision and exactness. Every article used is absolutely pure. A number of chemists are employed to test the strength of each ingredient, so that its exact power and effect in combination with its co-ingredients, is definitely known. Nothing is trusted to chance, and no person is employed in the preparation of the materials used or the manufacture of the powder, who is not an expert in his particular branch of the business. As a consequence the Royal Baking Powder is of the highest grade of excellence, always pure, wholesome and uniform in quality. Each box is exactly like every other, and will retain its powers and produce the same and the highest leavening effect in any climate, at any time. The Government Chemists after having analyzed all the principal brands in the market, in their reports placed the Royal Baking Powder at the head of the list for strength, purity and wholesomeness, and thousands of tests all over the country have further demonstrated the fact that its qualities are, in every respect, unrivalled.

FEATHERED VICTIMS OF FASHION.
 The massacring of birds for millinery purposes is making sad havoc among the birds of America. It is estimated that five millions of the feathered tribe are slaughtered annually that their skins may decorate a lady's hat of gown. It is a very hazardous business, but a regular line of employment. One dealer says he does not less than 1,018 bird skins, and Texas gunners received an order from the agent of a millinery house for the plumes of 10,000 white egrets. In our own neighborhood, on Cape Cod, in a single season, 40,000 terns were killed to supply the demands of the hat trade. From many sections of the Atlantic coast the beautiful gulls, which had from time immemorial found a home here, have within two years been entirely swept away. The birds of the brightest plumage are the principal objects of destruction. The robin, the oriole, the red-winged blackbird and the woodpecker represent species that are fast approaching extinction.

IN A CYCLONE TRACK.
 ST. CLOUD, Minn., April 17.—Sixty-seven persons were killed and one hundred and forty injured by the cyclone which yesterday devastated the towns of St. Cloud, Sauk Rapids and Rice Station, divided as follows: St. Cloud, 15 killed, 40 injured; Sauk Rapids, 30 killed, 100 injured; Rice Station, 22 killed, number of injured unknown. The cyclone came southeast and reached the river where its course was diverted, and it followed the river banks until it reached Sauk Rapids where it diverged to the left, passing directly through the centre of that town. The utmost excitement prevailed. Women and children fled from their houses and rushed aimlessly about in the midst of a dark cloud of dust and an avalanche of board and brick. Men lost their presence of mind and stood in silence and inactivity in the presence of the wild demon. It was hardly noticed before it was in the city in all its fury. People were not warned of their danger, and they fell like grain stalks before a reaper's sickle. The portion of St. Cloud struck by the cyclone was the southern and western residence portion occupied by the laboring class of people, a majority of them being foreigners, employed on the railroads. Their dwellings were light-built houses and became an easy prey. The earth was ploughed up in the line of the cyclone, and the path over which it passed by the depth of nearly a quarter of a mile looks as though it had been upheaved by a terrible volcanic eruption. Brimstone was promptly applied to for medical help, and the immediately responded by sending a physician and surgeons by a special train, which was late in the evening when they arrived on the scene. St. Paul and Minneapolis were also appealed to, and a special train was sent out with twenty-three surgeons and physicians for the scene of the disaster. After dark rain poured in torrents, and the scenes amidst the ruins were impressive and terrible. On arrival of relief train with surgeons, work was at once begun to relieve the wounded. The dead were taken to Little Giant engine house and stretched out on the floor, while the wounded were sent to St. Benedict hospital, where they were cared for by a corps of physicians and nurses. There were 42 wounded stretched out on cots in various wards, and every facility of the hospital was tested to its signal on it, and that navigable waters other than streams shall come under the operation of the act respecting protection of fish from deleterious substances.

 In answer, Bowell said the government had under consideration question of obtaining power during the present session to permit the export of sawn logs and other lumber free from export duty in case the proposed tariff changes in the United States should become law, admitting sawn lumber free from duty when imported from countries not collecting an export duty on logs or lumber.
 Wilson asked for order of the house for return showing the total number of assisted and unassisted immigrants who entered Canada during 1885. He complained that the government had not the interest of the artisans at heart. They had given many assisted passages to artisans to come to Canada and enter into competition with our own artisans. He did not object to assisting domestic servants and agricultural laborers. He believed in labor unions and said they had rights which the government should respect. He thought there was a great exodus of people from Canada, and they ought not to drive our own people out by bringing others in. A width of about four blocks. The earth was ploughed up in the line of the cyclone, and the path over which it passed by the depth of nearly a quarter of a mile looks as though it had been upheaved by a terrible volcanic eruption. Brimstone was promptly applied to for medical help, and the immediately responded by sending a physician and surgeons by a special train, which was late in the evening when they arrived on the scene. St. Paul and Minneapolis were also appealed to, and a special train was sent out with twenty-three surgeons and physicians for the scene of the disaster. After dark rain poured in torrents, and the scenes amidst the ruins were impressive and terrible. On arrival of relief train with surgeons, work was at once begun to relieve the wounded. The dead were taken to Little Giant engine house and stretched out on the floor, while the wounded were sent to St. Benedict hospital, where they were cared for by a corps of physicians and nurses. There were 42 wounded stretched out on cots in various wards, and every facility of the hospital was tested to its

 In answer, Bowell said the government had under consideration question of obtaining power during the present session to permit the export of sawn logs and other lumber free from export duty in case the proposed tariff changes in the United States should become law, admitting sawn lumber free from duty when imported from countries not collecting an export duty on logs or lumber.
 Wilson asked for order of the house for return showing the total number of assisted and unassisted immigrants who entered Canada during 1885. He complained that the government had not the interest of the artisans at heart. They had given many assisted passages to artisans to come to Canada and enter into competition with our own artisans. He did not object to assisting domestic servants and agricultural laborers. He believed in labor unions and said they had rights which the government should respect. He thought there was a great exodus of people from Canada, and they ought not to drive our own people out by bringing others in. A width of about four blocks. The Northern Pacific depot was literally blown away and a large number of freight cars overturned upon the tracks. At the present time 22 dead bodies have been recovered and a number of people were injured. The spectacle is a sad one, people being not only deprived of their friends but of all their earthly possessions at the same time. The total loss of property is not less than $300,000.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 15.—The Inter-Ocean's Council Bluffs special says: A cyclone struck the town of Coon Rapids yesterday afternoon and laid it in ruins. The telegraph wires are all down. Fifty houses were blown down.

A PERFECT BAKING POWDER.
 The great success of the Royal Baking Powder is due to the extreme care exercised by its manufacturers to make it entirely pure, uniform in quality, and of the highest leavening power. All the scientific knowledge, care and skill attained by a twenty years' practical experience are concentrated towards this end, and no pharmaceutical preparation can be dispensed with a greater accuracy, precision and exactness. Every article used is absolutely pure. A number of chemists are employed to test the strength of each ingredient, so that its exact power and effect in combination with its co-ingredients, is definitely known. Nothing is trusted to chance, and no person is employed in the preparation of the materials used or the manufacture of the powder, who is not an expert in his particular branch of the business. As a consequence the Royal Baking Powder is of the highest grade of excellence, always pure, wholesome and uniform in quality. Each box is exactly like every other, and will retain its powers and produce the same

ENTERPRISING DRUGGISTS.

It is with much pleasure we announce to our readers that Messrs. G. C. Allen, Newcastle, and G. E. Frost, Campbellton, have secured the agencies of the celebrated West's Cough Syrup. This is a compound that has stood the test of a quarter of a century, and is an infallible and certain cure for all throat and lung troubles. It will relieve a cough like no other, and the proprietors have thousands of the most flattering testimonials from sufferers that have been cured of that dread disease, consumption, in its early stages, bronchitis, asthma, &c. Price 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00 per bottle.

An able "seaman" from Ardarauch was at the tiller of his ship one night, shortly after the introduction of colored signal lights on ships. A steamer was approaching and Arch saw the green and red light for the first time at sea. He was astonished that the steamer was "Hard a port!" - "Hard a port!" - "Hard a port!" - "We're gone right into the 'pothecary's shop' at Ganton!"

THE COMMON SENSE EYE WATER is the best remedy known for eyes made weak by overwork, or for inflamed eyes. Sold at the drug stores - Try it.

The late Dr. Austin Flint, of New York, was once called in consultation to a case of typhoid fever. The patient, a young lady, was becoming very weak and unable to retain the milk mixed with liniment which her attending physician had prescribed. "Why not try cold barley water?" suggested Dr. Flint. The change was made, and the food agreed with the sufferer so well he could take several quart for many days in a short distance of eight or ten days. The patient recovered, and she cherishes the memory of Dr. Flint.

A SPLENDID MOOSE - Mr. J. H. Carnall, taxidermist, shipped to London recently, the handsome specimen of a cow moose which he shot in the Yukon Territory. This animal was shot by an Indian with a short distance of eight or ten days. The patient recovered, and she cherishes the memory of Dr. Flint.

Some people are willing to be good if they are well paid for it. Others prefer to be good for nothing.

More than three quarters of a century has passed since Johnson's Anodyne Lintment was invented, and it is to day the most widely known as well as the most valuable internal and external remedy in the world. No family should be without it.
