Editorial Notes

It is a remarkable that exactly twenty years ago, on the 24th of August, 1873, a storm very similar to the one which prevailed on the same day this year in the same locality, swept along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, wrecking vessels, flooding lands, carrying away wharves and bridges and doing other damage.

During the past fortnight there have been serious bread riots in Chicago, Buffalo and Philadelphia and one day last week upwards of eight thousand hungry persons were fed by charitable people in New York.

"And yet," says a U. S. exchange, "wheat was never cheaper in this country." The moral seems to be that a country can be "rich" in wheat and still be poor in wheat. It is a great many people to live in, and yet a great many people to it go hungry. It makes little difference to the man who has no money if the loaf is one or two cents cheaper than it once was.

The home rule bill having passed the Commons has been sent to the house of lords, and has there passed its first reading. The second reading was expected to come off yesterday. "Disunion" will occupy the following two days, and then a division will be taken. About thirty-seven peers will vote for the second reading. Unionist Whigs expect to get three or four hundred to vote against it. Any number under three hundred will denote an absence of enthusiasm among the Aristocracy which would reflect upon the Unionist cause hence the great activity of the Whigs. The debate is likely to be interesting.

Repeal of the Sherman Act.

The United States House of Representatives by a vote of more than two to one has voted to repeal the act obliging the government to purchase silver bullion, and also declared against the proposition to permit the unlimited manufacture of silver coin. In the Senate the silver men will be able to make a stronger fight, as the silver proclivities of the Senate are the same as those of the House. In common parlance the Sherman act and the effects its repeal would have upon the country, a late exchange says—

"The United States government was compelled to purchase and store about two thousand tons of silver which was constantly depreciating in value, and upon which, with the rest of the silver it owned, it lost over one hundred millions of dollars. The effect of the United States storing the silver was to create alarm as to the future of the price of silver. In view of the time when congress should be compelled to stop purchasing, which was clear it would be compelled to do as the rest of the world would not come to its aid by attempting to force silver into circulation among their peoples by law for the sake of relieving the United States from the effects of a great financial bubble. The result was that, with a large but unsound currency and a great quantity of silver weighing upon the market, a feeling of want of confidence arose in the United States, and as the people began hoarding their money, the banks began to enforce restrictive regulations, and the business done on a credit basis shrank to small proportions, and thus the business of the country became almost paralyzed. Possessed of the greatest quantities of gold and silver specie and coin of any nation, the United States, with its immense natural resources, was nevertheless thrown into financial convulsions. With a smaller but sounder financial basis, the United States will soon regain confidence, credit will expand, and business will again go on as before. The repeal of the Sherman act will add greatly to the feeling of confidence, as it shows that the great majority have learned their lesson well, and the sound basis reached will prove stable and not liable to disturbance owing to fresh vagaries on the part of the soft money men."

Blackville Notes.

Blackville, Sept. 2nd.—What at one time had fair to be a most disastrous fire took place in Gibson's distillery here on Thursday. It broke out near the distillery and soon all the lumber in the yard with the exception of one pile was in flames. Fortunately the direction of the saw mill from the flames formed a right angle with the line of sparks. Had the wind, which was blowing strongly, veered ever so little to the eastward nothing could have saved the mill. Both were on fire several times and the men were driven back by the advancing flames until only twenty or thirty feet separated the latter from the saw mill. It was only by the most determined work on the part of the men and the people of the village that the flames were checked here and finally driven back.

About 150,000 feet of merchantable deal were burned, which with the other damage done will bring the loss up to about $200,000. The mill will be shut down for a few days to enable the necessary repairs to be made to the railway track and shoots for carrying away the lumber.

A very successful picnic was the one held here on Wednesday. A large attendance would have been welcomed but even this was satisfactory considering the unfavorable weather which preceded. The arrangements were well planned and faithfully carried out by the committee and about $150 was realized.

Inspector Mercereau was in the village on Wednesday visiting the schools. He takes in those on the Northwest shore and then proceeds to Gloucester County.

Famke's Greatness.

The most magnificent civilization the world ever saw, the civilization to which our Fourth of July stink and dust raisers, hypocritical dog shabby, and thousand and one gas-bag orators and mudgod worshippers are eternally "pointing with pride," is producing an extraordinary crop of fruit this year.

Like all fruit trees, our civilization has years of large yield, when its output of human misery, sorrow and crime exceeds expectation. This is one of them; and to its upholders, its scribes, its eulogists; its glorifiers, this year ought to be one of extraordinary rejoicing and high jubilee.

Here in this altogether glorious country, specially designed and set apart by an all-wise Providence for U. S., a noble race of free born and liberty loving men, who in the fulness of time shall exhibit it; gloriously discovered by Dago Columbus, who landed looking up to heaven, with the Cross of Christ in one hand and the sword of the Devil in the other; that early became the sanctuary and home of the Pilgrims and the Puritans who sought for themselves "freedom to worship God," and to hang and burn those who wouldn't; and here a civilization was set up, that was founded on religion, justice, righteousness, freedom, equality, fraternity and all the rest of it; that was consecrated and baptized with prayer, and has been tenderly nurtured and watched over with the most pious solicitude; that has been praised and lauded and magnified to heaven every day, and twice on Sunday; that has been brought out and set on high before the world, and pointed to by its thousands of high priests, as proof absolute that it is a civilization founded of God, blessed of God, protected of God, the embodiment of all combined human and divine plan, and the ne plus ultra of design, symmetry, beauty and purpose.

Surely, from such an altogether good tree, we ought now, in the days of its full maturity, to be reaping the very best of good fruit!

Strange that this heaven-planted, heaven-watered and parson-tended tree, should bring forth the damned fruit of millionaires and tramps; of palaces and hovels; of factory and tenement; of big paunched plethoras and lankers jawed, fat-bellied starvation; of the drugging prodigies, harassed with the servile chains of unpayable debt, to the chariot of the produce gambler; of gambling with evidences of universal debt erected into a legitimate business; with the United States treasury to the church for the winners; of business run by a wild-eyed mad of howling, shrieking fakirs, each hating, pushing, robbing the other, producing being performed without accompaniment, the most diabolical scramble where everybody's wheelbarrow is run against everybody's else's shins, of phylloxera jills, filled with young men and run by brutes; of almshouses crowded to overflowing with the aged and infirm, whose bodies are sold to the highest bidder; of churches and halls of justice run by thieves and criminals; of legislators exploited by the millionaires and the tramps; of a daily press that is a grand pantomime and make-believe of chivalric virtue in public, and a grand federation of laughing winking-bamboozles in private; of waste of effort, waste of life, to the accompaniment of the most diabolical confusion, and anarchy, accentuated eternally by the crack of the murderer's rifle or the suicide's revolver.

What fruit! No one but a fool, or blinded with bigotry, would hesitate to acknowledge that, considering this corrupt yield, to say: "corrupt fruit, corrupt tree, cut it down; why cumberest it the ground?"

But, not my Dear Answer, the fools and the blind, with that strange faculty for commercial reason which the Tantrics have, "Mr. J. P. McLean, who had charge of the commercial matters of the Tantrics, has left that paper to devote his entire time to the 'Canadian Grocer,' the 'Hardware Merchant' and the 'Dry Goods Review.' Mr. McLean is one of the best writers on financial and commercial matters on the Canadian press."

Rev. L. S. and Mrs. Johnson left Newcastle on Monday night for a visit to the World's Fair, Chicago.

Mr. Scott Fairley leaves in a few days either for Montreal or one of the American cities to consult a specialist on nervous diseases. His many friends hope to see him return much improved in health. Mr. R. C. Boyes accompanied him.

Lumber Lands Sales.

The most important sale of timber and lumber lands ever held in the province of New Brunswick took place last week and many cases the competition was most keen and exciting. The houses sold covered an area of four thousand square miles of Crown land, the least being for twenty years subject to certain conditions imposed by the Government. The upset price was $8 per square mile and a renewal during the term of 99 years and in addition to the usual stampage dues. The sales at the first realized $20,314 on the second day $23,412 on competition and $14,552 at the upset price; the third day a sale brought the total to within a fraction of $73,000.

The St. John Globe of August 31st says—
Fredericton, Aug. 30.—This afternoon saw the keenest competition that has yet occurred in the crown land sales. The $200 mark was passed twice, once by T. Lynch, who was compelled to pay $221 for 14 miles, or $15.79 for the block, and once by J. D. McKay for the Bank of Montreal and E. Hutchinson, or $14,147.50 for the block; $14.14 for the block; $120 a mile by J. D. McKay, or $378 for the block; $110 a mile by J. B. Snowball for two miles, or $220 for the block; T. Lynch suffered a severe loss, as he had to pay more than the upset price for a portion of the land than any other bidder. In the forenoon he had to pay $125 a mile for 9 miles, or $11,250 for the block, which upon the whole, was the largest tract reached on any one berth. This, with the two other lots taken out of him in the afternoon, as described, made $1,189 which he had to pay for three blocks. His competitor for the $1,121, 520 for the block, and once by J. D. McKay for the Bank of Montreal and E. Hutchinson, or $14,147.50 for the block; $14.14 for the block; $120 a mile by J. D. McKay, or $378 for the block; $110 a mile by J. B. Snowball for two miles, or $220 for the block; T. Lynch suffered a severe loss, as he had to pay more than the upset price for a portion of the land than any other bidder. In the forenoon he had to pay $125 a mile for 9 miles, or $11,250 for the block, which upon the whole, was the largest tract reached on any one berth. ## RUM THE CAUSE.

Moncton, August 28.—Alexander Cussey, a Frenchman, died at the age of 81 on Friday last under very distressing circumstances. He was a farmer about 45 years old. Two days before he was attacked in passing by a horse, which he was riding, and he was thrown to the ground. He was taken to a hospital, where he died. He was a very kind and generous man, and was much respected in the community. He was a member of the St. John's Church, and was a very active member of the same. Despite the great commercial depression existing in both the United States and Britain, the two countries which have been the main sources of the foreign trade of the Dominion keep up well. The returns for July, the first month of the new fiscal year of 1893, show an aggregate foreign trade of $23,376,234 against $22,257,552 for July, 1892. This is an increase of over a million, and considering the state of things abroad is a very satisfactory result. It matters had remained stationary, we would have had no complaint of considering the shrinkage. That an actual increase is recorded goes far to prove the stability and buoyancy of trade conditions in this country.

The drop in silver has been a great loss to the gold mines of California, for in six days the revival of quartz and placer mining in the Sierra and foothill regions has produced over $1,000,000 in gold. Many abandoned claims are being opened, and no such energetic prospecting of old fields has been seen for twenty years as is now going on in California. In Tuolumne, Amador, El Dorado and other counties through which the great "silver belt" extends. With new appliances much ore which was formerly thrown away is now worked, and gold mining promises to soon take the prominent place in the resources of California which it held in the early days.—Chicago Blade.
