PLEASANT SOCIAL MONDAY EVENING

Members of No. Surrender L. O. L.
Do Honor to Rev. H. Arnott.

PRESENT ADDRESS

Pleasant Evening With Speeches
Songs and Refreshments.

The members of No. Surrender L. O. L. met Monday evening and after the regular business was transacted an informal social was held to permit the members to bid farewell to Rev. H. Arnott, who leaves shortly for Scotland.

A very pleasant evening was spent. The following address which was handsomely engrossed and decorated with the Scotch Thistle and Maple leaves entwined was presented to the departing brother.

ADDRESS.

Dear Brother Arnott:—

How transient are all things here below! We are constantly forming friendships, a few endure through a lifetime; others, but for a brief period—"ships that pass in the night." 'Tis but a brief time since we welcomed you to our midst; now we must say "Good-bye."

During the years that we have known you, you have ingratiated yourself into the hearts of very many with whom you have come into contact.

The energy which you have displayed in your church work, the enthusiasm you have instilled into others, your adaptability to various circumstances, and the sturdy manner with which you have faced all difficulties, have been a source of admiration, not only to your own people; but to many others as well.

When you became connected with this Lodge, we felt that a tower of strength had been added to us; your timely words of wisdom, advice or admonition were always well chosen and tactfully presented and were received with the attention they deserved.

We shall ever bear in remembrance the willingness with which you came to our aid in many ways, especially when your excellent gift of speech or of song could be utilized.

You are now about to return to your native land, and we regret that circumstances have rendered this step necessary. We would that this fair Dominion, of ours, than which there is no fairer under the wide universe of God the land of the maple and the beaver, the land of wheat and corn and God's sunshine, the land of which we are so justly proud, might have been your home for many years; but since we must part with you, there is no land to which we would rather give you up than to "Auld Scotia" immortalized in song and story, the land of the Bruce, —no, Burns and many others in the world's history.

As you wander by the bonnie "banks and braes"; as you look upon the mountains and glens, the locks and streams of the land so dear to the heart of every Scotchman, may your thoughts occasionally turn to the fair valley of the Miramichi, to the little town of Newcastle, to the lodge-room which you once called your own; and may a prayer arise from your heart to the all-wise Father, that those you have left behind may be guided in the right path and stand true to the principles of their profession.

We trust that the partner of your life may speedily be restored to perfect health, that the invigorating breezes of your native land may have the desired effect; and as you walk hand in hand along the journey of life, may health, long life and prosperity with God's richest blessings rest richly upon you both.

We feel assured that wherever your lot may be cast, the same earnest effort in the Master's vineyard, which characterized your ministry in Newcastle, will still be yours.

That you may have many souls for your hire is the earnest wish of the members of L. O. L. No. 47.

Mr. Arnott responded in a very feeling manner and a number of the members also expressed their regret that the Lodge was to lose so good a member.

Refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served and a most enjoyable evening came to a close by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

In the Chatham World bearing date the 14th of July an item states that the Salvation Army of this town went to Beaubears Island for an outing. There is a slight error in this as only part of the soldiers and the officers went. Mistakes often occur but can often be rectified for publication.

MEETING OF THE PRESBYTERY

Special Meeting Held in St. James' Church Last Wednesday.

Mr. ARNOTT'S RESIGNATION

Accepted to Take Effect July 31st—Rev. A. B. McLeod Called to Douglstown.

A special meeting of the Presbytery of Miramichi was held in the hall of St. James' church, Newcastle, last Wednesday forenoon. The members present were—Rev. A. D. Archibald (Moderator), Rev. D. Henderson, Rev. J. M. McLeod, Rev. James Wheeler, Rev. K. Thorpe, Rev. J. Myers, Rev. H. Arnott, Rev. H. J. Fraser, ministers and Mr. Wm. Carruthers, Mr. Hugh Lamont, and Mr. John Williamson, elders.

The resignation of Mr. H. Arnott was taken up, that being the business for which the meeting was called. Messrs. Staples, Williamson and Shaw appeared for the congregation, but in view of all the circumstances did not oppose the resignation. They, however, spoke very kindly about Mr. Arnott and his work. Their best wishes would follow him to the mother country, where he was about to make his home. Members of Presbytery testified to the usefulness and courtesy of Mr. Arnott as a member of the Court, and on the motion of the Clerk and Mr. Wheeler, the resignation was accepted to take effect at the end of July. Rev. J. M. McLeod was appointed Moderator.

A call from Douglstown in favor of Rev. A. B. McLeod of Nova Scotia was tabled. It was signed by forty-two communicants and seventy-six adherents, with the Nelson section of the congregation to hear from Messrs. Lamont and McKnight appeared in support of the call, and Rev. Mr. Arnott testified to its unanimity. The Presbytery resolved to sustain the call conditionally, and made provisional arrangements for Mr. McLeod's induction—Messrs. Fraser, McLeod and Myers to conduct the service. Rev. D. Henderson thought the time had come when the status of the Douglstown congregation should be raised from the ordained mission station to that of an augmented charge. For about ten years Douglstown had been supplied by an ordained missionary. The church had made progress there, but the ordained missionary was only designed to pave the way for a permanent pastorate. As a settled charge Douglstown like Millerton would grow and prosper.

The Clerk favored the idea, and it was unanimously resolved that Douglstown and Boiestown should be recognized as an augmented charge, and Rev. J. G. A. Colquhoun was appointed Moderator of the new congregation.

Rev. A. D. Archibald made mention of the lamented death of their respected co-presbyter, Rev. J. D. Murray. He had attended the funeral at Buctouche on Monday. The Clerk and Mr. Henderson referred to their intimate acquaintanceship with Mr. Murray, his activity and usefulness as a member of the Presbytery, his zeal and success as a pastor, his congeniality as a man. The Moderator, the Clerk, and Rev. Mr. Mitchell, Redbank, were appointed a committee to draw up a suitable minute and to convey the deep sympathy of the Presbytery to Mrs. Murray.

The Presbytery adjourned to meet at the call of the Moderator.

An interesting mishap occurred on McCullum street yesterday at noon. The watering cart was standing in the street and two teams endeavored to pass, both on the same side. One lady was thrown out and slightly hurt and a shaft broken was the extent of the damage.

During the electric storm that swept over the city last evening a bolt of lightning struck a tenement house on Military road and two of the occupants narrowly escaped death.—Sun.

An extremely severe electrical storm visited Kent Co., Thursday night. The spire of the St. Louis R. C. church was very badly damaged and the house and store of Joseph Hilaire of the same place were burned to the ground.

Auctioneer Belyea has received from a Rogersville man a small menagerie which he is asked to dispose of, if possible, to Barnum & Bailey's circus when it visits Moncton on the 21st inst. The menagerie consists of three fine specimens of owls, a red fox and a coach-dog pup of good breed.—Moncton Transcript.

Major Hinman, of Boston, a retired United States Army officer, arrived in Fredericton by the noon train last week en route to the Southwest Miramichi on a fishing trip. The major, who is a champion rifle shot, and keen sportsman, has made several successful hunting trips on the Miramichi woods. All he wants this trip, he says, is a chance to kill one salmon.—Herald.

On the night of the 3rd inst., a first class ticket from Bathurst to Montreal was stolen from Bathurst Station. The case was placed in I. C. R. Officer Noble's hands and on the 6th he went from Campbellton to Bathurst and arrested Jas. Martin, and found the ticket in his possession. Martin was brought before John O'Brien, J. P., on Monday the 9th for his preliminary trial. He pleaded not guilty, but after several witnesses were examined, the presiding justice committed him for trial. Mr. A. D. Landry defended the prisoner, and J. P. Byrne conducted the prosecution.

On Wednesday night or Thursday morning Wm. Sullivan's store at Redbank was broken into and goods to the value of between $200 and $300 stolen.

The thieves got about $10 in cash (all that was in the till) and about a dozen watches besides other goods.

Mr. Sullivan about two o'clock was awakened by the dog making a great racket. Unfortunately he did not get up, but he believes this was the time the thieves were at their work.

At the residence of his mother at Douglastown, Harold McKenzie, son of the late Walter McKenzie, jr., passed away, aged 21 years. Deceased contracted pneumonia which developed into brain trouble from which he died. He returned from Maine about a month ago. He leaves, besides his mother, four brothers, Edward, Cecil, Luther and Robert, and three sisters, Misses Grace, Annie and Winnie all of whom are home.

The remains were interred in St. Mark's cemetery, Douglastown, Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Ludlow Nase, of Nerepis, King's Co., was struck by lightning in the Orange Hall at Welsford on Thursday evening, and instantly killed. The tragedy took place about midnight, when upwards of one hundred persons were in the hall. When the lightning struck the building all the lights were extinguished, and there was great confusion. Consequently, it was not until some minutes later that the deceased, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nase, of Nerepis, was found lying on the floor of an ante-room. Dr. Arnold was brought to the hall at once, but Mr. Nase was beyond human aid.

The people of "Tabusatic" were very much disappointed on Tuesday evening when they learned that Mr. Brecken and Mr. Ossawa, were unable to get down river to speak in the Red Pine Island church. Their coming was looked forward to with great interest but when it was found that the boat was laid aside for the day, the people were well content to hear their retiring pastor Mr. Weeks address them again, though he had preached his farewell sermon on July 1st. A missionary topic was treated in a way that made those present feel well repaid for their attendance.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CO., LIMITED.

Gentlemen,—Last August my horse was badly cut in eleven places by a barbed wire fence. Three of the cuts, (small ones) healed soon, but the others became foul and rotten, and though I tried many kinds of medicine they had no beneficial result. At last a doctor advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT and in four weeks' time every sore was healed and the hair has grown over each one in fine condition. The Liniment is certainly wonderful in its working.

OPPOSITION CONVENTION

IN RESTIGOUCHE.

Ex-Sheriff Stewart Will Run For The Local House.

At Campbellton on Tuesday afternoon there was a convention of the local opposition party. Delegates from every district were in attendance. Ex-Sheriff James E. Stewart, now councillor for the Parish of Dalhousie, was unanimously selected as the party standard bearer in the election to be held to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of H. F. McLatchey to the county court. Mr. Stewart accepted the nomination and promised the delegates to do all in his power to carry the county.

In the evening there was a public meeting in the rink, attended by about five hundred electors from different parts of the county. Mr. John McAllister, K. C., ex-M. P., presided. The speakers were the candidate, Mr. Stewart, who was given a most enthusiastic reception and Mr. J. D. Hazen, leader of the opposition party, whose address was most heartily applauded. The Campbellton brass band was in attendance and played before the rink prior to the meeting, and gave several selections during the evening.

No Circus Parade

But Complete Show.

Good Reasons Why Barnum & Bailey Have Cut Out the Street Show.

The visit of Barnum & Bailey circus will be notable for several reasons. Not least of these is the fact that this will be the first visit of Barnum & Bailey show without a preliminary parade. This is such a departure from the old order of things that the public is naturally greatly interested in knowing what effect the elimination of the procession has had upon the business of the show.

In speaking of this innovation, W. D. Coxe, one of the agents of the big circus, who was here yesterday, said to a reporter:—

"Despite the most lugubrious prophecies of failure, the elimination of the parade has proved a great success. As the manager announces, the Barnum & Bailey circus is literally too big to give a parade. The public has accepted the statement in good faith, and never in its history has the show drawn larger or more enthusiastic crowds.

"What was the real reason for cutting out the parade?" Mr. Coxe was asked.

"The impossibility of giving it and at the same time presenting a performance that would be satisfactory to those who paid their money to see the show," was the reply. "Owing to the immensity of the exhibition, the railroads could not guarantee an early arrival of the circus trains. A late arrival meant a belated parade; a late parade involved a late opening of the doors; a late opening meant a curtailed performance and general dissatisfaction. It was a question of giving the parade and giving the show that would please the public. Mr. Barnum chose the latter alternative, and the year's business has been forty per cent. above that of the last season with a parade.

"Now look at it from the public standpoint. Instead of standing around the streets for hours, hot and tired, waiting for the parade, the crowd now goes to the show grounds and sees a splendid free show, given, absolutely on time. Instead of standing, hundreds deep, around the entrance, waiting for the belated doors to open, when the menagerie is ready the people are admitted and given every opportunity to study and enjoy the fine zoological display. Instead of being hot, tired and cross when the show begins, the people are in a humor to enjoy it. The show, therefore, goes with a vim, and when it is over they come pleased and satisfied and declaring that they had never before seen anything, to equal the performance. With all this it must be remembered that in many cities it is impossible to secure permits for a parade, while in others the license is so prohibitively made so large as to be prohibitive.

"The parade is bound to go. The Barnum & Bailey show has set the pace and the other shows follow."

The circus will be at Chatham Thursday, July 26th.

Are You Often Bilious?

Read This and Learn How to Prevent Attacks.

Biliousness is merely a term applied to a condition that exists when the body is overloaded with bile.

The complexion turns yellow, eyes look dull, pimples, itching and eczema break out, headaches are ever present.

Biliousness has two great causes, constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken they not only correct the bowels, but act directly on the liver, regulating its life secretion.

Unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the condition which causes biliousness; thus permanent cures are effected.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure biliousness and liver ills under all circumstances.

We prove this by the statement of Mr. Fenwick Luddington of New Harbor, N. S., who writes: "Three months ago I had no expectation of ever getting free from periodic bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and dreadful headache. If I stooped over my head would swim and a nauseous feeling crept into my stomach.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills fixed up my liver, drove all the bile out of my blood and made me a well man in a few months. To-day I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion, and the best of health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

Get Dr. Hamilton's Pills to-day. Sold by all dealers 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A. and Kingston, Ont.

One of Three Things Always Cause RHEUMATISM

Do you know the system rids itself of waste matter through bowels and kidneys? Yes, but by the skin as well.

As a matter of fact, the skin rids the system of more urea than the kidneys do.

If the skin, or bowels, or kidneys are unhealthy—they won't throw off enough urea. This urea is changed into uric acid—carried by the blood to joints and nerves—causing Rheumatism.

One never inherits Rheumatism. One does inherit weak kidneys, irregular bowels and bad skin action.

Fruit-a-tives

will positively cure Rheumatism because they increase the eliminating action of skin, kidneys and bowels—and make these three organs so vigorous and healthy that there can be no uric acid waste retained in the system to poison the blood and irritate the nerves.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are fruit juices, combined with tonics—the whole forming the most effective cure for Rheumatism.

Graphic Description of San Francisco Quake

Written by the Son of a Former Miramichi Resident.

My Dear Cousin—

My mother asked me this afternoon if I had any papers about the earthquake as you folks would like some information about it. Well so far as the San Francisco papers are concerned they were all put out of commission the day of the quake and for several days after, and consequently nothing can be found of that character and so far as the outside papers are concerned their reports were so garbled and mistaken that they were thoroughly unreliable except from sensational standpoint so I guess the best I can do is to drop you a few lines and let you know from my standpoint how it happened. Well the great quake happened at 5:13 A. M. It was a grand bright warm morning and a whole lot of people were already up and dressed. In our house my wife had just risen to prepare breakfast, she sat on the edge of the bed just as the house began to shake and quiver, she woke me, at the time the house was shaking pretty lively. I sat up in bed but as I recall it now neither my wife or I were very badly scared, she remarked "ain't that a terrible earthquake" Roland I responded you bet it's a corker. "The household goods went smashing, the top heater of our kitchen stove went smash against the opposite wall carrying the stovepipe with it and filling the room with soot. The ornaments on the mantle, in the parlor all went flying into the middle of the floor, the centre table in the parlor went upside down with its legs in the air. An alarm clock hanging by a string to the wall in the kitchen turned face to the wall a large clock in the dining room mantel went flying into the middle of the room striking the centre table and banged back against the fireplace. The house shook shivered trembled and finally gave a tremendous wrench. With all this plastering was cracked up stairs, but down in the hall the plastering was cracked in regular squares. When the shake was over I got up dressed, washed myself hurriedly and went through the house to see what damage was done and you bet there was plenty of it. More than one half of the dishes in the kitchen pantry were smashed into bits. At the beginning of the shake my daughters and a young lady friend who was stopping with us ran down stairs into the street in their nightclothes. Going out on our back porch I could see a huge fire burning down town. I had breakfast and intended to go to work. The streets were filled with people when I went to the sidewalk going to a grocery opposite our house the greatest wreck I ever seen in the line of a shake up was there. All the canned goods, bottles of catsup, kerosene, molasses everything was strewn on the floor. And what happened here was duplicated in almost every store in town. Particularly did the drug stores suffer. On my way down town I stopped at my mother's, one car in the line which passes our house had started but the quake broke the cable and the whole system was out of order. None of the folks at ma's were perturbed at all about the shake. Ma was in bed and said she wouldn't get up till the usual time. Well then I started down town in a buggy with a friend, there we saw the first fruits of the disaster, two lodging houses within a couple of blocks of my mother's had been badly wrecked. Half the tops of the upper stories were out on the side walk. On one street we passed the water main was broken and the water squirting twenty feet high. On another street two houses (wood) were flat in their lots partly out in the sidewalk. Our New City Hall one of the great buildings of this city a building which cost $8,000,000 was so badly wrecked that it will all have to be pulled down. Tons of brick and stone had fallen all around this building killing two policemen who were passing. By this time the fire was burning from 6th to the water front a distance of a half mile, and about four blocks wide. The California Academy of Sciences a brick and stone building had the whole front out of it. In this building was stored a free exhibit, the great Ward collection of extinct animals, one of the rarest collections in America. Arriving at our office at 7 o'clock we were told to go home and look out for families. By that time the streets were crowded with teams, automobiles and every kind of a vehicle taking the wounded to the Mechanics Pavilion for medical treatment. Our office is in the city front overlooking San Francisco Bay the east side of our peninsula. We had a hard time getting up town again having to make a circuit which doubled the ordinary distance. At 8:15 A. M. while standing in 2nd and Folsom Sts., looking at the fire raging in four solid blocks down the street the second big earthquake took place. Every one scurried for the street except the firemen who were working an engine in the corner. They stood manfully by their machine.

The heat was something terrific and the wind created by the fire hummed and swirled. The city at this time was almost entirely without water. On the city front the firemen were using the salt water out of the Bay but soon this could not be used after a while for they had no fresh water for their engine. About 9 o'clock the Mayor declared martial law, the soldiers took possession of the city and dynamiting buildings began a substitute for water.

Splendid order was observed. At 10 o'clock in the morning about 5 hours after the quake the fire covered a space of at least 80 acres. By 5 o'clock that afternoon the fire was drawn in front of my mother's place and we all retreated to the hill about a block from her place.

Previous to that my brother-in-law and myself moved a whole lot of household goods up to the lot so as to prepare to camp out the night. Well that's what we did. All my folks wife and daughters had left the city and stopped with ma's folks that night. All night long the ashes and cinders fell in the outskirts.

The fire could be seen a distance of 50 miles from the town. A fire passing selling papers that night at 11 o'clock reaped a harvest. One newspaper had succeeded in getting out an edition two papers. I bought one of these papers and you can judge how bright the light was from the fire I read this paper as easily as I've read daylight. All night long the fire blazed and glowed. We helped the firemen until 3:30 Thursday morning when we retired under the blankets with our hats pulled over our heads to shield us from the down-pour of ashes. Up again at 5:30 A. M. going up to the hill we viewed a flaming city. The fire about that time covered about 150 square blocks more than five square miles.

The Hopkins Institute of art was just catching fire and we could see the fire climbing Nob Hill the home of the wealthiest people of this city. We had breakfast at 6 A. M. coffee and sandwiches procured from the soldiers. There were no stores open and that was the only way to get food. The day before all the stores had been thrown open by the soldiers and people told to help themselves.

The city was without water practically and that was the greatest hardship we endured. The water mains had been broken by the earthquake and you know in a city the size of this there are very few wells. All the old abandoned wells were called upon and many which had not been touched for 25 or 30 years were now re-opened. All day long the fire raged with fearful fury, all Thursday night and most of Friday the town still burned, Friday afternoon it was finally conquered after destroying 24 square miles and over three million dollars worth of property.

Not a business block remained standing in San Francisco, most of the churches were destroyed. Every theatre in the city was turned up side down and burned. Most of the public schools. All the jails, the City Hall, Hall of Justice, all the public halls. The great Hopkins Institute of Art, the California Academy of Sciences, the Pioneer Building, most of the Post Office Stations, the destruction was so great that it would fill a volume to enumerate it.

For over two weeks the city was under martial law. No fires allowed in the houses or lights, everybody had to be at home by 8 P. M. No stores of any kind open soldiers had complete control. Most people to read the accounts of the great destruction and the severe regulations imposed would think we were a much distressed people. But the contrary rule was observed. A person entering San Francisco and noting the matter of fact way in which the people took their losses and the cheerful hospital demeanor of all classes would marvel at their conduct.

There were no rioting no disorder or scenes of violence. Too many hard citizens were shot by the soldiers for looting, but every one said it served them right and 'twas the best thing to do under the conditions prevailing. How many lives were lost no one will ever know. The fire swept the town so suddenly after the earthquake that a record could not be kept.

You can estimate the tremendous territory destroyed where I state that the fire covered the town north to south 5 miles and more than 4 miles east to west. Not one of our relations were burned out or injured. My mother's place had the narrowest escape. Wednesday afternoon the fire burned within a block of her place. Thursday morning it came within a block in the north side. Thursday afternoon it returned on the south side and four buildings on the opposite side of the street had to be dynamited to save the block my mother lived. Thursday afternoon it burned up toward the valley in which I live. At two o'clock the soldiers ordered everyone out of their homes in my neighborhood. My wife and daughters had left home earlier in the day and gone across the Bay to some friends in the town of Berkeley.

The fire reached Dolores St., one of the widest in the city 150 feet wide. Here a great battle ensued between the people of the valley and the fire. Happily a laundry in the neighborhood had its own supply of water and this was used by the Valleys to stay the flames. They carried the water in milk cans procured from a milk dairy which had been burned out a short time previous. Wagons after wagon filled with milk cans of water was hauled to Dolores St. and by this means they prevented the fire crossing that street. It was heroic battle, you can understand the hardship of the fire fighters when I state that standing in my back porch for miles distant I could feel the heat of the fire.

On this street was the fine Notre Dame Convent this building was dynamited in the hopes it would prevent the spread of the fire. But it was useless.

Now that the excitement is over we can look solemnly on the incidents of that fearful period. The great wonder is that the people took the matter so coolly. The women especially were strong hearted, few of them gave way and became burdens rather than supporters. They encouraged the men folk and kept a hopeful cheerful demeanor in all the while. Even now 70 days after the terrible holocaust the hardships of living here is severe.

The streets are in an awful dusty broken condition. The air is filled with the odor of smoke, things about one half of the people whose stoves and chimneys are in condition can light their fires, every chimney must be inspected first and that's a task which calls for a whole lot of time. Outside the unburned district the city is in darkness for all the gas lamps and electric light apparatus were destroyed and it will take a whole lot of time and money to replace them. But then we do not despair. This town will rebuild. We will have a better and grander city, but the good old hospitable town, born in the day of the Argonaut, has gone forever. How long before it will be a metropolitan city again? Can't tell, the task is a large one but it will be done.

Well I guess if you wade through all this you can have a faint idea of the earthquake and fire of April 18th, 1906. Some of these days I will be taking a trip your way and if it's not too far off and my memory holds good I'll tell you more about it. My mother and all her folks are well also yours truly and his family.

FRED. GELINAS

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

Without in the least affecting the efficiency of the road, without increasing freight and passenger rates to any noticeable extent, and without giving ground for adverse criticism, Hon. Mr. Emmerson has in one short year transformed the Intercolonial from a maker of large deficits to a paying concern. His speech at Ottawa recently contained the most gratifying statement regarding the railway, that has been given in many years. Mr. Emmerson asked the country for a fair show. He promised to do his best to make the Intercolonial pay for itself and he has not only fulfilled his promise but has exceeded even his own hopes. And this has been done in spite of the fact that instead of being given fair treatment, he has, during the year been subject to continued criticism. Opponents of his policy, realizing the success which was attending the minister's efforts, have persistently attempted to interfere with his plans, and seem to have preferred picking holes in his policy to aiding in the financial progress of Canada.

Mr. Emmerson provides on the Intercolonial as good a train service as has ever been given. Freight rates have been slightly advanced, but even now they are not as high as are charged on other roads. There have been some slight increases in passenger rates, but nothing to speak of, and better wages are paid the employees than were paid in the past.

When Mr. Emmerson presents his next report to parliament it will be found to record the greatest change in the financial situation of the road that has ever been known since the Intercolonial was built. But even now, knowing what has been accomplished, Mr. Emmerson's opponents are determined to criticize where there is no ground for criticism, and to hold back that large measure of credit to which the minister of railways is entitled.—Sun.

THE MISSING LINK.

The "Leader" last week in reference to the "Missing Link" question makes several misrepresentations. It stated that there was no bridge on the line which would cost $30,000, that the abutments at Renous are in good condition for a bridge, and that the whole line could be put in running order for a little more than $50,000.

When this matter was pressed by Mr. Loggie an estimate was made of the work required and that estimate placed the cost of a steel bridge, the only kind the I. C. R. would build, at $50,000, and the other work necessary to put the road in good running order about $30,000. A grant was made last year, but before the work could be let the winter was at hand and nothing could be done. But the contract was awarded for a start on the work and $15,000 revolved was to pay for this.

Mr. Loggie has endeavored to have it completed and is confident, now the I. C. R. is making a fair showing, that this will be done before the end of next year. When we remember that very little money was voted at the last session for new work, the electors will realize what a hard proposition our representative was up against.

OUR REPRESENTATIVE.

The Leader appears to be slightly "worked up" over our reference to the "Missing Link."

It is pretty generally known that Mr. Morrissey was a most disappointed man because he failed to receive the nomination at the Liberal Convention. So disappointed and chagrined was he that he actually sulked and took no part in the contest. Of course that was his own business and it is not the province of the Advocate to seek to reconcile the differences in the Liberal family in this constituency.

We only refer to the article in the Leader to point out that underlying the half column is disappointment which stands out clearly. The burden of the article is the implied "see how much better things would have been done had John Morrissey been the choice of the electors of Northumberland instead of Mr. Loggie". It is said that the Leader. It is said that the Leader was launched to boom Mr. Morrissey for the next Federal election. Mr. Morrissey did not take kindly to the turn down at the convention and is no doubt preparing to make his chances good for the next contest. Of course the ultimate decision rests with the electors of the county. At the last election prominent members of the Liberal party, and scores of the rank and file fully conceded the election of Mr. Robinson should the standard bearer of the Liberal party be Mr. Morrissey. In fact scores of Liberals said that if he was the choice of the convention they would either remain away from the polls or vote for Mr. Morrissey. But perhaps Mr. Morrissey thinks his chances slim of being again elected as an opponent of the Tweedie government, with its increasing popularity, that, sooner than be left out in the cold he will, by means of the Leader prepare for larger arena.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson Expected to be Present and Address Meeting.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Carriage Containing Six Young Men Struck By Train.

NONE KILLED.

The day freight truck struck a carriage containing six young men at Richard's Crossing Monday night. The party consisted of John Good, of Dalhousie, two young men named Dobson, and three others belonging to Campbellton. They were driving from Dalhousie and were within two miles of Campbellton when the accident occurred. The night was dark and the young men were in a closed carriage. As they were crossing the railway track the day freight which was behind time, struck the hind part of the carriage, smashing it to splinters. The occupants were thrown in all directions, but when the trainmen arrived on the scene they found only Dobson had been hurt to any extent. He had his leg broken in two places. When the team was struck the horses dashed away with the pole and a portion of the carriage.

DEATH OF MRS. GEORGE BEATON.

The death of Mrs. Ethel A. Beaton which occurred at the Presbyterian hospital last Sunday afternoon, tinged this community with sadness, and brought deepest grief to a host of warm, devoted friends of the deceased. Madame Beaton had been an invalid since April, when a mysterious malady undermined her strong, vigorous constitution. Her decline was rapid, and though the best medical aid sought to discover the nature of the disease and stem its progress their efforts were baffled. Last Monday Mrs. Beaton was taken to the hospital for an operation, but after consultation of specialists it was decided useless, and the following Sunday she passed away.

Mrs. Beaton was 36 years of age and was born in Newcastle, New Brunswick. Ten years ago she was married to George Beaton in Boston, where she successfully conducted a large millinery business. Coming to Hindsdale, in 1902 she again engaged in business, and enjoyed a flourishing patronage.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Irish. Dr. E. S. Carr of the Congregational church, of which Mrs. Beaton was a member, conducted the services, and with delicate fragrance breathed out the sympathetic grief of sorrowing friends. Covering the casket was a large blanket of daisies and myrtle, the loving handiwork of the dearest friends of the deceased, the daisies being gathered by the little girls who had become warmly attached to Mr. Beaton. Several touching solos were rendered by Mrs. Beach, soprano of the Congregational church. Interment was at Oak Forest.—Hindsdale Doings, July 7th.

Agamemnon and his soldiers had just entered Troy in the wooden horse.

"Oh, well," remarked King Priam of the Trojans, philosophically, "it might have been worse; they might have entered in an automobile."

NEWCASTLE MAN DIES AT CHATHAM.

William John Miller Died Friday at Chatham—Funeral Sunday.

William John Miller, a former Newcastle man died at Chatham on Friday.

Deceased was born at Newcastle and worked here for a number of years. Later he went with Mr. Geo. Haddon at Dalhousie, and Jacques River. He purchased the business from Mr. Haddon, but a little later was burned out, losing all. He removed to Chatham where he was employed until his health failed him.

A wife, step-mother and three half sisters survive him. He was about 70 years of age.

The funeral Sunday from his home Chatham under the direction of the Chatham Orangemen was largely attended. Interment was in St. James' cemetery, Newcastle. At the ferry the Newcastle Orangemen, with their band joined the procession.

ORANGEMEN ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE.

Local Orange Bodies Attend St. James' Church Sunday Morning.

The Newcastle Orangemen, together with Loggieville and Chatham brethren assembled at the hall here Sunday morning at 10.30 o'clock, and headed by the Orange band marched to St. James' Presbyterian church, where Rev. H. Arnott preached to them an eloquent sermon.

About two hundred members of the order were in line. The visiting brethren came to Newcastle on the steamer Miramichi which was chartered for the trip.

MAN DROWNED AT NORDINE.

Jonas Plesberg, a Sweed in the employ of Rosebank Lumber Co.

On Saturday evening a Sweed in the employ of the Rosebank Lumber Co. went in for a swim, and was drowned.

It appears that the man, whose name was Jonas Plesberg went some distance up the shore alone, undressed and it is supposed went in swimming and was drowned. No one saw him or heard any outcry and it was not until the man was missed and his clothes found that it was realized that he was drowned.

A number of men went at once to grapple for the body but up to the time of going to press it had not been recovered.

CHATHAM CHILD NEARLY DROWNED.

Fell into River Sunday Evening and Was Pulled Out Unconscious.

While playing at the ferry wharf at Chatham Sunday evening the five year old daughter of D. Malley fell into the river and was nearly drowned.

The water was about ten feet deep and the child sank at once. An alarm was given and a big crowd collected. Policeman Coughlan and Robert Cadie dove from the wharf and attempted a rescue. Coughlan could not reach the body but Cadie caught hold of the girl by the arm, but was forced to leave go as he could not swim. Coughlan ultimately got a boat hook and caught the end in the clothing and drew the girl up. She was apparently lifeless and had been under water nearly ten minutes. After considerable treatment by Drs. Benson and Duffy, life was restored and the child was crying lustily within an hour of the accident.

Last Thursday a number of the soldiers of the Salvation Army, with the officers in charge of the local corps went to Beaubears Island for an outing. They did not intend to return until evening, but a dense river fog closed in and after making an unsuccessful attempt to reach this shore they decided to spend the night on the island. Many friends here were quite anxious, but at daylight the pinnickers arrived home none the worse of the outing.

MIRAMICHI TOWNS ARE TO BE DRY.

Scott Act to be Enforced in Newcastle and Chatham.

Already orders have been issued by the Newcastle Police committee for the enforcement of the Scott Act in this town. As we announced in a recent issue Inspector Menzies has been given a free hand. The decision of the Chatham town council to rigidly enforce the provisions of the Scott Act has resulted in a regular crusade on the proprietors of liquor establishments in the town, and the town marshal states that he will not let up until the last bar has been closed. On Wednesday night he made raids on John Jordan's and John R. McDonald's places in the east and west ends, but found no liquor on the premises.

The sudden resolution of the council to have no fooling about the enforcement of the act and the two raids by the town marshal evidently gave the wet goods men a bad scare, and they concluded that they had better look for trouble; so on Wednesday night a meeting of the principal dealers was held and it was decided to retire from the limelight for a more or less protracted period. Teams were hired and all night long they could be heard rumbling through the streets with their precious cargo. By morning most of the shelves were empty and it would be a pretty hard job now to find a highball in Chatham.

DOAKTOWN PICNIC A SUCCESS.

Large Crowd Went From Here—York Orangemen Also Attend.

Last Thursday morning a large number of excursionists with the Orange band left here by special train for Doaktown where the usual Orange 12th of July celebration was to be held. At Chatham Junction the down river excursionists joined the ones here and at each stop others were taken on board.

The York county people were also present so that the gathering was a large and pleasant one.

The day was fine and cool and all enjoyed the outing. The best of order prevailed and everyone returned late the same evening having spent a very pleasant outing.

The Adventurers

By H. B. MARRIOTT WATSON

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

I opened my dispatch box and spread out the paper on the table once more, poring over it with my pulse throbbing to my finger tips. The meaning was now plain, though the main secret was yet to find. The parchment was clearly the second sheet only of the document which Mr. Kesteven had desired to bring down for my perusal. I sat up at a new and more alarming discovery. Where was the first sheet?

That open window now offered up its secret. That desperate cry was no longer now the scream of mortal agony, but an appeal for help. From the dead fingers I had taken the second sheet of the mysterious document, so pregnant with interest, but from the hands of the living I could not doubt that the first had been violently torn to the course of a struggle in that silent chamber. Terror had surprised the racial at his work—the terror of that sudden and fearful dissolution, of that humped and pitiful body fallen on the floor. And here now with two ends of the secret, whatever it might be, rent asunder and secluded in separate hands, the board of treasure still lay buried in its ancient hiding place as intact and private as it had lain maybe through hundreds of years of silence.

My riddle was read. That certainly was a great step, and in the heat of my discovery, as I sat palpitating with strange emotions of adventure, avarice, even of ferocity, I had no intention to leave the matter where it stood. I was resolved to confront fate and to enter the lists against those undetermined enemies. So far they had kept very silent, working only in the dark, but I swore then and there to meet them, drag them forth into the broad daylight and contest my rights in the hidden treasure, if it existed, against a dozen sorry knaves. I am a patient man and not overquick to take a resolution, but I do not easily lay down a task which I have once undertaken. I swore upon the spot to undertake this.

In the circuit of my fancy I came suddenly upon this consideration, which pulled me up quite sharply, even with a little breathlessness. These unknown antagonists were still banded in arms against me, and I was alone. I had had repeated evidence that I was pursued by their ingenuity and in two ways. On the one hand I was to be evicted from my own house, and simultaneously my bureau was rifled, as I could not now doubt, for the purpose of securing my remnant of the precious document. What would be the next step which these insolent tricksters would essay? I had no one in the castle beyond the estimable Mrs. Main and a neat housemaid, neither of whom was to be counted in a warfare such as the situation promised to my imagination.

The one man that was daily visible about the place slept at Llanellan, as Mr. Kesteven had informed me. What puzzled me at this point was the isolation in which my host had enwrapped himself. He had taken no pains to protect himself. Exposed, as he must have known he was, to the treachery of an unscrupulous foe, he was thrown absolutely upon his own resources unless indeed he relied upon the near proximity of Hood in times of emergency. But Hood perplexed me, regarding in my thoughts, a haunting figure, provoking only a vague uneasiness and a great uncertainty. And once again the odd conjunction of the captain and the innkeeper returned before my eyes. One thing was certain to my newly awakened wit—I must have some companion in my confidence. There were several friends among my old acquaintances who would serve me, but the year was drawing on and the holiday season was at his height. The odds were that I should discover Peggotty or Rogers or Sheppard far enough from London by this. I wanted aid forthwith, and forthwith must have it. So it felt that my mind recurred to Montgomery. He was not very much to my taste, certainly not congenial company, but he was obviously honest, and I could swear that he would be faithful.

And so indeed he proved. I rode over next morning to the farm which constituted now all that was left of the old estate of the family. He was plaiting a whip in his dining room—a high wainscoted chamber, very dingy and untidy and ransacked with all the unimaginable rubbish of a young man's fancy. On my entrance he rose, his eyes glancing red, and grasped my hand in an awkward sense of welcome.

"It's good of you to come so soon," said he.

"I've come to take you back," said I. He stared at me. "Oh, all right!" he said, as if this mission of mine had been a matter of course. "Come and have a drink."

It was but 11 in the morning, though the breakfast things still cluttered his table, and so I refused his hospitality, a refusal which did not prevent his pouring himself out a glass of beer.

"Montgomery," said I, "leave that alone and keep your head clear. I want you."

The boy bounded to his feet sheepishly enough to what he doubtless considered my rebuke, but with a show of engrossment which pleased me.

"Got your horse?" I asked.

He nodded, all attention now, and I continued:

"Then sling your legs up and be off, and ask your servant to send on your bags. I'm going to keep you for a week."

"Bully!" he said and clattered out of the room in a cheery fashion.

I had already made up my mind not to be too explicit with Montgomery. He was too recent an acquaintance, despite my conviction of his fidelity, to intrust with a precious secret. Indeed, the first occasion of my encounter would not have commended him to many particular people. What I told him, therefore, as we rode back embraced but the general atmosphere of intrigue in which I was involved. The word that stuck in his mind was "burglary," and it greatly excited him.

"Shall we have the police over?" he asked anxiously.

But, strangely enough, although the thought had occurred to me more than once, it was almost in old Kesteven's words that I replied:

"There are none nearer than Raymond." To that I added, "Besides, I think we two are in no need of assistance against a ruffian or two."

The next two days passed very peacefully. As I am fond of laying my plans ahead, I wrote to Sheppard at his chambers asking him if he were still in town and if he felt disposed to pay me a visit, referring briefly to the strange turn which my fortunes had taken. I saw nothing of the captain, at least at the castle, and for some reason or other I felt no desire to revisit him just now. He had evidently forgotten my invitation, nor did I remind him of it when we met casually upon the road the day after Montgomery's arrival. He gave me a civil greeting, cocking his eye at my companion in his good humored, cynical way, and when we had passed, on looking back, I saw him standing at the crossroads, red in hand, gazing intently after us. Seeing me do so, he waved his hand and moved off upon his journey. Montgomery was as docile as a spaniel, submitting readily, I suppose, to the superior will, and I had no complaint to make of him save that he wore a good deal. He himself, however, had a complaint, for he was grievously disappointed that there had been no bloodshed. We saw not a show of a burglar, and I fancy he thought me in his private mind something of an impostor, which possibly was the very reason which made him strike up an acquaintance with Sercombe. I certainly had no right to protest, for the captain was a pleasant fellow and so far as I knew harmless, and moreover, life at the castle was not unenjoying. But all the same I was a little annoyed to find there upon such close terms with one another.

The third day after Montgomery's arrival I resolved to ride into Raymond to see the little lawyer, and, mounting the black horse which had come to me as part of my inheritance, I left the castle shortly before lunch. The nag was a steady creature, though not very handsome to the eyes, and shortly I was upon the other side of Llanellan and cantering down into the long stretch of forest which lies toward the little town. Here, as it chanced very oddly, whom should I meet but Greenstreet himself, driving out to the castle upon the very point of business on which I was bound for Raymond. Encountering thus we agreed to make a convenience of the locality, since I could not persuade him to turn back with me, and we completed our conversation over a pint of ale at the little hostelry in Llanellan. The transaction was comprised in a brief time, and as I finished I turned my horse's head forthright for home.

As I drew near the park gates I wanted a little of 4 by my watch. The sun beamed sharply overhead, and the great lie by the stone pillars of the gateway threw a black blot of shadow across the drive. I headed the horse across the sward, making for the stables which lay among the farm buildings to the north of the castle. Leaving the animal in charge of the handy man, Williams, I walked back by way of the park, skirting the western wing of the building. Upon this side, as I have said, lay a dense shrubbery, through which the little brook streamed over its pebbly bottom to the waterfall upon the southern declivity of the hill. A pathway ran circuitously through this growth of laurel and box, evidently of comparatively recent origin, and winding by several pretty spots, bordered with the rivulet, finally emerged upon the boundary of the park and joined a cross track from the gateway by a leafy avenue of limes.

As it was early and I was in no mood to face Montgomery all at once, I struck into the shrubbery and sauntered quietly along the pathway. Suddenly at a bend before me and slipping softly round the elbow I beheld the figure of a man, but it was gone ere my senses were fully awake in that sultry afternoon. I stood still a moment, stirred somewhat strangely, and then ran quickly to the corner. Peerling round, I caught sight of a figure stealing among the shrubs. It paused a moment and then, as it seemed to me, slipped stealthily through the bushes and disappeared.

The next instant I had recognized Hood. There was nothing very remarkable in this, but what moved my blood was the flight of a swallow there darted into my mind the recollection of another vision. I identified the memory. It came back upon me with an odd sense of perplexity and a still stranger feeling of fear where and when I had first encountered that lean and stealthy body. I had seen the man disappear in the same furtive fashion upon the banks of the stream in the valley below, and what had then arrested my vague memory now also again attacked it, but this time with certain knowledge. This was the man who had been with Mr. Kesteven upon the day on which I had first encountered him in the wood.

The fact astounded me, thrilled through my warm limbs to the very marrow of my bones. And yet it seemed too absurd to be accepted on the spur of a moment's fancy. I stood pondering in a state of excitement and then, hastily turning about, ran in the direction of the castle.

What was Hood's business there? I asked myself the question without the assurance of an answer. There was really but little to arouse my suspicions, and yet I was agog with curiosity. I entered the castle courtyard and opened the door of the dining hall. The first object that met my eyes was Montgomery sprawling upon the table and stertorous with drunken sleep. Plates were laid for two, and empty bottles upon the table testified to a generous lunch. Leaving him for a moment, I ran upstairs and pushed open my door silently. As I did so there was an exclamation, and I entered and came face to face with Captain Sercombe.

Montgomery sprang upon the table in a drunken sleep. He held one hand in his tightly buttoned coat and looked at me with a watchful eye.

"This is very regrettable, Mr. Greatorex," he said.

The apology sounded so ludicrous in my ears that I broke into a tiny laugh and thereby relieved myself. The time for action was come.

"I must apologize," said I, "for my unexpected return, the more particularly as I have no doubt interrupted you on important business."

"Not at all," he said pleasantly; "not at all. I had quite finished."

"Then if you have been successful, Captain Sercombe, I said I as pleasantly as myself, 'I think we had better understand each other at once.'"

A slight smile ruffled his puffy face, but he kept his hand in his hiding place. "That will be unnecessary, sir, I assure you," he rejoined. "I fear I am a bad hand at crib cracking."

The effrontery of the man amazed me, but I showed nothing in the face of my wit.

"Why not give it up?" I asked smoothly.

He shrugged his shoulders. "Almost you persuade me," he returned jauntily.

"Fishing," I resumed, "is a more equanimous pastime, Captain Sercombe, I have heard."

"No doubt," he responded equally and glancing at the window. A twinging of his mouth belied his calm appearance, and I was disposed to believe that he contemplated a desperate move. I sat down upon a chair by the door and surveyed him coolly.

"May I ask," said I, "if you have found this sort of thing usually profitable?" I nodded at my bureau.

"I was in hopes this would prove so," he answered smoothly. "I am not an old hand at it."

"But you have able assistants?" I asked.

"Come, come, Mr. Greatorex," he replied, with a touch of impatience in his voice, "let us get to business."

"By all means," said I. "You will find me a most reasonable man. In my profession I have had occasion several times to deal with your profession."

If I had expected him to wince at this undisguised thrust I was disappointed. A smile flitted over his face, and that was all. He withdrew his hand from the breast of his coat. "May I sit down?" he inquired in his most courteous manner.

"Come," said I, "it is rather I who should apply to you for permission."

"We will not stand upon ceremony," he answered, whipping a chair deftly beneath him.

"A very natural sentiment upon your part," I retorted ironically.

"Mr. Greatorex," said he, with his smile and now thoroughly in charge of himself, "there is one thing I pride myself upon, and that is command of my temper."

"A very useful trait—in your profession," I remarked.

The captain took a cigarette from his case. "You will not mind," said he. "The window will air your bedroom."

And he puffed the smoke from his nostrils, and it hung about his ragged red mustache. I waited, my eyes fastened on him.

"What are you going to do?" he asked presently.

His own expression carried not a trace of anxiety.

"In these cases," I made answer, "there is a natural course with which

Mr. Nash of Maine the agency for New

A trout mezzowork is one half the fish as mounted upon a convex elliptical panel as to stand the fish out in bold relief, giving the effect of an oil painting or while a cured fish, with the real thing to show at your prowess. The process of preserving fish in this artistic way was

"IT SAVED MY LIFE"

PRaise for a FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Just in Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning,
Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words."

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steadily, but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain, with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, I became regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day."

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

"When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, disem-pement or ulceration of an organ, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles."

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.
For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

fat senator, "but the boss has a

"Lightning?" replied the lean senator. "Why, he looks as though he had the nerve to defy the head writer."

But after the orange wine the great emperor was observed to toss over a golden tip.

THOUSANDS DIE OF CONSTIPATION.

No condition causes so many incurable diseases as constipation. It not only prevents the kidneys from eliminating the poisonous waste, but causes anemia, stomach trouble and indigestion. Why won't you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and get cured?
This excellent medicine restores normal bowel action in one night. Thousands say so. Your system will be pure and clean.
You'll be free from headache, no more sour stomach—in short you'll have jovial spirits and perfect good health. Dr. Hamilton's stated that you were the picture of health?"

"So I am, mister; the kind of health you get out here."

MELANSON-BOURQUE.

Moncton, July 10.—This morning at 8 o'clock St. Bernard's church was the scene of a happy event, when Miss Evangeline Mary Bourque, of the teaching staff of St.
Bernard's school, daughter of P. N.
Bourque, of this city, was married to Henry A. Melanson, registrar of deeds for Gloucester, and member of the firm of Samuel Melanson & Son, Bathurst. The bride elect entered the church leaning on the arm of her father. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers, ferns and potted plants.
Miss Elodie Bourque, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and and Mr.
J. P. Whalen supported the groom.
The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Savage, who celebrated the nuptial mass.
The bride looked charming in white edienne with chignon trimmings.
She wore a bridal veil and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses.
The bridesmaid's gown was of white organdie. She wore a picture hat and carried pink roses.
The couple will reside in Bathurst.

circulation and purifying the blood can it be done. For quick sure release from these

Ferronose—and you'll feel immensely better blue-grass section of Kentucky."

WHAT CAUSES SNORING.

When asleep, people that snore breathe through the mouth instead of the nostrils which are choked with catarrh. Just use "Catarrhose" before retiring, and you'll quickly cure the snoring habit. By destroying the cause of catarrh and healing the membrane, Catarrhose makes a complete cure in every case; it cleans the nostrils, stops the discharge and prevents drooping in the throat in a few minutes. Nothing so pleasant or certain to cure snoring, catarrh or colds as Catarrhose—that's worth remembering.

REHABILITATION OF ALFRED DREYFUS

French Parliament Takes Decisive Action To-Day.

PROMOTION AND HONOR

To be Given. Dreyfus—His Friends

Look for Vengeance—Paris

Press Opinions.

Paris, July 13.—This was the closing day of parliament, and it was largely devoted to the rehabilitation of Alfred Dreyfus, so that the national holiday to-morrow may witness his return to the army, and the official placement of stain placed upon his good name.

The Chamber of Deputies met at 9 in the morning for the purpose of hastening the parliamentary procedure, and War Minister Etienne immediately presented two government bills one raising Captain Dreyfus to the rank of major of artillery, and the other promoting Col.
Picquart to that of brigadier-general. M. Etienne asked for speedy action, adding that it was the government's intention to inscribe Dreyfus's name on the list of candidates for the cross of the Legion of Honor.

This announcement brought out a storm of applause. The bills were referred to the army committee, which once into session, approved them, and drafted strong favorable reports, which debate later. It is expected that both bills will become law before the close of the day.

The radical supporters of Dreyfus are seeking the force the government to prosecute the many generals, colonels and high func-tionaries responsible for his condemnation. The amnesty law protects them, but a movement is on foot to repeal this law for the purpose of reaching Generals Mercier, Gonz, Col. Patty De Cham and others who were prominent in the prosecution of Dreyfus.

The government newspapers declare that the affair is closed, but others, notably the Figaro and those who were prominent in obtaining a revision of the Dreyfus trial not to attempt to obtain vengeance.

The Eclair asserts that the acquittal of Dreyfus means that politicians have seized the judiciary.
The prevailing tone of the press testifies to the scrupulous integrity of the court and hails its decision as a triumph of justice.

DIAMONDS

For Every Home.

Diamonds for every Canadian home are not the gems which the wealthy alone can purchase; they are those invaluable gems known as DIAMOND DYES which have been for twenty-five years true money-savers for the women of Canada.

DIAMOND DYES wherever used, have proved their superiority over all other package dyes in richness, fullness and durability of colors.

Certain speculators, jealous of the popularity of DIAMOND DY-ES, are putting up adulterated and crude dyes to imitate the DIA-MOND DYES. These common and cheaply prepared dyes produce blotchy and muddy colors and ruin good materials.

When you have dresses, skirts, blouses, jackets, capes, stockings and other articles of wearing apparel to recolor, use the DIA-MOND DYES only, and you will have results which will fill your heart with joy. DIAMOND DYES make old things look new.

Always ask your dealer for the DIAMOND DYES and refuse any other make that may be offered to you. The common dyes are sold by merchants simply for the sake of big profits. New Diamond Dye

PURSE PRESENTED TO MR. JOHNSTON.

Congregation of Methodist Church Met Wednesday Night to Bid Farewell to Pastor.

A largely attended congregational meeting of the Methodist church was held in the vestry last Wednesday evening, at which a purse containing a substantial sum was presented to the retiring pastor Rev. H. Johnston.

After the usual prayer meeting service was completed, Mr. H. Williston, on behalf of the congregation, in a few well chosen words made the presentation.

Rev. Mr. Johnston replied in a very feeling manner and thanked the congregation for this additional act of kindness.

The meeting broke up by forming the circle of fraternity and singing "Auld Lang Syne". A large number of friends went to the depot Friday to see Mr. and Mrs. Johnston safely on their journey.

EXCURSION PARTY
CAUGHT IN FOG.

Alexandra With Large Crowd Could not Make Destination.

A large excursion party went out on the Alexandra Thursday evening and had a delightful sail down river and up to Newcastle. There was no moon, and most of the excursionists wanted none, it being light enough for them. The Newcastle people were landed, and on the trip down the boat ran into a bank of dense fog and had to anchor above Douglastown. After a time the anchor was weighed and the journey resumed, but the fog shut in again and the anchor was dropped in six fathoms this side of Douglastown. It was four o'clock, and the rain was falling thick and fast, when the pleasure seekers were landed.

Dancing to McEachern's music was indulged in all night, and the hours went with flying feet. We have such fog only once or twice a year, and the steamboat men can't run through it safely. Well!
