BOARD GRANTS TEMPORARY INCREASE TO BELL TELEPHONE

Bell Telephone Co. Is Allowed To Increase Long Distance and Service Connection Charges

Board of Railway Commissioners Renders Judgment On Application for Higher Rates—Refuses To Grant Measured Rates System On Ground That Present Situation Is Only an Emergency One and Relief to the Company Is Only Temporary—Advises Greater Use of Party Lines.

Ottawa, April 2.—The board of railway commissioners in its judgment on the application of the Bell Telephone Company for increased rates, has refused the measured rates system to the company on the ground that the present situation is an emergency.

The company is granted increased long distance and service connection charges, together with a ten per cent addition on exchange revenue.

A statement given out by the railway board reads: "The judgment in the telephone case which is issued today finds that the evidence adduced does not justify the adoption of the measured rate which was proposed for the cities of Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Hamilton and Quebec. The company filed tariffs which it was estimated would produce $4,677,000.

Relief Only Temporary.

The board finds that the present situation is an emergency one, and the relief granted should be temporary. In dealing with the emergency situation it directs that, as a temporary measure, a revised figure of depreciation should be used. It finds that after this is done the company still needs approximately $2,100,000 of additional revenue. This is to be raised by the increase in long distance charges and the service connection charge as filed by the company, together with a ten per cent addition on exchange revenue.

It is further intimated that the company should adopt, at as early a date as possible, depreciation ratio based on its own actual experience.

Advises Party Lines.

The increase is temporary, and the board retains the conduct of the case. The monthly reports which have been filed since the previous hearing are to be continued and provision is to be made for such special additional reports as the board may deem necessary. Further extension of party line service is in the public interest. It enables a telephone user to obtain a reasonably adequate service at a lower rate than was charged to a single-line user. It enables economies to be made in materials, thus keeping down operating costs. By increasing the number of telephones it adds to the value of the service.

The judgment is written by Assistant Chief Commissioner McLean, concurred in by Deputy Chief Commissioner Nantell and Commissioner Boyce.

The text of the judgment will be issued Monday.

LAST STAND AGAINST GAS BILL MONDAY

Aldermen Preparing for Fiscal Protest Against $1.25 Rate.

AUDIT COMPANY'S BOOKS

Council Not Likely To Take Advantage of This Clause At Present.

Although aldermen are preparing for a final protest against the recommendation of the private bills committee of the Legislature to increase the price of gas, conjectures are already being made as to what course will be pursued if the bill is adopted. A clause in the bill provides that the council may apply to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board to audit the company's books, and make a valuation of its properties.

In the event of the bill being passed it is doubtful if the council would take immediate advantage of this clause, in the opinion of Ald. F. E. Harley. It is intended to give the city an opportunity of gaining first-hand knowledge of what a fair price for gas would be. Because of this, Ald. Harley thinks the audit and valuation would be delayed until conditions are in a state, more nearly normal, than at present. It would be unfair to base a permanent rate on present conditions, he thinks.

The council meeting Monday night is expected to be a lively one, as it is certain the aldermen will try to make a last stand against the gas bill in accordance with the position they took at a special meeting this week.

REVISION OFFICERS ADD 113 NAMES IN ONE HOUR TO LOCAL VOTERS' LISTS

Total Names Added to List Expected to Reach 1,500 Before Courts Close This Evening—Saturday Proves the Busiest Day in All Four Revision Courts.

Within one hour after the courts of revision in each of the four wards had opened their doors this morning, 113 names were added to the voters' lists of this city. Continuous streams of people were seeking information from the officials at press time today, and it is fully expected that a grand total of nearly 1,500 names will be added to the lists by closing time tonight. By 11 o'clock the grand total had reached approximately 1,150 names.

E. W. C. Flock, revision officer in Ward Four, was the busiest man in this city today. In one hour he swore in 53 people and had given information to as many more. Unassisted he dealt with an average of almost two people a minute.

All morning the various courts of revision were visited by scores of persons wishing to assure themselves that their names were on the voters' list. In Ward 1, thirty names were added to the list, and Ward 2 list was increased by fifteen names. In Ward 3, at the time of going to press, fifteen names had been added to the voters' list. John M. Gunn, the revising officer in this ward, reported yesterday as being this busiest day since the court opened, and is expecting to do a "rushing business" this afternoon, when citizens who have not had a chance to get to the revision court during the week, will take advantage of the half holiday.

The courts will not be opened tonight.

M'CREA BILL NOT SO INTERESTING TO CITY FATHERS NOW

Railway Board Gives Up Street Railway Control May 1.

SITUATION IS ALTERED

Company Will Deal With Demands of Men—However, Bill Will Be Fought.

Announcement that the McCrea bill to empower the Ontario Railway Board to increase fares on roads under its control had passed its second reading has not caused much concern locally in view of the railway board's announcement that it will relinquish control of the street railway May 1.

When the bill was first brought before the Legislature, London aldermen were alarmed because they feared it would give the board complete power over the situation here, and that they could increase fares without consulting either the council or the people. At a special meeting they unanimously passed a resolution of protest against the measure.

The situation has altered considerably since then. According to the way the bill is interpreted here it would only empower the board to increase fares while it operated the road. The board could not increase them and hand the road back to the company.

The railway board will give up control of the local street railway in a month, so that there is no possibility of fares being increased even if the new measure is adopted by the Legislature unless a situation should develop in which the board was recalled here.

Under these circumstances London has not the same direct interest in the bill as a week ago. The aldermen are still opposed to its principle, however, and probably will continue their protests against it.

SEASON'S FIRST STRAWBERRIES.

Watsonville, Cal., April 2.—The first strawberries of the season have just left here, it was announced today, two weeks ahead of the average seasonal date for initial shipments. The crop for this season is estimated at 165,000 crates, approximately three times the normal yield.

Indemnities in B.C. Legislature Are Increased

Victoria, B. C., April 2.—The amendment to the constitution act increasing sessional indemnity and salaries of provincial cabinet ministers was carried in the Legislature yesterday, Hon. G. W. Bowser, Opposition leader, being the sole dissentient.

CATTLE EMBARGO IS NOT BIGGEST ISSUE IN TAUNTON CONTEST

London, April 2.—Canadian Press.—The by-election in Taunton, where Sir Arthur Griffiths Boscawen, the minister of agriculture, is being opposed by James Lunnon, Laborite, has so far proceeded quietly. Mrs. Lloyd George will speak at a meeting today, and will devote next week to canvassing, and speaking in the interests of the minister's candidate. Polling will take place next Friday.

The Canadian cattle question does not figure so prominently in the present contest as it did when Sir Arthur was running in Dudley. Lord Beaverbrook has apparently not considered it advisable to carry his quarrel with the minister's views on the cattle embargo, into the present election.

The Labor candidate declares that lifting the embargo would mean the entry of 2,000,000 Canadian live cattle into Britain. To this the minister replies that Britain could not make use of 2,000,000 cattle. He also wants to know how they could be transported here.

ASKED TO CHOOSE JUDGES.

Geneva, April 2.—Invitations to nations signatory to The Hague conventions of 1899 and 1907, asking them to name representatives who would nominate candidates for the positions of judges of the permanent international court of justice have been sent out by the secretary general of the League of Nations. The council and assembly of the league will be required to choose the judges from lists of candidates furnished by the various nations.

MOTOR-DRIVEN YACHT LAUNCHED

Detroit, April 2.—The motor-driven yacht Delphine, the largest vessel of its kind ever constructed, was launched at the Great Lakes Shipyard today. The yacht was begun by the late Horace E. Dodge, automobile manufacturer. The vessel will be driven by oil burning engines, and is just a few feet narrower than the St. Lawrence River locks, which will allow its passage to the ocean.

IRELAND'S FIRST CATHOLIC VICEROY TO CALL ELECTION UNDER THE HOME RULE ACT

Lord Edmund Talbot Will Issue Writs Immediately After Assuming Duties of Official Early in May—Reconstruction in British Government On Larger Scale Than Anticipated—Sir Robert Horne Has Made Rapid Strides to High Position.

London, April 2.—The officially-announced intention on the part of the British Government of appointing Lord Edmund Bernard Talbot as viceroy of Ireland, in succession to Lord French on the expiration of his term of office, is extremely interesting. He will assume office at the beginning of May in order to issue writs for the elections under the home rule act.

Lord Edmund is the leading lay Roman Catholic in the kingdom, and the first Catholic to become viceroy of Ireland.

Andrew Bonar Law's unexpected retirement as lord privy seal and from the Government leadership in the House of Commons has led to a complete reconstruction of the Government on a much larger scale than had been expected. The most remarkable appointment is that of Robert S. Horne to the chancellorship of the exchequer. In Parliament only two years, he succeeds to the most important position in the cabinet after the prime minister. Several of the score of new appointments are new men, who will be obliged to seek re-election.

LONDONDERRY IS AGAIN SCENE OF BAD OUTBREAK

Constable Is Killed; Several Soldiers and Civilians Wounded.

Belfast, April 2.—Serious disorders occurred in Londonderry last evening. Constable Higgins was shot and killed by assailants, who escaped. Two bombs were thrown at the electric light station, and two soldiers were wounded, and in rifle firing that followed the attack two civilians were injured. The station property was not damaged by the explosion.

An attack was made on the police barracks on Lecky road, and two constables were wounded before police reinforcements, which arrived in an armored car, beat off the attacking party. Rifle firing could be heard during the night, and great excitement prevailed, it is said in a dispatch received here.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK FORCES FAIL TO GET CONTROL IN VLADIVOSTOK CITY

Tokio, April 2.—Attempts by anti-Bolshevik elements to gain control of the city of Vladivostok have resulted in failure, according to official advices received here. The fighting had not proceeded very long before officials of the Japanese garrison ordered the belligerents to cease firing and disarm. This order was obeyed and dispatches from Vladivostok state that at present the situation is not considered serious.

M'Crea Bill Given Its Second Reading in the Legislature

Measure Now Goes To the Railway Committee—London Street Car Situation Is Instanced As One of Many Problems Which Need Solution.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

TORONTO, April 1.—Contrary to expectations raised by previous Government pronouncement, the McCrea bill, vesting with the Ontario Railway Board almost absolute control with respect to electric railway fares in the province, was given second reading in the Ontario Legislature today and allowed to go to the railway committee of the House. Only one cabinet minister, Hon. Harry Mills, spoke in the debate, and he opposed it.

Two Toronto members, Hon. Thomas Crawford and A. C. Lewis, provided the strongest opposition to sending the bill on for further consideration. Besides Mr. McCrea, the measure found supporters in R. L. Brackin, Liberal member for West Kent; J. A. Calder, Liberal member for North Oxford; K. K. Homuth, Labor member for South Waterloo, and J. W. Curry, Southeast Toronto. J. M. Webster, U.F.O. member for Lambton, expressed himself briefly as opposing the principle.

Question of Principle.

In contending for further consideration of the measure, Mr. Brackin made a strong point in the similarity in its porposals to those embodied in Hon. Harry Mills' bill appointing a gas referee to deal with the situation in Southwestern Ontario. The principle of the two proposals, he argued, was exactly similar. And in connection with the gas distribution problem, he reminded the House, the people themselves had recognized the fact that the companies could not carry on under old rates, and had agreed to the setting-up of a body of arbitration. The gas situation, he thought, was one that touched the people of Western Ontario much more closely than did the electric railway problem, and he did not believe that there would be the popular outcry against Mr. McCrea's proposal to set up the Ontario Railway Board as an arbitrating body that was anticipated in some quarters.

Instances London.

In presenting his argument for the measure, Mr. McCrea pleaded for fair consideration of a proposal calculated to meet a serious situation in the province. Numerous electric railways, he said, instancing those of London, Guelph and Kitchener transportation lines had found it absolutely impossible

GARAGE OWNER IS SHOT.

Valley Field, Que., April 2.—Alexander Chabot, 35, of this town, garage owner, was shot in the lung last night, probably fatally, by one of two men who had hidden themselves in his garage, it is thought, with a view to stealing a large United States automobile which had been stored there for the night. Chabot found the men hiding behind the car. They began to shoot and escaped in the subsequent confusion.

EX-EMPEROR OF HUNGARY TO GO BACK TO EXILE

Unconfirmed Report States He Will Not Consent to Abdicate.

DEMANDS OF ASSEMBLY

Urges Hungarian Government To Suppress Charles' Plans.

Budapest, April 2.—Resolutions asking the Hungarian Government to defeat attempts by former Emperor Charles to remain in this country were unanimously adopted by the Chamber of Deputies here last night.

Former Emperor Charles will leave Steinamanger for Switzerland Sunday evening or Monday.

Paris, April 2.—Reports that former Emperor Charles has finally given up his attempt to regain the Hungarian throne and will return to his exile in Switzerland, without, however, consenting formally to abdicate, as requested by representatives of the Hungarian Government, were not confirmed here this morning. These reports emanated from exactly the same sources as the news received late Thursday that he was marching toward Budapest with a force varying from 1,500 to 15,000 men. They are, therefore, received with considerable caution. Dispatches received here relative to the failure of the attempted coup d'etat come from Vienna, which has an old reputation as "Europe's imaginative news centre." The Temps declares the source of these reports "may be connected with the Austro-Hungarian monarchist party," and competent opinion here remains somewhat skeptical. It is admitted, however, that the departure of Charles from Hungary is more probable than his success. Telegrams from Vienna are delayed, and it would appear that reports from Budapest are being subject to censorship.

HEAVY PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO REPORT INCOME

Procrastinator Liable to Fine of $10 Per Day, Says Taxation Inspector.

It is pointed out by George Tambling, inspector of taxes for the London district, that those who have not yet filed their returns of information have rendered themselves liable to a penalty of $10 for each day during which they have neglected to do so. There was a considerable amount of heartburning last year when these penalties were enforced, but those concerned had no one to blame except themselves.

It may also be stated, for the information of those who are at fault in this matter, that all such penalties are assessed and collected from the person liable to make the return, in the same manner in which the taxes are assessed and collected.

But there is another very important aspect to this matter, which it is well for all those concerned to have no misunderstanding about. Any person, whether taxable or otherwise, who fails to make a return or to provide information when requested to do so, shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty of $100 for each day during which the default continues.

It may also be well to remember that any person making a false statement in any return or in connection with any information required, is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding $10,000, or to six months imprisonment, or to both fine and imprisonment.

The time for the sending in of the returns of information to the local office expired on March 31, and those who have to file their returns of income must do so on or before April 30, if they wish to escape liability for the penalties already mentioned.

Gold Discovered Near Pembroke Along Petawawa

Ottawa, April 2.—A dispatch from Pembroke to the Journal reads: "Is Pembroke to be the centre of the next big gold rush in this province?' This question is prompted by the statement that gold in paying quantities has been discovered on the south branch of the Petawawa River, some eighteen miles from town.

Harry Fitzpatrick, while engaged there in lumbering operations picked up some samples of surface rock which he thought showed traces of gold, and he, associated with Dr. F. J. Dodd, staked ten claims, or about 400 acres. The fact that lumbering operations in progress prevented them from doing any development on the property, but it is understood that they will now commence work and are confident that the property will prove a very valuable one.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME BECOMES EFFECTIVE IN GT. BRITAIN TOMORROW

London, April 2.—Summer time will become effective in Great Britain at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, when all the clocks in the United Kingdom will be set forward an hour. This will be the sixth year that the daylight saving schedule for the summer months has prevailed in England.

BRITISH MINES FLOODED; TRAIN SERVICE WILL BE RESTRICTED NEXT WEEK

Government Calls for Reductions in Use of Electric Signs and Unnecessary Illumination—Race Meetings in the Mining Centres Have Been Cancelled Owing to Strike—Clerks Manning Pumps in Some of the Coal Pits.

London, April 2.—Six British coal mines, left to the mercy of the inrushing waters by the strike of miners and pumpmen, have already been flooded, and some of them are said to be in such condition that they may be permanently wrecked. Four of these mines are in South Staffordshire, one in the Forest of Dean, County of Gloucester, and one in Flintshire, Northeastern Wales. Several of the older pits in the Lancashire district and in the Rhondda Valley, Wales, are in imminent danger, and in most of the other coal districts of the island clerks are manning the pumps.

Restrictions on train service will begin next Wednesday, and a cut of 20 per cent will be made effective before the end of next week if the coal strike continues. Race meetings were scheduled at Warwick, a mining centre, next Monday and Tuesday, but they have been cancelled at the government's request. Some of the illuminated signs in London already have been voluntarily extinguished, and it is expected that orders will soon be issued prohibiting all such signs. The government is also planning to impose restrictions on shop and street lighting, and the public has been asked to economize in the use of gas, electricity and gasoline.

Another effect of the embargo on the export of coal has been an increase in the demand for tonnage to carry United States coal to British bunkering stations.

The chairman of the London coal committee declares London has a supply for about three weeks, but if the present summer-like weather continues, it will last five or six weeks.

There were no reports yesterday or last night regarding disturbances anywhere, dispatches stating that the miners were enjoying a holiday.

LONDON MAN CHARGED WITH HOLDING UP DRUGGIST LAST SATURDAY; PLEADS INNOCENT

Robert Roberts Identified by Thomas Sumner As One of Two Robbers—Will Appear in Court Thursday.

Robert Roberts was this morning identified by Thomas N. Sumner as one of the two men who held him up a week ago tonight, and was charged in police court with robbing and wounding the complainant. This came rather as a surprise today, as Roberts has been in jail since the first part of the week charged with being disorderly.

"Who am I supposed to have robbed?" asked Roberts when the charge was read out.

He was told.

"Me, rob?" he queried in a surprised manner. "I have no record."

"You are only charged with the offence," explained the court. "You are innocent until you are proven guilty."

"How do you wish to be tried?" inquired the magistrate.

Roberts decided to reserve his election until he was able to get witnesses to prove his whereabouts on the night he was alleged to have robbed Sumner. The date for his election of the manner in which he wished to be tried was set for Thursday.

Roberts and three other men were arrested in a house in Tecumseh Park early this week, and charged with being disorderly. The other three men have pleaded guilty and been fined $5 and costs, with the option of spending five days in jail.

Sumner was robbed and assaulted while on Waterloo street, near the C. P. R. tracks, at 11:30 o'clock last Saturday night. He claimed at that time that the two men who waylaid him appeared to be hoboes.

MILLIONS INVESTED IN MOTOR INDUSTRY IN THIS PROVINCE

61,257 Touring Cars Manufactured in Dominion in 1919.

Ottawa, April 2.—A preliminary survey of the automobile industry for the calendar year of 1919 has been completed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Three different sections cover automobiles, accessories and repairs, respectively. The capital invested in the industry totals $57,000,000, of which Ontario accounts for more than $48,000,000, with a total of 640 out of the 1,236 plants throughout the Dominion. The total number of employees is 23,084, with a pay roll of over $15,000,000. In 1919 there were 61,257 touring cars manufactured in Canada, with a value of over $62,000,000. Trucks numbered 7,527, with an aggregate value of $4,850,000.

TOM MOORE SUSPECTS WRONG MOTIVES BY SOME UNION MEMBERS

Ottawa, April 2.—Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, says it has come to his knowledge that certain Protestant employers at Thetford Mines, Que., have entered into closed shop contracts with the Catholic National Union, for an obvious reason. The same was being done in Montreal and Quebec and other parts of the Province of Quebec. This movement had for its purpose the wrecking of the international trades movement, and its strength should not be under-estimated, declared Mr. Moore. "This movement, centred in the Province of Quebec, is one of the most insidious and dangerous that the international trades union movement has ever been confronted with," said P. M. Draper. "We must look this fact squarely in the face."

TWO SHOT BY ROBBERS.

Montreal, April 2.—Nikolai Stripola was shot in the breast by holdup men in his room last night, and died instantly, and Jacob Lublinsky, a 6-year-old boy, was shot in the groin and is lying in a critical condition in the general hospital by a bullet fired by one of the assassins in making his escape. Robbery was apparently the motive.

Counter-Attack by Nationalists Proving a Success.

Paris, April 2.—Greek forces, which were driven out of the city of Eski-Shehr, Asia Minor, by a Turkish counter-attack early this week, are in full retreat, says a Constantinople dispatch received here. Turkish cavalry is declared to be pursuing the Greeks.

G. W. V. A. SECRETARY RESIGNS POSITION

John W. Cunliffe Refuses To Reconsider Action—Resignation Accepted.

John W. Cunliffe, who has been secretary of the G. W. V. A. in this city almost since the organization of the local branch during the early war years, resigned from that office at a meeting of the executive of the association Friday night. After much hesitation on the part of the other members of the executive, and after Mr. Cunliffe refused to reconsider his action, his resignation was accepted. No successor has yet been appointed.

Mr. Cunliffe has been actively engaged in the work of the association since his return from overseas. During the time he held office he made many friends, especially among the returned men and their families, whom he always sought to serve. He has also been in public work, notably on the city's housing commission. Mr. Cunliffe has no intentions of leaving London.

Much other business was also discussed at the meeting, but the committee refused to give further information for publication.

LARGE INCREASE IN CUSTOMS RETURNS

Collections For Year $2,044,096—An Increase of $145,314.

For the year ending March 31, 1921, the total collections of the customs department is $2,044,096.19, showing an increase of $145,314.57, as compared with the previous year. For the month of March, 1921, however, there is a decrease of $36,542.62, compared with the figures for the corresponding month in 1920. The total collections last month were $149,224.98, while in March of last year the figures were $185,767.60. This decrease is accounted for by the fact that in the total for March, 1920, there was a tax of seven and one-half per cent which does not appear in the returns for last month. This tax has been replaced by a sales tax of one per cent, and the total of this tax is not included in the total of the duty collected.

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN.

A Ford five-passenger touring car belonging to Fletcher Brown, 120 York street, was stolen from the corner of Dundas and Waterloo streets about 10:20 o'clock Friday night. The license number was 63-722.

HIGH LONDON PRICES SLUMP DINING OUT

Popular Hotels and Restaurants Lay Decline to the Heavy Cost of Wines.

LONDON, March 29.—The gentle art of dining out has taken a decided slump in London and the proprietors of fashionable West End hotels and restaurants are beginning to have visions of going into the movies or some other more lucrative line of endeavor. Not that the people of London have taken to emulating the late Lord Mayor of Cork. They still eat, but necessity and high prices have forced them to be less fashionable about it.

One of the main reasons is the cost of wines. That is where the big profits used to be in the days when a good bottle of champagne could be had for 10 shillings. But with fair champagne at 16 to 20 shillings and vintage wine at 30 shillings a bottle, only the wealthy can afford to order it and the wealthy have got so they prefer to eat at home or at their clubs.

And the thing that has frightened away the wealthy of the old school is the boisterous and uncultured element that has crept into the fashionable restaurants. A cultured Britisher does not relish the idea of eating in the company of people who consume their food with more noise than grace, even if the restaurant has the name of catering to the select. So these newly rich have driven away the really high class trade, and so the restaurant proprietors are in despair.

It might not be so bad if this new class of customers spent their money as freely as did the others, but the trouble seems to be that while the newly rich have acquired a champagne pocketbook they have not dropped their beer taste, so that they order ale and red wine, where the old school ordered the fizzy beverage.

As a result the proprietors say their receipts are 50 per cent below what they were last year. But, after all, their plight is rosy compared to that of the wine merchants, who declare that the sale of champagne has been taxed thoroughly and completely to death.

MUSICAL TREAT FOR WESTMINSTER PATIENTS

Choir of Chelsea Green Presbyterian Church Provides Entertainment.

The auditorium of the Westminster Hospital was the scene of a delightful concert on Thursday evening, when the choir of the Presbyterian Church of Chelsea Green provided the entertainment. The chorus work was fine and varied, and the solo work was exceptionally good.

The following choruses were rendered: "O Canada," "Swanee River," "Dixie Land," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Lullaby Time," "Sweet and Low," "Hawaiian Lullaby" and the final, "Good Night" round. Miss Jean Maitland sang "The Servants' Chorus" and "The Legend of the Bells" from the opera, "Chimes of Normandy," in great style, and the chorus work in these pieces was very good. Miss Maitland also sang several solos. Mr. George Brash sang "Old Black Joe," "Annie Laurie" and "The Wee House Among the Heather," and was in splendid voice. Miss Addie Haynes rendered "The Bells of St. Marys," with the assistance of the chorus. Mrs. B. Parker, Mrs. W. Dallimore and Miss B. Dallimore delighted the audience with "Juanita," and the singing of "Whispering Hope," by Mrs. J. French, Mrs. W. French, Miss Addie Haynes and Miss Peggy Smith was a feature of the evening. Mrs. W. French sang "Let the Rest of the World Go By," and F. Aldridge furnished the remainder of the solo work with "Carry Me Back to Old Virginie," "Tripoli," and "Till We Meet Again." The duet, "In Old Manilla," by Miss Jean Maitland and Mr. Frank Aldridge, proved very acceptable.

The patients joined very heartily in the choruses, and insistently demanded encores and got them. The evening closed with a number of old army songs, F. Aldridge accompanying on the piano. Great credit is due to Miss Ella Symons, who accompanied all the program, in a finished manner. The concert was under the direction of F. Aldridge.

FULL INFORMATION ABOUT THE FAIRIES.

[London Times.]

Fairies photographed in Yorkshire were shown, by means of a magic lantern, in the hall of the Theosophical Society. They and their habits suffered, at the same time, the indignity of being lectured upon. The lecturer was a firm believer, and, as for the camera, every precaution had been taken lest it should lie. The fairies seemed to be the usual sort; nothing very startling about them—except, of course, their existence. Mr. A. P. Sinnett, who presided over the demonstration, explained that to see a fairy you must be clairvoyant—which is pretty obvious. They can be photographed only if they become, with clairvoyant aid, partially materialized. Their duties are concerned with the color, growth and shape of flowers. They have a definite task in the scheme of nature, and are subject to evolution. They live on a very humble level, and are about as intelligent as a Newfoundland dog. The matter composing a fairy's body is plastic to thought. Currents of human thought give fairies the form in which they are seen by the clairvoyant. And so on. It is all relative, as a disciple of Professor Einstein might say.

The fire department was called about 9 o'clock Friday night to the junk and metal warehouse of White & Lewis, on Simcoe street, where fire had broken out in a pile of waste and rags. The amount of the damage was small.

WARLOW SENT FOR TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

Killed His Wife and Then Turned Gun On Himself.

EMBEZZLER SENTENCED

Robert Watson Blames Drinking and Gambling For His Downfall.

WINDSOR, April 1. — John Warlow was sent up for trial at the fall assizes court at Sandwich on a charge of murdering his wife, Louisa, at Walkerville, following a preliminary hearing before Magistrate W. E. Gundy in Walkerville this afternoon. Testimony taken at the inquest was accepted as evidence.

Mrs. John Tierney, an eyewitness of the shooting, was the only witness to take the stand, and added to statements made at the inquest with a view to clearing up some of the movements of the principals prior to the tragedy. Mrs. Warlow was shot by her husband on the night of March 19 in Walkerville, and died in the Hotel Dieu a couple of hours later. Following the shooting of his wife Warlow turned the gun on himself and was a patient in the same hospital until March 25, when he was released and formally placed under arrest on a murder charge. J. H. Rodd, K.C., has been retained to defend Warlow.

Suspended Sentence.

Stephen Bedford of Windsor was allowed out on suspended sentence, when he appeared before Magistrate W. E. Gundy today in Walkerville, charged with forgery of checks to the value of $700. Bedford has made restitution, and was required by the magistrate to provide two sureties of $1,500 each.

Given Two Years.

Robert S. Watson of Walkerville was sentenced to ten years by Magistrate Gundy in the Walkerville police court this afternoon for embezzlement of funds from the Studebaker Corporation of Canada. Watson was charged with the theft of sums of money aggregating $12,000, covering a period of almost two years. The sentence is the longest term imposed by Magistrate Gundy since his appointment to the bench.

Walkerville Whiteside, appearing for Watson, blamed drinking and gambling for the accused's downfall, saying that in one day at the races in Windsor Watson had lost as much as $2,400. Watson had taken a course at the University of Edinburg with the intention of entering the ministry, the court was told.

Had a Busy Month.

Fines imposed in court cases in Windsor during March totalled $8,080, according to figures issued today. January and February furnished an aggregate of $10,511. During the quarter a total of 250 cases were handled. Receipts since the first of the year are much in excess of the fines imposed for the same period in 1920.

During the month of March, the average attendance in the schools of Windsor was 90 per cent. To fine weather conditions and lack of sickness is credited this standing.

Total building permits in Windsor in March numbered 133 with a total valuation of $761,651.

FANATIC KILLS PARISH PRIEST

Father Jarecki Called To His Door and Shot

[Special to The Advertiser.]

DETROIT, April 1.—Called to the door of the parochial residence on Tenth street, Wyandotte, Rev. Father Leo Jarecki, 41 years old, parish priest of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic Church, was shot and killed at 9 o'clock tonight by an unknown man, believed by the police to have been a religious fanatic.

The bullet, fired from a .38-calibre revolver, struck the priest in the right cheek and took an upward course, lodging in the brain. Although still breathing when his housekeeper reached his side, Father Jarecki died on the way to Eilbert Hospital.

The whole affair is shrouded in mystery, both the police and Bishop Gallagher, in charge of Detroit Diocese, declaring the slain priest to have been one of the most beloved in the district. The police, in looking for a motive, learned that Father Jarecki had a considerable amount of money in the house, which he had recently collected to defray the cost of a chime of bells, but the assassin made no effort to take anything.

CAUCUS FAVORS TAKING RAILWAY

Immediate Acquisition of the Grand Trunk Is Favored by Government.

OTTAWA, April 1.—Government members gathered in caucus today and were requested to tender advice to the cabinet as to the action which should be taken in connection with the pending acquisition of the Grand Trunk Railway System. April 9 is the date which was set for the making of the award of the board of arbitration, and for the final acquiring of the road. The Grand Trunk has been pressing for an extension of the time, and in the meantime it is stated has been urging the need of extensive financial assistance. The issue now is whether the Government shall take over the road on the date stipulated or grant an extension of time.

While no definite conclusion was arrived at at the caucus, it was understood that the consensus of opinion was in favor of immediate acquistion on the date specified.

MADE DANGEROUS FIND.

DUBLIN, April 1.—A child found a bomb today in the ruins of the Ross Carbery police barracks, the scene early yesterday of a Sinn Fein attack, and handed it to a policeman, who, seeing the pin was missing, threw it into the street. It exploded, killing two persons and seriously wounding three others. Several persons suffered minor injuries.

CANADIAN SQUADRON TO LEAVE FOR EAST

Ottawa, April 1.—Canadian Press.—On April 13 the Canadian naval squadron, consisting of the cruiser Aurora and the destroyers Patriot and Patrician, will leave Esquimault, B. C., on the first leg of its 6,670 mile voyage to Halifax, where it will arrive about May 31. It is the intention that the squadron will alternate between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada.

POSSESS GOOD HEALTH BY LOOKING AFTER THE BOWELS

A free motion of the bowels, once or twice a day, should be the rule of everyone, as half the ills of life are caused by allowing the bowels to get into a constipated condition.

When the bowels are allowed to become constipated, the stomach gets out of order, and the liver does not do its work properly on account of holding back the bile, so that it does not pass through the bowels, but is allowed to get into the blood, thus causing a poisoning of the whole system.

If you would escape constipation, sick and bilious headaches, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, foul breath; the nasty irritating, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, you should keep your liver stirred up by the use of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

These pills, being purely vegetable, keep your liver working actively, helping it to resume its proper functions, and thereby removing the bile that is circulating in the blood and poisoning the whole system.

Mrs. H. Barrows, Enfield, N. S., writes: "I was troubled with such headaches and constipation. One day a friend told me of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I got two vials, and found they did me a world of good. I therefore have great faith in them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TEN MISSING IN COLLISION

Pacific Freighter Was Cut in Two by Steamer.

SEATTLE, April 1.—The Pacific Steamship Company this afternoon announced that a complete and careful rechecking of survivors from the steamer Governor, sunk off Point Wilson early today after a collision with the steamer West Hartland, showed seven passengers and three members of the crew unaccounted for.

The West Hartland, which arrived here today with survivors, struck the Governor in a slanting direction, according to ships officers, crumpling the freighter's bow and cutting the passenger boat almost in two from the starboard side.

GROWERS CLAIM HEAVY LOSSES

BRANTFORD, April 1.—Local tobacco growers are selling stocks grown last year at from 5 cents to 8 cents a pound, a loss of at least 5 cents a pound, they claim.

John H. Spence is acting collector of customs and excise, pending particulars of the new consolidation of departments here.

At the annual meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., Mrs. W. C. Livingston, regent of the chapter since its organization, resigned. Mrs. F. A. Howard was elected to the regency by a unanimous vote. The chapter voted in favor of cadet training in Brantford's public schools. The cadet movement was abolished in the local schools over a year ago.

M. Joseph Okolowicz, the Polish consul for Canada, is in Brantford, and has arranged to address the Polish people in St. Basil's Hall. He is accompanied by a representative from Poland, who has recently come to Canada, and will make an appeal for the orphans in Poland. While in the city the consul will be the guest of Father Dogorski.

Customs returns for the fiscal year amounted to $391,614.54, over $80,000 higher than the returns for the previous year. The monthly returns were down during March, totalling $50,483.29.

BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SPRING

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated, badly-ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this, a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds, constipation or colic and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

P. U. C. TO OPERATE THEIR OWN SMELTER

Would Mean Great Saving to City, Says E. V. Buchanan.

Following a consultation between General Manager E. V. Buchanan and two members of his staff relative to the heavy annual purchases which the waterworks department of the public utilities commission has to make of cast iron pipe fittings, such as "T's," "L's," "Y's," two-way connections, etc., a suggestion will probably be submitted to the next meeting of the commission that the P. U. C. make its own castings.

The carrying out of the suggestion would, it is claimed, enable the commission to obtain the necessary fittings at approximately two cents a pound. The present price being paid is five and a half cents a pound. During the war the figure paid rose as high as ten cents a pound.

To do the work it is proposed that the commission authorize the installing at the Hunt's Mill Building, which has been acquired by the P. U. C. as a workshop and storehouse, of an electric iron smelter at a cost of approximately $3,000 to $4,000. With such a smelter it would, it is said, be possible to do all the smelting and casting during the night and making use of current when the general usage is low. It is also pointed out that such a furnace, in contradistinction to a coal furnace can be entirely shut down during the day.

The adoption of such a plan would necessitate the employment of a practical molder and the necessary helpers, but against all the expenses are set the fact that the department could use for resmelting the large quantity of scrap iron which is at the present time sold to junk men and a careful calculation of all the pros and cons, Mr. Buchanan says, shows that the city by having such a plant could save a large amount of money each year.

City Briefs

TRAIL RANGERS' HIKE.—Eight Trail Ranger groups of the "Y" will hike to Dr. H. Williams's farm this afternoon for an endurance test. Group games will be held. The boys will cook their own supper.

EXCISE RETURNS INCREASE.—The excise returns for March show an increase of $66,806.99, compared with the corresponding month last year. The total for March, 1921, is $136,302.16. For this total the war tax is accountable for $116,750.60 and the excise, $19,551.56.

APRIL BUILDING GETS A GOOD START.—Building figures for the second quarter of the year are away to a fairly promising start. Several small permits for repairs and garages ran up a total of $650 for the first day of April. To equal April, 1920, they must reach a total of $211,510 by the end of the month.

PRESENTATION TO MISS DARCY.—The London office of the Home Bank of Canada was the scene of a presentation on April 1, on the occasion of the leaving of a valued officer of the bank, Miss Margaret Darcy. Miss Darcy, who has been in the service of the bank for a number of years, was the recipient of a beautiful wrist watch, appropriately engraved, a present from the staff of the bank. A beautiful bouquet of red roses, also was the gift from the staff, in token of the esteem in which Miss Darcy was held by them.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT.—The Women's Auxiliary of Southern Congregational Church gave a very successful entertainment on Thursday evening, which consisted of a playlet entitled "The Spinster's Convention." The different characters were represented by twenty ladies of the congregation, under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Torgeson, Ottaway avenue. The costumes were quaint and mirth-provoking, and those who wore them are to be congratulated on the way in which they performed their part. The feature of the evening was Professor Makeover (Mr. Anderson), who with his able assistant Macaroni (Mr. Mantle) and their wonderful re-model-a-scope, turned old into young. Solos were rendered by Miss Pearson, Miss Burns and little Miss Chapman. J. Eve, who sang "The Bachelor Song," brought the event to a close. All who took part were served refreshments. Miss E. Walton presided at the piano.

The funeral of Glen Lizmore, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Lizmore of London Township, was held this afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Full military honors were accorded him, he having served overseas the whole duration of the war. Rev. (Capt.) Pugsley conducted the services.

DR. I. S. HUGHSON SAYS IT IS UNDIGNIFIED TO CALL HIM 'POOR PRUNE'

Toronto, April 2.—Fellow preachers may call him nasty names, but Rev. Dr. I. S. Hughson of Stratford, who left the Baptist Church to join the Presbyterian, refuses to be the least bit ruffled by such attacks.

"That poor prune up in Stratford," was the phrase used by a Baptist cleric in London, in speaking to a Methodist audience there Thursday night about Dr. Hughson.

Dr. Hughson, who is now staying in Toronto with friends, when interviewed today on the subject said: "I expected some such attacks as that. It is not at all dignified and it would not be dignified for me to discuss. So if you will excuse me I won't do so."

MAKING IT A TEST CASE.

Quebec, April 2.—The case of the Federal Revenue Department against Hon. J. E. Caron, minister of agriculture, in which the Federal authorities are seeking to collect the income tax of the minister's indemnity as a member, will shortly be pleaded before the local courts. Much interest is manifested in the outcome owing to the fact that the action has been taken as a test case to decide whether indemnities of members of the Legislature are liable to Federal income tax or not.

SCHOOL TEACHERS RECEIVE MANY VALUABLE HINTS

Party Returns to London After Visiting Detroit Institutions of Learning.

An enterprising party of London Model School teachers, headed by G. W. Hofferd of the Normal School, have just returned from Detroit, where they spent Easter holidays in a study of the advance methods of teaching in some of the Detroit schools. One of their most important subjects of study was the new project-method of teaching. Other institutions investigated were the new platoon type of school, of which there are over a dozen now operating in that city, and the Intermediate High School. They were enabled to make a thorough study of the schools in operation, as the Detroit schools are closed during Holy Week preceding Easter and open during the week following. The party included G. W. Hofferd of the Normal School, W. E. Opper, Mis Fawkes, Miss Buckle and Miss Upshall of the Simcoe Street School, Miss Plewes of Talbot Street, Mrs. E. Elliott of Ealing, Miss Dickie of St. George's and V. K. Greer, public school inspector.

"Over in Detroit they are making the school, not a preparation for life, but life itself," said Mr. Hofferd on his return. "The aim of education is to socialize, and the socializing influence of their schools is wonderful." Mr. Hofferd referred to the fact that public school education in Detroit was under the control of the municipality, not of the state, and that for this reason it could develop along the most modern lines without restriction.

During the past winter the London Normal School teachers and their pupils have been studying along the line of the project method of teaching, and it was to see the system in action that the teachers' party visited the Maurice Marr Model School for Teacher Training in Detroit, where that system is demonstrated.

This system does away with teaching almost entirely, the pupils continually raising problems themselves, and learning in this way. For example, a whole class is organized like a firm doing business. It is up to them to decide on what business they go into, then what machinery, staff and material they need to carry on that business. Should they decide to go into the furniture business they would at once be confronted with the problem of what material they would need. They would find that they would have to make use of lumber, and the question would be raised as to how it should be measured, and then as a result of that, "what is a board foot?" and so on. In this way the pupils would discover what they wish to learn themselves, and in this way become intensely interested in their work.

CHANCE FOR PUBLIC SPIRITED CITIZENS

A Few "Bees" Would Reduce Cost of Civic Rinks.

While discussing with an Advertiser reporter today a suggestion made at No. 2 committee of the board of education last night to the effect that the playgrounds committee should share the expense of water used in making the skating rink at Aberdeen Public School, E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the public utilities commission, suggested that much of the cost of the public playgrounds might be saved to the city if groups of public-spirited citizens would organize some old-fashioned "bees" and go out and do some of the work themselves.

In regard to the cost of water for the rink, Mr. Buchanan said until he had the full facts he could not fairly give an opinion, but offhand he thought the board should be willing to share in the cost of the rinks and playgrounds. The waterworks department, he asserted, makes no charge for the water used on the public rinks, and in addition it supplied water for the sprinkling of many church lawns without charge during the summer months.

"These are matters of general civic interest, and as such all bodies concerned should be willing to bear their share of the cost," said Mr. Buchanan.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE WEEK TO BE HELD APRIL 17 TO 28

Board of Education To Be Invited to Give Its Assistance.

"Vocational Guidance Week" will be held in this city from April 17 to 23, it was decided at a meeting of the committee held at the Y. M. C. A. Friday afternoon. A pamphlet on vocational guidance has been prepared by the committee, and they will ask the board of education at its meeting on Tuesday to help in distributing the pamphlet among the boys of the eighth grades of the public school, the Technical School boys and those of the collegiate institute. They will also ask the Ministerial Alliance to assist in a meeting of the senior boys of these schools on Sunday, April 17. The service side of vocational guidance will be stressed by different speakers. Banquets and talks will also be held that week. Members of the committee are: L. M. Houlding, E. A. Miller and Dr. K. P. Neville.

WOULD GIVE EACH SOLDIER WHO SAW ACTUAL SERVICE INDUSTRIAL BOND FOR $2,000

Under Plan Suggested by E. F. Kidner, 250,000 Returned Canadian Veterans Would Benefit—Outlay Would Be in Neighborhood of $400,000,000 — Proposal Laid Before Special Government Committee.

Ottawa, April 2.—Canadian Press.—Details of a new plan for re-establishment for returned soldiers, calling for the issue of Government industrial bonds to each returned combatant, has been put before the special committees on pensions and re-establishment by E. F. Kidner of Victoria, B. C. Mr. Kidner suggests that a bond of $2,000 be given to each eligible returned soldier. He estimates that there would be 250,000 men eligible for this aid. The outlay would be in the neighborhood of $400,000,000, which, under the plan would be taken over by the banks, and would be repayable to them by the Government at the rate of $4,432,744 per year for fifty years, paying at the rate of three per cent.

In his proposal laid before the committee, Mr. Kidner sets forth that re-establishment plans now under way are not fully adequate, and that while there is need for some immediate financial assistance to returned soldiers, the cash gratuity plan is open to serious objections.

Mr. Kidner would grant each soldier an industrial bond, not exceeding $2,000 in value, to be used for the purpose of allowing returned soldiers either to start in business or buy homes. The boards would be established to investigate bona fides of each application.

OFF THE RAILS

When the train from Windsor was pulling into the local G. T. R. station just before noon on Friday the pilot of the engine caught on a plank near Richmond street. Before the train could be stopped much of the pilot was torn away.

ELECTED SECRETARY.

Miss E. Dewan was elected secretary of the first aid class by the girl employees of the G. T. R. Nine members enrolled when the first session of the class was held on Thursday last, under the direction of H. Call, general first aid organizer of the G. T. R.

GREAT SAVING.

That the claims prevention campaign of the G. T. R. promises to be even more effective this year than last was evidenced by the results of the first two months of 1921. In January of this year the claims paid were more than $21,000 less than the amount paid for the corresponding month of 1920. In February of this year, more than $4,000 was saved.

BUSINESS PICKING UP.

For the first time in many weeks the local freight business is showing signs of improvement, according to local officials of the G. T. R.

MR. GILLEAN IMPROVING.

John Gillean, depot master of the G. T. R. in this city, who is ill in St. Joseph's Hospital, rested well on Friday night, according to reports given out today.

DANCE MY DEAR.

"Dance My Dear," wrote a famous song writer, and a clerk in one of the local offices of the G. T. R. took his advice recently thereby making the best of a very awkward situation. This young man with his fancies turned to those things to which young men are supposed to turn in the springtime, accompanied a fair young thing to her home in Glanworth late one evening. All went merrily until he started for home.

Now this young man knew that the last car each night running over the L. and P. S. R. between St. Thomas and London usually stops at Glanworth somewhere in the neighborhood of 12:13. For some reason, however, the car whizzed passed the village without even hesitating on this occasion and so the hero of this story was left stranded.

Deep gloom settled down on his countenance as he stood on the cold station platform and watched the tail lights of the car disappearing down the track. After shivering for some time he started directly for the village. While walking aimlessly down the main street he beheld lights pouring from several upstairs windows and then he heard lilting music. On investigation he found that a lodge was holding a big dance. Being an ardent stepper of the light fantastic he immediately saw a solution to the situation. Mingling with the crowd with familiarity born of desperation he danced away the hours to early morning.

He caught a car to the city at 6:30 and arrived at work red-eyed and tired. He is now considering suing the L. and P. S. R. for damages.

TWO COMMITTEES TO MEET NEXT MONDAY

School Trustees Will Hold Afternoon and Evening Sessions.

Of the four committees of the board of education which have to hold meetings prior to the meeting of the board on Tuesday next at 4:30 p.m., two will meet on Monday, No. 1 committee at 4:30 p.m., and the advisory committee at 8 p.m., the former will meet in the board offices and the latter at the Technical School. The remaining committees will hold their sessions on Tuesday, No. 3 committee at 11 a.m. and the audit committee at 3:30 p.m., just before the regular board meeting.

The most interesting of the committee meetings will in all probability be that of No. 3 committee which will have before it the plans of the new collegiate institute which some of the trustees claim should not have been submitted for approval to the department of education before the trustees had approved them. Trustee Langford, chairman of the committee claims that the situation justified him in taking the course he did in regard to these plans and points out that the members of the committee did actually see the plans in the rough and made suggestion for some minor changes which were incorporated in the drawings which he took to Toronto.

SAYS HE KNEW TRUCK DEAL WAS CROOKED

Damaging Allegations Made Regarding Ontario Minister of Highways.

BIGGS WAS TO GET $3,000

Would Call No Tenders If They "Kept Their Mouths Shut."

TORONTO, April 1.—That Hon. F. C. Biggs, Ontario minister of highways, told L. C. Parkin of Dundas, that if they "kept their mouths shut" there would be no tenders on the $117,000 government order given Parkin, acting on behalf of a Milwaukee firm, was the evidence given today by Roy A. Reynolds, who at the time was an employee of Parkin. Reynolds made his statement to this effect before the public accounts committee of the Legislature investigating the matter.

The witness said that Parkin and he discussed the question as to what Mr. Biggs was entitled to in connection with the contract, and $3,000 was the amount mentioned. In answer to a question by Hon. E. C. Drury, premier, as to whether he had any idea that the $3,000 he was talking about would ever have reached Mr. Biggs, the witness admitted that he had never been approached in that regard.

Were In Conference.

Mr. Reynolds said that Parkin and himself had been in conference with the minister, Hon. F. C. Biggs, about the deal. They had agreed, he said, that "something was coming to 'Biggs' for putting the deal through." Parkin had asked him: "What do you figure we should give Biggs?" He had replied that he thought $3,000 would be about right.

"The three of us," said witness, "were to keep our mouths shut. I did, and Parkin did not."

Reynolds Denies Report.

On being reminded by R. L. Brackin of Chatham, who was cross-examining the witness, that Parkin had testified that when he drove Biggs from Hamilton to Dundas on December 29, the deal was not discussed, Reynolds denied it, saying that they "were so full of the idea of the contract that they could not go to sleep for thinking of it.

"Was that to be a bribe to the minister of public works for giving you this contract?" asked Mr. Brackin. "What did you want to give him this for?"

Something Coming.

"We both figured he had something coming to him," replied Reynolds. Witness then went on to say that previous to suggesting the giving of $3,000 to the minister of public works Parkin had suggested to him that a car might be given to Hon. Mr. Biggs. Reynolds then said: "If we give him a car we will be in bad. We must be careful."

"Why did you say it would look bad?" asked Mr. Brackin. "I thought there would be trouble," replied witness. "I knew the whole thing was crooked."

Wanted Some Trucks.

Reynolds swore that when Biggs came to Parkin's garage and mentioned that he wanted some trucks for highway construction, shortly after Biggs had become a member of the Ontario Government, Parkin had told him that he could not tender against such firms as the National Truck Company, which could give a 25 per cent discount, whereas he could give only 10 per cent off, Reynolds said he asked them why should Parkin sell to the Government at 10 per cent off, and to individuals at par. He told them he would rather sell to the Government at 105 per cent.

Reynolds then declared: "Mr. Biggs said to Parkin: 'Listen to Reynolds. Let him fix up this deal.'" Biggs said there wouldn't be any tenders if we kept our mouths shut. He told Parkin to get his contract ready, so he could take it to Toronto on Monday."

Got Contract Signed.

Parkin and Reynolds came to Toronto and got the contract signed. Then they went to Milwaukee to assure immediate delivery of the trucks.

When he severed connections with Parkin in March, 1921, Reynolds told Parkin that he (Reynolds) expected 3½ per cent on the Government deal.

Premier Drury asked the witness: "Had you any reason to think that this $3,000 you talk about would ever get to Biggs?"

"He never approached me," said Reynolds.

Witness said that when he went to Biggs to mediate between himself and Parkin, he said to the minister: "Frank, whatever is coming to you I will give my share." He said Biggs made no reply to this.

The committee will take up the question again at a sitting next week.

Sumatra Tobacco, Baldwin Locomotive and Mexican Petroleum were moderately lower. Steadiness was shown by Studebaker, Bethlehem Steel, Invincible Oil and People's Gas.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

New York, April 2.—(Wall Street).—Firmer money rates, the apathetic attitude of investors, increasing transportation problems and disquieting industrial and political conditions in Great Britain and Central Europe were foremost among the factors which accelerated the past week's irregular reaction in the stock market.

The turn into the year's second quarter brought no relaxation of time funds and latest statements of the leading railway companies strengthened the plea of these systems for urgent remedial legislation. An interesting sidelight on existing investment conditions was presented by the failure of the city of New York to find a market for more than a part of the $47,000,000 short-term notes at or under six per cent, most bids being in excess of that figure.

Sporadic improvement in general lines of business was attributed by trade authorities to seasonal conditions, and not so much as to any indications of a broad demand for other than the more necessary commodities.

RECITAL BY PUPILS OF ST. ANGELA'S

Interesting and High Class Program in Catholic Club Auditorium.

A very interesting recital was given yesterday afternoon and evening in the Catholic Club Auditorium by the pupils of St. Angela's School, assisted by Miss Agnes Hollway and Miss Leona Murphy. Each pupil taking part reflected great credit on the school in the competent manner in which they executed their different roles.

The program was a varied one, ranging from a piano solo by tiny Miss Catharine Finney, it being the occasion of her debut into the musical world, to a clever interpretation of Mendelssohn's concerto in G minor, by Miss Gertrude Manley, accompanied by Miss Mary Catalano. Other piano solos worthy of praise were: "Coasting," by Miss Constance Givins; "Spring Showers," by Edward Orendorff, and "Toccata," by Miss Agnes Hollway. Some of the vocal numbers were: "Ave Maria," by Master John Ashwell, who possesses a very sweet soprano voice, and "The Woodpecker," by the Misses Rowena, Lenore and Geraldine Smoothy. The reciting of "Excuses" by Miss Heloise Coles brought great applause from the audience.

STRATFORD FIRE LOSS FOR MONTH ONLY $50

Vital statistics for March show 40 births, 15 marriages and 20 deaths. During the month 33 building permits were issued, valued at $14,691. Most of the work is alterations.

The customs returns for the fiscal year totalled $588,604.75 as against $497,891.19 in the year previous.

Prof. Graham of the O. A. C., Guelph, will address the agricultural section of the chamber of commerce on Saturday afternoon on "Poultry."

Although it is estimated that there are upwards of 1,000 persons in the city eligible to vote on the referendum whose names are not on the voters' lists, less than half that number have so far registered.

WATER BILLS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS WORRY TRUSTEES

No. 2 Committee Orders Investigation Why Accounts Are So High.

SKATING RINKS BLAMED

Former Janitor Presents Statement For Long Overdue Car Fare.

Consideration of accounts occupied the attention of No. 2 committee of the board of education yesterday afternoon for the major portion of its nearly two-hour session. Although called for 4:30 o'clock, it was 20 minutes later before enough of the trustees were in attendance to permit the opening of business.

Heavy accounts for water at several of the public schools were the cause of adverse comment, and Secretary W. A. Tanner was instructed to investigate the cause before the bills will be passed for payment. Some of the accounts presented by the waterworks department for water at Aberdeen school were $73.70, Simcoe $60.03, Ryerson $49.50, St. George's $49.50, Wortley road over $40, while the account for the Ealing school was only $2.80.

Difference in Accounts.

The trustees were unable to understand the difference in the size of these accounts. Mr. Tanner stated, however, that at least so far as the Aberdeen account was concerned he understood that the making of a skating rink was largely responsible. He had been informed that owing to the changeable weather it had been necessary to spray the rink several times. With regard to the other large water accounts no explanation was forthcoming. A suggestion was made that the P. U. C. parks committee should pay for the use of the water for skating rinks.

Presentation by a janitor who has left the employ of the board, for car fare spent during four years' service, caused considerable discussion. The applicant charged ten cents a trip, the journeys being divided between trips to the secretary's office once a month for the monthly pay checks of the teachers, and weekly trips to the bank with the Penny Bank deposits of the children. This latter item brought the opinion from several trustees that the Penny Bank should bear this expense, one trustee remarking that the bank in South London that took charge of the savings from schools in that section paid a boy to collect the moneys, and take them to the bank. Inspector Greer explained that the work of the Penny Bank was a gratuitous service, carried on to teach and encourage thrift among the boys and girls. The account, which amounted to $20, will be recommended to the board for payment, on the understanding that it is not to create a precedent.

Discussion Over Plumbing.

Some discussion occurred over plumbing repairs in the schools, and Trustee Eggett declared that there "are two better methods of dealing with these repairs than the present system, namely, the engagement by the board of a practical plumber of its own, or, for the board to annually call for contracts for doing the year's plumbing repairs in the public schools. The secretary was instructed to prepare a statement of the cost of plumbing repairs in the public schools during last year.

Secretary Tanner raised a question as to the right of heads of departments making purchases for their departments without reference to him, and without his knowledge, until he is confronted with the accounts.

Trustee Coleridge, chairman of the board, stated that the board's own by-laws specifically state that the secretary of the board is the "purchasing agent of the board."

Possibility of delay in the securing of supplies needed in an emergency was noted by a trustee. Another trustee surmised that the secretary should have common sense enough to know when an emergency justified immediate action without resource to routine. The committee finally decided that the heads of departments shall be notified that all supplies, except in the case of an emergency, must be obtained through the secretary.

Will Purchase Desks.

Chairman H. Hayman and the secretary were empowered to purchase four desks and eight chairs for the use of teachers at Ealing and Wortley road schools. The matter of modern seats for the continuation class room at Victoria was laid over.

The janitor of Tecumseh school wrote, asking for $100 a month in lieu of his present salary of $87.50; otherwise he would quit his job on Saturday. It was pointed out that this man was being paid on the same scale as all the other janitors, namely, at the rate of $105 a year for each room, and that with the addition of two more rooms to the school this year his monthly pay would be $105.

Secretary Tanner stated that he had explained this to the man, and that he had declared that that would not satisfy him. The committee therefore decided to accept the resignation, and the chairman was authorized to engage another janitor for this school.

During the discussion the great difference in the manner in which the different janitors did their work was noted, and the trustees agreed that there should be a rating whereby the men who keep their schools in the best condition should be entitled to a bonus.

Clubs Ask Concessions.

Several letters from mothers' clubs, asking for various concessions, were read, but no action taken. Knollwood Mothers' Club asked for the provision of some music, in the form of a piano, organ or phonograph. Lorne Avenue Mothers' Club wants some folding chairs provided, as the kindergarten chairs are uncomfortable. Aberdeen Mothers' Club complained of the mud in the playgrounds.

The committee decided to ask for board for authorization to call for tenders for coal or to purchase coal by the car lot, as has been done during the past year.

WILL BUILD NEW CHURCH.

LEAMINGTON, April 1.—The Baptist congregation will commence work this summer on a new church to cost $50,000. Plans are now being prepared by Architect Wm. G. Murray of London. The new church, which will be of red brick, will be of the most modern design and one of the handsomest in the province. It is expected that work will be commenced about the first of May.

NEW GOVERNOR FOR IRELAND

LONDON, April 1.—Field Marshal Viscount French of Ypres will be succeeded as lord lieutenant and governor-general of Ireland by Lord Edmund Bernard Talbot, who has held the post of joint parliamentary secretary for the treasury.

Viscount French was appointed lord lieutenant of Ireland in 1918. At the outbreak of the world war he was in command of the British forces in France and Flanders, a position he held until he was relieved by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig in December, 1915. One of his famous achievements was in the battle of Ypres, the winning of which barred the channel ports from a German invasion and saved England from invasion. On his retirement in France he was created Viscount French of Ypres.

In December, 1919, an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Viscount French while he was motoring in Ireland. His party was ambushed and fired upon, but the lord lieutenant escaped injury. For some time there have been rumors of the possible resignation of Viscount French.

NEW CITY ENGINEER ARRIVES AT GALT

GALT, April 1.—Fire Chief Keyes' building report for March is most satisfactory, showing 12 permits issued for a total value of $19,900. Nine permits are for new dwellings. Despite the fact that business has been very quiet the customs returns for the past year show an increase of $46,233.75. The March returns show a decrease of $22,668.57.

So far only about 360 names have been added to the voters' list for the referendum, and while a rush is expected by the revising officer on Saturday, the final day, it is not expected the total added names will reach 500.

D. T. Black of Niagara Falls, Galt's new city engineer and manager, reported for duty today. He has moved his family and household effects here, and is now on the job.

The annual meeting of the Western Ontario Cricket League will be held at the local Y. M. C. A. on Saturday afternoon.

M'CRAE BILL

to continue service under old rates. Certain gentlemen from Guelph, he said, had attempted to throw dust in the eyes of the people by decrying his measure as "Anti-Hydro," but at the same time they were applying for increased railway fares for Guelph, which would be taken advantage of by the hydro should the commission eventually take over the road.

Fares In Excess.

If the whole outcry against the measure came from the hydro commission, Mr. McCrea declared, he would point out that on the London and Port Stanley Railway operated by the commission fares were charged in excess of those actually permitted by provincial statute. But if the hydro did not want to come in under the Ontario Railway Board he had no objection to excluding hydro operated or even municipally operated railways from the terms of his act. Mr. McCrea instanced that the Dominion Railway Board exercised supervision over steam railway rates with great benefit, he thought, to the country. He warned the House that a situation was rapidly being created which would drive all the capital out of the province.

Says It's Objectionable.

Hon. Thos. Crawford characterized the measure as "a very objectionable bill," and one, he thought, introduced solely "in the interests of corporations." It took away the rights of the people to transact their own business, and it ought not, he maintained, to occupy the attention of the House further, but should be killed on second reading.

A. C. Lewis, Northeast Toronto, condemned the measure as "a dangerous piece of legislation," and opposed its going to committee. K. K. Homuth, South Waterloo, pleaded for at least fair consideration of a measure which might remedy difficult situations in some parts of Ontario. Mr. Homuth pointed out that the five cents for three miles' fare limitation was placed on away back in 1886. In North Waterloo, the electric railway had practically ceased operations because of the impasse that had arisen over fares to be charged and he thought such a situation and that existing in London might ultimately prove hurtful to the province.

A Serious Situation.

J. A. Calder, North Oxford, instanced the London situation as one urgently requiring some sort of a cure. If Mr. MCrea's measure also provided for lowering as well as raising of railway rates with changed conditions he would support its going to committee. London's railway rolling stock, he said, was being allowed to deteriorate under present operation. J. W. Curry, Southeast Toronto, said that as the bill did not appear to affect Toronto he would support its going to committee.

Condemns Lyon.

Mr. McCrea condemned J. W. Lyon of Guelph for opposing the bill, especially in view of the fact that there was a bill before the Legislature which, if pursued, would enable the collection of a 7-cent cash fare on the Guelph Radial Railway. He said that there were always persons who were "ready to beat the drum and throw a little dirt in the eyes of the people so that they will not see what they are trying to hide from them." The hydro commission, he said, was "very solicitous that in no case should a higher fare be charged than allowed by the law," but at the same time they were going to operate the Guelph radial line, which wanted to charge a 7-cent fare.

"Is not this Guelph line the same one that the Government would not allow the hydro to take over?" asked A. C. Lewis (Northeast Toronto).

Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, replied that the city of Guelph and the hydro had thought of taking the line over, but the Government did not approve. Since then these parties had been in further negotiation, and legislation dealing with the matter might be brought down this session.

Will Hurt Business.

Continuing his argument, the member for Sudbury said that the time was coming when the capitalists would not feel like investing in the Province of Ontario. "People are hesitating to invest, and I do not blame them a bit," said Mr. McCrea. "If the hydro commission or any municipality did not want to have railways owned by them come under the provision of the bill," the member for Sudbury said, "I do not want to force them to, but let them give an opportunity to railways in municipalities which were not served by hydro."

The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board had the right to fix telephone rates, and Mr. McCrea said he could not see why they should not have the power to fix railway rates. So far as the city of London was concerned, and where his bill would be particularly applicable, Mr. McCrea said that now the railway in that city was only being operated "so long as the ro... hang together, and the position ... capitalists is getting worse."

Says It's Dangerous.

FINE RESULTS FROM DOMINION SEEDS

Must state I had fine results from Dominion Onion Seed last year. My onions were standing while patches of onions on both sides of mine were dead, and the crop I raised cured up fine. Your seed beat the American seed and I always have better satisfaction from your home-grown onion seed.

BURNED CLAY

Building Tile Partition Tile Drain Tile
Face, Hollow and Common Tile

Our new plant is equipped to manufacture in large quantities an unexcelled quality of everything required to build FROST PROOF, FIRE PROOF, SOUND PROOF and VERMIN PROOF walls and partitions for any and all kinds of buildings.

CONTRACTORS and SUPPLY MEN you will do well to line up with us for your requirements in Building Tile and Hollow Brick. The people are demanding Hollow Tile construction all over the United States and in Europe, especially in England, where the larger percentage of houses are being built of Brick and Hollow Tile construction. THERE IS A REASON. It is not only the best, but the least expensive of any type of present day construction. No STRIPPING and LATHING—plaster or paint right on the hollow tile walls or partitions.

PROSPECTIVE BUILDERS let us show you why our material is better and less expensive for your particular building than anything else on the market.

FARMERS, do you contemplate raising your barn, building a house, stable, garage, milk-house or other building? Does it mean anything to you to be able to get, at very reasonable cost, material that is frost proof, fire proof and damp proof?

Build Right It Lasts It Pays

Build With Everlasting Burned Clay

A Word About Drain Tile

Get your order in now while we have a stock on hand. Don't wait for prices to come down—they can't. Our cheap wood and gas are gone, yet our prices are lower than in any other district on the American continent. We told you two years ago that prices would not come down—they went up. We tell you now that they will likely go up before midsummer. We know our business, and it is to our mutual advantage to be frank with you.

Do not get the impression that we are holding prices up. Our prices are based on the cost of manufacture and a fair profit. We did not boost prices unnecessarily during the war, when prices of everything else went up. We gave the farmer the benefit of cheap gas, which is a large item in the cost of manufacturing burned clay products. Cheap fuel has held the price of tile down lower in this district than anywhere else and now we are compelled to import our fuel, along with all our machinery, fire brick, etc., we can positively state that if there is any change in prices, they will go up.

THE QUESTION IS, are you going to farm without tile, will the tile pay a good dividend on the investment? If your increased crops and saving in labor and machinery pay for your tiling in TEN years it is the best INVESTMENT you can make.

REMEMBER, only ONE farmer in a HUNDRED can get what tile he wants this summer. Are you going to be that lucky one?

NOW IS THE TIME to get ready for the boom that follows every slump as sure as day follows night. Get your improving done while help is plentiful.

HOT WORDS PASS IN HOUSE OVER CHARGE THAT FARMERS TURNED DOWN WHEAT BOARD

Progressives Blamed For $100,000,000 Loss To the West Through Britain Buying Grain in United States—North Perth Member Accuses Farmers of Being Selfish.

Ottawa, April 1. — (By Canadian Press.)—A somewhat monotonous session of the House of Commons in supply on the department of trades and commerce estimates today was illumined with a lively dispute between Government and Progressive members regarding whether or not the suspension of the activities of the Canadain wheat board had lost $100,000,000 to farmers of the west. The flicker of drawn steel occurred when a vote of $1,175,000 for administration of the Canadian grain act was under discussion.

Col. J. A. Currie (North Simcoe) had charged the Progressives with not supporting the wheat board, intimating that as a consequence Britain purchased grain in the United States when the business should have come to Canada. Hot blood was further stirred up by Mr. Morphy (North Perth), who declared farmers were clamoring for free trade in everything that did not affect their own bread basket.

W. D. Cowan (Regina) asserted that Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressives, had opposed the continuance of the board.

Defends Leader.

Levi Thomson (Qu'Appelle), Progressive whip, defended his leader. Mr. Crerar, so Mr. Thomson said, had only opposed the board's premanent continuance. J. A. Maharg (Maple Creek) challenged Government members to prove their assertions, while Dr. Michael Clark (Red Deer) doubted if the wheat board had been of any use to the western farmers.

During a discussion on general trade conditions, H. B. Morphy declared the time was opportune to launch an aggressive drive for United States trade. Americans were exploiting Canadian trade, and at the same time making Canadians pay for the expenses of their consular services. Major Mowat urged the appointment of a large and efficient force of Canadian trade agents in the United States. Sir George Foster agreed that the United States system of cherging $2.50 on each invoice passed more than paid the entire cost of the American consular and trade services in this country. But for Canadian trade agents in the United States to make charges on invoices would involve adoption of a similar charge in other countries. However, the question would be considered.

Gets Third Reading.

Third reading was given the bill incorporating the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada when the House resumed this evening. The House resumed discussion of the estimates of the department of trade and commerce. In committee. The item of $230,000 for the maintenance of trade commissioners and agents was passed.

When the item of $100,000 for the development and extension of Canadian trade was under discussion Sir George Foster said it was intended to establish a publicity and exhibits bureau in Ottawa, where articles of foreign manufacture and articles needed in foreign countries would be displayed.

The motion picture branch of the department has secured a great deal of valuable publicity for Canada. More than three million persons throughout the world had been interested in Canadian affairs through these pictures. The films had stimulated trade, excited curiosity regarding Canada, and had been of material assistance in securing an excellent class of immigrants.

Favors Britain.

Duncan Ross (Middlesex) asked if Australia intended extending a preferential tariff to Canada. Sir George replied that Australia gave a preferential tariff to Great Britain alone. There was a resolution before the Australian House at the present time under which negotiations for favorable tariffs with other dominions of the Empire might be opened.

S. S. McDermand (East Elgin) made a plea that the department assist in facilitating the marketing of apples in Ontario. Both producer and consumer, he said, would benefit enormously by a system of sending apples in bulk without containers.

Sir George Foster thought that it would, for the time being, be necessary for internal trade to look after itself.

The statistical department was doing important work towards making people acquainted with what is produced in different sections. The department of marine and fisheries had brought about the fish day. Advertising had been resorted to very successfully, as for instance, the suggestion that everyone eat an apple aday.

A Heavy Loss.

Mr. McDermand said that it was well known that apples needed in the West rotted on the ground for lack of marketing facilities, and yet importation of fruit from United States points was enormous. The Ontario Government was taking up this matter, and was to appoint a supervisor of the fruit marketing department, but co-operation by the Dominion department was also essential. Experimental shipments of apples had been sent to Winnipeg last year, sent without containers, and had netted in Winnipeg $2.30 per cwt.

Sir George told Mr. Cahill (Pontiac) that no treaty was under consideration that would insure the entry of live Canadian cattle into Great Britain in return for the preference on imports from Britain, nor did he think it advisable further to involve the question by introducing the tariff issue.

To Restore Credit.

Mr. Morphy thought the present was a most opportune time to launch a policy of aggression to capture a better share of American trade. He knew of no other method which would more quickly restore Canada's credit. The Americans were virtually exploiting Canadian trade, and making Canadians pay for their consular service through which it was gained. He deplored the policy of leaving Canadian interests in the hands of British trade agents who had no particular interest in furthering Canadian trade, but who instead vigorously pushed the sale of goods from the United Kingdom. He cited the case of one trade agent, whom he had visited, who was ignorant of Canagian geography, and whose office did not even contain a may of Canada.

Agents Not Needed.

Hon. W. S. Fielding did not see the need of trade agents in the United States, owing to Canada's proximity to that country. Agents were needed only in countries where communication facilities are lacking.

Mr. Morphy interrupted that the American trade agents furnished United States firms with information which the latter gave to the salesmen whom they dispatched here.

Mr. Fielding doubted that this was the case. He believed American manufacturers gained their information through the medium of newspapers from day to day.

Report on Fuel.

At the opening of the House this afternoon the prime minister moved that Dr. Michael Steele (South Perth), W. J. Blair (Battle River), W. D. Cowan (Regina), F. H. Keefer (Port Arthur), H. C. Hocken (Toronto East), J. C. Douglas (South Cape Breton), Duncan Ross (West Middlesex), D. D. McKenzie (North Cape Breton), Hon. R. Lemieux (Maisonneuve), and J. A. Maharg (Maple Creek) be appointed a committee to investigate all matters connected with the future fuel supply of Canada, the committee to have power to obtain records, call witnesses and examine them under oath.

A bill to amend the criminal code, providing penalties for persons playing "three-card monte" in public places or in premises available to the public, was moved by P. F. Casgrain. The aim of the bill was to prevent extortion of money by swindlers, such as was now being carried on in Montreal. The criminal code did not appear to make provision for such practices.

The bill was given first reading.

Will Amend Act.

A bill to amend the judges act, providing that the salary of the present chief justice of Canada shall continue exempt from certai ntaxes, and that an amendment be made in regard to payment of traveling allowances to certain judges for attending court or chambers, was given first reading, and will be moved in committee on Monday.

C. A. Gauvreau (Temiscouata) questioned the minister of railways regarding dismissal of section hands on the Canadian National Railways. He had been told that one man was being dismissed from each section gang. This was endangering the road.

Hon. J. D. Reid stated that the management of the Canadian National Railways was not under the department of railways and canals, and that no orders had been given for dismissals from that department.

Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King asked what department the Canadian National Railway management was under, if not under railways. Dr. Reid replied that management of the road was provided for by statute. The Speaker ruled against further questioning of the Government on this subject on orders of the day.

Special Committee.

J. Archambault (Chambly-Vercheres) asked if it was the intention of the Government to appoint a special committee on railways, as indicated last week by the prime minister. The prime minister replied that the Government intended to move for the appointment of this special committee on railways and merchant marine.

S. W. Jacobs (George Etienne Cartier) said that a press dispatch had appeared stating that the interest due on Canada loan to the Rumanian Government was to be met by Rumania today. He wished to know whether the dispatch was correct.

Has No Information.

The prime minister said he had no information on the subject, but would bring it to the attention of the minister of finance.

The House then went into committee of supply on the estimates of the department of trade and commerce. The first tiem under discussion was one of $1,175,000 for the administration of Canada grain act. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King asked why this vote had been increased by $175,000. Sir George Foster replied that the increase was due almost entirely to reclassification and increases consequent upon it.

The discussion on this item occupied the House for some time. D. D. McKenzie (North Cape Breton) complained of the abnormal price of flour, which, he said, had jumped from $5 to $16 a barrel. It should be selling at between $8 and $9.

Sir George Foster told Mr. Johnston (Last Mountain) that any action to be taken by the Government to investigate the grain business in the west would be announced in due course.

Why Not Buy Here?

Col. J. A. Currie (North Simcoe) said it would be interesting to know why last year, when the British Government was buying a large quantity of wheat, it could not buy in Canada. The Grain Growers' Grain Company in the west would certainly be interested in such an investigation. "It is not individuals who buy grain," Col. Currie said, "but nations." Canada not being equipped to sell grain, Great Britain went to the United States to make her purchases.

H. E. Morphy (North Perth) said farmers were clamoring for free trade in everything that did not affect "their own bread basket." They had insisted on the market being closed for their wheat.

A storm was precipitated by Dr. W. D. Cowan (Regina) declaring that the Hon. T. A. Crerar had opposed the continuance of the wheat board. Levi Thomson (Qu'Appelle) protested the insinuation made against Mr. Crerar.

A. R. Gould (Assiniboia) asked for the names of the persons to be appointed to the grain inquiry board.

Ruled Out of Order.

Although the question was ruled out of order by the chairman, Mr. Gould persisted that it was germane to the item under consideration.

Furthermore, the names of persons who were considered for this board should be given to the House before the appointments were decided. Col. Currie declared that Hon. T. A. Crerar had misled the country when he stated there was no unified buying of wheat in Europe. Apparently the leader of the Progressives had wished for an open market. His attitude had been a factor in doing away with the wheat board, which resulted in the loss of possibly one hundred millions of dollars to the farmers of the west.

Dr. Clark (Red Deer) characterized this latter statement as "extremely rash and absolutely unfounded." Col. Currie, Dr. Clark said, had no way of ascertaining what the loss to the Canadian farmers had been.

Col. Currie attempted to interrupt.

Dr. Clark—My honorable friend must open his ears, and to do that he should close his mouth sometimes.

The item finally carried, as did one of $10,000 for terminal elevators and equipment.

COUNTRY AND WOMEN WILL DEFEAT 'WETS'

Canvass of the Southwestern Counties Indicate "Dry" Victory.

ST. THOMAS, April 1.—Although there will be a big boost given the opposition to a bone-dry basement, a canvass made by an outside journalist of the southwestern counties would indicate that the referendum would be carried by the temperance people.

Traveling over the western area of the province, the scribe, who has reached St. Thomas, sees the big majority which was given the cause of prohibition in 1919, cut down substantially. The people were turning towards a government control of liquor, and the dispensation of whiskey to be surrounded by effective regulations and heavy penalties. A big ractor that the plebiscite will show a majority in favor of prohibition, the newspaperman had no doubt. The rural districts and women's vote will be the favoring factor..

The Senate May Protest.

If the procedure to follow the submission of the referendum demands that the results of the plebiscite receive the approval of both the House and the Senate, the temperance people here fear that the Senate may hold up the bill for a time, because of the possible increased negative vote, and the Upper House originate a measure bringing the sale of whiskey under government control.

R. A. Penhale Director.

The St. Thomas Cemetery board elected R. A. Penhale, Edgeware road, a director at a meeting today to fill the vacancy brought about by the retirement of W. E. Smith, who has been appointed superintendent of the grounds.

Death of Abraham Rose.

Abraham Rose, a resident of the city for over half a century, died this afternoon at the Amasa Wood Hospital after an illness of some months. He was one of the early members of the A. O. F., and conected with St. John's Anglican Church.

Mr. Rose was a pioneer painter and decorator, and resided at 16 Nolan street since coming from England to this city. His second wife survives. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon to St. Thomas Cemetery.

Where Lilies Bloom.

A resident of Bridgeburg came across the license inspector on Talbot street today, and he appealed to Mr. Ross to drive him where the wild flowers flourish and the Easter lilies bloom. The inspector helped him into his limousine and placed the Bridgeburger in a cell at the police station. He confessed to carrying a big load of beef, iron and wine, and yearned for a bunch of forget-me-nots. Later he was remembered by the magistrate and fined $15 and costs.

Flexible Advertising

The great advantage of newspaper advertising is its flexibility. No other medium permits so many adaptations to meet varying conditions with such speed and at such little expense.

Without extra expense for changes, you can publish a different advertisement, if necessary, in every daily newspaper in the country on the same day.

You can put a different price in every advertisement, or you can change the price in an advertisement from Halifax to Vancouver within half an hour.

With daily newspaper advertising you can bring off "scoops." A good example of this was carried out by one of the big sugar refiners last November. They released an advertisement to almost every daily paper in Canada, and withheld the price until within half an hour of the papers going to press, thereby having a flexible price. They "scooped" the trade without anyone knowing anything about it in advance. Such tactics could not have been carried out with any other form of advertising.

By contrast with this: The cost of producing posters, street car cards, booklets, is large in itself before the cost of distribution is taken into account, and very few changes can be made in them to suit local conditions without great expense.

Flexibility in advertising is most essential in these days, because different impulses will cause men and women to buy the same article in different geographical locations.

These impulses may be due to climatic conditions, or, for instance, to the more rapid acceptance of new ideas which characterizes the West as against the East.

It applies to the advertising of wearing apparel where fashion enters into buyers' consideration.

It applies to boots and shoes. It is true of brands of cigars, and of talking machine records.

It is used by Governments who wish to vary election appeals in different constituencies.

Newspaper advertising can be made to meet the whim of the moment—the need of the hour—and to crystallize any dramatic or unusual sales opportunity, such as, for instance, the advertising of safes or insurance after a great fire.

Newspaper advertising is beyond question the most powerful sales force in the world today.

This Association will be pleased to advise you upon ways and means of using Daily Newspaper Advertising to advantage; or consult any recognized advertising agency, a list of which will be supplied on request.

PAIGE

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA

ANNOUNCING The PAIGE NATIONAL DEMONSTRATION WEEK

For one week—commencing Monday, April 4th—Paige dealers everywhere will conduct a special series of demonstrations with the complete line of Paige cars.

Our "Daytona 6-66" model now holds the world's stock car record for speed. It will be the purpose of Demonstration Week to prove that any Paige car—in the hands of an unprofessional driver — is indeed Master of the Highway.

No other stock car has ever equaled our own speed record of 102.8 miles per hour. No other car, we are confident, can defeat a Paige in the milder tests of general demonstration work.

By proving itself the fastest car, the Paige 6-66 has revealed qualities of endurance and strength that are beyond dispute. World's championship form is a guarantee of all 'round efficiency—the best guarantee that the sporting world affords.

But these are facts that we want you to establish for yourself, and Demonstration Week offers an unrivaled opportunity. You have but to get in touch with our dealer and he will book you for a ride that will prove finally convincing.

Then, with an actual record of the tests, you will be in a position to compare the Paige 6-66 with any other motor car—at any price—on the market.

You will also be able to determine whether the New Series "Glenbrook Six-44" is or is not the greatest dollar for dollar value in the light six field.

Surely no man could ask for a fairer or more sportsmanlike proposition.

Whether you contemplate buying a motor car or not, we very cordially invite you to ride with Paige during the coming week. It will prove a revelation, we believe—and a liberal education in strictly modern engineering.

GOSPEL MILITARISM.

From St. Paul to Gen. William Booth and his successor, Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, seems a far call, but it is more apparent than real. Centuries and distance do not disarrange Divine plans. The Apostle to the Gentiles and the Apostle to "Darkest England" had characteristics in common. The former employed a militant phraseology, and the latter, with consummate genius, applied it to his whole system. Upon Booth's militarism the Prince of Peace has placed the stamp of His approbation. So has humanity. The procedure of Paul and Booth demonstrates the adaptability of the Christian Gospel. Results prove its universality as a regenerating power. If Paul was made "all things to all men," he was not a political opportunist looking out for himself, but to the saving of others. He was no time-server, but a preacher with one supreme purpose. By natural gift and spiritual endowment, he could cope with prejudiced Hebrews, Greek Philosophers, shipwrecked seamen, or astute Romans; but he does not forget Sin, the Cross, the Resurrection, the Holy Spirit and Salvation. He could adjust his discourse to any intellect or group without the sacrifice of essential principle.

Continually, individuals and organizations are re-learning the lesson of adaptation. Methodism, an enforced outgrowth of the Established Church of England, did not discern the amazing spiritual capacity of Rev. William Booth, or its ecclesiastical machinery was not then sufficiently flexible to accommodate the "perambulations of the male and female," to quote a dignified Conference President, so we have today one of the world's greatest Gospel agencies at work in seventy different lands, with over 11,000 army corps directed by 173,788 officers, commissioned and local, and an enrollment into the millions of soldiers distinguished by personal witness and self-sacrificing fidelity. Like the Redeemer, it went after unchurched outcasts, and preached the Gospel to the poor. Setting about the Master's business in the foul slumdom of East London, it provided the "down-and-outer" soup and a bath for a penny, or, if his pocket was empty, a chance to earn it next day in the Army workshop across the street. Then at the big Hadleigh farm down the Thames were all the wholesome conditions of restoration, and a fresh start in life. Agriculture became a means of grace. "Call us God's own scavengers or what you will," said Gen. Bramwell Booth lately to a correspondent of the Boston Transcript, "our mission is to cope with every form of human want and wretchedness." Reclamation of criminals, fostering maternity, the cure of unemployment, pacification of industry, prevention of suicide, emigration, housing, dispensaries, schools, literature, and cheaper food—all these measures have been utilized by this new version of Christianity, with patience, charity, and goodwill. Its program has been a wonderful incentive in all directions to what is called social Christianity; but in the judgment of Bramwell Booth, if all the measures proposed in press and parliament, from cheap housing to nationalisation, were put in force tomorrow to cure the ills of the world, they would prove at best, without a renewal of the spiritual life, only alleviatives. To effect a real cure the roots of the disease must be reached, and these lie in the heart and will. As to the moral effect of the war, Gen. Booth thinks the world is the better for finding out that every selfish plot for supremacy is doomed so long as there are races with the necessary heroism and energy to work out God's purposes; but after so many of the best and bravest perished, the heart quails at the legacy of Society, which seems little better so far than a welter of extravagance, frivolity, scandal, sensuality and worse. The present riot of divorce looks to him like a floodtide of passion sweeping over the land. He fears more for the unemployed rich than for those lower in the social scale, "for they need salvation most of all. Wealth and luxury are the last strongholds of the devil, and London is the pivot."

As an opportunity for Christian missionary effort, Gen. Booth welcomes the new lands that now come under the League mandate of Great Britain. They are all important salvation areas. Within recent years the Army has added to its campaign fields, China, Japan, Burmah, several South American countries, East and West Equatorial Africa, Czecho-Slovakia and other war-made lands. Administered by Britain direct, or by Australia or New Zealand, the South Pacific islands are most promising, and he sees nothing to daunt Christianity in Mesopotamia. "It is enough to make a man's heart bleed to see that wonderful coaatry bandied about among soldiers, explorers, traders, Turks, Bolshevists and oil-hunters, with scant attention to the souls of the inhabitants." Including Palestine, Christ's own hallowed land, Christianity may now have a fair chance to heal the wounds and sorrows of the country at last, open without let or hindrance to the Gospel. The Army will be glad to put its shoulder to the wheel with the rest in working out the designs of grace, and in all its history it has had no feud with other faiths, being, as its founder desired, a religion of brotherhood.

LONDON'S SEWERS.

Practically four pages of a recent issue of the Canadian Engineer, a weekly paper for civil engineers and contractors, is devoted to an interesting and extensive discussion of "City of London Sewerage and Sewage Disposal," by H. S. Philips, engineer of sewer design, London, Ont.

The subject is dealt with by Mr. Philips in a most comprehensive manner under six heads, as follows:

1. Adoption of the Combined System.—Under this head the writer explains at some considerable length why the combined system, that is, a system which provides for the carrying off of storm water as well as for sewage, which, he claims, "from a standpoint of pumping and sewage disposal in particular, has decided advantages." In illustration of his point he shows by calculation that while for a sanitary sewer serving 300 typical houses on 35-foot lots, an 8-inch sewer would accommodate three times the quantity of sewage that would come from these houses; a combined sanitary flow and roof-water sewer would need to be 22 inches in diameter.

Several sections of the city are especially mentioned because of special conditions and special methods of handling the flow and its disposal. In this connection an interesting diagram shows the gaugings of the average 24-hour flow at the King street intercepter during 1920. The drainage area concerned was 2,200 acres, and the estimated population 38,000. The record shows that at midnight the average flow was 3.4 million gallons a day; at 4 a.m. it dropped to 3.1, after which it rose rapidly, till about 10:30 a.m. it was nearly 4.6, then came a sudden drop till at 12:30 (noon), when the flow was 4.2, followed by a very rapid rise, which carried it to 4.7, at 3:30 p.m., after which it showed a steady decline, till at midnight again the 3.4 flow was reached.

2. Separate System in New Areas.—This feature is given comparatively brief discussion, but sufficient to show why in the sections of the city which are named it has decided advantages over the combined system. The districts named are West London and an area of 1,600 acres in East London, especially the Quebec and Egerton street localities.

3. Basis of Calculation.—Under this head Mr. Philips reviews the method he has used in reaching his decisions at some length, and in a manner which, while it deals with technical features, can be quite readily grasped by the ordinary careful reader.

4. Sewage Disposal and Sanitation.—"Up to the year 1896," says Mr. Philips, "the sewage from the main portion of the city was dicharged directly into the River Thames at King, Wellington and Richmond streets, without treatment of any kind." He then reviews at fair length the gradual growth of the city's present disposal plant up to the construction and completion of the east end disposal works, in the latter part of 1918 and the beginning of 1919. In closing the discussion of this feature he expresses the opinion that "it is highly improbable that the domestic water supply will ever be taken from the river, in view of the number of wells and springs in the locality, and also the possibility of obtaining a pure and unlimited water supply from the Lakes Huron and Erie."

5. Sewage Disposal and Riverfront Development.—The writer's opinion on the present condition of the River Thames is very concisely stated in the opening paragraph of this section of the subject. He says: "A scheme is being planned to restore the beauties of the River Thames, which the growth of the city to its present proportions has very sadly marred by using it practically as an open sewer. The constant flow, day by day, of some six million gallons of sewage and factory and gas works wastes into a small river has created an exceedingly unsightly condition."

6. Town-Planning and Zoning.—Under this head Mr. Philips shows the great advantages in the carrying out of an adequate and efficient sewerage system that a definite policy of town-planning and zoning would give.

In conclusion, the engineer says: "Preliminary estimates have been prepared, and from these it is found that the scheme—including local and main trunk sewers, storm overflows, pumping stations and disposal works—will cost between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000.

"As many considerations as possible have been given to the study of the problem, and with the cooperation of the town-planning committee it will be possible to develop the scheme along predetermined lines.

"The completed scheme will provide the engineering staff of the city of London with a development arrangement of invaluable worth for its immediate and ultimate sewerage needs."

GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In my judgment a referendum in this province on the question of shutting out the importation of liquor from outside the province would not be at all necessary if the Legislature would pass an act to properly deal with the liquor question. In my opinion, the Government should take full control of all liquor manufactured or imported into the province and establish offices in all the cities and towns and place a man and an assistant in control of these offices for the purpose of disposing of liquor at a price that would give the Government a good revenue. No person should get more than two quarts of liquor a month and all hospitals should be furnished at cost price. No man should get even two quarts of liquor without producing a certificate from the proper authority enabling him to get this liquor and the authority to give him this certificate should be the local police magistrate or chief of police. Yours truly,

JAMES KILGOUR.

TRUE TEMPERANCE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Just a few words in reference to the coming referendum election, April 18.

It has come to my notice that a number of people are under the impression that alcohol is a narcotic and not a stimulant. The fact is that it is both, according to the constitution of the person taking it, and the quantity taken.

Ask any doctor how it affects drunken men. One will be excited and publilistic, another maudlin and wanting to lie down and go to sleep.

Again, ask any doctor if alcohol is given or not as a stimulant. Although a total abstainer myself, I say that alcohol is not only necessary, but frequently indispensable in urgent cases. I myself have seen several cases when it has been of the greatest benefit to people suffering with pneumonia. I prefer to be guided by my own personal experience and observation than by all the opinions of scientists or experts, who, like lawyers, differ with each other on almost any question that is put before them; or Bible students, who place various interpretations on texts to suit themselves. We who know anything of Canadian history of the past fifty years are well aware of the fact that many of our most brilliant orators were at their best after having taken a stimulant. However, all we of the true temperance party are asking is that we should be permitted to obtain spirituous liquors in moderation, and there is only one way of doing so, and that is by government control. Each city or town to have one office to issue cards to each and every adult over the age of 21 years. He or she to be allowed a certain quantity per month, and no more. Each card should cost $1, and when the card is issued the party should write his or her name in a space provided for that purpose, in the presence of the issuing officer, so that there would be no opportunity of anyone else using the card, and anyone found drunk should lose his or her card and be fined, say, $200, and blacklisted for say twelve months, and anyone supplying him or her with liquor to lose his or her card also, and be fined $500 or two years in prison. I think that would stop them. Now, it's up to all of us to get together and pull for this end. Yours respectfully,

G. BRAHAM.

Westminster, March 31, 1921.

OTHERS' VIEWS

OUR PATERNAL GOVERNMENTS.

[Baltimore Evening Sun.]

The Government having, by formal designation, named a certain day in the year when we shall eat fish in order that the sea food industry may prosper, we hereby propose that it shall also designate certain days on which we shall eat prunes for breakfast. Use our left hands for writing. Wear derbies instead of felt hats. Go to bed with the cows. Rub our heads with hair tonic. Learn to play the saxophone. By such means various particular industries may be allotted special days of prosperity and our personal habits may be firmly standardized. Once the Government told us what we must not drink, it opened up a wide field for paternalistic development. And as yet we've barely scratched the surface.

BOLSHEVISM AT CLOSE RANGE.

[Kansas City Times.]

It would not be surprising if the guess that the Russian radicals deported from this country were taking a hand in the anti-soviet revolt turned out to be a good one. It is true the deportees were ardent supporters of the Bolshevist theories while they were in the United States, but when they got to Russia and investigated Bolshevism at first hand there is reason to believe their views changed. They were communists in this country, where there was plenty to eat, only the most congenial work to do—consisting mostly of propaganda making—and speech was free. Communism is very attractive in a country where people pay to get into lecture halls to hear about it. But when the deported propagandists got to Russia they found that particular stage of communism had passed. The people over there didn't get it in lectures; they were living it, and from all accounts it was pretty poor living. The communist soup was thin, the communist fuel scarce and the communist work hard.

GREAT BRITAIN CUTS NAVAL COSTS.

[New York World.]

Announcing a reduction of $40,000,000 in the British naval estimates for 1921-22, Lord Lee of Fareham states that the admiralty wishes to proceed economically, giving full weight to altered circumstances since the war. They have "agreed to assume risks which in ordinary circumstances they would regard as difficult to reconcile with full maintenance" of the national policy.

The cut is, in fact, better than the figures would indicate. Much money is still demanded merely to finish work begun during the war, but personnel is to be reduced 6,000 and only sixteen capital ships will be held in commission, against twenty this year and thirty-eight in 1914-15.

For a nation whose sea trade is essential to its existence, Great Britain sets a brave example in cutting naval estimates to $412,000,000, so soon after our Senate committee had raised the House naval bill from $396,000,000 to $496,000,000, and in dropping the old two-power standard just when some of our naval experts in Washington are setting it up for worship in the United States.

But the poison of competitive armament remains in the phrase, "one-power standard," when that one power can be only the United States. It lurks in the "two-power" standard for Washington, when those two powers can be only Great Britain and Japan. Real economy will come when the three nations combine to lighten war burdens which are becoming intolerable.

THE SUPERANNUATED.

[Calgary Herald.]

There are many hundreds of superannuated civil servants throughout Canada who are suffering through the fact that their allowances have remained at their original amounts, notwithstanding the decreased buying power of money. The principle back of superannuation is that provision shall be made for the old age of faithful servants of the country who have passed their time of usefulness in active employment. The amount granted them is fixed in proportion to the value of the work they have performed and the years they spent at it. This is an obligation which the country has always recognized and the desire of the country has been to assure these old servants of the public at least a comfortable old age. Under conditions now prevailing this object is not being attained. The country's superannuitants are really receiving what amounts to only a part of the sum originally fixed as necessary for their comfortable maintenance. This is a matter into which the governmental body in charge might properly inquire. The provision for superannuation is not too liberal for normal times, and in the present circumstances it would seem that more generous provision ought to be made for these former employees of the state.

THE UNEMPLOYMENT FUND.

[Peterboro Examiner.]

Although the situation in regard to unemployment has not materially improved, the special relief fund provided by the Dominion, Provincial and municipal authorities comes to an end on Thursday unless arrangements are made to extend the fund. When the relief was inaugurated it was hoped that the end of March would find conditions sufficiently improved to allow of the fund being dropped, but, unfortunately, there is not much change in the situation. While work has been found for some of the unemployed the calls on the relief work have not diminished, as a result, for recently a number of families whose bread-winners have been without employment for months and who have been living on their savings until these have vanished, have been compelled to apply for assistance. These men have "carried on" independently of the fund as long as possible, but sheer necessity has finally driven them to take advantage of the offered assistance. The crisis has not yet passed, and the extension of the fund for two or three weeks may be necessary to meet the needs of the situation.

EVERYTHING

GHOST THAT COMES TO PRAY.

[London Express.]

A mysterious apparition has been seen in St. Thomas' Church, Regent street. The story of the ghostly figure is told by the Rev. Clarence May, the vicar, who asserts that it appeared to him personally. He is partly supported by other people, who state that noises were heard by them before the appearance of the spirit.

"The events have occurred in the course of the last three weeks," said Mr. May, to a Daily Express representative yesterday.

"Uncanny knockings were heard by the caretaker and her nephew, who was with her in the church at the time. She came and informed me, while the man waited outside. No one could have passed him without being seen, but when I arrived the church was empty.

"A few days later, my curate, the Rev. John Evitt, heard patterings of feet, although no one was in the church.

"Lastly, at 8 o'clock one morning, I entered the church and distinctly saw a cassocked figure kneeling in the side chapel.

"I thought it was a priest. It rose and walked past the altar to the sacristy on the other side. I followed, expecting to meet the worshipper in the vestry. No one was there. The figure had vanished.

"The form was quite normal in size and appearance, and had a decided limp. The last two rectors have both been lame, but there is a decided reason, which I would rather not disclose, for the appearance of the last.

"The matter is now in the hands of the Psychical Research Society."

THE VERY WISE.

[Douglas Malloch.]

We are the wise, the very wise,
Who have no need of God;
We understand His seas, His skies,
His sunset and His sod.
There is no magic in a rose,
Its petals pulled apart,
For we explain just how it grows
With scientific art.
And yet no man I ever knew
Could tell me how the first one grew.

We are the wise, the very wise—
All things we understand;
It is no trick to analyze
And give them breed and brand.
We know the distances of night
From Pleiades to Mars
And we can measure all the light
Of all the shining stars.
And yet, I wonder, could we place
A single star in all of space?

GERMANY KEEPS RARE STAMPS.

[London Lloyd's.]

Germany is making determined efforts to keep one form of national wealth in the Fatherland—her rare postage stamps.

German philatelists are among the most scientific students of stamps, and large sums have been expendid upon the national stamp collection in the Berlin Postal Museum, one of the most valuable in the world.

Some of the rarest specimens known to collectors are found among the early postal issues of the Old German States. These philatelic gems are regarded by German philatelists in the light of national treasures, and both stamp dealers and collectors across the Rhine have combined to prevent them from going out of the country.

The leading stamp dealers of Germany have mutually agreed not to part with any standard rarities, even to their own countrymen, until the mark has recovered something of its pre-war value. Meanwhile, the agents of German firms are endeavoring to corner all the finest things in the stamps of their own country that come up for sale in London, Paris and New York.

A boom in current issues of British colonial postage stamps is likely to follow the receipt this week of the first examples in contemporary types upon the latest improved Crown and Script CA watermarked paper. In due course the change of watermark will be extended to the stamps of some forty colonies and protectorates. Stamps thus rendered obsolete will rise in value.

TIME'S PRISONER.

[By Harry Kemp, in New York Independent.]

I am content with Now, whate'er befall,
Whether I will or no, Today is all;
No matter whether swift or slow my tread
I find tomorrow still a day ahead;
I cannot overtake eternity—
It turns to time and slips away from me,
And in likewise I go upon my way
Only a day ahead of yesterday!

WOMAN GOLFER AT 90.

[London Express.]

Who is the oldest living golfer? The members of the newly-formed Veteran Ladies' Golf Association enter a claim for their president, Mrs. F. W. Haigh, who this month attains her 92nd birthday. Somewhere in the world, however, there may exist a centenarian golfer.

The really remarkable fact is that Mrs. F. W. Haigh still plays. She is a member of the Barnehurst Golf Club of Crayford, Kent, and it is her custom to stay every August at the club house and spend a golfing holiday. She is also a frequent day visitor throughout the season.

Members of the club regard Mrs. Haigh as their mascot. At 90, Mrs. Haigh could manage a round and a half in a day and then spend several hours in the evening playing bridge. She never attempted more than nine holes last August, because of twinges of sciatica, but when she was not playing she was out on the links. She is hoping to be able to do the same this summer.

A prominent professional, who has seen Mrs. Haigh play several times within the last two years, described her as a "golfing marvel."

"She can still drive eighty to ninety yards," he said to a Daily Express representative. "Her approach shots and pitches are excellent, and her putting is deadly. There are plenty of young women who think a great deal of their golf who would come off very badly if they met Mrs. Haigh."

She first learned her golf at St. Andrews when she was a "girl" of 52, and from the moment when she swung an old-fashioned wooden club became a devotee. She broke her arm golfing at Prince's, Mitcham, when over 70, but as soon as the limb was well she was at it again.

"REVISED PROOFS."

[Bernard McEvoy.]

"He takes his proof sheets with a sigh—
Deleting here, and adding there,
Till not the keenest reader's eye
But must confess the whole is fair.

"And shall the pages of our lives—
Letter by letter, daily set—
Be subject, when the end arrives,
To no revising process yet.

"Sometimes our eyes are blurred with tears,
Sometimes our hands with passion shake,
Sometimes a tempting devil leers
At all the errors that we make.

"Forbid, O God, that work so vain
Shall stand in an eternal scroll—
With faults of sin, and joy, and pain—
As long as future ages roll."

WHAT DID CHRISTIAN CARRY IN HIS PACK?

[Yale Review.]

Charles S. Brooks in the April Yale Review gives away his plan for an ideal vacation—a walking trip in England. He proposes to carry his pack on his back—but what to put in it? This is the question that vexes Mr. Brooks, and he laments that Bunyan and other writers give him no hints. "It was a grievous oversight," he says, "that Christian failed to tell us what clothing he carried in his pack. We know it was a heavy burden, for it dragged him in the mire. But did he carry slippers to ease his feet at night? And what did the Pardoner put inside his wallet? Surely the wife of Bath was supplied with a powder puff and a fresh taffeta to wear at the journey's end. I could, indeed, spare Christian one or two of his encounters for knowledge of his wardrobe. These homely details are of interest. Stevenson tells us the exact gear that he loaded on his donkey, but what did Marco Polo carry? And Munchausen and the Wandering Jew? I have skimmed their pages vainly for a hint."

MAPLE SUGAR DAYS.

[New York Herald.]

The news that Canada has made a greater crop of maple sugar this season than usual will be read with interest by everybody with a sweet tooth. It is thought that quantities of the concentrated sap in the form of sugar or syrup will be brought across the border from Quebec and Ontario to augment the supply produced in the United States, which has been somewhat limited because of the mild weather.

Sap runs best when sharp frosty nights are followed by warm days and March is recognized as the best month for the industry. The weather of the past few days will be welcomed by the sugar makers of New England and New York. The sugar maple is a splendid tree to look at, but it is also a source of income to the farmer at a season when he has time on his hand, and there are few northern wood lots which do not boast a number of these trees.

Under the old system sugar was made in a rather crude fashion. The trees were tapped by a glancing out of the axe, and the channels down which the sap ran to the home-made buckets or troughs were fashioned of wood. The sap was collected by men with yokes hung about their shoulders, and the material was cooked in great open kettles in the heart of the woods. Sugar-making under these conditions was strenuous.

What's In a Book?

By Kathleen K. Bowker.

I do not know if it is entirely the cheerful feeling engendered at Eastertide by the young spring lamb (that you really can't afford) or the Easter bonnet (that you haven't got yet); or the general feast and fast not feeling. But I'm up to my neck in cups this week. Nothing against government control there—and I've worded the sentence particularly carefully! But the fact remains that there seems to be an unusual outpouring just now into that domestic receptacle.

What about "The Lean Loving Cup"? And that still more entriguingly titled "The Chipped Chalice"? Have you read them? There's many a slip twixt cup and lip, however—and far be it from me to recommend such literature generally.

Then there's Dorothy Canfield's "Brimming Cup," of which more next week. And "The Custard Cup," which Florence Bingham has filled to the very top with happy homely, heart-touching things. Mrs. Penfield is one of those who will live long in the hearts of those who learn to know her. She had learned by heart that high philosophy—to be happy "by knowin' you don't want things." Yes—but even she had come to it by the well-traveled road of "being wrenched loose from caring very deep about anything money can buy."

"I'm cheerful, yes," acknowledges Mrs. Penfield sadly, in the one place where she lets her feelings "boil up." "But once I was happy. I tell you what, you can be suspicious of the feller that's cheerful. He's been through something. Happiness is a thing that bubbles up naturally, before you've had much experience. But cheerfulness is a thing you've reasoned out, and stand by because you believe it's right. There's a kind of happiness that never comes back, once it's gone. You're happy—but it's a different kind of happiness—that's all.

Yes—that's all!

But there are lots of chuckles, as well as a few of the right kind of tears, tucked between the pages. It isn't just a collection of clever sayings, hung upon the lips of lifeless characters, as upon wood-hooks. Ten-Second Lettie flashes radiance; Crink is a study in boy-manliness, and every mother knows and loves Thad. If it were only for the lesson—and the laughter—Mrs. Penfield teaches in her sympathy with Mrs. Wopples' troubles (that delicious chapter on helping a neighbor to worry thoroughly), the book would be well worth buying and keeping.

George Doran & Co. (New York), the publishers, have allowed some slapstick artist to place Mrs. Penfield on the paper cover, in a charming muslin morning dress, sporting the blackest of raven locks, with Thad smartly dressed in a suit the exact color of his hair. It seems a pity for a publisher to advertise that his illustrator has not read the book—but even that can't spoil it.

If you are interested in the race question, the Yellow Peril, the fair play point of view, this continent as the world's pantry, the Monroe Doctrine, or your own bank account, then you will be interested in the "Seed of the Sun," by Wallace Irwin. (G. Doran & Co., New York).

Incidentally it's an entertaining, humorous story of love, travel, children and farming—that ends with everybody getting a chance to live (and love) happily ever after. It is propaganda in a very palatable form. Perhaps it isn't, properly propaganda; but rather a very unprejudiced statement of a very big question—i. e., What effect do the Japanese aim to achieve on the European countries, and how near will they come to attaining their desire? The book sounds a warning—gives a challenge—and asks, Why not?

Anna Bly is the widow of an American naval officer who had lost his life in the war. With her gay and pretty sister Zudie and her two children, Kippe and Nan, she is "making her home" with a distinctly trying aunt in New York.

Anna owns some property—a prune farm—somewhere in California. Distance has cast a glamorous light that strikes prisms of color and promise from the vision of paying prunes on a hungry market. So Anna and Zudie decide to "go on location" and to climb to fortune along the branches of the fruit trees. Their lifelong Japanese friend, Baron Tazumi—friend of their father first, and always devoted to the sisters, Anna in particular—tries to dissuade them. But they think it will be a happy, healthy life, good for themselves and great for the children. Both women are willing to work hard, and the spirit of adventure thrills them. Zudie says "No" for the hundred and forty-twoth time to her sailor lover, Sid Footridge, and, accompanied by that faithful Irishwoman, Susan Skelly, they set out along the blossomy way. But fate, fanaticism and misforttune dog them at every step. Is is because they are women that they can't farm right? Is it because the divorced wife of their working partner, the Japanese Mr. Shimba, is so ill-advised as to hang herself from the roof of their garage, that "labor" shuns them as though they had the pestilence? Is it——?

Anna is determined to love the Japanese, if only in justice to Baron Tazumi—whom she almost loves, and who wholly loves her. But—but——. What is it, this inherent color question? For the broad-minded European says firmly that the aristocracy of both nations are equal—yet shies from giving his daughter in marriage even to the noblest son of the yellow kingdoms. The other races hug their equality—feel, deep in their most sacred convictions, the assurance that theirs is the superiority—but they do not balk at intermarriage. Why Anna is so soul-shocked by Tazumi's lovely little mistress she herself would be puzzled to say. Perhaps just because she wasn't a woman of much imagination. Perhaps because (though I haven't mentioned him) there is someone whom Kipps appropriately calls "a he-man" in the story—which is clever and pleasant reading—and also gives one deeply to think.

If you want to meet the pictures in their own home town, read "Buck Parvin and the Movies," part of which perhaps you read before in the Saturday Evening Post, but which has been all dressed up like an Easter dinner table, with "covers" of its own. (By the G. Doran Company, New York.)

The home of Miss Helen Clark, Piccadilly street, was the scene of a unique tea on Thursday afternoon, when she entertained about twenty of her friends at a gingham party. Supper was served at 6 o'clock from small tables, about which the guests clustered, all in gingham dresses, of course. Pots of spring flowers, covered with pretty patterned ginghams, were used as decorations about the rooms, and childhood days were constantly brought to mind by the various games and guessing contests enjoyed during the afternoon, Miss Dorothy Silverwood, Miss Helen Benson and Miss Evelyn White being the fortunate winners of some very pretty prizes. The guests undertook to render for themselves a short program, which included readings by Miss Eleanor McCormick, Miss Ethel Patterson and Miss Helen Clark. The function came to a close early in the evening after ghost stories had been whispered around the grate fire.

Spring flowers filled the lovely old rooms of the home of Mrs. R. C. Struthers, Wellington street, yesterday afternoon, when a reception was held there by the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist Church. The arriving guests, of whom there were many, were greeted by Mrs. Struthers and Mrs. T. N. Sumner, president of the society, assisted by Mrs. A. A. Langford and Mrs. H. E. Boomer. Mrs. Harkness presided over the tea room, where Mrs. Alexander Harvey and Mrs. Peever poured tea for the first hour, and Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Snell for the second hour, the table being attractively arranged with tulips and daffodils. Assisting them were Mrs. Spry, Mrs. Swift, Mrs. Macfarlane, Mrs. Sanborn and Mrs. Barnard, while Mrs. S. M. Kennedy, Mrs. Croden and Mrs. Wyatt invited to the tea room.

A very fine musical program arranged by Mrs. Sumner was a feature of this most delightful of functions, vocal numbers being rendered by Mrs. Phillippo, Mrs. Wyatt, Mrs. Fenton, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Craig and Miss Marjorie Talbot, and an enjoyable reading by Miss Sibyl-Higman.

LLOYD—WARREN.

A pretty wedding took place in Minneapolis on Easter Monday at 4 o'clock, when Nora Irene Warren, only daughter of Mr. C. C. Warren of Belmont, became the bride of Mr. Robert E. Lloyd of Minneapolis, the ceremony being performed by Bishop F. A. McElwain of Minnesota in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, which was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and palms. The bride wore a smart navy tricotine suit with grey satin facings, a fox fur, and a navy taffeta hat, while her corsage was of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Burns, sister of the groom, acted as matron of honor, wearing a navy tailored suit, real lace blouse, and a navy hat, with corsage of sweet peas, while the groom was supported by Mr. Robert Burns, his brother-in-law.

After the ceremony the wedding dinner was served at the Nankin Cafe, the bride and groom leaving shortly afterwards for a brief honeymoon. The bride was formerly a London girl.

GREAT DANE AND WEE PEKINESE HELP AT SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

Humane Society Holds Sale of Fancy Articles At Cronyn Hall.

Cronyn Hall presented a pretty scene yesterday afternoon and evening, the occasion of the big Humane Society bazaar. Pretty as were the booths, and especially beautiful as was the young girls' booth, gay with flowers and colored birds, the most fascinating places in the whole bazaar were the two doors. And the doors were fascinating only, because "Venus" and "Yang" were there on guard. "Venus" is the great dane, owned by the Humane Society, a beautiful but powerful creature, who did the duties of a Red Cross dog in the late war. With George Tustin, the local inspector, he carefully guarded the outer door of Cronyn Hall, and those who entered did so only by putting silver or coppers into the pockets of his smart coat. He did noble duty, as much as $7 being his contribution during the first two hours of the bazaar.

"Yang," Too.

"Yang" is a wee silky tan Pekainese, the property of Miss Florence Brenner. Sitting at the edge of the young girls' booth, just at the entrance door of the hall itself, "Yang" managed to coax many a bit of silver by dint of his pink bow and charming manner. Miss J. Elliott was the energetic convener of the bazaar, and she was assisted by Mrs. Dinsmore, Mrs. Ashplant, Miss Armstrong and Miss Annie Elliott at the apron and bag table; Mrs. Shore, Miss Ann Macbeth and Miss Mary Scott at the Y. W. C. A. table of fancy things; Miss Mabon Ellis, Miss Florence Brenner, Miss Nora Allen, Miss Florence Wilkinson, Miss Joyce Allen, Miss Dorothy Coleridge, Miss Aileen Anderson, Miss Irene Slater, Miss Vera Mahler, Miss Louise Chiera and Miss Dorothy Thier at the young girls' booth of pretty miscellaneous articles; Miss Nellie Macklin and Mrs. Planques at the book table; Miss Harvey at the white elephant table; Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Grange and Mrs. Screaton at the home cooking table, and Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Readings, Mrs. Luscombe, Mrs. Ralph Miller, Mrs. Foot, Mrs. B. H. Clement, Miss Margery Milliman and Miss Miriam Eckert in the tea room.

Club News

SUNSHINE CLUB.

The Sunshine Club, one of the organized classes of the First Congregational Sunday School, assisted by a class of junior girls, recently gave a delightful entertainment in the schoolroom. Recitations, songs, dialogues and tableaux, all carrying a missionary message, were given. A scene from Chinese life with its Chinese costumes, and "Jesus Loves Me," sung in Chinese, made a strong appeal.

In Margaret's Vision, the jaded and pampered Canadian school girl, complaining of lessons and boredom, was visited by the Spirit of Enlightment, who confronted her with girls of different nations, from Africa, India, China, Japan, and Lapland, who told her of their real troubles and burdens. Stories of Chinese life by Mrs. J. A. Stevens, and of African life by Mrs. Thomas Hill were also part of the program. The offering of $23 will be used for work in Africa.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL COMMITTEE.

The laying of the foundation stone of the new Children's Hospital is a ceremony which will be carried out shortly, plans for such a ceremony to be made at a meeting of the Children's Hospital committee, which will be held in Cronyn Hall on Monday, April 4, at 8:30 o'clock. Other interesting matters, which will come up at this meeting, will be finance problems, and the proposed "County Fair." A meeting of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., and of the men's advisory board to the hospital committee will also be held on the same afternoon to discuss financial problems concerning the hospital.

CENTENNIAL "CAVELL CLUB."

The "Cavell Club" of the Centennial Methodist Church recently held a very fine concert, the program including delightful readings, vocal solos, violin numbers, etc. From a candy booth and fancywork booth maintained at this concert the club raised a goodly sum of money to expend in a tennis court.

Meredith and Mrs. Lyon Evans will present a little one-act play by Sutro, entitled "The Open Door," and Miss Grace Blackburn will give a reading of one of Browning's dramatic poems, with musical accompaniment by Miss Madeline Simson.

The Drama League play, "Fanny and the Servant Problem," is well under way, two regular rehearsals having been already held under the direction of J. S. Meredith.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

"There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate; when he can't afford it, and when he can."—Mark Twain.

Where Are Books?

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw in yesterday's paper where Ted wanted some good plays. I am sending two play books for you to forward to her, please, also this letter.

Do you have to pay postage again on parcels that are forwarded on or do you just readdress them? I am sending 10 cents in stamps and if you do not need them give them to the children's fund. JUMPING JEMIMA.

Ans.—Have forwarded your letter to Ted, but the books did not reach me as yet. Yes, postage has to be paid on parcels that are forwarded.

Where is Miss Peppery?

Dear Miss Grey,—You will find inclosed a mite for S. C. H. Fund. Will you please send me a sachet bag? I have inclosed some stamps to cover postage on same.

I think spring must surely be at hand I heard a bluebird sing yesterday.

I wonder where is Miss Peppery? I tried her method of making headcheese and it was lovely. I will close now.

I am as before, MUSETTE.

Ans.—I am sorry, but there are no sachets left, Musette. Thank you for hospital mite.

A Letter in Poetry.

Dear Miss Grey,—Here I am again. I wonder if I'm welcome? Miss Grey is so terribly kind I don't think she will kick me out.

Haven't we been having lovely weather? I see Mr. Robin is back with his cheery song.

Did any of the readers ever try to write a letter in poetry. I wrote one to my brother who is going to business college. I wonder if he will guess who it is from?

I like the discussion of books and authors very much.

"The Pancake Preacher" is a real good one and "Joyce of the Backwoods" is also very interesting. Books seem to me just like that song I've heard: "Sometimes You Get a Good One and Sometimes You Don't." How do you like the story in the Advertiser: "For Love of Betty"? I think it is pretty near ended by the way it reads these last few days. Now for some questions to bother Miss Grey:

1, I am five feet, seven inches. How long should I wear my skirts?

2, I have light brown hair, blue eyes and fair complexion. What is my color?

3, Miss Grey do you know what will take rust out of table linen?

4, Do you think powdered rouge will spoil the complexion?

I guess I had better skip for now. PUSSY FOOT.

P. S.—Please find inclosed ten cents for S. C. H.

Ans.—1, About eleven inches from the ground.

2, Any shade of blue.

3, Salts of lemon.

4, Yes.

Thank you for hospital mite.

Norwich.

Dear Miss Grey,—A short time ago I saw in corner where a person from Norwich, England, wanted to know if there was anyone else writing to the corner from the same place. I have watched the page since then to see if anyone would answer before I did. As it is so many years since I was there that it is almost a faint memory.

Well little woman I have heard say that coming to a strange country all alone and finding some one who used to live in the same place it is like finding some one you know. But it is long since I lived on All Saints' Green. Do you know it, that I suppose it is built all over the ground now and hardly a foot of ground left. My church used to be old St. Stephen's although I went to the cathedral, they used to have a fine station there. Did they call it Thorp station? It was a lovely old cathedral town and many and many is the fine walks we used to have on Sundays, walking out to old and new Caton quite large towns by now I suppose. Now, do you know Inthank's road? I lived there once not far from St. Stephen's rectory. Now I'm afraid little woman you must write and tell me all about Norwich, and freshen up my memory as you will find I am a poor excuse to tell you anything about the place. I am sorry no one else has come forward. One more recently from there would have been better. But I do hope you will like this country, because after you once get used to it you will find it's the best country on God's green earth. There is no country you could have come to where you could make a better start in life, and should you be married and have a family you will be able to do better for them. So write me little woman, I shall be glad to hear from you to see how this correspondence makes out.

Once more Miss Grey, I am sending you a mite for the C. H. F. More luck to it and you, both. MRS. W. T.

Ans.—Possibly English will see your letter and write to you. Thanks for hospital mite.

Wants Golden Gate.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw in yesterday's paper where Flowerette wanted the poem called "St. Peter at the Golden Gate," and am sending it to you, so please forward it to her.

I would like the piece returned as I borrowed it and did not copy it off.

Miss Grey, will you or some of the boxites please send me the words of "Golden Gate"?

I think I will close for now as I wrote such a short time ago I will be wearing my welcome out.

BUSYVILLE READER.

Ans.—Am returning your piece, as a copy had already been sent to Flowerette. Thanks for sending it in.

Wants Little Girl.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am an interested reader of your page and, like some others, have come for help. I wonder if any of our readers could tell me where I could get a little girl that would be finished with public school, about 14 years of age, to help me take care of my baby seven months old. I am a mother of four. Two go to school and two are at home, a little girl 4 and baby. The baby has been sick a great deal and is very small, but is getting along nicely now. It is quite a problem to get my work done when baby needs so much attention. I really cannot afford to pay a hired girl wages that she would ask, to work for me, but could pay a small sum to a little nurse girl. I live in a nice part of the country on a farm and close by two churches. Anyone wishing to write me, I will leave my address with Miss Grey. Will sign myself,

HONEST FLORIENE.

Where is Peggy Douglas?

Dear Miss Grey,—I have intended writing to the Mail-Box for some time, but have been rather shy. I enjoy the Mail-Box very much, and have tried several recipes, which proved out fine. I am inclosing a recipe for baby food. It is cheap and babies do splendid on it. Perhaps it may interest someone. I wonder where Peggy Douglas is this spring? I would like to write to her in regards to a recipe she gave once for goitre. I wondered if it was thick neck, goitre or the internal expothalmic. There seems to be several kinds of goitre. I must hurry on now. Will sign my name, SPRING ROBIN.

For Bottle-Fed Babies—Take one pound of pearl barley, put in bake pan, brown nicely, stirring frequently, then when cool run it through a new pepper mill, then save this barley flour, which will last some time. Take two tablespoons of this and one tablespoon of oatmeal and one quart of water and put in double boiler and boil steadily three hours and have the quart of liquid when done; strain through cheese or butter cloth. Directions for each feeding: Take half quantity of cow's milk and this barley liquid, add a little sugar. Babies are fond of it, as it is a tasty drink. Give every two hours, asleep or awake.

Ans.—Thank you for inclosing the recipe, Spring Robin.

Brown Eyes and Golden Locks.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I thought I would drop in and help a little if possible. I noticed where Brown Eyes and Golden Locks wanted the names of the latest songs. I have some, I won't say they are the very latest though most of them are.

They are: "The Japanese Sandman," "Hiawatha Melody of Love," "Tell Me Little Gypsy," "Peachie," "Feather Your Nest," "Whispering," "I've Got the Kentucky Blues," "Don't Take Away Those Blues," "My Little Bimbo, Down on Bamboo Isle," "Oh Gee, Say Gee, You Ought To See My Gee-Gee From Fiji Isle," "Thinking of You," "Often," "Wait Till We Get Them Up in the Air." I guess that will be all for this time.

I was talking to Dardanella tonight and told her I was going to write to you and tell you that she was my "pal." We have lots of good times together.

I am taking violin lessons now. I hope to be able to play at some future date.

Isn't it nice to hear the birds singing and the lambs calling to their mothers? I wish it was spring all the time.

Did you ever read "Glengarry School Days" by Ralph Connor? It is certainly fine. "Cy Whittaker's Place" is also a good one. "Willie McWattie's Master." "David Harum" and a great many more which I have read are good.

Well, will ring off for this time, trusting I have not worn my welcome out and may come again. Good luck to the Mail-Box. LEONA.

Requests.

Dear Miss Grey,—As I did not see my first letter in print I thought I would try it once more. I have been an interested reader of your page for some time and enjoy it very much.

Some time ago I noticed where Blonde Stenog. would exchange a painted cushion top for some crochet work. I wonder would she still do that? I love to crochet and I do quite a bit; but cannot paint. I will inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for you to forward B. Stenog's address. Hoping this letter reaches you, I remain A CROCHET LOVER.

Ans.—Am mailing you Blonde Stenog.'s address.

Canada—November 24, 1900, fell on Saturday. Have forwarded your letter.

Blue Eyes—Am mailing you seeds, but there are neither romper patterns nor sachets in the Mail-Box. Thank you for hospital mite.

English—If any more sachets are sent in I shall forward you two, as requested. Many thanks for mite.

March Wind—Thank you very much for quotations.

Dear Miss Grey,—Hark! That's my ring! I wonder who it is? Why, it's someone asking for some flowers seeds. Well here are a few seeds, Miss Grey. I have named them all, and I will inclose a slip of their names. My isn't this grand weather, it just makes me want to get the house-cleaning all done, so I can get at the garden. I see where someone advised a discussion on books, and I think it is grand. My favorite books are written by Harold Bell Wright. They suit my thoughts and wishes so well. Now, Miss Grey, I wonder if you will send me one of those sachet bags, if there are any left.

Well, I must close now as my letter is getting long, and I do not wish to wear out my welcome. As ever. GORDO.

P. S.—What do you think of my writing, Miss Grey?

Ans.—There are no sachets left Gordo. Many thanks for seeds. You write a very good hand.

Wants Songs.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been an interested reader of your column for some time. I have received much help from the letters and answers given. I am going to bother you by asking you to secure for me from your readers two songs. The first is "The Baggage Coach Ahead." The chorus is something after this:

While the train rolled onward
A husband sat in tears,
Thinking of the happiness
Of just a few short years.

The second is "Writing to Papa. The chorus goes:

Ise going to write to Papa
I guess he'd like to hear
What his little girl is doing, etc.

I have been unable to secure these songs and I thought some reader might have them. I will return them if addressed.

I am inclosing stamp for reply also 25 cents for the "kiddies."

I see some mother signs herself as Indian Maid so I will sign my nom de plume. INDIAN BRAVE.

Ans.—Can anyone supply these songs for Indian Brave? Thanks for hospital mite.

A Hospital Gift.

Dear Miss Grey,—Inclosed is $1. I want the stocking foot pattern and two sachet bags for myself and daughter. If any of dollar left after expenses paid, give to hospital.

AUNTIE TO ALL KIDDIES.

Ans.—Thank you very much for such a generous mite. Am mailing you patterns, but there are no sachets left.

Maple Syrup.

Dear Miss Grey,—Hello, folks! How's everybody today? Isn't this fine weather? I heard the first meadowlark singing this morning. Say, Miss Grey, don't you wish you could come and help us making sprup today? We finished the first last night and say, maybe it doesn't taste good. I don't get much time to read these days, but I sure like to all right, especially Miss Norris' stories, also Katherine Burt's books. Any of you ever read "The Branding Iron? It's sure some story. Well, I guess I'd better close before I get kicked out. Inclosed find mite for children's hospital and letter for Emmaline. ROSALEEN.

Ans.—I envy you, Rosaleen, out in the sugar bush this glorious weather. Am forwarding your letter to Emmaline.

Vera.

Dear Miss Grey,—Have been reading your paper and watching the book discussion. What a field to cover. How interesting too, to hear from so many. I, too, enjoy Ralph Conner's, Grace Richmond's and Myrtle Reed's books. Also L. M. Montgomery's "Anne" books and who could help loving "Pollyanna?" Then too "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" was such a cheerful body, and made so much of little things, that I believe we all can be helped by her optimism. And there are so many other good books I wonder ofttimes which really is my favorite.

Have been watching to see if I might be of help to some one, but nearly always someone gets ahead of me it seems.

Also might I have a sachet? Inclosed find a mite to help out with 'that cot.'

I have a good romper pattern for a 2-year-old kiddie if anyone would like it.

And now I must away or someone else will be asking me to move out and come some other time.

Wishing you all a pleasant Easter holiday. Sincerely, VERA.

Ans.—Thank you Vera for directions and hospital mite. There are no sachets left.

Wants Magazines.

Dear Miss Grey,—I wonder if any of the readers could supply me with all the back numbers of the Argosy since the first of the year? I will pay all expenses of mailing. My address is with Miss Grey and I do hope I can get them as I have tried in stores and they are all returned to the publishers. Wishing you all good luck I remain, BERTA.

Ans.—Can anyone supply these books for Berta? I have forwarded your letter to Yank.

Requests.

Dear Miss Grey,—Isn't this most glorious weather? I do hope all the Boxites are enjoying it. Betty Brown, thank you so much for the Dutch romper pattern; also H. N. D. for the patterns she sent, and the explicit way she drew everything for me. It was indeed kind of her to take so much time to do it, and I hope she sees this in the paper, to know how much I appreciate it.

Inclosed find mite, and I only wish this time, if you have them, a few of snow on the mountain Seeds; if not, anything else will do. How often I think of Seven Years Sadness, but she must take up fresh courage with the coming spring and smile, and just think that every cloud has a silver lining, and it won't be very long before some of her sunbeams will be able to share all her joys and sorrows with her. Trusting I have not taken up too much space. As ever, SAN DUSKIE.

Ans.—There are no snow on the mountain seeds left, but I am mailing some of another variety. Thank you for mite.

June E.—Kindly send your name and address, repeating request, and I will try and be of some assistance.

Dear Miss Grey,—Like many others, I have been long a silent reader. May I not join your merry circle?

Hawaiian Guitar, if you will write first, will try to make myself a most agreeable correspondent. I simply love Hawaiian music, but then, who doesn't? It is simply heavenly. Will leave my address with Miss Grey. Will say bon jour. PRETTY MICKEY.

Ans.—Possibly Hawaiian Guitar will see your letter and write to you.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have seen in your page about the stocking foot pattern, and I should very much like to have it. I turn to your page first upon opening The Advertiser. I should also like a few flower seeds, if you have some in. Any variety will please me, for I love flowers, and also to watch their progress after planting. I am inclosing mite for S. C. H. F., and will come again in future needs. ROSE.

Ans.—Am mailing you pattern and seeds. Many thanks for mite.

A Suggestion.

Dear Miss Grey,—Have cut off eight patterns of my sleepers for 3-year-old, and would like to make the request that whoever wishes same, make a copy for themselves and one for the Mail-Box use.

I am glad it is meeting with such success and although I have seen there were more required I simply could not find time to make them.

I got your letter, Yank, and am sorry you have sickness, and hope all will be well soon.

Now, Heliotrope, didn't I say in my last letter that I was right in the pink? What makes you think I am red (haired)? I am not too old to blush!

If you think you know me, write me a letter to Mail-Box and Miss Grey will forward it to me, won't you? Excuse scribble. Yours in haste,

MONA FROM ARIZONA.

Ans.—I think it a splendid idea to have each one that borrows the pattern return it with an extra copy, as it is impossible for me to supply the demand.

Molly Maguire.

Dear Miss Grey,—As the Boxites have been discussing books lately I thought I would like to say a few words on the subject also.

It may well be said at the present time "Of making books there is no end."

Go into any public library and take note of the demand for books and one gets the impression that a large proportion of the books are seldom read. Those books by modern popular authors such as Ralph Connor, Harold Bell Wright, Marion Keith, L. M. Montgomery, and a few others are very much in demand and only a favored few can secure them. Some books of travel and biography are very interesting. "Lives of great men all remind us we can make our lives sublime."

The "Smiles" books are very good indeed—"Character," "Duty," "Self-Help," etc. Stories have been called the cake and pie of literature, so we must not live on them altogether or we may get indigestion of the mind. "Jane Eyre" by Charlotte Bronte has always been a favorite of mine, also "St. Elmo" by A. E. Wilson.

The Bible of course is the grandest book of all. I was just thinking when reading: "The Shepherd of the Hills" by H. B. Wright, when the old shepherd quotes that verse from the Bible "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handiwork; day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night showeth knowledge."

After all what book can compare with the Bible for grand language and beautiful thoughts.

"Seven Years' Sadness" yours is indeed a sad experience, and it should be a warning to all young girls to take their parents' advice and only keep company with young men who are known to have a good character, and not to take up with strangers.

I enjoy reading the letters in Miss Grey's corner very much and always look it up first thing.

I am also very fond of maple sugar and am afraid there won't be much this spring. But we can't have nice warm weather and maple sugar weather at the same time, so I think this shows that some unpleasant things are sometimes necessary to round out character.

And as we can't have maple sugar without frost and snow, so in those lands of perpetual warmth few great men or women are raised, as the heat tends to make the people indolent.

So let us remember this in times of trouble and "Tomorrow the sun may be shining although it is cloudy today."

MOLLY MAGUIRE.

To Remove Rust.

Dear Miss Grey,—Having read in the Mail-Box recently that the original Mystery had aster and pansy seeds for those who will contribute to Aunt Nannie's fund, started by her, please forward the inclosed letter to the original Mystery, as I would like some of the seeds. I generally plant them indoors about this time of the year.

To take rust out of any white goods, wet the rust spots with hot water and rub some salts of lemon on the spots, and if the sun is shining, put in the hot sun, and it works far better. Always wash out the goods after, as it will rot the spots. SUNNYSIDE.

Ans.—Am forwarding your letter to Mystery.

In the Barn.

Dear Miss Grey and Readers,—I certainly enjoy your page, it is so interesting. I like Betty Bide at Home's letters. She told about a walk in the woods. I am now going to tell about a walk in the barn. I have just come in from there. We go in a door at the south and turn to the right. We see an old pig with her small brood of 3-weeks-old piggies. The old one likes to be rubbed behind the ears. No, she won't bite. But the little fellows will nip sometimes. We go on a step or two and here we are behind the stall of a beautiful bay thoroughbred driver. She will not kick; she's as quiet as a lamb, but she will bite at you sometimes. On we go to the cow stable. At the left is a Polled Aberdeen Angus heifer; her name is Duchess Klondyke, after which I call my pen name. She may kick. I never go near her heels, but she likes to be rubbed under the chin. We will leave her for a moment till we see what is in this box stall. Why, no less than another pig. She is very cross. The men can hardly go into the pen without a stick. The pigs we keep in a corner of the manger, because she will lay on them and not get up when she hears them squealing. She had a litter of 21 last week. Some family, I must say! The chickens are right out here. Come and have a look at them, and I will gather the eggs. Here is the tomcat. "What are you doing in here? Are you sucking the eggs? No, of course not. You are faithful." Now we must return to the house.

Miss Grey, have you any sachets left? Please send me one. And have you the asthma cure one lady sent in? Inclosed please find 10 cents for S. C. H. F. Will sign by name.

DUCHESS KLONDYKE.

Ans.—There are no sachets left, Duchess. Many thanks for hospital mite. Can anyone supply this remedy?

Sumac.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—This is the first time I have written to the Mail-Box. I have been to St. Petersburg, Florida, this winter, and enjoyed my trip. The scenery is lovely in Tennessee and the Carolinas.

I enjoy reading, and think "Pollyanna," "Little Women," "Good Wives" and "Anne of Green Gables" are fine books.

What do you think of my writing, Miss Grey? I am 14 years old.

SUMAC.

Ans.—You must have had a lovely trip, Sumac. You did not inclose your name and address. You write a very good hand.

Ted.—Thanks for mite. If any more sachets are sent in I shall forward one to you.

Printer.

Dear Miss Grey,—I read about a week ago in your column a letter signed Flowerette, in which the writer asked for the poem called "St. Peter at the Gate," and as I have the piece in question pasted in one of my scrapbooks, I copied it off for her. It is rather long; but if she has not already had it sent to her, will you please kindly forward it to her, and tell her if she wants any other poems to let me know, and if I have them I will send them to her. I have a great number of old favorites in my scrapbooks. If Flowerette has already got it, will you please forward it to one of your many other correspondents who are asking for recitation, and oblige. I am inclosing a mite for the S. C. H. fund. This is the first time I have written to your page, but enjoy reading the letters immensely. Respectfully yours, PRINTER.

Ans.—Thanks for sending in recitation and hospital mite, Printer.

SIZING IN COTTON CLOTH.

Sizing is starch or clay or some similar preparation used in cloth to fill up the spaces between the threads to make it seem closer, stronger, and heavier than it really is. A certain amount of sizing is desirable to protect cloth during the handling it must undergo in being marketed, but too much is often used, merely to deceive the purchaser.

To detect sizing hold the cloth up against a strong light; in many materials you can see the starch or other filling; rub a corner briskly between your hands, and you can rub it out, and see how loosely the threads really are woven; tear a small piece of the cloth quickly or flick it sharply with your finger nail, and you will see a fine dust or powder, which is sizing. Sometimes the mere harshness of a piece of cloth is enough to betray the presence of sizing, for cotton is naturally soft and inelastic to the touch. For some kinds of sizing you must soak or boil the cloth to remove it, and this, of course, is not a possible test at the time of purchase. But if you have occasion to buy a large quantity of cotton, it would be worth your while to test a sample of it. Some designs are merely pressed flat into the cloth by a starchy preparation and can be rubbed right off between the hands, so that it would, of course, have disappeared with the first washing.

Don't buy cotton with your gloves on.

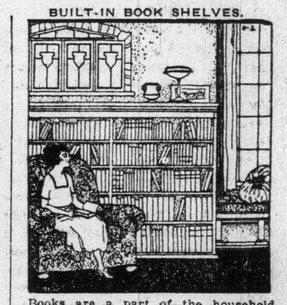
BUILT-IN BOOK SHELVES.



Books are a part of the household furniture of every home in these days of widespread education. Every home has its book shelves; they are as much a part of the household stuff as the kitchen table. Whether there are enough books to justify a separate room to be called a library, or only enough to require a bookcase in the living room, the problem is the same, to have a place for books easy to get at, good to look at, and to protect the books from wear and tear. Built-in book shelves offer an easy and attractive solution. They should be uniform in wood with the woodwork of the room, and are far more satisfactory when not too high to be easily reached by the average person, probably about five feet. The shelves may be made adjustable, but for the sake of uniformity or appearance, fixed shelves are preferable. For the different sizes of books, eight inches in height should be allowed for duodecimos, ten for octavos and twelve for quartos; between the tops of the books and at the shelf above there should be at least an inch; therefore, the shelves from the bottom up should be 13, 11 and 9 inches high.

Two shelves of each height would bring the case to a little more than the required five feet. In depth the shelves should be at least a foot. The lowest shelf should be raised three inches or a little more above the floor, on a foundation or plinth. Mouldings used at the bottom or top should be simple. The cornice at the top should not be elaborate, nor project much beyond the rest of the case. The top of the case should be level, easy to dust, and not littered with indiscriminate bric-a-brac, but made attractive with a few good things in pottery, brass or glass, chosen carefully in relation to one another and the room.

Windsor C. I. Five Are Basketball Champs

Beat Brantford in Finals Last Night by Score of 42--16—Strathroy Reached Semi-Finals, But Were Put Out by Brantford.

Windsor emerged last night from the finals of the interscholastic tourney as champions of Western Ontario by virtue of their 42 to 16 win over Brantford. The dope looked as if they were going wrong when Brantford had the border crew 10 to 9 at the end of the first half, but the latter came through in their true form in the second spasm, and from then on there was no question of the result.

Brantford, Windsor and Strathroy climbed out of the heap in the afternoon before good crowds. Brantford had a top-heavy win over St. Marys, 32 to 13. Windsor took Woodstock College over the bumps in the 3:30 mix by a score of 36 to 14, and this flash marked them for the real team to beat for the championship. Strathroy had a tidy time with the Railway City crew, but St. Thomas, after having the score 11 to 6 in their favor at half time, slipped back fast. The final score was 24 to 18 in favor of Strathroy.

Windsor Drew Bye.

Windsor drew the bye for the semi-finals, and Brantford and Strathroy took to the floor for the first clash of the evening. Strathroy looked like winners in the first half, and had the scoreboard reading 13 to 10. Brantford got a good combination going right from the start-off in the final session, and the final score was 27 to 20.

Windsor and Chatham staged a go-as-you please warm-up, which kept the crowd interested and gave Windsor a 27 to 19 verdict.

The finals furnished a great climax to an unusual two days of basketball. Windsor five apparently couldn't get going in the first half, though they had plenty of chances. Brantford got through some nice passing attacks, and in the early stages of the game piled up the points that gave them their 10 to 9 verdict at half-time.

The second half became strenuous and fast right off, and both sides had a fairly good bag of tricks for close-quarter work. Windsor opened up with passes and dribbles that had the Brantford outfit looking for a way out. Rogers and Philip, the Borderers colored boy, were off for a mix-up half-way through the piece.

McConnell, Howell and Phillip were best for the champions. Lambert and Rogers led the van of the Brantford attack.

Presented Medals.

After the game Director Mel Brock of Western University, to whom the credit for the novelty meet is due, presented the winners and the runners-up with medals.

Ty Has Made New Player of Eddie

Ainsmith looked ready for the minors last year under Jennings, but has changed his demeanor so much under Cobb's piloting that he looks good for years yet, and will be the mainstay of the Jungle catching department. Cobb's popularity has worked wonders with all the old veterans who were sulky under Jennings' regime.

With the Majors In the Southland

Fort Worth stages a live stock show each year. It is a big affair. Every cowboy that can scrape up the price of railroad fare attends, with all the ranch foremen and many of the ranch owners. It is their one big blowout of the year, the grand meeting-place, the Mecca of the cowmen.

The exposition, or exhibition, lasts one week. There is a live stock show, and a very good one, but the boys pass that by with a mere glance. The point of attraction is the Coliseum.

This Coliseum is a vast building with a tan bark arena, and a ring that is said to have 440 yards to the lap. Here, in this Coliseum, is staged the big rodeo of the Southwest. It lasts six days, and the program includes all the standard rodeo events, such as bulldogging, bronco riding, steer and calf roping, and many special numbers.

Here one finds the cowmen, engaged in a glorious picnic. And here, this year, one found Tris Speaker. He knew them all, and they all knew him. He did not miss a day, and it appeared that he did not miss an event.

Speaker participated in all the roping events. He tried rough-riding; he even was willing to try bulldogging, most dangerous of all ranch sports.

In Speaker's case the spirit was willing, but the eye and hand, and the body, were not trained for the demands of the sport. Finally, on the last evening, Speaker managed to rope a calf, and the Coliseum literally shook with applause.

What made Speaker a hero of this cowmen's meet was not what he did, but what he tried to do. He was the poorest performer on the tanbark, but he was as game as any of them and more ambitious, and those qualities aroused the admiration of every son of the plains.

Imagine the world's greatest outfielder trying to bulldog a steer. Few cowboys, comparatively few, try that little trick. It is dangerous in the extreme. At one of the rodeos last year a chap that had been with a Wild West show was in attendance and said he wanted to participate in the event. They made room for him. They gave him the best pony they had. He rode alongside the steer for over 100 yards and then flung himself over the horns. He nailed the steer, but the steer, by a quick turn of the head, nailed its adversary, thrusting the prong of one horn through the man's stomach. A dozen cowboys rushed out, overpowered the steer and pulled the man from the horn. They started to carry him off the track, but he refused to be carried, and, holding both hands to his punctured stomach, walked off. He was out of the hospital in six weeks and entered in another rodeo to try the same event again.

This incident would suggest that the sport has its element of danger, even to an experienced horseman, so Speaker was taking long chances with arms and legs that bring him a fortune in salary each year. They knew what a broken arm or leg meant to Speaker, and that is why they so wildly applauded his efforts, and that is why they idolize him. He took more chances than the others, and the chances meant a great deal more to him.

Speaker escaped injury. He tackled the mustangs and all the wild horses they brought into the arena. Finally, on the last night of the show, after he had roped the gray young calf, they presented Speaker with a saddle outfit that cost the boys $500, and they also gave him a full uniform, the kind you see in Wild West shows. All of which did not mean anything compared with the applause that followed.

BABE'S CONDITION.

Ranger, Texas, April 1.—Owners of the New York American League franchise paid $125,000 cash for Babe Ruth's contract.

The New York Americans last year drew more than 1,200,000 paid admissions to the Polo Grounds in games they played there.

New York drew record crowds in every other city in the league, and the club's share of the receipts away from home paid the expenses for 1920, so that the New York share of the Polo Grounds receipts became clear profit.

Babe Ruth was therefore a moneymaker for the New York Americans. Ruth stands as one of the most profitable investments in the country, the most spectacular investment in the field of professional sports.

If any businessman obtained an investment that pays the dividends that Ruth pays, he would use every precaution to guard it; but Ruth, the greatest single drawing card in the history of sports, has not such protection.

When Ruth reported at the training camp this spring he was nearly 40 pounds overweight. He has done little training since coming south, and does fairly well as he pleases. He reports for games because he loves to hit, but when the other players are practicing Ruth can be found on the golf course, or wherever his fancy may take him. He is not in condition, and he will not be in condition when the season opens.

Ruth will still hit this year. It is doubtful if he will hit as many home runs as he whaled out last season, but he will hit quite a number. However, Ruth will not be a great home-run hitter for long. His utter lack of training requirements, his shunning of the laws of nature, and his careless habits will bring an early close to a spectacular career. It is doubtful if Ruth, going at his present pace, will shine three years longer. Nature will demand her tolls—always has, and always will. The penalty becomes severe when the violator is an athlete.

All of which brings us to the point of baseball training. Ruth, as pointed out, is the most valuable investment in sports, and his future is not safeguarded by capable trainers. In other words, the New York Americans, having a fortune in Ruth, fail to protect this rich dividend-paying asset.

Discussing the matter with a veteran ball player, he asked:

"Well, have you stopped and figured out what you can do with a fellow like Ruth? Get any trainer, and see what you can do with him."

But the fact remains that the experiment has not been made, that nothing has been attempted.

Get a capable trainer and Ruth could be handled, probably not with ease, but he could be handled. The club would have to engage a man in whom Ruth has confidence, a man who could show him the error of his ways and convince him to change his habits.

All our large universities engage such men. They handle college athletes, and handle them well; and they could do just as well with ball players—better, in fact, for a ball player's success and income depend on his health.

No major league club has yet set about to get a capable trainer. All teams in the big leagues have trainers, but they are low-salaried men, and the job is regarded as a necessary evil, as a general rule.

CLEVELAND WON FIRST FOR U. S. HOCKEY TITLE

CLEVELAND, April 1.—The Cleveland hockey team defeated the Eveleth (Minn.) team here tonight, 6 to 3, in the first of a four-game series to decide the championship of the United States Hockey League. The second game will be played here tomorrow night.

Five Teams Are Already in Sight For Junior Soccer

If Response To Meeting Tuesday Is Big Two Groups May Be Formed—12th Field Battery Latest Recruits.

At least four teams are certain for the new junior soccer league which will be formed at a meeting to be held in the offices of the 1st W. O. R. at the armories on Tuesday night next. Machine Gunners, 1st W. O. R., 1st Hussars and 12th Field Battery are four certain entries amongst the military units alone. As the Grand Trunk apprentices are a certainty also, only one more team is needed to provide six teams for the league.

A good many consider six teams enough for the opening season of the league, and probably this number will be adhered to. However, if there is any great response at the meeting Tuesday night a second group might be formed with a similar number of teams.

The age-limit will probably be the greatest question for the new league to decide on. A number are in favor of holding the age limit at 18 years of age. Others favor placing it at 21 years. There are good arguments from both angles, and whichever age is chosen, the great need is to make the rule a strict one and provide a heavy penalty for clubs breaking it.

Scorer in Error in Giving Game To Woodstock Five

WOODSTOCK, April 1.—The official scorer got mixed up in his count last night and gave out the score of the Peterboro-Woodstock basketball game as 26 to 20 in favor of Woodstock. Following the confusion at the finish of the game a revision of the count showed that Peterboro had won the game by a score of 30 to 26. This added to the 39 to 14 score at Peterboro gave the new champions of the Ontario Basketball Association the round by 20 points. This correction is made in fairness to the Peterboro team, who showed the local fans some of the best basketball seen here in years.

TILLSONBURG CLUB WILL ADD 100 NEW BOWLERS

TILLSONBURG, April 1.—The executive of the Tillsonburg Lawn Bowling Club met today and arranged the dates for the usual three annual tournaments during the season as follows: June 15, rink games; July 13, London Advertiser Trophy, Scotch doubles; August 10, Sinclair Trophy. Four new rinks were constructed last fall, and will be in use before the season is over. During the week of May 27, a drive will be made to secure 100 new members, and a smoker will be held in the L. O. L. Hall next Tuesday evening.

BIRD NOTES

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.

(Contributed by McIlwraith Ornithological Club.)

The birds coming along so early with new arrivals almost every day our field men find it increasingly difficult to sleep in for a single morning, even though the weather may be none too inviting.

Every walk through a favorable piece of country holds something worth while for bird-lovers, and the season is now far enough advanced to yield a good measure of song every morning.

So while this cold Friday morning finds us with no new arrivals to report, nevertheless, our morning ramble in the clear crisp air was much enjoyed.

Two of the best songsters amongst the sparrows, the fox and vesper, may be heard almost any morning just now. The former, generally considered the better singer of the two, is only with us for a short time on his journey to his nesting grounds farther north, but the vesper will be here to swell the spring chorus at its height, and remain a common summer resident, one of a number of sparrows known to so many as "grey birds."

The marsh hawk was noticed performing his "dips," as described in some of our notes last spring.

Play in the seventh game will commence Saturday night.

CHAMP LOST FIRST.

DETROIT, April 1.—Johnny Layton, profession three-cushion billiards champion, lost the first game of his title match here this afternoon with Gus Copulos of Detroit, the challenger winning the block by 50 points to 21 in 40 innings. Copulos made runs of 9, 7 and 6, while the champion's high was a 3.

Andre Boillot To Try New French Car

Temperamental One, Piloted Peugot Last Year—Was French Ace During War.

Indianapolis, April 1.—Temperamental Andre Boillot has forsaken the Peugeot racing outfit and will endeavor to hoist the French tricolor above the flags of competing nations at the wheel of a Talbot-Darracq in the ninth international 500-mile race, to be held at the Indianapolis motor speedway on Monday, May 30.

Boillot is a brother of the late Georges Boillot, conceded to be the greatest driver who ever held a steering wheel. This year will be Boillot's third trip to the Indianapolis track. In his American racing debut, made at Indianapolis in 1919, but met with disappointment, being turned back when running in third position within twenty miles of the finish, due to the collapse of a wire wheel. The mount which Boillot handled on this occasion employed even a smaller power plant than those entered in last year's event, having only 150 cubic inches piston displacement, and it was largely due to the excellent showing against its 300 cubic inch rivals that the new speedway racing rules limiting piston displacement to 183 cubic inches were placed into effect.

Last year Boillot piloted a Peugeot at Indianapolis. Like his companion mounts, driven by Jules Goux and Howard Wilcox, the newly-designed Peugeot was found wanting, and long before the race winner was decided all three cars were pushed off the track a helpless mass of mechanism. When Boillot rolled his car off on the grass in front of the judges' stand he shrugged his shoulders, climbed from the car with a smile on his face, and said, "It 'ez through," then wrapped himself in a highly-colored sweater and left the scene.

In the last Targo Florio, run over the difficult mountain passes of Italy, he gave the most sensational exhibition of driving in history, accepting every risk and registering miraculous escapes no less than six times. His final feat of dare-deviltry consisted in colliding with the grandstands to avoid hitting a spectator who had wandered on the course, and then, finding himself completely turned around, throwing on the power and cutting the finish line in reverse.

During the war Boillot was a French Ace, and the utter disregard for safety that he acquired during his numerous air combats seems to have persisted with him in his racing career.

Even the tenseness of an automobile race, with the drivers tearing around the track at breakneck speed, brings about amusing incidents to the drivers. Eddie Hearne, who will drive in the 500-mile race at Indianapolis on May 30, was struck in the back when a tire rolled off Bob Burman's car while Hearne was working in the pits. The impact knocked Hearne to the ground, and he says he was scared to death and would not get up, thinking that he had been hit by one of the cars, and was waiting for it to pass on over.

INGERSOLL A. A. A. SHOWS 63 MEMBERS ADDED

INGERSOLL, April 1.—The annual meeting of the Ingersoll Amateur Athletic Association was marked by reports of an exceptionally pleasing nature. During the year 63 new members were enrolled, and during the meeting three more were added, a fact giving promise of continued success. The following officers were elected: President, George Sutherland; first vice-president, George W. Wood; second vice-president, S. A. Gibson; secretary-treasurer, John Fairbairn; rooms committee, Dr. Staples, A. O. Parker, R. W. Green, C. W. Riley sen., W. J. Henderson; auditors, A. G. Warden and R. W. Green.

More Talk of Big Fight For Montreal, Publicity Only

MONTREAL, April 1.—All the talk about considering a new offer from Montreal to hold the Carpentier-Dempsey fight here appears to be little more than another scheme to keep the ball rolling.

That the fight would definitely go to Jersey City was the statement made by Jack Kearns to a well-known sporting promoter of this city over the long-distance telephone today before Dempsey's manager left New York for the West. This promoter is a man who made the best offer made by Montreal yet, and had a fair chance of "pulling off" the match outside of the city.

As to the third offer, said to have been made by local interests, it is urged that the bid was not near high enough. Though it is reported in New York that Montreal men will confer with Rickard next week it is doubtful if the matter will go that far.

MAY STAGE LACROSSE AND RACES TOGETHER AT SARNIA

SARNIA, April 1.—Sarnia Intermediates will likely get into action against an outside team for the first time this year on Victoria Day, when they will stack up against some fast team at Bayview Park.

There is some talk among the lacrossites of working in conjunction with the Turf Club for that date in staging a game inside the race track, where the races are being held. Last year the Athletic Park and Bayview Park were both well packed when they were running in opposition to one another. The Lacrosse Club favors staging the two events in the same field, thus bringing the crowd to the one place.

It has not been decided as yet who will be the visitors on that date, but Guelph, the city that figured on starting out in the senior series, has been mentioned. The club is still considering the idea, and have not yet communicated with any outside clubs for dates.

BLENHEIM'S NINE WILL BE READY FOR COUNTY BALL

BLENHEIM, April 1.—Blenheim ball fans gathered last night in the council chamber and effected a very promising organization for the season, and appointed a committee consisting of Mayor Clunis and J. L. Rutherford to attend a meeting in Ridgetown next week, where other towns and ball centres will be represented to arrange for a Kent County League.

From all appearances the local fans have every confidence that a team can be mustered here which will keep Blenheim on the map as an enthusiastic ball town. The officers are as follows: Honorary president, W. E. Hall; president, Mayor Alex Clunis; vice-president, W. L. Shillington; secretary, J. L. Rutherford; treasurer, Bart Williams; captain, Roy Gray; committees, supply, Sidney Stewart, Cal Loamler and the manager; grounds, Fred Gibson, Ed. Ridley, Bart William and A. G. Shillington; advertising, Captain Roy Gray; official scorers, W. L. Shillington and George Riseborough; games, A. G. Shillington, Sidney Stewart and the manager; umpire, Kitchen; gatekeeper, C. A. Wedge.

The balanced construction of Firestone Fabric Tires is one reason for their greater mileage.

Thick tread, side wall and fabric alone won't give mileage. They all must be properly proportioned and designed to work together on the road.

Correct design and using just the right amount of material gives Firestone Fabric Tires their balance and this balance gives the mileage.

Satisfied car owners prove that Firestones give most miles per dollar.

ALCOHOL, as a beverage, has proved itself to be the enemy of the human race.

Alcohol is a fruitful source of insanity, criminality, immorality, delinquency, disease, brutality and death.

Alcohol lowers vitality and decreases efficiency, while ignorance, poverty and misery follow in its wake.

Alcohol is a waste of food stufis, of money, of time and of life itself.

Alcohol is a wrecker of homes, a curse upon the mother and child, a burden upon society and an embarrassment to both capital and labor.

SOCCER KICK-OFFS

Billy Bisset, former secretary of the City Soccer League writes: "Your advice to the various London soccer teams to elect a member from each club to record the games and act as publicity man, keeping The Advertiser in touch with the doings of their respective organizations, thereby not only boosting each club along, but also automatically at the same time giving the soccer game itself an impetus which would otherwise fall flat if this particular and necessary part of the soccer game was neglected, is very opportune at this time and the idea should be immediately seized on by all the various clubs interested not only for part time, but throughout the entire season. Publicity in soccer as in other sports is one of the game's most valuable assets and without that essential the sport at stake will never make much headway. Its value in fostering and encouraging the game along cannot be overestimated and the club or clubs who understand its value in the realms of sport are generally the ones who make their mark in their particular line of sport and who are in the limelight all the time whilst the ones who neglect publicity are in the dark and therefore very seldom make much progress. I understood the value of publicity when I was a youngster (that is, by the way a few years ago) and I always took complete advantage of its influence when brought into contact with the newspapers knowing fully well that by keeping my club or association before the public, through the press, both would derive all the benefits that newspapers extend which are both beneficial and encouraging. I did not take hold of a soccer club when a youngster, that I did not make a thorough success of it, and the secret of that success was assuredly reached only through one source and that source was publicity.

The soccer game in London last year was resurrected through the medium of publicity and all outdoor sports this year are to have their banner year, thanks to the same influence. The question is sometimes asked "Why is it that such and such a club always has its name in the papers while other clubs are seldom heard of?" The answer is simple. It is quite likely that the officials of the aforementioned club are alive to the advantages of ptublicity, while the officials of the other teams are indifferent. The moral, therefore, is keep in close touch with the sporting writers and the likelihood is you will see your team get the publicity it deserves, for the man who wields a sport pen will welcome your assistance to supply him with copy.

If you have a good story to tell don't hesitate to write to the papers whether the story is about your club or is one of general interest. There are generally lots of happenings around club headquarters that would make interesting reading for soccer fans, but which never appear in the papers because the club has not what might be called a publicity man. A real live up-to-the-minute publicity agent attached to a club is an asset the value of which cannot be overestimated. Co-operate with the sporting writers and they'll co-operate with you. Send them personal invitations to attend your games. That will at least show that you appreciate what they are doing for you, for sporting writers like secretaries are just like ordinary humans, and they like to know their work is appreciated. Now that Brantford and Sarnia have both formed a district junior series, I am glad to notice that London intends following their lead in that respect. The game will never make real headway until the native borns get behind it and it is to be hoped that in the near future the Canadian-born will be prominently seen both on the soccer gridiron and in a legislating capacity. To insure this being the case and also if the game is to be perpetuated we must build the game from the schools up. Foster and encourage the game amongst the school boys, the juveniles, and the juniors then you won't have to worry about where you are to get your senior players from. The youngsters are very enthusiastic over the dribbling code; back them up and thereby encourage them and the chances are they'll keep at the game until they blossom out and become expert players.

All sports must be built from the schools up, and if that rule is not adopted the sport some time dies a natural death. That rule applies to soccer as it does to all other games and the sooner the seniors realize this the better it will be for the game in Canada. If that same rule was to be carried out all over the Dominion I would be safe in predicting that in five years' time the soccer game would become one of Canada's national pastimes.

Years Ago.

Many years ago there were more Canadians playing the soccer game than old countrymen, but the latter as they grew in members insisted in making rules that did not conform to the Canadian idea with the result that the old country people had the field to themselves. Playing the game (quoting centre forward) according to the old country idea is all right, but there are certain rules that obtain in Britain that cannot very well apply here. Geographical and climatic conditions are totally different, and now that Canadians are beginning to interest themselves again in the code it is about time those who are so conservative on old country rulings realized this.

One hundred schoolboy teams will be playing the game this year in Toronto with schoolboy leagues being played from Halifax, N. S., to Victoria, B. C., and from these leagues shall emanate our future senior soccer players. Therefore all those having the game at heart and who want to see perpetuaf soccer here in Canada must foster and encourage the game among the youngsters and if encouragement be given them they'll certainly respond by putting lots of enthusiasm into the game for you can't beat the kids when it comes down to proper every-day enthusiasm. I would like to state here that last year the junior international series played here between Scotland, England and Canda was won by Canada which goes to prove the progress that the Canadians are making in the game. The game amongst the schools in London last year was also resurrected and carried through to a successful conclusion through the unbounded enthusiasm of one gentleman, Principal MacQueen of Victoria School, who has done a whole lot to foster and encourage the game amongst the schoolboys, but no matter how enthusiastic and energetic a soccer fan may be it is far too much for one man and we sincerely trust that both the senior clubs and the L. and D. F. A. will get behind Principal MacQueen and give him a helping hand, in such a laudible object.

CHARLES MAY BE ON WAY TO SWITZERLAND

Dispatch Says British Officers Are Accompanying Former Emperor.

PARIS, April 1.—A dispatch to the East Europe agency from Budapest, says former emperor Charles, accompanied by two British officers, has left Steinamanger for Switzerland. There is no confirmation of this report from other sources.

CAN GO TO SWITZERLAND.

VIENNA, April 1.—Austria has granted a safe conduct to former emperor Charles to go to Switzerland, not only in principle, but in fact. The British, French and Italian ministers called upon Chancellor Mayr this morning and presented the protest of the powers against a Hapsburg restoration.

A COMPLETE FAILURE.

PARIS, April 1.—The attempted coupe d'etat of former emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary has been a complete failure, according to the impression prevailing in French official circles this evening. While not yet officially determined, the officials believe that the effort of Charles to regain the throne of Hungary has been successfully blocked. This view is based on dispatches from diplomatic sources in Hungary, and the opinion is that the former ruler will soon be escorted through and back to his Swiss retreat.

French officials say they have found it impossible to locate the army of 15,000 soldiers reported to be marching on Budapest. If such an army existed, the French say, its movements were amazingly well concealed.

URGE IMPORTANCE OF PUBLIC HEALTH WORK

Londoners Discuss Progress Being Made At Nurses' Convention in Hamilton.

Hamilton, April 1.—Dr. J. K. McGregor, a local surgeon, who addressed the convention of the Graduate Nurses' Association of Ontario this afternoon on "Pain," said he believed in Christian Science to the extent that it was helpful to patients who were so highly developed mentally that they were able to make mind predominate over matter. Faith and religion were both able to reduce pain, he said, but their influences were only temporary.

The following seven new directors were appointed: Miss Hanna, Hamilton; Miss Bilger, Kitchener; Miss McArthur, Owen Sound; Miss Jamieson, Toronto; Miss Boyes, Hamilton, and Mrs. Anderson, Ottawa.

A round table discussion on university courses for nurses occupied the major part of the afternoon session. Mrs. George O'Brien, president of the Hamilton General Hospital Alumnae, conducted the discussion. Delegates spoke both for and against such courses, although it was admitted that the advantages of such courses were being more fully recognized, as was attested by the general development such instruction was undergoing in Canadian universities.

Miss Margaret McDermid, supervisor of the course for public health nurses, Western University, London, read an interesting paper on the encouraging progress this branch of study was making.

Such courses from the standpoint of the student were explained by Miss Blackstock, Toronto, and Miss Fraser, Western University, London. Miss Joan I. Gunn, superintendent of nurses, general hospital, Toronto, emphasized the necessity for nurses taking such courses, and felt that universities should look on these as a very important part of their curricula.

OXFORD AND CAMBRIDGE TRACK ATHLETES CANNOT CROSS BEFORE JULY

Cambridge, Mass., April 1.—Oxford and Cambridge Universities are anxious to accept the invitation of Harvard and Yale to joint dual track and field meeting to be held at Harvard Stadium, but would be unable to compete before late July or August. This word was received today at Harvard in reply to an invitation cabled the English universities a week ago for a joint meeting here on June 18.

The athletic authorities at Harvard and Yale were disposed at first glance to consider the proposed postponement impracticable. The subject, however, will be considered more fully at a later conference.

ST. LOUIS GAMBLERS ARE EXPECTED TO SURRENDER TODAY

Application Made For Lower Bail For Four of the Players.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Carl Zork and Ben Franklin, St. Louis men recently indicted in the second grand jury investigation of the baseball scandal, and said by state officials to have organized the alleged conspiracy for Chicago White Sox players to throw the 1919 world's series to Cincinnati, are expected to surrender here tomorrow and give bail. Robert E. Crowe, state attorney, said tonight.

At the same time it became known that most of the other sixteen men indicted with Zork and Franklin are ready to surrender if bail could be fixed at what attorneys termed "a reasonable figure."

Bail for each indicted person was fixed in the indictments at $48,000.

Thomas D. Nash, attorney for "Buck" Weaver, "Swede" Riseburg, "Hap" Felsch, and Fred McMullin, four indicted White Sox players, announced tonight that he would go before Judge C. A. McDonald Monday, and make a motion that bail be made lower than the amount set after the investigation. Each person indicted then was required to furnish $10,000, except Eddie Cicotte, who was released on $5,000 bonds.

Mr. Nash said that Weaver, Felsch and Risberg were "close to Chicago" and ready to surrender if reasonable bail could be arranged. McMullin, he said, was on the Pacific coast, but would come here any time he was wanted.

MINERS WALK OUT QUIETLY

General Cessation of Work in All Mines in England.

LONDON, April 1.—The universal cessation of work by the coal miners has taken effect with remarkable quietude and under circumstances in strong contrast with all recent labor disputes, whether on the part of railwaymen, the miners, or in industries which were characterized by active conferences between the parties concerned and ministers or other members of the Government, all of whom displayed anxiety to find a path to settlement.

On this occasion there has been nothing of the kind since Thursday's meeting of the Board of Trade. Neither side has made the least approach toward negotiations. This is explained, partly, as far as the Government is concerned, by the fact that abolition of the control of the coal industry is considered to relieve the ministers of the responsibility of intervening in the dispute. The Governmnt holds that it is a matter to be settled betwen the miners and the mine owners.

MASKED RAIDERS BUSY AT DUBLIN

DUBLIN, April 1.—Fourteen raids by armed masked men on clerks of the county petty sessions courts were made last night and today for the purpose of seizing funds realized from dog licenses. A large number of similar raids were carried out earlier in the week, resulting in hauls estimated at nearly £1,000, which, it is declared, is being handed over to the Dail Eireann.

Owners of dogs recently were warned not to pay for licenses on the ground that the Government would use the money to fight the Irish people.

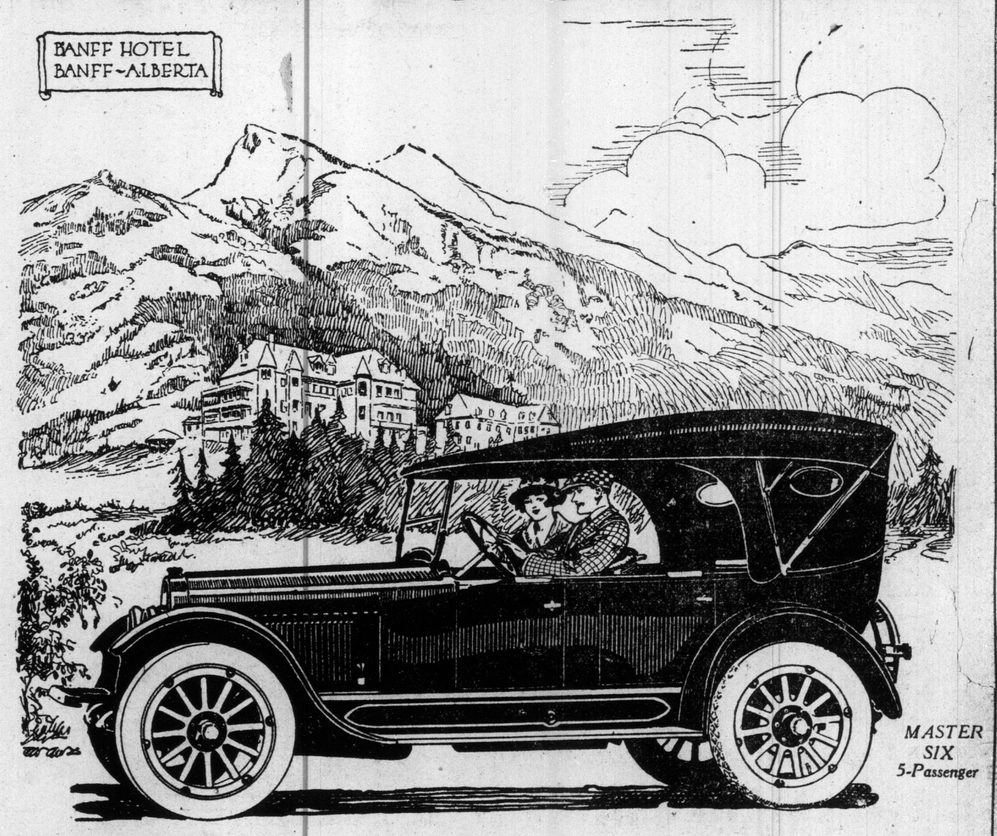
McLAUGHLIN



MASTER SIX 5-Passenger

CONFIDENCE in "Canada's Standard Car" is most clearly shown in its absolute leadership in the market. McLaughlin "Master Six" has become the "known factor" among motor cars—a guage by which to judge not only values, but style, finish and design.

This is what makes the McLaughlin such a sound investment—that gives it its established re-sale value—that makes it the accepted car among men of substance.

Coupled with the same power and dependability that have made McLaughlin Master Six motor cars famous throughout Canada, is added riding comfort, more roominess and better seating arrangement, easier control and a beauty and grace that fittingly express the higher standard of 1921 models of "Canada's Standard Car."

What the Press Agents Say About the Shows

AT THE GRAND.

D. W. GRIFFTH'S MASTER PRODUCTION, "WAY DOWN EAST," AT THE GRAND TWICE TODAY AT 2:15 AND 8:15.

When "Way Down East" was first shown on the speaking stage it immediately became known in certain circles as a "rural" play. The fact that the characters shown in it were with few exceptions denizens of the rural sections, and the scenes all in the locale, had much to do with that decision. But in the great motion picture version, D. Wark Griffith has made this story and theme a universal thing. He sets forth a wonderful story of a woman's love and suffering, and certainly no one will say how such should be referred to as rural.

Those who have missed seeing this marvelous photoplay production at the Grand this week should not miss it today. There will be a special Saturday matinee today at 2:15, and the evening performance and final presentation at 8:15 p.m.

Milton Sills in the Geo Melford Production "THE FAITH HEALER" A Paramount Picture

GEORGE MELFORD'S SUPER-PARAMOUNT PRODUCTION, "THE FAITH HEALER," AT THE GRAND NEXT MONDAY, TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Healing by faith, or a demonstration of the presence of divine power in human affairs, is the basic theme in George Melford's latest Paramount picture, "The Faith Healer," which will be the feature photoplay attraction at the Grand for three days, commencing Monday next.

The play upon which the picture is founded was written by William Vaughan Moody, whose play, "The Great Divide," scored success some few years ago. The stage production of "The Faith Healer" also proved a highly successful play.

The story concerns a young shepherd who feels the divine call to go forth and heal the sick and suffering. When he isc at the height of his work, love enters his life, and with the birth of his passion he feels his divine power waning. He is on the point of renouncing his religion when it dawns upon him that love is the gift of God, and that he can entertain a pure love for the girl and at the same time go on with his good work. With this comes a return of his healing power and a renewed consecration to his work, aided by the girl, who also devotes her life to his mission.

The title role is enacted by Milton Sills, Ann Forrest portrays the girl (Rhoda Williams), Fontaine la Rue plays Mary Beeler, the invalid, and others of importance in the star cast include Frederick Vroom, Lloyola O'Connor, May Giraci, John Curry and Adolphe Menjou.

The vaudeville offering brings a classy quartet of songsters, the Harmonic Four, who will offer a brilliant revue of the new and old song successes. The comedy feature brings the one and only comedian, Fatty Arbuckle, in one of his funniest comics, "The Hayseed," and it's one long scream from beginning to final flicker. The added features include a Burton Holmes Travelogue, Paramount Magazine and a Paramount Burlingame Scenic.

The first-of-the-week program offers a big three-hour picture bill, and with a production like "The Faith Healer," the added features and the big vaudeville turn, should result in S. R. O. signs at every performance for the three days. There will be no advance in prices.

SIR JOHN MARTIN HARVEY AND HIS ENGLISH COMPANY COMING TO THE GRAND FOR THREE DAYS, COMMENCING NEXT THURSDAY.

Seats for the forthcoming engagement of Sir Martin Harvey and his London company at the Grand Opera House on Thursday, Friday and Saturday next go on sale at the box office Monday morning next at 9 a.m. There has been a brisk mail order sale since the announcement was made Saturday last, and Manager Minhinnick advises that those who contemplate seeing this distinguished actor should secure their seats as early as is possible.

Sir John will present three great plays here during his London engagement, opening Thursday evening with "The Breed of the Treshams," by John Rutherford, and Friday evening he will present a new play by Maurice Maeterlinck, "The Burgomaster of Stilemonde," and on Saturday matinee and evening, "The Only Way."

"THE BREED OF THE TRESHAMS."

"The Breed of the Treshams" is a delightful, romantic drama by John Rutherford, in which Martin Harvey scored one of the greatest successes of his career.

The story deals with the adventures of one Lieut. Keresby, the natural son of a certain Lord Tresham and a very lovable rascal. The influence of his legitimate brother's financee, who reminds him of the only woman he ever loved, sways him to deeds and to sacrifices which are totally at variance with the nature of a rascal. He is nicknamed "The Rat," and he enjoys a great reputation for recklessness—and other things. The action of the play develops traits in his character which compel sympathy and admiration, and in the end he escapes the fate of a traitor by fidelity to his own code of honor.

It is a play of the swashbuckling type. Cavaliers swagger about the stage; high-bred ladies make their stately curtsies. The romance of it all has an undeniably pleasant flavor. The object of the story is to demonstrate that, after all, "Blood Will Tell." Martin Harvey's portrait of The Rat is one of the most memorable stage portraits of our time. Miss de Silva is seen in the role of Batty, an adorable scapegrace youth. "The Breed of the Treshams" will be presented Thursday evening next.

"THE BURGOMASTER OF STILEMONDE."

It will be a matter of satisfaction to many that Sir John Martin Harvey includes Maurice Maeterlinck's new play, "The Burgomaster of Stilemonde," in his London program.

This is a work of Maeterlinck's which has been described not by press agents or advance managers—as the greatest of the plays evoked by the war, a play which has already been hailed not only as a magnificent propaganda effort, but as a subtle study of German mentality, a brilliant exposition of the conflict of opposing ideals of national life, and civilization, and a forceful, poignant, and dramatic reminder of the martyrdom of Belgium.

It is hoped that the coming production will enable Canadian players to agree with the judgment already passed on Mr. Maeterlinck's play.

Certainly anticipation is very pleasantly stirred by the prospects of seeing—and hearing too—how the poet-dramatist, who was once called "The Belgian Shakespeare," deals with a direct and human theme, pertinent to the very hour of the titanic struggle and of world-wide yet closely personal concern. Pertinent to the hour! The action of the play passes in 1914! Yet a more timely occasion than now could not be found. Now more than ever should the spoliation of the little kingdom which first stayed the Huns' onward sweep of frightfulness be in all men's minds.

Meanwhile the promised performance of "The Burgomaster of Stilemonde" will give added distinction to the coming visit of Sir John Martin Harvey, and gratitude is due to him for the artistic enterprise which has led him to present to the public of Canada. "The Burgomaster of Stilemonde" will be presented Friday evening next.

"THE ONLY WAY."

This celebrated version of Charles Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" is known everywhere. In it Martin Harvey plays the role of Sydney Carton, the drunken young lawyer, who, under the uplifting influence of a hopeless passion, reveals a strength of character and a capacity for sacrifice that enable him to give up his life to save another.

It is a role which Martin Harvey's genius has made famous, and in which he reaches probably the high-water mark of his art, and the supreme achievement of his long and distinguished career. He invests it with an irresistible pathos and appeal, lends it emotional strength, and lights it with a spiritual beauty that enhances its charm.

Most people have read "A Tale of Two Cities." In the dramatic version the historical coloring of the story is happily preserved, and its interest intensified. The character of Carton stands out as a wonderful study, and as portrayed by Martin Harvey is one of the outstanding stage portraits of our time.

Miss N. de Silva (in private life Lady Martin Harvey) invests the role of little Mimi with an irresistible appeal of pathos, sincerity, and childish charm.

"The Only Way" will be the offering Saturday matinee and evening.

"DAMAGED GOODS" PICTURE SENSATION OF THE YEAR TO BE PRESENTED AT THE GRAND FOR THREE DAYS COMMENCING MONDAY, APRIL 11.

The announcement that the management of the Grand Opera House Theatre have secured as their feature attraction for April 11th, 12th and 13th, Eugene Brieux's great drama, "Damaged Goods," has aroused much interest among theatregoers. Brieux is generally considered as being in the front rank of writers in the school of French realists and "Damaged Goods" is his best known work.

Some years ago, no less a star than Richard Bennett introduced "Damaged Goods" to New York. It at once scored a tremendous hit, not only because of the unconventional story it tells, but because of the wholesome truth it contains. At the conclusion of his New York engagement, Mr. Bennett toured the country and everywhere was well received, "Damaged Goods" being indorsed by nearly all the societies fighting against the social evil. He then produced the seven-reel picture version which is now offered the people of London after being withheld six years.

Theatregoers who are wearied of seeing crude and sensational pictures masquerading under the guise of "morality plays," will greet "Damaged Goods" with undisguised approval, for Brieux does not pose as a moralist. He is merely a writer. In his own candid style he tells his gripping story of everyday life. The hero, a young man, is about to be married. With a guilty fear in his heart for the result of his youthful indiscretions, he receives treatment for a dreadful disease from a "specialist." When pronounced by the quack doctor free from the clutches of this terrible disease, he marries the girl of his heart. What happens after he is married, can only be told by Brieux. The menace of the unfortunate prostitute and a stronger plea for the single code of morality in the life of a man as well as woman has never been more strongly presented.

Organizations combating venereal diseases and the social evil are welcoming teh picturization of "Damaged Goods" as they did the stage version presented by Richard Bennett. The terrible candor and accusing frankness of Eugene Brieux and the inimitable dramatic skill and fineness of this master of French writers, makes "Damaged Goods" one of the most potent allies of every mother who seeks a happy married life for her son or daughter.

"Damaged Goods" while candid, is not a cheap, hastily-built play, nor is it offensive. The name Brieux guarantees that. His art is above the cheap and vulgar. "Damaged Goods" will be at the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 11th, 12th and 13th.

Sir John Martin Harvey, who with his English company, will open a three-day engagement at the Grand, commencing Thursday evening next with "The Breed of the Treshams."

"ROADS OF DESTINY," PICTURE OF GREAT EMOTIONAL CLIMAXES, AND ARTCRAFT SPECIAL, "DANGEROUS HOURS," ON DOUBLE PROGRAM AT ALLEN MONDAY.

Not since "Madame X" has a picture of such overwhelming dramatic intensity as "Roads of Destiny" been presented to the moving picture public. It is a big picture—produced on a big scale, acted by a super cast, which includes John Bowers, Pauline Frederick, Richard Tucker, Grace Darmond, Willard Lewis and M. B. Flynn. When you see it at the Allen Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday on the big double program, you will marvel at its power, and thrill and thrill again to the three great climaxes of the three stories which go to make it the masterpiece it is. From the story by O'Henry.

As an added attraction, Thos. Ince's great Artcraft special, "Dangerous Hours," will also be shown Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. "Dangerous Hours" is a gigantic drama of the most timely interest. Vivid, spectacular, human, it tells of human wolves, crazed by a lust for power and license; of crazed fanatics who nearly destroy an entire city by fire. Of secret plottings of the committee of terror. Big in scenes of daring, stupendous and super-thrilling situations, it is a picture which you'll long remember after it has gone.

A host of added attractions, Rolin Comedy, Allen News and musical novelties will also be on the program.

Charles Ray has created his masterpiece in his wonderful, frolicking, thrilling production, "The Old Swimmin' Hole," which is showing at the Allen next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

REV. ROBERT DOWNING, with Majestic Players. Leading character with "Ten Nights in a Barroom," week of April 4.

Enid Bennett in a scene from the Thomas H. Ince Production "Silk Hosiery" A Paramount Picture.

Feature photoplay attraction at Loew's for three days, commencing Monday next.

The famous banquet table dance from the great photoplay, "Damaged Goods," which opens a three-day engagement at the Grand Monday, April 11.

Allen Opens Vaudeville, With Special Attractions All Next Week, Beginning Monday.

Beginning Monday, Allen Theatre opens vaudeville, with the very special attraction of the famous star act of "The Florida Four," or those boys from harmony land, offering a song revue of the highest quality, and many novelties absolutely new to London theatregoers.

CHARLES RAY CREATES HIS MASTERPIECE IN "THE OLD SWIMMIN' HOLE" WHICH IS COMING TO THE ALLEN NEXT THURSDAY.

Showing at The Allen next Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be Charles Ray in his newest and, by the assurance of everyone who has seen it, his absolutely best production, "The Old Swimmin' Hole."

This newest achievement of Charlie's carries a genuine surprise for screen fans. It's a picture absolutely unique and out of the ordinary, and one that you'll chuckle, and smile over, months and months after you have seen it. "The Old Swimmin' Hole" takes you back to those golden days of the little old school house, and the ole' swimmin' hole down by the dam—days filled with charm, and the glamor of youth. Packed with smiles miles long and a few tears just to even up. That's why it is called Charles Ray's special, and his masterpiece.

Another of those tremendous Christie two-reel comedy screams will be shown entitled: "Shuffle Queens" and there will also be a host of variety offerings.

"THE GIRL OF THE JUNGLE" IS THE TITLE OF THE THIRD EPISODE OF "THE SON OF TARZAN," SHOWING AT THE ALLEN NEXT THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

Faster and faster grows the excitement, greater and greater grow the thrills of that wonder jungle serial, "The Son of Tarzan." The third episode which is shown next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at The Allen, is entitled: "The Girl of the Jungle." In this episode the son of Tarzan now king of the tribe of giant apes, and known as Korak the killer, comes across a band of Arab slave traders, and rescues from their cruelty a dainty little white girl. After many terrible battles, and terrific hardships Korak, Meriam the maid and Akut the giant ape win their way to freedom again.

Thrills, thrills, thrills, there never was a picture which had so many. If you have missed the first or second episodes of this wonder jungle serial you must make it a strong point to see the third chapter, and so start following this greatest of all stories the screen has ever shown.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S GREATEST STORY "KAZAN, SON OF BAREE" NOW COMPLETED IN GIGANTIC FILM PRODUCTION.

Of all the James Oliver Curwood stories, undoubtedly none gained such popular favor as his wonderful romance of Kazan, Son of Baree." The story of that wonder dog, has thrilled countless readers of America and Canada in different magazines, and now that it is produced in moving pictures, all the millions of the continent will want to see the greatest of all animal pictures. It is said by those who have seen the production entitled "Kazan" that the work of the wild animals and the great dog is nothing short of marvellous. Feats are performed which you would think impossible without the direction of a human brain, and thought. Courage, daring, and thrills run rampant through the photoplay, and as "Kazan" was the greatest story ever written by Curwood, so is it the greatest animal picture ever made, barring none.

See it when it comes to The Allen for a special engagement beginning April 11th.

AT LOEW'S.

CHARMING ENID BENNETT COMING TO LOEW'S THEATRE MONDAY NEXT IN HER LATEST SUCCESS, "SILK HOSIERY."

One of the most striking of the many magnificent sets used in "Silk Hosiery," Enid Bennett's latest Paramount feature, which comes to Loew's Theatre for three days, beginning next Monday, is that representing the "Maison Louise," the most ultra of the many ultra smart shops along Fifth avenue. The scheme of decoration is modern in the extreme; a riot of bright colors and the last word in interior decorating.

A model throne, heavily draped in black velvet, is the pivot on which the action turns, and beautiful models appear in rapid succession wearing one fascinating creation after another.

One of the most picturesque costumes is exhibited by Katherine Ridgway, a noted model of Los Angeles. The gown itself is of silver tissue, draped to form a Turkish effect, and adorned with a vivid array as head-dress of ostrich feathers held in place by a chin strap of pearls. A huge fan of the same feathers in emerald hue completes the effect.

"Silk Hosiery" was written by Frank Dazey. It was directed by Fred Niblo under the personal supervision of Thos H. Ince, with George Barnes at the camera.

The added features include a ribtickling Mack Sennett comedy and the ever-popular Loew Screen Pictorial of world current events in pictures. The vaudeville offers Dan and Bertha Makarenko in a brilliant song festival, Lyle and Emerson, in a novel skit, "It Happens Every Day," and Ned Danby presents a melodious farce entitled "Clothes, Clothes, Clothes," as the feature turn. The offering boasts a host of charming misses, some startling clothes creations and tuneful songs.

WINSOME BILLIE BURKE RETURNS TO LOEW'S THURSDAY NEXT IN "THE EDUCATION OF ELIZABETH."

It is as a charming, fun-loving chorus girl who is very real beneath her rouge and powder, that Billie Burke will be seen in her latest Paramount picture, "The Education of Elizabeth," which will be the feature at Loew's Theatre next Thursday. No role Miss Burke has had in recent productions has been better suited to her vivacious and captivating personality than that of Elizabeth Banks of a New York musical revue, in this photoplay.

The heroine meets Thomas Fairfax of an old Colonial family and he wins her consent to their marriage. But first he takes her to the family home to meet his sister, Lucy. Lucy decides that Elizabeth's manners need polishing up before she assumes the name of Fairfax, so she and another brother, Harry, begin to educate the girl. This ends most happily.

Donald Cameron is the leading man. Lumsden Hare, Harold Foshay, Frederick Burton and Edith Shayne are in the cast.

The added film features include a funny Sunshine comic, Loew's pictorial of world events in pictures, and the vaudeville embraces Johnny Clark and company, knockabout comedians; Barlow, Banks, and Gay, in harmony, song, and comedy, and La Coste and Bonawe, in a neat little comedy domestic playlet, entitled "The Tamer."

MAJESTIC.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

For the week commencing April 14, Mr. William Grew, manager of the Majestic Theatre, announces that the Majestic players will be seen in support of the actor evangelist, the Rev. Robert Downing, who will play the role of Joe Morgan in his own starring vehicle of the past three years, "Ten Nights in a Barroom."

Mr. Grew has brought Mr. Downing to London at a great additional expense, but the prices will remain the same. His policy is to give the Majestic patrons the best production of plays that money can buy.

Mr. Downing recently played Toronto at two-dollar prices and the papers there speak very highly of his work. The following is from the Mail and Empire:

"In his portrayal of the reformed inebriate in the revival of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," Mr. Robert Downing achieved a success last night at the Grand Opera House, proving his ability and versatility in playing the role of Joe Morgan, the drunkard. The audience applauded enthusiastically when Mr. Downing referred to the need of greater kindness to the man who had lost his manhood through the evils of intoxicants."

The Evening Telegram says the following: "It's a long time since 'Ten Nights in a Barroom' began its stage career. Its revival attracted to the Grand a large audience. Robert Downing, an actor of note in classic drama, is also an evangelist, and it is in that capacity that he enacts the role of Joe Morgan."

A carload of scenery and electrical effects are being brought in for the play next week and the Majestic patrons will see the finest production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" that money and labor can produce. Secure your seats in advance. They are now on sale.

APPENDICITIS OPERATIONS NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY

Warm Water Properly Applied Cures Many Advanced Cases.

Among the thousands of letters we receive expressing gratitude over restoration to health through the use of the Internal Bath, are many from persons who have been sufferers from appendicitis.

Hundreds of surgical operations for appendicitis have been avoided by reason of the timely employment of the J. B. L. Cascade. Most troubles arise from the accumulation of waste in the colon, or lower intestine, from which poisons are carried to other parts of the system.

Cleansing of the intestinal tract with pure warm water, applied with the J. B. L. Cascade, removes the causes of a large number of common ailments — constipation, indigestion, headache, loss of energy and rheumatism.

Mr. James McLaughlin, 91 Evanston street, Winnipeg, writes: "I bought a J. B. L. Cascade for the cure of a bad case of appendicitis. My doctors told me I must have an operation at once. I had spent more than fifty dollars in doctor bills, but the Cascade completely removed in a few days every trace of soreness and pain. I eat and sleep well now, and have regained my former weight, and am now in perfect health."

A mother from R. R. No. 1, Leamington, Ont., writes: "About two weeks ago our eldest son took sick with cramps in the bowels so bad he could not move. Our doctor gave him hypodermic injections and ordered him to the hospital to be operated on at once. Before doing so, however, I induced him to use the J. B. L. Cascade, and in less than a week he was up and around, and has been well ever since. It has cured me of severe headaches and constipation."

The "J. B. L. Cascade" is being shown and explained at Standard Drug Company, druggists, London.

HEROINE OF LOOS SERVES CUSTOMERS IN BETHUNE STORE

Girl Who Braved Smoke of Battle Does Not Disdain That of Kitchen.

HAS WAR-CROSS RIBBON

Emilienne Moreau Guided the Highlanders in Pursuit of Retreating Germans—Saved Father.

PARIS, April 1.—In the remnants of a street in Bethune, where tin shanties and wooden huts have taken the place of the decent houses which stood there before the war, there is a grocery store which bears on its sign the name "Moreau." Within one can buy a hundred and one things, as is the custom in such stores in France. The shop girl is a young woman with grave eyes and a forehead bound round with long strands of black hair. She has a quiet, good humored efficiency in all she does, and anyone entering the shop casually would remember her with pleasure. On her bodice she wears the tiny green and red ribbon of the French War Cross.

She was the first woman ever to earn such distinction, and she won the name "The Heroine of Loos." At that time the photograph of Emilienne Moreau was in every newspaper in France. She was received by President Poincare, and the British Government gave her a military decoration. Among the heroines of the war she still stands among the first for the courage with which she met danger and the devotion she showed to her family and to the Allied cause.

In her first encounter with the Germans when they entered Loos in 1914 she saved her father when he was about to be executed, with others, on the groundless charge of having fired on the German troops. When he died as the result of the harsh treatment he had suffered, although she was then only 17 years old, she stole planks from the Germans, and with her own hand made a coffin for him when no one else would do so.

Kept Watch From Roof.

During the British attack on Loos in 1915, she sheltered her mother and younger brother and sister in the cellar of their house, but herself kept incessant watch over the fortunes of the battle from the roof.

When, after three days' bombardment, the Highlanders entered the city she was the first to meet them and guide them through the streets after the retreating enemy. Before any ambulance arrived she organized a relief post for the wounded and nursed them herself.

The rest of the war she passed in the army zone with her mother and family, and with the British soldiers in that area the name of Emilienne Moreau was one of the most honored.

It is, thanks to some of them and their officers, that she and her mother have been able to open the shop, which is now theirs. There she serves her customers modestly and simply. A French writer, who has interviewed her in her shop, says of her:

"This great French woman shows by her example that, though one has known the smoke of battle and of glory, one need not disdain that of the kitchen. This young woman, who had every kind of courage, has now that of the model housewife. The lesson is not without beauty."

SCORES MODERN TEACHING PLAN

Educator Says Many Students Never Make Use of What They Learn.

ANN ARBOR, April 1.—Dr. David Snedden of Columbia University paid his respects to the time-worn fetishes and superstitions of the educational curriculum in an address at the Short Term State Teachers' Institute Tuesday. Compulsory courses in algebra, modern languages, Latin and Greek were scored by Dr. Snedden, who declared also that the progressiveness of a school could not be determined by the amount of arithmetic it had discarded.

"We should no more prescribe algebra for all students than we should prescribe quinine for everybody," he declared. "How many girls, for instance, will ever make any use of their knowledge of algebra in their adult life? Yet women's colleges are the most tenacious in mathematical and modern language requirements. They are 20 years behind the men's schools in this respect."

There is appalling waste and chaos in the area of modern language instruction, Dr. Snedden maintained. "If you ask a man of 30 how much he retains of his knowledge of a foreign language you will see that it is practically wasted so far as tangible results are concerned," he said.

Dr. Snedden is not opposed to teaching modern languages or algebra, but he would set the conditions under which they would be studied. Anything short of this is vicious, Dr. Snedden believes, and means an enormous waste of public funds.

In the amount of instruction which should be given in any particular subject, Dr. Snedden declared that there were only two studies in which educators had gotten down to bedrock—spelling and arithmetic.

Since Dr. Snedden believes that the scientific spirit has just begun to permeate education, he suggested that instead of spending $100,000,000 on national education in the Smith-Towner bill, it would be better to go more slowly and begin by appropriating $5,000,000 for educational research.

Dr. Ellwood P. Cubberly of Leland Stanford University discussed a rational state educational organization. He advocated, instead of a state minister of public instruction, a commissioner of education who should have supervisory oversight of private and parochial as well as public schools.

At a conference of the University Bureau of Tests and Measurements on Tuesday night representatives of various cities in the state told how tests had helped them to adapt the course of study to bright, medium and to slow pupils and had resulted in the promotion of many.

Resolutions indorsed by the Association of School Superintendents and School Board Members Tuesday, included, in addition to the indorsing of the anti-fraternity bill, a resolution indorsing the program of the department of public instruction and asking a higher salary for this office. Dr. Burton's building request also was supported.

MODERN PUBLIC HEALTH

(University Extension Board of Western University.)

BY H. W. HILL, M.B., M.D., D.P.H.

Director Institute of Public Health of Western University, London, Ontario, Canada.

A Column Devoted to Public Health in All Phases. Questions Addressed as Above Will Be Welcomed.

TUBERCULOSIS OR PLAIN MAL-NUTRITION.

These two diseases are both characterized by under-nourishment, but the under-nourishment is due to causes almost the converse of one another in the two diseases—plain mal-nutrition, broadly speaking, is due to not getting enough food into the system for the body's wants; the mal-nutrition of tuberculosis, broadly speaking also, is due to using up the body faster than the food can be taken in. The body in tuberculosis is "wasted" by the poisons of the tubercle germ—not as some people imagine in the mere effort to keep the germs fed, but also and chiefly in the effort to make up for the damage done by the products of the tubercle germ. How, then, can we distinguish the plain mal-nutrition of school children from the tuberculosis of school children in the early stages?

FINDING THE TUBERCLE BACILLUS.

This would be conclusive, and in adults is the final sign of tuberculosis, not to be gainsaid. The germ which causes tuberculosis is readily found in the sputum (spit) of adult cases, after the lung begins to break down so that the germs escape to the outside. But in school children, the lungs seldom reach this stage, so that the germs, although present and active in the lungs (as shown at autopsy), do not get out of them, and so cannot be found as a rule, during life. The school child with tuberculosis is, therefore, seldom dangerous to the other children—or to any associate, child or adult for that matter; while, of course, the adult, from whom the germs are escaping, often is—always is, practically speaking, in the advanced stages.

LOSS OF WEIGHT.

Loss of weight is one of the star signs of early tuberculosis in anyone—in children, a stationary weight, or failure to gain at the usual rate proper to their age is equivalent to actual loss of weight in an adult of course. This loss of weight or failure to gain normally occurs in ordinary mal-nutrition too, so by itself does not settle the diagnosis.

THAT TIRED FEELING?

Children with tuberculosis are easily fatigued. They are not lazy—although, poor souls, they are often blamed for laziness—they are really not up to the mark and cannot do physical work as well as they should. They are often bright enough mentally—sometimes unusually bright. It has been said that we owe many of our literary gems to the tubercle bacillus—for these, many of them were produced under the mental stimulation of the tubercle germ poisons—R. L. Stevenson's works for instance.

However, this may be, plain mal-nutrition is characterized by a tired "old man" feeling also; and also such mal-nourished children may be exceptionally bright. So we are stumped again and will have to look further in our search for a difference between tuberculosis and plain mal-nutrition.

AGE AND SEX?

There is not enough difference between the age and sex of those children suffering from tuberculosis and those suffering from plain mal-nutrition to be a real guide or even to help a snap diagnosis—so that won't do.

POVERTY AND RICHES.

How about the worldy wealth of the patient? Can we say off hand that the poor child is more likely to be suffering from mal-nutrition—because he does not get enough to eat; that the rich child is more likely to be suffering from tuberculosis because, though he gets enough to eat, he has tuberculosis to offset the good food? No, this won't do at all. It may sound plausible enough to abeginner; but if we check up the facts we find plenty of plain mal-nutrition amongst the rich children and plenty of tuberculosis amongst the poor ones. In some places, the children of the well-to-do actually have more of both diseases than the children of the poor! Why? Oh that is a long story in itself. Let us get on with the present one.

HOW ABOUT COUGH?

Of course, cough. Now we have something! But wait. Lots of plain mal-nourished children have coughs and lots of tuberculous children have none. Nevertheless a cough that lasts six weeks without any really satisfactory explanation, needs looking into very seriously indeed. The lungs proper may not be affected, but perhaps the glands are—and these may produce a cough, which sometimes is rather like the cough (not the whoop) of whooping cough. (Did you notice that I wrote tuberculous children, not tubercular children? Why? Because, amongst the curious eccentricities of the English language as we use it today, tuberculous means "due to tuberculosis" or "having tuberculosis," while tubercular means merely "covered with little nodules or lumps." A rough-cast house is tubercular, but it is not tuberculous!) So the existence of cough doesn't settle the question between tuberculosis and mal-nutrition, nor the kind of cough, nor the length of it? No, that is true; but it is a pointer that no one should overlook all the same.

EXAMINATION OF THE CHEST?

Well, we are getting warmer all the time in our search, but here again we don't find anything quite conclusive in every case. Of course the chest should be examined—the heart and lungs, particularly the lungs—carefully examined by a skilful physician, patiently and slowly and not through the overcoat either! The little patient's chest must be bared to give the best results—try listening through a stethscope while rubbing the receiver on the thinnest sort of cloth and then you will see how much the friction of clothing even of the lightest on the receiver will mess up the sounds from the lungs. The physician will tap the chest with his fingers also—percuss is the technical word—and this too should be done with the skin bared. He will be especially careful in examining above the collar-bones, for tuberculosis often develops in that part of the lung very early.

WHAT WILL WE FIND?

Sometimes a good deal—and then there will be little doubt that tuberculosis is present. But often, in children especially, tuberculosis may be present, yet the lungs show little sign of it, perhaps because it is not in the lungs themselves, but in the glands about the lungs or elsewhere in the body; perhaps because it is rather deep in the lungs and has not yet reached the surface.

HOW FAR HAVE WE GOT?

Well, perhaps not far. Suppose our underweight child has not shown anything yet but underweight—all the other examinations made have shown nothing. Still we don't yet know for sure if the child is merely mal-nourished or has tuberculosis with mal-nutrition as the natural result.

FEVER?

Now we have something pretty definite. The mal-nourished child who is simply mal-nourished, not tuberculous also, is very unlikely to have constant fever. The child who is tuberculous is very likely to have fever indeed. Here comes in again the careful observation and acuteness of the skilled physician are not as steady-going as are adult's and repeated tests are necessary to show whether or not fever is present and how constant it is. In no disease is the fine scientific conscience of the trained physician, developed over years of undergraduate study and observation, more called into activity than in these examinations of suspected tuberculosis with very little showing in the patient. Repeated examination, careful consideration of everything found, "deep thought" are all required.

CHANCE OF INFECTION.

Of course a child who is associated with a tuberculous adult, father, mother, sister, nurse, or anyone else, at home or elsewhere, can be taken for granted as infected with tuberculosis. The child may not show the infection definitely, but every such child, with loss of weight and fever, is practically certain to be already in the midst of the disease.

There are certain skin tests which can be used and are of value at times; X-ray examinations also help; but the above gives the main points in most cases.

WHY HAVE A PHYSICIAN?

Perhaps you think all the points given above are so simple and direct that anyone can find it all out for themselves without having a skilled diagnostician. Possibly, if there were only two diseases in all the world, tuberculosis and plain mal-nutrition, it might be possible for a very careful, very skilful and very acute man or woman who had no medical training to make something out of the above examinations. But try them yourself and see how little you will be able to find out, never mind how bright you are, without special medical training as well. Just on the matter of weight alone, do you know how to weigh and measure a child? If so do you know how much a child of a given height (and age) should weigh? Do you know about coughs—different kinds and what they mean? Do you know your way about the chest where the lungs are (exactly where I mean—everyone knows they are in the chest somewhere!) Do you know how to find the tips of the lungs above the collar-bones? Do you know how to listen to a chest, when to make the patient cough, when to whisper, and what the different sounds signify? Do you know about percussion, taking temperatures, staining tubercle bacilli, X-rays, tuberculin reactions? Well what do you know about it then Mr. Layman or Mrs. Layman? You could learn all this, if you spent the same years and pains the physician has spent on it—but you haven't done this, so you can't know. Finally tuberculosis and plain mal-nutrition are far from being the only two diseases in the world. At every step of the examination above sketched in outline, the physician is not only watching for the difference between plain mal-nutrition and tuberculosis, but also he must take into account very many other diseases, diseases which are neither tuberculosis nor mal-nourishment, but that may be present just the same. Then when all this finding out is done, still the treatment is to be given—and then comes in your skilled physician again.

WHAT DO YOU WANT US TO DO?

Well just this—if you have an under-nourished child in your home, don't be too sure that plain mal-nutrition is the whole story. Have the under-nourished child examined carefully. Very often plain mal-nutrition will account for all of it—but very often also tuberculosis or even worse things may be the real reason.

SHIMMY MUST GO, CLARKSTON EDICT

City Folks Can't Abuse Oakland Town's Hospitality.

PONTIAC, Mich., March 31. — You mustn't shimmy in Clarkston.

The little village on the improved roads north of Pontiac has risen in wrath against the abuses of the modern dance as exemplified by city folks who come there to take part in weekly dances staged by out of town committees. Complaints have been frequent during the latter part of the winter, ing and what they have seen has aroused them to the point where they threaten to have the law on someone.

"We've got to make an example of some of these people," is the official expression of Clarkston. "We can't spend our time watching them dance. They behave if they know we are there, but as soon as we are gone, we begin to get complaints from women of Clarkston. The dance that seems to offend most is the shimmy."

There have been a number of dancing parties held in Clarkston this winter, because of its easy access by automobile from Pontiac, and the villagers say that some of the folks who attend are not of the sort they like to welcome.

HAD BAD COUGH FOR THREE YEARS

The constant hacking, racking, persistent cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is the kind that is dangerous.

The longer the cough sticks, the more serious menace it becomes to your health.

There is no remedy that will relieve coughs—coughs that won't let go—like Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

It has a healing and soothing action on the air passages, and at the same time acts as a disinfectant of the respiratory organs, destroying the germs that produce serious lung complications.

Mrs. John Miller, Minburn, Alta., writes: "I had a very bad cough for three years. I went to several doctors and tried different cough medicines, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend told me about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using several bottles I became completely relieved. I always keep a bottle in the house, and also recommend it to others.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has been universally used for over 30 years, and so great has been its success, it is only natural that a great many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; 3 pine trees the trade mark; price 35c and 60c a bottle; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited.

TEMPERANCE

GOVERNMENT CONTROL

The Citizen's Liberty League is an organization comprising men of highest standing in the professional and business life of the Province,—men who are not interested either directly or indirectly in the manufacture or sale of liquor, and whose demonstrated integrity and sincerity afford sufficient guarantee as to unselfishness of motive. The members of the League are devoting their whole effort towards obtaining what they conscientiously feel will prove the soundest solution of Ontario's liquor problem—viz., Government control.

By placing the responsibility entirely in the hands of the Government, the people of Ontario may rest assured that the sale of alcoholic beverages will be safeguarded and regulated in every direction consistent with life in a democratic country.

The League's views on temperance and its attainment are embodied in the Memorial here reproduced, which every serious-minded man and woman is asked to study with deliberation before making any decision.

Signatures are being obtained throughout the Province for the following Memorial, which is to be presented to the Ontario Government. Copies can be obtained from the Secretary, 104 Mail and Empire Bldg., Toronto.

A Memorial

To the Honorable the Premier of the Province of Ontario

We, the undersigned residents of the Province of Ontario, believers in temperance and moderation in all things, hereby desire to express our very grave concern at the prospect of any legislative enactment being placed upon the Statute Book of this Province which will not be binding upon the conscience of a great mass of the people and must be enforced by excessive penalties with armed inspectors and an army of spies and informers.

Many serious-minded and well-informed citizens, including ministers of the gospel and men holding the highest positions in the community, while fully appreciating the material benefits which might be gained from the total prohibition of the sale of liquor, agree with the view that there is a proper limit to interference by the State with individual conduct. They believe that a temperance country can be more surely obtained by evolution, than by legislation and that total prohibition is inconsistent with true temperance and opposed to Christian morality, which is based not upon the manufacture of new crimes for punishment but on the stronger force of love.

Democracy sprang from a desire for individual liberty. Stabilized democracy depends upon the security of individual liberties properly used. There can be no security for the observance of a law dictating what men should eat or drink unless it has the support of a substantial majority not merely of those voting on a Referendum, but of all the people in the Province whose support is necessary. Especially is this true when the prohibitory forces are highly organized at the polls. If one law is not enforced, all law is brought into contempt and democracy itself may be imperilled.

It is a fundamental of democratic government that things innocent in themselves should be regulated against abuse, not prohibited. It is well recognized in law that a municipality cannot extend a mere power to regulate into a power to prohibit. If past generations allowed the open bar to become a menace, that is no reason why we should shirk the difficult duty of making wise regulations to govern the liquor traffic, and blindly throw to the winds an elementary principle which has hitherto been considered a necessary safeguard to democratic civilization.

We believe that the cause of Christian temperance and of stabilized democracy can best be served,—

(1) By Government control of the sale of spirituous liquors, and, if necessary, a wisely devised licensing of individuals to purchase spirituous liquors.

(2) By the treatment of those who have not the strength to take care of themselves under such conditions, as patients, not as criminals.

(3) By permission to purchase beer and wines under a system to be devised by the Government, thus minimizing the evil of illicit stills and the illegal sale of spirituous liquors and drugs. We are not advocating a return to the "open bar."

(4) By the formation of a voluntary organization similar to the Blue Ribbon Army in Great Britain, whereby all available energies and funds may be devoted to the promotion of true temperance by education and example.

We ask that you provide a means for an expression of opinion on the question of Government control.

We further ask that the Ontario Temperance Act be amended as above, so that the conscientious scruples, rights and liberties of the people of this Province may be fully protected against an organized minority, and accused persons shall not be deprived, as they are now, of the sacred right of every British subject to be considered innocent until he is found to be guilty.

Total prohibition is as unnecessary in Ontario as it is unethical and impracticable and you are urged to stand by the League in their fight for

WAS CONFESSION THE RESULT OF HALLUCINATION?

No Evidence Whatever So Far To Support Poisoning.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

MITCHELL, April 1.—That no trace of strychnine was found in the body of Daniel Hastings after the stomach had been sent to Toronto, was the evidence of Dr. Adolph Smith of Mitchell at the inquest at Dublin today into the death of Daniel Hastings, whose wife declares she gave him tablets. Dr. Smith and Dr. Murray performed the post-mortem examination. The stomach had been sent to Toronto for analysis. The report was not ready for today's sitting, and, as a result, the inquest could not be concluded, and an adjournment was made until April 12.

Dr. Smith stated that a slight congestion of the lungs, causing adhesion of the tissues, existed, which might have some bearing on the case. The report of the analysts on the stomach, however, would definitely settle the point.

Daughter is Called.

The witnesses today included Mary Hastings, daughter of deceased, County Constable Ingram, to whom the confession was made, and two neighbors, John Kenney and Mrs. Darling. There was nothing in today's evidence to support the poisoning story of Mrs. Hastings. Coroner Armstrong presided.

W. S. Gormley, undertaker, who prepared the remains for burial, told of being called to the Hastings home on Monday night at 1 p.m. He found body lying in bed. There was no appearance of convulsion. There was discussion as to the cause of death.

Doctor's Evidence.

Dr. A. S. Murray of Mitchell told of being called to the Hastings home. He was told that Mr. Hastings had died ten minutes prior to his arrival. The body was in bed. The bed clothes were over him and unruffled. He face was pallid and peaceful-looking. The eyes of his eyes were normal and his features were not distorted. There was every evidence of his having died a peaceful death. No marks of violence were evident, so far as a superficial examination showed.

Witness said he asked the cause of death and Mrs. Hastings produced a bottle of medicine, saying her husband had been doctoring for bronchitis. She said he had been taking the contents of the bottle time. The bottle was almost empty. A handkerchief was tied about the neck.

Witness said nothing to give any indication of poisoning," said the witness.

"What would have been evident had there been poisoning?" asked the coroner.

"There would have been evidence of violent death. His face would have been contorted, according to the poison, and limbs he had been carefully laid out after death, but as some of the neighbors had been in the house, this was not likely."

"Mrs. Hastings gave you no indication that he met a violent death?"

"No."

Witness then told of Mrs. Hastings' confession.

The Confession.

The confession was produced as follows:

"Mr. Hastings was away ten years in British Columbia and has been home 10 years. All that time he abused me and beat my mother, and he was so contrary and ugly around the house that I could not stand it any longer. I asked $400 of money which Mr. Hastings had in the bank in my name unknown to him, and when we bought a farm lately and had to pay for it, I was afraid that he would find out that the money was spent and that he would beat me. Monday evening I gave Mr. Hastings two strychnine tablets about 6 o'clock before he went to bed. He took sick about 10:30 and died at 11.

"Mr. Hastings said he had a bad pain in his head. He sat up in bed and asked me to bathe his head with water. He twitched his arm once and laid down. He lost consciousness and died before the doctor arrived at 11 o'clock. I declare before God that I think I am guilty of his death.

"I make this confession of my own free will without fear or favor and without the promise of reward of leniency."—Mrs. Catharine Hastings, dated Mitchell, March 24.

The confession was written by Dr. Murray and signed by Mrs. Hastings in the presence of Constable Ingram and H. C. Richardson, her lawyer.

Was Much Excited.

Dr. Murray said Mrs. Hastings was quite excited at the time of her confession. She asked that she be leniently treated and be not hanged.

While Mrs. Hastings stated she had given her husband only two tablets, Dr. Murray asserted that it would usually require at least 15 thirtieth grain tablets or half a grain of strychnine to cause the death of a man of Mr. Hastings' built. All the inner organs of the deceased were normal, he said, except a slight thickening of the lower chamber of the heart, a congestion of the lung and a slight adhesion to the walls of the chest. This latter, he said, appeared chronic. He believed deceased had suffered from a chronic lung process.

"There was nothing to indicate sudden demise or the action of strychnine," he declared.

Found No Evidence.

"Did you find any definite indication of strychnine poisoning?" asked H. Richardson.

"No."

Dr. Smith, who assisted in the post-mortem, corroborated the statement of Dr. Murray that no evidence of strychnine was found.

John Kenny of Logan said deceased left his home about 9 p.m. in his usual health. He knew Hastings had been taking medicine for a cold. He knew Mrs. Hastings, and did not know her to suffer from hallucinations, and never heard of any trouble between them.

Alex Darling was at the Hastings' home before deceased died, but was not there when death came. When he saw deceased he was quite peaceful. There were no convulsions. When he left he did not know whether death was expected. Deceased face and lips seemed normal.

That Mrs. Hastings had $1,116.25 in the bank when her husband returned from the West, but only $302.78 now is stated by F. McConnell, manager of the Standard Bank at Dublin. From the vouchers, however, he felt that the money was wisely spent.

Knew of No Trouble.

Mrs. Alex Darling was called to the Hastings home by deceased's daughter, who said her father was dying. "Mr. Hastings appeared quite peaceful," she said. "Nothing was said by Mr. Hastings about medicine or strychnine. I was there until he died. There were no convulsions. His death was peaceful. I have not known of any disagreement in the home. All was harmonious."

Mary Hastings, aged 15, daughter of deceased, said her father took ill soon after he went to bed. Her mother was with him and sent her to the neighbors. Her father did not make any complaint. "He asked my sister and me to say a prayer for him and not to forget him," said the little girl. Apparently he was trying to get his breath and said he was all in. Witness said her father took his medicine before retiring.

This concluded the evidence, and an adjournment was made.

AUDITOR GIVES OPERATING COSTS OF RADIAL LINES

Valuable Figures Given Before Royal Commission Investigating Hydro.

TORONTO, April 1.—Charles Cheval, auditor of the National Railway Company, which operates several electric lines between Buffalo, Tonawanda and Niagara Falls, N.Y., giving evidence today before the royal commission inquiring into the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission's radial railway projects, stated that it had cost $225,000 per mile of 17.7 miles of railway between Buffalo and Niagara Falls, N.Y. Of this $180,000 was for right-of-way and structures. The right-of-way, he said, was sixty-six feet wide; the road was double-tracked all the way, and between Buffalo and Tonawanda there were seven tracks, and between Tonawanda and Niagara Falls, four tracks.

Much Higher Now.

The operating ratio of the lines last year, Mr. Cheval said, was 85.3 per cent including taxes, whereas in 1918 it was $1.27. Advances in wages had caused the increase. Regular quarterly dividends had been paid up to April 1, 1918, one per cent being the last dividend. "Then things commenced to go badly," Mr. Cheval said. "Since then, notwithstanding our high speed line, we have declared no dividends, although we hope to soon."

Following a recommendation of the state public service commission, the company put aside $866,000 cash in 1920 for depreciation, but the commission had recommended putting aside four per cent of the value of the depreciable assets, which was not done. This would have meant $149,000 more, Mr. Cheval said. The sinking fund had been accumulating since 1912, the witness said, at the rate of $150,000 per annum.

Charge Low Rate.

According to Mr. Cheval a low rate is charged on the National Railway lines. For a book containing thirty commutation tickets, he stated, the charge was $8, which worked out at 26c per round trip, or one-half cent a mile. For the year ending June 1, 1918, Mr. Cheval stated, their old line to Niagara Falls carried 4,239,018 passengers. During the next year a new high speed line was put into operation, both lines for the next year carrying an increase of 722,558 passengers, although the two lines operated in competition, and were never more than two miles apart.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

OSHAWA, April 1.—Charles Franklin Farwell, K.C., of Harmony, Ont., a former member of the Ontario Legislature, shot himself through the brain in this town on Wednesday. Coroner Hoig decided that an inquest was not necessary. The deceased had been playing cards with friends at a club shortly before committing the deed.

HUGE "DRY" VOTE IS CERTAIN IN RURAL DISTRICT

Careful Survey Shows That Western Ontario Is Against Booze.

CITIES ARE DOUBTFUL

Heavy Circularization by the Liquor Firms Stirring Up Women Voters.

A careful survey of the outlook in connection with the referendum vote in Western Ontario indicates that in the rural districts there will be a huge "dry" majority. In the towns and villages the same result is looked for. Recent Heavy circularizing in many towns and in the country by liquor firms has, it is stated, proved a help to temperance workers, stirring up many voters, especially among the women, and making them doubly certain of going to voting places. In the cities the vote is expected to be much as in former campaigns, that is, more strongly in favor of the "wets." The deciding factor in the campaign will undoubtedly be the rural vote, and the temperance workers have the entire territory splendidly organized, and a very large vote is certain.

COULD NOT GET MANAGER.

[Special To The Advertiser.]

ST. MARYS, April 1.—Up to tonight more than 150 names had been added to the voters' lists in connection with the coming referendum. There is little doubt that St. Marys and the whole district will give a big majority in favor of the "dry" movement. A representative of the Liberty League who was here recently endeavoring to get a branch started failed to find anyone who would undertake the management, despite the offer, it is stated, of a liberal remuneration. The offer was taken up with several returned men, it was stated to The Advertiser, but they turned it down flat.

STRONGLY ORGANIZED.

CLINTON, April 1.—As the "dry" campaign enters its final lap, indications point more strongly every day to a sweeping "dry" victory all through this district. Temperance forces are strongly organized, but are not taking any chances, and are seeing to it that every voter's name is one the lists. There is little doubt of the verdict as far as Huron County is concerned.

PREDICT SWEEPING VICTORY.

WINDSOR, April 1.—Despite the reputation the border district has won recently in connection with the liquor traffic, a sweeping victory for the "drys" is expected, as far as the county of Essex is concerned. Out in the country districts the sentiment seems to be practically unanimous against the liquor traffic. The temperance workers of Essex have been busy, very busy, and the results of their efforts and of public sentiment generally will be apparent on April 18.

HIDDEN IN POWDER.

KITCHENER, April 1.—This afternoon a Kitchener merchant was unloading a truckload of "sweeping powder" when the license inspector drove up and sampled it. In all, there were an even dozen barrels of the "powder," each containing, it is alleged, a ten-gallon keg of whiskey, and valued at $1,200. The shipment was seized and immediately placed aboard the train and sent to the laboratory in Toronto.

The owner of the shipment may have to explain to the judge why he uses such expensive sweeping power in his business.

CAMPAIGN WARMING UP.

TILLSONBURG, April 1.—The local referendum committee, united with the W. C. T. U., began an active campaign, which will be carried through with persistent vigor until April 18, with hardly any doubt that Tillsonburg for several reasons will turn in a big "dry" majority. Autos were brought into the campaign today, and every available vote will be registered with the local officers before closing time Saturday evening. In the meantime the local postoffice is being flooded with whiskey circulars from Montreal offering greatly reduced prices.

SHOWING BIG INCREASE.

SARNIA, April 1.—The court of revision on the voters' lists to be used in the referendum closes Saturday night. Today there was a noticeable increase in the attendance of electors to ascertain if their names were on the voters' lists, and if not to make application for their entry.

In connection with the advance polls to be opened here from 7 to 10 o'clock on the evenings of April 14, 15 and 16 to allow railway employees, sailors and commercial travelers who expect to be out of the city on the regular polling day to make their ballots, Sheriff Johnston, chief returning officer, points out that according to the act electors who come under the above classification must first obtain certificates from the chief returning officer before they can vote. For that purpose, Sheriff Johnston will be in his office on the evenings of April 14, 15 and 16. They can also be obtained from him any day after the revised lists are turned in. The advanced polls will be opened in the city hall.

"I Am So Tired, Dearie"

IN the recent Advertising Contest the question was asked, "For what is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food most frequently used?"

And the answer in the great majority of cases was: "I have found on inquiry among my friends that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is most used by women who have their own housework to do and small children to look after.

"When tired and wornout by the continuous monotony of household duties and the care of small children the nerves in time play out and then it is that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves the good friend in time of need."

Mrs. W. German, 213 Park street, Brockville, Ont., writes: "After the birth of my boy I became so weak and gradually lost weight. I was unable to do my work and was in misery because I could not sleep. My nerves would twitch and jump and I would get up in the mornings with tired, aching limbs and aching head. My heart was so weak that it would palpitate at times, and I became greatly discouraged.

"Following personal advice from friends, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and took altogether 12 boxes. I wish you could see how well I am now and how I am enjoying life."

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In 1 Week's Time In Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa. Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." It is sold in this city by all good druggists, including Strong's Drug Store or Standard Drug Stores.

Seasonable Pointers For Farmers

Seed Yields in Mangels--- Some Interesting Results

The Seed Roots Should Be Planted Early To Secure Large Crops—Richness of Land Is Also an Important Factor and Fertilizers Should Be Used.

During the last few years many of the Dominion experimental farms, particularly in the east and in British Columbia, have been engaged in mangel seed growing on quite an extensive scale, and many observations have been made as to under what conditions the heaviest seed crops may be expected.

It goes without saying that the first condition for profitable seed crops is the use of vigorous and perfectly sound roots. Their size is of minor importance, which is evident by the fact that, where mangel seed is produced extensively for the trade, small roots, one to two inches in diameter, are generally preferred to larger ones.

Of great importance is early planting of the seed roots. The earlier the roots are planted out in the spring, the larger seed crops may be realized. Several years' observations have convinced us that the seed roots should be planted out as soon as the ground can be worked, even if it should be somewhat cool. In fact, planting in cool, damp soil often seems to be preferable to planting in warmer soil, particularly if the roots have been stored in a cellar during the winter, and have come through somewhat lacking in crispness. They will, if planted early, have a most beneficial chance of regaining their crispness and therewith their full vigor before they begin to throw out seed stalks in earnest.

An Important Factor.

Besides early planting, richness of the land is a most important factor, influencing the size of the seed yields. Since 1915 a few experiments have been conducted with a view of ascertaining the influence of the state of fertility of field in soil on the seed yields. The first experiment, which was conducted on a rather small scale, clearly brought out that a heavy application of manure or an application of a complete fertilizer very materially increased the yield. A following more extensive experiment, in which different rates and combinations of manure and artificial fertilizers were applied brought out that, while either manure or a complete fertilizer greatly increased the seed yields when applied alone, the heaviest seed crops may be secured if the land is heavily manured and in that addition is given a liberal dressing of a complete fertilizer.

Rich Soil the Best.

Most striking evidence bearing on the all-important influence of rich soil on the yield of mangel seed was gathered last year at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Half an acre was planted to mangel seed on rich land, which the previous year had been used as a pig run. The roots were all perfectly sound and in best possible condition, so that full stand of vigorous seed producing plants was secured. This half acre yielded 1,020 pounds of first-class, recleaned seed; i.e., at a rate of over 2,000 pounds per acre. And yet, a considerable quantity of seed was lost on account of a hailstorm when the seed crop was in stooks. Had no loss been suffered from this cause and from shattering before stooking the yield would probably have been at the rate of close to 2,500 pounds to the acre.—M. O. Malte, Dominion agrostologist.

POTATO CERTIFICATION.

During the season of 1920, 7,613 acres of potatoes were inspected by inspectors of the division of botany, experimental farms branch. Of this number 2,850¾ acres were, on account of the general freedom from disease and excellent condition of the growing crops, classified as Grade No. 1, and, subject to a further inspection of the tubers after harvest, these crops were considered to be worthy of certification for seed purposes. Again, of the total inspected, 1,105 acres were found to be so reasonably free from disease as to warrant their certification as Grade No. 2 subject to tuber inspection. The presence, however, of a considerable amount of rot in the tubers at harvest time, owing chiefly to the general prevalence of late blight in 1920, appreciably reduced the amount of seed which would otherwise have attained the standard of certification. Notwithstanding this, it has been recently ascertained that in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba there is a total of approximately 120,000 bags of seed of several varieties of potatoes, from fields which passed field inspection, available for sale as certified seed this spring, subject to final inspection at shipping points.

Further particulars with regard to the exact location of this seed and the available quantities and varieties in any given district may be obtained from the markets division, seed branch, Ottawa.

The system and methods adopted in the work of inspection and certification were given in detail in the press some months ago. Growers who are not already familiar with the system may obtain information by writing to the Division of Botany, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, for a circular on the subject.

The work will be continued this year along the same lines as in previous years, and all prospective growers of seed potatoes who may be interested and desirous of participating in the benefits of the inspection, which is carried out free of charge, are invited to make application to the division of botany as early in the season as possible.—George Partridge, assistant plant pathologist.

Brown Rot Most Serious Enemy of the Orchardist

Attacks Apples, Apricots, Pears and Quinces, But Is Most Destructive On Plums and Cherries — This Pest Can Be Controlled If Proper Precautions Are Taken.

Brown rot is one of the most serious fungous diseases of the orchard. It is most destructive on plums and cherries. Peaches in Canada are usually not seriously affected. Brown rot may also occur on apples, apricots, pears and quinces. In addition to the damage done by brown rot in the orchard, it is the most important rot of the fruits above mentioned, while they are in transit or on the market. Losses in the orchard result from the following: In cherries from blighting of the blossoms, and rotting of the green, half-ripe or ripe fruit; in plums from blossom blight, rotting of the ripening fruits, and occasionally blighting of the twigs; in peaches and apricots from blosom blight, twig blight, rotting of the ripening fruit and as an important primary cause of pecch canker; in apples and pears occasionally causing a rot of the ripening fruit.

How Fungus Spreads.

The fungus causing brown rot hibernates in many places in the orchard. It may live over in the blighted twigs and cankers or in the hanging and fallen mummified fruits. From all these sources there is an abundant production of spores in the spring. These are wind-blown. The important factors which determine a destructive attack of brown rot are high humidity and temperature. Twenty-four hours more or less of these air conditions which are suitable for spore germination lead to widespread rotting of the fruit if it is in the susceptible stage. The grower can probably not eliminate enough of the overwintering material to effect adequate protection by this method alone. However, it is advised that blighted twigs and hanging mummies be removed from the trees before the buds start and that the fallen mummies be plowed under otherwise removed. All this material should be removed from the orchard or burned.

Methods of Control.

In addition to such eradication measures spraying will furnish fair protection against brown rot. Spraying the fruit while it is ripening, has been objectionable because it could not be marketed in a stained condition. Dusting with sulphur may furnish a means of making a late application which will protect the fruit in its most susceptible condition, while it is ripening and in transit. The public would then need to be educated to receive such fruit. Spraying for brown rot in cherries and plums should approximate the following schedule: Lime sulphur 1-40, first application just before the blossoms open to prevent blossom blight, second application just after the shucks have fallen and before the fruit enlarges to more than half size, third application just as the fruit begins to color. The insecticide should be added to these spray applications. For brown rot in peaches lime sulphur must not be used because it will burn the leaves. Self-boiled (not home-boiled) lime and sulphur of the formula 8-8-50; that is, eight pounds of stone lime, eight pounds of sulphur, and after this has been thoroughly mixed, while the lime is slaking it is made up to fifty gallons by adding water. Make three applications, first just after the blossoms fall, second about three weeks later and third about one month before the fruit will be ripe. Lead arsenate, 2 pounds to 50 gallons, should be added to these spray applications to control curculio. Late applications of sulphur and arsenate of lead dust (90-10) should be experimented with on susceptible varieties.—W. H. Rankin.

Essentials in Making a Good Poultryman

One Must Have a Liking for the Work and Exercise Care in Management—Business Ability and Honesty Are Other Essentials to Success.

Not every person will succeed in aviculture any more than they will succeed in any other business. There are certain qualifications that should be present to assure success. Those that refer to plant, equipment, location, etc., have been dealt with already, but those personal qualifications that are required in the manager might be considered here.

It is well to have a liking for the work. This may not always be a natural inclination for in many cases it is acquired. But if a person dislikes the work he will not be likely to make a success of it.

CAREFUL MANAGEMENT.

The manager must be careful. There is a lot of small detail about poultry keeping that, if neglected, means failure. Many persons see bright prospects ahead they enter the business and do well for a time, but they are too careless to see to these numerous small things, and before long they are out of the business and are fond of declaring that "poultry doesn't pay." The fault is not with the poultry any more than it is the fault of the grocery when the grocer fails. The fault is with the man who was careless enough to allow the filth and vermin to accumulate till there was no more business.

The poultry business demands neatness. It is rather a mussy job, and if one allows the refuse to gather there will be trouble so to be clear of this, one should be naturally tidy.

Economy is another essential that makes for success. Aviculture is a business of small things, and if the strictest economy is not practiced, the small losses will one by one spell ruin. Economy must be the rule in buying, in feeding, in selling; the fact, in everything one does.

ABSOLUTE HONESTY ESSENTIAL.

Absolute honesty is essential in a good poultryman. He may have all the other qualifications that go to make a successful manager, but if he is dishonest he is not wanted. Dishonest practices have done much to hurt the poultry business, and those who wish the best for the industry will be determined that dishonest dealings will not be countenanced and that the produce or stock will be just as represented.

Business ability is highly necessary for reasons already given. The poultryman should have a certain amount of business ability he should at least study the question from a business man's standpoint. This qualification, of course, includes all that has preceded. It must not be thought, however, that for a person to go into poultry at all he must be a finished business man, for that only comes with practice but the youngest person should aim at this, and it is doubtful if there are many things that will give a young person the training in business principles that looking after a flock of poultry will. Try it on one of the boys or girls and see how it works out.

The essentials to make a good poultryman are just the same as go to make a good business man in any other line. He is made just the same way. He starts at the bottom and works up. He knows how to manage a small concern before he tries a larger.

FEEDING YOUNG TURKEYS.

It is sometimes necessary to feed the young turkeys by hand as they cannot eat like chicks. A good plan is to keep a few chicks among them, just to show them how to eat. Later on, they eat like gluttons. They should never be well fed during the first days, but should only receive a little food at a time. They should never be heard, as they only cry when hungry. They should have regularly from four to six light meals a day until six weeks old.

For the first few days, the feed of young birds may consist of semi-dry mash made of hard-boiled eggs, boiled rice, greens, etc., the whole being cut fine and mixed with bread crumbs, bran or oatmeal, stirred in milk. This feed is first given to them in the hollow of the hand, and later on small boards or flat surfaces. After the fifth day, the eggs and bread are gradually suppressed and such as onion tops, nettle leaves, tender grasses, chopped lettuce, in the way of green feed and one more of the following: bran, shorts, low grade flour, barley or boiled oats added to the ration. The feed is given as a mash, mixed fairly dry with whey or curdled milk.

"SHOOTING THE RED."

The caruncles and fleshy part which surround the lower part of the head and throat develop at the age of two months. This is a critical time during the life of the young bird and lasts from two weeks to three weeks. During this time it is absolutely necessary to keep them out of the wet draughts and to have their coops dry. They also should be liberally fed and stimulating food such as chopped onions, garlic or nettle mash mixed with ground meal or hemp seed, and in this mixture there might be added a little mustard or pepper and in the drinking water a little sulphate of iron may be put.

The following formula is sometimes recommended as a stimulant for this period. All the ingredients should be ground to a fine powder: cinnamon, 15 grams; ginger, 60 grams; geniat, 5 grams; iron carbonate, 25 grams. It should be given about fifteen days before "Shooting the Red," at the rate of a teaspoonful for ten young ones; it should be added to the mash morning and night. When this critical stage is passed the poults are extremely hardy and may be allowed more liberty and will get along with less care from the attendant.

Spraying Fruit Trees Successful Grower's Duty

Spraying Is Not Compulsory in Middlesex County, But By law May Be Adopted—This Operation Guards Against the Increase of Pests and Saves Valuable Food.

The spraying of fruit trees of all descriptions is one of the most important duties of the successful grower. The neglect of this precaution is the principal cause of the ravages of insect fungus pests in the orchard and the consequent waste which goes on from year to year. The usual periods for spraying, as every horticulturist knows, is at the opening of the leaf buds, the opening of the fruit blossoms and at the falling of the petals from the fruit blossoms.

In the most of the states of the American Union the spraying of fruit trees is compulsory, and if this essential is neglected, the state or county agent has the power to have the spraying done and charge the cost to the owner of the orchard. There is also in Canada an act which if put in force compels the owners of fruit trees to keep them free from insects and fungoid trouble, but the operation of this law depends upon local option. Its adoption in any district depends upon the people themselves and the result is that comparatively little spraying is done by the larger and more advanced fruit growers.

Cost of Outfits.

There is no doubt that the high cost of efficient spraying outfits and the rise in the prices of all kinds of chemicals and other materials used in the operation, puts spraying beyond the reach of the owners of small orchards or gardens, and it would be an excellent thing if the proprietors of such places could co-operate in getting their bushes and trees treated by some plan such as engaging a qualified man to carry out the necessary work. Once the idea is grasped that the spraying of fruit trees is not only a desirable but a truly essential operation, it ought to be worth while for a man who knows the work to make a good living by contracting to do it by the day or otherwise.

It ought not to be beyond the scope of the Ontario department of agriculture to afford facilities in this direction; at least the department could do a great deal to encourage it.

EXTREME MISERY DAY AND NIGHT

Follows a Breakdown of the Nervous System.

Misery day and night is the lot of hosts of men and women who are today the victims of weak nerves. Thin, pale, drawn faces and dejected attitude tell a sad tale, for nervous weakness means being tortured by morbid thoughts and unaccountable fits of depression. These sufferers are painfully sensitive and easily agitated by some chance remark. Sleeplessness robs them of energy and strength; their eyes are sunken and their limbs tremble; appetite is poor and memory often fails. This nervous exhaustion is one of the most serious evils affecting men and women of today. The only way to bring back sound, vigorous health is to feed the starved nerves, which are clamoring for better blood. This new blood can be had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which have a direct action on the blood, and through the blood on the nervous system. That a fair use of this medicine will bring satisfactory results is shown by the experience of Mrs. Marsh, Bass River, N. S., who says: "Following a run-down condition, I became practically a nervous wreck. The doctor who was called in said the trouble was inflammation of the nerves. It grew so bad that practically I had no control of my lower limbs, and had to go about with crutches. Quite aside from my suffering, I had a small family and a baby in arms to care for, and I became much discouraged, as I did not appear to be growing better. One evening my husband met an aged doctor on the street and told him of my condition. He asked my husband who was attending me, and when told, said: 'I don't want to interfere, but why not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills?' My husband got me a supply of these pills, and after taking a few boxes I was able to go about with the use of one crutch. Continuing the use of the pills I was able to discard the other crutch as well, and was as active as ever I had been. There are many in this neighborhood who know what my condition was when I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and who know what this medicine did for me, and I hope my experience may help some other sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

PARIS WAR LIBRARY LARGEST IN WORLD

More Than 100,000 Volumes Already Collected in Temporary Quarters.

PARIS, April 1.—France's library of books and manuscripts dealing with the origin, history and the results of the great war promises to be the largest of its kind in the world, already numbering more than 100,000 volumes, with almost as many pamphlets, leaflets and posters, according to the directors of the Musee de la Guerre, whose temporary quarters are already so filled that it is no longer possible for them to accommodate the reading public who seek the place. It is now intended to ask for an allowance from the government to construct a special building which will contain nearly five miles of shelves and the establishment of an accurate catalogue system for the benefit of coming generations.

Already more than 15,000 donations to the library have been received, and scores of cases filled with costly war records still are unopened, while a notable collection of war photographs and paintings, sufficient to fill a dozen galleries, has been promised. Authors from all the allied nations have presented some of their works to the library, even Russian refugees donating manuscripts of the Bolshevist regime—manuscripts which in future years will be of inestimable value.

So great is the documentation of soviet affairs that, despite Moscow's efforts to suppress the truth, one French writer was said to have obtained in the library sufficient material to enable him to write a serious political study of Russia containing more than 5,000 pages, not needing to refer to any other source than the museum's collection Sorbonne professors and students are constantly obtaining information from the library.

Duplicate volumes, it is understood, probably will be offered to the Louvain library and to the national libraries of the United States, Great Britain and Italy.

SOME COTTON FABRICS.

The variety of cotton cloth is almost endless and increases year by year, but some of the standard kinds of cotton and their appropriate uses are easily learned by the inexperienced purchaser. Gingham, calico, chambray, percale and print are all common household words, and most women know what they mean in cloth, though few know the actual differences of one from another.

Gingham comes from a French word and means a cotton cloth that is dyed in the yarn before it is woven. It is used for aprons or for house dresses, and comes in plain colors, stripes or plaids. New plaid ginghams have been made very fine and beautiful.

Calico is an East India word and means a plain white cloth upon which designs in color are printed. It is really the same as print.

Percale is a French word and means a closely woven fabric. It is usually white with little spots or thin stripes printed on it. Like calico, percale is excellent for aprons and if of good quality is good enough for house dresses for hard wear. Chambray comes in plain shades of many colors. It is soft in texture and color and very useful and becoming for house dresses and for children's clothes, rompers for the little ones and frocks for the girls from five to ten. It is woven with one color in warp and white filling and has therefore a white selvedge.

CRUELTY IN CHILDREN.

The one case where physical punishment seems just and necessary for children is where a child is inflicting physical pain upon someone weaker than himself. The normal child takes a certain pleasure in teasing and tormenting animals, younger children, and, if he feels he dare, servants. It is a part of his instinct for power, and is not cruelty in the grown-up sense, for the child does not in the least realize the pain he is inflicting; he merely loves the sense of power, being human. The one way of making him understand what he is doing is to inflict promptly as possible the same pain upon himself.

It is of the utmost importance to check this tendency toward cruelty; out of it issues much later sin and suffering. But it must be done with care that the child does understand it. As with grown-up individuals, and with nations, half the awful cruelty in the world is caused by stupidity, by lack of imagination, by inability to put one's self in the other person's position and appreciate what one does to him.

When parents can teach children to be kind, teach them to inflict no pain that they would not be willing to bear, by a prompt meting to them of what they have meted to another, physical punishment is not only justified, it is required.

Personal Health Service

(By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D., Noted Physician and Author.)

Absolute Rest.

A complete rest, in the vernacular, usually means getting away from a tetchy husband, nagging wife, loving friends or a bad job. It implies a double-barreled nonentity; first, that one's impaired health may be accounted for by nerve strain or nerve breakdown; second, that for purposes of recuperation or convalescence there is no other place quite so unsatisfactory as home. These questions of "nerves" and change of climate are other stories. Today, children, as the distinguished visitor begins when he has little to say, I wish to make a few remarks about rest. Absolute rest, like the period at the end of a sentence in English composition or the pause in the smile of a speed Johnny when the judge says 30 days.

"My ideas" about rest, which I am about to express, I take from an editorial article in a great medical journal, the editorial writer having in turn taken them from a contribution by Langworthy and Barott published in the June, 1920, number of the American Journal of Physiology. I am strong for physiology here, and very reluctant about pathology, if you have noticed. Incidentally let me add for the benefit of some colleagues that I am no great specialist or medical authority, yet I do purport to be a fairly accurate and dependable interpreter of hygienic and medical science and I am always prepared to back whatever I preach or teach here with science, if any colleague cares to raise a question.

To our rest, then.

Light sewing, crocheting or embroidery calls for an expenditure of about nine calories more an hour than the same individual would expend sitting idle. Washing, sweeping or scrubbing calls for an hourly expenditure of about 50 calories more than the same individual expends at rest. A mere change in the height of the table at which one works may cause an increase of 30 to 40 per cent in the calories expended. The scientific measurements by which these figures were procured were made at the Office of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Last September I quoted here some practical conclusions of Dr. F. M. Pottenger, a noted tuberculosis specialist, to the effect that it takes twenty per cent more energy to sit in a chair than it does to lie in bed, and 100 per cent more to walk about than to lie in bed.

It wastes vital energy to have an uncomfortable bed, in illness or in health. The best bedsprings and mattress and the most comfortable sleeping equipment you can buy are a wise investment if you have need for rest.

ARE RAW ONIONS GOOD TO EAT.

Besides wearing bags of noisome stuff such as asafetida, camphor or iodoform, on one's chest, almost any ignorant, superstitious old granny will assure you, it is a simple matter to keep off germs by eating freely of raw onions. There is usually a grain of truth underlying these ridiculous superstitions of the uneducated, just enough of truth to found a huge edifice of pure fancy on. Whereas an intelligent mind adds two and two to make four, an illiterate can just as well make six or nineteen of it.

In a recent issue of "Munchener Medizinische Wochenschrift" published in Munich, E. Wilbrand gives the results of some interesting experiments he has been conducting to determine the value of onions in the diet. I greatly regret to report that Wilbrand has found that when we eat raw onion the digestive process in the stomach is greatly retarded. But I'm not going to stop eating 'em for any such trivial reason as that.

Along with the retardation of digestion in the stomach it appears that there is a marked increase in the acidity of the gastric juice secreted. Take this for what it is worth to you. As for me, I'm glad my gastric juice is acid, and I don't mind the increase. With the increased acidity, Wilbrand observes also an augmentation in the amount of gastric juice secreted under the stimulus of raw onions, and these effects continue for a considerable period after ingesting the onions.

Wilbrand is no pessimist. That's why I quote his observations here. He extols the raw onion as a blessing. As such I eat it. When one eats raw onion one's food is subjected to more thorough and prolonged digestion in the stomach, so that probably no morsel escapes contact with the acid of the gastric juice, which acid is the natural germicide which protects a healthy individual from disease germs swallowed with food. Raw onion must therefore be considered a prophylactic against intestinal diseases of bacterial origin. Typhoid fever is one such disease, though I certainly do not advise any one to use raw onions rather than the typhoid bacterin prophylaxis when in danger of exposure to typhoid infection.

For like reason raw onions should be used freely for their indirect antiseptic effect in cases of intestinal disease; in which cases they also do good by favoring more thorough digestion of food before it leaves the stomach, and thus giving the intestine needed rest from unnecessary work.

Raw onions should be a favorite relish of persons actually (not in imagination merely) suffering from intestinal putrefaction and excessive fermentation.

Only those with hyperacidity of the gastric juice should avoid raw onions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Nauheim Baths.

Do you believe that Nauheim baths, certain mechano-therapeutic treatments, graduated exercises, diet and medication, all under competent medical supervision, would be beneficial for one with valvular heart disease? Both mitral and aortic valves are affected. (L. W.)

ANSWER—Yes. That is just the thing.

Appendix Conjecture.

Since persons who have had the appendix removed invariably suffer from constipation, is it not true that the appendix is the natural lubricator for the intestines? (I. H.)

ANSWER—Persons who have had the appendix removed are no more likely to be troubled with constipation than those who have not, as a matter of fact. I, for one, am content to do without that particular mode of "lubrication." The appendix is of no more value to a human being than is a wart on one's nose.

Red, Rough Hands.

Will you please prescribe me a remedy for my rough hands? I work outside a good bit in every weather, and my hands are rough and very red and irritated. Is there anything on the market that will help them? (D. O. S.)

ANSWER—After washing with soap, you must rinse all the soap away very carefully. This lotion or thin jelly is excellent for rough, red, chapped or irritated skin:

Boric acid	½ ounce
Glycerin	1 ounce
Tragacanth	80 grains
Water	1 pint

It is preferable to purchase tragacanth in shavings (less likely to be adulterated than powder). Boil all together, stirring frequently, till dissolved into a homogeneous clear jelly. Water must be added from time to time to make up for evaporation. Apply some to the hands three or four times a day, after washing, and before the hands have quite dried.

Alma's Kneemissus.

I am nineteen, and a pretty healthy sepcimen. I hate to wear clothes, that is loads. I love to feel the cold air on my body, and so I wear bare neck and bare knees, though the latter are not usually visible to the public. But such critters as are aware of my stocking custom cheerfully prophesy a premature decline of a sickly middle age for me, punctuated with such pleasures as rheumatism, asthma, bronchial trouble and Bright's disease. I figure out how all this will happen. Does cold air penetrate the skin and freeze inside or something? As spring approaches I suppose I should be developing a hacking cough and a fever, but I remain as healthy as ever. (Alma R.)

ANSWER—It is all right. The less clothes we wear, provided we feel comfortable, the better for our health.

Twin Beds.

Kindly tell me whether it is injurious for a girl nineteen years of age to sleep with a woman of 45. (Mrs. E. M. S.)

ANSWER—The ages of sleeping partners are immaterial. It is always more hygienic to sleep alone, for a sleeping partner is likely to disturb your rest, to present you with any infection she may happen to harbor (such as a coryza or sore throat or diphtheria or the itch), and to breathe the fresh air which is yours by rights.

FOR LOVE OF BETTY

[BY MAY CHRISTIE.]

(Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

LIII.—A Cry For Mercy.

Torrents of rain were pouring down on a depressed universe when Jack Trevor woke to the jolting of the train which was bearing him to Maine, and stretched himself within the narrow confines of his "sleeper."

"Must be nearly there now!" he reflected, glancing at his wrist-watch and yawning lazily. "What a bore these night journeys always are!"

There was no anticipatory pleasure in this business visit. To have been torn by mere mundane affairs from the delights of Betty's presence, and summoned to New York was bad enough—but to be further dragged to the far north, willy-nilly, putting hundreds of miles between himself and his beloved, was cruelty indeed!

"Confound that fool who stuck the notice of my failure in the papers!" venomously remarked the love-lorn Jack. "If I had him here I'd knock his head off!"

As he stepped out from the comparative warmth of the sleeper into a cold, dismal and exceedingly draughty station, his spirits had metaphorically dropped to zero.

"Ugh!" he shivered, tugging viciously at his suitcase, and barking his shin against an obstructing baggage-truck. "Was there ever a more unlucky chap than myself? Was there ever a more infernally rotten day than this?"

He wouldn't go to a hotel, he reflected. Beastly, dreary place, the average hotel. No—he would look up that motherly old landlady at whose place he'd stayed the last visit to this town—what was her outlandish name?—MacTavish? Macintosh?

"Hanged if it wasn't MacTurk!" A gleam of pleasure at his own brilliantly retentive memory flickered in his eyes. "I'll go to good old Mother MacTurk and see if she can put me up for a day or two!"

Thanks to an agile porter, Trevor soon found himself and his luggage stowed away within a taxicab, and speeding towards his destination.

"Mr. Trevor from New York—by all that's wonderful—come in!" gasped the hospitable Mrs. MacTurk when the taxicab deposited Trevor on her doorstep, and she ran out to greet him.

"And I see you're just exhausted!" she added. "And you've grown thinner, too!"

"I'm splendid, thanks—and how are you?" Trevor was smiling now.

"Oh, I'm all right!" came the blithesome answer.

"Handsomer than ever, Mrs. MacTurk—and even younger-looking, I do believe!" laughed Trevor.

Giggling delightedly, the old lady led the way into the rather fearsome apartment set specially aside for paying guests. Mr. Trevor was a particular favorite.

"I'm only up for a few days, Mrs. MacTurk, so don't worry yourself about me," declared the latter, watching her antics with an amused eye. Mrs. MacTurk's attitude towards himself reminded him of some fussy, clucking old hen vigilantly tending her newly-hatched offspring.

"Not married yet, Mr. Trevor?" queried the old lady artlessly, head cocked inquisitively on one side.

"No one will have me—isn't it cruel?"

"There isn't a girl living that wouldn't have you—if you asked her!" came the comforting response.

Trevor nodded absent-mindedly, his thoughts far off.

Perhaps he had been misjudging Betty Gordon? Perhaps she had really written him after all, and given the letter to a careless servant to post, who had forgotten it? Things like that often happened. Perhaps that Irish maid at the Red Cottage had lost the precious missive? She might have forgotten to give Betty his new address in the north, too?

The only thing to do—to clear the mystery up—was to write to Betty—and at once! There could then be no excuse for any further silence on Betty's part. . . .

Before he went off on his business visit to the docks and shipyards Trevor seated himself in Mrs. MacTurk's best parlor—began his second love-letter to Miss Betty Gordon.

"My Dear Betty,—I am more than surprised to have received no response whatever to my previous letter—"

No, that opening was ridiculous! Betty had a sense of humor, he recollected—she would surely laugh. . . .

The next attempt was lucky—and more natural.

"I'm missing you dreadfully, my dear," he wrote, "and all the more so that I didn't have even a moment with you in which to say good-bye! I rushed down from town to the Red Cottage last night, praying all the way that I should find you at home. But my luck was out! And so were you, sweetheart!

"I left a lot of messages for you with that dragon of a maid, who guarded the door as though it were the entrance to heaven! If you'd been home, it would have been—heaven, I mean! (Love does make one frightfully incoherent, doesn't it?)

"Anyhow, darling, do be merciful, and write at once. . . . If you only realized how much I love you, Betty—but honestly I haven't any words in which to describe it! It's heaven, and—the other place as well! or the last three days it's been—the other place. . . .

"Write to the above address, or telegraph—and snatch me from the abyss! —Yours always,

"JACK TREVOR."

Half an hour later, after he had consumed an excellent breakfast, he set forth in the driving wind and rain, the precious letter, stamped and addressed, accompanying him.

With minute precision he dropped it into a mail-box, and heaved a sigh of satisfaction and relief, as though a load had been lifted from his heart.

Puppy Stories

(by Vincent G. Perry)

THE LITTLE LAME DOG.

Part Nine.

"Draw closer," commanded the queen of the cats. In fear and trembling Pinkey, the white rat, and the old mother dog obeyed.

"So you are the dog that bit off my ear," the queen declared when she had a good look at the mother dog. "I suppose I should be very angry, but to tell the truth I am not." And then she beckoned to the mother dog to come closer so that she could whisper to her.

"You see, it was because I had my ear bitten off that I was selected queen of the cats," she whispered.

Pinkey heard that too. "Then you must think a great deal of this dog, and will be willing to help us," Pinkey spoke up boldly.

"Help you?" questioned the queen of the cats. "What help can I give you?"

Hurriedly Pinkey told the story of the little lame puppy, and when he came to the part about the grey rats stealing the little fellow the old queen cat shook her one ear angrily.

"I will have my cats dig everywhere to find the hiding place," she promised and she thumped her tail on the throne to summon her attendants to her.

Pinkey's late husband's relatives were finding it quite a problem to keep the puppy quiet. The little lame pup was not used to being so neglected, and the grey rats had carried him to a cold and dismal place.

"I think we should kill him," suggested one of the old grey rats.

"No," interrupted the oldest grey rat, "that would never do. Bad luck would come to us if we killed this little lame animal. We will just keep him here a prisoner. It will serve Pinkey right. No one can find us here."

"Don't be too sure of that," cried a small grey rat in alarm, as he hurried in. "All the cats of the neighborhood are out in search of the puppy. A big cat chased me here."

"And do you mean to tell us that you let him follow you to our hiding place?" shrieked the other rats in chorus. "He will surely find us now."

Just at that very minute dirt from above started to tumble in on the rats, and they knew the cats were digging their way down to them. What a racing and squealing there was then for the passageway that led to the ground above; but at every passage appeared the head of a cat.

It did not take the cats long to rid the earth of the rats. When it was all over there was a search for the lame puppy—but he was nowhere about? What had happened to him?

To Be Continued.

Food for the Armies of Two Generations

HUNT'S Diamond Flour Mills have furnished food for the armies of two generations and two continents.

During the American Civil War the Hunt Mills, driven by water power from the old Hunt's dam, ground night and day to feed the Armies of the North.

In the great World War Hunt's Mills, modernized, operated electrically and working 24 hours a day, ground millions of bushels of Canadian wheat for the Allies.

In peace times Diamond Flour is the staple food of Canadian homes. The housewife of to-day finds it as satisfactory as the housewife three score years ago for bread, pies and cakes.

Ask your grocer for it always.

EASTER DANCE AT WINTER GARDEN TO AID NEW HOSPITAL

Brilliant Affair Held Under Auspices of Two Chapters of I. O. D. E.

A goodly number of people were present at the Winter Gardens last evening, on the occasion of the big Easter Ball, held under the auspices of the Campbell Becher and Hamilton Gault Chapters, I. O. D. E., in aid of the Children's Hospital. Purple and gold colors were combined with evergreens to transform the building. Not only was the ceiling lowered dome-like with purple and gold streamers, but purple and gold streamers were used effectively to conceal the large lights, while smaller lights suspended above the gallery, were shaded, lantern-wise, in alternate colors, gold and purple. A very pretty supper room was banked off with cedar boughs, above which hung the purple and gold streamers again. Another dome-like arrangement of the streamers also lowered the ceiling of this portion of the building.

The dancers themselves presented a pretty sight. Many-toned gowns were noted, but the prevailing color was a bright apple-green. Black was as popular as usual, and all the soft shades such as apricot, pale blue, grey and pale gold, were in evidence. During the course of the evening the spotlight picked them out one by one, changing their color at its lazy will. The popular dance of the storm was again a feature of the dance program.

The dance was given under the distinguished patronage of the Premier of Ontario and Mrs. Drury, Gen. Panet and Madame Panet, Mayor E. S. Little and Mrs. Little, Lieut.-Col. FINANCIAL, MARKET AND COMMERCIAL SECTION

CONFUSING MARKET IN WALL STREET

Trading Most Active Near Close, Atlantic Gulf Selling Heavily.

NEW YORK, April 1.—In its salient and more material characteristics, trading on the stock exchange today covered the ground more or less familiar by recent confusing and wavering tendencies, losses predominating at the irregular close.

Shares of the same class frequently moved in the opposite directions. Only in a few noteworthy instances was there any evidence of more than professional or speculative interest, many of the investment rails reflecting further neglect.

Trading was most active in the last hour, when heavy selling of Atlantic-Gulf at a net loss of 6½ points was the outstanding feature. The stock was freely offered on reports that the company had failed in its negotiations to sell some of its oil holdings and tankers to the Mexican Petroleum Company.

Oils as a class were heavy, with General Asphalt, Texas Company, Royal Dutch and others of less prominence.

Studebaker, International Harvester, United Drug and Laclede Gas at net gains of 1 to 6½ points comprised the few elements of comparative strength. The total sales of stocks amounted to 475,000 shares.

Latest financial and industrial advices offered no incentive for public participation. Time funds evinced a firm tine on less liberal offerings, and labor conditions here and abroad became more involved and unsettled.

London's market was depressed by the strike of the coal miners, and the decision of the Manchester spinners to continue short time in mills using American cotton was not without effect on that staple in home markets. Sellings in foreign exchange were current, and rates on London and other European centres were inclined to ease. The bonds market was dull, with price ranges narrow in the main. Pennsylvania Railroad 6½'s made yet another new record at 95¾. Liberty issues and foreign war flotations were somewhat mixed. The total sales of bonds, par value, aggregated $8,876,000.

VARIED INFLUENCES AFFECTING MARKET

Papers Very Inactive—Spotty Day in Other Toronto Issues.

TORONTO, April 1.—Stock markets had a spotty day in keeping with the diverse news and influences operating in financial affairs today. Continued strength in Duluth-Superior and Twin City on the local exchange was still accompanied by no adequate explanation. One theory was the expectation that some legislation as that now before the Minnesota Legislature may make it easier to raise traction fares. In any case, such natural strength as might come to Duluth and Twin City would reasonably be based upon expectations of increased fares, which have been under negotiations for some time. Duluth's advance was 1½ points to 19⅝, while Twin City, after selling up to 48, finished at 47½, with a gain of 1¾ points.

There was no rally in the papers, which were exceptionally inactive. In fact, the changes of the day as a whole were on moderate lines. Canadian Pacific firmed up and closed ¼ point up at 128¼. Canadian General Electric, preferred, was 2 points higher, and Bell Telephone, a fraction up. Small losses were made by Atlantic Sugar, British Columbia Fishing, F. N. Burt, Canadian General Electric, common, Canada Steamships and Mackay.

Another slight decline occurred in the 1934 Victory loan, which closed at 94¼, the low for the day. This brings the yield on this Victory issue up to 6.12 per cent. It is said that a number of loan companies have been releasing Victorys of late in order to get the money to meet the demand for mortgage loans. Some industrials have also disposed of holdings.

Total trading: Listed stocks, 1,703 shares; unlisted stocks, 5,905 shares; bonds, par value, $187,900.

MONTREAL MAKES A NEW LOW RECORD

Smallest Turnover For the Year Registered by Featureless Market.

MONTREAL, April 1.—A new low record for the year was registered today in transactions on the local stock exchange, and on this a few stocks were prominent by reason either of substantial gains or losses, but the bulk of the list was notable only for its extreme dullness and lack of feature.

The largest gain was scored by Bell Telephone, which netted 4¼ points including its dividend at 108. Dominion Textile moved up 1 point to 210, while Royal Bank advanced 1 point to 202.

Only Laurentide furnished a sale of board lot size among the paper stocks. Sugar was the least inactive stock, dealings amounting to 655 shares, with selling more urgent than buying, and the price registering a net decline of 1¼ points. Smelters was third in point of activity, and sold at 16, a new low for the year, and a net loss of a large fraction from Thursday.

Substantial losses were sustained by Asbestos, down 2 points to 73; Canadian General Electric, and Canada Steamships, preferred, each of which lost 1 point, and Bank of Commerce, which also lost 1 point.

Steel of Canada was ½ point up, and Dominion Steel was unchanged.

The bond list was again irregular and without much change.

Total trading: Listed stocks, 2,983 shares; bonds, par value, $209,900.

LOWEST PRICES OF SEASON AT CHICAGO

Prospects of Big Yield of Winter Wheat Largely Responsible.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Every commodity of exchange fell today to the lowest prices yet this season. Prospects of a bumper yield of winter wheat were largely responsible. Wheat closed heavy, 3½c to 5¼c net lower, with May, $1.34¾ to $1.35, and July, $1.14¼ to $1.14¾. Corn lost ¾c to 1¼c; oats declined 1⅝c to 1⅞c, and provisions, 35c to 95c.

Although profit-taking by shorts gave the wheat market an appearance of strength at the opening, general bearish sentiment was obvious, and values soon began to break. Nervousness was evident regarding European and economic developments, especially the coal miners' strike, and there was no confidence on the bull side when the attention of traders became focussed on crop estimates issued by two authorities here. Both estimates pointed to a yield of winter wheat much in excess of last year's total. On the ensuing sharp declines export demand broadened out, and had some temporary effect in rallying the market, but investors seemed to have been frightened away, and in the absence of any good general buying the close was near the bottom figures of the day.

Liquidation on the part of holders was a depressing factor in the market for corn and oats. The weakness of wheat appeared to be the chief immediate incentive to sell.

Provisions gave way with grain and hogs.

SELLING PRESSURE ON 'PEG MARKETS

May Wheat Declines in Reaction—Coarse Grains Also Weak.

WINNIPEG, April 1.—Continued selling pressure, coupled with the general bearish condition existing, sent wheat prices to lower levels again today. After advancing to $1.72⅝, after the lower opening, May wheat reacted and fell to $1.67½, advancing from this figure again to fall away until $1.65¾ was reached, at which figure it closed. This represents a slump of about 18c in four days, and a decline of 5¾c from yesterday's close. July acted with May, and at the close showed a decline of 6½c from the previous close.

The cash situation showed some improvement today, with a strong demand and an increase of 1½c in premiums. Offerings, however, continued to come out slowly.

The coarse grains all showed the weakness in wheat. Oats closed 2¼c to 2½c lower; barley, 3⅝c to 4⅜c lower; flax 10⅝c to 11c lower, and rye, 5c lower.

FARMERS MAKING SPLENDID PROGRESS

Return of Milder Weather Sees Much Work in Progress.

ST. THOMAS, April 1.—The return of milder weather conditions finds farmers making great progress all over this district. Everything points to splendid crops, and the farmers are most optimistic regarding the outlook. Help is much more plentiful than formerly, but a number of the men available are not altogether just what the farmers want.

BUILDING CONTINUES BRISK AT SARNIA

Record For the First Quarter of Year Is $224,749.

SARNIA, April 1.—Figures issued by Tax Collector Nickell today show the total amount of taxes and interest collected during March as $5,315.56, and the total amount of water rates and tapping charges during the same period as $2,139.52.

Collection of taxes and interest was distributed as follows: 1920, $4,356.17, interest, $167.12; 1919, taxes, $698.88, interest, $30.23; 1918, taxes, $34.11, interest, $1.76; 1917, taxes, $14.72, interest, $2.32; 1919, taxes, $10; total, $5,315.36.

The water rates total was apportioned as follows: 1921, water rates, $911.83, tapping, $638.50; 1920, water rates, $405.21, tapping, $72.72; 1919, water rates, $90.86, tapping, $20.40; total, $2,139.52.

Sarnia's building for March established a new record with the issuance of 88 permits, totalling $157,129. This includes permits for 34 houses. The record for March, 1920, was 50 permits, totalling $61,505, an increase for this year of $95,624. The record for the first three months totals $224,749, while for the first three months of last year it amounted to only $118,695.

The steady program of house construction and repairs shows no signs of abatement, and April is expected to maintain, if not surpass, last month's total.

WOMEN AS LONDON POLICE ARE PRAISED

Sir Nevil Macready Says Those On the Force Fully Justify Their Selection.

LONDON, April 1.—An interesting sidelight on the kind of women who are doing police duty in London is contained in a blue book, just issued, giving the minutes of evidence obtained by the committee on the employment of policewomen. The evidence includes that of Sir Nevil Macready, formerly police commissioner of London.

Sir Nevil said that the 110 women doing police duty fully justified their selection, and he believed that their number should be increased considerably. He said that if the power of arrest is given to them, women could be used to good advantage in looking after the women of the streets, and he advised putting this work entirely in their hands.

The kind of women best fitted for police work, he said, were those who had the human element very largely developed, and who were not faddists or temperamental. In certain cases married women have been found more suitable than the unmarried.

In answer to a question as to the social standing of the policewomen, Sir Nevil said they included a wide range, there being a number of wives of constables, who were about in the domestic servant class, and also a number of bus conductresses.

"We want all classes," he added. "I want to have the kind of woman I can put into an evening dress with some diamonds, and be able to send her to a place to mix with people, and also I want women on the other end of the scale. Then some nurses are excellent. It is very good to have women with nursing experience."

Sir Nevil said that all the women employed so far were thoroughly satisfactory, it having been necessary to get rid of only six or ten in a year. He advocated making the age of enrollment 25 or 30 years, and said that a certain pension should be created for them, probably after they had reached 45.

LEAMINGTON, April 1.—Fired by an incendiary, it is thought, the barns and farm buildings of William Bruner, 6th concession, near Ruthven, early this morning were destroyed with their contents. The loss is estimated at $10,000. Bruner notified the Windsor police and an investigation is being made by High County Constable Smith of Sandwich. Bruner told the police that the buildings had been saturated with kerosene, and that cans partly filled with oil were found by him near the fire.

PUBLIC TRUSTEE TO LOOK AFTER ESTATES

Will Take Charge of Property of Those Who Die Friendless.

TORONTO, pril 1.—In the Legislature this afternoon Hon. Mr. Raney introduced an insurance bill embodying the recommendations of Hon. Mr. Justice Masten with respect to the reorganization and licensing of insurance agents and brokers. The attorney-general explained that this bill would not be pressed until next session of the Legislature.

A second insurance act brought in by Mr. Raney makes legal provision for reciprocal insurance and defines questions of jurisdiction raised by the recent privy council decision. It also makes the provincial law uniform with the Dominion and covers the question of the annual statements and valuations of friendly societies.

The attorney-general introduced a bill to amend the Ontario public trustee act. He stated the public trustees act was proving to be a very efficient piece of legislation. Recently a board of advisors had been appointed to the public trustee. The bill he was now introducing proposed one or two substantive provisions. One was that, in the case of persons who are friendless, dying, the administration of their estate shall not be left, as heretofore, to the chance of application by undertakers or other persons, who may just happen to become aware of the situation to take administration and then chance finding relatives or not finding them. The public trustee shall, in future, look after these cases and will take administration of the estates.

700 NAMES ARE ADDED TO LISTS

GUELPH, April 1.—With only one more day in which to register for the temperance referendum it was announced today that up to the present time some 700 names have been added to the voters' list, or less than half the number who are eligible, according to the figures of the referendum committee. Tonight and tomorrow are expected to be the busiest time of the week at the revision offices, and preparations are being made to accommodate the big last-minute rush. The additions to the lists so far are largely the names of women voters, and this feature is considered a good omen by the referendum committee.

ST. MARYS VETERANS OPEN NEW CLUB ROOMS

Ceremony Was Attended by Many Officials and Patriotic Workers.

St. Marys, March 31.—About 125 people attended the official opening of the new clubrooms of the G. W. V. A. last night.

The McConnell Club, Rumsey Chapter, I. O. D. E., and Community Patriotic Clubs were invited and attended in a body, while other guests were Mayor and Mrs. N. L. Brandon, Dr. and Mrs. P. T. Coupland, and Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Creighton.

Captain F. G. Sanderson extended a warm welcome to the visitors and to the clubs he expressed the sincere thanks of the local branch for the generous donations of $50 which were received from each.

Mayor N. L. Brandon, in a short address, stated his appreciation of the invitation to be present, and said he was pleased, as mayor of the town, to think that the G. W. V. A., St. Marys branch, was growing so rapidly that they had found it necessary to find more roomy quarters. He hoped that the splendid comradeship now existing among returned men would continue.

A splendid musical program was furnished, consisting of solos, duets and instrumentals, with short speeches and numerous numbers from the orchestra. At the close of the program Dr. P. T. Coupland spoke on behalf of the visitors and thanked the veterans for the splendid spirit which had prompted them to invite the association on this occasion.

"May I assure you," said Dr. Coupland, "that you have and always will have the loyal support of those who are with you tonight. You are, as returned men, setting a wonderful example, and may this branch of the G. W. V. A. of Canada so grow in strength and become so popular among the citizens of this town that you may yet realize what you really should have, a clubroom of your very own."

The guests then played various ing contest in which the three winne were Miss Sinclair, Mr. L. Lavelle a Mrs. Roy.
