

Mardi Gras Parade a Brilliant Pageant

MISS FLORENCE STEVELY IS CROWNED QUEEN
AN IMPOSING CEREMONY IN QUEEN'S PARK

Mayor's Charming Daughter the Centre of Attraction.

FLOATS WERE MAGNIFICENT

Procession Excelled Even the Most Extravagant Expectations.

Strikingly brilliant was the Mardi Gras parade last evening, and it wound up in Queen's Park by an equally brilliant coronation ceremony, which was attended by many thousands of Old Boys and their friends, when Miss Florence Stevely was crowned queen.

London has never witnessed a more gorgeous parade, and had it not been for one or two unfortunate circumstances, the brilliant pageant would have been more impressive.

However, the difficulties were many, and when the parade did get under way it was appreciated by the vast throng of people who witnessed it.

The Mardi Gras parade started from Victoria Park shortly after 8 o'clock, headed by Grand Marshal Walter Bartlett.

Canadian Float.

The Seventh Band, headed by Drum Major Cockburn, followed, playing "The Maple Leaf."

Then came the Canadian float. It was drawn by four richly-caparisoned horses, led by attendants in uniform.

A guard of honor from the Seventh Regiment, led by Lieut. Howard Ingram, marched with the float.

The float itself was exquisitely beautiful. The design was simple, and the coloring effective, but dainty.

On the rear platform sat Miss Canada, represented by Miss Edith Greer, attended by nine little girls, each representative of one of the provinces of Canada. All were garbed in holiday attire, and looked very charming. Each carried a shield on which was emblazoned the coats-of-arms of the Province.

The Canadian Coat-of-Arms was shown on the float, and many Canadian flags added brilliancy to the scene.

On the front of the float many sheaves of grain, representative of the grain-producing plains of Canada, were shown. The mineral and other wealth of the country was also represented.

Streamers bearing the inscriptions, "The Granary of the Empire," and "The Garden of the Earth" were shown on the float. It was brilliantly lighted with electric lights, and made a fine impression.

Then followed Gammage's floral float. It represented a woodland scene, and was lavishly with flowers and foliage. On it was a bridal party with many attendants.

The American Float.

The Ninety-first Highlanders' Band came next.

Then came the American float. It was preceded by a carriage in which sat John Bull, with Uncle Sam as his guest. The good humor of the two impersonators was a fitting representation of the goodwill prevailing between the two countries.

The float itself was strikingly pretty. On a raised dais at the rear, under a canopy, stood the Goddess of Liberty. Mrs. (Dr.) Kingsmill did the honors splendidly. She wore a gown showing the Stars and Stripes, and was repeatedly cheered along the line of march. She was attended by 53 little girls, representing the 46 states and 7 territories of the Union. They wore a dress representative of each state.

The whole float was brilliantly lighted, and made a fine impression. During the parade the children sang "God Save the King" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

MAYOR STEVELY'S ADDRESS TO OLD BOYS

"London Old Boys and Girls:
"I am sure you will all agree with me when I say: 'We all love London not because of its schools, streets or homes were useful, but because it is lovely. Our arithmetic declares its assessed value to be twenty-five million dollars, but our affections hold it to be priceless above all places, however, rich in extensive streets, dearer than health or beauty, and brighter than the stars. Many places are good enough to trade in, many places have ties of brotherhood, memories of common ancestry, common traditions, common and undivided rights, liberties and renown, but here we had our birth or the home of our adoption. Here was the playground of our youth. Here our fathers sleep. Here are the graves of our departed wise, brave and generous comrades. It was the theatre in which we played our little parts. To revisit London wakes our sympathy, our imagination and our passion.

"As mayor of the city of London, and on behalf of the citizens, we are proud to have you here. Our beautiful streets invite you, the hand of our citizens is held out to you, and the joyous greetings of friends are yours. Our homes, our hearts, and our city are open wide to the men and women of other days.

In 1895 the first homecoming was held in London. Now these reunions have grown in number and enthusiasm. But how many things have changed? Then, we had 32,000; today we have 50,000. London's streets have become more beautiful, and new suburbs of the size of many a town gladden the eyes of the visitor.

"Our welcome today must contain a note of sorrow. I regret to say that the days of Mr. Pope, our city treasurer, are numbered. Soon there will be but a record of fidelity to duty and a character marked by strength and uprightness, to remind us of a most faithful servant. The Poet Bailey justly says:

"We leave our homes in youth; no matter to what end,
Study or strife or pleasure—or what not;
And coming back in a few short years we find
All as we left it outside; the old elms,
The house and grass, gate and latchet's selfsame click,
But lift the latchet, and all is changed within."

"In conclusion, on behalf of the city, I again most cordially welcome all to our city, and trust that your cup of pleasure may be brimming full and running over, and trust that your visit will be both pleasant and profitable.

"Let me say also that the bell with which I called the vast assembly to order, was the same one which I used to call the children of London to their studies when the old Union School was opened here over 50 years ago—in 1858.

"I have just been notified that my old friend, Sir John Carling, is ill, and is unable to take part in the celebration, but I hope to see him around very shortly."

Coroner's Jury in Dorchester Case
Say Blows Hastened Woman's Death

Dorchester Station, Aug. 3.—An adjourned meeting of the jury empanelled to determine the cause of the death of Mrs. Annie Crowe, of Dorchester, was held on Saturday, with Mr. Frank Boyes as foreman and Dr. Doan, of Harrietsville, coroner, presiding. The following verdict was rendered:

"That we find that Annie Crowe on Thursday, July 30, 1908, came to her death from acute Bright's disease, which we believe was hastened by the injuries received at the hands of her husband."

Crown Attorney McKillop appeared.

City Treasurer Pope Has Passed Away
Aged Official Died Last Evening

Was Appointed to the City Hall in 1882—A Trusted Servant.

After an illness of about a month's duration, Mr. John Pope, city treasurer, died last evening at his residence, Elmwood avenue, South London. He had been failing for about a year, and was taken seriously ill, when he passed peacefully away.

The late John Pope was born in Clapham, Surrey, England, in 1834, and was, consequently, in his seventy-fourth year.

When 20 years of age he sailed for Canada and settled in Montreal. He spent some time also in the Eastern Provinces. Later he came to London in 1867 to teach English subjects in Hellmuth College.

Mr. Pope taught there for some years, afterwards becoming accountant in Rowland & Hewell's and later for E. Adams & Company.

In 1882 he was appointed city treasurer, which position he held until his death.

As a city official he was one of the best-informed men in the city hall, and was exceedingly well liked by all who ever had business to do with him.

His death will be sincerely regretted by a large number of friends.

Mr. Pope was deeply interested in Sunday school work, and had been superintendent of St. James' Sunday school, South London, for over 34 years.

The funeral of the late City Treasurer Pope will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence, Elmwood avenue.

On behalf of the crown, while Mr. Fisher, of Meredith & Fisher, looked after the interests of George Crowe, who was held for trial.

Crowe was to have been given a hearing in the county magistrates' court this afternoon at 3 o'clock, but it is probable that an adjournment of one week will be made, as the crown is not yet ready to go ahead with the case.

Up-to-date no application has been made by Crowe for bail, but it is unlikely that bail would be admitted in case it was asked.

Crowe is being held at the county residence, Elmwood avenue.

Mayor Stevely has called a special session of the council to meet tomorrow at 2 p.m., when a resolution of condolence will be passed, and then the council will attend the funeral in a body.

The city hall offices will be closed at 1 o'clock.

"Mr. Pope was a fine city official," said Mayor Stevely. "He served the city faithfully for over a quarter of a century, and we will miss him. I have been associated with him in civic affairs now for quite a few years, and I do not hesitate to pay a tribute to his memory."

A fine wreath has also been sent to Mr. Pope's home by the council.

Prior to that he was connected with the Sunday school of St. Paul's Cathedral. He was also deeply interested in the other work of the church, and had held numerous offices in St. James' during his 35 years' connection with it.

He was always a lover of good, clean sport. In the earlier days, Mr. Pope was known as a great cricketer, and for years took a most prominent part in that game. He was also a lacrosse player of some note. In his later years he played golf considerably until the growing infirmities of his years prevented.

A family of six children survive. Mrs. Pope predeceased him some years ago. They are: Mr. J. K. H. Pope, secretary of the McClary Manufacturing Company; Mr. W. B. Pope, inspector for the McClary Company; Mr. Harry C. Pope, barrister, of Stratford; Mrs. E. J. Dawson, of this city, and Misses Emily and Ada at home.

MARDI GRAS DANCE
AT THE ARMORIES

The Mardi Gras dance in the Armories on Wednesday night promises to be one of the best events of the week's festivities.

Capt. McCrimmon, honorary chairman of the committee, has all the details of arrangements completed, and it will be no fault of the committee if it is not one of the best ever given in the city.

A large number of invitations have been issued. Those who desire invitations may obtain them from the officers of the regiment, or they may obtain them at the Armories.

Tickets may be obtained on Wednesday.

A COWARD STRUCK
BANDMASTER POCKOCKE

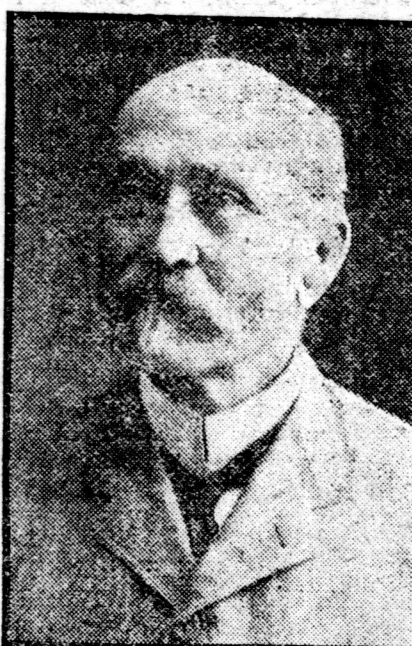

An exciting incident took place last evening just after the Mardi Gras parade had got started from Victoria Park.

The crowd had pushed onto the road very much, and it was almost impossible for the bands to get through.

Bandmaster Roselle Pockock was attempting to make a passage for the Twenty-sixth Regiment Band when some coward struck him. Mr. Pockock is not very young, and was in no position to defend himself.

However, several of the bandsmen saw the assault, and they made a bee-line for the man. After he struck the cowardly blow he made himself scarce. The bandsmen were unable to find him, or he would have received a thrashing such as he deserved.

The parade was held up ten minutes by the incident.

LATE JOHN POPE,
For Twenty-four Years City Treasurer of London.

LONDON OLD BOYS WALK IN IMPOSING PROCESSION TO QUEEN'S PARK YESTERDAY

Parade Was One of the Finest Ever Held—Thousands of Old Boys and Girls, Many Bands and Scores of Floats Viewed by Tens of Thousands of Londoners and Others.

The Old Boys' parade yesterday afternoon was one of the most splendid affairs of its kind the city has ever witnessed.

It surpassed all its predecessors in originality, in extent, and in the remarkable skill with which every detail was carried out.

It was miles in length, and took over one hour to pass a given point. All along the journey immense crowds cheered with a will, and as a result the procession was accorded a continuous ovation.

All the Old Boys' Associations in America and Canada were represented by members.

Some of them had not many representatives, but those who were present certainly made themselves known to the crowds along the line of march.

Now about the Old Boys. There never was a happier lot of men and women anywhere. This was one of the real times of their lives, and they enjoyed every minute of it.

They cheered and danced, and made merry all along the line.

Some of 'Em.

Many of them had distinctive features that made them stand out from the others.

The Cleveland Old Girls wore red ties and badges with white shirts, waists, making in all a very pretty effect.

Some of 'Em.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Woodstock, Aug. 4.—John McGraw, a young Derehem Township man, was sentenced to three years in Kingston Penitentiary this morning, by Judge Finkle, on a charge of stealing nine cattle.

There was a large number of witnesses called, and the crime was fastened on McGraw without any reasonable doubt. He protested his innocence, however.

For some time there has been a great deal of cattle stealing in Derehem Township, and not long ago the authorities determined to round up the gang.

John McGraw and his brother Ed were arrested after several weeks' work and were lodged in the Simcoe jail.

Ed McGraw made his escape from the jail in a most sensational manner, and has not yet been apprehended.

It is stated that John McGraw is not accountable for his actions and was the tool of designing men.

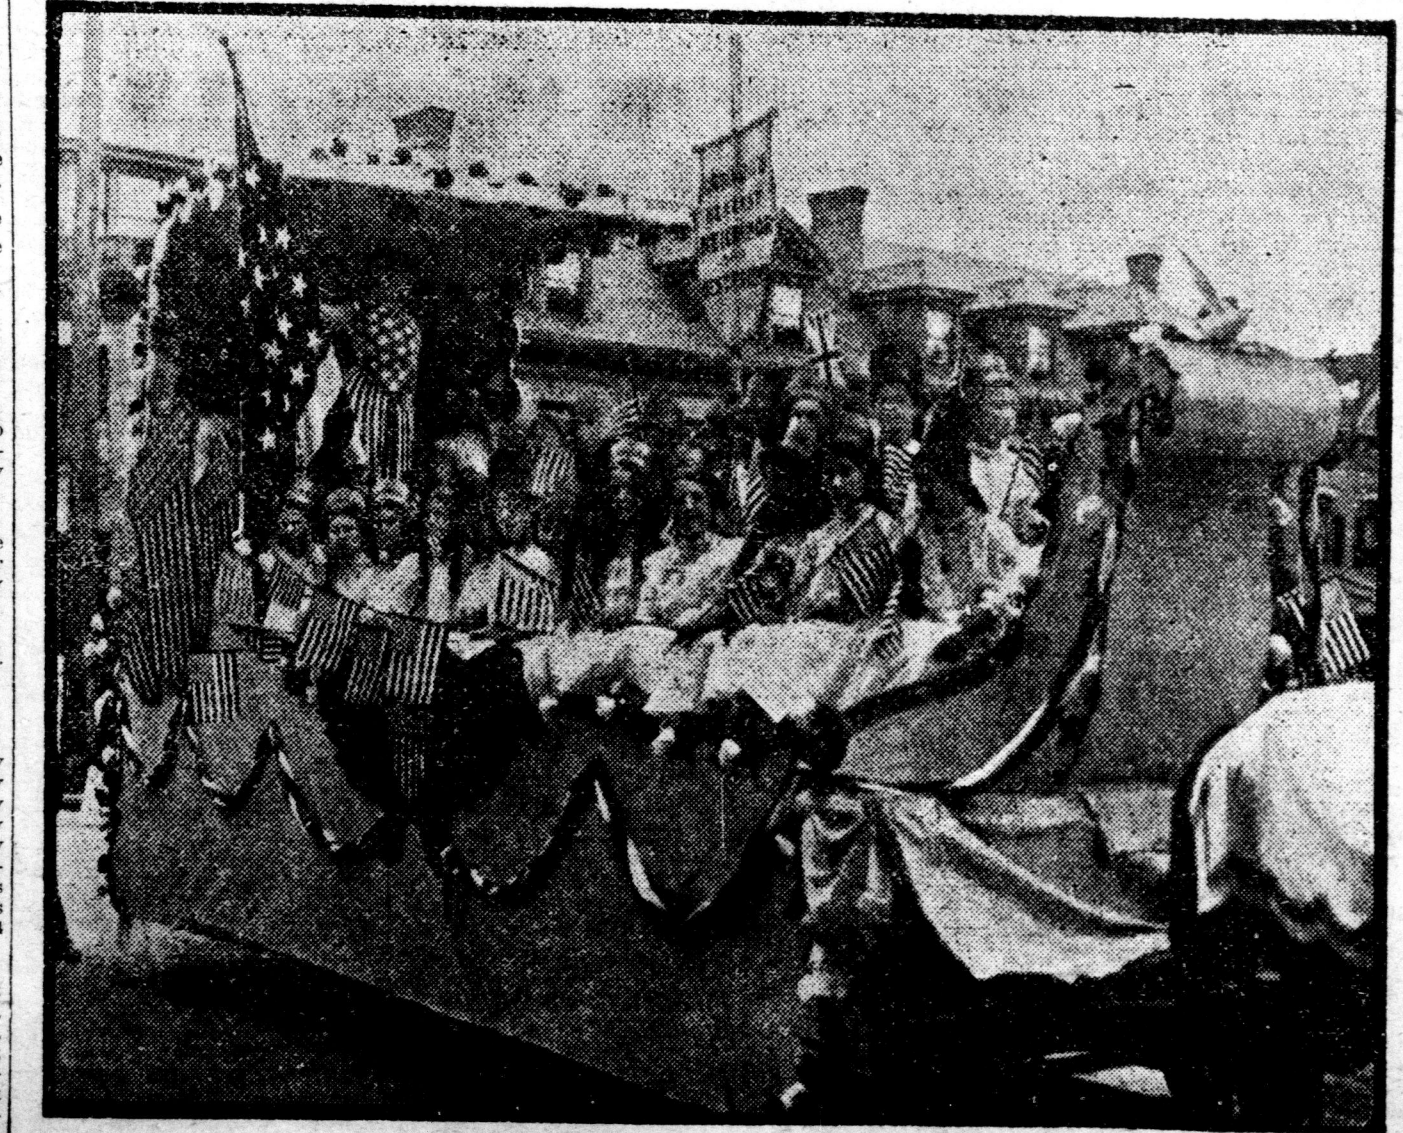

Young Men "Beat Up" the Chinks

On Saturday evening five young men went to the laundry shop of Charlie For, at 347 Clarence street, and became involved in a dispute with the Chinaman and the five of them attacked him.

For called to an assistant, and there was a general rough house for a while.

Charlie For, who owns the laundry, was badly beaten about the face, and when he came to the police station had a number of bruises about his face and a big black eye.

The police have secured the names of three of the young men, and will probably have the others tonight.

London Old Boys Play Boys Again Pleasant School Days Are Recalled

The Sports at Queen's Park Immensely Pleasured Tremendous Crowd Yesterday.

Following addresses of welcome to the visiting Old Boys at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon the sports and other games were run off.

Mayor Stevely first addressed the vast assemblage, and was followed by Mr. H. A. Abbott and Mr. E. J. MacRobert. All welcomed the Old Boys to the Forest City in nicely worded speeches, Mr. MacRobert concluding by saying that the most enjoyable moments of his life were spent in anticipating the arrival of the next Old Boys' reunion, and in recalling the pleasant experiences of the days gone by.

Immediately after the speaking, the sports and games were put on in front of the stand, and the great crowd in attendance was treated to a most varied and splendid performance.

A Feature. The feature of the afternoon's sport was the reunion of Mr. Nicholas Wilson's class of 1870. This event was indeed a treat, and for originally it ranks with anything ever seen in London. Mr. W. T. Strong is the man who conceived it.

To begin with Mr. Wilson was escorted to the platform across from the stand, where stood an ancient chair and a table arranged in old-time school style.

Ex-Ald. Gillen, attired in a comical make-up of short white duck pants and a Highlander's hat, introduced Mr. Wilson to the crowd.

Mr. W. A. Bluetheer then rang a bell for school to begin, and Mr. Gillen called the roll, each pupil being attired in humorous boyish costume.

Nothing more humorous than the spectacle of those staid old businessmen responding to the roll call, slide and school books in hand, could well be imagined.

To describe all the costumes were an impossibility, but one can get the idea of the spectacle when it is stated that Mr. B. C. McCann sported a pair of knee breeches and a Tam O'Shanter, while Mr. J. M. McEvoy made his appearance somewhat similarly attired.

Some of the pupils failed to answer present, and they will doubtless be kept in after school today or tomorrow for the omission. Several times when names were called and no response was received, Police Magistrate Love forgot himself and said, "Ten dollars and costs, or thirty days."

The roll call was as follows: Sammy Stevely, Joey Judd, Freddie Beltz, Johnnie Saunders, Eddie Beltz, Johnnie McEvoy, Archie Becker, Wes Cox, Charlie Glass, Robbie Arkell, Harry Fowler, Wattle Blackburn, Sammy Radcliffe, Johnnie Macpherson, Willie Abbott, Stephen Grant, Billy Ward, Willie Winnett, Harry Young, Dannie Hamilton, Bobbie Carrothers, Sammy Baker, Eddie Robinson, Bertie Glover, Willie Gammage, Ken Murray, Billy Fulton, Bobbie Cowan, Charlie Graham, Harry Abbott, Billy Coe, George Armstrong, Johnnie Hunt, Eddie Weld, Johnnie Jones, George Belton, Johnnie McIntosh, Jimmie Campbell, Wattle Thompson, Eddie Meredith, Charlie Edwards, Harry Barry, Judy Jewell, Tommy Gillen, Herr Bluetheer, Bertie McDonald, Sammy Scretion, Archie Scretion, Frankie Love, Barney McCann, Nelson Weeves, Jimmie Herrick, Willie Strong, Tommy Murphy.

Address to Mr. Wilson. At the conclusion of the roll call Tommy Gillen read the following message: "Mr. Nicholas Wilson: "Dear Sir,—Will be delighted to visit London and review your class. Will be on hand in a minute. Yours, W. T. Strong."

A moment later to the strain of bagpipes, and led by Pipers G. N. Weekes, and James Herrick, the noted "Bobs," mounted on a beautiful horse, appeared upon the platform and reviewed the class, which had in the meantime been provided with short muskets, which persisted in striking unwary corns when dropped to the floor.

"Bobs" was a genuine "Bobs," too, for he was no other than "Bobb" Cowan, otherwise known as Mr. R. K. Cowan, attorney.

"Bobs" reviewed the class—or troops—in true military style, and during the ceremony the members gave a first-class exhibition of how unruly they could be when the teacher's back was turned.

Sammy Stevely, for example, dropped a frog in Tommy Gillen's pocket, and Tommy in turn tickled someone else's ribs with a straw.

School Days. Following the review, Tommy Gillen put the class through the "regular school drill" for "Bobs" education, and that worthy stated that he had never seen a drill even approaching the one he had just witnessed.

"School Days," one of London's favorite songs, was then sung by the entire class, after which recess was called. And what a time the boys had during recess!

Marbles, baseball, hoop rolling, roller skating, blowing bubbles, fishing, floating toy boats, velocipede and tricycle riding, and every other game dear to the heart of Canadian boyhood were indulged in, and the crowd was kept in an uproar of laughter every moment.

Fancy staid Ald. Armstrong playing marbles with Billy Gammage, the forlorn Magistrate Love and ex-Mayor Judd rolling hoops, Ald. Beattie flying a kite, and Mr. J. M. McEvoy amusing his innocent little self in floating a toy boat around a miniature tank of water! Imagine, if you can, the effect such actions, combined with others equally comical on the part of the other "pupils" assembled, would have on an immense crowd of people that filled the great Queen's Park stands.

Mayor Stevely and Water Commissioner Darch riding velocipedes, the forlorn Magistrate Love and ex-Mayor Judd rolling hoops, Ald. Beattie flying a kite, and Mr. J. M. McEvoy amusing his innocent little self in floating a toy boat around a miniature tank of water! Imagine, if you can, the effect such actions, combined with others equally comical on the part of the other "pupils" assembled, would have on an immense crowd of people that filled the great Queen's Park stands.

Frank Chittick, of Winnipeg, the winner, covering the ground in a manner which reminded one of Bobby Kerr, the Canadian champion who beat the world in the Olympic games.

Mr. C. Richardson, of Toronto, the second Old Boy to strike the tape, was also a very fast runner, or rather sprinter, and close on his heels was Mr. Smith, of Toronto.

The chariot race between two four-horse teams unfortunately had to be called off on account of an accident to the harness of one of the teams. The spectacle of the teams getting ready for the start, though, was a thrilling one, and the crowd was disappointed over the race not being run.

Old times were vividly recalled in the running of the one-quarter mile high bicycle race, which was won by Mr. F. Lawson, of London, after a most exciting brush with Mr. G. Winnage, who lost out only by inches. Mr. H. Abel was a close third, with the other competitors strung out for some distance back.

The boys' and girls' races were productive of any number of entries, and it was next to impossible to pick the winners at the tape. Messrs. in charge of the judging are deserving of much credit for the way they selected the winners of these races.

In the competition for the handsome float the McClary "Home Comfort" wagon came out on top, with those of Messrs. Harry Abel and John Kuntz tied for second place.

LONDON, TUESDAY AUG. 4.

WHERE THE DANGER LIES.

The prolonged dry spell has affected the water supply, but there would be no anxiety except for the possibility of a conflagration.

Citizens will have enough water for drinking purposes under any circumstances, if ordinarily careful. Lawn sprinkling is forbidden for a time, and street sprinkling may have to be curtailed, but these are the only inconveniences, and they are temporary. Even a fire in the residential district or in isolated premises would not be threatening, as it could be dealt with by chemical engines, and if need be by steam fire engines. The really serious feature of the situation is the menace of fire in the business and manufacturing districts.

If the city today had a high water pressure in the congested part of the city, where there are no open spaces to check the progress of fire, there would be no cause for alarm every time the water in the reservoir took a drop. This is the point which those who are best informed on the water problem have striven to impress on the minds of citizens. The springs down the river are holding up admirably, and the one element of danger is the weakness of the pressure in those districts of the city where the flames would find the readiest prey.

It is absurd to argue, therefore, that a high pressure service is merely for the benefit of property holders immediately protected by it. A conflagration in the business or manufacturing sections would deprive thousands of employment and bring calamity to nearly every household in the city.

MINING IN CANADA.

The total value of Canada's output of minerals for the year ended May last was the largest in the history of the industry, amounting to about $85,182,000—an increase of over $7,000,000 over the previous year. The increases included, silver $2,869,000, gold $4,828,000, copper $728,000, nickel $588,000, pig iron from Canadian ore $258,000, petroleum $295,000, Yukon gold decreased $2,450,000, and lead production $556,000.

A summary report just issued at Ottawa, from which these figures are taken, shows how the department of mines gathers its information. Officials are sent to each province to investigate, and by this means statistics and other facts are secured at first hand.

The report from the Yukon states that although the days of the individual placer miner are practically at an end—on the older creeks, at least—that territory is by no means worked out, and a continued large gold production may be expected for many years yet. Not only are newer systems of working being discovered, but new fields are being found. Judging by last year's prospecting, the Stewart River and its tributaries will yield much more than heretofore.

Much activity was displayed during the year in the mining and metallurgical industries of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba. The individual placer industries in British Columbia are being superseded by companies working the low-grade areas of gold-bearing gravels on a large scale, and with more modern appliances, all having promise of an increasingly profitable industry. Promising anthracite and bituminous coal fields of British Columbia and Alberta are being exploited, and good results are looked for.

Ontario's mining and metallurgical industries are represented as in a flourishing condition. This Province now boasts of seven blast furnaces, with a total capacity of 1,300 tons of pig iron per day—an increase of 400 tons per day over 1906. The total production of pig iron in the Province last year was approximately 28,000,000 pounds, of an estimated value of about $5,000,000. The Sudbury copper nickel industry continues to flourish, while the smelting works of the Canadian Copper Company, with the addition of the new Bessemer plant now in course of erection, will be the largest of the kind in the world. The new oil and gas fields near Tilbury are producing more oil from about 250 wells than the old Petroleum fields did from 6,500 wells. There are now 72 producing companies engaged in the mining, metallurgical and allied industries in Ontario.

The mining and milling of asbestos is the most important mineral industry in Quebec, over 6,000 men being engaged in it. The year's output was 90,537 tons. The mica industry gives employment to 275 men, the total output being 550,000 pounds, while the province produced 30,000 tons of copper ore, which required the work of 250 men.

The Maritime Provinces are maintaining their reputations as producers of minerals. Their gypsum deposits, both as regards quantity and variety of quality, are the most extensive in the world, but their development has only fairly begun. Nova Scotia is showing much enterprise in the manufacture of steel on a large scale, and by approved modern methods. The output of coal of that province for the year ended Sept. 30 last was 5,720,000 tons, the industry giving employment to 11,500 miners.

CRIME IN CANADA.

The moral reformer will find little cause for gratification in the criminal statistics for 1906, just issued by the department of agriculture at Ottawa.

The idea once prevailed that crime and hard times went hand in hand, but this country has for several years been enjoying unprecedented prosperity, so that we must now look for some other cause for the increase of offences, both of a minor and grave character, shown in this report. The following table shows the average number of convictions for offences named during the ten years 1896 to 1905, and the total number for 1906:

	Average, 1896-1905.	Total, 1906.
Murder.....	9	4
Attempted murder and manslaughter.....	18	27
Crimes against decency.....	96	160
Shooting, stabbing and wounding.....	97	177
Assaults.....	971	1,077
Offences against property without violence.....	3,777	4,570
Offences against property with violence.....	523	645
Malicious offences against property.....	105	81
Forgery and offences against currency.....	121	220
Other offences.....	439	958

It will be seen that there is a considerable falling off in the number of convictions for murder in 1906, but in that year there were 32 persons charged with that crime, showing an unusually large number of deaths surrounded by suspicious circumstances. In all the other classifications, practically, the table bears evidence of a growth of criminality that is far from pleasing.

Another table shows that in ten years the number of convictions for all offences about doubled:

Indictable.	Summary.	Total.
1896.....	5,204	32,974
1897.....	5,721	32,257
1898.....	5,721	32,419
1899.....	5,713	32,997
1900.....	5,768	35,885
1901.....	5,638	36,510
1902.....	5,560	37,874
1903.....	5,521	38,862
1904.....	5,574	40,192
1905.....	5,624	44,939
1906.....	5,692	62,793

Prince Edward Island has the distinction of being the best behaved province, while Manitoba is the worst, as will be seen from the following comparison of convictions for all offences for the period of 1901 to 1906, the figures representing the number of inhabitants to each conviction:

	1901-5.	1906.
Manitoba.....	73	40
British Columbia.....	69	62
The Territories.....	82	67
Ontario.....	102	81
Nova Scotia.....	112	92
New Brunswick.....	134	120
Quebec.....	156	125
Prince Edward Island.....	261	428

With the exception of Prince Edward Island and British Columbia, all the provinces had more offenders during 1906 than prior to that year. The number of charges and convictions for indictable offences alone in 1906 was:

	Charges.	Victims.
Manitoba.....	895	784
Quebec.....	2,440	2,013
British Columbia.....	698	566
New Brunswick.....	189	140
Ontario.....	5,112	3,529
The Territories.....	1,037	742
Nova Scotia.....	434	294
Prince Edward Island.....	45	25

All Canada..... 10,900 8,093
Manitoba's percentage of convictions to charges was $7.60, Quebec's $2.52, British Columbia's $1.09, New Brunswick's 74.07, Ontario's 69.01, the Territories, 63.26, Nova Scotia's 67.74, and Prince Edward Island's 55.55.

A table is given showing that in the ten years from 1896 to 1906 the offence of drunkenness increased by 113 per cent. Here, too, Prince Edward Island, which is practically under prohibition, makes the best showing Quebec, which voted against it when the Dominion plebiscite was taken, coming next, and Manitoba last.

The increase in population will to some extent explain the increase in the number of offences, but will not account for it all.

THE WORLD IS GOOD.

[Emporia Gazette.]

All mortals have followed a beaten track since man was invented, a long time back, and folks were laughing or shedding tears away, away in the vanished years. The cave man worried because his club broke down when he batted another dub, and people flew in a beastly rage 'cause their stovespikes smoked in the glacial age. The same old sorrow you have today was old when Adam was baling hay; the worry that makes your bosom dark was old when Noah was in the ark. The grim foreboding that makes you pale was old when Jonah was in the whale. There is nothing new in this world, so wide, so do not worry, but let things slide. Your hopes and doubts, your dreams and fears, are but the dust of a million years.

WHEN HE PAID.

[Chicago News.]

Timothy Dodd, he was mighty penurious, Always did hate like the mischief to give. Spending, he thought, was extremely injurious. Awful, he said, what it cost him to live. Hung to death with the greatest tenacity. Dollars he'd squeeze till they spread at the rim. Made them all yield to their fullest capacity. Awfully funny it seems about Tim!

Anything like a square deal was a rarity. He wouldn't waste things by piling his cheese. Go to old Tim and solicit his charity. Any old time that you wanted to freeze. All of his days he was haggling and kicking. If you broke even the chances were slim. Now—it is mean, but I cannot help snickering. Awfully funny it seems about Tim!

Visitors Timothy welcomed but chillingly. Still there came one—undeniable Death. I can imagine how very unwillingly Timothy finally gave up his breath. Never paid debts—he had all heard him boast of it.

Yet he paid his to that creditor grim— Quite a good joke, and we all made the most of it. Awfully funny it seems about Tim!

AN ARTIST IN SARCASM.

[Argonaut.]

The busy man stopped before an office building and leaped from his carriage. At the moment an ambitiousurchin ran forward and piped: "No, you can't!" snapped the busy man. "What charge 'y' much," insisted the urchin.

"I don't care about the charge," impatiently responded the man, throwing a blanket over the basket of his steed. "My horse will not run away."

"Gee, mister, I didn't think 'y'd run away." "No," "No, I thought he might fall down!"

THE BABY WISEST.

[Punch.]

It is funny when you're very big what lots of things you find that you don't know. Aren't the same as what you heard when you were small?

Just for instance how they always told us that it wasn't kind. When we tried to squash the flies against the wall.

How the papers say the grown-ups want to start a dreadful war. On those flies we know we ought to kill.

And if only we had done it years and years before, There would never have been anybody ill.

All the whooping cough and measles, mumps and scarlet fever, too, And the chickenpox, they learn with great surprise, Would have never found their way to little children as they do.

If they'd only let the baby kill the flies. But whenever dumpy fingers wandered over or down the pane, Just where a lovely fly was on the crawl, Someone cried out: "Baby! Baby! You are doing it again!"

But the baby was the wisest, after all! COMPETITION FOR ENGAGED COUPLES.

[London Express.]

Nearly a hundred engaged couples took part in a novel shooting competition which has just concluded at Argoville. The competition was limited to lovers who were engaged and willing to be married as soon as possible. The distances were 300, 500 and 1,000 metres, and the scores of each pair were added together.

The prizes were a complete marriage trousseau for the woman and £60 for the man. The ordinary expenditure, all the capital expenditure other than that on the N. T. R., and about $4,000,000 of that.

CANADA'S FINANCES.

[Hamilton Times.]

The surplus of revenue over ordinary expenditure in the fiscal year ended March 31 was $19,412,064. The capital expenditure in addition was $28,559,279. The larger part of that was on the National Transcontinental Railway, which is merely an investment. The revenue paid all the ordinary expenditure, all the capital expenditure other than that on the N. T. R., and about $4,000,000 of that.

BEACHERS' BEE AND BIG BONFIRE

Record-Breaking Blaze at Lakeside—Another Great Cargo of Grain.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Port Stanley, Aug. 3.—One of the greatest bonfires ever held in the history of Port Stanley was given on Saturday evening on the sands of New Orchard Beach, under the leadership of Messrs. Cameron and Ponford. All the beachers took part in a bee to clear the shore of driftwood and remove the dead trees which had fallen over the bank during the land-slides of the past two years.

At this point the young girls took up a collection for the purpose of buying refreshments, and large and numerous contributions were gathered into the treasury.

Next the older ladies of the Beach undertook to make various kinds of candy, roast peanuts and, in fact, prepare all the dainties which are usually served at a bonfire. And by the way, the new beachers, who were to make and serve the sweetmeats than the fair sex of Orchard Beach.

All was in readiness, and about 8:45 the pile was fired. For a couple of hours it blazed furiously, fanned by a strong wind, the sparks rising to great heights. The large crowd of summerites gathered around the fire, and from a distance the scene had the appearance of fairyland. As the wood of the dying embers sank into the darkness of the night, the happy group of campers broke up and repaired to their homes greatly pleased with the evening's entertainment.

A bunch of fellows Sunday were having a sail on the lake, the sailing habit in front of Orchard Beach. No matter how hard they tried their non-skillful efforts were of no avail. To whatever point of the compass they turned their boat the wind served in this slow manner for a considerable length of time they at last caught a slight puff of wind and off went their laden craft seaward.

Large sections of the bank on Hill Crest are sinking seaward. The new breakwaters are not yet completed, but will be soon.

Miss Beatrice Mowat has returned to her home in London, after spending a couple of weeks on Orchard Beach, where she was greatly missed.

SET BACK FOR SOCIALISTS

Activity in Riot Causes French Government to Put On the Screws.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The labor riots which occurred Thursday at Villeneuve, St. Georges, took the form of an open rebellion when the followers of the general confederation of labor committed a premeditated revolutionary act. So far from promoting the aims of the ultra socialists, it will undoubtedly lead to a salutary setback for them.

The Government will handle the matter with determination and it will have the support of the country. There is not a man in France fitter than M. Clemenceau to take the situation in hand. The general confederation of labor, if it is not suppressed entirely, will certainly have its pernicious activity curbed. Its suppression will entail less legislation, which is possible.

Meanwhile, events have served to irrevocably fix a gulf between the republican majority and the extreme socialist wing, which, both in the Chamber of Deputies and in the press, acts as the agent of the revolutionary confederation.

IREDOMITABLE BEAT THE CUNARD RECORD

Averaged 26.4 Knots Per Hour on the Run Home.

Cowes, Aug. 4.—The Indomitable, which brought the Prince of Wales from Quebec during four hours in the early part of the voyage, made 25.4 knots an hour. Although for the 2,000 miles from land to land she beat the record of the Cunard line ships, the vessel was not stripped to enhance her racing powers, but carried her heavy guns, her magazines full of ammunition and all the equipment of active service. The longest day's run was 605 knots. The engineers consider the feat of the Indomitable a splendid tribute to the Parsons turbines. The Indomitable passed more than fifty icebergs, but encountered little fog after leaving Belle Isle. No hitch occurred from the start to the finish of the voyage.

The Prince of Wales took the keenest interest in the speed trial.

KING HARRY'S REVELS

Nobles of King Edward's Court to Hold Pageant at Sarby Hall.

(Special to The Advertiser.) London, Aug. 1.—Pageantitis is indeed becoming a disease in England. Now society is affected by it, and this coming week will be titled men and women will give a pageant at Sarby Hall. It will be called King Harry's revels, and lords and ladies of King Edward's court will impersonate lords and ladies of the court of King Henry VIII, and in many cases their own ancestors.

Henry VIII, once visited Sarby Hall, and the pageant will be given on the very terraces where he walked.

LONDON OLD BOYS WALK

Old Boys Were Heroes.

All along the line of march the Old Boys were greeted with salutations from their friends, and when the bands ceased playing, there was a continual round of pleasant greetings. Many old familiar faces at these reunions were missing. Some of them will never come back. Many could not get away owing to the pressure of great business, but the representatives of every association in America and Canada brought greetings of love and affection from those who could not come.

As the procession moved along, it was seen that it was one of the finest ever held. No expense had been spared to make the reunion a success. The home guard had done its best to make it worthy of London and worthy of the movement, and it succeeded in a matter of congratulation to those who had anything to do with it. As was to be expected, the crowds were very orderly.

True, there was a great deal of good-natured chaffing, and jollying, but everybody was in his best humor, and not an act that would in any manner mar the pleasure of the occasion could be noticed.

Once the parade got in motion, excellent time was made. No stops were made, and it moved with precision and speed to the grounds.

The Mercantile Fleet.

The exhibition made by the manufacturers and merchants of London was splendid. Practically all the leading firms of the city were represented in the procession, and no expense was spared to make the parade noteworthy.

It was shortly after 1:30 o'clock when Grand Marshal Walter Bartlett got the procession in motion. The section was stationed at a convenient position along the route, and with the regularity of clockwork, the different sections joined in, and made their way to Queen's Park, where a most interesting programme was given.

Of the funniest features of the programme, and one that created no end of amusement, was that labelled "The Remains of Russia."

This parade was given by the Jewish Society of London, and was quite as he helped to show the natives of London how really bad the Russians are. It was not stated, but should be, that the Russian exhibit consisted largely of whisks, and then some more whiskies, and then some more whiskies, punctuated with out-of-date plug hats.

The Buffalo Boys put on a clever little bit of comedy. At the head of their association was a stage Hebrew, "Ikey Ike," as enacted by James D. Mustell. James is some joker when he is not disguised, but in his make-up yesterday he was a wonder.

They also had Uncle Sam, too. Jimmy Shyne, of Buffalo, took this part, and when it is said that he was quite one of the funniest pieces of the day, that is saying something.

The local sports took the Jennings rig, "We-Ah," with great joy, and showed that almost everybody in these diggings was shouting for the Detroit Tigers to come through with the American League championship.

A Big Hit.

"Bob" Shillington, as Johnny Bull, made a great hit. He was the grand old man to a hair.

The Wingham Flute Band was a winner in the procession. It was greeted with applause all along the way, and never for a minute got anything but a good hand.

Drum Major Cockburn, as usual, made a fine impression on the line of march, and kept the big procession stepping right all the way.

The Ninety-first Highlanders' Band, of Hamilton, is making a grand impression during its stay here. Bandmaster Stares has enough friends in the town to stay lifetime, and his men are not a bit less popular. The Hamilton Boys made no mistake in bringing them.

Mrs. Adam Beck's George IV. carriage was an exquisite bit of work. The cart was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, and was drawn by that beautiful, prize-winning high stepper, Sparkie. Mrs. Beck wore a costume in keeping with the style of carriage, and was roundly cheered all along the journey. She was accompanied by Miss Nenore Carling.

An Incident.

An amusing incident, and one that might have resulted seriously, occurred on Queen's avenue, just east of Park avenue.

Two young lads were driving a butcher's rig in the procession, and had got behind the rear. They hurried their horse up, but they had not stopped quickly. One of the lads was not watching, and when the rig stopped suddenly, he rolled off the seat onto the road, describing a series of somersaults. It was thought that he was hurt, but he got up without a bruise. He certainly executed one of the funniest acrobatic performances seen in many days.

The Irish jaunting car was the centre of a great deal of interest. On it were Mr. Stephen Grant, president of the Irish Benevolent Society, Mr. Denis Mason, Mr. John Garvey and Dr. John D. Wilson, all past presidents of the society. Mr. James Breen made a typical jarvey. The Irish can't be beaten.

The St. Thomas association sent a splendid contingent of Old Boys to the reunion, and they were very strong in the procession. Dr. Fred Galt looked after them all the way. Mayor Geddes, another of the Old Boys, was on hand, and had a great time.

Woodstock Boys.

Chief Dan Thompson and Fire Chief Sandy Borland, of Woodstock, had a great bunch of Woodstock Boys in line. They were dressed in light suits, and made a fine impression. They had a band worth while with them, too.

The automobiles looked immense. There were over 25 of them in line, and they were most profusely decorated. Everybody seemed interested upon their good appearance.

The Canadian West Boys were on hand, and gave no person a chance to forget there was nothing this side the sun quite so good as that country—save, perhaps, the old home town.

The Detroit Boys' chartered many carriages for the Old Girls. Perhaps they were the happy bunch! The Seventh Regiment Band, under Bandmaster Slater, performed right up to the mark, despite the fact that the band was crippled, as several of his best musicians could not take part in the procession, owing to the death of one of the men.

The Procession.

The procession was as follows: Platoon of police, under Sergt. McDonald. Grand Marshal Walter Bartlett. John Bull. Drum Major Cockburn and the Seventh Band.

President MacRobert, Secretary McCann, Treasurer Thomas Gillean and Dr. Harry Abbott.

Mayor Stevely, Mayor Geddes, St. Thomas, and council, in carriages.

Board of Education. Separate School Board. Public Library Board. City officials.

Reception Committee. Board of Trade.

Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association. Board of Health. Hospital Trust.

Costa Rica Old Boys. Gammage's Floral Float. Ninety-first Highlanders' Band.

Hamilton Old Boys. Toronto Old Boys. Hon. Adam Beck's horses.

Mrs. Beck's George IV. carriage. Irish Jaunting Car.

Pony parade, under direction of Mr. W. T. Strong.

W. O. W. Float. Pine Grove Encampment, Uniform Lodge.

Woodmen of the World. "The Remains of Russia."

Detroit Old Boys. Veteran Firemen.

City Fire Department. Twenty-fifth Regiment Band.

St. Thomas Old Boys. Cleveland Old Boys. Citizens' Band.

Uncle Sam. Buffalo Old Boys. Chicago and Niagara Falls Old Boys.

Wingham Flute Band. Winnipeg Old Boys. Calgary Old Boys.

California Old Boys. Businessmen's Floats. Automobile parade.

Woodstock Band. Woodstock Old Boys. Ingersoll Old Boys.

Twenty-eighth Regiment Band. Stratford Old Boys. Jesse James Gang.

Old Royal Mail Service. Modern Mail Service. Businessmen's Wagons. Dog Cart.

Story of the March.

Queen's avenue never in the history of London presented a gayier appearance, and as far as the eye could see through the long lane formed by the green trees on each side and the white stretch of pavement beneath, flags were waving, bunting was flying, and thousands of people were moving to and fro waiting for the procession to start.

At last it came, headed by sixteen members of the police force, under Sergt. McDonald.

Immediately behind came Grand Marshal Walter Bartlett, and the crowd broke into cheers as John Bull in a Union Jack vest, top boots and dice hat, stepped into view, bearing aloft the Union Jack. The Seventh Band following struck up a popular air, but the music was drowned by a hack bearing President E. J. MacRobert, Secretary McCann, Treasurer Gillean and Chairman of the Reception Committee H. A. Abbott made its appearance.

These four gentlemen have worked hard and long, and it must have been some satisfaction to them to know that those for whom they have worked appreciated their efforts.

The four officials bowed their acknowledgments, and the crowd broke into another burst of cheers as the hacks bearing the members of the city council and their guest, Mayor Geddes, of St. Thomas, came along.

An Artistic Float.

They were followed respectively by the board of education, the separate school board, the water commissioners and Magistrate Love, the public library board, the reception committee, a body of city officials, the officers of the board of trade, the Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association, the board of health, and a prettily decorated hack bearing three London Old Boys from Costa Rica.

The first of the floats, a beautifully designed floral bower, showing the mannered by five little girls in white, and three boys came next in line.

This was one of the most beautiful exhibits in the procession, and elicited general applause and admiration. The Ninety-first Highlanders' Band came next, and the scarlet tunics and green kilts, together with the jaunty caps, pleased everyone, and the band was given a cordial reception as they passed by playing a stirring piece.

The Old Boys from Toronto and Hamilton to the number of several hundred followed, and then came Hon. Adam Beck, driving the famous tandem team, Lord and Lady Norfolk, the horses that won the first prize against all-comers at the International Horse Show in London, England, last year.

The horses were in perfect condition, and everyone who saw them spoke in the highest terms of them.

Immediately behind came Mrs. Beck, driving her own beautiful horse Sparkie, attached to a George IV. phaeton, entirely covered, even to the wheels, with beautiful yellow chrysanthemums.

The three horses made a splendid appearance, and were repeatedly cheered along the line of march.

The Pony Show.

An Irish jaunting car which followed caused a great deal of amusement, especially among the children, who were also greatly interested in the pony parade which followed immediately.

The boys and girls who entered this certainly deserve the greatest credit for they spared no pains to do their share in making the Old Boys' procession a great attraction, and how well they succeeded was shown by the repeated cheers which greeted them as one after another came into view. The little boys and girls who were driving the ponies were most gorgeously dressed, many of the boys being dressed as sailors or in khaki as soldiers, while the girls had a variety of costumes, all of which were strikingly beautiful and were in perfect accord with the splendid decorations of the pony carts. Taken all around, this was a most attractive feature of the procession.

The Twenty-Sixth band was next in line, marching ahead of the float of the Woodmen of the World, a somewhat symbolic affair and rather striking in that the personages seated in it had on the robes that use in performing secret work, and these, combined with a big and peculiarly painted globe lent an air of mystery to the whole thing that gave a decided impression of astrology and yet was attractive.

The uniform rank company of Pine Grove Camp followed, bearing their axes, and presented a fine appearance. The grand lodge officers in a hack brought up the rear.

That Russian Float.

Again came a comic feature that made young and old roar with laughter, in a comic parade entitled, "The Remains of Russia."

The parade was a burlesque and a funny one, from General Stoesel, with a Muscovite moustache and an illuminated nose, to the Nihilists that followed in a hack all ready to throw the bombkys. Winnipeg Old Boys followed and then those from Detroit.

All the Detroiters were in hacks neatly decorated and bearing attractive lines announcing that those within were from the City of the Strait. A feature of the Detroit exhibit was the yell they had for Hughie Jennings, the famous baseball player.

Everyone was interested in the parade of the veteran firemen, which followed.

Old-Time Brigade.

The firefighters of the olden days were neatly dressed in white hats, bearing the inscription of "Veteran Firemen," and scarlet shirts. There were about forty of them, and as the old Phoenix fire engine passed by many of the older citizens who had turned out to witness the parade spoke reminiscently of the olden days when London's fire was put out by famous thoroughbred country fire.

Its big men and the speed with which they always turned out at an alarm of fire. The veteran firemen are all good men yet and intend giving an exhibition of fire extinguishing as they used to do it when London was a small town.

The old bell on the fire engine was rung almost continuously, and one could readily secure a mental picture of the old brigade turning out at an alarm of fire and rushing down the streets of London, that in those days people never dreamed would grow to its present size.

In striking contrast to the engine of fifty years ago was the handsome new Phoenix, with its shining nickel-plated dome sparkling in the sun, drawn by a magnificent team of horses and capable of pumping more water in a minute than the whole department in former times by their united efforts could force through their lines in an hour.

Following the handsome engine came the chemical engine from No. 1 station, the combination wagon from No. 3 station and the ladder and truck from No. 1.

An exhibit of fire apparatus appeals alike to young and old, and they never tire of seeing it, and many words of praise were uttered regarding the splendid appearance of the men and apparatus in the parade, and the all-round good work of Chief Clark.

St. Thomas Old Boys.

Immediately following the fire apparatus was the Twenty-Fifth Regiment band from St. Thomas, marching ahead of the St. Thomas Old Boys, who all wore neat badges and a souvenir cap. They were followed by the Old Boys from Cleveland, the ladies from that city all riding in hacks and being distinguished by very neat red belt which they all wore.

The Citizens' band marched ahead of Uncle Sam, who was followed by a large party of Old Boys from Chicago, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. The Buffaloes had a song, the chorus of which they sang over and over and which informed the people that the singers were from Buffalo and that it was the right of the West were next in line, and conspicuous among them were the boys from Calgary in the wide brimmed felt hats which one instantly associates with the Northwest Mounted Police.

The West.

The West was well represented, American and Canadian westerners marching side by side, men from San Francisco talking reminiscently with men from Winnipeg, and all recalling old times and old friends whom they had, perhaps, not thought of before for years. The larger floats of the business firms came next, that of McClary's leading. The firm's float showed a model kitchen furnished with the numerous articles made by McClary's, and seated comfortably at it were a South African veteran in a suit of khaki, his wife and their children.

Following this was a float in which six pretty little girls dressed in white were ensconced among floral decorations.

The whole effect was very pretty and above was a banner showing that the float belonged to the Gurd Broom Factory. The wagons of Flavell's, Jenkins & Marley, Hamilton's Brewery, the Dominion Express and the Canadian Express followed, and all were most attractively decorated.

Besides the driver of the big Dominion Express van sat a bull dog, which looked as if it were the model for the famous picture "What We Have We Hold."

The Wheelmen.

A parade of wheelmen followed. The boys of the city had entered in considerable numbers, and their wheels were all very tastefully decorated. Behind them came a body of Old Boys mounted on the old-style of high-wheel bicycles such as were common in London twenty years ago.

Following the wheelmen came twenty-five beautifully-decorated automobiles.

The large car of Mr. John McClary led the auto.

The auto exhibit was a feature of the procession, and the Old Boys' committee deserve great praise for getting such a large number of beautifully-decorated machines in line. Headed by a band, the Woodstock Old Boys were next in line, prominent among them being Chief of Police Dan Thompson and Fire Chief Sandy Borland. The Ingersoll band and a large party of Old Boys from there came next, and were followed by the band of the Twenty-Eighth Regiment, Stratford, and a big gathering of former Londoners who are now living in the Classic City. Rather suggestive of melodrama and dime novels was a Jesse James gang at the head of the Royal Mail Service wagons and the clerks who used to look after the mail in the year 1874. However, the only holdups that occurred were when the rigs got too close together and some of them had to stop until the rest went on farther.

McCormick's Biscuit Works was represented by one of the best displays of wafers that turned out and their vehicles were all most attractively decorated.

These wagons were of more than usual interest to the small boy, as samples of sweet cakes and caramels were distributed.

The laundry firms of the city were represented by a fine-looking lot of wagons, all of which were beautifully clean and profusely decorated.

In the parade was that of the best display of wafers that turned out and their vehicles were all most attractively decorated.

The Wings of the Morning

BY LOUIS TRACY.

CHAPTER I.

Lady Tozer adjusted her gold-rimmed eyeglasses with an air of dignified aggressiveness. She had lived too many years in the Far East. In Hong Kong she was known as the "Mandarin." Her powers of merciless inquisition suggested torments long drawn out. The commander of the Sirdar, homeward bound from Shanghai, knew that he was about to be stretched on the rack when he took his seat at the saloon table.

"Is it true, captain, that we are running into a typhoon?" demanded her ladyship.

"From whom did you learn that, Lady Tozer?" Captain Ross was wary, though somewhat surprised.

"From Miss Deane. I understood her a moment ago to say that you had told her."

"I?"

"Didn't you? Someone told me this morning. I couldn't have guessed it, could I?" Miss Iris Deane's large blue eyes surveyed him with innocent indifference to strict accuracy.

Incidentally, she had obtained the information from her maid, a nose-titled coquette who extracted ship's secrets from a youthful quartermaster.

"Well—er—I had forgotten," explained the tactful sailor.

"Is it true?"

Lady Tozer was unusually abrupt today. But she was genuinely thankful for the assumption that the captain took a mere girl into his confidence and passed over the wife of the ex-chief justice of Hong Kong.

"Yes, it is," said Captain Ross, equally curt and silently thanking the fates that his ladyship was going home for the last time.

"How horrible!" she gasped, in unaffected alarm. This return to femininity soothed the sailor's ruffled temper.

Sir John, her husband, frowned judicially. That frown constituted his legal stock-in-trade, yet it passed current for wisdom with the Hong Kong bar.

"What evidence have you?" he asked.

"To tell you," chimed in Iris, delightfully unconscious of interrupting the court. "Did you find out when you quitted at the sun?"

The captain smiled. "You are nearer the mark than possibly you imagine, Miss Deane," he said. "When we took our observations yesterday there was a very weird-looking haze around the sun."

This morning you may have noticed several light squalls and a smooth sea marked occasionally by strong ripples. The barometer is falling rapidly, and I expect that as the day wears on, we will encounter heavy swell. If the sky looks wild tonight, and especially if we observe a heavy bank of cloud approaching from the northwest, you will see the crockery dancing on the table at dinner."

I am afraid you are not a good sailor, Lady Tozer. Are you, Miss Deane?"

"Capital! I should just love to see a real storm. Now promise me solemnly that you will take me up into the chartroom when this typhoon is simply tearing things to pieces."

"Oh, dear! I do hope it will not be very bad. Is there no way in which you can avoid it, captain? Will it last long?"

The politic skipper for once preferred to answer Lady Tozer. "There is no cause for uneasiness," he said. "Of course, typhoons in the China Sea are nasty things while they last, but a ship like the Sirdar is not troubled by them. She will drive through the worst gale she is likely to meet here in less than twelve hours. Besides, I alter the course somewhat as soon as I discover our position with regard to its centre. You see, Miss Deane."

And Captain Ross forthwith illustrated on the back of a menu card the spiral shape and progress of a cyclone. He so thoroughly mystified the girl by his technical references to northern and southern hemispheres, polar directions, revolving air currents, external circumstances, and diminished atmospheric pressures, that she was too bewildered to reiterate a desire to visit the bridge.

Then the commander hurriedly excused himself, and the passengers saw no more of him that day.

But his short scientific lecture achieved a double purpose. It rescued him from a request which he could not possibly grant, and reassured Lady Tozer. To the non-nautical mind it is the unknown that is fearful. A storm classed as "periodic," whose velocity can be measured, whose direction can be determined before-hand by hours and distances, ceases to be terrifying. It becomes an accepted fact, akin to the steam engine and the electric telegraph, marvellous yet commonplace.

So her ladyship dismissed the topic as of no present interest, and focused Miss Deane through her eyeglasses.

"Sir Arthur proposes to come home in June, I understand," she inquired.

Iris was a remarkably healthy young woman. A large banana momentarily engaged her attention. She nodded affably.

"You will stay with relatives until he arrives?"

"The banana is a fruit of simple characteristics. The girl was able to reply, with a touch of careless hauteur in her voice:

"Relatives? We have none—none whom we specially cultivate, thank you. I will stop in town a day or two to interview my dressmaker, and then go straight to Helmsdale, our place in Yorkshire."

"Surely you have a chaperon?"

"A chaperon? My dear Lady Tozer, did my father impress you as one who would permit a fussy and stout old person to make my life miserable?"

The acidity of the retort lay in the word "stout." But Iris was accustomed to cross-examination. During her three months' residence on the island she had learnt how to avoid Lady Tozer. Here it was impossible, and the older woman fastened upon her

"Perhaps the lady may not be a typhoon. It may only be a little bit of a storm."

Her sex saved her from a jeer. Experience gleefully shook her head.

"The barometer resists your plea," she said. "I fear there will be a good many empty saddles in the saloon at dinner."

The lady smiled weakly. It was a feeble joke at the best. "You think we are in for a sort of marine steeplechase?" she asked.

"Well, thank heaven, I had a good lunch," sniggered a rosy-faced subaltern, and a ripple of laughter greeted his enthusiasm.

Iris stood somewhat apart from the speakers. The wind had freshened and her hat was tied closely over her ears. She leaned against the taffrail, enjoying the cool breeze after hours of sultry heat. The sky was cloudless yet, but there was a queasy thing of lurid copper in the all-pervading sunshine. The sea was coldly blue. The life had gone out of it. It was no longer inviting and translucent. That morning, were such a thing practicable, she would gladly have dived into its crystal depths and disported herself like a frolicsome mermaid. Now something akin to repulsion came with the fanciful remembrance.

Long sullen undulation swept noiselessly past the ship. Once, after a steady climbing up a rolling hill of water, the Sirdar quickly pecked at the succeeding valley, and the propeller gave a couple of angry flaps on the surface, whilst a tremor ran through the stout iron rails on which the girl's arm rested.

The crew were busy too. Squads of Lascars raced about, industriously obedient to the short shrill whistling of jemadars and quartermasters. Boat lashings were tested and tightened, canvas awnings stretched across the deck forward, ventilator cowls twisted to new angles, and hatches clamped down over the wooden gratings that covered the holds. Officers, spotless in white linen, fitted quietly to and fro. When the watch was changed, Iris noticed that the "chief" appeared in an old blue suit and carried old skins over his arm as he climbed to the bridge.

Nature looked disturbed and fitful, and the ship responded to her mood. There was a sense of preparation in the air, of coming orders, of restless foreboding. Chained clanked with a noise the girl never noticed before; the tramp of hurrying men on the hurricane deck overhead sounded heavy and hollow. There was a squeaking of chairs as they were pulled away from people gathered up books and wraps and staggered ungracefully towards the companion-way. Altogether Miss Deane was not wholly pleased with the preliminaries of a typhoon, whatever the realities might be.

And then, why did gales always spring up at the close of day? Could they not start after breakfast, rage with furious grandeur during lunch, and die away peacefully during dinner-time, permitting one to sleep in comfort without that straining and groaning of the ship which seemed to imply a sharp attack of rheumatism in every joint?

ENTIRE ARMY READY TO REVOLT

Inside History of Coup d'Etat at Constantinople Comes to Light.

London, Aug. 2.—The inner history of the Turkish revolution in Turkey is now available. It comes from a source most reliable, but the identity of which must be withheld. The writer emphasizes at the outset that the events of the past few days, the importance of which cannot be exaggerated, came with as great surprise to the acutest members of the diplomatic corps as the Sultan himself.

Foreign observers are still filled with amazement at a spectacle unparalleled in history, namely, a bloodless revolution with enthusiastic loyalty to a former tyrant. The long and systematic campaign by the Young Turk party is unequalled in modern times for its skill, its secrecy and its entire success. The country had not the slightest suspicion that the whole of the European Turkish army had become a unit for rebellion. It was known that the navy was liberal in its sympathies, but the navy did not count. Its hundred admirals had never been afloat, and the propellers of the three battleships were kept locked at Yildiz. The army was different. It was the only support and reliance that Abdul's autocracy possessed. The police and civil authorities were of little account.

The Inside Facts.

This is what happened, according to the newspaper correspondent's informant: "The thing began at Monastir a few days ago, when the garrison mounted and killed their cash that was on hand and went into the mountains. Several palace officials who were sent to investigate were shot down by the soldiers. These events were not part of the Young Turkish programme, and their hand was forced by them. The Monastir mutiny, however, was only slightly premature and the revolutionary party promptly precipitated a crisis.

Their leader, Major Miazir, telegraphed direct to the Sultan: "Proclaim a constitution at once or I will march on Constantinople with 300,000 men. It was the first intimation Abdul had of the truth."

Advised to Yield.

Grand Vizier Ferid advised him to yield. The Sultan replied: "I cannot do this thing without consulting the old Viziers, Saad and Kaimil." They came and said, "No, you will lose all if you yield. This is only the beginning of the demand for Ferid's head and was replaced by the usual pomp by Saad. Then came another dispatch to the Sultan: "We demand the heads of Izet and Tasim." On the heels of this significant announcement came another terrible warning as follows: "In case you don't proclaim a constitution immediately I will see that your name next Friday is not mentioned in any mosque in all Istanbul." Constantine filled the palace with his most trusted ministers, which lasted until 5 a.m. Some of the ministers wanted to temporize, but the Sultan finally said, "No, I gave this constitution originally and I have published it each year in the official almanac, and I will order the elections at once on the constitution as it stands."

The native press had been ordered to delay publication that (Friday) morning, and the papers appeared several hours later than usual, but with the official announcement. Constantinople read it, rubbed its eyes and refused to believe. That day came another peremptory demand from the revolutionary leaders: "Release all political prisoners." It was done, and only then the people understood. Then followed, such scenes of joy and loyalty as rarely have been witnessed."

It will be said that the foregoing differs from earlier versions of the revolution. It will be remembered that the first news of granting the constitution reached the outside world from Macedonia some hours before it was confirmed from Constantinople. It is clear that this was a revolutionary proclamation, which the Sultan himself accepted and confirmed later. This is confirmed by a letter from Salonica in yesterday's Times, which describes the placarding of the city with revolutionary manifestoes by officers in uniform on Wednesday night. One police official who attempted to interfere, was shot by another officer. In another case a policeman protested to a wonder why the revolutionaries would kill him who was putting up the manifesto.

"Very well," said the officer, "wait till I give you backache," and he put a cartridge into the policeman's hand. The policeman took the hint and departed at that moment. This was the most frequent place in Salonica on Thursday at noon.

The Future.

As to the future, only the foolish would venture prophesy. The writer quoted above says the army will demand a complete change in the Sultan's entourage and probably the execution of the greatest of the old, who have robbed and oppressed the people, and an almost complete change of ministers. Parliament will meet, according to decree, in November. Some express fear that the demands will not be pressed to real fruition. But a backward step now would be fatal to the Sultan. The key to the Sultan is now the financial question. There never has been a financial budget. The Sultan is the sole treasurer. He refused to allow the Pochat 30 years ago, to limit him $5,000 a day for palace expenses. Since then the Sultan's personal expenses have quadrupled. The country rich as it is, is on the verge of financial ruin. Everything in sight is taxed to the utmost. When a new Government begins cutting off expenses right and left, as it must do, there will be created a great body of malcontents. The Sultan will be foolish if he disposes of ministerial control of the national finances, but he may do so, and then a fresh crisis will be precipitated.

James Holson, of Inceklip, who came to this country in 1842, is dead.

On Flags.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Now that our beautiful city is assuming the holiday aspect, and our national flag is the principal decoration—and whether used as a decoration or as an inspiration, where can you find the equal of it?—and yet in this fair city of ours we find some people who have been born and raised here, displaying a foreign flag instead of, or along side of, our own emblem.

Especially is this noticeable in the streamers flying across the main streets where you see the foreign flags given far more prominence than our own, which is very poor policy on the part of those in charge. Those who do this sort of thing are usually easy enough to believe that by so doing they win the applause of foreigners, but it is not a fact that people who are native to their own flag are the people who are most respected by those from under a foreign flag? Those of our friends from across the border who left us in the years that are gone would now appreciate us and our judgment a great deal more if we were true to our own flag. Why raise our flag at all if we put it on a level with foreign flags, and what a detrimental effect this sort of thing will have on the rising generation? We have foreigners coming into this country out of whom we should try to make Canadians instead of trying to make foreigners out of our own people; and is it not up to the decoration committee and citizens generally to act like true Londoners and Canadians for this once? The Water Question.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Permit me to express my views on that much-discussed question, "Our Water Supply." We have had the celebrated Komoka scheme strongly urged for our acceptance by the commissioners, and it has often caused me to wonder why the commissioners have been so persistent in their endeavors to force the ratepayers to accept their pet scheme, when it has been plainly shown that in proportion to the advantages it would prove to be an expensive and disappointing proposition. The Titus scheme was frozen out, and could not get even a look-in. Why it was subjected to such treatment, I am unable to fathom. Perhaps our commissioners might be able to tell us. However, there is no doubt in my mind that the Titus offer was—and is, it still open—the only businesslike proposition ever brought before the citizens for a permanent supply of pure water, and I am convinced would prove the most profitable. When a man comes forward and guarantees under bonds to give us a practically unlimited supply of spring water on the terms of offer, let the citizens demand that this scheme be submitted to their vote.

Put By a Nest Egg for Emergencies

Three Hundred Dollars in a Loan Company an Unassailable Asset.

In the Statute respecting Loan Companies there is a provision which absolutely protects a deposit of $300 or under.

If you have a deposit of that amount with this Company, it cannot be taken from you by any legal process or for any reason whatever. The Company is specifically forbidden to pay out that money to any other person excepting upon the depositor's order.

It would be a wise provision for you to deposit $300 with this Company. It would form a nest egg for the future which could never be secured by any one else unless you so ordered.

This and many other interesting points regarding banking by mail and the purchase of Debentures will be gladly explained to you upon request.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

QUOITING, BOXING,
FOOTBALL, GOLF, CRICKETSarnia Player Defeats Callander
In Opening of Quoiting ChampionshipFine Play at Annual Tourney of the Forest City Club.

The defeat of Bob Callander, of Toronto, three times winner of the American championship, by W. Nickle, of Sarnia, was the feature of the opening day's sport at the annual tourney of the Forest City Quoiting Club yesterday afternoon on the club's new grounds on Horton street.

Another feature of the sport was the return to form of James Bell, of London, twice winner of the championship, who last year lost out to Callander.

Surprises were the order of the day, and many a veteran of the quots fell by the wayside before younger opponents. One of the exceptions to the rule, however, was the double victory of Captain Thomas Robson, who defeated H. Callam, of Innerkip, in the first draw of the first series and later defeated R. Burrell, of London, in the second draw.

Dave Miller, of Port Wayne, Ind., always a dangerous competitor, won both his games over R. Hunter, of Bright, and R. Sabine, Innerkip, in handy fashion, although kept rather busy in the last named match, which he won by two up.

John Talbot, the veteran London quoter, did well in the first draw, but was compelled to lower his colors to ex-Champion Bell in the second draw.

Frank Claus, the clever Shannonville Indian quoter, made a game fight in the first draw, but was defeated by one shot by Bolton, of London. Mr. Klaus has been coming to London for years, and is recognized as being one of the best in the business. Play is being continued today, and tomorrow the finals in the championship will be played off.

Records Broken at Kalamazoo
Minor Heir is a Winner

Jack Leyburn Beaten by Sterling McKinney in 2:09

Trot.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 3. — The opening day of Grand Circuit racing at Recreation Park was signalized by the defeat of the supposed unbeatable Jack Leyburn in the $2,000 stake for 2:09 trotters. Incidentally the track record, both trotting and pacing, was demolished a couple of times and all in all it was a great day for harness racing in the City of Celery.

It was Sterling McKinney, the stallion which sold for $20,000, with provisions for about $15,000 more, who performed certain feats in Detroit last week, who accomplished the overthrow of the chestnut gelding from Philadelphia today, and it was a great contest, although the time was not as fast as that made by Leyburn last week at Detroit.

Minor Heir.

Most interest centered in the appearance of the western whirlwind, Minor Heir, in the race for 2:15 pacers, and, as expected, it was virtually a walkover. George Gano, who fell down on the last day of the Blue Ribbon meeting, being the only one to get within striking distance of him. The first heat was paced in 2:03, a new track record, and the second heat was paced in 2:02, when Cox pressed him with George Gano.

Loyal was a strong favorite for the 2:24 trot, selling for $25, while the field only brought $15, but the Geers brothers were beaten by Nancy Royce, driven by Knapp McCarthy after a hard contest of five heats in slow time.

CURRENT SPORTING GOSSIP

BY SOUTHPAW

THE SAYING that "they never come back" evidently doesn't apply to ex-Champion Jimmy Bell, who more than held his own in the Forest City quoiting tournament yesterday. Of course, there are other and harder battles yet to be fought before Jimmy comes back to his own, but he can be depended upon to give the best of them a whirl.

TY COBB has "went." Yep, Ty-rus has left for his Georgian domicile with the avowed intention of taking upon himself a partner in the future. Everybody agrees that Ty pretty nearly knows what he wants, and that he wants what he wants when he wants it, but his fan's eyes are at present occupied in studying Davy Jones' style of batting.

FOR THE BENEFIT of the uninitiated it might be set down that the Rambler team, which won yesterday's relay at Queen's Park, can travel along about as fast as any of them. It was too bad, though, that Captain Robson didn't have that county relay team of his on hand. A battle royal would have certainly ensued.

HALF-PAGE CUTS of the English Marathon finish in the big New York dailies, show conclusively that Dorando, the game Italian runner, was assisted to the tape by the officials. Hayes, the winner, looked to be just about "all in," too.

FROM ALL APPEARANCES Ken Murray, the jovial one, is a better hockey match timer than a chariot driver. At that, though, one of Ken's "orses got tangled up in the bridle, or some other part of the harness, and when a "orse does that 'hit's time to quit.

TOO BAD the London Baseball Club couldn't hold out until Old Boys' week. That crowd at Queen's Park yesterday day would have delighted the heart of even one-legged Billy Murray, who enjoyed the reputation of being the greatest kicker in the International League.

AND SPEAKING about baseball reminds us that the greatest game of them all comes off at Springfield this afternoon, when picked teams from the visiting Old Boys meet in combat. The victim has not yet been decided upon, but it will probably be B. J. McCann.

THE ADVERTISER sporting editor was visited today by Mr. W. (Billy) Rooks, of Detroit, a former well-known London boy, who has made a great reputation for himself as an all-around sportsman in the States. Mr. Rooks is a warm personal friend of Joe Jackson, the clever Detroit sporting writer, and has refereed such bouts as the ones between Billy Papke, the Milwaukee boxer, and Hugo Kelly, of Chicago, and Stanley Ketchell, middleweight champion, and Sam Langford, of Boston.

MR. ROOKS recently made a trip to the coast to fitness the Gans Nelson light-weight championship battle, and was much disappointed in the result of the go.

He stated that he could not understand Gans' actions at all in the bout in question. "Why, he had the Dane whipped from every point of the compass," said Mr. Rooks, "and for the first seven rounds there was nothing to it but Gans. I have seen Gans in nearly all of his important bouts, and I never saw him stop up short as he did with Nelson.

"BOXING IS TAKING a great hold in Windsor," said Mr. Rooks, "and better bouts are being given at popular prices than in Boston, where the prices range from $2 to $20 a seat."

MR. ROOKS accompanied the De-

BOB CALLENDAR OF TORONTO.

Callander, three champion quoter of America, was beaten in the second draw, first series, at the Forest City Quoiting Club tournament yesterday.

Trot Tigers to Chicago last year on that fateful world series expedition. In discussing the chances of the Tigers this season, Mr. Rooks stated that it looked like the easiest kind of picking from now on. "They've got a great bunch there," said he, "and, what is more, they are all working together for old Detroit."

NEW BATTING ORDER

Davy Jones Will Lead Off Today for Tigers.

Detroit, Aug. 4.—With the departure of Ty Cobb for Georgia to be married the Tiger batting order will be changed. Davy Jones will lead off, and McIntyre will take Cobb's place as fourth hitter. Ty promises to be back in Detroit in time to play in Saturday's game.

President Navin today announced the purchase of Outfielder Chee, of the Williamsport Club of the Tri-State League. Chee can play both fields and is a swell hitter.

The team opens a series of four games with Philadelphia at Bennett Park this afternoon.

EDDIE GRANEY
WILL REFEREE

San Francisco, Aug. 3.—Eddie Graneley is practically certain to be the referee of the next Gans-Nelson fight. Although no official announcement has been made by the club management to this effect, Gans has already agreed to the San Francisco blacksmith being the man in the ring, and Willis Britt, acting for Nelson, also approves his appointment.

Nelson started this morning with his father, his brother and Tommy Ryan, for Benton Harbor, where he will visit Ryan's peach orchard. He will give a boxing exhibition with Ryan at South Bend tomorrow evening. He returns to Chicago Wednesday morning and departs Wednesday night for New Mexico, where he will spend a few days hunting near Perry.

CHAMPION KETCHELL
WILL BE BUSY

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 4.—Stanley Ketchell has a lively time ahead of him for the next six weeks, as he is billed on Aug. 18 at the Coliseum to go 20 rounds with Joe Thomas at catchweights, and on Labor Day in Los Angeles he will fight 25 rounds with Billy Papke before Jeffries' athletic club. Thomas has given the Michigan man three tough fights, and ought to be able to make another hard go, as he will not be tied down this time by weight restrictions.

Early in September three championships will be settled in three days. On Sept. 7, Labor Day, Owen Moran and Abe Attel will box 20 rounds at Cofroth's Mission street arena. On the same date Papke and Ketchell will meet at Jeffries' club in Los Angeles. Two days later Battling Nelson and Joe Gans will fight again at Cofroth's. This will be the biggest collection of championship contests since the New Orleans festival when John L. was beaten.

A SPORTING ARCADIA

New York, Aug. 4.—Prominent brokers are trying to find the officials of a company which is promoting the establishment of a land of content by reclamation of land under water said to be located three miles out to sea from New York harbor.

It is the purpose of this company to establish an entirely new government for a land where the "sporting man" may have his fill of amusement without fear of contravening law of any nation.

The company proposes to provide automobile courses and fields for all sports, but it also intends to establish an immense race course where followers of the turf will be assured of all the privileges of betting which have been denied them in many states.

The name of the new country, according to the prospectus issued, will be "Arcadia."

TWO FAST GAMES
IN EAST ENDThe Ramblers Defeated the Oriens and the Somers-
villes the Stars.

Clean batting and some assistance from Dame Fortune yesterday morning gave the Ramblers and the Somersvilles victories over the Oriens and the Stars in the East End League by scores of 4-2 and 2-1. As the scores indicate, both games were well contested, and were anybody's almost until the last inning. Particularly was this so of the second game, when the Gun Chewers annexed in the last round on two singles, a double, a sacrifice and a fielder's choice.

The games were well attended. The scores:

JACK JOHNSON
WHIPS TAYLOR

London, Aug. 3. — Jack Johnson, the colored heavy-weight champion, who claims the world's title because of Tommy Burns' refusal to meet him, stopped Ben Taylor, one of the best English heavy-weights, in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round battle at Plymouth, tonight.

It was Johnson's fight from the very beginning. He said after the battle he let Taylor stay just to give the spectators a run for their money. The men fought for a $500 side bet and a percentage.

CHANGES IN BIG
LEAGUE'S LINE-UPS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 3. — Bert Blue, the St. Louis American League catcher, was traded here today for Catcher Sid Smith, of the Philadelphia Americans. The transfer will take effect immediately. Blue was the star catcher of the American Association with the Columbus club last season, while Smith was with the Atlanta team of the Southern League, the pennant winners.

UMPIRE MOBBED
IN ILLINOIS

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 4. — Frank Purcell, of Chicago, umpire in today's Aurora-Joliet game, was attacked by an enraged crowd of 1,500 fans after the joust, and would have been mobbed if he had not been escorted from the grounds by Manager Sears and the Aurora ball team. He was showered with stones during game 4 to 3, and two apparently bad mistakes of Purcell's cut off Aurora runs that would have won in the eighth and tenth innings.

BALDWIN WHIPS
AUSTRALIAN BOXER

New York, Aug. 4. — In one of the fiercest and fastest battles that New York has seen in many a day, Matty Baldwin, of Biston, last night out-fought, outgeneralled and outpointed Charlie Griffin, the Australian featherweight, in the wind-up number of the Fairmount A. C. boxing entertainment. It was a slashing mill from the first bell. Both boys seemed more than eager to mix it. There was no time lost in preliminary fiddling, the combatants closing at the start, and from there to the end it was one continual fusillade that was hard to follow. It developed into a contest that brought out every bit of science and skill each fighter possessed. At long range the Australian seemed able to take care of himself, though Baldwin's blocking was marvelous. In close quarters, however, Baldwin was more than a match for the antipodean.

Entry blanks for the Caledonia races to be held at Seaford the 12th of this month, are out, and it is expected that a number of local athletes will compete.

There are a large number of local athletes just hankering for a chance to things, and from all appearances London will be well represented in the Caledonia events.

SELECTING A NAME
FOR A COTTAGE

Limerick Competition—Warning to the Purloiners of Bathing Suits.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Port Stanley, Aug. 1. — Last evening a unique party was held on the verandah of the Woods cottage, Fraser Heights, which had hitherto been nameless. Each guest was requested to bring a limerick containing a suitable name for the cottage. Twenty names were submitted, and some very clever limericks were handed in, making the task of the judges exceedingly difficult. Miss Ada Ross' contribution was conceded the best. It ran as follows:

"There was a fat man from the city Who decided it sure was a pity In the hot town to roast. While down at the coast Was the 'Roost,' with its occupants witty."

Although the Tillsonburg young lady's limerick was considered the best written, and to exhibit the greatest poetic skill, Mrs. George Reid's rhyme was adjudged to contain the best name for the cottage. It was:

"There was a small cottage on the heights, Which to a name really had no rights. So I'll dub it 'Elm Cliff,' for in the hopes that now I'll find Many names are sent in there'll be no fights."

After the prizes were awarded to the two clever ladies, the balance of the evening was spent in games and singing. The event was one of the pleasantest of the season.

OFF THE TRACK.

While the large Pere Marquette engine, No. 206, was unloading the car ferry this morning, it jumped the track in front of the lifeboat house. The wrecking crew from St. Thomas were summoned, and had the tracks cleared in about three hours. No damage was done, save tearing up a small portion of the tracks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Robinson, London, are the guests of Mrs. (Dr.) Wood at Elm Cliff cottage, Fraser Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Clinton, are holidaying at Beverly Place, Erie Rest, the guests of Mrs. W. N. Manning. Grass and garter snakes are very common on Orchard Beach. Several have been dispatched within the last few days.

The steamer Marquette and Bessemer, No. 2, has had a fresh coat of paint applied, which greatly improves her appearance.

Miss Beatrice Mowat, of London, has returned home after spending a week on Orchard Beach.

Mrs. H. Spencer, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. O. Perry, on Hill Crest.

QUOITING, BOXING

SEAS OF PEOPLE ON STREETS
MAIN AVENUES BLOCKED

Old Boys and Mardi Gras Parades Attracted Thousands to This City—Citizens Turned Out En Masse to Witness the Pageants.

The crowds! Never was such a mass of humanity jammed on the streets of London as was seen yesterday in the afternoon and evening.

The route of the procession on each side was tanked deep with humanity. It was a most impossible to wedge one's way along the walks, and to climb along the roofs.

When the procession passed the crowds turned down town, and the streets again were jammed. It was scarcely believable that any person had gone to Queen's Park.

But the large stands there were crowded to capacity. In the paddocks there was a restless sea of humanity. Along the fences were straining thousands of people who wanted to get just one look at what was going on.

The inclosure was crowded with rigs and carriages. Others did not care to go into the stands and view the programme, so they took a walk around the park.

Here the crowd was larger than a fair day. It was a real old-fashioned picnic crowd. Everybody had a great time. They patronized the ice cream booths, and drank pink lemonade until they nearly burst.

But the fun of all was in the evening. There was a great crowd in the stands and in the park, but down town there was an awful jam.

Everybody headed for the cowpats. All through the market there was a terrific jam. Tides of humanity ebbed and flowed all evening.

The people "joshed" and "kidded" each other, all unmindful of the proprieties. It was a typical holiday crowd, and everybody just did what they wanted. Staid old citizens were seen hustling their pals of thirty and forty years ago through the throng, and had more fun than enough.

The younger boys and girls tossed confetti and tickled each other well nigh to death with feathers provided for the occasion.

It was impossible to get past midnight when a weary lot of merry-makers headed for their trundle beds.

The crowds were most orderly. The sight in front of the grandstands at the park was most interesting and will not soon be forgotten.

The reunion is a great success. The people were here, and there was something doing every minute.

Brantford Man Badly Squeezed
Between Trolleys on Richmond St.

Ernest Kallie Meets With a Very Painful Accident Yesterday.

Ernest Kallie, a young man who came from near Brantford to see the Old Boys' celebration yesterday, was caught between two street cars on Richmond street, near the corner of Dundas, last night at midnight, and had his collarbone broken and was injured internally.

Kallie was standing on the devil-strip waiting for a car to pass, and did not notice another car coming from the north.

Before he could get away he was caught. Fortunately for the young man the cars were stopped before he had been rolled around very much, and when taken out he was hurried to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his injuries were attended to at once.

Today he is resting easily and no serious results are anticipated.

King St. Girl Was Severely Burned

On Saturday evening the little daughter of Mr. R. J. Sanders, of 260 1/2 King street, had both her hands severely burned while trying to extinguish a Chinese lantern that had started to blaze, and which she feared would ignite a number of other paper decorations which were close by.

Mr. Sanders rushed to the child's assistance, and succeeded in extinguishing the fire, but not before he was even more severely burned about the hands than the girl.

Mr. Sanders will be laid up for several days with very sore hands.

"Jimmy" Bell Goes Down to Defeat
London Quoter Signally Beaten

W. Nickle, of Sarnia, Did the Trick—The Other Matches.

Today's games in the Forest City Quotting Club tournament witnessed the defeat of ex-Champion James Bell, and several other good quoters.

W. Nickle, of Sarnia, was the conqueror of Bell, and the result, while somewhat of a surprise to those who did not witness the match, was never in doubt after the twenty-second mark had been reached, when Nickle seldom left an opening for the London man, and won hands down.

Another One.

The contest between Farrell, of Woodstock, and Dave Miller, of Fort Wayne, was another of the same order, the quoters going along evenly until each had ten points, when Miller settled down to work, and covered the pin on every first shot afterward, allowing no openings for the Woodstock man.

In the draw for the semi-finals of the heavyweight championship Nickle was pitted against Bolton, and Miller meets the winner of the Robson-Treble match. The final will be played tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock on the Horton street grounds. Miller and Nickle are the favorites in the semi-finals.

Rumor Regarding Local Broker Firm

In some manner a rumor gained ground today to the effect that Mr. Norman S. Spencer, the well-known local stockbroker, had failed.

Mr. Spencer, when interviewed by The Advertiser, stated positively that he not only had not failed, but that he expected to be able to pay 100 cents or more on the dollar at any time called upon to do so.

It has been alleged that Charles Bultman & Co., stockbrokers, of Cincinnati, for whom Mr. Spencer is acting, are retiring from business, whether voluntarily or not does not appear.

Mr. Spencer stated that from the time he had received today from the firm he was led to believe that it intended to go out of business. Losses to Londoners, he thought, would be very slight, even in the event of total failure, the amount being less than $10,000.

In case of failure Mr. Spencer will be closed for a few days until he can arrange for another New York wire.

Local Items

Mr. James A. Much, of Chicago, is spending a few days, with Mr. Charles E. Wheeler.

WARM WEATHER
GRIST IN COURT

Police Magistrate Love Deals With Many Cases. Today.

In the police court this morning Abraham Kanti, charged by Inspector Galpin with breaking the liquor license law, was found guilty and fined $50 and $30 costs.

Mr. Kanti was charged with selling beer, a number of which had been found in his possession.

Inspector Galpin had an analysis made of some of the cider found on Kanti's premises, and it was found to be good strong stuff. Kanti's only excuse was that he had bought the cider for sweet cider.

Magistrate Love regretted that the minimum fine was $50, but had to impose it.

Indian Lister.

James McIntyre, an Indian lister, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $19 and $2 costs, and given a week to pay it in.

McIntyre told the court he was disorderly, but P. C. Powell said he had been called to the house by a man who told him McIntyre had threatened to "do him up."

McIntyre told the court he wanted to leave London and go back to Brantford, and that if he went, he would not be back to pay his fine.

"All right," said Magistrate Love.

Jacob Fox Again.

The case of Jacob Fox, charged by James Lampotus with breaking his pushcart, was withdrawn, it having been settled out of court.

A young man who was charged with stealing a sum of money from a local insurance company, was let go on condition that the amount is made up at once.

John Hooper, an Indian lister, said he got his drink from a stranger on the market.

"It's a funny thing to me," said the court, "how all strangers seem to be going around and never give a drink to anybody except those on the Indian list, $10 and $2 costs."

Michael Costello, for being drunk, was fined $10, or 21 days. He took the days.

Richmond Scott, an Indian lister, was fined $10 and $2 costs.

LOCAL MARKET.

Tuesday, Aug. 4.
The grocers, hotelkeepers and the dealers had laid in an extra supply of produce last week and consequently the small quantity of produce offered by the farmers today did not cause much inconvenience to those who buy a large quantity.

The Hatch shows which form part of the Old Boys celebration, have the square covered with tents, and the farmers will not be able to find much room for their produce until next week.

Grain—A load of oats was offered, which sold at $1.35 per cwt. A load of new wheat sold to the mills brought 80c per bushel.

A load of hay sold at $10 per ton. There is not likely to be any great quantity offered, as there was 150 tons sold last week. The shortage today was not felt to any extent.

Butter and Eggs—Butter was in good demand at 24c and 24c for crocks and rolls in the dairy hall; 27c and 28c for crocks. Eggs were slow at 18c to 19c per dozen, wholesale.

Vegetables and Roots—Potatoes sold quickly at 90c to $1 per bushel. Onions, 80c to $1 per bushel. Cabbages, 40c to 50c per dozen. Onions, radishes and beets, 20c per dozen. Peas scarce at 10c to 12c per quart. Tomatoes were plentiful and lower in price at 60c to 80c per basket.

Fruit—Hats it not been for what was shipped in there would not have been much offered. Peaches sold at 25c for a small basket, and 60c for the 12-quart basket. Plums went at 50c per basket. Raspberries, 30c to 40c per box. Strawberries, 10c to 11c per box. Apples very dull at 40c to 50c per bushel.

Poultry—A few pairs of dressed ducks sold at $1 to $1.25 per pair. Spring chickens, 65c to $1 per pair dressed, or 40c to 45c per pair alive. A load of old fowl sold at 8c per pound alive.

Dressed Hogs sold mostly at $9 per cwt.

There was no change in the prices of butchers' meat.

Mr. D. Anguish, of Lambeth, will have 20,000 pounds of honey to dispose of this season. He has already sold a large portion at 10c to 11c per pound strained, and $2 to $2.25 per dozen for sections.

—Mr. McKellar, builder and condon, was prostrated by a stroke on the 15th of June, while working on a building, is improving, but is still confined to his house.

—It is reported at the Canadian National Exhibition offices that during the past few days there has been a large increase in the sale of the six-
for-a-dollar tickets, and that the total
thus far reached is a good bit ahead
of any previous year up to the same date.

—The management of the Canadian National Exhibition have decided to engage the Citizens' Band of Winnironto thirty-five strong. They are in charge of Dr. A. W. Bell, formerly assistant manager of the Toronto Ex-

the Winnipeg Exhibition. The band created tremendous enthusiasm by its playing at the recent exhibition in its home town.

"Land

o' Cakes"

"Land o' Cakes" is a name
frequently given to Scotland
where meal cakes form an important article of diet. The phrase was made famous by Robert Burns in 1789, in his poem On Captain Grose's Paragrinations Through Scotland,
which commences with the following lines:

"Hear, 'Land-o'-Cakes an'
brither Scots,
Frae Maiden Kirk to Johnny
Groat."

It might truly be said that London is a "Land of Biscuits," for in no other city is such a number of delicious Tea Biscuits made.

The reliable and absolutely pure "Purity" leads all the baking powders and is in great favor by the housewives of the city. Get a supply for the OLD

An Advertiser correspondent writes:
Mrs. R. H. Wilson, of Ingersoll, Ont.,
and Mrs. W. E. Martin, of Lyons, are guests of Mrs. Frank Laur, of Earl Grey, Sask., for a couple of weeks.
They were delighted when driven from
Mr. Laur's farm to the Last Mountain Lake (which is only about seven miles distant), where they saw so many campers and the amount of boating.
Then the Lumsden Summer School was another feature which was much appreciated. They think it is equal to Springbank or Port Stanley. As to fishing they will be able to tell fishyarns for weeks on their return home
on the last outing.

THE WRONG MAN

Funny Incident at the C. P. R. Depot
Last Night.

As the 10:45 C. P. R. express pulled in from the east last night there was a large crowd at the depot to welcome possible arriving Old Boys.

There was a bevy of excited young ladies in flimsy white dresses and they had been wondering all day if "he"
would come.

There is nothing in the law prohibiting expecting Old Boys on Sunday, and they were loaded with effusive welcome which effervesced like like anything in the habit of doing stunts like that.

So when the train hesitated a moment the dear girls were right there ready to deliver the goods. And they delivered them.

As a bewildered-looking individual stepped dazedly off the train four pairs of sunburned arms, fresh from the burning sands of Port Stanley, were flung simultaneously around his neck,
and four ice-cream incinerators were dabbed over his terrified features and elsewhere. He gasped and gulped desperately, and finally spluttered, as he broke away:

"I'm alone—I'm from St.
Thomas and I sing in the choir—I ain't
no London Old Boy."

And as the girls released the brakes
they chortled in chorus: "Well, I should say not."

Seeing London. The most satisfactory way is from Hueston's carriages.

Algonquin National Park.

The Algonquin Park of Ontario is fast becoming popular for anglers and those fond of the wood and outdoor life. The Grand Trunk Railway System have received a letter from a high Government official of the state of Connecticut, who has just returned from a few days in the confines of that delightful park. He says:

"Some weeks ago I sent for and obtained a Grand Trunk folder relating to Algonquin Park. The printed matter received was very interesting reading, but I had the opportunity of learning within a few days that the beauties of the park were not overdrawn, and that the fishing obtained there was the best I have ever had the privilege to enjoy, although I have fished the trout waters of Prince Edward Islands, through the Canadian Laurentian sections, and in Colorado and Wyoming in the United States.

"I arrived at Algonquin Park from Toronto on June 27, and on the 28th I left the hotel for Smoke and Ragged Lakes, arriving at Smoke Lake late Sunday evening, June 28. I started for Crown Lake the next morning,
and fished in that lake and had good luck, catching square-tailed trout.
This lake is outside of the park. As I started for my headquarters at the park, June 30, on my return trip I fished in Bigg's and Shallow lakes for salmon trout, using a deep water troll and brown minnow for bait. Between 4 and 5 o'clock I caught two salmon trout; one of them weighed eighteen pounds, and measured thirty-two inches in length.

"As my stay was only three days in the park, I mean to know more about this place, and shall try to go in there again this fall. Descriptions of localities and prospects of railroads are often times disappointing. Many times I think it is due to the fact that the pictures are greatly overdrawn, but from my own experience I should say that your folder does not describe this beautiful country, known as the Algonquin Park, in as bright colors
as the facts warrant.

"Since my return I met a friend of mine, United States Congressman Edward W. Higgins, of Norwich, Conn., who upon my advice, is now fishing
in the park in company with his wife.
He writes me that all that I told him
regarding the country is true, only that I should have said more."

ONE MAN SLAIN,

25 SHOT IN RIOT

Italians and Slavs Fight Pitched Battle at Pennsylvania
Coke Plant.

Unlontown, Pa., Aug. 3. — One man
dead and 25 others severely injured,
some of them fatally, are the results
of a riot early today between Italians and Slavs at Gates, one of the H. C.
Frick Coke Company plants, near Ma-sontown.

All the men are foreigners. There have been factional differences between the two races for a long time.
Saturday was pay day at the large plant, and until after midnight a large quantity of intoxicants was consumed.
Jacob Furnace, leader of the Italian faction, went to the gate of a Slav boarding house and defied its 25 inmates. Immediately Furnace and Alexander Molawski, leader of the Slavs, were engaged in a fight. Antillio Ronco, another Italian, went to the assistance of the former, and this was the signal for a general fight.
Revolvers began to crack and Ronco fell dead, struck, it is said, by a mis-directed shot fired by Furnace, to whose assistance he had gone. The injuries of the 25 men consist of bullet wounds through the body, arms and legs. The most serious wounds were received by the Italians.

A squad of the Pennsylvania State constabulary were quickly at the scene, and 19 of the rioters were arrested and taken to Masontown. Members of both factions then surrounded the jail, demanding that their company be released. During the night
the jail was guarded, and today the men were brought to Unlontown on a special street car.

As the injured men recover they will also be arrested.

THE MIKADO'S NAVY

Four Additional Battleships Planned for the Jap Fleet.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—The Japanese will take third place in the navies of the world in 1911, according to the tabulation made by the German Navy League in its August leaflet, just out.
"Notwithstanding the assertions of Japan's bad financial position," the article says, "the so-called programme of 1907 appears to provide for considerably more construction than has been reported. From an unusually well-informed quarter it is affirmed that Japan, besides building the three battleships, Aki, A and B, and the four armored cruisers, Kurama, Iouki,
and E and F, has apportioned money
for four additional battleships, each of 20,800 tons, and for five armored cruisers, each of 18,500 tons. Japan has in actual service 14 battleships, with a total of 191,400, and 12 large cruisers, with a tonnage of 113,000.
