Relatives in this city fear that Joseph W. Wright, son of Joseph Wright, of 491 Horton street, was lost when the American transport Antilles, was sunk on October 17 by a German submarine in the war zone with a toll of seventy lives.

The family today telegraphed to Secretary Josephus Daniels of the U. S. navy department, asking for word regarding his fate. Previous to that time a telegram had been received from George Wright of St. Louis, Mo., brother of Joseph, stating that he had received word that Joseph was on the transport and had been lost.

Mr. Wright was engaged in ship construction in the United States, and one of his tasks was the building of the largest dredge ever assembled. This was in the Ohio River.

Torpedo Never Seen.

The Antilles was returning to the United States from foreign service while under convoy of American patrol vessels. The torpedo which struck the ship was not seen nor was the submarine which fired it. The torpedo, says Secretary Daniel's official statement, hit abreast of the engineroom buikhead, and the ship sank in five minutes. One hundred and sixty-seven persons of 237 aboard were saved. About thirty-three arms men were on the ship, and of this number sixteen were lost.

Mr. Wright's relatives expect to hear from the navy department during the driven down out of control.

The statement reads:

"In shite of very misty weather, a further attack into Germany was carried out by our airplanes this afternoon. A foundry and rallway station ten miles north of Saarbrucken were bombed with over a ton of bombs. Very good results were observed. Bursts were seen on the foundry and the station, where a big explosion occurred. Many hostile scouts attacked the bombing squadron over the objectives and four were driven down out of control. We took photographs. All our machines returned safely except one.

ried out bombing operations vigorously. A total of 238 bombs were dropped on the enemy's airdromes at Gontrode and Roulers, on the Cortemarck station and on hostile billets and hutments. One airdrome at Roulers was bombed from a low height. One bomb was seen to hit and blow to pieces a German machine on the ground, while another fell through the centre of a hangar. The enemy's personnel and machines on the ground then were attacked with machine-gun fire from our airplanes. During the bombing attacked ur scouts operated in the neighborhood, bringing down seven German machines, which crashed in full view of their airdrome.

Attacked at Night.

"At night the enemy's airdromes were again attacked. A ton of bombs were dropped on the Ingelmunster airdrome and railways station and on the airdrome at Courtrai. At one of these a direct hit was obtained on a hostile machine endeavoring to leave the ground.

"In the course of the day a total of nine German machines were downed, and four others were driven down out of control. Three of our machines are BUBBLES TELL THE TALE

Hit a Dreadnought.

'During operations in the Gulf of Riga, one of our submarines met an enemy squadron of 4 dreadonoughts of the Markgraf type (vessels of 25,252 tons, built in 1914, and carrying a complement of 1,150 men), cruisers and a large number of torpedoboats. It fired two torpedoes at the leading dreadnought, but being shelled by seaplanes and riddled with shot, was obliged to submerge without noting results. The detonation of a torpedo, however, was heard, and proceeding some distance and then rising, clouds of smoke were seen through the periscope of the submarine. A large transport, escorted by torpedoboats, made for the submarine. The submarine returned to the attack and sank one of the transports with a torpedo."

50° PURCHASES OF SUGAR SALES

London Housewives Can Prevent Shortage by So Doing, Says Wholesaler.

PREDICTS CHEAPER PRICE

Six Weeks Will See New Crop on Market at Lower Quotations.

Although the city is suffering a distinct shortage of sugar, local wholesale dealers are of the opinion that the situation will not reach an acute stage if the distribution is equalized more than has been the case heretofore. The new crop is sugar is expected to be on the market by December. In the meantime, the temporary shortage will be adequately met, say wholesalers, unless the people become panicky and abnormal orders are required to be filled. William Turnbull, vice-president of the Edward Adams Company, wholesale stocers, stated to The Advertiser today that his firm will take steps toward an even distribution of sugar to their customers during the temporary shortage. That some bad feeling will be created among customers who will not be able to receive sugar in large quantities is recognized, but it is considered a patriotic duty of all citizens to refrain from buying quantities larger than 50 cents worth, and it has been recommended that all retail dealers explain the situation to customers that co-operation may be obtained.

"London housewives should by no high and the city is suffering a shortage.

"This year's crop has been the largest in decades. Because grocers were informed that the crop was large and that sugar prices would decline as soon as the new stock was available they put in as small a supply as possible of the higher-priced old sugar. It is mainly because of the small suppy stocked in anticipation of lower prices that the prosent shortage has occurred. The United States Government entered into an agreement with the refiners that the crop of December be sold at one can per pound less than last year's crop, owing to the abnormal size of the yield. The situation in the city does not presage a famine, but the distributors should go easy on selling large quantities."

sermon on "New Worlds for Everybody."
Throughout the ages men have been talking about the "Golden Age" when all graft, greed, and the superficial things of life will be tilminated, he said. Utopia and the ideal republic were the subjects of conversation, and the hope of nations during the medieval and latter periods. Even today men of prominence in the world's affairs from time to time bring up the subject of the God-like, golden life. It has been the opinion of many men that the Golden Age could be produced by educating the people in the wonderful benefits of it However, there is but one way of producing a millennium of Christianity. That is by the complete elimination of crime, graft and egoism.

The great message of Christianity is life born anew. This new life promised us comes in the glories of truth and honor. Patriotism, truth, honor and virtue have been attributes of the world since its foundation. Notwithstanding this, a rejuvenation of one of these altruistic traits in the nature of man or the constitution of a nation never fails to glorify and purity life in all its aspects.

"To realize the dream of the old to glorify and purify life in all its aspects.

"To realize the dream of the old philosophers regarding the Golden Age," we must have golden men, men whose virtues are of the highest calibre, whose ideals of life embody Christianity at all times," said the speaker.

Rev. J E. Holmes chairman of the London district, delivered an address at the evening service. Special selections of the choir were appreciated, the playing and singing of Miss F. Dewar, Miss Corbin and Walter Greeley featuring.

been received from practically every postoffice in the eleven Western Ontario counties comprising military district No. 1.

Examination Not First.

"There appears to be a wrong impression throughout the whole district concerning the medical examination in its relation to signing a form at the postoffice," said Deputy Registrar Wismer today. "So many men imagine that it is necessary to get medically examined before they sign one of the printed forms, that I wish all the newspapers in the district would state plainly that the idea is all wrong. A man can sign a form, and then all he has to do is to await our instructions. We will tell him when to get examined. Of course if a man wishes to be medically examined to find out exactly how he stands physically that, of course, is all right. It is only for his own satisfaction though, and to think he has to be medically examined before he can "claim exemption" or "report for service," is all wrong.

Useless Examination.

In order to make clear the point the deputy registrar illustrated by asking what would be the object in a Mennonite or a person who held an absolute clean claim for exemption being medically examined when that feature would not enter into the claim at all.

A man claiming exemption on any grounds except ill health or infirmity does not need to be medically examined until instructed by the deputy registrar. If he is allowed exemption on any other grounds than ill health there is no reason for him to have been examined at any time.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD AT PARKHILL FOR MAJOR ELLIOTI

High Tributes Paid Dead Officer by Captain Graham.

PARKHILL, Oct. 21.—Memorial services, held in the Methodist Church tonight in honor of Major T. N. Elliott of the 135th Battalion, who was killed in action on September 28, were largely attended. The services were conducted by Capt. Archibald Graham of Chalmers Church. London, who, in the course of his sermon, paid the highest tributes to Major Elliott as a man and as a soldier. He spoke of Major Elliott's vision of the greatness of the task he had set for himself, his justice to his men, and his implicit faith in God. Capt. Graham spoke also of the tremendous sacrifices being made for the cause of liberty and justice, and praised the work being done by the boys at the front.

Tributes were also paid to Major Elliott by Rev. A. E. Lloyd, pastor of the Methodist Church, which deceased attended, and by Rev. W. L. Nichol, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Sir Joseph Flavelle, in the witness box at the Government inquiry into bacon profits at the city hall Saturday, explained his now famous statement, 'to hell with profits!" at length. Briefly, he said, the remark was made at a time when Canadian manufacturers were hestating towexpend the necessary money to carry out munitions contracts. His statement was not intended to have any application to the William Davies Company. His exact words had been: "If it is profits in relation to what I have seen (he having just returned from the front), and what I have told you, then your profits ought to go to hell, to which they belong." Continuing his evidence, Sir Joseph said: "And I would say just the sam today."

Sir Joseph said the remark had been associated all over the Dominion with the William Davies Company, and "the insincerity of the president of the William Davies Company, who, in one official capacity could say no one should have profits, and in his own capacity thought he should have a good deal Dofit."

He had inaugurated the coesses in order to compete with hish packers, and admitted that it abled the company to take advantage, the market best suited to them, and is "eventually lead to larger fifts."

Sir Joseph denied that he knew of any special privileges enjoyed with the British war office by the William Davies Company. He had never made any special effort to get special privileges.

He further stated that prices were not higher in Canada than in England, because the English market was more profitable than the Canadian. The trouble was that the poorer grades were used in England and not in Canada. "We are an improvident young coun-

The chief grievance.

The chief grievance of the Ford City malcontents was that Bishop Fallon had appointed Father Laurendeau as their parish priest. He was distasteful to them on account of having acted as secretary of an ecclesiastical tribunal which had tried Father Beaudoin, their former pastor, who once incurred the displeasure of the bishop.

He made a plea for abolition of the corporation sole and restoration of church property to congregations, and said injustice to the French-Canadians in London Diocese Bishop Fallon should

Dr. St. Fierre of Ford City characterized the movement as simply a fight against Bishop Fallon's tyranny and oppression. To overcome such these meetings must be continued.

Resolutions were passed, asking ome for the recall of Bishop Fallon, abolition of the corporation sole, and restoration of church property to congregations.

revolt was not on merely one ship, where an in-dividual might have aroused the anger of the crew, but on several in widely different districts, others were sure to follow. The nation would suffer a blow to its morale more serious than that caused by any foe success.

It is to be supposed the effect will be somewhat similar in Germany. The nation will experience growing uneasiness. This submarine warfare which has been held up to the people as the one way of winning the war, is so dangerous to their sailors that men will mutiny rather than face it. There must be more of the submarines sunk than has/been made known, and the work of the men on board them must be more terrifying than has been realized. Is this submarine, a weapon which no one cares to man, to he trusted to bring victory?

Added to these mutinies, and just as de pressing to the Teutonic leaders and peoples, is the evidence of bad blood existing between German and Austrian sailors, which has resulted in a fight in which several were killed. The seeds of revolution have been sown in Germany. It may be long before the harvest, or it may be but a short time. Authoritative R. ROSS, Liberal candidate in East Middlesex, will not be discomfitted at the criticisms hurled at him and Liberalism by S.

LEOMARGARINE is a packing house product, which has been excluded from Canada up to the present time. The proposal has been made by the food controller that this substitute for butter should be admitted.

SOMEONE REMARKED.

This query broke up the session. For it was voted with unanimous consent that Ruth could outhit the entire flock when it came to long-distance crashing.

Ruth is Sam Crawford's successor. The big pitcher can hit a ball harder than any entry now recorded in either league. The Babe also managed to bat $.328 in 51 games. And most of his hits were for extra bases.

The 1914 world series showing of the Boston Braves becomes more and more spectacular as the years drift by.

It is now the sole break in the American League would have had eight years. But for this upheaval the American League would have had eight years. But for this upheaval the American League would have had eight successive campaigns for conquest to its credit—an unbroken run since 1909. It was about the last blow the Braves ever struck. But it was a worthy finish.

What is a bone play? asks a reader. A soule play is any play that were got through.

Here's an example: Red Faber stole third, with Buck Weaver ensconced or stiached to the bag at the self-same moment. But Red turned into a hero by winning three games. The Great Zim attempted to outsprint Collins, and became a goat because his faux pas came at a vital moment and because his batting average was 120.

According to Al Munro Elias, the demon and spectacular statistician, 50 ball players in the American League hit better through 1917 than a year before, while no less than 30 stumped away from the 1916 mark.

In the National League there were 63 who improved and 61 who fell away. The most interesting detail involves the two 1916 leaders. Speaker, in the A. L., after leading Cobb in 1916, lost 33 points. Speaker dropped from 385 to 353.

Hal Chase took an even deeper tumble. Hal fell from 339 to 279, a net loss of 60 points. Fortunately Hal had his stock well margined, and so can carry it over another year.

If any one believes that Chase is falling off in his play he can obtain the truth by asking Matty. Matty doesn't think that Hal looks much better than a million dollars.

DOPE YOU MIGHT STUDY.

New York, Oct. 22.—Francis Ouimet, Boston's golfer, has performed so many unrivalled feats on the links this past season that followers of the game repeatedly have acknowledged a craving for the one big match this country could hold. That match is to be a reality within a week, since Ouimet is to play against Charles "Chick" Evans, the national amateur and open champion in a 36-hole journey at Braeburn next Saturday.

Ouimet already has scheduled matches for the next three Saturdays, and the army officials were uncertain whether or not it would be advisable to allow the youngster to have a Sunday, too. Evans was willing to meet Ouimet here, and according to Boston advices, expected to play the second 36 holes of the affair either at Baltusrol or Garden City. Toronto Requested to Withdraw.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—Ottawa's decision to operate again this season in the National Hockey Association, and the re-election of Frank Robinson as president, though absent and not a candidate for office, were the features of the adjourned meeting of the directors of the N. H. A., in the Windsor Hotel here on Saturday. The majority were opposed to the operation of a five-club league this coming season and a representative of the Toronto club was asked to suggest the withdrawal of Toronto until such time as a second club could be established in the Queen City. It was stated that the Sons of Ireland team of the Queen City league might amalgamate with the professional club and thus be able to place a strong team on the ice, the Sons of Ireland playing as amateurs and devoting their salaries to the Red Cross fund of Quebec City.

With a view to making it easier for spectators to leprn when a goal is scored, it was fuggested that a red light be placed over each goal with a switch, to be worked by the goal umpire, the red light to be turned on when a goal is scored and left burning until the puck is faced at centre ice. This will probably be done.

Cady is said to have been driving at a high rate of speed when he crashed into a burgy. The automobile rolled over, crushing Lundberg, who died in a hospital. The occupants of the buggy escaped uninjured.

"THE one extraordinary thing about Rasputin is that he was not murdered sooner. He was so entirely despised and so universally detested all over Russia, that it was really a miracle that he could remain alive so long a time after it had been found impossible to remove him from the scene by other than violent means."

German Intrigue, Ever Present Throughout the World, Has Linked Rasputin's Name With the Fairest and Highest of Russia's Court Circles—But These Rumors Are False, the Princess Radziwill Insists.

The "Black Monk" Appeared on the Scene at a Psychological Moment When the Russian People Had Drifted Away from the Church and Were Ready for Any Strong Appeal to the Mystical Side of Their Character.

S a rule the general public knows very little concerning these sects, but I shall quote here a passage out of a book on Rus-sia by Sir Donald Mackenzie Wallace, which is considered to this day as a standard work in regard to its subject. "Among the 'Khlysty,' 'he writes, 'there are men and women who take upon themselves the calling of teachers and prophets, and in this character they lead a strict, ascetic life, refrain from the most ordinary and innocent pleasures, exhaust themselves by long fasting and wild ecstatic religious exercises and abhor marriage. Under the excitement caused by their supposed holiness and inspiration, they call themselves not only teachers and prophets, but also Saviours, Redeemers, Christs, Mothers of God. Generally speaking, they call themselves simply gods and pray to each other as to real gods and living Christs and Madonnas. When several of these teachers come together at a meeting they dispute with each other in a vain, boasting way as to which of them possesses most grace and power. In this rivalry they sometimes give each other lusty blows on the ear, and he who bears the blows the most patiently, turning the other cheek to the smiter, acquires the reputation of having the most holiness.

"Another sect belonging to the same category and which indeed claims close kindred with it is the Jumpers, among whom the erotic element is disagreeably prominent. Here is a description of their religious meetings, which are held during summer in a forest and during winter in some outhouse or barn. After due preparation prayers are read by the chief teacher, dressed in a white robe and standing in the midst of the congregation. At first he reads in an ordinary tone of voice and then passes gradually into a merry chant. When he remarks that the chanting has sufficiently acted on the hearers he begins to jump. The hearers, singing likewise, follow his example. Their ever-increasing excitement finds expression in the highest possible jumps. This they continue as long as they can—men and women alike yelling like enraged savages. When all are thoroughly exhausted the leader declares that he hears the angels singing, and then begins a scene which cannot be described.'

I have quoted this passage in full because it may give to the eader who is not versed in the details of Russian existence and ussian psychology the key to the circumstances that helped Rasoutin to absorb for such a considerable number of years the attenon of the public in Russia, and which, in fact, made him possible as a great ruling, though not governing, force in the country. In some ways he had appealed to the two great features of the human character in general and of the Russian character in particularavsticism and influence of the senses. It is not so surprising as might seem at first sight that he contrived to ascend to a position which no one who knew him at first ever supposed he would or

At the same time I must, in giving a brief sketch of the career of this extraordinary individual, protest against the many calumnies which have associated him with names which I will not mention here out of respect and feelings of patriotism. It is sufficiently painful to have to say so, but German calumny, which spares no one, has used its poisoned arrows also where Rasputin came to be discussed. It has tried to travesty maternal love and anxiety into something quite different, and it has attempted to sully what it could not touch. There have been many sad episodes in his whole story of Rasputin, but some of the people who have been mentioned in connection with them were completely innocent of the things for which they have been reproached. Finally, the indignation which these vile and unfounded accusations roused in the hearts of the true friends and servants of the people led to the drama which removed forever from the surface of Russian society the sectarian who unfortunately had contrived to glide into its midst.

Rasputin a Master of Corruption.

The one extraordinary thing about Rasputin is that he was not murdered sooner. He was so entirely despised and so universally detested all over Russia that it was really a miracle that he could remain alive so long a time after it had been found impossible to remove him from the scene of the world by other than violent means. It was a recognized fact that he had had a hand in all kinds of dirty money matters and that no business of a financial character connected with military expenditure could be brought to a close without his being mixed in it. About this, however, I shall speak later on in trying to explain how the Rasputin legend spread and how it was exuloited by all kinds of individuals of a shady character, who used his name for purposes of their own.

gether with him. It must never be forgotten, and I cannot repeat this sufficiently, that Rasputin was a common peasant of the worst class of the Russian moughts, devoid of every kind of education, without any manner and in his outward appearance more disgusting than anything else. It would be impossible to explain the influence which he undoubtedly contrived to acquire upon some persons belonging to the highest social circles if one did not take into account this mysticism and superstition which lie at the bottom of the Slav nature and the tendency which the Russian character has to accept as a manifestation of the power of the divinity all things that touch upon the marvelous or the unexplainable. Resputin in a certain sense appeared on the scene of Russian social life at the very moment when his teachings could become acceptable, at the time when Russian society had been shaken to its deepest depths by the revolution which had followed upon the Japanese war and when it was looking everywhere for a safe harbor in which to find a refuge.

At the beginning of his career and when he was introduced into the most select circles of the Russian capital, thanks to the caprices and the fancies of two or three fanatic orthodox ladies who had imagined that they had found in him a second Savonarola, and that his sermons and teachings could provoke a renewal of religious fervor, people laughed at him and at his feminine disciples, and made all kinds of jokes, good and bad, about him and them. But this sort of thing did not last a long time and Rasputin, who, though devoid of every kind of culture, had a good deal of the cunning, which is one of the distinctive feaRASPUTIN, MASTER OF CORRUPTION. AND "SAINT."

The scandal connected with the shameless manner in which he him and to what use it could be put for both his ambition and his inordinate love became associated with innumerable transactions more or less dis- of money. He began by exacting a considerable salary for all the prayers which reputable was so enormous that unfortunately it extended to he was supposed to say at the request of his worshipers, and of all the ladies, people and to names that should never have been mentioned to- fair or unter, who had canonized him in their enthusiasm for all the wonderful things which he was continually telling them. He was eloquent in a way and at the beginning of his wonderful thaumaturgic existence had not yet adopted the attitude which he was to assume later on-of an idol, whom everyone had to ticism, she allowed herself to be persuaded more by the people who surrounded

He was preaching the necessity to repent of one's sins, to make due. penance for them after a particular manner, which he described as being the most agreeable to God, and to pray constantly and with unusual fervor for the salvation of orthodox Russia. He contrived most cleverly to play upon the chord of patriotism which is always so developed in Russians, and to speak to them of the welfare of their beloved fatherland whenever he thought it advantageous to his personal interests to do so. He succeeded in inspiring in his adepts a faith in his own person and in his power to save their souls akin to the one which is to be met in England and in America among the sect of the Christian Scientists, and he very rapidly became a kind of Russian Mrs. Eddy. A few hysterical ladies, who were addicted to neuralgia or headaches, suddenly found themselves better after having conversed or prayed with him, and they spread his fame outside the small circle which had adopted him at the beginning of his career. One fine day a personal friend of the reigning empress, Madame W., introduced him at Tzarskole Selo, under the pretext of praying for the health of the small heir to the Russian throne, who was occasloning some anxiety to his parents. It was from that day that he became her than by Rasputin himself. She believed that the monk, of whose holiness she was absolutely persuaded, could by his prayers alone obtain the protection of the Almighty for her beloved child. An accidental occurrence contributed to strengthen her in this conviction. There were persons who were of the opinion that the presence of Rasputin at Tzarskoie Selo was not advantageous for many and in retracing the different vicissitudes of his strange career not to give way reasons. Among them was Mr. Stolypine, then minister of the Interior, and he it was who made such strong representation that at last Rasputin himself deemed it advisable to return to his native village of Pokrowshkole, in Siberia. A few days after his departure the little grand duke fell seriously III, and his mother became persuaded that this was a punishment for her having allowed the vagrant preacher to be sent away. Rasputin was recalled, and after this no one ever spoke again of his being removed anywhere. From that time all kind of adventurers began to lay siege to him and to do their utmost to gain an introduction.

Rasputin and the "Fair Ladies."

Russia was still the land where a court favorite was all-powerful, and Rasputin was held as such, especially by those who had some personal interest in representing him as the successor to Menschikoff under Peter the Great, Biren under the Empress Anne and Orloff under Catherine II. He acquired a far greater influence outside Tzarskole Selo than he ever enjoyed in the imperial residence itself, and he made the best of it, boasting of a position which in reality this sudden "engouement" of influential people for his person opened out before for him, and being very religiously inclined, with strong leanings toward mys- tunately always have the last word to say everywhere and in everything, and

RASPUTIN AND THE RUSSIAN CHARACTER.

T would be impossible to explain the influence which Rasputin undoubtedly contrived to acquire upon some persons belonging to the highest social circles if one did not take into account this mysticism and superstition which lie at the bottom of the Slav nature and the tendency which the Russian character has to accept as a manifestation of the power of the divinity all things that touch upon the marvelous or the unexplainable.

whose rapacity is proverbial, hastened to put themselves at the service of Rasputin and to grant him everything which he asked, in the hope than in return he would make himself useful to them

A kind of bargaining established itself between people desirous of making a career and Rasputin, eager to enrich himself no matter by what means. He began by playing the intermediary in different financial transactions against a substantial consideration, and at last he thought himself entitled to give his attention to matters of state. This was the saddest side of his remarkable career as a pseudo-Cagliostro. He had a good deal of natural intelligence, and while being the first to laugh at fair ladies who clustered around him, he understood at once that he could make use of them. This he did not fail to do. He adopted toward them the manners of a stern master, and treated them like his humble slaves. At last he ended by leading the existence of a man of pleasure, denying himself nothing, especially his fondness for liquor of every kind. At that time there was no prohibition in Russia, and, like all Russian peasants, Rasputin was very fond of vodka, to which he never missed adding a substantial quantity of champagne whenever he found the opportunity.

I shall abstain from touching upon the delicate point of the orgies to which it is related that Rasputin was in the habit of addicting himself, the more so because I do not really believe these ever took place in those higher circles o scciety where it was said they regularly occurred. That strange things may have happened among the common people, who in far greater numbers than it has ever been known used to attend the religious meetings which he held, I shall not deny. It must always be remembered that Rasputin belonged to the religious sect of the Khlysty, of whose assemblies we have read the description, and it is quite likely, and even probable, that the assemblies of these sectarians at which he presided were not different from the others to which these heretics crowded. But I feel absolutely convinced that as regards the relations of the adventurer with the numerous ladies of society silly enough to believe in him and in his gifts of prophecy, these consisted only of superstitious reverence on one side and exploitation of human stupidity on the other-

I must once more insist on the point that the apparition of Rasputin in Russian society had nothing wonderful about it, and that the only strange things is that such a fuss was made. Before his time people belonging to the highest social circles had become afflicted with religious manias of one kind or another out of that natural longing for something to believe in and to worship, which lies hidden at the bottom of the character of every Russian who has the leisure. or the craving, to examine seriously the difficult and complicated problems of a future life and of the faith one ought to follow and to believe in.

In 1817 there was discovered in the very heart of St. Petersburg, holding its meetings in an imerial residence (the Michael Palace), a religious sect of most pronounced mystical tendencies, presided over by a lady belonging to the best circles of the capital-the widow of a colonel, Madame Tatarinoff. In her apartments used to gather officers, state functionaries, women and girls of good family and excellent education who, with slight variations, practiced all the religlous rites of the Khlystys. One of the ministers of Alexander I. Prince Galiitzyne, was suspected of having honored these assemblies with his presence. Thanks to a letter which accidentally fell into the hands of the police, the Government became aware of what was going on, and Madame Tatarinoff, this Russian Madame Guyon, explated in exile in a distant province of Siberia the ecstasies which she had practiced and which she had allowed others to practice under her roof. Some of her disciples were prosecuted, but the greater number escaped scot free. The authorities did not care to increase the scandal which this affair had aroused in the capital.

Uplifting the Cab Drivers.

Much later, in 1878, after the Russo-Turkish war, which, like the Japanese affair, had been followed by a strong revolutionary movement in the country this time of foreign origin, appeared on the social horizon of St. Petersburg society, where he made a considerable number of converts. This was the famous Lord Radstock, whose doctrines were taken up by a gentleman who up to that time had been known as one of the gayest among the gay, a colonel in the Guards-Mr. Basil Paschkoff. He was enormously rich, and out all his vast fortune at the service of the religious craze which had seized him. He used his best efforts to convert to the doctrine of salvation through faith only not alone his friends and relatives, but also the poorer classes of the population of the capital, devoting in particular his attention to the cab drivers. All these people used to meet at his house, where they mingled with persons of the highest rank and standing, such as Count Korff, and a former minister, Count Alexis Bobrinsky. Later on the whole Tchertkoff family, to which belonged the famous friend of Count Leo Tolstoy, associated itself with them, and, indeed, displayed the greatest fanaticism in regard to its participation in the doctrines of the new sect.

The Paschkowites, as they came to be called, had nothing at all in common with the Khlystys. Their morals were absolutely unimpeachable, and what they preached was simply the necessity to conform one's existence to the teachings of the gospel, which they explained and commented upon, each person according to his own light. They were Protestants in a certain sense, inasmuch as their views were distinctly Protestant ones. But they had much more in common with the nonconformists than the real followers of Luther or of Calvin. They were a kind of refined Salvation Army, if this expression can be forgiven me; though they never acquired the importance, nor did the good which the latter has done, perhaps because they could never make any practical application of the principles and of the ideas which animated them. But at one time the Paschkowist craze was just as strong as the Rasputin one became later on, and Lord Radstock and Mr. Paschkoff were considered just as much prophets among their own particular circle as was Rasputin among the fanatical ladies who had

These crises of religious mania are regular occurrences in Russian higher social circles when unusually grave circumstances arrive to shake their equanimity. Seen from this particular point of view, the apparition of Rasputin and the importance which his personality acquired in the life of the Russian upper classes present nothing very wonderful. Before him other so-called prophets had kept the attention of the public riveted upon their doings and their actions.

What distinguished his short passage was the fact that It was made the occasion by the natural enemies of the empire, consisting of the discontented at home and of the Germans outside the frontier, to discredit the dynasty as well as those whose life was spent in its immediate vicinity and to present this figure of the vagrant half-monk and half-layman. He preached a new relation to those foolish enough to listen to him as being one of almost gigantic importance, who could at his will and fancy direct the course of public affairs and lead them wherever he wanted.

My object in this study will be to show Rasputin for what he really was to the many exaggerations, which, in familiarizing people abroad with his person and with his name, have made out of him something quite wonderful, and almost equal in power with the czar himself. It is time to do away with such legends and to bring Rasputin back to his proper level-a very able and cunning. half-cultured peasant, who owed his successes only up the fanaticism of the few, and to the interest which many had in dissimulating themselves behind him, in order to bring their personal wishes to a successful end. It is not Rasputin who performed most of the actions put to his credit. It was those who influenced him, who pushed him forward and who, thanks to him, became both rich and powerful. He has disappeared. I wish we could be as sure that they have dis-

SUBMARINE BASE AT OSTEND BOMBARDED AND BRUGES BOMBED

Berlin Reports Damage to Town of Ostend.

ENGEL AIRDROME TARGET Visitation of British Fliers Has Obvious Results-Dunkirk Bombed.

BERLIN, Oct 21.—(British admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—The port of Ostend, Belgium, which is a submarine base of the Germans on the North Sea, has been bombarded from the sea, the German war office announced today. Houses in the town were damaged.

BRUGES DOCKS BOMBED.
LONDON, Oct. 21.—British naval planes dropped large quantities of combs on the Engel airformes and the docks at Bruges, in Beigium, on Friday hight, causing a fire in the German establishments. The text of a British admiralty statement save: admiralty statement says:

"On the night of the 19th of October and the morning of the 20th, bombing raids by naval aircraft were carried out on the Bruges docks and the Engel airdromes. A fire is reported to have broken out. Large quantities of explosives were dropped. All our machines returned."

LONDON, Oct. 21.—British troops in Mesopotamia on Friday began an enveloping movement near the Perstan frontier northwest of Bagdad, and drove the Turkish forces in the vicinity of Kizil-Robat across the Diala River. An official statement issued today reports these operations as follows:

"We have carried out successful operations in the vicinity of Deltawa and Kizil-Robat. Our columns began an enveloping movement on Friday and drove the enemy across the Diala. Turks destroyed the bridge at Kizil-Robat and retreated to the southern hills of the Jebel Hamrin ridge. We took some prisoners and captured wagon loads of ammunition."

MINIMUM SALARY OF BAPTIST MINISTERS IS $1,200 PER ANNUM

mportant Recommendations Passed by Delegates at saturday morning the most imant leature of the session was the sentation of reports by the home dission committee and the special committee appointed to consider the matter of ministers' salaries.

The former committee recommended that the minimum salary for home missionaries be fixed at $800 per annum, with free house and an allowance for horse keep. This report was adopted, and Rev. Dr. T. Montreal, Oct. 22.—The receipts at the west end cattle market for the week have been 3,100 cattle. 5,100 sheep, 200 hogs and 1,050 calves. This morning there were offered on the market 2,300 cattle, 3,550 shep and lambs, 700 hogs and 350 calves.

Twenty-two more cars of live stock were expected to arrive during the day, and from the condition of the market during the morning it was likely to remain in the yards some time. Trade was conspicuous by its absence, and with the exception of a little interest displayed in some rather poor bulls and in a few good steers, there was practically nothing doing. There were a large number of sheep on the market, but the demand was lacking. There was a better demand for hogs, but supplies seemed quite adequate, and there was a further reduction in price. A few extra choice selects fetched $18, but the majority were disposed of at $17,50@1175. Prices have been enormously inflated in pork, and declines are only to be expected. Some are ever talking of $12 hogs, but this dream seems impossible of realization, although there is every reason to anticipate cheaper pork. Quotations:

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Evidence of seaboard demand, together with slowness of husking, and with rural complaints of car scarcity, tended today to lift corn values. Pit traders who at the outset favored the selling side found that offerings were quickly absorbed. The December delivery was in particular demand, as the outlook for accumulating any large stock here soon appeared remote. mote.

SHE GAINS TEN POUNDS

Was On Verge of Nervous Breakdown-Tanlac Restores Health.

Breakdown—Tanlac Restores Health.

"I was actually on the verge of a nervous breakdown when I started on Tanlac, and it has not only restored my health, but has added ten pounds to my weight," declared Mrs. John Pitman, wife of an employee of the Hobbs Manufacturing Company, Limited, and living at 143 Bruce street, London, the other day.

"My health began to fall seven years ago," she continued, "and I suffered terribly from nervous indigestion. For over a year I could hardly retain anything I ate, and most of the time lived on a diet of malted milk and eggs; anything else nauseated me, so I couldn't keep it down, and I was slowly starving to death. My nerves were in such a wretched state whenever the doorbell rang it frightened me, so I had it removed, and many a night I was so unstrung that I would walk the floor till my feet ached. I got worse in spite of everything and became too weak to da a thing about the house, and i got to the point where I didn't know which way to turn.

"By the time I had used up half my first bottle of Tanlae. I felt so much better that I threw away all the other medicines I had in the house, I have stuck to Tanlae ever since and my appetite has improved so I can eat most anything I want—meats and pastry and all sorts of things I had to shun, and I am taking on flesh right along. My nerves are quiet again, I sleep like a baby, and get up in the mornings fresh and strong, enough to do all my housework. I am feeling better than I have in years, and am so grateful for what Tanlac has done for me that I feel it my duty to tell everybody about it."

Forty Moose Seen in Four Days Abitibl District of Quebec.

Abitibl Distrit of Quebec.

The crack of the hunter's rifle will soon be heard once more. The hunting season for deer, moose and carbou opens in the Province of Quebec on September I, except in the counties of Ottawa, Pontiac, Labelle and Temiskaming, where the open season begins October I. Sport will be excellent this year, according to reports received at Grand Trunk headquarters, Montreal.

Many sportsmen are planning trips to the new moose country in the Abitibl district of Northern Quebec, reached through Cochrane, the junction of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway and the Transcontinental Line. In the hunting reserves, there known as Canucks' Camps, moose are more prevalent this year than ever before. This, it is believed, is due to the natural increase, and to the fact that the moose are steadily moving into this new region from the more southerly areas. One party just returned from this region sighted in four days more than forty moose. Some wonderful moving pictures of moose have just been taken there. In this Abitibl district there is also considerable bear with some deer and a few caribou.

siderable bear with some deer and a few caribou.

In Ontario the hunting season opens November 1, but an order in council has just been promulgated allowing moose hunting in that portion of Ontario lying north of the Transcontinental Line to begin October 10, and extend to November 30, making the season considerably longer than in former years.

The transportation authorities are cooperating in every way in the work of attracting sportsmen to Canada, and stand ready to give all available information to the intending visitor.

H. Ruthven McDonald at the Majestic Today.

The manager of the Majestic Theatre has been fortunate enough to engage Mr. H. Ruthven McDonald, Canada's leading baritone, who will appear at that popular playhouse all this week. Mr. McDonald as a singer is too well known to Londoners to require extended reference here. It is only necessary to say that he has lost none of his art and powers as a vocalist of the highest order.

nine of which have written opposite the words "killed in action." St. Andrew's Presbyterian congrega-

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT WINTER GARDEN

The Winter Garden had the largest evening, hundreds of couples being present, including a great many soldiers, and the evening was one of the most enjoyable. While the big floor was crowded, there was ample space for all, and the orchestra, under the leadership of Professor Wilson excelled itself.

Who Purpose Claiming Exemption for Class One Men in Their Employ

HE following course is recommended for employers who have in their employ any number of menbachelors and widowers without children (not otherwise excepted) who were 20 years old on the 13th October, 1917, and whose 34th birthday did not occur before Jan. 1st, 1917, and who propose claiming exemption for any of these men, to continue in work which is deemed to be in the National interest:

First, it will simplify matters for you and for the exemption tribunals if you instruct Class One men in your employ to go up for medical examination at the nearest Medical Board Centre. Only Class One men, who upon medical examination are placed in Category A are liable for immediate service under the Act. Class One men placed in Categories B, C or E satisfy immediate requirements if they attach their medical report to their claim for exemption.

Employer's Statement and Schedule

Second, prepare a full statement of the total number of your employees grouping them according to their respective occupations and qualifications and stating the number in each group. Indicate the possibility or otherwise of replacing the labour of Class One men with the labour of those unavailable for military service, or outside the statutory class called up; the extent to which the withdrawal of men in the statutory class would affect the business, the reason for considering that the carrying on of the business is in the National interest, and such other facts and circumstances as may appear to be relevant.

append to this general statement and classification, a schedule of the names, ages and occupations of all men in Class One, indicating as to those who have been medically examined, the medical Category in which they have been placed, noting against each name whether or not you propose to claim exemption on behalf of Where exemption is claimed employer should state his opinion whether such exemption should be conditional on the man's continuing to follow his present occupation and whether it would suffice if exemption were granted for one, two or more months, as the case may be. A copy of both statement and schedule should be prepared for each man for whom the employer is apply-

Forms for Exemption

These forms may be obtained on request from any Post Master, who will transmit the forms when filled

Claims for exemption must be made not later than November 10th.
