SHOWERS OF CONGRATULATIONS FOR BRITISH CHANCELLOR

Insurance Bill Largest Application of State Beneficence Ever Attempted.

LLOYD GEORGE EXPLAINS BENEFITS

One Great Object of Scheme to Make Nation More Healthy Than It Is.

[Canadian Press.]
London, May 6.—Chancellor Lloyd George is extremely pleased with the reception accorded his insurance bill, which, by common consent, is the largest application of state beneficence ever attempted in any country. He has received a large number of congratulatory telegrams, and a cordial message from the Prime Minister of New Zealand.

"I shall require," he says, "all the enthusiasm of all progressive and benevolent people in this country to carry this vast scheme."

The Chancellor hopes, as he says in an interview printed in the Daily Mail today, to build the measure up to a structure of vital reform affecting the life of the entire nation. It is to be extended (it will affect every section of the working people.

"In a time of illness, a shopkeeper, clerk, artisan and laborer are all treated alike."

How It Benefits.
"What is the position of a boy under 16, who is at work?" We collect from him. We collect from everybody who is at work, whatever his age unless he be over 60 years of age, and they receive in case of illness, free doctoring and medicine and the benefits of a sanatorium if he become consumptive. We invest the money we receive from the young and they receive the advantages of it later. Say that a lad joins at 15. The benefit accrues to him when he is 31, just when, in all probability, he is married and bringing up a young family."

Not Bureau-Created.
Lloyd George denied that the scheme would result in the creation of a great number of new officials.

"The great advantage is that it is not bureau created. The bulk of the work falls upon approved friendly societies. Naturally, we must have a few officials to superintend their operations, but it will not be necessary for us to engage an army of officers in London and throughout the provinces to administer the funds. It will be done by the societies themselves, and that is a part of the scheme to which I am very much attached. This is particularly a matter for the societies themselves. They spend in salaries, they cannot have in benefits, and the amount of the benefits offered by the various societies will create a healthy rivalry between them."

"The plan, therefore, combines the advantages of state control with that of free competition between the various bodies who work it."

A Central Board.
"There will be a central insurance board. It is impossible to work the scheme without one. Careful consideration is necessary as to the kind of body that will be required. We shall have to choose our men very carefully. Above all there must be an experienced and skillful administrative board. We must also have advisory committees of experts to help it, but the ultimate control will be imperial, for this, like that of Germany, is an imperial scheme."

The Chancellor also pointed out an interesting and important feature of the measure as follows: "The scheme certainly will make medicine a better profession. I inquired as to the position of doctors throughout the country, and discovered by impartial investigation that some of them were underpaid. An improvement is required. I have the average figure per member per annum in my mind, but have deliberately refrained from mentioning it at present."

"I will only state that it shows a general condition of sweated labor that is the worst in the world. If you want to get the best out of a man you must pay him a wage which satisfies him. Improvement in the position of doctors will improve the general health of the country."

"I want to make the nation more healthy than it is. The great mass of illness which afflicts us we could easily prevent. It is a better thing to make a man healthy than to pay him so much a week when he is ill."

GODERICH PREPARING FOR TRAINING CAMP

Col. Hodgins and Major Shannon Looking Over the Ground.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Goderich, May 6.—Col. Hodgins and Major Shannon, of London, were in Goderich last evening in consultation with the mayor and council regarding the facilities at the Goderich camp for the military camp. A splendid system of waterworks is being installed, with a large number of shower baths for the men and fountains for the horses. An electric light plant is being put in, and all that the officers asked has been granted by the town. A committee is preparing for a splendid banquet at the Sunset Hotel. The Miners' Union Club is to give a grand military ball, while many of the leading citizens are preparing to entertain the officers at their homes. The town and townships are also preparing to entertain the visitors. It is expected several city regiments will be present at this camp. The immense grounds being capable of holding 5,000 troops. The large flats and river banks extend for miles. Fifty-one hundred thousand men could find room for military exercises.

FIREMAN WAS PAINFULLY HURT

Mr. J. Martin Was Badly Scalded About Face and Head at Mimico.

EYESIGHT IN DANGER

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Toronto, May 6.—Grand Trunk Fireman J. Martin, running between London and Toronto on one of the fast way-freights, may lose the sight of one of his eyes as a result of being badly scalded about the face at Mimico by the bursting of a water glass.

Martin was at his work when the gauge glass blew out unexpectedly and steam and boiling water struck him in the face and eyes. Before the steam could be shut off he was badly scalded. He was removed to his home in London.

Dr. Edwin Seaborn, who is attending Fireman Martin, stated to The Advertiser this afternoon that he did not think the patient will lose his sight.

A piece of the broken gauge glass struck him in the side of the face inflicting a nasty cut, but the principal injuries were caused by the scalding water and steam.

DR. W. J. TILLMANN WEDS CHARMING LADY

A Quiet Wedding Performed by Bishop Fallon and Mr. Aylward.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's cathedral this morning, when Dr. W. J. Tillmann, and Miss May Coughlin, of London, formerly of Exeter, a graduate nurse of St. Joseph's Hospital, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by His Lordship Bishop Fallon, assisted by Monsignor Aylward, in the presence of a few immediate relatives of the family.

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Tillmann left for the east. They will spend a few days in Toronto and Montreal, sailing for Europe next week, where they will spend a couple of months.

Dr. Tillmann has not been well for some time, and will take a complete rest.

ENGINEER DARK QUITS CITY'S EMPLOY

Resignation Was Presented to Water Commissioners and Was Accepted.

WILL REMAIN IN LONDON

Board Decided to Pay Him a Month's Salary as a Bonus—Could Have Remained Until September.

Mr. Frank H. Dark, of the electrical department, tendered his resignation to the water commissioners, at their meeting held this morning, and it was accepted. It was written to take effect May 31, but Mr. Dark was allowed a month's salary in addition. He will remain in the city, opening up business here in motors and other electrical appliances.

Mr. Dark's letter was as follows: "Gentlemen, I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd inst. in relation to my resignation. I am glad to hear that you are satisfied with my work. I am sorry to leave you, but I feel that I can be of value to you in my present position. I would be pleased to tender my resignation, to take effect at the end of this month. "If after that date any point arises, I will be pleased to assist Mr. Glauz, in every way possible. "Thanking you all for your kind treatment, I beg to remain, yours respectfully, FRANK H. DARK."

Had a Contract.
"Under his contract Mr. Dark can remain in our employ until the end of September," explained Chairman Poock. "However, he intends going into business in the city, and wishes to be relieved at the end of May. The board, I think, should recognize him in some way. I would suggest that we pay his salary until the end of June."

"I think we should do that," commented Commissioner Marr. "I will move to that effect."

Mr. Dark has been a very faithful and good worker," said Superintendent Glauz. "He is to remain in the city and will be in a position to do us much good."

The motion carried without discussion.

London Township Line.
Superintendent Glauz explained that he had visited the London Township council at its last session to obtain permission to extend their line into that township. The council agreed to allow the commissioners to do this, and an agreement covering the matter is now being prepared on Sunday.

On motion of Commissioner Marr, No. 3 committee will be asked to prepare an agreement with the commissioners covering street lighting.

Superintendent Glauz reported that 108 customers had been signed up during the past four days, making the total now 1,639.

He also reported that he had taken the matter of extending the power line into Westminster Township up with the Westminster council, but no definite word had been received as yet.

On the recommendation of Mr. Glauz, Mr. W. E. Brown was named chief power solicitor, to succeed Mr. J. Van Zant, at a salary of $125 per month.

Those present were: Philip Poock, chairman; Commissioners J. H. Chapman, John Marr, Superintendent Glauz and Secretary Ellwood.

Saw Policeman and His Guilty Conscience Made Him Run Away.

A brand-new bicycle, one of the most modern make, is awaiting an owner at the police station. A colored boy left it in a hurry last night and the police are anxious to discover who owns it.

While on his beat near the corner of Grey and Wellington streets a policeman noticed a young colored boy riding the wheel. He did not pay any particular attention to the boy, but as soon as the latter saw the policeman he jumped off the machine and made haste to get out of sight. He was a "fast black," and the policeman could not get close enough to find out who he was.

However, the officer took the wheel in charge and brought it to the station, where it awaits an owner.

"It is a brand-new machine, with cushion frame and all modern improvements," said Detective Nickle. "We would like to find the owner."

BITTEN BY RATS RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Two Little Toronto Lads Attacked by Rodents While Asleep.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, May 6.—Gordon and Alex. Blenkman, aged 1 and 7, were bitten while asleep in their beds last night by a rat. They were awakened by the rats biting them, and were taken to the hospital where their wounds were cauterized. The place where they live at 22 Queen street east, is said to be overrun by rats.

ST. THOMAS TEAMSTER FATALLY CRUSHED

St. Thomas, May 5.—William Yokon, a teamster, was almost instantly killed this afternoon through being crushed by the wheels of his own cart. He was moving sand, and when on Curtis street, in some manner slipped from his seat and fell between the wheels. Before he could recover himself the heavy wagon had passed over him. He died in the Amasa Wood Hospital a few minutes later.

DIED IN CHURCH.
Winifred May, 6, on her knees in prayer at the Church of the Immaculate Conception today, Mrs. Christine Janke, aged 86, was seized with a cerebral hemorrhage and died within a few minutes. She was one of the oldest of the settlers in Sandwich Bay.

COURT MOURNING ENDS TODAY WITH SERVICE AND SALUTE

Royal Family Hold Memorial Service to Late King Edward and Guns Boom On Anniversary of George's Accession.

[Canadian Press.]
London, May 6.—The court mourning for King Edward was ended today, the first anniversary of the death of the late monarch. The occasion was commemorated with a memorial service at Windsor, which was attended by Queen-Mother Alexandra, King George, Queen Mary, practically all of the royal family, and the members of the King's household. The accession of King George was celebrated with the customary naval and military salutes and the dressing of the warships.

A Brilliant Season.
The coronation year season, which it is expected, will be the most brilliant in British history, will open Monday, when King George will attend the Newmarket races for the first time since his accession. On Tuesday and Wednesday their majesties will hold court at Buckingham Palace. The Festival of the Empire will be opened at the Crystal Palace by the King and Queen on Friday. The following week will witness the ceremonies attendant upon the unveiling of the memorial to Queen Victoria, and the visit of Emperor William and Empress Augusta Victoria. From then on until the middle of July there will be scarcely a day without some function in which the King and Queen will participate.

FIVE CLAIMS ARE NOW FILED

Reward of $100 for Freddie Wilson Has Plenty of Claimants.

CLAIRVOYANT IS LATEST

Port Huron Lady Thinks She is Entitled to the Much-Sought-For Money.

Five claimants for the reward of $100 offered for the recovery of the body of Freddie Wilson, who had drowned in the Thames in January last, have filed their claims with City Clerk Baker.

Three of them were received today: Roger J. Hutchinson, High street; Mrs. E. Ainsworth, Port Huron, and Mrs. L. Osborne, 111 High street, on behalf of her son, Richard Osborne.

Mrs. Ainsworth is the clairvoyant from Port Huron who wrote Beattie in February last stating that the body of Freddie Wilson was in the river, and that he had fallen in near the entrance of the sewer at Clark's bridge.

Mr. Roger Hutchinson was the gentleman who called the attention of passersby to the body floating in the river on Sunday last.

Little Richard Osborne, an 8-year-old lad, saw the body, it is claimed, prior to the coming of Mr. Hutchinson or the others.

William Yates, front street, and Arthur Wheatley, Beaconsfield avenue, filed their claims earlier in the week.

In a Dismissal.
The aldermen are figuring how to get out of the difficulty. It is admitted that the council have not the right to offer a reward, and they are afraid that some person will enter an injunction if the money is paid.

In this case, the members of the council will be made personally responsible, and the majority have no desire to part with that amount of money for such a purpose.

"I guess we have no power to offer the reward," said Mayor Beattie. "With such a host of claimants, it is not likely that we can afford to pay the reward. It is going to be rather difficult to decide exactly who is entitled to the money. The question as to the legality of the grant has been raised, and there may be some trouble in evading the municipal act. However, the council will have to decide the matter at the next meeting."

STILL NO WORD FROM ROYAL BANK

Sale of the City Hall Is Hanging Fire—Mayor in No Hurry.

No word has been received from the Royal Bank here as to whether or not the head office will meet Smallman & Ingram's representatives and reach an amicable settlement regarding the vacant property at the foot of the city hall, which was included by the council in the sale of the hall site.

Mr. H. Smallman, on behalf of the company, called last night at the bank that they were willing to listen to any reasonable proposition, but up to a certain time no answer has been received from them.

The city council have done nothing as yet towards settling the difficulty. Judging from the attitude of the majority of the aldermen they are quite willing to allow the sale to go by default, as this will prevent further trouble.

"There is nothing new in the situation," said Mayor Beattie. "I am not troubling myself about it whatever. It is up to the council to do what they think best. I have proved my bona fides by showing that I had an offer of $100,000 for the city hall. If the council do not wish to complete the deal, that is their business."

THOS. FURLONG DEAD.

St. John, N. B., May 6.—Thomas Furlong, for years a wholesale liquor dealer and one of St. John's prominent citizens, died last night. He had lived here 57 years. Besides his business, he had a business in Boston for some years. He was a good nephew of Thomas Furlong, rich poet. Mr. Furlong leaves four daughters, the second of whom married Edward F. Schmidt, of Montreal, formerly in connection with the Canada Life Insurance Company, and one son, Gerald Furlong.

WEST BROMWICH PETITION.
London, May 6.—Following the trial of the late Bromwich election, petition, Lord Levisham retains his seat with a majority of two. The petitioners, 5,048; the Liberal, 5,041.

HOSPITAL COTS FOR VETERANS

Change Urged in the Rules of South African Relief Fund.

USE FOR SURPLUS CASH

Money May Be Utilized to Help Those in Distress From Causes Other Than the War.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, May 6.—It is probable that at an early date an effort will be made to have an act of Parliament passed changing the regulations under which the South African veterans' relief fund is administered. At present the fund is only available to help those veterans whose illness is directly traceable to the rigors of the campaign of ten years ago or to identify the families of those whose death is due to campaign causes. The matter has been brought to the attention of the fund trustees through the case of a veteran in Hamilton recently who was ill and in distress, but his illness not being a result of the war, nothing could be done for him by the fund, and he was finally looked after by the St. Andrew's Society.

Cots for Veterans.
The suggestion has been made that should be endorsed in the leading hospitals of every Canadian city to be available for indigent veterans.

"Trustees of the fund have been seen regarding the matter."

"The matter of disposing of the surplus cash of the South African relief fund has been discussed time and again," said Lieut.-Col. D. C. Irwin, treasurer of the fund. "We have considered the matter very thoroughly indeed, but have never been able to arrive at a solution. If a deputation were to wait on us and urge us to endorse the suggestion, it might result in something being done."

"The chief reason why we have never acted in the matter, is that the act of incorporation passed by Parliament strictly limits the distribution of the funds to soldiers disabled as a consequence of the campaign, or to widows and orphans of those killed. The terms of the act would have to be changed before we could move in the matter."

There is now about $75,000 in the fund.

The postal clerks are waiting eagerly for word as to whether they are to get a raise of $50 a year, or $100, as the railway mail clerks do.

So far no official word whatever has been received, but a statement is expected at any time.

The men are greatly pleased at being granted a raise, although they point out that it was only just that they should have their salaries increased, as no adjustment in their department had been made in many years, and the wages paid were not anything like those paid in other occupations, or such as the increase in the cost of living warranted.

CHARGE AGAINST COX WAS DISMISSED TODAY

Barnardo Boy Allowed to Go On Barn Burning Charge.

Oliver Cox, the Barnardo boy charged with burning the barns, stock and implements of his employer, Frank McNeil, of Ekfrid, some days ago, was this morning found not guilty, and dismissed by Judge Chittick. He has been at the county jail for the past week, having been again remanded, pending the magistrate's decision after the trial at Melbourne Thursday.

Squire Chittick, in dismissing Cox, stated that there were many peculiar circumstances, but that it was by no means certain that a jury would convict the prisoner with such evidence.

TORONTO MAN DROPS DEAD AT INGERSOLL

G. P. Wagner, Accountant, Was About to Board a Train for Guelph.

[Canadian Press.]
Woodstock, May 6.—G. P. Wagner, of the firm of Neff & Co., accountants, of Toronto, dropped dead at the G. P. R. station, Ingersoll, before 8 o'clock this morning. Wagner came to Ingersoll yesterday to audit the books of the Lime Company, and having finished his work, he remained over night with his friend, Mr. Kennedy. Intending to leave for Guelph, he went to the station, where he purchased his ticket, and sat down in the waiting room. The station agent noticed his breathing and suddenly his head toppled over, and he died on examination, found he was dead.

Visitors may have their certificates for the vacant House of Commons, which will have their fare returned on showing certificates that they have purchased goods to the value of $20. We expect this venture to be even more of a success than the last," said a merchant to The Advertiser. "In spite of the unfavorable weather on the last occasion, we did excellent business. This is the weather for buying goods, however, as the majority of people will be putting in their summer's supply. We will give them every possible chance to see the best that London has shown in many years. We are confident of a splendid week."

LONDON DRAMATIC CLUB

The London Dramatic Club will present "Lady Huntworth's Expedition," as given at the Earl Grey competition in Winnipeg, at the Princess Theatre, Toronto, on May 15. In aid of the Heather Club, graduate nurses of the Sick Children's Hospital.

TEAMSTERS MUST PAY

Unless They Hand Over License Fees They Will Be Summoned.

Unless a number of local teamsters pay their licenses immediately the police authorities intend issuing summonses against them.

Sheriff Gault have been paid by March 1," said Sgt. Birrell to The Advertiser this afternoon. "Of course, as the season is a little late for the teamsters, we have not been hurrying them, but the men seem to think that because we give them an inch they will take a yard. If they do not pay their fees at once they will be summoned."

The fee amounts to $4.

MRS. THORNLEY TO PRESENT EVIDENCE

Ministerial Association Will Hear Her Charges Privately Thursday, May 18.

A MEETING IN CAMERA

Representatives of Many Prominent Bodies Will Be Present on the Occasion.

The Ministerial Association, together with a representative body of citizens will hear the charges preferred by Mrs. May R. Thornley at a meeting to be held in St. Andrew's Hall at 8 p.m., on Thursday, May 18.

Today a notice was received by the board of education asking that body to send three representatives to the meeting.

The resolution stated that representatives would be asked from the city council, the board of education, the Medical Association, the Teachers' Association, the Mothers' Club, the W. C. T. U., and others.

Those not having tickets will not be admitted.

The press, it was stated, will be excluded, and the session will be in camera absolutely.

Charges and Proofs.
The charges and proofs in the possession of Mrs. Thornley will be presented to this committee, and judgment will be given.

The city council will receive a notice today, and at its next meeting it will be brought up.

At the present time nothing is known as to the attitude of the board of education or the other bodies.

The trustees have placed themselves on record as of the opinion that there was little or no justification for the charges made.

The aldermen have so far taken no action whatever in reference to them, and some of them are of the opinion that the question is not for them to settle.

SIGHTS SEEN ON THE LOCAL MARKET

Some Interesting Types of Character at an Auction On the Square.

ODDITIES ARE IN REVIEW

Foreigners, Indians and Natives Mingle in the One Crowd of Bargain Hunters.

Many and varied are the types of character which the Saturday morning market presents on the local square. A score of well-marked classes, both city and country dwellers here elbow and another indiscriminately.

But by far the best and most interesting opportunity for character study is presented by the Saturday morning auctions of old furniture and household effects which are conducted on the open square between the market house and the Masonic Temple.

The oddities of human types that even a provincial city of London's size will include, are regularly attracted to this particular spot by the cries of the market auctioneers each Saturday forenoon. The larger proportion of the attending crowd is composed of women, who have either been attracted by the necessity of what to them such a bargain or else the inherent trait of bargain-hunting, by which so many female minds are characterized.

Some Types.
Here one finds inevitably the keeper of the cheap lodging and lodging house, whose counterpane is strongly marked by the index of her vocation and the sad lines of a life of toil, vainly incessant haggling over the price of room rents.

At her elbow in all probability stands a Muncey squaw, who is carrying away a triumph over a brightly-colored cushion or a dilapidated picture.

Here, too, women of foreign face and accent, have come from their homes in the south side of the city to buy with their scanty pennies more furniture for the two or three small rooms that mean home and liberty to them. Humble as they may be, these women are no easily pleased. The European despotism and oppression they have left behind, and their side of the picture is bright with prospect of improvement when compared with that of the faded and dejected-looking women whose dress and demeanor proclaim them the wives of poorly-paid laborers, or women whose home life has been wrecked by the ravages of drink, poverty or other unfortunate circumstances. This is the tragic side of the market auction. Some of these women who may have known refinement in other days, are now reduced to laughing at the coarse and often vulgar jokes of the would-be funny auctioneers.

Some Comedy.
Yet there is a touch of real comedy that intermingles occasionally with the orderly pile of old furniture, china and crockery, books, vases, discarded furs and trinkets, gas-burners, discarded looking stair carpets, over which hundreds of feet have trod, rugs, bedding and mattresses. Some of the real comedy comes from homes where the bull has stepped in this or that piece of furniture, or the miscellaneous junk has been cast off by families who have come into improved quarters.

Where Do You Want to Buy Lots?

TOWN LOTS are probably the safest kind of investment, but "town lots," so-called, that are miles from the centre of the town, are not the investment that you want. Even on these you may not lose your money if you wait long enough, but we can tell you of a town that will have twenty thousand people or more in three to five years, while lots can be had close to the business section that are sure to double in value, if not more, in twelve months' time—THAT TOWN IS TRANScona.

Transcona is where the Grand Trunk Pacific is building its mammoth car works, which will employ 5,000 people when complete, the largest plant of any kind in the Dominion. THINK OF THAT. Then a thirty-story steel roundhouse is practically completed there. THINK OF how many railroad men that will mean this town, beside it is now almost completely on the Grand Trunk Pacific. The Dominion Tar and Chemical Company, of London, England, and the only one of its kind in Canada, has a plant in Transcona. THINK MORE. This is the only town in the west that has had a manufacturing plant to start with, the largest in all Canada at that. With at least six thousand employees assured (not in prospect) it would not be unreasonable to predict the population for this town in five years to be twenty-five to thirty thousand people. If you only know that Calgary, Edmonton, Moosejaw, Saskatoon and other towns were going to be what Transcona is now, would you not have bought close in and made a fortune in five years? Transcona is sure that any one of these towns ever were, out? For particulars, call or write.

LONDON, SATURDAY, MAY 6.

SIR WILFRID WILL GO.

Sir Wilfrid will go to Westminster, and Parliament will adjourn for two months. There is no valid reason why Parliament should not prorogue before he goes, instead of adjourning, but the Opposition has ruled otherwise by the abuse of its privileges. Sir Wilfrid could have chosen to remain and fight all summer if necessary, but the alternative was the disruption of the Imperial Conference. The suggestion that he might absent himself brought a chorus of disapproval from the British press. No doubt representations were also addressed to him by the Imperial authorities. Like Delemon, Sir Wilfrid perceived "a divided duty." He has decided to cross the Atlantic, but he doesn't choose to have the Opposition carrying on a guerrilla warfare in Parliament behind his back. His absence may have the effect of postponing the operation of the reciprocity agreement, but the entire responsibility, which rests upon the Opposition, Mr. Borden has already assumed it.

The United States Senate will have probably adopted the reciprocity agreement before the Canadian Parliament reassembles in July. It will not be made operative in the United States until ratified in this country, so that every day of obstruction at Ottawa will mean a loss to the Canadian farmers. In that event the advocates of reciprocity will have a congenial and profitable task in contrast to the market quotations on both sides of the border. When the Canadian farmer sees that a crew of politicians at Ottawa stand between him and an immediate gain on every bushel of wheat, barley and oats, every pound of cheese and butter, and every head of live stock, an agrarian wave of protest will sweep over the country like a prairie fire. It would devour the Opposition if there could be an election at that moment, but Mr. Borden, or rather the strategists who are leading him by the nose, will take care not to prolong obstruction until the Government would have an opportunity to bring in a redistribution bill, based on the new census.

SIR JOHN THOMPSON, TOO.

The other day we gave extracts from the election addresses of Sir John Macdonald, Hon. George E. Foster, and Hon. J. A. Chapleau, in 1891, in which they asked for support because they favored reciprocity with the United States. We overlooked an even more fervent appeal by the late Sir John Thompson, which we quote from the Halifax Chronicle:

"To the Electors of the County of Antigonish:
"Gentlemen,—At the election which will take place on the 5th day of March, I will be a candidate for re-election as a member of the House of Commons for the county of Antigonish.

"The Government of which I am a member, is appealing to the country with a policy, which we believe will be heartily endorsed by a great majority of the electors. WE HAVE MADE TO THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES, THROUGH THE GOVERNMENT OF GREAT BRITAIN, PROPOSALS FOR RECIPROCITY IN TRADE, WHICH WE HAVE GOOD REASON TO BELIEVE WILL RESULT IN AN ARRANGEMENT BY WHICH THE MARKETS OF THE UNITED STATES WILL BE REOPENED TO THE PRODUCTS WHICH OUR PEOPLE DESIRE MOST TO SEND THERE.

"A FAIR MEASURE OF RECIPROCITY IS WHAT WE DESIRE, AND WE HAVE NO DOUBT THAT THAT CAN BE OBTAINED WITHOUT UNNECESSARY SACRIFICES.

"I respectfully ask your support and votes, and I pledge myself to serve the best interests of the country, if I should be honored by a renewal of the confidence which was reposed in me at the two last elections and for which I shall be forever grateful. I remain, gentlemen, "Your obedient servant," JOHN S. J. THOMPSON, "Antigonish, Feb. 24, 1891."

We have been told by Mr. Taylor, M. P., and some Opposition journals that Sir John Macdonald never desired reciprocity, and merely made the offer to the Liberals. Sir John Thompson, we suppose, must now be added to the Ananias Club.

LIFE INSURANCE IN CANADA.

The preliminary report for 1910 of the Superintendent of Insurance shows a remarkable and uninterrupted increase in the business of the life companies operating in Canada. It was in 1881 that the amount of policies in Canada issued by companies under authority of the federal law first reached the hundred million dollar mark. The rate of growth since that date is shown by the following figures of the amount in force:

1881	100,000,000
1884	121,741,000
1889	168,161,000
1894	208,161,000
1899	308,812,000
1904	508,812,000
1909	629,324,000
1910	719,516,000
1910	856,109,000

These figures reflect the increase of wealth in the country, and testify to the Canadian spirit of thrift. The fact that the average of the policies is under $1,000 shows that the benefits of insurance are diffused among all classes. The number of companies reporting to the department at Ottawa is fifty-five, of which 25 are Canadian, 14 British, and 16 of the United States. Five of the British companies have ceased to do business in Canada and maintain offices here only for the purpose of carrying out old contracts. The Canadian companies do about two-thirds of the business. Taking all the companies reporting, the number of policies issued in 1910 was 244,447, compared with 242,777 in 1909, making the total in 1910 1,172,121 for 1910, against 1,245,088 in 1909.

Policies in force $876,109,000 $780,525,000 New policies in 1910 152,177,000 131,739,000 From, received 22,791,000 26,506,000 Policies became claims 19,985,000 19,132,000 Claims paid 16,912,000 16,941,000

The extent to which the endowment policy figures in the companies' business is indicated by the statement of the payments to policyholders, which include $8,178,000 for death claims, and $1,387,000 for matured endowments. The record for 1910 showed the writing of $116,700,000 of life and $26,360,000 of endowment policies.

"We must all work together to make a nation," says the Toronto News. The News' idea of making a nation is to forbid Canadian farmers a new market.

The churches of Canada, like those of Great Britain and the United States, should lose no time in promoting the Anglo-American peace treaty. It is a theme worthy of the pulpit.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be the only statesman at the approaching Imperial Conference who attended the first. He is almost regarded as one of the permanent institutions of the British Empire.

Ambassador Bryce is making his sixth visit to Canada. His predecessors at Washington occasionally looked at us through a long-distance telescope. Mr. Bryce prefers to examine Canadian affairs at close quarters.

Premier McBride was dined at Ottawa last night, but refused to respond to the Macedonian call. Wary Richard! If he has federal ambitions he is not going to make the plunge when reciprocity is the issue. The call, "Come in, the water's fine," can't deceive a western politician.

Mr. Borden might have said a good word in his carefully-prepared speech last night in favor of the Anglo-American peace movement. It is to be feared this great cause will get little help from Canadians who think their party interests will be served by painting President Taft as an enemy of the British Empire.

Hon. Robert Rogers says no one can point to anything Sir Wilfrid Laurier has done for the good of the British Empire. Sir Wilfrid hasn't made as much money as the Honorable Bob since he went into politics, but it is possible his name will be remembered in the British Empire when that of Rogers is forgotten.

At an anti-reciprocity meeting in Toronto the other night a detachment of Boy Scouts was marched to the platform. The men responsible for this are the worst enemies of the Boy Scouts movement. Perhaps only in Toronto would an attempt be made to bring a patriotic organization of this kind into the mire of partisanship. These are the politicians who try to make the British flag a party emblem.

There are some Canadians who ought to frame this declaration by President Taft:

"The talk of annexation is hush. Everyone knowing anything about it realizes that it is hush. Canada is a great, strong youth, anxious to test his muscles, rejoicing in the race he is ready to run. The United States has all it can attend with the territory it is now governing, and to make the possibility of the annexation of Canada to the United States a basis for objection to any steps toward their greater economic and commercial union should be treated as one of the jokes of the platform, and should not enter into the consideration of serious men engaged in solving a serious problem."

AN UNPREJUDICED JUDGMENT.

In Southern Missouri years ago, when the form of questioning was slightly different from what it is now, much trouble was experienced in getting a jury in a murder trial. Finally an old fellow answered every question satisfactorily; he had no prejudices, no certain class of persons, usually young men, but occasionally girls also, who make a rule of indulging in loud and unseemly conduct in the smaller theatres, to the disturbance, and not infrequently the offence, of other theatre patrons.

THE FIRST MENU CARD.

[London Globe.]

At a dinner given by Duke Henry of Brunswick in 1541 he was seen to every hour and then consult a long slip of paper, which he kept at the side of his plate. One of the duke's guests asked what the paper was for.

"He explained that it was a sort of programme or catalogue of the dishes he had commanded from the cook."

"To the intent that if some delicacy which especially appealed to his appetite were marked for a later stage in the report, he might carefully reserve his appetite for it. The simplicity and order of the idea at once took the fancy of the duke's convives, and the menu card from that moment became a universal institution. The fashion was so much admired it travelled far and near, and was adopted in England and France at once."

In a little restaurant, where the waiter insists upon slamming down your plate or saucer, a man had ordered a sandwich and a cup of coffee. Then he decided to put an advertisement in his order. "I want a plate of that country sausage," he told the waiter.

Just then the accident happened. Somebody stepped on the tail of a small, anaemic-looking yellow dog that had followed another customer into the restaurant. The dog gave three frantic yelps. "I understand that order for sausage," growled the man with the face. "I didn't know you had to go and make it!"

How You Do Hate To Be Tricked!

You paid the same price for them five cents.

The package looked about the same.

But the goods weren't there.

dodge the imitations. There are four or five of them.

Dodge them. Say to the groceryman:

That kind does most, goes farthest, and comes in a GIANT-SIZE nickel package like this:

FRENCH GIRLS LOVE THE FLYING MEN

Aviators for Husbands Are Now All the Rage in France.

Paris, May 5.—Thousands of girls with substantial marriage portions are importing their parents to procure them aviator husbands. Younger brothers from 16 years up keep this admiration hot by tales of heroism, patriotism and the 1,000,000 francs that Bleriot earned in six months. Take Rouger, he won not only a bride but the betrothal of another man. Son of a rich Marseilles shipping merchant, he fell in love at Uriage with an engaged girl. She was the daughter of the great man of the little bijou watering place outside Grenoble. Her fiancé was a smart young physician, celebrated, influential leader in pleasures, tennis champion and mountain automobilist. What chance had Rouger, on vacation from his father's counting house, to win the engaged girl of such a man? Love knows a way. He bought an aeroplane.

School for Women Fencers.
An international assault at arms for women fencers was held in Paris recently for the benefit of a charity, the first of the kind to take place in France, where fencing remains a man's sport.

Miss Johnstone, of London, and Miss Hall represented England, the former fresh from her triumphs in Stockholm, where she won the ladies' international challenge cup. Miss Vigny, who teaches fencing in Geneva, and Mme. Gardere, who is the wife of an officer noted for his swordsmanship, were other contestants.

A league of fathers has been formed to secure governmental aid for large families. Fathers with four children are eligible for membership of the league, the roll of which is said to contain the names of 400,000 heads of families.

Among other items the league declares that its members should be afforded a rebate of taxation, that there are more than seven in the family, as under the first republic and the second empire, and should be paid a special education allowance, and also that in nominations for the public service men with large families should be considered before those less burdened in this way.

Joy and Sorrow.

Miss Laura Barney, of Washington, is following the example of her mother, Mrs. Barney, who persisted in denying that she was engaged to young Christian Hemming up to the day of the wedding. While, therefore, her engagement has yet to be announced, it is a secret that she is affianced to Hippolyte Dreyfus.

Ethel Croker-Breen has begun suit for divorce from her groom-to-be, Sir John Breen, who has been her mother, having come to Paris soon after her marriage. Not even her mother admits that she was married, but it was accepted as a fact, and it was believed that she was waiting to begin divorce proceedings.

If all outward signs are to be believed the wedding of Alfred, son of the late Duke of Devonshire, and Mrs. Margaret Emerson McKim may be expected to take place very soon, but whether in Paris or London it is impossible to say now.

Princess Maria del Pilar, granddaughter of the late Queen Isabella of Spain, will be married in Paris to the Infante Eulalie and the daughter of Prince Ludwig Ferdinand of Bavaria.

"MURDER IS MURDER"

Roosevelt Writes of the Los Angeles Dynamiting Case.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, May 5.—Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt will have a signed article, entitled, "Murder is Murder," in the Outlook, this week, dealing with the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times, and the arrests recently made by Detective Burns. Mr. Roosevelt in part says:

"No worse service can be rendered by labor union leaders to the cause of unionism than that which they render when they seek to identify the cause of unionism with the cause of any guilty of a murderous attack of this nature. I have no idea whether the men arrested on Mr. Burns' statements are or are not guilty; the labor leaders in question have no idea whether or not they are guilty of this nature. They are entitled to an absolutely fair trial. If they have no money to provide counsel for themselves, they should be entirely proper for both of them to furnish the requisite funds, simply as an incident in securing them a fair trial."

"But it is grossly improper to try to create a public opinion in favor of the arrested men simply because the crime of which they are accused is a crime against a capitalist or a corporation, and because the men who are charged with committing it are members of a labor union."

"The question of organized labor or organized capital or of the relations of either with the community at large has nothing whatever to do with this issue. All we are now concerned with is the grave and vital question of fact whether or not the accused men have been guilty of murder, and of murder under circumstances of peculiar foulness and atrocity. Whether we do or do not approve of the policy of the Los Angeles Times—and the Outlook very heartily disapproves of its policy of certain matters—has nothing whatever to do with the question."

"The one and only question is as to the guilt or innocence of the men accused. Any man who seeks to have them convicted if they are innocent is guilty of a crime against the state, and any man who seeks to have them acquitted, if guilty, is also guilty of a crime against the state."

IS IT A SUICIDE?

St. Catharines, May 5.—Today Mrs. Tossy, wife of the proprietor of the Grand Central Hotel, found a letter in the room of Robt. Wheeler, of Hamilton, a man who boarded there up to two weeks ago, and who disappeared suddenly, intimating that he intended to commit suicide. The letter signed by Wheeler said he was going for a walk and that he would be seen again. His wife, who runs a boarding house in Hamilton, was notified of the finding of the letter by Chief Greene.

With all the Conleys, O'Keefes, Kellys and Murphys, who trace their ancestry to Russia and Greece, it's a wonder some simon-pure Celt doesn't rise on his hind legs and start something.

EUGENIE'S DAYS ARE LONELY ONES

Ex-Empress at 85 Is Still Strong and Active and Lives Simply.

Mentone, May 5.—A little old woman, all in black, even to the great spectacles behind her crage veil, alighted from the train at Mentone a few days ago. She had one woman companion, but there was not a soul to meet her save only the coachman and footman of a simple carriage. There were many people in the railway station, but scarcely one of them recognized the woman in black who walked from the train to the roadway.

But this aged woman in black, arriving with only one attendant and driving away unrecognized, greeted, unsolicited by the cosmopolitan crowd at the popular Riviera resort, was Eugenie, who within the memory of men by no means old was the queen of fashion, the ruler of the gayest court in Europe, the model of elegance.

When she was told of her son's death she said: "Fate is very cruel. I feel now that I shall live to be a hundred."

Perhaps she will, for, though 85 now, she is still strong and active.

MORGAN SURRENDERS TREASURES TO KING

Gives Up Bulk of $400,000 Sambon Collection to Italy's Ruler.

Paris, May 5.—J. Pierpont Morgan, victor in many battles with foreign museums, surrenders willingly and willingly to Italy today, treasures of the Jules Sambon art collection. He allowed himself without a murmur to be robbed of a victory that was in his hands.

Mr. Morgan gave both the victory and its trophies to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, who will create a new museum. This museum is to be in the Riccardi Palace at Milan. It is to contain, in addition to the entire Sambon collection, a plaque in commemoration of the heroism of Mr. Morgan and his initial surrender.

The sale of the Jules Sambon collection had been in progress at the Hotel Drouot for one day when it was announced that King Victor Emmanuel desired to purchase it en bloc. Mr. Morgan in that one day had secured a majority of the objects offered.

The purchasers, who had merely obtained minor objects, gladly agreed to convey the treasures to the King. Mr. Morgan followed in the footsteps of the others. This collection was sold to King Victor Emmanuel for $400,000. What Mr. Morgan's share was is not known.

WOMAN MAYOR MEETS ALONE

Wouldn't Play With Council That Opposes Woman Chief.

Hunnswell, Kan., May 5.—Mrs. Ella Wilson, mayor of this place, was victorious in the first skirmish with the council last night. Mrs. Wilson had prepared to present the names of Mrs. W. E. Hilton and Mrs. C. A. Osborn for city clerk and chief of police, respectively, but the council's cut-and-dried plan to defeat the appointments, she refused to attend the meeting, keeping the records in her possession. Instead, she held a meeting by herself in a nearby grocery.

The councilman sent her a note demanding that she attend the meeting and bring the records. This she ignored, and the council was forced to adjourn until next week.

WOULDN'T BE A QUEEN

Objects to Ruling With Husband on Tiny Pacific Isle.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 5.—A little island off the coast of Chili, the Island of Pitcairn, two miles long, by one wide, caused a divorce in a Los Angeles court yesterday, for it took the husband of Mrs. Nellie B. Clark away from her home here.

Mrs. Clark did not fancy being queen of an island, but Lincoln Clark wanted to be king, so he sailed away and left her here.

That was two years ago. The husband has never come back, and says he never will. He is now in London, as his son Roy, who went with him, is heir-apparent. They have about 125 subjects.

Mrs. Clark has heard news of her husband two or three times through the letters of her son.

HONORS FOR CARNEGIE

Decorated and Called "Benefactor of Humanity" by American Republics.

Washington, May 5.—Andrew Carnegie today received what he called his greatest mark of honor when 21 American republics bestowed upon him a gold medal, bearing on one side the words, "Benefactor of Humanity," and on the other, "The American Republics to Andrew Carnegie."

Secretary of State Knox, presided, and President Taft spoke in honor of the gifts which Mr. Carnegie has made for the cause of peace on this hemisphere, and throughout the entire world. Members of the diplomatic corps and men high in official life filled the hall of the Pan-American Union Building, where the ceremonies were held, and for the erection of which Mr. Carnegie gave almost one million dollars.

London, May 5.—Milan left today for the Canadian West.

Mayor G. R. Christie and Dr. F. H. Miller are in Ottawa in the interests of the new Government building to be erected in Alymer shortly.

Mrs. (Dr.) Frank Hoag, who has been visiting Mrs. J. C. Hoag, Pine street, for a couple of weeks, left today for her home in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Miss George Lambert has secured a good position in Toronto, and has left for that city.

J. J. Nairn will commence shortly to remodel the office of Miller & Backus and also the store now occupied by W. D. Swackhammer.

Miss Marion, who has recently returned from a trip to Colorado, is visiting in Toronto.

A "DRUNK" WITH A GUN

Crazed Montrealer Opens Fire on Passersby.

Montreal, May 5.—Crazed by constant drinking, Jos. Balleau, a young French-Canadian, residing at 287 Deleah street, seized a revolver this afternoon and opened fire from a half window at passers-by on the street.

D. Mallette, a neighbor, was wounded in the back, and Constable Maillet, in the arm, in attempting to arrest him. Neither victim is seriously injured.

When the police finally forced their way into the house by a rear entrance they found that Balleau had collapsed and was lying in a drunken stupor on the floor.

His mother, with whom he had been living, said that he had been drinking heavily and had the idea that he was being persecuted by humanity in general.

LONDON WEARIES OF SCANDAL MONGERING

British Protest Against Scandalous Stories of Royal Personages.

London, May 5.—Miss Helena Hallstead, arrested the other day on charges of obtaining money under false pretences, puts forward the claim that she is the great-granddaughter of Princess Augusta, daughter of George III, by her alleged secret nuptials with George, fourth duke of Clarence.

The new feeling on the subject of royal scandals is voiced by a publication in American newspapers of stories alleging quarrels between Alexander and between King George and his mother. It is emphatically declared that between the two queens there exists the kindest association and feeling and that King George delights to defer to the wishes of his widowed mother.

It is said that the queen's mother says self-respect should deter Americans from giving credence or publicity to "such unwholesome tales."

Even with the busy coronation season almost at hand society finds time to develop new fads. The owners of the new fad have decreed that it is proper to don deep mourning garments and to use mourning stationery when a pet

THE MILITIA ESTIMATES

Sixty Thousand to Train at a Cost of One and Quarter Million.
Ottawa, May 5. In the Commons today, the Minister of Militia stated the total vote for militia expenditures this year is $64,528 in excess of the amount for last year, which, however, included a number of special votes for the purchase of armories and ranges. The increase in the amount asked for to drill the militia is $150,000 and for clothing $100,000. There is a new vote for the cadet corps of $50,000. The total amount asked for annual drill is $1,325,000, the increase of $150,000 being due to provision for 4,000 additional troops and for a larger camp at Petawawa.

Sir Frederick estimated that the training camps will total 60,000 men and 16,000 horses. Of these 55,000 men and 16,000 horses are estimated to train, exclusive of the permanent force. One-third of the men who will train belong to city corps and will not go into camp. The $50,000 provided for the encouragement of the cadet corps will be expended on instructors, including special teachers who have qualified as instructors, and on the purchase of caps, belts and other small articles of equipment.

Sir Frederick referred to the fact that certain recommendations were made by Sir John French, and were being put into effect, including the arrangements into divisional commands as already announced.

B' A' TIFUL PARLOR CHAIR FOR ORGANIST AND WIFE

Mr. and Mrs. J. Parnell Morris Were Surprised on Friday Evening.

After the regular practice Friday evening the choir of Dundas Centre Methodist Church, numbering about 55, assembled in the primary room, where the ladies had dainty tables set. It took some time for the pastor of the church, Dr. Manning, to entice Mr. J. Parnell Morris, the organist and choir-master, and his wife into the room, without arousing their suspicions, but this was finally accomplished, and as they walked in the choir rose and sang, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The surprise was complete, and Mr. Skinner, expressed to Mr. Morris the choir's appreciation of his kindness to them, and of the slight years of pleasant associations that have marked Mr. Morris' term as choir-master and organist. Miss Winnett then presented to Mr. and Mrs. Morris, on behalf of the choir, a beautiful parlor chair. Mr. Skinner expressing the hope that they might long be spared to enjoy the same. Mr. Morris, to whom this was all a genuine surprise, replied very feelingly.
Luncheon was served, and a jolly time spent. The evening ended with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

ABORIGINAL DIGGINGS.
The copper mines in the lake Superior region were most important to the Indians. When we remember that they did not understand the smelting of ores, we can appreciate the value of these mines. In them the native metal occurs both in small pieces and great masses. The Indians had only to dig away the earth and smash the rocks with stones, some of which they provided with a groove and attached a handle by means of a wire around the groove. Archaeologists have found that they also built fires upon the rocks and thus cracked them, that they might more easily be smashed with the hammers. One piece of copper, propped upon poles, over fifteen feet below the surface of the ground, was found by explorers where it had been abandoned by the Indian quarrymen. Weighing almost three tons, it was a monument to the industry of the North American Indians, who have too often been considered lazy, and who, we must remember, had only the simplest tools with which to raise this heavy mass. One of their shafts, which contained a mass of copper weighing several tons, was 26 feet deep and the mass of copper had been raised several feet, probably the only means the Indians had of moving it, being wedges and sticks. These were exceptionally deep shafts, many others being smaller. In one place an area of about 400 acres had been worked over. Judging from the number of stone hammers or mauls found in a given bulk of the debris excavated from the ancient diggings, thousands and thousands of the hammers must have been used, and may be found by clearing out the old workings of Southern Workmen.

For the purpose of making the telephone booth really sound-proof, a German inventor lines it with tin. It seems that the lining is in every way a most efficient. The result is that a murmur of conversation which would be heard in the walls of houses generally to deaden sound.

Coronation Chair And Its History

A Strangely Interesting Story of the "The Stone of Destiny"—The Curiously Unique Treasure Which Gives a Sort of Canny Romance to the Chair in Which George V. Will Be Crowned

It is a strangely interesting story, the story of the chair in which King George V. will be crowned at Westminster Abbey in June next. Its authentic history carries us back to the time when Scotland had her own kings, and Scone was at one time Windsor and the coronation West- minster Abbey of the country. The most interesting places in the neighborhood of Perth, but no permission is given to visit the house or grounds, and one must be content with the view from the banks of the Tay above the North Inch and the higher grounds on the western side which it commands. Among other relics which it contains is a sword used by James VI., and another with hangings of velvet, crimson velvet, said to have been worn by Mary Stuart during her imprisonment in Lochleven Castle. The gallery, 160 feet long, occupies the place of the old Coronation Hall, where Charles II. was crowned in 1651. With the ancient Abbey of Scone are bound up some of the most interesting events in Scottish history. It is a story which is so full of legend and romance that it is difficult to believe that it is a part of the history of the British Empire.

The really authentic history of the chair is not known, but it is believed to have been used for centuries. It is a story which is so full of legend and romance that it is difficult to believe that it is a part of the history of the British Empire. AN EARLY RISER

King George is Hard Worker—Busy for Coronation.

King George is a hard worker, especially during the days preceding his coronation. After a brief walk in the grounds of Buckingham Palace, he is to work upon the business of the day, so that by the time his private secretaries arrive he has many matters ready for their attention. The King has chosen as his work-room a large and airy apartment on the garden fronting the Palace, where he can gain charming views of the extensive grounds. His Majesty has now engaged one of the best of the gardeners to be on duty on the day of the coronation, and it will be a matter of some difficulty to crowd any further appointments in the busy day.

MOVING PICTURES

Of Coronation and Photograph Records of King's Address.

Moving pictures in color of the forthcoming coronation processions and festivities are to be taken. This was impossible when King Edward was crowned, for cinematography in color had not then been invented. It is possible that the actual ceremony of the coronation inside Westminster Abbey will be reproduced in the same manner. The difficulties in the way of light can be overcome. Another modern invention that will probably be called into use in connection with the ceremony is the gramophone. Experiments are now being conducted in private by the King with different types of talking machines, and if these are satisfactory a "recording" of his Majesty's coronation address will be taken, and reproductions of it sent to all Colonial Parliaments and municipal bodies throughout the Empire.

In this way millions of his subjects will be able to listen to King George's own words with their own ears, while gazing with their own eyes upon the historical and impressive ceremony, reproduced in all its gorgeousness of coloring and wealth of detail, and instinct, too, with life and movement.

Yet another marvel of modern science, wireless telegraphy, will be used to convey the news of the great event of the year to such ships as are fitted with the necessary apparatus. This again was of the question at King Edward's coronation, for although Marconi had even then shown us something of the immense possibilities of wireless telegraphy, it was still in its infancy, and not a single ocean-going steamer had an installation on board.

Queen Mary once more has displayed evidence of her strong practical insight in the choice of her four maids of honor, the Hon. Sybil Brodric, Venetia Baring, Mabel Gye, and Katherine Villiers.

The Hon. Sybil Brodric is the daughter of Viscount Midleton by his first marriage with Lady Hilda, daughter of the late Col. the Hon. George Villiers, second brother of the Earl of Clarendon, who was at one time military secretary to Queen Victoria. Venetia Baring is a French girl, and a real Parisienne, and Queen Mary thought wisely that she would be of assistance in the many foreign royalties who will be in London for King George's coronation.

HIS MAJESTY KING GEORGE
WHEN THE LAST GEORGE WAS CROWNED

Strange Happenings at the Last George's Coronation, Namely: In 1820.

When King George IV. was crowned in 1820 there were some curious occurrences indeed. To begin with, the King himself was not in the hour appointed for the ceremony, since his special suit made for the coronation did not fit at all when he tried to get into it on the fatal morning. Try as he would, his Majesty could not get the clothes on as they were, and the ceremony was delayed. The King's Chamberlain, Lord Dunsford, was the man to blame for the delay, and he was severely reprimanded. A DESCRIPTION OF CORONETS

Many of These Used at the Queen's Coronation in 1902 will be Worn in June

"Numbers of persons," declared a London jeweler and silversmith, "who agitate coronets to be composed of 24 carat gold, and studded with priceless gems."

"Well, the fact is, we often supply peers or peeresses with beautifully finished, light-weight coronets in all sorts of materials, but those for coronets are half the size. Peeresses, thus having plenty of room on their heads—happily for us—wear tiaras as well as coronets. In this way:

"The tiara, high in front, sloping down each side, is placed well forward on the noble brow. With hair bunched on top of the head, puffed out at the sides, the coronet rests on top of the hair, behind the ears. Plenty of work there will be at the last moment, of course, altering tiaras for coronets, so that the coronets worn in this way for many of them are of the all round pattern."

"Most of the coronets owned in June next of those used for the last coronation. I estimate that two thousand new coronets were then turned out, at an average of $24 apiece—$180,000 in all."

"One peer told me of the rescue of his coronet for the 1902 ceremony. 'His lordship's plate-chest was crammed. To make room, old coronets were cleared out. Sorting these, he encountered his coronet. The butler, fairly staggered, said he had been pushing it into one old corner and another for years past, till he could come across the other part of the old coronet.'"

"The most gorgeous coronation item, though that comes the way of work, is the coronet of the King. It is of English cloth of gold—remember the 'Field of Cloth of Gold'—and is made of the finest gold, gold as pure as will stand the strain of being so used, almost without alloy."

SIDELIGHTS ON NOTABLE PEOPLE BY THE MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

THE octogenarian Duke George II. of Saxe-Meiningen, enjoys the distinction of being the only reigning sovereign to-day who has a morganatic consort. Things were different in the nineteenth century, when many of his brother rulers were morganatically allied to women who were debased by the inferiority of their birth from sharing their husbands' throne or honors.

Thus there were Emperor Alexander II. of Russia, whose widow, Catherine Dolgorouka, now Princess Tourieffsky, is still alive; King Frederick William III. of Prussia, whose left-handed consort, Countess Harrach, had been created by him Princess Liepzig; King Victor Emmanuel II. of Italy, who was married to a Piedmontese peasant woman, Rosina Vercellana, whom he created Countess Mirafiori; King Frederick VII. of Denmark, whose ex-mistress, Louise Rasmussen, died as Countess Danner, and King William I. of the Netherlands, who married morganatically Countess Henriette d'Oultremont, belonging to one of the greatest houses of the Belgian aristocracy.

The Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, now 85 years of age, has been three times married. His first wife was Princess Charlotte of Prussia, by whom he had a son, Prince Bernhard, field marshal of the Prussian army, and married to the Kaiser's eldest sister.

His second wife, whom he married in 1858, was Princess Feodor of Hohenzollern, favorite niece of Queen Victoria, being a daughter of the latter's half sister.

Thirteen months after her death he married morganatically an actress of the celebrated Saxe-Meiningen court theatre, Helen Franz, whom he created on the occasion of his wedding Baroness d'eldburg.

The ceremony took place in the little village church of Schweina, and on receiving the notification thereof, all the members of the aristocracy holding office at the court of Saxe-Meiningen resigned, while the leading members of society in the little one horse capital of Meiningen ostentatiously "cut" the baroness when they met her in the street and even went so far as to turn their backs upon her.

Still more ridiculous was the attitude of the stout colonel of the Prussian regiment of infantry stationed at Meiningen. For in order to escape having to salute her, even by touching his cap, as he had been accustomed to do while she was still on the stage, he on one memorable occasion sought to hide himself behind a tree, and as the latter was spare and he himself was fat, he presented a singularly comical appearance.

On the following day the duke sent his A. D. C. to Berlin, to complain to old Emperor William, who, as duke of Prussia, was his father-in-law, that the baroness should salute the baroness with the hand to the cap and punished the colonel by placing him on the retired list of the army.

The baroness has been accorded by her husband official precedence over all women at the court of Meiningen who are not of princely rank, and as such has the "pas" of countless other ladies. The duke, moreover, insists that everyone visiting the court should accord to the baroness the respect and courtesy to his wife, regardless of the question whether she is or is not of royal birth.

It is owing to this that so few of the reigning houses visit Meiningen.

And that it is the only sovereign state of the German Empire which the present Kaiser has never visited since his accession to the throne.

Princess Charlotte of Prussia, the wife of the crown prince of Saxe-Meiningen, a singularly witty, sensible and charming woman, got on capitally, however, with her father-in-law's morganatic wife, and is frequently at Meiningen. I may add that the marriage of the old duke has been a happy one, and that she, in turn, has been wedded to Baroness d'eldburg for close upon forty years, they are still a devoted couple.

General Sir Alfred Gaselee, who has just retired from the English army on the score of old age, commanded the British contingent of the international force dispatched to China some eight or nine years ago for the relief of the foreign legation at Peking.

He is a nephew of Charles Dickens' "Mr. Justice Stareleigh," who presided at the celebrated breach of promise case of "Bardell versus Pickwick." The analogy between the names of Stareleigh and Gaselee would be more readily apparent of the latter name were spelled as it is pronounced, with a "z" sound, that is to say, as "Gaselec," instead of an "s."

By rights Sir Alfred should have succeeded Lord Kitchener as generalissimo of the forces in India. But, thanks to the intrigues of the intrigues, and the ineptitude that have characterized the board of selection for commands since the retirement of the Duke of Connaught, his name was passed over and the present commander-in-chief, Sir O'Moore Creagh, was appointed in his stead, greatly to the disappointment of most of the officers and men who have seen service in India, first and foremost among them being Lord Kitchener himself.

The mention above of Charles Dickens' cause celebre, "Bardell versus Pickwick," recalls the fact that there is a bona fide lawsuit on record of "Brooke versus Pickwick," where the defendant was the well-known proprietor of Bath, Mr. P. Pickwick, from whom the novelist avowedly took the name of his immortal hero.

The action, however, was not one for breach of promise, but to recover damages for the loss of a trunk, and the presiding judge, oddly enough, was of residence by the name of General Sir Alfred Gaselee. The latter was educated at Felsel school, which dates back to the time of the reformation, and to which Oliver Cromwell sent his son Richard to be educated.

The great protector must himself often have been in the school, for the school was located for many hundreds of years, as his father-in-law's home was only a short distance away.

Honors are crowding thick and fast upon England's secretary of state for war, Richard Haldane, who is now being raised to the peerage as Viscount Haldane. Now he is to be appointed a member of the judicial committee of the privy council, which is the final court of appeal, not merely of the United Kingdom, but of the entire British Empire.

This carries with it the right of sitting as an ordinary board of appeal in the House of Lords.

Theoretically all peers are entitled to be in the House of Lords when it is sitting as a court of appeal. But they are debarred from taking any part in the actual deliberation, unless they have held high judicial office.

The only instance of a peer sitting as a lord of appeal in the House of Lords who has not previously held office as either lord high chancellor or as judge, is that of Lord Halsbury, who had, however, been attorney-general.

Lord Haldane never held any legal office before becoming secretary of state for war, having up to that time been an ordinary member of the senior bar, with the titular rank of king's counsel. It is by making him a member of the judicial committee of the privy council that he will now be enabled to sit as a lord of appeal in the House of Lords.

Lord Mount Edgumbe, whose son and heir, Lord Valtort, is about to marry Lady Edith Villiers, only daughter of the Earl of Clarendon, is a peer who in spite of his nearly 80 years, still delights in playing with toy bricks.

It is does not mean that he has lapsed into his second childhood. He is well preserved and vigorous, physically and mentally. He was married for a second time at 73, and left again a widower two years ago. King George has entrusted to him a large share in the administration of his eldest son's duchy of Cornwall, of which he is the privy seal.

Lord Mount Edgumbe developed this taste for playing with toy bricks during a prolonged illness some 20 years ago, and found so much entertainment therein that he has remained addicted to the hobby ever since. He now uses these toy bricks to give expression to all sorts of architectural designs of his. For he is not only a gifted painter and landscape artist, but a clever architect, and as these miniature castles, palaces, cathedrals, etc., that he constructs with toy bricks are perfect in every detail, equipped with electric lighting arrangements, with stained glass windows, etc., some of them are real works of art.

The earl, who figures in Lord Beaconsfield's novel, "Lottery," is a particularly attractive light, was in his youth specially selected by the prince consort to be the principal companion of King Edward when the latter, as Prince of Wales, was pursuing his studies at the White Lodge, in Richmond Park, and elsewhere. The prince consort selected the earl because of his lofty principles and culture; and Lord Mount Edgumbe, who thus became the closest friend of King Edward, undoubtedly exercised an important influence in shaping the character of the prince who was eventually to become his sovereign.

The earl was a great favorite of Queen Victoria, and he served her in turn as A. D. C. and lord chamberlain, and as lord high steward.

The analogy between the names of Stareleigh and Gaselee would be more readily apparent of the latter name were spelled as it is pronounced, with a "z" sound, that is to say, as "Gaselec," instead of an "s."

By rights Sir Alfred should have succeeded Lord Kitchener as generalissimo of the forces in India. But, thanks to the intrigues of the intrigues, and the ineptitude that have characterized the board of selection for commands since the retirement of the Duke of Connaught, his name was passed over and the present commander-in-chief, Sir O'Moore Creagh, was appointed in his stead, greatly to the disappointment of most of the officers and men who have seen service in India, first and foremost among them being Lord Kitchener himself.

The mention above of Charles Dickens' cause celebre, "Bardell versus Pickwick," recalls the fact that there is a bona fide lawsuit on record of "Brooke versus Pickwick," where the defendant was the well-known proprietor of Bath, Mr. P. Pickwick, from whom the novelist avowedly took the name of his immortal hero.

The action, however, was not one for breach of promise, but to recover damages for the loss of a trunk, and the presiding judge, oddly enough, was of residence by the name of General Sir Alfred Gaselee. The latter was educated at Felsel school, which dates back to the time of the reformation, and to which Oliver Cromwell sent his son Richard to be educated.

The great protector must himself often have been in the school, for the school was located for many hundreds of years, as his father-in-law's home was only a short distance away.

Honors are crowding thick and fast upon England's secretary of state for war, Richard Haldane, who is now being raised to the peerage as Viscount Haldane. Now he is to be appointed a member of the judicial committee of the privy council, which is the final court of appeal, not merely of the United Kingdom, but of the entire British Empire.

This carries with it the right of sitting as an ordinary board of appeal in the House of Lords.

Theoretically all peers are entitled to be in the House of Lords when it is sitting as a court of appeal. But they are debarred from taking any part in the actual deliberation, unless they have held high judicial office.

The only instance of a peer sitting as a lord of appeal in the House of Lords who has not previously held office as either lord high chancellor or as judge, is that of Lord Halsbury, who had, however, been attorney-general.

Lord Haldane never held any legal office before becoming secretary of state for war, having up to that time been an ordinary member of the senior bar, with the titular rank of king's counsel. It is by making him a member of the judicial committee of the privy council that he will now be enabled to sit as a lord of appeal in the House of Lords.

Lord Mount Edgumbe, whose son and heir, Lord Valtort, is about to marry Lady Edith Villiers, only daughter of the Earl of Clarendon, is a peer who in spite of his nearly 80 years, still delights in playing with toy bricks.

It is does not mean that he has lapsed into his second childhood. He is well preserved and vigorous, physically and mentally. He was married for a second time at 73, and left again a widower two years ago. King George has entrusted to him a large share in the administration of his eldest son's duchy of Cornwall, of which he is the privy seal.

And that it is the only sovereign state of the German Empire which the present Kaiser has never visited since his accession to the throne.

Princess Charlotte of Prussia, the wife of the crown prince of Saxe-Meiningen, a singularly witty, sensible and charming woman, got on capitally, however, with her father-in-law's morganatic wife, and is frequently at Meiningen. I may add that the marriage of the old duke has been a happy one, and that she, in turn, has been wedded to Baroness d'eldburg for close upon forty years, they are still a devoted couple.

General Sir Alfred Gaselee, who has just retired from the English army on the score of old age, commanded the British contingent of the international force dispatched to China some eight or nine years ago for the relief of the foreign legation at Peking.

He is a nephew of Charles Dickens' "Mr. Justice Stareleigh," who presided at the celebrated breach of promise case of "Bardell versus Pickwick." THE FIRST PHOTOGRAPH

Centenary of Dr. John W. Draper—How the First Picture Was Taken in 1839—Camera and Cigar Box.

[New York Sun.] NEW YORK, May 5.—The old building of the New York University on Washington Square, the birthplace of the telegraph and the first photograph, in 1839 the first photograph of the human face. The photograph was taken by Dr. John W. Draper, professor of chemistry in the university. He had gone a step beyond the experiments of Nicéphore Niépce, and by this photograph he established himself as one of the great inventors of the nineteenth century.

Dr. Draper took the pictures. His camera was a cigar box and his lens the glass from a pair of spectacles. Dr. Draper's assistant in this gallery, the photographer, was Dr. Draper's son, John W. Draper, Jr., who was then a student in the university.

The pictures taken in this gallery were developed by Dr. Draper, who was then a student in the university. He was then a student in the university. He was then a student in the university.

born an Englishman. He came to this country at the age of 22, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1838, and was appointed professor of natural philosophy, chemistry and physiology at Hampton-Sydney College in Virginia. It was from there that he was called in 1839 to be professor of chemistry at New York University, and he remained there until 1852.

Dr. Draper has frequently been described as a pioneer in the science of photography. His discovery in this field covered a wide range. He even anticipated the incandescent light of Edison when he suggested as a standard for photography more than a light of a piece of platinum foil of given area and thickness heated to incandescence by an electric current of specified strength.

Capillary attraction was the subject of his first researches and from them arose his discovery as to how the blood is purified, a mystery which had baffled the scientists up to that time. It was in 1847 that he explained the mechanism of the intellectual development of Europe was translated into every civilized tongue.

Dr. Draper is still remembered at New York University as one of the most prodigious workers ever known. Besides his extensive research work he founded three publishing houses, he has written a history of the city of New York, and he has written a history of the city of New York.

CORONATION ODE.
GEORGE THE FIFTH.

King of the Isles, lord of the seas—
Proclaim it wide on every breeze,
And tell the nations far and near
That George the Fifth is King—Hurray and cheer!
Crown him! crown him! Monarch of Kings,
From east to west this message rings,
From north to south the echoes sound—
His Empire live the world around.
His Empire live the world around,
His Empire live the world around,
And justice, mercy, truth fulfill,
And peace and love beyond the wall,
Emblems of model worth,
An ancestry of noble birth,
Wearer of purple from his birth,
Royal in pedigree and trained;
With nature's dignity sustained,
Statesmen who wisely right maintain,
Strong in environment of brain,
The glory of Imperial State,
Stating Great Britain truly great,
His Empire, ancient in its worth,
Still youthful in the strength it bears;
Progressive in invention, art,
Science and trade in distant parts,
His ships of Commerce,
Protected by his ships of war,
And where they go the flag flies free,
Telling the world of liberty.
The "King of Beasts" which roar and roan,
On desert sands they find a home;
And, like tenacious bulldogs' grasp,
Hold what they own secure and fast.
Types of the Anglo-Saxon race,
Colonial Cubes, which grow apart;
Loyal and true as watch dogs keep,
Outposts of Empire never sleep,
Though Parent Isles may be small,
Their influence is gigantic—tall.
And with a heritage so great,
King George's watchword for the state
Is "never forgotten in the land."
"Hurons, wake up!"
So on his coronation day,
As devout people we will pray,
With joy we'll shout, with gladness sing,
God bless our King—God save our King.

ASQUITH AND BALFOUR COLLIDE
IN DEBATE ON VETO BILL

Premier Refuses to Accept Amendments Which Would Exclude Home Rule and Welsh Disestablishment From the Operations of the Bill—Says House of Lords Brought This Trouble on Itself—Mr. Balfour Calls Government's Conduct Scandalous.

After an interval of comparative dullness, the debate on the veto bill in the British House of Commons, which was raised a high pitch of animation and interest on the 4th of April, resumed on the 5th of April. Clause II of the bill, which deals with non-financial matters, was under discussion, when Mr. Asquith intervened to reply to the Opposition amendments proposing to exclude from the operation of the bill the Home Rule and Welsh Disestablishment. The Premier, in the greatest enthusiasm among Ministers, declared that the bill was not intended to do with proposals for excluding legislation for which the people's mandate was given.

Mr. Asquith's speech, which was in the nature of an ultimatum, aroused the anger of Mr. Balfour. The latter suddenly called to attention and addressed the Premier, who was then in the midst of his speech. Mr. Balfour, who challenges comparison with the Premier's conduct of the past.

work—(cheers)—and if these amendments, or any of them, were carried, it would be a machine which would be paralyzed as regards a large part, if not the whole, of the work which it was intended to do.

"I take the case of home rule as an illustration. I constantly see it represented that the Government are pushing through this bill, and this clause in particular, without any of the amendments now suggested, in order that they may spring a trick upon the electorate of the country. What is the trick? The trick simply consists in this—in having told the electorate, as we did tell them in the clearest and most explicit terms, that we wanted to improve the constitutional machine in order to carry out certain objects of which one was the granting of self-government to Ireland, and now we get the machine we may not apply it without a breach of faith to any purpose. That is one of the finest grounds on which to base a charge of breach of faith that have ever been suggested. (Cheers.)

No Exclusion of Legislation.

"I never conceded from the country, but I explicitly stated to the country in the clearest possible terms before this election took place, that the bill we should use it in this Parliament—(loud cheers)—for the purpose of carrying out—(The end of the sentence was lost in a great outburst of cheering). To ask us now, as you are asking us by the series of amendments, of which I take this one as a sample, to go through the elaborate operation of setting up this improved constitutional machine, and at the same time to enter into a self-denying ordinance not to apply it to any of the purposes, social and political, on which the hearts of our fellow-countrymen are set, is to ask us to do what is a sham. (Cheers.)

"That is my general answer to the whole series of amendments which seek to exclude from the operation of this clause particular categories of legislation. I say you will never establish that which is the object of this bill, and this clause in particular—fair and even play as between the two great parties in the state—and you will never set free this House of Commons to carry into legislative effect the mission which has been entrusted to them by the electorate as a whole, unless you give us over the whole sphere of legislation, not excluding any part of that area, the power after deliberation and delay to carry into law with the assent of the crown, the declared will of the people." (Loud and prolonged Ministerial cheers.)

MR. BALFOUR AND HOME RULE.

Mr. Balfour said the Prime Minister had declared that as regards home rule he had been absolutely open and candid, and that all the electors who returned him were all perfectly conscious that when they voted for him they were not merely voting for a constitutional change in the relations between the two Houses of Parliament, and a reformed House of Lords, but that home rule would be carried over the heads of the House of Lords and without further reference to the people.

"You yourself said so," remarked a Liberal member and cheer.
"Of course, I said so," Mr. Balfour replied. "The point is: Did the electors, when they returned the present Government to power, really know that they were voting for home rule?"

"You said so," said a Liberal member and cheer.
"I have always said it," Mr. Balfour replied. "I said that in voting for what I believe to be the best course, I was giving a mandate to the Government to carry out the existing system—they were bringing upon themselves, this danger. (Ministerial cheers.)"

"After all, everybody knows that a general election campaign does not depend upon making one perfectly bald statement on an issue. Great points ought to have been taken by hon. members opposite to see if it was clear, what pains did they take?" (Ministerial cries of "Dollars and cents.")

"In how many speeches made to English audiences was it? Did the right honorable gentleman himself make many references to it? He did say, 'I said something quite clear about this last year. Look back to my speech' (Ministerial cheers). And that is what a statesman of the right honorable gentleman's rank, ability, and character thinks an adequate way of answering the question."

"The Prime Minister, Mr. Balfour, said on the 4th of April, that the Government had made an immense parade of constitutional learning, and had ranged over centuries of history. What did all this learning cover? It covered, as it was intended to cover, nothing but the results of a most unimpressive and unimpressive history of the Government and those who sat on the Nationalist benches. (Loud Opposition cheers.)"

MR. CHURCHILL AND MR. BONAR LAW.

WALTHAM WATCH

THE oil that can be lifted on the head of a pin will lubricate the intricate Waltham Watch. That is because a Waltham Watch is mechanically perfect. It is a masterpiece of engineering.

When the Cook Leaves

don't fret or scold—lay in a good supply of Shredded Wheat—the food that is ready-cooked, ready-to-serve—contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat grain, steam-cooked, shredded and baked a crisp, golden brown—a food that is good all the way through—tempting in its nutlike flavor—a delight to eat and to serve.

SHREDDED WHEAT BISCUIT

is without doubt the most perfectly balanced, most easily digested food ever given to man. It is not flavored or compounded with anything—not a "patent-medicine" food—not a "pre-digested" food—just plain, simple, wholesome, steam-cooked whole wheat, shredded and baked. It is better than mushy porridges because you have to chew it, thereby getting from it all its rich, body-building nutriment.

Try it for breakfast with milk or cream (hot milk in Winter). Being in biscuit form it is easy to prepare a nourishing meal with it in a few minutes in combination with fresh or stewed fruits. Always heat the biscuit in oven to restore crispness before serving. Two Biscuits with milk or cream and a little fruit make a complete nourishing meal. Your grocer sells it.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat wafer—a crisp, tasty, nourishing whole wheat Toast, delicious for any meal with butter, cheese or marmalades. Always toast it in the oven before serving.

JEALOUSY, PERHAPS

French and German Criticism of the English Women.

YET another criticism of the English woman's personal appearance, this time from southern France, has been received. The ladies from Paris were amused by the awkward way in which the English women in the penny chairs of the Bois de Boulogne, a teacher of dancing and deportment explains the matter thus:

"It is another example of the danger of adopting a fashion set by a foreign country. The present mode was evolved by French dressmakers to suit French women, and French women are renowned for their grace and gracefulness."

"English women hastily adopt the fashion without thinking that, probably for the first time in the history of fashion the feet form a conspicuous part of the toilet ensemble. There are no crinolines or bustles, no high heels to lift the feet."

"Beyond a little dishing in the management of her feet, which she gets in the habit of first time in the history of her life the English woman is never taught the necessity of graceful contour of her feet."

"Two women suddenly this thick skirted gown and her feet are revealed in all their pigeon-toed or sprawling awkwardness. Not all of them, of course, for some English women are naturally graceful from the top of the head to the tip of the toe."

"It is extraordinary how many ugly girls are to be seen in the streets of London. The whole reason is that they are not taking notes and writes to his paper."

INSURANCE AGAINST RAIN.

The home of outdoor life in England is the excessive rainfall. Shows, pageants, garden parties, seaside outings, cricket matches, regattas and fetes of all kinds are to an uncommon degree at the mercy of the skies. No wonder that the English have finally discovered a sure and certain way to provide indemnity for disappointment or loss caused by wet weather. The new plan, which is associated with the Lloyds' underwriters, will first be tried at the resorts on the south and east coasts from May to October. You may insure against rain, to a certain extent, for an inch, on any single day; or against rain on more than two days during any one week; or, if planning a week-end party, against rain on four consecutive days.
