Q. Had you any acquaintance with Mr. Murphy, otherwise than when connected with the business of the office?—A. I never had any business to do with Mr. Murphy connected with the office.

Q. Were you acquainted with him?—A. I had been introduced to him.

Q. You had no contact with him in the office?—A. None whatever.

By the Chairman :

Q. You knew he was a public contractor, under contract at the time?—A. I did not know it, except by hearsay.

Q. You knew it by hearsay?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you not seen by the papers in your office that he was a member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No.

Q. It was only by hearsay that you knew of it?—A. It was only by hearsay that I knew he was a contractor at all.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Have you anything to do with the extending or moneying out of tenders?—A. Never.

Q. Never had?—A. No, sir.

Q. You had no occasion to help Mr. Boyd in doing that work?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Nor Mr. Perley?—A. No.

Q. You are quite positive about that?—A. Quite positive.

By the Chairman :

Q. Are you in the habit of doing that kind of work?—A. Very seldom; latterly I have helped Mr. Perley.

Mr. SIMON PETERS, re-called.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Yesterday you gave us certain prices for dredging. Will you kindly repeat them now for the Committee? What were the prices that, according to you, the first work was done for, and what were the prices that you would have been prepared to do the work for in 1887? Those were the figures you gave yesterday.

—A. For dredging in 29 feet of water and depositing material on the embankment, the price under the contract for the Louise Embankment was 33 cents. I have copied these from the contract.

Q. This was the contract that has been produced?—A. Yes. For dredging in trench, in 24 and 15 feet below low water, and depositing material on embankment, 25 cents; dredging 10 feet below low water and depositing material on embankment, 20 cents. Then, for supplementary dredging, 250,000 yards, that is, in 24 feet of water, and depositing the material on the embankment, 25 cents. The same dredging, if conveyed into the harbour, 17 cents—that is, if dumped in the harbour.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. These last two prices given by you, are they the prices in the old contract, or the prices which occur to you, you would have been willing to do the dredging for in 1887?—A. They are the prices of the old contract.

Q. But which you were willing to do the work for in 1887?—A. Willing to do the 1887 work for.

Q. Do you know what dredging was done under the contract of '78; without giving it in detail?—A. Only from hearsay.

Q. In general terms, then, it was part of your contract?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. In 1887 you knew in a general way what was done?—A. Yes.

Q. You also knew in a general way what was necessary to do in 1887; you saw the dredges at work?—A. Certainly.

Q. Do you know the amount of dredging that was done in 1882 by Larkin, Connolly & Co.—speaking generally?—A. I know there was some dredging going on.

Q. For which tenders were called?—A. Oh, yes; but I did not tender.

Q. The first dredging that was done there, was it more difficult or less difficult, in your opinion, than the subsequent dredging?—A. It was much easier after there was the shelter.

Q. Were the conditions of dredging in 1887 more difficult or less difficult than in 1882, when the embankment was finished?—A. I should say it was more difficult.

Q. More difficult in 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. You have already told us that Col. Moore was the practical man in the dredging?—A. Yes; Moore and Wright.

Q. They were interested in the dredging—not yourself—in the 1878 contract?—A. Yes.

Q. Col. Moore owned the plant?—A. Yes.

Q. And knew more about it than you did?—A. It was their special business.

Q. Will you kindly look at the tender put in by Col. Moore, dated the 3rd July, 1882, and read the prices that he tendered to do the whole dredging for?

“QUEBEC, 3rd July, 1882.

“A. H. VERRÉT, Esq.,

“Secretary-Treasurer, Quebec Harbour Commissioners.

“DEAR SIR,—I will do the dredging as advertised by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners in the daily papers for the following prices :

“All dredging requiring a depth at low water of 15 feet @ 47c. per cubic yard.

“	“	“	20	“	50c.	“
“	“	“	36	“	63c.	“

“I will place the dredged material in the embankment as directed by the Engineer in Charge, completing the same on or before the 1st of November, 1883. Will commence the dredging, if awarded to me, as soon as the contract is signed.

“Yours respectfully,

“EDWARD MOORE.”

HARBOUR IMPROVEMENT WORKS,
 RESIDENT ENGINEER'S OFFICE, QUEBEC, 7th July, 1882.
 WOODFORD PILKINGTON, M.I.C.E.,
 Resident Engineer.

Q. Will you kindly look at this schedule and state what the prices were that Larkin, Connolly & Co. got for the same dredging for which Col. Moore tendered?—A. About the same.

Q. According to this schedule, Larkin, Connolly & Co. got 27 cents, where Edward Moore asked 47 ; 29 cents where Edward Moore asked 50 ; 35 cents where Edward Moore asked 56 ; 45 cents where Moore asked 56 ; and 55 cents where Moore asks 63—is not that so?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. Had you a tender in, Mr. Peters?—A. Oh, no.

Q. Was Colonel Moore's your tender?—A. No ; I did not tender at all.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. Colonel Moore is your partner?—A. He was in the first contract ; he owned the plant.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Was that tender of Mr. Moore's which you have read for the same work for which Larkin, Connolly & Company got 35 cents?—A. No ; that was a subsequent work—a new contract altogether.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. But at the same place?—A. Exactly.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You have already told us that the conditions of dredging in 1887 were more difficult than the conditions of dredging in 1882. Is it not a fact that in 1882 Colonel Moore wanted 47 cents for 15 feet dredging, whereas all that Larkin, Connolly & Company got in 1887 was 35 cents?—A. Yes.

Q. You have already told us that after the dredging contract of 1878 was completed that Colonel Moore removed his dredges to Portland?—A. Yes.

Q. What year was that?—A. In 1883.

Q. So that in 1887 Colonel Moore's plant was not in Canada?—A. No.

Q. I think you have already stated, or it has been stated that Larkin, Connolly & Company's plant was the only plant of the kind in Canada capable of dredging in tidal waters?—A. Yes ; capable of dredging in tidal waters.

Q. Kindly look at the statement filed by you as Exhibit "111," and state what part of it was made at the time that the tenders went in, or after they had gone in, and before the contract was awarded?—A. It was after the tenders went in.

Q. What part of that was made at the time?—A. The writing at the bottom.

Q. The writing in the lower part of the page on the side of which is the endorsement of your name?—A. Yes.

Q. The rest of it was made at what time?—A. Since that.

Q. Since this investigation?—A. Quite recently.

Q. Since the investigation?—A. Yes.

Q. I notice you have taken four items of your own tender, in which you consider that you were lower than Larkin, Connolly & Co., the difference being on crib-work, masonry, stone filling and earth filling. Now, those four items, according to your calculation, amount to $55,032 in your favour?—A. Yes ; but I may state, as I told the Committee, that this was not correct. It is merely guess work.

Q. These were made out, I understood from you, from the estimated quantities upon which you prepared your tender?—A. No, sir.

Q. For your own purposes you had estimated the quantities?—A. No.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. Did we not understand you that these were estimates made out at the time you wrote?—A. No ; they were made from memory. When we heard about the tenders I put a few figures down, and without any plan.

Q. Then you did not have these figures at the time you wrote that letter to the Department?—A. I had these figures when I wrote to the Deputy.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. These figures were made after your tender went in and before the contract was awarded?—A. Yes; they were made from the specification, which gave the length of the wall. That was all the data I had. Having built the previous work, I knew about the the height. It was merely a guess estimate.

Q. These were the figures upon which you based your statement in the letter you wrote to the Deputy Minister, and you believed your tender was lower than Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s?—A. Yes.

Q. You have told us that on cofferdam and unwatering of the cofferdam there was a difference in favour of Larkin, Connolly & Co. of $27,500?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you kindly look at the fourth item of the schedule in these words: "Masonry in walls at entrance, generally fit to receive either caisson or gates or swing bridge, including granite Quoins, all complete." What was the difference between your price and Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s?—A. $12 for Larkin, Connolly & Co. and $16.60 for Peters & Moore.

Q. On the estimated quantities as moneyed out the sum that Larkin, Connolly & Co. would receive for this work would be $68,400, and the sum of the work according to your figures would be $94,620. Is that not so?—A. Yes.

Q. That makes a difference of $26,220?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, you have already told us that your sheet-piling was quite different?—A. Yes.

Q. The mistake which Larkin, Connolly & Co. made represented a very great difference in the amount?—A. Yes.

Q. Taking those five items altogether, which were the principal items, what would be the difference?—A. I do not admit that they are the principal items.

Q. They were the principal items upon which you founded your assertion to the Deputy Minister that you believed your tender was the lowest. But you had carefully omitted No. 4?—A. I had no information as to that. I only saw this paper yesterday for the first time; but I am prepared to give the Committee the proper data as to this paper, and to show that there has been wrong done by somebody.

Q. You have been through these since yesterday?—A. Yes.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. Were these the five items on which you based your calculation?—A. No; I based my calculation upon crib-work, stone filling and earth filling. That masonry is wrong.

Q. Did you have concrete in it?—A. There is none in it, but I have it now.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. You did not, in making this statement, take into consideration the concrete at all?—A. Not at all.

Q. As a matter of fact, in a subsequent statement you made you allowed for 14,000 feet of concrete, and the tenders were moneyed out at 15,000?—A. Whereas the plan shows that quantity, or a little more.

Q. You said you took the figures from the plan?—A. You are mistaken. I never took them from the plan. It was merely a trial thing, to see how I would come out. I found I was lower after I had had a fair opportunity.

Q. Your memory was derived from something, and you told us it was the previous investigation of the plan?—A. Yes; the previous investigation.

Q. Your memory, then, was that the plan showed 14,000 feet?—A. No; it was merely an assumed thing without any data.

Q. You preferred to assume half the concrete?—A. I would have assumed the whole if I had known at the time.

Q. You had some means of arriving at the quantity when you used these figures?—A. I had no concrete data.

Q. I notice that two of the calculations on Exhibit "J11" have been struck out?—A. Because they were wrong; it was an error. That shows that the memory was not infallible.

Q. You had rectified your memory by a subsequent investigation of the plan?—A. No; it is by examining the total.

Q. The firm of Peters, Moore & Wright, who had the contract for 1878, have had litigation with the Harbour Commissioners on the subject of that contract, have they not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it is now before the Supreme Court, is it not?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. What contract was that?—A. The Louise Embankment contract.

Q. The contract of 1878?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You have frequently expressed yourself as having been ill-used by the Harbour Commissioners and Mr. Thomas McGreevy in this matter?—A. I think I have reason to believe so.

Q. And you have frequently said so?—A. I believe so.

Q. You have frequently expressed the opinion that Mr. Thomas McGreevy did not behave well to you?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Still you voted for him?—A. At the last election I voted for him. He accused me of having taken an active part against him, but nevertheless I voted for him. I told him I voted for him for the sake of the party, but I would just as soon have voted for the devil.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You say you saw that sheet (Exhibit "X3") yesterday for the first time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That sheet, as I recollect it, purports to show a complete statement of the different items of the tender?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it a complete statement?—A. No, sir. It is a garbled statement, a statement to deceive.

Q. Does it show all the items?—A. It shows not all the items.

Q. It purports to show a comparative statement of all the items with regard to the tenders for the Cross-wall, and now you say that it does not include all the items. I see the items are taken here apparently from the specifications?—A. Yes.

Q. Show us, please, what has been omitted here?—A. I have the statement in my hand of what has been omitted. This is the schedule which is described as "day work." For instance, "dredging, including machinery, wages and depositing spoil, where ordered," our tender was $12.50 per day, while Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s was $20 per day.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. What items were omitted. Read them?—A. I am about to do so. There is "mason or stonecutter, masons' labourer, blacksmiths, blacksmiths' helper, carpenter, painter, machinist, machinist's assistant, engine driver, foreman, diver, including all apparatus, driver's assistants, foreman of labourers, labourer, horse and driver, horse, cart and driver, pumping during erection; fitting and fixing of caisson or gates, including use of machinery, fuel and wages; and lastly, dredging, including machinery, wages and depositing spoil where ordered."

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Is that all?—A. That is all.

Q. You tendered on all those items?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have examined the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co. on all those items?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they lower or higher than you?—A. Higher. For instance, on the blacksmith's helper I charged 15 cents and they charged 18.

Q. Are you higher than they in any item?—A. Not one. In some instances they are double the price that I am. For instance, I offered to supply a diver, including all apparatus, for 50 cents an hour, and they charge a dollar.

Q. And the whole of those were left out?—A. Yes.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. Can you tell us what they would money out?—A. The final estimate would tell that.

Q. Could you money out the difference?—A. It is not very easy, because it would depend on the number of hours they were employed.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. What did you estimate that work at when you tendered?—A. I could not say.

Q. Did you make any estimate as to the number of days work?—A. Oh, no; there was no means of doing that.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. You could not say?—A. No.

Q. The Engineer could not say?—A. He might have stated what was probable.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. And you say, in regard to all these which were omitted, you were lower in all cases?—A. Yes.

Q. You were asked just now as to the measurement of quantities for the plans?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you been able since you were here yesterday to make any careful measurement of any of the items of those quantities from the plans?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What items can you give us?—A. I can give the principal items in the two tenders.

Q. And the result between yourself and Larkin, Connolly & Co. in regard to the contract?—A. Yes; I measured the crib-work from the plans, and measured it in the same way as if making a bulk sum tender. I find that there were 47,672 yards of crib-work. Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s price for that was \$2.25, and mine \$1.33 $\frac{1}{3}$ , which gives a difference of \$43,700. The next large item is the stone filling. I might say, perhaps, as I go along, that I have the Engineer's estimate for the crib-work, as this thing was eventually figured down for a purpose, and I find that this estimate was 30,140 yards, instead of 47,672 yards, as the plans show.

Q. Repeat that again?—A. From the plans, I see that there were 47,672 yards of crib-work to be done, and the Engineer's estimate in this is 30,140 yards. The money difference of that item between Larkin & Connolly's tender and my own amounts to $43,700 in my favour. That is according to the plans. Stone filling is the next item. I find 16,070 yards.

Q. I want to ask with reference to this question, and then you will understand the others. If the quantities you found on these plans had been put in this paper here by the Engineer this estimate at the time would have shown the real difference between the two tenders?—A. Yes.

Q. How much difference?—A. It would have made the other tenders $730,605.

Q. This one item, I mean, what difference would it have made?—A. The other tender was $634,034.

Q. Take that item of crib-work. How much higher would it have made Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s than yours if it had been put in correctly?—A. That item would have made their tender read $678,040.

Q. How much more is that than it was?—A. I told you the difference—$43,700 added to their tender of $634,034.

Q. Now wait. That would have added so much more to your tender. Allowing for that, what is the difference?—A. On 46,670 yards of crib-work at \$2.25 cents it comes to \$107,262; and at \$1,33 $\frac{1}{3}$  it comes to \$64,362—making a difference of \$43,700.

Q. But it would have raised your tender also if the figures had been correct?—A. It would have raised mine also; I have estimated the quantities in the same way.

Q. You are right as to the totals, but in this tender Larkin, Connolly & Co. was $27,000 higher than you on this thing; they were $67,800 and you were $40,000. The difference was $27,000, which you have to take off the total difference to find what the change would have been?—A. I think if you take the total of 47,672 yards the difference between the two quantities will be found to be $43,700.

Q. Go on with your statement?—A. The next is stone filling. I find by the plans that it took 16,073 yards. At $1.50 that amounts to $24,109.50; but at my price of 65 cents it would be $10,447, which makes a difference of $13,662.50 on that item.

Q. In your favour?—A. That should have been added to Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender. The next thing is earth filling. That is a large item.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. I see earth filling in this estimate is 80,000 cubic yards?—A. I find by the measured plan it is 191,901 yards—more than double.

Q. What were your prices?—A. Their price 45 cents, mine 25 cents. At their price it would come to $86,355.45, and at my price it would come to $47,975—a difference of $38,380.20 in my favour. The next item we come to is concrete. As I said yesterday, the rough estimate I had was quite out. Measuring the plan, I find 29,949 cubic yards of concrete, and the schedule shows 15,500. This, at $8 per yard, would make Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s total $239,592; and at my price of $6 the total would be $179,694—a difference in favour of my tender of $59,898 on that item. So the total difference amounted to $155,640.70.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. What plans were those you examined?—A. They were the plans prepared for the execution of the work; they were the plans shown at the time.

Q. Were they the finished plans?—A. Yes; they were finished plans.

Q. Were these the plans after alterations had been made, or were they the plans which you saw at the time you tendered?—A. At the time we tendered.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. How do you account for the difference? You figured for your tender at 14,000 yards?—A. It was afterwards when the quantities had been made up that I saw I was $2 per yard less. I took these figures, but it was mere guess work. It was not from actual measurement.

By Mr. Weldon :

Q. The Committee cannot follow your figures on earth filling. How much was the amount named in Mr. Perley's list?—A. Mr. Perley's list was 80,000 yards; but I say it is 191,901.

Q. The difference would be 111,000 yards, and your price was 20 cents lower?—A. Yes.

Q. Twenty cents on 111,000 yards would be $22,000?—A. I am taking the difference on the gross quantity—191,901 yards of earth filling, at 44 cents comes to $86,355.45.

Q. But you said you lost on that item?—A. I was misrepresented in the schedule.

Q. But the real figure is $22,000, according to your statement?—A. I beg your pardon.

Q. You were prejudiced by $22,000?—A. I was prejudiced by the difference between 80,000 yards and 191,901 yards.

Q. In money, how much is that?—A. $38,000.

Q. You are evidently wrong?—A. I do not admit I am wrong.

Q. You still say your difference was $38,000?—A. Arrived at in the following way: 191,901 yards at 45 cents, comes to $86,355.45. The same quantity of earth work at 25 cents, which was our price, would be $47,975. The difference is $38,000.

Q. You do not say you are prejudiced by this to the extent of $38,000?—A. I could answer that in time; I do find that I am prejudiced by $38,000.

Q. Do you say you were prejudiced by that increase in quantity from 80,000 to the extent of $38,000?—A. That is by the difference in the price.

Q. Were you prejudiced to that extent by that increase of quantity?—A. I consider I was.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. I want to understand Mr. Weldon's point fully. Do I understand you to say that you consider the change in the document prejudiced you, or that the difference in the two tenders was $38,000?—A. The difference in the two tenders.

Q. How much would you be prejudiced by the false entry in the extension sheet?—A. I would have to take a little time to ascertain that.

By Mr. Chapleau:

Q. You say that the quantity put in the schedule is 80,000 yards?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were 20 cents lower than they?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And 80,000 yards at 20 cents makes $16,000?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the difference in quantity you have ascertained from the plans?—A. 191,901 yards.

Q. And the difference between the two quantities was therefore 110,000 yards?—A. Yes.

Q. Which, at 20 cents, makes $22,000 increase?—A. Yes.

Q. And therefore this $22,000 and the $16,000 gives the total of $38,000 which you have mentioned?—A. Yes; the total amount of these four items which should be added to Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender is $155,640.70. Now there is the credit side. Deduct for difference on cofferdam, in which they are lower than I was, $27,500; deduct also in favour of sheet pile trick, $24,875, which makes a total of $52,375.

By Mr. Edgar:

Q. That is, of credit to them?—A. Yes; credits to them. Now if you deduct $52,385 from $155,640.70 it leaves the sum of $103,265.70, or in other words, their tender would be that much higher than mine. Their tender as figured up by the Engineer was $634,340, and adding to that $103,265.70 leaves a total of $737,605.70. My attention was drawn to an item of stone, which I am not prepared to admit, because that was one of the items in which there was a great opportunity for the Engineer, to write up; but supposing I admit that, which amounts to $26,220, it would still leave Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender $711,385.70, instead of $634,340, the amount at which it is given.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick:

Q. What was the total amount paid them?—A. I could not say; I have not seen the final estimate.

By the Chairman :

Q. What is the total amount of your tender?—A. They were brought in $7,000, or $8,000 before me. My tender was $643,071.16.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. On the old quantities?—A. On the old quantities, of course. No, no; that is my tender as figured out by the Engineer.

Q. On those quantities?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you got the amount of your tender on the new quantity?—A. I have not added that, because I thought if I established the difference between the two tenders that would suffice.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Have you compared your estimate of quantities as worked out from the plans, with the final estimates?—A. I have not seen the final estimates.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you say, Mr. Peters, what would be the difference in the value of dredging put into the embankment and dredging dumped into the river per yard? What would you consider a fair difference in value?—A. Between 7 and 8 cents.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Mr. Stuart put a question to you, in reference to a tender made by Mr Moore for dredging that was 47 cents a yard. A recent tender, five years later, put in by Larkin, Connolly & Co., proposed to do the same work for 35 cents a yard. That is what you said?—A. That is what I understood from the paper he read.

Q. In the tender at 47 cents a yard, was it a tender for dredging earth or to be dumped into the river?—A. I was not a party to that tender at all. Mr. Moore made his tender altogether independent of me.

Q. And you do not know?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Are you aware that besides the 35 cents which was paid under the contract of 1887, another amount of 45 cents was allowed for dumping in the embankment?—A. I only know it from hearsay; but the final estimate will show that.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. When the contract for dredging was awarded in 1882 to Messrs. Connolly & Co., instead of being continued with Moore & Wright, had Larkin, Connolly & Co. a dredging plant at the time?—A. No; none whatever.

Q. You knew they had no dredging plant?—A. We knew it; Col. Moore knew it.

Q. Had you any reason to suppose you were alone in the tender?—A. I think he must have felt that; but I was not interested in it.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. You have spoken of your first contract on the tender of Peters, Moore & Wright. Did you lose money on that dredging?—A. The dredging appertained entirely to Moore & Wright; but I do not think they lost. I could not say whether they did or not. It was not a firm. We signed jointly before the Harbour Commissioners, but we had private papers which separated us.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You were shown this schedule, and were told to look for Col. Moore's tender, and say whether it was higher or lower than Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s. I want you to look at Nos. 1, 2 and 5, and say whether or not they are lower than Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Askwith's tender, No. 1, is $128,850.

Q. How much is Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s?—A. $138,845.

Q. That one is lower?—A. Yes; $10,000 lower.

Q. Look at No. 2?—A. No. 2 is $131,267.50.

Q. That is lower, also?—A. Yes.

Q. No. 5, what is that?—A. Fradet & Miller.

Q. How much is that?—A. $94,350.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Do you know whether or not that contract was offered to Fradet & Miller by the Harbour Commissioners as the lowest tender?—A. I am not aware of any circumstances except what I see there.

Q. Do you know that, as a matter of fact, it was offered to them?—A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know that on the refusal of Fradet & Miller it was offered to Askwith?—A. I do not know.

Q. Now, do you not know that Askwith declined to accept that contract, because he did not have the dredging material?—A. I did not know that at all.

Q. Did you not know that Beaucage withdrew his tender?—A. I knew nothing at all about it.

Q. You knew nothing at all about that matter?—A. Nothing, except what I see from the figures there.

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—I might as well at this stage give the facts, as shown by the Minutes of the Harbour Commissioners, in connection with the letting of that contract. On the 10th July, 1882, it was: "Moved by William Rae, Esquire, seconded by the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, and Resolved, That Messrs. Fradet & Miller be informed that the Commissioners are prepared to accept their tender for dredging, provided they make a cash deposit of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), on or before 3 o'clock p.m. on Wednesday next, for the due performance of the work they have tendered for, and provided also, that if the contract is awarded to them they will undertake to commence the work on or before the 1st August next, and that they will deliver the whole on the 1st November, 1883, it being understood that the award of the contract must be ratified by the Honourable the Minister of Public Works."

The record continues on page 362 of their Minute Book, under date 13th July, 1882:

"Read a letter from Mr. George Beaucage, contractor, requesting to be allowed to withdraw his tender for dredging in connection with the Harbour Works in course of construction and for closing the opening of the inside end of the Princess Louise Embankment.

Request granted."

Also, on the same date, 13th July, 1882:

"Read a letter from Messrs. Fradet & Miller, contractors, complaining, in reply to the letter of the 10th instant, of the conditions imposed to them of depositing ten thousand dollars in cash for the acceptance of their tender for dredging and stating that they will adhere to the conditions of the advertisement."

Again on 13th July, 1882:—

"Messrs. Fradet & Miller, and Messrs. Poupore & Charlton, having failed to comply with the condition imposed at the meeting held the 10th instant for the acceptance of their respective tenders it is thereupon Resolved, That Mr. John E. Askwith be informed that the Commissioners are prepared to accept his tender for dredging, provided he makes a cash deposit of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) on or before Wednesday next, at 3 o'clock p.m., for the due performance of the work he has tendered for, and provided also that if the contract is awarded to him he will undertake to commence the work on or before the 1st August next, and that he will deliver the whole on the 1st November, 1883, it being, however, understood that the award of the contract must be ratified by the Honourable the Minister of Public Works."

On the 19th July, 1882, we find the following :

“ Read a letter from Mr. John E. Askwith, contractor, transmitting a cheque for ten thousand dollars ($10,000) as security for the due performance of the dredging work he has tendered for, and stating in a post-scriptum that since writing his letter he has been informed that lake dredges cannot be changed to suit tidal waters, and therefore asking a week to examine and satisfy himself, and determine whether to bind himself or not.—A draft of a letter, in reply to same, by which the delay asked for is refused, is thereupon dictated, with instructions to the secretary to submit it to the legal advisers to the Commission and to make all changes they may recommend.”

Again, on the 26th July, 1882, the record continues :

“ Read a telegram from Mr. John E. Askwith, dated Ottawa, 24th inst., stating that he regrets that the plant is not suitable, and that he withdraws his tender for dredging.”

On the 26th July, 1882, with the following members present:—William Rae, Ferdinand Hamel, John Sharples, Julien Chabot and J. Bell Forsyth—you will see that Mr. McGreevy was not present when the minutes were read :

“ Read a letter from Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., transmitting certified bank cheque for ten thousand dollars ($10,000) as security for the performance of the dredging work they have tendered for, and stating that they hold themselves in readiness to enter into an agreement with the Commissioners at their convenience.”

And on the same date :

“ Moved by Julien Chabot, Esquire, seconded by John Sharples, Esquire, it is Resolved, That Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., having made the required cash deposit of ten thousand dollars for the due performance of the dredging work they have tendered for, their tenders for the execution of the said work, amounting to one hundred and thirty-eight thousand eight hundred and forty-five dollars ($138,845) be and is hereby accepted, and the contract for said work accordingly awarded to them, subject to the ratification of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works.”

By Mr. Osler :

Q. In making these calculations—the figures you have given us—were you aided by anybody?—A. I had some one to help me with the checking.

Q. Who was it?—A. Mr. Charles McGreevy.

Q. He is a son of Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes. He assisted me in the checking.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. In answer to Mr. Tarte you stated that at the last election you voted for the Hon. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. And after having voted for him, you told him you would just as soon vote for the devil?—A. Yes.

Q. Was that because you had been badly treated by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. It was on account of the provoking way he had spoken to me for not having worked at the elections.

Q. That was your reason?—A. Yes.

Q. You had known Mr. McGreevy a great many years?—A. Yes.

Q. And lived in Quebec all the time?—A. Yes.

Q. You also knew Mr. Tarte?—A. Yes.

Q. And you knew he had been publishing certain statements?—A. That had nothing to do with the matter. I knew Mr. McGreevy for years had been smiling before my face and then stabbing me behind my back. I knew that for ten years.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. I understand that the result of your calculations of the actual quantities, from the plans which the tenders were made, is that your tender was $103,000 below that of Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender. Is that what I understand you to mean?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Chapleau :

Q. That is, it would have been?—A. Yes; would have been. There is an item of stonework where Larkin, Connolly & Co. were lower than my tender, but I do not admit the quantities are right, because there is an opportunity for one man to be pulled down and theirs shoved up. That amounted to $26,220 to be taken off, leaving their tender about $710,000, provided it was carried out properly. That is what I said.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You have merely treated of seven items, I see?—A. Yes; but there is enough all through to counterbalance them.

Q. But you are only speaking of the seven items?—A. Yes; the large items.

Mr. NICHOLAS K. CONNOLLY re-called.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. In your cross-examination, by Mr. Fitzpatrick, you stated you did not know how two letters written by your brother Michael, and which are filed in this case, came into the possession of Mr. Tarte or his counsel. Is it not a fact that you gave those letters to Mr. Murphy to come to Ottawa and act according to what was requested in those letters?—A. Not to my recollection.

Q. At page 379, one of these letters is printed, and I read the following words: "I wish as soon as this letter comes to you, you would go to Ottawa and see Sir Hector and explain the matter to him, who, I believe, when the situation is explained to him, will apply the necessary remedy." Would you not, upon such a recommendation as that from your brother, either go to Ottawa or send one of your partners?—A. I do not know; I may have gone to Ottawa; I have no recollection.

Q. You swear you had not gone to Ottawa to see Sir Hector?—A. I had no recollection.

Q. You had no recollection the other day that you came to see Sir Hector?—A. That is my recollection.

Q. Is it not a fact that you sent some of your partners?—A. I do not know as I have.

Q. Is it possible you did?—A. I won't swear to it.

Q. You did not think this letter important enough for your partners to attend to?—A. I do not think it was of sufficient importance. It was complaining of things at that time which I thought unnecessary.

Q. It was complaining of progress estimates. You found your brother was complaining without any reason?—A. The estimates were small.

Q. Was this letter not referring also to the re-coursing, and that the re-coursing was altered?—A. I think there was a letter referring to the re-coursing.

Q. Was it not after this re-coursing had been suggested by your brother that you, or some member of the firm, acted upon it?—A. I have no recollection of having acted upon it.

Q. You stated that Mr. McGreevy was taken into the partnership because you wanted more capital. Did you state so?—A. I think so.

Q. It is about two or three days ago you said that. Is it a fact you took in Robert McGreevy because you wanted capital?—A. I know that we complained about his large interest, and Mr. Murphy said he would have to put up in proportion to his interest.

Q. You swear that Mr. Murphy had been taken in for the purpose of increasing your capital?—A. I believe that was the purport of my testimony.

Q. You said positively that Mr. McGreevy was taken into the firm at that time simply to contribute 30 per cent. of the capital required. Your answer to the question was: "That is the explanation given to me, not only by Murphy, but Robert McGreevy himself." Now, did you take him for his capital?—A. Yes.

Q. How much money did he put in?—A. I do not think he put any money in; he put in some timber later.

Q. How much was he to put in?—A. Thirty per cent.

Q. Of what amount?—A. Of his interest.

Q. An interest in a contract amounts to nothing?—A. He had 30 per cent. interest, and he was to contribute 30 per cent. of the capital to carry on the work.

Q. Contribute 30 per cent. of the expenses?—A. He only contributed what I am trying to tell you—only timber to the amount of $3,000 or $4,000. That is the only thing I remember him contributing.

Q. To the value of three or four thousand dollars?—A. Yes; something in that neighbourhood.

Q. What he contributed would appear in the books?—A. I think so.

Q. Is it not a fact that Mr. McGreevy was not to put in capital, but it was understood that he was only to receive an interest in the contract, without contributing anything to the expenses?—A. I never heard of any such agreement. The agreement was both with Mr. Larkin and I. Why, he said himself that he had a large interest, and that Mr. Larkin and I objected to giving him a large interest; that if he got a larger interest he would have to put in a larger amount of money.

Q. Was your brother Michael in Texas then?—A. I think he was in Texas.

Q. At the time it was agreed that Mr. McGreevy should put in capital, was he in Texas?—A. I think he was in Texas when Mr. Murphy brought Mr. McGreevy to our office.

Q. When Mr. McGreevy first became interested in your contracts was your brother in Texas or Quebec?—A. I think he was in Texas.

Q. If he was aware of anything it would be from correspondence with you?—A. Not with me.

Q. Did you correspond with your brother?—A. Not with regard to that. He was about coming home, and I do not remember corresponding with him with regard to it.

Q. Are you aware of a letter written by your brother to O. E. Murphy, dated 12th October, 1882, (Exhibit Y 8) printed at page 211, and in which we read the following:—"Yours of the 2nd instant was here in San Antonia before I arrived. I am glad to hear you have got along so well with the work the past season. You do right in keeping in with Hon. Thos., as just at present he has the whole thing in the hollow of his hand. You tell me you have the contract signed for the Harbour work; but I think you have given Bob more than he is entitled to, especially as he is not furnishing any capital. But, of course, you, who are on the ground, ought to know best, and it would be better to make a hundred thousand dollars with him in than fifty thousand dollars with him out." Can you explain that letter?—A. I never saw that letter only here. I knew nothing of it.

Q. Does your brother write the truth when he said that Bob was putting no capital into the concern?—A. Does my brother speak the truth do you mean?

Q. Was he speaking the truth when he wrote?—A. I do not know what Mr. Murphy may have written to my brother.

Q. Your brother writes that Bob was putting no money into the concern?—A. He did not write that letter to me.

Q. Would it have been true if he had written it to you? Is the truth always told between you brothers?—A. A pretty good average.

Q. Who is "Bob" there?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. You have stated in your cross-examination by Mr. Fitzpatrick that the letter attached to the schedule of prices prepared by Mr. Boyd, and marked Exhibit "W?" was in the handwriting of somebody else than Beaucage?—A. I do not know Beaucage's handwriting.

Q. In whose handwriting is the letter?—A. I do not know. It looks like Charles McGreevy's—Robert McGreevy's son. I may be mistaken; I would not swear to it.

Q. Did you not swear positively that it was in the handwriting of Charles McGreevy?—A. I think not; I do not think I swore positively to it. I am not an expert in handwriting.

Q. At page 391 you were asked by Mr. Fitzpatrick the following question: (reads from the evidence). Having sworn so much already, are you prepared to say this letter was in the handwriting of Charles McGreevy?—A. I would not swear; it might be or it might not be.

Q. Were you present when the tenders were prepared?—A. Which tenders?

Q. For the Cross-wall?—A. I think so.

Q. How many tenders were prepared when you were so present?—A. Only one tender that I really took part in preparing.

Q. But in the same room was not Gallagher's tender prepared?—A. It is my recollection that Gallagher's tender was prepared in the outer room and ours in the inner.

Q. Where was Beaucage's tender prepared?—A. I do not know anything about Beaucage's tender.

Q. You have not seen that letter written by Charles McGreevy?—A. I did not see it.

Q. Was Charles McGreevy in the room, or in one of the offices, when both tenders were prepared—that is, Gallagher's and Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s?—A. No.

Q. He was not present?—A. Not that I saw.

Q. Are you sure he was not there?—A. He was not there in the room that I was in.

Q. Are you not sure he was not helping in preparing the tenders?—A. No.

Q. Where were those tenders prepared?—A. Our tender was prepared in the inner office.

Q. In what house?—A. In Quebec or in Levis, I do not remember which it was.

Q. If you can remember that it was either the inner or the outer room, cannot you remember which room it was?—A. My recollection is that it was in Quebec.

Q. In what house in Quebec?—A. In Dalhousie street.

Q. At the office of the firm? The same office that you had up to the end of your contract?—A. We had two offices; one on the Louise Embankment and one on Dalhousie Street.

Q. And you say it was in Dalhousie street?—A. That is my recollection of it; I may be mistaken.

Q. And one tender was prepared in one room and the other tender in another room?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that you had no office, in 1882, in Dalhousie street, Quebec?—A. I did not understand that it was in 1882.

Q. I correct myself; it was 1883. Is it not a fact that you had no office in Dalhousie Street in 1883?—A. I do not recollect that, but we had an office on the Embankment or at Dalhousie Street.

Q. And at Levis?—A. Yes, at Levis while the work was in progress.

Q. Then the tenders were prepared in two different rooms?—A. Yes.

Q. There was only one room in the office on the Louise Embankment?—A. There was only one room there.

Q. So you were sure the tenders would not be prepared in the office on the Louise Embankment?—A. They may have been. I tell you it is simply my recollection.

Q. You stated that the tenders were prepared in two different rooms?—A. I stated there was only Mr. Hume, the Engineer, and myself in the room, when the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co., was being prepared.

Q. And in the other room where Gallagher's tender was being prepared?—A. I said the other tender was prepared for Gallagher in the other room.

- Q. Who was preparing Gallagher's tender?—A. I think my brother.
- Q. Being satisfied the tenders were prepared in different rooms, are you sure it was not on the Louise Embankment?—A. It may not be at the same time.
- Q. But why then did you say it was in one room?—A. That is my recollection. It took us some time.
- Q. The two tenders were put in on the same day?—A. Yes, I suppose so.
- Q. And Gallagher's cheque was made good by the firm's money?—A. Gallagher's tender was accompanied by a cheque either of mine or Mr. Larkin's.
- Q. Is it not a fact that it was a cheque on the Imperial Bank of St. Catherines?—A. I think it was, but I do not remember.
- Q. Is it not a fact that cheque of $7,500, which was put in by Gallagher is credited and charged in the books as being from the money of Mr. Larkin?—A. I think it was.
- Q. And it was upon his funds in St. Catharines?—A. I think that is the way it was. It was either Captain Larkin's or mine.
- Q. And do you remember when the cheques were returned, Mr. Perley would not return Gallagher's cheque to Gallagher, but kept it until Mr. Larkin gave his consent that it should be returned?—A. I do not remember that circumstance; Not of that.
- Q. Did you help in preparing the Gallagher tender?—A. I only helped to prepare the tender of Larkin, Conuolly & Co.
- Q. You made it out in your name?—A. Yes.
- Q. You did not help Gallagher with his tender?—A. No.
- Q. Who was working at that?—A. I do not remember, but I think my brother had most to do with it. Probably Mr. Murphy helped him, but I am not sure about that.
- Q. Your brother was in the habit of preparing tenders for others like that?—A. I think that was his first.
- Q. Has he done it since?—A. That I do not know.
- Q. This man, Hume, is he still in your employ?—A. Yes.
- Q. Where is he now?—A. He is at Kingston at present.
- Q. In what capacity is he in your employ?—A. He is our Engineer.
- Q. In what capacity was he employed in Quebec?—A. He was our Engineer in Quebec.
- Q. When did he come to your employ in Quebec?—A. Hume has been in our employ ever since we commenced in Quebec.
- Q. Had he charge of all the works, or only some of the works?—A. He was our Engineer for all the works.
- Q. Had he anything to do with the dredging?—A. No, I do not know that he had anything more to do with the dredging; more than that, if engineering was required in that connection he would look after it.
- Q. What about payments? Had he anything to do with payments to employés? Or did somebody else do that?—A. I do not think Mr. Hume had anything to do with the payments; he may have had.
- Q. It was not his occupation; not his charge?—A. No.
- Q. He had nothing to do with the payments?—A. When I said he had nothing to do with the payments I meant nothing regular. He may have paid both at Quebec and at the quarries, in the absence of one of the members of the firm, Mr. Murphy, myself or my brother.
- Q. But when he was taking the place of a member of the firm, or in any special circumstance like that, he would report to some member of the firm?—A. What do you mean?
- Q. He had no power to give an order to the paymaster or the book-keeper to pay?—A. No; he was not a member of the firm.
- Q. And any order given by him would have to be checked or verified by you, whilst you had charge of the cash?—A. He would give it to the book-keeper as a general thing. I had perfect confidence in Hume, and whatever he gave to the book-keeper it was charged to the books as he directed, I suppose.

Q. You stated also that Mr. Murphy had no experience in that class of work?—
A. Yes.

Q. You said you knew him in New York for several years?—A. Yes; I knew him.

Q. Had he not been superintending similar works in New York?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Or in the neighbourhood of New York?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Did he help on the work at Quebec?—A. Some portions of it.

Q. You stated that you loaned money out of your personal funds to Mr. Murphy. Did he reciprocate and loan you some money occasionally?—A. I do not remember him ever loaning me any.

Q. Would you be surprised to find in the books many entries of money charged in your favour?—A. To the Company he may have.

Q. No, money loaned to you and reimbursed out of the funds of the Company?—A. It was generally the other way.

Q. Then, if these loans were made it was probably for the purpose of making donations?—A. To me?

Q. Yes, and then re-imbursed by the firm?—A. I do not know anything about Mr. Murphy's matters.

Q. You said he was in the habit of speculating. Did you not do some of it too?—A. Yes, very often with his advice.

Q. He tempted you?—A. Yes, two or three times, probably twice.

Q. Can you name some of the stocks you speculated in with Mr. Murphy?—A. He induced me to buy some gas stock. I think it was Manhattan gas.

Q. Anything else?—A. I think he was instrumental in taking me into the Richelieu.

Q. It was a good speculation. You became director of that Company?—A. It was not a good speculation to me. It was good for Mr. Murphy, I think.

Q. Then, you said you never paid a dollar in connection with your contracts for corrupt practices. Did you pay any money or subscribe any money for political purposes?—A. At what time?

Q. Since you are a public contractor, from 1882 to 1889; start from 1879?—A. I subscribed one little amount that I know of to a gentleman in Montreal at the last election.

Q. Was that for political purposes?—A. It was friendship towards him.

Q. Was that the only amount you paid for political purposes?—A. That is the only amount. I am speaking of my personal money.

Q. Now I am asking you of the firm's money. Did the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. to your knowledge and with your consent, ever pay or disburse any money for political purposes during the same period?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Were you informed by any members of the firm that such disbursement or subscription had been made?—A. No.

Q. Did you ever agree or consent to entries being made in the books showing that money had been paid for political purposes?—A. Only such entries as after these disputes.

Q. And from the fact there was disputes the more knowingly you consented. Did you agree or consent to donations being entered in your books for political disbursements?—A. No.

Q. Was there during such discussion any mention made by your partners that money had been paid for political purposes?—A. Not that I remember.

Q. What were the disputes about?—A. About vouchers. About the amount of money Mr. Murphy paid out without giving what we considered proper vouchers for it.

Q. What did he say he paid the money for?—A. He would never tell.

Q. You never guessed what it was for?—A. I may have guessed.

Q. He said it would come back?—A. Sometimes he would say it would come back.

Q. Did you not understand they were political subscriptions?—A. He never said so.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Did he say to whom they were paid or any of them?—A. No; never to me.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Had you no idea whatever what these amounts were for then?—A. I may have had an idea, but I do not know as that would be evidence.

Q. Can you not give us that idea now?—A. My idea was that most of it went into his own pocket and Robert McGreevy's.

Q. And the balance?—A. Just as likely to go for the colonel's election as for anybody else's election.

Q. No, you say that on your oath?—A. I say I have no doubt that if you came across Mr. Murphy having the money you would ask help for your election.

Q. Everything is possible in these times. You say you thought part of the money went into his pocket and remained there for his own purposes. The balance you say may have gone to me?—A. I am not singling you out, any more than any one else.

Q. Your idea then was that to some special order or purpose the balance of the money that he did not keep for his own use was devoted—some other purpose which you understood then to exist?—A. I may have had an idea that a small portion of it went for political purposes; but I never could find out where it went to. My suspicion was that it would go to the executive committee to Quebec, and they would distribute it.

Q. Now, as to the executive committee, did your impressions then originate from what Mr. Murphy said—from explanation?—A. From his explanation, I think.

Q. Of course, that executive committee is the one you mentioned the other day, composed of some gentlemen you named?—A. I think I said I did not know any of the gentlemen that formed the committee. I would not know them if I met them.

Q. You understood the executive committee was the Quebec executive, from what Mr. Murphy told you?—A. I do not know that Mr. Murphy ever told me anything about the committee.

Q. At all events, whether he told you or not, you said you thought there was an executive committee, and the balance of the money he did not keep for his own use went there?—A. That is my own idea. I supposed that if he gave any for political purposes it would go there.

Q. Would that apply to every amount mentioned as "donations" in the books of the firm or in the letters filed before this Committee? Does that answer apply to every one of them?—A. Yes; that answer would apply to every one.

Q. Can you tell us the proportion between the amount Murphy kept and the amount he subscribed to the "Executive committee" at Quebec?—A. I could not tell you anything about the amount he gave to anything. I could not find it out. If you could find it out, you could do more than I can.

Q. Will you kindly tell us from what party that executive committee was. Was it the party that gave the contract?—A. I supposed, of course, if he gave any money to the executive committee there it would be to the Conservative party. But that is only my own imagination. I am not giving that as testimony.

Q. Is it not a fact that every time Mr. Murphy came in with these accounts, $5,000—$25,000—these large amounts, he pretended, whether rightly or wrongly, that these amounts had been used as subscriptions for political purposes, or the executive committee?—A. Oh, no.

Q. Not on each occasion?—A. No.

Q. How many times?—A. I could not tell you. I do not think he said it was going to any party or to any person; I never could get him to tell me.

Q. You swear to that positively?—A. I am on my oath.

Q. Is it only your recollection?—A. That is my recollection, and it is positive.

Q. You positively swear that he did not tell you in every circumstance. Did he tell you in any circumstance?—A. Tell me what?

Q. That he had used that amount which he wanted to charge on any occasion?—

A. No.

Q. For a political party, I mean?—A. No.

Q. He never told you that?—A. No.

Q. Then from what did you derive your idea?—A. From my imagination. I was telling you all the time it was my imagination. You asked me and I told you.

Q. Are there not facts which tended to bring your imagination to that?—A. No facts.

Q. The explanation then that the charity or donations which are found in the books or letters of the firm—the only explanation of them is, that they were charity to Mr. Murphy?—A. It is charitable in that way. Murphy handled the cash, and this I suppose is his explanation of it. What it was I never could tell.

Q. When you yourself handled the cash, and when the same word "donation" was used, what was your understanding about it?—A. I never gave any orders to charge any money in that way. When I was handling the cash I often signed a cheque and endorsed it, and either gave it to the book-keeper or Mr. Murphy, not knowing what it was going for. Not only that, but I often signed a cheque in blank and left it to be filled out.

Q. Were you in the habit of looking at the books when they were being audited?—A. No.

Q. Not at all.—A. No.

Q. You were blind at it?—A. I knew little about them, and I had perfect confidence in the book-keeper and auditors, and took their statements.

Mr. AMYOT.—Before I sit down, I might make a personal explanation. I stated before the Committee the other day that there was an indictment against Mr. Connolly which had gone before the Grand Jury and had been thrown out. I was right as to the indictment, but not that it was put before the Grand Jury. That thing has not been done yet. Perhaps I took Nick for Mick.

Mr. KIRKPATRICK.—Well, say you are sorry for it?

Mr. AMYOT.—Well I am very sorry if I have attributed anything that was wrong to the witness.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Did you not yourself, on the 17th February, 1887, deliver to young Robert McGreevy the sum of $5,000, to be taken to his uncle, Thomas McGreevy?—A. No, I never did, unless it was a sum sent for by his father. There may have been a sum sent for by his father. The book-keeper would know about that. I remember nothing about it.

Q. Do you remember the naked fact that some time in February, 1887, having sent young Robert McGreevy with $5,000 to be delivered to his uncle Thomas?—A. There might be an order given from Robert McGreevy.

Q. I want a direct answer, an answer to a question respecting a physical act—did you give $5,000 to young Robert McGreevy to be taken to his uncle Thomas on the 17th February?—A. I may have done so if Robert McGreevy ordered it so. If he sent his son there I would certainly send it where he directed.

Q. During the month of November—the first half of November, 1887—did not you again send the same young man, Robert McGreevy, with $5,000, to be taken to his uncle Thomas McGreevy?—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. Is it possible that you should have given $5,000 to this young man Robert McGreevy during the first half of the month of November, 1887, to be taken to his uncle, Thomas McGreevy?—A. If ordered by his father, I may have done so; not otherwise.

Q. You appear to remember now that sometimes money was to your knowledge taken from the office of the firm to Robert McGreevy by messengers, and the money sent directly to Thomas McGreevy, without asking for what object. I want to ascertain if you sent any money by young Robert McGreevy at the time mentioned?—A. I have no knowledge of it myself, but I say that if Robert McGreevy ordered it so to be sent I have no doubt it was sent according to his order.

Q. Why should you give the order, if it was Robert McGreevy who gave the order?—A. He gave me the order, but Robert McGreevy may have given the order and I signed the cheque.

Q. My question is positive, and I ask you again—did not you yourself hand the money to young Robert McGreevy for that purpose?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You do not undertake to swear you did not do it?—A. If Robert McGreevy sent for money to me I have no doubt I gave it to the son.

Q. Then it is possible you gave money to the son to take to Robert or Thomas?—A. To take to Robert.

Q. Not to Thomas?—A. No.

Q. You swear you did not say to the young man: "Take this to Thomas"?—A. No.

Q. Supposing Robert wrote you a letter, or met you on Dalhousie street, and said: "Connolly, I will send you my son for $5,000 to take to Thomas McGreevy"—if you had received such a message would you have handed the $5,000 to the young man to take to Thomas?—A. Possibly I would.

Q. Now, seeing that you would have done it, do you remember whether such a request was ever made to you by Robert McGreevy to send money to Thomas?—A. I do not remember of it.

Q. But you would not deny that it took place?—A. Such a thing may have taken place, but it is very improbable. I have no recollection of it.

Q. In September, 1886, did not Mr. Thomas or Robert McGreevy come to you, and in the presence of O. E. Murphy ask you for $8,000 for the elections that were about to come off in the Province?—A. No.

Q. You swear that a sum of $8,000 was not with your consent asked for and delivered to Robert H. McGreevy for the local elections in September, 1886?—A. No.

Q. Did Thomas make similar request and get the money?—A. No; he never made a request for money.

Q. For elections?—A. For anything.

Q. Whenever he wanted money for elections he sent his brother Robert?—A. I do not know what dealings were between him and his brother Robert.

Q. Whenever he wanted money for elections he sent his brother Robert—that is, money from your firm?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. If Mr. Thomas McGreevy has admitted to having received from Larkin, Connolly & Co., from 1882 to 1889, between $50,000 and $60,000 for election purposes, would you believe him?—A. My opinion is that Thomas McGreevy never received anything from the firm. Whatever he received it was from Robert McGreevy, and I do not know how he received it, or anything about it.

Q. When you say from the firm, do you want the Committee to understand that the three partners were all present with the book-keeper and handed over the $5,000. When you are talking before this Committee, and you say "the firm," do you understand that the three partners must be present when you say that?—A. Yes.

Q. So, when only one member acts for the firm it is not the firm?—A. No; it is not the firm.

Q. That is the way you swear you did not give anything?—A. I say neither me or Mr. Larkin ever gave anything for political purposes at any time.

Q. Mr. Murphy and Robert McGreevy were also acting for the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. And if Thomas McGreevy admits to having received $50,000 or $60,000 in the name of the firm, and if these amounts are charged in the books of the firm, would you believe those amounts were paid to Thomas McGreevy?—A. I know nothing about the transactions of Robert and Thomas McGreevy. Mr. Robert owed Thomas, and was paying him as often as he got it.

Q. If Mr. Thomas McGreevy admits to having received that money, not for his private affairs, but for political purposes, from the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., represented by his brother Robert, and if these amounts are found charged in the books of the firm, would you now believe that the amount was paid?—A. I would not. I will explain that. I would not believe what Robert McGreevy might say about it. If Thomas McGreevy would say that I would believe they had dealings together, and the money may have come from the company with the understanding that it would be charged to Robert's share.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You expected there was something coming back from these donations?—A. Mr. Murphy said so at times.

Q. That kept you from protesting a little?—A. Both Mr. Larkin and I protested on many occasions.

Q. Still you consented to the settlement?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Because you did not want the firm broken up at that time?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Flint :

Q. Did Mr. Larkin agree with you in your suspicions?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. When did Martin Connolly come into the employment of your firm?—A. I do not remember the year. I was in British Columbia at the time. I think it was in 1884 or 1885.

Q. Now, your signature on the paper of the firm—you stated to Mr. Fitzpatrick that you had never authorized Mr. Murphy to sign your name under his initials. I think you also stated that at the audits of the firm you were made aware that such signature had been given?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that those few signatures were given when, at the request of the firm, you had requested your bankers to take two signatures on all your cheques. That is, the signature of your firm countersigned by a member of the firm?—A. I remember that the manager of the Union Bank wanted such a thing done.

Q. Is it not a fact, rather, that by a letter written from them that it was on your request he informed you that henceforward he would require two signatures?—A. There is a letter which I remember being received by the firm from Mr. MacEwan, then Manager of the Union Bank, stating that he would allow Mr. Murphy to draw no more money without power of attorney or authority from the company.

Q. Where is that letter?—A. It must be amongst the company's letters.

Q. That letter cannot be found?—A. It must be here; Mr. Murphy may have it.

Q. After a time, is it not a fact that you found out this double signature plan would not work, and not because the bank requested it. You found it inconvenient, and you cancelled that agreement, and subsequently, as before, a single member of the firm signed?—A. My recollection is that two members of the firm never signed cheques. It may have been done, but I do not remember two members ever signing cheques.

Q. That is, the firm's name was signed by one member and endorsed by another?—A. There may have been some, but as you say we found it was inconvenient, for this reason: I would be on the work and other members would be away.

Q. Once or twice Mr. Murphy, wanted money for the firm, and all the members being away, he had to sign for you—that is, he signed your name?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Having found it inconvenient, you decided that all cheques should be made out by a single member of the firm?—A. There never was any understanding about that. Mr. Murphy took that upon himself, and it was allowed to pass in that way.

Q. The bank must have been informed that this alteration had been agreed upon?—A. There was a letter sent; I think I dictated the letter.

Q. So you took some part in that alteration?—A. If you will allow me, I will explain. The bank, after saying they would require the power of attorney, or power from the company, before they would give Mr. Murphy any more money for the company, we wrote them and I dictated the letter. It was something like this—that moneys required for the use of the firm, Murphy's signature would answer.

Q. Subsequently to that letter Murphy began to sign cheques?—A. I think he was signing all the time and at that time.

Q. In 1887 did not you begin to sign cheques instead of Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that the cheques were always signed without being made to the order of any partner except in peculiar circumstances—the rule was, that they should be made payable to the order of the firm or to the parties to whom the money was due?—A. I never made out the body of any of the cheques, I think. I only signed the cheques after they had been made out by Murphy or the book-keeper.

Q. What would be the object of making out some of these cheques payable to you—that it was necessary to pass them at the bank?—A. I do not know the object.

Q. Was it not to identify the cheque on account of the peculiar purposes for which it was required?—A. No; I do not know that it was.

Q. Was it not when the money was paid for the usual purposes of the partnership, then?—A. I think the book-keeper, when the cheque was made out, charged it to me until such time as Murphy explained it. Murphy might take the cheque, get the money, and use it, and then tell the book-keeper how to charge it. That is my recollection.

Q. So, even cheques for charters would be charged to you?—A. I think so, for the time being.

Q. You would make an entry when the cheque would be charged to your order?—A. I think so, but I think the book-keeper would be better able to explain that than I.

Q. You are asked by Mr. Henry whether you had ever made the statement printed at page 179. The statement is to the effect that Mr. Murphy claimed to have paid to you two amounts of $5,000 each for Sir Hector Langevin and had them charged in the books. Do I understand you to swear that no such charge of $10,000, paid to Sir Hector Langevin, was ever made in the books to your knowledge?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Was there any mention of those payments made, and was the charge explained to you?—A. No.

Q. It was never explained to you?—It was never explained in that way.

By the Chairman:

Q. In what way?—A. The $10,000 you say there is in the books?

Q. Yes?—A. I do not remember he ever gave me any explanation about that.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. What do you mean by "it was never explained in that way"?—A. He generally explained in his usual way. It was not for me to ask, or he knew it, and that was enough, or it would come back.

Q. Mr. Geoffrion asked you about two cheques for $5,000 each, alleged to have been paid to Sir Hector Langevin. And he asked if it was explained to you what the charge was, and you said "No, not in that way." What do you mean by "not in that way"?—A. I said that that was in regard to Murphy's explanation. He never gave me any explanation of those cheques or of any of the moneys paid out, only as I tell you.

Q. You said "No, not in that way." What do you mean by "not in that way"?—A. That is Mr. Murphy's general explanation I am referring to. I was giving that as my answer. I thought Mr. Geoffrion had reference at the time to the entries in the books.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. For what purpose would those sums be paid to Sir Hector, if they were paid at all?—A. I never knew that any money was paid to Sir Hector.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, THURSDAY, 16th July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. NICHOLAS K. CONNOLLY re-called :

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. In the course of the year 1887 after you took the management of the cash, do you remember a discussion which took place between you, Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. Murphy about an item of an amount of $10,000, composed of two items of $5,000 each which were in the books by your order, and upon which they wanted an explanation?—A. Between Robert McGreevy?

Q. Between Robert McGreevy and Mr. Murphy on the one side and you on the other, they wanting explanations from you as to this charge of $10,000?—A. No.

Q. You don't remember any discussion?—A. No.

Q. Was there in the course of the year 1887 any discussion about charges made by you and for which there were no vouchers?—A. I don't remember of any.

Q. No explanation from you as to certain charges for which you had no vouchers?—A. I don't know as I ordered any charge to be made.

Q. But were explanations asked from you about certain entries which they pretended they had found in the books and for which there were no vouchers?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. They never asked you for any explanation?—A. No.

Q. Do you swear there were none, or that you cannot remember?—A. I do not think there was any.

Q. Do you not remember having said to the book-keeper, or called him in, to give certain explanations which you could not give yourself about the enquiries they were making?—A. No. I don't remember of anything of the kind.

Q. When I speak of the book-keeper I mean Martin P. Connolly?—A. Yes; but I do not remember.

Q. You do not remember having seen Mr. Martin P. Connolly and Mr. Murphy or Mr. Robert McGreevy about items they wanted explained?—A. No.

Q. Then you did not call in Mr. Martin P. Connolly, but you referred them to him as the one who would give them the explanations?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Not to your knowledge?—A. No.

Q. Are you ready to swear that you did not refer them to Martin P. Connolly for information about the explanation they were requiring?—A. I have no recollection of referring them to Martin Connolly.

Q. You have no recollection?—A. No.

Q. Do you undertake to swear it did not take place?—A. I may have referred them to Martin Connolly on several occasions for explanations, because he did nearly all the charging and he would be the man to explain it to them.

Q. Of course they would not ask you about charges made by others? My question is about charges made in the book by your order.—A. By my order? I did not remember of telling them to charge anything in the books.

Q. Do you mean to say you never ordered any entries to be made in the books by Martin P. Connolly?—A. Not to my recollection.

Q. Do you undertake to swear you did not have entries made by your order in that year when you had the management of the cash?—A. I may have told them that Murphy told me why such a thing would take place, and he would have to get Murphy to explain.

Q. But when Murphy had nothing to do with the spending of money, did you refer him to Murphy?—A. Not if I spent the money myself.

Q. Well, Murphy did not spend all the money himself, especially when you had any cash under your control?—A. When Mr. Murphy had cash under my control he spent a great deal of it.

Q. But he did not spend it all?—A. No.

Q. But when you were spending yourself were you asked for explanations for some charges made by you?—A. I do not remember.

Q. And you do not remember at all whether you referred them to Martin for an explanation?—A. No.

Q. Now, is it not a fact that on the occasion when such explanations were asked from you, you told to both Murphy and to Robert McGreevy that you had paid $5,000 to Laforce Langevin, and the other $5,000 was handed by yourself to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I never told him anything of the kind.

Q. You are sure of that?—A. Quite sure. Neither has a conversation taken place between Murphy and Robert McGreevy and I in connection with any moneys of that kind.

Q. And are you sure you never gave $5,000 to Laforce Langevin?—A. No.

Q. You did not deliver $5,000 to Laforce Langevin to be taken somewhere else?—A. No.

Q. Do you swear that Laforce Langevin did not come to your office asking for $5,000 on behalf of somebody?—A. No.

Q. He never came?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Will you swear that he did not come to your office with a message, either verbal or written, asking for $5,000, and being then accompanied by one of his friends?—A. No, never to my knowledge.

Q. My question is very direct. He spoke to you, addressed himself to you, and handed you a written document, a letter or something like that, asking you for an amount of money, and as a consequence did you hand him a parcel containing $5,000?—A. I did not.

Q. You are quite sure of that?—A. Quite sure.

Q. Or any other sum of money?—A. Or any other sum of money.

Q. You swear positively you never entrusted any money to Laforce Langevin to be taken to somebody else?—A. No.

Q. Well now, if you did not hand the money yourself, did you order your bookkeeper to hand the money to Laforce Langevin?—A. No; I did not.

Q. You swear that you did not ask Martin Connolly to give that money to Laforce Langevin?—A. No.

Q. You swear you did not?—A. I swear I did not instruct the bookkeeper to give money of that kind to anyone. The one I told Mr. Martin Connolly to give money to was either to O. E. Murphy or Robert McGreevy.

Q. And you stick to that: that all the money you instructed the bookkeeper to pay would be to O. E. Murphy or Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Would you have wages paid by Murphy?—A. Very often.

Q. Did he always pay the wages?—A. Generally when he was around he paid the wages.

Q. And when he was not there?—A. I paid them, or Mr. Hume or my brother.

Q. So you did not always order Martin P. Connolly to hand the money to Murphy? There were cases in which someone handed money to Murphy.—A. Martin Connolly often went to the bank and drew money and either handed it to Murphy or Robert McGreevy, or used it for the work.

Q. But when he handed money to Robert McGreevy or O. E. Murphy, what was it for?—A. I cannot tell. Sometimes it might be for one thing and sometimes it might be for another—for themselves or for the works.

Q. Or the money would be handed to Michael Connolly?—A. I do not remember Michael ever handling any money.

Q. Did Robert McGreevy ever make any payments for the firm?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Did he ever attend to the business of the firm?—A. On the work? No.

Q. Did he act financially for the firm?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. When you say you gave money to Robert McGreevy, what was it for?—A. For a loan or for his own use. That is if money was due him from the firm it was given to him, or if he wanted it for a loan.

Q. How much money did you pay him like that as a loan?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did he return these loans?—A. I think so.

Q. Did he receive money which he never returned?—A. I cannot tell any more than what my suppositions are.

Q. Since you have had charge of the cash did you ever give him money as a loan which he did not return?—A. I cannot say that.

Q. Did he receive money which he never returned and for which he was never charged?—A. I do not know that either. The books would tell.

Q. During the same year also, did it come to your knowledge that two amounts of $5,000 each were charged in the books at the request of O. E. Murphy though the amount had not been paid for the business of the firm?—A. I do not remember that. The only thing I remember of was at the audit or just previous to the time of the audit. That was the only time I remember any explanation or discussion.

Q. With regard to these two sums?—A. Any sums.

Q. But when you signed the cheques yourself did you wait until the next year to learn what had become of the money?—A. No. When Mr. Murphy would want a cheque signed I might have asked him what he wanted the money for and I would sign the cheque and then turn the cheque over and endorse it, and either leave it on the desk for him or the bookkeeper.

Q. You might have asked him what it was for?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he ask you for cheques which he then stated were not to be used for the business of the firm?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Is it possible he may have done so and you not remember it?—A. It might be possible.

Q. At the audits, you say that Mr. Murphy would give the explanation to the auditors and to the partners. Which was it, to the partners or the auditors?—A. Generally to the auditors first, I think, and then from the auditors it would come to the partners.

Q. Did the discussions take place in the presence of the auditors or with the partners alone?—A. I think in a separate room. Mr. Larkin and I would generally get together and try to find out where this money went or what we could do about it.

Q. You were satisfied at the explanation and your questions were not to be heard by the auditors?—A. I do not know that it was kept secret from the auditors. The auditors must have known it first. Mr. Kimmitt came to me on more than one occasion and said it was very wrong for me to allow Mr. Murphy to handle the cash in that way for he might go at any time and draw a cheque and leave you without any money.

Q. That was while he was handling the cash; but I mean while you were handling the cash. When Kimmitt would call your attention why did you allow it to continue?—A. Just the same as on other occasions. I talked to Mr. Larkin about it and we came to the conclusion we would try to do better in the future and we would sell out as soon as we got done our work and close the thing up altogether.

Q. You valued your dredging plant—when cross-examined by Mr. Henry—at $175,000 to $200,000. Do those amounts appear in your books?—A. That is the Engineer's estimate of our plant at that time.

Q. The whole plant?—A. The plant that was on the Harbour Works.

Q. The Harbour Works generally?—A. Yes.

Q. But there was other plant besides the dredging plant?—A. It was dredging plant or plant in connection with dredging.

Q. Does the cost of that plant appear in your books?—A. I cannot say positively, but a portion must appear in the books, and I do not know but all of it.

Q. You had two dredges?—A. Three.

Q. There was one your own property, but the firm owned two?—A. It was on the ground as well.

Q. But it was not required. It was what they called the "White Elephant"?—A. It was working there.

Q. Was it what they called the "White Elephant"?—A. I never heard it called so.

Q. It was your property?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it a fact you never worked more than two dredges at a time?—A. We worked three at a time.

Q. How often?—A. I do not remember.

Q. One of the dredges belonging to the firm was named "Sir Hector"?—A. Yes.

Q. How much did it cost you?—A. I do not remember the exact cost.

Q. $30,000?—A. Yes; it cost between $50,000 and $60,000.

Q. Is it not a fact that it cost $35,000, and that it was built at Quebec, and cost brand new $35,000?—A. I may be mistaken, but I think the cost of that is in the books.

Q. You also had another dredge called "St. Joseph"? How much did that cost?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Is it not a fact that it cost $28,000?—A. Is that the whole machinery?

Q. The whole thing.—A. It cost more than that. These things may be in the books.

Q. Is it not a fact that these two cost $63,000, and not that one cost that?—A. My opinion is that they cost a good deal more than that.

Q. Would you swear?—A. I have kept no account of it, but of course, I think that is all in the books.

Q. Was the "St. Joseph" built at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Who built it?—A. The firm.

Q. Who were the builders?—A. Carriere, Lainé & Co.

Q. Who built the hull?—A. We employed men by the day and built the hull.

Q. When was it built?—A. In 1883 or 1884.

Q. Was it not built in 1883 and running in 1884?—A. I think may be it was.

Q. Is it not a fact that you ran the "St. Joseph" during the years 1884, 1885, 1886, 1887 and 1888, and that you sold it in 1889?—A. I bought it.

Q. You know that it was sold. When?—A. In 1889.

Q. For how much?—A. I think it was billed to me for something over $20,000.

Q. Was it not $22,000?—A. Something in that neighbourhood.

Q. You bought it yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. It had been five years in use, it cost $28,000, and you paid five years afterward $22,000?—A. I think I paid somewhere in that neighbourhood.

Q. So, as a matter of sinking fund there would be $6,000 in five years. There was a loss of $6,000 for five years use?—A. There was a loss.

Q. The firm paid $28,000 and you paid $22,000?—A. I do not know the cost; but I know that when I paid for it it was something over $20,000 I paid.

Q. You cannot tell how much it cost?—A. No, I cannot tell.

Q. Not an approximate figure?—A. No.

Q. Is it still in existence?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you still working it?—A. I do not know as it is working at present. It is at Kingston.

Q. Can it be worked for several years yet?—A. That depends entirely on the amount of money that is laid out on it for repairs.

Q. What is the usual life of a dredge kept in good repair?—A. The hull?

Q. The whole of it?—A. If the hull is built of wood, I should think about ten years would be the life of the hull. We had to take the front out of the "Sir Hector" in five or six years and put a new front in her.

Q. Were not those repairs charged in the expenses?—A. Not the last. It was since we bought Mr. Murphy and Mr. McGreevy out.

Q. During the five years the firm was running "Sir Hector" and "St. Joseph" were not the repairs charged to expenses?—A. I think they were.

Q. You stated rather hastily the other day that the average work of a dredge was 2,200 yards a day?—A. No; I did not.

Q. That was not the average?—A. No.

Q. You say on a special day it can be done?—A. I think that was the most they ever did in one day, I said that was the most.

Q. And that day, was it a day of twenty-four hours or did you not work night and day?—A. That is for twelve hours.

Q. For a day of twelve hours?—A. It was twelve hours or eleven hours—whatever we were working then.

Q. Where was the work then going on?—A. In the inner basin.

Q. Where were you dumping?—A. I do not remember whether we were dumping all in the river. We were certainly dumping a portion of it in the river.

Q. You say also that you overheard a discussion between Robert McGreevy and your brother Michael, wherein Robert McGreevy complained that certain disclosures Michael had made to his brother Thomas. When was that?—A. It was just the spring we bought Mr. McGreevy and Murphy out.

Q. Was it before or after they were paid out?—A. It was before.

Q. Long before?—A. No; I think it would be about a month, probably.

Q. At any rate a few weeks?—A. A few weeks before.

Q. You understood from that discussion that Robert McGreevy did not like his brother being made aware of his interest in your firm?—A. That is what I understood.

Q. Until then, you state, you firmly believe that Mr. Thomas McGreevy was not aware that his brother had an interest with you?—A. No. From what Robert McGreevy said at that time, I would consider he did not.

Q. No; not from what Robert McGreevy said, but what you knew yourself. Have you any reasons for believing that Thomas McGreevy did not know that Robert had any interest in your firm?—A. I have no reason to believe, except from what I have just stated; that I heard a conversation and that Robert McGreevy said at the time he was sorry Michael had talked in that way and that he ought not to tell the truth at all times. It was something like that.

Q. He was telling your brother to tell the truth?—A. No; that the truth was not to be told at all times.

Q. Would not the discussion be about the proportion of Robert McGreevy's interest in the firm, and not about the general fact that he was interested in the firm?—A. I think it was the fact of his being interested in the firm; that is, from Mr. McGreevy's conversation.

Q. And you were not surprised at this disclosure that Mr. Thomas McGreevy was unaware of his brother's interest in the firm?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. Had you not been always under the impression that he was aware Robert had an interest in the firm?—A. No. I knew that Robert McGreevy was afraid that his brother would find out he was a member of the firm.

Q. There is a letter written by Thomas McGreevy to his brother which is printed at page 16 of the Evidence, in which he says, "the tenders for Cross-wail only arrived here yesterday and are locked up until Monday, when he will commence his calculations? I will write you Tuesday and let you know the result. Larkin was here yesterday. I told him that it would be useless to get Peters out of the way as it would be tantamount to giving the contract to the highest tender; that you would have to stick to Beaucage's tender as it was fair." How do you reconcile that letter of Thomas McGreevy's with the fact he was unaware his brother had an interest in these contracts?—A. I suppose the only way to reconcile that is that Robert McGreevy wrote to his brother while he was in Ottawa, to get information for the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. But then he would have said, "they would have to stick to Beaucage's tender" and not "You would have to stick to Beaucage's tender." Robert was only asking him for information for the firm, of which he was supposed not to be a member.—A. I do not know how he may have written to him.

Q. At the time the notes for $25,000, in connection with the Cross-wall were signed and given to Robert McGreevy, is it not a fact that the firm, and especially you, required from Robert McGreevy a note for $7,500, as representing his 30 per cent. interest in that amount as a guarantee for his share?—A. I do not remember anything of the kind.

Q. Do you remember a note for $7,500, that was made and signed by Robert H. McGreevy, if not on the same day on the same occasion, and kept in the safe of the firm?—A. I know that I had a note of Robert H. McGreevy's but I do not remember the exact amount. It was an accommodation note; nothing of that which you have stated.

Q. Was there not a note for $7,500 kept in the firm's safe and not used?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Do you say you never saw a note for $7,500, given by Robert H. McGreevy, which remained in the safe for several months?—A. I remember having a note of his for about that amount and it was an accommodation note. He wrote a letter to me in connection with it, asking for the money and offering to pay a certain per centage for its use. After he had paid the money he paid less percentage than mentioned in the letter.

Q. You are referring probably to a loan made to him?—A. Yes.

Q. But I am not speaking of that. What I ask you is, whether you had a note for $7,500, which remained in the safe unused?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. When did you lend him that sum of about $7,500.—A. I do not remember the date; you will find it from the books.

Q. In what year?—A. I do not know as I can tell you that even.

Q. But surely you know the year?—A. My recollection of it is, that it was in 1886 or 1887.

Q. So that this note of $7,000 or $7,500 made in 1886-7 would not correspond with the one mentioned, which would have been signed in 1883?—A. No, if such a note was signed, but I do not know if such a note was signed.

Q. Who was your book-keeper in 1883?—A. Martin Connolly, I think; that was in 1883 or '84.

Q. Was it not Mr. Shea?—A. I think that was about the time Martin Connolly came on.

Q. When that loan was made in 1886 or '87, was it in the summer or the winter?—A. I think it was in the fall; I am not positive as to that.

Q. Did you use the note with your bank?—A. I could not tell you that either.

Q. You cannot tell whether you kept it in the safe or vault. I want it to be understood, when I use the word safe, that I mean vault as well?—A. My recollection is that it was not put in the bank at all. I may be mistaken. I think it remained in the safe until he paid it.

Q. In the course of April, 1889, some time before buying out Robert McGreevy's interest, did you receive from him a letter in connection with certain entries made in the books as being payments to inspectors?—A. No; never.

Q. You never received such a letter?—A. I never received such a letter, to my knowledge.

Q. Did you about that time receive a letter from him addressed to the firm, complaining of certain things generally?—A. I never received but one letter from Robert McGreevy to my knowledge with regard to anything in connection with the work. That was during the construction of the Graving Dock, and it was in connection tion with a purchase of cement I made from a party that came on from New York. That is the only letter I remember receiving from Robert McGreevy that had any bearing in connection with the work.

Q. I mean not only you, but the firm?—A. I mean the firm also; that was the only letter.

Q. So that neither you or the firm ever received from Robert McGreevy a letter complaining of certain payments that had been made and which appeared in the books?—A. No.

Q. Did you have a man in your employ as book-keeper named George Lawrence?—A. I do not remember that name.

Q. He was on the Lévis Dock?—A. We had a man by the name of Shea.

Q. But prior to Shea, had you not George Lawrence as book-keeper?—A. It seems to me there was a man for a short time of the name of Lawrence. I did not recollect the name.

Q. But he was only there for a short time?—A. I think so.

Q. Did he act as book-keeper?—A. I do not remember him at all.

Q. You cannot remember him as book-keeper or as clerk of works?—A. We had only three, preceding Martin Connolly. Shea was one. Carroll was our first book-keeper.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. In the evidence taken before the Sub-Committee, on 20th June (Appendix No. 1) "page 282, Esquimalt Dock Dr. to Sundries; total to be divided, $72,000; less disbursed, $17,000." Do you know if out of that $17,000 you got a sum of $5,000 reimbursed for other disbursements you had made out of your private funds, as Martin P. Connolly, in his examination before the Sub-Committee states?—A. I do not know about that; I do not remember.

Q. You do not remember anything about that?—A. I do not remember anything about that.

Q. Do you remember having disbursed the sum of $5,000—I put the question again—and being reimbursed that sum out of the $17,000 that I have just spoken to you about?—A. I have paid several times out of my private funds.

Q. That is not an answer at all. Please answer the question: it is a very clear one?—A. What is the question?

Q. Out of the $17,000 disbursed, as described in the evidence taken on 20th June before the Sub-Committee (Appendix No. 1), were you reimbursed the sum of $5,000 that you had paid out of your private funds, as recorded in Martin P. Connolly's evidence and in the books of the firm?—A. If I paid anything out for the firm I was reimbursed, I suppose. I could not tell you I was reimbursed at all.

Q. If Martin P. Connolly has so stated would you believe him?—A. Yes; I would.

Q. Do you remember that a statement was prepared in 1887 for the information of members of the firm, and that on that occasion you stated that you had paid to Sir Hector Langevin $5,000, and that that amount was then charged at your own request against the members of your firm?—A. I never paid any such money nor I never made any such request.

Q. You never stated before any person that you had paid $10,000 to Sir Hector Langevin, or to his son, or to anybody else for him?—A. No.

Q. You never stated that to any one?—A. No.

Q. You never caused that charge of $10,000 to be entered in the books of the firm against a member of the firm?—A. I never ordered such a charge to be made.

Q. Mr. Martin P. Connolly has sworn that a cheque for $2,000 was sent by you, endorsed by you, and he has given us this entry in the books, which is as follows: "N. K. Connolly, for the amount of his private cheque for donation re B. C. as agreed—$2,000." It appears that those $2,000 have been paid by your private cheque. Can you tell us what use you made of those $2,000?—A. I don't know; the cheque probably would show what use was made of it.

Q. But we cannot find the cheque—it is your private cheque?—A. My private papers will contain it, I suppose, and when they come Murphy can satisfy you.

Q. I would like to be satisfied by you; it may be a very difficult task, but still I will try again. Can you tell us the use made of those $2,000 “as agreed”?—A. I don't know; the cheques will show that.

Q. Outside of the cheque you cannot tell?—A. No; I don't recollect.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. If the cheque does not show anything, can you give any explanation?—A. No. There may be something on the cheque that may refresh my memory so as I may be able to explain.

Q. But if there is nothing on the cheque?—A. If there is nothing on the cheque I could not tell you anything about it.

Q. An absolute blank your memory is, is it?—A. With regard to that, yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Have you any recollection that you agreed to pay those $2,000 to get information from some of the officials of the Public Works Department?

Mr. A. FERGUSON.—I must tell the witness he must use his discretion as to whether the rule laid down by the Committee obliges him to answer that question or not.

The CHAIRMAN.—He must answer the question.

A. I never agreed to pay any money for information to the Public Works Department.

Q. And you persist in saying that you have no recollection whatever of the use that was made of those $2,000?—A. Not to my knowledge.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You never agreed to pay; but did you ever pay?—A. I paid a great deal more than I agreed to.

Q. You say you never agreed to pay for information from any officials of the Public Works Department. Did you ever pay for such information?—A. Not to my knowledge; not to myself.

Q. Well, who paid it?—A. Nobody to my knowledge unless the witness you have heard here, Mr. Murphy.

Q. Did Mr. Murphy distribute those $2,000?—A. I could not tell you that.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Do you remember having been paid 55 cents a yard for dredging in 1889?—A. I do not remember. I think we done some dredging in the outer basin, the price for which was 59 cents, but I am not sure. I know we had 35 cents for dredging the inner basin, and there was another contract for filling the Cross-wall which we did at 45 cents. It was a different contract.

Q. On the 3rd of August, 1887, I find that you gave your cheque for $1,000 to reimburse a similar cheque of $1,000 given by Mr. Murphy on the 21st July. Do you remember if Mr. Murphy then gave you some explanation about the use of the money?—A. I do not.

Q. You have no recollection?—A. No explanation.

Q. On the 8th August, 1887, you gave your cheque for $4,000 to your own order, which is entered in the books as “donation.” Can you remember the use you made of that money?—A. I don't remember anything about it, no more than Mr. Murphy may have got the cheque and handed it over to me.

Q. Mr. Murphy did not get a cheque of yours. Where, or how could he give a cheque of your own order?—A. I may have given it to Martin Connolly, or may have drawn it myself and handed it over to Mr. Murphy.

Q. But you have no recollection.—A. No.

Q. You don't know what use you made of the money?—A. No.

Q. Then it appears to us, from the day that you took charge of the cash you signed cheques for donations amounting in round figures, I believe, to nearly $50,000, and you have no idea of the use that was made of the money?—A. I have no idea more than what Mr. Murphy told me. Mr. Murphy would come and want a cheque or want a note, and I would sign it.

Q. Even after he was discharged from the care of the cash, because you say you had lost confidence in him, you yet retained enough confidence in the man to give him such large amounts of money without knowing where that money was going?—A. He was—

Q. Answer, please?—A. He never was entirely discharged from the handling of the cash. He always persisted in handling the cash, and I was quite willing that he should handle the cash.

Q. And he handled the cash with your permission?—A. Yes; he could draw a cheque himself; there was no time he could not draw a cheque himself.

Q. Has he drawn many cheques since 1883 himself?—A. I don't remember; I don't think he has drawn many.

Q. Then, having drawn yourself the cheques, do you swear that you have given him neither of these cheques or the proceeds of those cheques, and do you want us to believe you didn't know at all where the money was to go?—A. I knew nothing more than he told me about it.

Q. What did he tell you?—A. The same as he told me about all other moneys he had handled.

Q. And you went on giving very large sums of money up to thousands of thousands of pounds, or dollars, retaining enough confidence in the man to give him such large amounts of money?—A. Yes; I always gave him the cheques just as he wanted them. When he wanted a cheque I always gave it to him.

Q. You signed them without obtaining any information?—A. I told you I asked information, but the information was never satisfactory to me.

Q. But still you kept on giving him money and wasting the money of the firm. What did you mean by that?—A. He was a member of the firm, and as a member of the firm I gave him those cheques of my own.

Q. I believe you understand me well. You say the man was discharged because the member of the firm had no more confidence in him?—A. I don't think I ever said that he was discharged. I said I was always on the work, and when it was convenient for him to sign cheques he always done so, either before or after he was discharged.

Q. But you have just said he had not signed many cheques?—A. Not to my knowledge; he may have, but the cheque will show that.

Q. Yes; I know; but you have signed about $50,000 yourself for donations, and you cannot tell us about one solitary dollar of that large sum of money?—A. Where it went?

Q. Yes.—A. No.

Q. Well, you have a peculiar memory. And the members of the firm stood such treatment—they allowed nearly $50,000 of their money to be drawn out of their pockets on your signature without knowing anything about it. You tell us that. Is it true or not?—A. Only as Murphy explained.

Q. And when Mr. Murphy explains here you don't believe a word of what he says, although at that time you believed him all through?—A. At that time he was an interested party; he had a share in the business and was a partner.

Q. What was his interest?—A. He had an interest of 19½ per cent.—something like that.

Q. And the balance, of course, was divided between the other members of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. And it was because they had confidence in you they had given you the care of the cash?—A. I never claimed the care of the cash.

Q. You never claimed anything, I know, but they claimed you were the right man in the right place?—A. That is for them to say, not for me.

Q. But at any rate you took care of the cash?—A. I done the best I could under the circumstances.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. In the evidence given before the Sub-Committee, it was stated by Mr. Martin P. Connolly, your book-keeper, that on 3rd January 1887, there was a Union Bank cheque made out to your order for $5,000, to be charged to dock. Can you tell me the purpose for which that cheque was drawn?—A. No, I cannot.

Q. On the 4th of February, 1887, there were two cheques. The first was on the Union Bank to your order, B. C. division, $5,000. The other was British North America Bank cheque to your order, B. C. division, $5,000. Can you tell me what those cheques were for?—A. No, I cannot.

Q. On the 3rd of March there was a cheque to your order for $5,280. Can you tell me what that was for?—A. I cannot.

Q. On the 3rd of August, 1887, there was also a cheque to N. K. C. for $1,000. The book-keeper remarked: "The blank is there, because I did not have any explanation for what the money was for." Can you give an explanation?—A. I cannot.

Q. On the 8th of August there is a cheque to N. K. Connolly for $4,000. Can you give any explanation about that?—A. I cannot. My private cheques may show something about that.

Q. I am asked by a member of the Committee to ask you if you could give any explanation of the letters "E.W." which appear in the evidence at page 344?—A. I do not know.

Q. In Exhibit "L 3" page 346, on the 8th of March, 1888. "N. K. Connolly for amount of his private cheque for donation re B. C. as agreed, $2,000." Mr. M. P. Connolly explained: "It was agreed by the members of the firm that Mr. Connolly should get $2000, which I suppose he had expended." Did you state that you paid out this money with a private cheque and afterward got it returned to you, and do you swear you do not know for what purpose any of it was paid?—A. I never had any such agreement with the firm.

Q. Do not escape me with the word "agreement." Did you pay that money out of your private cheque, and do you swear you do not know what it was paid for?—A. I do not.

By Mr. German :

Q. Who is George Beaucage?—A. He is a contractor; he lives down near Quebec.

Q. What was he doing in 1883?—A. I do not know.

Q. Did you know him personally?—A. I had a slight acquaintance with him.

Q. He was not working for you?—A. George Beaucage? Do you mean the contractor?

Q. I mean Beaucage the contractor?—A. He never worked for me.

Q. You knew him?—A. I had a slight acquaintance.

Q. Do you know when the tenders were being prepared for the Cross-wall, that his tender was being made out and put in?—A. No.

Q. But you had prepared Gallagher's tender?—A. Not me.

Q. Your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. You knew it was being prepared in your interest?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Why were you sending in Gallagher's tender as well as your own?—A. That was, I suppose, to get the work.

Q. You were prepared to do the work at Gallagher's tender?—A. I think so.

Q. If no other tender intervened between Gallagher's tender and yours you could drop Gallagher's tender and take your own. That was the object?—A. I think so.

Q. You have to send in a certified cheque with each tender, according to the rules of the Department?—A. Yes.

Q. There was a certified cheque sent in with Gallagher's?—A. I think so.

Q. Whose cheque was it?—A. I do not remember whether it was Mr. Larkin's or mine. I think it was Mr. Larkin's.

Q. Signed by himself?—A. Yes; I think so.

Q. Payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works?—A. I do not remember seeing the cheque.

Q. You knew it was the rule of the Department that if a contractor refused to accept the contract on his tender his cheque would be forfeited?—A. Yes; that is the rule.

Q. Did you expect this cheque to be forfeited?—A. Certainly, if the contract was not fulfilled.

Q. Did you get any information that if Gallagher's tender was dropped you would get your cheque back?—A. I got no information.

Q. Did you hear it from any member of the firm?—A. I may have, but I do not remember.

Q. Did you? You must remember it. It was talked over between you?—A. It may have been talked over.

Q. Was it talked over?—A. It was talked over, and it was in the papers as well.

Q. You knew that if Gallagher's tender was dropped you were liable to lose your deposit. Was it not talked over that if this tender was dropped your cheque would come back to you? Was there not a conversation between the members of the firm that your cheque would be returned?—A. I do not remember the conversation; but of course that would be the result.

Q. That was the understanding?—A. Of course there must have been an understanding that if Gallagher's tender was forfeited that the cheque would be forfeited.

Q. Did you not understand between yourselves that if Gallagher's tender was dropped the cheque would be returned to you?—A. No; I had no understanding of that kind.

Q. Was it not talked over among you?—A. I do not remember it being talked of.

Q. Would you say it was not?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. As a matter of fact, was it returned?—A. I think it was.

By Mr. Henry:

Q. With reference to the Esquimalt Dock and the alleged dissatisfaction on the part of your firm with Mr. Bennett, Mr. O. E. Murphy states that he was instructed by you and by Mr. Larkin to offer to Mr. Thomas McGreevy the sum of $5,000, for the purpose of getting Mr. Bennett removed; and Mr. Murphy states these instructions were received by him at or near Niagara Falls, and the matter was talked over in Buffalo at dinner on the same day, being about the time of the funeral of your wife?—A. It never was talked over and there never was such a meeting.

Q. Was there such a discussion?—A. No.

Q. Did you get any such instructions?—A. No; nor I did not give any such instructions. I say that I always found Mr. Bennett to be a fair, honest, good man, and a good practical engineer. But I may say this: That there was a little friction between himself and my brother at the commencement owing to the fact of him not giving the estimate as large as we had earned or as large as what we thought my brother had earned. I think he was justified in that matter when I think of the parties he had to deal with before us going there. The Dominion Agent out there, Mr. Trutch, said we had taken the work $100,000 too low. I believe that made Mr. Bennett more careful than he would have been otherwise. He was a good officer, and I think a very honourable man.

Q. You deny there was any such instruction?—A.—Yes—in fact I was always pleased with Mr. Bennett.

Q. Was there any such intention in your mind or was it discussed?—A. It was never discussed there to my knowledge or anywhere else.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Did I understand you to say there was no such meeting?—A. No such meeting as he mentions, where this was discussed. I never was a party to such a meeting.

Q. Was there any meeting at Buffalo on the occasion referred to by Mr. Henry, namely, the funeral of your wife?—A. Mr. Larkin was not at Buffalo at that time.

Q. Mr. Murphy spoke of Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Did you meet at Buffalo or Niagara Falls with Mr. Murphy, Larkin, and perhaps others?—A. Mr. Larkin was not at Buffalo at all.

Q. Buffalo or Niagara Falls?—A. At neither place no such discussion took place.

Q. Did you, Mr. Larkin, Mr. Murphy, and others, meet either at Niagara Falls or Buffalo on the occasion of your wife's funeral?—A. We met.

Q. Then there was such a meeting?—A. But no such meeting where such a discussion took place.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Did you meet Mr. Murphy at Buffalo?—A. No; Mr. Murphy went to Indiana on that occasion and came through with the funeral from Indiana.

Q. He met you in Indiana?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Are you sure he did not meet you in Buffalo?—A. He came on with the funeral to Buffalo.

Q. Did he not remain in Buffalo with you for a few hours?—A. I think we had to stop over a train.

Q. Mr. Murphy was there then?—A. Mr. Larkin was not there.

Q. But Mr. Murphy was at Buffalo with you at this time?—A. He was for probably an hour, more or less.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. Who was in charge of the work at the British Columbia Dock in 1885—the spring of the year?—A. My brother.

Q. Were you not there yourself?—A. I think I was there during the winter, and the early spring, probably.

Q. But at the commencement of May, 1885, were you there?—A. I think I left about the 1st of May, and my brother was there alone. I am not positive about that though. I went out at first in the fall and located the quarries, and got the work going that winter.

Q. I read in a letter of Thomas McGreevy's addressed to his brother Robert, and dated the 2nd of May, 1885, the following words: "It is now understood that Bennett, the Engineer at British Columbia, will not suit, so the Minister and Perley are prepared to change him." Did you do or say anything which would make Mr. Thomas McGreevy understand what he says is understood there?—A. I never said anything to Thomas McGreevy about Mr. Bennett, that is, about having him discharged or anything.

Q. Are you aware whether any member of your firm, or your Engineer or anybody acting for the firm stated or wrote to Thomas McGreevy to make him understand that Bennett would not suit or that he must be removed?—A. Not to my knowledge. There may have been letters written to Thomas McGreevy, but I have no knowledge of them.

Q. You say you left British Columbia at the commencement of May, 1885?—A. That is the best of my recollection. I was there in the winter of 1884, I think to organize the work.

Q. Was it not understood before you left British Columbia that Mr. Bennett would not suit?—A. No. I always liked Mr. Bennett.

Q. Did your brother not like him?—A. Just as I tell you with regard to these first few estimates.

Q. These are not the estimates we are discussing. We are talking of 1885, and I asked was that friction of which you are speaking then in existence between your brother and Bennett?—A. I rather think not. I think about that time we commenced to build, and Mr. Bennett I think was satisfied we were going on with the work and likely to finish it.

Q. Therefore you see no foundation whatever in that statement of Thomas McGreevy's that "Bennett the Engineer at British Columbia will not suit"?—A. Robert McGreevy may have written to his brother something about it or my brother may have written.

Q. Was Robert McGreevy on the spot?—A. No.

Q. Had he any dealing with Bennett?—A. No.

Q. Then why should he write that Bennett would not suit?—A. My brother may have written to Murphy or to Robert McGreevy that Bennett would not suit. That is the way the thing would come round, I think.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. That letter was written at the time you were in British Columbia?—A. It may have been, but I do not know.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. You think then in May, 1885, about the time you were leaving British Columbia a friction between your brother and Bennett, which previously existed, had died out?—A. That is my recollection. I do not think there was a great deal of friction anyway.

Q. Can you suggest then to the Committee any means by which that impression could have got into Mr. McGreevy's mind that there was friction between the firm and Bennett, and that Bennett would not suit at all?—A. The only way is just as I have explained, that my brother may have written either to Robert McGreevy or Mr. Murphy and they told something about it probably to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Your brother would not write to either of those gentlemen unless the friction existed?—A. I should think not.

Q. Do you suggest that your brother may have written to Murphy or Robert McGreevy that Bennett would not suit?—A. I do not know he may have done so.

Q. Your brother did not complain to you about Bennett?—A. He may have done so.

Q. Did he express anything to you of his dissatisfaction at the time you were out there together?—A. We were there together I think early in the spring.

Q. I am talking of April or May, 1885?—A. I do not remember his expressing any dissatisfaction with Bennett at the time.

Q. Your judgment is that he was not dissatisfied with Bennett?—A. That is my recollection.

Q. And you were satisfied with Bennett?—A. I was satisfied with him in this way; I was satisfied that while he was holding back a larger portion of our estimate than he had a right to according to the contract. I was quite satisfied we would get it later when he saw we were likely to build the work.

Q. There was no such dissatisfaction as prompted you to desire a change to be made?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. So that Mr. Thomas McGreevy could not have got the information from you?—A. No.

Q. And if he got it from your brother, it was contrary to what your brother's mind was at the time?—A. No; I knew my brother had spoken about the estimates.

Q. But did your brother want to change Bennett?—A. At that time my recollection is he did not want to change Bennett.

Q. Then if Mr. Thomas McGreevy got the idea that Bennett would not suit, it was not from you or your brother?—A. That idea, I think, came previous to that time.

Q. Then your impression is, that your brother gave that impression to Thomas McGreevy previously?—A. He may have given it to Murphy or to Robert McGreevy, but I do not remember him having done so.

Q. But from his conversations you judged that his desire previously was to have Bennett changed, and subsequently it was not his desire?—A. No; I think not.

Q. After you came away was your brother fairly well satisfied with Bennett? A. I think so. He may have been complaining; no doubt he did complain to me a great many times about Bennett's estimates. That was the only fault he had to find with him.

Q. That was the main thing—that he was not giving you enough in the estimates?—A. An engineer can keep a good deal of money from you without being any benefit to the work.

Q. Is it not a fact that all these statements by yourself are directly contrary to the record before us. Is it not a fact that on the 11th September your brother wrote you a letter in which he complained bitterly of Bennett and Mr. Trutch?—A. I do not recollect.

Q. In the following September,—I have been speaking to you about May, the time Mr. Thomas McGreevy wrote to his brother that Bennett would not suit, and that it would be necessary to have the Department change him—is it not a fact that in the September following 1885, a letter was written by your brother in British Columbia in direct contradiction to that which you had just been saying. It appears at page 379, of the printed evidence?—A. He may have written such a letter.

Q. May? Here it is in the printed evidence.—A. My recollection was that the friction was done with at the time.

Q. I will read it. "Bennett finished the estimate and took it up to the 'Great Mogul,' Trutch, and between both they cut it down pretty fine, so much so that it won't meet our running expenses by $4,000. To give you an idea of the way they are handling us, I can state that the first time I charged the Government for the use of a steam derrick I put it in at $25 per day, which Trutch, after some hesitation, allowed, and this time we had some few days for steam derrick charged, when Mr. Trutch in his wisdom saw fit to cut the rate down to $12.50 per day, and other charges were cut down to suit the ideas of 'Sir' Joseph Trutch. We are building the caisson recess of rock-faced ashlar, as per plans prepared by Mr. Perley, but Messrs. Trutch and Bennett think they know more about the construction of engineering works than either the Minister of Public Works or the Chief Engineer. Instead of Trutch complying with the request of Sir Hector that we should receive every possible indulgence and encouragement, he does everything he can in an underhand way to embarrass us, and Bennett is his tool all through?" In the face of this letter, written to yourself by your brother, you tell the Committee that friction had ceased?—A. I do not see anything in that letter about asking for Bennett to be discharged.

Q. Your brother mentions that he is doing all he can to embarrass you, that Trutch is not complying with the request of Sir Hector, and that Bennett is his tool all through?—A. That is just what I said. He was keeping the estimates back, and that is all the friction there was between Bennett and my brother.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Is it a fact or not that Bennett refused to approve of the plans prepared by your Engineer, Mr. Hume, about the recouring of the Dock?—A. I do not know. I do not think Mr. Bennett had power to sanction plans without Mr. Trutch. I think Mr. Trutch was the proper man.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I will read the remainder of that letter; "I must tell you that we are building the caisson chamber as per plans prepared by Mr. Perley, in rock-faced coursed ashlar with wall at foundation, as per plan, 8' 6" thick, with buttresses 5' 0" x 4' 0". Now, Messrs. Trutch and Bennett slip in and say that plan from Ottawa is null and void, and we will only pay you for the brick wall, as shown on Kinipple and Morris' plans. If the Department of Public Works is going to allow Trutch and Bennett to dictate to it in this manner we might as well and better stop at once, for we cannot stand this sort of humbugging any longer." In the face of this letter you persist in stating that Bennett was doing everything satisfactorily and you saw no reason to have him dismissed?—A. He was keeping back the estimates as I tell you; that is all. That is a thing which would come right later.

Q. Your brother says that Bennett and Trutch are dictating to the Public Works Department, and that if this is allowed to go on, you might just as well stop work at once.

Mr. HENRY—Read the remainder of the letter, Mr. Davies?—You will see a reference to progress estimates.

Mr. DAVIES—I will do so.

"I am doing everything I can to push the work along, but it seems those fellows are determined to obstruct us and retard its progress as much as they can by withholding the estimates as they become due.

"If we were getting enough on our progress estimates to meet our current expenses I would not grumble, for I know that the Department at Ottawa would do us justice. We have about fully fifty thousand dollars invested here, besides the value of the plant we brought from Quebec, so that I feel it time the work here was self-sustaining. I wish as soon as this letter comes to you you would go to Ottawa and see Sir Hector and explain the matter to him, who, I believe, when the situation is explained to him, will apply the necessary remedy. I have very little new to add at present. Of course, I will do everything possible to push the work until I hear from you, but it is very discouraging to be working hard day and night and then come out behind four or five thousand dollars at the end of the month. This is what discourages me."

Q. Is it a fact or not, Sir, that on the 4th of May, the very day on which Mr. Thomas McGreevy went to see Perley to try and get another engineer sent and Bennett dismissed, an order was sent or given from the Department here for the recursing of the Dock?—A. I don't know that.

Q. Is it a fact or not that Mr. Bennett objected all through to the reduction on the plant, and that he made reports to that effect?—A. The plant we purchased?

Q. Yes?—A. I think he did.

Q. Is it a fact or not that Mr. Bennett objected to your being paid for the masonry all over, and that he wanted you to be paid only on your concrete prices?—A. I think he did, but I am not positive.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. When did Larkin, Connolly & Co. begin dredging, under their contract of 1882, in the Quebec harbour?—A. I think it was in 1883.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. What was the year your wife died?—A. I think it was in December, 1885.

Mr. EDGAR.—I would like to ask if any news has been received about Thomas McGreevy or his books.

Mr. STUART.—In answer to a telegram I sent yesterday after the Committee had adjourned, enquiring of Mr. McGreevy if he were able to find his books, I received the following telegram:

"QUEBEC, 15th July, 1891.

"Banks writing up pass books, hunting up other documents, will forward when complete, cannot leave my room for some days yet.

"THOMAS MCGREEVY."

THE CHAIRMAN.—Did he send you a certificate from the doctor?

Mr. STUART.—No, sir; I did not ask for it.

Mr. A. H. VERRET SWORN.

By the Chairman :

Q. Your name, Mr. Verret?—A. Hector Verret.

Q. Of the city of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Secretary of the Harbour Commission?—A. No; Auditor for the Province of Quebec.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Have you been in the employ of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes, Sir; for 13 years less 2 months.

Q. In what capacity?—A. As Secretary-Treasurer.

Q. As such were you custodian of the papers?—A. Yes, Sir, of the papers.

Q. And the cash also?—I was Treasurer, and therefore custodian of the cash.?

Q. Are you acquainted with the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

—A. I am, sir.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. O. E. Murphy was a member of the firm?—A. —Yes, sir.

Q. Whilst you were there?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. You are also aware that this firm was under contract for certain works in the Quebec Harbour?—A. Yes; the Cross-wall, Graving Dock and dredging; but the South-wall was given to Gallagher & Murphy, although the work appeared to be done by Larkin, Connolly & Co., as far as I could see myself.

Q. The South-wall was given to Gallagher & Murphy?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Though the work appeared to have been executed by the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Well, it looked like it. I saw the plans, and the same men there working. It was just opposite my window, so I could see them at work.

Q. In connection with the South-wall contract, do you remember whether the contractors were required to deposit a certain security with the Commission?—A. Yes; the amount was $25,000.

Q. Do you remember what was the nature of that security?—A. It was a certificate of deposit on the Union Bank.

Q. Issued by the Union Bank?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Did you retain this certificate of deposit during the whole time of the contract?—A. I did not, sir.

Q. Can you by memory say when it was deposited with you?—A. The date the contract was signed; I think it was in 1886.

Q. Can you remember when the works were finished?—A. The work, I think, a little after I had left the Harbour Commission—that was in 1890; I resigned in February, 1890. I think the South-wall was not entirely completed at the time. It was completed next season—but I am not sure of that; but it was all completed before I left.

Q. Are you satisfied that before you left it was altogether completed?—A. I believe it was not altogether completed; I am satisfied of that.

Q. You stated that you did not keep that deposit receipt during the whole time of that contract?—A. I did not, sir.

Q. Will you explain to the Committee what change took place in the security?—A. Yes; some time after the contract had been awarded and the works were in progress—I may say, probably one year, or nine or ten months after the work had commenced—Mr. Murphy called on me and asked me to surrender that deposit, that they were wanting the money, and that he would give me in return a cheque of the firm not accepted. I told him that I could not do so under any consideration. I advised him to apply to the Board. He said: "I cannot do that." So he repeatedly asked me, and he called on me to do him that favour—it was considered a favour—so I said: "I cannot do that; but in order that I may not be an obstructionist in your way of securing that amount, I will do that if you will bring me a letter or a recommendation from the Hon. Mr. McGreevy, who is the President of the Finance Committee, and also the leading member." I considered him a leading member of the Commission. I said besides this: "The Chairman must be a party to the transaction—he must know it; he must be aware of it."

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Who was the Chairman?—A. Mr. Valin. Well, he said: "I will bring you a letter from the Honourable Mr. McGreevy," and he came back—I don't know whether it was one day or two days afterwards or this same day—with a letter from Mr. McGreevy addressed to me, and I opened the letter from Mr. McGreevy, stating he had no objection to the surrender. It read: "I see no objection to the surrender." So I said I am satisfied, and immediately drafted a letter, by which Mr. Murphy recognized he had received that deposit, and that it had been replaced by a cheque, and when Mr. Murphy had signed that document I gave him that receipt and took the cheque to put into the cash box. I went down to the vault and gave it to the cashier, Mr. Woods. Mr. Woods used to keep the cash, and I would not keep it in my office, for we had too many visitors there. I never heard any more of it until thirteen months after I had left the Commission, when I was auditor of the Province of Quebec, and the ex-Chairman, Mr. Valin, called on me and he told me. He said: "Do you remember that letter that was given to you by Mr. McGreevy about that transaction he referred to?" Well, he said: "That letter does not mean at all what you told me; the word 'No' is no more on that letter." I had left the Commission, but I told Mr. Valin: "I am very much surprised—I am astonished, but, however, you will tell the Commissioners I am ready to call on them to be present at any time; they have only to telephone me, and I will call on them at any of their meetings and explain the whole matter." Since this investigation has taken place the Commission has never called on me to explain that matter, and since the investigation has taken place the letter was shown to me, and I read in it: "I see objection." I am positive the letter given to me by Mr. Murphy, written by Mr. McGreevy and signed by him, contained the word "No," but I have not been the guardian of the letter, and I have left the Commission now fifteen months, so I am not able to vouch about it—if there has been a substitution.

Q. If I understood you right, you said you put the letter and the cheque together in the same envelope?—A. Yes; and immediately I made a note of the whole transaction. I went in my office and made a note of the whole transaction and put it in my box, and when I left the Commission, that is three years after, I forgot to take the document with me, and I asked Mr. Valin to try and find that document. It has not been found; but the whole explanation I put in my books in order to refresh my memory in case the Commissioners would ask me to account for that substitution.

Q. You have a memorandum?—A. Yes; quite sure of it.

Q. Was it put in your box?—A. In my private box as secretary, and I left the box with the keys to my successor.

Q. Will you examine this letter, Exhibit "L," and say whether you recognize this letter as being the one that was put in the box by you with the cheque?—A. I cannot say. I see it was written by the same hand, signed by the same man, and that the word "no" is no more in the letter, as it was in the letter that was given to me.

Q. Is it the same kind of paper?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Read the whole of it?—A.

“(Private.)”

“QUEBEC, 27th October, 1888.

“DEAR MR. VERRET,—I see objection to your taking Mr. O. E. Murphy's cheque endorsed by N. Connolly for one you now hold on deposit.

“Yours truly,

“THOMAS MCGREEVY.”

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—Read that last line again.

Witness reads the last line as follows:—“For the one you now hold on deposit.”

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—You did not read the word “the” the first time. You may have passed over “no” in the same way.

Q. Did you under these circumstances generally act with the consent of Mr. Valin?—A. I would not do anything without Mr. Valin's consent.

Q. Beside the letter from Mr. McGreevy, in his capacity as Chairman of the Finance Committee, you felt that the assurance of the Chairman of the Committee would be ample?—A. Certainly, it was my instructions to do nothing without the Chairman's consent. The Chairman used to come every day into my office, and I would give him information as to any of the transactions that might be done of any importance.

Q. Did you show the letter which Mr. McGreevy had sent you at that time to Mr. Valin?—A. I have no doubt I did show it. He may have come the next day or the day after. Mr. Valin, when he was in town, came every day, and there is no doubt I showed him the letter immediately after I saw him. He may have been there the same day.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Messrs. Kinipple & Morris prepared plans for the Cross-wall?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the settlement which took place when the services of Messrs. Kinipple & Morris were dispensed with?—A. I do remember it perfectly when that arrangement took place.

Q. Do you know if new plans for the Cross-wall were prepared by Mr. Perley, the Chief Engineer?—A. I think Mr. Perley or Mr. Boyd. I think it was under the supervision of Mr. Perley.

Q. There was a sum of money paid to Messrs. Kinipple & Morris by the Harbour Commissioners when the settlement took place?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us if Messrs. Kinipple & Morris have been paid for the plans which they prepared for the Cross-wall and which were not used?—A. Yes; they have been paid.

Q. In the settlement itself, which was, I suppose, a written agreement, that payment could be ascertained?—A. I believe so.

Q. Then, sir, these plans, you think, have been paid for, although they have not been used?—A. Yes.

Q. You cannot remember the amount that was paid for those plans?—A. I do not remember. It is marked in the agreement: "Specified there."

Q. Do you remember the tenders that were called for the Cross-wall?—A. I do.

Q. Do you remember if they had been opened in Quebec by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. They were opened in Quebec.

Q. Can you tell us if Mr. Perley was down in Quebec on the very day they were opened?—A. I am not able from my memory to tell you; but you could ascertain that by the Minutes in the books you have here in your possession. There is no doubt if he was there it is indicated in the minutes.

Q. Had you any knowledge that differences of opinion existed often between Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. and Messrs. Kinipple & Morris?—A. I know they used to complain of the plans and say: "We are not able to work on those plans." That was especially for the Graving Dock. They never worked under Kinipple & Morris at Quebec.

Q. Did it ever come to your knowledge that Larkin, Connolly & Co. tried to procure the dismissal of Kinipple & Morris?—A. It appeared to me so; but I have no proof of that fact.

Q. What do you know from your knowledge?—A. From my knowledge they used to complain of Kinipple & Morris continually.

Q. From your knowledge of the business of the Harbour Commissioners and from the intercourse you had as officer of the Harbour Commissioners, can you tell us if you know that Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. tried to procure the dismissal of Kinipple & Morris and Mr. Pilkington?—A. It is my opinion.

Q. Based on what?—A. What I heard. Complaints I used to hear.

Q. From whom?—A. The contractors.

Q. Do you remember of the contract for dredging work which was given in 1882?—A. I believe there was one given in that year. There was two contracts given for dredging. I do not remember the date or the year.

Q. Can you tell us if in your opinion, as being there on the spot, it is more difficult to throw material into the St. Lawrence or into the embankment?—A. I am not a judge, but, according to my opinion—

Mr. FITZPATRICK objected.

Q. Can you tell us how much Mr. Perley was paid as Chief Engineer of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I think one year he received $1,500, and other years $1,000. He may have received $1,500 for two years. I am not very sure.

Q. Is that in the book?—A. There is a resolution in each year awarding him so much.

Q. Is it to your knowledge that in the meetings of the Harbour Commissioners the Hon. Thomas McGreevy often used Sir Hector Langevin's name?—A. I remember that he did very often, "I will see Sir Hector," or "I will consult Sir Hector." The Commissioners used to say, well, Mr. McGreevy, you will see Sir Hector on such a subject. That was done very often.

Q. Did Sir Hector Langevin come down often to the Commissioners' meetings?—A. Sometimes, not often. It is always entered in the book.

Q. With whom, when he came, was he in the habit of going?—A. With Mr. McGreevy. He used to come with Mr. McGreevy.

Q. Can you remember some occasion in connection with contracts that Mr. McGreevy specially used Sir Hector Langevin's name?—A. I have no special occasion in my mind.

Q. He was in the habit of using his name when there was a difficulty or a difference of opinion?—A. I did not see that very often to my knowledge.

Q. You said Mr. McGreevy's position in the Harbour Commissioners was a leading one?—A. I considered him the leading man.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Were the members of the Commission aware of the relations of Sir Hector Langevin and Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I believe so.

Q. Was it notorious in Quebec?—A. It was. In my opinion it was. I do not say in Quebec; I say amongst the Commissioners.

Q. Will you state to the Committee whether to your knowledge this influenced the Commissioners when Mr. McGreevy used the name of the Minister of Public Works?—A. I believe it did.

Q. Have you any reasons to give the Committee why you have that belief?—A. Because on many occasions he was requested to see the Minister himself and was coming to Ottawa, and was asked "If he would be kind enough to see the Minister and when you return be kind enough to bring us the answer" when there was some important business to transact.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Have you got any recollection of any difficulty or difference of opinion that took place between Mr. Boyd and Larkin, Connolly & Co. about a reduction on dredging for materials thrown into the St. Lawrence?—A. Yes; I heard of it, but my recollection is that it was repaid to them. That is all I know about it. It may not be true..

Q. You have no personal recollection or knowledge?—A. I have no personal knowledge.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You were custodian of the plans, Mr. Verret?—A. No, Sir. The plans generally were sent to the Engineer's office, after they were signed.

Q. Who had the contract plan of the Cross-wall?—A. The contract plans of the Cross-wall were signed by the contractors, the chairman, myself and the notary, and afterwards sent back to me and I used to send the plans to the Engineer's office. They were left there.

Q. Speaking particularly as to the Cross-wall, were there signed plans signed by the officials of the Harbour Commissioners and by the contractors?—A. Are you referring to the Kinipple and Morris plans?

Q. The plans on which the work was executed?—A. Certainly.

Q. They were signed plans?—A. They were signed plans.

Q. And those signed plans were handed over to the Engineer's office?—A. Yes.

Q. Who would be the custodian of them?—A. It was generally the Resident Engineer. For a long time Mr. Boyd and then, when he died, Mr. Boswell.

Q. It would then be in Mr. Boswell's custody that the signed plan would be?—A. No doubt.

Q. They were out of your Department after the contract was made?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Did you have a personal knowledge that the plans on which the work was executed were signed?—A. They were signed.

Q. And produced before the notary when the contract was made?—A. Yes, Sir, and signed by the notary himself.

Q. Then, there was a change. Was an entirely new plan prepared by Mr. Perley or Mr. Boyd for the Cross-wall, or did they alter or vary the Kinipple and Morris plans?—A. No, Sir, it was a new plan.

Q. When you discharged Messrs. Kinipple and Morris from being the Chief Engineers, did you retain them as Consulting Engineers?—A. Yes, Sir, for three years. It may have been only two, but I am not sure. I think it is three.

Q. Terminating when?—A. I think in 1889. I believe so.

Q. Did you have occasion to consult them, or were not their functions exercised at all?—A. They were not consulted.

Q. And you paid them $1,000 as a retaining fee, which was dropped after that had gone on for two or three years?—A. Yes.

Q. Having no occasion to consult them?—A. No occasion to consult them.

Q. There had been a good deal of difficulty before they were discharged as to the work executed, or attempted to be executed, under their plans?—A. There was.

Q. And their plans had been the occasion of great trouble to the commissioners?—A. Yes.

Q. In regard to that, was there reasonable ground for changing the Chief Engineer?—A. I am not prepared to give my opinion on that subject. There may have been ground or not.

Q. You do not desire to express an opinion as to that?—A. I do not desire to express my opinion on that.

Q. I will not press you further. Now, with regard to the tenders for the Cross-wall, were the tenders you spoke of as having been opened, opened in Quebec?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. What was done with them after they were opened? Do you remember—does the correspondence in your office show?—A. Everything is in the minute books. Generally they were sent to the Chief Engineer to report, but you will see by the minute book what was done, as everything is there.

Q. Was there sufficient information on the opening of the tenders to ascertain from them which was probably highest or the lowest? Did you get a general idea?—A. We used to read the tenders. It was a printed form and filled up by the tenderers. I used to read only that part and everything was then referred to the Engineer.

Q. But was there sufficient knowledge in the tenders, sufficient figuring I mean, to show who was the highest or the lowest?—A. There was.

Q. There was a general idea as to how the tenders stood?—A. Oh, yes; there was a lump sum at the bottom.

Q. There was a general idea, as you have stated, at the time the tenders were opened in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. You spoke of Mr. McGreevy as being a leading member of the Commission. Do you know of anything connected with his association with Sir Hector, beyond the mere reference of matters to him as the most convenient member of the Board to get information?—A. No, sir; nothing.

Q. Nothing more?—A. Nothing more.

Q. He would be going to Ottawa and the other members of the Board not, and it would be referred to him to get any particular information from Sir Hector?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Nothing more than that?—A. Nothing more than that, that I know.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. The chairman of the Harbour Commission was also in the habit of coming to Ottawa?—A. He was a member of Parliament for at least six years.

Q. Until 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. He had therefore as much business to come to Ottawa as Mr. McGreevy? To your knowledge, Mr. McGreevy had no other business calling him to Ottawa than his duties as member of Parliament?—A. That is what I believe, sir.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. When were you first appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Board of Harbour Commissioners of Quebec?—A. In 1877.

Q. And you remained in that capacity until 1890?—A. Yes; February, 1890.

Q. You were then appointed Auditor of the Provincial Government at Quebec?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. And you now occupy that position?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Do you remember when the contract for the South-wall was let?—A. I do not remember that.

Q. You remember the date?—A. No; I do not remember that.

Q. It was on the 18th January, 1887, was it not?—A. I do not remember.

Q. The minutes will show that?—A. The minutes will show that.

Q. Do you remember if any work had been done under the contract of October, 1887, by Gallagher?—A. I think there was some work done, but I do not believe there was much.

Q. Do you think there was any plant of any sort there on the ground for the purposes of the work?—A. I am not sure, sir. I think there was, but I am not sure.

Q. Was there much?—A. I cannot say; I was not in the habit of examining or inspecting the works. It is not my business.

Q. The question of the amount of work done and the material on the work would not be considered an element in your calculation as to whether or not the security should be returned?—A. Sometimes it might. It was always a consideration that if more work had been done and more drawback held back that you had a better security.

Q. Do you remember that the last time you were here having a conversation with Mr. Stuart in reference to the amount of the work done and the plant on the ground?—A. I believe so.

Q. Do you remember stating to him that there was a large amount of work done and that there was considerable plant on the ground, and what this security was?—A. Yes; but I was alluding to the other works. At that time the drawback on the Cross-wall was about $30,000 or $40,000. When I spoke to Mr. Stuart we were discussing about Larkin, Connolly & Co. and the firm.

Q. And not about the South-wall?—A. Not about the South-wall.

Q. You did not tell Mr. Stuart that by the substitution of the security the Commissioners ran no risk whatever?—A. I did so, and I can repeat it. I am perfectly satisfied that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had drawbacks, plant and materials to cover a very large amount, and that I saw myself there was no risk whatever, but I was not the man to surrender a deposit of that description.

Q. So that you are of the opinion that at the time the deposit was surrendered in 1887 the Commissioners ran no risk by changing the security?—A. I am prepared to make that statement.

Q. You are absolutely certain?—A. Yes; but I was alluding to the amount in the hands of the Commissioners representing the drawbacks.

Q. I am now referring to the question of the conversion of security. Are you still of the opinion that no risk was run in changing the security?—A. I am prepared to say that.

Q. It is your personal opinion, and was so at the time?—A. Yes; at the time.

Q. Therefore in your opinion, supposing the securities were being changed with the consent of Mr. Thomas McGreevy, there was nothing done by him at that time that would in any way jeopardize the position of the Harbour Commission, in so far as their security was concerned?—A. Not so far as the security was concerned, it is true.

Q. When this letter, Exhibit "L" was produced here, it was produced by Mr. Woods. He is the gentleman to whom you handed the letter you received from Mr. Murphy, purporting to come from Mr. McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Therefore, if that is the letter which you handed to Mr. Woods at that time, and produced by him here, have you any doubt that that is the same letter you received from Mr. Murphy?—A. I am sure it is not the same letter, because the word "no" is gone. The letter was under envelope and put in the cash-box, with the receipt of Mr. Murphy.

Q. Do you say this is not the letter, or do you say it is the letter given to you with the word "no" taken from it?—A. I say the letter in my possession and given to me had the word "no" on it.

Q. Will you say whether this is the identical letter with the word "no" taken out?—A. I say it is a letter written by the same man and signed by the same gentleman.

Q. Therefore, this letter is not the same letter handed to you by Murphy in 1887?—I am perfectly satisfied it is the same handwriting and the same hand, but the word "no" is not on it.

Q. I want you to say whether or not this letter or any part of this letter formed part of the letter handed to you by Murphy?—A. There is no doubt that the letter handed to me was the same handwriting, written by the same man, but the word "no" is not on it.

Q. It is quite clear you do not understand me. I want you to say whether this letter, Exhibit "L," now produced, is the same letter shown to you by Murphy, and in the same handwriting, except the word "no"?—A. It was not shown to me; it was handed to me.

Q. Well, handed to you?—A. It was under an envelope, and it is not the same letter.

Q. It is not the same letter?—A. It cannot be the same letter, because the word "no" is not on it.

Q. So that it is not the same letter?—A. It cannot be the same letter, for the word "no" is gone.

Q. Can you show us where the word "no" is omitted?—A. I have nothing to say about that.

Q. I beg your pardon; just look at that letter, and say whether or not the word "no" has ever been upon it?—A. I cannot look at it.

Q. Cannot you say whether the word "no" has ever been upon that letter?—A. I cannot say if the word "no" has been on that letter.

Q. You cannot say?—A. I know the letter which was given to me had the word "no" upon it.

Q. You have not got sufficient intelligence to look at that letter and say whether or not the word "no" has ever been effaced from it?—A. I won't be insulted by you; I call for the protection of the Committee.

Mr. LAVERGNE.—Don't insult the witness.

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—I was not insulting the witness.

Hon. Mr. TUPPER.—He has a perfect right to ask the question.

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—I am quite willing to take back the expression, if the Committee think it ought to be done. I ask you, Mr. Witness, to say whether or not upon an examination of this document you can state to the Committee that the word "no" was ever there or not?—A. I am not able to state that. You see this is a letter of 1887, and it was put in a box, and I never saw it again until when I was first called as a witness, and I was surprised and astonished when that letter was handed to me by Mr. Woods. I said: "This is a mystery to me; the word "no" is gone, or it has been effaced."

Q. Does the appearance of the document indicate to you whether or not the word "no" has ever been effaced by any means whatever?—A. As it appears, there is no indication whatever that the word "no" has been effaced that one could vouch for. If you want to know that, I am ready to state it.

Q. In so far as this document is concerned, it does not appear to you that the word "no" was ever in it. Is that what you say?—A. You ask me if it has been effaced?

Q. Was it ever in it, as far as the appearance of the document is concerned?—A. No; there is a space there where the word "no" could be placed small enough if you crowded it in. The word "no" could be put in if it was crowded in.

Q. Well, if it was effaced, how did it disappear?—A. I don't know, sir; I am unable to answer that myself.

Q. You handed this document, I think you said, to Mr. Woods?—A. With all the documents which were in the envelope.

Q. At all events, you handed the cheque and the document you received from Mr. Murphy purporting to come from Mr. McGreevy, and that document remained in the custody of Mr. Woods from that time up to the time he produced it here?—A. I never saw it since.

Q. So, if there was any substitution of documents it must have been when it was in the custody of Mr. Woods?—A. I think so.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. Do I understand you to say you examined the document at the time you handed it to Mr. Woods?—A. No; before. When I received it I was in my own private office; Mr. Woods had another office, and when I received the document I read it and I prepared the receipt which Mr. Murphy signed and gave me the other cheque. I went down to the office of Mr. Woods, opened the cash box and took the deposit receipt out. All the documents were enclosed in an envelope with the deposit receipt.

Q. The three documents, Exhibits "H" "J" and "K," were all handed to Mr. Woods, with the exception of Exhibit "L"?—A. Yes.

Q. You read that document, Exhibit "L," carefully, of course, when you got it from Mr. Murphy?—A. Yes; I did.

Q. And when it was put in your hands before the Committee a moment ago you read it carefully also?—A. I did.

Q. And when you read that document you read it with as much care as when it was given to you by Mr. Murphy?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Let the stenographer read the document as he read it before this Committee?

The stenographer then read from his notes—as transcribed on page 465 of the Evidence—the letter as read by the witness and the remarks of Mr. Fitzpatrick at the time.

Q. When you read this document you passed over the word "the" did you not?—A. I am not prepared to say I did, but according to that I did.

Q. But you believe you did not?—A. I believe I did not.

Q. And you are just about as certain you did not pass the word "the" as you were the word "no." It is just about the same is it not?—A. Yes, about the same.

Q. Now, when that document was handed to you by Mr. Murphy, Mr. Murphy told you this, that Mr. McGreevy saw no objections to the document being handed over—to the security being changed?—A. He did not say it then, it was before. He came repeatedly to me and asked me. He said: Mr. McGreevy was perfectly satisfied I should make the change and I said I wont accept anything but a written document from Mr. McGreevy.

Q. That was your impression that Murphy had led you to believe, previous to seeing this document, that Mr. McGreevy had no objection whatever to the change being made?—A. Yes.

Q. Therefore, when you got this document from Murphy, your impression then was it would bear out what Murphy had already said that there was no objection to the change?—A. There was no objection to recommending a substitution or something to that effect.

Q. You said a moment ago that the plans for Cross-wall were made by Kinipple & Morris?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say they were changed?—A. They were abandoned and new made by Mr. Boyd.

Q. Is it not a fact that the plans upon which the contract was allowed were Kinnipie & Morris's plans?—A. With a very few changes?

Q. Oh, yes I admit that. Is it not a fact that the plans that were sent to Ottawa in connection with the Cross-wall contract of 1882, were the plans of Kinipple & Morris?—A. The plans of Kinipple & Morris? I know they were sent to Ottawa but the plans upon which the contract was awarded were other plans. These plans were the same except that there was to be a slope, instead of a wall.

Q. The changes were very slight?—A. Very slight, yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember if the envelope in which Mr. Murphy handed you the letter Exhibit "L" was sealed up? A. I don't remember.

Q. Was there an address on it? A. There was an address I believe, but I do not remember that.

By Mr. Edgar:

Q. You say that other plans were made for the Cross-wall by the Public Works Department did you not? A. By Mr. Boyd and Mr. Perley I believe.

Q. They were held by Mr. Boyd under the supervision of Mr. Perley? A. I believe so.

Q. Some plans have been sent up here recently by the Harbour Commissioners—the plans made by the Harbour Commissioners and some others I think. Do you know whether these were the plans that were made for the new contract? A. I believe so, sir. If they are signed by the chairman and the contractors they are the plans.

Q. They are not signed by the Department? A. It may have been changed afterwards.

Q. Do you know whether there were plans annexed to that particular contract or not? A. No doubt they were not.

Q. There are some drawings here between Larkin, Connolly & Co. and the Harbour Commissioners. There are copies of some of them here in which there are tracings annexed. Now the copy of the contract which we have here which came up from Quebec has no tracings annexed to it. Do you know whether the original had it or not? A. I believe the original must have had the plans; the tracing may have been only for the information of the Harbour Commissioners. I don't remember these things.

Q. The original contract is with Charlebois the notary? A. Yes; for the Cross-wall.

Q. Do you know of any other plans besides these sent up here that were made by the Public Works Department? A. No, sir, I do not.

By Mr. German:

Q. There is something to my mind a little mysterious on this Blue Book. Here is the form of tender which was prepared for the contractors:

1st. A Quay-wall for the Wet dock, about 880 feet in length.

2nd. A Quay-wall for the tidal harbour, about 850 feet in length.

3rd. A facing to the present wharves, about 500 feet in length.

An entrance to the Wet-dock of the dimensions shown on the plans, two coffer dams and other works.

I want to know if the Quay-wall for the tidal harbour, and the facing for the present wharves come into the Cross-wall contract?—A. Yes.

Q. What is the South-wall, please?—A. It is for a sewer.

By the Chairman :

Q. When Mr. Murphy left to go to Mr. McGreevy to get his consent to the substitution of security did you expect to see a letter from Mr. McGreevy with the words "there would be objection?"—A. Not at all. I said "get, a written document or a recommendation from Mr. McGreevy."

Q. That is not my question. When Mr. Murphy left to go to Mr. McGreevy did you expect to receive a letter from Mr. McGreevy stating there would be no objection?—A. He told me that he would bring a letter, and I expected that he would.

Q. That is what you expected?—A. Yes.

Q. When Mr. Murphy came back from Mr. McGreevy were you under the same expectation?—A. Yes, because he told me: This is not the document at all.

Q. What would be the object for changing the letter and taking out the word "no." You say yourself you could see no objection to the substitution?—A. I do not know.

Q. Mr. Langelier has asked you whether Mr. Valin, Chairman of the Board, was not a member of Parliament. You said "Yes." Was he, in 1887?—A. No.

Q. But he was before?—A. Before.

Q. Is it known that Mr. Valin was a practical man in relation to public works?—A. Yes.

Q. Was he a contractor?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you read that letter hastily, or read and re-read it so as to be perfectly certain of its contents?—A. Perfectly certain that the word "no" was on the letter handed to me.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Did you ever have a conversation with Thomas McGreevy on the subject of this letter?—A. It is possible, but I cannot remember it. Mr. McGreevy came very often to my office, and it is possible.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Do I understand you to say that at the time this substitution of securities was made that there was ample money in the hands of the Commission to warrant them in making this substitution?—A. Quite satisfied.

Q. There was no earthly object in any subterfuge. Did you know of any object?—A. Because it was irregular to do the thing without the consent of the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. Would there be any object in Mr. McGreevy using subterfuge in writing a letter of that kind?—A. I do not know.

Q. In view of the fact that you held ample security?—A. It was irregular to surrender the security and I was wanting a voucher.

By the Chairman :

Q. Was it irregular for Mr. McGreevy to surrender that security?—A. I believe it was, and if I had been in his place I would not have done so.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. You, however, referred Mr. Murphy to him to get this done?—A. I told Mr. Murphy, "I will do it if Mr. McGreevy will. I do not like to be an obstruction. You say the firm wants it for your own works and if Mr. McGreevy recommends it I will do it."

Q. Was the substitution of the cheque made known to the Board or discussed by the Board?—A. Never.

Q. Did you ever mention it to any other member of the Board?—A. Never.

Q. Are you aware whether any other member of the Board knew it?—A. No.

Q. When you stated to Mr. Murphy to apply to the Board for the substitution of securities, what was the objection of Mr. Murphy?—A. He did not like to do it.

Q. Did he state any reason?—A. I do not think he did. I believe he may have told me that there would be objection and he did not like to do it.

Q. You stated that when the tenders for the Cross-wall were received and opened by the Harbour Commissioners—I do not know by whom—you said you had an idea of the relative positions of those tenders?—A. On account of the additions.

Q. Who made the additions?—A. Each tenderer.

Q. How could they make the addition? It was only a schedule tender?—A. They could make additions.

Q. There was no quantities in the tenders. There were only prices per cubic yard?—A. The tenders are here and they can speak by themselves.

Q. You said that you had means of knowing the relative positions of these tenders, that they were opened by the Harbour Commissioners before they were sent in to the Chief Engineer. Who was the Chief Engineer then?—A. At the time it was Mr. Perley.

Q. But it was before they were sent in to the Department of Public Works?—A. Mr. Perley was Chief Engineer of the Harbour Commissioners at that time too.

Q. Can you state if you have had any information while the tenders were in Quebec and before they were sent to the Department of Public Works of the relative positions of the tenderers?—A. I had none myself.

Q. Then how did you come to state that to the Committee?—A. The Commissioners could have done so. The tenders were before them for hours.

Q. You do not remember what kind of information you had to warrant you in stating what you have stated?—A. I do not remember if there was a lump sum. Some of them were lump sums, and there were additions. It would be necessary, there were so many contracts, to examine which were lump sums.

Q. That statement you made is not quite correct?—A. I think I am correct. It may be that there was no lump sum for that contract, and that it was schedule prices.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You say there was a drawback for a large amount to the credit of Larkin, Connolly & Co. at the time of this surrender?—A. Yes.

Q. Who were the contractors for the South-wall?—A. Gallagher & Murphy.

Q. This guarantee of $25,000 was the property of Gallagher & Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. And the drawback for other works was the property of Larkin, Connolly & Co.—A. They were all the same firm doing the work. The security was Mr. Connolly's security.

Q. The cheque that was substituted was the cheque of O. E. Murphy endorsed by Nicholas Connolly, not the firm's name?—A. Not the firm's name.

Q. Was it customary to make such surrender before the work was finished?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was that the only time?—A. I think it had been done once, and that the drawback had been reimbursed.

Q. In this case the drawback did not belong to the same contractors?—A. That is true.

Q. In reading the letter which was put in your hands, the stenographic notes show you did not pronounce the word "the." In reading it did you see the word?—
A. I am sure of that.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. You just said a moment ago, in the examination in chief, that although the work was being done by Gallagher & Murphy you had no doubt the same firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. were doing the work?—A. I am sure of that.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Look at these six sheets, evidently of the same series, and one of a different series, and say if you recognize these plans at all. I may say these are the plans sent up to us as the plans of the Cross-wall. They are not signed, and there is nothing to show by whom they were prepared?—A. I do not remember; the plans that were signed by me must be in existence somewhere. They may be working plans. They are not kept by the notary.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You know of no other plans than those of the Cross-wall being in the office down there?—A. I do not know these plans at all. Other plans are in existence, and the real plans are signed by me and the chairman and the contractors. They may have been surrendered to the contractors, and they may be working plans. They generally gave them working plans, but I cannot remember.

Mr. NICHOLAS K. CONNOLLY recalled.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Mr. Verret thinks the contractors had the plan for the Cross-wall; had they?—A. They had plans during the construction of the work.

Q. Had they any given to them at the time of the contract?—A. Immediately after the contract being signed.

Q. They got them immediately after the contract was signed. Were they tracings?—A. They were tracings; we had working drawings given to us from time to time.

Q. Whom did you get them from?—A. Mr. Boyd, I think, and Mr. Boswell.

Q. At the time of tendering for the Cross-wall, had you any plans to refer to or have you seen any plans?—A. Yes; I think these were the plans, although there were no plans signed for the Cross-wall. That is my recollection.

Q. You think these were the plans you saw when you were tendering?—A. That is my recollection of it; Mr. Boswell could say.

Q. Where are the plans you had from time to time?—A. I think they are in the box returned to Mr. Boswell. We returned a great many of the plans. Under these circumstances, we make plans for our own convenience, so as not to bother Mr. Boswell. That is working plans.

Q. You are sure you haven't any of them?—A. I do not think we have any of them.

Q. When did you return them?—A. As the work was being finished.

Q. As each portion was being finished?—A. That is my recollection. Mr. Hume always had charge of our plans.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Was Mr. Larkin a partner in the South-wall contract?

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY recalled.

By the Chairman :

Q. Do you still persist in your refusal to produce papers, as you stated before the Sub-Committee?—A. For the reasons I gave there, I do.

Q. Your reasons are the same as yesterday?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Have you any objection to this Committee having access to any of your books for the purpose of this enquiry?—A. No; I have not.

Q. What is the reason that you object to the production of any of your books?—A. My objection to the production of books of account are that they contain transactions with several parties in business in Quebec, and that they contain nothing that I know of with Larkin, Connolly & Co. They contain an account between myself and Thomas McGreevy which subsequently has been settled in court.

Q. What court?—A. The Superior Court of Quebec.

Q. What case?—A. In the case of McGreevy vs. McGreevy. The abstract of the account has been sent to the court in my pleading, and therefore his account in that book would be nothing. It is before the court. Then as to the other accounts, I have objections because the Counsel for Mr. Thomas McGreevy—Mr. Fitzpatrick and Mr. Stuart—are acting on behalf of Thomas McGreevy in those cases which are now pending, and the examination of these books would give them an insight into certain things, as I think should not be made known here until such time as the case comes on.

Mr. STUART.—There is no case pending between Thomas and Robert McGreevy in the court of first instance. There is a case before the Court of Appeal, and there is no information which we could get from those books that we could use there—or it is very improbable that we could.

By the Chairman :

Q. Will you show your books to the two Accountants?—A. I will do that. I have no objection to going further than that—that in addition to the experts, Mr. Osler and Mr. Geoffrion should have access to them.

The Committee then adjourned.

---

HOUSE OF COMMONS, FRIDAY, 17th July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. ST. GEORGE BOSWELL, sworn:

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You are in the employ of the Quebec Harbour Commission?—A. I am.

Q. You are their Engineer?—A. Yes.

Q. Since how long?—A. I have been in the employ of the Quebec Harbour Commission since 1877.

Q. In different capacities?—A. In different capacities.

Q. What was your capacity in 1877?—A. Assistant Engineer.

Q. Under whose orders?—A. Under Mr. Pilkington.

Q. Afterwards, when Mr. Pilkington left?—A. I was general assistant to Mr. Boyd; that was in 1883, I think.

Q. Until Mr. Boyd's death?—A. Until Mr. Boyd's death.

Q. Then, you took his place?—A. I was Resident Engineer under Mr. Perley as Chief Engineer.

Q. And when Mr. Perley resigned, you became Chief Engineer?—A. Yes, Chief Engineer.

Q. Did you bring with you the books and vouchers in connection with the amounts that were paid for the dredging in the harbour?—A. I brought nothing with the detailed estimates.

Q. For what years?—A. For the whole period during which the dredging was carried on.

Q. These estimates naturally would show the totals that were paid?—A. Certainly.

Q. Will you file them?—A. We cannot file them; they are the originals. We can give you certified copies, or anything like that.

Q. Are they very bulky?—A. No.

Q. Please produce them to the Committee? (While witness was procuring the documents, the next witness was called.)

M. P. V. VALIN assermenté :

Par M. Geoffrion :

Q. Vous résidez à Québec?—R. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Vous avez été membre du parlement de la Puissance?—R. Oui.

Q. Et de la province aussi?—R. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Quand avez-vous été représentant pour la Puissance?—R. J'ai été élu la première fois en 1878.

Q. Jusqu'à quand avez-vous siégé?—R. Jusqu'à l'élection de 1887.

Q. Avez-vous été aussi attaché à la commission du havre de Québec?—R. Oui, pendant à peu près douze ans.

Q. En quelle qualité? Avez-vous été simplement membre ou avez-vous exercé quelque fonction?—R. J'étais président de la commission.

Q. Pendant les douze années?—R. Oui, à peu près tout le temps.

Q. Quand avez-vous cessé d'être président?—R. J'ai cessé après les dernières élections fédérales de cette année.

Q. Etes-vous encore commissaire?—A. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Avez-vous eu connaissance du contrat qui a été donné pour la construction du South-wall?—R. Oui, monsieur, j'ai signé moi-même le contrat.

Q. Vous rappelez-vous quels étaient les contracteurs?—R. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Qui étaient-ils?—R. C'était messieurs Gallagher et Murphy.

Q. Vous rappelez-vous si, accompagnant le contrat ou après la signature du contrat, une garantie a été exigée des contracteurs par voie de dépôt entre les mains de la commission du havre?—R. Oui, monsieur, un billet de $25,000 a été donné sur la banque Union.

Q. Un billet, dites-vous?—R. Un chèque accepté par la banque Union.

Q. Avez-vous vu vous-même ce chèque?—R. Oui, monsieur, je l'ai examiné moi-même dans mes mains.

Q. Était-ce un chèque ou un certificat?—R. Je crois que c'était un chèque, au meilleur de ma connaissance.

Q. Votre impression c'est que c'est un chèque?—R. Oui, et l'acceptation de la banque était évidente. Je m'en rappellerais mieux si on me montrait le chèque.

Q. Savez-vous si cette garantie, dans tous les cas, est restée entre les mains de la commission du havre pendant toute la durée de l'exécution des travaux?—R. Non, monsieur. Un jour, je suis arrivé au bureau, et monsieur Verret m'a dit que M. Murphy lui avait fait la demande de changer cette sûreté et de prendre un chèque de la compagnie.

Q. Qui vous a parlé comme cela?—R. M. Verret. Il m'a demandé mon opinion là-dessus, comme président de la commission. Je lui ai dit que je ne croyais pas que nous avions le droit de faire telle chose sans le soumettre à la commission, à une assemblée des commissaires. M. Verret m'a dit: J'ai recommandé à M. Murphy d'écrire une lettre aux commissaires sur le sujet, mais M. Murphy m'a dit qu'il ne voulait pas que cela paraisse devant les commissaires. M. Verret a ajouté: J'ai conscellé à M. Murphy de me donner une lettre de M. McGreevy comme étant le président du comité des finances de l'institution et qu'il me conseillerait de le faire.

Q. Est-ce que je comprends que M. Verret a dit qu'il recommandait la chose?—R. M. Verret m'a dit que s'il avait une lettre de M. McGreevy, il croyait que nous pourrions faire la chose. J'ai dit à M. Verret que je lui défendais de faire la chose à moins qu'il eût une lettre de M. McGreevy satisfaisante sur ce point-là.

Q. Vous parlez de Thomas McGreevy?—R. Oui. Je lui ai dit que je verrais moi-même M. McGreevy sur le sujet. Ensuite, j'ai vu M. McGreevy et je lui ai parlé de l'affaire. J'ai dit à M. McGreevy que je ne croyais pas que nous devrions faire telle chose sans la soumettre à l'assemblée des commissaires. Il m'a dit: Oh! vous devez consentir à cela, parce que ce sont de bons garçons, et nous devons les aider autant que possible. Mais je lui ai dit: Comment est-ce que cela s'arrangera vis-à-vis du gouvernement, parce que c'est une sûreté qui concerne le gouvernement? Il m'a dit: Je verrai que tout soit bien. Alors, la chose est là restée pendant quelque temps. Je ne sais pas combien de jours se sont écoulés, mais, un bon matin, je suis arrivé au bureau, et M. Verret est arrivé et il m'a dit: Je suis un peu en retard; j'arrive de la banque Union et j'ai fait l'échange des sûretés. Alors je lui ai dit: Avez-vous eu la lettre de M. McGreevy et est-elle suffisante; est-elle satisfaisante? Il m'a dit: Oui, sous tous rapports. Je lui ai dit: Montrez-moi donc le document que vous avez reçu en retour et la lettre. Alors, il a pris le document en question; il me l'a mis entre les mains ainsi que la lettre. Alors j'ai mis la main dans la poche de ma veste pour prendre mes lunettes et j'ai vu que mes lunettes n'y étaient pas ce matin-là. C'était une veste que je n'avais pas coutume de porter, et mes lunettes n'étaient pas là. Alors j'ai ouvert la lettre, et M. Verret m'a dit: Je vais vous la lire. J'ai dit: C'est bien, lisez-moi-la, et je tenais le document dans ma main en même temps qu'il m'a lu la lettre.

Q. Eh bien! sans exiger de vous que vous répétiez les mots mêmes de la lettre, que comportait la lettre d'après la lecture qui vous en a été faite?—R. Eh bien! la lettre disait ceci: I see no objection to accepting so and so. Je pourrais m'en rappeler en voyant la lettre, parce que M. McGreevy lui-même m'avait dit qu'il n'avait pas d'objection aucune, et qu'il donnerait le document demandé à M. Verret.

Q. Qu'est-ce que vous avez fait? Vous dites que vous aviez le document dans les mains. Qu'est-ce que vous en avez fait? C'était le chèque ou billet que M. Murphy vous avait donné pour substituer au certificat. Avez-vous remis le tout à M. Verret?—R. Oui, et je lui ai dit d'en prendre bien soin, de prendre bonne note et bien soin de ces documents-là. M. Verret m'a dit là-dessus: J'ai pris une liste des reçus et j'ai pris note de tout ce qui a été fait, et j'ai mis cela dans la même enveloppe que le billet en question ou le chèque en question, afin que tout soit là et qu'on puisse y référer à l'avenir si on en a besoin.

Q. Eh bien! M. Valin, est-ce que M. McGreevy prenait une position prééminente dans la commission du havre? Est-ce qu'il paraissait conduire?—R. Oui, monsieur. Il paraissait d'opinion à faire le tout, parce que dans les premiers temps que j'ai été président de la commission, je voyais que M. McGreevy prenait le devant sur beaucoup de choses. Je lui en ai fait la remarque, et il m'a dit: Je dois vous dire que je suis l'homme de confiance de M. Langevin; il lui faut un homme de confiance, et il faut autant que ce soit moi qu'un autre.

Q. Avez-vous eu des conversations avec sir Hector Langevin à ce sujet; au sujet de la position que prenait M. McGreevy dans la commission?—R. Oui, monsieur, j'ai eu plusieurs entrevues à ce sujet avec sir Hector.

Q. Voulez-vous raconter ou expliquer au comité quelle a été la nature de ces entrevues?—R. J'ai dit à sir Hector que M. McGreevy prenait cette attitude en toutes choses et qu'il m'avait dit qu'il communiquait avec le ministre. Je lui ai demandé quelles étaient ses vues sur ce point-là, sur certains votes que nous avions à faire dans la commission, par exemple, quant au South-wall. J'ai dit au ministre alors, que le nom de Gallagher et Murphy pourrait peut-être créer des embarras à la société Larkin, Connolly et Compagnie parce qu'il était un des membres et que je ne voyais pas là que c'était une société séparée, et que cela pourrait créer des embarras.

Il m'a dit : J'en ai parlé avec M. McGreevy de cela ; votez pour cela et suivez donc M. McGreevy, et je vous dis que tout sera bien. Il m'a dit : Au reste, quand vous aurez quelque chose comme cela, suivez donc M. McGreevy ; vous savez qu'on se voit souvent et on se consulte ensemble. Alors j'ai toujours considéré que j'avais l'opinion de M. Langevin dans la chaise qu'occupait M. McGreevy à mon côté, et chaque fois qu'il y avait un vote important, j'ai toujours consulté M. McGreevy, parce que je croyais que cela renfermait les vues de M. Langevin.

Q. Cela, c'est après toutes les conversations que vous avez eues ?—R. C'est à peu près toujours la même répétition. J'ai eu plusieurs conversations avec le ministre. Chaque fois qu'il y avait quelque chose d'important, je le consultais, et j'ai toujours eu à peu près la même réponse.

Q. Eh bien ! vous dites que vous l'avez consulté. L'avez-vous consulté spécialement sur ce contrat du South-wall ?—R. Oui, monsieur, parce que je croyais que cela pourrait entraîner des difficultés comme je viens de vous dire, parce que je voyais qu'un des associés se séparait des autres, et puis, alors, il m'a dit de ne pas être en trouble à propos de l'affaire, que tout était bien.

Q. L'avez-vous consulté sur d'autres affaires que le South-wall ?—R. Oui, monsieur, je l'ai consulté sur d'autres affaires, très souvent.

Q. Avez-vous eu occasion de le consulter, de causer avec le ministre, à propos du contrat de dragage, en 1887 ?—R. Oui, monsieur, je lui ai parlé de cela. Il m'a dit qu'il croyait que d'après les informations qu'il avait eues, il croyait que le changement était désirable, et qu'il en avait parlé, dit-il, à M. McGreevy et qu'il croyait que c'était la meilleure chose à faire.

Par le président :

Q. Vous avez dit que vous aviez consulté le ministre sur le dragage ?—R. Oui, je lui ai expliqué l'affaire sur le dragage.

Q. Lui avez-vous donné votre avis ?—R. Oui, je lui ai donné mon opinion.

Q. Mais il y avait une différence d'opinion entre vous et M. McGreevy ?—R. Eh bien ! c'était à titre de renseignement seulement. Je voulais parler au ministre pour savoir s'il approuvait la chose.

Q. Avez-vous donné des renseignements contraires à M. McGreevy ?—R. Non, je voulais savoir si c'était son avis, parce que je ne voulais rien faire jusqu'à ce que la commission fût renseignée, parce que c'était de l'argent voté par le parlement.

Par M. Geoffrion :

Q. Mais vous-même, avez-vous exprimé vos vues, ou bien, n'étant pas homme de l'art, avez-vous donné votre propre opinion sur ces contrats-là ?—R. Voulez-vous dire au ministre ?

Q. Oui ?—R. Je ne m'en rappelle pas.

Q. Vous rappelez-vous s'il y a eu quelque chose de changé relativement au niveau de l'égoût qui fait partie du South-wall ?—R. D'après le contrat que j'ai signé il devait rester intact suivant le contrat, et on nous a jamais informé, à la commission, qu'il y avait un changement. Je n'ai jamais été informé, ni la commission n'a jamais été informée de cela, à ma connaissance. Ce n'a été que tout dernièrement que j'ai appris la chose. J'en ai fait la remarque à l'ingénieur actuel, et M. Boswell a commencé par me dire qu'il n'en connaissait rien. J'ai insisté, et alors il m'a dit que oui, il en connaissait quelque chose, mais que ce n'était pas son affaire à lui de le dire, parce qu'il était employé sous M. Perley, et que c'était à lui, M. Perley, de le dire.

Q. Avez-vous eu des conversations avec Thomas McGreevy aussi à propos de Larkin, Connolly et Cie. ?—R. J'en ai eu plusieurs.

Q. Voulez-vous dire sur quelles matières roulaient ces conversations ?—R. La conversation a roulé quelques fois sur les contracteurs, surtout en 1887. Je lui ai demandé si les contracteurs lui avaient donné de l'argent pour aider à faire les élections. Il m'a dit qu'il était très content ; qu'ils avaient été très généreux, et puis que c'était d'excellents garçons, qu'on devait en avoir soin, et qu'ils avaient souscrit largement, et que sir Hector en était très content. J'ai eu d'autres conversations quand nous avons nommé M. Boswell comme ingénieur en chef. Je lui ai demandé alors : pourquoi nommer M. Boswell ingénieur-en-chef avant que M. Perley ait donné sa démission ? Je lui ai dit : Comment est-ce que sir Hector va voir cela ? Alors il m'a dit : Perley est craqué, et puis ça ne fait rien, il faut nommer Boswell, et sir Hector est au fait de cela. Alors il pensait que j'allais demander moi-même la nomination de M. Boswell, et M. Chabot, l'un des membres de la commission, m'a demandé si j'allais le faire ; il a dit que si je ne voulais pas le faire, il allait le faire lui-même. Alors j'ai dit : Faites-le, parce que moi, comme président, ce n'est pas ma place de faire des propositions de cette nature ; et à la séance suivante, M. Chabot, je crois, a proposé la nomination de M. Boswell ainsi que celle de M. Langevin. Au reste les minutes sont là et font foi de cela.

Q. M. Chabot est-il gérant général de la compagnie Richelieu ?—R. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Et quel est ce monsieur Langevin dont vous parlez et qui a été nommé en même temps que M. Boswell ?—R. C'est le fils de sir Hector.

Q. Est-ce Laforce Langevin ?—R. Oui, Laforce et quelque chose. Je ne sais pas au juste cependant. J'ai eu d'autres conversations également avec M. McGreevy dans le temps où nous avons démis les ingénieurs Kinipple et Morris, et je crois également, —je ne me rappelle pas très-bien cette circonstance-là, mais je crois également que j'ai consulté Sir Hector dans le temps, et M. McGreevy m'a dit qu'il fallait que Kinipple et Morris partent, parce qu'il était entendu que sir Hector nous donnerait M. Perley qui était l'ingénieur en chef du département des travaux publics, et que cela ne nous coûterait rien, et il m'a donné pour raison que les ingénieurs anglais coûtaient très cher et que nous aurions l'ingénieur du gouvernement qui ferait l'affaire pour rien. J'ai eu une foule d'autres conversations, dont je ne me rappelle pas très bien, mais je l'ai consulté très souvent.

Q. Quand M. McGreevy vous a dit que les contracteurs souscrivaient largement pour les élections, vous a-t-il donné les noms d'aucun des contracteurs en particulier ?—R. Non ; il m'a parlé d'une manière générale des contracteurs.

Q. Il ne vous a pas donné de noms ?—R. Non, j'ai compris qu'il comprenait tous les contracteurs.

Q. Mais quand vous dites " les contracteurs " était-ce Larkin, Connolly et Cie., ou tous les contracteurs en général ?—R. Non, Larkin Connolly et Cie. J'ai toujours compris que quand on avait quelque chose à référer à la compagnie nous nous adressions toujours à M. Murphy. M. Murphy était l'homme qui agissait dans le temps pour les affaires de la compagnie avec notre bureau. C'était à lui que nous faisons tous les paiements pour la compagnie Larkin Connolly et Cie., et pour Gallagher et Murphy, et quand nous avions quelque chose à régler nous nous adressions toujours à lui, et j'ai compris que spécialement parlant, on entendait par là aussi Murphy.

Q. Maintenant, avez-vous en aucun temps depuis que ces affaires-là se sont passées, été prié de signer une certaine déclaration en rapport avec les affaires du havre de Québec ?—R. De quelle part voulez-vous dire ?

Q. Je ne puis pas vous dire de quelle part. Je vous demande si vous avez été invité, à un moment donné, de faire une telle déclaration en rapport avec l'administration des affaires du havre de Québec ?—R. Oui. Au temps des élections dernières le ministre des Travaux Publics m'a dit un matin qu'il avait vu dans les journaux un certain morceau signé : " Avertissement à Sir Hector et trahi par les siens," ou quelque chose dans ce sens-là. Alors, il m'a fait monter chez lui, et il y avait quelques électeurs ; il m'a présenté l'article en question. Je ne l'avais pas vu. Il m'a demandé si l'article était vrai. Je lui ai dit qu'il était faux. Je lui ai dit : Il est faux parce qu'il contient un article disant que j'ai été voir un M. Fortier chez lui, et j'en'ai jamais été là ; il dit aussi que j'ai été chez M. Tarte. J'y suis allé à son invitation, après qu'il m'eût envoyé chercher pour le rencontrer, et M. Tarte m'a fait quelques demandes que je croyais parfaitement indiscrètes sur des conversations que nous avions eues ensemble, et j'ai dit à M. Tarte que ni lui ni d'autres ne sauraient mes conversations privées dans le temps actuel. C'est sur cela que le ministre m'a demandé si je signerais une lettre niant cela. J'ai dit : Je signerai un déniement de cet article là. Il m'a donné une lettre lui-même dont je n'ai pas trop compris le contenu ; j'ai cru que c'était un calmant dans un temps d'élection qui faisait plaisir au ministre plutôt qu'à autre chose, parce que je savais bien que le ministre savait que nous avions eu des conversations ensemble concernant la dite question. Je dois ajouter que j'ai été parfaitement pris par surprise, n'ayant pas eu le temps de réfléchir. J'ai cru que je donnais cela pour faire plaisir au ministre.

Q. Eh bien ! M. Valin, vous avez parlé de souscriptions politiques ou autres faites par Larkin, Connolly et Cie. En avez-vous reçu vous aussi des souscriptions d'eux ? —R. J'ai reçu des souscriptions, et je vais vous en donner la nature si le comité veut bien me le permettre. Un jour, un homme résidant dans le comté que je représentais, le comté de Montmorency, a passé au feu, et cet homme s'est recommandé à moi ; il n'avait pas d'assurance, et il avait tout brûlé sa maison, son ménage, et ses bâtiments. Il s'est adressé à moi comme député du comté, j'étais député dans le temps, pour lui avoir une souscription. Ne connaissant pas trop si j'aurais une souscription de ces messieurs, je rencontrerai M. Murphy et je lui ai demandé : envoyez-moi donc cent piastres pour ce pauvre homme-là. Il m'a dit : Oui, quand voulez-vous l'avoir ? J'ai dit : Aujourd'hui. Il me l'a envoyé sous enveloppe sans lettre ni commentaire. Dans le temps de l'élection de 1886, l'élection locale, il m'a envoyé des souscriptions pour l'élection locale, pour le député au local.

Q. Combien à peu près ? —R. Je ne me rappelle pas trop quel était le montant, si c'est deux cent cinquante piastres, ou si c'est cent cinquante piastres, ou si c'est cent piastres. Je ne me rappelle pas le montant ; leur entrée pourra prouver cela. Après ces élections-là il y a eu des réclamations pour des dettes laissées en arrière, comme cela se fait ordinairement après les élections, pour un montant de à peu près $275.00. J'avais la liste de ces noms-là, et M. Murphy m'a dit : Donnez-moi cela et ne vous en occupez plus, et je n'en ai plus entendu parler. Mais je vois aussi, j'ai vu par la voie des journaux qu'on a mis vis-à-vis mon nom une somme de $3,000.00. Je dois déclarer à ce comité que je n'ai jamais reçu une somme de $3,000.00, que je n'ai jamais reçu un sou pour moi-même, et que les explications ont été données à M. Murphy pour toutes les sommes que j'ai reçues, et je prendrai le serment de M. Murphy pour la vérité sur ce qu'il dira là-dessus.

Q. Maintenant, vous nous avez parlé des élections de 1886 ? —R. Oui.

Q. Durant les élections de 1887, vous êtes-vous mêlé des élections aussi ? —R. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Avez-vous eu des rapports avec M. McGreevy relativement à ces élections ? —R. Oui monsieur, j'étais sur les rangs à cette élection-là, et je leur ai dit que j'avais dépensé des sommes assez rondes dans le passé pour faire un grand nombre d'élections, et que je voulais qu'on m'aidât à cette élection-ci. Il m'a dit qu'il m'aiderait.

Q. Qui vous a dit cela ? —R. M. McGreevy. Alors il m'a dit qu'il m'aiderait et qu'il me donnerait de l'argent. Alors je me suis adressé à M. McGreevy deux ou trois fois ; il m'a donné, je crois, au meilleur de ma mémoire, je crois que c'est trois fois qu'il m'a donné de l'argent, et M. McGreevy, chaque fois a pris un reçu. Je ne me rappelle pas le montant. Mes agents d'élection, à la dernière heure, m'ont fait connaître que si nos amis ne donnaient pas plus d'argent nous étions en risque de perdre l'élection. Je me suis adressé à M. McGreevy de nouveau et à M. Murphy. M. Murphy m'a dit : Nous avons remis entre les mains de M. McGreevy tout ce qu'il faut, et nous avons recommandé de t'aider particulièrement ; adresse-toi à lui tu en auras. Alors m'étant adressé à M. McGreevy il m'a dit : Les élections du comté de Québec coûtent cher ; les élections de Québec coûtent cher ; les ministres nous coûtent très cher et je n'ai plus d'argent à te donner.

Q. M. McGreevy vous a-t-il nommé d'autres comtés à part ceux que vous venez de nommer qui coûtaient cher ? —R. Il m'a nommé spécialement le comté de Québec pour le local et le fédéral. Il a dit : Caron est toujours après moi, et il a dit : Je ne puis suffire à lui donner de l'argent ; il a dit : On a sir Hector à Trois-Rivières, et puis d'autres comtés.

Q. Avez-vous eu des conversations avec sir Hector Langevin pendant les élections de 1887 aussi ?—R. Oui, monsieur. Un jour je me rappelle que je lui ai parlé d'argent que j'avais besoin ce jour-là, et il a dit : J'ai vu M. McGreevy ce matin ; allez le trouver chez lui ; c'est lui qui est chargé de distribuer l'argent du comité.

Q. Voulez-vous prendre communication de l'état qui est maintenant exhibé marqué "K 11" et nous dire si cet état a été préparé à votre connaissance ?—R. Oui, monsieur, c'est moi-même qui l'ai fait préparer par le Acting-Secretary. Le document se lit comme suit :

(Exhibit "K 11.")

Certificate unpaid, for which Messrs Larkin, Connolly & Co. hold our letter of recognizance, $33,461.68.

Transquestionné par M. Fitzpatrick :

Q. M. Valin, vous avez commencé à être président de la commission du havre en quelle année, vous en rappelez-vous ?—R. En 1879.

Q. Et vous avez toujours occupé cette position-là, jusqu'après les élections dernières, n'est-ce pas ?—R. Oui.

Q. Vous avez, durant cette période, eu connaissance nécessairement, comme président de la commission, de tout ce qui s'est fait ?—R. J'ai eu connaissance de ce qui s'est fait en face du bureau, excepté durant six mois que j'ai été absent en Europe.

Q. Voulez-vous nous indiquer quels sont les travaux sur lesquels la commission du havre avait contrôle pendant votre présidence ? Quels sont les différents bassins par exemple ?—R. Nous avons eu affaire à tous les bassins à peu près.

Q. Quels sont les bassins ? Voulez-vous nommer les bassins ?—R. Le bassin Louise. Nous avions les deux ; on appelait cela généralement le bassin Louise. Nous avions la finission du contrat.

Q. Par finission du contrat que voulez-vous dire ?—R. Ils étaient après monter le mur dans le bassin Louise.

Q. Dans tous les cas, la première chose dont vous avez eu connaissance, d'après ce que vous nous avez dit, et ce qui a attiré votre attention d'une manière particulière, c'est ce changement de cautionnement qui a été donné par rapport au South-wall ?—R. Je ne dis pas qu'il n'y a pas eu autre chose.

Q. S'il y a eu autre chose, voulez-vous vous rappeler maintenant ce que c'est ?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas dans le moment.

Q. Eh bien ; jusqu'au moment où vous avez vu M. Verret ou M. McGreevy au sujet du changement dans le cautionnement pour le South-wall, pouvez-vous nous indiquer quelque chose qui vous a paru un peu louche, ou qui n'était pas tout à fait selon ce que vous croyiez correct ? Je parle de ce qui s'est passé pendant que vous étiez président ?—R. Non, je n'ai jamais rien vu de direct par moi-même, parce que tout ce qui a été fait a été soumis au bureau, et j'ai tout soumis comme affaire directe.

Q. Maintenant voulez-vous nous dire si, dans ce qui a été fait devant la commission du havre ou ce dont vous avez eu connaissance personnellement qui a été fait en dehors de la commission du havre, il y a eu quelque chose qui était irrégulier ?—R. D'après ce que j'ai vu, et ce que j'ai dit dans mon examen en chef—

Q. D'après ce que vous connaissez personnellement ?—R. C'était une chose bien connue du board. C'était le changement des messieurs Kinipple et Morris auxquels j'ai fait allusion qui est venu après le commencement des choses.

Q. Alors, à part l'affaire de Kinipple et Morris, il n'y a rien eu jusqu'au changement de cautionnement par rapport au South-wall ?—R. Eh bien ! je me rappelle maintenant, qu'un jour, je crois avant que ce fût venu à la connaissance de tous cela, je crois qu'on m'a apporté des documents qui montraient d'une manière à peu près exacte, un certain document au moins, qui était une copie de ce qui a été remis à sir John.

Q. Un document comportant avoir été signé par M. McGreevy et par M. Murphy ?—R. Oui.

Q. Mais à part de cela, comme président de la commission du havre, avez-vous eu connaissance, dans les transactions de la commission du havre, de quelque chose qui vous paraissait extraordinaire ?—R. Pas que je sache.

Q. Quand l'affaire de Kinipple et Morris est venue devant la commission du havre vous étiez président et vous étiez présent à l'assemblée, n'est-ce pas ?—R. Oui, monsieur.

Q. Avez-vous protesté contre leur renvoi ?—R. Je n'ai pas protesté contre leur renvoi ; c'est-à-dire j'ai objecté au renvoi jusqu'à un certain point, et avant de donner mon vote sur la dite question, j'ai été consulter MM. Stewart, Andrews et Cie. On a ajourné l'assemblée pour une demi-heure pour me donner le temps d'aller consulter ces messieurs, et j'ai agi là-dessus. Nous étions à discuter l'affaire en comité. Les commissaires à part moi étaient à peu près également divisés, et je leur ai demandé, comme il paraissait y avoir un point de loi, je leur ai demandé de suspendre la séance pour une demi-heure pour me donner le temps d'aller consulter nos avocats qui étaient la société dont M. Stewart fait partie. Je ne me rappelle pas si c'est M. Stewart ou M. Andrews qui m'a répondu, mais j'ai agi au meilleur de ma connaissance pour donner mon vote. Je ne veux pas que M. Stewart prenne objection à ce que je dis. Je sais que M. Andrews était là dans le temps, et c'est M. Andrews qui venait le plus souvent chez nous.

Q. Maintenant, vous avez dit que la commission du havre était à peu près également divisée sur cette question ?—R. Oui.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai qu'il n'y avait que M. Rae et M. Dobell qui demandaient que MM. Kinipple et Morris ne fussent pas renvoyés sur toute la commission du havre ?—

R. Je sais que M. Dobell et M. Rae étaient fortement opposés à cela, mais si je me rappelle bien, je ne sais pas s'ils étaient tous présents à l'assemblée ; je ne me rappelle pas de cela. Ils pouvaient être tous, mais je sais qu'on a suspendu la séance parce qu'il pourrait peut-être y avoir un point de droit qui serait soulevé par rapport à la mise à la retraite de ces messieurs, et c'est pour cela qu'on m'a donné le temps d'aller consulter les avocats. Je ne me rappelle pas du nombre ; je puis me tromper, mais je crois qu'on était tous présents.

Q. Afin de mettre cette question hors de doute, n'est-il pas vrai qu'à l'assemblée du 4 juin 1883, il a été unanimement résolu en votre présence, sans que vous ayez dit un mot de protêt, que Kinipple et Morris devaient être renvoyés, et que les seuls qui ont objecté sont M. Rae et M. Dobell ?—R. Cela peut se faire. C'est si loin passé que je n'ai pas les minutes dans ma tête, mais enfin j'ai eu à consulter les avocats sur les affaires légales qui pourraient se présenter. Je ne me suis pas prononcé avant d'avoir cette opinion.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai que le 31 juillet 1883, vous avez été partie à un rapport qui a été fait par un comité spécial réglant unanimement la question du renvoi de Kinipple et Morris tel qu'il appert par le document maintenant produit, exhibit "Q" ?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas du tout de la chose, mais ça peut être le cas pour les raisons qui m'ont été données que nous avions un ingénieur pour rien et que c'était sauver les finances de la commission, et par ce que j'ai dit dans mon examen en chef.

Q. Maintenant, pour revenir à l'autre question, lorsqu'il s'est agi du changement du cautionnement donné par Gallagher et Murphy, M. Murphy vous a parlé à propos de cela ?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas que Murphy m'ait parlé de cela.

Q. Qui vous en a parlé le premier?—R. C'est M. Verret.

Q. M. Verret vous en a parlé et il vous a dit qu'il avait en sa possession une lettre qui provenait de M. Murphy?—R. Pas la première fois qu'il m'en a parlé.

Q. La deuxième fois?—R. La première fois qu'il m'en a parlé, c'est ce que j'ai dit dans mon examen en chef et la deuxième fois également. Je n'ai rien à changer.

Q. Quand le changement a été fait, vous avez trouvé que ce n'était pas correct; que ce n'était pas dans l'intérêt de la commission de faire cela?—R. Je n'ai pas dit cela. Je n'en ai pas parlé à personne de cela, ni c'était mon opinion. J'ai cru que je m'en rapporterais à la parole de M. McGreevy parce qu'il m'avait dit que tout serait correct, et qu'il m'avait dit qu'il avait l'habitude de s'entendre avec le ministre, et que par là tout serait bien, qu'il nous protégerait.

Q. Lorsque vous avez parlé de cette substitution, avez-vous cru, dans ce temps-là, que c'était contraire aux intérêts de la commission du havre de faire la substitution proposée?—A. C'est pour cela que je prenais des renseignements, et M. McGreevy m'a dit: non, vous ne pouvez pas avoir de doute, parce que vous avez dans vos mains le premier certificat que l'ingénieur va émettre, et, s'il y a quelque chose qui va mal, vous pourrez retenir ce certificat-là, vous faire remettre le certificat, et vous aurez encore le pourcentage et vous pourrez encore vous rembourser là-dessus.

Q. Alors, la lettre que M. McGreevy vous a donnée dans le temps était suffisante pour vous? Vous croyiez qu'il n'y avait aucun danger à faire le changement?—R. Mon intention était, en lui faisant donner cette lettre-là, de lui faire porter la responsabilité comme président du comité des finances, et pour que je n'aie pas cette responsabilité moi-même.

Q. Ce n'est pas une réponse à ma question. La question que je vous pose est celle-ci: Je vous demande si, en faisant le changement de cautionnement proposé, ou a en aucune manière enfreint les droits de la commission du havre, ou bien si on a mis en péril les intérêts de la commission?—R. Je ne crois pas qu'ils étaient en péril, parce qu'on avait les moyens d'en revenir, mais cela pouvait nous amener du trouble. Je dois ajouter à ceci que l'on m'avait dit de suivre l'opinion de M. McGreevy dans cette transaction-là, et j'ai cru, par le rapport du ministre, que j'étais bien en la suivant.

Q. Vous avez été nommé président de la commission du havre par le gouvernement, vous-même?—R. Oui; c'est-à-dire j'ai été élu par le vote de la commission.

Q. Mais c'était compris que c'était le gouvernement qui vous nommait?—R. Oui.

Q. Maintenant, quand vous avez été nommé président de la commission du havre, avez-vous été mis là pour sauvegarder les intérêts de la commission ou bien pour faire ce que M. McGreevy vous dirait de faire?—R. C'est ce que j'ai dit dans mon examen en chef. Quand j'ai vu que M. McGreevy voulait contrôler, alors, j'ai demandé au ministre si je faisais bien en suivant ses avis ou non.

Q. Alors, quand M. McGreevy proposait quelque chose devant la commission, vous considérez que vous n'aviez rien à faire excepté d'accepter ses propositions?—R. Pas toujours, puisque j'ai consulté en différentes occasions le ministre des travaux publics. Si vous voulez savoir un peu plus, M. Fitzpatrick, je vais vous le dire; M. Langevin m'a dit à moi, dans une circonstance: Si la commission ne fait pas bien je vais la dissoudre.

Q. Voulez-vous nous dire quels sont les différents points sur lesquels vous avez consulté Sir Hector Langevin et sur lesquels vous avez cru que la commission ne faisait pas son devoir? En d'autres termes vous êtes-vous jamais plaint à sir Hector Langevin que M. McGreevy faisait quelque chose dans la commission du havre qu'il ne devait pas faire?—R. Je ne me suis jamais plaint spécialement en disant que quelqu'un faisait mal dans la commission. Tout simplement j'ai dit ce que j'ai dit dans mon examen en chef, c'est-à-dire que M. McGreevy avait l'air de contrôler et se servait toujours du nom de sir Hector, et j'ai voulu m'assurer par des conversations privées avec sir Hector, comme par des conversations privées avec M. McGreevy, si c'était bien là le cas. Alors j'ai dit certaines choses à M. Langevin qui m'ont été répétées ensuite, surtout les derniers mots que je viens de dire: que si la commission ne faisait pas bien il dissoudrait la commission. Ces mots m'ont été répétés et rapportés par M. McGreevy, et cela établissait que les communications se faisaient entre M. McGreevy et sir Hector. Je me suis plaint à sir Hector, une fois, que les dépenses de la commission étaient un peu trop élevées. Je me suis fait donner des documents de toutes les dépenses, et je crois qu'il y en a un qui a été soumis au comité ici aujourd'hui, et je lui ai donné le chiffre de tous les montants dépensés par la commission. Je lui ai demandé de faire des réductions dans le bureau et j'ai agi d'après ce que sir Hector m'en a dit dans les circonstances.

Q. Quand vous avez vu cette substitution de cautionnement, à propos du contrat de Gallagher et Murphy, que vous avez cru n'être pas régulière, vous en êtes-vous plaint à quelqu'un dans le temps? Vous êtes-vous plaint à la commission du havre ou à quelqu'un des membres de la commission du havre?—R. Je me rappelle qu'il y a eu une lettre qui a été soumise à la commission du havre pour informer la compagnie—

Q. La question que je vous pose est celle-ci: lorsque le changement de cautionnement dont vous avez parlé comme ayant été fait sur une lettre de M. McGreevy a eu lieu, en avez-vous parlé alors à la commission du havre ou à quelqu'un des membres de la commission du havre?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas.

Q. En avez-vous parlé à sir Hector Langevin de cette substitution-là?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas de lui en avoir parlé.

Q. Si ce n'était pas suivant ce que vous croyiez devoir être fait dans le temps, pourquoi n'en avez-vous pas parlé devant la commission du havre, et pourquoi n'en avez-vous pas parlé à sir Hector Langevin?—R. Je n'en ai pas parlé à sir Hector Langevin parce que j'avais ses mots tels que je vous ai dit: que je devais agir, et de ne pas me tromper, de suivre M. McGreevy et que je ne pouvais pas me tromper, parce qu'il était notre ami commun; qu'il était un homme de confiance, et alors je l'ai suivi. Je n'en ai pas parlé à la commission du havre parce que c'était le désir de M. McGreevy qu'on n'en parlât pas.

Q. De sorte que, comme président de la commission du havre, ayant connaissance de transactions comme celle-ci, que vous croyiez n'être pas tout-à-fait en règle, vous n'en avez pas parlé à la commission dont vous étiez président, parce que M. McGreevy vous demandait de ne pas le faire? C'est ce que vous dites, n'est-ce pas?—R. C'est ce que je viens de répéter. Je l'ai fait parce que M. McGreevy a insisté, comme étant le président du comité des finances, que c'était lui qui devait décider et que sir Hector Langevin savait la chose.

Q. Voulez-vous maintenant nous répéter, s'il vous plaît, la lettre ou les mots de la lettre qui vous a été lue par M. Verret comme vous nous l'avez dit dans votre examen-en-chef, comme venant de M. McGreevy?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas tous les mots.

Q. Au meilleur de votre connaissance, dites-nous-les?—R. Je sais bien qu'il a commencé la lettre par les mots: "I see no objection, and so on."

Q. Avez-vous lu la lettre vous-même ou l'avez-vous entendu lire seulement?—R. J'ai pris la lettre dans ma main; j'ai vu la signature de la lettre et j'ai vu l'écriture, et comme j'allais pour tirer mes lunettes pour lire la lettre, j'ai vu que je ne les avais pas. alors M. Verret m'a lu la lettre. J'ai cru prendre la version de M. Verret parce que c'est un très-honnête homme.

Q. Voulez-vous lire la lettre à haute voix qui vous est maintenant soumise et qui est produite comme exhibit "L"?—R. La lettre se lit comme suit:—"I see objection to your taking Mr. O. E. Murphy's cheque enclosed by N. Connolly for the one you now hold on deposit. Yours truly, THOMAS MCGREEVY."

Q. That is not the letter read to you?—A. No. If it had been the one that was read to me I would have said, "Mr. Verret, don't you accept it."

Q. Can you say whether or not the letter Mr. Verret read to you is or is not the letter you have just read?—A. All I can say is that I did not read the letter, but I saw a letter similar to this one. It appeared to me to be a similar letter to this.

Q. Was not this in all respects the letter that Mr. Verret read to you?—A. He gave me this letter, and as I stated I felt for my spectacles. I said, I have not got my spectacles with me, and he says, "I will read it for you." He took the letter and read it to me.

Q. So that, as far as you are concerned, you cannot say whether this is the same letter or not?—A. I cannot say it was, yes or no. It is the same signature that I saw at the foot of the letter.

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—There is one word that you made a mistake about in reading the letter. You said "enclosed" instead of "endorsed."

Q. Vous avez parlé d'une déclaration que vous avez faite à sir Hector, lors des élections générales dernières?—R. Oui.

Q. Dans cette déclaration—là, vous avez dit que les accusations que l'on portait contre la commission du havre, comme ayant commis des malversations, n'étaient pas fondées?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas du tout maintenant ce que la lettre disait. Elle était écrite de la main de sir Hector et il me l'a présentée d'une manière si inattendue, j'ai cru que c'était faire plaisir au ministre en temps d'élection. J'ai cru que c'était une affaire d'élection, rien de plus.

Q. Dans tous les cas, un homme qui occupait une position importante comme vous; qui était président de la commission du havre alors, qui était candidat aux élections générales et qui avait occupé une position comme député auparavant ne signerait pas un document qui contiendrait ce qui n'est pas vrai?—R. Pourquoi celui qui me l'a demandé, qui savait bien que ce n'était pas vrai et qui était plus haut que moi me l'a-t-il demandé?

Q. Mais est-ce que c'est parce qu'un homme est plus haut placé que vous que vous signeriez un document qui ne contiendrait pas la vérité?—R. Si je n'avais pas été pressé et avoir eu le temps de réfléchir, mais, vous comprenez que dans un temps qu'on est pris sans réfléchir, je n'ai pas fait la chose avec réflexion. J'ai cru que c'était un calmant, comme je vous l'ai dit, pour le ministre.

Q. Depuis que vous avez signé ce document—là vous avez été battu aux élections fédérales, n'est-ce pas?—R. Oui, monsieur, étant deux conservateurs sur les rangs nous savions que nous devions être battus; c'est-à-dire, nous étions trois conservateurs sur les rangs.

Q. Vous, comme représentant un élément du parti conservateur dans le comté, vous n'avez pas eu une grosse majorité; le nombre des voix que vous avez eu n'a pas diminué la majorité de M. Tarte?—R. Je n'ai pas diminué la majorité de M. Tarte parceque je savais bien que deux conservateurs ne pouvaient pas être élus.

Q. Depuis ce temps—là vous avez cessé d'être président de la commission du havre?—R. Oui.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai qu'on vous a également promis une position de sénateur et qu'on a toujours refusé de vous la donner?—R. Je dois répondre à ceci que j'ai eu la même promesse d'être sénateur comme vous avez eu celle de ministre dans le gouvernement local.

Par le président :

Q. Et vous avez eu le même succès tous les deux?—R. Oui.

Par M. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Maintenant, en réponse à cela, comme je n'ai jamais eu de promesse de qui que ce soit d'être fait ministre, pouvez-vous m'en dire autant de votre position de sénateur?—R. Je ne puis pas dire tout cela, mais je vous dirai que Sir Adolphe Caron est venu me faire cette promesse, chez moi, en 1879 ou 1880, en présence de ma défunte femme. Et je ne l'avais pas demandée, remarquez bien. On était venu me l'offrir pour obtenir un faveur de moi, c'est-à-dire de ne pas me présenter dans ce temps-là, parce qu'en 1879 j'avais été contesté et j'avais fait des arrangements, un compromis avec M. Langlois d'alors, que si je me représentais je devais donner un chèque de $1,000, un dédit. Alors on est venu me donner pour raison, M. Caron est venu parler au nom de sir Hector et de feu sir John, en disant que si je ne me présentais pas dans le comté que j'aurais la place de sénateur, parce qu'on voulait faire élire monsieur notre lieutenant-gouverneur, M. Angers. Voici pourquoi on voulait me faire disparaître, et la raison pour laquelle on m'a offert une place de sénateur ; et voilà pourquoi on m'a parlé depuis ce temps-là de la place de sénateur. Je n'ai pas cédé pour cela. Je n'ai cédé qu'après avoir eu une entrevue avec sir Hector qui m'a fait comprendre comme une nécessité de parti que l'on devait laisser passer M. Angers.

Q. Did Sir Hector tell you also that you would be made Senator?—A. No ; he told me in the presence of Mr. Caron, "You may take our friend, Mr. Caron's word." The minister would not promise, but I understood that I might trust what Mr. Caron said would be executed.

Q. Cette promesse-là n'a jamais été remplie?—R. J'attends ma nomination en même temps que la vôtre.

Q. Maintenant, vous avez parlé des souscriptions électorales qui ont été faites par Larkin, Connolly et Cie en 1887. Vous rappelez-vous quelle somme vous avez eue de M. McGreevy, en 1887, pour vos élections?—R. Non, je ne m'en rappelle pas, mais vous pourrez avoir les reçus de M. McGreevy ; chaque fois que M. McGreevy m'a donné de l'argent il a pris un reçu.

Q. Maintenant, vous dites que vous avez reçu cent piastres de M. Murphy pour un homme qui avait passé au feu?—R. Oui.

Q. Vous étiez président de la commission du havre en 1885?—R. Je crois que oui.

Q. Et M. Murphy, et Larkin, Connolly et Cie, étaient des contracteurs dans le temps?—R. Oui.

Q. Le 12 août 1885, avez-vous reçu de M. Murphy $125?—R. Je ne dis pas que je ne les ai pas reçues. Je ne me rappelle pas de tout. Je me suis adressé pour des fins de charité, deux ou trois, à M. Murphy et il me les a donnés pour les mêmes fins. Je prendrai la version de M. Murphy, pour cela, de bonne foi. Je sais que j'ai reçu de l'argent de lui pour ces fins, et surtout une qui a été donnée à St. Tite. Je crois que c'est cent piastres. Je l'ai envoyé au curé de St. Tite et c'est un monsieur Poulin qui a reçu cet argent là.

Q. Pendant les élections dernières, vous avez encore reçu, n'est-ce pas, une souscription électorale?—R. Oui ; cette fois c'était de M. Connolly.

Q. Lequel?—R. Michael.

Q. Maintenant, nous avez-vous donné tous les montants que vous avez eus de la société Larkin, Connolly et Cie ou de M. Murphy?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas de tous les montants. Ce sont de petits montants et je lui ai donné la liste. M. Murphy vous renseignera sur ces détails.

Q. Mais, à part de M. Murphy, personne ne vous a rien donné?—R. Je ne me rappelle pas ; il peut se faire. C'était comme souscription ou comme article de charité pour lesquels je leur ai donné les détails.

Q. De sorte que, lorsque vous aviez obtenu des souscriptions électorales ou lorsque vous aviez besoin de souscriptions électorales, vous vous adressiez à eux naturellement comme contracteurs publics, dans le temps?—R. Je ne m'adressais pas à eux comme contracteurs mais comme amis. Il y a des amis qui ont souscrit de l'argent dans mes élections qui ne sont pas des contracteurs. De fait, avant cela, j'ai reçu des souscriptions sous enveloppe de gens que je ne connaissais pas, ou des petits montants quelquefois, mais je sais bien que ça ne venait pas de cette source-là. J'ai su depuis de qui cela venait.

Q. Quand vous avez eu une entrevue avec sir Hector Langevin, pendant les élections générales dernières, vous rappelez-vous quels étaient les deux électeurs qui étaient présents là?—R. Je me rappelle seulement du nom de M. Edouard Cauchon, l'autre, je ne m'en rappelle pas.

Q. C'était un homme de votre comté, du comté de Montmorency?—R. Oui, je ne nie pas cela. J'ai donné la lettre. J'ai été là.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai, maintenant, que vous avez signé la déclaration dont vous avez parlé, devant ces gens-là, et qu'ils ont agi comme témoins à la déclaration que vous faisiez?—R. Il les a pris comme témoins, naturellement, et la lettre était écrite par la main de sir Hector. Je ne l'ai pas vue; elle m'a été présentée par lui; je l'ai vue dans sa main mais je ne l'ai pas examinée.

Q. D'après la constitution de la commission du havre, il était nécessaire que tous les contrats qui devaient être donnés soient soumis pour approbation au commissaire des travaux publics du Canada?—R. Oui.

Q. Et le commissaire des travaux publics du Canada devait exercer nécessairement une certaine influence sur les contrats qui devaient être donnés?—R. C'était lui qui devait faire passer l'ordre en conseil qui autorisait l'exécution du contrat.

Q. Ceci s'applique également au ministre de la Marine et des Pêcheries, n'est-ce pas?—R. Je ne sais pas cela; mais nos communications ont toujours été avec sir Hector. Il peut se faire qu'il y ait quelque rapport avec le ministre de la Marine et des Pêcheries, mais je ne me rappelle pas de cela.

Q. De sorte que c'est en rapport à sa position comme ministre des Travaux Publics que vous avez eu des rapports avec sir Hector?—R. Toujours avec sir Hector.

Par M. Amyot :

Q. De combien de membres se compose la commission du havre?—R. Nous étions neuf.

Q. Cinq étaient nommés par le gouvernement?—R. Oui, cinq par le gouvernement.

Q. Et c'est la majorité des neuf qui nommait le président?—R. Oui monsieur.

Q. Avez-vous eu connaissance s'il y a eu un contrat de fait pour trente-cinq cents la verge pour le creusage du bassin?—R. Il y a eu deux contrats.

Q. Le deuxième contrat?—R. Oui monsieur.

Q. Vous n'avez fait que ratifier les instructions qui sont arrivées d'Ottawa?—R. Oui, par l'entremise de M. McGreevy qui parlait au nom de M. Langevin, et je crois que j'en ai parlé au ministre comme je l'ai dit quand j'ai été examiné précédemment.

Q. Est-ce que vous avez eu connaissance de quelque changement fait dans la construction d'un mur du bassin, une diminution ou une augmentation?—R. Voulez-vous dire le South-wall?

Q. Quelle était l'épaisseur du changement qui a été fait?—R. C'est un changement qui a été fait hors de ma connaissance, parce que si un changement de cette nature-là avait été porté à ma connaissance, je l'aurais soumis à la commission, mais il a été fait hors de ma connaissance, c'est-à-dire pour l'élévation du dessous.

Q. Si je vous comprends bien, la majorité de la commission recevait, par l'entremise de M. McGreevy, les désirs du ministre et agissait en conséquence?—R. Je vais vous dire comment. Par exemple, quand nous avons besoin d'argent, c'était M. McGreevy qui agissait pour le ministre et qui disait toujours: Le ministre m'a dit que vous devriez demander de l'argent parce qu'il va s'absenter pendant la vacance; demandez donc de l'argent. Alors quand on avait demandé de l'argent cela retardait et M. McGreevy nous disait: Pressez-vous, je viens d'Ottawa et je sais que c'est passé au conseil. Nous savions nos instructions plutôt par M. McGreevy que par le département.

Par M. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Vous avez dit que le contrat pour le dragage à trente-cinq cents avait été donné sur des ordres et des directions donnés par M. McGreevy comme représentant sir Hector Langevin sur la commission du havre?—R. J'ai dit que je voyais par cela qu'après avoir été renseigné par M. McGreevy que c'était correct, cela avait été décidé par toute la commission tel que c'est entré dans les minutes.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai que ce contrat de trente-cinq cents dont vous venez de parler, comme ayant été donné parce que M. McGreevy avait demandé que cela se fit ainsi au nom du département, a été donné à une assemblée de la commission tenue le 10 mai 1887, et que cela a été sur une lettre écrite par M. Perley?—R. Je ne vous dis pas qu'il n'est pas venu une lettre de M. Perley. Je ne vous parle pas de cela du tout, mais je vous dis que j'ai eu l'idée de M. McGreevy me disant qu'on devait le faire; que c'était la meilleure chose à faire et qu'on devait le faire.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai que par les minutes de la commission du havre, il est constaté, à la page 116 du volume 6, numéro 182, que le 10 mai 1887, la lettre suivante a été lue :

"Received a letter from Henry F. Perley, Chief Engineer to the Quebec Harbour Works, transmitting a copy of a correspondence exchanged between himself and the contractors Larkin, Connolly & Co., in relation to the dredging to be done in the Wet Dock, Harbour Works, a portion of which, he states, it is desirable should be done during the ensuing summer, and recommending that the offer of Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. to do the work at thirty-five (35) cents per yard be accepted, as he considers their price to be fair and reasonable, and suggesting that the expenditure in dredging during the year be limited to $100,000."

R. Par qui la lettre est-elle signée ?

Q. Par qui vous voudrez ?—R. Je n'ai pas les minutes.

Q. Alors la minute est-elle correcte ?—R. Je pense bien qu'elle est correcte.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai qu'à la même assemblée de la commission du havre il a été résolu comme suit, ainsi qu'il appert à la page 117 du volume 6 :

"Resolved.—That a contract be signed with Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., agreeably with their tender for dredging the basin of the new Harbour Works, provided, first, that the dredged material be placed and levelled in the Louise Embankment or on such other locality belonging to the Harbour Commissioners or that may hereafter be acquired by the Commissioners. Second, that the actual contract be confined to work this summer, limited to an expenditure of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000); Third, that after conclusion of this season, the Harbour Commissioners are to have the power of cancelling this contract without claim for damages of any kind, or compensation whatever. The price in tender for dredging being thirty-five cents per cubic yard."

(Signed)

" P. V. VALIN,
"Chairman."

R. Je vous dis, quand je présidais ce corps, que la majorité du corps forçait le président de faire ces minutes et de les signer. Alors j'accepte les minutes telles qu'elles sont écrites, bien volontiers, parce que tout ce qui s'est passé devant le bureau m'a paru parfaitement régulier, et je n'aurais rien voulu souffrir qui ne fut pas régulier; mais cela ne prouve pas l'influence exercée par un membre sur un autre membre en dehors de l'assemblée.

Q. Vous avez dit, il y a un instant, que c'était sous l'influence de M. McGreevy ?
—R. J'ai dit que c'était M. McGreevy ; que moi, pour ce qui me concerne, je l'avais consulté pour savoir si nous devions voter pour cela. Je ne vous dis pas pour les autres. Je parle pour moi.

Q. N'est-il pas vrai qu'à cette assemblée-là, où le contrat a été donné, M. McGreevy n'était pas présent du tout ?—R. Je ne le sais pas, mais je sais que j'avais son opinion.

Q. Constatez par les registres s'il y était ou non ?—R. Je vous dis que j'ai endossé les minutes telles qu'elles étaient, mais je vous dis que M. McGreevy m'avait donné son opinion sur la chose.

Q. Constatez donc par les minutes s'il était présent ou non ?—R. Je vois bien que son nom n'y est pas, mais je vous dis que j'avais consulté M. McGreevy là-dessus.

Q. Votre salaire était de $2,000.00 par année, comme président de la commission du havre ?—R. Non, monsieur.

Q. De combien était-il ?—R. $1,000.00.

Q. De tout temps ?—R. Il a toujours été cela, de tout temps. Là-dessus, on retirait pour les souscriptions politiques $1,000.00 ou $1,500.00.

Q. En plus du salaire il y avait $5.00 par jour comme membre de la commission ?
—R. Oui.

Q. Dans le contrat du South-wall vous rappelez-vous s'il y a eu des changements de faits à la commission du havre ?—R. Non, excepté un changement de substitution de pierre à la brique. Ceci devait être fait sans augmenter le prix du contrat.

Par M. Langelier :

Q. M. Valin, quand vous étiez membre du parlement, à Ottawa, vous voyiez très-souvent M. McGreevy et sir Hector Langevin ?—R. Oui, très-souvent.

Q. Savez-vous s'il y avait entre eux des rapports intimes, fréquents ?—R. Oui, parfaitement.

Q. Savez-vous où ils demeuraient tous les deux, ici, à Ottawa ?—R. Oui ; j'ai été invité par sir Hector chez lui, et j'ai été invité également par M. McGreevy à prendre un verre de vin, ici, et dans la résidence de M. Langevin, où était M. McGreevy. Il m'a dit très-souvent qu'il restait là ; que c'était sa maison ; qu'il se considérait comme chez lui ; ils vivaient ensemble.

Q. M. Laforce Langevin dont vous avez parlé tantôt, qui a été nommé sous-ingénieur des commissaires du havre, est-ce un jeune homme d'une grande réputation comme ingénieur ? Est-ce qu'il passait pour très-capable ?—R. Non, il a toujours été considéré comme n'étant pas très-capable. J'ai vu notre ingénieur nous donner plusieurs doutes là-dessus sans trop s'exprimer.

Par M. Curran :

Q. Avez-vous pris note des conversations que vous avez eues avec sir Hector Langevin ?—R. J'en ai pris quelquefois qui maintenant sont détruites. J'ai eu beaucoup de conversations dans le temps que j'étais député. J'ai été le voir souvent en rapport avec ces travaux-là. J'ai été voir M. Perley et d'autres personnes.

Q. Je vous demande cette question parce que vous ne paraissez pas avoir de doute sur la nature de ces conversations-là ? Vous vous rappelez parfaitement de la nature de ces conversations-là ?—R. Parfaitement. J'en ai eu chaque fois que j'ai rencontré sir Hector, soit à Québec, ou ici, ou ailleurs.

Q. M. Valin, c'est subséquent à ces conversations avec sir Hector Langevin que vous avez obtenu de M. McGreevy ces trois montants pour les élections ?—R. Il était compris que je serais candidat, et j'ai dit à sir Hector Langevin que je devrais être assisté. Je ne me rappelle peut-être pas tout, mais je me rappelle une circonstance sur les deux ou trois que j'ai eues.

Q. Vous avez donné trois reçus à M. McGreevy ?—R. Oui, j'ai donné deux ou trois reçus suivant les montants que j'ai reçus de lui.

Q. Voulez-vous me dire comment il se fait que vous vous rappelez des conversations que vous avez eues avec sir Hector et que vous ne vous rappelez pas des sommes que vous avez reçues de M. McGreevy et pour lesquelles vous avez donné des reçus?—R. Je m'en rappelle un peu comme cela, mais de peur de faire une erreur, je voudrais les voir ici afin de connaître la chose.

TRANSLATION OF Mr. P. V. VALIN'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. P. V. VALIN, sworn.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You reside at Quebec?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have been a member of the Dominion Parliament?—A. Yes.

Q. And of the Provincial also?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. When were you a member of the Dominion Parliament?—A. I was elected for the first time in 1878.

Q. Until when did you sit?—A. Until the elections of 1887.

Q. Have you been also attached to the Harbour Commission at Quebec?—A. Yes, for about twelve years.

Q. In what capacity? Were you merely a member, or did you occupy some official position?—A. I was Chairman of the Commission.

Q. During the twelve years?—A. Yes, pretty nearly all the time.

Q. When did you cease to be Chairman?—A. I ceased after the last Dominion elections of this year.

Q. Are you still a Commissioner?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know of the contract given for the construction of the South-wall?—A. Yes, sir, I signed the contract myself.

Q. Can you remember who were the contractors?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were they?—A. They were Messrs. Gallagher and Murphy.

Q. Can you remember whether, accompanying the contract, or after the signature of the contract, security was required from the contractors by means of a deposit in the hands of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes, sir. A note for $25,000 was given upon the Union Bank.

Q. A note, did you say?—A. A cheque accepted by the Union Bank.

Q. Did you see this cheque yourself?—A. Yes, sir; I examined it myself in my hands.

Q. Was it a cheque or a deposit certificate?—A. I believe that it was a cheque, to the best of my knowledge.

Q. Your impression is that it is a cheque?—A. Yes, and the acceptance of the Bank was clear. I could remember better if the cheque were showed to me.

Q. Do you know whether this security, in any case, remained in the hands of the Harbour Commissioners during all the time of the execution of the works?—A. No, sir. One day I came to the office, and Mr. Verret told me that Mr. Murphy had made a request to him to change this security and to take a cheque from the company.

Q. Who spoke to you like that?—A. Mr. Verret. He asked me my opinion about it, as Chairman of the Commission. I told him that I did not believe that we had any right to do such a thing without submitting it to the Commission, at a meeting of the Commissioners. Mr. Verret told me: I recommended Mr. Murphy to write a letter to the Commissioners upon the subject, but Mr. Murphy told me that he did not want it to come before the Commissioners. Mr. Verret added: I advised Mr. Murphy to give me a letter from Mr. McGreevy as being Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Board, and that he should advise me to do it.

Q. Do I understand that Mr. Verret said that he recommended the thing?—A. Mr. Verret told me that if he had a letter from Mr. McGreevy, he believed that we might do the thing. I told Mr. Verret that I forbade him to do this thing unless he should have a letter from Mr. McGreevy, satisfactory upon this point.

Q. You are speaking of Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes, I told him that I would see Mr. McGreevy upon the subject myself. Subsequently, I saw Mr. McGreevy, and I spoke to him of the matter. I told Mr. McGreevy that I did not think that we should do such a thing without submitting it to a meeting of the Commissioners. He said: Oh! you ought to agree to that, because they are good fellows, and we ought to help them as much as possible. But I said to him: How can that be arranged with reference to the Government, for it is a security which concerns the Government. He replied: I will see that it is all right. There the matter rested for some time. I do not know how many days had passed, but one fine morning I went to the office, and Mr. Verret came and said to me: I am a little late; I have come from the Union Bank, and I have exchanged the security. Then I said to him: Have you had Mr. McGreevy's letter, and is it sufficient; is it satisfactory? He said: Yes, in every respect. I said to him: Show me the document you received in return, and the letter. He then took the document in question; he placed it in my hands, together with the letter. I then put my hand into my waistcoat pocket to take out my spectacles, and I saw that my spectacles were not there that morning. It was a waistcoat that I was not in the habit of wearing, and my spectacles were not there. Then I opened the letter, and Mr. Verret said: I will read it to you. I said: All right, read it to me; and I held the document in my hand at the same time that he read the letter to me.

Q. Well, without requiring that you should repeat the very words of the letter, what was the purport of the letter, according as it was read to you?—A. Well, the letter said this: I see no objection to accepting so and so. I might remember by seeing the letter, because Mr. McGreevy himself told me that he had no objection whatever, and that he would give the required document to Mr. Verret.

Q. What did you do? You say that you had the document in your hands. What did you do with it? It was the cheque or note that Mr. Murphy had given you as a substitute for the certificate? Did you return the whole to Mr. Verret?—A. Yes; and I told him to take great care thereof, to make proper note, and be very careful of those documents. Upon which Mr. Verret said to me: I have made a list of the receipts, and I made a memorandum of all that has been done, and I have placed that in the same envelope with the note or cheque in question, so that all may be there, so that it can be referred to in future if it should be required.

Q. Well, Mr. Valin, did Mr. McGreevy take a prominent position in the Harbour Commission? Did he appear to lead it?—A. Yes, sir, he appeared to have an idea of doing everything, for when I was first Chairman of the Commission, I saw that Mr. McGreevy took the lead in a great many things. I remarked this to him, and he said: I must tell you that I am Mr. Langevin's confidential man. He requires a confidential man, and it may as well be me as another.

Q. Did you have any conversations with Sir Hector Langevin upon this subject—on the subject of the position taken by Mr. McGreevy in the Commission?—A. Yes, sir; I had several interviews with Sir Hector on this subject.

Q. Will you relate or explain to the Committee what the nature of those interviews was?—A. I told Sir Hector that Mr. McGreevy took this attitude in everything, and that he had told me he was in communication with the Minister. I asked him what his views were regarding that question, upon certain votes we had to give in the Commission—for instance, with reference to the South-wall. I told the Minister that the names of Gallagher and Murphy might cause trouble with the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., because he was one of its members, and that it did not, from that, seem to me to be a different firm, and that it might cause trouble. He said: "I have spoken to Mr. McGreevy about that; vote for that and follow Mr. McGreevy, and I tell you everything will be all right." He said to me, finally: "Whenever you come across anything like that, just follow Mr. McGreevy. You know that we meet frequently and that we consult together." Therefore, I have always considered that I had the opinion of Mr. Langevin in the chair occupied by Mr. McGreevy beside me, and whenever an important vote was to be given I have always consulted Mr. McGreevy, because I believed such were the views of Mr. Langevin.

Q. This was after all the conversations that you held?—A. It was very nearly always the same thing repeated. I had several conversations with the Minister. Every time anything important came up I consulted him, and always had very nearly the same answer.

Q. Well, you say you consulted him. Did you consult him specially about the South-wall contract?—A. Yes, sir; because I believed that that would entail difficulties such as I have just now told you of; because I saw that one of the firm had separated himself from the others, and then he told me not to be troubled about the matter, for everything was all right.

Q. Did you consult him on other matters besides that of the South-wall?—A. Yes, sir; I consulted him on other matters very often.

Q. Had you occasion to consult him, to confer with the Minister, with reference to the contract for dredging in 1887?—A. Yes, sir; I spoke to him about that. He told me that from information that he had received he believed the change was desirable, and that he had spoken of it, he said, to Mr. McGreevy, and that he believed that it was the best thing to do.

By the Chairman :

Q. You said that you had consulted the Minister about the dredging?—A. Yes; I explained the matter of the dredging to him.

Q. Did you give him your advice?—A. Yes; I gave him my opinion.

Q. But there was a difference of opinion between you and Mr. McGreevy?—A. Well, it was merely with reference to the right of giving information. I wanted to speak to the Minister to know whether he approved of the matter.

Q. Did you give any information contrary to Mr. McGreevy's?—A. No. I wanted to know whether it was his advice, because I would not do anything until the Commission were informed, because it was money voted by Parliament.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. But you yourself, did you explain your views, or rather, not being a man of the craft, did you give your own opinion upon the said contracts?—A. Did I tell the Minister?

Q. Yes?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Can you remember whether there was any change made with regard to the level of the sewer which forms part of the South-wall?—A. According to the contract which I signed it should remain intact according to the contract, and we were never informed at the Commission, that any change had been made in it. I was never informed, nor was the Commission ever informed of such change to my knowledge. It is only quite recently that I learned the fact. I remarked it to the acting engineer, and Mr. Boswell began by telling me he knew nothing about it. I persisted, and then he said to me yes, he did know something about it; but that it was not any business of his to tell of it, because he was employed under Mr. Perley, and it was for him, Mr. Perley, to speak of it.

Q. Had you also any conversations with Thomas McGreevy with regard to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I had several.

Q. Will you say on what subjects said conversations turned?—A. The conversation sometimes turned on the contractors, particularly in 1887. I asked him whether the contractors had given him any money to help in the elections. He told me that he was very well satisfied; that they had been very generous; and then that they were excellent fellows, that they ought to be taken care of; and that they had subscribed largely, and that Sir Hector was very well pleased with them. I had other conversations when we appointed Mr. Boswell, Chief Engineer. I then asked him: Why appoint Mr. Boswell Chief Engineer, before Mr. Perley had sent in his resignation? I said to him: How will Sir Hector like that? Then he said: Perley is cracked, and besides it does not signify, Boswell must be appointed, and Sir Hector is aware of it. Then he thought that I was myself going to request the appointment of Mr. Boswell, and Mr. Chabot, one of the members of the Commission asked me whether I intended doing so. He said that if I would not do it, he would do it himself. I then said: Do it, because, as chairman, it is not my place to make any propositions of that sort: and at the following meeting Mr. Chabot did, I believe, propose the appointment of Mr. Boswell as well as that of Mr. Langevin. However, the minutes are there, and will prove the same.

Q. Is Mr. Chabot general manager of the Richelieu Company?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who is this Mr. Langevin of whom you speak, and who was appointed at the same time as Mr. Boswell?—A. He is Sir Hector's son.

Q. Is it Laforce Langevin?—A. Yes, Laforce and something else. I do not exactly know. I had other conversations also with Mr. McGreevy at the time when he dismissed the Engineers, Kinipple and Morris, and I believe also, I do not very well recollect this occasion, but I believe also that I consulted Sir Hector at the time, and Mr. McGreevy told me that it was necessary that Kinipple and Morris should go, as it was understood that Sir Hector would give us Mr. Perley, who was Chief Engineer of Public Works, and he gave me as a reason that the English Engineers were very expensive, and that we should have the Government Engineer who would do the work for nothing. I had had a number of other conversations, which I cannot recollect very well, but I consulted him very often.

Q. When Mr. McGreevy told you that the contractors subscribed largely for the elections, did he give you the names of any of the contractors?—A. No; he spoke of contractors in a general way.

Q. He did not give you any names?—A. No, I understood him to mean all contractors.

Q. But when you say "The contractors" do you mean Larkin Connolly & Co or all contractors in general?—A. No, Larkin Connolly & Co. I always understood that when we had anything to refer to the Company we always addressed ourselves to Mr. Murphy; Mr. Murphy was the man who acted at the time on behalf of the Company with our office. It was to him that we made all payments on behalf of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. and Gallagher and Murphy, and when we had anything to settle we always addressed ourselves to him, and I understood that, speaking particularly, we also meant thereby Murphy.

Q. Now, were you at any time since these matters occurred requested to sign a certain declaration in connection with the affairs of the Quebec Harbour?—A. By whom do you mean?

Q. I cannot tell you by whom. I ask you whether you were invited at a given time to make such a declaration in connection with the administration of the affairs of the Harbour of Quebec?—A. Yes; at the time of the last election the Minister of Public Works told me one morning that he had seen in the journals a certain article headed "Notice to Sir Hector," and "Betrayed by his friends," or something with such a meaning. He then brought me to his house, where there were some electors present; he handed me the article in question. I had not seen it. He asked me whether the article was true. I told him that it was false. I said to him: It is false, because it contains an item stating that I had gone to see a man named Mr. Fortier at his house, and I had never been there. It said also that I had been to see Mr. Tarte. I did go there at his invitation after he had sent for me to meet him, and Mr. Tarte asked me several questions about conversations which we had had, which I considered most indiscreet, and I said to Mr. Tarte that neither he, nor any one else should know my private conversations at the present time. Thereupon the Minister asked me whether I would sign a letter for him denying that. I said: I will sign a denial of the article in question. He gave me a letter himself, the contents of which I did not thoroughly understand; I thought it was a soothing potion during election time, which would please the Minister more than anything else, because the Minister well knew that we had had conversations together respecting that question. I ought to add that I was completely taken by surprise, not having had any time to reflect. I thought, when I gave the denial, to please the Minister.

Q. Well, Mr. Valin; you spoke of political or other subscriptions made by Larkin, Connolly & Co. Did you also receive any subscriptions from them?—A. I did receive some subscriptions, and I will tell you the nature of them, if the Committee will allow me to do so. One day, a man living in the county I represented, the County of Montmorency, was burnt out, and this man applied to me; he had no insurance, and his horses, furniture and barns were all burnt. He applied to me as member for the county, I was member at that time, to get up a subscription for him. Not being sure whether I should get a subscription from these gentlemen, I met Mr. Murphy and said to him: Do send me $100 for this poor man. He said: Yes; when will you have it? I said: To-day. He sent it to me in an envelope without either letter or comment. At the time of the elections of 1886—the local elections—he sent me subscriptions for the local elections—for the local member.

Q. About how much?—A. I do not remember exactly the amount, whether it was $250 or $150, or whether it was $100. I do not remember the amount; their entry would prove that. After those elections there were some claims for arrears of debts, as usually happens after the elections, to the amount of about $275; I had a list of the names and Mr. Murphy said to me: "Give that to me and do not trouble yourself about it any more," and I heard no more about it. But I see also, I saw by newspapers that a sum of $3,000 has been placed opposite my name. I must declare to this Committee that I have never received the sum of $3,000, that I have never received one cent for myself, and that explanations were given to Mr. Murphy for all the sums that I received, and I will take Mr. Murphy's oath for the truth of what he will say on that point.

Q. Now, you have spoken to us of the elections of 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. During the elections of 1887, did you also take part in the elections?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you any relations with Mr. McGreevy in connection with those elections?—A. Yes, sir; I stood at that election and I told them that I had spent a great deal of money previously for a great many elections, and that I wanted to be helped with that election. He told me that he would help me.

Q. Who told you that?—A. Mr. McGreevy. Then he told me that he would help me and would give me money. I applied to Mr. McGreevy two or three times; he gave me; I believe as well as I can remember, I believe he gave me money three times, and each time Mr. McGreevy took a receipt. I do not remember the amount. My election agents at the last hour informed me that if our friends did not give us more money we were in danger of losing the election. I applied again to Mr. McGreevy and to Mr. Murphy. Mr. Murphy told me: "We have placed all that is necessary in Mr. McGreevy's hands, and we have advised him to help you especially; apply to him and you will get some." Then having applied to Mr. McGreevy, he said to me: "The elections in the County of Quebec are costing heavily; the elections in Quebec are costing heavily; the Ministers are costing us very heavily, and I have no more money to give you."

Q. Did Mr. McGreevy mention any other counties besides those that you have named that were expensive?—A. He mentioned particularly the County of Quebec for the Local and Dominion Parliaments. He said: Caron is always after me; and he said: I cannot satisfy him with money. He said: We have Sir Hector at Three Rivers; and besides, other counties.

Q. Had you any conversations with Sir Hector Langevin also, during the election of 1887?—A. Yes, sir. I remember that one day I spoke to him about some money that I wanted that same day, and he said: I have seen Mr. McGreevy this morning; go to his house and see him. He has charge of the distribution of the money for the Committee.

Q. Will you take a look at the statement now produced marked Exhibit "K11" and tell us whether such statement was prepared with your knowledge?—A. Yes, sir, I myself caused it to be prepared by the Acting Secretary. The document read as follows.

(Exhibit "K11")

Certificate unpaid, for which Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. hold our letter of recognizance, $33,461.68.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fitzpatrick:

Q. Mr. Valin, you began to be Chairman of the Harbour Commission in what year, can you remember?—A. In 1879.

Q. And you always occupied that position until after the last elections, is it not so?—A. Yes.

Q. During that period, you necessarily had cognizance as Chairman of the Commission of all that was done?—A. I had cognizance of all that was done before the Board excepting during six months that I was absent in Europe.

Q. Will you inform us what works were under the control of the Harbour Commission during your presidency? For instance, what are the different Basins?—A. We had something to do with nearly all the Basins.

Q. Basins. Which Basins? Will you name the Basins?—A. The Louise Basin. We had to do with both; they were generally called the Louise Basin. We had the finishing of the contract.

Q. What do you mean by the finishing of the contract?—A. They were putting up the wall in the Louise Basin.

Q. In any case, the first thing of which you had cognizance, according to what you have told us, and to which your attention was especially directed, was the change of security given in reference to the South-wall?—A. I did not say that there was nothing else.

Q. If there was anything else, will you now remember what it is?—A. I cannot remember just now.

Q. Well, until the time when you saw Mr. Verret or Mr. McGreevy on the subject of the change of security given for the South-wall, can you inform us of anything that appeared to you a little crooked, or which was not altogether what you consider correct? I speak of what happened while you were chairman?—A. No; I never saw anything directly myself, because everything that was done was submitted to the Board, and I submitted everything as regular business.

Q. Now, will you tell us whether, in what was done before the Harbour Commission, or in what you had personal knowledge which was done outside of the Harbour Commission, there was any irregularity?—A. From what I saw, and what I said in my examination-in-chief—

Q. From what you have personal knowledge of?—A. It was a thing well known to the Board. It was the dismissal of Messrs. Kinipple and Morris, to which I have alluded, which happened after the beginning of things.

Q. Then, apart from the affair of Kinipple and Morris, there was nothing until the exchange of the security with regard to the South-wall?—A. Well, I remember now, that one day, I think, before all this came to my knowledge, that some documents were brought to me which showed pretty correctly—a certain document, at least, which was a copy of what was transmitted to Sir John.

Q. A document purporting to have been signed by Mr. McGreevy and Mr. Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. But apart from this, as Chairman of the Harbour Commission, had you any knowledge, in the transactions of the Harbour Commission, of anything that appeared to you extraordinary?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. When the matter of Kinipple and Morris came before the Harbour Commission, you were chairman, and you were present at the meeting, were you not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you object to their dismissal?—A. I did not protest against their dismissal, that is to say, up to a certain point I protested against their dismissal, and before giving my vote upon the said question, I consulted Messrs. Stuart, Andrews & Caron. The meeting was adjourned for half an hour in order to give me time to go and consult these gentlemen, and I acted upon it. We were discussing the matter in committee. The Commissioners excepting myself were about equally divided, and I asked them, as it appeared to be a point in law,—I asked them to adjourn the meeting for half-an-hour to give me time to go and consult our lawyers who were the firm of which Mr. Stuart is a member. I do not remember whether it was Mr. Stuart or Mr. Andrews who gave me my answer, but I acted to the best of my knowledge about giving my vote. I do not want Mr. Stuart to take objection to what I am saying. I know that Mr. Andrews was there at the time, and it was Mr. Andrews who came the oftenest to us.

Q. Now, you have said that the Harbour Commission was pretty equally divided upon this question?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not true that of all the Harbour Commission only Mr. Rae and Mr. Dobell requested that Messrs. Kinipple and Morris should not be dismissed?—A. I know that Mr. Dobell and Mr. Rae were strongly opposed to it, but if I remember rightly, I do not know whether they were all present at the meeting. I cannot remember that. They may all have been there; but I know that the meeting was adjourned because there might probably have been a point of law which might have been raised with regard to the retirement of these gentlemen, and it was on that account that I was given time to go and consult the lawyers. I do not remember the number: I may be mistaken but I think that all were present.

Q. In order to place this question beyond a doubt, is it not true that at the meeting held on the 4th June, 1883, it was unanimously resolved in your presence, without your having said a word of protest, that Kinipple and Morris should be dismissed, and that the only ones who made any objection were Mr. Rae and Mr. Dobell?—A. It may have been so. It is so long ago, that I have not the minutes in my head, but, in short, I had to consult the lawyers upon any legal business which might turn up. I did not decide before having had said opinion.

Q. Is it not true that on 31st July, 1883, you were party to a report which was made by a special committee, unanimously settling the question of the dismissal of Kinipple and Morris, as is proved by the document now produced, Exhibit "Q"?—A. I do not remember the matter at all; but it may have been the case for the reason which was given me, that we had an engineer who would cost nothing, and that it would be a saving of the finances of the Commission; and by what I stated in my examination in chief.

Q. Now, to return to the other question, when this change of the security given by Gallagher and Murphy was spoken of, did Mr. Murphy speak to you on the subject?—A. I do not remember that Murphy spoke to me about it.

Q. Who mentioned it to you first?—A. It was Mr. Verret.

Q. Mr. Verret spoke to you of it and he told you that he had a letter in his possession which came from Mr. Murphy?—A. Not the first time that he spoke to me about it.

Q. The second time?—A. The first time that he spoke to me about it, it was what I have stated in my examination in chief, and the second time likewise. I have nothing to change.

Q. When the change was made, you did not think it was correct; that it was not in the interest of the Commission to do it?—A. I did not say that. I did not speak to anyone about it, nor was it my opinion. I believed that I might trust to

Mr. McGreevy's word, because he had told me that everything would be all right, and he said that he was in the habit of having an understanding with the Minister, and that therefore all would be right, that he would protect us.

Q. When you spoke about this substitution did you believe, at the time, that it was contrary to the interests of the Commission to make the proposed substitution?

—A. That was why I took information, and Mr. McGreevy said: No, you cannot have any doubt because you hold in your hands the first certificate that the Engineer will issue, and if anything should go wrong, you can hold such certificate, cause the certificate to be returned to you, and you will still have the percentage, and you can still repay yourself out of that.

Q. Then the letter that Mr. McGreevy gave you at the time was sufficient for you? You believed that there was no danger in making the exchange?—A. My object in getting him to give that letter was to make him bear the responsibility as Chairman of the Finance Committee, and I might not have to bear such responsibility myself.

Q. That is not an answer to my question. The question that I put to you is this: I ask you whether in making the proposed exchange of security the rights of the Harbour Commission were in any way infringed upon, or whether the interests of the Commission were imperilled?—A. I do not think that they were endangered, because we had the means of recovery in our hands, but that it might bring us into trouble. I must add to this that I had been told to follow Mr. McGreevy's opinion in this transaction, and I believed, from the report of the Minister, that I was right in following it.

Q. You were appointed Chairman of the Harbour Commission by the Government, yourself?—A. Yes, that is to say, I was elected by the votes of the Commission.

Q. But it was understood that it was the Government that appointed you?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, when you were appointed Chairman of the Harbour Commission, were you put there as a safeguard to the interests of the Commission or to do as Mr. McGreevy would tell you to do?—A. That is what I told at my examination in chief. When I saw that Mr. McGreevy wanted to take the control, then I asked the Minister whether I did well in following his advice or not.

Q. Then when Mr. McGreevy proposed anything before the Commission, you considered that you had nothing to do except accepting his propositions?—A. Not always, since on various occasions I consulted the Minister of Public Works. If you want to know a little more, Mr. Fitzpatrick, I will tell you. On one occasion, Mr. Langevin said to me: If the Commission does not act properly I shall dissolve it.

Q. Will you tell us what the different points were upon which you consulted Sir Hector, and with respect to which you considered that the Commission was not doing its duty; in other words, did you ever complain to Sir Hector Langevin that Mr. McGreevy was doing something in the Harbour Commission that he ought not to have done?—A. I never complained particularly by saying that some one was doing wrong in the Commission, I simply said what I have told in my examination-in-chief, namely, that Mr. McGreevy had the air of taking the control of matters, and always made use of Sir Hector's name, and I wanted to assure myself, by private conversation with Sir Hector, as well as by private conversation with Mr. McGreevy, whether such was really the case. Then I said certain things to Sir Hector, which were afterwards repeated to me, particularly the last words that I have just told: "that if the Commission did not do well he would dissolve the Commission." These words were repeated and reported to me by Mr. McGreevy, and that proved that communications were made between Mr. McGreevy and Sir Hector. I complained to Sir Hector once that the expenses of the Commission were a little too high. I caused the papers concerning all the expenses to be given to me, and I think that there is one of them which has been laid before the Committee to-day here, and I gave him the figures of all the amounts expended by the Commission. I asked that reductions should be made in the office, and I acted according to what Sir Hector told me in the circumstances.

Q. When you saw that substitution of security in regard to Gallagher & Murphy's contract, which you did not consider as regular, did you at the time complain to anybody about it? Did you complain to the Harbour Commission, or to any one of the members of the Harbour Commission?—A. I remember that there was a letter submitted to the Commission to inform the firm.

Q. The question which I put to you is this: When the change of security, of which you spoke as having been made in consequence of a letter from Mr. McGreevy, took place, did you then speak of it to the Harbour Commission, or to any one of the members of the Harbour Commission?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you speak to Sir Hector Langevin of that substitution?—A. I do not remember to have spoken to him about it.

Q. If it was not according to what you considered right to be done at the time, why did you not speak of it before the Harbour Commission, and why did not you speak about it to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I did not speak to Sir Hector Langevin about it because I had his words I have told you, namely: that I should act and not make any mistake; to follow Mr. McGreevy and I could not make a mistake, for that he was our mutual friend, a trusty man—and then I followed him. I did not speak about it to the Harbour Commission, because it was Mr. McGreevy's wish that it should not be spoken about.

Q. So that, as Chairman of the Harbour Commission, having cognizance of transactions such as this one, which you thought to be not quite according to rule, you did not speak to the Commission of which you were Chairman, because Mr. McGreevy asked you not to do so. That is what you say, is it not?—A. That is what I have just repeated. I did it because Mr. McGreevy insisted, as being Chairman of the Finance Committee, that it was he who should decide, and that Sir Hector Langevin knew of the matter.

Q. Will you now repeat to us, if you please, the letter, or the words of the letter, read to you by Mr. Verret as you told us in your examination in chief, as having come from Mr. McGreevy?—A. I cannot remember all the words.

Q. To the best of your knowledge, tell them to us?—A. I know he began the letter by the words: "I see no objection," and so on.

Q. Did you read the letter yourself or did you hear it read only?—A. I took the letter in my hand, I saw the signature of the letter and I saw the writing, and as I went to take out my spectacles to read the letter I perceived that I had not got them, then Mr. Verret read the letter to me. I thought I might take Mr. Verret's version, for he is a very honest man.

Q. Will you read the letter now submitted to you, and which is produced as Exhibit "L," aloud?—A. The letter reads as follows:

"I see objection to your taking Mr. O. E. Murphy's cheque enclosed by N. Connolly for the one you now hold on deposit.

"Yours truly,

THOMAS MCGREEVY."

Q. That is not the letter read to you?—A. No. If it had been the letter read to me, I would have said: "Mr. Verret, don't you accept it."

Q. Can you say whether or not the letter that Mr. Verret read to you is or is not the letter you have just read?—A. All I can say is that I did not read the letter, but I saw a letter similar to this one. It appears to me to be a similar letter to this.

Q. Was not this, in all respects, the letter that Mr. Verret read to you?—A. He gave me this letter, and, as I stated, I felt for my spectacles. I said: "I have not got my spectacles with me," and he said: "I will read it for you." He took the letter and read it to me.

Q. So that as far as you are concerned you cannot say whether this is the same letter or not?—A. I cannot say it was. Yes or no. It is the same signature that I saw at the foot of the letter.

Mr. FITZPATRICK—There is one word that you have made a mistake about in reading the letter. You said "enclosed" instead of "endorsed."

Q. You spoke of a declaration that you made to Sir Hector at the time of the last general election?—A. Yes.

Q. In that declaration you stated that the accusations brought against the Harbour Commission, of having committed malversations, were unfounded?—A. I cannot at this time at all remember what the letter said. It was written in Sir Hector's hand, and he presented it to me in such an unexpected way, I thought it was to please the Minister at election time. I thought it was an election matter, nothing more.

Q. In any case, a man occupying an important position like yourself, who was then Chairman of the Harbour Commission, who was a candidate at the general elections, and who had before occupied the position of member of Parliament, would not sign a document containing what is not true?—A. Why did he ask me to do it, who knew well that it was not true, and who was in a higher position than I was, why did he ask me to do it?

Q. But is it because a man is in a higher position than yourself that you should sign a document which does not contain the truth?—A. If I had not been hurried, and had had time to think, but, you understand, at a moment, when one is caught without reflecting, I did not do this thing with due reflection. I thought it was a soother for the Minister, as I have told you.

Q. Since you signed the said document you have been defeated at the Dominion elections? Have you not?—A. Yes, sir. There being two Conservatives in the lists, we knew that we would be defeated, that is to say, we were three Conservatives in the field.

Q. You, as representing an element of the Conservative party in the county, had not a large majority, the number of votes you had did not diminish Mr. Tarte's majority?—A. I did not diminish Mr. Tarte's majority, because I knew very well that two Conservatives could not be elected.

Q. Since that time you have ceased to be Chairman of the Harbour Commission?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not true that you were likewise promised the position of Senator, and that they have always refused to give it to you?—A. I must reply to this by saying that I had the same promise of being made a Senator as you had of being made a Minister in the Local Government.

By the Chairman:

Q. And you both met with the same success?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick:

Q. Now, in reply to that, as I have never had any promise from any one whatever of being made a Minister, can you tell me as much about your position of Senator?—A. I cannot say as much as that; but I will tell you that Sir Adolphe Caron came to my house and made that promise to me in 1879 or 1880, in the presence of my late wife, and I had not asked it of him, please observe. He came and offered it to me to obtain a favour from me, namely, to ask me not to stand at that time, because in 1879 I had been contested, and I had then made some arrangements—a compromise—with Mr. Langlois, that if I presented myself again I should give a cheque for $1,000 as a forfeit. Then he came to give me as a reason, Mr. Caron came to speak in Sir Hector's and the late Sir John's names, saying that if I did not present myself as a candidate for the county I should have the place of Senator because they wanted to get our Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Angers, elected. This is why they wanted me to step aside, and this is the reason why the place of a Senator was offered to me, and why the Senatorship had since been cast up to me. I did not give up for that; I only gave up after I had an interview with Sir Hector, who impressed upon me that it was necessary for the party that Mr. Angers should be allowed to run.

Q. Did Sir Hector tell you also that you would be made senator?—A. No; he told me in the presence of Mr. Caron. "You may take our friend, Mr. Caron's word." The Minister would not promise, but I understood that I might trust what Mr. Caron said would be executed.

Q. That promise has never been fulfilled?—A. I expect my appointment at the same time that you get yours.

Q. Now, you spoke of the electoral subscriptions which were made by Larkin, Connolly & Co. in 1887. Can you remember what sum you had from Mr. McGreevy in 1887, for your elections?—A. No, I do not remember, but you can get the receipts from Mr. McGreevy; every time that Mr. McGreevy gave me money he took a receipt.

Q. Now, you said you received a hundred dollars from Mr. Murphy for a man who had been burnt out?—A. Yes.

Q. You were Chairman of the Harbour Commission in 1885?—A. I think I was.

Q. And Mr. Murphy and Larkin, Connolly & Co. were contractors at the time?—A. Yes.

Q. On the 12th August, 1885, you received $125 from Mr. Murphy?—A. I do not say that I did not receive them. I cannot remember at all. I applied to Mr. Murphy for two or three charitable purposes, and he gave me for these same purposes. I will take Mr. Murphy's version of that without question. I know that I received money from him for these purposes, and particularly one which was given at St. Tite. I think it was a hundred dollars. I sent it to the priest at St. Tite, and it was a Mr. Pontin, who received that money.

Q. During the last election you received another electoral subscription, did you not?—A. Yes; this time it was from Mr. Connolly.

Q. Which?—A. Michael.

Q. Now, have you given us all the amounts that you received from the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., or from Mr. Murphy?—A. I do not recollect all the amounts. They were small amounts, and I gave him the list. Mr. Murphy will inform you about these details.

Q. But besides Mr. Murphy did nobody give you anything?—A. I do not remember. It is possible. It was as a subscription or for charitable purposes, the particulars of which I gave then.

Q. So that, when you obtained electoral subscriptions, you naturally applied to them as public contractors at the time?—A. I did not apply to them as contractors but as friends. There are some friends who subscribed money for my elections who are not contractors. In fact, before this I had received subscriptions, under enclosure, from people whom I did not know, or sometimes small sums, but I know very well it did not come from that source. I have known since whom it did come from.

Q. When you had an interview with Sir Hector Langevin, during the last general elections, can you remember the two electors who were present there?—A. I can only remember the name of Mr. Edward Cauchon, the other I cannot remember.

Q. It was a man from your county, from the County of Montmorency?—A. Yes, I do not deny that. I gave the letter. I was there.

Q. Is it not true now, that you signed the declaration of which you spoke before those men, and that they acted as witnesses to the declaration which you made?—A. He took them as witnesses naturally, and the letter was written in Sir Hector's hand. I did not see it; it was presented to me by him; I saw it in his hand, but I did not examine it.

Q. According to the constitution of the Harbour Commission, was it not necessary that all the contracts which were to be given out should be submitted for approbation to the Minister of Public Works in Canada?—A. Yes.

Q. And the Minister of Public Works in Canada necessarily exercises a certain influence on the contracts which are to be given out?—A. It was he who should give the Order-in-Council authorizing the execution of the contract.

Q. This applies likewise to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, does it not?—A. I do not know that; but our communications have always been with Sir Hector. It is possible that there may be some connection with the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, but I do not remember that.

Q. So that it is with regard to his position as Minister of Public Works that you had relation with Sir Hector?—A. Always with Sir Hector.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Of how many members was the Harbour Commission composed?—A. We were nine.

Q. Five were appointed by the Government?—A. Yes, five by the Government.

Q. And it was the majority of the nine who appointed the chairman?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Had you cognizance whether a contract was made for thirty-five cents a yard for the deepening of the Basin?—A. There were two contracts.

Q. The second contract?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. You only ratified the instructions which came from Ottawa?—A. Yes, through the medium of Mr. McGreevy who spoke in the name of Mr. Langevin, and I believe I spoke about this to the Minister, as I said when I was examined before.

Q. Had you knowledge of some change being made in the construction of a wall of the Basin, a diminution or an enlargement?—A. Do you mean the South-wall?

Q. What was the depth of the change made?—A. It was a change which was made without my knowledge, because if a change of that nature had been brought to my knowledge, I should have laid it before the Commission, but it was done without my knowledge; that is to say, for the elevation of the base.

Q. If I understand you rightly, the majority of the Commission received, through the intervention of Mr. McGreevy, the wishes of the Minister and acted accordingly?—A. I will tell you. For instance, when we wanted money, it was Mr. McGreevy who acted for the Minister and who always said: "The Minister told me you would ask for money because he is going away during the vacation, therefore ask for money." Then when money was asked for, it was delayed and Mr. McGreevy said: "Push on. I have come from Ottawa and I know that it has passed the Council." We knew our instructions from Mr. McGreevy rather than from the Department.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You said that the contract for dredging at 35 cents was given by the orders and directions given by Mr. McGreevy, as representing Sir Hector Langevin at the Harbour Commission?—A. I said that I saw by that after having been informed by Mr. McGreevy that it was all correct, that the matter had been decided by all the Commission as it is entered in the minutes.

Q. Is it not true that this contract for 35 cents, of which you have just spoken as having been given because Mr. McGreevy had requested that it should be so done in the name of the Department, was given at a meeting of the Commission held on the 10th May, 1887, and that this was on the authority of a letter written by Mr. Perley?—A. I do not tell you that a letter did not come from Mr. Perley. I am not speaking to you about that at all; but I tell you that I had the idea from Mr. McGreevy telling me that it must be done that it was the best thing to do, and that we must do it.

Q. Is it not true that in the minutes of the Harbour Commission it is stated at page 116 of volume 6, number 182, that on 10th May, 1887, the following letter was received :

"Received a letter from Henry F. Perley, Chief Engineer to the Quebec Harbour Commission, transmitting a copy of a correspondence exchanged between himself and the contractors, Larkin, Connolly & Co., in relation to the dredging to be done in the Wet Dock, Harbour works, a portion of which, he states, it is desirable should be done during the ensuing summer, and recommending that the offer of Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. to do the work at thirty-five (35) cents per yard be accepted, as he considers their price to be fair and reasonable, and suggesting that the expenditure in dredging during the year be limited to $100,000."

Q. By whom is the letter signed? By whoever you wish?—A. I have not the minutes.

Q. Then the minute is correct?—A. I think that it is correct.

Q. Is it not true that at the same meeting of the Harbour Commission it was resolved as follows, as appears on page 117 of volume 6 :

"Resolved, that a contract be signed with Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. agreeably with their tender for dredging the basin of the new Harbour works, provided : First. That the dredged material be placed and levelled in the Louise Embankment, or on such other locality belonging to the Harbour Commissioners, or that may hereafter be acquired by the Harbour Commissioners ; Second. That the actual contract be confined to work this summer, limited to an expenditure of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) ; Third. That after conclusion of this season the Harbour Commissioners are to have the power of cancelling this contract without claim for damages of any kind, or compensation whatever. The price in tender for dredging being 35 cents per cubic yard.

(Signed) "P. V. VALIN,
"Chairman."

A. I tell you when I presided over that body the majority of the body forced the Chairman to make these minutes and to sign them. Then I accepted the minutes as they are written very willingly, because all that came before the Board appeared to me perfectly correct, and I would not have permitted anything that was not correct; but that does not prove the influence brought to bear by one member upon another member outside of the meeting.

Q. You said a moment ago, that it was under the influence of Mr. McGreevy?—
A. I said it was Mr. McGreevy—that in what concerned myself I had consulted him to know whether we should vote for it. I do not tell you about the others; I speak for myself.

Q. Is it not true that at that meeting, when the contract was given, that Mr. McGreevy was not present at all?—A. I do not know, but I know I got his opinion.

Q. State by the records whether he was there or not?—A. I tell you that I endorsed the minutes, such as they were, but I tell you Mr. McGreevy gave me his opinion on the matter.

Q. State from the minutes whether he was present or not?—A. I see very well that his name is not there, but I tell you that I had consulted Mr. McGreevy upon the subject.

Q. Your salary as Chairman of the Harbour Commission was $2,000?—A. No, sir.

Q. How much was it?—A. $1,000.

Q. All the time?—A. It was always that all the time; out of that I had to take $1,000 to $1,500 for political subscriptions.

Q. In addition to the salary there was $5 a day as member of the Commission?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you remember whether any changes were made in the South-wall contract by the Harbour Commission?—A. No; excepting the change of substituting stone for brick. This was to be done without increasing the price of the contract.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. Mr. Valin, when you were member of Parliament at Ottawa you saw Mr. McGreevy and Sir Hector Langevin very frequently?—A. Yes; very frequently.

Q. Do you know whether the relations between them were intimate—constant?—A. Yes; exceedingly.

Q. Do you know where they both lived here in Ottawa?—A. Yes; I was invited by Sir Hector to his house, and I was likewise invited by Mr. McGreevy to take a glass of wine here, and at the residence of Mr. Langevin, where Mr. McGreevy was. He very often told me that he lived there; that it was his house—that he considered himself at home. They lived together.

Q. Is Mr. Laforce Langevin, of whom you spoke a little while ago, and who was appointed Assistant Engineer by the Harbour Commissioners, a young man of great reputation as an engineer? Was he considered very able?—A. No; he was always considered as not being very able. Our Engineer, on different occasions gave us hints on the subject without explaining himself too plainly.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Did you take any notes of the conversations that you held with Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I did take some at one time, which are now destroyed. I had a great many conversations at the time that I was member. I often went to see with regard to those works. I went to see Mr. Perley and other persons.

Q. I ask you this question, because you do not appear to have any doubt of the nature of those conversations. You remember perfectly the nature of those conversations?—A. Perfectly. I had them every time that I met Sir Hector, either at Quebec or here, or anywhere else.

Q. Mr. Valin, it was subsequent to those conversations with Sir Hector Langevin that you obtained those three sums for the elections from Mr. McGreevy?—A. It was understood that I should be a candidate, and I told Sir Hector Langevin that I ought to be helped. I cannot remember, perhaps all, but I can remember one circumstance out of the two or three that I had.

Q. You gave three receipts to Mr. McGreevy?—A. Yes; I gave two or three receipts, according to the amounts that I received from him.

Q. Will you tell me how it happened that you can remember the conversations that you had with Sir Hector, and that you cannot remember the sums that you received from Mr. McGreevy, and for which you gave receipts?—A. I can remember a little, but for fear of making a mistake I want to see them here, so as to know about the matter.

Q. You state that although having given receipts you do not remember the amounts of the subscriptions given to you by Mr. McGreevy for which you gave those receipts?—A. I do not remember whether it was $250 or $500 at a time, but the receipts will show. I am not fully clear on that, but the receipts will prove.

The Committee then adjourned till 3 p.m.

FRIDAY, 17th July, 3 o'clock p.m.

Mr. JULIEN CHABOT, SWORN.

By the Chairman :

Q. You live in Quebec?—A. I live at Lévis.

Q. Near Quebec?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You are the manager of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company?—
A. I am.

Q. Since how long?—A. Since 1889.

Q. Are you also a member of the Harbour Commission at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Since how long?—A. Since 1870, I think it is.

Q. By whom were you appointed?—A. By the Government and by the Board of Trade.

Q. You know the steamer "Admiral"?—A. I do.

Q. Where is that steamer running?—A. From Dalhousie to Gaspé.

Q. How long have you known that ship?—A. Since 1883.

Q. Had you an interest in that ship?—A. I have no interest.

Q. Was your name connected with the ship?—A. I was the owner of the vessel.

Q. The registered owner?—A. The registered owner.

Q. Where you owning the ship on your own account or on somebody else's account?—A. It was on somebody else's account.

Q. You were running it in your name in the interest of a third party?—A. I was authorized by the President of the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company at the time, the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, to look out for a steamer for the Baie des Chaleurs route, and I had that part of the transaction—to look out for a steamer—and Mr. McGreevy, the President, had the financial part of the transaction.

Q. The steamer was bought in your own name?—A. The steamer was bought in my name.

Q. Was it paid for with your money?—A. No.

Q. With whose money was it paid?—A. Mr. McGreevy told me to buy a boat. I objected then, because the company had no money. Well, he says, "I will advance you the money, by advancing $2,000, and then we will get the balance sometime afterwards." Try to secure the boat, "because the boat is exactly the proportion we want." Mr. McGreevy advanced the money $2,000, and by his direction I bought the boat in my own name, because he advanced the money himself.

Q. How much did you pay for the boat; what was the agreed price?—A. $16,000.

Q. How much was paid in cash?—A. $2,000.

Q. And the ship was registered in your name?—A. In my name.

Q. How was the balance paid?—A. The balance was paid about three weeks after, and the money was provided by Mr. McGreevy.

Q. So you put no money of your own into that ship?—A. No, with the exception of some disbursements that was re-imbursed.

Q. They were considered advanced?—A. Yes.

Q. And after each season did you account for the result of the season?—A. Certainly.

Q. To whom did you account?—A. To Mr. McGreevy.

Q. And whatever had been realized would it be paid to Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes; to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Amongst the moneys received by you on account of the running of that ship was a subsidy from the Federal Government, was there not?—A. There was.

Q. Will you take communication of Exhibit "F 10" and say whether these are the articles of agreement?—A. They were. It was the contract which I signed for five years for $12,500.

Q. These articles are between yourself as apparent owner on the one side, and the Government of Her Majesty on the other?—A. Yes.

Q. And in these articles of agreement it was stipulated that you should receive for certain services rendered in connection with the postal service, $12,500 a year?—A. Exactly.

Q. And this agreement was made for five years?—A. For five years.

Q. And was it executed between both parties for that period?—A. Certainly.

Q. And the money was paid to you?—A. Exactly.

Q. And being received by you from Her Majesty's Government was accounted for and the money was paid to Mr. McGreevy?—A. Exactly.

Q. At the expiry of this agreement, dated 7th November, 1883, and marked Exhibit "F 10," was it renewed with the Government?—A. Yes; I did not sign any agreement in 1883.

Q. Was it renewed?—A. Yes; it was renewed.

Q. You received a letter?—A. I received a letter which I did not sign.

Q. Will you take communication of a letter dated May 25th, 1888, being a copy of a letter sent by A. P. Bradley, Secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals, purporting to be addressed to you, and say whether you have received a letter similar to that?—A. I received such a letter. It read as follows:

31372.

Subject 964.

Registered.

"DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS,

"OTTAWA, 25th May, 1888.

"SIR,—I am instructed to enclose to you herewith a draft of contract in duplicate for the running of your steamer 'Admiral' between Dalhousie and Gaspé, for the period of five years, dating from the opening of navigation in 1888 in connection with the Intercolonial Railway.

"Will you please fill in the date of your signature and have it properly witnessed, returning both the documents here for the Minister's execution.

"I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed) "A. P. BRADLEY,

Secretary.

"JULIEN CHABOT, Esq.,

"Lévis, Province of Quebec.

"Enclosed agreement in duplicate No. 9331."

Q. Will you also look at another document, dated 17th May, 1890, being a copy of a letter signed by Mr. Bradley and addressed to you, and say whether you received such a letter?—A. Yes; that is it. I know it was in 1890. It reads as follows:

(Exhibit "M11.")

"DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS AND CANALS,

"OTTAWA, 17th May, 1890.

"SIR,—On the 25th May, 1888, a draft of agreement respecting the terms by which the steamer 'Admiral' was to receive a subsidy for plying between Dalhousie and the Baie des Chaleurs and Gaspé Ports was sent to you for signature, but has not been received in the Department. I am instructed to draw your attention to this, and to ask that the agreement be executed and returned here at as early a date as possible.

"I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

(Signed) "A. P. BRADLEY,

"Secretary.

"J. CHABOT, Esq.,
"Lévis, P.Q."

Q. This letter also refers to the same steamer "Admiral"?—A. Yes.

Q. I see by this letter of the 17th May, 1890, reference is made to a letter previously mentioned and addressed to you on the 25th May, 1888, with enclosure, and your attention is called to the fact that you have not signed the agreement therein contained. What did you answer to this letter?—A. At the time I could not find it out, but since, in looking over my papers I find it out. I know the reason. It mentioned that I was the owner of the "Admiral" in 1888, and I was not. That was the reason I did not sign it then.

Q. Who was the owner in 1888?—A. Mr. Robert McGreevy.

Q. When did you transfer your apparent ownership in the ship to Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. It was some time in 1888.

Q. Will you take communication of the document now shown to you and say whether it is not the transfer of your apparent right in the property of the ship—a bill of sale you would call it. Did you sign in favour of Mr. Robert McGreevy? A.—Yes.

Q. It is dated 2nd February, 1888, and will be marked Exhibit "N-11." Since that date you have had nothing to do with the "Admiral"?—A. Since last year.

Q. When did you become owner again?—A. Some time last year, under the mortgage.

Q. Who was the mortgagee?—A. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. For what consideration did he re-transfer you the ship? Did you pay him his mortgage?—A. No.

Q. Did anybody pay him his mortgage?—A. No.

Q. Is the mortgage still due him?—A. I had to give him the mortgage. He transferred the boat in my name and I gave him the mortgage.

Q. He still remained the mortgagee?—A. I became the owner.

Q. You became the apparent debtor and mortgagor?—A. Yes.

Q. How much is that mortgage?—A. $25,000.

Q. Is the amount still due?—A. Still due.

Q. What rate of interest is paid on it?—A. Six per cent.

Q. Is it your debt?—A. No.

Q. Whose?—A. Mr. McGreevy's.

Q. Which Mr. McGreevy?—A. The Hon. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. The amount is really due by the Hon. Thomas McGreevy?—A. The boat was transferred to me and I gave a mortgage for $25,000.

Q. As a mortgage is only a guarantee of debt I want to know who owes the debt?—A. I owe the debt and the boat is responsible for it.

Q. Suppose the ship would be lost would you look to some one else?—A. I am not responsible for it. I got an arrangement with Mr. Connolly. I have his letter.

Q. Are there any writings showing this arrangement?—A. Yes.

Q. You have a letter from Nicholas Connolly about that?—A. Yes.

Q. You have brought those papers with you?—A. Yes.

Q. They are now in your possession?—A. They are at the hotel.

Q. You are ready to state that you never borrowed that money for your own private use?—A. No.

Q. The ship now stands in your name?—A. Yes.

Q. Who owns the ship?—A. Me.

Q. For whom?—A. For the same party—the Hon. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Whatever may be profits made during the present season on that ship, to whom will you account?—A. Hon. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. You are now keeping your books with a view of accounting at the end of the season to the Hon. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Exactly.

Q. Whilst you were owner for the first time of the ship, did you not mortgage the ship in favour of James G. Ross?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you look at this document (which will be marked Exhibit "O11,") and say whether this would not be the mortgage you signed?—A. That is my signature.

Q. At whose request did you sign it?—A. Hon. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. And when the mortgage was settled who paid it?—A. Mr. Thomas McGreevy borrowed the money from Mr. Connolly. The transaction was made by Mr. Thomas McGreevy. When the boat was transferred by Mr. Connolly he was the mortgagee.

Q. Did you receive the Federal subsidy last year as usual?—A. I did.

Q. And are you now under articles of agreement as in the previous years for the same amount of Federal subsidy of $12,500?—A. The same subsidy was paid last year.

Q. But the present year?—A. No. Everything was transferred by Mr. Thomas McGreevy to Nicholas Connolly.

Q. The subsidy was transferred?—A. All his interest in the ship is transferred.

Q. Have you any papers to show that?—A. I have got the notarial document.

Q. That you can file?—A. Yes, but I have not got it with me.

By the Chairman :

Q. It is a pity you did not bring it with you.—A. I asked Mr. Geoffrion if I would be required to-day, and he told me he would not require me this afternoon.

Mr. GEOFFRION—I acknowledge it is my fault. To witness: You just mentioned that Thomas McGreevy transferred his interest to Nicholas K. Connolly. When was that?—A. I could not exactly say. It was in the month of February, but I could not exactly say what date.

Q. At any rate the paper would tell?—A. Yes.

Q. Notwithstanding the paper filed with you, is it not a fact that you are to account for the proceeds of the season's receipts to Thomas McGreevy?—A. No, to Nicholas K. Connolly. All the interests in regard to the vote I am to account to Nicholas K. Connolly.

Q. And you have nothing more to do with Thomas McGreevy?—A. I have nothing more to do with Thomas McGreevy.

By the Chairman :

Q. Who is the owner of the ship to-day?—A. I am.

Q. In name?—A. Yes.

Q. On whose behalf do you hold the ship?—A. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. What is the position of Nicholas Connolly in regard to that ship—I am talking of this year, not of any other year?—A. He owns the whole interest in the ship now.

Q. He has the mortgage?—A. He has the mortgage.

Q. Is Thomas McGreevy responsible for the amount of the mortgage?—A. Not at all.

Q. He has no more responsibility?—A. Exactly, because everything was transferred to Nicholas Connolly.

Q. But the private understanding I mean—Is Thomas McGreevy to remain responsible to Mr. Connolly?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. But from what Mr. McGreevy told you?—A. He did not tell me. All he did say was that his interest had been transferred. I have not had a word with him about the "Admiral" since.

Q. So you are no longer responsible to Thomas McGreevy?—A. No.

Q. Is Thomas McGreevy responsible in any way for the vessel now?—It depends entirely on the signing of that document whether he is or not.

Q. When was that document signed?—A. Last February.

Q. Before that time was Thomas McGreevy responsible for the mortgage?—A. —He was; but since I do not know.

Q. That contract with the Government is in whose name?—A. In my name.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. All these proceedings were colourable, I suppose. You were not the bônâ fide contractor then or since; you simply held in trust for Mr. McGreevy?—A. That is it, I suppose.

Q. You do not know whether N. K. Connolly holds in trust for Mr. McGreevy or not, so far as you are concerned?—A. No.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Did you account every year to Thomas McGreevy?—A. Exactly.

Q. For the whole of the working period?—A. Yes.

Q. And transferred to him any balance remaining?—A. Certainly.

Q. You did this every year until this year?—A. Until the month of February.

Q. And when Robert had the vessel he did the same?—A. Robert made the transfer to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. And to whom did you render your accounts?—A. To Robert McGreevy, until he made a transfer of his interest to Thomas.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. When did you purchase the "Admiral"?—A. In 1883.

Q. At that time you were the Manager, and Mr. McGreevy was the President of the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company?—A. Exactly.

Q. And you went with Mr. McGreevy to New York to buy the boat for the Company?—A. Yes.

Q. And you there saw the "Admiral," and thought she would suit you?—A. Yes.

Q. And after you had bought her and brought her to Canada you found the Company had not got the money to pay for her?—A. Yes.

Q. And you therefore had her registered in your name?—A. Exactly.

Q. Things went on until Mr. Connolly loaned $25,000 on the boat?—A. Mr. Ross.

Q. This money was borrowed from Mr. Connolly who bought Mr. Ross out?—A. That was when Mr. Robert McGreevy was owner.

Q. And subsequently Connolly as mortgagee took possession of the boat and handed her back to you after being in the name of Robert McGreevy?—A. Exactly.

Q. Then you remained proprietor nominally after Connolly became the mortgagee up to February last?—A. No; since February last.

Q. Up to that time Mr. McGreevy had an interest in the boat?—A. Exactly.

Q. And since February last Mr. Connolly is practically in possession and you are nominally the registered owner?—A. That is it.

Q. The agreement or assignment by Thomas McGreevy to Nicholas K. Connolly was executed before Mr. Meredith in Quebec on the 25th February, 1891?—A. Yes.

Q. Look at the document now produced and say whether it is a copy of the assignment or not?—A. Of course to be certain I would require to compare it with the document I have.

Copy of assignment filed as Exhibit "P11."

Q. Have you any doubt that it is a notarial copy?—A. I have no doubt.

Q. That assignment by Thomas McGreevy to Nicholas K. Connolly was duly certified by you?—A. Exactly.

Q. Since that assignment was made have you any reason to believe that Thomas McGreevy has any interest whatever direct or indirect in the "Admiral"?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. Have you any reason to believe that anything of the sort exists—that Thomas McGreevy has any interest in the boat now?—A. I do not believe he has.

Q. Is the boat still running?—A. She is running now on the Baie des Chaleurs.

Q. Did Thomas McGreevy exercise any control over her now?—A. Not in the least. Since the transfer was made I have had no conversation with him about the "Admiral" at all.

Q. No conversation with Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. You have ceased to deal with Thomas McGreevy as an interested party in the "Admiral"?—A. Yes.

Q. And you deal now only with Nicholas Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. When is the subsidy from the Government payable?—A. At the end of the season.

Q. And the end of the season is when?—A. About the 30th November.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. Do I understand you that when you went to New York to buy the boat it was the intention to buy it for the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company?—A. Yes. When Mr. McGreevy told me to buy the "Admiral" I objected because I knew the Company had not the money to pay the purchase price. He said I was to buy it in my name, and that he would advance $2,000 to secure the boat, and that I was to make an arrangement to pay the balance in 30 days. I did so and he furnished the money.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. Thomas McGreevy furnished the money to pay it?—A. Exactly.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. You have a contra letter from Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly?—A. I got one.

By Mr. Curran:

Q. Upon your oath now as an honest man, have you any doubts in your mind, who is the actual proprietor of that boat, since the transfer to Nicholas K. Connolly?—A. I have not the least doubt that Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly is now the proprietor of the boat.

Q. Who is the proprietor of that boat now?—A. By the fact that Mr. McGreevy transferred all his interest in the "Admiral" in February, the supposition is Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly is the owner of the boat.

By the Chairman:

Q. Is he the owner since the transfer?—A. I believe he is.

By Mr. Curran:

Q. What is your belief as to the owner of the boat since?—A. I have had no interview with Mr. Thomas McGreevy since, and I had several interviews with Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly.

By Mr. Osler:

Q. Is the vessel running now?—A. She is running now.

Q. Do you disburse for her and get her receipts, or who is the immediate agent?—A. Well, I am. The control is entirely with the captain.

Q. Who furnishes the captain with funds if he wants them?—A. I do.

Q. Where do you get them?—A. Of course I have the money.

Q. You have the ship's money?—A. I keep always a sufficient balance for the repairs.

Q. I see, you have money at the credit of the ship and you manage her. For whom are you managing her now?—A. Nicholas K. Connolly.

Q. From whom you are now receiving instructions?—A. Exactly. Of course I have always acted on my own judgment, and this is one of the reasons that I took the management of the vessel, because I did not want any interference whatever in the management. I am responsible for all the transactions on the boat.

Q. When you were notified in February last, was there money to the credit of the ship?—A. Yes, there was some money.

Q. And it continued to the same account.—A. Everything was transferred.

Q. Including the money?—A. Exactly.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Is the purser on board the same?—A. Yes.

Q. What is his name?—A. Thomas Boulton.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. To whom has the subsidy been paid?

Mr. OSLER.—The subsidy was paid last year to Mr. McGreevy, but it has not yet been paid this year.

By the Chairman :

Q. The ship is in your name, why is it not in the name of Mr. Connolly?—A. Well, the transfer was made.

Q. Tell me what is the reason you use your name?—A. Because I get the subsidy. I am responsible to the Government for carrying on that work.

Q. When was the contract signed?—A. The last contract in 1888 has not been signed, but it was by a letter which I have acknowledged.

Q. The contract has to be renewed every year?—A. Every year.

Q. And the contract, as well as the boat, stands in your own name?—A. Yes.

Q. Is that the only reason?—A. That is the only reason. I must explain that the boat was put in my name, and when Mr. McGreevy advanced the money he told me "I cannot contract with the Government as a member of Parliament, and as I am advancing the money you will put the boat in your own name until the matter is settled."

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Then Mr. McGreevy was really the mortgagee?—A. Exactly.

Q. So his name does not appear?—A. His name does not appear.

Q. When was that?—A. In 1883.

Q. And matters remained in that way until you got $25,000 from Mr. Ross?—A. Mr. Ross advanced the money, I presume, because I gave the mortgage by the instructions of Mr. McGreevy.

Q. When did you give that mortgage?—A. It was two years after that.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. With whom is the contract made with the Government now for the subsidy?—A. It is with me.

Q. And you know no reason why it should now stand in your own name? You have given a reason why it stood formerly, that Mr. McGreevy could not make a contract with the Government? What is the reason now?—A. Because the contract has been renewed in my name.

Q. But why?—A. Because it was for the "Admiral," and it has been renewed as owner of the "Admiral," and I told you before that at the time the contract was renewed I was asked if I was the owner of the "Admiral," and I was not, and at the time I objected to signing the contract.

Q. The last time the contract was renewed was last November?—A. No. It was in 1888.

Q. That is the first time it was made. But when was it renewed? I understood you to say it was from year to year?—A. In 1888.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. I want to understand from you what occurred, as I did not hear the first part of your evidence. You received original instructions to act as ship's husband from Mr. McGreevy?—A. Yes, because he was advancing the money.

Q. No matter what the reasons were, you acted?—A. I may tell you that the objection of buying the boat from the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company was—

Q. I heard that. Have the instructions given to you by Mr. McGreevy in 1883 been cancelled?—A. No.

Q. You have continued on them the same as from the beginning?—A. Yes.

Q. I am speaking of your personal dealings. You have been keeping account, buying supplies and supplying funds just the same as in 1883?—A. Yes, with the exception that now the interests I am keeping are the interests of Mr. N. K. Connolly.

Q. I say that you are carrying on the account the same as originally?—A. Exactly.

Q. And you began your connection with the boat and the keeping of this account under instructions from Mr. McGreevy?—Exactly.

Q. That those instructions from Mr. McGreevy had never been cancelled by him?—A. No.

Q. You may think you have to account to somebody else from what you know has happened?—A. I have to account to Nicholas K. Connolly.

Q. Do you know from the transfer?—A. From the notarial deed.

Q. Has Mr. McGreevy himself ever given you any notice?—A. By that notarial signification and he told me verbally too.

Q. Was the enterprise a profitable one, and the surplus from the work large?—A. Yes.

Q. Quite a surplus?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the amount that Mr. McGreevy advanced for the purchase of the boat?—A. $20,000.

Q. He sold it or transferred his interest to Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly for $25,000?—A. $35,000. The deed will explain it.

Q. The profits during that period until he transferred it to Mr. Connolly went to Mr. McGreevy?—A. Went to Mr. McGreevy.

Q. Personally?—A. Certainly.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. Was this notarial document served on you?—A. Yes.

By the Chairman :

Q. At the time Mr. Ross was mortgagee, to whom did you account?—A. Mr. McGreevy.

Q. What is the difference to-day between Mr. Ross and Mr. Connolly, as far as the interest is concerned?—A. Mr. Ross was a mortgagee and also Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly, but there is the additional difference that Mr. McGreevy has made a transfer of all his interest in the ship to Mr. Connolly.

Q. What can be that interest as you are the legal owner yourself?—A. Mortgagee in possession.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Did you give any answer to the gentleman over there as to what the profits of the boat were each year?—A. He asked me if the transaction was profitable.

A. How much did you say it was profitable?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. About?—A. I will be able to-morrow to give you the information.

Q. About how much do you remember?—A. About from $8,000 to $10,000 a year.

Q. Of profit?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Did you owe Mr. McGreevy any money in connection with the purchase of this boat?—A. No.

Q. Were you ever a really a debtor to Mr. McGreevy?—A. I was a debtor in this way, and my books will show it too—first, as a debtor because when Mr. McGreevy first advanced the money he advanced it with the expectation of being refunded by the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company; but finding they were unable to refund it, everything was considered his own interest. The earnings of the boat were credited to him every year.

Q. Is this a registered boat at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Under the Canadian law?—A. Yes.

The following document was filed by Mr. Geoffrion :

(Exhibit "Q 11.")

"P.C. No. 993.

"A CERTIFIED COPY of a Report of a Committee of the Honourable the Privy Council, approved by His Excellency the Governor General in Council, on the 10th May, 1888.

"On a Memorandum dated 2nd May, 1888, from the Minister of Railways and Canals recommending that he be authorized to sign on behalf of the Government the agreement, a draft of which is herewith submitted, by which Mr. Julien Chabot undertakes to run his steamer the "Admiral" on the route between Dalhousie and Gaspé in connection with the Intercolonial Railway, for the period of five years dating from the opening of Navigation in 1888, the Government undertaking, subject to conditions expressed in the said draft, to subsidise the said steamer service to the extent of $12,500.00 per annum.

"The Minister further recommends that provision of this amount for the forthcoming season be made in the Supplementary estimates for the year 1888-1889.

"The Committee advise that the requisite authority be granted as recommended.

"JOHN J. MCGEE,

"Clerk, Privy Council.

"The Minister of Railways and Canals."

"An agreement made and entered into this      day of      A.D., one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

"Between Her Majesty Queen Victoria, represented in this behalf by the Honourable the Minister of Railways and Canals for Canada, of the one part,

"And Julien Chabot, of the Town of Lévis, in the Province of Quebec, steamboat-owner, of the other part.

"This agreement provides as follows :

"1. The said Julien Chabot agrees to place his steamer, the "Admiral," on the route between Dalhousie and Gaspé, to run in connection with the Intercolonial Railway for the period of five years, commencing at the earliest opening of navigation in the year 1888, and in each of the four following years, and continuing the whole season in each of said years without interruption and until navigation is actually closed in each year respectively, by the freezing over of the river at Dalhousie. Provided, however, that if, by reason of the opening of all or any part of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway within the term of this contract, the said contractor should be called upon so to do, the said steamer may be required by the said Minister to perform this service in part only between Dalhousie and Gaspé with an equal mileage on another route.

"2. The said Julien Chabot agrees that the said side-wheel steamer "Admiral" aforesaid, shall be provided with a proper and sufficient crew, and with sufficient boats and life-saving apparatus, and that she will in all respects conform to all the legal requirements. She will also be maintained during the whole term of this contract in the same state of efficiency.

"3. The steamer shall make two round trips per week, leaving either end at such day and hour as may, from time to time, be fixed by the said Minister of Railways and Canals, or his successors in office, and she shall call at the following places, viz.: Dalhousie, Carleton, New Richmond, Paspebiac, Port Daniel, Newport, Little Pabos and Percé, and at such other place or places on the north side of the Baie des Chaleurs as the said Minister or his successors in office may from time to time direct.

"4. The steamer shall carry all mails and the officer in charge of them free of charge, landing and receiving the mails on the shore by her boats at such places as she cannot come alongside a wharf, or where there is no wharf.

"5. The steamer shall have free of charge the use of the railway wharf at Dalhousie, but the Railway Department reserves the right to charge wharfage and storage on all local freight landed and embarked at the said railway wharf.

"6. The railway will deliver and receive all freight at the railway wharf, Dalhousie, in cars. The said Julien Chabot, must at his own expense, provide all the labour necessary at the wharf, and must unload the freight from the cars into the store on the wharf and load it on board the steamer and must also unload the freight from the steamer and put it into the store and into the cars.

"7. The said Julien Chabot shall be at the expense of transferring the mails and passengers, and baggage between the Dalhousie passenger station and the railway wharf, and the vehicles used for these purposes will be subject to the approval of the said Minister or his successors in office.

"8. The rates for passengers and for freight shall be subject to the approval of the said Minister or his successors in office, and in the case of through rates, the divisions shall be such as may be settled by the said Minister or his successors in office.

"9. The said Julien Chabot shall provide at his own expense the necessary agents at the different points on the route.

"10. The said Julien Chabot shall be responsible for all railway freight, back charges and other expenses due upon any freight or baggage transferred to the steamer, and the full amount shall be paid over to the railway without deduction or abatement of any kind.

"11. The accounts between the railway and the steamer shall be settled every week and the balance due paid over in cash.

"12. The said Julien Chabot shall settle in a just and equitable manner any claim which may arise on account of injury to passengers or of loss of, or of damage delay to freight while in transit by the steamer or in the hands of his agents.

"13. If coal or other stores or labour is furnished to the steamer by the railway, the charges for the same must be paid weekly.

"14. The said Julien Chabot shall pay one-half the cost of advertising the route.

"15. In consideration of the foregoing and provided that said Julien Chabot perform the requirements of this contract. Her Majesty will pay to the said Julien Chabot for each of the seasons of 1888, 1889, 1890, 1891 and 1892, the annual subsidy or sum of twelve thousand five hundred dollars, but Her Majesty shall not be bound to pay any portion of the said subsidy unless the service for the period then expired has been performed to the satisfaction of the said Minister or his successors in office.

"16. The Government shall have the right to deduct from the said subsidy any balance due to the railway, for freight or back charges, or for coal or other stores or labour furnished, or for damages to passengers or animals or goods while in transit in the steamer.

"17. The said Julien Chabot shall conform to such orders and regulations as may be made from time to time by the said Minister of Railways and Canals, or his successors in office.

"18. Should the steamer fail at any time during the term of this contract to meet all or any of the foregoing requirements, or should the said Julien Chabot fail to perform all the stipulations herein contained or any of them, the said Minister or his successors in office shall have the right to terminate the contract, and all the subsidy then due shall be forfeited, and the said Minister of Railways and Canals, or his successors in office, shall be the sole and final judge of the performance or non-performance by the said Julien Chabot of the stipulations, conditions, and agreements herein contained.

“In witness whereof the said Julien Chabot hath hereto set his hand and seal, and these presents have been signed and sealed by the said Minister, and countersigned by the Secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals on behalf of Her Majesty.

Mr. G. B. BURLAND SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you take communication of Exhibit “X10” and say whether this letter is signed by you?—A. It is signed by me.

Q. In whose handwriting is the body of the document?—A. That I cannot say.

Q. Is it in the handwriting of any of your clerks?—A. I think not.

Q. Was not the document prepared beforehand and handed to you for signature?—A. I should say this one was.

Q. I will put you the same question with regard to Exhibit “B11.” Is this also signed by you?—A. It is signed by my son.

Q. Your son Jeffrey Burland. You notice that the body of the document is in the same handwriting as the body of the other letter I showed you?—A. I think not.

Q. Will you compare?—A. The first one I do not recognize at present. The second is my son’s.

Q. The body of the document also?—A. Yes.

Q. The first one is dated 1st October, 1886, and the second is dated 13th November, 1886. Do you notice that the letters are exactly in the same terms?—A. It is the same meaning, but the words are not the same.

Q. I think there is a third one. Will you look at another letter, being Exhibit “D11”, dated 17th December, and say whom it is signed by?—A. These letters are signed by my son and I think while I was in bed with a broken leg.

Q. The handwriting in the body you do not recognize?—A. No.

Q. Mr. Noel is manager of the Quebec Bank in this city?—A. Yes.

Q. You say in that letter, “As trustee of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, I am instructed to send you a cheque for $8,000, which sum you will be good enough to pay over to any person whom the Hon. T. Robitaille, President of the company, may direct.” That is signed by yourself, “G. B. Burland.” Will you say by whom you were so instructed?—A. Perhaps, to make the transaction clear, I should make an explanation. The letter says I am trustee for the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. I am, properly speaking, trustee for the sub-contractors. I have nothing to do with the railway. I assisted the sub-contractors and the subsidies were transferred to me to pay them and secure myself. There were instalments to be paid from time to time by the Government as the work progressed and there was a surplus over what the sub-contractors ought to get and that money was to be handed to the bank. I am pretty sure it was Mr. Armstrong, the contractor, who instructed me that the balance of the money was to go in this way.

Q. So far as you can remember now, you were so instructed by Mr. C. N. Armstrong?—A. I think so; I never saw Mr. Robitaille or Mr. Riopel.

Q. Nor Robert H. McGreevy?—A. I do not know the gentleman.

Q. The only parties you saw were Armstrong and O'Brien?—A. Yes. I assisted O'Brien to take the work and the money was paid to me as the estimates were coming in and I paid it out to O'Brien as he required it from time to time. The balance, that is the surplus, I was ordered to send in this way to the bank by Mr. Armstrong.

Q. How much of that surplus did you pay to Mr. Robitaille or anyone else by the order of Mr. Armstrong and Mr. O'Brien?—A. I paid $8,000 to Mr. Armstrong and three payments out of three instalments from the Government to Mr. Noel. There were also other payments due by the sub-contractors, that is, liabilities, but I do not remember the names just now. There were, however, liabilities to other parties which were paid on behalf of the sub-contractors.

Q. Did you pay anything to Mr. Riopel?—A. No.

Q. And the only amounts you did not pay to the contractors or to yourself were the four amounts of $8,000 each?—A. The only cash paid to Mr. Armstrong on his account was the first $8,000. I handed that to Mr. C. N. Armstrong himself, and then there were the three other instalments at the three different periods paid to Mr. Noel.

Q. That is the three cheques referred to in those letters?—A. Yes; I have the dates of them.

Q. Give the dates, please?—A. The first instalment I received from the Government was $60,000; the first payment was 30th September, to Mr. Armstrong.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. What year?—A. 1886. Then on 1st October I paid $8,000 to Mr. Noel; 15th November, $8,000 to Mr. Noel; 18th November, $8,000 to Mr. Noel. These are the four items of money I paid out of moneys received, apart from the sub-contractors.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Directly out of the Government subsidies?—A. The money that I received—yes.

Q. From the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. When you say you paid these sums to Mr. Noel they were paid to him to dispose of as Mr. Robitaille directed?—A. This is the authority for Mr. Noel. Of course I had to get a receipt.

Mr. JOHN G. BILLET, sworn.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. What position do you occupy?—A. I am local manager of the Union Bank, Quebec.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. What do you produce?—A. I produce a copy of the current account of the Honourable Thomas McGreevy with the Union Bank, from 1st January, 1882, to the 1st January, 1889 (Exhibit "R11.") I produce a copy of O. E. Murphy's account for the same period (Exhibit "S11.") I have also N. K. Connolly's from 23rd January, 1889, to 6th June of the same year (Exhibit "T11.")

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. The account was only opened then?—A. Yes. I produce also copy of Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s account from 30th December, 1888 to 30th June, 1889. (Exhibit "U11.")

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, TUESDAY, 21st July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. C. N. ARMSTRONG sworn.

By the Chairman :

Q. What is your name?—A. Charles N. Armstrong.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You were contractor for the building of part of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I was.

Q. For the whole or part of it?—A. The whole 100 miles.

Q. When did you have that contract?—A. In June, 1886.

Q. Have you been one of the Directors of the Company at any time?—A. No, sir.

Q. Or a promoter?—A. No, sir.

Q. Who were the President and Directors?—A. The Honourable Théodore Robitaille was President, and Mr. L. G. Riopel was Managing Director.

Q. And the other directors you cannot remember?—A. There was another Mr. Robitaille—Dr. Robitaille—who was a director at that time, and Mr. Robert McGreevy, and I am not quite sure whether Mr. Thomas McGreevy was a director at that time.

Q. Were they shareholders?—A. Robert McGreevy was a shareholder.

Q. Do you know whether Thomas McGreevy was ever a shareholder?—A. I believe he was, or had been. I believe he transferred his shares to his brother. I had nothing to do with the Company, so I don't know personally.

Q. Did you buy any shares from Robert McGreevy—it was at the time when Thomas McGreevy had ceased to be stockholder—that is what you were told, he had transferred his shares to his brother Robert?—A. That is what I was told.

Q. What was the number of shares you bought from Robert?—A. $75,000.

Q. Was that the nominal value of the shares?—A. Yes; the nominal value.

Q. How much did you agree to pay for them?—A. I agreed to pay $50,000 in cash and $25,000 in bonds of the Company.

Q. Was there a written agreement to that effect?—A. There was an agreement of some kind, but I forget exactly the terms of it.

Q. Did you keep a copy of the original agreement?—A. No, sir.

Q. You have not got it in your own possession?—A. No, sir.

Q. No copy or original?—A. No, sir.

Q. The memorandum in writing would be to the effect that you were purchasing the shares for $50,000 cash and bonds of the company?—A. There was not only shares but it included certain work that was done on the railway, and certain plant he had on the railway. He had commenced the construction of it.

Q. Do you remember whether Mr. Thomas McGreevy was a party to that original memorandum?—A. He was not.

Q. The only parties were you and Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. And Mr. Riopel, representing the Company.

Q. Had you an inventory made of the plant you purchased?—A. There was none.

Q. Had you a valuation made of the work that had been done by Robert McGreevy?—A. No; I had not, sir.

Q. Have you an idea of what it was worth?—A. From what Mr. Robert McGreevy told me it was worth considerably more than it turned out to be.

Q. How much did it turn out to be worth?—A. Probably $10,000.

Q. Can you give us any information where that memorandum can be found if it still exists?—A. I have not the slightest idea.

Q. How were the $50,000 to be paid?—A. $10,000 in cash and five payments of $8,000 each.

Q. Upon the receipt of five different payments and subsidies from the Dominion Government. How much of that money was paid?—A. $42,000.

Q. Were the $10,000 cash paid?—A. It was paid in $3,000 cash, and in notes for $7,000, which was afterwards paid.

Q. And how many of the $8,000 payments were made?—A. Four.

Q. These four payments of $8,000 each were taken out of the Government subsidies as they became due, on account of the progress of the work?—A. Indirectly they were.

Q. But as a matter of fact they were all taken out of Government subsidies; there was no other source for paying it except the Government subsidies?—A. There was another source, but that was the agreement.

Q. As earned by you on the contract?—A. As earned by me on the contract.

Q. The subsidies were Dominion Government subsidies?—A. Yes, from the Dominion Government.

Q. There was a sub-contractor by the name of O'Brien, I believe, who had a sub-contract?—A. The firm of O'Brien & Co.

Q. You remember Mr. G. B. Burland who acted for or represented these sub-contractors?—A. Mr. Burland acted as trustee between the sub-contractors and myself, receiving the subsidies and paying them their proportion as they became entitled to it, and accounting to me for the balance.

Q. Will you look at the letter marked Exhibit "X10," and say whether you have seen this document before?—A. Yes; it is in my handwriting.

Q. And signed by G. B. Burland, is it not?—A. Yes; signed by G. B. Burland.

Q. Has this any reference to the first $8,000 paid out of the subsidies?—A. It refers to one of the payments.

Q. Is it not the first one?—A. I cannot say from memory whether it is the first one or not.

Q. At the subsequent payments similar letters were given to Mr. Burland, were there not, all of the same terms?—A. The letter produced refers to another payment of $8,000.

Q. Also signed by Mr. Burland, or somebody for him?—A. I don't know the signature, it is not his.

Q. And the letter marked Exhibit "D11" is also one of those letters referring to one of those payments?—A. That refers to another payment.

Q. Will you explain why, in Mr. Burland's letter, Exhibit "X10," in your handwriting, the person to whom the money is to be paid is not indicated?—A. There was no reason why Mr. Burland should know who was the person indicated at all. He had no interest in the matter at all. He was simply acting as trustee for me, and had to pay that money to whichever were directed by me.

Q. That is your reason why Mr. Burland's letters would not indicate the person to whom the money was to be paid?—A. It did not affect him at all.

Q. And this reason applies to the three letters in reference to the three payments of $8,000 each?—A. They have apparently used the same form that I used for the first payment.

Q. Do you remember how the fourth payment of $8,000 was made? Was it made through Mr. Burland or directly by you?—A. I don't remember making any payment directly at all.

Q. Do you remember when this memorandum in writing about the purchase of the shares was signed?—A. It would be probably a few days before the contract was entered into by the company—somewhere probably about the 1st June, 1886, possibly the end of May.

Q. And your contract was signed when?—A. On the 9th June, 1886.

Q. This purchase of Robert McGreevy's shares would have taken place early in June, or at the end of May?—A. A few days or a week or two before.

Q. There appears by your statement a balance due on the purchase. Was there any agreement about that?—A. It is not payable yet. The conditions have not been carried out.

Q. What were the conditions?—A. That upon the payment of each sum of $60,000 by the Dominion Government. The last payment has not been received yet.

Q. As all the subsidies have not been paid this amount is not settled?—A. No.

Q. That would be how much?—A. $8,000.

Q. But the bonds were given?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Can you tell us what was the exact value of the shares of this Company at the time you bought them. That is to say, at the end of May or the beginning of June?—A. That is impossible. There was no market quotation for them. I considered them worth what I paid for them.

Q. If you had bought the shares alone, without being a contractor, what would you have given for them?—A. I would not have bought them at all.

Q. Is it not a fact that this bargain was accessory to another one?—A. Not at all. I did not get the contract from McGreevy at all.

Q. But from the Company. Was it not understood that the contract was to be given to you as a consequence of that purchase of the shares you made?—A. No. I refused to take the contract unless Mr. McGreevy sold out all his interest.

Q. What was the reason why?—A. Because I did not want to have anything to do with McGreevy in the matter.

Q. You wanted to have the controlling interest?—A. Certainly.

Q. Did you buy any other shares?—A. No.

Q. Had you any shares yourself before going into that contract?—A. No, but by my contract with the Company I was entitled on completion to one-half of the stock of the Company.

Q. How many shares did you buy from Robert McGreevy?—A. I forget whether the shares were $100 or $50; but the amount was $75,000.

Q. By your contract you were entitled to half the shares?—A. On the completion of the work.

Q. And to get control you thought you would have to spend $50,000?—B. Not only that, but I was given a certain amount of work done and a certain amount of plant.

Q. You say that the work was worth $10,000?—A. I was given to understand it was worth considerably more.

Q. You had gone over the work?—A. I had formed a rough idea, but I had not seen the plant.

Q. The McGreevys were not anxious to go out of that Company?—A. That I do not know anything about.

Q. When this written memorandum or agreement was signed, was it made in duplicate, or was there only a single copy made?—A. There was only a single copy I believe.

Q. In whose hands was it left?—A. In Mr. Riopel's I think.

Q. Did you see the document since?—A. No.

Q. As far as you were concerned you did not take it from the hands of Mr. Riopel?—A. No. I have no recollection of seeing the document since it was signed.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. What was the value put by Robert McGreevy upon the working plant at the time of the agreement?—A. I do not think there was any special amount named.

Q. From the tenor of the conversation, what were you led to suppose was the value of each of them?—A. From $20,000 to $25,000.

Q. From representations made?—A. Only general representations. There were no details given.

Q. I understand you had nothing whatever to do with Thomas McGreevy in this matter?—A. No.

Q. All your dealings were with Robert?—A. With Robert.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understood you to say that in your own mind you did not put much value in the work?—A. No. I drove over it but I could not see all the work.

MR. MARTIN P. CONNOLLY SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. When did you first come to be in the employment of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. 2nd January, 1885.

Q. You live in Quebec?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have always lived there?—A. Always had my home there. I have been absent occasionally.

Q. Were you hired by the year or by the month?—A. The first year I was hired by the year at an allowance of so much per month.

Q. Was there afterward any change?—A. The next year Mr. Connolly told me he would raise my salary to $800 a year. The first year it was $500.

Q. That was a change in the salary. You were hired by the year?—A. I understood I was hired by the year.

Q. Were you still in their employment on the 2nd of January, 1890?—A. Yes sir, with the new firm.

Q. On the 2nd of January, 1891, were you still in their employ?—A. I was in the employ of the new firm of N. K. & M. Connolly.

Q. Was there any increase of salary?—A. It was increased to $1,000 a year afterward and it remained at that afterward ever since.

Q. On the 2nd of January you were continued at the same salary of $1,000?—A. Yes.

Q. You began on the 2nd of January, 1891, your second year with the new firm?—A. Yes, with N. K. & M. Connolly.

Q. And you will not finish this second engagement until January, 1892?—A. I did not hold them liable for my salary. I considered them liable to discharge me any time they liked.

Q. Because you had not behaved yourself properly?—A. No.

Q. Was there any breach of your contract to entitle them to discharge you in the middle of the year?—A. No.

Q. Did you ever give them cause to discharge you?—A. Not willingly.

Q. Why don't you hold them responsible for your salary?—A. When anybody wishes to dispense with me I am willing to go.

Q. You are ready to be engaged for a year one day and discharged the next day. Did they want you any more?—A. I do not know I am sure.

Q. Was there no more works going on?—A. They have a little work at Kingston, but I understand it is about finished.

Q. Is it finished?—A. I really cannot say.

Q. You do not know if it would take many months before it would be finished?—A. I really cannot say.

Q. Have they any other book-keeper besides you?—A. Not during my time.

Q. Have they any book-keeper in Kingston?—A. Yes.

Q. Who is he?—A. Mr. Claxton.

Q. Since the Connollys have had work at Kingston, have you been occasionally called to go there?—A. Yes.

Q. To work at the books?—A. To work at the books; yes.

Q. How often were you in the habit of going there?—A. Once a month. I generally went there in the winter time.

Q. In the summer time you are in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Is there a great deal of business doing in Quebec?—A. Not a great deal now.

Q. Do they do any more dredging there?—A. Not this year.

Q. In Quebec were you in the habit of keeping the private books of Nicholas K. Connolly?—A. I started a set of private books for him.

Q. You had a good deal to do in Quebec for Nicholas K. Connolly—is he well off?—A. I do not know that.

Q. Do you not know that he is running a ship on the Baie des Chaleurs?—A. I do not know that.

Q. Did you make any entry of returns about a ship or otherwise in his books?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any entries made in Nicholas K. Connolly's books about a steam-boat on the Baie des Chaleurs?—A. No, sir.

Q. No private entries?—A. No, sir. I brought all the books up and I could find such entries if they were there.

Q. Had you any work for Michael Connolly in Quebec, too?—A. Not privately.

Q. You absented yourself from Quebec sometime in May?—A. Yes, sir; I went to Kingston.

Q. How long did you stay in Kingston?—A. Four or five days, I guess.

Q. Do you remember when it was you went to Kingston?—A. On the 20th of May, this year.

Q. Who called you there?—A. Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. For what purpose did he want you there?—A. He had been expecting me to go up for some time.

Q. What for?—A. To do the general office work.

Q. So there was work to be done there?—A. Certainly.

Q. You were there how many days, do you say?—A. Four or five days: probably a week.

Q. Out of which there was the Queen's Birthday? You did not work on that day?—A. I do not think we celebrated the Queen's Birthday; it was on a Sunday anyway.

Q. But the next day was proclaimed a holiday, you did not see that proclamation?—A. No.

Q. You left Kingston after that week, you say?—A. Yes. I think it was the same week.

Q. Did you leave on business?—A. Partly.

Q. And partly on pleasure?—A. Partly on pleasure.

Q. What is the part of business in your trip?—A. Mr. Connolly came into the office one morning and told me he had no further use of my services, so I wanted to see if I could get anything to do elsewhere.

Q. He did not give you any further time to decide?—A. No.

Q. He told you he did not want you any more?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were in receipt of a salary of $1,000 a year?—Yes.

Q. And entitled to remain until January next?—A. Yes.

Q. You never said a word to Mr. Connolly?—A. No.

Q. Did you say anything to him when you were going away?—A. I told him to give me the balance of my salary, and I would go.

Q. You took him at his word?—A. I took him at this word.

Q. What was the balance due you?—A. I think it was $162.

Q. Did he pay you well?—A. He paid me at the rate of $1,000 a year.

Q. Just your regular salary?—A. Just my salary.

Q. Did you make any entry in the books?—A. I did not stay to make any entry. I gave him a voucher.

Q. Did you go away on the same day?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What train did you take?—A. I went that afternoon to Toronto.

Q. What hour?—A. I think it was 3:30, or something like that.

Q. Then how long did you stay in Toronto?—A. All night.

Q. And then?—A. I went over to Buffalo.

Q. Did you go there alone?—A. No.

Q. Who was with you?—A. I telegraphed to St. Catharines to Mr. Cloney to meet me.

Q. Where did he go to meet you?—A. He met me at St. Catharines. I asked him if he was doing anything and he said no; I then said to him, come over to Buffalo. We had promised each other to make a trip to Buffalo together a good many years before and he decided to go with me.

Q. Who is Mr. Cloney?—A. He was the time-keeper on the works at Quebec.

Q. You thought you would go to Buffalo for a little pic-nic?—A. Yes; for a little pic-nic.

Q. How long did you remain in Buffalo?—A. I remained in Buffalo four or five days.

Q. Did you stay at any hotel there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What hotel?—A. The Stafford House.

Q. Did you register when you went there?—A. I did.

Q. Under your own name?—A. Under my name.

Q. Did Mr. Cloney register under his name, too?—A. I guess so.

Q. You say you stayed at the Stafford House first? Where did you stay afterwards?—A. The Carlton House.

Q. Did you register there?—A. I registered there, too.

Q. Under your name?—A. Under my name.

Q. And you think Cloney did the same?—A. I think so.

Q. Did you look for employment there, or did you simply enjoy yourself in Buffalo?—A. I looked for employment.

Q. Can you name a place where you applied for employment?—A. I had a letter of introduction to a gentleman named Day.

Q. Mr. Day would not take you?—A. He would.

Q. What is his occupation?—A. I think he is manager for W. L. Scott, a coal man.

Q. Who had given you the letter of introduction?—A. Mr. Hume.

Q. Who is Hume?—A. He is Engineer on the works.

Q. Did you close any engagement there?—A. No sir.

Q. He would not give you a sufficient salary?—A. I was about to make an engagement when I got a telegram from Mr. Connolly, asking me to come to Ottawa and give evidence before the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

Q. Had you given information to Connolly where you were gone?—A. I had not.

Q. Had you written to your family to say where you had gone?—A. I had written a letter but I had not time to post it. As a matter of fact I brought it back with me in my pocket.

Q. Your father and mother did not know where you had gone?—A. I do not think they did.

Q. Then how did Connolly find out your address?—A. I left my address behind me at Kingston, so that if any mail came for me it could be forwarded.

Q. With whom did you leave your address?—A. With Mr. Hume.

Q. And Connolly did not know your address?—A. I think not.

Q. Unless Hume told him he did not?—A. I think not.

Q. Which of the Connollys telegraphed you?—A. Mr. Nicholas.

Q. Have you the telegram with you?—A. Yes.

"Hotel Carlton—Buffalo.

"OTTAWA, ONT., 6-3-91.

"If possible would like you to come here and give evidence before the Committee.

"N. K. CONNOLLY."

Q. Have you also the telegram that asked you to come from Quebec to Kingston?—A. Think I have.

(Exhibit "W11.")

"From KINGSTON, ONT., 20th May, 1891.

"To M. P. CONNOLLY, 124 Dalhousie St., Quebec.

"Am waiting for you here. Leave at once.

"N. K. CONNOLLY."

Q. Until 1887, as book-keeper at Quebec, you were under the general orders of O. E. Murphy, were you not?—A. Generally, yes.

Q. He was manager of the cash? And it was generally he who gave instructions to you to make entries in the books?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember that a change took place in reference to the management in 1887?—A. I remember that Mr. Murphy said he would have nothing more to do with the cash.

Q. Not only did he say so, but a new arrangement took place?—A. Yes; Mr. Connolly took charge of it.

Q. Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly took the management of the cash?—A. Yes; or rather, he signed the cheques. That is all he did.

Q. By whose orders would you make entries in the books?—A. I do not know as I was ordered especially.

Q. You must have authority. By whose authority would you make entries in the books, when not to your own knowledge?—A. Any one of the firm.

Q. When a member of the firm signed a cheque or had a cheque made out to his order, was it not your duty to charge it to him—to charge it to the item explained by him?—A. Certainly.

Q. Who were the members of the firm in 1887 at Quebec?—A. Mr. Nicholas Connolly, Mr. Michael Connolly, Mr. Murphy and Mr. Robert McGreevy.

Q. Who generally remained in Quebec?—A. Mr. Murphy, McGreevy and Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. In 1887, 1888 and 1889, is it not a fact that Nicholas Connolly was always in Quebec until the works at Kingston had commenced?—A. I think he was.

Q. Will you look at page 105 of the Evidence and see whether you can give any explanation about the items which were charged subsequent to the first January, 1887—for instance, $27,000 under date of 28th March, 1887?—A.—I have no explanation other than was given before the Sub-Committee.

Q. In the evidence given before the Sub-Committee on 20th June there is a reference to a charge of $25,000. I think you have stated that this $25,000 would represent the five promissory notes?—A. No, Sir; it would represent four cheques of $5,000 each, and another $5,000, I believe, had been expended by Mr. Murphy. I don't know how many cheques he took at all.

Q. Well, did you not ascertain that all these cheques were made and signed in the name of the firm by Nicholas Connolly and made payable to his order?—A. No, sir; not all of them.

Q. Well, point out those that were.—A. I think the first four.

Q. Get the cheques and the books.—A. There are three cheques, according to the books, charged to the order of N. K. Connolly.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Signed by whom?—A. Signed in his name

By Mr Geoffrion :

Q. You say you find three cheques to the order of N. K. Connolly?—A. Signed by him there is an entry: "February 4, 1887: Cash, Dr. Union Bank cheque, order of N. K. C., B. C. division, $5,000." That is the reason I know that cheque was given to Mr. Connolly's order.

Q. You find three to his order?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whose order did you make these entries?—A. I don't remember which member of the firm. I know they discussed with me where the account was to be charged up. That is all I know.

Q. Did not anybody tell you?—A. No.

Q. Do you know when a cheque was made to the order of N. K. Connolly?—A. No, S.r, I do not.

Q. Who were the members of the firm who discussed it?—A. The members of the firm who were there.

Q. Who are they?—A. Mr. Murphy, Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. Connolly, I suppose.

Q. These three were generally living in Quebec then?—A. Yes.

Q. And a discussion took place between these three?—A. Yes.

Q. And if there had been any other partners in Quebec they would have joined in the discussion?—A. No doubt.

Q. Was this discussed in your presence?—A. I do not remember.

Q. You said there was some discussion in your presence?—A. The only discussion I have any remembrance of was the fact Mr. Murphy had already been agreed to charge $25,000, and he wanted $2,000 extra, and I was in hot water, you see, between Mr. Connolly and Mr. Murphy—Mr. Murphy insisting upon having it charged and Mr. Connolly not being willing to allow it to go in.

Q. So Mr. Murphy was claiming to have spent $2,000 over and above $25,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, what were these $25,000 upon which there was no disagreement?—A. It is impossible for me to say.

Q. Well try now, it is a pretty large item. If there was a discussion about $2,000 cannot you remember what took place about that $25,000?—A. They never told me anything. It was like pulling teeth to get any information for any of those entries for which I had no vouchers.

Q. Of course, as there were no vouchers you made these entries?—A. Yes.

Q. You made it sure that the partners were satisfied that the entries should be made?—A. Sometimes a cheque was made out to Nicholas Connolly's order and endorsed by him. I would take that cheque, draw the money from the bank and give the money to Mr. Murphy or Robert McGreevy, and without being told I had sufficient knowledge to know that Mr. Connolly did not use that and I would not charge it to him. I would charge that to expenses and let the discussion take place afterward.

Q. There was no disagreement as to the $25,000 payment and when Mr. Murphy insisted on another $2,000 being charged?—A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Nicholas Connolly objected?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Robert McGreevy objecting?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did Nicholas Connolly agree to the $2,000?—A. I supposed he did.

Q. As a matter of fact, you know it was audited and that the item passed?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you not find in another book, Exhibit "E3," that this charge was transferred to another account?—A. Yes.

Q. To what account was it transferred first?—A. British Columbia.

Q. What date were these sums charged?—A. Two sums were charged to the Esquimalt Dock on February 4th, of $5,000 each.

Q. On whose signature?—A. It does not state in this book.

Q. Read the entry.—A. “Cash Dr., February 4th, 1887, cheque to order N. K. C., B. C. division, $5,000.” On the same date: “Bank B. N. A. cheque to order of N. K. C., $5,000.” On February 14th there is another one charged. The entry reads: “Quebec, February 14th, 1887, Esquimalt Dock Dr. to cash, $5,000, for B. N. A. Bank cheque disbursed on account of division.”

By Mr. Lister :

Q. What does that mean, “on account of division?”—A. It having been agreed to be divided on the B. C. Dock.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. What kind of division? Does it say?—A. It does not say.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Will you give us an account of the last cheque of $5,000. You have given us only four?—A. On page 272, “Quebec, February 28th, 1887, Esquimalt Dock Dr. to cash, $5,000, cheques drawn by O. E. M. on account of B. C. division.”

By Mr. Moncrieff :

Q. Does that mean division of the work?—A. It means division of the money from the B. C. work.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Why did you understand that?—A. I understood at the time that it was a portion of the amount of $25,000 that had been agreed to be expended.

Q. And divided?—A. And divided.

Q. How divided?—A. I do not know that it had been agreed to be divided.

Q. Why did you put the word “division” in there? On whose orders?—A. Under nobody’s orders.

Q. Why did you put it there?—A. I understood—I do not remember how I came to put it down.

Q. What did you understand?—A. I do not remember.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You started to say just now “I understood.” What did you understand?—A. I understood that was the sum that had been agreed to be divided.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Divided how?—A. I do not know.

Q. What did you put the word there at all for?—A. Probably if I had to do it again I would not put it there.

Q. Was it divided amongst the partners?—A. No.

Q. What did you put the word there for at all? If it had to be divided you should have divided it? A. I had nothing to do with the dividing.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. As a gain or a charge?—A. I knew it did not go to any member of the firm and of course was not charged to any member of the firm

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You knew it did not go to the work?—A. I was under that impression.

Q. Then you thought it went to some church or charity?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Your opinion was that it was a donation?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. I was just asking you why it had been transferred from British Columbia works to other works. To what works was it transferred?—A. The Quebec Harbour Improvement works.

Q. When was the transfer made?—A. March 23th 1887: "Suspense Dr. to Esquimalt Dock, $25,000, per error in charging British Columbia with following cheques: February 4th, British North American Bank, journal folio 264, $5,000; February 4th, Union Bank, journal folio 268, $5,000; February 14th, journal folio 269, $5,000; February 17th, Journal folio 270, $5,000; February 28th, Union Bank, journal folio 272, $5,000."

Q. Is that credited to the Esquimalt Dock?—A. Yes.

Q. And charged to suspense account?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you explain why this was first charged to Esquimalt Dock?—A. Because I believed there was a large estimate the firm had received just at that time from British Columbia.

Q. Some $72,000?—A. In round numbers.

Q. $71,800—about that date it came?—A. Yes.

Q. In the haste of the moment this $25,000, plus $2,000, were charged to that first?—A. Not in haste. I think, to the best of my knowledge, we did not have any sum of $25,000 to be credited to the firm on Quebec works.

Q. And Quebec works had to be borrowed from Esquimalt works?—A. It was all the same thing. It was taken out of the British Columbia estimates when they came some time prior.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. How did you come to make these entries to Esquimalt Dock?—A. Because the money was taken from that fund.

Q. Who told you to make the entry against suspense account?—A. I do not remember.

Q. It is now suspense account under March?—A. Yes.

Q. Who told you to charge it to suspense account?—A. It was agreed among the members of the firm.

Q. Which members?—A. All the members who were there at the time.

Q. Name them.—A. Mr. O. E. Murphy, Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. When you charged it against Esquimalt Dock it was charged with the consent of these members of the firm?—A. I understood so.

Q. And when you charged the account it was made with the consent of the members of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. What members of the firm were present?—A. I do not remember.

Q. You have no recollection?—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. Do you remember if some members of the firm were absent?—A. No.

Q. Have you any recollection of why you made this charge to suspense account?—A. Yes. The recollection I have about the matter was that the money was taken from this fund, and at the time it was taken it was supposed to be charged to the Quebec Harbour Improvement works. I do not remember being told by any member of the firm to charge it to suspense, but I do say it made no—

Q. Why didn't you charge it to Quebec Harbour works straight in the first place? You say that was the intention?—A. That is about what we did do.

Q. I want to know why you did not do it, if that was the understanding?—A. I do not remember why we did not do it.

Q. Do you remember why you charged it to Esquimalt?—A. Certainly; because the cheques were from that fund.

Q. Who told you to take it from that fund?—A. I do not know.

Q. Nick Connolly?—A. I do not know.

Q. He signed the cheque?—A. He signed some of them.

Q. And you swear you do not know how you came to make the change to suspense account?—A. I said first the sum was to be charged to the Quebec Harbour Improvement works.

Q. And you did not charge it there?—A. It is charged there. It is charged on 28th March 1887.

Q. A year after?—A. No, the following month.

Q. And you do not remember who told you to do that?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Was there not another item of $10,000, taken out of that large estimate paid to the British Columbia works?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Is there not another item of $10,000 paid to Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. There may be. It was the same cheque that I have already mentioned as being part of the $25,000. Two cheques.

Q. In Exhibit "E7" printed at page 174 of the Evidence, and which is in your handwriting, you indicate an item under date March, 1887, $5,000, with the words "Three Rivers." When you were examined before the Sub-Committee you stated as follows.—"Q. How did you put it there then?—A. To the best of my recollection I put it from a conversation I overheard." Will you state to the Committee what was the conversation you overheard?—A. It is very hard for me to state exactly what was the conversation I overheard, but I understood at the time, when I put the words "Three Rivers," there, that the $5,000 had been sent to Three Rivers.

Q. The purport of the conversation which you overheard, and by which you felt justified in making the entry, was that the money had been sent to Three Rivers?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Though the entry is made in that Exhibit "E7" under the heading March, 1887, does it mean that the money had been paid or sent to Three Rivers during March, or does it mean only the date of the entry?—A. I could not say that. I do not remember.

Q. It is very important to find out when that $5,000 was sent to Three Rivers—can you find it by the books?—A. It was impossible for me to tell you.

Q. Because for those payments the books do not always show the dates when the payments were made?—A. No, sir.

Q. And you have not the cheques for that amount?—A. I do not know, sir. I had the cheques.

Q. But it is not here. Is it not a fact that all the cheques from April, 1886, to April, 1887, on the Union Bank, are lost?—A. It is a fact that when you asked me the other day to look for them that I could not find them, but I was under the impression until the other day that they were put in the box.

Q. But without putting the responsibility on any one for their having gone, they cannot be found now?—A. I do not think so.

Q. And therefore you are unable to say whether this amount of $5,000 was made by a cheque or not, seeing the cheques for the Union Bank are missing at that time?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You have searched thoroughly for these cheques?—A. I have.

Q. Have you satisfied yourself that they are not here now?—A. I have.

Q. And you are thoroughly satisfied in your own mind that you brought them here?—A. I am under that impression or rather Mr. Kelly brought them here.

Q. And you were under the impression, what—that you had seen them brought here or had sent them to be brought here?—A. I was under the impression from the volume of the cheques that came here that they were all here.

Q. Did you go over them in bundles to form any accurate impression?—A. No.

Q. But you have now?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. And you do not know whether Kelly brought them or not?—A. Yes.

Q. Between what dates are the cheques missing?—A. From April, 1886 to 1887, I think.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. That is your fiscal year?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. And covers the period about which the dispute is?—A. Part of it.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Did I not ask you also to ascertain whether the stubs of those missing cheques from April, 1886 to 1887, could be found, and did you not ascertain that they also were missing?—A. I did not ascertain that those stubs were missing, but some are missing I know. Whether they are here or missing, I do not know. I will look them up if you like.

Q. So not having any of the cheques or seeing the stubs therefor, you are unable to say when the amount of $5,000, mentioned in Exhibit "E7," was disbursed?—A. No; I cannot.

Q. As far as your memory is concerned is it not a fact that this amount of $5,000, which you overheard in a conversation as having been sent to Three Rivers, was sent during the elections?—A. Not so far as my memory is concerned.

Q. Your memory will not allow you to recollect that?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know when the elections took place?—A. I think it was in February, 1887.

Q. Independently of the conversation you overheard, can you remember to whom the money was handed?—A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember having been instructed by Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly to charge that amount of $5,000 which he said had been sent to Three Rivers?—A. No, sir; I had never been instructed. I credited him with the amount of $5,000, but where it went to I was not told.

Q. This may be another item independently of the $5,000 to Three Rivers?—A. It may be.

Q. Do you remember that Nicholas Connolly told you to credit him with two amounts of $5,000, subject to giving explanations to his partners?—A. I do not remember that.

Q. Can you remember whether you were called in or referred to by Mr. Nicholas Connolly to give explanations of one or two items of $5,000 to Mr. Robert McGreevy and to Mr. O. E. Murphy?—A. I never gave any explanations to Mr. Murphy or Mr. McGreevy in regard to any sums in the books. I always understood they knew more about them than I did.

Q. But they could not know what payments had been made by Nicholas Connolly?—A. At that time I understood Mr. Nicholas Connolly would make no payment without being consulted by them or at their request.

Q. Were there not occasions where Nicholas Connolly had to make payments and then give them the information?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Between whom was the conversation held, which you overheard, and by which you felt authorized to charge this $5,000 to Three Rivers?—A. I did not charge it to Three Rivers. Understand that. I overheard some conversation from which I gathered that the sum of $5,000 had been expended on the election at Three Rivers, and I marked "Three Rivers" opposite an item of $5,000, so as to enable me to recollect the sum.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. A kind of ear mark?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Between whom was that conversation held?—A. I have already told you I think between the members of the firm.

Q. So now you remember that this conversation was to the effect that the money had been spent in the election at Three Rivers?—A. Something to that effect.

Q. In your books we find two entries in blank as to the destination of the money, namely, on the 3rd of August, 1887, and the 8th August, 1887. You have already stated that you left that blank, when the entry was made, because you had not then any instructions? (Vide report of proceedings, p. 105). Have you since making the entry ascertained what those two payments were for?—A. No, sir.

Q. Who told you to make the entries with those blanks?—A. Nobody. I guess I made them myself, and left the blanks for the explanation to be put in, if ever I should get it. I do not believe I got it.

Q. Is it not the fact that these two payments were made by cheques of the firm signed by Nicholas K. Connolly, and payable to the order of Nicholas K. Connolly?—A. I could tell you that by turning up the cash book. (After referring to book): Yes; they are both to the order of Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly.

Q. And it is in blank?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was not this entry made at the request of Mr. Connolly?—A. It must have been at his request?

Q. You did not get the money yourself?—A. I may have.

Q. And if you had you should have been able to fill the blank, unless you pocketed it.—A. Oh no.

Q. And you, who were the book-keeper, say you do not know what you did with the money?—A. Certainly. I may have got the cheque, gone to the bank and handed the money over to Mr. Connolly.

Q. And would it not then be charged to Nicholas Connolly?—A. Certainly not. The cheque was made payable to Nicholas K. Connolly, but I might have handed the money to any member of the firm, and it would not therefore be charged to Nicholas Connolly.

Q. As a matter of fact, to whom did you give the money?—A. I may have given to Mr. Robert McGreevy or Mr. O. E. Murphy.

Q. You say positively you cannot state to whom you gave the money and leaving those blank entries?—A. It is impossible for me to remember that.

Q. Is it not a fact that the $1,000 cheque, dated 3rd August, was to re-imburse Owen Murphy for a similar sum which he had paid on the 21st July to Thomas McGreevy?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Was the money given to O. E. Murphy to re-imburse him for disbursements made by him under "donations"?—A. I don't know.

Q. Is it not a fact that the cheque, dated 8th August, for $4,000, was the balance of the amount of $5,000 he paid to Mr. McGreevy—that is to say, $1,000 by O. E. Murphy on the 25th July, and the balance of $4,000 on the 8th August by M. K. Connolly?—A. It is impossible for me to answer that.

Q. And you cannot remember whether you went for the money yourself to the bank?—A. No, sir.

Q. Or who received the money?—A. No, sir.

Q. Your memory would not supplement what is missing in the book?—A. Not in that particular instance.

Q. And these two amounts were charged to "Expense" and "Donations"?—A. I think so. They are marked so here.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Can you give any information about the cheque entered in Exhibit "L3" and mentioned in the evidence taken before the Sub-Committee on July 3rd "8th March, 1888, N. K. Connolly, for amount of his private cheque for Donation re B. C., as agreed, $2,000"?—A. Nothing further than what I gave before the Sub-Committee.

Q. Is this entry the only one you find in the books about that?—A. No; this would be journalized and posted in the ledger.

Q. Read it.—A. On page 346 of Exhibit "L3" is to be found the entry reading: "March 8th, 1888, to N. K. Connolly, for amount of his private cheque for donation re B. C., as agreed, $2,000."

Q. You cannot tell us what that means at all?—A. No, sir; I cannot.

Q. You have no knowledge of what the agreement was that is mentioned there?—A. None whatever.

Q. But is it not a fact that all the members of the firm agreed to that payment of $2,000?—A. I judge so from reading the entry.

Q. And you have no idea of the use that was made of the $2,000 mentioned here?—A. Not the slightest.

Q. You told us that in 1887 you got a large estimate of $72,000 from the British Columbia Dock?—A. Yes, sir. The firm got a large estimate of $71,800.

Q. I believe that sum of money was divided between the members of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you shew us when that amount was finally divided, and how it was divided?—A. An entry showing it was finally divided was made on 28th March, 1887.

Q. Read it, if you please?—A.

Q. Then you say that out of the $17,000 that were charged to expenses, the sum of $5,000 was re-imbursed to Mr. N. K. Connolly for a similar sum he had paid out of his private funds?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Would not this $5,000 be the $5,000 sent to Three Rivers?—A. They might be.

Q. You do not believe they are?—A. I do not know.

Q. There is a sum of $2,000 that I cannot explain very well. You say that $5,000 were reimbursed to Mr. N. K. Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. There is another sum of $5,000. Can you tell us where it went?—A. There is no other sum that I know of.

Q. You have $17,000. There are two other $5,000, and you will find it so?—A. The balance of that $17,000, to the best of my recollection, as per my evidence before the Sub-Committee, is constituted of an item charged to Graving Dock of $1,000 on 24th January, 1887, being one-third of the $3,000 of the cheque drawn by Mr. O. E. Murphy.

Q. I believe that was the cheque for Mr. Perley's jewellery?—A. The balance is for this item in the same exhibit, page 281, which reads: "Quebec, March 28th, 1887. Esquimalt Dock Dr. to expense, $5,000. This item of $5,000 is now charged to British Columbia. It is for the cheque dated 20th March, 1886, and was then charged to expense of Quebec Harbour Improvements, journal folio 117 and ledger folio 176. It is now to be charged to British Columbia." The $3,000 entry reads: "Quebec, January 24th, 1887. Sundries Dr. to cash, $3,000; Graving Dock, $1,000; Esquimalt Dock, $1,000, and O. E. Murphy, $1,000, for cheque drawn by O. E. Murphy and charged one-third to Graving Dock, one-third to British Columbia, and one-third to O. E. M., as agreed."

Q. When that division took place all the members of the firm were there?—A. They might not have been.

Q. They were there to get their share of the money?—A. They were there, but not all there together.

Q. When such division is made, you do not mean to say the members of the firm do not take knowledge of that division?—A. They take knowledge among themselves and then come to me afterward.

Q. Have you got any recollection of a statement that was made in the month of April, 1887, with respect to the state of affairs of the Quebec Harbour Works by you?—A. Yes; I think I made a statement about that time.

Q. Could you find that statement in the books?—A. No; there was no copy of the statement kept in the books. I may have made the statement from the books.

Q. You have not kept a copy of that statement?—A. The account went on.

Q. Did you not keep the account in your copying book?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Do you not remember that you made such a statement for the members of the firm?—A. As a matter of fact, I do not remember. If I saw the statement probably I would remember.

Q. Did Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. O. E. Murphy ever come to you and ask for information about a sum of $10,000 that was charged in the books against each member of the firm for his share?—A. No, sir.

Q. They never went there?—A. They never came to me.

Q. Not to your knowledge?—A. Not to my knowledge. Mr. Robert McGreevy paid periodical visits to the office and examined the books at the end of every month.

Q. In that statement of the month of April, 1887, do you remember if that sum of $25,000 that was borrowed from the British Columbia fund, was stated as paid back to the British Columbia fund?—A. I have no recollection of that statement at all. If I made such a statement, I have not seen it since.

Q. Then, you have no recollection if outside of that $25,000 that was paid back you stated another sum of $10,000 was allowed for elections?—A. No; no recollection whatever.

Q. Did anybody ever tell you that Mr. Laforce Langevin got this $5,000 for Three Rivers?—A. No, sir; nobody ever told me that.

Q. You never heard anything of that?—A. No.

Q. You never saw Mr. Laforce Langevin in the office at such a date?—A. Not at any date. He may have been in occasionally.

Q. You have no knowledge that Mr. Laforce Langevin got any money from any members of the firm?—A. Yes; I have.

Q. Tell it then. I am asking a clear question?—A. I have knowledge of the fact that Mr. Nicholas Connolly loaned Mr. Laforce Langevin $600 to erect a new ladder which he had sold to Montreal.

Q. Is this the only sum of money you have knowledge of?—A. That is the only sum.

Q. Do you know if that sum of money has been paid back?—A. Mr. Connolly told me he had received a portion of it.

Q. Was it entered in the books?—A. I do not think so.

Q. At what date was that money lent?—A. I do not remember. It will take me sometime to hunt it up. I can get you the date though.

Q. Did you ever tell to anyone that Mr. Nicholas Connolly told you where the $10,000 that he caused to be charged in the books went?—A. What $10,000?

Q. In the statement that you prepared on the Graving Dock at Lévis (Exhibit, "L5") there is a sum of $10,000 charged under date November, 1887?—A. Mr. Connolly never told me anything.

Q. You do not know where that money went?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. You were told to charge it to "Expense"?—A. I must have been.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You have not answered Mr. Tarte's question. Did you tell to anyone that Connolly told you where the $10,000 went?—A. I do not remember saying anything about it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. As a matter of fact, you swear positively you never said to anyone that you knew this $10,000 was going to Sir Hector Langevin, or to his son?—A. I do not remember saying anything about that to anybody.

Q. Did you say to Mr. O. E. Murphy and to Mr. Robert McGreevy that Mr. Nicholas Connolly told you that the sum of $10,000 had gone for Sir Hector Langevin, or his son?—A. I do not remember saying anything of the kind. I am positive as to that.

Q. Do you swear positively that you have not made any statements to that effect to Mr. Murphy and Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. It is almost impossible for me to say that, but to the best of my recollection I do not remember saying anything of the kind, because I never got any explanation from any members of the firm about these items, or where they went to.

Q. But still you have stated that you overheard a conversation which caused you to make that entry for $5,000 spent in Three Rivers?—A. Certainly.

Q. Is it not possible then for you to remember now to whom this $10,000 was given?—A. If I had overheard any conversation of that kind I would have put down the entry in the books to show that.

Q. It is hardly possible to admit that, because we do not see any names in the books. We find "donations," "expense," "suspense," and so on?—A. That is all the explanation I have to give.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You said this man Hume was the Engineer with Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. He was looking after the works for them?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had he been in their employ?—A. A good many years; it was before I came.

Q. He was therefore an old employé?—A. Yes.

Q. He had been with them ten or fifteen years?—A. Probably that.

Q. Did you work in the same office with him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. For all the years you were employed by the Company?—A. I think he had an office in his house, too.

Q. Was he frequently, if not all the time, doing his work in your office?—A. I think after we moved our office to the Quebec side Mr. Hume came into the office frequently, but he did very little work there.

Q. Prior to that you had done a great deal together?—A. At the Graving Dock the office had two apartments. One of them I used; the other was the general office, in which Hume was.

Q. How long were you associated in that way together?—A. The summer of 1885.

Q. And when the firm undertook the contract at Kingston, Hume removed to Kingston?—A. It was sometime afterwards.

Q. How long afterwards?—A. I think he moved his family up there a year afterwards.

Q. When did he go there?—A. I do not remember. He made short trips up and down.

Q. I suppose you are pretty well acquainted with Hume considering all the years you were employed by the company?—A. Oh yes.

Q. Now with reference to this sudden and extraordinary dismissal of yourself, had you had any conversation with Mr. Hume?—A. No, sir.

Q. You had had no conversation at all about your going away?—A. No, sir, because I had only just arrived there a few days before.

Q. You swear that no conversation took place between Hume and yourself about your going away?—A. Not until I was discharged.

Q. Prior to your discharge you had no intimation from Hume or the Connolly or anybody else that the discharge was going to take place.

Q. Had you any intimation that you were going to be subpoenaed to attend before this Committee?—A. Yes, sir. I received a telegram from Mr. Todd.

Q. Was that telegram received in Quebec or Kingston?—A. It was received in Quebec.

Q. Before you left Quebec to come up to Kingston?—A. Before I left Quebec to go up to Kingston.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Hume you had received that telegram?—A. I don't remember.

Q. Did you tell anybody?—A. No, sir, I don't think I mentioned it to anybody.

Q. You swear your recollection is, you never mentioned the fact that you were subpoenaed before this Committee to anybody?—A. I may have.

Q. I am asking you if you remember?—A. No, sir.

Q. You have no recollection at all?—A. No, sir.

Q. You knew that Connolly was subpoenaed?—A. Yes, sir, he was here at the time.

Q. You knew what his business was here?—A. Yes.

Q. And you had an idea what you were being brought here for?—A. Yes, I think I had an idea.

Q. To give evidence in this case?—A. Yes.

Q. You had seen Mr. Nicholas K. Connolly?—A. After I arrived.

Q. You never said anything to him about being subpoenaed?—A. I don't remember.

Q. By your oath you are obliged to tell the whole truth. Do you say you have no recollection of having spoken to him at all?—A. I got a telegram from Mr. Todd. It reads: "I have mailed you and Nicholas K. Connolly a summons." I repeated that telegram to Mr. Connolly when I first got to Kingston.

Q. When you got to Kingston you saw Nicholas?—A. Yes.

Q. And you say no conversation took place about this trial at all?—A. We may have had some conversation, but I don't remember any about being subpoenaed to Ottawa.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Hume you were subpoenaed?—A. Well, I don't think I did because—

Q. Now be careful?—A. I don't remember telling him, he may have known of the fact, he was in the office when the telegram got there.

Q. Then you swear you have no recollection of having ever told Mr. Hume?—A. No, sir, I have no recollection.

Q. You never had any conversation with Mr. Hume about it at all?—A. Oh, I may have had a conversation.

Q. Had you, or had you not?—A. I could not swear.

Q. Did Mr. Connolly tell you your services were no longer required?—A. Yes.

- Q. He never asked you whether you had been subpoenaed to come down here?
 —A. No, I don't remember.
- Q. He never told you his brother was here?—A. I knew his brother was here.
- Q. He never told you that?—A. No; I don't remember his telling me.
- Q. And you have no recollection of having told Mr. Hume that you had been subpoenaed?—A. I have no recollection of it.
- Q. And you went into the office as usual to do your work?—A. Yes.
- Q. And the first thing was you were told by Michael, or, did Nicholas tell you?
 —A. Nicholas told me.
- Q. That your services were no longer required, and you left?—A. Yes.
- Q. And did you say anything to Mr. Hume on the point?—A. Yes.
- Q. What did you tell him?—A. That Mr. Connolly had discharged me.
- Q. Did you tell him any reasons?—A. He did not give me any.
- Q. You were very angry, of course?—A. I was not extraordinarily angry.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You were surprised?—A. No; I was not surprised for this reason—that our work had been drawing to a close, and I had been expecting to be discharged, for the last twelve months, I may say.

By Mr. Lister :

- Q. So that it did not come like a thunder-clap to you—you were expecting it?—
 A. I had been.
- Q. Although you had been working only three months, and were entitled to be employed for a year, you did not offer any objection when you were told you could get a situation somewhere else?—A. It did not make any difference. If a man does not want my services, I am not the person to work for him any way.
- Q. Then you saw Mr. Hume?—A. Yes.
- Q. And he was the first man you told you had been discharged?—A. I think he was.
- Q. And you got your money?—A. Yes.
- Q. And you left your address with Mr. Hume?—A. I did.
- Q. In the office?—A. It may not have been in the office, but on the works.
- Q. Where was it?—A. I think it was outside on the works.
- Q. You told him where you would be found?—A. I told him, I was going over to Buffalo to see Cloney.
- Q. Did you tell him where you would be found in Buffalo?—A. It was he suggested I should go to the Stafford House in Buffalo.
- Q. He told you to go to the Stafford House? You had never been in Buffalo before?—A. No, sir; I asked him to suggest an hotel, and he said the Stafford House.
- Q. So you made up your mind to go to the Stafford House?—A. I did.
- Q. But before going away you saw Connolly, did you not, again?—A. I saw him, yes.
- Q. Where, at the railway station?—A. I think I saw him at one of the docks where the boat was going out.
- Q. You were looking for a boat?—A. I was. The boat was going up to Toronto and I asked him if he would not pass me up there.
- Q. Did you have any conversation about your dismissal?—A. No.
- Q. Not a word as to where you were going?—A. Not a word.
- Q. You did not even ask him for a letter of recommendation?—A. No letter of recommendation from him.
- Q. You did not get a recommendation from him, but you wanted to get a pass? You did not get a pass?—A. I did not.
- Q. Have you got a letter Mr. Hume gave you?—A. I left it with Mr. Day.
- Q. So there was no more conversation between you and Mr. Connolly as to your dismissal?—A. Not that I remember.

- Q. Not a word?—A. No, sir.
- Q. You never asked why you were dismissed?—A. No, sir.
- Q. And he never told you why you were dismissed?—A. No.
- Q. Never a word after all your service?—A. No.
- Q. He only told you to go to the Stafford House?—A. I had made up my mind to go to Buffalo, and asked Mr. Hume for a good hotel to go to.
- Q. You telegraphed him to meet you, where?—A. At St. Catherines.
- Q. Cloney lived in St. Catharines? What does he do there?—A. He lives with his mother and father.
- Q. Does he drive a cab?—A. He was a time-keeper on the works, and I think after leaving Quebec when the works closed down he went there.
- Q. You got over to Buffalo?—A. Yes.
- Q. You did not go to the Stafford House?—A. I did first.
- Q. You left there and went to the Hotel Carlton?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did you know you were being searched for?—A. Some days afterwards.
- Q. Before you left to come to Ottawa, did you know the detectives were after you?—A. I had received a letter from Mr. Cloney saying that Kimmitt and Mr. Preston were coming over to Buffalo.
- Q. He had gone back to St. Catharines and left you in Buffalo?—A. Yes.
- Q. And he told you that Preston and Dick Kimmitt were after you?—A. As a matter of fact they were in Buffalo the day I was in Ottawa.
- Q. What did you do when you got the letter? Did you leave Buffalo that night?—A. I left on getting a telegram from Mr. Connolly.
- Q. Did you leave on the night of the day you got the letter from Cloney?—A. I left the day I got the telegram from Mr. Connolly to come here.
- Q. Did you come back to St. Catharines or did you go straight to Ottawa?—A. Straight to Ottawa from Buffalo.
- Q. Did you stop the night at any place?—A. In Toronto, at the Walker House.
- Q. Where did the telegram find you?—A. At the Carlton House.
- Q. So you came straight on?—A. Yes.
- Q. And have been here ever since?—A. I went away some day's prior to Sir John's death.
- Q. But you were not employed again by the Connollys?—A. No.
- Q. And did not expect to be, of course?—A. Not just now, no.

By Mr. Fraser :

- Q. Did you send that telegram to Mr. Connolly at Kingston before you received a telegram to come up?—A. Yes, sir; I think I did.
- Q. You received a telegram from here to give evidence before he sent for you?—A. Yes; I think.
- Q. Why were you delaying and going to Kingston at a time when a telegram was sent hurrying you up?—A. I had been intending to go up there; in fact, we had no work to do in Quebec. There was very little.

By Mr. Lister :

- Q. Did you tell Cloney you were subpoenaed before this Committee?—A. No; because I had not been subpoenaed.
- Q. Did you tell him you had received a telegram?—A. I may have told him that.
- Q. Did you?—A. I think I did.
- Q. Do you remember?—A. Well, I don't remember the conversation that took place.
- Q. You think you told him you had received a telegram to come here?—A. I think it is very likely I did.
- Q. You remember telling him whether you were keeping away?—A. No; I don't remember.

Q. Do you swear to that?—A. I told him just exactly what Mr. Connolly told me, but I may have told him before, sir.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You produced an entry as to the division of the $72,000 received from the Esquimalt Dock, appropriating portions of that money to each member of the firm and accounting for the balances that did not seem to be appropriated to each member. I want to ask you was that made by the authority of the different members of the firm?—A. Oh, they left making the entries to myself. Yes, there is no question about that. It was on the basis that they arrived at that I made the entry.

Q. So the entry correctly expresses the agreement between the different members of the firm?—A. This is as I understand it.

Q. You were present when that division took place between them?—A. No I may not have been.

Q. How did you know how to make it?—A. They probably came to me and told me how to make it.

Q. The different members of the firm came to you?—A. Not all of them. Mr. Murphy or Mr. Connolly—that would be sufficient.

Q. At any rate, the division you made was afterward approved of by the different members?—A. Yes.

Q. There was no question about that?—A. None that I know of.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you take Exhibit " L 3 " and look at folio 175. That is with respect to the amount paid to inspectors. Do you find an entry there " P, dredging, $50 " ?—A. Yes.

Q. What is meant by " P " ?—A. I suppose it is probably the initial of the party who received the money.

Q. Was it a regular entry to put only the initial? Can you explain why you made that mysterious entry?—A. No; I have no explanation to make.

Q. Was this entry made by the order of somebody?—A. No doubt it was.

Q. By whose order?—A. I cannot remember now.

Q. It was in 1887, was it not?—A. Yes, 1887.

Q. It was at the time Mr. Nicholas Connolly had charge of the cash?—A. I believe so.

Q. Is it not a fact that this " P " stands for Pelletier, one of the Government inspectors on the works—or the Harbour Commissioners' Inspectors?—A. I do not think I ought to answer that question.

The CHAIRMAN—You are obliged to answer.

Q. What is your answer?—A. I think I will refuse to answer.

The CHAIRMAN—I think you had better not. We will have to report you to the House.

WITNESS—I do not see why these men should be brought in.

The CHAIRMAN—Do you persist in your refusal?

Sir JOHN THOMPSON—This is an entry of your own in your own book and we have the right to know it. You are not in any way accountable to Mr. Pelletier or anybody else for your answer; but we are bound to have an answer and the House is bound to have it.

WITNESS—My answer is yes.

Q. What is the entry just above it? " March 18th, donation, P. V., $275 ? " who do those initials represent?—A. P. Valin.

Q. Then on folio 167, on the 12th May, do you find another; " P. do (that is dredging) $10. " Do you find such an entry?—A. Yes.

Q. Would that sum be for Pelletier?—A. I do not know any other.

Q. That is to whom the money would have gone?—A. No.

Q. Was there any other Inspector on the works whose name began by P?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. In the statement prepared by you, Exhibit B 5, you give the names of Pelletier, Germain and Brunel. Do you know of any other inspectors?—A. No.

Q. Then "P." there meant Pelletier?—A. Yes.

Q. At folio 177: "June 2nd, paid donation, dredging $180." Explain that entry?—A. It was a donation on account of dredging.

Q. To whom would that donation be made?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Do you mean to say that was to be charged to dredging?—A. Yes; it is charged to dredging.

Q. Is that entry in your handwriting?—A. Yes. "1887, June 2nd, dredging, paid donation $180."

By Mr. Lister :

Q. That would be the amount paid to men who were inspectors, or outside donations?—A. It might be either. I do not remember.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Turn to page 209 and read the entry on July 16th?—A. "July 16th, dredging, B., $15, P., $100; total, $115."

Q. Who is meant by "B."?—A. Brunel.

Q. B. and P. were for Brunel and Pelletier?—A. Yes.

Q. Page 215, "July 25th, donation $100, dredging." Can you explain that?—A. $100 to Brunel, I guess.

Q. Page 229, August 13th, donation, H. A. P., $10. Who is that?—A. The same man.

Q. That would be Pelletier; those are his initials?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, page 237, August 20th, donation, H. A. P., $37.50. Is that the same man?—A. It is only "dredging, donation," $37.50.

Q. And you cannot explain that item?—A. No, sir.

Q. Page 239, August 23rd, do you see a donation entered there, $100?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you explain the donation?—A. No, sir.

Q. Page 275, October 10th, do you see any entries about dredging there, "dredging, donations," G., $105; B., $154, total, $259. Who is "G."; is it not Germain?—A. I believe so.

Q. And "B." would be Brunel?—A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. Now, page 279, October 14th. Do you see any entries corresponding to these?—A. Yes, $240.

Q. To whom?—A. It does not say.

Q. Do you not read initials H. A. P.?—A. Yes, H. A. P.

Q. At page 291, November 2nd, "P." $16. Is that Pelletier?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. A payment of the same nature, is it not?—A. I do not know what the nature of it is.

Q. An amount of $16 appears to have been given to Pelletier?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it entered as a donation?—A. It is entered as a donation.

Q. Now, page 293, November 4th. What entries have you got there?—A. "Dredging, donations"; B., $345, G., $200; total, $545.

Q. That is Brunel and Germain?—A. I believe so.

Q. Page 307, November 24th. Do you see any donations about dredging there?—A. Yes; $600.

Q. To whom?—A. I do not know.

Q. And you cannot remember?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. How is it entered?—A. "Dredging; paid donations, $600."

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. No initials?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Now, page 317, December 3rd, read the entry about donations there?—A. “Dredging, donations, $375.”

Q. You cannot explain that entry better than the other?—A. No, sir.

Q. Are there no marks to show to whom it went?—A. Yes, there is a mark there; I cannot say what it is.

Q. What is the mark?—A. “B.”

By Mr. Davies :

Q. What does that stand for?—A. It may be Brunel.

Q. Have you any doubt in your own mind whom it does stand for?—A. I have no doubt.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Then on the same page, December 7th, look if there are any other donations?—A. Yes.

Q. Read the entry?—A. December 7th, “Dredging; donation, $800.”

Q. To whom?—A. It does not say.

Q. Is there no mark?—A. No.

Q. Do you remember to whom it was paid?—A. I do not, sir.

Q. Page 319, December 10th. Is there any entry there about “donations”?—A. Yes, $165.

Q. Read the entry?—A. “Dredging; donation, $165.”

Q. Is there any mark to indicate to whom it went?—A. “G”.

Q. “G” means “Germain”?—A. Yes.

Q. Page 321; December 12th, small entry?—A. $17.50.

Q. Are there any marks to show where it went?—A. “B”, I suppose that is Brunel.

Q. Page 323; December 16th, are there any entries there about donations?—A. $56.

Q. To whom; read the entry?—A. “Dredging donation”, and a mark that stands for “P”.

Q. Is it a “P”?—A. No, sir. It is a private mark.

Q. Is it a telegraph mark?—A. Yes.

Q. Oh, I did not know what those dots and dashes meant. Now I understand. You used the telegraphic character some times?—A. Yes.

Q. Page 327, December 29th, read the entries there about donations?—A. Cheque to order of N. K. Connolly, donation $100.

Q. Can you explain to whom the donation went?—A. No, sir.

Q. Any telegraphic mark there?—A. There are two marks here but I do not remember anything about them.

Q. I see two long dots, what would they be?—A. I do not know.

Q. Whenever any of these donations are referred to either by a letter or marks equal to a letter “P”, “B” or “G” they stand for Pelletier, Germain and Brunel?—A. I believe so.

Q. Have you any doubt it is so?—A. No, sir.

Q. All these entries were made by yourself?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In your handwriting?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. And some of the letters in telegraphic characters represent “P” “B” and “G”?—A. Yes; some are and some are not.

Q. Would you have any receipt for those payments?—A. Sometimes I had and sometimes I had not.

Q. Do you know what it was paid for?—A. Not positively.

Q. Was it charged to salaries account?—A. It was charged to whatever dredging is there.

Q. But afterwards, as you frequently transferred an error in charging, was it transmitted to salaries account?—A. I don't think so.

Q. They were not enjoying a salary from Larkin, Connolly & Co., at this time?—A. Not that I know of.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. They were not doing any work for them?—A. I don't know that they were doing any work for them.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Do you know what these parties were doing in Quebec?—A. They were supposed to be Inspectors on the works.

Q. Were you aware they were inspectors on the works?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. That they were making returns and so forth?—A. Yes.

Q. And were they inspectors on the works of Larkin, Connolly & Co., during the whole of that period, from March 18th to the close of the season?—A. Oh yes; they must have been there at that time.

Q. And when you paid them money yourself it must have been on the order of some member of the firm? Was it?—A. It may not have been on the order of a member of the firm.

Q. If you gave cash for services of which you have no knowledge, who told you they were entitled to that money?—A. I don't remember now.

Q. Then did you remember?—A. It may have been one of the time-keepers, I could not mention the names now, but the men who had the superintending of the work.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Who told you to pay the money?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Mr. Cionev was one of them you say?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Where would these sums be first charged?—A. That is where it is first charged (indicating book).

Q. Were they not charged in the blotter?—A. No, I did not keep a blotter.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. They gave no certificates?—A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know they were giving certificates for this money?—A. I don't know.

Q. Do you swear you had no idea of what it was for?—A. I think I had.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. What was the duty of these Inspectors? Had they to make certain reports about the quantity of work done?—A. To make returns of that kind.

Q. And to whom did they make these returns?—A. To the Harbour Commissioners I guess.

Q. Or the Engineer?—A. Yes.

Q. Their returns were to be the basis of the following estimates to be made for Larkin, Connolly & Co., were they?—A. I suppose so.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You told me you had some idea what this money was paid for. What was it paid for?—A. Well, I had an idea it was paid in returns.

Q. For work?—A. For work.

Q. That was never done?—A. Yes, that was never done.

Q. Is it not a fact that Mr. Hume was one of the parties who gave you instructions to make some, if not all these payments?—A. Yes.

Q. Peter Hume was the Engineer of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Nicholas Connolly was aware that these large "donations" were made?—A. I think he was aware of them.

Q. And were you not instructed generally by Mr. Nicholas Connolly to pay to these Inspectors any amounts that would be ordered by Peter Hume or Cloney?—A. No, I never remember Nicholas Connolly telling me anything of the kind.

Q. He never instructed you to pay whatever was received by Hume and Cloney for any of these men?—A. I do not remember getting any instructions of this kind.

Q. Did you not ask authority from your employers? Do you mean to say you were an accomplice, were you authorized to do that?—A. It was a system that was inaugurated by Mr. Murphy before.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. But now Nicholas Connolly was in charge of the cash?—A. Yes.

Q. Then who would give you the orders for this year, 1887?—A. I don't remember exactly if I got any. I understood these men were to get this money and I would ask Mr. Connolly for a cheque for whatever amount was owing and pay it over.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Who would you understand it from then, that they were to get the money?—A. The Superintendent or Mr. Hume.

Q. Mr. Hume or Mr. Cloney?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you respect their orders?—A. I always respected their orders.

Q. You respected their orders to pay over this money without consulting your own employers? They were the authorities were they?—A. Yes.

Q. It had been done for years under that authority?—A. Yes.

Q. Custom had made it law for you and you did not question it?—A. No.

Q. You paid the money?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. When you wanted the cash to pay these people Nicholas Connolly had to give you a cheque?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. He knew at the time what it was for?—A. Yes, I understood he knew.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Were these payments made by cheques?—A. No, they were made by cash. He would sign a cheque and draw the money.

Q. And were they made payable to you or to Connolly?—A. To Mr. Connolly's order.

Q. He would endorse it, draw the money and hand it over to you?—A. Yes.

Q. Sometimes you would take a receipt?—A. Yes.

Q. What would you do that for?—A. I don't know.

Q. Where are the receipts?—A. I guess they are torn up.

Q. You did not tear up receipts on your own responsibility did you?—A. Sometimes.

Q. Are those receipts torn up?—A. They may be.

Q. Are they? Have you taken the trouble to satisfy yourself whether they are here or not?—A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. Will you do that?—A. If I am ordered by the Committee.

- Q. But if they are not here what has become of them?—A. It is impossible for me to say.
- Q. Can you remember any of them being torn up?—A. Yes, sir, I remember.
- Q. Did you tear them up yourself?—A. Some I did.
- Q. Who told you to do it?—A. Nobody?
- Q. Did you see any torn up by any person else?—A. No, sir.
- Q. But you have torn up some of them?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Did you tear up all of them?—A. Probably I did.
- Q. When was it you tore them up?—A. I don't remember when it was.
- Q. A short time before you were subpoenaed?—A. It may have been then.
- Q. I thought so, that would have been before the 20th May last,?—A. Yes, it was before that.
- Q. A few days before?—A. It may have been sometime.
- Q. Would it be a month?—A. Probably it was.
- Q. Probably a month before the 20th May you destroyed those papers?—A. I may have destroyed some during last summer.
- Q. This was after the publication in the newspaper?—A. Yes.
- Q. And after you saw it in the newspapers you may have destroyed some?—A. Yes.
- Q. And you are sure you destroyed some about a month before the 20th May?—A. Some time, I don't remember what time.
- Q. Who told you to do it?—A. Nobody.
- Q. On your own responsibility you destroyed most of the vouchers?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Without any authority at all?—A. Without any authority.
- Q. How many cheques did you destroy?—A. None.
- Q. Where were those receipts?—A. I think they were in the drawer.
- Q. Amongst your papers?—A. Probably they were.
- Q. They would be amongst your cheques and other vouchers, would they not?—A. The cheques in the safe.
- Q. And where were those?—A. In the office.
- Q. What place?—A. In the pigeon holes.
- Q. Where were the rest?—A. I think there was one or two I found in the drawer.
- Q. Did you hunt around the office for them?—A. Yes.
- Q. For the purpose of destroying them?—A. For the purpose of destroying them.
- Q. For the purpose of destroying them without any authority?—A. Yes.
- Q. Why did you destroy them; would they hurt anybody?—A. They would hurt these men who would sign the receipts.
- Q. You were afraid it would hurt these Inspectors?—A. Yes.
- Q. Why did you think it would hurt them?—A. It was an idea I had.
- Q. You are not so simple. Why did you think it would hurt them?—A. Because I supposed they had made returns for something they had got no value for.
- Q. Something there was no value for?—A. Yes, sir, that is it.
- Q. You thought that would convict them? In other words, they were making false returns for which the firm had been paying them and you wanted to save them.
- Is that it in brief?—A. Yes.
- Q. I see you are very careful not to make these letters indicate to whom the money had been paid in ordinary alphabetical characters?—A. In some instances.
- Q. When was it you turned to the telegraphic system—the Morse System?—A. I do not recollect.
- Q. Why did you do that?—A. I had no particular reason that I know of now.
- Q. It was just to practice the system?—A. I knew the system pretty well.
- Q. Why did you put them down?—A. The idea struck me at the time to keep a memorandum of this money.
- Q. Why didn't you put them down in letters that everybody would understand?—A. Sometimes I did and sometimes I didn't.

Q. Why didn't you write the full name?—A. Sometimes I did write the full name.

Q. In these cases you should have. Why didn't you?—A. I may have done it in a hurry. I may have had a good deal of work to do.

Q. Why was it you put down telegraphic characters? In a word, was it not to hide?—A. To a certain extent it was.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. The two members of the firm who had charge of the work when these bribes were paid were Nicholas Connolly and Michael?—A. No.

Q. Who were the two men who had actual charge of the work?—A. Mr. O. E. Murphy and Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. Where was Michael?—A. In British Columbia, I think.

Q. Refresh your memory. Look at the dates.—A. He was in British Columbia up to the fall of 1887.

Q. But from the fall of 1887 on, he was down at these works?—A. Yes.

Q. Were not many of these payments made after the fall of 1887?—A. Some of them were.

Q. And the man who gave you the cheques to make these payments was Mr. Nicholas Connolly?—A. I brought the cheques to him and he signed them.

Q. Some of them were as high as $600?—A. Yes.

Q. As high as $800?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you mean to say he signed these cheques to enable you to get that money, and that he did not know what the money was for?—A. I did not say that. I supposed he knew.

Q. You understood he did know?—A. Yes.

Q. Had any complaints been made by any members of the firm with respect to payments for this purpose?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Do you swear you do not?—A. Except in one instance, when Robert McGreevy came over to examine the cash, I remember him saying that he did not want to be in the power of these men. For what reason I do not know.

Q. He saw these entries?—A. He saw them all along.

Q. He told you he did not want to be in the power of these men?—A. I remember him saying that once.

Q. Was any objection made by Nicholas Connolly after that objection by Mr. McGreevy?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you hear Nicholas Connolly making any reference to getting a quid pro quo for his money?—A. No.

Q. That is, getting a return or something back?—A. No, sir; I do not remember him saying anything about it.

Q. He just signed the cheques, and you say he knew what they were for?—A. I understood he did.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. You said the cheques of the firm on the Union Bank for the year April, 1886, to April, 1887, are not forthcoming?—A. I believe they are not.

Q. Why do you think they are not forthcoming?—A. I do not know, I am sure. I understood they were here in the box.

Q. When did you last see these cheques?—A. I saw them in May last, all of them, in the safe in Quebec.

Q. In May, 1887?—A. No; May, 1891.

Q. Were they shipped to Ottawa?—A. I understood they were.

Q. Were they at Quebec when you left Quebec?—A. I left Quebec in May.

Q. And you have not been in Quebec since May?—A. Yes; I have been in Quebec since then.

Q. When were you last in the office at Quebec?—A. I was in the office in Quebec on Saturday last, when I went to get Mr. Nicholas Connolly's private papers.

Q. Were the cheques there then?—A. No, sir.

Q. Are you able to say that they are among the papers produced here?—A. I am not. I went to look for them at the request of Mr. Geoffrion, and that was the first intimation I had that they were missing.

Q. You think the cheques in question arrived here?—A. I think they are not here.

Q. Can you swear they are not?—A. I would not. They are not to my knowledge. I have made all the examination I can.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You stated that these payments made in 1887 were made as a part of a system inaugurated by Mr. Murphy. When was that system inaugurated to your knowledge?—A. Prior to my time.

Q. Then what you know of was after your time?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you know of it at first?—A. Seeing the amount in the cash book.

Q. On the occasion of your coming in in January, 1885. Were these irregular payments made during the year 1885 to your knowledge?—A. I think they were.

Q. To your knowledge were they?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were they made by you under instructions? Did you make any of them?—

A. I think Mr. Murphy paid them that season himself.

Q. And in the season in 1886?—A. He did the same as far as I know.

Q. In 1887, through whom were the payments made?—A. Myself, I think.

Q. All were made in 1887 through you?—A. I think so.

Q. From whom did you receive instruction to make them?—A. I do not remember any instruction.

Q. How was the size of the payment regulated? How did you come to pay $37.50 to one, $800 to another and $600 to another? On what system was the amount of the payment based?—A. That I do not know.

Q. Where did you get at the figures? Why did you pay men certain sums?—

A. From a return made by Mr. Cloney. He would make up a certain sum.

Q. Mr. Cloney would make up the returns in writing to you?—A. Yes, a memorandum.

Q. What relations had the sums that you paid? How did you get out the sums?—A. I did not do the getting out.

Q. How are they got out?—A. That is impossible to say.

Q. Was there a system?—A. There was a system, at least I understood so.

Q. A system of percentage?—I think so.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. Were they paid at regular intervals?—A. At irregular intervals.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. On a percentage of work certified?—A. I think so.

Q. And do I understand you that these Inspectors received a portion of the amount that was improperly certified to?—A. Yes; I think they did.

Q. You think that was it?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. When the returns were made by Mr. Cloney the amount would be ascertained?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever figure on the amount to see how much was coming to them?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you receive it in writing from Mr. Cloney?—A. At times I did. At other times probably verbally.

Q. Where is Cloney now?—A. I think he is in St. Catharines.

Q. What would Mr. Hume do?—A. He was the Engineer.

Q. Did you get any figures from him?—A. I may have in like manner.

Q. At first you seem to say that the instructions came from Mr. Hume, one of your sentences was that Hume instructed you to make the payment. How far is that correct?—A. I think that is correct so far as 1887 and 1888 would be concerned.

Q. What payments did you make in 1888?—A. The payments that I have given in the return to Mr. Geoffrion.

Q. You continued the irregular payments in 1888?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. To these same parties?—A. I think so.

Q. And in 1889, did you continue them?—A. No; I think not. There were no irregular payments in 1889.

Q. Are you the one responsible for this erasure on page 279 of the book you are looking at?—A. I am.

Q. When was that made?—A. Sometime ago.

Q. It seems to be the erasure of the initials of the person to whom the donation was made?—A. Yes.

Q. What is the date of the erasure?—A. I cannot give that.

Q. The entry is October 13th, 1887, $246, dredging. Is there an erasure here on page 307?—A. Yes.

Q. Whose doing is that?—A. Mine.

Q. Then on November 24th, "dredging." When did you make these two erasures and others throughout the books?—A. Sometime ago.

Q. When, I ask you?—A. It corresponds to the time that I tore up some of these receipts.

Q. You went through the books and papers, tore up the receipts and made these alterations. When was that?—A. During the course of last summer.

Q. What provoked you to do that; who instructed you?—A. I did not get any instructions from anyone. I took it upon myself to do that.

Q. Feeling that they were the records of improper transactions and with a view to destroying the evidence?—A. Yes.

It being one o'clock, the Committee took recess.

TUESDAY, 21st July, 1891, 3.30 o'clock p.m.

Mr. LOUIS CYRILE MARCOUX sworn.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You are the Secretary-Treasurer of "La Caisse d'Economie de Notre-Dame de Québec"?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you receive a subpoena requiring you to produce before this Committee copies of the accounts between the bank and R. H. McGreevy?—A. I received a telegram.

Q. Have you with you the accounts that were asked for?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you state what they are, and produce them?—A. We have a small current account, opened in the name of Mr. Robert H. McGreevy in trust, beginning on the 17th November, 1885, and still open, a copy of which I now produce. (Exhibit "X11") There is no account in his personal name, only his account in trust for a small amount.

Q. The account now produced is the only account of Robert H. McGreevy that you have?—A. The only deposit account in the books of the bank.

Q. Have you any other account?—A. Mr. McGreevy, for a great number of years, has been in the habit of borrowing on collateral securities. I now produce a copy of this account, which is closed. (Exhibit "Y11")

Q. Are these the only accounts between Robert McGreevy and the bank that you are acquainted with?—A. Yes.

Mr. W. T. JENNINGS, C.E., called.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are familiar with the resolution appointing you and defining your duties. Will you state to the Committee what amount of work you find to do, how long it is likely to take, what assistance you think you ought to have, how far you can get on with an associate engineer, and how far an associate engineer is necessary? Explain the situation in your own way to the Committee, and afterwards answer any questions that may be put to you?—A. I have taken the specifications annexed to the contract for the Cross-wall at Quebec, and compared it, as far as possible, with the plans placed in my hands, as being the originals on which the contractors tendered. I find a good deal of trouble in connection with the plans as they do not appear to be complete, but I am making the most of them. In the matter of checking the quantities of earth work, the crib work and also the concrete, I have worked these items out, but in connection with the other part of my duties, as defined by resolution of the Committee, a great many other matters will first require to be gone into, especially to enable a comparison to be made of the final estimates sent in with the final estimate based upon the figures submitted by the other tenderers and this will necessitate a great deal of work. I think that as there appear to be two tenders very close in total, those of Simon Peters and the Larkin-Connollys, it would facilitate operations if the other three were dropped, but that is for you to decide. I am working over the estimates from the beginning, the final and the intermediate, and comparing them with Mr. Boyd's first estimate, and one I find he made up some time after the contract was let. It will take all this week with the assistance I have now, as a great deal of reading is required to enable one to understand the run of the work and how the conclusions were arrived at. It appears that, at the time the contract was made the manner of entering the Wet Dock was not defined and the only plan submitted to me shows a recess in the south Quay-wall for a caisson; in the specifications there is a note to the effect that if gates are adopted an alteration in the plan would be required. This contract was let in 1883, and the plans for an entrance gate were made in 1885. From this you will see I have had to follow up the correspondence to see how conclusions were reached between Mr. Boyd, who was the Engineer, and Mr. Perley his chief.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Are you able from this specification placed in your hands and the plans, sworn to by the present Chief Engineer, Mr. Perley, to have been the originals, to test the accuracy of the conclusions given by Mr. Boyd and Mr. Perley in that statement?—

A. I will be able to test the larger items—for instance, the earth work, the crib work, the concrete and the masonry in the main walls—these items I can check fairly well, but not the minor items. We will have to bulk up a number of small items, such as sheet piling here and there, and pieces of timber used for general purposes.

Q. The main items you can do?—A. Yes, the larger items, which have a special bearing on the case; the smaller ones do not amount to an appreciable sum of money.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Would the aggregate smaller items affect the result in any way?—A. From what I have learned so far, I think not. I think the two or three larger items govern the whole case.

Q. Might they affect the result, supposing two of the tenders are sufficiently close to be affected by the aggregate of the smaller items?—A. So far as I can now see, it lies between two—the tender of Simon Peters as compared with that of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. But the others are a great deal lower than those?—A. The two mentioned are lower than the others. But there is one, for instance, much higher.

Q. Is Beaucage's a great deal higher?—A. Yes it is higher.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. You were making up the quantities of the various kinds of work under the items upon the tenders as they existed at the time the contract was made?—A. The quantities applied by Mr. Boyd to the figures submitted by the tenderers. The tenderers do not supply any quantities; they simply give the prices on which they offer to do the work.

Q. What I mean is, that from the plans furnished by the Department the quantities may be ascertained?—A. That is what I am trying to arrive at, particularly—the larger items.

Q. And as they were at the time these parties tendered?—A. No; the plans have been changed since.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. That portion of your work, I assume, you can do in a reasonably short time?—A. Yes; I have already taken out the principal items namely—the concrete, the earth work and the filling.

Q. We may soon have a statement?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You say that Beaucage and Gallagher are out?—A. I think their prices are higher than those of the other two.

By Mr. German :

Q. Can you get the quantities of sheet piling that were tendered for at 25 cents per lineal foot by Larkin, Connolly & Co., and $10 a lineal foot on the line of the work by Peters?—A. I doubt very much if I shall be able to get these items with any degree of accuracy.

Q. Can you approximately?—A. Yes; we may approximately.

Q. The concrete, earth filling and masonry in the wall can be got accurately?—A. Yes—Fairly well.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understand the two tenders, one for 25 cents per foot and the other for $10 per foot, were calculated on the same quantity?—A. Yes; but it appears that Gallagher and Beaucage appear to have written the Minister, or the Chief Engineer, intimating that they had erred in their calculations, and wished for that reason to withdraw from the contract. It is just a question of their being allowed to withdraw.

Mr. TARTE.—Beaucage did not withdraw. He amended his tender. Gallagher withdrew, but not Beaucage.

By Mr. Adams :

Q. At the time the tenders were asked for, were any quantities mentioned?—A. I understand not.

Q. Have you any information as to whether there were any quantities mentioned, or was it simply a blank?—A. Prices were asked for. A blank schedule was laid before the contractors, of which they obtained copies. They sent in their tenders, placing in the proper column their prices for the various works. The Engineer of the Department then applied certain quantities to those prices and moneyed out the value of them. I have not been able to find the original estimate of quantities in detail from which the Engineer made his calculation.

By Mr. German :

Q. Have you been able to get the original estimate of quantities made by the Engineer before the contract was let?—A. I have an original estimate, but whether it is the one made before or after I don't know.

Q. You have the estimate as shown on that plan where the moneying out is done?—A. It is in the late Mr. Boyd's handwriting.

Mr. GERMAN.—That certainly is not the original estimate as made out.

Mr. TARTE.—It was, though.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. I would like to understand if the plans submitted to you were the engineer's plans made in 1883 on which the tenders were asked, or plans made subsequent to that date?—A. A number of the plans submitted are evidently those on which the contractors tendered, but two at least of those given to me are plans of a subsequent date—1885—as instance the entrance to the Wet Dock—the lock.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. We have received some figures from Mr. Peters. Will you take communication of those figures when you have time, and tell us where they are wrong, if they are wrong. Here are the figures.—A. Figures taken from the plans ?

Q. The figures have just been sent here now.—A. I will.

The CHAIRMAN.—These papers are referred to Mr. Jennings.

By Mr Mulock :

Q. Will you say what, at the end of this week, you hope to accomplish?—A. I hope by Friday to hand in all the information I can obtain from the plans and books and records in my possession.

Q. They will show what?—A. As far as we are able to tell, what the original estimate of principal items should have been as taken from the plans laid before the contractors. We will also check the final estimate.

Q. What will remain to be done of the reference to you?—A. The comparative statement between the final estimate, showing what it would have been had the other sets of figures been applied to the final quantities.

Q. That is only a matter of arithmetic?—A. It is principally clerical work, but it is already partly done.

By the Chairman :

Q. Will you be able to satisfy the wants of the Committee, as expressed in that resolution under which you were appointed, without the aid of any other engineer being appointed?—A. I should like to have some one to assist me.

Q. Will you be able to get an assistant for that purpose? You do not want another eminent engineer?—A. If you will allow me to get another assistant, in addition to the two clerks I now have, I think I can manage.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Don't you think it would be just as well to take a man who knows the place?—A. During two days of last week I had Mr. St. George Boswell, who is engineer of the Quebec Harbour Commission, and who was on the works after Mr. Boyd's death. If you will allow me to get him in with me to answer questions, I would be obliged.

Mr. MILLS (Bothwell).—I think Mr. Boswell is a very objectionable man. We do not know at what moment a charge may be made against him.

WITNESS.—In asking for Mr. Boswell's services I do not mean as an expert with myself, but just to enable me to find out what had been done, as he is the only engineer I know of who can really tell us what was done—that is, as to final work. I may say that there are no plans in my possession showing the manner in which the work was completed. There should be such plans, but I have not obtained them. The original crib work plans have not been adhered to. On the Wet Dock side the cribs have been sunk some 8 feet further than the original plans show. There are many features of that kind which we will have to enquire into. Items requiring the turning over of the details page by page and entailing a great deal of work.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Could you not do the measuring on the spot?—A. It is nearly all under water, and can only be done at an enormous expense.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What are the most important items in your estimation?—A. The crib work, earthwork filling, the masonry in the walls, stone ballast and concrete which are much the heaviest items.

Q. Have you made any figures on any of these items?—A. I have made figures on the earth work, crib work and concrete.

Q. What are your figures on the concrete?—A. I would much rather delay in answering that question as my report will show all in detail.

Mr. MARTIN P. CONNOLLY recalled.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You were asked at the adjournment to show where the firm had paid the $7,000 which is part of the $27,000 item. I understand you have examined the books since, and you have given me this memorandum. Is that correct?—A. It is a correct copy from the book.

Q. This memorandum shows cheques to O. E. Murphy from the firm between the 17th and 22nd February, 1887, to the amount of $6,750. Where did you find that entry?—A. In Exhibit "L3," page 134.

Q. Is that the original entry, or does it come from the blotter, or anywhere else? I noticed that the dates are irregular, the 22nd being ahead of the 21st?—A. Those entries came in that way from the fact that the cheques were written up when we got them at the end of the month. I did not know until then that the cheques had been paid out.

Q. You found out returned cheques from the bank, and this is the entry you made?—A. Yes.

Q. You had no instructions?—A. I had no instructions to make the entry. I saw the money had been used and I charged it up.

Q. Where are those cheques? Are they some of the missing cheques?—A. I think so.

Q. Do you recollect whose cheques they were?—A. Mr. O. E. Murphy's.

Q. Drawn by him in the name of the firm?—A. They must have been.

Q. And endorsed by him?—A. Yes.

Q. No other name appearing on the cheque?—A. Yes.

Mr. OSLER.—I now file this memorandum.

(Exhibit "A12.")

Q. With reference to the $25,000 charged to the Cross-wall, have you examined the books?—A. I have.

Mr. DAVIES.—Before you pass to that matter, Mr. Osler, I want to call attention to the fact that this entry the witness speaks of does not relate to O. E. Murphy exclusively, and I want it explained. Part is to O. E. Murphy, "donation," and part to N. K. Connolly, "private use," and B.C. division. I would like that explained.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Mr. Davies wants to know what these other items are? Read the whole entry.—A. "February 17th, 1887, cash Dr. to Union Bank cheque O.E.M., donation, $250; February 17th, cheque to N.K.C., $100; February 17th, cheque to N.K.C., private use, $200; February 17th, cheque to O.E.M., for B.C. division, $5,000; February 18th, cheque to O.E.M., for B.C. division, $2,000; February 21st, cheque to O.E.M., $2,500; February 22nd, cheque to O.E.M., $1,000; February 21st, cheque to O.E.M., $500; February 21st, cheque to O.E.M., $500.

Mr. DAVIES.—What is the total amount?

Mr. OSLER.—$6,750 to O.E.M. and $300 to Nicholas Connolly.

Mr. DAVIES.—But these amounts added together give more than $6,750

WITNESS.—The $5,000 was included in the $20,000 to O.E.M.

Mr. DAVIES.—The $300 to N. K. Connolly on the same page is omitted from the statement that the witness files.

WITNESS.—$200 was for his own private use.

Q. And charged to him personally?—A. Yes.

Q. And you did not put that in?—A. No; because Mr. Murphy, I understood, had given a memorandum stating that he had expended $7,000 in addition, and it was with regard to that I was requested to furnish a statement.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You did not find anything else in the books that will account for the $7,000, unless it is accounted for by this entry?—A. There is no other.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. How were these different items disposed of when they were posted?—A. They were charged in one sum.

Q. To what account?—A. To the Esquimalt Dock, and then credited and charged to "suspense" in Q.H.I.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. They fall then into the item of $27,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Then, as to the first $25,000, it is sworn by Mr. Murphy that the notes were made in June, presumably on or after the 6th of June, and that on that date $25,000 in notes were given, and that cheques were given subsequently to retire them. Do you know of any other notes than the notes I now put in your hands representing that $25,000 (Exhibit "W7"), and are there any other cheques representing that $25,000 than the cheques produced (Exhibit "D8")?—A. There are none other than those, that I know of.

Q. We have then two cheques of that $25,000 that were apparently made and paid before the 6th June, namely, those dated the 14th May and the last of June?—A. There are none others that I know of.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Have you any reason to know or believe that the cheques to which you refer have any connection with that $25,000?—A. Except from the fact that I was helping the auditors to write up the books. The books had not been written up in 1883 and part of 1884, and they were audited in the spring of 1885. The vouchers produced here are the ones.

By M. Osler :

Q. Then there is the sum of $25,000 charged, and if these are not the vouchers for that, are there any other vouchers?—A. No others, that I know of.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understand you that these two particular cheques formed part of the $25,000?—A. To the best of my recollection we picked out the notes and cheques. If these are the notes and cheques produced by Mr. Fitzpatrick they are the cheques.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Is that your answer?—Yes, sir.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. In whose handwriting is the endorsement on the paper I now hand to you?—A. I don't know positively whose handwriting it is.

Q. Whose does it look like?—A. I think it is Mr. Charles McGreevy's.

Q. Look at these papers attached and tell me whether you have ever seen them before?—A. I never saw them before, to my recollection.

Q. Do you know any of these signatures?—A. I know the signature of the first.

Q. Who is it?—A. E. J. Milne.

Q. Who was he?—A. One of the Inspectors on the works.

Q. Of what was he Inspector?—A. I think he was on the concrete.

Q. Then you recognize E. J. Milne's signature?—A. Yes.

Q. That is the signature of a man who was inspector of works?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know Joseph Richard? Is that his signature (showing document)?
—A. That is his signature.

Q. What position did Richard occupy?—A. He was Inspector of works.

Q. What branch?—A. On the cribbing, I think.

Q. Do you know the signature on the third document?—A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know that at all?—A. I don't know it sir.

Q. I close by pinning down the document. The witness does not prove it, but I want to leave it attached. The first two attached are proved, and they are as follows:

(Exhibit "B12.")

"Rec'd 22nd November, 1883, from Mr. O. E. Murphy, the sum of thirteen hundred dollars in cash.....	$ 1,300
And previous cash and sundries.....	300
	$ 1,600 "

" E. J. MILNE."

Is that his handwriting throughout—the endorsement and receipt?—A. No; just the name.

Q. Whose handwriting is the receipt?—A. Mr. O. E. Murphy's.

Q. And the endorsement on the back showing a memorandum, by which, apparently, the $300 was made up, is in Mr. Murphy's handwriting?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Richard account (Exhibit "C12") contains items of cash up to 1st May, including $75, $7, $25, $33, $35, $25, $40, $45, $40, $35, $40, $30, $12, $35, $15, the last item of $200 being on derrick lumber and sundries, making a total of $740. There is written across the face in ink "Received payment, Joseph Richard." In whose handwriting is the pencil?—A. Mr. O. E. Murphy's.

Q. Were these men at all in the employ of the contractors, or what was their position?—A. I think their positions were those of Inspectors, but they were. I understood, occasionally employed by the contractors.

Q. Their position was salaried Inspectors of the Quebec Harbour Commissioners?
—A. Yes.

Q. You were asked to go to Quebec and bring up Nicholas K. Connolly's private papers and books. Have you done so?—A. Yes.

Q. Where are they, and what have you found?—A. I found a letter book, a private ledger, all his private cheques, except one, and I think that one is filed, his bank book, a lot of progress statements, and other papers such as deeds, insurance policies and things like that.

Q. Do you find any other papers of Larkin, Connolly & Co. that were missing?
—A. Yes; I found a bank book covering the missing dates.

Q. Did you find anything else?—A. I found another small cash book with reference to British Columbia.

Q. Anything else?—A. No; I don't think there was anything else.

Q. These two men, Richard and Milne, you say they were in the employ of the contractors?—A. I could not tell you. I understood Richard bought some timber when they were building the bridge.

Q. Had he bought some timber?—A. I think so.

Q. You have heard that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you turn up any account with Richard in the book, or can you find his name on the company's pay rolls?—A. No; I don't remember of seeing it.

Q. Where would that employment be, because you see the dates on each of these cash payments made to Richard are made during the season of May, June, July, August and September. They would be during the season when the work would be going on?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then their duties as Inspectors would occupy their whole time?—A. I suppose so.

Q. When would the employment that you suggest take place?—A. In the winter time.

Q. What was Richard employed at?—A. I have a recollection that for some seasons he used to get out timber, knees, and so on.

Q. You do not find anything in the account book showing that?—A. I have not looked it up yet.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. Why were they not paid in the winter?—A. It was before my time; I do not know.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Milne—what do you know of his being employed?—A. I do not know about him.

Q. Then, of the three Inspectors who were named this morning, Brunel—was he employed by the contractors at all?—A. I think he was foreman of the sand levelling that winter—the winter of 1885.

Q. Was he employed during 1886 or 1887?—A. We did some sand levelling in the winter of 1886, but I would not be positive.

Q. That employment would not have reference to anything you entered as donation?—A. No.

Q. If any of these three gentlemen were employed you would not enter as gratuity or donation anything you paid for wages in consequence of such employment?—A. I do not think so.

Q. That would be the same with Mr. Germain and Pelletier?—A. Yes; but Germain was not employed by the firm at all.

Q. Was Milne continued after 1883?—A. Yes.

Q. How long was Milne continued as Inspector?—A. Until a year or two ago.

Q. And you continued paying Milne these irregular sums?—A. What sums?

Q. He got some money afterward. Was Richard continued as Inspector?—A. Yes; until 1886.

Q. Were there improper payments made to him after 1883, to your knowledge?—A. I cannot say that.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Can't you say whether any of these moneys paid to Milne or other men went into the book?—A. It must have been entered before my time.

Q. Some of the payments have been made since your time?—A. Those that are there have been made since my time.

Q. Are any of these payments entered in the books?—A. Any that have been made since I went there.

Q. Can you turn them up?—A. It would take some time.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. I find in the books of the firm prior to your time an alteration—a scratching out of one word and the writing of "gratuity" over it. Whose work is that?—A. Mine.

Q. That item is on page 130 of the book Exhibit "F3," the fifth item on the page. Is that (pointing to the ledger) the posting of it?—A. Yes.

Q. Who made the alteration—that is, the posting of it at page 402 of book “G3.” The heading is “Point Lévis, 1880,” and the entry is “C. B., folios 125, 129, 143 and 145.” Then follow the items: “Expense, P. Hume, excavation gratuity, $700.” That “gratuity” is written over a word that has been scratched out. I turn to the ledger, page 402, where that is posted, and I find at the heading of that ledger has been obliterated and the word “gratuity” written over it. That work is whose?—A. It is mine.

Q. When was that done?—A. I do not remember now.

Q. Do you remember the word that has been obliterated?—A. I do not.

Q. Has it been done within a year?—A. I think it is a longer period than that.

Q. Two years?—A. It might have been.

Q. Give me your best recollection as to when that was done?—A. I cannot tell you when that was done.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Why was that done? Under whose instruction?—A. Under nobody’s instructions. There must have been some man’s name there, I suppose.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. And you scratched that name out of your own idea?—A. Yes.

Q. Why? Why not scratch this next man’s name out—Richard Hughes?—A. If it was a man’s name. I cannot tell you anything about that.

Q. Could you tell me why you did it? What was the motive?—A. The motive was evidently to shield some one—to conceal the payment to a certain extent.

Q. To prevent its being known as to whom that $700 was paid?—A. That is the sole motive.

Q. Why did you select that name and now forget it?—A. Yes; I forget it.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. I guess he does not forget it?—A. Yes; I am on my oath here.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. The same instinct that brought you to scratch it out should bring it to your mind. It is not a very large transaction.—A. I do not remember anything about it, because I did not keep these books; but in other books that I did keep any scratching out I would remember.

Q. Would you not remember more? Would you go back to the book of 1880, go back perhaps nine years, to alter an entry in the book? What brought you back into the books of 1880?—A. I went over the whole books.

Q. With a knife in one hand?—A. Probably.

Q. Who told you to do so?—A. Nobody.

Q. When was it you took this job and went over the whole books?—A. I do not remember.

Q. What was the occasion? What brought it to your mind to do it? Here you are a book-keeper in the firm, bound to keep their books correctly, and you want to tell us that without instruction from anybody, of your own motion, you went through the whole of the books of the firm, including those kept by your predecessors, and altered according to your discretion. Is that the position, or did you get instructions, and what instructions did you get?—A. That is the position.

Q. Of your own notion?—A. Of my own notion.

Q. What started you doing this?—A. The fact, I suppose, of the publication regarding the works.

Q. The publication in reference to the works rendered it a work of necessity—was that it?—A. It was a work of necessity that I took upon myself.

By the Chairman :

Q. Was it not suggested to you by the man whose name was written in the books?—A. It was not, sir.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. On page 399 (Exhibit "L3") "suspense" account, there is an erasure with a knife: 11th July, 1888, "suspense" account, loan to (then there is the erasure), §20. Who was that loaned to?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you do that erasing?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you went through the books?—A. Yes. It may have been afterwards, but I do not remember.

Q. Now, on page 493, the same way: December 1st, 1888, N. K. Connolly, "private use," $600. You see how that entry has been altered?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is written over an erasure. Where is that posted?—A. It is journalized and then posted into the ledger.

Q. Where is it carried into the ledger?—A. I would have to get the journal and the ledger to see.

Q. This is the cash book that we are looking at. Why did you make that change?—A. There must be—

Q. As a matter of fact, there was something to conceal?—A. Yes.

Q. In whose interest were you making the change?—A. In the interest of the firm.

Q. It was the interest of the firm to conceal that which originally appeared there?—A. It may have been—and to the interest of the man to whom it had been paid.

Mr. OSLER.—The journal into which that would be carried is missing.

Mr. MULOCK.—Will that item of $600 help you to try and remember the date of the loan to Laforce Langevin?—A. I will try and give you that. The date is the 15th November, 1887.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. $600?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. See whether this item in Exhibit "M3," page 376, posted under the head of "dredging, December 1st, cash $600," whether it is the altered item charged to N. K. Connolly, for "private use"?—A. I think it is.

Q. Why should you charge dredging account to N. K. Connolly for private use?—A. Mr. Connolly had a dredge of his own down there.

Q. Is that the reason why you need scratch out the book?—A. No.

Q. If that is the reason, give it. Is it not apparently an improper payment which you are seeking to conceal, and looking at the ledger account under dredging, an improper payment in reference to your dredging contract?—A. I may have thought so.

Q. And it was because you thought so that you made the alterations?—A. Yes.

Q. And that would be the only reason—that it was improper?—Yes; the only reason.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. But why would you charge it to N. K. Connolly's private use when it was used by Murphy or Patrick Larkin, unless you had some knowledge it was used by N. K. Connolly personally?—A. No; I had no knowledge it was used by N. K. Connolly personally.

Q. Why do you know more of N. K. Connolly's account than any other private member of the firm?—A. Mr. Connolly's private account was more in detail than anybody else's.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Was that re-paid by Mr. N. K. Connolly, or was it charged to him as payment by the firm to him?—A. I would have to follow up the entries from the journal to tell you.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. It would not be posted here and posted against him at the same time. Perhaps this next item will help you. On page 505 of Exhibit "L 3," under date of 24th December there is an entry "N. K. Connolly, private use, $1,200." The private use has been written in over some other words obliterated. Did you do that?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you do it for the same reasons you have suggested with regard to the six hundred?—A. I don't know I am sure.

Q. Well, look at it, and tell me why did you do it? Why did you make the alteration—was it to conceal?—A. It must have been.

Q. It must have been an alteration of an entry which you made, as you thought, in the interests of the firm, to conceal a transaction which ought not to appear. Is that it?—A. I can come to no other conclusion.

Q. Is that altered item of $1,200, dated 24th December, posted also to dredging account at page 336 of "M 3"?—A. Yes, there is an item of $1,200 posted.

Q. Look and see whether you can find any other item, if that is not the item? If we find in this book only one item, dated 24th December, of $1,200, and if we find an item hereunder of $1,200, it must be the same thing? If it is duplicate there should be two items there?—A. In posting from the journal to the ledger those $1,200 might constitute several items.

Q. That is quite true. This is the missing journal, is it not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you any doubt that is the same?—A. No; I think it is the same.

Q. It is not charged up to Nicholas Connolly's account?—A. That is what I wanted to look for.

Q. Well, look and see.—A. (After examining the book). There is no item of $1,200, but there are other items far exceeding that.

Q. Oh, yes; but you see Connolly's items follow in succession. Just look and satisfy yourself—you can tell them at once. You see it is not in it?—A. No, it is not.

Q. So that it is almost absolutely certain that the $1,200 in the ledger that I pointed out, and the $1,200 we find here, are the same?—A. I think so.

Q. And that the larger item to N. K. Connolly's private use has been posted to disbursements on dredging account?—A. It seems so.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Would the words you took out have shown to you to whom it was paid?—A. The only account there was "donation" or "donations."

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Did you, looking at page 536 of the same book, scratch out the word there?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The entry is "Union Bank cheque to the order of N. K. C., private use," and then a word or letters scratched out "Dated May the 4th, 1889, $1,000." Then there is a contra entry, "N. K. Connolly, cheque to his order for private use" blank, "$6,000." Did you scratch that out?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. For the purpose of concealing?—A. At the time I thought so.

Q. And you think so still, do you?—A. No; I understand that item was a legitimate transaction Mr. Connolly had.

Q. The knife should not have been used?—A. No.

Q. But your suspicions being aroused, feeling there was a duty upon you, you exercised the knife in the wrong place there. Are both errors?—A. Yes, sir; both are errors.

Q. Then that is an erroneous excision. Where is that posted to, and where did you find that is right? Did it remain posted to the Connollys' account?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the alteration that has taken place at page 543. The entry reads as follows:—"May, 1889"—then on the contra side—"Cash credited to N. K. Connolly for cheques for $600 and $500 disbursed as follows:—Forwarded to P. O'R. $1,000," refreshments $50, N.K.C. kept balance $50, but extended $1050." Now the words "N. K. Connolly" are written over an erasure, and the words "Forwarded to," and there is an erasure below the letters "P. O'R." Did you make that alteration?—

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What for?—A. I do not know.

Q. You see that is entered in 1889. The original entry is very little more than two years old. Now, what was the change made, and bring your recollection to bear upon what that was—where that was made, and what the original entry was: whose name was there in the first place in the place which Connolly's name now occupies?—

A. I do not remember; but I think—

Q. Was that in your judgment an improper payment? Can you give me the name that was there first? Better tell us. I should say, from your manner, you know.

—A. I do not know that there was any name there first.

Q. What word? You ought to remember that.—A. "Expense" was there.

Q. Where "N. K. Connolly" is, the word was "expense"?—A. Yes.

Q. Then follow that along. The original entry was:—"Expense for cheques for $600 and $500 disbursed as follows."—A. Then there was "donation" there.

Q. Then "forwarded" is written over "donation," scratched out?—A. Yes.

Q. Is the entry to P. O'R. original?—A. No.

Q. What was there?—A. I do not think there was anything there.

Q. There is apparently no erasure there? What is P. O'R.?—A. Mr. Connolly was in the habit of sending money occasionally to a gentleman named O'Reilly.

Q. Who was O'Reilly and where did he live?—A. He was in Greenville, Pennsylvania.

Q. Was that an honest entry of donation to P.O'R., or is that intended to conceal what was done with the money?—A. The donation was there, but no initial.

Q. Was that to conceal the transaction that you wrote "forwarded" instead of "donation," and "P. O'R." in order to conceal the donation? "P. O'R." was a blind as to that?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. Who was P. O'Reilly?—A. He was a friend of Mr. Connolly's.

Q. Where did he live?—A. In Pennsylvania.

By Mr. Osler:

Q. I want you to tell the Committee who that donation was made to?—I think you know.—A. No, sir; I do not.

Q. Try again. You have taken great care of that. Just think that out for a moment. It is of recent date, and it is a pretty large sum?—A. I was confounding this item with that item.

Q. Who was this $1,000 for?—A. That was a legitimate transaction.

Q. But this illegitimate transaction—I want the name of the child?—A. I do not know anything more than is there.

Q. Would not this next word, "refreshment," do something with your memory? Don't you see there have been $50 disbursed in connection with the refreshments? Would not that bring it to your mind?—A. All I remember was Mr. Connolly telling me to charge that $50 to refreshments, and $50 to himself.

Q. Can you follow that entry in the books? You see that item is carried into the ledger at page 535 to suspense account.—A. Yes.

Q. Suspense already carrying at that time some $43,000. You added that $1,050 to it. Does not that help you?—A. The only thing with regard to this was that "donation" was written there.

Q. You do not know what it was for?—A. No.

Q. But you felt it was due to the firm, it being an improper transaction, that you should make the alteration?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, at page 525 the entry is: "March, 1889, cash Dr. N. K. Connolly, amount forwarded by M. C. to Ottawa," and then the knife comes in for the balance. What was there?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Did you make the alteration?—A. I think so.

Q. On this occasion of your going to the books?—A. Probably.

Q. Did you go through more than once?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any conversation with any member of the firm as to your going through the books?—A. No.

Q. Neither before nor after?—A. No.

Q. The firm do not know you went through the books, nor any member of the firm?—A. I do not think they do.

Q. You did not consult with the firm as to what you should do?—A. No.

Q. Will you trace me that entry out where it goes? Who is "M. C." there? Michael Connolly?—A. Yes; I think so.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. The entry reads "amount forwarded to M. C., Ottawa." Then comes the word scratched out. There is about an inch of scratched surface. What was in that place where the erasure took place?—A. I really cannot say. "Donation" I think.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. "To Ottawa donation" won't do. Do you remember any money being forwarded to Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. Who forwarded it?—A. Either Mr. Hume or Mr. Connolly.

Q. When?—A. About that time. Possibly not that very day; a little prior to it, it might be.

Q. That is only a short time ago. Do you know any person in Ottawa to whom money was forwarded?—A. I do not.

Do you know the name of any person in Ottawa who received money from those people?—A. I do not.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Do you know any object to which money was forwarded to Ottawa at or about that time?—A. I do not.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you swear that you do not know a single one of the names you erased—not one?—A. On the contrary I explained that here this morning.

Q. I want to know from you if you remember in general one or more names that were erased?—A. Sometimes they were not names that were there.

Q. Well, when they were names; do you remember one of them?—A. Yes. I probably erased the names of the initials of the Inspectors.

Q. Do you remember some one else other than the Inspectors?—A. Yes. In reference to the transaction that I said was a legitimate transaction of Mr. Connolly's the name erased was the Hon. Peter Mitchell's.

Q. Go on; let us have the whole thing?—A. That is the only name outside of the Inspector that I remember.

Q. But the illegitimate ones you do not remember?—A. That name and the name of the Inspectors are the only ones I remember.

Q. You spoke of the missing journal. Can you tell us what period that journal covered?—A. From October, 1888, I think.

Q. To?—A. I do not remember when. It commenced on the 1st of October.

Q. Up to what month in the year 1889, does it cover?—A. I think it covers the whole of 1889 and part of 1890.

Q. Have you got the stubs of the cheques of that period for which you said the journal is missing?—A. I think some of the stubs are here. They may be all here, for anything that I know. I would not be able to tell, unless I looked over them again.

Q. Have you got the stubs of the cheques for March, 1889, of the Union Bank?—A. I am not sure.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. This transaction with reference to the Hon. Peter Mitchell—why do you say it is legitimate, and why scratch it out if it were so? Just clear that up. What was the transaction?—A. It was some Montreal Telegraph stock that Mr. Mitchell had bought in connection with Mr. Connolly. He advanced him $1,000 as a portion of his profit on the stock.

Q. Who did?—A. Mr. Connolly.

Q. Mr. Connolly advanced Mr. Mitchell a thousand dollars as his share of the profit on the stock?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Then there was nothing to conceal by that transaction at all.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Exhibit "T3," page 65: did you make the alteration which appears in the 6th line? The entry is this, on the contra side of the cash book: "Expense for donation, sundry expenses incurred, $17,000 and $5,000; extended $22,000." The $5,000 has evidently been altered and the $22,000 has evidently been altered. What did you alter these from, and why?—A. There was no particular reason; the figures may not have been plainly written, or something to that effect.

Q. That won't do. Let me show you where it is posted on page 76, under the heading "expense account." That has been altered also. Considering that the alteration is also in the ledger as well as the cash book, tell me the reason why it was made?—A. It must have been some other sum.

Q. The change is made in the "5," which is one of the factors making up the "22." In the ledger we have nothing to do except with the "22,000." The "5" has been altered and the "2" has been altered in the cash book, and the last "2" altered in the ledger?—A. I have no other explanation than that it has been a clerical error and altered accordingly.

Q. When did you alter it?—A. About the time it was written in the book—that is, to the best of my knowledge. It may have been a day or two afterwards.

Q. Did you alter them both at the same time?—A. I may have posted it first and then discovered the mistake, the change in the ledger.

Q. There is $5,000 there in that sum that cannot be traced. It is the missing $5,000 gone to somebody, and we cannot follow it up. The date is November, 1887. What is your ability to account for that entry? It would be quite reasonable to show that there had been an alteration if we had the vouchers to sustain it, but I am informed by the accountants that there is a missing $5,000 there. If you can find the foundation for that entry, then you will justify your alteration?—A. We were about to look that up before the Committee met. We did not have time.

Mr. OSLER.—Then it is only fair to give you an opportunity of looking it up. You had better explain to the accountant, and if you cannot do that they will report it to us.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I want to ask the witness if he made any or all of these alterations alone, or whether he had the assistance or did it with the knowledge of anyone?—A. I did it on my own responsibility.

Q. I did not ask you that. What I ask you is, did you make these alterations alone, or with the assistance or knowledge of any other party?—A. I did it alone.

Q. And without the knowledge or assistance of anyone else?—A. Without the knowledge or assistance of anyone else.

Q. In answer to Mr. Osler you said that in this book, Exhibit "G3," page 402, the word "gratuity" is written over the portion erased? You made that erasure when?—A. I do not remember.

Q. You stated within a year or two?—A. It must have been.

Q. And the entry was made originally nine years ago?—A. I think so.

- Q. Will you swear to the Committee you do not remember the name you erased?
 —A. Yes; I do not remember the name.
 Q. Or the words, even?—A. Or the words, even.
 Q. Although you did it within the last two years?—A. Yes.
 Q. And had reference to an old entry made by some one else?—A. Yes.
 Q. The entry, “gratuity, by expense, $700,” was made by you?—A. Yes.
 Q. And with all that knowledge before you you come here and swear positively you do not remember what there was before?—A. Most positively I don't remember that name.
 Q. Or the words?—A. Or the words that were there.

By Mr. Lister :

- Q. You have sworn you have erased certain words to which Mr. Osler called your special attention, and you imagined they were “donations”?—A. Yes.
 Q. When erasing that word, did you erase any other marks, such as there might be opposite the names of the Inspectors—telegraphic marks, which would enable the party or the parties for whom “donations” were paid to be discovered?—A. Yes; I erased the initials.
 Q. There were then, besides the words “donations,” other letters, marks or figures, enabling persons looking at them to discover the object for which they were paid?—A. No, sir; except myself.
 Q. Would it enable you, if the books were placed in your hands and the words had not been erased, to tell us what they were for?—A. I think so.
 Q. And you swear you cannot tell the Committee now any or all of those items?—A. I have already said that.
 Q. Will you pledge your oath now to the Committee you cannot now recollect the persons or objects which were referred to by those marks you erased?—A. Other than what I replied to Mr. Amyot—the Inspectors' names and the Hon. Mr. Mitchell.
 Q. I am speaking of the improper entries to conceal fraud or improper transactions. They were identified by certain marks, and if they were on the books you could tell the purpose for which they were applied. You swear you cannot tell any of them, that is, on your oath?—A. Except the initials of the Inspectors, perhaps.
 Q. You have stated they were not erased?—A. Some of them are erased.
 Q. And besides the Inspectors, you cannot recollect any other object?—A. No sir; I cannot.
 Q. You swear you do not recollect any name except the names of the inspectors?—A. That is what I said.

By Mr. McLeod :

- Q. As I understand you, all the names erased or initialled were the names of the Inspectors?—A. The names—yes, sir.
 Q. Except Mr. Mitchell's?—A. Except Mr. Mitchell's, to the best of my knowledge.
 Q. Why did you erase Mr. Mitchell's name if it was a legitimate transaction?—A. While I was going over the book and saw that name there I thought probably the transaction was not legitimate, but I know it is.
 Q. At all events, when you erased it you thought the transaction was not legitimate?—A. I must have done it. I don't suppose I paid particular attention to it.
 Q. When you erased it, did you or did you not think the transaction was legitimate?—A. It is impossible for me to remember what I thought at that time.
 Q. Why did you erase it, then?—A. It was simply a mistake, because I knew from the beginning that the transaction was legitimate.
 Q. Then, when you took your knife and scratched out his name, you knew it was legitimate?—A. It was a mistake on my part at the time.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. I understand you to say that sometimes with the word "expense" or "donations" there were private marks to show the parties who got the sum?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And these were opposite the names of the parties mentioned by the letters?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Where were these erasures made?—A. In Quebec, I think.

Q. Where?—A. In the office.

Q. At what time of the day?—A. During business hours.

Mr. OUMET.—What is the entry relating to Mr. Peter Mitchell?

Mr. OSLER.—$1,000.

Q. How does it read?

Mr. OSLER.—The entry is: "Cash Dr. to Union Bank, cheque to order of N. K. C. for private use"—and P. M. is erased here—" $1,000." Contra: "N. K. Connolly, for cheque to his order for private use,"—the P. M. he says was scratched out—" $1,000."

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Will you look at N. K. Connolly's private account and see if it is charged?

Mr. OSLER.—It is charged to him, but it is not carried to "suspense" or any other account.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You swear to that, do you not?—A. Most decidedly; I have already sworn.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. Then you went through all the books where that entry had been made, and scratched out Mr. Mitchell's name or his initials?—A. This is the only erasure I made.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Did you ever find in the office any note or memorandum addressed to yourself, or any letter addressed to anybody else, suggesting the propriety of altering?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Did you make alterations in the missing journal?—A. I don't remember whether I did or not.

Q. Had you any conversation with Mr. Hume about this matter?—A. No; I had not.

Q. In whose handwriting are these books of 1880?—A. They are partly in mine.

Q. And the others?—A. I don't know in whose handwriting they are.

Q. You had no talk with Mr. Hume?—A. No.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Were there any other changes, except those shown to you?—A. None that I know of.

Q. And none of those books were written up afterwards—they are the real books you have in the office?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. When did you first miss the journal?—A. The first day it came before the Sub-Committee. I spoke of it at the time.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. When you left the office of Larkin, Connolly & Co. it was there, I suppose?
—A. I should have thought so.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. It disappeared between the time you left the office and when you were called as a witness here?—A. I can come to no other conclusion.

Q. You are sure it was not lost when you left the office?—A. I am not positive, but I think it ought to be here.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Will you swear that none of these payments were covered by these erased entries?

(No answer.)

By a Member :

Q. Did you specially notice the book on leaving the office?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you tell anyone that the books were altered?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Do not say that. Did you tell anyone that the books were altered?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. If you had told that to anyone you should remember it?—A. But I do not remember speaking to anyone about it.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. At what date did you take charge of these books of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?
—A. January, 1885.

Q. You had nothing to do with them before?—A. The books had not been written up since 1883, except during a portion of 1884, and all that work had to be done in 1885, and I helped to do it along with Mr. Hume and Mr. Shea.

Q. How long had you charge of them as bookkeeper?—A. Since the 2nd of January, 1885.

Q. To what date were you book-keeper of the firm?—A. To May last.

Q. You were discharged in May last?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you see these books afterward?—A. Not until I came here before the Sub-Committee.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Was that book over in Buffalo?—A. I do not think so.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. You do not think so?—A. It might be in Buffalo. It might be in New York or Washington. It might be on a trip to the old country.

The CHAIRMAN.—I do not think that is a correct answer.

WITNESS.—What I mean is, that I do not know anything about it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What was the last alteration?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Try, please. What was the last alteration you had made—you did not make them all at the same time?—A. All about the same time—some time during the last summer.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. When did you discover that these entries were of a nature to injure the firm, or somebody, and what made you believe it would be opportune to make these alterations?—A. When the charges were made by Mr. Tarte.

Q. It was after that?—A. Yes.

Q. You read all about these charges at the time?—A. Yes.

Q. It was after that you looked over the books?—A. With the exception of the first item in the Graving Dock. I do not remember when that was done.

By Mr. Wood:

Q. Who told you these were mistakes as you had them originally? You made some erasures there?—A. Yes.

Q. Who told you that you ought to make these erasures—that they were wrong?—A. Nobody.

Q. You did that yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. The one is the stock of Mr. Mitchell?—A. Yes.

Q. Who told you it was about stock?—A. I knew at the time that it was a stock transaction Mr. Mitchell had. I think he will have the details here with his private papers.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Who was in charge of the books when these erasures were made?—A. I was in charge.

Q. Who was in charge of the works then?—A. Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. Will you tell us if any member of the firm looked into the books after those erasures took place?—A. Not to my knowledge, nor before. They did not do it in my presence nor to my knowledge. They may have looked at them after they came up here.

Q. Is it not a fact that some members of the firm were looking into the books often?—A. No. Members of the firm, with the exception of Mr. Robert McGreevy, looked at the books very seldom.

Q. But in 1890 Mr. Robert McGreevy was not a member of the firm?—A. Then the others did not look at them at all.

Q. Do you mean to say that up to the present time no members of the firm looked into the books?—A. No more than looking over my shoulder when I made an entry.

Q. Were there any audits of the books since 1889?—A. Yes; we make an audit every year.

Q. When did the last audit take place?—A. I think last winter.

Q. What date, please?—A. 1st of April.

Q. Who were the auditors?—A. It was not an audit; I made up a trial balance sheet.

Q. Yourself alone?—A. Yes.

Q. At the time you did not tell any members of the firm that you had made an alteration of the books?—A. No. There were no alterations made in the amounts. I made the alterations because I had taken on myself to put down initials.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Was there an audit in 1890?—A. Not an audit or regular closing up of the books.

By Mr. Fraser:

Q. There has been no audit since you covered up these changes?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. You swore this morning you had destroyed all the receipts you had taken from the Inspectors?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you say all?—A. All I found.

Q. You did not destroy those that were shown to you a minute ago, because you did not find them?—A. I never saw them.

Q. Besides, they were during Murphy's time, when you had no interest in destroying papers?—A. Yes; I had. Mr. Murphy never did me any harm.

Q. I think you have made some mistake, if you have not explained it, about two items in Exhibit "B5" Those $25,000 represented by the notes signed in 1883, and $27,000, being an entry made in 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. Those two amounts are quite different?—A. Yes; quite different.

Q. And the $25,000 represented by notes in 1883 were paid and represented when the other item came into existence?—A. They are two different transactions.

Q. Those $27,000 were covered by four cheques of $5,000 each and those several cheques from $2,000 to $500 which appear to have been given between the 17th and the 22nd of February, 1887?—A. I think that is the way the amount is made up.

Q. And if the amount was only $25,000 there was a discussion after that excess of $2,000?—A. Yes; there was a dispute.

Q. From the 17th to the 22nd of February, 1887, was in the heat of the election?—A. It was some time during the election.

Q. And the discussion was about $2,000 paid in excess of $25,000 by Mr. Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. There was no difficulty about these small cheques so long as they did not exceed $5,000, but it was only because he exceeded it by $2,000?—A. That is the way I understood it.

Q. This discussion took place between Nicholas Connolly and Murphy, did it?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember if any other members of the firm were present?—A. No.

Q. You remember these two, anyhow?—A. Yes.

Q. You were shown by Mr. Osler a few moments ago two cheques forming part of Exhibit "D8," one dated the 14th May, 1883, and the other the 1st of June, 1883, and you answered to him that these two cheques would be the only two vouchers corresponding to the two promissory notes forming part of Exhibit "W7," dated 1st of May, and both made payable on demand. Do you persist in that statement. Is it not a fact that these cheques were to draw money?—A. I persist in my statement. I thought probably that they had been for the pay-rolls, but they could not be that, as they were marked on the back 36 x 100 and 28 x 50, the denominations of the bills, making $5,000 in all. The other is 50 x 100, or $5,000 in all.

Q. Will you look and see whether this cheque dated the 14th May, 1883, is not entered in the books as given in payment of a note endorsed to the order of M. Connolly?—A. 14th May, is "Union Bank cheque, M. Connolly, $5,000."

Q. Now, look at the entry 30th June, about the payment of a note?—A. The only entry in June is "Union Bank cheque in favour of N. K. Connolly, $5,000."

Q. Do you find any other entries at both dates for the 14th May and 1st June for $5,000?—A. There is no other on the 14th May. At the end of June there is "cheque for note No. 2, $5,000, N. K. Connolly."

Q. That is for the note of N. K. Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. Is not that note before you of N. K. Connolly's, dated on the 4th February, 1884?—A. It says the 4th February, 1884.

Q. And the note is made payable on that date?—A. It is made payable nine months after date.

Q. Then, how can you swear that this cheque, given in June, 1883, is to pay a note due in February, 1884?—A. These cheques correspond with the $22,000 and the $25,000.

Q. They do not correspond at all. How can the cheque given in June be to pay a note payable in February, 1884?—A. I do not know. I never could fathom that, anyway.

Q. Then, why did you swear positively it was for the same note. Is it not a fact to pay another note altogether, since this one was due only the following year?—A. I do not know anything about that.

Q. Look at the stub of the cheque of the 14th May, 1883?—A. The stub of the cheque reads as follows:—No. 364, May 14th, 1883, M. Connolly, $5,000, private use.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. In whose handwriting is that?—A. Mr. O. E. Murphy.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. Will you look in the margin and say what is written opposite that entry?—

A. "To pay note, M. Connolly, 14th May, 1883."

Q. In whose handwriting is that?—A. Mr. Hume's I think.

Q. Are there any of these five notes endorsed by Michael Connolly?—A. No.

Q. Do you swear now that this cheque was to pay one of these five notes since Michael Connolly's name is on none of them?—A. I do not know. It may be a mistake on the stub of the cheque.

Q. Can you swear now that that payment was given to pay for one of those five notes or that it was given to pay a note of Michael Connolly's?—A. Michael Connolly's name is not on one of those.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. Where was Michael Connolly on the 14th May, 1883? Can you tell?—A. No, sir; I cannot.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, WEDNESDAY, 22nd July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, etc., resumed.

Mr. GEOFFRION—On Saturday last Mr. Chabot said he had brought, for the purpose of filing before this Committee, certain contra letters which he held with respect to the "Admiral;" they were, however, at his hotel. He subsequently handed them to Mr. Todd, and I now ask that they may be read and filed and printed.

The Clerk of the Committee read the letters as follows:

(Exhibit "D12.")

"QUEBEC, 28th November, 1884.

"JULIEN CHABOT, Esq.

"SIR,—I hereby admit that the mortgage granted by you this day in favour of James G. Ross, Esq., of the City of Quebec, Merchant, for thirty thousand dollars on the SS. "Admiral," was so done on my behalf and at my special instance and request; also, the transfer of the five policies of insurance—the Imperial $5,000, North British $10,000, Queen $5,000, and Lancashire $5,000, be made to James G. Ross as collateral security—also at my request.

"THOS. R. MCGREEVY."

On the back is endorsed the following:

"QUEBEC, 28th November, 1884.

"Received from Mr. Julien Chabot policies on the steamer "Admiral," with receipts, Premiums for $8,415.85.

North British.....	$10,000
Queen.....	5,000
Imperial Fire Insurance Co.....	5,000
Lancashire Insurance Co.....	5,000

ROSS CO.,
"p. JAMES GEGGIE."

(Exhibit "E12.")

"QUEBEC, 28th November, 1884.

"JULIEN CHABOT, Esq.

"DEAR SIR,—I hereby acknowledge that the mortgage given to me for the sum of thirty thousand dollars this day upon the steamer "Admiral" by you as holding the said steamer for the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, was partly in consideration of my becoming security for him in appeal in a case of Russell against him, and that I will not in any way hold you or your heirs personally or otherwise responsible for the said amount should I ever at any time be called upon to pay the same, but will confine and bind myself solely to the said boat; and I further undertake that I will not in any way prevent you from selling or transferring the said boat, or any portion thereof, when and as you may wish, subject, however, to the mortgage.

"JAS. G. ROSS."

(Exhibit "F12.")

"QUEBEC, 2nd February, 1888.

"JULIEN CHABOT, Esq.

"DEAR SIR,—I desire you to sell the steamer "Admiral" to my brother Robert Henry McGreevy, Esq., for the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, which he will pay me after the sale and transfer is made by you, accordingly you will be relieved of the said amount, and the said sale is made on my behalf and at my special instance and request. I will further hold you harmless for any claim against you while proprietor of the said steamer "Admiral."

"THOS. R. MCGREEVY."

(Exhibit "G12.")

"QUEBEC, 8th July, 1889.

"JULIEN CHABOT, Esq.

"DEAR SIR,—I hereby acknowledge that the mortgage given to me for the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars this day on the steamer "Admiral" is for the Hon. Thomas McGreevy accommodation, and I also recognize that you hold the Register of the said steamer "Admiral" for his account. I will not in any way hold you or your heirs personally or otherwise responsible for the said amount, should you ever at any time be called upon to pay the same, but will confine and bind myself solely to the said boat; and I further undertake that I will not in any way prevent you from selling or transferring the said boat, or any portion thereof, when and as you may wish, subject, however, to the mortgage.

"N. K. CONNOLLY."

(Exhibit "H12.")

"I, Robert Henry McGreevy, the sole registered owner of the steamboat "Admiral," do hereby divest myself of the control and management of the said boat in favour of the Honourable Thomas McGreevy, of the city of Quebec, contractor, hereby fully empowering and authorizing him or any person he may authorize to act in his place, to make for me as said owner of said boat all contracts for freight, for carrying of passengers, for the engagement of master and crew, the fitting out and running of said steamer, as well as for the provisions, stores and other things necessary for her navigation for and during the term of five years from this date, as well as to collect all sums of money which may be earned by said steamer by way of freight, conveying of passengers or otherwise and to enter into all contracts and engagements necessary and requisite for the running and navigation of a steamer such as the "Admiral" in navigating the St. Lawrence and ports of the Lower Provinces, and for any other purposes of the said vessel in connection with her employment; and further, to enter into any engagements or contracts to repair said boat or any portion thereof should same become necessary, and generally all and singular the affairs and concerns of me, the said Robert Henry McGreevy, to manage, control and transact, adjust, settle and contract as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes for controlling and managing said steamer "Admiral" as I might or could do if personally present, and without any further authority being necessary or requisite than these presents, and I do further empower the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy to substitute and appoint for all and every the objects and purposes of the present writing in his place any person he may choose, I hereby agreeing to ratify and confirm all and whatsoever the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy causes to be done in virtue of this document.

“ROBERT H. MCGREEVY.

“QUEBEC, 7th February, 1888.”

“I, the Honourable Thomas McGreevy, under and in virtue of the foregoing power granted me by Robert Henry McGreevy, do hereby name, appoint and substitute in my place Julien Chabot, Esquire, of Lévis, hereby transferring to him all the powers vested in me in connection with the steamboat “Admiral” by the said foregoing writing.

“THOS. R. MCGREEVY.”

“QUEBEC, 8th February, 1888.”

“On the twenty-fifth day of February, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one : Before me, Edward Graves Meredith, the undersigned Notary Public, duly commissioned and sworn, in and for the Province of Quebec, residing in the City of Quebec, in the said Province, personally came and appeared :

“The Honourable Thomas McGreevy, of the said City of Quebec, of the one part ; and Nicholas K. Connolly, of the said City of Quebec, Contractor, of the other part.

“Which said Honourable Thomas McGreevy, for divers good causes and considerations, and for and in consideration of the sum of thirty-one thousand six hundred and sixty-seven dollars and seventy-six cents, current money of the Province aforesaid, to him, at and before the execution hereof by the said Nicholas K. Connolly, well and truly paid, the receipt whereof the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy doth hereby acknowledge, did and by these presents doth grant, bargain and sell, assign, transfer, and set over to the said Nicholas K. Connolly, hereof accepting as follows, that is to say :—

“1stly. All or any sum or sums of money which now is or hereafter may be due, owing and payable to him the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy by Julien Chabot, of the Town of Lévis, Manager, as and for moneys lent and advanced by him the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy to the said Julien Chabot to enable the latter to purchase and acquire the steamer called the “Admiral,” or lent and advanced by the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy to the said Julien Chabot, for the purpose of enabling the said Julien Chabot to fit up and run the said steamer “Admiral,” together with all interest now due or which may hereafter become due and payable on all or any of the said sums of money, without any exception.

“2ndly. All and every the rights, title, interest, claims and demands which he the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy has or might pretend to have in, to or upon the said steamer “Admiral,” her machinery, furniture, fixtures, boats, tackle or app. rel, by reason of his having advanced all or any of the aforesaid, and hereby sold and assigned sum or sums of money to the said Julien Chabot for the purpose of acquiring, fitting out or running the said steamer “Admiral,” or otherwise howsoever, without any reserve or exception.

“To have and to hold the said sum and sums of money hereby sold and assigned as aforesaid, with all interest to accrue and grow due upon the same and the rights, title, interest and claims of the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy in, to and upon the said steamer “Admiral,” also hereby sold and assigned unto the said Nicholas K. Connolly, his heirs, executors, curators and administrators, and assigns, to the only proper use and behoof of the said Nicholas K. Connolly, his heirs, executors, curators, administrators and assigns, henceforth and forever. And for the effect of the present assignment the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy doth hereby put, substitute and subrogate the said Nicholas K. Connolly in the place and stead of him the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy, and in all his right, title, claim, interest and demand, privileges and hypothecs for and respective the premises, and did and doth hereby constitute and appoint the said Nicholas K. Connolly to be his true and lawful attorney, irrevocable, with full power and authority for and in the name of him the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy or of him the said Nicholas K. Connolly, but to and for the proper use and behoof of the said Nicholas K. Connolly, his heirs, and assigns, to ask, demand, sue for, recover and receive the premises hereby assigned, and to transact, compound, acquit, release and discharge, for and respective the same, and generally all the matters and things whatsoever necessary for effecting the premises or dependent thereon, to do and perform as fully and amply to all intents and purposes as he the said Honourable Thomas McGreevy might or could do if personally present, hereby ratifying, allowing and confirming, and promising and engaging to ratify, allow and confirm, all and whatsoever the said Nicholas K. Connolly shall lawfully do or cause to be done in and about the premises by virtue hereof.

"Thus done and passed at the said city of Quebec, on the day and year first above written, under the number four thousand two hundred and forty of the minutes of the said Notary, the said parties having to these presents first duly read according to law, set their hands and subscribed their signatures in the presence of me the said Notary, also hereunto subscribed, in faith and testimony of the premises.

Mr. MARTIN P. CONNOLLY, recalled and his examination continued.

By Mr. Geoffron :

Q. Since the adjournment last night, have you gone through the books and ascertained how many payments have been made to Inspectors during the year 1888?—A. I did not.

Q. Would it take up much time to do?—A. Oh, yes; it would, I should think so. I did a pretty good day's work yesterday and could not do any more.

Q. You will have to do it. Had you no time to do it last night?—A. I was here until 6 o'clock last night; I came up about 8 o'clock and the room was closed.

Q. Will you give us the names of the Inspectors that were in charge during the year 1888?—A. I don't know that I can give you all the names. I think there was Brunel, Pelletier, Germain, and Milne, I think, was one.

Q. In 1889 also?—A. In 1888.

Q. Also Labbé?—A. I don't know.

Q. When referring to the book, did you ascertain whether Labbé was in your account also, for certain work?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Was Milne in your accounts in 1888?—A. I don't think so.

Q. You mentioned in your Exhibit "B5" that in 1888 there were only Pelletier, Germain and Brunel?—A. Yes.

Q. You are satisfied that the others did not receive anything, if there were others?—A. If there were others I am almost satisfied they did not receive anything in that year, and that $50 mentioned in the Exhibit as paid to Germain was loaned to him by Mr. Hume, and he did not pay it back, and I did not want to charge it to Hume's private account, because I thought he could not afford to lose it.

Q. The loan was never paid back?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Did Samuels receive any money also in 1887?—A. He may have in 1887, but I could not tell you.

Q. During the year 1888 how did you enter the names of these people? Did you enter their names individually, their initials, or telegraph letters?—A. As was explained yesterday, sometimes probably only the initials or telegraph signs.

Q. Their entries would be made in the same way in 1888 as during the year 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. Who were the captains of the dredges?—A. Captain Manly and Captain Fielding.

Q. Where are those gentlemen now?—A. I think Captain Manly is employed by the firm of N. K. and M. Connolly at Kingston, and the other man met with an accident and he was killed at the embankment, I think in the fall of 1888.

Q. Who replaced him?—A. It was Manly. We only had one dredge I think working at Quebec at that time. The other dredge was at Kingston, and Manly came down from Kingston and replaced him.

Q. How many dredges were working at the same time during the years 1887 and 1888?—A. Two most of the time, and sometimes three.

Q. Only occasionally three?—A. Only occasionally three.

Q. Is it to the captains that the returns of those Inspectors were given?—A. The returns by the inspectors were given to the Resident Engineer, I think.

Q. Not to these captains?—A. No, sir.

Q. Would the captains also keep accounts or "tallies" of what they were doing?—A. Yes.

Q. And their duty was to make returns to your office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you compare any of these returns made by the captains with those by the Inspectors?—A. I compared the returns made by the captains with the estimates that were allowed.

Q. You made these comparisons when you found out you had to pay extras to these Inspectors?—A. No; I always made a comparison and checked the amount of work done.

Q. From the returns by the captains?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you compare them with the returns from the Inspector?—A. No, sir; I did not.

Q. Would these returns by the captains still be amongst the papers of the firm?—A. No; I guess not.

Q. Were they destroyed?—A. Some of them were, I know.

Q. Who destroyed them?—A. The returns from the captains and a little memorandum book he would keep, I would destroy them, because they came in full of dust and dirt.

Q. They were not destroyed at the same time as the receipts of the Inspectors?—A. No. As long as I was satisfied the amount of the estimates was as much as the returns by the captains, there was no question about it. Sometimes it would be less, and we had to investigate.

Q. And when you found out the returns from the Inspectors exceeded those of the captain you did not complain?—A. I made no complaint.

Q. Referring to those receipts, were they destroyed about the same time that you made these erasures in the books?—A. They may have been, some of them probably.

Q. It was the same job, was it, destroying the receipts and erasing entries in the books, and done at leisure?—A. Yes; it was something like that. I took upon myself to do it.

By Mr. Lister:

Q. You said you destroyed some of the receipts about a month before 20th May, 1891, after you knew this investigation was going on. What do you say about that?—A. If I said that, it must be correct.

Q. Well, did you? Is that so? That is only two or three months ago, remember. Yesterday you said it happened, according to your recollection, two or three months ago?—A. I think I did destroy one receipt.

- Q. Only one?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. You swear it was only one?—A. Yes, sir.
- Q. What one was that?—A. It was a receipt I found in the office from some of the Inspectors.
- Q. That was one that had been left from the former destruction?—A. Yes.
- Q. You said Brunel, Germain and Pelletier were the Inspectors. Do you know whether Mr. Pelletier is the relative of any public man in Canada?—A. I understand he is.
- Q. Who?—A. I understand he is a nephew of Sir Adolphe Caron.
- Q. Do you know who Mr. Germain is?—A. No; other than I knew him on the works.
- Q. You don't know anything about him?—A. No.
- Q. You don't know whether he is a connection of any public man?—A. No.
- Q. Nor Mr. Brunel, you don't know about him?—A. No, sir, I don't know anything about him.
- Q. Whose receipt was it you destroyed two months ago?—A. I could not tell you. I think it was one of Mr. Pelletier's.
- Q. Do you remember how much it was for?—A. $65, I think.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

- Q. Since you were in charge of the books did you see in the possession of the firm—in the safe or vault—a note for $7,500, signed by Robert H. McGreevy?—A. No; I do not remember seeing that.
- Q. You only became book-keeper in 1885?—A. In 1885.
- Q. Do you remember when the last estimate for the Esquimalt works was received and distributed between the partners?—A. I do not.
- Q. Take the books of 1888 and find it?—A. (After referring to book.) It was February 28th, 1888.
- Q. What was the amount?—A. $31,077.89.
- Q. How was the division made?—A. The last division on the B. C. work I find in Exhibit "N3," page 467. "Quebec, March 1st, 1888. Esquimalt Dock, $32,679.05. Dr. to cash for same amount. For the following cheques paid to each member amount in full, due him on B. C. division—
- No. 86248, $5,195.81.
 O. E. Murphy, $7,195.81.
 P. Larkin, $5,895.81.
 N. K. Connolly, $7,195.81.
 M. Connolly, $7,195.81."

- Q. These require explanations, as it would appear that you have distributed more than you received?—A. There may be a balance to the credit of the works.
- Q. Is it not a fact that some of the members of the firm are indebted and have been charged with it there?—A. It may have been there. This is the final balance after the estimate was received. There is a little difference between the estimate received and the amount divided here.
- Q. What is the first number, without a name?—A. That is a number of a cheque.
- Q. Who is the party who got it?—A. I think it was Mr. Robert McGreevy.
- Q. Is there any telegraphic or cabalistic sign there?—A. No.
- Q. You think Mr. Robert McGreevy got it?—A. This explains it. Exhibit "T3," page 71. March 1st, 1888: "Expense, cheque to E. W., in full of B. C. division, $5,195.81."
- Q. Is there any scratching on the paper there?—A. I do not think so.

By Mr. Tarte :

- Q. What is E.W.?—A. East wind.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Was it not Robert McGreevy's share of the division less $2,000 for stone and plant that he has bought?—A. I see here an entry January 1st, 1888 : "Expense for amount of sale of plant and stone at B.C., E.W. $2,000."

Q. E.W. is Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes; that was a synonym we had for him on the works.

Q. And he was charged $2,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Because he had bought the plant?—A. Yes.

Q. What would have been his cheque if he had not bought the plant?—A. His cheque, I suppose, would have been $7,195.81.

Q. This is not a satisfactory explanation yet. You received $31,079.89, and you appear also to have had in cash $2,000, being the price of the plant bought by R. H. McGreevy? This would make $33,077.89?—A. There may have been some other indebtedness incurred on the Esquimalt Dock account that we had to pay from the other works. The trial balance is produced here and I think it is correct.

Q. Look at folio 71, Exhibit "T3," and read it?—A. "March 8th, expense for amount agreed to be expended by firm, $2,000."

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. What year is that?—A. The same year.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Is this entry in connection with this division?—A. It may be.

Q. You cannot remember?—A. No.

Q. Have you no memory at all of what this expense was to be for?—A. I never knew.

Q. Is it not a fact that four hundred dollars was to come from the share of each of the five members of the firm to make up that $2,000, for "expense to be met," and that you did the figuring yourself?—A. It may have, but I do not remember doing the figuring. Even if I did then, I would not know what it was for.

Q. Will you examine this paper, and say whether this is in your handwriting?—A. Part of it is in my handwriting.

Q. Which of it is in your handwriting?—A. The lower portion of it is in the handwriting of Mr. Robert McGreevy.

Q. Read the document?

(Exhibit "I12.")

Balance due from Q.H.I.. .....	3,868 51

R. H. McG.—Ck.....	5,195 81
Stone and plant.....	2,000 00
	$7,195 81

Yes. Q. This is the part which you have read, which is in your handwriting?—A.

Q. Were $400 not taken off, as shown by the books, from Robert McGreevy's share?—A. There is a difference of $400 on each share between the amount sent up and this memorandum.

Q. It was in 1889. You are of age, and are an intelligent man. Please speak, and try to remember with these figures in your eyes. Try to remember whether you can give some explanation before the Committee?—A. I can give no explanation whatever. There was a document made out in my handwriting.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. There was $400 kept off each man?—A. Seemingly.

Q. Do not the books show you? I want to know whether the $400 was deducted from each partner at the time this settlement was made? The amount of their share, less $400, was paid to them?—A. The total amount, less $2,000.

Q. That amount was deducted equally—$400 from each?—A. It would be if it was charged to expense.

Q. You told us in the first place how much they were entitled to and how much they received?—A. It figures out exactly less $400 each. The books show $2,000 was kept from the firm. That would make $400 from each man.

Q. Do not the cheques show that each man got his money, less $400?—A. No; because one man got $5,195 and another man got $7,195.

Q. Taking off the $2,000 that he got in plant, are not the cheques equal?—A. No.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Each man got $400 less than he would have got if they had not deducted the $2,000?—A. Yes; but the same theory would apply to every one of the divisions.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Is it not a fact that these $2,000 to your knowledge were left with Michael Connolly?—A. I do not know that they were.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Was there a cheque drawn at that moment to represent this $2,000?—A. No, sir; I do not think so. I would have to look that up and see. I do not think there was.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you look up Exhibit "E7," which appears to be written by you, and say whether opposite the entry "March, 1887, $2,000," there are not words that have been erased, but which read "Paid to Michael Connolly." They can be read still?—A. Yes; but I must say that this was written here "Paid to M. Connolly," and then an interrogation point, seemingly after it was written in this document, which left my hand on the 26th April, 1889.

Q. It does not appear to be in your handwriting?—A. It is not in my handwriting.

Q. The whole document is in your handwriting except the erasure?—A. Yes.

Q. As these entries are in your handwriting, will you explain to the Committee by whose order you kept $400 from each of the partners?—A. If there was $400 kept from each of the partners it was ordered by the members of the firm.

Q. How could they, if you were dividing money which came in a lump sum?—A. The only explanation I can give is that it had been decided to be made.

Q. Did you not charge them prior to that deduction of $400, or were they owing it?—A. All that was owing to the firm was charged.

Q. Then they did not receive that $400 prior to the division?—A. They are not charged with this $400 either prior or since the division.

Q. But it was deducted from their share?—A. $2,000 was charged to expense. That is all I know about it.

Q. Is it not a fact that $400 was deducted from the share of each?—A. No; I do not see how you can reconcile it.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. How much more would each have received if that $400 had not been deducted?
—A. If there was $400 deducted from each of their accounts they would have received $400 more.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You say that a dredge was transferred to Kingston. When was it?—A. It was in 1890, I think.

Q. It could not have had much bearing, then, when I examined you on the payments to the Inspectors in 1888?—A. We had an inspector working on the dredge.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. What became of the $2,000?—A. I cannot tell you.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Did you never hear the members of the firm speaking about it?—A. I may have heard them speaking about it.

Q. Did you hear them speak about it? Speak out. You know.—A. They must have spoken about it when it was taken from their account.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. Is the money there yet?—A. No.

Q. Who got it? Is the money in the bank yet?—A. No.

Q. Then who got it? Who drew it?—A. (No answer.)

By Mr. Lister :

Q. I asked you whether you ever heard any conversation amongst any members of the firm, one or more, as to this $2,000 which gave you a suspicion where it went?—A. No.

Q. Never heard them mention it?—A. No.

Q. Good, bad or indifferent?—A. No.

Q. You swear you never heard any member of the firm speak about that $2,000 as to what expense it was to be applied for?—A. As to what payment it went for I know nothing about it.

Q. Did you ever hear any statement or any conversation by any member of the firm indicating where that $2,000 was to go or had gone?—A. No.

Q. They never spoke about it in your presence?—A. Not as to where it had gone.

Q. Did they ever speak of it?—A. They must have, in order that I could make the charges.

Q. You have never been told since what was done with it?—A. No.

Q. Never heard of it?—A. No.

Q. You have no suspicion?—A. Not the slightest.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Are these all you brought?—A. All Nicholas Connolly's private cheques, except one that Mr. Fitzpatrick filed.

Q. There are no cheques for 1888?—A. I cannot help it. I checked them in the bank book, and came to the conclusion they were all here, except the one Mr. Fitzpatrick filed.

Q. Are there no cheques of 1888? This won't do. There is no bank book or banking account of Nicholas Connolly's for 1888.—A. He did not have any. It shows a balance of $64.60 to his credit in the Bank of British North America.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. He must have opened accounts in some other bank?—A. That is the only account in Quebec.

Q. A man who paid $33,000 to Mr. Thomas McGreevy on the 25th February last has no bank account!—A. A man who did that must have had a banking account, probably; but Mr. Nicholas Connolly has none other than this.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You say Mr. Nicholas Connolly received from the firm in March, 1888, $7,195. Has he had that in his pocket ever since?—A. No; probably he got a deposit receipt for it.

Q. That indicates a banking account?—A. He would not have a bank account if he got a deposit receipt.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. There is something wrong about it. He has been paid $2,000. Where did he get the money?—A. I don't know that he paid money. If he paid money he must have got it.

Q. You have made that entry there yourself, that he paid the money?—A. It would not necessarily follow. I knew where he got the money. If he paid it in, I made an entry he paid $2,000. I must have been told, but don't know myself.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Do I understand from you that there is an entry made by you showing that money was paid by Nicholas?—A. Yes.

Q. Read it?—A. "Quebec, March 8th, 1888: Esquimalt Dock Dr. $2,000; to N. K. Connolly, $2,000 for amount paid by N. K. C. from his private fund on account of B. C. Dock as agreed, $2,000."

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. As agreed with whom?—A. The members of the firm.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Had Nicholas Connolly any account in the Savings Bank Department of this Bank—the Bank of British North America?—A. This is the only account Mr. Nicholas Connolly had in Quebec, with the exception of that in the Bank of British North America on account of the firm's business in probably 1889 or 1890.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are wrong in saying all the cheques are here. See if you can find any cheques for 1888? Get me the cheque for instance of March 8th, 1888, for $2,000?—A. I find nothing to represent the cheques.

Q. Look at the last page of the book and you will see a cheque to N. K. C. for $2,200 apparently on March 8th, which is about the date in question, and one of $4,000 on March 14th. We have him depositing to his credit the cheque you gave him and we have against that on the other side, three one hundreds, one thousand, one 2,200, another of four thousand, and another of one thousand to Mr. Hume. The cheque of $2,200 is to his own initials, but the four thousand is to a broker. Now those cheques are not produced, will you tell me also where is N. K. Connolly's private cash book, it is not produced here. This entry "N. K. Connolly shortage and private use $723.27. Amounts disbursed by N. K. C. on firm's account taken from cash book, folio 237-9, out of cheques withdrawn by him and not already credited." That is your written record of a private cash book of N. K. Connolly's that is not produced here. Will you explain it?—A. December the 31st, 1886; I do not remember.

Q. That is your entry of items taken from private cash book of Nicholas Connolly?—A. No; that entry is taken from a private—

Q. You see it is a pretty large cash book; these are extracts from folios 237 and 239?—A. Well, I don't remember that cash book now.

Q. Did you remember it on the previous occasion? You see you have seen it and taken extracts from it. Is it just this morning it is gone from you? I can show you other entries where you have taken extracts from that private cash book, from Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s books. Now, will you give some explanation of that? It is clear there was a cash book.—A. Yes; there must have been one.

Q. It is clear this cash book had a considerable number of the pages occupied?—A. Yes.

Q. It is clear to me you had it in your own hands, and from that you carried a balance $723.27 on the 31st December, 1886, to N. K. Connolly's credit. This shortage and private account you carried it to his credit?—A. No, sir; it was charged to his debit.

Q. You charged him with the cheques and you credited him with private disbursements on the part of the firm and he owed the firm $723.27. Now, you have not produced that book?—A. I don't know that I have; I must look up the books and see.

Q. Since you are relieved from immediate attendance you must look up the books. I am told there is such a book.

Mr. GEOFFRION.—Will you also look up an entry which may refer to the following, dated March 11th, 1886, where Mr. Thomas McGreevy writes to his brother Robert:—"I enclose you the amount of estimate for December and January; the January one includes the new system of measurement. The advance, $20,000, on drawback has been passed and will be sent at once to B. C.; the amount of estimate for February has not been telegraphed yet; I will let you know when it comes."

By Mr. Hector Cameron:

Q. You have spoken of certain payments made apparently by way of commission to the Inspectors for dredging and other work in Quebec?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. So far as you are aware, had Captain Larkin ever any knowledge or information of anything of the kind?—A. No, sir; he had not.

Q. You have referred to the audits that took place. How many audits did you take part in?—A. Four, I think.

Q. At how many of those was Captain Larkin present?—A. It is impossible for me to say. I think he was absent from some.

Q. Where—in British Columbia?—A. I could not tell you where he was.

Q. The first audit in which you took part, I believe, was in the spring of 1885, soon after you entered the employment of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. What years did that audit cover?—A. I think it was 1883 and 1884—up to the 1st of April, 1885.

Q. You, yourself, had not been book-keeper for the firm prior to the 1st of January, 1885?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you take part in making up the balance sheet and audit for the year or two prior to the time you entered the employment of the firm?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else participated in that work?—A. Mr. Kimmitt and Mr. Hume.

Q. It has been stated that Mr. Kimmitt had a power of attorney from Captain Larkin to represent him at the audits. Did you ever see that power of attorney?—A. I do not remember having seen it.

Q. Was it not amongst the firm's papers—was it not left there?—A. I do not think so.

Q. At that audit in the spring of 1885, was there a discussion between Murphy, the accounting partner, and Mr. Kimmitt, as to an item of $25,000?—A. There was a discussion as to two items, one $25,000 and the other $22,000.

Q. What discussion took place between Mr. Murphy and Mr. Kimmitt on that occasion?—A. I do not remember exactly what took place. I was in what we call the inside office, and I remember Mr. Murphy and Mr. Kimmitt having hot words over the producing of some vouchers.

Q. Did Mr. Kimmitt object to these items, or either or both, being charged to the firm?—A. I said he objected.

Q. Until the vouchers were produced?—A. Yes; or some satisfactory explanation given.

Q. Did Mr. Murphy at first refuse to either produce vouchers or give explanation?—A. I understood so, from the fact that that was the cause of the quarrel.

Q. Did very strong words pass between them?—A. Yes; I remember the lie passed between them.

Q. Did Mr. Murphy ultimately produce any vouchers or ultimately give any information?—A. He produced the notes that are here exhibited.

Q. I believe on one of these series of notes Captain Larkin's name appears?—A. I think so.

Q. On the production of these notes did Mr. Kimmitt allow the item to pass?—A. Yes. He put them together and I think endorsed them with a green pencil to the different works they seemingly appertained.

Q. Was Captain Larkin present in Quebec at the time?—A. I think not.

Q. Was Captain Larkin often in Quebec?—A. Not very often.

Q. Did he take any active part in the management of the business in Quebec?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did he ever examine the books in Quebec?—A. Not personally.

Q. Not personally. How otherwise do you mean?—A. Through his clerk, Mr. Kimmitt.

Q. Mr. Kimmitt was auditing the books on behalf of the firm generally, I understand, but with special authority to represent Captain Larkin?—A. That is how it was.

Q. Did Mr. Hume represent any one in particular?—A. No, sir. All that he represented was the firm.

Q. He and Kimmitt were the joint auditors, but Mr. Kimmitt had special instructions from Captain Larkin to represent him, as he was not superintending the works?—A. I understood he was there on Captain Larkin's behalf.

Q. You say that Captain Larkin took no active part in the management of the firm—he never interfered with it?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. That is from the 1st of January, 1885?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. The first audit was in 1885?—A. The first that I was present at.

Q. Where was it?—A. In the office of the Graving Dock at Lévis.

Q. You say that Mr. Kimmitt made a mark on the notes with a green pencil?—A. Yes; with a green pencil.

Q. That is six years ago?—A. Yes.

Q. You could not remember much yesterday, but you can remember now the colour of the pencil?—A. I saw the notes here the other day and recognized his handwriting at once.

Q. So, it is not because you saw it then, but here?—A. I remember seeing it at the time, too. I remember we had a green pencil, and the check mark showed through the books.

Q. Was Captain Larkin present on the occasion of the division of the $31,000 on the 8th March, 1888?—A. I do not remember.

Q. There was no green pencil there; you do not remember?—A. I do not remember.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Are these the notes to which you have just referred (Exhibit "W7")?—A. Yes; here is the green pencil mark on the back in Kimmitt's handwriting.

Q. Were they all fastened together at the time, do you recollect, as being vouchers for that item?—A. I do not recollect whether they were so fastened or not.

Q. Do you recollect whether Michael Connolly was aware of the payments to the Inspectors, as far as you know?—A. No; I do not.

Q. You do not know?—A. I do not know whether he was aware of the payments.

Q. I understood you to say these payments were originated by Murphy?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was he who started the scheme and made the payments up to 1887?—A. Yes. That is the way I understood it.

Q. Have you got the ledger containing the entry of these notes for the first $25,000? Read me the entry referring to the first of these notes where it is charged to Michael Connolly?—A. There is an entry in Exhibit "G3," page 299, debit of $5,000 on May 14th, 1883, to Michael Connolly.

Q. Is there any other note or any other entry in the books other than that against Michael Connolly for which this cheque of 14th May, 1883, for $5,000 could have been given?—A. No. This entry here on May 14th, refers to that cheque.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. Is not the drawback which I asked you to verify as mentioned in the letter of the 11th March, 1886, paid and received by the firm on the 25th of March, 1886?—A. Yes; I find it in Exhibit "R3" "March, 25th drawback $20,000."

Mr. L. J. RIOPEL SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. You live in Quebec?—A. Part of the time in Quebec and part of the time in New Carlisle.

Q. I think you have been connected with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I have.

Q. Are you still connected with that company?—A. No.

Q. In what capacity were you connected with that company?—A. I have been managing director for part of the time.

Q. For how many years?—A. Four years.

Q. As managing director, were you in charge of the books and papers of the company?—A. No.

Q. Had you some of the papers of the company in your possession?—A. I had.

Q. Who was in charge of the books of the company?—A. The secretary.

Q. Who is he?—A. L. A. Robitaille.

Q. Where does he live?—A. Quebec.

Q. Did you have in your possession a certain agreement between C. N. Armstrong and Robert McGreevy, which was mentioned yesterday by Mr. Armstrong as having been left in your possession after having been signed?—A. There was an agreement signed by Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Robert McGreevy which was in my hands. It passed through my hands during the year 1886.

Q. You have seen the document which was in your hands?—A. At the time?

Q. Yes.—A. I have seen it.

Q. Did you sign it yourself?—A. I did.

Q. Was there any other names on it besides Armstrong, Robert McGreevy and your name?—A. There was the signature of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Who else?—A. The Hon. T. Robitaille.

Q. He was then the president of the company?—A. Yes.

Q. Are those all the names you can remember?—A. That is all the names there were.

Q. Do you know where that document is now?—A. No.

Q. When did you last see it?—A. At the time.

Q. How long did it remain in your hands?—A. It never remained in my hands. It passed through at the time it was signed.

Q. You were the custodian of the papers?—A. I handed it to Mr. Robert McGreevy immediately after the signatures were made. It was left with him. I had it no more than anybody else. It was on the table, and I know it was handed to him at the time.

Q. It was not in duplicate?—A. No.

Q. Did you keep a copy of the document?—A. I had notes of the contents of the document, but I have not got them now. A memorandum had been made up of the contents of the document.

Q. Can you say where that memorandum is?—A. It was left with Mr. Robert McGreevy.

Q. The memorandum itself?—A. No; that has been destroyed. I had no object in keeping it.

Q. Can you remember what was the purport of the document?—A. It was the agreement between Mr. McGreevy and Mr. Armstrong.

Mr. OULMET.—Would it not be better, if there is a document, to have it produced by Robert McGreevy.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY recalled.

By Mr. Geoffrion

Q. You are already sworn?—A. Yes.

Q. You have heard the witness mention a document signed by you. Did you make a search for that document?—A. I never had it, except at the moment I signed it. My impression is that Mr. Riopel or the Hon. Mr. Robitaille kept it.

Q. You haven't it in your possession?—A. I never had it really in my possession at all. I signed it and got my brother to sign it, and left it with them.

Q. Have you been making search for that document?—A. I could not search, because I never had it.

Q. Where was it signed?—A. In Ottawa.

Mr. RIOPEL'S examination resumed.

Q. Where was the document signed?—A. In the Parliament Buildings, Ottawa.

Q. What Department?—A. In the Tower Room. I used to keep my books and papers there.

Q. Will you state to the Committee what you can remember of that document?—A. It was an agreement between Mr. McGreevy and—

Q. Which McGreevy?—A. The two gentlemen named just now—that is, Thomas and Robert, whereby they agreed to transfer their interest in the company—that is, their stock—and all their interest. The consideration was that Mr. Armstrong was to pay $50,000 cash and $25,000 in bonds of the company.

Q. Is that all you can remember?—A. That is all there was. The Hon. T. Robitaille and myself signed individually that we would endeavour to see the agreement carried out. That is the reason why our signature was to it.

Q. You were a party to it?—A. No; we were more witnesses than anything else.

Q. You say $50,000 was to be paid in cash—you mean in money?—A. Yes.

Q. Was it paid then and there, or by instalments?—A. By instalments, as far as I recollect.

Q. Was it to be paid out of certain special funds?—A. No; there was nothing specified about the way of payment.

Q. Was it not to be paid gradually, as the subsidies were paid by the Government—part of it anyway?—A. I do not recollect that.

Q. Will you swear that that money consideration was paid?—A. I do not know, but I understand there has been some of it paid.

Q. You say that the two Messrs. McGreevy were selling their interest in the company?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how much money Thomas McGreevy had put into the concern?—A. He had, I think, $50,000 of the stock. Between the two brothers they had $75,000.

Mr. STUART objected, but the objection was overruled.

Q. That is not exactly an answer?—A. I am not done with my answer. The 10 per cent. of the stock had been paid by notes. He had acted as president for the company for two or three years, had gone to some expense in attending meetings, travelling, and looking after the business of the road. There were disbursements made for the purpose of making the service, and there was work done and plant supplied for the work. I don't know but I have understood that Mr. Thomas McGreevy or Mr. Robert were together. As far as we were concerned, we made no distinction between the two. Instructions were at once given to Robert McGreevy to go on with the work, and he did go on with the work of building the road.

Q. You say he had been put to expense for meetings. Where did the meetings take place?—A. Some at Baie des Chaleurs.

Q. Several?—A. Two, I think.

Q. And did he attend both?—A. I think he did the two.

Q. When was it?—A. I think in 1883 and 1884, or 1884 and 1885.

Q. You say that Mr. Thomas McGreevy had shares of $50,000. Is it not true that at the time of this agreement Thomas McGreevy sold and transferred all his shares to his brother Robert?—A. I don't recollect whether it was before or after, but I know that a direction was put, as far as Mr. Armstrong was concerned, in this agreement, that Mr. Robert McGreevy was the party with whom the transaction was to be carried out. Mr. Thomas may have transferred previous to that.

Q. As a matter of fact, you don't know?—A. No.

Q. You say that 10 per cent. on the shares subscribed had been paid by notes. Were those notes paid?—A. Yes.

Q. By whom?—I don't speak of the other shareholders; I speak of Thomas McGreevy?—A. They were not paid by him.

Q. By whom were they paid?—A. They were paid by cheques by the Hon. Theodore Robitaille and myself.

Q. Cheques signed by the Hon. Theodore Robitaille and yourself?—A. No; they were in our favour.

Q. That were drawn in your favour?—A. Yes.

Q. Who were the drawers?—A. The Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company.

Q. So the shares were paid by the company, then?—A. No; they were not.

Q. Well, they were paid by cheques signed by the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. They were paid by the Hon. Theodore Robitaille and myself.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. You say they were paid by cheques drawn by the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. Paid by the Hon. Mr. Robitaille and myself, and they were paid by cheques, and these cheques had been drawn in our favour by the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company.

Q. I want to know from what funds these cheques were drawn?—A. From what funds?

Q. Yes; you say the company drew the cheque?—A. Yes.

Q. These cheques were drawn then upon funds belonging to the company?—A. Yes.

Q. On what bank?—A. It was a private bank—the Richelieu District Bank.

Q. That is Mr. Taillon, the money lender, of Sorel?—A. Yes.

Q. I want to know from what funds belonging to the company these cheques were drawn, and I want to know whether the company was drawing upon its own money or somebody else's for the purpose of making these cheques good?—A. The company had this amount at its credit.

Q. If it was at its credit, was it the property of the company?—A. That money was the money of the company.

Q. So it is as I said—the company paid its own shares?—A. Well, the company could not make a payment unless it had that money at its credit.

Q. What I want to make out is, that a corporation cannot pay its own shares, cannot hold its own shares, and I am trying to ascertain from you whether the company paid its own shares or whether the shareholders paid for them?—A. It was not the company who paid its own shares. I told you it was the Hon. Theodore Robitaille and myself. Cheques had been issued in our favour by the company and this money was to our credit. This money was paid to our credit by the company, and the payments that had been made were made out of a deposit made with the Richelieu District Bank, and the notes were paid out of the deposit.

Q. Who made the deposit with Mr. Taillon, or the Richelieu Bank, as you call it?—A. I don't know, directly.

Q. As this money was in to your credit, do you not know who made that deposit to you?—A. There were accounts against the company by the Hon. Theodore Robitaille and myself, which had been accepted by the company. This account was a claim which we had against the company. The amount of our claim was credited to us with the Richelieu District Bank, and out of this amount the payments of the notes were made.

Q. So, if I understand you aright, you and the Hon. Mr. Robitaille have had accounts against the company?—A. Yes.

Q. These claims were passed by the company—admitted as good?—A. Yes.

Q. Then the company became your debtors?—A. Yes.

Q. And to enable the company to pay their debt to you and Mr. Robitaille, money was deposited with Richelieu Bank?—A. Yes; that is, a credit was established.

Q. Cheques were drawn by the company to pay in your account?—A. Yes.

Q. And with this you bought the notes of Mr. McGreevy?—A. That is we discharged the amount of those notes.

Q. What was the amount of those notes?—A. Ten per cent. of $75,000.

Q. You not only paid Thomas McGreevy's notes, but Robert McGreevy's?—A. Yes.

Q. How many directors were there in the company?—A. Seven.

Q. Who were the directors at the time your accounts were passed by the Board?—A. Hon. T. Robitaille, Louis Robitaille, myself, Mr. Robert McGreevy, Mr. François Giroux and Mr. Octave Martin.

Q. And Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I am not sure if he was then.

Q. When was this?—A. I think it was in the spring of 1886.

Q. I think Mr. Thomas McGreevy was director at the time?—A. His name completes the list of directors—seven in all.

Q. Can you say when these notes were paid?—A. In 1885, I think.

Q. It was in 1885 when the notes were paid?—A. Yes.

Q. So that the resolution of the Board at which your accounts were passed must have been passed also in 1885?—A. Yes.

Q. What were these claims you and Mr. Robitaille had against the company, and for what amount?—A. Is it obligatory upon me to answer?

The CHAIRMAN.—You must answer.

Q. As you paid $7,500, I would like to know if those claims amounted to that?—A. My claim was $5,000.

Q. And Mr. Robitaille's?—A. His claim represented himself and his two brothers, A. Robitaille and Louis Robitaille. The amount was $25,000.

Q. What were they for?—A. For disbursement for services rendered in the connection with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway up to 1882, previous to the obtaining of the present charter. It was expenses incurred under the old charter of 1872.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Is there a detailed account in the hands of the company for those charges?—A. There is an account; it is not a detailed account.

By Mr. Lavergne :

Q. What is the amount of your disbursements?—A. We had not kept a statement of the disbursements. In attending to this enterprise we have had a great deal of work and great deal of trouble—a great many disbursements of all kinds.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Anxiety?—A. It is all very fine, but the promoters of railway enterprises who attend to them for a number of years are well aware that a great many disbursements have to be made before you can come to success. We have not got a detailed account, but we incurred a great deal of expense. A great deal of time was spent for the purposes of the undertaking.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Were these amounts allowed in whole or in part?—A. Yes.

Q. You received a cheque for $5,000, and Mr. Robitaille a cheque for $25,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Those cheques were paid?—A. Those cheques were deposited with the Richelieu District Bank.

Q. You had the cash for them; they were good; they were presented by you and duly honoured?—A. Yes.

Q. And you kept the cash. You did not re-deposit it?—A. I did not say that.

Q. Well, the cheques were honoured?—A. Yes.

Q. Were they honoured with cash?—A. I do not know. I know the cheques have been honoured by the Richelieu District Bank, and the amount for which the cheques were drawn was allowed, and the notes were delivered on the payment of these.

Q. The notes disappeared—they were paid?—A. The notes were paid.

Q. This was done in 1885?—A. In 1885.

Q. What part of the year?—A. I do not recollect.

Q. In the fall of 1885—but was it not after some meeting of the Board?—A. There were several meetings of the Board. I do not recollect the time of the year. It is, however, in the book.

Q. It was a long time previous to the contract being signed with Armstrong?—A. Yes; several months, perhaps a year.

Q. Will you now take communication of a protest by the Hon. Thomas McGreevy to the Hon. T. Robitaille, dated 23rd January, 1886, which reads as follows:

(Exhibit "J12.")

"On the twenty-third day of January, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-six.

"At the request of the Honourable Thomas McGreevy, of the city of Quebec, a member of the House of Commons of Canada, I, the undersigned Notary Public, duly commissioned and sworn, residing at the city of Quebec, went to the Russell House, situated in Saint Lewis Ward of the city of Quebec, the residence of the Honourable Theodore Robitaille when in the city of Quebec, pretended President of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company, and then and there being and speaking to the said Theodore Robitaille, I did, as by these presents I do, signify and make known unto the said Theodore Robitaille as such pretended President.

"That whereas, by the Statute forty-fifth Victoria, chapter fifty-three, of the Province of Quebec, the said Thomas McGreevy together with the said Theodore Robitaille and others became incorporated under the name of "The Baie des Chaleurs Company," with a capital of three million dollars, divided into sixty thousand shares of fifty dollars each, whereof six thousand shares have been subscribed for, amounting to three hundred thousand dollars, and the same are now held in the names of the following parties to wit:—Thomas McGreevy, one thousand shares; Louis Robitaille, fifteen hundred shares; Robert H. McGreevy, five hundred shares; L. J. Riopel, fifteen hundred shares; Joseph Giroux, ten shares; Louis A. Robitaille, fourteen hundred and ninety shares.

"And whereas, the number of shareholders are insufficient in number to elect directors.

“ And whereas, the directors of the said company have not been legally appointed, there having been no meeting called for their election, pursuant to the seventh section of the Statute aforesaid.

“ And whereas, the said Directors have called a special general meeting of the shareholders of the said company to be held at the company's office, No. 4 Buade Street, Quebec, on the twenty-fifth day of January instant, for the transaction of most important business, and amongst others the issue of bonds and the construction of the said line of railway.

“ And whereas, it is provided in the charter of the said company that no one shall be elected Director of the said company unless he be a shareholder holding ten shares of the capital stock of the company, and unless he has paid all the calls due thereon.

“ And whereas no part of the stock subscribed for as aforesaid has been paid by the parties subscribing for or holding the same, but on the contrary the call thereon of ten per cent. is represented by the promissory notes of the parties holding the said shares.

“ And whereas the proceeding of the said company hitherto have been illegal, and that the special general meeting called as aforesaid is also illegal.

“ Therefore, the said Thomas McGreevy doth hereby signify and make known unto the said Theodore Robitaille that he entirely disavows the acts and doings of the Directors of the said Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company, and further protests against the transaction of the business contemplated at the general special meeting of shareholders of the said company, advertised to be held as aforesaid, and hereby notifying unto the said Theodore Robitaille that he the said Thomas McGreevy will hold him personally liable for all costs, losses and damages suffered or to be suffered for any acts already done or which may be performed illegally in connection with the said Railway under the present illegal organization of the said company.

“ Thus done and signified as aforesaid on the day and year first above written, under the number eight thousand seven hundred and thirty-two of the Minutes of the undersigned Notary having left with the said Theodore Robitaille, speaking as aforesaid, an authentic copy of these presents for signification of the premises.

(Signed) “ HENRY C. AUSTIN, N.P.”

“ A true copy of the original remaining of record in my office.

“ HENRY C. AUSTIN, N.P.”

Q. Have you seen that protest before?—A. Yes.

Q. Are the allegations contained in it true or not?—A. Most of them are not true.

Q. Was the Hon. Thomas McGreevy then aware you had paid $7,500 for him and his brother?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Are you in the habit of paying large amounts of that kind for people without letting them know?—A. No.

Q. Have you any doubt that Hon. Thomas McGreevy was made aware that the notes subscribed by him for stock were paid?—A. I do not know.

Q. Was it not the result of some agreement that you paid these notes?—A. No.

Q. You did this of your own accord?—A. Yes.

Q. For the pleasure of doing it?—A. For the sake of regularizing the proceedings.

Q. Hon. Thomas McGreevy did not put in a cent of money to pay for his shares himself?—A. Mr. McGreevy as I told you before, had gone to some expense, and some work had been done.

Q. On the payment of the stock itself I explained sufficient to you.

Q. Did the Hon. Thomas McGreevy present a claim to the company for that work?—A. There has been a claim presented, but not by Hon. Thomas McGreevy. I stated before that Mr. Robert McGreevy did everything in connection with this.

Q. Is it not a fact that Robert McGreevy alone did the work on this line, and Thomas McGreevy had nothing to do with it?—A. We always understood that what Mr. Robert McGreevy was doing was jointly with his brother.

Q. So, in transacting business with Robert McGreevy you were transacting business with Thomas?—A. Yes; one or the other; they seemed to have a common interest.

Q. Did you have any valuation or estimate made of the work by Robert McGreevy before paying it?—A. He filed an account.

Q. For how much?—A. It is $3,000 or $5,000.

Q. For work done?—A. Yes.

Q. And though he claimed between $3,000 and $5,000, you paid $7,500. That must be a rich company?—A. The settlement that was made with Robert McGreevy was subsequent. The amount was not paid, and I did not say the amount was paid. The amount paid on the notes was paid previous to the filing of this account, I think. I did not say the account had been paid.

Q. It cannot be in consideration of the notes being paid. His notes were paid without consideration at all; since the work you have mentioned was subsequently paid for?—A. As to the notes, I think I have made it plain enough as having been paid with work or with a claim he had against the company. I explained that to you.

Q. But you have not been clear?—A. I have said the notes were paid out of other claims.

Q. What did Mr. Robert McGreevy give for his shares?—A. I have answered that.

Q. Nothing?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Did he not give notes?—A. He gave notes for his share.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. And he did not pay his note?—A. I don't know whether he paid for his note or not.

Q. Did you make any charges against Mr. Robert McGreevy, or Mr. Thomas McGreevy, for having paid these notes for them?—A. These claims were credited. I would have to refer to the book of the company to know whether this amount had been charged in the books, or whether it was in Mr. Armstrong's agreement, before I recollect.

Q. You don't know where those books are?—A. In the hands of the company.

Q. Are you not aware that these accounts opened with the Richelieu District Bank were opened by Mr. C. N. Armstrong?—A. I have understood so. I know he had some connection with them.

Q. He attended to these?—A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Armstrong lives in Sorel also?—A. Yes.

Q. All the information you had in connection with Mr. Taillon was through Mr. C. N. Armstrong?—A. And with his own letters.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You say that Thomas and Robert McGreevy subscribed for $75,000 of stock?—A. Yes.

Q. And they gave notes for 10 per cent.?—A. Yes.

Q. $7,500?—A. Yes.

Q. And that was the amount, therefore, that was paid by you and Mr. Robitaille in the way you have mentioned?—A. Yes; these are the amounts.

Q. The amount you paid for these two gentlemen was $7,500?—A. Yes.

Q. Being 10 per cent. of their subscriptions?—A. Well, I understand that was it—yes.

Q. You say that Mr. Thomas McGreevy had a claim against the company?—
A. I did.

Q. Which made it up to $7,500?—A. No; I did not say that.

Q. When you were asked whether you paid his notes, you said it was because he had claims against the company?—A. No; I said I did not recollect. The notes I think were paid previous to the account being filed. It had nothing to do at all with the account itself.

Q. Did you not mention, when you were asked if you had claims against the company, 'Yes, that he had been president for two years'?—A. No; I was saying what claims he might have. I stated what he had done.

Q. I thought you were asked whether you made these payments to him, and you proceeded to show that Mr. Thomas McGreevy had claims?—A. I stated that it was wanted to regularize the proceedings. That was the reason we made the payment.

Q. You mentioned he had been president of the company for two years?—A. Yes.

Q. You mentioned he had incurred travelling expenses going from here to Baie des Chaleurs on two occasions.—A. Yes.

Q. And he mentioned he had disbursed some moneys in connection with the service?—A. Well, I don't know if he has disbursed money; he has been attending and looking after it.

Q. You mentioned it?—A. Yes; I mentioned the things he had to look after.

Q. Did he render a detailed account of claims against the company?—A. No.

Q. Then you have paid $7,500 for Thomas and Robert McGreevy, have you?—
A. Yes.

Q. You and Mr. Robitaille. Have you been paid that back?—A. No; not by them.

Q. By any body?—A. We have not.

Q. Do they owe it to you?—A. They do not.

Q. Then you gave it to them?—A. We made the payment for the sake of regularizing the proceedings, and we entered into a contract with Mr. Armstrong. The contractor was to get his stated sum and a certain interest in the road. We have over three years proceeding with the construction of the road, and we have been obliged to give up our position in this company. We have transferred our interests.

Q. Now, come back to my question?—A. Well, that is the answer. The only thing we have out of this in the way of payment is what we have received in selling our interest in the road.

Q. I am not asking you anything about that?—A. That is all I have received.

Q. I am not asking what you have received. I am now wishing to know whether you gave this $7,500 to pay notes of Thomas and Robert McGreevy solely for the purpose of regularizing the proceedings of the company?—A. Well, yes; it was for the purpose of regularizing the proceedings, and settling everything in the way of difficulties.

Q. Will you explain what you mean "by way of settling everything in the way of difficulty?"—A. You have read a protest just now?

Q. Yes. Then the whole consideration for your paying the $7,500 for other people was to regularize the proceeding?—A. Yes; at the time of the payment, and the matter was left in abeyance since.

Q. What matter?—A. The matter of the notes.

Q. How was it left in abeyance? The notes were paid.—A. The amount was to our credit with them.

Q. The amount of your claim against the McGreevys?—A. Yes.

Q. Then they were still your debtors?—A. They would have been.

Q. Did you not tell me a moment ago they did not owe you anything?—A. I did.

Q. Then, how could this remain to your credit against them, if they did not owe you?—A. Because we have settled everything in connection with this road and these matters were included with the rest.

Q. I see. If they paid this out they were to repay you this $7,500?—A. There was no agreement about it.

Q. Did you expect to get a repayment of the $7,500?—A. Well, we did not after Mr. McGreevy withdrew from the company.

Q. At the time you made the payment did you expect to be repaid?—A. We had a right to expect to be repaid.

Q. Did you expect it?—A. Certainly.

Q. Then, do you say it was payment made at the request of the McGreevys, or either of them?—A. I think so.

Q. Was it made, then, with at their request?—A. It was paid at their request.

Q. You spoke of difficulties, and this was to settle all the difficulties to which you referred?—A. Well, in order to proceed with the work and have everything legal and regular we thought it was proper to have 10 per cent. paid.

Q. Be candid, now. Let us know exactly. Do you tell the Committee that this $7,500 was made as a present to the McGreevys?—A. I do not say that at all. I say that we had a right to expect we would be repaid.

Q. In some way or other, you expected to get the value back again?—A. Certainly.

Q. What form did you expect it to be repaid to?—A. In any way at all it would come.

Q. In any way?—A. Yes. It might come in several ways. We were jointly interested in the company, and we had a right to expect that the money would come back.

Q. What certain sum had you in prospect? The company was just getting on its feet again.—A. It had had its charter for three years.

Q. What was your financial basis for carrying on the work?—A. We had local and federal subsidies.

Q. Had they been voted then?—A. Yes. We had also bonuses from the municipalities to secure a free right of way, and we had the bonding power of the company. We always considered, and I still maintain, that that was sufficient to carry out the undertaking.

Q. I suppose there were conditions in the various subsidies that the work had to be begun and carried on with a certain amount of despatch?—A. Undoubtedly so.

Q. And if these difficulties had not been smoothed over you might have lost some of these subsidies, I suppose?—A. I do not say there was anything of the kind.

Q. If the company had not been legally organized, what would have become of the Government subsidies?—A. If the company lapsed the subsidies lapsed.

Q. Then there were conditions that the work should be proceeded with a certain amount of despatch?—A. There were, and these conditions had been amended.

Q. By Act of Parliament?—A. By Act of Parliament.

Q. When was the first amendment to the Dominion subsidy?—A. I do not recollect; it is in the statute.

Q. What was the nature of that amendment?—A. There was an extension of time for the obtaining of the subsidy.

Q. What year was that legislation?—A. There was legislation, I think, in 1886 and 1888.

Q. The first legislation extending the time took place in 1886?—A. That is the extension of the time for the payment of the subsidies.

Q. Now, it was material to you to get these difficulties removed?—A. Which?

Q. To get the company organized. It was material that you should get the difficulties removed?—A. Which difficulties?

Q. The difficulties mentioned in the protest and in your evidence?—A. The statement in the protest is not true.

Q. Then you were to get this $7,500 recouped in some way?—A. We had reason to expect it would be recouped.

Q. How did you expect it to be recouped?—A. I have stated in one way or another. When we were all working together I had reason to expect it would be recouped.

Q. In what various ways were you expecting it would be recouped to you?—A. In any way you like to place it from a business point of view; in the ordinary transactions which might take place.

Q. Had you no definite aims in view?—A. No.

Q. You believed, then, it would come back to the company because of the payments?—A. Surely when we held the note we had a right to expect that it would be paid.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. What was the amount of money deposited by the company in that bank?—A. The credit of the company was $30,000.

Q. I am not speaking of the credit of the company. I want to know what was the amount of cash—money deposited in the bank?—A. We had been informed by Mr. Taillon—the Richelieu District Banking Co.—that the amount was there to the credit of the company. We drew upon it and the cheques were discharged.

Q. What was the amount deposited in cash by the company?—A. I cannot say what was the amount.

Q. You do not know if there was one cent deposited by the secretary-treasurer of the company coming from the subscriptions for shares?—A. No.

Q. So, after all, the whole transaction amounts to this: You gave credit to the company for $5,000 and the $25,000 which you and Mr. Robitaille claimed as owing to you by the company, and the company gave credit to Mr. McGreevy for the notes of $7,500. There was no changing of money from hand to hand?—A. No; there was not. There are two questions put together there. I answered the last part of the question.

Q. No money changed hands?—A. No.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understood you to say that the amount of stock was $3,000,000. Was it all subscribed?—A. Ten per cent. was subscribed.

Q. That is $300,000?—A. Is it?

Q. Was that right?—A. Is it.

Q. Well, I am asking you the question?—A. Ten per cent. on $3,000,000—is it $300,000?

Q. Have you any reason to doubt it? $300,000 was subscribed.—A. Ten per cent.

Q. Did all the subscribers pay the amount of their shares?—A. Ten per cent. was subscribed.

Q. How much did you give notes for?—A. On the 10 per cent. of the amount subscribed.

Q. And the subscribers gave their notes for the 10 per cent. of the amount subscribed?—A. Yes.

Q. These notes united amounted to $300,000?—A. They did.

Q. So that, as a matter of fact, not a cent was paid up. Those notes were paid in the same way as you paid McGreevy's?—A. Yes.

Q. At this time you were a member of Parliament?—A. I was.

Q. When did you become a member of Parliament?—In 1882.

Q. Until when?—A. Until this last election.

Q. Who was Mr. Robitaille—was he a Senator?—A. He is a Senator.

Q. And was a Senator then?—A. He was part of the time.

Q. What part of the time?—A. I think he was made a Senator in 1885.

Q. So that you had Senator Robitaille, President of the Board in 1885-6, Mr. Riopel, M.P., and Mr. McGreevy, M.P., as directors?—A. Yes.

Q. When was the subsidy voted by the Dominion Parliament to your road?—
A. In 1884.

Q. What office did Mr. Robitaille then hold?—A. I do not think he had an office at all; I do not think he had stock then.

Q. That subsidy was not paid?—A. No.

Q. When was the subsidy that was paid voted?—A. There was a subsidy voted in 1882 of $3,200 per mile. There was another subsidy voted in 1884 of $3,200 per mile, to be applied for work on the first 100 miles. In 1885 this money was transferred to the company. These are the two subsidies obtained from the Federal Government.

Q. Transferred by whom?—A. By the Government.

Q. Do you mean paid over?—A. $300,000 were voted to build the first 20 miles as a Government work. The following year the subsidy was conveyed to the company.

Q. That is, in 1886?—A. In 1885.

Q. Was it paid to the company?—A. Not all of it.

Q. Any part of it, and what part of it?—A. Of the whole subsidy?

Q. Of the $300,000?—A. It is nearly all paid up.

Q. What was the whole amount of subsidy?—A. $300,000.

Q. I want to know what was the whole amount of the subsidies voted to that company. I am speaking of the Federal subsidies?—A. $320,000 for 100 miles, at $3,200 per mile, which was voted in 1882. In 1884, $300,000 were voted by Parliament to build the first twenty miles as a Government work, and in 1885 this same amount was voted as a subsidy to the company. Do you want to know what part of the subsidy has been paid since?

Q. You say $300,000 was voted in 1885 as a subsidy to the company itself, and besides that there was $300,000 which the Government voted to expend on this road?—A. No.

Q. How much money have you drawn altogether from the Federal Government?—A. It is over $500,000.

Q. That is, paid by the Federal Government to you?—A. To the company.

Q. How many miles have been built?—A. Sixty miles estimated by the Engineers of both Governments—Local and Federal—at $30,000 at the time.

Q. In 1886 you were a member of Parliament, Mr. Robitaille was a member of the Senate and Mr. McGreevy was also a member of Parliament. Had you any difficulty then with reference to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. With whom?

Q. With anybody, which required settlement between yourselves and the Government?—A. No.

Q. Had you any interviews with Sir Hector Langevin in March, 1886, or February, 1886, with reference to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I only recollect of one with Sir Hector Langevin.

Q. Where was that one interview you recollect of?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Who was present at it?—A. Only myself.

Q. Then there was no interview except the private one between you and Sir Hector?—A. I do not recollect that there was anything mentioned to Sir Hector about this matter except once. I do not think there was a conversation outside of that.

Q. What was that?—A. Sir Hector was stating about some difficulty with the Messrs. McGreevy.

Q. Between the Messrs. McGreevy and whom?—A. Ourselves.

Q. Who are "ourselves"?—A. The other members of the company.

Q. At this time you had an interview there was a difficulty between the McGreevys and the other members of the firm, and you saw Sir Hector about it?—A. No; it was rather incidentally that I was in conversation with him, perhaps it was in his office when I was on other business, and he mentioned something about this matter and suggested it should be settled in some way.

Q. The initiative came from Sir Hector and not from you?—A. I do not know there was any initiative. It was in a conversation.

Q. He began the conversation?—A. I am not positive. I know I did not go to interview him about this.

Q. You have made two diverse statements. Which is true?—A. No. I did not go on purpose to have an interview with Sir Hector Langevin on this subject. I approached him on some other business and the question came up. I do not know whether it was brought up by himself or myself. It was incidental.

Q. What did he ask you to do?—A. He made suggestions that we had better try and make arrangements and agree with them.

Q. With who?—A. The McGreevys.

Q. Did you try to?—A. We did not.

Q. On the 3rd of March, 1886, there is a letter on file here which reads: "Nothing new in the Baie des Chaleurs matter, except that Sir Hector wanted me to come to terms and asked me to state the terms. I have not done so yet, but I am told that they have entered into a contract with one Refel, who is a partner of Isbester's. I have put Mitchell on the scent. Others told me that Armstrong is working on the line. I will know more before evening." Now, did you have a conversation with Mr. Thomas McGreevy in pursuance of Sir Hector's request?—A. No, never.

Q. Although Sir Hector asked you to come to terms with Thomas McGreevy you made no effort to come to terms with him?—A. No.

Q. On the 9th of March Thomas McGreevy writes again, as it appears on page 23 of the Evidence, "I had a meeting this afternoon with Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe on Baie des Chaleurs. Sir Hector insisted on an understanding being come to. I refused to do so, and told him at last to let Robitaille make a proposition himself." That is Senator Robitaille, I suppose? Or do you say you do not know to whom Mr. McGreevy refers when he told Sir Hector to let Robitaille make a proposition?—A. I have no doubt it would be Senator Robitaille.

Q. The letter continues:—"I refused to do so, and told him at last to let Robitaille make a proposition himself; that I was not going to make brains for him forever and let him take advantage of it. They propose (not Caron, Sir Hector) to give me control of road to Ste. Anne's with subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if I would withdraw my opposition to B. de C. Railway and relieve you and me of our stock. They are in a complete fix. The Armstrongs can't get anybody to touch them. Isbester sent word by Mitchell that as long as the Armstrongs had anything to do with it, they would not." Was there any attempt made with your knowledge to come to an understanding between Robitaille and McGreevy? Do you know anything of this proposition?—A. No.

Q. You never heard of it before—never heard of any proposition to make a settlement?—A. There was a proposition made, but not with reference to this matter. The proposition is this: Mr. Robert McGreevy came to me and said:—"We had better make a settlement of this difficulty." The difficulty arose on this point from this question: In the year previous—that is in the fall of 1885—Mr. Robert McGreevy had tendered for the contract for the construction of the road. He had asked as a price of the contract for one hundred miles, all the subsidies that were voted or would thereafter be voted, and the bonds of the company, making a total of over $30,000 a mile. We did not see any possibility of carrying out this undertaking, and after making enquiries we found out the price was rather high. This was the cause of the difficulty between Mr. McGreevy and ourselves. Later on, Mr. Robert McGreevy came to me and said: "You had better have this matter settled. I am prepared to transfer our interest in the road." I do not recollect whether he said he would transfer or his brother would for a certain consideration. He said he would transfer his interest for $50,000, and upon a second interview he said it would be $50,000 and $25,000 in bonds. We had nothing to do with this. He made the agreement with Mr. Armstrong, and that is the agreement that has been referred to at the commencement of this.

The Committee then adjourned till 3.30 p. m.

WEDNESDAY, 22nd July, 3.30 o'clock p.m.

MR. OSLER—I may mention, while the matter is fresh in the minds of the members of the Committee, that the private cash book of Nicholas K. Connolly, consisting of entries in some of the pages of one of the cash books of the firm, has been produced.

MR. GEOFFRION.—I now put in, procès-verbal of signification, Nicholas K. Connolly versus Julien Chabot—dated Quebec, 16th March, 1891, and which reads as follows:

(Exhibit "K12.")

"On this sixteenth day of the month of March, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one.

"I, Edward Graves Meredith, the undersigned Notary Public for the Province of Quebec, in the Dominion of Canada, residing at the city of Quebec, in the said Province, at the request of Nicholas K. Connolly, of the said city of Quebec, contractor, the Assignee (Cessionnaire) named in a certain deed of sale and assignment from the Honourable Thomas McGreevy, of the said city of Quebec, in favour of him the said Nicholas K. Connolly, bearing date and passed before E. G. Meredith, the undersigned Notary, on the twenty-fifth day of the month of February last (1891), proceeded to the office and usual place of business in the said city of Quebec of Julien Chabot, of the town of Lévis, Manager, the debtor named in the aforesaid deed of sale and assignment.

"Where being and speaking to the said Julien Chabot personally, I signified unto the said Julien Chabot the aforesaid deed of sale and assignment by serving upon the said Julien Chabot an authentic copy of the aforesaid deed of sale and assignment.

"The present procès-verbal of signification is thus made in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the Province of Quebec, and passed in the forty-seventh year of Her Majesty's reign intituled: "An Act relating to notifications, protests and significations"—47 Victoria, cap. 14.

"In testimony whereof, I, the said Notary, have signed these presents at the said city of Quebec on the day, month and year first above written, the same being recorded in my office under the number four thousand two hundred and eighty-two.

(Signed) "E. G. MEREDITH, N. P.

"A true copy of the original remaining of record in my office.

"E. G. MEREDITH."

Mr. RIOPEL's examination resumed.

By Mr. Lister:

Q. You and your friends went into the venture without investing any money, as I understand?—A. We had disbursed for several purposes.

Q. You had the company incorporated?—A. Yes.

Q. You were one of the incorporators?—A. Yes.

Q. Then, up to the time you received your actual incorporation I suppose the expenses were such as were necessary to get that Act through?—A. No; there was that, and something else.

Q. What else was there?—A. There had been a charter previously obtained.

Q. Well, we will include that. After getting your actual incorporation yourself and your friends subscribed for the stock $300,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Upon which you were to pay 10 per cent.?—A. No; it was not that.

Q. Well, you did pay 10 per cent.?—A. I did.

Q. That is to say, you paid it by giving your promissory notes to the company?
—A. Yes.

Q. For 10 per cent. of the stock subscribed by each of you?—A. Just so.

Q. And in payment of those promissory notes you put in an account against the company for $30,000?—A. No; that is not the way we did it.

Q. How did you do it, then?—A. We handed these notes to our secretary-treasurer. He accepted them, and subsequently, as I explained this morning, the notes of all the shareholders were paid out of the amount which was due to us originally.

Q. That is to say, you and your friend the Senator—he for twenty-five thousand and you for five thousand. Is that correct?—A. Yes.

Q. Amounting to $30,000 in all, and equal in amount to the notes which you and your friend had given for the amount to be paid upon your subscribed stock?—A. It is equal.

Q. And the notes, you say, were put in the hands of the secretary of the company?
—A. Yes.

Q. And those notes then were a set off by the company against the claim which you and Senator Robitaille had against the company?—A. No; that is not the way.

Q. How was it, then?—A. Our claim was admitted by the company, and we were the creditors of the company for that amount, and the amount of our credit was placed into the hands of the Richelieu District Bank, which was credited in our favour, and the notes have been paid. The 10 per cent. was raised with that amount.

Q. What I said before, and what I think your evidence bears me out in saying, is, that the $30,000 in notes were paid by the $30,000 held by you against the company?—A. Yes; but you did not put it in that light.

Q. I put it that light now.—A. You said it was paid by the company.

Q. No; I am saying it was paid by you. The notes were made by you in favour of the company and the company held the notes?—A. Yes.

Q. And you had an account against the company and you utilized the account in payment of the $30,000?—A. You were saying the company had that as a set off against the notes. That was not so.

Q. So that the subscribed stock was to pay off the account that you held against the company?—A. We discharged the notes with the amount that had been credited to us.

Q. You discharged your debt?—A. We discharged all the notes.

Q. By the amount of the claim you had against the company?—A. Yes.

Q. As a matter of fact, the directors of the company have never paid in, or never did pay in a dollar in cash on account of their stock?—A. Well, if it is paid by compensation—

Q. As a matter of fact, they never paid any cash?—A. I cannot say whether cash was placed in the hands of Mr. Taillon. These payments were made by cheques, and where there was cash—

Q. Did any of the stockholders of the company pay a dollar in cash on account of the stock they subscribed?—A. It was paid by notes, and the notes were taken out in payments.

Q. In the way you have told us?—A. Yes. They cannot be paid twice, if they have been paid up in that way.

Q. Then you went on and constructed a portion of the road?—A. We constructed sixty miles of the road.

Q. Out of the Government subsidies and out of bonds, I suppose. Did you issue bonds?—A. We have not raised any money upon bonds.

Q. Then you told us that you had received $300,000—that the Government had voted to aid a Government road?—A. Not in all.

Q. Nearly all; and you were to receive $3,200 a mile as a subsidy under the Act?—A. Yes.

Q. Was that all the money you had?—A. There was more than $3,000 on the portion that was built; there was $3,000—and there was the Provincial subsidy.

- Q. And a Provincial subsidy besides?—A. Yes.
- Q. You never issued any bonds?—A. We did.
- Q. Did you sell them?—A. No.
- Q. You built sixty miles of the road before or after Mr. Armstrong became interested in it?—A. They were built under Mr. Armstrong's contract.
- Q. Then all the road they have was built under Mr. Armstrong's contract?—A. Except the portion Mr. McGreevy had commenced.
- Q. Did you or any of the stockholders sell out half your stock to Mr. Armstrong?—A. No.
- Q. Did you sell out to him at all?—A. No; not to him.
- Q. To whom?—A. We sold to Mr. Cooper and others of Montreal—to a Montreal syndicate.
- Q. Mr. Armstrong said that he bought Mr. McGreevy's stock because that gave him control—that under this arrangement he had acquired half the stock of the list of shareholders, and that by getting Mr. McGreevy's stock he got control of the road. Was that statement wrong?—A. It was right, but it was not in point of your question. There is the fact that we entered into a contract with Mr. Armstrong for the construction of the hundred miles of the road. These were the terms of the contract: He was to be paid by securing all the subsidies from both the Governments, the municipal bonuses, whatever subsidy was then voted or which was to be thereafter voted, and the balance, to be made up at the rate of $20,000 per mile, was payable by the company in bonds of the company, and he was also to be entitled, after the completion of the hundred miles and the execution of the contract, to one-half the stock in the company.
- Q. Then, his acquiring one half of the stock was part of the agreement?—A. That was part of the contract for the construction of the road.
- Q. Entered into by you?—A. By the company and Mr. Armstrong.
- Q. I understand the old directors have sold out since?—A. Not all of them.
- Q. Have you sold out?—A. Yes; I have.
- Q. And Senator Robitaille?—A. Yes.
- Q. And who else?—A. Mr. Robert McGreevy has not sold out. All the rest have.
- Q. All have sold out except Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did he not sell out his shares to Mr. Armstrong?—A. Not that I am aware of. He has made an agreement with Mr. Armstrong. He still held his shares, and I think holds them still.
- Q. Then, with the exception of Mr. Robert McGreevy, all the directors have sold out to this Montreal syndicate?—A. Yes.
- Q. For how much?—A. I may as well answer. That is another question there does not seem to be much point in. The amount received by all the parties, outside of Mr. Robert McGreevy, who has not sold out, is $75,000—partly cash payments and partly by returns.
- Q. That is what they sold out their stock for?—A. All interest and claims on the road?
- Q. That would be five of you?—A. There were more than five.
- Q. Seven, I think, was the number of directors, and excluding Robert McGreevy, that would be six?—A. Six—yes.
- Q. Thomas McGreevy sold out to Robert, did he not?—A. Yes; I think he did.
- Q. So that the sale made by the other directors was the sale made to the Montreal syndicate?—A. Yes.
- Q. So that would include five persons?—A. Why?
- Q. Were there not seven altogether?—A. Yes.
- Q. And Thomas McGreevy sold to Robert?—A. Robert is the only one.
- Q. Did Thomas McGreevy participate in that $75,000?—A. I do not know.
- Q. You know nothing about that?—A. No.
- Q. Was there much negotiating with Mr. Armstrong?—A. In what way?

Q. About taking over the road—taking the contract?—A. There was negotiating.

Q. Did it extend over any considerable period?—A. Over six months.

Q. Is Mr. Armstrong any relation to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. That I do not know.

Q. Do you know by report?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You have stated that Mr. Thomas McGreevy was a party to the agreement entered into with Mr. Armstrong—the agreement which is now missing. Are you quite sure of that?—A. I have stated that he signed the agreement, and I have stated I do not recollect whether he transferred his interest to his brother or not. I am not sure whether he had an interest or not, but I understood at the time what his brother was doing. I do not recollect whether he had.

Q. As a matter of fact, is it not the case that he had transferred all his interest to Robert McGreevy?—A. I do not recollect.

Q. Is it not a fact that he did not sign that agreement? I may tell you that Mr. Armstrong has sworn that Mr. McGreevy did not sign it. In his evidence yesterday he says: "Q. Was there a written agreement to that effect?—A. There was an agreement of some kind, but I forget exactly the terms of it. Q. Did you keep a copy of the original agreement?—A. No. Q. You have not got it in your possession?—A. No. Q. No copy nor original?—A. No. Q. The memorandum in writing would be to the effect that you were purchasing the shares for $50,000 cash and bonds of the company?—A. There was not only shares, but it included certain work that was done on the railway, and certain plant he had on the railway. He had commenced the construction of it. Q. Do you remember whether Mr. Thomas McGreevy was a party to that original memorandum?—A. He was not." Will you now state whether you were correct in saying that Mr. Thomas McGreevy was a party to that agreement?—A. The transaction was between Mr. McGreevy and Mr. Armstrong. I have had no conversations about this matter, except with Mr. Robert McGreevy. I cannot say whether Mr. Thomas McGreevy held stock or not. We signed the agreement, although we were not parties to it, and Mr. Thomas McGreevy may have signed as we did, but my impression is that he did sign.

Q. Who represented the company in that agreement?—A. The company was not represented in the agreement. It was an agreement between Robert McGreevy and Mr. Armstrong. The company had nothing to do with it.

Q. You recollect the protest which was served upon you by Mr. Thomas McGreevy, a copy of which has been produced here?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not the case that shortly after the protest was served upon you that Mr. Thomas McGreevy transferred his interest in the company to Robert McGreevy, and that therefore Robert alone had to do with the company?—A. I have told you before I do not know. You can ascertain that by looking at the books. I would not recollect the date of the agreement, if I did not recollect whether Mr. McGreevy had stock or not.

Q. Is it not a fact that immediately after the protest or, under any circumstances, within a couple of months after that, that Mr. Thomas McGreevy ceased to have anything to do with the company, and you had no further business with him at all?—A. Yes; I know that Mr. Thomas McGreevy was not a shareholder.

Q. Is it not the case that after he ceased to be a shareholder he ceased to take any interest at all in the business of the company?—A. He had no interest.

Q. Could you not tax your memory to say about how long after the protest was served it was that he transferred his shares?—A. No; I do not know the date of the transfer.

Q. As a matter of fact, was it within a comparatively short time?—A. It was about that time.

Q. At that time it was also understood that Mr. Robert McGreevy in taking over his brother's shares assumed his liabilities for them?—A. Robert McGreevy was the only person of the two who had an interest in the company.

Q. And he had taken the shares with the unpaid calls upon them?—A. He held the shares just as they stood.

Q. Are you aware which of these men, Robert or Thomas McGreevy, had done the work on the road?—A. Mr. Robert McGreevy was the superintendent on that work.

Q. Do you recollect whether he did it in his own name or for Thomas?—A. I cannot say. It was under the instruction of the company, and between them I do not know what arrangements there may have been.

Q. Was Robert McGreevy at the time of the original expenditures for making surveys and at the beginning of the work a director of the company?—A. Yes; I think he was.

Q. Both of them were?—A. Yes.

Q. I understood you to say that you were quite satisfied Thomas McGreevy should go out after he served this protest?—He stated that he would have no more to do with the company.

Q. That was after he served the protest?—A. Yes.

Q. There was a question put to you with reference to the last sale to the syndicate. I wish to know whether or not Mr. Thomas McGreevy had anything to do with the company at that time?—A. He had not.

Q. Directly or indirectly?—A. No.

Q. He had ceased for many years to have any interest in the company?—A. Yes.

Q. You state that the price paid was $75,000. How was that sum paid?—A. It was paid by cheques. I think the first cheque was by Mr. Angus M. Thom, who was acting for the syndicate. He was trustee for the syndicate. The other payments were made by the president of the company, Mr. James Cooper, by notes and cheques of the officers of the present company. I wish to state that out of that $75,000 we had to pay some accounts which was so much deducted off our share.

Q. Some debts?—A. Yes; liabilities that we assumed to pay ourselves.

By the Chairman :

Q. Can you state what amount without giving the names?—A. Of course, it would be a matter of general inquiry to go into all the details and I wish to explain this way: We have been connected with this undertaking since getting the first charter in 1872. We have worked very actively for several years, and our charter lapsed. Subsequently, in 1882, we obtained a new charter, and we proceeded with the undertaking. We made many disbursements; we spent our time—for my part, for the last 8 or 9 years the greater portion of my time has been given to this undertaking. The officers of the company, the president, the secretary-treasurer, the manager and others, have not got one cent of salary out of it. There has been nothing got out of it but this amount that I have now stated. This is the amount which is an allowance for our work and disbursements, which had been made by us during all this time, and which were not charged to the account of the company. We have not made an account to them, and we have not charged for salaries. The amount which we have received covers everything—that is, this last amount—that we have had out of the undertaking.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Who has held the notes that were given?—A. The secretary-treasurer.

Q. Who was he?—A. L. A. Robitaille.

Q. Were they long in his possession before they were handed over to the bank?
—A. They had been some time.

Q. In what capacity did the Richelieu District Bank obtain possession of these notes?—A. The Richelieu Bank did not become possessed of those notes. The payments were made to the Richelieu Bank.

Q. Were these notes in the possession of the bank before they were paid?—A. The amount of our credit—the $30,000—was deposited with the Richelieu Bank.

Q. Then the bank was acting as the agent of the individual stockholders. Is that the capacity?—A. No. It was acting as the trustee for the money deposited by us.

Q. But I understand you deposited no money. You deposited a claim?—A. We got a credit for the amount of our claim.

Q. Did you deposit the claim for collection?—A. The claim was placed at that bank to our credit.

Q. Was that claim placed in the bank before the notes that belonged to the bank—or at least, that had been given by the individual shareholders—went into the possession of the bank; or was this a simultaneous transaction?—A. The notes did not go into the possession of the bank.

Q. Did the notes remain in the possession of the secretary-treasurer until they were returned to the parties?—A. The notes have not been returned to the parties.

Q. Who is in possession of those notes at the present time?—A. I cannot say.

Q. I understood you to tell the Committee that these notes had been paid by the claims which you had against the corporation?—A. Yes.

Q. Were there any stockholders in the corporation beside those who were directors?—A. Yes.

Q. What other stockholders were there beside the seven you have mentioned, and how did they pay—by note or by cash?—A. I would not quite recollect the names of the shareholders at the time the notes were given.

Q. How did they pay?—A. All the payments were by notes.

Q. How were these notes cancelled, if these stockholders did not work or perform services for the company which entitled them to remuneration?—A. I do not think there were any stockholders outside of the directors at the time. Of course, all the directors had done service and had gone to some expense.

Q. All the directors?—A. Yes.

Q. And all the stockholders?—A. I am almost positive that they were all directors. That was at the inception of the company.

Q. The notes that were in the hands of the secretary-treasurer were notes that were given by the directors?—A. They were given by the shareholders.

Q. But the shareholders were directors?—A. I do not think they were at the time.

Q. Who were the directors at the time your note was given and Mr. Robitaille's?—A. There was Mr. R. H. Montgomery and there was Lord Dunmore.

Q. Did Montgomery and Lord Dunmore consent to the cancellation of these notes by services?—A. That is another question. You asked me who were the shareholders. These were the provisional directors.

Q. Were these parties shareholders when these claims were dealt with?—A. No. They did not subscribe for any stock. They were provisional directors.

Q. The directors who dealt with the shareholders were the same parties who were the shareholders?—A. Mostly all of them.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. As I understand, you sold out for $75,000—did you?—A. All our interest and claims against the company, our stock and interest, including disbursements, salary and allowance.

Q. Do you know how the present company raised that money, or where that money came from?—A. I do not know directly.

Q. Do you know indirectly?—A. I cannot say; I do not know.

By the Chairman :

Q. When you say indirectly, what do you mean?—A. Mr. Thom, the trustee of the syndicate, told me that he wanted the Quebec Government to find all the money or take certain disbursements which he had to make, and I was by that given to understand that they intended to get the money in order to pay the claims.

Q. That is, from the Quebec Government?—A. Yes; in fact, the suggestion was made by Mr. Thom. I said: "We have nothing to do with the Quebec Government, and we do not want anything to do with it. We are dealing with you." Which ever way he got the money afterward was his own business.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Do you know personally or can you say that the Hon. Thomas McGreevy got any money in consideration of the sale of his interest in the Company of stock or otherwise?—A. I do not know at all. I never had a word of conversation with Mr. Thomas McGreevy about this matter, and I do not know what he got out of this. That might have been a proper question to ask me first if it had been confined to this question.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Is not a fact that there is not such a bank in Sorel or the Richelieu District as the Richelieu District Bank?—A. I have not ascertained that by going on the spot and finding the institution, but I have seen documents and letters headed "Richelieu District Savings Bank."

Q. Incorporated by Act of Parliament?—A. I mean a district savings bank—the bank in connection with this transaction. This was in letters signed by Mr. Taillon, and I understood him to be a private banker.

Q. Are you aware nobody is entitled to call his establishment a bank unless incorporated?

The Chairman ruled this question to be irrelevant.

Q. All you know of that bank was from the headings of letters?—A. Yes; that is all.

Q. Did you allow your funds to be deposited in a bank, the existence of which you only knew by letter heads?—A. If we did, it was our own business.

Q. You did that?—A. Yes.

Q. Where is the head office of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. At present?

Q. By charter.—A. It is fixed by the Board of Directors.

Q. Well, where was your office at the time of these transactions in 1886?—A. Quebec.

Q. Are there many incorporated banks in Quebec?—A. No; there are not many in Quebec.

Q. Are there several?—A. There are several banks which have branch offices there, but very few that are incorporated.

Q. There are some?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you explain why, instead of depositing your funds and transacting your business with a regularly organized bank at the head office of the company, you went a distance of 150 miles, and transacted business with a private banker in the County of Richelieu?—A. It suited us at the time—that is all.

Q. Your subsidies for the first 20 miles from the Dominion Government were $300,000?—A. Yes.

Q. And $70,000 by the Provincial Government?—A. No; it was $3,500. It was ten thousand acres of land originally.

Q. When was that converted into money?—A. It was converted into money, payable at the rate of $3,500 per mile, as the road was constructed, and the balance was to be paid when the lands which had been converted into money were sold.

Q. $3,500 per mile. How much is it for 20 miles?—A. I made no calculation.

Q. I asked you whether it was $70,000, and you said no. If you said no, you must know why.—A. It was $70,000,—yes.

Q. So the subsidies from the two Governments were $370,000 for these 20 miles. How much did it cost you for the building of these 20 miles?—A. The cost price of the road was $20,000 per mile. The contractor was entitled to all the subsidies the Government would pay upon the report of the inspecting engineers, and the balance of his contract price was to be paid in bonds. A percentage of, I think, 15 per cent. was retained from the contractor to secure the completion of the road.

Q. Is it not a fact you paid out of the subsidies only $252,000 to the contractors?—A. We paid all the subsidies that were earned, and were payable.

Q. And the surplus was paid to the company?—A. Not at all; not one cent.

Q. To whom was the surplus paid?—A. All the surplus was paid to the contractor according to the contract.

Q. How much money did he get?—A. I could not say. All the subsidies that have been paid have been paid to the contractor.

Q. But you cannot say the amount that was paid?—A. I cannot say from memory immediately. If you choose you can get a statement from the Government showing the amount paid to the contractor.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY recalled.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You are aware that works of importance in the Harbour of Quebec, have been going on for several years?—A. For several years—yes.

Q. Were you interested in them from the inception of the works?—A. No; I became interested in 1882.

Q. Prior to that had you been connected generally, or connected in any business with your brother, Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes; for a long time—for thirty years.

Q. Mr. Thomas McGreevy had been a public contractor, and you had worked for him?—A. Yes; and I had contracts of my own.

Q. Will you state to the Committee when you first became acquainted with these contracts in Quebec?—A. In September, I think it was—between July or September, 1882.

Q. Will you look at these articles of co-partnership and say whether the first you signed? (Exhibit "L12.")—A. Yes; that is the dredging contract of 1882.

Q. No fixed capital appears to have been determined or agreed upon by this co-partnership?—A. No.

Q. As a matter of fact, did you put in any capital?—A. No.

Q. Prior to the formation of that co-partnership, had there been any interviews or negotiations for contracts in connection with the Quebec Harbour?—A. There were negotiations respecting the proposed dredging contract of 1882.

Q. When you formed that partnership had negotiations been entertained as to the dredging contract of 1882?—A. That is the dredging contract of 1882 which I am referring to.

Q. And this is the agreement to carry it out?—A. Yes. There was negotiations respecting that contract.

Q. Had the contract been obtained from the Government prior, or at the time?—A. At that time.

Q. Do you know, or are you able to state, whether your brother, Thomas McGreevy, had any knowledge about your interest in the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I do state so—yes.

Q. Will you explain to the Committee whether he had any knowledge, and to what extent his knowledge was?—A. He knew I was going into that contract, because he said before closing he would see Sir Hector to get permission from him whether I would go in or not.

Q. Had you any other interview afterwards? what did he tell you?—A. He told me Sir Hector did not see any reason why I should not go in as well as anybody else. I thought it was a very sensible answer, too.

Q. Was he aware, or did you tell him, what was your share or proportion—your interest in that contract?—A. I did not at the time; subsequently I did.

Q. Long after the signing of that document?—A. Some weeks or months after.

Q. In the same season, anyhow?—A. In the same season.

Q. I find that the contract was granted about the time you signed the partnership. How did you come to negotiate with the former partners of Larkin, Connolly & Co.? When did you begin your negotiations with them?—A. I began with Mr. Murphy about the month of May or June. I talked to him about it and he talked to his other partners, and we brought around an arrangement by which, when the tenders were called for, I had another tender prepared to put in Beaucage's name. I spoke to Beaucage.

Q. Do I understand you that early in May or June you anticipated tenders would be called for?—A. Yes; I knew they were to be let very soon.

Q. How did you happen to know?—A. I heard from Thomas McGreevy and others that there was going to be tenders called for.

Q. It would be expected that such tenders would be asked?—A. Certainly, it was known generally.

Q. Will you explain to the Committee what happened when the tenders were called for and put in?—A. It was agreed between Larkin, Connolly & Co. that I should put in a separate tender, and I got Mr. Beaucage to give me the use of his name for that purpose. I put in one in his name. Then there was Larkin & Connolly's.

Q. Had you anything to do with the preparation of the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No. I did not occupy myself much with that, because they were reputed to have known more about dredging than I did, and I left that to them selves. I filled in that of Beaucage with their knowledge.

Q. Though you did not occupy yourself with preparing the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co., Beaucage's tender was filled in by you with their knowledge?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you state to the Committee whether Beaucage's tender was higher or lower than that of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. It was lower. I have a copy of the papers here, I think. This is a schedule of the rates of each tender, and the approximate quantities of each class of dredging.

Q. Of the tenders as they turned out to have been filed?—A. As they were sent into the Harbour Commissioner's office.

(Exhibit "M12.")

Fradet & Miller	20	33,700	25	22,500	25	22,500	25	13,750	30	6,000	98,450

Q. According to that statement the lowest would be Fradet & Miller's, and the next is Askwith?—A. The lowest, Fradet & Miller $98,450; the next is Askwith, $128,860; and the next Beaucage, $131,267.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Were these on the quantities given by the Department?—A. The quantities were given I think in the specifications.

Q. But were the same quantities given to all the contractors?—A. Yes. All the tenders had the quantities submitted to them by the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. The same quantities?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what became of Fradet & Miller's tender. Explain the matter briefly?—A. I understood that the conditions imposed by the Harbour Commissioners after the reception of the tender were such that Fradet & Miller could not comply with them.

Q. What about Askwith?—A. I understood at the time it was the same thing with him.

Q. Were you aware what those conditions were or what new conditions would be exacted from Fradet & Miller and Askwith?—A. The conditions that were imposed after the opening of the tenders were not asked before the tenders were sent in. That $10,000 was not asked before.

Q. You were not aware that these new conditions would be asked?—A. No.

Q. What then became of Beaucage's tender?—A. It was withdrawn.

Q. Did he ask leave to withdraw?—A. I think he did.

Q. Was there any cheque to be deposited with these tenders?—A. No.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. There was no security asked with the tenders?—A. I think not.

Q. The securities were only asked afterward?—A. Afterward.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Then the next tender was Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s, and they obtained the contract?—A. Yes.

Q. When were these tenders called? In what season of the year 1882?—A. They were called first for June, 1882, I think, and then it was postponed for a few weeks.

Q. The contracts were signed some time in September.—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when the works in execution of that contract were begun by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. In the spring of 1883—the next year after the contract was entered into.

Q. No work was done in the fall of 1882?—A. No; they had no plant. They had to build their dredges and scows during the winter, and they did not begin until 1883—May, 1883.

Q. Were you requested or called upon to put any capital into the execution of this contract?—A. No; I was not.

Q. Neither by letter nor verbally?—A. No; it was understood I was not to put any in.

Q. As a matter of fact, you did not put any in?—A. I did not.

Q. You say that the plant had to be prepared during the winter of 1882-3?—A. Precisely.

Q. Do you say you contributed nothing to the acquisition of that plant?—A. Nothing at all.

Q. How long did the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., of which you were then a member, go on with the dredging under the terms of that contract?—A. In 1883, 1884, 1885 and 1886.

Q. I believe there was a change in 1887?—A. Yes. I think they closed in 1886 under that contract.

Q The tenders were called for quantities named?—A. Yes.

Q. Were those quantities first executed, and was the work continued for other quantities, or did it take these four years to complete the quantities mentioned in the tenders?—A. During those four years that I spoke of there were over 800,000 or 900,000 yards done.

Q. Have you any statement of the work done each year?—A. I think I have. They would be very approximate, though, I think. There were 710,000 yards done in 1883, 1884 and 1885, and I think there was about 200,000 or 300,000 yards done in 1886.

Q. These are approximate figures?—A. Yes.

Q. Could you give the Committee an idea of the cost of the dredging in each year—the actual cost, independently of the sinking fund—and have you any statement showing this?—A. I have some memoranda.

Q. Have you any statement showing the cost to the firm for each year?—A. I have a memorandum here showing the cost for 1886.

Q. From what document, did you take that note?—A. I prepared it from information I got in the office.

Q. Will you look at this document and say whether you based your calculation for 1886 upon this statement?—A. Yes; that is a memorandum that was furnished me by Mr. Hume, the contractors' engineer.

Q. It is in his handwriting?—A. Yes.

Q. Read it.—A. It reads as follows:

(Exhibit "N12.")

" Cost of dredging (wages of deck hands on dredges, cost of steel wire, coal, tugs and labour on same).....	$ 18,643 25

Q. Have you any memos or notes of the amount which the firm received for the work so executed at that cost for the season of 1886?—A. $87,293.97.

Q. Was that the amount you received?—A. Yes.

Q. I see at the foot other memoranda?—A. Yes; that is in pencil. I ascertained the number of yards of dredging for that season to be 335,000, and I make it up at an average of 30 cents, making $106,000 gross.

Q. So, these figures I see at the foot of this document were upon an average of 30 cents a yard?—A. Yes.

Q. And approximately you have made $106,323?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ascertain the actual amount that was received?—A. I did not.

Q. You mentioned $87,000?—A. I have another memorandum here of each month's earnings for that season which tots up $87,293.87.

Q. These monthly returns which you are including in the estimate, were they taken from the books?—A. They were given to me by Mr. Hume.

Q. Is this your handwriting?—A. No.

Q. In what handwriting do you believe it to be?—A. I think it is Mr. Hume's or Mr. Martin Connolly's.

Q. This is a memorandum that was handed to you by one of the book-keepers named?—A. Yes.

Q. The figures under the words "for Mr. McGreevy," are not in the handwriting of Mr. Hume. Are they your own figures?—A. They are my own figures.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. What was your share of profit under that dredging contract of 1886?—A. Well, the years were combined, you know. There was no profits divided until 1889.

Q. I thought you mentioned these figures as your share of the profits of the season?—No; I mentioned the gross earnings and the outlay.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. I understand from you there was no annual division of profits?—A. Not at that time.

Q. You only filed it to prove the gross cost and the gross earnings?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you give us the cost and the amount received for the other years?—A. No; I did not keep any memorandum—none that I preserved. I may have had them at the time, but I did not preserve them.

Q. Are you satisfied, or is there any reason why, the cost of dredging was lower or higher in 1886 than the years previous, for the same class of work?—A. Lower or higher?

Q. Yes. Was there a change in the cost of dredging in 1886?—A. No. No difference from 1884, 1885 or 1883; more than that, in 1886 there was a greater quantity dumped into the river than there was in previous years. That is my present impression.

Q. After the close of the season of 1886 are you aware whether any notification or intimation was given to the Harbour Commissioners or to the Engineer that the firm intended to discontinue dredging at these prices?—A. I never knew of it, never heard of it, until the winter.

Q. By the figures that you received from your book-keepers, as far as you were concerned, were you satisfied with the results of the dredging operations of 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. Was there any dredging done in the Wet Basin during that year of 1886?—A. There was some—yes.

Q. Do you know whether the Resident Engineer, or somebody on his behalf, attempted to make a difference in the price to be paid for the material that was dumped into the river in 1886?—A. The contract provided for the rates to be put on the embankment, and when they undertook to put it into the river he then made a deduction of 5 cents for whatever was dumped into the river.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. The Resident Engineer?—A. Yes; Mr. Boyd.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Was this deduction suggested, or requested by the Resident Engineer, finally made?—A. It was. The deduction was made each month. The reduced rate was paid only.

Q. You were paid only the reduced rate?—A. The reduced rate.

Q. So, by what you state, the return of 1886 was at the reduced rate for all that was dumped into the river?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether subsequently attempts were made to get this 5 cents, which had been deducted by the Resident Engineer, allowed to the firm?—A. I think it was allowed back to them afterwards.

Q. You can state your grounds of belief, and what they are?—A. I think so. I think it was allowed in the fall, or when the works closed that winter.

Q. Of 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you believe this would appear in the books—that is to say, this 5 cents that was afterwards allowed?—A. Certainly.

Q. Have you any idea of the amount that was allowed after the reduction was made—the gross figures?—A. I have not.

Q. Seeing that Mr. Boyd was determined to make a reduction of 5 cents a yard for dumping in the river, will you state to the Committee whether he had ground for doing that. Is there any difference between dumping in the river and dumping on the banks?—A. It is more expensive to put it on the embankments than throwing it into the river. There are so many more handlings.

Q. Do you believe that the allowance or reduction of 5 cents made by Mr. Boyd was a fair one?—A. It was, in his opinion, a fair one.

Q. I mean in value. I want your opinion whether, from the point of view of the contract, this deduction was fair?—A. To my mind it was fair. Perhaps it is a cent wrong, but it is about fair. It really was about what the difference would be.

Q. Did the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. get another contract in Quebec Harbour Improvements subsequent to that dredging contract?—A. Yes; they got the Cross-wall contract in 1883.

Q. Did you associate yourself for this contract also with Larkin, Connolly & Co.? What was the proportion of your interest in the Cross-wall contract?—A. 30 per cent.; it was not fixed at the time.

Q. But finally it became to be 30 per cent.?—A. 30 per cent.

Q. Will you explain to the Committee how the tenders were put in?—A. Having agreed with Larkin, Connolly & Co. that I should be interested in that Cross-wall contract we agreed that I should get another name, by which I should put in a separate tender, and I got Mr. Beaucage to consent to allow the use of his name.

Q. The Mr. Beaucage was the same whose name you used for the dredging contract?—A. The same one—George Beaucage. I filled in George Beaucage's tender. The rates, I think, were to my mind fair and just, and Larkin, Connolly & Co. did theirs, and they also filled in one for one John Gallagher.

Q. So, to your knowledge three tenders were put in in the interests of Larkin, Connolly and Co.?—A. When each of them had their tenders ready we met together to compare our figures, and we met in the office that I held up to that time, underneath my brother's office.

Q. In what street?—A. In Dalhousie street. There we went over the comparisons necessary to make the tenders consecutive.

Q. You say that these three tenders, to wit.: Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s, John Gallagher's and George Beaucage's, were compared in your office underneath Thomas McGreevy's office?—A. Precisely.

Q. Had Larkin, Connolly & Co. an office in the city then?—A. No; their office was at Point Lévis, at the Dock.

Q. Is there any communication between your office and Thomas McGreevy's office in that building?—A. There is a communication by means of a trap door and stairs—a trap door worked by a weight. It was put there, because my brother's office being upstairs, sometimes I had to communicate with him, and it was better to do that without going out into the street.

Q. Whenever you wanted anything with your brother's office you opened a trap door?—A. Yes; and he could come down and see me.

Q. When did you meet and compare these tenders in your office?—A. About the 30th of April or the 1st of May.

Q. Do you remember who were present at the comparing of those tenders?—A. To the best of my recollection Mr. Larkin was there, Mr. Nicholas Connolly, Mr. Hume, and I could not say whether Mr. Michael Connolly was there or not.

Q. Was Murphy there?—A. Murphy—yes.

Q. Was Thomas McGreevy in his office or building?—A. He was in the building; I think so.

Q. Was he present at this work of comparing the tenders?—A. No.

Q. Do you know whether your brother Thomas was aware that you had an interest in those tenders for the Cross-wall work?—A. Yes; he was aware.

Q. Did he become aware of your interest after your contract or when you were tendering?—A. When I was tendering.

Q. You say that you were comparing your tenders, so that they should be consecutive. Will you explain to the Committee what you mean by that?—A. That if one tender did not suit the other would.

Q. Was this contract an item tender or what?—A. An item contract. No quantities were furnished.

Q. Do you remember whether a cheque or deposit was to be made with those tenders?—A. A cheque of $75,000, I think.

Q. Was such a cheque put in with Beaucage's tender?—A. There was.

Q. Who furnished the money to be made with Beaucage's tender?—A. I think he got the money himself.

Q. You did not furnish the money yourself?—A. I did not.

Q. Do you know where he procured the money?—A. I think it was the Union Bank where he got the money.

Q. By way of discount?—A. By way of discount.

Q. Do you know whether your brother Thomas had anything to do with or helped Beaucage in procuring that money?—A. My impression is that he had. He was a Director of the Union Bank and helped him to get the discount there.

By the Chairman :

Q. Do you know it as a fact?—A. Not that I can recollect.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Was your brother aware of Beaucage's tender?—A. Yes.

Q. Was he aware of what you had to do with it?—A. Yes.

Q. And about the part you took?—A. Yes.

Q. He knew you were using Beaucage's name?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. How do you know? Is this of your personal knowledge?—A. Yes.

Q. How do you know?—A. Because he spoke to me about it.

Q. What did he say?—A. I do not recollect the exact words he made use of, but there is no doubt in my mind but he spoke to me about Beaucage's tender.

Q. At that time?—A. At that time.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. You had better state what he said, and where?—A. I cannot. I am telling you the substance.

Q. Where was it?—A. It was somewhere in the office in Lower Town.

Q. Do you know where it was?—A. I know it was in the city of Quebec.

Q. Can you locate it nearer than that?—A. I cannot.

Q. Can you tell us when, it was then?—A. It was some time in the month of April.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Had you occasion to see your brother almost every day then?—A. Every day.

Q. You filed a letter Exhibit "B 2" which is printed at page 16 of the Evidence. Will you read the letter and say whether it refers to that tender? (Witness reads letter of 5th May.) Can you state now whether that refers to the tender you are now speaking of?—A. That refers to the tender for the Cross-wall.

Q. And the Beaucage referred to there is the same Beaucage?—A. Yes—George Beaucage.

Q. Will you now also read the other letter Exhibit "C 2," on page 17, and say whether this letter is addressed to you by your brother, and whether it also refers to this tender?—A. This is a letter of the 7th May and is addressed to me. (Witness reads it.)

Q. After you have read those two letters, have you any doubt that you had spoken to your brother about this tender of Beaucage's?—A. Not at all. I knew before I read it, too.

Q. There is a reference to an arrangement with Beaucage in your brother's letter of the 7th. Will you now take communication of this document, and say what it is?—A. It is Beaucage's transfer of his interest that he might have in that contract to Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. Who is it written by?—A. Myself, and signed by George Beaucage.

Q. Read it.—A. It reads as follows :

(Exhibit "P12.")

"I hereby agree to transfer all my rights in a tender dated the 2nd of May inst. to the Harbour Commissioners for the works necessary for the Quay-wall, &c., to

Messrs. Connolly, Larkin & Co., and agree to sign such further papers or agreements as may be necessary for either transferring them the contract if awarded me, or of withdrawing my tender for the same if they so desire it, either by power of attorney or my actual letter. In the event of the contract being awarded me, I will transfer the same with all my interests, etc., for and in consideration of five thousand dollars to be paid me.

“GEORGE BEAUCAGE.”

“QUEBEC, 4th May, 1883.”

Q. I see that in his letter of the 7th May, 1883, your brother says he will give you timely notice. He says: “I hope to let you know to-morrow about the result of the Cross-wall tenders.” Will you now look to this letter and say by whom it is written and to whom addressed?—A. This is a letter written to me by Thomas McGreevy, dated 8th May.

Q. Are you able to say at once if it was written in 1883?—A. Not until I read it.

Q. Then read it right through?—A. It reads as follows:

(Exhibit “Q 12.”)

“HOUSE OF COMMONS, 8th May.

“MY DEAR ROBERT,— * * * I seen Boyd this morning. He has not finished Cross-wall yet. I will meet him this afternoon about it and know the result. Hector Cameron was speaking to Clarke the other day and asked him if he was not going to put his reports in soon, as the supplementary estimates would come down in a few days. He replied by saying that it could not be helped.

“I think Gregory will receive instructions to get possession of Queen’s store at once. I saw a letter to-day to that effect.

“Yours truly,

“THOMAS MCGREEVY.”

WITNESS.—This is a letter which, from the subject, I would take to be written in 1883.

Q. After the receipt of that letter did you see your brother?—A. After that—yes.

Q. Where did you meet him?—A. I met him in Montreal.

Q. Had your brother any papers or documents to communicate to you then, or information to give you?—A. Yes; he had some.

Q. What was it?—A. He had some information respecting the Cross-wall.

Q. Respecting the tenders or the Cross-wall?—A. Respecting the calculations made by Mr. Boyd.

Q. What was the nature of his information?—A. It was showing the quantities that Mr. Boyd had made up the tenders.

Q. That Mr. Boyd had applied to the tenders?—A. Yes; I took a copy of them for my guidance.

Q. Did he leave you any papers, or did he give you any document, or give you any other information besides?—A. I had the rates on which Peters put in his tender.

Q. Did he give you any information also about the sheet piling in those tenders?—A. No. He sent me that.

Q. He did not give you that at your meeting in Montreal?—A. No; he sent the information in connection with the sheet piling either before or afterwards.

Q. What have you done with this paper?—A. I think I must have given it to Mr. Tarte.

Mr. GEOFFRION—I have to make a statement to the Committee. I was in possession of the document, and I probably lost it, either in this room or the other room, amongst the bundle of papers. I have here a photograph of the document, and if necessary I may be sworn to prove its loss. I want to examine the witness now upon it, and cannot prove it unless this photograph is accepted as the original.

The CHAIRMAN—You had the whole of it photographed?

Mr. GEOFFRION—The whole of the document photographed. I am ready to swear that the original was in my possession and I have lost it.

The CHAIRMAN—I think we ought to admit it.

Q. Will you look at this photograph, and say what it purports to be, or whether it relates to any information you have received from your brother?—A. This is a photograph of the shape of a postal card I received from my brother, showing the sheet piling item and the amount of each tender for that time.

Q. Read it?—A. It reads:

“Sheet Piling Total—Peters, $20,000 or $8 per running foot; Samson, $26,000 or $10.50 per running foot; Larkin & Connolly, $500 or 25c. per running foot.

Q. Will you say in whose handwriting the document is?—A. That is in Thomas McGreevy's handwriting.

Q. I mean the original one?—A. Yes.

Q. You say it was in the shape of a post card. Do you mean to say that it was sent to you as an open post card?—A. No; it was enclosed in an envelope.

Q. But you explained to us it was a post card?—A. No; a memorandum in the shape of a post card.

Q. That was about the size of the document?—A. Yes.

Mr. AMYOT—It has no date?

Mr. GEOFFRION—No.

The CHAIRMAN—Is that an exact copy.

Mr. GEOFFRION—An exact copy, about the size of it.

Q. When you met your brother in Montreal I understand it was after having received the letter of the 8th?—A. Yes.

Q. Would it be several days after?—A. On the 13th.

Q. And was it before or after having received this little paper?—A. I think it was after.

Q. The little paper had been sent to you by mail to Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. And it was after having received it that you met your brother in Montreal?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you happen to meet your brother in Montreal by accident or was it an appointment?—A. By appointment.

Q. What was the object of meeting your brother in Montreal and him coming from Ottawa to meet you there?—A. It was to discuss that Cross-wall business, and business of that kind.

Q. I see at page 17 of the Evidence that on the 17th May, 1883, your brother also wrote a letter in which I read the following: “As I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan and as quick as possible in answer to the letter that Gallagher and Beauceage will receive about their tenders to bring them over L. & C. so as their tender will be the lowest. The contract will be awarded from Ottawa direct.” Can you explain to the Committee what you understood by that “good plan” and what had been talked between yourself and him on the day previous?—A. Well, the meaning of that was, as I took it, to put Gallagher and Beauceage in such a position that the contract would fall to Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. Had there been any conversation about that at the meeting he refers to? Can you remember now?—A. I do not know that I do remember, further than a general conversation of what was the general outline of what ought to be done.

Q. But your recollection is, that the object was to get rid of Gallagher?—A. Yes; and if possible to get rid of Beauceage.

Q. Did you carry out any plan, and if so what was the result?—A. It was decided that Gallagher should withdraw his tender.

Q. As a matter of fact, did he do it?—A. He did it.

Q. Will you now take communication of this letter, and say by whom it is written and to whom?—A. It is a letter written by me to Mr. Murphy, from the St. Louis Hotel, Quebec.

Q. Is there any date?—A. No.

Q. Read it?—A. It reads as follows:

(Exhibit "S12.")

"ST. LOUIS HOTEL.

"O. E. MURPHY, Esq.

"DEAR SIR,—Would you please send Mr. Connolly over to-morrow morning to send a letter to Mr. Perley for Gallagher in answer to one sent him on the 17th by Perley asking explanation on piles. Have you heard from Gallagher if he has rec'd the letter so issued. The Mr. Connolly I mean is the one who wrote the letter the other day and which, by the way, was put in and dated 16th. All will be right I think.

"I would like to see you, also, at 7.30 a. m. at the hotel. This same hour would suit me for Connolly—as I wish the letter to go by morning mail.

"Yours in haste,

"R. H. MCGREEVY.

"Sunday P. M."

Q. Will you now give the date as approximately as possible?—A. That would be about the 15th or 16th of May, 1883.

Q. Read it again. You refer to a letter of the 17th?—A. It would be 1883 anyway, and some time in May. It is marked Sunday.

Q. You refer to Connolly, whose name you did not give. Did you ascertain what Connolly that was?—A. I ascertained afterward it was Michael Connolly.

Q. What had Michael Connolly to do with these tenders?—A. He acted for Mr. Gallagher. He acted in making up the tender as I understood it, and wrote the letter accompanying it.

Q. As far as Beaucage is concerned, what did you do in accordance with your brother's directions: "I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan." What was done as far as Beaucage was concerned?—A. There was nothing done until Mr. Perley wrote down his letter to Mr. Beaucage asking explanations.

Q. As a matter of fact, are you aware that Beaucage received a letter from Mr. Perley?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you seen the letter, then?—A. Yes.

Q. Please refer to page 39 of the Evidence, and say whether the letter which is there printed is the one you refer to?—A. Yes; that is the letter I refer to.

Q. This one appears to have been sent to Larkin, Connolly & Co. You are aware that Larkin, Connolly & Co. received a similar letter at the same time that Beaucage received one. Look at the last letter in these exhibits (Exhibit "B4")?—A. That is the letter he received.

Q. It was addressed to Beaucage?—A. Yes.

Q. What action did you take after having seen these letters?—A. After receiving that letter I went to work and ascertained if the position of the sheet piling was as he stated.

Q. Who stated?—A. Mr. Perley. I then got up an answer to it, and the answer Mr. Beaucage sent was that he meant 25 cents per lineal foot of pile (what he meant by a line of work) 25 cents per foot of pile driven, which would be equal to close on $10 per foot, the way Mr. Perley read it, and asking Mr. Perley to so amend his tender. That is my impression of the work that I done before writing an answer to Mr. Perley, but there was an answer, and the letter will show all that was said in it.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. That is the letter from Beaucage to Mr. Perley?—A. In answer to Mr. Perley.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. The letter would speak for itself, as far as what Beaucage claimed?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know who wrote the letter for Beaucage?—A. I drafted the letter for him and got him to sign it.

Q. Had you sufficient knowledge of the quantities of figures that had been given to you by your brother as coming from Mr. Boyd to come to the conclusion what would be the result of the alteration made by Beaucage in his tender?—A. I knew that if the Department would not accede to the request of Mr. Beaucage's tender, that is allow the increase, that Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s would come the next.

Q. The answer was in such a way that Beaucage would be higher than Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. So I thought at the time.

Q. When you wrote that letter and had it signed by Beaucage you then had the little paper of which a photograph has been put in?—A. Yes; and I had the whole quantities.

Q. As a matter of fact, it turned out that Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender became the lowest?—A. Yes.

Q. In the conversations which you had with your brother, either in Montreal or elsewhere, was there anything said about Peters, Moore & Wright's tender?—A. The conversation I had with Thomas McGreevy?

Q. During the correspondence which you had with your brother in connection with the tenders, did he convey to you verbally any information beyond what is contained in the letter addressed to you on the 5th of May, in which he says, "Larkin was here yesterday. I told him that it would be useless to get Peters out of the way, as it would be tantamount to giving the contract to the highest tender." Had you other information from your brother as to Peters' tender than what is contained in this letter?—A. I had the quantities with which to figure out, and I had Peters' rates, so that the calculations could be made by which I could know exactly where each one was.

Q. You had not only Boyd's quantities but Peters' rates?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. From whom did you get the quantities?—A. I stated in the early part of my evidence.

The Committee then adjourned at 6 o'clock p. m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, THURSDAY, 23rd July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You are joint Prothonotary of the Superior Court of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you with you the record in a case pending before the Superior Court?—A. Yes. No. 1731, Thomas McGreevy vs. Robert Henry McGreevy.

Q. As requested did you prepare copies of the pleadings and other documents which I asked you to have prepared?—A. Most of them were prepared by Mr. Todd's clerks. I have the copies here.

Q. Will you file them?—A. I file Nos: 3, 5, 11, 21, 22, 24, 31, 44, 45, 72, 81, 110, 123 and 146 of the Record.

Q. Did I not also ask you for No. 36?—A. Here is a copy of it.

Q. Will you also look at this document and say whether it is a true copy of the deposition?—A. I cannot say that.

Q. It is certified to by the stenographer?—A. It is certified to by the stenographer, and he is an officer of the court; but it is not certified to by Mr. Malouin.

Q. Will you compare it with the original?—A. Yes; but I am not paid for my time. I am only paid for my disbursements. If I am not paid for my time I must decline.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY recalled and his examination resumed.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you examine Exhibit "V 2," being a letter by John Gallagher to Henry F. Perley, dated 19th May, 1883, printed at page 44 of the evidence, and say whether you know the handwriting of this letter?—A. I think it is that of Michael Connolly.

Q. You recognize his handwriting?—A. Yes, to the best of my memory.

Q. In whose handwriting is Exhibit "U 2," being a letter sent on behalf of Larkin, Connolly & Co., bearing the same date, 19th May, and addressed to Mr. Perley, and also printed at page 44?—A. This is the handwriting I think of Mr. Hume, the Engineer of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. Including the signature?—A. Yes.

Q. In whose handwriting is the body of the letter dated 21st May, 1883, purporting to be sent by George Beaucage and addressed to Mr. Perley, marked as Exhibit "W 2," and appearing at the same page?—A. That is in the handwriting of one of my sons. I really don't know which it is, they write so similar.

Q. And whose signature is it?—A. George Beaucage's signature.

Q. And written by one of your sons? Which would it be, Robert or Charles?—A. It is not Charles, I think it is Robert's.

Q. Will you take communication of a letter dated 17th January, 1883, and say by whom it is signed?—A. It is signed by me.

Q. To whom is it addressed?—A. To Mr. Murphy.

Q. "I learn from my brother, however, that the harbour works will be advertised almost immediately." Will you explain to the Committee what harbour works you refer to in that letter; would it be the Quebec harbour works?—A. The harbour works referred to there is the Cross-wall.

(Exhibit "T12.")

"OTTAWA, 17th January, 1883.

"DEAR MR. MURPHY,—I have no doubt you think I am unmindful of my promise with regard to the loan of $1,500 on the check I gave you, the fact is I have not received any funds from Moncton yet, and I am so busy here with my case getting up statements, evidence, &c. that I have really not even Sunday to myself and therefore cannot get a moment to finance to meet my obligation to you. I trust you do not find any inconvenience from it, if so, and that you want it please wire me and I will attend to it. I expect to reach Quebec Saturday or Monday and will see you. I learn from my brother, however, that the harbour works will be advertised almost immediately. I enclose you letter for Mr. Coker respecting the proposed dock you spoke to me about.

"I remain yours.

"ROBERT H. MCGREEVY."

Q. As you stated in your letter, as a matter of fact, have you been so informed by your brother?—A. Yes, that the plans were being prepared here.

Q. Finally Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender was accepted, I understand?—A. Yes.

Q. After you were informed that Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender was accepted did you become aware of something in connection with this tender?—A. I became aware of a good many things.

Q. In connection with the granting or with the accepting of the tender?—A. I learned from Mr. Murphy that $25,000 had to be paid in connection with the Cross-wall.

Q. How did you learn it? Please explain?—A. He explained it by stating that of course I would be expected to contribute towards the $25,000.

Q. Were you informed to whom the money had to be paid?—A. Yes.

Q. Who was it?—A. It was to be paid to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Subsequent to that information from Murphy, had you any conversation with your brother, Thomas McGreevy, in connection with the same?—A. I had.

Q. What was the substance of your conversation with your brother in connection with that?—A. Well I understood from him what Murphy told me was correct. He told me to go to Larkin, Connolly & Co. and get the notes.

Q. In accordance with the request did you go to Larkin, Connolly & Co. for these notes?—A. I did.

Q. Please state what took place?—A. Well, I told Mr. Murphy that the notes were required; that I had been sent by my brother for these notes. He told me that the arrangement was that the money was to be paid as the work progressed; but I endeavoured to show him that it was necessary to have something at once, even if the notes were of a long date.

Q. You say he told you that the money was to be paid as the work progressed? Who did?—A. He did.

Q. Who?—A. Murphy did at the time he was speaking to me.

Q. What did you answer to that statement of Murphy's? Is that all that took place?—A. Well, I got the notes from him, signed by the firm, and endorsed by some members of it.

Q. Have you any knowledge when and where they were signed by the firm and endorsed by some members of the firm?—A. I have. I was present when they were signed.

Q. Where was it?—A. It was in my office in the lower town—in Dalhousie street.

Q. Is it the same office that you described as the place where the tenders were compared?—A. I think so.

Q. The office communicating with your brother's office by means of a trap door?—A. Yes, I think that is where they were made.

Q. Will you examine these notes (W-7) and say whether they correspond to those you saw signed then and there?—A. I recognize the three last as a part of those that I saw made out at the time.

Q. The three last notes are—?—A. They are those of 6, 7 and 9 months of $5,000, each made on the same kind of form. The two first are demand notes made on another form.

Q. Which you do not recognize as being then signed?—A. I do not recognize them as having been then signed.

Q. The three you recognize as having been then signed are one endorsed by P. Larkin, one by N. K. Connolly and the other by O. E. Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember whether the five notes were filled out and signed on the same occasion?—A. Yes; on the same paper, I believe.

Q. When was it?—It was the latter end of May or the early part of June.

Q. Who were present?—Mr. Murphy, Mr. Nicholas Connolly, and I think Mr. Larkin was present.

Q. Did you see that Mr. Larkin endorsed one?—A. Yes; that is his signature.

Q. Have you any doubt that he was there?—A. I would not say positively he was there, but my impression is that he was.

Q. Your memory is not sure, but you see that his name is on one of the notes?—A. Yes. He may have been brought there and endorsed it.

Q. Were these notes so signed and endorsed prior or after the accepting of the tender?—A. It was after.

Q. Was it prior or after the execution of the contract?—A. I am not sure about that.

Q. You are not sure as to the execution of the contract, but you are sure it was after the execution of the tender: after being informed that the contract had been awarded?—A. Yes.

Q. After the notes were completed, will you be good enough to explain to whom they were handed?—A. I handed them all to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Then they were first handed to you?—A. They were handed to me, as I said before, by Mr. Murphy.

Q. You handed them to Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Where?—A. I do not know exactly where; either in his office or his house.

Q. When?—A. The day I got them.

Q. On the same day?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you any personal knowledge of the use which your brother made of some or all of those notes?—A. I have a personal knowledge that an obligation was imposed upon him at that time by a judgment of over $17,000, which I know some of those notes went to pay.

Q. Do I understand you to say that the creditors took the notes in payment or that these notes were used to levy money for the payment?—A. The notes were used to get the money to pay the debt.

Q. What judgment was it; what case was it?—A. It was a judgment of the Supreme Court in McGreevy v. McCarron and Cameron.

Q. The Supreme Court of Ottawa?—A. Yes; about the 13th or 15th June, 1883.

Q. You say that this judgment was rendered towards the middle of June?—A. About the 13th.

Q. You were not in Ottawa at the time the judgment was rendered?—A. No.

Q. Did your brother have any conversation as to that judgment with you? How did you know it had been rendered?—A. I knew it, because I was in a position to know it.

Q. You were aware of the case?—A. Yes.

Q. It had gone up as far as the Supreme Court?—A. Yes.

Q. It was the case of McCarron vs McGreevy?—A. Yes; but in the Supreme Court he was the appellant.

Q. How did you become aware that that judgment was paid with the money realized from these notes? Will you explain how that came to your knowledge?—A. Two of these notes were given to Mr. Hearn—the Hon. John Hearn—to get discounted, and one was sent to the Union Bank to get discounted.

By the Chairman :

Q. Who told you that the notes were applied to the payment of that judgment ?
A. I knew it myself.

Q. How did you know it?—A. From the instructions given by Thomas McGreevy.

Q. What instructions were given?—A. Instructions as to whom the notes were to go to be discounted.

Q. They were given to whom?—A. Myself and Mr. Chaloner.

Q. What were the exact words?—A. As near as I can recollect, that the judgment had to be met and these notes should be discounted to meet them.

Q. Who got the money from Mr. John Hearn?—A. I do not know.

Q. You did not get it for your brother?—A. No. I do not think so.

Q. Did you have the other note discounted by the Bank?—A. I did not discount any. Mr. Chaloner said he did.

Q. What is his first name?—A. Mr. Henry J. Chaloner.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. When did Mr. McGreevy give you instructions?—A. About the time I gave the notes.

Q. Was it before or after you had handed them to him?—A. After.

Q. At the same time?—A. It might have been a few days after.

By the Chairman :

Q. Your name does not appear on these notes?—A. No.

Q. Were you not to contribute as a partner?—A. I was.

Q. Did you contribute?—A. I gave my note for $7,500 or what would represent my share of that $25,000, at the suggestion of Mr. Nicholas Connolly, as he suggested I should give some security in case they were called upon and got no value for the $25,000, and I must pay my share. They held my note for a couple of years, until such time as the obligation discharged itself.

Q. It was charged to you?—A. It was not charged to me. I gave a note of security.

Q. Did you pay the note?—A. No; they gave it back to me when the profits were secured.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You say the note for your proportion of the notes in that matter?—A. Yes.

Q. Did they keep that note until the profits paid the whole liability?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether those $25,000, once discharged and paid, were charged in the books of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. How were they charged?—A. It is charged to expense account Quebec Harbour Improvements.

Q. Anyhow, the firm was charged with the expense?—A. Yes; that is the first auditor's account I have.

Q. You have spoken of those three notes which you said were used to pay the McCarron judgment. Do you know what became of the other notes?—A. My impression is that at a later period—I may first state that of the five notes one of them was a three or four months and one twelve, or the two missing ones. Instead of these demand notes there was a three or four months note and a twelve months note, and later on I asked Mr. Murphy to change the twelve months note into what I thought so then and I think so now—was a shorter date; but I have no recollection of any circumstances regarding the other note being changed or a demand note being given for the twelve months.

Q. You say that you asked Mr. Murphy to make another note at a shorter date. Did you do it of your own accord or were you requested to ask it?—A. I was requested to get it changed. It was too long.

Q. By whom were you requested?—A. By Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Did he so request you after being put in possession of the five notes?—A. Not at the time; some days after.

Q. After you had the twelve months' note altered as stated, what did you do with the new note?—A. I gave it back to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. I think you stated that this shorter note instead of the twelve months' note was not a demand note?—A. I think not.

Q. As far as you can remember it was not. Did you make your brother aware after obtaining the contract of the extent of your interest in that Cross-wall contract?—A. He was aware of it both before and after.

Q. But I mean of the percentage of your interest?—A. It was about that time that I told him what the extent of my interest was. I told him the circumstances under which I got that thirty per cent. interest. Mr. Larkin was very desirous I should only get twenty-five per cent. in order to leave a place for Michael Connolly; but I had insisted on the thirty, and he said I was right.

Q. Were you interested in the Levis supplementary contract?—A. No; I was not interested in the Graving Dock at Levis at all.

Q. Did you take any part, however, in the obtaining of this new contract?—A. I did.

Q. Will you take communication of this letter dated 13th March, 1884, from Ottawa and apparently signed by you and addressed to Mr. Murphy, and say whether it is in your handwriting—both the body and the signature?—A. Yes. That is my handwriting. It is from Ottawa 13th March, written by myself and signed by me. I will read the part that bears on this case :

(Exhibit "U-12")

"I will get my brother to interview Perley with Valin before I leave on graving dock."

Q. The brother you refer to in that letter is Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. And the Valin is Mr. P. V. Valin, Chairman of the Harbour Commissioners. Quebec?—A. Yes, if I referred to Valin.

Q. Take communication of this letter?—A. It is a letter written by myself from Ottawa, 17th, 1884, no month. It does not say who to. It reads as follows :

(Exhibit "V12")

"OTTAWA, 17th 1884.

"MY DEAR SIR,—The result of the interview between Mr. Perley and my brother was that he, P., will write you to ascertain the rate at which you will complete the dock giving a guarantee of completion within this year or season of navigation. I will be down in a few days see you. In and meantime do not reply until you see me. The question of some diminution in the value of dock, being shorter than contract, came up. Perley says it is thirty-one feet shorter. I think they can be convinced that only a bulk sum contract will ensure completion this coming season.

"Yours,

"R. H. MCGREEVY."

Q. You wrote that letter in 1884?—A. Yes 1884. It would be in the spring, about April or March.

Q. You remember that you were in Ottawa in the spring of 1884?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you remember to whom it was adressed?—A. I think it was addressed to Mr. Murphy.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. There is an Exhibit filed here, "W1", a synopsis of which is to be found at page 3 of the pink index, being a letter from Mr. Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department, to the Secretary of the Harbour Commission transmitting a copy of correspondence exchanged between Mr. Perley and the contractors, in connection with the offer for the completion of the Graving Dock in 1884. Do you remember having seen that correspondence between the contractors and Mr. Perley?—A. I have no distinct recollection now of having seen it, but I must have seen it.

Q. Had you taken part in that correspondence?—A. Yes.

Q. In what way?—A. I drafted a reply to Mr. Perley's letter.

Q. As a consequence of that correspondence, do you know whether a contract took place between Larkin, Connolly & Co. and the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes, they made an offer of completing the Dock and the offer was accepted.

Q. Do you remember the lump sum that was asked? Can you say from memory what it was?—A. $64,000 and $10,000 added for the caisson made $74,000. That is my present impression.

Q. After the contract was awarded were you informed that something had been done, also in connection with this contract, independently of the execution of it?—A. Yes.

Q. What was it?—A. A certain sum of money was exacted, was to be paid.

Q. By whom was the money to be paid?—A. By Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. To whom?—A. To Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Thomas McGreevy had been aware of the negotiations in connection with that supplementary contract?—A. Certainly I do. He spoke to me several times about it and I was directed by him what to do.

Q. In that matter?—A. Yes in that matter.

Q. You say that you drafted the answer to Mr. Perley's letter?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether he was aware of that work of yours?—A. I gave him the draft of it for his approval.

Q. You showed it to him?—A. Yes.

Q. And are you aware that he took communication of it?—A. He read it over.

Q. And did he approve of it?—A. Substantially yes. I think there was a word or two he thought might be changed.

Q. In substance he approved of the draft letter?—A. Yes.

Q. As a matter of fact, after your brother Thomas had approved of that draft was the letter sent to Mr. Perley?—A. I think so. I gave it to Larkin, Connolly & Co. as the outlines of a letter they should send, and they told me afterwards they sent it.

Q. After having received the draft, approved of with a few corrections, from your brother, you handed it to Larkin, Connolly & Co., to base their letter upon it?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were subsequently informed they had written a letter based upon it?—A. Yes.

Q. Was it subsequent to this part taken by your brother in these negotiations, that you were informed that a sum of money was to be paid by Larkin, Connolly & Co., to him?—A. It was during those negotiations.

Q. What was the amount agreed upon or mentioned?—A. I learnt from my brother Mr. Thomas McGreevy that the amount was $14,000.

Q. What did you do after you were so informed by your brother?—A. Well, I went to Mr. Murphy and he told me that there was some disputes between the members of the firm, not mentioning who, as to the large amount which he had to be paid—as I understood it twenty-four thousand—but that they agreed to give twenty-two thousand. I cannot explain the difference he wanted to know if I was satisfied. I said "Certainly".

Q. Can you explain why your brother having mentioned $14,000 Murphy told you it was $22,000?—A. I have just told you all I know about that statement.

Q. That as far as you were informed by your brother it was $14,000, and Mr. Murphy told you an amount of $22,000 was to be paid?—A. Yes.

Q. Was the amount paid?—A. I received the $22,000 in notes from Mr. Murphy.

Q. Will you look at Exhibit "X 7" and see whether these notes are connected with that transaction?—A. As far as I can see these are the notes that I got from Mr. Murphy.

Q. Were they made and signed in your presence?—A. They were not.

Q. They were brought to you all prepared and signed by Mr. Murphy?—Yes.

Q. When?—A. About the early part of June 1884. In fact, I think the day they were dated was the day he gave them to me. If not that day, the day after.

Q. After having received these notes what did you do with them?—A. I gave three notes making $14,000 to Thomas McGreevy that day and the other $8,000 later on, not the notes but the product of them later on.

By the Chairman:

Q. Do you know what your brother did with this money that you gave him from the notes of $22,000.; Was it for his own benefit or the benefit of some one else?—A. About the $14,000, he told me what he wanted it for.

Q. What did he tell you?—A. He told me he wanted it for the newspaper Le Monde.

Q. That is the $14,000?—A. Yes.

Q. What about the balance?—A. I gave him by ones or twos as occasion offered afterwards.

Q. Do you know what for?—A. I do not.

Q. He never told you?—A. I knew what part of it was for and at a later stage will say what the portion of the notes went for.

Q. Why not say it now?—A. If you want it now I will give it at once.

Q. I think you had better give the explanation now?—A. When the $6,000 note came due, or near about due, I got $2,000 in cash from Mr. Murphy. I got a note of $2,000 part renewal of four months, and a note of $2,000 of five months. In November, 1884, about the 28th November, on an application for money for the British Columbia Dock, I got Mr. Murphy to give me a six months note for $3,000 on that account and I put with it one of these notes I now speak of and made it $5,000 and gave them to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Do you know for what use; was it for himself or some one else?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. This was all the connection you had with the supplementary work at Levis?—A. That is all.

Q. I understand that you were in the second contract of dredging of 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. To the same extent as the other works?—A. 30 per cent.

Q. Have you anything to do with the obtaining of that new contract of 1887?—A. Very little. Some talk between individual members of the firm, between Thomas McGreevy and myself. It began as far back as December, 1886.

Q. Had you any conversations also with your brother, Thomas McGreevy, in connection with that new contract?—A. Yes.

Q. About the same day?—A. About the time. It covered a period of a couple of months or six weeks.

Q. What was the substance of these conversations as far as a practical object was concerned?—A. That the balance of the dredging of the Wet dock should be increased in price.

Q. Did your brother Thomas first speak to you about it, or were you approached first?—A. I do not know whether he first spoke to me. I think he spoke to Mr. Murphy first about it, but I suppose the conversations of myself and Murphy with Thomas McGreevy would be about the same time.

Q. They would be connected together?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the substance of these conversations?—A. The outcome of it was that the dredging was to be increased over what had been paid in previous years.

Larkin, Connolly & Co. thought that they had ought to have more—2 cents, 3 cents, 5 cents—whatever they could get more.

Q. And finally?—A. It was agreed at 35 cents.

Q. Were you aware of the correspondence which took place between Mr. Perley and the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. Did this correspondence take place at the same time as the conversations you have mentioned, or later?—A. The correspondence was not until the month of April, I think, and these conversations I refer to began in December—very early in December.

Q. You say your conversations were first with Murphy and your brother, and then did it extend to other members of the firm also?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you name those members with whom you had conversations in connection with that new contract?—A. I had conversation with them all except Mr. Larkin.

Q. Was there any talk about money to be spent in connection with that contract?—A. Yes; they led me to understand that they would take 32 cents, and by getting 35 cents they would allow 3 cents on the quantity supposed to be dredged which was 800,000 yards, to be given to the elections coming on.

Q. There was a talk of elections then?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you look at Exhibit "M5," read the document, and say whether this document has any bearing upon this part of your evidence?—A. I have seen that before. It is a pencil memorandum reading as follows: (Reads the memorandum)

Q. You have seen that document before?—A. Yes; it was in my possession before.

Q. In whose handwriting is the document?—A. To the best of my belief that is Mr. Michael Connolly's handwriting.

Q. Under what circumstances did it come into your possession?—A. I was in their office one day and it was thought better that I should have something definite to avoid misunderstandings, and Mr. Michael Connolly wrote out a document which he afterward handed me as the one written out. That is it.

Q. Was it handed to you in the office of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember who were present when this little paper was written and signed?—A. I think Mr. Murphy and Mr. Nicholas Connolly were present, besides Michael who made it.

Q. Was it handed to you for a special purpose?—A. It was handed to me to enable me to show what they would do.

Q. To show that to whom?—A. I showed it to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Where did you show it to Thomas McGreevy?—A. In his own house.

Q. Did he read it?—A. Yes.

Q. What did he do after he had read it?—A. Gave it back to me.

Q. Did he make any observation after having read it?—A. I do not think he made any more than "It is all right."

Q. He handed back the paper and you kept it?—A. Yes.

Q. What action was taken upon this apparent offer afterward?—A. The dredging money was paid—the $25,000 was paid—almost at once, in the month of February.

Q. When about would this paper be prepared and signed?—A. That would be signed sometime in December, 1886.

Q. And the payments were made in February, 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know how the money was paid?—A. I do.

Q. Explain it to the Committee?—A. I gave $10,000 to Thomas McGreevy that were given to me by Mr. Murphy.

Q. You have already said this was in February?—A. In the early part of February. It must have been between the 4th and 10th. Mr. Murphy gave $10,000, and $5,000 were ordered to remain for the Quebec West election.

Q. You say that Mr. Murphy gave $10,000. To whom did he give the $10,000?—A. To Thomas McGreevy.

Q. How do you know?—A. Thomas McGreevy told me so.

Q. About also the $5,000. which you say Mr. Murphy was ordered to keep. Who ordered him to keep it?—A. Thomas McGreevy did.

Q. How do you know?—A. He told me so. He told me he had told Mr. Murphy to keep $5,000.

Q. Did he tell you for what purpose he had told Murphy to keep $5,000.?—A. For the Quebec West election—for his own election.

Q. For February, 1887?—A. Yes, February, 1887.

Q. I forgot to ask you whether the $22,000. for which notes were given were paid by the firm?—A. I think so.

Q. Were they charged?—A. I do not know, because I had no interest in that work.

Q. You were not charged with that?—A. No; I would not require to see.

Q. About this $25,000. paid to Thomas McGreevy as explained, do you know whether these payments were charged in the books of the firm?—A. Yes, I do.

Q. You say that Mr. Perley's correspondence was in April, 1887. Will you look at page 13 of the Bluebook (Exhibit "N 5,") at a letter dated 27th April, 1887, and say whether you have seen that letter before?—A. I would like to see the letter itself. However, I think I saw the letter.

Q. You may take it for granted there is such a letter. Did you take communication of a letter which was addressed to the firm in April, 1887, in connection with that new dredging contract?—A. Yes, I took a hand in framing the reply.

Q. Had you seen Mr. Perley and had a conversation with him prior to that letter sent by him to the firm?—A. I never had any conversation with Mr. Perley at all upon any contract.

Q. Had you been informed by somebody that Mr. Perley was going to write such a letter?—A. Yes.

P. By whom?—A. Thomas McGreevy told me. He told me and he wrote me.

Q. Are the letters you refer to those that are printed at page 18 of the Evidence. Exhibits "E2" and "F2"?—A. Yes, that relates to the matter in question.

Q. Do I understand you to say that besides these two letters you had also a conversation with your brother about it?—A. Yes.

Q. The second of these letters is dated 26th April?—A. Yes.

Q. And on the 27th of April Mr. Perley appears to have written to the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. Asking you for your prices?—A. Yes.

Q. You say you had something to do with the reply that was given to it?—A. I did.

Q. When you helped in preparing that reply you had received both letters of the 16th and 26th of April?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you also inform your partners that your letter of the 26th of April informed you that the letter you had received on the 26th April, beginning: "I have just seen Perley on dredging. I think he will report on thirty-five cents, &c." Were they aware of that letter?—A. I made them aware of all the information I got.

Q. Being possessed of that knowledge you wrote the letter of the 28th April 1887, in which you say: "Your favour of the 28th April is at hand, &c." It is printed at page 13 of the Bluebook (Exhibit "N 5.") Do you know if your brother was made aware of that?—A. I would not like to say that.

Q. I do not mean whether he had seen the letter, but that he was aware you had tendered for thirty-five cents?—A. There is no doubt he knew about the reply.

Q. As a matter of fact, afterward the contract for thirty-five cents was signed?—A. Yes.

Q. You refer to the difficulty connected with the execution of the contract. What were these difficulties?—A. Imaginary.

Q. You say that the passage was narrower in 1887. Was it? A. No; in 1887 it would not be any narrower.

Q. Was the passage then too narrow out to the St. Lawrence?—A. The passage would be narrower in the dredging of 1883 and 1884.

Q. There was no wall at all then?—A. No wall, but when they began to sink the cribs for the Cross wall on the North side of the entrance, then they left a gap on the south side of the entrance, which was about 200 feet wide, until such times as the entrance proper would be finished and left open for navigation.

Q. The entrance where the gates were fixed later?—A. Yes.

Q. Was 200 feet of sufficient width to travel with ease?—A. Oh yes. The outside entrance at the breakwater is only 200 feet or thereabouts.

Q. So it was not a greater difficulty?—A. The difficulties, as I explained, were imaginary.

Q. Taking this question of 200 feet width only, in what condition was this passage during the season of 1886?—A. The same, and part of 1885 would be the same.

Q. But the whole of the year 1886 would be the same?—A. Yes.

Q. You have filed a statement of your operations in 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. And you now swear that as the passage was concerned the difficulty was no greater in 1887 than in 1886?—A. Oh, not at all.

Q. Where did you dump the material?—A. It was dumped in the River St. Lawrence.

Q. The whole of it?—A. No, not the whole of it, not whatever was required elsewhere.

Q. And what proportion was put in the embankment?—A. I suppose about one fourth.

Q. Did you use it for any purpose—was this material dumped into the bank used for any purpose for which you had contracted?—A. Some of the dredging was used for mixing concrete, some was used for filling the Cross-wall.

Q. Was this filling for the cross wall part of the contracts of Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. It was part of the Cross-wall contract.

Q. Do you remember how much your contract gave you per yard, for that filling of the Cross-wall?—A. 45 cents.

Q. And you were paid for that filling?—A. Certainly.

Q. At the rate of your contract?—A. Yes.

Q. You were paid these 45 cents besides 35 cents for dredging?—A. Yes it was a separate contract.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. It would amount to 80 cents, 35 cents for taking out and 45 cents for cutting in?—A. The dredging was 35 cents and under another contract the filling for the Cross-wall was 45 cents.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You did the work economically, you used the same material?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You said about one fourth of the material was dumped into the embankment, not into the river?—A. One fourth.

Q. Do you speak for the three years in which you were interested, or only for the first year?—A. I speak now of 1887 and 1888. In the early part of 1889 we were frozen out.

Q. How much of that 25 per cent was put into the Cross-wall?—A. I suppose from 1887 to 1888 the Cross-wall would have taken about 100,000 yards. In 1886 and 1885 the other portion of the filling of the Cross-wall had been done, but in round numbers about one hundred thousand for those two years.

Q. In round numbers you are satisfied that in 1887 and 1888 about one hundred thousand yards were required to do that filling of the Cross-wall?—A. Yes.

Q. The other material which was not used in the Cross-wall and not dumped into the river, was it used by you in doing certain works for which you were under contract, or used to your private use only?—A. There was a large amount used for mixing the concrete.

Q. That was for your own use?—A. Yes.

Q. I see by the report, printed at page 12 of the Blue Book (Exhibit "N 5") under which this contract was awarded, that one hundred thousand only were to be spent in the first year under that contract, will you state, if you know it, how much was actually paid to the firm for the dredging for 1887 in round figures?—A. Well, I don't know how much there was in 1887.

Q. Can you say whether, in that dredging of 1887, you were paid for a certain quantity more than 35 cents?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You say that you were interested only during 1887 and 1888, and you left the firm in 1889. Are you aware whether this dredging was continued in 1889?—A. Yes; I saw it going on.

Mr. GEOFFRION—I now produce this bundle of Engineer's certificates, 19 in number, which will be filed together as exhibit "W12."

Q. Will you take communication of the Engineer's estimate (Exhibit "W12") Number 8, being up to November 30th, 1887, and being the last one of the year 1887, and say what was the total quantity of cubic yards dredged during that season?—A. 468,540 cubic yards.

Q. And what was the amount of money the firm received for it?—A. $163,989.

Q. So you exceeded, by a little, the amount of $100,000 that was to be spent?—A. Well, I don't know that.

Q. And by the contract you were to work only for $100,000?—A. I don't know what was in the contract.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. Was any of that put in the Cross-wall?—A. Yes.

Q. How much of that would be put in the Cross-wall?—A. In the season of 1887 there would be 50 or 60 thousand yards.

Q. Is that included in the $163,000 you speak of?—A. Not the value of putting it into the Cross-wall; the quantity would be in that.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick:

Q. How many dredgers were there?—A. There were two.

Q. What were their capacity?—A. The capacity of those dredges would be from 1,500 to 1,700 yards a day.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. Will you now look at estimate number 14, up to November 23rd, 1888, being the last of the season of that year, and say how many yards were excavated or dredged during that year?—A. Well, that would be up to the 23rd November, 1888.

Q. Give the total in the last estimate of 1888?—A. 644,284 cubic yards.

By Mr. Osler:

Q. From which has to be deducted the 468,540 yards?—A. Yes; previous to 1887, and taken from the total.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. And the money?—A. The money of that item is $225,499.40.

Mr. OSLER.—From which has to be deducted the $163,989.—A. Then there is another item of 690 yards to a depth of 28 feet, at 55 cents, making $379.50. There is another item here, 2,754 yards of bottoming up in tidal harbour, as per agreement 55 cents, $1,514.70. These are the three items in this estimate given to me.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Have you finished reading all in that?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. I will now take the month of October, 1887. Will you now take communication of the Engineer's estimate No. 6 up to 31st October, 1887, and say for how much money the dredging was done during the month of October?—A. The total is $150,113 60, from which the drawback would come $11,500; previous certificates $106,540, which leaves $28,561.99. That is the net estimate, and to that you must add the drawback.

Q. The total paid to the contractors was $28,561.99 for that month, plus the drawback at 10 per cent. So that there was more than $1,000 a day of dredging done during that month?—A. It would appear so by that.

Q. What is the capacity of a dredge per day?—A. From 1,500 to 1,700 yards per day for each dredge.

Q. For twenty-four hours in the day or eleven hours?—A. From ten to eleven hours.

Q. By the month, then, without taking account of accident, breakage, &c.?—A. 25,000 to 30,000 yards a month, taking broken time and accidents altogether.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Each or both?—A. Each.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Is that not a large average?—A. I think it is a fair average.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Do you know how many dredges were in operation during the month of October, 1887?—A. I think there was only the two. There was a dredge belonging to Mr. Connolly that used to make attempts to take out stuff, but I do not think it did much. It did not belong to the firm at all.

Q. Was this additional dredge in operation in the month of October all the time?—A. I do not think so; it was very irregular, and I would not like to say. It had very small capacity.

Q. Will you look at estimate No. 3, ending July 31st, 1887, and verify how much money was paid to the contractors for the dredging during the month of July?—A. This would include May, June and July, three months. For these three months by this estimate there appears to have been done 210,413 yards, to a depth of 15 feet, at 35 cents, which gives $73,644.55.

Q. Do you not see that you make a mistake—that the previous certificates are deducted; every progress certificate deducts the previous estimate?—A. The total of that which I read is $73,644.55; the drawback on that would be $7,364.45; the previous estimate deducted, $32,372.24; leaving a balance of $33,907.86 plus drawback.

Q. For that month?—A. For that month.

Q. Now look at estimate No. 4?—A. The same way.

Q. It ends on August 31st; say what is the net amount paid to the firm for that amount?—A. The August dredging would amount to $33,622.15 plus the drawback.

Q. You spoke about filling the Cross-wall, for which purpose you used the material dredged under that contract in 1887; did you also employ material for the removal of which you were also paid on the fly bank?—A. There was some blue clay required for the coffer dam and the South-wall, which was taken up to Cap Blanche—Wolfe's Cove.

Q. How much were you paid for that?—A. I think we were paid the dredging price, 27 cents; somewhere in the vicinity of 30 cents a yard—from 25 to 30 cents.

Q. In connection with that dredging contract did you become aware that payments had been made to certain inspectors on the work by the firm of Larkin,

Connolly & Co.?—I became aware of it late in the season of 1887. When I first saw it it was in small amounts, and I did not say much, not knowing at the time what it was for; but as the sums became large I made enquiries what it was for. Mr. Nicholas Connolly told me what it was for, and I remonstrated and protested very severely. Later on I reduced that protest to writing to each member of the firm.

Q. When you so protested do you mean by way of letters?—A. By letters, because it was a system that I was never accustomed to.

Q. Have you a copy of that letter?—A. I have a letter-press copy of it. This is the letter-press copy that I got out of the book.

(Exhibit "X12.")

"QUEBEC, 23rd April, 1889.

"PATRICK LARKIN, Esq.,
Of MESSRS. LARKIN, CONNOLLY & Co.,
Contractors.

"DEAR SIR,—I have examined trial balance sheets of the affairs of the Company, in connection with Harbour Works here, as made by Martin Connolly the Accountant of the Firm, and have glanced over the books. I will secure an Auditor and have him thoroughly examine the Books and Accounts, as the investigation would be too protracted to do myself.

"I have however seen enough to warrant me in letting you know that there has been an expenditure to the extent of fully $25,000, or thereabouts, that I will not pay my share, or cannot in any way recognize, as they have been made without my knowledge or consent. Contracts and agreements, engagements, appointments, salaries &c., &c., were made without my consent or knowledge—in a word, the work conducted without my being consulted, though the articles of co-partnership make us all equally interested (except as to proportion of profits and losses) and responsible, with no power in any one over the other as to management or control. I have repeatedly complained of this, and now that the working season is again on I put my complaining in writing, and protest against anything being done without my consent and approval, otherwise I will not be held, nor will I be responsible for, or pay any part or share of such expenditure. A copy of this will be served on each member of the firm, in due time.

"I remain, dear Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"ROBERT H. MCGREEVY."

By the Chairman :

Q. You have no reference to the Inspectors in that letter?—A. That is covered by the general statement.

By Mr. Cameron :

Q. I should like to ask Mr. McGreevy if Mr. Larkin had not ceased to be a member of the firm eighteen months before that letter was written?—A. I was not aware.

Q. Do you not know that he retired in 1888?—A. I had a conversation with Mr. Larkin six months before that letter was written—aye, three months—and he made no intimation to me that he was out of the firm. I say that without fear of contradiction. I did not know he was out of the firm when I was out.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. The next contract in which you were interested with Larkin, Connolly & Co. was the Esquimalt Dock?—A. Yes.

Q. What was your proportion of interest in that contract?—A. Twenty per cent.—one-fifth.

Q. Will you take communication of this document, and say whether it refers to your interest in that contract, and if so file it?—A. Yes. That is a letter sent by the members of the firm giving me an interest, and reads as follows:—

(Exhibit "Y12")

"QUEBEC, December, 1884.

"We, the undersigned, forming the partnership of Larkin, Connolly & Co., do hereby agree that you shall have to the extent of one-fifth or 20 per cent. interest and share in the contracts profits or losses, as the case may be, we have made with the Department of Public Works of Canada for the construction and completion of the Graving Dock at Esquimalt, British Columbia, and any additions or works arising out of or in connection with said contract.

"P. LARKIN,
"N. K. CONNOLLY,
"O. E. MURPHY."

"To Mr. R. H. MCGREEVY,
"Quebec."

Q. This would be about the date when the Esquimalt Dock contract was entered into?—A. A few days afterward.

Q. Do you remember how the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. came to tender for that contract?—A. Yes.

Q. Please state it?—A. Tenders was called through the public press, and Mr. Murphy and myself agreed to put in a tender.

Q. Before going further, do you remember, whether prior to putting in your tender, other tenders had been called?—A. Tenders had been in in the spring of that year, 1884.

Q. How did you become aware that those tenders would not be acted upon? Or did you become aware that those tenders would not be acted upon before you decided to put in your own tender?—A. I had not much information about that. My knowledge began at the letting of the fall—September—or coming on that time.

Q. And Mr. Murphy, you say?—A. Yes.

Q. Were the other members of the firm at Quebec then?—A. Yes.

Q. All of them, or some of them?—A. Mr. Larkin was seldom there; but the others would always be there.

Q. What part did you take in the preparation of the tender?—A. Mr. Murphy filled in the items and gave me the signed one, and I brought it to Ottawa in company with Mr. Hume, the Engineer. He gave me a blank one signed also, in case it was necessary to make any changes we thought proper in the rates.

Q. He gave you also a blank form?—A. Yes; he signed it for the firm.

Q. Did he sign in the name of the firm?—A. He signed in the name of the firm.

Q. But the members of the firm did not sign it?—A. No.

Q. When you came to Ottawa with this tender, or any time before, had you any conversation with your brother, Thomas McGreevy, in connection with this contract at Esquimalt?—A. Yes; I had some.

Q. Was he aware, or did you make him aware, that you intended to take an interest in that contract?—A. He was aware of it.

Q. Was he aware that you were taking an interest alone or in partnership with Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A.—Yes; with Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. When you came to Ottawa with your tender was your brother there?—A. No; he was not there then. It was in the month of September, I think.

Q. Was he in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Had he been made aware of the tender which you were making?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you communicated the tender to him?—A. I do not think I communicated any rates to him—just the naked fact that I was interested.

Q. Did you have an interview with any parties in the Public Works Department when you came to Ottawa with that tender in the fall of 1884?—A. No; I had none

Q. You purely and simply put in your tender—you did no transactions on that trip?—A. No.

Q. Later on, were you informed of the result at the opening of the tenders?—A. Yes.

Q. How were you so informed?—A. I was informed by Mr. Murphy and Thomas McGreevy.

Q. After having been informed, had you then interviews with any parties connected with the Public Works Department?—A. I had no interviews with any members of the Civil Service—the Public Works Department—at all.

Q. Neither before or after putting in your tender?—A. Afterwards I had, but it was more formal than anything else.

Q. With whom did you have such an interview?—A. I happened to be here in the early part of October. I came to Ottawa on other business, and Thomas McGreevy told me I had better see the Minister about the tenders of the British Columbia Dock. I went and seen him.

Q. What took place at that interview which you had with the Minister?

Mr. MULOCK.—What Minister does he refer to?—A. Sir Hector. I wanted to know for Larkin Connolly & Co., what was being done with the tenders that were in. He said they were not extended yet; that he had telegraphed to Thomas McGreevy on the matter. That is all the interview I had with the Minister. Then I saw Mr. Perley. I asked him on behalf of the firm, and he said the tenders were before the Privy Council.

By the Chairman :

Q. That is the tenders about the British Columbia Dock?—A. That is all the communications I had.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

A. Prior to the preparation of your tender, had you been put in possession of any information which helped you in the preparation of such tender?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you take communication of exhibit "R6," and say whether you have seen that letter before?—A. Yes; I had that letter in my possession.

Q. Will you read it?—A. (Witness read letter from Mr. Perley to Mr. Thomas McGreevy, printed on pp. 137 and 138 of the printed evidence).

Q. When did you see this letter for the first time?—A. A couple of days after it was received in Quebec—about the 13th or 15th of September.

Q. Was it left in your possession?—A. It was given to me by Thomas McGreevy.

Q. As suggested in the letter, did any member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. come to Ottawa to examine the plans which were exhibited here?—A. I think not.

Q. You made your tender without looking at the plans?—A. Yes.

Q. Is this letter the only information you had to guide you in the preparation of the tender?—A. I did not prepare the tender, as I stated in the early part of my evidence. Mr. Murphy prepared it with some other member of the firm.

Q. You did not help in the preparation of the tender?—A. No.

Q. You stated you left for Ottawa with a blank form in your possession, signed by Murphy for the firm, in case some changes should be required?—A. Yes. He left it to Mr. Hume and myself to make such changes as would suggest themselves when we reached here.

Q. Did you make any changes?—A. We made a few.

Q. Were the changes to increase or decrease the price of your tender?—A. I think they rather tended to decrease it on the whole; some were diminished and some were increased.

Q. Will you look at this letter (Exhibit "V8") and read it?—A. (Witness read letter sent by himself to O. E. Murphy, printed at page 211 of the printed Evidence)

Q. Will you explain what you mean by the first words of that letter, "The memo. of yesterday re B. C. Dock is with the Minister"?—A. That was a memorandum, if I recollect aright, of certain conditions that they wanted inserted in the contract.

Q. Who wanted?—A. Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. This letter has no date. Was it written before or after the tenders were opened?—A. It was written after the tenders were opened, and while the contract was being prepared.

Q. Upon whose authority or by whose information could you state to Mr. Murphy that the memo. of yesterday was before the Minister?—A. Thomas McGreevy told me.

Q. Was Thomas McGreevy in Ottawa at that date?—A. I do not know.

Q. Anyhow, the information upon which you based what you wrote in this letter came from Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes. Whatever information I conveyed there must have been received from him.

The Committee then adjourned till 4 o'clock p. m.

THURSDAY, 4 o'clock p. m.

Sir JOHN THOMPSON.—I have received the following letter, which I think should be read to the Committee :

" St. JOSEPH, LÉVIS, 22nd July, 1891.

" Hon. Sir JOHN THOMPSON, K.C.M.G.,
" Minister of Justice.

" HONOURABLE MINISTER,—I have the honour to inform you that I was employed as inspector at the Graving Dock, Lévis, and performed the duties incumbent on me with satisfaction. I never received any compensation from Larkin, Connolly & Co. for any injustice done during my term of engagement. I acted as foreman to Larkin, Connolly & Co., both by day and night, with instructions from Woodford Pilkington and J. E. Boyd, Resident Engineers. I culled and measured timber for them, &c. In addition to seeing the work properly done, not a man on the works wrought harder than what I have done, and at all times first on the work and last to leave it. Please receive enclosed an affidavit. I defy anybody in justice to prove to the contrary.

" I have the honour to be, Honourable Minister,

" Your obedient servant,

" E. J. MILNE."

The following is the affidavit which accompanied the letter :

" I, E. J. Milne, do solemnly swear that I was employed by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners as Inspector at the Quebec Graving Dock, Lévis, and never received any compensation for injustice done, at all times working and looking out for the interest of the Commission.

" E. J. MILNE."

Sworn before me at St. Joseph, Lévis, this 22nd day of July, 1891.

(Signature illegible.)

Mr. CLEMENT VINCELETTE sworn.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Look at this document and tell me if this receipt is in your handwriting?—
A. The signature is correct.

Q. What position did you occupy on the 22nd of September, 1883?—A. The same as now—at Beauport Asylum.

Q. Had you anything to do with the Quebec Harbour Works?—A. Nothing at all.

Q. Had you anybody connected with you?—A. No; not that I know of.

Q. We find three documents together, endorsed "Inspectors' receipts on the Quebec Harbour Improvements and Quebec Graving Dock." You had nothing to do with that?—A. Never a cent. These amounts were received by me.

Q. For the purpose as stated?—A. For the purpose as stated in that.

MR. OSLER.—It reads "Received from Mr. Murphy two hundred dollars for a Catholic enterprise. The same gentleman gave me the sum of three hundred dollars for the same object last winter."

(Exhibit "Z12.")

"QUEBEC, September 22nd, 1883."

And it is signed "C. Vincelette." The importance of this is, that it is found with two other papers endorsed "Inspectors' receipts."

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. What was the purpose for which the money was received?—A. It is stated here.

Q. But that is very indefinite?—A. I know I received the money and I asked for it.

Q. What was the purpose for which it was received?—A. It is stated there.

By Mr. Ouimet:

Q. Was the money from the moneys of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. as tribute on account of the receipt of their contracts?—A. There was nothing spoken of the kind.

By Mr. Osler:

Q. Was it connected with the works?—A. I asked the money and I got it. It was given to me because those who gave it to me knew I would not spend it for my own purposes.

Q. How did you come to apply to Mr. Murphy for it?—A. I was introduced to Mr. Murphy by a common friend—perhaps two, I am not sure; but I am sure by one. I met Mr. Murphy several times and asked him for money, and told him the purposes I wanted it for, and he gave it.

By the Chairman:

Q. What purposes?—A. Part of it was for the Catholic Circle and the other part for good books—for the "Propagation des bons livres." It was for religious purposes.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Whom did you hand the money over to?—A. It would be hard for me to tell you, because it was handed to different persons.

Q. Who were they?—A. It is not the only money I received that way. I received since sixteen years over $12,000 that way. I never asked for a receipt by anyone, and gave the money to those whom I thought ought to have it.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. Who were they?—A. If you oblige me to give you a list, it would be a long list.

Q. Give the names you remember. Was there any for newspapers?—A. There was something given, but newspapers that were not political.

Q. What newspapers?—A. La Vérité for one.

Q. How much was given?—A. I cannot say exactly.

Q. Have you any recollection?—A. I gave it at different times, and cannot recollect the amount

Q. Can't you recollect the amount?—A. In these five or six or seven years when I have almost always some money on hand for charitable purposes, as I call them, it was impossible for me, having kept no books. I know I did not keep a cent of these moneys.

Q. How much did you give to La Verité?—A. Even if you were to kill me at this time I could not tell you.

Q. Was it about $100?—A. Yes; a few hundred dollars.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Was it not $5,000 out of the $12,000 collected?—A. No, I beg your pardon. A few hundred dollars—I cannot tell exactly.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY'S examination resumed.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. At the adjournment I was examining you as to the contract for the Esquimalt Dock. After the contract was granted to Larkin, Connolly & Co., do you know whether any changes were suggested in the works by the contractors?—A. Several changes were suggested from time to time.

Q. Had you anything to do with the attempt to obtain these changes at the proper headquarters?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you look at a letter (Exhibit "N 7") printed at page 191 of the Evidence signed by Michael Connolly, and addressed to "Friend Owen," Mr. Murphy, and say whether you had communication of that letter some time after it was written, and I refer you especially to the last paragraph, beginning with the words, "Nick at first was very anxious to have the stone changed to granite, but I hope no such change will be made, for the granite here is terribly hard, and the quarry about 180 miles distant. If possible, get them to extend the dock 150 feet, and do away with the double entrance, put in a circular head, the same as at Levis, and let sandstone go in as it is. Be sure and do what you can for this matter. Dispensing with the double entrance head is very important, as it is very difficult work." Had you communication of that letter some time after it was written?—A. I think so. My impression now is, I had communication of all letters that came from there respecting changes.

Q. And under that impression, I suppose you are satisfied that you had cognizance of that letter, the same as others?—A. Yes.

Q. Now will you look at page 190, and say whether the letter marked Exhibit "L7" was written by you?—A. This letter, dated Ottawa, 24th February, is a letter written by me to Mr. Murphy.

Q. Would it be in the same year as the previous letter that you read, dated 8th February, 1885?—A. Yes. I should judge it would be 1885 by the subject that it treats of.

Q. You remember having written that letter to Mr. Murphy?—A. I do.

Q. In that letter you say: "The second entrance has been done away with, and circular head substituted at an increase of $35,000." Would this second entrance and the circular head referred to be the same as the changes suggested by N. Connolly in his letter of 8th February, 1885?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, will you explain how, on the 24th February, you became aware that this second entrance had been done away with?—A. I had communication with those, and I knew they could carry it into effect, or I thought they could.

Q. Who were they?—A. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Alone, or anybody else?—A. That is all I had direct communication with.

Q. I see this letter of the 24th February is written from Ottawa. Had you been long in Ottawa when you wrote that letter?—A. Well, I could not say; I only remained for two or three days at a time.

Q. Do you know whether this information that was given to you by your brother Thomas was given to you at Ottawa or somewhere else?—A. Well, I gather from this it was given to me while I was in Ottawa.

Q. But you have no immediate recollection. What you say now would be only from reading these letters?—A. That is all.

Q. You also say that the circular head had been substituted at an increase of $35,000. What was the source of that information?—A. The same as I have just mentioned.

Q. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. You state further, "the granite substitution was just about being sent to Council, but happily my letter came in time to put it back to sandstone, where it is now; high courses and beds will be put—the additional length will be hereafter settled." Do you remember to what letter you referred?—A. It must have been a letter I wrote up to Ottawa.

Q. Before going there?—A. Before going there, asking that the granite be not adopted but that the sandstone be adopted.

Q. Have you any present recollection, or do you state that it is only from the reading of the two letters you have just been shown?—A. There is an impression on my mind, and what I read now has strengthened it.

Q. Are you satisfied you wrote the truth when you stated you had written a letter?—A. Certainly.

Q. And although you cannot remember exactly the contents of the letter, you are satisfied you wrote it. To whom would the letter have been written?—A. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Were you also informed by your brother Thomas that your letter had come in time?—A. Yes.

Q. When you came to Ottawa?—A. Yes; I had no other source of intimation. I had no communication with the Department, or with the Minister, or with any of the officers.

Q. Whenever you had a communication with the Department, or the officers, you would do it through your brother Thomas?—A. Certainly.

Q. You say, "I think this is what you want, but it was a close shave." Will you explain to the Committee by what you mean by a "close shave," and what information you had to make that statement?—A. I learned my endeavours to get the granite adopted had been put in a report and recommended to the Minister.

Q. Of Public Works?—A. Yes; and that it had almost reached Council for its adoption, when my letter came up, and turned it back to sandstone.

Q. But, as your letter was not to the Minister, who could stop the report from being put before Council?—A. I cannot say; I could not draw any conclusion.

Q. Well, had you any conversation with your brother as to that?—A. I said I had.

Q. Did your brother say what he did when he received your letter?—A. He told me it was just about being passed for granite.

Q. But did he say that, having received your letter, he did something?—A. Certainly.

Q. Did he state to you whom he saw?—A. Well, he did not.

Q. You cannot answer my question?—A. No; I cannot.

Q. You have just stated that your mode of immediate communication with the Department of Public Works whenever you had something to do for Larkin, Connolly & Co. was your brother, Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know where his residence was when he was in Ottawa?—A. I do.

Q. Where was it?—A. He resided at that time with Sir Hector Langevin.

Q. How many years has he resided with Sir Hector in Ottawa?—A. Several years.

Q. Was he living with him in 1883?—A. Yes.

Q. I will go back further. Was he living with him in 1882—the time of the first contract?—A. I think so. I am not quite sure about 1882. I am quite certain about 1883.

Q. Up to when did he live with Sir Hector Langevin in Ottawa?—A. As far as my knowledge went, up to about the early part of 1888-89.

Q. Do you know whether the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. had to make any disbursements in connection with the obtaining of the contract for the Esquimalt Dock, independently of legitimate expenses?—A. Yes; there were several sums charged. I mentioned one here this morning.

Q. You mentioned a payment you made yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. How much was it?—A. It was not myself; it was a note I got from Murphy.

Q. Did you make any irregular payments yourself in connection with the Esquimalt contract, or the changes and alterations in the contract, during the execution of it?—A. Do you mean, in addition to what I have stated this morning?

Q. This morning you mentioned an amount. I want to know whether you paid anything in addition to what you paid this morning?—A. Yes; I paid other sums of money.

Q. Can you name the amounts from memory, or would you have to refer to the books?—A. I would have to refer to the sheets—the statements.

Q. I now hand you Exhibit "E7," printed at page 174 of the Evidence. Is that statement correct?—A. This is not correct. It may be correct, as far as it goes, but it is not an entirely correct statement of the payment on account of the Esquimalt Dock. There are previous payments that I see are not entered here.

Q. If you can give any particulars to the Committee do it?—A. As far as my recollection carries me, I gave $5,000 on the 25th January, 1887.

Q. To whom did you give that amount?—A. I gave it to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. From whom did you receive the $5,000?—A. The time I had it, it was my own money, but I got reimbursed for it by the firm in the month of March or April.

Q. In January, 1887, when you paid it, it was your own money?—A. Yes.

Q. It was charged to you and repaid by the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. How was it that the amount was reimbursed to you after having been charged in the books?—A. It was charged in that item of $17,000.

Q. Was it charged to "suspense" or "expense"?—A. To "expense" account, B. C. Dock.

Q. I understand you that it formed part of the item of $17,000?—A. Yes; of March, 1887.

By the Chairman :

Q. You state that you paid $5,000 to your brother in January 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. For whose benefit was it paid?—A. For his own.

Q. You are satisfied as to that?—A. Yes.

Q. It was for no one else?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. It was for no political object?—A. Not that I know of.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. It was not asked for any political object?—A. No.

Q. Nor declared to be for any political object after it was received by him?—A. No.

Q. Are there any other payments which you can remember as having been made by yourself in connection with that contract?—A. There was $3,000 or $4,000 in promissory notes in 1885—Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s notes.

Q. Given to whom?—A. To Thomas McGreevy by me.

Q. The notes were made by the firm, handed to you and delivered to Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Were the notes afterwards paid by the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. And charged to what account—to your personal account, or what?—A. No; charged to "suspense" or "expense."

By the Chairman :

Q. Was that also for his own use?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You have referred to an item of $17,000, in Exhibit "E7" under date March, 1887, charged to Esquimalt Dock. Can you explain to the Committee what would be the balance of that item, independently of the $5,000 which you recognize as having been paid by you?—A. That item consists of $10,000 that Nicholas Connolly said he paid to Sir Hector Langevin; and that $5,000 I am after speaking of, and $2,000 that was disbursed by Mr. Murphy in connection with Mr. Perley.

Q. About the jewellery?—A. Yes. That made up the $17,000.

Q. Have you any special reason to remember that item of $10,000 which you say Nicholas Connolly pretended to have paid to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. The circumstances are these: In the spring of 1887 Mr. Murphy, in speaking to me, said: "Connolly has paid away $10,000." I was very much surprised at the statement, because we were just after disposing of $27,000 for the elections, and he said: "Well such is the case. You had better see him." I went and seen him—

Q. Saw whom?—A. Nick Connolly. He told me he had to give it; it was very important. I remonstrated with him a good deal, and I showed Mr. Murphy that the large amount of money that we were just after expending was sufficient—in fact, it was promised that there should be no more. He said he could not help it; that Sir Hector must have the money. He mentioned Laforce Langevin's name in connection with it, and wrote a letter to Laforce, by which he got the money. After some talking—I did not care for having any disturbance among the members of the firm—I said: "Well I will pay my share if you charge it to British Columbia, but not if it is charged to Quebec Harbour works, and it was decided that it should be charged to British Columbia Dock.

Q. Had it been charged when you discovered it?—A. I do not think it had been charged to anything. I think it had been charged to his own account in the meantime.

Q. Will you explain the reason why, for peace sake, you asked that it be charged to British Columbia instead of Quebec Harbour Improvements?—A. It would give less payment for me.

Q. You explained that your interest in the British Columbia Dock was only 20 per cent.?—A. Yes; it would have been a difference of a matter of $1,000 to me. By charging it to British Columbia it would have been $2,000, and Quebec Harbour it would have been $3,000.

Q. Did the other partners agree to charge the amount to British Columbia?—A. I do not know what he did with the other partners.

Q. As a matter of fact, was the amount charged to British Columbia?—A. Yes.

Q. And at the audit it remained charged to British Columbia?—A. Yes.

Q. And, as a matter of fact, you only paid 20 per cent. of that $10,000?—A. Yes.

Q. When you were asking explanations about that payment of $10,000 from Nicholas Connolly, do you know whether the book-keeper had anything to say, or was he called upon to give explanations?—A. He referred me to the book-keeper for further details.

Q. Did you go?—A. I went and saw Mr. Martin Connolly, and I understood from him substantially what Nicholas Connolly told me. I gathered from his conversation, or explanation rather, that he knew that the money went in the direction of Three Rivers. He mentioned Laforce's name. He gave me to understand that the money had went as it was stated.

Q. Did Martin P. Connolly contradict any of the statements made to you by Nicholas Connolly?—A. No.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Did Martin tell you who told him?—A. Yes; he said it was Nicholas Connolly who told him. I gathered from him that he had sufficient knowledge to know where it went.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Where did you have this conversation with Nicholas Connolly?—A. I had it in the office in Lower Town—the office of the firm.

Q. Did you commence the conversation yourself?—A. I did.

Q. You told him you wanted to know about this appropriation?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you recollect whether he said he paid the money to Laforce, or Sir Hector Langevin himself?—A. It was rather a mixed up statement, but I gathered that he said he was obliged to give it, and that Laforce came either with a message or a letter from Sir Hector, and he gave the money.

Q. You derived from Nicholas' statement to you that he had paid the money into Laforce Langevin's hands, either on a verbal message or a letter?—A. Yes.

Q. And not personally into the hands of Sir Hector?—A. Not personally into his hands.

By the Chairman :

Q. That is a portion of the $17,000?—A. It is part of the $17,000.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. How did you come to have that conversation with Mr. Connolly?—A. Mr. Murphy had told me there was such a payment. I said in the beginning of this explanation that Mr. Murphy first mentioned to me that Mr. Connolly told him that this $10,000 had been paid; and after some talk he said: "Go to Nicholas and he will explain it."

Q. How long after that did you have the conversation with Martin Connolly?—A. The whole would happen in the same day, I think.

Q. Do you know?—A. My impression is, I seen the three of them either that day or the next.

Q. Is that your memory?—A. That is all. I cannot fix the hour.

Q. Do you know whether, after seeing Murphy, you saw Nicholas Connolly, and then on the same day you saw Martin?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you sure of that?—A. That day or the next. Perhaps if my business would call me somewhere, I would go and use that day, but the next I attended to it.

Q. Can you remember what occurred?—A. I do not. Nothing further than that.

Q. Do you or do you not remember?—A. I do not.

By Mr. Wood (Brockville) :

Q. Do you remember which one of the three told you it was Laforce Langevin who got that money?—A. Nicholas Connolly told me.

Q. Have you any doubt about that?—A. None at all.

Q. Do you remember whether he said it was Laforce Langevin or Sir Hector?

—A. I did not gather it was Sir Hector himself. I am quite sure about that.

Q. Are you quite positive he said Laforce Langevin got the money?—A. He said so.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. The whole or part of it?—A. I would not say about that. I know that he mentioned Laforce Langevin's name in connection with getting the money; but whether it was part or the whole I do not know.

By Mr. Wood (Brockville) :

Q. How long had the money been paid at this time?—A. I think about a month or so.

Q. Murphy first told you of it?—A. Yes.

Q. Where were you when Murphy first told you of that? Where were you and Murphy at that time?—A. It was in the office in Dalhousie street.

Q. Sure of that?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. Murphy finding fault with the payment? How did he come to tell about that payment?—A. I do not know how he came to mention it, but he mentioned it.

Q. In what connection did he mention it?—A. As many other things are mentioned.

Q. This is a pretty important thing. You were a pretty active member of the firm?—A. Active in some things.

Q. What do you mean by active in some things? Had you any portion of the work assigned you to overlook?—A. No.

Q. Were you busy every day in connection with the business of the firm?—A. No; not busy.

Q. Had you supervision of any part of the works?—A. No; I was supposed not to be seen near the works.

Q. Were you, as a matter of fact, about the works?—A. Yes; I went on the works occasionally, looking.

By the Chairman :

Q. Why were you not to be seen on the works?—A. I was told that it did not look well.

Q. About the $10,000: did you lead the Committee to understand that it all went to Three Rivers?—A. I did; I think so. I let the Committee know every word that I knew about it. I have no knowledge that it went.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. Was it not through the accident of a letter addressed to O. E. Murphy and given to Owen Murphy that it was discovered you had any connection with these works?—A. It may have been.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You did not make it public?—A. No; I did not.

Q. You kept secret about it?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. What services did you render to the firm?—A. I done a good deal in the shape of negotiating.

Q. You did not supply any of the capital?—A. No; I did not.

Q. They say you did not do any of the work?—A. I was probably what you might call a figure head.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You wrote letters?—A. Yes; some letters.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you let Sir Hector Langevin know you were a partner?—A. Upon the Harbour Works? I never mentioned it to Sir Hector.

Q. Any of these contracts?—A. I never had any talk with him. The only exception is what I mentioned to-day, on seeing him in Ottawa about the Graving Dock.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You did not negotiate directly with Sir Hector?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. There is something in the books of the firm in connection with the distribution of an amount in round figures of $31,000, and a statement was filed yesterday in the handwriting of Martin P. Connolly, giving the particulars of that division. Do you remember the circumstance when this money was distributed?—A. I do—in March, 1888.

Q. Will you now refer to Exhibit "I12," and give to the Committee the explanations you can in connection with, first, as to the part of the document which is in the handwriting of Martin P. Connolly; and second, the part of the document which is in their own handwriting?—A. That part of the document, that is in Martin P. Connolly, the bookkeeper's handwriting is this:—"Balanced due from Quebec Harbour improvements, $3,868.51."—this is the B. C. account, you know—"less expenses, $267.35, leaving a balance of $3,601.16. Due by Patrick Larkin, $1,300. Due by Mr. R. H. McGreevy, $2,000,"—that is for the stone I bought—"cheque from the Department, $31,077.89, making a total of $37,979.05 to be distributed between five, making $7,595.81 for each member of the firm." Now, my pencil memorandum in the corner of that, taken the day it was erased, is this, "I received a cheque for $5,195.81." The stone that was charged to me was two thousand. That made $7,981.75, leaving $400 there to make up $2,000 for a purpose.

Q. Do I understand from you that the other partners also left out of the cheque money to the smaller amount of $400?—A. Each of them left $400.

Q. So there was an amount left undivided of $2,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know what became of that sum of $2,000 which was left undivided?—A. I don't know what became of it, but an explanation came after from Mr. Michael Connolly.

Q. What was the understanding when it was so left aside by the five partners?

—A. It was understood that it was to be a donation to Mr. Perley.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you so understand it yourself?—A. I did, as it was explained by Mr. Connolly.

Q. You understood it before the money was offered to Mr. Perley?—A. Yes; it was left there for that purpose.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. It was left there for that purpose at the time of the division, and at the request of whom?—A. The Mr. Connollys and Mr. Murphy were the three that spoke of it.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Which Mr. Perley?—A. The Chief Engineer.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Did you hear subsequently of this $2,000?—A. There was a report came from Mr. Michael Connolly, after he had been to Ottawa to tender this money to Mr. Perley, that he could not see him, but that he had given it to his son.

Q. That is all you know about this $2,000?—A. That is all I know about them.

Q. Do you know whether the amount was charged in the books?—A. I never seen it since it was charged in the books.

By the Chairman :

Q. That is not the sum of $2,000 which Mr. Perley has referred to in his testimony; that is another $2,000?—A. Yes; paid eleven or twelve months afterwards.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you look at the document now shown to you (Exhibit "A13"), purporting to be a sale by the other partners of stones and plant to you, and say if it is the sale for which you were charged the $2,000?—A. That is the stone and plant I paid for.

Q. And what is the date of the document?—A. 1st March, 1888.

Q. Do you know that son of Mr. Perley's?—A. No.

Q. You don't know where he is?—A. I don't know him at all.

Q. Do you know whether he is connected with any of the Public Departments?
—A. I do not.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I want to understand about that $10,000. You had some conversation with Nicholas Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. Do I understand you to say that you understood from Nicholas Connolly that a part of the money was paid to Laforce, or that the whole of the $10,000 was paid to Laforce?—A. Well, I could not say that.

Q. You could not say?—A. No.

Q. Do you swear Nicholas Connolly told you that either part or the whole of it was paid?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you seen at that time any entry in the books that $10,000 had been paid out by the firm?—A. I had not.

Q. Did you afterwards see any entry in the books?—A. It was entered after it was agreed to.

Q. At the time it was entered, or afterwards, had you resumed or renewed the conversation with Nicholas Connolly?—A. As far as I was concerned, it was the end of it.

Q. And the item was charged in the books to expenses ; that is what you heard from Nicholas?—A. Yes.

Q. And the book-keeper?—A. Yes.

Q. How long afterwards was it charged in the books?—A. Almost immediately.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Do you say it was paid to Laforce, or for Sir Hector?—A. Well, I understood him to say it was paid to Laforce for Sir Hector.

Q. Did he say what it was required for?—A. I do not know that he mentioned what it was for, but he said it was important that he must have it. I think it was election time.

By the Chairman :

Q. You sent it to Three Rivers?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Did Mr. Connolly mention elections when he stated this?—A. He did not, but I understood it was for the elections.

Q. What elections?—A. The elections of 1887.

Q. Any particular candidates?—A. I think it would be for Sir Hector's own election.

Q. In what constituency was he a candidate then?—Three Rivers.

Mr. Wood (Brockville) :

Q. What date was this?—A. February, 1887.

By the Chairman :

Q. What was the date of the payment?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. Nicholas Connolly told you this?—Yes.

Q. Whereabouts did he tell you?—A. I either seen him on the works or in the office. I went to look for him after I had the conversation with Mr. Murphy.

Q. You had had a conversation previously with Mr. Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. About this matter?—A. Yes.

Q. Then you went to look for Mr. Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know where you found him?—A. I do not know exactly. It was either in the office or on the work.

Q. You do not know which?—A. I do not.

Q. Then you asked him about it?—A. Yes; I got the explanation that I have already given.

Q. You do not state at what time you saw him?—A. I could not state what time it was.

Q. Was it before or after the elections?—A. It was after. I said, I think, it was several weeks after.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. When was the payment made?—A. About the time of the elections or previous to it.

By the Chairman:

Q. Do you know if it was for the election of Three Rivers or the District of Three Rivers?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. Did you hear anything in connection with the Engineer, Bennett, on the works at British Columbia?—A. Yes; I heard a good deal of complaint from British Columbia respecting Bennett, the Engineer.

Q. How did you hear of those complaints and how did they reach you?—A. They reached me generally through letters addressed to Mr. Murphy.

Q. Do you know whether some attempts were made to have this party, Bennett, replaced?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you read a letter addressed to you on the 2nd of May, 1885 (Exhibit "G2"), and printed at pages 18 and 19 of the printed evidence, and say whether it is in reference to this man Bennett?—A. Yes. "It is now understood that Bennett, the Engineer at British Columbia, will not suit, so the Minister and Perley are prepared to change him. He asked me if I could recommend one. Could you think of one that could suit, and I would have the Minister appoint him."

Q. This is the letter that you received from your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. Was this letter written to you without any previous communication with your brother, or whether you had had any communication authorizing such a letter from him?—A. I had communicated with him verbally and in writing, I think, respecting complaints that were made against Mr. Bennett.

Q. Will you also read another letter, dated the 4th of May following (Exhibit H2") printed on page 19 of the printed Evidence?—A. "Perley went to see Page this morning to try and get another engineer to send out at once and dismiss Bennett. He that goes out will get his instructions before going out."

Q. Did you communicate this information which you had from your brother to the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. that were in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether anything was done in the way of finding another man to replace this Mr. Bennett?—A. I recommended one; I recommended George Benson Williams.

Q. To whom did you recommend this party?—A. I recommended him to my brother, Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Did you recommend Mr. Williams by letter or verbally?—A. I probably did it both ways.

Q. Anyhow, you are satisfied you recommended Mr. Williams?—A. Certainly.

Q. Had you seen Mr. Williams yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you any personal knowledge whether Williams was seen by your brother?—A. No. I have no personal knowledge, only what I heard.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. What did you want to get rid of Bennett for?—A. I could not tell you; only what was written from British Columbia.

Q. The only information you had was from what you got from Murphy?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. I find in Exhibit "B5," page 105 of the Evidence, two items charged on the 3rd and 8th of August, 1887, of $1,000, and $4,000 as "donations." Have you any knowledge of what those donations were for?—A. I have no personal knowledge, only the representations of the members of the firm, who said they paid them and made the charge and I accepted the statement. I shouldered my share.

Q. What representation had you?—A. That would be the representation (referring to Exhibit "B 5"). The $1,000 was paid by Mr. Murphy and the $4,000 was paid by Nicholas Connolly.

Q. When you say "was paid" you mean was reported by them to have been paid?—A. Yes.

Q. To whom did they represent as having paid the amounts?—A. Thomas McGreevy.

By the Chairman :

Q. Were these $4,000 and $1,000 paid to Mr. McGreevy for his own use?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Will you look at the item under date of 31st December, 1888, $3,000, N.K.C. in Exhibit "B5," and say what you know about that charge?—A. Coming on to the latter end of December, 1888, Thomas McGreevy asked me to get $3,000, for Le Courrier du Canada, in order that Brousseau's interest might be bought out; and I went to Mr. Murphy and Mr. Connolly. I think I saw both the Connollys at the interview, and I represented to them what was required, at the same time mentioning that if it was done I wished it to be charged to British Columbia.

Q. After you went to the firm, what was done?—A. On the 2nd of January I had occasion to see Mr. Michael Connolly, and he told me that the $3,000 had been given to Mr. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. But you do not know personally whether the amount was given to Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I do not know.

Q. Except that Mr. Thomas McGreevy applied to you for the money?—A. Yes.

Q. It is charged on the 31st December, 1888.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. The proposition was to buy Mr. Brousseau's interest in Le Courrier du Canada?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if the money was applied to that purpose?—A. I do not.

Q. Do you know for what purpose it was applied?—A. No.

Q. In no way?—A. No.

Q. Was there not an election going on at that time?—A. Not to my knowledge. There was no election going on at that time.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you know, as a matter of fact, that Le Courrier changed hands some time after that?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. All you know is that the money was asked from you by Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. All I know I have already stated.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Who is the manager of Le Courrier du Canada?—A. Mr. Chapais.

Q. Is he any relation of Sir Hector Langevin?—A. Son-in-law I believe.

By the Chairman :

Q. What party did that paper support before that time?—A. At that time it supported the Conservative party.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Had you any conversation with Mr. Brousseau or Mr. Chapais about this matter?—A. No.

Q. Neither before nor since?—A. No.

Q. Had you any conversation with your brother about how that money was disposed of?—A. No; because the relations between myself and my brother a very few days after that broke.

Q. What time was that?—A. That was given on the 31st December, 1888.

Q. Was there not an election going on in Megantic County at that time?—A. There may have been.

Q. Try and remember. Was it not at that very time that Col. Rhodes was elected for Megantic for the Local House?—A. I do not know it as a fact.

Q. Do you remember that that election took place?—A. I do.

Q. Did you take any part in that election?—A. No.

Q. Did your brother take any part in that election?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Wood (Brockville) :

Q. Did you ever hear of that election, and $3,000 in connection with the same thing?—A. I heard that it possibly went to the Megantic election.

Q. Who told you?—A. I do not know that I heard it from anybody. It was general talk.

Q. Where?—A. Amongst those that generally interfere in these matters.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Who are those you mean now?—A. I mean these corner conversations.

Q. It was general talk in the city of Quebec that that money, instead of going to Le Courrier du Canada, had actually gone for the election of Col. Rhodes, who was then running as Minister in the Government of Mr. Mercier?—A. It was.

Q. Did you undertake to ascertain from Mr. Brousseau or Mr. Chapais if it was used for Le Courrier du Canada?—A. No; I did not.

By the Chairman :

Q. What party did Mr. Thomas McGreevy support in local politics in 1888?—A. It would be very hard for me to answer.

Q. There has been something mentioned about Megantic. Was it possible for Mr. Thomas McGreevy to support Col. Rhodes in Megantic?—A. It is possible for anything.

Q. What party was he supporting in the Local House at that time? Do you know?—A. I cannot say. It depended a good deal on circumstances.

Q. Can you tell about that time what party he was supporting in Quebec?—A. I think his sympathies were with Col. Rhodes as a personal friend; but I do not think he mixed much in the local elections.

Q. In the local elections or the Federal elections?—A. In that particular election.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Do you not know he had particular sympathies with Mr. Mercier at the time, too?—A. 1888?

Q. Since 1886, after the change of Government?—A. Oh, I don't know.

Q. Had you not some interest, you and your brother, in supporting the Mercier Government at the time?—A. I had none.

Q. Had your brother?—A. Yes; he had a claim against them.

Q. Did you understand it was on account of that claim his sympathies were with the Mercier Government?—A. No, I did not.

Q. When you referred to these talks at the corner of a street in Quebec, at the time these $3,000 were given away, was it not mentioned at the time that the reason why the $3,000 were given away on behalf of Col. Rhodes' election was just on account of that interest your brother had in favouring the Government of Mr. Mercier?—A. Well, I could not say that it was.

Q. Did you not act at the time as the business agent of your brother or as partner?—A. At that time I did.

Q. Well, you ought to know then?—A. I did not act as political agent. I don't know what he was; he kept that to himself.

Q. Did he not tell you at times to do certain things to favour Mr. Mercier's Government?—A. Not at that time.

By the Chairman :

Q. At what time did he tell you so?—A. I don't know that he had ever told me to do it.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Is it to your knowledge that some of the moneys you took from the firm in 1886 went to Mr. Mercier?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Did you give any money to your brother in 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. During the local elections?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he tell you what it was for?—A. Yes.

Q. What was it for?—A. It was to support the Conservatives.

Q. Which Conservatives?—A. There was Felix Carbray in the West and, as far as I knew, the other—Casgrain in the county, I believe.

Q. When did he change sides?—A. Well, he supported the Conservative party in the local elections in 1886.

Q. Then when did he change from one side to the other?—A. The first perceptible change I see, was in the elections of Owen Murphy in 1889.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. He ran against whom—who was the candidate against Owen Murphy?—A. I was.

Q. Then your brother opposed you?—A. Well, I don't know. He supported Owen Murphy.

Q. And were you the Liberal or the Conservative candidate?—A. I was the Conservative candidate.

By the Chairman :

Q. Was that the first time he sided with the Liberal party in Quebec openly?—A. Openly I think it was.

Q. Was it the last?—A. Oh, I don't know.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you look at a letter now handed to you, and say in whose handwriting it is, and by whom it was written?—A. This is a letter signed by Thomas McGreevy, and dated 8th March, 1888, reading

“(Second letter to-day.)

(Exhibit “B13.”)

“HOUSE OF COMMONS, CANADA,
“8th March, 1888.

“MY DEAR ROBERT,—Tell Murphy I have seen Perley, and he will report to arbitrators or to commission of the amount to be submitted to them, which will be on their total claim of $814,000; at the last meeting they wanted to make it out that the amount to be submitted was the balance of $110,000 for damages; that would be about $80,000, instead of $274,000, so that matter is settled. I seen Lavalle this morning; he has gone off satisfied. Foley and Leonard are here on business; I have seen them and trying to do what I can for them, I will get all the information on the Sault Canal before long. The Connollys have not come yet.

“Yours truly,
“THOMAS.”

Q. Now, was there anything done in connection with the matters that are referred to in the first part of the letter just read?—A. Well, not being interested in that work, what I would say would be nothing. What I would gather from the information that I was to convey, they wanted a statement of their claim, and it was proposed to have an arbitration. There was a deal of correspondence and interviews respecting who the arbitrators were to be, and when it was all finished Mr. Perley took up the settlement in his own hands, and the proposed arbitration was knocked on the head. That related to what was to be submitted to the arbitrators at the time.

Q. At page 20 of the Evidence there is a letter addressed to you by your brother in the following words: “11th March, 1886—MY DEAR ROBERT,—I enclose the amount of estimates for December and January. The January one includes the new system of measurement. The advance $20,000, on drawback, has been passed, and will be sent at once to British Columbia. The amount of estimate for February has not been telegraphed yet. I will let you know when it comes.” Had you anything to do with that advance on the drawback which was made to Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. That would be British Columbia, likely. I took a hand in all the favours, changes, extras and everything that was required. I took some part in them.

Q. Will you look at the letter which purports to have been written by you to Mr. Murphy, and say whether it is yours.

“LARKIN, CONNOLLY & Co.,
(Exhibit “C13.”) “CONTRACTORS, QUEBEC HARBOUR IMPROVEMENTS, “THURSDAY, 22nd January.

“O. E. MURPHY, Esq.

“MY DEAR SIR,—Sir Hector Langevin has not come down. My brother wired early to day to have Perley send down report at once re drawback, and I expect it will be down to-morrow or Saturday. I leave to-night for Ottawa to return Sunday morning. If the bridge is good enough, come and see me Sunday. Hope you are over your indisposition of yesterday. I have given letters to three men for employment specially recommended by my brother. If you have no room, perhaps you may have room Monday by some less deserving of our recommends at the early stage of the work.

“I have a letter from my son James who went with Michael Connolly, going to Victoria. They have arrived O. K. in good health and spirits—not rye. I expect another letter with details Saturday.

“I remain,
“Yours &c.
“ROB. H. MCGREEVY.”

“P. S.—7 p. m.—Telegram just received from Sir H. L. that Perley’s Report had left for Quebec.

“R. H. MCG.”

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Whose letter is that?—A. This is my letter to Murphy.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. What would be the year by the matters referred to there?—A. 1886. No—from the subject of the letter I should say it was 1885.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. To what work then would it reply?—A. It says here, "I have a letter from my son James who went with Michael Connolly going to Victoria." They left in December, 1884. This must have been written in January, 1885.

By the Chairman :

Q. "Telegram just received from Sir H. L." Did you see that telegram?—A. No.

Q. How did you get the information?—A. When I say I did not see it I made a mistake.

Q. Was it a telegram to you?—A. No, it was a telegram to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Did you see the telegram?—A. Yes; my brother showed it to me.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Do you remember the circumstances under which the tenders for the South-wall were put in?—A. I had something to do with the making of the tenders for the South-wall.

Q. Were the tenders in the name of Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. No.

Q. In whose name were they?—A. It was agreed at the suggestion of the Connollys that Larkin should be left out of the work for the South-wall, and Gallagher and Murphy should tender for it, so as to divide it into four; at 25 per cent. each.

Q. But there were two tenders put in?—A. Yes.

Q. One of them was the same Gallagher whom you have previously mentioned?—A. Yes.

Q. And the other was in the name of Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember whether there were other tenderers?—A. There was another, I think—McCarron and Cameron's, and perhaps someone else.

Q. Were you to have an interest in that contract, although the tenders were put in the names of Gallagher and Murphy?—A. Yes; I was to have 25 per cent.

Q. As a matter of fact, later on you had 25 per cent?—A. I do not think I got anything out of it at all.

Q. Do you remember where the tenders were opened?—A. They were opened in Quebec, in the Harbour Commissioners' office.

Q. Did you see them whilst they were under examination or under calculation by the Engineer—whilst they were handed to him or under his care for that purpose?—A. Yes; I saw them.

Q. Explain how you had communication of them during that time?—A. I saw them in Thomas McGreevy's house on the day they were opened.

Q. Were the extensions by the Engineer completed?—A. No; there was nothing done to them. They were only referred to the Engineer.

Q. You say you saw them at your brother Thomas' house?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you alone there with your brother?—A. No; Mr. Murphy was with me.

Q. Did you only see them or had you access to the tenders?—A. Oh, I examined them.

Q. Do you know whether Murphy also had occasion to examine them?—A. Yes; he looked at them.

Q. Were they all the tenders that had been put in?—A. They were all that had been submitted.

Q. How long did you remain in possession of them or how long were those tenders in the house of your brother subject to your examination?—A. Oh, about an hour or so.

Q. Were they returned to the Engineer the same evening?—A. So I understood.

Q. Do you know who took them back to the Engineer?—A. I think it was my son Charles.

Q. Who was the Engineer to whom they had been referred?—A. Mr. Perley.

Q. You say you saw them at your brother's house. When you came to your brother's house were they there?—A. Yes.

Q. You do not know how those tenders happened to be in the private house of your brother that evening?—A. No.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. How many tenders were there?—A. Three or four.

Q. Do you remember whose they were?—A. Gallagher's, Murphy's and McCarron & Cameron's.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Those are the three you remember, anyhow?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Did you examine them for the purpose of ascertaining which was the highest and which was the lowest?—A. I took a memorandum from them.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you look at this letter, which appears to have been written by you and addressed to Mr. Murphy, and read it?—A. It is written by me to Mr. Murphy, and reads as follows :

(Exhibit "D13.")

"RUSSELL HOUSE, OTTAWA, 22nd December, 1886.

"MY DEAR MR. MURPHY,—I had expected to have seen you last night at train to give you copy of the extension of the three tenders. It was 9.40 before we got through with them or I would have left you a copy. I now enclose it. You will see that Gallagher is the lowest, no matter what interpretation is put on McC. & C.'s. Of course, they should not be asked to explain at all, but if the parties in power decide to do so, I would say do it at once, before asking Gallagher, and then we will see. Yours is a decent tender, and no doubt you would be prepared to do something, while on Gallagher's nothing can be done. I hope Perley won't do anything towards writing them until he comes up here. I tell you we have had a close shave on Gallagher, and if you are obliged to accept it, it will be hard work to make ends meet. I will be home Friday morning." There is nothing after that.

Q. Do you say that you sent to Mr. Murphy a copy of the extension of the three tenders?—A. Yes.

Q. How did you prepare those copies?—A. I made copies from the notes I took of the tenders.

Q. Who gave you access to the tenders?—A. Just as I have mentioned.

Q. You mean you saw them at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. The extension was made in Ottawa?—A. No; it was made before I left. The night I left it was made.

Q. In Quebec?—A. Yes; and I told him only for it being so late I would have sent him a copy and then I could explain the position.

Q. You had to leave for Ottawa the same evening, and you wrote from Ottawa giving him information?—Yes.

Q. You refer to the interpretation of McCarron's tender. What do you mean by that—was there any difficulty?—A. The metalling of the road that would be disturbed by excavation. A rate was asked per superficial yard for putting the road in order. By some means McCarron & Cameron filled in theirs with either $150 or $1,500 a yard, which brought that item alone to over a million dollars. So my view was, that Mr. Perley ought not to write them for an explanation at all. There was the item, but if they did ask them for an explanation, and they explained it was $1.50 instead of $1,500 or $150, Gallagher's would have been the lowest still.

Q. And below Murphy's?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. As they stood without explanation they were above both?—A. Yes; that item alone was a million and a-half.

Q. It was manifestly an error?—A. I do not know; it was evidently an error—but one made with their eyes open.

By Mr. Lister:

Q. You hoped to have the Department throw that out on account of that excessive charge?—A. Not to ask for an explanation.

Q. You knew before the result of the tenders were made known who were the lowest?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock:

Q. You mention in this letter, if I caught it correctly, that the Gallagher tender was so low that it would not stand anything. What do you mean by the expression: "Yours is a decent tender, and no doubt you would be prepared to do something, while on Gallagher's nothing can be done"—what do you mean by that?—A. I meant if there were donations required that his would admit of some, but Gallagher's would not.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. But it came out all right?—A. No; Gallagher's had to be accepted.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. They had to take it?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any interest in this?—A. Twenty-five per cent.

Q. Were there changes during the execution of that contract?—A. It was changed from brick to stone.

Q. Was there any other change that made the work cheaper or more expensive?—A. They lifted up the sewer out of the ground, which would be a saving of about $20,000 to $25,000.

Q. Was there any reduction made on your contract on account of that change?—A. I cannot tell you, because I left about that time, and I do not know what the termination was.

Q. You sold out before the termination?—A. Yes; I left.

Q. You were a party to the change?—A. Yes.

Q. You rendered your usual services in obtaining the change?—A. Yes.

Q. Was there any reduction in the price of the contract when the changes were made—in the price you were to get from the Government or the Harbour Commissioners?—A. The change from brick to stone was an increase, but I do not know what took place for the raising of the sewer.

Q. Did the reduction of the work bring a reduction of the price?—A. I do not know.

The Committee adjourned at 6 o'clock p.m.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, FRIDAY, 24th July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m. ; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY's examination continued.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you say whether the letter now handed to you was written by you?—A. Yes ; this is a letter written by me.

Q. Addressed to whom?—A. Addressed to Mr. Murphy, dated Ottawa, 27th January.

Q. Read it, please?—A. It reads :

(Exhibit "E13.")

"DEPARTMENT OF MILITIA AND DEFENCE,
"OTTAWA, 27th Jany.

"MY DEAR MURPHY,—I recd your memo. ; but did not understand the whole of it: P. has been seen to-day, his report on St. Joseph D. is $100,000 under claim or as I understood it for about $100,000 more whether this includes the $30,000 certificate you got during the summer I will explain you further when I see you."

That is all that relates to that question of the Lévis Graving Dock.

Q. From whom did you receive the information you conveyed in that letter?—

A. From Mr. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Will you also look at this letter (Exhibit "F13") and say by whom it is written and signed?—A. It is a letter from Thomas McGreevy addressed to me and received by me, dated 4th May, but no year on it.

Q. I don't think it is necessary to read the whole of the letter. What I want to put in is only this "I think Perley is delaying in sending report on drawback until harbour business now before the House is passed." There is some other funny part in the letter which I will not read?—A. From the subject of the letter I would gather it was written in 1887, from Thomas McGreevy to myself, and the part that bears on this case is "I think Perley is delaying in sending report on drawback until the harbour business is passed.

Q. Yesterday I showed you Exhibit "E7," and asked you to give to the Committee what explanation you could about the different amounts which are mentioned by Martin Connolly as being charged to expense, Esquimalt Dock. You had, I believe, explained the item for $17,000. Are there any other items you can explain, or can you add anything to this statement?—A. With regard to this statement I think I explained all the items I was familiar with.

Q. You have no more explanation to give as to this statement? Can you give any explanation as to Exhibit "L5"?—A. If it is of any importance to you I might explain this $5,000, Three Rivers, March, 1887, in regard to the division of that account. As I understand it is included in the $17,000, that is the $10,000 I spoke of yesterday.

Q. You think there is an error in mentioning the amount again because it is included in the $17,000?—A. Yes. What I would like to see would be the book-keeper's statement before that—the period before that began. That only begins in 1885 and there was an expenditure in 1884; the earlier part of 1885—much earlier than that.

Q. As you were not interested in Lévis Graving Dock you cannot give any explanation with respect to Exhibit "L5"?—A. No.

Q. Will you now give your explanations of the items in "B 5" on which you were not questioned yesterday?—A. The first item of $25,000 I explained yesterday. The second that I have any knowledge of will be March 20th, 1886, $5,000. That was reported to me by the other members of the firm as being paid to Thomas McGreevy, and is charged—should have been charged—to British Columbia. I found it in Quebec Harbour improvements, and I remonstrated with the book-keeper afterwards and it was corrected. It still remains here, however, but I think it was corrected and put in the British Columbia; but I heard Martin Connolly, the book-keeper, the other day on that item, and he said it was in the $17,000. That is not correct. It is not in the $17,000. September 30th, 1886, $5,000—that I got from Martin Connolly and gave to Thomas McGreevy.

By the Chairman :

Q. What was done with that money? Was it for his own use?—A. He got it for the local elections of 1886. He came with me to Mr. Connolly's office and asked for the money for the local election. The same with the 13th of October, $3,000. Both those sums—making $8,000.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. They were asked by Thomas for the local elections?—A. Yes.

Q. Who got them?—A. I got them and gave them to him.

Q. Whilst you are at it, do you remember when the voting took place?—A. 14th October, 1886. I think it was the 14th. The next item is March 28th, $27,000. That I disposed of yesterday in connection with the second dredging account. But I explained only $25,000 out of the $27,000. That occurred by Mr. Murphy spending $2,000 more than what was allowed; but it was afterward admitted and passed.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. When he says admitted by the partners, I want to know the individual partners who admitted it?—A. They all admitted it.

Q. You swear that Nicholas Connolly, the man who was examined here, admitted it?—A. Certainly.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Was it discussed distinctly before them so that there could be no misunderstanding?—A. Yes, and being one of those matters smaller than the others it would be discussed, because unauthorized. August the 3rd and 8th, $1,000 and $4,000—that I spoke of yesterday. December 31st, 1888, $3,000—that I spoke of yesterday. That puts me through that bill.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Did you explain the items of $1,000 and $4,000 on August the 3rd and 8th?—A. Yes. Members of the firm that I spoke to on that said they gave them to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Which members of the firm?—A. Mr. Murphy and Mr. Connolly.

Q. Did they say what it was asked for or given for?—A. Yes; they said—Mr. Murphy told me—that Thomas McGreevy came to him and said Sir Hector Langevin was about leaving and this money was necessary.

Q. And the $4,000?—A. The same for the $4,000.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You say that you are aware that the $4,000 were paid by Nicholas Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. What information did you receive from Nicholas Connolly as to the $4,000?—A. The only further evidence I can offer on part of that $5,000 is that I met Thomas McGreevy in Dalhousie Street about four o'clock on that afternoon of 21st

July, and he told me he had received $1,000 from Mr. Murphy. About the $4,000 I do not know any more than I have said.

Q. Do you remember whether Sir Hector Langevin was in Quebec at that time?

—A. I do not.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Give the year?—A. 1887.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. To make my question clear: I ask you whether you were aware that Sir Hector Langevin was in Quebec on the day you had that conversation with your brother?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Do you know whether Sir Hector Langevin was in Quebec at the time of the alleged payment to him?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You were connected with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. Yes; I became connected with it about 1883 or 1884. Perhaps 1883, I became a stockholder.

Q. How many shares had you?—A. Five hundred.

Q. Had your brother Thomas any shares in the same company?—A. One thousand.

Q. Were you an officer of the company?—A. Yes; I became one afterward. In that year, which was in 1885 I think, I became a director.

Q. Who was the president?—Hon. Theodore Robitaille.

Q. Was Mr. Riopel connected with the railway, too?—A. Yes; he was managing director.

Q. Did you do any work on that railway line?—A. Yes; I done some work to keep the charter alive.

Q. What was it?—A. It was about expiring in 1885.

Q. You did that work to keep the charter alive?—A. Yes. That is what his request to me was.

Q. You had no special contract? Were you authorized by the board to do the work?—A. I was authorized by the board to do the work.

Q. What was the worth of the work done?—A. The expenditure amounted to about $3,000.

Q. So not being under contract you did the work for the expenditure?—A. Yes.

Q. Which amounted you say to about $3,000?—A. They made me an allowance of $1,200 or $1,500 for my services.

Q. Did you include in the expenditure the plant and work done?—A. Yes.

Q. So that would give you a claim of $4,500 against the company?—A. About that.

Q. Were you paid for that work?—A. No.

Q. Did you pay for the shares you had subscribed?—A. I gave a promissory note for 10 per cent. of the subscribed stock. They were $50 shares.

Q. Did you pay this promissory note?—A. No; I have not seen it since.

Q. Are you still a stockholder in that company?—A. Yes.

Q. You never sold your shares in that company?—A. I hold 660 shares yet. I had 500, and in about the year 1887, Thomas McGreevy transferred me his thousand which made me 1,500 shares.

Q. He transferred you his shares?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember having seen a certain memorandum or paper writing disposing of the value of your work and plant on this line of railway?—A. Yes; in April, 1886.

Q. Do you remember who were the parties to that agreement?—A. The parties to that agreement was Armstrong.

Q. C. N. Armstrong?—A. Yes. Thomas McGreevy, Theodore Robitaille and I think Riopel and myself, Robitaille the President of the company, to guarantee the carrying out of the agreement.

Q. To guarantee on behalf of the company?—A. Yes.

Q. I think you have already been called upon to state that you had not the original of that document?—A. I never seen it since the day it was signed.

Q. Where was it signed?—A. In the tower room of the buildings here.

Q. In this building?—A. Yes.

Q. You only saw it at the time you signed the document?—A. That is all.

Q. You did not keep it?—A. No.

Q. Could you give the substance of the agreement?—A. Yes; we transferred our 1,500 shares, the nominal value of it would be $75,000 and the work done, for which we were to receive $50,000 in cash and $25,000 in bonds of the first issue. The cash payment was to be made $10,000 immediately after the signing of the agreement and five payments of $8,000, each out of the Dominion subsidy for the first 20 miles.

Q. You say "we were to receive." Who were the persons who were to receive?
A. Thomas McGreevy and myself.

Q. In what proportion?—A. Between ourselves the proportion whatever to be divided.

Q. But no proportion was mentioned in the document?—A. Oh, no.

Q. Were the $10,000 cash paid?—A. $3,000 was paid in a couple of weeks and the other $7,000 ran on until the month of June.

Q. Who paid the $10,000?—A. Armstrong.

Q. Were the instalments to be paid out of the subsidies received?—A. I said so.

Q. Were they paid?—A. They were not all paid. I received the $10,000 in cash as I before stated, and I got four remittances of $8,000 each.

Q. Making a total of?—A. $42,000.

Q. What did you do with that money?—A. I paid it all away.

Q. To whom?—A. I paid it all to or for Thomas McGreevy.

Q. The balance of the $50,000, or the last instalment of the subsidy is not yet paid?—A. No; there is $8,000 and the bonds to be paid.

Q. And you state you have not yet been paid the $4,500 which was due you?—
A. I never got a cent, whatever I spent on the road I am the poorer by that.

Q. You state you never paid the promissory note you gave for the shares in your name? Do you know what has become of that promissory note?—A. I do not.

Q. It has not been returned to you?—A. No. When I spoke a moment ago that I had not received a cent, I meant that I had not got any of the $42,000 that passed through my hands.

Q. Had you anything to do with the steamboat "Admiral" plying on the Baie des Chaleurs or somewhere there?—A. I became the owner in 1888.

Q. When did you so become owner of that ship?—A. About the month of February, 1888.

Q. How long did you remain the owner of that ship?—A. I could not tell you. I have never signed any papers respecting it since.

Q. At whose request did you purchase or become the owner of that ship?—A. At Thomas McGreevy's.

Q. Did you own it for your own interest or somebody else?—A. I held it for his account; at least I held it for him. I became nominal owner for him. Mr. Connolly took a mortgage for $25,000 that he loaned on the boat.

Q. Did you manage this ship "Admiral" after you became the apparent owner of it?—A. No; I had nothing to do with it at all.

Q. Who managed it?—A. Mr. Chabot managed her.

Q. Do you remember when that ship was bought and where it was bought?—
A. It was bought in New York in 1882 or 1883.

Q. How much did it cost?—A. I understood at the time—I have no personal knowledge of what it cost.

Q. Did you supply any money for the payment of it?—A. In 1884 I paid $10,000 or $15,000, that was running on the boat from the time it was purchased.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. How did you pay it, out of your own money?—A. I paid it out of the $84,000 I had received from the Government of Canada for the Intercolonial claim.

Q. Did you not sign a mortgage on the ship?—A. I signed a mortgage to Nicholas Connolly, $25,000 in 1888.

Q. Did you keep the money for yourself?—A. No.

Q. To whom did you give the money?—A. I gave $20,000 to Mr. Ross of Quebec, in discharge of a mortgage that he held on it, and I gave $5,000 to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Had you been authorized by Thomas McGreevy to borrow that amount?—A. Certainly.

Q. Will you look at Exhibit "H12" and say whether the first part of it is signed by you?—A. That is my signature, 7th February, 1888. That is the time of the power of attorney.

Q. That is the time of the power of attorney you gave to your brother Thomas?—A. Yes.

Q. And the other part of the document is signed by your brother also?—

A. That is a transfer by Thomas McGreevy to Julien Chabot.

Q. And that is your signature?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. You stated that this agreement had been made between you and Robitaille and Armstrong. You were to settle the proportions in which you were to share the money?—A. I said our proportions was between ourselves.

Q. Did you do so?—A. I got no proportion.

Q. Did you not benefit by it in any way?—A. Not at all.

Q. Was it not put to your credit in his books?—A. The money not spent on the road I charged to his account, which I gave him in 1889, and he admitted the account and it went to my credit.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. It went to your credit later in an account which you sent him?—A. Yes.

Q. But you kept none of the $42,000 you received?—A. Not a dollar. I may say further that I accounted to him for that $42,000 in a separate account.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. In writing?—A. In writing. I sent it to him.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you state to the Committee what passed, if anything passed, in connection with a complaint which you were making to Michael Connolly, because he had informed your brother that you had some interest in the contracts?—A. What I was speaking to Michael Connolly about was his indiscretion in speaking to Thomas McGreevy about the large amount of money that was made in British Columbia. Thomas McGreevy had told me that Michael told him that there was an immense amount of money made there, and that I certainly must have been keeping some of it when he did not see as much as Michael had told him had been made; and the first opportunity I had of seeing Michael, I told him: first, that he had overrated the amount that was made, as far as I understood it; second, that I thought it was a very improper thing for him to speak to Thomas McGreevy about it. That is what the conversation was about.

Q. In the case referred to?—A. In the case referred to.

Q. Some time in the beginning of that year 1889, had you some explanation with your brother about your accounts in connection with these different contracts?—A. Yes. About the 13th or 14th January I had occasion to meet him in his office in the Lower Town, and there we had some very unpleasant conversation respecting the affair, the amounts of money that he thought I did not account for to him that came from Larkin, Connolly & Co. I told him that probably the period covered, in which he was receiving those sums, was so long that he did not remember that the bulk sum was very large, but I could not convince him that was the case, and some conversation very unpleasant was exchanged, respecting that he did not get his share, and the result was, I told him I would send an account of what he had received.

Q. You say that he complained that he had not got his share. Was that conversation about the money which he had received as special donations or subscriptions, or about his share in the business in which you were interested as a sub-partner?—A. That is the way I understood it—that he had not received what he would consider his share of the money I received as my part of the profits.

By the Chairman :

Q. You mean for his personal use?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. His discussion with you was, therefore, about your share as a partner, or as an interested party in these contracts?—A. Yes.

Q. And he was complaining you had not accounted to him for his proportion?—A. Yes. I promised that I would send him an account that day, which I did.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. What proportion did he claim?—A. Oh, the proportion was not mentioned.

By the Chairman :

Q. It was left to you, I suppose?—A. It was not mentioned.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. There was never any agreement as to that proportion?—A. No; there was no agreement.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You say you promised him an account of what you had given him out of your share of the profit?—A. Yes.

Q. And did you prepare such an account?—A. I did, and sent it to him, accompanied by a letter.

Q. Did you, at the same time that you sent him this account, write him a letter?—A. I did.

Q. Did you keep a draft of that letter?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you read it?—A. This is the draft of the letter:

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Have you any reason to believe that this letter has been received by Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. The only reason that leads me to believe he received it was that the account that accompanied the letter—or that the letter accompanied—he acknowledged it. The letter reads:

(Exhibit "G13.")

"QUEBEC, January 14th, 1889.

"DEAR THOMAS,—I enclose you the account amounting to $78,484, less $20,939, received on your account, leaving a balance of $57,545 without the interest, the very large, I may say nearly all, was paid you within 2 years. To give you some idea of the amount of money I have for speculation, let me show you what it has cost me for 1883. It takes $4,000 to pay premiums on life insurance; $5,000 per year cost of living, which includes Building Society; $2,000 per annum to pay Union Bank and other interests, in all $11,000 for five years is $55,000. I paid $10,000 out on I.C.R. claim; I have paid Banque Nationale (including note due to-morrow) $7,650, in all $73,000, with amount paid you of $57,000 makes $130,000. I received from L. C. & Co. about $135,000, something under that I believe; you received from me out of this $135,000 or thereabouts $58,000, besides some $117,000 paid direct to you from L. C. & Co., and still you are not satisfied. I have to pay between this and August $10,000 to La Banque Nationale to clear them up. I intend to reduce and pay up the Union Bank and all I can to you. If this reasonable programme don't suit you, then break up the whole thing and wind it up at once. I have no desire nor interest in being the medium of conflict between these contractors and you, and of trouble and turmoil to myself.

"I remain, yours truly,
(Signed) "ROB. H. MCGREEVY."

Q. This is a true copy of the letter sent by you?—A. Yes.

Q. You say that your brother later on acknowledged having received the account?—A. Yes; after they entered the suit of about $400,000 against me he pleaded the account. He admitted the account.

Q. He referred to that account as sent in from you?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he admit the account?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he correct the amount that you then mentioned in your letter?—A. It was not the exact amount.

Q. The interest on the account, which I now see follows, is added?—A. Yes.

Q. In your letter you only give the capital, without the interest, in round figures?—A. Yes.

Mr. GEOFFRION.—I put in now the following Exhibits, from the records of the Superior Court in Quebec :

"H13", Declaration; "I13", Defendant's Plea; "J13", Incidental Supplementary Demand; "K13", Interrogatives of the parties to the Plaintiff; "L13", Plaintiff's answers; "M13", Plaintiff's depositions; "N13", Plaintiff's special answer to the incidental proceeding; "O13", Defendant's amended plea; "P13", Copy of Defendant's bill of particulars filed with his Plea; "Q13", Plaintiff's exhibit at trial, being copy of account referred to.

Q. Will you look to this account, "Q13," which was filed by your brother, and say if it is a copy of the account you have just mentioned?—A. It purports to be a copy of the account, and from the items in it I believe it is a correct copy, $64,800.

Q. Only, as there are errors in the copy, it is a true copy of the account you refer to?—A. Yes.

Mr. GEOFFRION.—I asked that all the papers filed by Mr. Campbell should be copied and compared by Mr. Todd.

Mr. TODD.—Copies have been made, and they have all been compared.

Q. You state in this letter that you paid $58,000 to your brother out of your share of the profits of the different contracts of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. You mentioned different other amounts as having been received by your brother. What were the other amounts you claim your brother received?—A. I mentioned his having received $117,000 from the Larkin, Connolly & Co. firm.

Q. As to the item of $58,000, can you swear whether that statement made in your letter is correct, and if this money was really paid to your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. This is the account which is put in in the case by your brother, and of which a copy is just shown you. Do you recognize the account as the one you sent?—A. Yes; the one I sent.

Q. It was put in the case by your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. As to the $117,000 that you mention having been received from Larkin, Connolly & Co., are you prepared to say how much has been paid to your personal knowledge to your brother?—A. I had paid him direct about $74,000.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Of the $117,000 ?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. And for the rest you are charged in the books of your partners ?—A. $40,000, was given to me by Larkin, Connolly & Co., of which I paid my share, and it was charged in the accounts to suspense or expense.

Q. That would make $114,000 ?—A. Well, that is the facts.

Q. In your letter you mention $117,000, but you can only swear to $114,000 ?—A. I have not the figures before me at the time.

A. You could not be precise. When you wrote the letter you had not Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s books before you ?—A. No.

Q. Are you aware whether your brother Thomas, and Murphy, were in frequent communication together ?—A. They were very friendly.

Q. Had you occasion to see them together frequently ?—A. Yes.

Cross-examination of Mr. Robert H. McGreevy.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You have been asked to produce here your account books, diaries, cheques, and cheque-books. Will you kindly produce them ?—A. The account books and cheques are before the accountants of this Committee.

Q. Have you produced all the account books that you have covering the period in question ?—A. All that I have.

Q. What do they consist of ?—A. The blotter, ledger and journal.

Q. Are they your original ledger and journal ?—A. Yes.

Q. The only ledger and journal that you have covering that period ?—A. Yes.

Q. The only ones ?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you produced to the accountants of the Committee all the cheques covering that period ?—A. All that I had.

Q. And the bank books ?—A. The bank books—yes.

Q. You spoke on your examination before the Sub-Committee of some blotters that you had. Have you produced those ?—A. I mentioned to you what I have produced.

Q. Have you produced the blotters that you referred to before the Sub-Committee ?—A. Yes ; I have. Here are three of them.

Q. The book I now hold in my hand is your original ledger.—A. Yes.

Q. It is the only one you produce and the only one you have ?—A. The only one I have.

Q. At what times were the entries made in the books—at the time of the various payments to which they refer ?—A. I would not say about that, because as near as I can tell I only kept the blotter myself, and as any of the boys might happen to be at home they posted them up.

Q. Whereabouts is the blotter kept by yourself, from which you posted into these books ?—A. I did not post into the books.

Q. You had them posted by your sons ?—A. This is it, I think. Blotter filed as Exhibit "R13."

Q. Are you quite sure this is it ?—A. Pretty sure.

Q. Is there any person else who can tell as to these books ?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Is that your blotter or is it not ?—A. That is my blotter—yes.

Q. Is it the blotter in which you kept the original entries of the transactions covering the period in question ?—A. This is the blotter.

Q. Is it the only blotter you kept at that time ?—A. I do not know.

Q. If you do not know, who else knows ?—A. I do not know if anybody knows.

Q. I want you to tell the Committee whether you ever had any other blotter, covering the period in question in which you made entries of the transactions, transferred to these books here ?—A. Not that I recollect now.

Q. You now produce before the Committee the only blotter that you kept during the period covered from January, 1883, to January, 1889?—A. As far as I recollect that is all I have or all I had.

Q. If you had had another book, would you recollect it, do you think?—A. I might.

Q. Would you?—A. I could not give you any answer more than I might.

Q. I ask you, would you recollect it?—A. I might.

Q. Do you or do you not recollect it?—A. I do not recollect of any other.

Q. I want to know from you whether there is another or not?—A. I have answered you already.

Q. Will you swear there is no other than this?—A. I will not do anything of the sort. This is my recollection.

Q. Is this in your handwriting (referring to blotter)?—A. Most of it.

Q. Who else had written in it?—A. I could not say.

Q. You could not say who else wrote in your books. Do you find any other handwriting than your own in your books?—A. Not as far as I have gone.

Q. Well, look through it and see if there is not any other handwriting?—A. (After examination of book.) Yes; there is some here in the forepart of it.

Q. In whose handwriting?—A. There is some part here of my son's handwriting—one of them.

Q. Which of them?—A. I do not know; there are two or three.

Q. Whose handwriting might that be?—A. It might be any of them.

Q. You cannot recognize the handwriting?—A. No.

Q. You have no idea at all which of your sons made the entries at the beginning of the book?—A. I think it is Frank—Francis.

Q. At what date does this book begin?—A. This book begins in September, 1889.

Q. What is the date in September?—A. 1st of September.

Q. Where is the blotter from the 1st of January, 1883, to the 1st of September, 1889?—A. I think this would be it. Either of those. (Referring to two books placed in his hands.)

Q. Will you please hand to the Clerk of the Committee the blotter from the 1st of January, 1883, to the 1st of September, 1889?—A. I do not see anything to indicate the date. I see June here, but it does not appear to indicate more.

Q. I wish you to produce another from 1st of January, 1883, to 1st of September, 1889?—A. I have produced all that I have.

Q. Among the books you have here, will you now file with the Committee the blotter, if you have it, for that period—1st of January, 1883, to 1st of September, 1889?—A. You can read these for yourself.

Q. I want you to read them. I wish you to produce to the Committee the blotter for the period I have mentioned?—A. I have produced all I have. I do not know whether this is for 1883, 1887 or 1888.

Q. You do not know whether this blotter is for 1883, 1887 or 1888?—A. There is January here, but whether it is for 1883, 1887 or 1888 I do not know. That is all I have.

Q. What date does the loose sheet which you now produce cover?—A. It covers from 10th June.

Q. What year?—A. I do not know; it does not appear on it.

Q. Can you identify the year by the entries?—A. I cannot for a certainty. I do not find by it what year it is.

Q. What year are you prepared to say it is from the nature of the entries?—A. From the nature of the entries it would be about 1887.

Q. Now, what period does this sheet cover, supposing it to be 1887?—A. From June 10th to July 23rd. Sheet filed as Exhibit "S13."

Q. Take this loose sheet and state the period it covers?—A. This covers from January, I think, 1887. Sheet filed as Exhibit "T13."

Q. What date in January?—A. The 7th.

Q. To what date?—A. About May, 1889.

Q. From 7th January, 1887?—A. About that time. There is no date on it, but I presume it would be about that time. I do not say as a matter of fact that it is.

Q. So that in this blotter, Exhibit "T13," we have from 7th January, 1887, to about May 2nd, 1889?—A. Yes.

Q. And on the loose sheet, marked Exhibit "S13," we have from July, 1887, to what date?—A. I said so before.

Q. Please repeat it?—A. From June 10th to August 23rd, 1887.

Q. And in the book, Exhibit "R13," you file an account from September 1st, 1889, to what date?—A. June, 1891, as far as I see.

Q. Well now, you observe from that that you have produced no blotter prior to January, 1887. Where is your blotter for the previous years from January, 1883?—A. I don't know that I had any.

Q. Where, then, did you get the record of the entries subsequently made in these books?—A. I don't know.

Q. You cannot give the Committee any information upon the point of where you kept those entries?—A. Not at all.

Q. Or where you got the information you dictated to your book-keepers, which is contained in the ledger and journal here?—A. No.

By the Chairman :

Q. Do you find many pages in the ledger between those dates covering that period from 1st January, 1883, to 1st January, 1887?—A. The ledger would not go by pages.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. How many pages of the journal were covered by that period?—A. The journal appears to begin in June 1st, 1883.

Q. Are you quite sure of that?—A. It says so at the top.

Q. I would like to draw your attention to the top page, marked "one-half"?—A. It does not begin from that; it begins at page 1.

Q. Was there an entry on the page marked "one-half"?—A. It appears to have been crossed over.

Q. Well, how many pages in this journal are covered from 1st January, 1883, to 1st January, 1887?—A. About 60 pages.

Q. Are those pages consecutive?—A. It appears so.

Q. The page that is marked "one-half," was it part of the original book, or a page that is stuck in?—A. It appears to be a half page that was pasted in.

Q. And the entry on it is on July 1st, 1882, headed "Quebec, July 1st, 1882"?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell us in whose handwriting are the entries in the journal, from 1st June, 1883, to 31st December, 1886, contained in pages 1 to 60, inclusive, of the journal, beginning with the first page?—A. They are all in some one of my sons' handwriting.

Q. I asked you to indicate, page by page, in whose handwriting they were?—A. Well, I tell you they are all in one or other of my sons'.

Q. I wish you would say in which of your sons' handwriting the pages are?—A. They are all, except one or two, in the one handwriting.

Q. Whose handwriting is that?—A. Some of my boys.

Q. Which of your boys?—A. I could not say; there are two of them that write so much alike.

Q. Which of these two?—A. There is Frank and Robert.

Q. Will you tell us, if you can, in whose handwriting is the first page—whether Frank or Robert?—A. Either of them; I am not certain which.

Q. Which do you believe it to be?—A. I could not say as a fact.

Q. You have no idea at all?—A. It is either of those two.

Q. Now, will you go on and tell us, whether from pages 1 to 60 there is any other handwriting than that on the first page?—A. Except in one or two instances, they are all in one handwriting.

Q. Will you point out those one or two instances, and the pages in which you find a difference in the handwriting?—A. As far as I can see, except in one or two instances, it is the one handwriting.

Q. I ask you to indicate the one or two instances?—A. On page 43 there appears to be some entries in another handwriting.

Q. Whose handwriting is that page in?—A. I do not know.

Q. You cannot say which of your sons it is?—A. No.

Q. Any others?—A. On page 31 there are some entries there.

Q. The two last?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know in whose handwriting?—A. No; that is as near as I can get to it.

Q. What time were these entries made?—A. They were made, I think, at the time represented to be made.

Q. Were they made from day to day?—A. No.

Q. How would they be made? At the end of the month or every two months?—A. I think it was just as the boys would be at home they would post up the books.

Q. From what would they post the books?—A. They would post them either from blotters or memoranda that I would give them.

Q. Where are those blotters?—A. You have got all I have.

Q. You swear that the blotters now produced are the only blotters you have got?—A. Yes.

Q. Where are the blotters in which these entries were made?—A. I do not know.

Q. Have you searched for them?—A. I have.

Q. Have you made a careful search?—A. Not very.

Q. Will you do so?—A. I will, if it is necessary.

Q. Can you say when you last saw them—the blotters that are missing?—A. I do not know that there are any.

Q. Were there ever any at any time?—A. There may not have been.

Q. Where are the notes from which these entries are made?—A. I do not know.

Q. You now swear you do not know whether there were blotters from 1883 to 1887?—A. I say so.

Q. To the best of your recollection, was there or was there not?—A. I do not recollect whether there was or was not.

Q. How did you keep a record of your business transactions from day to day?—A. I do not know how I kept the business transactions; but in a word, I will tell you that every book, or paper, or blotter in connection with these ledgers and journals I have given to the Committee. I have reserved nothing that I had in my possession.

Q. You have told us that these entries were made just at the time your sons might have been at home?—A. Yes.

Q. And from memoranda or blotter?—A. Yes.

Q. Where are those blotters?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Have you any idea at all what became of them?—A. No.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you make any of those original entries on sheets of paper?—A. That is what I said.

Q. Those are the memoranda you referred to?—A. Yes.

Q. But did you keep them on sheets of paper?—A. Most likely they would be.

Q. Can you recollect over a period of four or five years?—A. I did not pay any regard to the blotters once the books were posted up.

Q. You do not recollect whether you had many of those fly sheets or not?—A.

Ne.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Can you state whether you had any?—A. I do not know which it was.

Q. You would know, no matter what has become of them. Have you had any at any time?—A. The entries must have been taken at some time from sheets or memoranda or blotters.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. You did have sheets or notes or blotters when the entries were made?—A. There is no doubt about that. If these books are going to be filed before the Committee I would ask that I get them back as soon as possible, because you may see the whole of the books are in relation to other business than this. There is not an entry in these books relating to this investigation, except the account of Thomas McGreevy, which is already in the record of the Court.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you tell us whether these books contain the entry of all your business transactions from June 1st, 1883, onward?—A. That would depend a great deal on what the transaction was.

Q. Then you had other books?—A. I have not.

Q. So that there were apparently a number of transactions that you did not keep a record of?—A. That I did not put in the account book.

Q. How did you keep a record of them?—A. In my head.

Q. Could you indicate to us in a general way what class you put in your books and what class you kept in your head?—A. For instance, donations. I did not keep any of them in these books. Any moneys I got from Larkin, Connolly & Co. to be given away I did not make an entry of.

Q. Do I understand you to say that this journal contains the only record of all your ordinary business transactions for the period covered by it?—A. Mostly.

Q. Does it contain all?—A. I do not know that it does.

Q. Can you indicate in a general way what it does contain?—A. I cannot.

Q. What business transactions other than donations did you not enter up?—A. There may be others.

Q. What can they be?—A. I cannot say.

Q. What would be the kind of transactions other than donations?—A. Various transactions.

Q. Can't you give the Committee some more definite information?—A. I cannot.

Q. You cannot recollect any particular transaction other than donations that is not entered in that book?—A. I cannot.

Q. Is it not the case that this book was written up apparently at the same time for quite a period, in the same handwriting, the same ink, and apparently continuously entered for several months?—A. It may have been.

Q. Is it so?—A. I do not know that it is.

Q. Look and see?—A. I have looked at it several times.

Q. Look again if it is necessary from the beginning?—A. For several months it is. For eight or nine pages it looks like that.

Q. Covering how many months?—A. Eight or nine months.

Q. Covering how many months?—A. From June 1st, 1883 to August 19th, 1885.

Q. Further on are there any indications that they were not written at the same time?—A. They are not as precise as the other.

Q. But indications of that kind?—A. Yes.

Q. I notice that the pages of this book Exhibit "U13" skip from page 66 to page 75?—That is so.

Q. So that pages 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73 and 74 are wanting?—A. Yes.

Q. These pages have been cut out?—A. Evidently.

Q. In whose handwriting is page 1½—the page added to the book?—A. It is in either of my two sons that I spoke of a while ago. I could not say which. They write very similar. I would not like to say whose handwriting it is.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. Do I understand you to say that the pages covering the period from 1883 to 1885 were written at one time?—A. It looks like that. Pages 1 to 9.

Q. They cover a period of two years?—A. Yes. From 1883 to August, 1885.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Where would those items on those be taken from?—A. From notes or sheets of paper furnished by myself, likely.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. Have you any memory about it?—A. Not now.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you refer to page 12 of your journal, July 8th, 1885, and state whether the entry had been erased with a knife?—A. There looks to be an erasure of some kind.

Q. Can you say what entry there was there?—A. No. It is the first time I seen it.

Q. It is so completely removed that it is impossible to say what the entry was?—A. Yes.

It would appear that the date had been scratched out and the whole entry, including the date, removed?—A. It looks to me as though it was an entry put in another place.

Q. And all record of what that entry was is removed?—A. It looks very like it.

Q. Can you say who did it?—A. I do not know.

Q. Can you say when it was done?—A. No: it is the first time I seen it.

Q. I notice many places in the journal in which there are blanks left for the entries? Is that so?—A. No; I could not say that is so.

Q. Will you explain the four blanks on page 5 of the Journal?—A. They do not appear to be blanks left for any entries. It appears to be the system with which those who entered the books would make the pages.

Q. Why is it not so on pages 1, 2 and 3?—A. I do not know.

Q. Was it the system of the party at that time?—A. According to those who entered them, evidently.

Q. You have already stated it was the same person who entered. Just look and see whether it was the same person who entered them? Is page 5 in the same handwriting as page 1?—A. It looks very like it.

Q. So that the same person varied his system of book-keeping? A. Evidently.

Q. Will you refer to page 92 of this journal. The entry dated October 11th, 1887, and state whether there is any erasure there in the books?—A. It is not a complete erasure; it is an entry brought down.

Q. Can you say what there was there?—A. It looks like as if the entry that follows was removed down further.

Q. Will you look at pages 3 and 7 of the journal and state whether there are inserted entries in some of the blanks left there?—A. I do not see any in these.

Q. Was the second entry on the page made at the same time apparently or before or after the third?—A. There is one made on the 2nd of the month.

Q. The second one on the page?—A. No, I do not think so.

Q. Where do you find an entry on the 2nd of the month?—A. It is not the 2nd of the month. I took it to be the date, but it appears to be the folio of the ledger.

Q. Look at page 7 and see whether there has been an alteration there in the 2nd entry?—A. There has been a change; one name has been written over another; both are to be seen; none are erased.

Q. Will you look at page 44, under date 28th June, the entry in these words, "Thomas McGreevy, Dr., to Cheque to himself $2,000," and state whether that entry was made before the entry that followed it?—A. I do not know.

Q. It is in the same handwriting and ink as the entries that precede and follow?—A. It does not appear to be the same; it appears to be the same handwriting but not the same ink.

Q. It is in different ink?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you refer to the next page, page 45, to the entry of July 6th, 1886, "Thomas McGreevy, Dr., to expenditure and services in connection with the construction of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, $5,000," and state whether that entry is in the same handwriting as the preceding and following entries?—A. It is the same handwriting but not the same ink.

Q. And therefore entered at a different time from the entries that precede and follow?—I do not know.

Q. Was it or was it not?—A. I do not think it was.

Q. Can you explain why it is that the entries that precede and follow are exactly in the same ink and handwriting and that this entry is different?—A. I cannot.

Q. Will you refer to page 54, the entry at the bottom of the page which reads "Thomas McGreevy, Cr.; by cheque from Baie des Chaleurs Railway, $8,000.

By cheque from Tessier, N. P., difference on interest, given Bosset, $200; for Lindsay, $172, total, $8,172," and state whether that entry was made after or before the one that immediately precedes it?—A. It looks there as if it was made after.

Q. Will you refer to the one preceding, and say what the date is?—A. 24 November, 1886.

Q. Read the entry?—A. The entry reads—"Thomas McGreevy Dr—Cash to Deputy Sheriff Sherwood Bal. of Heney note $1,000, Sued on $2,000".

Q. And the following entry is of what date?—A. The 22nd and reads—"Frank McGreevy Cr—By Cash $275".

Q. Then comes the entry just read, so that this entry is apparently of the 22nd November 1886, and it follows one apparently of the 24th?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us from what the entry of $8,000 relating to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Co, was made?—A. I could not say from memory.

Q. Was it made from the blotter?—A. It would, if it was in it.

Q. Can you say whether it was in it or not?—A. I don't know.

Q. Will you now look at your blotter, Exhibit "T13" at the following entry—"Cr. F. McGreevy November 22—86 Ck. from Baie de Chaleur Ry. Cy. $8,000.

" do —Tessier M.P., dif. on interest given Bossé, ($2000) per Lindsay, $172".

There is the year 1886 in the corner. Is that the entry from which this entry in the journal was posted?—A. It looks very likely.

Q. Was it or not?—A. I don't know.

Q. Have you any doubt at all whether it is so?—A. I don't see any reason to doubt it.

Q. Was it not made in 1887?—A. It is on the sheet 1887.

Q. Is in your hand writing?—A. It is in my hand writing.

Q. It is dated in the corner 1886?—A. Yes, in brackets.

Q. And 1886 is underlined?—A. Yes.

Q. So that was made, apparently in August 1887 or after?—A. Evidently.

Q. And the entry that goes before it is one of August 29th, 1887, and the one that follows is September 1st, 1887, is it not?—A. That is what there is there.

Q. Where did you get the entry that you posted in August, 1887, and the entry of November, 1886?—A. I could not tell.

Q. You have no idea at all?—A. No.

Q. Will you look at this book (produced) and state whether it is your ledger and what period it covers?—A. From 1883 I think.

Q. What date?—A. October, 1882 or 1883 it appears.

Q. Cannot you say which?—A. No, I could not.

Q. Why cannot you?—A. They are both there, 1882 on one side and 1883 on the other.

Q. The first entry I think has been scored?—A. There is a pencil mark over it.

Q. Only a pencil mark?—A. That is all.

Q. Will you please refer to the account of O. E. Murphy, at page 66 of your ledger and state whether there have been alterations of the account?—A. I don't see any alterations.

Q. Do you see erasures?—A. I see one erasure here—the total.

Q. Do you see fresh entries written above the other entries?—A. I see pencil marks.

Q. Do you see fresh ink entries at the top of the page, and old ink entries and several alterations below them?—A. I do.

Q. Can you tell us when these fresh ink entries were made?—A. I don't know.

Q. Who made those entries in fresh ink?—A. Those entries were made by my son Joseph.

Q. Where is your son Joseph?—A. In Quebec.

Q. On what date?—A. They were made on 21st June, 1888.

Q. Do you swear those entries were made in June, 1888?—A. That is what it shows.

Q. Ah, but that is not what I am asking. I am asking you when the entries were made, not the day they appear in the book?—A. I cannot say.

Q. You swear you do not know when those entries were made? Can you say whether they were made before or after the subsequent entries?—A. They were made after.

Q. Can you say when?—A. I cannot give precise date.

Q. Have those papers (produced) that I find in the book any reference to them?—A. They may.

Q. Does it?—A. I cannot say for certain.

Q. Do the figures not correspond with the entries?—A. I do not see what they are.

Q. Are they not records of the same transaction?—A. I do not see any correspondence.

Q. Do they correspond with the last three entries which are in the same ink as the two above to which I have directed your attention?—A. Yes, there are corresponding entries on this sheet.

Q. Can you tell the date from these sheets?—A. This memorandum is made within the last two or three months.

Q. Is it not the last two or three weeks?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Is the memorandum in your handwriting?—A. It is, part of it. Most of it is in my handwriting.

Q. You say the last three entries on page 66 were made within the last three months?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not true that entries bearing date 21st June, 1888, were made at the same time?—A. I think so.

Q. Is it not a fact that these entries—that is the two entries bearing date 21st June, 1888—have been made in this book since the examination before this Committee of O. E. Murphy?—A. I say they were not.

Q. You are perfectly sure of that?—A. Yes.

Q. How long before Mr. Murphy came up to give his evidence were they made?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. Were they made since his examination ended?—A. They were made, as I said before, about two or three months ago.

Q. Since the enquiry began?—A. It must have been before.

Q. Are you sure it was before?—A. I think so.

Q. Are you certain?—A. No.

Q. Are there any means by which you could make yourself certain?—A. No.

Q. Are there any other memoranda in your possession about this matter?—A. No.

Q. Could you tell us whether, at this late period, you changed an entry in the books or made an entry before 21st June, 1888?—A. That is very easily explained.

The stock transactions between Mr. Murphy and myself had went on for two or three years, and the entries of the sales and the results did not take place at the time, so that when the stocks this spring and all transactions of stocks was closed then I went to work with one of my boys and closed the account. Having no more stock there is no more entry. It had no reference whatever to any investigation or account to be rendered. It had reference to stock that is now all gone.

Q. Will you refer to pages 128 and 129, being O. E. Murphy's account, and state whether those entries have been altered?—A. They have been altered.

Q. And other figures written over?—A. Yes.

Q. How many are there—one, two, three, four, five, six or seven lines erased?—A. No; six.

Q. And one here?—A. That has not been erased.

Q. That paper is in its original condition there?—A. I had no knife on it.

Q. What was this erased with?—A. I never touched it; the son whom I was directing what to do erased them.

Q. It was done by your son under your direction?—A. Yes.

Q. He had the knife?—A. He had a knife or something. There appears to have been too many letters used on the word "interest"; that is what I believe it is.

Q. The knife has been used a little?—A. On one word these erasures are made. Whoever carried the sale of the stock carried out into Mr. Murphy's credit in the column of dollars and cents, taking the whole amount of the produce of the stock, instead of carrying what Mr. Murphy paid on account of it. He has carried these stocks on margin and instead of giving him credit only for what he gave or advanced on them, they gave him credit for the whole result of the stock, and therefore it had to be changed to meet that circumstance. It says: "So many shares R. & O., so much and so on."

Q. You did not give us an answer as to when these erasures were made?—A. About the same time.

Q. With this account before you, can't you be a little more precise as to date?—A. No.

Q. And do not want to be?—A. I would if I could; but I would not like to make a statement I knew was not correct. To give you an instance: He is charged here with the sale of one hundred shares of Richelieu at 56 $\frac{1}{2}$ , net 55 $\frac{3}{4}$  commission off. He was charged with the total amount of the result. That would be \$5,600; whereas there should have been only thirty-five, the margin advanced on it in keeping with the facts. It is a mistake of the boy entering it.

Q. Will you look at pages 70 and 73 and state whether the intervening leaf has been cut out or not?—A. It appears so.

Q. Will you look at page 80?—A. The folios from 80 to 85—

Q. Appear to have been torn out?—A. No; the paging is not consecutive.

Q. The binding would allow a few pages to be taken out?—A. I think not.

Q. Will you see whether pages 51 and 52 have been cut out?—A. There has been evidently a page cut out.

Q. And the paging runs from 50 to 53?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you produced any diaries?—A. No.

Q. Will you produce them?—A. No.

Mr. STUART.—I ask that the Committee to order the witness to produce his diaries.

The CHAIRMAN.—What are your objections?

WITNESS.—I make my objection in writing. This is a memorandum which I drew up at the time. The circumstances have changed a little, but I will read it as I prepared it:

Memo:

"Statement to Committee of reasons for non-production of books, on private business, as asked for in D. T. of June 20th.

"I appear as a witness before this Committee on a summons issued by the Clerk of the Committee to give evidence on matters contained in certain charges made by Mr. Tarte, M.P., against Mr. Thomas McGreevy, M.P., and bring with me all books, letters, vouchers, receipts and other documents in connection with: 1st, The dredging of the Harbour of Quebec since 1882; 2nd, the Cross-wall and lock in connection with the same Harbour; 3rd, the dredging of the Wet basin in same Harbour; 4th, the South wall or retaining wall in same Harbour; 5th, the Graving Dock at Lévis; 6th, the Graving Dock at Esquimalt; and 7th, the Langevin Testimonial Fund.

"As a witness, I did not deem it necessary to employ counsel before this Committee. Now, I am asked by a telegram from the Clerk of the Committee to produce original statement in "Le Canadien," 30th April, 1890, books, papers, cheque and bank books, letters, books and all papers showing my financial transactions from January 1st, 1883, to January 1st, 1888, as well as a statement of all transactions between Mr. O. E. Murphy and myself, covering the same period.

"I respectfully submit to the Committee my willingness to produce everything I have in connection with, or give evidence on, all the charges I have any knowledge of, contained in the reference by the House to this Committee on the matters for investigation; but I have objections to give evidence or produce books, letters, statements, &c., of my private and other business irrelevant to the matter, for the purpose of enabling the counsel for the accused to make use of such information they may so obtain, to prosecute the various suits pending against me.

"The accused and the Connollys have now pending in the Courts in the City of Quebec, the following cases:

"An action for $354,000, or thereabouts, general account, Superior Court.

"An action for Criminal Libel against Tarte, Murphy and myself, Queen's Bench.

"An action for $50,000 damage for libel against same parties, civil suit.

"An action for conspiracy.

In these actions the counsel here present representing the accused with several other advocates, represent the plaintiffs; that those books, papers, &c., made as closed matters which will enable them to obtain information which they will use elsewhere against me, which knowledge will much prejudice my case and possibly cause much damage, and to their advantage in the said suits and actions; those are the reasons which move me to ask your protection against such evidence as will enable them to continue the persecution which is going on against me for over two years by those parties.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. I would like to ask you whether you will submit those documents to the Sub-Committee to determine whether and what pages are absolutely private and should not be subject to the inspection of these gentlemen, and what we think you ought to submit?—A. I will submit them to the Sub-Committee. The only reservation I make is, that the counsel for these parties should not have access to them.

By the Chairman:

Q. Would you have any objection to Mr. Osler and Mr. Henry having access to them?—A. Certainly not.

The Committee then adjourned till 3.30 p.m.

FRIDAY, 24th July, 3.30 o'clock p.m.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY'S cross-examination resumed.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. You have produced before the Sub-Committee your diaries from 1883 to 1888, I understand?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you not keep another memorandum book in which you made entries of your transactions daily or habitually?—A. Not any other than the blotter.

Q. Are you quite sure of that?—A. Yes.

Q. You recollect that you were examined as a witness in the case of Robert Henry McGreevy against Michael Connolly, recently pending in Quebec. I will now read you part of your testimony: In the suit of McGreevy vs. Connolly No. 1320:

“Q. Have you got in your possession a memorandum book in which you enter everything that takes place from day to day?—A. Well, no; I don't think I have. I am not supposed to note down everything that takes place.

“Q. As a matter of fact, do you note down the principal things that take place?—A. Yes; generally.

“Q. Have you not got a memorandum book in which you enter from day to day what takes place?—A. Yes.

“Q. Have you entered in that memorandum book anything about this?—A. No.

“Q. Have you got that memorandum book in your pocket now?—A. No.

“Q. You swear you have not got it now with you?—A. What book do you refer to?

“Q. The memorandum book in which you make daily entries?—A. I have got a book with me—a diary.

“Q. You have another book, besides the memorandum book which you have taken out of your pocket, in which you make entries of daily occurrences?—A. I may.

“Q. You have, as a matter of fact?—A. I suppose I have.

“Q. Have you got by you your bank pass-book?—A. No.”

Q. Now, after hearing that evidence, will you state whether you have the other memorandum book that was referred to at that time?—A. That memorandum book I referred to at that time was the blotter.

Q. Where is that blotter?—A. All that I have is here.

Q. You are a contractor, I believe?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been a contractor?—A. For 30 years.

Q. What occupation, if any, did you follow before you became a contractor?—A. I was managing the contracts for Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Where?—A. I began with these buildings in 1860.

Q. The buildings in which we now are?—A. In which we now are.

Q. Had you any contracts before that?—A. Not before that.

Q. What is your trade or occupation?—A. My trade is a joiner.

Q. You say you began managing for Thomas McGreevy in 1860?—A. Yes; in 1860.

Q. In 1866 did you take a transfer from Thomas McGreevy of the contract which he then had for the completion of a portion of the Parliament Buildings here?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the price you paid for it?—A. The price I agreed to pay, I cannot say from memory what it was.

Q. Will you look at the three promissory notes, filed in the case of McGreevy vs. McGreevy, No. 1731, Superior Court, Quebec, Exhibits et enquête, Nos. 27, 28, 29, being three promissory notes, dated at Montreal 3rd November, 1866, each for $7,646.15, and state whether your's is the signature to them?—A. Those were signed by me.

Q. Is it not a fact that those three notes represent the consideration price, or part of the consideration price, for the transfer of the contract by Thomas McGreevy to you, of which you have just spoken?—A. I think so.

Q. Is it not so, as a matter of fact?—A. I don't know; I think so.

Q. When did you last see those notes?—A. Fifteen years ago, perhaps.

Q. You did not see them when they were produced in the litigation in Quebec, on 4th November, 1880?—A. I did not.

Q. Was there any question of them in the litigation?—A. There was.

Q. Well, now, with the assistance of the information you got during that litigation, are you able to say whether or not those are the notes you gave for the purchase price of the contract?—A. I said they were.

Q. Were those notes ever paid?—A. They were paid, not in money but in kind.

Q. In what kind?—A. (No answer.)

Q. I want to know from you in what way those notes were paid?—A. Those notes was one part of the contract, and Thomas McGreevy did not fulfil his offer, so I did not pay the notes.

Q. Then the notes were not paid. So, when you state the notes were paid in kind you state what is not the case?—A. I say so still.

Q. Then in what way were they paid? The Committee would like to know whether they were paid or not?—A. The occurrence is so far back that I cannot tell you the details. My impression was that these notes, he having not satisfied his part of the agreement, did not look for the payment of them, and therefore they were not paid.

Q. Was that the answer which you made in the litigation between Thomas McGreevy and yourself when you were sued upon these notes?—A. If my memory serves me right, I gave two or three answers.

Q. Was that one of them?—A. That was one of them I think.

Q. Will you look at three bearing date Ottawa 9th June, 1869, for $6,187.74 each, being notes produced in case No. 1731, McGreevy, vs. McGreevy as Plaintiff's Exhibit in enquete, and state whether these are signed by you?—A. It looks very like it.

Q. Do they bear your signature or do they not?—A. It looks very like my signature.

Q. Is it your signature?—A. I do not know.

Q. Is it your signature?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. You say you do not know this is your signature? You swear that?—A. I think so.

Q. Had you any doubt about your signature when you were sued upon these notes?—A. I do not know that I had.

Q. Did you deny your signature when you were sued upon them?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. Are they your signature or not?—A. I do not know whether they are the notes I seen there.

Q. You do not know whether these are the notes produced in the litigation between your brother and yourself, and filed on the 14th November, 1890?—A. I do not know.

Q. Then you cannot tell us whether that is your signature?—A. I think it is my signature.

Q. When you saw them on a previous occasion did you deny that it was your signature?—A. I have not seen them for a long time.

Q. When you saw them before, did you deny them?—A. I do not know. They were fresh in my memory then.

Q. Is it your signature?—A. I would not like to say.

Q. Do you know whether they were paid?—A. I cannot say.

Q. As a matter of fact, were they paid?—A. I do not know.

Q. Did you plead payment when you were sued upon then?—A. I pleaded compensation among other things.

Q. You also pleaded prescription, I think?—A. I think so.

Q. But you did not plead direct payment?—A. I pleaded a set-off of some kind.

Q. Where those notes paid at any time otherwise than by compensation?—A. They may have been.

Q. Were they?—A. I do not know.

Q. You are not prepared to swear they were?—A. No.

Q. After the contract for the Parliament Buildings here was completed, and in which you were interested, did you engage in a contract in Pennsylvania for the building of a railway?—A. The contract here was not terminated.

Q. Did you at any time?—A. Yes; I went out there in 1868.

Q. How long did the works last out there?—A. Three years.

Q. Who were your partners?—A. Mr. Ralph Jones, Frank Shanly and James Walsh, of Toronto.

Q. You four composed the firm of Jones, Shanly & Co.?—Yes.

Q. Did Thomas McGreevy advance money to the firm of Jones, Shanly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. In 1872, is it not the case that there was due to Thomas McGreevy by yourself and the other members of the firm of Jones, Shanly & Co. the sum of $59,798?—A. I do not know what the amount was.

Q. Was it about that amount?—A. Somewhere in that vicinity.

Q. It was represented by a number of promissory notes?—A. I do not know whether it was or not.

Q. Look at these promissory notes, and say whether these notes were signed by you and given in connection with that transaction?—A. As they were renewed they kept the whole of them. They may have several sets. These are all signed by myself, and as far as I can see by the other members of the firm. These represent renewals and all. There was perhaps three or four renewals.

Q. Will you look at these, and say which are the renewals and which are not?—A. It is hard, without putting them on the paper, to say which are renewals and which are not.

Q. Do you say that any of them are renewals?—A. It looks to me that some of them are.

Q. Will you swear that some of them are?—A. Quebec, four months from 13th February, 1875, that would come due in June.

Q. Are those renewals?—A. As far as I see, there are some.

Q. Will you state which of them are?—A. Not until I get time to do it.

Q. Which do you find there, are renewals?—A. The reason I say so is they are all different dates; therefore, if the notes were given they would have all one date.

Q. These are possibly renewals for notes that were running at the time?—A. Possibly not.

Q. Had you ever any litigation with your brother about any of them that were renewals?—A. No.

Q. You did not?—A. No.

Q. What did you plead with reference to the sum demanded by your brother from you of $59,798 for the advance to Jones, Shanly & Co.?—A. I pleaded prescription for one thing, and I pleaded that he had not settled with the other members of the firm for a certain sum, as a discharge of those notes. I think that was my plea.

Q. I think you adduced no evidence on the pretended settlement that you had pleaded, did you?—A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know whether you did or did not?—A. I don't know.

Q. So, you now say to the Committee that you adduced no evidence of the settlement you pleaded with Jones, Shanly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. You were manager, I think, for your brother when he was contractor of the North Shore Railway, were you?—A. Yes.

Q. For how many years?—A. From 1874 to 1882.

Q. During that time were you carrying on any other works of your own?—A. I don't think it.

Q. You were contractor for a section of the Intercolonial Railway, were you not?—A. Not at that time.

Q. But you were at one time?—A. Yes; that was from 1870 to 1874 or 1875.

Q. What section?—A. Section 18.

Q. Did your brother advance to you in connection with your contract?—A. He advanced a certain sum of money as representing his share.

Q. How much did he advance?—A. Oh, I don't know; about $100,000, I suppose.

Q. What period did those advances cover?—A. From 1870, the time of the contract, up to its completion, 1874 or 1875 and 1876.

Q. I think he sued in connection with his advances on that contract, did he not?—A. Yes; that is part of the suit.

Q. The amount that he demanded from you in connection with that contract was $170,000, was it not?—A. I think so.

Q. The result of the litigation was that the three first items in Jones, Shanly & Co's account, the notes representing the purchase of the contract in Ottawa, and the other three Ottawa notes, were declared by the court to be prescribed, or barred by the Statute of Limitations. Is not that so?—A. I don't know what the judgment of the court was.

Q. Did you ever see the judgment?—A. I don't think I did.

Q. Were you ever told of the judgment?—A. I was told it was a judgment of fifty or sixty thousand.

Q. Will you swear that you don't know that was the result of the judgment?—A. Only from hearsay.

Q. But that hearsay was from your counsel, Mr. Casgrain, was it not?—A. I think so.

Q. And the result of the judgment indicated to you by Mr. Casgrain, was it not that the court held those three accounts against you to be barred by the Statute of Limitation?—A. I think that was so.

Q. And the balance of $56,000 for which you were condemned was taken as an offset against what your brother received out of that Intercolonial Railway account?—A. No; I think not.

Q. All the offsets allowed were taken from the Intercolonial Railway account?—A. I don't know.

Q. Were there any offsets allowed against any of those other accounts that were declared to be barred by the Statute of Limitation?—A. I could not say.

Q. Did Mr. Casgrain tell you so?—A. I do not think he did.

Q. Did you discuss this judgment with him?—A. No; not much.

Q. Did you direct him to take it to a higher court?—A. I directed him to take it to the Court of Review.

Q. Without discussing it at all?—A. Without discussing it.

Q. Out of the Intercolonial Railway account there was deducted the contra account, a copy of which you produced this morning?—A. I do not know what was taken out of it.

Q. That account was taken out in any case?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Did you say this morning it was allowed at the court?—A. I said that the plaintiff admitted it.

Q. It was therefore deducted from the amount for which you were sued?—A. From the entire claim.

Q. Will you look at that, and say whether it is a copy of the judgment in the suit?—A. I cannot tell whether it is or not.

Q. Read it and see. Was there any other suit between Thomas McGreevy and Robert Henry McGreevy pending on the 9th February, 1891?—A. I do not think so.

Q. You know, as a matter of fact, not?—A. I think not.

Q. You said a moment ago that your brother contributed a certain amount as his share. What did you mean by that?—A. I mean with reference to the Intercolonial Railway; I mean that he was a partner with me in the construction.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Was your brother a member of the House of Commons at that time?—A. Yes, 1867.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. Do you recollect that your brother was a candidate for Parliament at the time the contract was going on, or about that time?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Mr. John O'Farrell, of Quebec, a candidate against him?—A. I think so.

Q. You know it, as a matter of fact?—A. Yes; in 1873 and 1874.

Q. Did Mr. O'Farrell charge that Mr. Thomas McGreevy was a partner with you in the Intercolonial Railway matter?—A. Charge what?

Q. Did he make the charge publicly that Thomas McGreevy was a partner with you in the Intercolonial Railway contract?—A. I do not think that he did. I think he did it in a petition for unseating him.

Q. Did he not make it on the hustings?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Can you say that you did not publish an affidavit at that time denying that Thomas McGreevy had any interest in the contract?—A. I may have done so.

Q. You may have published to the world, on your oath, that your brother was not a partner with you, and now you say it is true that he was?—A. It is easily explained. He was a partner up to the time of that election, as I stated in my pleadings; but inasmuch as there was a danger of his seat being contested, on that account he requested me to destroy all papers in connection with his partnership, and then, of course, I was at liberty to take an affidavit that he was clear. But I made no affidavit while I was in possession of the papers.

Q. So it was the destruction of the papers that justified you in saying that he was not a partner?—A. Because he ceased to be a partner in 1873.

Q. This affidavit was published during the time the election was coming on?—A. I am not sure.

Q. To the best of your recollection it was so?—A. No; it is not.

Q. It was in answer to the charge made on the hustings that your brother was interested with you. Was it?—A. I do not think it was.

Q. It is extremely likely?—A. It may be likely.

Q. These papers that established the partnership, as you say, were they destroyed at the time the election was coming on?—A. I do not know exactly when they were destroyed, but it was in either 1872 or 1873 they were destroyed.

Q. They were destroyed before the nomination and return?—A. I could not say now which.

Q. Who was present when these papers were destroyed?—A. Nobody.

Q. Who witnessed the destruction of the papers?—A. Nobody.

Q. Where was the destruction of the papers done?—A. The destruction of the papers was done at the time, and as he stated on his part he would destroy any he had. Then, on that understanding I thought he was at the end of the partnership.

Q. As a matter of fact, is it not the case that the affidavit made then and published was to the effect that your brother had not been, and never had an interest in your Intercolonial Railway contract?—A. I do not know that it did; but if it did, I was bound to make some declaration to protect him.

Q. To protect your brother?—A. At his request, I might say. It could only be formal, however.

Q. It did not dissolve the partnership?—A. No; it was to save him.

Q. To save him you published an affidavit that your brother was not, and had not been interested with you in the Intercolonial Railway contract. Do you say that?—A. I do not say it is.

Q. Is it?—A. I do not say.

Q. You have already done so?—A. I say I may have done so.

Q. You gave instructions for the drafting of your pleadings in the litigation of McGreevy vs. McGreevy, did you not?—A. I think not.

Q. Did you see the pleas before they were put in?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Do you say you did not?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Will you swear the papers were not read to you before they were filed? Were they, or were they not?—A. I could not say.

Q. You won't swear that they were read to you?—A. I will not.

Q. As a matter of fact, is it not true that your counsel and solicitor, Mr. Casgrain, refused to sign and file the plea in that case until such time as he had read it to you?—A. I do not know.

Q. Is it so or is it not?—A. I do not know; I could not say.

Q. Do you not recollect your going to Mr. Casgrain's office, and his reading the plea to you, in order that you might take the responsibility of it?—A. I do not.

Q. You swear you did not?—A. I do not swear I did or did not.

Q. Will you swear the plea was not read to you?—A. I won't swear that it was.

Q. Did you read the plea?—A. I may or may not have read it.

Q. I want to know if you did?—A. I may have or may not.

Q. Did you read it at any time?—A. I did.

Q. Does it contain the truth?—A. I suppose it does.

Q. Does it or does it not contain the truth?—A. I do not know, I am sure. I suppose these pleadings as he submitted them were right.

Q. As you read them, they contained the truth?—A. Practically.

Q. The result of the judgment in the case was that the judge disbelieved your plea that your brother was a partner with you in the Intercolonial Railway Contract; did he not?—A. I do not know that he did.

Q. As a matter of fact, he did not hold that part to be proved?—A. I do not know.

Q. Did you adduce any evidence of the fact?—A. I could not; I had none to produce.

Q. You questioned your brother, I think, under oath on the subject?—A. I think so.

Q. And he said it was not true, did he not?—A. I think so.

Q. Did you ever render account to your brother in connection with the Intercolonial contract?—A. He kept the accounts himself.

Q. You swear he kept the accounts himself?—A. They were in his office.

Q. You swear that?—A. Mr. Chaloner—

Q. Was it he or Mr. Chaloner who kept the accounts?—A. It was between them.

Q. Did he or Mr. Chaloner keep the accounts?—A. I do not know. It was either of them. I took Mr. Chaloner's word always. It was the same as his as regards the accounts.

Q. And Mr. Chaloner kept the accounts?—A. So he said himself.

Q. So Mr. Chaloner said?—A. Yes.

Q. I will read you a paragraph from your plea, Mr. McGreevy, "That in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-three the plaintiff having again been a candidate for re-election at the general elections for the said House of Commons of Canada and having been re-elected to sit for the said electoral division of Quebec West against one John O'Farrell, of the city of Quebec, Esquire, advocate, who was also a candidate at such election, the election of the said plaintiff was contested and his right to sit for the said constituency was controverted and a petition contesting plaintiff's said election was filed and presented, demanding the avoidance of said election on the ground and for the reason, among others, that the said plaintiff having an interest in a contract for the building of a public work under the Government of Canada, to wit: in the construction of a part of the said Intercolonial Railway of Canada and holding, undertaking and executing a contract or agreement with and for the Government of Canada for which the public moneys of Canada were and are to be paid, was ineligible as a member of the said House of Commons and disqualified to sit as such; and that thereupon in order to do away with any written proof of the said herein alleged facts, the said plaintiff requested the defendant to destroy all the said documents, letters, missives and papers evidencing and containing the said contract, agreements and stipulations between the said parties herein above alleged."

Q. Is that allegation true?—A. I thought it was true.

Q. Is that allegation true?—A. I thought it was true.

Q. But is it true now? It is immaterial what you thought then?—A. It is the same now as then.

Q. You say it is true now?—A. I think so.

Q. Was your brother's election contested by O'Farrell?—A. I thought so then.

Q. Was it, as a matter of fact?—A. Well, I don't know, but I alleged that it was.

Q. I don't care what you alleged. I want to know whether your brother's election was contested by O'Farrell at that time?—A. I don't know.

Q. As a matter of fact, do you not know it was never contested?—A. I don't know.

Q. When you came to prove this plea before the courts, did you adduce any evidence upon that point?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you seek to adduce any evidence upon it?—A. I had none.

Q. Did you go to Mr. John O'Farrell to see if you could prove that fact—if it were true?—A. I did not.

Q. Was he not in Quebec?—A. He may have been for all I know.

Q. You know he lives in Quebec, and is there pretty nearly all the time?—A. I do.

Q. Did you see him upon the subject?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you search the files of the court to see whether there was a petition on record against your brother by him?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you search the files or in any way make any attempt to examine them to see whether, if there was a petition against your brother, what it would contain?—A. I did not.

Q. In other words, did you not try to substantiate that charge in the least?—A. I did not.

Q. A more recent case in which you were concerned was a transaction between yourself and O. E. Murphy for a $400,000 note of Michael Connolly's, transferred to you by O. E. Murphy, was it not?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you look at the note produced here as Exhibit "D10," and state whether that is the note that was transferred to you by O. E. Murphy, and upon which you instituted that suit?—A. I have already been examined in that case, and my evidence is on record. I ask the Committee whether I am open for examination in a case in which I have already given my evidence before the court?

The CHAIRMAN.—This case is not before the court. You have to answer the question.

WITNESS.—That is the note.

Q. The note is in these words: "On demand I promise to pay to Mr. E. Murphy or order 400,000 dollars, for value received, without defalcation or discount." Signed by Michael Connolly, endorsed to the order of R. H. McGreevy and E. Murphy, without recourse. You instituted a suit upon that note against Mr. Michael Connolly, did you not?

Q. That suit was instituted on the 4th June, 1890?—A. About May, I think.

Q. The plea was fraud, want of consideration, and conspiracy between yourself and O. E. Murphy, was it not?—A. I don't know what the plea was.

Q. You did not see the plea?—A. I may have seen it at the time.

Q. The plea was not read to you by your counsel?—A. Yes; it was.

Q. Well, in substance, it was fraud, want of consideration and conspiracy, was it not?—A. You have got it there; you can see for yourself.

Q. I am asking you?—A. It may not. You have it here now, and you can see exactly what it was.

Q. I will read the paragraphs from the plea:

"The pretended promissory note declared upon was obtained by the said O. E. Murphy falsely and fraudulently about nine or ten years ago and he never at any time gave, nor did the defendant receive any valuable consideration whatsoever therefor.

"The plaintiff in this cause never gave any valuable consideration whatsoever for the said pretended note, and has always been aware that the same was obtained and held by the said Owen E. Murphy falsely and fraudulently, and wholly without consideration.

"The present action is the result of a conspiracy between the said Murphy and the plaintiff to harass, injure, and defraud the defendant, both well knowing that no value was ever given for the said pretended note, and that the defendant was never indebted to the said Murphy; that the said O. E. Murphy never had nor was intended to have any right of property whatever in the said pretended note, no value having been given by the said McGreevy to the former therefor."

Q. Motion for particulars was made in this case. You were asked in the course of these proceedings to give details of the consideration that was given by O. E. Murphy to Michael Connolly for the note in question?—A. (No answer.)

The CHAIRMAN.—The witness will please answer the question.

The WITNESS.—My answer is in the record of the case.

Q. Was there or was there not a bill of particulars filed?—A. I will give you no other answer.

Q. Why?—A. Because my answer and testimony is in the record.

Mr. STUART.—I ask you, Mr. Chairman, to instruct the witness that he is bound to answer?—A. You only want to catch me.

Q. I only want the truth?—A. I gave my answer. My evidence and answer is in the case.

Q. Will you look at the bill of particulars filed in No. 1320 and state whether that is the bill of particulars you filed?—A. I cannot tell you, I am sure.

Q. You do not know. Did you prepare the bill of particulars?—A. I did.

Q. With O. E. Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you hand it to your attorney, Mr. Casgrain?—A. Yes.

Q. Is that Mr. Casgrain's signature?—A. I do not know.

---

Mr. ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL recalled.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Is that the bill of particulars filed in the case in question?—A. Yes; it is the bill of particulars in the case of Robert H. McGreevy vs. Connolly.

---

Mr. R. H. MCGREEVY's cross-examination resumed.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Is that the bill of particulars you authorized your lawyer to give?—A. Yes; that is very like it.

Q. Then you have seen it before?—A. I think I have.

Q. That is the bill of particulars filed in the case under your instructions?—A. I do not know whether it is the bill of particulars; I saw one like it.

Q. Was that the bill of particulars filed in the case?—A. Something like it.

Q. Does it differ in any respect from the one filed?—A. It may, for aught I know.

Q. Could you point out any differences?—A. No.

Q. One of the items in this bill of particulars, furnished by Owen Murphy to the defendant, Michael Connolly, reads as follows: (It is the last item) "Special sum he realized by the raising of the bottom of the sewer of South-wall contract of 3 feet, $35,000." Is that so or not?—A. That the sewer was raised?

Q. No; that that was the last item of the bill of particulars furnished by you in the case?—A. I do not say I furnished this. I see $35,000 mentioned.

Q. Did you give that information for the last item in the bill of particulars?—A. I did.

Q. Did you give the other information for the bill of particulars?—A. I did.

Mr. STUART then announced that he would not be prepared to proceed further with the cross-examination of this witness to-day.

Mr. JOHN BENSON WILLIAMS, sworn.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Where do you reside now?—A. In Quebec.

Q. Do you know Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I do.

Q. Do you know Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Sir Hector Langevin?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you been a public employé at any time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. During what years?—A. 1885, 1886, 1887 and part of 1888.

Q. What is your profession?—A. Civil Engineer.

Q. Were you approached by anybody and asked whether you would go and work as Resident Engineer on certain works which were going on in British Columbia?—A. In the month of May (I think it was May, 1885) I was employed as a sessional clerk—an extra writer in the House. I was met by Mr. Thomas McGreevy in the grounds outside this building on my way up, and he told me to call on Mr. Perley, Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department. He told me Mr. Perley wanted to see me. I did so.

Q. What was the conversation you had with Mr. Perley?—A. Mr. Perley told me that the Department thought of making some changes in the position of Resident Engineer of the Esquimaux Dock, I think it was. He asked me if I was capable of taking such a charge as that. I told him I was. He said there had been a letter written from the Department of Public Works to the Department of Railways and Canals asking them if they could recommend a suitable person for that work, and that no answer had been received up to that date, although it was two or three days before that the letter had been written. He asked me to call again at the end of the week, when he would be able to speak to me more definitely on the subject, as by that time he expected an answer would have been received from the Department of Railways and Canals.

Q. Did he tell you by whom the letter was sent to that department?—A. He said it was sent by the Department of Public Works. Whether he meant himself or not I do not know.

Q. And he expected there would be an answer in the course of a week?—A. He said if he did not get an answer in the course of that week he would then be in a position to speak definitely with me on the subject.

Q. What passed then?—A. Mr. Perley then said if I would call upon him in a few days he would let me know more. In the meantime, he handed to me the printed tenders showing the position of the work at that time.

Q. Where?—A. Out in British Columbia. He told me that I might read them over, that I might take it with me to the office, which I did, and I read them. At the close of the time that he had specified I returned to see him, and he then made me a definite offer of the position in British Columbia without any further explanation. I put no questions to him; I did not know the name of the party then occupying the position, and he did not make any reference to it or the reasons for the change, simply that the progress of the work was not satisfactory. That is all I knew about it.

Q. You did not understand that there was a vacancy by death, but that you had to replace somebody there?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you give him an answer immediately?—A. No, sir. I asked him for 24 hours to consider the matter.

Q. Did you see anybody else besides Mr. Perley about that position that was offered to you?—A. Not at that time.

Q. Well, later on?—A. The next morning I sent in a letter to Sir Hector Langevin and also one to Mr. Perley, explaining my reasons for declining the position.

Q. You had decided to decline?—A. I decided to decline, and wrote my reasons for it. I saw Sir Hector and gave him my reasons, and he approved of them. I was afterwards appointed to the charge of the surveys and improvements on the North Saskatchewan River. I had made no application for this other position.

Q. You say you wrote to the Minister. Had you been informed by Mr. Perley that what he was offering you was with the authority and sanction of the Minister?—A. The impression he gave me was that he was acting by the consent of the Minister.

Q. From what you heard you thought he was acting officially?—A. Yes.

Q. You got that impression?—A. I was always under that impression that it was with the authority of the Minister that he was acting.

Q. And you declined the position?—A. I wrote a letter to Sir Hector declining the position and one to Mr. Perley to the same effect.

Q. When you had the interview with Sir Hector, had he received the letter from you?—A. Certainly. He had acknowledged he had received the letter and he approved of my reasons for declining.

Q. Did he make any statement which showed he was unaware of the offer that had been made?—A. No.

Q. Did I understand you to say that it was during session that this offer was made?—A. It was during the long session of 1885; it was, I think, in the month of May some time. I do not recollect the time.

Q. And perhaps the first intimation you had that you were wanted for that purpose was by Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Mr. Thomas McGreevy met me here in the grounds on the way up to work—the Honourable Thomas McGreevy M.P., I mean. He asked me if I had seen Mr. Perley, and told me to call upon him at once. During the morning I went over to the Department of Public Works and saw him.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You had no other conversation with Mr. Thomas McGreevy, he simply told you to call on Mr. Perley?—That was all.

Q. You had no communication with Mr. Thomas McGreevy, nor had you any communication with, or interest in the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.? You had nothing to do with them?—A. Nothing whatever.

Q. You were a stranger to all parties, as far as business relations were concerned?—A. Yes; as far as business relations were concerned. I was not at that time acquainted with either Larkin or Connolly.

Q. What other engineering work have you been in charge of?—A. I served on the Baie des Chaleurs Railway.

Q. Under whom?—A. Well, at that time I had been engaged by Mr. Sénécal, who was interested in that road, and I went down there more to examine into the land grant as an expert, but when I arrived there, being in want of an engineer, they asked me to assist Mr. Grant, who was in charge.

Q. In which location?—A. In the location of the road.

Q. And before that?—A. Well, before that I had been for fifteen years superintendent of the Montmorency Mills, for my uncle, Mr. Hall, who is proprietor. I served there until Mr. Hall died.

Q. Had you any experience in public works?—A. I have had experience in all that concerns engineering work.

Q. What is your present appointment?—A. I have none, sir, just at present.

Q. What was your last appointment?—A. When I was sent for to come here I was about trying to get work under the Provincial Government.

Q. What was your last employment?—A. It was in explorations and exploratory services on the Bonaventure River, and in the Metapedia Valley.

Q. For whom?—A. For private individuals.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Did you tell Mr. Perley when you went to him who sent you?—A. Yes, sir; I told him just what I stated here; Mr. Thomas McGreevy had told me to call on him. I was not at that time acquainted with Mr. Perley. I introduced myself to him, but he evidently expected me.

Q. You told him you had been sent to him by Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. What were those mills with which you were connected professionally for some fifteen years?—A. The mills at Montmorency Falls, Quebec.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Did Mr. Perley enquire from you as to your experience and qualifications for this kind of work?—A. He simply asked me. He knew I was an engineer—I think the Minister was well aware of it—and I applied whenever there would be any opportunity for a position, as I would like work of that kind.

Q. To whom had you applied?—A. To Sir Hector himself. I knew him in Quebec, personally; it was he who had given me my sessional appointment.

Q. And you knew Mr. Thomas McGreevy pretty well?—A. I had.

Q. At that time?—A. I have known him for many years. He lives in Quebec, and I have lived there, or near there, for a good many years.

Q. Had he any means of knowing your professional capacity at all?—A. Well, I think indirectly he did, not through any work I had ever done for him, but he knew that I had applied for positions in that profession.

By Mr. Tupper :

Q. What position have you applied for under the Provincial Government?—A. Nothing at all in particular. I approached the Minister there lately. I had the hope before I came up here of doing something, but my business here has rather interfered with that.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Have you had any experience in such works as the Esquimalt Graving Dock?—A. Well, sir, by education; I am a graduate of the United States Military Academy. I served through the Civil War there, and afterwards came to Canada, and for a long time served my uncle, Mr. Hall, at the Falls, as superintendent of those mills.

Q. Was that your first appointment after you left the college? you served in the war?—A. Well, as an engineer officer. I am both a military and civil engineer.

Q. And then you came to Canada and served fifteen years at a saw mill?—A. Well, at first I was superintendent of the mills. Afterwards I became general superintendent of the property, exploratory service surveys, etc.

Q. You have not had any experience in building docks and public works?—A. No. I have been engaged in works not exactly like that as a young man—canals, for instance—and I had some practical knowledge of all sort of engineering work—bridges and masonry of every description.

Q. At the time you were offered this though, it was I suppose thirty years at least since you had any experience?—A. Yes, sir; in that special work. I have never been engaged in any kind of work like that, not for twenty years.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. Had you any letter from the Department?—A. No, sir

Q. It was by word of mouth?—A. Yes, sir; I have no letters, except a letter of appointment in the month of July. That was after the session that I was appointed as engineer in charge of the surveys and improvements on the North Saskatchewan.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Tuesday, 28th July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m. ; Mr. Girouard in the chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour works, etc, resumed.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY, re-called.

Mr. STUART—I am not in a position to go on with an extended cross-examination until such time as I am permitted access to the diaries of Mr. McGreevy, and that access has been denied me. I would like Mr. McGreevy to produce the note for $7,500 referred to in his examination, as having been given to Larkin, Connolly & Co., at the time of the Cross-wall contract.

WITNESS—I want to make some corrections in my evidence of Thursday and Friday. It is just as well that it should be made now as later. At page 604 of the Evidence, I am made to refer to a letter addressed by Mr. Perley to Larkin, Connolly & Co. What I wanted to say was, it was a similar letter as the Beaucage one I referred to at the time. It reads as though I referred to Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s letter. The letter shown to me is a letter to the same purport. I also wish to correct the evidence respecting the dredging of 1887, but I will do that when it is printed.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you produce a note for $7,500, in connection with the Cross-wall contract?—A. I have not got it.

Q. You were directed to produce here all the notes and cheques in connection with this transaction?—A. Yes, but I don't know that I have it; I produced all that I had.

Q. You have not searched for it?—A. Not particularly for that; it may be in the bundle that I gave to the accountants, for all I know.

Q. Well, I would ask you to go through the papers and produce it if you can, I am not going on with your cross-examination now. There is a note of Thomas McGreevy's for $3,000, referred to in your contra account which I would also like you to produce. You know the note I referred to?—A. It is a note discounted by Murphy for me I think.

Q. You were also required to produce the original statement, signed by you, and published in the Le Canadien, April, 1890, have you got that?—A. I have not.

Mr. Tarte stated that he had the document and would produce it.

Q. You were asked to make search for any other books you had and stated you would do so, have you done so?—A. Any other books?

Q. Yes; books of account?—A. I have written home and they will search up all the papers, sheets, or notes, or any books, and I expect them here, if there is any, in a day or two.

Q. You made no search yourself?—A. The order was given to the young man in charge of the books.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You only produce the books from 1883?—A. Yes.

Q. Why not before that?—A. I was not ordered; I was only asked from 1883 to 1887 inclusive.

Q. Have you diaries for 1881 and 1882?—A. Yes, I have.

Q. And in 1888 as well—you had better produce them?—A. I will send home for them.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. There are three entries on page four of Exhibit "U13." I should like you to have the ledger in which those entries are contained or posted. They refer to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. The index of the ledger refers to the account, but the items in the journal of January 18th, 1884, are not in the ledger; not as far as I see.

Q. I see that in the journal there is a reference to the folio of the ledger? Will you look and see whether, under that folio, the entries are posted?—A. They are not there.

Q. Is there any other ledger in which that would be posted?—A. There is no other ledger.

Q. Well, then, what do those figures refer to, indicating as I believe posting?—A. They indicate the folio of the account in the ledger.

Q. So that in the ledger you have now produced, as being your only ledger, these items are not posted?—A. They are not posted.

Q. You don't find them posted at all in the ledger?—A. No.

Q. Can you explain to us, how it appears, that in the journal those three items appear to be posted to a particular folio, and are not posted at all or contained in the book?—A. I cannot explain because I did not keep the books.

Q. You still maintain that the ledger you now have in your hand is the only ledger you have got?—A. It is the only ledger I have got.

Q. And the only ledger you have ever had?—A. I think so.

Q. Are you sure?—A. Pretty sure.

Q. Are you perfectly sure?—A. There is so little perfect, that we do not know.

Q. I should like you to be as sure as possible?—A. That is as perfect as I can be.

Q. Are you quite sure that is the only ledger you have?—A. I am almost quite certain this is the only ledger I have or had.

Q. And you cannot offer any explanation as to why these three items which appear to have been posted to some folio in the ledger are not posted at all?—A. I cannot offer any explanation, as I did not keep the books.

Q. At folio 6 I also find two entries referring to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway which appear to have been posted at folio 5 of the ledger—the first and third entries at the top of the page. Will you state whether these were posted or not?—A. I did not see them entered.

Q. Just read to the Committee what is contained on folio 5 of the ledger?—A. On May 10th, 1890, there appears the debit of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company, 660 shares of capital stock at $50 per share, $33,000.

Q. That is the only entry on the page of the ledger?—A. Yes.

Q. I would like to direct your attention to folios 8 and 9 of your journal in which there are four entries with reference to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway which appear to have been posted in the same folio in the ledger and ask if you can give us any explanation as to where that appears?—A. There is nothing on folio 5. I see one of the references is to folio 13. The one referring to page 13 is carried to page 13 of the ledger.

Q. Folio 13 of the ledger is not the Baie des Chaleurs account?—A. Yes.

Q. If I am not mistaken it is Hugh O'Donnell?—A. It is connected with that.

Q. But there are none of these items posted at page 5?—A. No, none. There is nothing at page 5.

Q. I would like to call your attention to pages 10, 11, 12, 14, 17, 18, 19, 22 and 33 on all of which there appear to be entries with reference to Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company apparently posted to page 5 of the ledger, and ask whether you have any explanation to give of the fact that they are not so posted?—A. I see nothing at page 5 of the ledger except the stock entry of $33,000, to which I have just referred.

Mr. STUART—I think it is perfectly apparent that we have not got the book or ledger into which the entries from this journal have been posted. I would ask the order of the Committee in the sense which this fact indicates.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. I understood you to say that the party who made these entries and who posted the books would be better able to say whether there was any ledger or not?—A. I am quite certain that there is no other ledger, and that my son who is on the survey back of Lotbinière will be able to come here and explain thoroughly and smash that theory of Mr. Stuart's to pieces. The entry he is now asking about relates to labour expended on the road during the time I was contractor—that is, engineers and labourers. That was embodied in the $5,000, which I sent in the account to Thomas McGreevy. I sent him an account for $5,000, for the work and money I spent. He admitted the amount was due to me and I have closed the account.

Q. I think they are marked as having been posted on a particular page of the ledger?—A. I have said they are not posted.

Q. That would seem to indicate that there was some other ledger into which they had been posted?—A. There is no other ledger or book or paper, not a sheet or scrap, to my knowledge but I have brought. At a later period, I think that will be explained.

By the Chairman :

Q. You say you have no other ledger?—A. I have not.

Q. Your son is in the woods now?—A. Yes.

Q. Where?—A. On the Lotbinière road.

Q. Can you get him here soon?—A. I think he will be here within a few days.

Q. Will you make efforts to get him?—A. I have already started. It is difficult to reach him at present.

Q. Your sons who were here last week? Could not they explain the nature of the ledger?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. How long is it since your son went away?—A. The early part of May.

MR. H. LAFORCE LANGEVIN SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. What is your occupation?—A. Civil Engineer on the Harbour works at Quebec.

Q. How long have you been working in your professional capacity on those works?—A. Seven years on the 1st of May last.

Q. Prior to that date were you a practical engineer?—A. I had been working on different works for the Department of Public Works and for private individuals.

Q. On what works?—A. If you want to refer to the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers the history is there.

Q. I have not got that list. You try to remember?—A. You may refer to the Secretary of the society.

By the Chairman :

Q. Give the information yourself to the best of your knowledge?—A. If the Committee want it I can give the full list.

Q. Give it to the best of your knowledge as full as you can?—A. Well, I have been on works for the Department of Public Works, on the Graving Dock at Lévis, on the Quebec Harbour Works afterwards, on the Cross-wall contract, and the South-wall. Last year I did special work on the Graving Dock at Lévis.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You mentioned also that you had been employed by private parties or on private works. Can you remember any?—A. Yes; if I remember aright, for Mr. Lortie, making plans of something or other.

Q. Mr. Lortie of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. When was it?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Several years ago?—A. Three or four years ago, I suppose.

Q. You say they were for private works; were they not for the drill shed at Quebec?—A. No.

Q. What kind of plans were they?—A. It was to make a kind of survey whether he could not have a better plan than the Government plan.

Q. For the drill shed?—A. No, for the drainage for the citadel.

Q. Whether he could not have a better plan than the Government plan?—A. Yes. I do not know anything of the Government plan.

Q. You say you were first employed on the Graving Dock at Lévis?—A. Yes.

Q. When was it?—A. It was the two or three first years.

Q. The two or three first years of the work?—A. No. When Mr. Pilkington went away.

Q. And the first year after Mr. Perley was appointed. Would that not be in 1883?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Mr. Perley was not the Resident Engineer; who was the Resident Engineer?—A. The Resident Engineer was Mr. Boyd.

Q. What was your work; to what particular kind of work were you attached?—A. I was doing all sorts of work, road man, chain man and inspector sometimes.

Q. You were not an engineer then, you were an apprentice?—A. I was an apprentice.

Q. This was your first engineering work?—A. No, before that.

Q. What had you done before that in a professional capacity?—A. I went on an expedition for the Des Joachims bridge with Mr. Hamel. I never received any pay from the Department.

Q. How old were you then?—A. I do not remember; I do not remember the year.

Q. You were only accompanying the expedition; you did no work yourself?—A. We made the survey and put up the bridge.

Q. What kind of work was it?—A. A bridge at Des Joachims.

Q. Across the river?—A. Yes.

Q. What kind of work?—A. I was assistant engineer to Mr. Hamel.

Q. Did you ever make any special studies in engineering?—A. Yes, Sir, I do all the time.

Q. At what university or college?—A. At the Seminary at Quebec and afterwards the University.

Q. Is that all the engineering which you learned at the University?—A. I made two years of study besides that privately.

Q. When did you make those private studies?—A. That is about nine years ago.

Q. How old are you?—A. Thirty years of age.

Q. When you made your private studies were you alone or under the tuition of a special professor?—A. All my chiefs helped me as much as possible.

Q. Oh, you made special studies while employed on these works?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you graduate as a civil engineer?—A. No, Sir.

Q. Did you try?—A. No, Sir.

Q. While you were at the Lévis Graving Dock in whose employ were you?—A. I was under Mr. Boyd's employ—the Harbour Commission.

Q. Under a monthly salary?—A. Yes, Sir.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Who was the professor of civil engineering at the University?—A. Professor Laflamme.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Is the professor of engineering the Priest, Rev. Mr. Laflamme?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you claim he teaches engineering?—A. He is a scientist and engineering enters into his work—forms part of his studies.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Is there any regular course of engineering at Laval Univeristy, and was there then?—A. I have no business to state.

Q. You mean Mr. Laflamme may have studied engineering?—A. He has to do it to make his lecture.

By Mr. Lavergne :

Q. Did you not study mathematics as do the other pupils?—A. Yes.

Q. And all the engineering you studied was what you studied at Laval?—A. Besides that I studied engineering with Professor Paradis.

Q. But at the University, it was the ordinary course of mathematics which all the scholars study there?—A. Yes.

Q. Nothing more special than that?—A. I made special studies as I stated before, besides that.

Q. At the University?—A. No, with Mr. Paradis.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. How long ago?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Is it two years, five years, or seven years that you studied with Mr. Paradis?—A. I stated before that I studied 9 years ago.

Q. With Mr. Paradis?—A. With him and the other Professors.

Q. You tell us that Mr. Paradis was one of your professors?—A. Yes he was.

Q. How many years ago was that?—A. About 8 or 9 years.

Q. Do you swear that positively?—A. I swear positively that it was 8 or 9 years ago.

Q. What is Mr. Paradis's first name?—A. Edmond.

Q. He lives in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. He is Priest and Professor of Mathematics in the Seminary at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever had any other professor than those two, Abbé Laflamme and Mr. Paradis to teach you civil engineering?—A. I had all my chiefs.

Q. That is since you were employed on the works, of course; but besides that?—A. No. I do not remember whether I had any.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You stated you are in the employ of the Harbour Commissioners at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Did your appointment follow the arrival of Mr. Perley as Chief Engineer, or how long after his appointment were you appointed?—A. I was appointed the same time as Mr. Boyd.

Q. And you say that you worked at Lévis for about 3 years?—A. About that.

Q. Then you were transferred to the Quebec Harbour works?—A. Yes.

Q. When in the Quebec Harbour did you also act there in your professional capacity as engineer?—A. Yes.

Q. How long did you work in the Quebec Harbour?—A. Four years about.

Q. When did you cease to work?—A. Last summer, on the last of August; but I was replaced right off?

Q. By somebody else?—A. No, by the Commission.

Q. "Replaced," you say; you mean reinstated?—A. Yes, reinstated, I mean.

Q. Are you still in the employ of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes

Q. So since 8 years, you are in the employ of the Quebec Harbour Commission?
—A. Seven years on the 1st of May last.

Q. On the 1st of May last, you had been in the employ of the Harbour Commissioners for 7 years?—A. Yes.

Q. Receiving a regular salary?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you always received the same salary?—A. No, sir.

Q. What was your first salary?—A. $60 a month.

Q. When did the first change in your salary take place?—A. I would have to refer to my papers.

Q. Can you give us about the time, was it two or three years afterwards?—A. Three years afterwards.

Q. An increase to how much?—A. $75.

Q. Was there another increase?—A. There was another increase in about a year and a half afterwards, or two years.

Q. How much?—A. To $90.

Q. And what is your present salary?—A. $150.

Q. Were you increased from $90 to $150? How did that increase take place?
A. When Mr. Boyd died I was appointed, with Mr. Charles McGreevy, as assistant engineer to Mr. Boswell.

Q. On what works were you engaged when your salary was increased to $1,800 a year?—A. I was engaged on the South-wall.

Q. Well, during this period had you not also been in the employ of the Public Works Department, and in receipt of a salary from the Department?—A. No, it was not a salary, it was just a remuneration for certain work that had to be done, and I had special permission to do it outside of my office work.

Q. From whom did you receive that permission?—A. From my own chief, because he could not attend there himself.

Q. Who?—A. Mr. Boswell.

Q. You were engaged on these very works yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. And yet you claim that this was special work?—A. Yes.

Q. And you received special remuneration, as you call it?—A. Yes.

Q. From the Public Works Department?—A. Yes.

Q. And it was a work of the Quebec Harbour Commission?—A. It was the Graving Dock at Lévis last year. There was a special vote for certain work.

Q. And you were authorized by your chief, Mr. Boswell, to do that work?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you been authorized to do that work, and receive remuneration from Public Works Department, by the Harbour Commission?—A. The Harbour Commission, when they appointed me, told me to refer in anything that referred to the engineering part of the work, only to my own chief.

Q. What I want to know is, whether, as a matter of fact, you had been authorized by the Harbour Commission to work for the Public Works Department, during the time for which you were paid a salary?—A. The only authorization I had to have was from my own chief, Mr. Boswell.

Q. That is your opinion, that was the only authorisation you required?—
A. Yes.

Q. And you have stated you were employed by the Harbour Commission?—
A. Yes, sir.

Q. And notwithstanding that, you claim that you had not to get leave from the Harbour Commission, to absent yourself from their work?—A. No, sir; I did not absent myself from the work.

Q. Well, to give your time to something else? You swear you did not absent yourself from the work attending to special work at Lévis?—A. No, when there was anything special to do on the Harbour works I had to be there, and I was there.

Q. And when there was something to do at Lévis Dock, you had to be there and you were there?—A. Yes.

Q. How long were you employed at that special work at Lévis?—A. Three or four months; four months I think.

Q. During what months?—A. The beginning of June, and we finished at the end of September I think, or October.

Q. That was last year?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What work was it?—A. It was just fencing, and repairing the work-shops, engine room, and different works like that.

Q. What was the amount of money voted and spent on these special works at Lévis?—A. That amount is marked; I don't know.

Q. You know the works and you don't know how much they cost?—A. Yes, but I don't remember exactly.

Q. Were you superintending the works or under the orders of the chief?—A. I was superintending the work.

Q. It was upon your reports that the estimates were made?—A. I made my reports to Mr. Coste, of the Public Works Department, who was in charge.

Q. And you cannot say how much money was voted for that work or how much money was spent?—A. I could not say until I had seen my papers.

Q. Could you give me an approximate amount?—A. No; I don't know.

Q. Will you say how much you received for your remuneration?—A. That is another thing I don't remember.

Q. It was last year?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you cannot remember anything near it?—A. I could tell you if I made it up.

Q. Well, make it up?—A. I have not got the papers here.

Q. Were you paid by the month or Commission on the amount spent?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was there any agreement as to the amount you were to receive before you took charge of the work?—A. No.

Q. You never stipulated any remuneration before beginning work?—A. No.

Q. You went there blind?—A. Yes.

Q. When you reported your work finished, did you write for your remuneration?—A. I wrote once, yes.

Q. To whom did you write?—A. To Mr. Coste.

Q. Did you keep a copy of the letter you wrote?—A. I believe so.

Q. You have not a copy of that letter, have you?—A. Not here.

Q. Can you state to the Committee what the purport of that letter was—did it mention or name your remuneration?—A. It was mentioning that I should be paid.

Q. Did you name any amount?—A. No.

Q. At whose request did you take charge of these works?—A. At Mr. Coste's request.

Q. So, during these works, you were officially connected only with Mr. Coste?—A. Yes, the only one.

Q. After you wrote to Mr. Coste, claiming remuneration without naming the sum, did you receive an answer from Mr. Coste?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you keep that letter?—A. It must be with the other papers.

Q. When you received the letter you may have kept it—did you keep the letter you received?—A. I think so.

Q. Where is it?—A. It must be at home.

Q. In Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Did that letter mention the amount that was allowed to you for the work you had superintended?—A. I could not state that.

Q. It was interesting to you though?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. Did the letter contain a cheque, or a voucher, paying you your remuneration?—A. No.

Q. When did you receive that remuneration?—A. I don't remember.

Q. Was it after the works were finished?—A. The account must be there; he told me to make an account I suppose.

Q. Are you sure he told you to make an account in his letter?—A. I am not sure.

Q. Well did you make one?—A. Every time I got paid, I had to make an account.

Q. Well, did you get paid after the works were completed?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long after—a month?—A. About.

Q. So you would have been paid about the end of October or beginning of November last, because you said you finished work in September?—A. Yes, about.

Q. Were you paid in a lump sum?—A. No, I was paid three or four times.

Q. Well, you told me you were paid only after the works were completed?—A. No, I did not state that; I could not state that.

Q. You mean then that you were paid the balance coming to you only after the works were finished—you had received instalments during the work?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, cannot you give us in round figures the total that you received?—A. As I stated before, I could not make it up now.

Q. Was it $500?—A. It must be about that.

Q. Was it $600?—A. Oh, no.

Q. Was it $400?—A. It must be between $400 and $500.

Q. Do you know whether the Harbour Commissioners were aware you were there, superintending the work at Lévis?—A. Yes.

Q. When did they become aware of that?—A. As soon as I started.

Q. Is it not a fact you were called before the Harbour Commissioners and examined before them?—A. Yes.

Q. And this took place only after the works were completed?—A. At the end; they were not completed entirely.

Q. Was it not at the end of September, you were called before the Harbour Commissioners, to answer to them for what you had been doing outside of their work?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you examined under oath there, or did you make a statement?—A. Yes.

Q. And do you swear that it was not on that day only, the Harbour Commission had discovered you had been employed somewhere else, but on their work?—A. I always believed they knew it.

Q. But, is it not a fact, you then discovered they did not know it before?—A. No.

Q. Is it not a fact you were censured for having been on other works than theirs, and that there is a resolution in the Minutes to that effect?—A. Well, the Harbour Commissioners called me on a charge that had been made against me by Captain Bernier; that is why I was called in, it was not on account of the works entirely.

Q. They did not know you were working somewhere else?—A. Yes, they did.

Q. You say, then, that when you were called on a charge made by Captain Bernier, you thought they knew?—A. Yes.

Q. You only found out then, that they did not know?—A. I did not find that they did not know it.

Q. They appeared to know that you were working on some other works?—A. To my knowledge, they appeared to know.

Q. When you appeared before the Board, did they appear to know that you were engaged on some other works?—A. They seemed to.

Q. Is it not a fact that they discovered it, and you were called upon to answer the charge?—A. I do not think so.

Q. What was Captain Bernier's charge?—A. That he was put out as dock master.

Q. Of what works?—A. The Lévis Graving Dock.

Q. Had you any authority over him?—A. As Engineer for the Harbour Commission, I had.

Q. When you say he was put out, what do you mean?—A. He gave his resignation.

Q. What for?—A. For certain charges that were made against him.

Q. Who made those charges?—A. The men could be called, if there was an investigation on it.

Q. You did not make the charges yourself?—A. No; I wrote to Mr. Coste to come and take charge, and I gave in my resignation right off. I would have nothing more to do with the works.

Q. When you appeared before the Harbour Commission it was in connection with that charge against Captain Bernier?—A. It was relating to that.

Q. You said also in connection with the charge made against you by Captain Bernier?—A. Yes.

Q. What charge did Captain Bernier make against you?—A. It is entered in the Minutes. I do not know exactly the words. There were three questions put to me by the Harbour Commission.

Q. What were they?—A. I do not remember.

Q. You remember that there were three or four. What was one of them?—A. The Secretary read them to me.

Q. In writing?—A. Yes.

Q. You were called upon to answer?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you answer?—A. Yes.

Q. Orally or in writing?—A. Orally.

Q. Then and there on the spot?—A. Yes.

Q. You cannot remember any of those questions put to you?—A. No.

Q. What was the result of the investigation against Captain Bernier by the Harbour Commission?—A. I never knew.

Q. Was Captain Bernier employed by the Government?—A. No.

Q. In whose employment was he?—A. The Harbour Commission.

Q. Was there any report made against him here in Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. If he was not in the employ of the Government what had Ottawa to do with it?—A. I believe there was an agreement between the Harbour Commission and the Federal Government that the Harbour Commission had only the management of the Dock and the Government was to make the repairs.

Q. Amongst these three or four questions put to you was there one asking explanation from you in connection with the fact that you had taken charge of these works at Lévis?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the answer you gave?—A. Yes.

Q. What was it?—A. I cannot word it exactly.

Q. Give the substance?—A. They asked me why I did not ask the Commissioners permission to go there, and I answered it was through their own order; that I referred only to my chief, Mr. Boswell, and that I had permission from him. That is why I went there without having permission from them.

Q. They asked you why you had gone on these works without their permission?—A. I was asked that.

Q. Having asked you that question, did you not naturally infer that they did not know it before?—A. No.

Q. Had you informed any of the Commissioners?—A. I do not remember to have done so.

Q. The only reason you assigned was that you had been ordered to submit to the orders of Mr. Boswell, and that you had been there on his orders?—A. Yes.

Q. And his permission?—A. Yes.

Q. Who appointed you Assistant Engineer?—A. Where?

Q. The Quebec Harbour Works?—A. The Harbour Commissioners, through the recommendation of their Engineer.

Q. Was Mr. Boswell called in after the statement you made to explain about having given you permission?—A. Yes.

Q. Was he called in in your presence?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember his statement?—A. No; because he made his statement before I went into the room.

- Q. You do not know what he said?—A. No.
- Q. Did he tell you afterward what he had said?—A. No.
- Q. About Captain Bernier, did you make an investigation yourself?—A. A formal one with the Chief Engineer, Mr. Coste, who was acting Chief Engineer then.
- Q. Did you go with him to Levis?—A. Yes.
- Q. It was at your request that he made this investigation?—A. Yes; at my own request.
- Q. You have said that you were appointed Assistant Engineer after Mr. Boyd's death?—A. Yes.
- Q. Do you remember whether the South-wall contract had been then given out or whether it was given out afterward?—A. It was given that year, if I remember well.
- Q. Are you aware that certain changes were made in that contract?—A. Yes.
- Q. Were those changes made when you were Assistant Engineer or afterward?—A. They were made whilst I was there.
- Q. What changes were they?—A. There was the brick into stone.
- Q. Stone substituted in the place of brick?—A. Yes.
- Q. And the other?—A. The bottom of the sewer was raised.
- Q. How much?—A. Two feet six, I think.
- Q. Did you report in favour of that change?—A. Not myself.
- Q. Who suggested that change?—A. It came from the Chief Engineer.
- Q. Who was the Chief Engineer then?—A. Mr. Perley, I believe.
- Q. You say that these changes came from the Chief Engineer. You made no suggestion at all to him?—A. Not to him. I made them to my chief.
- Q. Who was your chief?—A. Mr. Boswell.
- Q. What was the nature of the report you made about that change. Was it a favourable report or against it?—A. Favourable.
- Q. Did you think it was an improvement to the works?—A. Yes.
- Q. In what way did you think that the raising of that drain two feet would be an improvement?—A. Because the grade that was before on the sewer seemed to be too low for the current of water that was going to pass through the sewer.
- Q. Were you raising it all the length?—A. Not the whole of it.
- Q. Why did you raise it?—A. To give it a better grade.
- Q. The extremity in the water was left in it and it was gradually raised?—A. Yes.
- Q. You are sure it was raised gradually?—A. Yes.
- Q. Leaving the end at its former level and therefore increasing the down grade by so much?—A. Yes.
- Q. You are sure of that?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did it increase the contractors work?—A. I do not believe so.
- Q. You did not report that it did?—A. No, sir.
- Q. Was it less work?—A. No.
- Q. It was the same?—A. Yes.
- Q. Two feet nine inches in the depth in building a drain did not cost more?—A. I do not believe so.
- Q. Is that your notion of engineering?—A. Yes.
- Q. Five or six feet more, would it cost more?—A. Oh, yes.
- Q. But three feet would not cost more?—A. Not much more.
- Q. It would cost half as much more as six feet?—A. That depends on the nature of the work.
- Q. If you were laying a drain on that very spot, would it cost more or less by decreasing the depth by two feet nine inches?—A. It might cost a little less, but not much.
- Q. At what length did you change the level of that sewer?—A. I do not remember. It was on the stone section anyway.
- Q. Would it be several hundred feet?—A. Yes.
- Q. Two or three hundred feet?—A. Two or three hundred feet.

Q. Look at the House of Commons debates for the present year, July, 1891, at page 2247, and say whether what I read you in connection with what took place between the Harbour Commissioners is a correct report. I will read the following:

“Mr. DELISLE asked, (a.) Is the Government informed that the following facts are consigned in the minutes of the Quebec Harbour Commissioners at the date of the 24th October, 1890, viz.:—“It was decided to call in the Engineer-in-Chief and his assistant, who were in attendance, and ask them some questions relative to the Graving Dock management. Mr. George Boswell was thereupon introduced and asked by the chairman if he had heard any complaint against Captain J. E. Bernier, the Commissioners’ dock master, and answered ‘No.’ Mr. H. Laforce Langevin was then called in, and the following questions were, by the direction of the board, put to him by the acting secretary-treasurer: 1st. ‘You have been in the employ of the Harbour Commission all summer; during that time did you make reports against any other employees of the commission direct to Ottawa?’ Answer, ‘Yes; against Captain J. E. Bernier, the graving dock master.’ 2nd. ‘What right had you to make any report except through this commission or through Mr. Boswell, your Chief Engineer?’ Answer, ‘That having been allowed by Mr. Boswell to superintend work at the Graving Dock, he considered he had a right to make this report to his chief, Mr. L. Coste, of the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.’ 3rd. ‘Did you receive a salary from the Public Works Department, as well as from the Harbour Commission?’ Answer, ‘No; not as a salary; but I received pay for services rendered.’”

Is that a report of what took place?—A. Yes.

Q. Who was under you at Lévis?—A. It was Mr. Ferdinand L’Abbé.

Q. What was his salary?—A. $90 a month.

Q. What was his occupation?—A. He is a carpenter by trade.

Q. What was the work he was doing there?—A. He was superintendent over work that was to be done. He was my foreman.

Q. You were the superintendent of the works, and he was acting as your foreman?—A. Yes, foreman over the men.

Q. Were you in Quebec during the elections of 1887, that is to say, January, February and the first days of March?—A. Yes.

Q. I think your father, Sir Hector, was a candidate in Three Rivers?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you go to Three Rivers occasionally to help him in his election?—A.

No.

Q. You did not go there?—A. No.

Q. Was your father occasionally in Three Rivers during his election?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he come to Quebec during the election?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you happen to see him there?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you live with your father?—A. Yes.

Q. You are unmarried?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Onézime Thibault?—A. Yes.

Q. He lives in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you see him during the elections?—A. Yes.

Q. You met him pretty often?—A. Every day.

Q. You were on terms of intimacy with him?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any conversation with him about certain election money that had been entrusted to you?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you tell him that some money had been sent to Three Rivers to your knowledge?—A. I stated one time to him, if I remember well—this is all I can remember about it—that if I had four or five thousand dollars I would start and go and give it to my father, and that the Connollys should do something. That is what I stated.

Q. It was a wish like that you expressed?—A. That is all.

Q. In the course of making that wish, you stated the Connollys ought to give the money?—A. Yes.

Q. Why did you mention the Connollys in preference to any others?—A. Because they had large works at the time, and I believed they should have done something.

Q. Was your wish followed up by any act on your part?—A. No.

Q. Did you do anything in the way of executing that wish?—A. No.

Q. Independently of that statement which you made to Thibault, were you asked during the elections to go, or were you sent, to the Connollys with a special message?—A. No, sir; unless it was for the works.

Q. During the election did you go to Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s office?—A. Only for work purposes, that is all.

Q. Well, what work could there be during February, 1887, which required your presence there?—A. Sometimes they had their own plant, and some had to be removed from a certain place where it was in the way, and I would go and give the order.

Q. On behalf of the Harbour Commission?—A. On behalf of the office.

Q. Do you mean to say you were moving plant during the winter in ten feet of snow and two or three feet of ice?—A. No.

Q. Where would the plant be in February, 1887? What kind of plant would it be which required your attendance?—A. On the works going on at the time.

Q. What work was going on in February, dredging?—A. No, sir.

Q. Building snow ploughs?—A. No. Sometimes the derricks would be in the way and I would go over and tell them to remove them.

Q. In the way of navigation?—A. No, of traffic on the road.

Q. Where were the derricks wintering in the winter of 1887?—A. On the works.

Q. Where were the works?—A. In St. Andrew street.

Q. On the street?—A. Yes.

Q. In 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. What works were they doing on the street?—A. It was at the gas house; the gas works down below.

Q. They were working at the gas works?—A. I think so.

Q. Were they the contractors for the gas works?—A. No, for the harbour basin.

Q. If you went down there it would be something like that—to give them orders?—A. Yes.

Q. As a matter of fact did you go?—A. I used to go there often. I was friendly with Mr. Hume as well as with the contractors. I was friendly to them all in that way. I went there to have a chat with them, that is all.

Q. In one of your visits when you went there had you any conversation with Mr. Nicholas Connolly?—A. I had many conversations with him.

Q. About election funds?—A. In what way; about what?

Q. First of all had you any conversation with him about election money, about election funds?—A. No.

Q. About elections generally?—A. About elections generally—yes.

Q. Did you make to him a statement to the same effect as the one you made to Thibault, to wit, that if you had $5,000 you would take it to Three Rivers?—A. Perhaps so.

Q. You might have said so?—A. I might have said so.

Q. You might have said that if you had $5,000, it would be useful in Three Rivers?—A. Yes.

Q. What did Mr. Connolly say?—A. He commenced to laugh.

Q. Your suggestion tickled him?—A. Yes.

Q. Then did you drop the conversation there?—A. Yes.

Q. While he was laughing did you not go on with the conversation?—A. No.

Q. Did you not say to him, you have plenty of money?—A. No, sir.

Q. Well, what did Nicholas Connolly say?—A. He laughed and went away.

Q. You know Martin P. Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he laugh too?—A. No, I did not see him.

Q. He was writing at his desk?—A. No.

Q. Where had you the conversation; was it in the office?—A. No.

Q. Where was it?—A. Walking on the street.

Q. Then it was on the occasion of the removal of the derrick?—A. Not at that time.

Q. You met him on the street and told him $5,000 would be useful at Three Rivers?—A. Yes.

Q. And he laughed?—A. Yes.

Q. Is that all he did?—A. That is all he did.

Q. You walked a little way on the street with him?—A. No. I was just coming to my office.

Q. Where is your office; how far is it from his?—A. About 50 yards.

Q. On the same road?—A. Yes.

Q. Is your office further than his?—A. No.

Q. He goes further than you?—A. Yes.

Q. You did not continue with him to his office?—A. Not at that time.

Q. Did he tell you that he would consider the matter and that you were to call again?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did he tell you whether something would be done for Three Rivers?—A. No, sir.

Q. After that conversation when did you go to the office again?—A. I used to go every day.

Q. That conversation took place in the forenoon, as you were going to your office in the morning?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Or perhaps it was after lunch?—A. Yes.

Q. You had taken your lunch with your father?—A. No, my father was away at the time.

Q. And after staying a little while at the office, did you go and smoke a pipe at the office of the Connollys in the afternoon?—A. I do not remember.

Q. You do not remember whether it was the same day?—A. I cannot swear.

Q. It may have been a cigar, but you cannot swear it was the same day?—A. No, sir.

Q. Was it the next day?—A. I used to go every day.

Q. To follow that conversation. There was further talk about that need of money in Three Rivers?—A. No.

Q. Seeing that you had mentioned that sum of $5,000, the sum needed in Three Rivers, to two parties, did you not follow up that idea?—A. I never thought of it.

Q. You have told us already you were anxious to get the money?—A. Yes; but I knew I could not get it.

Q. Was it the first $5,000 you had heard of for the elections?—A. No.

Q. You knew that Larkin, Connolly & Co. would give something for the elections?—A. Just by hearsay.

Q. You had never gone for money yourself?—A. No, sir.

Q. That was the first time that you approached Connolly about election money?—A. I did not approach him, meaning that I would get it. Of course just chatting like any time, we would talk about elections. That is all.

Q. What ground had you to mention twice to two different persons that four or five thousand dollars was required?—A. Because I thought myself it would be about what would be required.

Q. How did you think that?—A. Because I had been at elections, and I knew the election in Three Rivers was going to be very warm, and I knew a little money would be required.

Q. You say that after having mentioned $4,000 or $5,000 you thought a little money was needed. What do you call a good deal?—A. I do not know.

Q. But $4,000 or $5,000 would not be a little money?—A. Well, compare it to the elections.

Q. Was it late in the election—was it near voting day?—A. I don't remember that.

Q. Do you know a man by the name of Joseph Lachance?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What does he do?—A. He is a carpenter by trade.

Q. In Quebec?—A. Yes, sir; he is superintendent of the harbour works.

Q. I think he was under your orders as assistant engineer?—A. Yes.

Q. He had to take orders from you?—A. Yes, sir, sometimes, when Mr. Boswell was not there.

Q. Do you know whether he went to Three Rivers?—A. He did.

Q. Is it from him you learned it was getting hot there, and a little money, like $4,000 or $5,000, would help?—A. Yes.

Q. On returning from Three Rivers?—A. Yes.

Q. He said it was hot there?—A. Yes.

Q. And that he wanted money?—A. Yes.

Q. That those Three Rivers' people were so expensive, or something like that, eh?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know who was the president of your committee in Three Rivers?—A. No.

Q. The treasurer?—A. No.

Q. Mr. Pantou, manager of La Banque du Peuple and Mr. Normand, the mayor?—A. I know he was helping my father.

Q. So it was only after Lachance came back from Three Rivers, and told you that $4,000 or $5,000 would be a great help, you began to think it would be a good thing if you could find it?—A. If I could.

Q. And did you speak first to Onézime Thibault or Nicholas Connolly?—A. As to that I don't remember.

Q. Is it not a fact that you told Onézime Thibault, that you had received $5,000 from Nicholas Connolly, and that you had sent it to Three Rivers?—A. No.

Q. You are positive of that?—A. I am positive.

Q. Your memory is sure as to that?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that on the voting day of this election in the city of Quebec, driving in a sleigh, that you made that statement to Thibault, to wit, that you had sent $5,000 to Three Rivers, which you had received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No, sir, I stated what had been taken in writing.

Q. Was it on the date mentioned, voting day, that this conversation took place?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Was it driving in the streets of Quebec—do you remember whether it was driving?—A. I don't remember where.

Q. Or when?—A. No.

Q. Now, I repeat to you the same question: Did you not tell him that you had received money from Nicholas Connolly, and that you had sent it to Three Rivers, on the occasion I have just indicated?—A. As I told you, what I stated to him is in writing; what I stated before.

Q. What was it?—A. That if I could have $4,000 or $5,000 from the Connollys I would be glad of it to be able to help my father.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you say anything else?—A. I don't remember.

Q. Is that the only thing you did for your father's election?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You did nothing at all to help him?—A. Well, I saw friends who were in Quebec, and asked them to go and vote for him.

Q. At whose request did you see friends and ask them to go and vote?—A. No one's request.

Q. Some one had brought you a list of the Three Rivers voters, I suppose?—A. No, I knew them.

Q. Is that all you did for your father during that election? You only saw a few voters whom you knew to send them to vote?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you anything to do with the trips Lachance made to Three Rivers; was he requested to go there by you?—A. Yes.

Q. To go to Three Rivers—that he was needed there?—A. Yes.

Q. Who told you to send him there?—A. I don't remember.

Q. You don't remember who asked you to send him?—A. I know there were two or three asked me, I don't remember who it was.

Q. Do you remember what Lachance was needed for in Three Rivers?—A. Because he had friends and he had acquaintances.

Q. As it was you who sent him to Three Rivers, did you give him any instructions what he had to do?—A. No, I could not influence him in that way.

Q. You did not give him instructions, not to influence him, but what he was needed for, what he had to do?—A. No, I knew he did not want it.

Q. He knew what he had to do?—A. I supposed so.

Q. But was he short of ballast, or had he money with him?—A. I don't know, sir.

Q. You do not remember whether he got anything that might be useful in the election?—A. I did not look in his pocket.

Q. But you may have helped to fill it?—A. Oh no, sir.

Q. You did not give him anything?—A. No, I did not.

Q. And you were unaware whether he had anything with him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said you were in the habit of going to Larkin, Connolly's & Co's office frequently, did you frequently see there Martin P. Connolly, the book-keeper?—A. He was always there.

Q. Did you see Hume also?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had no conversation with him about the wish you had—that is to say if it were possible for you to send away $5,000?—A. With whom?

Q. With Martin P. Connolly; did you express to him the same desire?—A. No, sir, I don't remember that.

Q. Did you have any talk about the elections, with Martin P. Connolly?—A. I might with everyone.

Q. Did you not ask him whether the partners, his employers, has paid a good deal of money for the elections?—A. No, sir.

Q. You did not ask him at all?—A. No, sir.

Q. You had no conversation about the election expenditure which this firm had made?—A. No, sir.

Q. From simple curiosity, did you have any talk?—A. No, sir.

Q. Never?—A. No.

Q. Did you have any talk with the other members of the firm, besides Nicholas Connolly, about the expenditure they were disposed to make for the election?—A. I don't remember having talked about it.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Hume about it?—A. Privately in his own house, just friendly.

Q. But in the office when you were there,?—A. I don't remember; I don't think so.

Q. Now, you say you had some conversation at his private house, at Hume's do you mean?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you in the habit of going there?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. Frequently?—A. Yes.

Q. And did you go there during the elections?—A. A couple of times, not more.

Q. Did you go and see Hume about that desire of yours, to get $4,000 or $5,000 for Three Rivers?—A. No.

Q. You did not go and see Hume?—A. No.

Q. You are sure you did not make a statement of anything of the kind to Hume?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Were you ever charged during the election with a letter for Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. No, sir.

Q. Were you ever charged with a letter, or note of some kind, addressed to any members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No, sir.

Q. Namely Nicholas Connolly?—A. No, sir.

Q. You are sure of that?—A. I am sure of it.

Q. Not to have delivered there a written message coming from Three Rivers?
—A. No, Sir, I don't remember that.

Q. Will you swear you did not do it?—A. I say I did not do it.

Q. You are sure you did not do it?—A. I am sure.

Cross-examination of Mr. LANGEVIN.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Did you receive any letter to be carried to Nicholas Connolly, from Sir Hector, your father?—A. No, sir.

Q. Or any message?—A. No.

Q. That is in connection with that election we have been speaking of in 1887. Did you ever carry a letter or a message from Sir Hector to any member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No.

Q. Something has been said in this enquiry, as to some financial transaction of yours with Larkin, Connolly & Co. What has there been between you in the way of money?—A. The only thing I can remember is $600 I borrowed from Mr. Hume personally, not from the firm.

Q. When was that?—A. That was when I made that ladder.

Q. What ladder is that?—A. A fire-escape.

Q. Was that connected with that invention of yours? It was that invention ladder you had, was it not?—A. An invention; a ladder Mr. Thibault and I invented.

Q. You borrowed $600 from Hume?—A. Yes, until I was paid by the city.

Q. When was that?—A. That must have been in August, I believe.

Q. August of what year?—A. Two years ago.

Q. That is the only transaction you had?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Quebec Harbour works what particular construction were you on—the stone-work, or dredging or concrete, or what?—A. I was on the concrete and crib-work, some time.

Q. What else?—A. General work and survey.

Q. Are you a member of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers?—A. I am an associate member.

Q. Since when?—A. Since 1888.

Q. Prior to that was there any regulation, college, or any civil engineering degrees, or how did a man become a civil engineer, prior to the organization of the Canadian Association?—A. The only one I knew was the Montreal Polytechnic School.

Q. That was the only one where you could get a diploma?—A. Yes.

Q. When was the Canadian Association organized?—A. In 1887.

Q. Did you bring to that association your experience, or how were you granted the associate papers?—A. I had to state to a special committee on what works, what time, and with whom I had been working, and then to be balloted for by all the members present and absent.

Q. Then you had your ballot for election and they were satisfied of your qualification to be an associate member?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were elected?—A. Yes.

Q. And have remained a member ever since?—A. Yes.

Q. That is your status as a Civil Engineer?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you tell Onézime Thibault during the election of 1887, that Joseph Lachance had gone to Three Rivers with $5,000 for Sir Hector Langevin?—A. No.

Q. Did you make such a statement to him on polling day of the election of 1887, while driving with him?—A. No.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you make such a statement to him at any time?—A. No.

Q. Or something of the sort?—A. My answer is what I stated before.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Do you swear that you do not remember that fact or are you quite positive such a conversation never took place?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you swear that such a conversation never took place between Thibault and yourself?—A. I cannot understand the question.

Q. Do you swear that you did not tell Onézime Thibault on the polling day of the election of 1887 that Joseph Lachance had gone to Three Rivers with $5,000?—A. Yes.

Q. No such conversation ever took place?—A. No such conversation ever took place on that day.

Q. When then?—A. You asked me the question on polling day.

Q. On what day was it then, if not that day?—A. I do not remember anything about it.

Q. But you do not swear that such a conversation never took place on any day?—A. I am sure it did not.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you know then that the sum of $5,000, or thereabouts, had been subscribed by Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No.

Q. Not one word?—A. No.

Q. You swear to that most positively?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. That there was no question about that during the election or immediately after—about this $5,000 subscription? There was no question that you heard?—A. Just by hearsay.

Q. What hearsay made you suspect that there was such a subscription? I do not mean to say that the subscription was wrong, but I speak of the fact.—A. I do not know.

Q. Do you remember who spoke to you about it, or to whom you spoke as an ordinary event?—A. I do not remember. If I did speak about it I do not remember.

Q. You may have spoken of it, of course?—A. I may have spoken just the same way as I have spoken before—joking.

Q. It was a fact that elections are not made without money and you thought there was money for Three Rivers?—A. I thought there was.

Q. You looked upon large contractors as the general source?—A. That is what is generally done.

Q. You thought, very naturally, that in that instance Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. should give?—A. If there was some, that was what I thought.

Q. You understood then, as your friends did, that Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. had subscribed?—A. No, I did not think.

Q. When did you hear of that for the first time?—A. Hear what?

Q. That they had subscribed $5,000?—A. I never heard that they had subscribed.

Q. Nor since?—A. There was people talking about money subscribed by contractors, but specially for that amount or any other I never heard anything.

Q. You positively say you never heard that the Connollys had subscribed any amount for that election?—A. Yes.

Q. Most positively?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. What I understand from you is that you considered that large contractors would, as a matter of fact, be large subscribers to the election fund?—A. Yes, I think so.

Q. As they were large contractors, you thought they should be large subscribers?—A. Yes.

Q. You stated a few moments ago that in company with Mr. Thibault you invented a fire ladder?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember what year that ladder came into existence?—A. It was between 1885 and 1886.

Q. You must have worked a good deal of time on that invention?—A. Yes.

Q. How much time did you take in perfecting that ladder?—A. We worked altogether a long time. A year.

Q. Was that during the time you were employed by the Harbour Commissioners in Quebec?—A. It was when I had spare time that I was working.

Q. You had a good deal of spare time, I presume, in your capacity as employee of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Not in office hours.

Q. Were you always in the office during office hours?—A. Very nearly always.

Q. You never absented yourself during office hours?—A. When I absented myself I would ask permission.

Q. Did you ask permission frequently or very seldom?—A. When the work was not pressing, yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that during the winter there was very little work?—A. There was always work.

Q. What sort of work would there be for three engineers—a chief engineer and two assistants?—A. There would be either surveys or snow.

Q. Would it take three engineers to give instructions?—A. They were always busy.

Q. Your salary was the same in winter time as summer?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You said that you borrowed $600 from Hume?—A. Yes.

Q. And that Hume got the money from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. It was his own money on his salary. He used to leave his money in the bank with the firm's money and when he wanted any money for his own use he would go and take a note, or get Mr. Connolly to make one and send for it.

Q. Is it not a fact that it was on the 15th November, 1887, that you borrowed that money?—A. No.

Q. It is entered in the books of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. on that date. Is that a correct entry?—A. No.

Q. You are positive it was in August?—A. I believe so. It was either at the end of July or August.

Q. It was in the summer?—A. Yes.

Q. You are quite positive it was not in November?—A. Yes.

Q. In what year was it?—A. Three years ago.

Q. It will be three years in July or August. Did you repay that money?—A. A part of it.

Q. To whom did you repay that?—A. I do not remember if it was to Hume or the firm.

Q. You must know your creditors. Who is your creditor?—A. Mr. Hume.

Q. To whom did you pay the amount you mentioned?—A. I intend to pay the whole thing, but Mr. Hume told me not to be in a hurry, that when I had the money to give it to him.

Q. He was a patient creditor?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that you have paid nothing?—A. If I remember well, I think I paid over $200.

Q. When?—A. A little after I was paid from Montreal.

Q. When were you paid by the City of Montreal?—A. I think it was about this time in January.

Q. About what year?—A. About three years ago.

Q. Did you give a note or a voucher or some account for that money borrowed by you?—A. I gave a promissory note to repay that when I would be paid from Montreal, and pay just the same interest as the bank.

Q. What became of that promissory note?—A. I do not know.

Q. You did not get it back?—A. No.

Q. Mr. Hume has kept it?—A. Yes, he must have it.

Q. When you paid him this $200 on account, did you take a receipt?—A. If I remember well, I think I took one.

Q. You only made one payment?—A. I believe so.

Q. And you believe you have a receipt?—A. Yes.

Q. Where is that receipt now?—A. I cannot find it.

Q. You do not know where it is?—A. I looked for it, but could not find it.

Q. Is that the only amount you borrowed from Hume? Did you borrow other amounts from him?—A. No big amounts.

Q. But you have repaid them?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you borrow money from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I do not remember to have done so.

Q. You ought to remember. Are you sure you did not?—A. I know if I did borrow it was little. Perhaps it was a $10 bill or something like that, and I repaid it as soon as I got it.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. You said you were always at the office during office hours. Is it not a fact that you were away at one time for five or six weeks in British Columbia or somewhere in the Rocky Mountains?—A. Yes, but I got permission for that time from my chief.

Q. Of course. You could not absent yourself very long without authority. You were absent for five or six weeks altogether?—A. Yes, thirty days.

Q. Did you get your salary for that time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of course you were not working in the interest of the Quebec Harbour Works at that time?—A. I was at the Graving Dock.

Q. You were not doing the work for the Graving Dock at Lévis then?—A. No.

Mr. ONEZIME THIBAUT SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You live in Quebec?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you lived in Quebec?—A. I have always lived in Quebec.

Q. Are you acquainted with Mr. Laforce Langevin?—A. Yes.

Q. The witness who has just been heard?—A. Yes.

Q. I think you were on terms of intimacy with him by what he has stated?—A. Yes.

Q. Since several years?—A. 7 or 8 years.

Q. Had you an interest with him in a certain ladder which you had invented together?—A. Yes.

Q. Who was the inventor of the ladder?—A. I was the first inventor.

Q. And afterwards how did you come to get interested or in partnership with Mr. Laforce Langevin?—A. I had become acquainted with Mr. Laforce Langevin for the purpose of getting the means to construct the ladder as I had no money myself.

Q. You remember the Federal elections of 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you then on good terms with Laforce Langevin?—A. Yes; we were good friends together and are still. I used to see him almost every day.

Q. You are aware that Sir Hector Langevin was a candidate in Three Rivers?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sir Hector Langevin is the father of Mr. Laforce Langevin?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. During that election, had you any conversation with Mr. Laforce Langevin connected with his father's election in Three Rivers?—A. Yes; often. He is very much interested in it.

Q. Can you remember whether any of those conversations were of a special nature? A. Yes; I recollect he spoke to me about some money.

Q. State to the Committee as precisely as possible the purport of those conversations?—A. What I noted more particularly was when he told me that he had sent $5,000 by Joe Lachance.

Q. Did he say where he had sent that money?—A. To Three Rivers.

Q. Did he say when he had sent that money?—A. He stated that he had sent it on that very morning. That conversation took place in the afternoon while we were out driving.

Q. Can you remember the day when he made that statement to you?—A. No, sir.

Q. I do not ask you the day of the month, but can you remember what was going on on that date?—A. It was three or four days before the election—I mean polling day.

Q. Did Laforce Langevin say where he had obtained that money?—A. If I recollect well, I believe he told me it was from a Mr. Connolly.

Q. Do you know the Connollys?—A. I know the Connollys by sight; I saw them several times in Quebec.

Q. Do you know what they were doing in Quebec?—A. They were working at the Wet basin in Quebec and at Lévis.

Q. In the course of that conversation, did Laforce Langevin make any further statement? State to the Committee what you can remember?—A. I remember that conversation well, because as I did not belong to the same party as he did, I thought it strange that he made that statement to me. About that time I repeated what he had told me to some of my friends and that is how I am here now.

By the Chairman :

Q. You belong to the opposite party in politics?—A. I belong to the opposite party; he must have known it, though I do not meddle much in politics.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You stated that you were intimate friends?—A. Oh, yes. We were then the owners of a patent—joint owners for these years; we were then working it.

Q. Subsequently to that conversation did Laforce Langevin revert to the same subject? If so, state what conversation took place?—A. Subsequently, after the elections we were chaffing together. I told him he had succeeded well with his money. He answered yes, that they had turned Three Rivers right side up or upside down.

Q. Do you know the man Joe Lachance?—A. I know him by sight as being employed at the Dock. I have spoken to him.

Q. But you are not a friend of his?—A. No.

Q. A mere acquaintance?—A. Yes: I knew him through Laforce Langevin.

Q. Did you know whether the man Joe Lachance had been to Three Rivers?—A. Laforce Langevin told me that he had gone to Three Rivers, but I do not know that personally.

Q. Can you swear positively whether Mr. Laforce Langevin gave you the name of the party from whom the money had been received?—A. I am positive he told me he got it from a Mr. Connolly. He did not tell me from which, because there are two or three of them.

Q. You do not know which of the Connollys was then in Quebec?—A. No.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. What is your occupation?—A. I am foreman at the shoe factory of Mr. Griffiths.

Q. How did you come to be driving with Laforce Langevin that day?—A. We were driving together nearly every day that we had time to do it.

Q. Are you still interested with Laforce Langevin in the patent?—A. The patent was taken for five years, but it has now expired.

Q. What was the last business transaction you had with Laforce Langevin?—A. The last transaction was when I sold one of the ladders to the City of Montreal two years ago.

Q. Did Laforce Langevin know that you were taking an interest in the elections on the other side?—A. I could not take an interest in the elections on the other side because I was in the employ of the Government at that time, but he knew it was not my party.

Q. Did you take any active interest in the election?—A. He was in the habit of driving with me in the city, but I never took much interest in elections. We used to talk a little together.

The Committee then adjourned till 3 o'clock.

TUESDAY, 28th July, 3 o'clock, P. M.

MR. W. F. CLONEY SWORN.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. Where do you reside?—A. St. Catharines.

Q. You were engaged on the works in the Quebec Harbour with Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. for some years?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. From 1884 to 1889, I think?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The spring of 1884?—A. The spring of 1884 to the fall of 1889.

Q. What work did you do?—A. Well, Time-keeper and varied duties.

Q. Tell us what they are?—A. Foreman; well, the duties were so varied—

Q. You acted in the capacity of time-keeper and foreman?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did other duties besides, at times?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Martin P. Connolly is a friend of yours, is he not?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was you I think who met him at St. Catharines and accompanied him to Buffalo?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time this investigation was first commenced?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And spent some few days with him in Buffalo?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have heard, no doubt, about certain payments that were made, on behalf of Larkin, Connolly & Co., to Inspectors?—A. Yes, I have read of them.

Q. And you have also had conversation I suppose with Martin P. Connolly on the subject?—A. Well, yes, I think I have.

Q. And you are aware that he gave evidence on that subject, in which your name was mentioned?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Last Tuesday I think it was?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the practice, or what was done at any time to your knowledge, in that connection?—A. Well, I may say that he was under a wrong impression with regard to myself. I had nothing whatever to do in connection with the dredging during the years 1887, 1888 and 1889.

Q. Well, when did you cease, if it is the case you ceased, to have anything to do with the dredging? Up to what date did you continue to have dredging?—A. The fall of 1886.

Q. Do you remember who the Inspectors were during that season?—A. I think Mr. Brunel, Mr. Pelletier and Mr. Germain.

Q. Those were the Inspectors?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And during the dredging of 1886 you acted as time-keeper and foreman?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And took an account of the amount of dredging that was done from day to day during that season?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you state what was your duty, so far as the taking account of the amount of dredging was concerned?—A. Well, I took the accounts of the captains of the dredging—the report of the amount of yards per day—and the Inspector told me how much he had, and I compared them.

Q. Compared notes?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Well, did you always find your notes tallied with those of the Inspectors?—A. No; sometimes I found the Inspectors' reports less than the reports of captains of the dredges, and sometimes the Inspectors' reports would be more.

Q. What did you do in cases where you found they were less?—A. If the captain's report was more than the Inspector's I would bring them together and enquire about it.

Q. Did you succeed in getting the reports to coincide?—A. Yes.

Q. They would generally come up to your figures?—A. One or other would see the error which they had included.

Q. As a rule, whenever you found there was a discrepancy between the reports of inspectors and the captains, you managed to get the inspectors to waive the point of the difference, and come up to the high figure—is that it?—A. Oh, no; not at all; sometimes they would go just as it was; I could not make a change.

Q. But you have stated, have you not, that you have succeeded occasionally in getting the Inspectors to conform to your report?—A. Well if a mistake occurred in the latter days of the month, where the Inspector had omitted a scow or two.

Q. Then, at any rate you have a recollection of the circumstance whether you were able to persuade the Inspectors to make larger returns than they were about to make before having inquired on the subject?—A. I did not persuade them at all.

Q. It was the result of comparing their figures with yours?—A. The captain and the Inspector would compare notes, and one would persuade the other where the mistake was.

Q. Martin P. Connolly seems to have got the idea, rightly or wrongly, that you had something to do with what has been referred to as the system by which these Inspectors were paid by the contractors, in connection with the reports they made of the work done. Can you explain how he got that idea?—A. No; I really could not.

Q. You have no idea about it at all?—A. These years of which I told you?

Q. I am speaking now of 1886?—A. I merely took the captain's book or the inspector's report of what he would give me, and it was sent into the office, and I lost sight of it.

Q. When did you first ascertain that these three men whose names have been mentioned, Pelletier, Germain and Brunel, were receiving money from the contractors?—A. Well, they have been receiving a salary for services rendered for years. I remember when they were employed one entire winter as foremen.

Q. I am now speaking of the dredging season. When did you first ascertain they were receiving sums of money from the contractors during the dredging season of 1886?—A. Well, I don't know as I ever was aware of the fact that they were receiving money.

Q. You say you never became aware of it?—A. Well, I could not swear that I had ever become aware of their receiving money.

Q. Well, don't you think if you had become aware of that fact that it would be sufficient to cause an impression on your memory for you to retain it up to this time?—A. Well, if I imagined or had an idea that the Inspector or some one else was acting in consort for an increase during the dredging season I don't think it would be very unbusinesslike on my part to exercise inquisitorial powers.

Q. I am asking you if you did not become aware of it? Was it known to you that they were in the pay of the contractors during the dredging season of 1886, and, if so, why not tell us? You evidently have some knowledge about it?—A. Well, here upon my oath I don't think I could give expression to my supposition.

Q. No ; and I do not think it would be proper to do so. But speak from facts?
—A. From facts I cannot swear.

Q. Have you had any conversation with them on the subject?—A. On what subject?

Q. The very subject I am now asking you about—I mean the payments of moneys by the contractors?—A. I cannot remember that I ever had.

Q. What was there or is there that seems to have given you ground for belief at that time that they were getting money from the contractors?—A. I really cannot tell you.

Q. When did you first get the idea that they were getting money from the contractors?—A. It is back so far.

Q. Can't you tell simply because it is back a few years?—A. 1886. I cannot tell you when the idea struck me or how.

Q. Are you sure of that?—A. Quite sure.

Q. What work did you do in 1887, if you did not do dredging?—A. They had various works, such as cribbing and grading from the Cross-wall.

Q. Had you anything to do with the dredging in 1887?—A. I may have had something to do with it, like being time-keeper on the scows.

Q. For how long were you time-keeper of the dredges? For the maximum period of time in 1887 and in 1886—that is, time-keeping and acting as foreman?—A. I do not think I understand your question.

Q. What was the longest period in 1887 during which you were acting as time-keeper and taking the amount of dredging in that year?—A. In passing along the wall I might see that the dredges were without a scow.

Q. I understood from you that for a certain period in 1887 you were taking account of the amount of dredging. How long was the longest of those periods?—A. Taking account of the dredging? I was not taking account at all. The time-keepers themselves have not always to take account of the dredging.

Q. Who else acted in that capacity beside yourself in 1886 and 1887, and accounted to the contractors for the amount of dredging done?—A. I think in 1887, as regards the account of the dredging and the amount dredged, the captains made their reports direct to the office.

Q. And then there would be nobody between the captains and the office—Martin P. Connolly, we might say?—A. No; they reported direct to the office. There might have been some one, however.

Q. Can you give us any idea how the quantities of dredging were made to appear larger than they really were by the Inspectors? It has been suggested here, and been a subject of proof, that the Inspectors returned more work than was really done, and I ask you if you can give us any idea of how that was accomplished. Were those returns put in in writing?—A. Certainly.

Q. Martin P. Connolly said, in answer to this question: At other times, probably, verbally. That answer was given after we had been questioning him as to false returns, or returns of work in excess of what was actually done?—A. I gave him the captain's reports and the reports of the Inspectors. That is all I gave him.

Q. Did you receive it in writing from Mr. Cloney?—A. At times, I did.

Q. Can you explain how Martin Connolly got the idea that would explain the answer that I have just read to you, and which he gave last Tuesday?—A. I cannot do so. He must have based it, on the captain's reports and the reports of the Inspectors. That is all I gave him.

Q. You have said already that occasionally the Inspectors having figures which were smaller in amount than the captains had returned to you, you had got them to come up to the higher amount?—A. That the Inspector came up?

Q. Yes. For instance, you would remind him that he had forgotten a whole scow?—A. The captain would remind him.

Q. Which would rule in a settlement of these discrepancies? Which prevailed, as a rule?—A. The one that was right and could convince the other would prevail. They had that among themselves.

Q. The captain's view would prevail?—A. No; not by any means. It would more likely be that the Inspector would prevail, because the Inspectors were devoted entirely to tallying.

Q. Was it not natural that the captain's tally would be more apt to prevail?—A. I mean the opposite. It is natural the captain would not be as accurate as the Inspector.

Q. Why not?—A. Because the Inspector's duties were confined solely to keeping tally of the dredging.

Q. The Inspectors would not be aboard the tugs or dredges?—A. They would be, except when they went to the destination of the scow.

Q. As a matter of fact, dredging might be going on without them being on board the scows?—A. I think not. It is the rule that they ought to be in attendance while the dredges were at work.

Q. How were the quantities made up by the Inspectors? Were they allowing so much for each scow-load—so many cubic yards?—A. Yes; when the scow was properly loaded.

Q. Then, it was largely a matter of estimation as to the number of yards in a scow if she was not uniformly loaded?—A. They would take off some.

Q. How many scows were used—we will say in the season of 1886—for the three dredges?—A. Two were working.

Q. The two large ones?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, how many scows were there at each dredge?—A. There were no regular number of scows to the dredge. The first scow to arrive we would put in to the dredge.

Q. How many scows would you have at work?—A. Six or eight.

Q. Uniform in size?—A. No.

Q. What was the variation in the size of the scows? Were three or four of them of the one size?—A. There would be two dump scows having a capacity of 180 odd yards. Then they would have clam scows.

Q. How many?—A. Two, I think, at that time.

Q. How much did they hold each?—A. There would be a difference in the loading. They would not be loaded the same at all times.

Q. Roughly speaking, were they of the same capacity?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. How many yards each?—A. Say 200 yards.

Q. What other sizes?—A. There were two box scows. I would not be positive as to the number, but I think two.

Q. How many yards each would they hold?—A. About 100 or 120.

Q. Now you have two more to account for?—A. There may be one more box scow or one more clam scow. I cannot be positive.

Q. Either of 100 or 120 yards capacity?—A. Yes, or 200 yards.

Q. Did you say the Inspectors would go out with the scows sometimes?—A. I did not say they would, but when it was to be put in the wall they might go.

Q. Would one scow vary more than another?—A. One scow would hold more than another.

Q. But they generally carried the same number of yards presumably?—A. Certainly.

Q. How would it happen that a scow would not take the same quantity all the time?—A. She might be leaking.

Q. So that the system of inspection amounts to this, that these men would estimate by the eye largely how many yards were in the scow. If the scow was full they would allow the full capacity of 200, 120 or 100, as the case might be, and if less, they would just estimate what that might be?—A. That is it.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Did you ever tell any person that you had charge of the Inspectors, and that, although the Government paid them they were practically employed by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I do not remember that I did.

Q. Will you swear you never made such a statement?—A. Yes; I cannot recollect any such statement.

Q. You told the learned counsel that you had some suspicion that these Inspectors were being paid by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I think I did.

Q. Will you tell this Committee how those suspicions entered your mind?—A. Not now.

Q. You suspected they were being paid by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I said I had an idea of that.

Q. That is the same thing. Put it in that way if you will. You had an idea they were being paid by the contractors?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had that idea been in your mind?—A. I could not say now.

Q. Three or four years?—A. I really could not tell.

Q. Did you ever express to any person the idea that you had, that they were being paid by the contractors?—A. I cannot recollect that I did.

Q. Did you ever inquire from any member of the firm as to the truth of the idea that you have?—A. I think I answered that question before.

Q. Answer again, if you please?—A. I did not; not that I remember.

Q. You and Martin P. Connolly, I believe, were pretty intimate friends?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were a good deal in the same office?—A. Yes, we were.

Q. Did you live together?—A. Yes; I think we did.

Q. Have you any doubt about it; did you not live together in the same house?—A. Oh, yes; we boarded together on the Embankment.

Q. You boarded together in the same house?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. For how long?—A. One season or two; I cannot remember.

Q. How long were you working together upon these works?—A. I think he came there in 1885 or 1886. 1886, I think, and in 1887, or the spring of 1888 I was taken from that work and put on other work.

Q. Will you undertake to swear that Martin Connolly never told you that these Inspectors were receiving pay from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I do not recollect that he ever made such a statement as that.

Q. Did he ever intimate to you, not in those words, I confess, but did he ever acquaint you in any way, by any form of words, that the contractors were paying the Inspectors?—A. That the contractors were paying the Inspectors?

Q. Yes; that they were paying money to the Inspectors?—A. Certainly he did, for services rendered.

Q. What services?—A. Well, they often did odd jobs for the contractors for which they were entitled to payment.

Q. During the dredging season?—A. During the dredging season.

Q. During the dredging season they did odd jobs for the contractors for which they were entitled to payment, is that your answer?—A. Yes.

Q. If that was an honest payment, what was the necessity of Connolly telling you about it?—A. It may have come up in the course of conversation. I am just stating what I think it was.

Q. Did he tell you they were paying these men bribe money?—A. I really could not say; he may have.

Q. You knew I suppose in some way that Martin P. Connolly had left the employ of Larkin, Connolly & Co. before he got to your place at St. Catharines?—A. I did not know.

Q. Did he not telegraph you?—A. He telegraphed me from Toronto.

Q. Telegraphed you to meet him?—A. Yes.

Q. Where?—A. At St. Catharines station.

Q. You met him there?—A. Yes.

Q. Where did you go from there?—A. We went to Buffalo.

Q. Straight on?—A. He never went into the city at all.

Q. What did he telegraph you to do?—A. He telegraphed me from Toronto to meet him to that effect.

Q. Telegraphed to what effect? A. To meet him at the station at St. Catharines, that he was going to Buffalo.

Q. And you accompanied him to Buffalo?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he tell you he had been subpoenaed or summoned to appear as a witness before this Committee?—A. I do not think he did.

Q. Will you swear he did not?—A. I cannot recollect that he did; we had a great deal of conversation.

Q. Was there nothing said about this Committee?—A. I really could not tell you, honestly?

Q. You cannot swear to that?—A. I cannot.

Q. Was nothing said about the contractors, Larkin, Connolly & Co., getting into trouble?—A. Oh, yes; we had been reading the Globe.

Q. That is not the point. Did he say anything to you about the contractors getting into trouble?—A. I do not think he said anything particular about the contractors.

Q. Then there was nothing said at all about this investigation?—A. Oh, yes; about an investigation.

Q. Well, what was said?—A. I could not particularize it.

Q. Did he tell you that he was required here as a witness?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. You cannot tell that?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did he tell you that he was getting out of the way?—A. No, sir; I don't think he did.

Q. Will you swear he did not?—A. I cannot remember that he did.

Q. You knew he was getting out of the way, didn't you?—A. I knew he was going to Buffalo.

Q. You knew he was getting out of the way of this Committee?—A. No, I don't think I did.

Q. Did you know he was going to Buffalo to avoid coming here?—A. No, sir; I did not know at that time that he had been subpoenaed.

Q. Did you stay with him in Buffalo?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. All the time he was there?—A. No; I think it was on a Friday I went over and I returned the following Monday.

Q. Was any arrangement made with him about his coming back?—A. No, sir; no arrangement.

Q. Did you not write to Martin P. Connolly, or telegraph to him, that the detectives were after him?—A. That the detectives were after him?

Q. That somebody was looking for him?—A. Yes; I came home and read the Globe, and telegraphed him that W. R. Preston and Richard Kimmitt were organizing a still hunt for him. That is the contents of that telegram.

Q. Was it a telegram?—A. I think it was a telegram.

Q. Well, you did not know at all that he was keeping out of the way?—A. I had read the Globe that morning. That was my first intimation.

Q. He had never told you anything about it?—A. About him running away?

Q. Or about his being wanted here?—A. No; I don't remember that he did.

Q. You swear you learned that from the Globe, did you?—A. Yes.

Q. You swear that?—A. Yes.

Q. You saw that in the Globe, that Preston and Kimmitt were after him?—
A. We had been in Buffalo two or three days, and I had not read any Canadian papers.

Q. That was in the Globe?—A. Yes.

Q. You won't find it is in the Globe at all, if you found it?—A. I had read: "Where is Martin P. Connolly" in very large letters.

Q. But you went on to tell us they were organizing a still hunt?—A. No, I beg your pardon.

Q. All you saw was "Where is Martin P. Connolly"?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you learned they could not find Martin P. Connolly?—A. From information I got from other parties when I returned home.

Q. From what party?—A. Preston's own telegram from Buffalo—I read it.

Q. You said from other parties. Were there any other parties in St. Catharines who told you?—A. There was a telegram from Preston to a gentleman named McMahon, and the telegram read: "Cannot find Martin in Buffalo. Look to me"; that is I think for information to look to myself.

Q. Yes?—A. I had read that telegram which was handed to me.

Q. Were they at your house in St. Catharines inquiring for him?—A. No.

Q. Did anybody enquire in St. Catharines from you?—A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Who?—A. I really could not tell.

Q. Did you tell where he was?—A. I don't know whether I did or not.

Q. Did you tell them he was in Buffalo?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you tell them?—A. I told them that Martin was in Buffalo.

Q. That is what you told them, who was it now?—A. My own family.

Q. They are not the persons you referred to a moment ago as having enquired for him. You told us you could not remember at that time?—A. I remember my own family telling them he was in Buffalo; I may have told other people.

Q. You said a moment ago some person in St. Catharines enquired, and you could not remember who he was?—A. Some outside person.

Q. Will you swear you cannot remember who he was?—A. I remember telling the fact that Martin was in Buffalo.

Q. That was to your family?—A. I may have told it to other people.

Q. Did you or not?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. Can you mention one man you told?—A. No, I don't remember any person I told.

Q. Then you did not tell anybody outside of your own family?—A. I could not say.

Q. When did you see Martin again?—A. Oh, I did not see him for a month.

Q. Did he come to your house again?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did he come to your house at all, after leaving Buffalo?—A. He did; he called on returning, to see me.

Q. Did you meet him in St. Catharines?—A. In St. Catharines.

Q. Where did you meet him?—A. My own home.

Q. Did he telegraph you that he was coming?—A. No, sir.

Q. Then the first you saw of him after you left him in Buffalo was in your own house in St. Catharines?—A. Yes.

Q. What time of the day?—A. In the evening, I think.

Q. Well, was it?—A. In the evening.

Q. Did he tell you then he was wanted here?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he tell you that Connolly had telegraphed for him?—A. Yes.

Q. And that he was going back?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that is the first you ever knew about his being wanted before the Committee?—A. The first I can swear to, sir.

Mr. A. GOBEIL, Deputy Minister of Public Works, recalled.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You could not find a telegram sent by Sir Hector Langevin in 1885 to Mr. McGreevy?—A. No, sir.

Q. You could not find any telegram sent by Sir Hector Langevin in 1884 to the M.P.'s for Victoria?—A. No, sir.

Q. You could not find any telegram sent by Mr. McGreevy to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you got another Order in Council, dated 15th December, 1882, re Graving Dock at Lévis?—A. I have an Order in Council, No. 38213, of the 14th

December, 1882. The 15th is the date on which it was received at the Department. The Order in Council is as follows :

(Exhibit "X13.")

"CERTIFIED COPY of a Report of a Committee of the Honourable the Privy Council, approved by His Honour the Deputy of His Excellency the Governor General on the 14th December, 1882.

"On a Memorandum, dated 7th December, 1882, from the Minister of Public Works, stating that a communication was received on the 5th instant from the Harbour Commissioners at Quebec, requesting to be authorized to refund to the contractors for the Graving Dock at Lévis the sum of $50,000, deposited by them as security for the due fulfilment of their contract.

"The Minister further states that the Harbour Commissioners represent that the works are now far enough advanced to warrant the said deposit being returned. That the drawback retained from the contract price, together with the plant now on the works, constitute sufficient security for the completion of the works remaining to be executed.

"The Minister accordingly recommends that the authority requested by the Harbour Commissioners be granted.

"The Committee submit the above recommendation for your Excellency's approval.

"JOHN J. MCGEE."

Q. Will you produce a letter from Mr. Perley to Mr. Trutch on the 24th of February, 1885?—A. I cannot find it among the papers, unless you have it there. I cannot find it among the papers on file here.

Q. The paper was here and I have had it copied?—A. It may be mislaid, and I will look for it among the papers again. I can get another copy of it if necessary.

Q. You may read the copy here in the meantime?—A. It reads as follows :

(Exhibit "Y13.")

"CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

"No. 13051.

"OTTAWA, 24th February, 1885.

"Subj. Esq. Grav. Dock.

"SIR,—I am directed by the Hon. the Minister to inform you that the question of substituting granite for sandstone in portions of the graving dock at Esquimalt has been considered by the Privy Council, and that a decision adverse to your recommendation has been given.

"I am also to say that the Minister approves of the suggestion that the masonry in this dock be built in heavier courses than called for by the specification, and you are authorized to permit the contractors to re-course the work, provided it will not entail any extra expense on the Crown.

"I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

"HENRY F. PERLEY, Chf. Eng.

"Hon. J. W. TRUTCH, C.M.G.,

"Dominion Agent, B. C."

Q. Here is another copy which I have made here of another letter?—A. I did not produce that.

Q. It was sent here?—A. It is with the papers that came from British Columbia. I cannot tell you anything about it. I know nothing about it.

Q. Will you read this copy?—A. It reads as follows :

(Exhibit "Z13.")

"ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

"ESQUIMALT, B.C., 15th February, 1886.

"SIR,—Herewith I have the honour to enclose, in triplicate, progress estimate No. 10 of work executed in connection with the Esquimalt graving dock.

"I have re-measured the work in accordance with the instructions of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, as conveyed to me in your letter of the 6th inst., and have based the accompanying estimate upon such re-measurements, allowing for the increased quantities of stone and rubble masonry and deducting for the consequently reduced quantity of brick work and concrete, and I find that the sum thereby added to the estimate to the 31st ult. is $23,444.13.

“I have the honour to be, Sir,

“Your obedient servant,

“Hon. J. W. TRUTCH, C.M.G.
“Victoria.”

“W. BENNETT,
“Resident Engineer.”

Q. Here is another letter, which I must ask you to read?—A. It reads as follows :

(Exhibit “A14.”)
“No. 12327.

“CHIEF ENGINEER’S OFFICE,

“OTTAWA, 24th November, 1834.

“Subject, Esquimalt Graving Dock.

“SIR,—Herewith I transmit for your use and guidance a copy of the contract entered into between the Department and Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. for the completion of the Graving Dock at Esquimalt.

“The plans referred to in the contract will remain on record in this Department, and I may state that they are those which were sent by yourself previous to the first letting of this work, together with those prepared by Mr. Bennett, showing the position and amount of work done, and numbered 13, 14 and 15—see page 20 of specification.

“You will note that item 13½ in the tender is for rubble masonry backing.

“In determining the several amounts of the tenders received for this work, they were prepared so as to show the cost of completion using concrete (items 11, 12, 13), and using rubble backing (item 13½), and as in all cases it was found that the use of rubble backing would increase the cost of completion, it has been decided to adhere to the original plan, and to use concrete backing.

“You will please note the last paragraph of the specification relative to the order to commence the works.

“The contractors claim that, seeing they have to take men and materials from this side of the Dominion, the time allowed for completion—viz., eighteen months—is too short; but, as they have signed the contract, no change can now be made; but you might arrange to defer as long as possible the giving your order to commence.

“I have the honour to be, Sir,

“Your obedient servant,

“HENRY F. PERLEY,

“Chief Engineer.

“Hon. J. W. TRUTCH, C.M.G.,
“Dominion Agent, Victoria, B.C.”

Q. Here is another.—A. That, I think, is already printed as Exhibit “Y6.”

Q. When you first produced this document I asked you if you had the original estimates?—A. I have the estimates, but not the same date. The one I have here is of the 24th September, 1887, and is for $550,763.45. (Filed as Exhibit “B14.”)

Q. Have you got the certificates of work of the 22nd of December 1886?—A. No, sir.

Q. Will you take a note of that and endeavour to find it?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you identify this part of the Report of the Minister of Public Works, of 1886, about the Esquimalt Dock?—A. “Sessional Papers of 1886, No. 12, page 113. Esquimalt, in the Electoral District of Victoria, is situated on the Strait of San Juan de Fuca, three miles from the city of Victoria. By the Act 47 Vic., chapter 6, the construction of a graving dock at this place which had been commenced by the Government of British Columbia, was assumed by the Dominion Government, and the sum of $517,339.78 was voted for the purpose of recouping the Local Government for expenditure on the work (towards which the Imperial Government has promised a contribution of £50,000 stg.) and for completing construction. On the 8th November, 1884, a contract was entered into with Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. for the completion of the Dock for the sum of $374,559.00 and up to the close of the fiscal year good progress had been made. Expenditure during the fiscal year $45,582.18"

Q. On page 20 of the printed Evidence I find a letter (Exhibit "K2") from the Honourable Thomas McGreevy to his brother in which he says: "I enclose you the amount of estimates for December and January. The January one includes the new system of measurement. The advance $20,000 on drawback has been passed and will be sent at once to British Columbia." In the report of the Minister of Public Works of the same year, I find that $20,000 on drawback has been paid. Will you kindly give us the Order in Council, or any other Order from the Minister to this effect?—A. Here it is:

(Exhibit "C 14")

"No. 15904

"Subj. Grav. Dock, B. C

"Ref. No. 65601

"CHIEF ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

"OTTAWA, 3rd of March, 1886.

"SIR,—With reference to the application of Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. to be paid the drawback in the hands of the Department in connection with their contract for the completion of the graving dock at Esquimalt B. C., I have to state that up to the 31st of January last this firm had completed work to the amount of $255,413.45 and extra work amounting to $6,968.25, material delivered $29,677.23, or a total of $262,381.70, and that the drawback thereon amounts to $25,541.34.

"I am personally aware of many of the difficulties Messrs. Larkin & Co. have experienced with this work, also with the progress they have made and the excellent character of the work they have executed, and I have the fullest confidence in their ability and intention to bring it to conclusion.

"I have therefore to recommend for favourable consideration by the Honourable the Minister that the sum of $20,000 be paid to Messrs. Larkin & Co. on account of drawback retained under the terms of their contract.

"I am, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"A. GOBEL, Esq.,

"Secretary, Public Works Department.

"HENRY F. PERLEY.

"Chief Engineer.

Q. During the last part of December, 1886, or the first part of January, 1887, there was a cheque issued by the Department of Public Works to Larkin, Connolly & Co. for $71,000 or $72,000 on account of British Columbia. Can you give some information about that—can you give us the letter with which the cheque has been sent?—A. No, sir; but I believe the cheque was issued on the progress estimates rendered. I have it here.

By Mr. Edgar:

Q. What is the date?—A. 19th January, 1887.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. What is the estimate?—A. The amount of the gross estimate is $525,000. the amount paid $453,200; balance due, $71,800. That must be the amount of the cheque to which you refer.

By Mr. Edgar:

Q. Is the $25,000 drawback included in that?—A. The estimate always includes the gross amount on the work from the beginning to the end, and the accountant deducts the amount from the previous amount.

Q. No; but what I want to know is, if the $25,000 drawback is included in that?—A. That I cannot say.

Q. Can you give us any information about a further sum of $31,000 paid in the same year for the Esquimalt Dock?—A. I will have to look for it, it is a question of accounts.

Q. And will you kindly not forget the question I put to you about the drawback in 1885 on the Graving Dock at Lévis, and bring that with you to-morrow if you can?—A. I cannot find it; I have been looking through the synopsis of the papers of the Lévis Graving Dock, and cannot find anything.

Q. Then will you look and see if there is any drawback on the British Columbia Dock—I find in the private papers traces of a drawback?—A. I have been looking through the papers, but cannot find it.

Q. Will you search again—it is in the books of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Of course I will look.

Q. Will you read this paper and file it, please?—A. It reads:

(Exhibit "D14.")

"LARKIN, CONNOLLY & CO., CONTRACTORS, QUEBEC HARBOUR IMPROVEMENTS.

"QUEBEC, Oct. 30, 1886.

"A. GOBEL, Esq.,

"Secretary, Dept. of Public Works, Ottawa, Can.

"DEAR SIR,—As the Graving Dock at Esquimalt, B.C., has been completed for some time we would ask you to release our security, and also pay us balance due on contract, or as large an amount as you can allow us on account of same, as we are much in need of funds at present.

"Please forward amounts to us at Quebec instead of to B. C., as formerly.

"Yours most respectfully,

"LARKIN, CONNOLLY & CO.

"C."

Then there is the report of Mr. Perley.

Q. Read that, too?—A. Then there is the report of Mr. Perley, on the back as follows:

"I have already recommended that a payment of $25,000 account of drawback in hand be paid to Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co.—and I have now to recommend that their security be returned. Any payment in settlement of the contract must remain until a final estimate has been rendered by Mr. Trutch.

"H. F. PERLEY.

"2-11-86."

Q. Can you find a letter from Mr. Ennis of the 31st October, 1884, No. 28523. Allusion is made in that very letter to a private note that Mr. Larkin has sent to Mr. Ennis. I would like very much to have that information?—A. Not a private note?

Q. Yes, my information is it relates to an important matter?—A. I could not produce Mr. Ennis' private notes; he has been dead five or six years.

Q. Enquire if that private note is in Mr. Ennis' papers?—A. There are none of Mr. Ennis' papers in the Department. When Mr. Ennis died, five or six years ago, all those papers were sent back to his family.

Q. Who has his papers now?—A. I cannot tell. I have not the slightest knowledge; the papers were sent to his wife, I suppose. I have not the slightest knowledge where they are, I was not Secretary at the time.

Q. Do you tell me that all Mr. Ennis' private papers are with his family?—A. The only thing I tell you is that before I was appointed Secretary, and two or three days after Mr. Ennis' death, his son came over to the room Mr. Ennis had occupied. I was Acting Secretary and I told him "anything that belongs to your father, take it away, whatever it may be." I don't know what they took away. I presume they took away private papers if there were any. I don't know whether there were any, but perhaps there were.

MR. TARTE.—I shall be obliged to ask for an order to have all these papers now in your possession from Mr. Ennis produced. I have got here I may say a copy of a pretty important paper which would indicate the very entries we have gone through, begun at that time, and I want brought here all the papers written by Mr. Ennis or bearing his signature. This is a confidential copy of a document that we know exists. It indicates just the basis of the partnership we have seen all through here. In this it is suggested that an outside party must be taken in with them, that the Engineers should be changed, and all that sort of thing we have gone through; and I believe it would be most important for us to have the copy here now. I suspect the copy is now in the Department of Public Works. I am not in a position to state that it is there now, but it has been in the Department.

MR. OSLER took a note of the document and promised that a search would be made for it.

MR. TARTE—I would like to put in the confidential estimate made by Mr. Bennett as to the cost of Graving Dock for the benefit of Mr. Trutch. It is of the 3rd January, 1885. It is as follows:

(Exhibit "E14")

"Confidential.

"ENGINEER'S OFFICE,

"ESQUIMALT, B.C., 3rd January, 1885.

"SIR,—I have the honour to submit to you a comparison between our estimate of the cost of completing the Esquimalt graving dock and Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender for the same.

	Our Estimate.	Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s Tender.
Bill No. 1, Excavations, &c.	$ 20,725 90	$ 31,223 85
" No. 2, Concrete .....	$ 31,822 70	147,524 00
" No. 4, Masonry.....	121,472 80	99,122 30
Cement .....	84,762 00
	238,057 50	246,646 30
" No. 3, Brickwork. ....	51,800 40	72,785 50
" No. 5, Timberwork ....	8,595 08	16,066 53
" No. 6, Ironwork .....	21,116 46	12,625 85
Contingencies...	15,000 00
	$355,295 34	$379,348 03

"In looking over Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s tender, I notice that in item 6 the price, $2.50 per cubic yard for tunnelling in rock for culverts, is very low.

"Since it has been decided to use concrete backing instead of rubble masonry, item 13½ will be struck out and item 14 should read thus, "5 to 1 rubble Portland cement concrete around and under bollards, &c." Item 15 should read thus: "3 to 1 fine Portland cement concrete 6 in. thickness on top surface, &c." Item 16 should read thus: "3 to 1 fine Portland cement concrete 4 inches in thickness, as paving to surface of quays, &c." Item 20 should read thus: "5 to 1 rubble cement in inner arches to back of walls and under stairs, &c." Item 21 should read thus: "ditto to a radius of 24 feet, &c."

"Prices for items 14, 15, 16, 20, 21 require readjustment in consequence of concrete being used instead of rubble masonry.

"Two items are omitted and should read as follows: "Item 30a, 3 to 1 do do in arches at backs of recesses in caisson chamber 18 ins. thick and to a radius of 5 feet at per cubic yard."

"Item 30b, 3 to 1 do do arches over recesses in side walls of caisson chambers, 17 in. thick and to a radius of 3 feet at per cubic yard."

"Prices are required for these two items.

"Price is required for item 90.

"I may remark the price for brick work generally seems high, while the price for maintenance and removal of coffer dam staging and wharf (item 300) is absurdly low; our estimate for this was $12,000, or four times as much as the contractors bid.

"The contractors seem to have made a mistake in price of item 285, 15 cents each is a ridiculous price for three wrought iron hinges six feet long, six inches wide, one inch thick.

"In working out Larkin, Connolly & Co's tender for the sake of comparison with our estimate, I put the following rates to the following items :

Item 14	at per cubic yard.	.....	$ 8.50
do 15	superficial do	.....	10.00
do 16	do do	.....	10.00
do 20	cubic do	.....	8 50
do 21	do do	.....	8.50
do 30a	do do	.....	18.00
do 30b	do do	.....	18.00
do 90	do foot	.....	1.00

"It would have been preferable had a copy of the specification first printed been attached to the contract, as in that no mention is made of rubble masonry backing.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"W. BENNETT,

"Resident Engineer.

"Hon. J. W. TRUTCH, C. M. G.,
"Victoria."

Estimate made by Messrs. Kinipple & Morris as to cost of completing Dock at Esquimalt was also filed and marked (Exhibit "F14.")

Mr. ST. GEORGE BOSWELL re-called.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you tell us who were the Inspectors on the different public works that were executed in the Harbour at Quebec since their inception?—A. E. J. Milne, Richard, Verrault, Labbé, Dick, Brunel, Germain, Pelletier, Lachance, and Sample. I think those are the names as far as I can remember.

Q. Of course, they were not all employed at the same time?—A. As far as I remember those were all who were at any time connected with the work.

Q. Can you say who were the Inspectors in the season of 1887?—A. I would like to look at the books. There were three dredging Inspectors—Pelletier, Brunel and Germain. Dick, Milne and Labbé, I think were.....

Q. I mean only dredging Inspectors.—A. The dredging Inspectors were Pelletier, Germain and Brunel. Dick may have done a little of that work. Sometimes when one man was away he would go on.

Q. Off and on, I suppose?—A. When a man was away he used to go on.

Q. You have brought their returns with you, I suppose?—A. I have.

Q. Did you put them in the hands of the Engineers now at work?—A. Yes, they are all in their possession.

Q. Did you prepare out of those returns from the Inspectors the statements for July and August for 1887?—A. I did.

Q. Have you that statement here?—A. I have. Here is the actual working time of the dredges "Sir Hector" and "St. Joseph," during the month of August, 1887. This is taken from the Inspector's books. I have also the same thing for July, 1887.

Q. By these two reports, two dredges appear to have been at work?—A. Two; that is all.

Q. During the day time?—A. Day work.

Q. Will you give the results for each dredge during the month of July—the quantity?—A. In July, 1887, the dredge "Sir Hector," when Germain was inspecting it, did work 149 hours and 41 minutes; while Brunel was on board, 128 hours. The dredge "St. Joseph," with Inspector Pelletier on board, 276 hours and 35 minutes. Those are for July.

Q. Will you give in connection with this time the number of yards reported?—A. The total amount returned for July, 1887, was 107,644 cubic yards.

Q. For the two dredges?—A. For the two dredges. (Statement filed as Exhibit "G 14.")

Q. Now, give the number of hours for the month of August that the dredges were at work?—A. In August, the "St. Joseph," with Inspector Pelletier on board, 288 hours and 27 minutes. The dredge "Sir Hector," with Inspector Germain on board, 231 hours and 55 minutes; with Inspector Brunelle, 68 hours and 35 minutes.

Q. And the number of yards returned was?—A. The number of yards returned was 106,737. (Statement filed as Exhibit "H 14.")

Q. Did you notice whether they were all at 35 cents a yard?—A. Yes, at 35 cents.

Q. Did you ever become aware that some of these Inspectors have been receiving money from the contractors?—A. No.

Q. You never were informed of that?—A. Never.

Q. Did you ever become aware that they were doing work for the contractors during the time they were under your orders?—A. No.

Q. Of course you were not aware they ever did any work, or if they did it was never with your consent or permission?—A. No.

Q. Were these inspectors employed by the Commission, under your orders, during the winter?—A. No; there was one of them employed one winter at Point Lévis. sounding.

Q. When was it?—A. I think that was in 1885, or somewhere about then.

Q. Did you make any survey of the basins and different places where the dredging was done in the harbour, since the work has been suspended?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you give to the Committee the result of your survey?—A. In what way.

Q. As to the depth—what was to be the depth, according to the contracts, of the tidal basin?—A. The depth of the Tidal basin, I think, as you will see in the contract, was for 25 or 26 feet, but it was never graded down to that, as appropriation was exhausted.

Q. There was not enough money?—A. No, not enough money.

Q. So by the survey you made yourself satisfied the work was not completed?—A. No; there are places where there is not 26 feet, but it is down to 25 feet. I could show you the exact soundings if you wish it.

Q. Will you kindly show it?—A. This plan produced shows the depth down to a grade of between 25 and 26 feet, some of it deeper. On shoal places you can see soundings down to between 23 and 23½ feet.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What is the actual average depth of the Dock, that is to say, what kind of a ship could go safely into the Tidal basin now?—A. A ship drawing 25 feet of water.

Q. Could go safely?—A. Yes.

Q. At every spot?—A. At every spot excepting immediately along this wall here (indicating the chart), as the bottom of the cribs was only sunk to 24 feet they could not dig away as deep as at other places.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. I think you said it was only some 23 feet deep in some places?—A. So I did.

Q. Well, how can a ship drawing 25 feet go in there?—A. That would not affect the ship. A ship can go into it because it is all soft. A ship drawing 25 feet of water will go right along in the mud.

By the Chairman :

Q. It is only mud?—A. That is all.

Q. No boulders?—A. Oh, no.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Do you know what the draught of the “Carthaginian” is?—A. I don't know.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. If a ship drawing 25 feet of water went in there, in some places she would have to root through two feet of mud at the bottom?—A. Well, it is a very small spot and quite soft.

Q. At some places?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. How many thousand yards of dredging would be necessary to finish the basin?—A. Well, I have not made a calculation.

Q. In round figures?—A. I would not hazard an opinion at all without calculating; it would not be much.

Q. It would not be much?—A. It is a matter of just sweeping over.

Q. Of bottoming?—A. That is all.

Q. Was there any bottoming done?—A. Yes; the dredges had been over there once or twice.

Q. But still there are spots?—A. Still there are spots; you see them on the plan.

Q. What is the extent of those spots, about how much?—A. Oh, I could not say. I would not for the sake of these spots ever attempt to go over the whole of it, and attempt to clean it.

Q. You would leave the basin as it is?—A. I would leave it as it is there; yes.

Q. Are you aware that the contract of 1882 provided for 36 feet deep of dredging?—A. That is, as far as I remember, from 25 to 26 deep.

Q. No.—A. Well, the contract will speak for itself; I forget what it is.

Q. The contract has not yet been completed, then?—A. Well, the money has been finished.

Q. How much money has been spent on that Tidal basin for dredging? Can you give us a statement?—A. I can if you give time to prepare it.

Q. To-morrow can you?—A. No.

Mr. OSLER.—It is in the Accountant's report. First Report. (Appendix No. 2.)

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. What was the depth of this basin before the dredging contract was let?—A. The first dredging contract?

Q. Yes.—A. It was a little above, in most places two feet above high water.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Are you in a position to make a calculation for us, having regard to what has been done, to shew the amount which was necessary to do after the first contract was let?—A. I have made a calculation, but it is a great deal a matter of judgment. The contract was paid for by scow measure; it is a question of scow expansion after you measure it in place. Mr. Boyd made allowance of a third for expansion, and I see Mr. Kennedy does the same thing. Taking that as a basis, I have made a calculation here. The quantity measured in place was for the Cross-wall, 267,805 cubic yards; for the Tidal harbour, 1,000,620 yards; for the Wet dock, 824,305 yards; the total place measurement was 2,092,730 cubic yards. Out of this amount Moore and Wright were paid for 518,427 cubic yards.

By Mr. Eägar :

Q. That is in scow?—A. I am reducing this to scow measurement.

Q. This is all reduced?—A. No. The 2,092,730 cubic yards are measured in place.

Q. And the 518,427 you have brought into place measure?—A. Reduced, yes. So that the amount that Larkin, Connolly & Co. should have done, 1,574,303 cubic yards. They were actually paid for 1,877,859 cubic yards. Out of this some work done at the head of the basin is not included in this calculation, amounting to 230,609 cubic yards, leaving a balance of 1,647,250 cubic yards as what they were paid for, against 1,574,303. That is, there is a discrepancy of 72,000 yards, covering a period of about seven years, I suppose.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you ever hear any complaints from ship-owners, whose ships were in the basin, about the depth of the basin?—Yes.

Q. When?—A. There was one ship, I think it was the summer before last, and that it was the "Beaconsfield" which grounded when she was lying in here (pointing to chart). She was drawing twenty-five feet of water. The Assistant Engineer had reported that it was down to grade but when the "Beaconsfield" grounded I made some soundings and found that there was a bank there.

Q. What was the actual depth over where the "Beaconsfield" grounded?—A. Eighteen feet.

Q. The ship has been lost since?—A. No.

Q. Are you now in a position to tell us if it is not true that there are a number of deep holes in the basin?—A. In the Tidal harbour? No.

Q. In the Wet basin?—A. In the Wet basin there are places that are a good deal down below grade.

Q. How much deeper than fifteen feet below low water?—A. There are places five feet below.

Q. Are you sure that there are not places deeper than that? Did you make a careful survey?—A. Yes.

Q. Are there many deep holes like that in the Wet basin?—A. Not many.

Q. Deeper than fifteen feet below low water?—A. Yes.

Q. Where do you find these spots generally?—A. In the middle of the basin.

Q. Larkin, Connolly & Co. were paid by the scow?—A. They were.

Q. By the yard?—A. So much per yard scow measurement.

Q. They are not paid, as you call it, in the solid measurement?—A. No.

Q. What is the difference between solid measurement and by the scow?—A. I have said that is a matter of judgment. Nobody can tell, as a matter of fact, what it is. Mr. Kennedy, the Harbour Engineer of Montreal, takes it at about forty per cent.; and Mr. Boyd in his calculation took it at one-third, and I think that is somewhere about correct. So that a yard in place would make one and one-third yards scow measure. It was on that assumption that this calculation I have read out was based.

Q. When you are doing it by the scow it would be greater profit?—A. That depends on the price.

Q. At the same price?—A. No doubt about it.

By Mr. German :

Q. How many yards were Larkin, Connolly & Co. paid for by scow measurement?—A. 1,877,859—that is scow measurement.

Q. And the measurement in place was how much originally?—A. 1,574,303; but then there was against this 1,877,895 to be deducted, as being in another place, 230,000 yards.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. By the contract of 1887 we see—page 14 of the Blue-Book (Exhibit "N5") that that contract was to remove all such quantities of materials to a depth that shall not exceed fifteen feet below low water, and you have just stated that Larkin, Connolly & Co. have dredged in certain spots 22 feet?—A. Yes.

Q. They have been paid for all that dredging?—A. Yes, it is more expensive to dredge deep than shallow.

Q. Except when you have a very fine spot?—A. I do not think there is much difference in the spots.

Q. Were you aware at the time this contract obliged them to dredge fifteen feet below low water?—A. Certainly.

Q. Were you aware that they were dredging it twenty-two feet?—A. I did not say twenty-two feet.

Q. Let us say twenty. Were you aware of that?—A. I was.

Q. Did you authorize them to dredge deeper than they were authorized by their contract?—A. No, I did not.

Q. Did you try to stop them?—A. I did.

Q. And you could not succeed?—A. I wanted to deduct the difference of what they had done on all low depth. I was not in a position to make it. I was only in a position to recommend it to the men who had control.

Q. To whom did you suggest it?—A. The Chief Engineer. He considered it was a benefit to get the work done. If he could get it dug deeper for the same price he thought it was better. It is a matter of judgment.

Q. Is it all over fifteen feet?—A. There is a great deal of it down to twenty feet, and the shallowest is ten feet. That is just along the wall. The general depth of the basin is fifteen feet.

Q. So that some of it is 5 feet too shallow and some of it 5 feet too deep?—A. None of it is too shallow; some of it is 5 feet too deep.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you make any written suggestion or just reported it?—A. No, I merely spoke of it at the time.

Q. To Mr. Perley?—A. Yes; the soundings were shown on the plan.

Q. All the Engineers on the staff there knew that the contract had been made for 15 feet below water; you had the contract before you?—A. Certainly.

Q. And knowing that these contractors, Larkin, Connolly & Co. were dredging at 20 feet, that is to say 5 feet more than they were obliged to do, you allowed them to go on?—A. Yes.

Q. You tell us you made a report to Mr. Perley?—A. I did not say it was to Mr. Perley, I said the Engineer.

Q. But it was Mr. Perley?—A. You are right; it was Mr. Perley.

Q. Did you make a report to him?—A. Yes.

Q. More than one report?—A. I do not think so. All I remember is drawing his attention to the extra depth and telling him that I could not control the dredges unless I made this deduction. He said no, that it was an advantage to the Harbour Commissioners to have a greater depth in the basin.

Q. But they were paid for 15 feet?—A. Certainly. If he had asked for 20 feet they would have got a bigger price.

Q. They were paid for all the dredging?—A. They were paid for all the dredging they did.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. In that quantity that you mention of 2,092,730 cubic yards, being the total taken out, did you calculate arriving at that to a depth of 15 feet below water, or did you take it down to the different depths?—A. This is what is arrived at from the soundings made. Before the work was begun and after it was finished.

Q. Down to 15 feet or more?—A. No, down to actually what they did.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. Were they paid the same price for dredging at 20 feet as they were for 15 feet?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. They got no greater price?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Have you got any idea of the dredging that remains to be done in the Tidal basin?—A. Very little remains to be done. It is satisfactory as it is, that is, unless they approach the wharf a little too close, as there is a bank there that has never been touched, but as far as the dredging goes it is as low as requisite for practical purposes.

Q. The contract of 1887 provided for an expenditure of $100,000, for that season?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware that more than $150,000 has been spent during that season?—A. I am.

Q. Were you authorized to exceed the authorized amount?—A. Yes.

Q. By whom?—A. I could not say without looking at my letters. I reported to the Harbour Commissioners the fact that the amount had been exceeded. It may have been to Mr. Perley that I made my report.

Q. Will you look for those letters and bring them with you to-morrow?—A. Of course I can only bring the letters I wrote myself.

Q. Did you get an authorization for the extra dredging?—A. I must have, otherwise I would not have gone on.

Q. What is the exact amount that is made in 1887? Did you keep special books for dredging matters?—A. I can tell you that by looking up the estimate books.

Q. From whom did you get the report of the dredging?—A. From the Assistant Engineer.

Q. Who was the Assistant Engineer?—A. The one who made up the report was Mr. Charles McGreevy.

Q. Who added up the reports?—A. He took the Inspector's books and added up the quantities and checked the additions in them and sent in the report. One is already filed here.

Q. Then you have nothing yourself to do with the actual work of the Inspectors?—A. No.

Q. Nothing at all?—A. No.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. How far does that portion of the basin that is undredged extend out from the wall?—A. This wall (referring to plan) is 150 feet long. A ship drawing 25 feet of water can lie alongside the Louise Embankment, standing 10 feet from the wall.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Have you got a marked chart for the Tidal basin, showing the spots deeper than 15 feet?—A. No.

Q. Can you give us the estimated amount of those spots?—A. It would take a long time to do it.

Q. Well, the average?—A. If I did it at all, I would like to do it right.

Q. Are those holes numerous?—A. They are not holes. There is perhaps one portion of the basin 20 feet, and then another portion 15 feet.

By Mr. Lister:

Q. Did the contractors insist on going down to a depth of 20 feet in spite of your wishes?—A. The Inspectors were able to control the depth. They had gauges with them, and if they saw the dredge dip too low they would tell them to stop and move ahead.

Q. I suppose they carried out the instructions?—A. I suppose they could not see the figures all the time.

Q. Is it more expensive to go down 20 feet than 15 feet?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, how is it the contractors went below 15 feet?—A. I don't think it was the contractors; I think it was the dredges were racing; the man who took the most out was to get a premium at the end of the season, and when they got into a spot they did not like to get out of it.

Q. A soft spot?—A. No; not that. The work was pretty much the same. The tide is always rising and falling, and unless a man is reading his dipper all the time, he easily gets 2 or 3 feet too low.

Q. The Inspectors would know all about it?—A. It was their duty to know it.

Q. They did not report to you?—A. They never reported anything. The Assistant Engineer took the soundings, or I took them myself.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Are you quite sure there are not places deeper than 20 feet?—A. I will give you the plan of the exact soundings, and you can look for them yourself.

Q. I want it from you?—A. I will look the information up. If I can find places deeper, I will let you know.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Who do you say was the Assistant Engineer?—A. Charles McGreevy.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Was it his duty to see to the dredging?—A. It was.

Q. With the Inspectors?—The Inspectors were under him.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. Have you made up the average number of hours the dredges worked per day?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. What did you take off the 230,000 yards for?—A. I made a calculation, taking the sounding before the work was begun and after it was finished, and these 230,000 yards were in a part of the basin I had no soundings for, so I did not include that at all in the calculations.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. I understood you to say you had made up the average number of hours worked by each of these dredges per day? What are the figures, say for instance during July, 1887?—A. I gave you the total number of hours; the average is about 10 hours a day.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Would it be 10 hours?—A. It might be a little more. The papers just put in will show it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Can you tell us if only 35 cents were paid for the dredging done by the contract of 1887?—A. Well, I will have to look it up I think. They were all paid 35 cents I am sure.

Q. But is it not a fact that some dredging was paid for at more than that figure, especially in 1887?—A. To what are you alluding now?

Q. I am alluding to the dredging made by the contract of 1887 in the Wet basin?—A. Speaking from memory, there was nothing that was paid beyond 35 cents.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. There was special dredging for which we find 50 cents?—A. What year was that?

Mr. TARTE.—In 1889.

A. I don't remember anything in 1889.

Q. You will look, please, and see if I am wrong?—A. That was not the 35 cent contract.

Q. There was no other contract made?—A. Certainly.

Q. What contract?—A. It was a special arrangement by which they were to dig down to 15 feet below low water, and when they went into bottoming of the tidal harbour, they did not go into it with the same price.

Q. Their contract was not exactly that way because I read in Mr. Perley's letter "I want only one price, which must cover the dredging to any depth required?"—A. Not exceeding.

Q. It may not exceed?—A. Well, it may not.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. It was giving an average?—A. That is a new interpretation of the contract, and the understanding was it was 35 cents to cover any dredging from the surface of the ground down to 15 feet.

Q. It was the understanding?—A. Certainly.

Q. A clear understanding?—A. Certainly; that was the way I always understood the contract.

Q. That the contract did not oblige them to dredge lower than 15 feet?—A. Certainly not; and when they went into bottoming the Tidal harbour, it was a different arrangement. It did not come under their contract.

Q. Did you understand that from Mr. Perley, himself?—A. The work was put into my hands to carry out and that is the way I carried it out.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. We want to know that because the letter is quite opposite to that. Have you any knowledge that some of the dredging material was thrown into the crib of the Cross-wall?—A. Used for filling, yes.

Q. Can you give us the quantity that was thrown there?—A. Into the Cross-wall?

Q. Yes, in 1887?—A. I shall have to look it up.

Q. And give it to us to-morrow?—A. I cannot do it to-morrow. You have already given me two or three weeks' work, and I have been working on Sunday and every night.

Q. I want to know what quantity was thrown into the Cross-wall?—A. I have here the two plans with the measurements. These are the soundings, taken before and after.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Was the measurement by the scow or tub measurement of the yards of dredged material always at the same advance from the beginning, or was there a change in the percentage added? You take your yard in situ and take your yard in the box and you say you allow  $33\frac{1}{3}$  per cent. more?—A. That is only to make a calculation to check the account returned by the Inspectors. The contractors were paid scow measurement. You measured the scow when it was full and ascertained that it would hold so many cubic yards.

Q. Did you pay on the contents of the scow, or did you only use that measurement to check the quantities in situ with the scow?—A. So much per scow.

Q. Did you use that advance of  $33\frac{1}{3}$  per cent. to check your scow measurement with that in situ?—A. Yes; but the contractors would have nothing to do with that.

Q. You did not pay the contractors by the in situ measurement with the advance?—A. No.

Q. But by the cubical contents of the scow that has been measured?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. The scow is supposed to contain so much?—A. I measured the scows myself. They held so much when full and the number filled every day is returned by the Inspector, and he deducts so much, as I can show you by the books.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. After the report of the Inspector is made do you use this percentage to check their measurement?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You had no business to see if the scows were full or not?—A. I had nothing to do with that.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, WEDNESDAY, 29th July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10.30 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, etc., resumed.

Mr. ST. GEORGE BOSWELL'S examination resumed.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Will you point out to us and count the spots on which there are not twenty-three feet of water (referring to the chart)?—A. That is the only spot.

Q. Only one spot?—A. Only one spot.

Q. I speak of the whole basin?—There are places in here (pointing to the lower left hand corner) where there is only one foot or two feet of water. That is in the corner where there never has been any dredging. The ground is as it was originally.

Q. Will you count the spots on which there is less than twenty-five feet?—A. As I told you yesterday, these marks indicate the places that are less.

Q. Count them?—A. About forty-nine, somewhere about there. That is not absolutely correct.

Q. There are forty-nine spots on which there is not twenty-five feet of water?—A. Yes.

Q. What is the depth of these spots?—A. Between twenty-three and twenty-four and a-half feet.

Q. What would be the average size of these spots?—A.—They vary. Some are twenty feet long and ten feet wide. They are all sizes.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Do those white lines around them indicate the size?—A. Yes. There is nothing in any of these places to prevent a ship drawing twenty-four feet of water from getting through.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. I find in one of Mr. Perley's reports the following: "During the season just closed the Tidal basin has been enlarged to nearly its full dimensions, and a uniform depth of twenty-five feet at low water has been obtained." How can you explain that?—A. I should call that very nearly a uniform depth.

Q. When there are forty-nine spots? Do you call that uniform?—A. Yes.

Q. You have signed a report last year in which I read this: "The outer or Tidal harbour, having an area of about twenty acres and a general depth of between twenty-six and twenty-seven feet of water at low water, spring tides." How can you prove that that statement is true?—A. That is an extract from a publication made for commercial purposes. It was not a report made to the Harbour Commissioners. It is not in the Harbour Commissioners' Report, but it is an extract from another document.

Q. Is not this document in the Quebec Harbour Commissioners' Report in 1890?—A. Yes.

Q. And it is not true?—A. Yes, it is, I beg your pardon. What does it say?

Q. Twenty-six and twenty-seven feet?—A. I say that ships have been in that basin drawing twenty-five feet of water, and I say that that pamphlet was written for commercial purposes, and that is an extract from it put into the Harbour Commissioners' Report.

Q. Is this not the Harbour Commissioners' Report to be sent to the Ministers here?—A. No; this was never meant for that.

Q. But the former part of the report?—A. I am not responsible for the former part. I am only showing how that was written.

Q. Were you asked by the Harbour Commissioners to make that report?—A. Yes; for that pamphlet.

Q. Will you kindly put in the reports of the soundings made at your request in 1889 by Charles McGreevy that was put into your hands in 1889 about the Wet basin?—A. That is it.

Q. I mean for the Wet basin.—A. This is the one (referring to the chart on the wall).

Q. Will you kindly point out to us the spots that are there under fifteen feet of water at low spring tide?—A. Here are the remarks made by Mr. McGreevy which indicate the spots that are between seven and fifteen feet.

Q. Are these spots indicating between seven and fifteen feet very broad?—A. They are right along the wall.

Q. How large?—A. They are within five or six feet of the face of the wall. As I said yesterday, along this wall the dredging was never intended to be more than ten feet below low water.

Q. Can you point out the spots at which there are twenty feet, as you told us yesterday?—A. Here is a place here and another here. There are several.

Q. What is the area covered by the spots deeper than fifteen feet?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Are there any spots deeper than 20 feet. Did you make the soundings yourself there?—A. I have, yes.

Q. Then you are in a position to tell us?—A. Here is one place (pointing to plan) 21 feet.

Q. You will find some 23, I think?—A. Here is one of  $22\frac{1}{2}$  feet, three places of 22 feet, one of  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , two of  $22\frac{1}{2}$ , two of  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , one of 22, two of  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , one of 21, two of 21, two of 21, three of 21, one of 21, one of  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , two of 22, two of 21, one of 22, one of 24, one of  $24\frac{1}{2}$ , one of  $26\frac{1}{2}$ , one of  $22\frac{1}{2}$ , three of 21, one of  $22\frac{1}{2}$ , two of 22, one of  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , two of  $21\frac{1}{2}$ , one of  $22\frac{3}{4}$ , one of  $21\frac{3}{4}$ , one of 21, one of 22, one of 21, three of 21.

Q. At any rate, the depth of the Wet basin varies from 7 feet to 24 feet, according to what you have just said?—A. I did not say the depth varied from 7 to 24 feet.

Q. You have just indicated so?—A. I say it is 5 feet at the face of the wall, where it was never intended to deepen more than 10 feet, but that was not the general depth of the basin.

Q. There a great many more spots of 22 or 23 feet depth by what I see—just about the same thing everywhere?—A. Yes.

Q. Very well, then. Did you ever get orders, either from the Harbour Commissioners or from Mr. Perley, to allow Larkin, Connolly & Co. to dredge deeper than 15 feet, as per their contract?—A. As I said yesterday, I had spoken to Mr. Perley about their going down deeper.

Q. Did you make any report to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. No; in fact I did not know it until it was done. It was never reported to me until it was over.

Q. When did you get the first knowledge that they were dredging deeper than 15 feet?—A. I could not tell you that.

Q. Had you made a report to Mr. Perley?—A. I spoke to him verbally. I don't remember when it was now, it may have been the fall of 1887, and it probably was.

Q. And yet the same kind of work went on in 1888, and then you had full knowledge that the contractors were dredging deeper than per their contract?—A. Yes.

Q. You knew it?—A. Yes.

Q. You never reported that to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. No.

Q. You have never reported that fact, so far, until to day?—A. I have only reported it in so far as they have had a copy of the plan of the soundings, by which to see the depth themselves.

Q. You told us yesterday that in 1887 you had sent a letter to the Harbour Commissioners warning them that $100,000 was spent, and that the works were going on, or something like that?—A. I said I had sent it to Mr. Perley or to the Harbour Commission.

Q. You were asked yesterday to produce that letter. Have you got it?—A. I don't think I was, I don't know who asked me.

Q. I did.—A. I did not hear you. I asked you to write down what you wanted, and I have got a memorandum of what you asked for.

Q. You had better search for the letter.—A. Here is a letter to Henry F. Perley, Esq., Chief Engineer Public Works Department, Ottawa.

Q. What is the date, please?—A. August 4th, 1887, and the letter reads:—

"I have the honour to enclose you estimates for work done on the Quebec Harbour works for the month of July, and in doing so would draw your attention to the fact that the appropriation of $100,000 for dredging has been expended, with the exception of $24,355.45. At the present rate of progress this amount will become due on or about 20th instant."

Q. And did you get a reply?—A. I could not tell you; I will have to go and look for it.

Q. You will kindly look for it, and give it to us this afternoon?—A. I will take a note of it.

Q. Have you got Mr. Boyd's book or books of dredging—he kept books?—A. Yes; I have them.

Q. Are they in the hands of the Engineers?—A. Yes, they are with the Engineers.

Q. You know his handwriting?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you take communication of this letter, and read the first part of it?—A. It reads:

"QUEBEC HARBOUR WORKS,

(Exhibit "K14.")

"ENGINEER'S OFFICE, 24th June, 1885.

"To Messrs. LARKIN, CONNOLLY & Co.,
Contractors, Quebec.

"GENTLEMEN,—Without in any way wishing to dictate to you how you should carry on your work, I beg to submit for your consideration the following notes which, I think, may give some suggestions as to the amount of work to be done and the time it will take to do it. All the work is estimated to be done between 1st June and 1st November.

"The quantity of dredging to be done to complete the foundations of the Cross-wall and bring the Tidal Basin to a uniform depth of 25 feet at low water is, in round numbers, about 200,000 cubic yards. As you dredged 300,000 cub. yds. last year, you will doubtless be able to remove the 200,000 cub. yds. this season without difficulty, or at the rate of 40,000 cub. yds. per month. In the same way, 165,000 cub. yds. was put into the Louise Embankment last year, so that you can complete the filling, which requires 140,000 cub. yds., or 2,800 cub. yds. per month, this season." This is a letter signed by John Edward Boyd, Engineer in charge.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you give permission to Mr. Laforce Langevin at any time to absent himself from duties on the Harbour works at Quebec to go and work elsewhere?—
A. I gave him permission to go on work at the Graving Dock, provided it did not interfere with his ordinary duties.

Q. Did you give notice to the Harbour Commissioners that you had given him that leave?—A. No; I did not.

Q. How long has he been working on the Graving Dock at Lévis?—A. I do not know.

Q. You have no idea?—A. I have no idea.

Q. For how long did you give him leave of absence?—A. I did not give him leave of absence at all; I told him he could go, provided it did not interfere with his duties on the Harbour works.

Q. Was it by your order that he made an inquiry into the conduct of Captain Bernier?—A. No.

Q. Was it part of the work that he got leave to make there?—A. No. What he went there to do was to build the fence, I believe, for Mr. Coste.

Q. Did anyone outside of Mr. Laforce Langevin ask you to send him there?—
A. Mr. Coste asked me if I would allow him to go.

Q. Mr. Coste himself?—A. Mr. Coste himself.

Q. Did he write to you?—A. No; it was personally.

Q. Mr. Laforce Langevin stated yesterday that he has been working on the Graving Dock between three and four months. Do you know if he has been absent longer than that?—A. I do not know that he was absent at all.

Q. Was he on the Harbour works all the time during those four months?—A. Certainly not; he was there when he had work to do.

Q. How many hours a day would he be there?—A. I cannot tell you; I do not keep his time.

Q. But you should know when he is there?—A. I am responsible for the work, and when I find that the work is not being done it is my duty to look after it. No one else has anything to say.

Q. Has he been paid for these three or four months by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Certainly.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. I have a few questions to put to you, Mr. Boswell, which are, if possible, to be answered in aid of the Committee of Engineers. Were the plans that you identified—the six sheets—the actual plans sent to Quebec at the time of the letting of the contract for the construction of the Cross-wall?—A. That I could not tell. I never saw the plans before the contract was let. Those are the only plans that Mr. Boyd, when he came to the office, brought with him.

Q. Were the plans exhibited to the contractors?—A. I could not tell. Mr. Boyd brought those plans with him after the contract was signed.

Q. If you will look at the date of those plans you will see that there must have been other plans. Two of those plans have a date subsequent to the contract?—
A. Yes.

Q. A year or so subsequent?—A. Yes.

Q. You have no other plans in the office?—A. None.

Q. And you never had any other?—A. No; I have not seen any other.

Q. Where are the detail plans made from time to time as the work progressed?
—A. They are all with the Engineers.

Q. They have all been produced?—A. All, with the exception of a few small drawings.

Q. Is there any plan showing the Cross-wall, foundations, depths, &c., as actually constructed—that is to say, any plans of the work as finished? Have they been prepared?—A. The plans of the crib-work were drawn to a certain depth, and then the figures were put on for a depth as they are now complete, so that the figures would not correspond with the scale of the plan.

Q. You put figures on the six sheets?—A. Mr. Boyd did.

Q. Showing the depth or any other measurement, and that you must not be guided by the scale but by the figures?—A. Yes; by the figures.

Q. And to that extent we are helped as to the work that is finished?—A. Certainly. You can see the original figures have been erased and new ones put in.

Q. Were the quantities returned in the final estimate computed in accordance with the specification and schedules, or was there any change?—A. I do not know what schedules you refer to.

Q. The original contract schedules. My question is, were the quantities returned in your final estimate computed in accordance with the specifications and schedules, or was there any change?—A. The plans were certainly changed from the specification—changed altogether—but it is carried out in accordance with the figured dimensions on the plans, as far as they show the work.

Q. Was there any change in making up the final estimate from the provisions of the specifications and estimates?—A. There have been so many changes that I cannot tell what was originally intended. Originally, apparently, there was a caisson with cribs only  $14\frac{1}{2}$  feet below low water.

Q. The principle I want to get at is whether the crib-work was paid for by the cubic yard?—A. Certainly.

Q. Was any deduction made from the cost of crib-work owing to the increased spacing of the cross timbers?—A. No.

Q. Then there was increased spacing and no deduction?—A. No deduction.

Q. Were additions made to the crib-work quantities to cover extra work on the cribs? If so, how is that shown in the estimate?—A. Yes. In the back of the large entrance crib, which was made solid, a quantity of extra timber was measured and put into hollows and cuts. Then a sufficient number of cubic yards of crib-work were added by Mr. Boyd to make up this extra cost of timber.

Q. How is that shown in the estimate?—A. Just as he figured it; so many cubic yards of crib-work, equivalent to the actual cost of the extra timber used.

Q. Added for the timber?—A. Yes; so many cubic feet of timber at the contractor's price. That gave so many dollars, and he reduced that into cubic yards of crib-work.

Q. Are there additions to the crib-work quantities to cover extra work?—A. Yes; in that special instance.

Q. Then you have crib-work at so much per yard; there is a crib built, which is so many yards; there is extra work in it; you add the price of the extra work to the crib, and then add extra yards instead of extra prices?—Certainly; and then at the junction of the Cross-wall and the Louise Embankment there is a space of about 6 feet closed with piles. That was allowed as crib-work.

Q. Allowed as crib-work, although it was pile-work?—A. Yes.

Q. To what extent is that?—It is 6 feet long on one side and 4 feet on the other. I could not tell you how many yards.

Q. Are the cribs, as actually constructed, of the dimensions shown on the plans submitted to the contractor, and as referred to in the specifications? And were the dimensions of any of the cribs increased?—A. The Wet Dock cribs, as built, were  $7\frac{1}{2}$  feet deeper than the ones called for in the specifications. The Tidal Harbour cribs, I think, were 2 feet deeper, but I cannot tell how these cribs, as actually built, compared with the plans of the ones shown to the contractors.

Q. Is the additional depth shown on the plans in figures and not in scale?—
A. In figures.

Q. Well, then, in these changes, were additions made to the quantity of crib-work to cover the extra work done?—A. Certainly. The crib-work as done was measured and cubed, and put into yards.

Q. Did you add yardage that did not exist for the purpose of covering the extra work?—A. No.

Q. You did so in one instance?—A. Yes; we did so in the one crib I spoke of. That is the only instance in which extra timber was put into yards.

Q. In all cases of concreting, was that measured and returned on the theoretical basis of the number of barrels of cement used?—A. Yes.

Q. It was not measured in situ?—A. It has been measured, and the returns of the Inspectors checked by actual measurement.

Q. Yes; but I mean, was it paid for by the barrel?—A. Yes; the object in cubing the cribs for the quantity of concrete was to see that there was no great mistake made in the returns.

Q. Was the amount of concreting in the cribs increased or decreased in the actual construction, as compared with the plan on which the contract was let?—A. I do not know on what plan the contract was let, but it was greatly increased above what was called for by the specification.

Q. The specification does not give any quantity?—A. The specification defines the depth of the wall, and the concrete can be calculated from that and the scale on the plan.

Q. How was the earth filling between the Quay-wall and the cribs measured?—
A. There was so much scow measure from the Inspector's books returned and soundings taken between the cribs before the filling was put in.

Q. Do you mean to tell me the measurement was made by scow measure?—A. No; the final measurement was measurement in place.

Q. And the progress measurement by scow?—A. I am not sure of that.

Q. The progress estimates make it by scow. Will you get the information for me?—A. As far as I remember, I went over the whole thing. If you will give me a few minutes I will get you this information.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You gave us the quantities of yards of dredging taken out in the month of July and August, 1887, and the number of hours of work done by two dredges during those particular months. Will you kindly give us the same information for the months of July and August, 1886—that is, the quantity of dredging taken out and also the numbers of hours of work?—A. Yes.

By Mr. German :

Q. It appears by the final estimates of this dredging that 55 cents per yard was paid for some bottoming. You say that was under another agreement?—Yes.

Q. What was that agreement?—A. The contract only compelled them, as I understand it, to dredge down to 15 feet below low water. This bottoming, which consisted of the taking away of some of these mounds that you see in there, the depth was generally brought down to 24 feet. When I reported that that work was required to be done I was told to ask the contractors for a rate at which they would do it.

Q. Dredging 15 feet below low water includes bottoming?—A. That contract was let in here (pointing to the chart), and that was the grade of the basin; but this was in another basin, where the water was already 23 or 24 feet.

Q. This was outside of any contract they had previously entered into?—A. Certainly. Their contract existing at the time was dredging over the surface of the ground 15 feet below low water, and if you wanted them to go deeper you could not compel them to do so under that contract.

Q. Was this bottoming over ground that they had previously dredged under contract?—A. Yes.

Q. How does it come that this bottoming was not done in the completion of the dredging?—A. Under the old contract? Because there was a certain amount of work to be done and they exceeded it. They finished it.

Q. You say there was a certain quantity of dredging to do—a certain number of cubic yards to do—and they had accomplished that without doing the bottoming?—A. The first contract was for various prices, according to the depths they went down. That was carried on for a number of years, but in the winter of 1886 they were paid up, and the whole thing was wiped out. The great bulk of the dredging was then in this upper basin. Mr. Perley thought it possible to make a new contract for 35 cents for that work. The bottoming they had in the other basins was at their old contract prices—prices that had been abolished. We could not compel them to go in there, because their contract was finished, and they were written to and asked what they would do the work for.

Q. Do you know how many yards of work they did in bottoming up?—A. 14,452.

Q. At 55 cents?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, you were in the Harbour works employ at the time the contract for the Cross-wall contract was let?—A. I was.

Q. Did you ever see the Engineer's estimate of the quantities in the Cross-wall made before the tenders were asked for?—A. Never.

Q. Is that not usually done—an estimate of the quantities made, which is a private document for the use of the Department prior to tenders being called for?—A. As I have said, that work was all done in Ottawa and I was in Quebec. I do not really know what they did. I knew nothing until the contract was signed about it.

Q. If that estimate was made it was made here in the Department in Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever compel Larkin, Connolly & Co. to dredge deeper in the Wet basin than fifteen feet?—A. No; never.

Q. Did Mr. Perley tell you that he ever compelled them to dredge deeper?—A. In the Wet basin? No.

Q. I asked you yesterday for a statement of the quantities thrown, after 1887, in the Cross-wall. Will you give me them?—A. In 1887 there was 11,467 cubic yards; in 1888, 13,713; in 1889, 38,238.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. A report was shown to you at the opening of your examination, and in it you said there had been inserted some statements, the whole of which you had signed, but for which you were not responsible. You said that statement was taken from some document prepared for commercial purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. Some of us did not understand that. I want you to explain what you meant by commercial purposes?—A. I got up the pamphlet, showing the extent of the embankment and the depth of water, for sending up west and to Liverpool to people interested in shipping and handling cargoes, in order to tell them about the draft of vessels that could go into the basin. That extract was taken out of that report. All that report does is to guarantee that a ship can go into that basin drawing a certain depth of water, but it does not say that you cannot find places with less. A pilot going in there knows where to place the ship.

Q. You say that a vessel can be worked in there drawing to the depth mentioned?—A. Yes; but you would not put a vessel drawing twenty-seven feet of water into a place where there was just twenty-seven feet. You would want some water under her. But one of the Allan steamers that grounded in the channel went in there and did not ground.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What is the name of that steamer?—A. I do not remember.

Q. What year was it?—A. I think it was a year ago last fall.

Q. You are sure that steamer draws, how much?—A. Twenty-five and a-half feet. She grounded coming from Montreal—that is, touched bottom—and did not touch bottom in the basin.

Mr. G. E. PERLEY sworn.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are a son of Henry F. Perley?—A. I am.

Q. What is your profession or occupation?—A. An Engineer.

Q. Where are you employed?—A. In Kingston, at the present time.

Q. In the Public Works Department?—A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been in Kingston on that work?—A. Since July, 1888.

Q. What is your position?—A. I am Assistant Engineer.

Q. How long have you been in the public employment?—A. Since 1884.

Q. It has been said here that the sum of $2,000 was set apart by the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. in March, 1888, to be paid to your father, but that it was not paid to your father, but given to you to give to your father. That statement was given in evidence. What do you say to it?—A. I never received it.

Q. Do you know anything of any such payment?—A. I know nothing of it.

Q. Were you ever spoken to by Nicholas or Michael Connolly with reference to any such payment?—A. No, sir.

Q. Or to any other payment?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did any member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. at any time approach you on the subject of a money payment?—No, sir.

Q. Did you ever receive any money from any member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever know of any being received for you or for your father?—A. No, sir.

Q. I am not confining my question to March, 1888, although that is the time suggested. I am covering all dates, either before or after. Do your answers apply for all the time you have been in the public service?—A. All the time I have been in the public service.

Q. I have asked you as to money. Now, have you received anything of money value?—No, sir.

Q. Or been the means of transmitting such to your father?—A. No, sir.

Q. Or keeping it for yourself?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. German :

Q. Have you a brother?—A. I have a brother.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Your brother is an invalid?—A. Yes.

Q. Confined to his bed?—A. Yes.

Q. And for a number of years?—A. Yes.

Q. How many years?—A. Over two.

Q. Before he was an invalid, what was your brother?—A. He was a bank clerk—in the Bank of Ottawa.

Q. Living in Ottawa?—A. In Ottawa.

Q. He was never in the public service?—A. No.

Q. Can you give me the date more accurately when he was laid up?—A. I think it was in the month of March, two years ago.

Q. March, 1889?—A. Yes.

Q. What condition of health is he in now?—A. He is in a very poor state of health.

Q. Is he able to be examined at his house? How is his mind?—A. I should think he could not be examined at the house. I have just come to Ottawa, and did not see him this morning.

Q. There is something wrong with his back?—A. It is the hip.

Q. And he has to lie in a recumbent position?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You said you worked at Kingston?—A. Yes.

Q. On what works?—A. Kingston Dry Dock.

Q. Who are the contractors?—A. Connolly & Co.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. How long have you been working there?—A. Since July, 1888.

Q. Since the inception of the work?—A. Since the beginning of the work.

Q. Is that work nearly completed now?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Have you met Mr. Bancroft on that work as a contractor?—A. I may have met him. I have met a great many contractors looking over the plant.

Q. You never met Mr. Bancroft to know him?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. What is the age of your brother?—A. 24.

---

Mr. A. A. TAILLON SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You live in Sorel?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are carrying on business as a private banker?—A. Private banker.

Q. Had you any business connections with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Have you any objections to state what kind of business you had with them?—A. No, sir. On the 2nd January, 1886, I find in my books an entry at the credit of the company for $30,000. The sum had been deposited by cheque of C. N. Armstrong.

Q. Do you remember on what bank?—A. On myself.

Q. Had C. N. Armstrong any money deposited with you at that date?—A. It was deposited by way of a note discounted.

Q. For a similar amount?—A. Yes.

Q. A demand note?—A. A demand note of C. N. Armstrong.

Q. Endorsed by anybody?—A. By L. J. J. Fosbrook.

Q. Railway contractor?—A. Railway contractor.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. Fosbrook was connected with Mr. Armstrong in any railway construction?—A. Yes; they are friendly together.

Q. They constructed together the Montreal and Sorel Railway?—A. The Montreal and Sorel Railway.

Q. They had something to do with the construction of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I understood at the time, not that Mr. Fosbrook, but that Mr. Armstrong, either had the contract, or was about to get the contract.

Q. You say this is a credit entry?—A. This is a credit entry.

Q. Are there any more entries on that side of the book?—A. No, sir. Later on, 19th January, two cheques were drawn, one of $25,000 and the other $5,000, by the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company.

Q. On the order of whom?—A. That I cannot trace, because the receipts themselves have been surrendered to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company. They were drawn a short time afterwards by the Baie Chaleurs Railway Company. I hold their receipts for the papers, and I can produce, if you wish, a letter acknowledging the cheques have been returned.

Q. When these cheques were presented, did you give the money for them?—
A. No, sir.

Q. What was the transaction?—A. The note from Mr. Armstrong was withdrawn with the cheque of $30,000.

Q. And this closed the account? A. This closed the account. I wish to make an explanation. It has been stated we are using a name we are not entitled to. The law allows us to use the name of "The Richelieu District Bank" providing we state it is not incorporated. The bank pass-book was issued in my own name.

Q. Did you use the name of the Richelieu District Bank?—A. At one time we had the privilege, the same as all private bankers. Until about 1886 the Banking Act authorised the use of the title, providing the words "not incorporated" were included.

Q. In 1886 you were not using the name?—A. We were using the name with words "not incorporated" on our letter-heads.

Cross-examination of Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You told us, in the course of your examination, that you had been connected in business with your brother for a period of about thirty years. Will you state what the character of those relations was, in general terms?—A. From 1850 to 1860 I was working under his orders. In 1860 I was sent to Ottawa to take charge of the erection of this building, and I remained until 1867—until its completion, except part of the Library, which was left in abeyance. During that time I had full control of the work. Thomas McGreevy resided in Quebec.

Q. From the period indicated onwards?—A. From 1874 to 1882 I was put in charge of the construction of the North Shore Railway.

Q. Your brother was a contractor for the North Shore Railway?—A. Yes.

Q. And from 1882 onwards, what were your relations to your brother?—A. My relations with him then were nothing permanent—just having business with him off and on.

Q. Your relations were of a very intimate character up to the time of the break?—A. Necessarily so.

Q. You looked after his private business when he did not attend to it himself?—A. Very often.

Q. You wrote letters for him, did you not?—A. Sometimes.

Q. In his name?—A. Business letters I did, but not any others.

Q. You knew all about his private business, did you not?—A. Not all.

Q. Very nearly all?—A. What I knew of, I knew.

Q. What was the general class of business you did not know of?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Do you know of any business at all that you did not know?—A. I did not know what I did not know.

Q. So you cannot tell us any class of business of your brother's that you had nothing to do with?—A. No.

Q. You were his confidential man—you had access to all his letters?—A. I had.

Q. When he was not there, did you open his letters?—A. Business letters I did; if they were marked "private" I did not.

Q. You had the combination of his safe?—A. No.

Q. Was there a combination of the safe in the office?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Was it a safe that locked with a key or a combination lock?—A. In Quebec?

Q. Yes.—A. The only safe I knew of having a combination was the one in the North Shore Railway office.

Q. Is it not a fact that you had access to his safe in the office?—A. No.

Q. You say you had not?—A. I say I had not.

Q. Who kept the key of the safe as a rule?—A. Mr. Chaloner, I think.

Q. Did he ever refuse to allow you to have access to the safe?—A. I do not know that I ever asked him.

Q. Did he ever refuse you access to the safe?—A. I do not know.

Q. Mr. McGreevy kept some of his papers at his house?—A. He may have.

Q. Do you know if he did?—A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know whether he had a safe in his house?—A. I do not.

Q. Do you say you never went to his safe in his house?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Do I understand you to say you never went to his private safe in his house?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. Did you or did you not?—A. You have got my answer, and I will give you no more.

Q. I want you to swear positively whether or not you went to his private safe in his house?—A. You will get no other answer.

By the Chairman :

Q. From your recollection, can you tell?—A. I have said already that I did not know. It is not information Counsel is seeking; he is trying to complicate matters.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Do I understand you to swear that you never went to his house and never got any papers from his private safe in his dwelling?—A. I have answered already.

Q. To the best of your recollection, did you do so within the last three years?—A. Put your question down in writing, what you want me to say.

Q. I want you to say now whether within the last three years, to the best of your recollection, you have ever gone to your brother's house and obtained from his safe papers of any kind?—A. I think not.

Q. You think not. To the best of your recollection, did you or did you not?—A. I think not.

Q. If you had gone there would you remember it?—A. I may have.

Q. You may have gone?—A. No; I may have recollected it

Q. Do you recollect it or not?—A. I do not.

Q. Do you swear you did not go?—A. I do not know.

Q. You stated that you were manager for your brother on the North Shore Railway?—A. I said from 1874 to 1882.

Q. What salary did you draw?—A. I did not draw any.

Q. What amount is your name debited with in the books of the North Shore Railway.

Q. Are you aware, if I may be permitted to refresh your memory, that that subject came up in the litigation between you and your brother?—A. It did come up.

Q. What was the amount shown in the books?—A. Somewhere about $60,000.

Q. The amount was $67,000—the balance to your debit?—A. I do not know whether it is the balance to my debit or the balance of the credit. I never drew any money during that period for myself. He always obtained money from the cashier of the railway or from Mr. Chaloner, his private cashier.

Q. You have told us up to about 1884, I think, you were engaged with your brother, and after that business relations continued. Can you tell us when the business relations or relations of any kind ceased?—A. Our relations ceased on the 14th January, 1889.

Q. And what was the cause of that quarrel?—A. The cause—the remote cause—of the quarrel which led to the break was his desire and expression that I should be kept off the Richelieu Board of Directors.

Q. When was the elections for the Richelieu Co.?—A. It was, I think, in February—I think the early part of February, 1889—but the immediate cause that came out of that trouble was the statement made by him to Mr. Murphy and to the Connollys, that I kept all the moneys that was given by them, and that I was the thief.

Q. Just about this time was there a question of your ceasing to have an interest in the business of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Not until that trouble arose, I think.

Q. And that was about what time?—A. It began to grow about November, 1888, as far as I can say.

Q. And it came to a head. Can you tell us more precisely the date?—A. It came to a head on the 14th January, 1889.

Q. Is that the date of your letter?—A. I think it is.

Q. You had no further relations with your brother after that?—A. No; I had not.

Q. Previous to that time, was there a question of you and Murphy's buying out the two Connollys?—A. I never had anything to do with the buying out of the Connollys.

Q. Are you aware Murphy made a proposition to buy out the Connollys in any of the several contracts?—A. I was present when he offered to buy out or sell.

Q. What time was that about?—A. 1889.

Q. January, 1889?—A. About January, I think it was.

Q. Had you an interest in the business in the event of Murphy acquiring it—were you both interested?—A. No; we had no discussion about it.

Q. Was it understood between you your interest was to be bought out, or that you were to remain in?—A. No understanding at all.

Q. There was no offer. Did he buy out your share at that time?—A. No.

Q. You were aware that Murphy then concluded with the Connollys, were you?—A. I was present when he concluded with them, I think.

Q. That arrangement fell through?—A. Fell through I think.

Q. Are you aware of the reason?—A. The reason given at the time was, that the Harbour Commissioners would not accept the release of Mr. Larkin.

Q. And the Connollys, or Mr. Larkin alone?—A. Mr. Larkin, and possibly the Connollys for all I know.

Q. In other words the Harbour Commissioners would not accept Murphy alone?—A. That was a subsequent condition; when they negotiated there was no question at all about the transfer.

Q. But that was the difficulty that arose?—A. It arose afterwards.

Q. About how long after?—A. I think perhaps the next day.

Q. It was the cause of Murphy's not buying out the Connollys at that time?—A. That was the cause.

Q. What was the price he was to pay the Connollys for their interest?—A. Well, I don't recollect the sum now.

Q. Well, about?—A. I could not recollect what amount.

Q. It is not true it was $50,000?—A. It may be possibly in that vicinity.

Q. Somewhere about there?—A. Somewhere.

Q. Just about this time you were sued by the Union Bank, I think, were you not, for $19,000 on a note?—A. It was about the time, a little after the break with Thomas McGreevy, that the bank sued me for that note.

Q. And you took an action in warranty against your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. You claimed that your brother was bound to indemnify you to some extent for that note?—A. I claimed he was the endorser of the note, and that the bank should hold him responsible.

Q. So that, as your brother was the endorser, and you were the promiser, the bank should look to the endorser?—A. Yes.

Q. Just about this time, did you prepare the statements that were published, that in the month of April, in Le Canadien, one signed by yourself, and one signed by O. E. M?—A. I did not prepare a statement.

Q. You know the statements that were published in Le Canadien, which are the subject matter of libel proceedings?—A. I don't think I signed them.

Q. You are aware in any case that subsequent to the publication of certain statements, there were libel proceedings, both civil and criminal, instituted against Mr. Tarte, against yourself, and against Owen Murphy?—A. When?

Q. In the course of 1890?—A. It was about the early part of 1890.

Q. Was it you who supplied to Mr. Tarte the information upon which he based his pleas in this case?—A. I don't think so.

Q. Are you sure?—A. Almost quite sure.

Q. Do you swear you did not?—A. I swear that I don't think I did.

Q. Did you ever see those pleas at any time?—A. No.

Q. Did you ever supply any information whatsoever to Mr. Tarte, with a view of assisting in making those pleas?—A. I did not.

Q. No memorandum, payments, or statements, with reference to the different financial transactions that were spoken of in the statements which formed the subject matter of the libel suit?—A. I think not.

Q. I understand you, then, to say you had no knowledge of the statement that was published in Le Canadien?—A. I have no knowledge of the statement.

Q. None whatever?—A. As published in the paper.

Q. You signed no statement?—A. I did.

Q. Did O. E. Murphy sign a statement?—A. I think he did.

Q. Did he sign it in your presence?—A. He did.

Q. Did you ever have those statements yourself?—A. Yes; I had.

Q. Did you show them to any person?—A. You don't mean the newspapers, do you?

Q. I mean any person at all.—A. No.

Q. Did you show them to any person?—A. You don't mean the ones as published?

Q. I mean the statements as signed by you and Murphy—did you show them to any person?—A. Yes. In the early part of February, 1890, the reports set afloat by Mr. Thomas McGreevy respecting myself and the application of these moneys, already referred to, and the very unpleasant circumstances which were referred to, led me to seek some redress. The same reports were being set afloat respecting Mr. Murphy, which I knew were untrue. Being connected so long with my brother, Thomas McGreevy, and with the party with which he was working, I had no desire to give any publicity to any statements. I therefore put down in writing what I thought was a statement of my position with Larkin, Connolly & Co., and all the circumstances surrounding it, and I went to Thomas McGreevy's best political friends. I went to the Honourable Theodore Robitaille, whom I asked to see if some redress could not be given for those rumours, and I showed him the statements. He asked me what he was to do with it; if he was to show it to Thomas McGreevy. I said: "No; you are very intimate with Sir Hector Langevin. Show it to him, and in a week I will be back to Ottawa to see what is to be done." I says: "There is not 5 cents consideration in this matter; it is simply that my character must be put right." The municipal elections occupied me in Quebec for three weeks, and I then came back to the Honourable Mr. Robitaille, and he said Sir Hector would see that Thomas McGreevy would do something. I asked him to see Sir Hector that day, and if there was nothing done to give me the papers. At 2 o'clock I met him in the Senate, and he told me that Sir Hector had told him that Thomas McGreevy undertook to settle that matter and give me back the papers. Even yet I was not prepared to make public anything. I then seen Mr. Tarte, one of the Conservative party, and a very intimate friend of those connected with them, not as a journalist—this was still about the month of March—and I asked him if he would see Sir John Macdonald, and I explained to him exactly what I did to the Honourable Theodore Robitaille. In about three weeks or so Mr. Tarte told me that he had seen Sir John, and that the result of it was that he had seen Thomas McGreevy, and that he said it was blackmail, and that there was nothing true in it. Having got the papers back again, there was nothing left to me but to take some other course, and I went, having already got the papers back from Mr. Tarte, in a week or so to him again, and I told him: "There are the facts; you can guide yourself with regard to anything you may do, but not for publication, by no means." It was agreed that they were not to be published. That is the explanation I give.

Q. Will you look at the statement which has now been handed to me by Mr. Tarte, and state whether that is the statement which you handed to Mr. Robitaille, and subsequently to Mr. Tarte?—A. It is the statement I handed to Mr. Tarte.

- Q. Is it the statement you handed to Mr. Robitaille?—A. I don't know.
- Q. What became of the statement?—A. I don't know.
- Q. You got it back, you told us?—A. Yes; that is my business where it is, but it is substantially the same.
- Q. It is your business where it is. I think it is the business of the Committee where it is, and I will ask you to produce it?—A. I do not know where it is.
- Q. Why did you give the answer you have just given?—A. I have amended it by saying I do not know that I have it.
- Q. Was there another statement?—A. Yes.
- Q. What became of it?—A. I do not know.
- Q. You do not know to whom you handed it?—A. I do not know that I had it.
- Q. That is what I want?—A. It is not what you want; it is what the Committee wants.
- Q. Exactly.—A. I do not know where that statement is now, but I did not give it to any person that I know of.
- Q. Where did you last see it?—A. The last time I seen it was after I had taken it from the Hon. Mr. Robitaille.
- Q. What did you do with it?—A. I do not know.
- Q. Did you take it away from Ottawa?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did you show it to any person after you showed it to Mr. Robitaille?—A. Yes; it is likely I did.
- Q. To whom did you show it?—A. I do not think I showed it to more than, perhaps, an intimate friend.
- Q. Who was that intimate friend?—A. I cannot say.
- Q. You swear you cannot say?—A. I do not know that I could tell you who it was. Of course I would show it to Mr. Murphy.
- Q. To any person else?—A. I do not know that I did.
- Q. Who had you in your mind that you referred to as an intimate friend?—A. I do not know.
- Q. You do not know who you were thinking of when you said you perhaps showed it to an intimate friend?—A. No.
- Q. You have no idea?—A. No.
- Q. None whatever?—A. No.
- Q. You now state you do not know what has become of that statement?—A. I do not.
- Q. Have you made search for it?—A. I have not.
- Q. You were required to do so by order of the Committee?—A. I do not think I was.
- Q. Will you look at the statement found amongst the papers produced by O. E. Murphy and state whether that is the one?—A. It may have been, indeed.
- Q. Was it?—A. I do not know that it was.
- Q. You then signed several statements?—A. No; I did not sign many.
- Q. How many did you sign?—A. The one I gave Mr. Murphy and the one I gave Mr. Tarte.
- Q. These are the only two you signed?—A. I think so.
- Q. Then, if you only signed two, the one you gave Mr. Tarte is not the one; so the one you showed Mr. Robitaille, presumably, must be the one?—A. The one I showed Mr. Robitaille I did not sign.
- Q. It was an unsigned statement?—A. Yes; it may have been in manuscript.
- Q. Was it or was it not?—A. I do not know.
- Q. What makes you say it may have been a manuscript?—A. Because I may have given it to him as I drew it up.
- Q. Did you or did you not?—A. I do not know.
- Q. If you did not, what did you do with the manuscript?—A. I must have torn it up.
- Q. You are unable to say whether you gave the manuscript to Mr. Robitaille?—A. I am not able to say.

- Q. Your memory does not carry you that far?—A. It does not.
- Q. Is that your signature on the paper now shown you (Exhibit "L14")?—A. That is my signature.
- Q. What time was it that you saw Mr. Robitaille?—A. It would be about the middle of February.
- Q. What year?—A. 1890.
- Q. So that you prepared the statement, I understand, shortly after the quarrel with your brother?—A. Oh, no. The quarrel with my brother was in 1889.
- Q. I understood from your previous evidence—possibly I was wrong—that that statement had been prepared immediately after the quarrel?—A. No; I think I gave dates for all I said.
- Q. In any case you prepared this statement in January, 1890?—A. Yes.
- Q. You showed it to Mr. Robitaille—how long after you prepared it?—A. Three or four weeks.
- Q. That would be February, 1890?—A. Yes.
- Q. Where did you show it to him?—A. In his room in the Senate Chamber.
- Q. In Ottawa?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did you specially come up for that purpose?—A. I specially came up for that.
- Q. How long were you here?—A. One or two days.
- Q. You left this statement in the hands of Mr. Robitaille and returned to Quebec?—A. Yes.
- Q. How long after that did you return?—A. About two weeks.
- Q. That would be in the early part of March?—A. Yes.
- Q. You then got back from him the statement you had handed to him?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did you have any conversation with him on the second occasion as to what you intended to do?—A. No; I did not.
- Q. On either occasion, did you tell him what you intended to do?—A. With regard to what?
- Q. Your brother and the statement you had handed to him?—A. No; I do not think I did. I told him what I have already stated.
- Q. I should like you to repeat, if necessary, what you told him with reference to the course of action you proposed to follow?—A. I did not speak of any course of action I proposed to follow at all.
- Q. You did not say to him, in any way whatever, what you intended to do?—A. No.
- Q. I understand you simply complained of your brother making false representations on the subject?—A. Precisely.
- Q. Did you indicate to him why you had prepared this statement?—A. I did.
- Q. What reason did you give?—A. That I should be cleared in my character of the calumny circulated against me.
- Q. When had that calumny been circulated against you?—A. During the years since November, 1888.
- Q. It culminated in the quarrel of January, 1889, you have spoken of?—A. Yes.
- Q. You waited until January, 1890, before preparing this statement?—A. I was waiting until all the ammunition of those who were accusing me was finished.
- Q. You waited a whole year for the purpose of clearing your character from the time of the quarrel before preparing this statement?—A. I took that course, because every two or three weeks there was a lawsuit, and I wanted to see where it would end.
- Q. There was an election in December. When was the election in Quebec West in which you were a candidate?—A. I think it was December, 1889.
- Q. Did you circulate this statement or the purport of it during the election?—A. No.
- Q. You did not refer to it in any way?—A. I do not think I did.
- Q. Can you recollect whether you did or not?—A. I cannot.
- Q. You may have done so?—A. I may not have done so.
- Q. Do you swear you did not?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. To the best of your recollection, you did not?—A. I did not.

Q. It was after your defeat in 1889 that you prepared this statement?—A. It was after that.

Q. You have already said your brother worked against you on that occasion?—

A. So I understood. I did not make that statement here.

Q. Did he work against you?—A. I made the statement that he worked for Owen Murphy.

Q. Who were the candidates?—A. Owen Murphy and myself.

Q. You have made the statement that he worked for Owen Murphy, but not against you?—A. That is it.

Q. Will you explain the difference?—A. I cannot explain the difference. It is merely an expression.

Q. Did you during either of the conversations you had with Senator Robitaille state to him any of the conditions you required your brother to do to settle this impending quarrel?—A. I have already stated the condition I imposed.

Q. What was that condition?—A. That he would retract what he had said.

Q. Which was that you were a thief?—A. Yes.

Q. Was that all?—A. I think that was all.

Q. Are you sure that was all?—A. I think so.

Q. Will you swear that was all?—A. We had a conversation, but it did not amount to a condition.

Q. Did you make a suggestion to him as to what course you wished your brother to follow?—A. No.

Q. Did you state to him that you required he should resign his seat in the House?—A. I did not make it a condition.

Q. Did you make a suggestion of that kind?—A. I think so.

Q. You thought it advisable that he should resign his seat and you should run in his place?—A. I did not.

Q. In any case, you thought it advisable he should resign his seat?—A. Yes.

Q. And you also thought it advisable he should resign his seat on the Richelieu Board?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you think it advisable that you should become a Director on the Richelieu Board?—A. I did not think so. I was forced into it.

Q. You have been a candidate on several occasions?—A. No; not since.

Q. Do I understand you to swear that you did not require or suggest that your brother should resign his seat on the Richelieu Board?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you suggest that he should cease to become President?—A. No; because I was the cause of putting him there.

Q. But circumstances had altered since you put him there?—A. Not much.

Q. Then you were satisfied he should remain on the Richelieu Board?—A. It was in the middle of the quarrel I helped to put him there.

Q. You swear that there was no suggestion in any of the conversations you had with Senator Robitaille as to your brother resigning his place at the Board of the Richelieu Company?—A. The only condition was the one I have stated.

Q. Was there any question at any of these interviews of your brother resigning his seat on the Harbour Commission?—A. It was the same as resigning his seat in the House.

Q. The discussion was begun by you?—A. Yes.

Q. The suggestion was made by you?—A. Yes.

Q. You thought it advisable that he should cease to be a member of the Harbour Commission also?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that when you made the suggestion to Mr. Robitaille that your brother should resign his seat in the House that you also suggested that you were to be the candidate for the Conservative party for the division of Quebec West?—A. I did not; I positively deny.

Q. There was no suggestion?—A. Absolutely no such suggestion, in no way at all.

Q. You yourself had just been defeated for the Local Legislature?—A. Just defeated.

Q. And you were feeling rather sore?—A. Not a bit.

Q. You were pleased?—A. I was not pleased, but I did not feel sore.

Q. You did not feel sore against your brother for having worked for Owen Murphy?—A. Not sore at all.

Q. It was out of consideration for public morality you wished your brother to resign his seat in the House and his seat on the Board of Harbour Commissioners?—A. I do not know what the ground would be.

Q. What were your reasons for making the suggestion?—A. I thought that was proper.

Q. For what reason?—A. I cannot tell you why.

Q. I think the Committee would like to know?—A. I do not know that I had any reason.

Q. Had you any reason or not?—A. I do not know that I had.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Had you a motive in it?—A. No; I had no motive. I thought it was a thing that ought to be done.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Why did you think it should be done?—A. If I had a motive I would have made it a condition and I did not.

Q. Why did you think so?—A. I thought so then and I think so still.

Q. Why?—A. What I thought then and what I think now belongs to myself.

By the Chairman :

Q. What is your answer?—A. I have no answer. I had no motive.

Q. So that you made these suggestions without any reason or without a motive?—A. I refuse to answer that question. I have already answered it.

By Mr. Moncrieff :

Q. Why did you want your brother to resign?—A. That has been asked several times. I had no motive.

Q. You had no reason for it?—A. No.

Q. It was a mere freak?—A. I do not know whether it was or was not. I must have had some good reason.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. But you cannot state positively what they were?—A. No.

Q. But you are still of the opinion that he should have resigned both. Why are you still of that opinion?—A. I won't tell you.

Q. I want to know from you, and I ask you what are the reasons which induced you to say that your brother should have resigned his seat on the Board of Harbour Commissioners and as member of the House of Commons?—A. It being a matter of opinion, I won't answer.

By the Chairman :

Q. I think you had better answer, Mr. McGreevy?—A. I cannot answer any such thing; I won't do anything of the sort.

Q. Can you recollect any reason that you had at the time?—A. I thought it ought to be done.

Q. I am not asking you that. Cannot you recollect to-day?—A. I think with all due respect, that is a matter that ought to belong to myself.

Q. You must answer the question. Can you recollect any reason to-day?—A. I cannot recollect any reason.

The Committee then adjourned until 3 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY, 29th July, 3 o'clock p.m.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY'S cross-examination resumed.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. After you got back the statements from Mr. Robitaille what did you do with them?—A. I stated this morning that I gave them to Mr. Tarte.

Q. How long after getting them from Mr. Robitaille?—A. About a week or so.

Q. Did you speak to Mr. Tarte about this matter at all before seeing Mr. Robitaille?—A. I think not.

Q. You are sure you did not speak to him before getting the statements back from Mr. Robitaille?—A. I may have.

Q. Did you or did you not?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Where did you see Mr. Tarte about it first?—A. I believe it was in Ottawa.

Q. Had you made an appointment with Mr. Tarte in Ottawa?—A. Not that time.

Q. How did he come to be here?—A. He was here in connection with the press.

Q. Do you remember if it was immediately after getting these papers back from Mr. Robitaille that you saw Mr. Tarte?—A. It was a week or ten days.

Q. Will you fix the month that this occurred?—A. That would be about March.

Q. The beginning or the middle, or the end of March?—A. I cannot fix it exactly—about the middle.

Q. To the best of your recollection, you did not speak to Mr. Tarte until after you got back these papers from Mr. Robitaille?—A. I may have spoken to him, but, to the best of my recollection, I did not.

Q. What induced you to apply to Mr. Tarte?—A. The refusal of Sir Hector or Thomas McGreevy to have anything to do with it; or, rather, the answer from Sir Hector that Thomas McGreevy promised to attend to it.

Q. Did you wait to see whether he would attend to it or not?—A. Getting back these papers led me to believe that he was giving no attention to it.

Q. In what way did you expect him to give attention to it? What did you expect him to do?—A. I expected him to take some means of undoing the statement he had made.

Q. You say the statement. What particular statement?—A. Regarding what he accused me of.

Q. Did you consult Murphy about this?—A. I think I did.

Q. Was Murphy aggrieved about anything?—A. I think he was.

Q. But you are not sure?—A. I am not.

Q. To the best of your belief, was Murphy acting with you in this matter?
A. Not much.

Q. Murphy had no personal grievance of his own?—A. He may have had.

Q. Did he express to you any grievance?—A. He did.

Q. What about?—A. The manner he had been spoken of by Mr. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. What were these things?—A. I cannot remember.

Q. Can you remember any of them?—A. I have no recollection at the moment.

Q. Did Murphy speak to you about not being allowed to tender, or his tender being refused?—A. He did not.

Q. It was not because he believed Thomas McGreevy would exercise his influence against getting contracts that he joined with you?—A. I do not think it was. He did not join with me.

Mr. AMYOT objected to these questions being continued.

Q. Now, will you look at a letter found among the papers produced by Owen E. Murphy, and state whether that letter is in your handwriting, and signed by you?—

A. That is a letter written and signed by me.

Q. Will you read it ?

(Exhibit "N14.")

"THE RUSSELL,

"OTTAWA, 26th February, 1890.

"DEAR MR. MURPHY,—I was surprised at your telegram from Montreal. I believed you safe in Quebec. Tarte is not here, and I believe I will take a move in another, and perhaps more reliable direction, with our matter, and probably meet you at the Hall to-morrow at 3.30, by the Minneapolis train of Canadian Pacific Railway.

"I see the Witness had nothing last evening. You better see Lovekin, of Star, for our manuscript he took. I met Beauchemin at Montreal as arranged. He appears quite willing to go in, but did not think we could act till a year. I, however, showed him otherwise. He says they are destroying the Steamer "Canada" to adopting her for Saguenay line, and is disposed to have a correspondence started showing all the gross blunders they are at, if he could get them published, and he says by that means the stock might be let down. He will in a few days give me a reply to our offer, and if he goes in will act forthwith, and we can lay our plans. I told him we would be prepared to lower the rate by selling 500 to enable him and others to get in more.

"I remain, yours, &c.,

"ROBERT H. MCGREEVY."

Q. What do you refer to in this letter when you say: "I will take a move in another and perhaps more reliable direction with our matter?" What was the matter?—A. The whole thing refers to Richelieu.

Q. Was Mr. Tarte assisting you in Richelieu?—A. I don't think he was.

Q. What did you want to see Mr. Tarte for in Richelieu?—A. It was certain purposes he had,—friends of his.

Q. You refer to two other statements here: "I see the Witness had nothing last evening. You better see Lovekin, of Star, for our manuscript he took." What did you refer to there?—A. Well, I could not say now, unless it was some correspondence that was written respecting the Richelieu stock; that is my present impression.

Q. What did you expect to see in the Witness at that time?—A. I expected to see correspondence about the stock of the Richelieu and the blundering of the Directors.

Q. This was in 1890. Were you a candidate for election as a Director at that time?—A. Oh, no; it was after election, that.

Q. Had you been a candidate in the election immediately previous to this?—A. No.

Q. Was this an occasion you had assisted to put your brother in as President?—A. No; I think I assisted him in 1880; that is my present recollection.

Q. I think you have told us why you went to see Mr. Tarte with those papers that you had got back from Mr. Robitaille?—A. Yes; I stated what was the reason; that Mr. Tarte, as one of the strong members of the Conservative party, would take another direction to try and accomplish what I wanted with Sir John Macdonald. I knew he was a strong member of the party.

Q. What were the relations between Mr. Tarte and Thomas McGreevy at that time?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Were you aware they were personal enemies?—A. No.

Q. And are you aware Mr. Tarte had then published a series of attacks upon Thomas McGreevy in his paper?—A. I was not.

Q. Are you aware of it now?—A. No.

Q. Do you see Le Canadien, Mr. Tarte's paper?—A. I am a subscriber to it.

Q. Were you at that time, at the beginning of 1890?—A. I was not.

Q. You became a subscriber after the publication of your statement?—A. Precisely.

Q. Are you aware that Mr. Tarte and Mr. Thomas McGreevy had fallen out some considerable time previous to that?—A. I was not.

Q. You never knew of any cause of dissension between Mr. McGreevy and Mr. Tarte up to the time you handed Mr. Tarte your statements?—A. I did not, indeed.

Q. Had Mr. Tarte and Mr. Thomas McGreevy had previous business relations?—A. I understood they had.

Q. Did you have anything to do with it?—A. Not much; it was one of those businesses he kept to himself.

Q. Look at the letter produced, and say whether it is written and signed by you?—A. That is my writing and my signature.

Q. Will you read to the Committee the first paragraph?—A. Yes; it is as follows:

“QUEBEC, 9th March, 1885.

(Exhibit “O 14”)

“DEAR THOMAS,—I received your two letters. I was not surprised at learning from you that Sir H. L. did not speak to you of my matter nor of our letters. I don't think he gives the matter any consideration; however, the day will come, when again he and you will be sorry that the matter was not pushed to a settlement.”

Q. What matter did you refer to there?—A. The Intercolonial claim.

Q. When did you first make the acquaintance of O. E. Murphy?—A. I think it was in 1882—some time in the early part of 1882.

Q. Will you state the circumstances of your first becoming acquainted with him?—A. Respecting this contract for dredging that was proposed.

Q. Did you approach?—A. I approached him with reference to that.

Q. Had you known him previously?—A. I said I had not.

Q. He was a stranger to you at the time you approached him on this matter?—

A. Yes. If I had known him, it was only for a few weeks before—a short time any way.

Q. About how long before the tender for the dredging was put in did you know him?—A. Call it six months.

Q. Had you known him intimately?—A. No.

Q. When did you first begin to know him intimately?—A. About the time we were tendering for the dredging.

Q. When did the tenders go in?—A. The first call for tenders was in June, 1882.

Q. Then you knew him about six months before that time?—A. I won't say six months.

Q. You made his acquaintance with the intention of tendering with him or becoming interested in his tender?—A. Yes.

Q. That was the object of your making his acquaintance?—A. Precisely.

Q. Can you tell us where and when you saw him?—A. I could not say indeed.

Q. When did your plans mature, and were you accepted as a proposed partner?—A. Between March and May, 1882.

Q. Whom did you see besides Murphy in connection with this matter?—A. About that time I saw Mr. Connolly—about the same time.

Q. Which one?—A. Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. Did you speak to him about it?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you recollect where the conversation took place?—A. No.

Q. Was it at Lévis or Quebec?—A. Probably at Lévis.

Q. You had gone over specially for the purpose of seeing him?—A. Yes.

Q. To the works there?—A. Yes.

Q. Was it in company with Murphy?—A. I do not know whether it was in company with him or not.

Q. Did you settle the terms with Nicholas Connolly or with Murphy?—A. The terms of what?

Q. The terms of your going into partnership?—A. I settled with both of them, I fancy.

Q. As a matter of fact, what did you do?—A. I do not know.

Q. So you cannot say whether you settled with one or other, or both?—A. Most likely both.

Q. I want to know to the best of your knowledge?—A. Well, that is what I say.

Q. And the best of your knowledge is that you most likely settled the terms with both?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you keep this matter secret?—A. Which matter?

Q. The proposal or agreement that you were to go into partnership with Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I kept it secret, except to those to whom it related.

Q. Who were those persons?—A. Mr. Larkin, Mr. Nicholas Connolly, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Any person else?—A. No; I did not make it known to anyone else.

Q. Was it the intention that it should be kept secret?—A. It was the intention.

Q. That it should not be publicly known that you were interested in the contract?—A. Certainly.

Q. What was the reason of this?—A. I could not tell what may have led to the exacting of secrecy.

Q. Who was it?—A. It was generally admitted that it should not be made public.

Q. Who was it that exacted secrecy?—A. I think they all agreed to it.

Q. Whose suggestion was it?—A. It might have been mine.

Q. Can you recollect whose it was?—A. I cannot.

Q. Do you think it probable that it was yourself?—A. Very probable.

Q. What was your reason?—A. Because I did not wish, owing to the position Thomas McGreevy occupied on the Harbour Commission and in Parliament, that it should not be known.

Q. It was your suggestion that it should be kept secret?—A. Likely enough.

Q. You believe it was?—A. I believe it was.

Q. Do you know when the tenders went in?—A. They were extended some time in July for the reception of tenders.

Q. You have told us that it was understood you would put in a tender in the name of Beaucage. Is that so?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you prepare Beaucage's tender?—A. I did not prepare it myself.

Q. Who prepared it?—A. It was prepared on the figures of Mr. Nicholas Connolly and Mr. Murphy.

Q. Was it you who filled in the tender?—A. Most likely.

Q. Was it, as a matter of fact?—A. I do not know.

Q. Was it you who sent it to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I cannot tell you that either. I do not know whether I gave it to them or not.

Q. But, in any case, it was your tender?—A. It was my tender. I controlled it absolutely.

Q. Beaucage had no interest in it at all?—A. No; he had no interest in it.

Q. There was a second tender sent at the same time in Beaucage's name, or by Beaucage, for closing the opening at the gas-house wharf. Was that your tender?—A. I do not know; it must have been.

Q. Did you prepare that yourself?—A. I could not say.

Q. Do you recollect anything about that tender?—A. No; I have lost all sight of that work.

Q. Did you tell Thomas McGreevy that you were tendering in the name of Beaucage?—A. I do not know whether I told him or not.

Q. Look at part of Exhibit "T," filed in this case, and say whether the whole of that tender was yours?—A. That is Beaucage's tender.

Q. Which you controlled?—A. Yes.

Q. And the tenders both for the dredging and closing?—A. Yes.

Q. When did you withdraw that tender?—A. Some few days after the tenders were open.

Q. Did you write the letter yourself?—A. I do not think I did; I may have.

Q. What were the relative positions of the several tenders at the time you withdrew it?—A. It is in the book here. I have given the statement, and it is to be found at page 595.

Q. Will you state where that tender stood relative to the other tenders?—A. Fradet & Miller was $98,450, Beauceage was $131,267, Askwith was $128,860, Larkin, Connolly & Co. was $138,845, Edward Moore was $217,995, and Blake was $242,100.

Q. It was the third to last tender?—A. For the dredging.

Q. You did not attach any importance to the other tender?—A. No.

Q. You say about five or six days after the opening of the tenders, when the relative position was known, you withdrew Beauceage's?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you write the letter withdrawing it?—A. I think I drafted the letter and got Beauceage to write it.

Q. Subsequently, Larkin, Connolly & Co. got the contract?—A. Yes.

Q. Did they do any dredging that year?—A. No.

Q. Why?—A. They were not prepared.

Q. Having no plant, they built plant?—A. Yes.

Q. What did it cost?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Did it cost over $100,000?—A. They said so.

Q. At the time?—A. Not at the time.

Q. When did they say so?—A. During the next spring.

Q. Was that the price accepted by you?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know Fradet & Miller?—A. I know Fradet.

Q. Do you know Miller?—A. No.

Q. Never saw him?—A. Never to my knowledge.

Q. Do you know whether they were in a position to expend any such money to obtain this contract?—A. No.

Q. Who is Fradet? You know he is a diver, and a man of small means?—A. The Government gave him a $25,000 job.

Q. Was he in a position to spend $100,000 on plant?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. What was the $25,000 job he got?—A. I think it was the removal of the steamer "Ottawa."

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Was he a member of the Local Parliament at the time?—A. I do not think he was.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. Do you know Askwith?—A. I do not know him.

Q. Are you aware that Fradet was not in a position to carry out that contract?—A. I am not.

Q. Do you believe he was?—A. I do not believe he was.

Q. Are you aware that the contract was awarded to him conditional upon his putting up security to the extent of $10,000?—A. I have no personal knowledge.

Q. You heard it at the time?—A. I heard it from Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Are you aware that when he failed to fulfil that condition the contract was awarded to the next lowest tenderer, Askwith?—A. I am not aware.

Q. Did you hear it at the time?—A. I did not.

Q. Are you aware that Askwith put up security?—A. I may have been.

Q. Did you subsequently hear that Askwith found his plant was insufficient and withdrew?—A. Yes; I heard that.

Q. You have no reason to doubt that was true?—A. No.

Q. You told us it was at your request, you believe, that your relations with the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. was to be kept secret?—A. Yes.

Q. Was the deed of partnership registered?—A. No.

Q. What was the object of drawing up a deed of partnership?—A. To avoid any misunderstanding.

Q. To establish the relations between the parties?—A. Yes.

Q. You were in the habit, I believe, of tendering in other people's names—of putting in the names of other people—were you not?—A. Using other people's names.

Q. You carried on this for quite a while?—A. Yes.

Q. And you had some very expensive contracts in the names of other persons?

—A. With their permission.

Q. I think you had a contract for the Intercolonial wharf at Lévis, in the name of Mr. Lachance?—A. Yes.

Q. And a contract in the name of Mr. Girard, for the construction of a wharf at Grosse Isle?—No; Berthier.

Q. Had you a contract for the Grosse Isle wharf in the name of any person?—A. No; there was no Grosse Isle wharf; it was for the construction of immigration sheds.

Q. In the name of Berthier?—A. No, Beaucage; not in the name of Berthier.

Q. Did you have one for the construction of the examining warehouse at Quebec in the name of any person?—A. No.

Q. Were you interested in the contract for the immigration sheds at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. In whose name was that contract carried on?—A. Lortie.

Q. It was practically your contract, was it not?—A. No, not practically; share and share alike.

Q. You were partners?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you a partner with Lorthier in the Percé wharf?—A. The Percé wharf was my own contract.

Q. In the name of?—A. Lortie.

Q. Then about the Daniel wharf?—A. In the name of Lortie, for myself.

Q. The St. Adelaide de Pabos' works—were you interested in them?—A. For my benefit.

Q. In the name of?—A. Thomas Lemieux.

Q. You are a member of the City Council, are you not?—A. Yes.

Q. Have been for some time?—A. Six years.

Q. Did you have any connection with any of the city contracts in the names of other people?—A. No; I had not.

Q. No interest in any of them?—A. No interest in any of them. I loaned money and I got my interest.

Q. To the contractors?—A. Yes.

Q. You have told us you made the acquaintance of Mr. O. E. Murphy a short time, about six months, before a tender for the dredging was put in?—A. Yes; six or twelve months.

Q. Possibly twelve months?—A. Possibly twelve months.

Q. Shortly afterwards, did you become very intimate with him?—A. Yes.

Q. And have continued so up to the present time?—A. And have continued so up to the present time.

Q. You had, I believe, large stock speculations with him?—A. Not very large.

Q. You have had some, anyway?—A. Yes.

Q. Covering several years?—A. No; the stock speculations began in about 1887 and lasted—

Q. And continues to the present time?—A. No.

Q. You have also had property speculations and real estate speculations?—A. Yes.

Q. And you have continued your friendly relations right up to the present time?—A. Yes.

Q. He has loaned you money at various times in considerable sums?—A. Yes.

Q. Look at Exhibit "L12" and state whether that is the partnership agreement with reference to the dredging contract of 1882?—A. Yes; that is it.

Q. Well, now, I direct your attention to this part: "Each of the said parties agree to contribute to the funds of the partnership, when called upon, and at any time, in the following proportion: Patrick Larkin, twenty one-hundredths; Nicholas Karrel Connolly, twenty-five one-hundredths; Owen Eugene Murphy, twenty-five one-hundredths; Robert H. McGreevy, thirty one-hundredths of the funds required for carrying on the above mentioned contracts, and the said parties shall be owners of the joint contracts in the same proportions." Will you state why that was put in?—A. To establish our respective shares and interest.

Q. It therefore appears that your contribution to capital was to be 30 per cent.?
A. Yes.

Q. You have told it was understood that you were not to contribute any capital. Why was it put in this?—A. More to establish the share I would have to get out.

Q. But you told us this was a secret agreement to determine the relations between the partners, so that there were no reasons why the true relations between the partners should not be contained in it?—A. I do not know exactly what the facts were.

Q. Notwithstanding this secret partnership arrangement, by which it appears you were to contribute 30 per cent. you still tell us it was understood you were not to contribute anything?—A. Quite so.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you put in anything?—A. Not a dollar.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Was the firm registered with your name in?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Were you called upon by writing or otherwise, to put in any money?
A. Never.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You have also told us that you did not take any active part in the management of the business. Is that so?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you visit the works at all?—A. I did; very often.

Q. Used you to go to the office?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you examine the books at all?—A. I did sometimes.

Q. Frequently or infrequently?—A. Not very often, until 1888.

Q. There were audits?—A. There were audits every year.

Q. Every year?—A. Every year beginning with 1885.

Q. Did you verify the accuracy of the audits?—A. No; I took the statements as they were submitted.

Q. So that, as a matter of fact, the audits are not correct, are they?—A. I do not know whether they are or not.

Q. Have you any reason to believe that they are correct or not correct?—A. I am quite certain those I signed are correct.

Q. From everything contained in the office, you are sure they are a correct record of the transactions of the firm?—A. As far as I could ascertain.

Q. You investigated the books with a view to ascertaining the accuracy of the audits?—A. I did not investigate the books with a view to ascertaining the accuracy of the audits. I did not investigate the books. I occasionally looked at them.

Q. You satisfied yourself that the audits were correct?—A. I did not satisfy myself, but I thought it better to be satisfied.

Q. But you just told us they were correct?—A. I felt that the bookkeeper would not do anything that was wrong.

Q. Will you look at Exhibit "D5," and state whether you signed it?—A. That is signed by me.

Q. Is it correct or incorrect?—A. I do not know whether it is correct or not. I accepted it.

Q. Do you know any item in which it is not correct?—A. I do not, indeed.

Q. Will you answer the same questions in reference to Exhibits "E5" "F5" and "G5" whether they are signed by you, and whether they are correct or not?—A. Exhibits "D5" and "G5" only are signed by me.

Q. Are there any items in Exhibits "D5" and "G5" that you state are incorrect?—A. I do not know about the incorrectness, but I believed them then to be correct.

Q. Have you any reason to believe them to be incorrect now?—A. I have not.

Q. How long have you been satisfied that they are correct?—A. I have no reason they are incorrect.

Q. You are then satisfied they are correct?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware that O. E. Murphy obtained from Martin P. Connolly a memoranda in reference to irregular payments made by the firm, which memoranda have been produced, most of them?—A. After he got statements he showed me them. I do not know whether they are regular or irregular.

Q. You saw the statements?—A. I did.

Q. And you saw what they referred to?—Yes.

Q. "Expense" account and "suspense" account entries?—A. Yes.

Q. You told us you paid your share of these?—A. Yes.

Q. Were they regular payments in the ordinary course of business?—A. They were regular payments as far as I knew.

Q. As far as you knew, were they regular or irregular?—A. Regular.

Q. For what purpose were those statements got?—I do not know.

Q. You were no party to getting them?—A. No.

Q. Were the moneys applied with your consent or approval?—A. Some of them.

Q. When first you saw the statements prepared by Martin Connolly, were they signed by him?—A. I cannot say that. I saw them but once. Mr. Murphy showed them to me after he got them.

Q. You do not know whether they bore Martin Connolly's signature or not?—A. I do not know.

Q. Was it you or Mr. Murphy who gave them to Mr. Tarte?—A. I cannot say that.

Q. Yet you only saw them once. Do you know if that once was to hand them to Mr. Tarte?—A. I did not hand them to Mr. Tarte.

Q. You handed to Mr. Tarte all the letters produced in this case addressed to you?—A. I do not know what I handed to him.

Q. Did any person else hand the letters to him that are addressed to you?—A. They may have.

Q. I mean the letters produced here?—A. They may have.

Q. As a matter of fact, did you or did you not hand to Mr. Tarte the letters produced here and which appear to have been addressed to you?—A. It is a fact that I handed some.

Q. Were there any letters in his possession, or are there now in his possession, which were handed to him by anybody else?—A. I cannot say. I only speak for myself.

Q. When was the dredging contract of 1882 finished?—A. In the fall of 1886.

Q. Are you sure of that?—A. Quite certain.

Q. Absolutely certain?—A. Yes.

Q. So that the 1885 dredging was done under the contract of 1882?—A. The contract of 1882 continued over 1883-4-5 and 1886.

Q. And there was no other contract in force in 1885 but the contract of 1882?—A. None to my knowledge.

Q. None that you had any interest in or was ever shown?—A. Or was ever shown.

Q. Did it last through 1886?—A. To the end.

Q. Was there any dredging done from the opening of navigation, during the working season, to the beginning of July of that year?—A. I think so. The Engineer's estimates will show.

Q. Was there anything done after the 11th July, 1885?—A. I believe so.

Q. Is it not true that on the 11th July, 1885, there was a special agreement between the firm and the Harbour Commissioners for 100,000 yards at 35 cents?—
A. I never knew of it.

Q. When did you first become aware that tenders were going to be asked for the Cross-wall?—A. I became aware of it in the winter of 1882-83.

Q. When did you make arrangements with the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. to be interested in that work?—A. Just about the time that it was known that the tenders would be asked for. I think it was during the winter or spring of 1883.

Q. With whom did you negotiate?—A. With Mr. Murphy sometimes, and coming near the time, I talked to Mr. Nicholas Connolly.

Q. You agreed with both of them?—A. They both agreed.

Q. Did they both agree to go in with you?—A. Yes; as it was coming the spring of 1883.

Q. Previous to the spring of 1883, had there been any agreement by which you were to be interested in the Cross-wall contract?—A. I do not know that it came to any definite agreement, but it was spoken of.

Q. When?—A. The spring of 1883.

Q. I mean previous to the understanding you arrived at following the negotiations of the spring of 1883, had there been any agreement by which you were to be interested in the Cross-wall contract?—A. It had always been understood.

Q. What I want to find out from you is, whether previous to the spring of 1883 there was any agreement of any kind by which you were to have any interest in this Cross-wall contract?—A. No definite agreement.

Q. Were there negotiations previous to 1883?—A. Yes.

Q. When did they become fixed?—A. In the winter. Let me tell you that if Larkin, Connolly & Co. had not agreed that I should be interested in that Cross-wall contract I would have got the contract myself.

Q. Under whose tender?—A. Under my own tender, or somebody's that would get it, and leave them out.

Q. Did you prepare a tender for yourself?—A. No; I prepared one in Beaucage's name; but during the winter that was the conclusion I came to.

Q. That is to say, that you intended, if they did not take you in to tender yourself in the name of some other person?—A. Certainly, and leave them out.

Q. But the question I really want to get at from you is, whether, previous to the negotiations that ended in your being taken into the firm in the Cross-wall, was there an understanding of any kind that you were to have any interest in any subsequent contracts?—A. Previous?

Q. Yes; previous to the negotiations?—A. I don't know whether it was reduced to writing, but it was generally understood.

Q. What was the understanding?—A. I was to have an interest.

Q. In this particular contract?—A. Yes.

Q. When was it so understood?—A. In the spring of 1883, I think, because I was in a position to control the giving of the contract.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. How so?—A. How so?

Q. Yes; please explain?—A. I will explain if you like.

Q. Yes.—A. Because I would have got Thomas McGreevy to get me the whole contract if they would not have agreed. If I could get it for them, surely I could get it for myself.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. So, I understand it was you who got the contract for Larkin, Connolly & Co. from Thomas McGreevy?—A. I am just telling you.

Q. You state that distinctly?—A. No; I do not; I state if I had not been brought in with them I would have got the contract myself, or in some name. I would have controlled them.

Q. As you got it for them you could have got it for yourself?—A. I have just stated the whole thing.

Q. As a matter of fact, did you get that contract?—A. No; I did not.

Q. It was not by your influence they got it?—A. No, it was not.

Q. Whose was it?—A. It was Thomas McGreevy's.

Q. You could have influenced Thomas McGreevy to get it for yourself?—A. I think I could.

Q. Therefore, it was your influence with him that got the contract?—A. It was his knowledge I had an interest in it that induced him to help me.

Q. When did you prepare Beaucage's tender? It was prepared by you, I believe?—A. I prepared it in time to go in.

Q. About what time?—A. The end of April.

Q. What did you do with it?—A. With what?

Q. With Beaucage's tender?—A. Sent it in to the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. You sent it in?—A. I either sent it in or got it sent in.

Q. I would like to know who it was that sent the tender to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I don't know.

Q. Well, I would like to know from you what you did with the tender after filing it in?—A. Well, I either sent it to the Harbour Commissioner's office or got it brought there.

Q. It was you that sent in the tender?—A. Yes.

Q. Where did you get the $7,500 that was to accompany the tender?—A. I think that Beaucage got it himself.

Q. So that it was Beaucage's interest to get $7,500 to send in with his tender, was it?—A. Yes.

Q. Did Beaucage hand you a cheque for $7,500?—A. I don't know; I fancy he did.

Q. The cheque was on what bank?—A. I think it was the Union Bank.

Q. In his own name?—A. In his own name, I believe.

Q. Since it was your tender, and you had prepared it, and you were solely interested in it, why did Beaucage get the cheque himself?—A. He was to have an interest in it.

Q. What interest was he to have?—A. It was not established between us.

Q. It was not established?—A. No; the result would have been known.

Q. So you prepared this tender in his name, and he got the money, and your possible interest in it was not established at all?—A. With me?

Q. With him?—A. No; he was to have an interest in it.

Q. It was his share and he put up the money?—A. I think he put up the money.

Q. Who controlled the tender, did he?—A. No, he did not.

Q. In what way did you control him?—A. He would do whatever I asked him.

Q. You believe he would do whatever you asked him?—A. Yes.

Q. When were the tenders sent in?—A. 13th April or the 1st or 2nd May.

Q. After the tenders were sent in you got this transfer from Beaucage, did you not?—A. Yes.

Q. That was after the tenders being opened in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. And were in Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. So that you don't appear to have controlled Beaucage's tender, if you had to get a transfer of his rights?—A. His rights are transferred to Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. You told us that you controlled the tender—that it was your tender—and that you got a transfer from him in consideration of $5,000 to be paid to him?—A. That is the case.

Q. That does not seem to have been a very efficient control you had of his tender?—A. He was to have an interest in it.

Q. Did you ever pay him the $5,000?—A. I did not. It was not for me to pay it to him; those he transferred it to should do that.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. It was not for you to pay it?—A. No; it was transferred to Larkin, Connolly & Co.

By Mr. Stuart :

- Q. You were a member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I was.
 Q. You were at that time in the Cross-wall contract?—A. Not by writing—no.
 Q. But you were, as a matter of fact?—A. It was understood I would be.
 Q. You did not see this man was paid his $5,000?—A. I did not.
 Q. Did you communicate to your brother the fact that you were tendering in Beaucage's name?—A. Yes.
 Q. Did you communicate to him the assignment that you had got of Beaucage's rights?—A. I do not know that I did at the time.
 Q. Did you inform him of the fact without showing the paper?—A. Not at that time, I did not.
 Q. Had you any reason for not doing so?—A. No; no special reason.
 Q. What makes you say he knew of your putting in a tender in Beaucage's name?—A. Because I told him.
 Q. You recollect that you told him?—A. Yes.
 Q. Where did you tell him?—A. In Quebec.
 Q. Whereabout?—A. Somewhere between his office and his house.
 Q. And when?—A. About the 1st of April.
 Q. You have a distinct recollection of the circumstance. Was it on the street?—
 A. It may have been on the street or in his house or in his office.
 Q. You ought to be able to tell us where it occurred?—A. It might have been in his house or on the road or in his office.
 Q. On the same day?—A. Very likely the same day or the next day.
 Q. When you communicated that fact to him did you make a note of it in your diary?—A. I do not know that I did. My diary would not be big enough to note all the things I do.

By Mr. Tarte :

- Q. Did you get a letter dated 7th May, from your brother, in which these words appear: "Have your arrangements right with Beaucage before result is known. I will give you timely notice." Did you read that letter?—A. I read it.

By Mr. Stuart :

- Q. What is the usual deduction or depreciation of dredging plant per year?—
 A. That is a business I am very little accustomed to.
 Q. But you were interested in dredging for a period of seven or eight years? You ought to know. What do you estimate the deduction or depreciation of plant per year?—
 A. If you ask me the question as a matter of fact, and not of opinion, I would tell you the facts, because the result of Larkin, Connolly and Co.'s contracts showed it was about 2½ per cent. per annum. A dredge that cost $28,000, as they reported to me in 1883, and done five years dredging, was sold for $22,000. If you spread that $6,000 over five years you will get $1,200 per year.
 Q. That is not the question at all. Do you state that 2½ per cent. is the usual sinking fund for the depreciation of the dredges?—A. I do not state it. I give you the facts. I have no opinion at all.
 Q. You have been interested in dredging for six or seven years, and yet you say you have no opinion of what the ordinary sinking fund was for dredging?—A. Well, I give you the facts.
 Q. Mr. Peters has said the depreciation or sinking fund is from 10 to 15 per cent. Does that recommend itself to you as a reasonable amount?—A. That is greatly in excess of what Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s statement will show.
 Q. Will you tell us the circumstances connected with the getting of the notes of the Cross-wall contract?—I have related them already.
 Q. I would like you to relate them again?—A. I have related all the circumstances connected with that. I would like to turn up the evidence I gave.

By the Chairman :

Q. You are not entitled to do that.—A. Well, he will have to ask me question by question.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. I want the general circumstances connected with the giving of the notes for the Cross-wall contract.—A. The question is very vague. To go and give a history, I cannot do it.

Q. Will you state the general circumstances with regard to the giving of the notes for the Cross-wall contract?—A. I am unable to answer that question, as I do not know what circumstances you refer to.

Q. At the time that this contract was under discussion, in 1883, was your brother acquainted with Murphy?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. Did he know him well? Was he much with him?—A. I could not say. He may have been a great deal with him that I did not know of.

Q. But you were intimate with Murphy yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. You do not know whether your brother was very intimate with him or not?—A. Not necessarily.

Q. Although you were a great deal with Murphy, you say you would not know whether any person else was.—A. No.

Q. Were your brother and Murphy pretty much together about that time?—A. I do not know, but from conversations I judge they were pretty frequently together.

Q. And from those conversations, which of you would be most intimate with him—yourself or your brother?—A. I could not say which; both alike.

Q. With which of you was he more intimate at that time—yourself or your brother?—A. I cannot say which.

Q. How long had you been intimate with him at that time? How long had you known him?—A. To be intimate, I was not more than a year intimate.

Q. How long had Thomas McGreevy then known Mr. Murphy?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. To the best of your knowledge, how long had he known him?—A. I cannot say, because Thomas McGreevy was Chairman of the Commissioners from 1879, the time that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had the Graving Dock, and there may have been intercourse or relationship that I knew nothing about, because I had other business to attend to. He may have known him during that time that I did not know of.

Q. So far as your knowledge goes, when did he know him?—A. About the same time as I did.

Q. You have told us that you were frequently down on the works?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Thomas McGreevy often there?—A. I do not know how often he was there.

Q. Was he there very often when you were there?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. When did you first hear that notes were being given to any person in connection with this Cross-wall contract?—A. I only ascertained that notes were given when Thomas McGreevy sent for them.

Q. You are quite sure on that point?—A. Yes.

Q. At that time had the contract for the Cross-wall been given?—A. I think the contract had been awarded at that time.

Q. At the time you were sent for the notes?—A. Yes.

Q. Could you fix the date?—A. I cannot fix it precisely.

Q. To the best of your belief, when would it be?—A. It would be between the 20th and 30th of May.

Q. That you went for the notes?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you had any conversation with any of the other members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. on this subject?—A. Previous to that? I think not.

Q. Where did you go for the notes?—A. I went to Mr. Murphy.

Q. Where to?—A. Wherever I found him.

- Q. Where did you find him?—A. I cannot say. I perhaps found him in the city.
- Q. I do not want perhaps. I want to know where?—A. I cannot say.
- Q. Did you find any other members of the firm?—A. No; I did not look for any others.
- Q. It was Murphy alone you were seeking for?—A. Yes.
- Q. What passed between you and Murphy then?—A. I told him what I came for, and he said that he understood it was to be paid pro rata as the work advanced.
- Q. Had Murphy ever spoken to you up to that time about the matter?—A. Of the notes.
- Q. What did he say?—A. He spoke of the arrangements which were made.
- Q. What was the conversation?—A. He said it was $25,000 to be paid.
- Q. How, when and where?—A. He did not say how then.
- Q. Where did this conversation take place?—A. Somewhere in Quebec.
- Q. Can you be more precise as to where it took place?—A. I cannot.
- Q. You had gone to seek him out on this occasion?—A. On the occasion he told me? No; I do not think I did.
- Q. Who began the conversation—he or you?—A. I do not remember at all. Either might have begun it.
- Q. Had any person spoken to you about it before Murphy spoke to you?—A. I do not think so—nothing as to the arrangement.
- Q. How did you get to know of it?—A. The subject of the Cross-wall was uppermost in my mind.
- Q. These payments were referred to by Mr. Murphy first?—A. Yes.
- Q. When did he say they were to be made?—A. He did not say in the first interview. It was when I went for the notes.
- Q. When you went for the notes, can you tell us where you found him?—A. I cannot.
- Q. Can you tell us any of the other circumstances in connection with the giving of these notes?—A. What circumstances do you refer to?
- Q. To the circumstances connected with the giving of these notes?—A. The notes were signed in my own office.
- Q. You have told us you went to see Murphy, and asked him for the notes. What occurred after that?—A. Then he said he would see his partner.
- Q. Did he see his partner?—A. Evidently, because he came next day, or two or three days afterwards, and made the notes.
- Q. Had he any communication with you before you met him for the purpose of making the notes?—A. No further than I have related.
- Q. How did you make the appointment or when to meet?—A. At that time?
- Q. At the time of the first conversation?—A. Yes.
- Q. When did you make the appointment; where and how long after that?—A. I do not know.
- Q. What do you know with reference to the appointment?—A. That he carried it out. He came with some of his partners and made the notes and gave them to me.
- Q. Who were the partners present?—A. Nicholas Connolly; I think Mr. Larkin was present when they were made, and Murphy.
- Q. Any person else?—A. I do not recollect now that there was.
- Q. Was Michael Connolly present?—A. I do not think so. He may have been, however, without my particularly noting it.
- Q. Did you know the Connollys intimately then?—A. I did not.
- Q. Did you know Mr. Larkin?—A. No.
- Q. Had you ever met him before?—A. I might have met him once or twice, but very seldom.
- Q. Had you met the Connollys very often?—A. No.
- Q. Murphy was your particular friend?—A. I was better acquainted with him than any of them.
- Q. You could not say certainly whether Larkin was there or not. Your impression is that he was?—A. Yes.

Q. You cannot say certainly whether Michael Connolly was there or not?—A. No.

Q. What time of the day was this?—A. I think it would be between ten and twelve.

Q. In the morning?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Thomas McGreevy there?—A. No.

Q. Was he present any time at that interview?—A. I do not recollect that he was.

Q. Where was he?—A. Upstairs.

Q. Was he there the whole time?—A. Oh, well, I don't know.

Q. After the notes were signed what did you do with them?—A. I gave them to him.

Q. Where did you give them to him?—A. Either in his office or at his house.

Q. Can you recollect where you went after the notes were signed?—A. No.

Q. Can you state whether you went out with the other members?—A. No.

Q. Do you know whether you went upstairs?—A. I may have gone right upstairs.

Q. Did you or did you not?—A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know whether you gave the notes to Thomas McGreevy that day or the next?—A. Well, I would not be precise about that; my impression is I gave them to him that day.

Q. What were the denominations of the notes, the period of time they had to run and the amounts of money?—A. My impression is there were a three or four months note, another of six months, of seven, nine and twelve, of $5,000 each, and as either suggested by him or somebody, supported by me, that they should be dated 1st May—dated back—so as not to show any connection with the transaction of the Cross-wall.

Q. And they were dated back to what day?—A. 1st May.

Q. Did you at that time give a note of your own?—A. I gave it either at that time or very shortly afterwards.

Q. What was the purpose for which you gave that note?—A. To represent my interest in the Cross-wall, as to receiving that twenty-five thousand.

Q. For what were the twenty-five thousand given?—A. For, as I understood it from Mr. Murphy, to get the contract for Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. It was a payment made for the purpose of insuring that they should get the contract?—A. So I understood.

Q. You have told us that you thought Thomas McGreevy controlled the giving of the contract—there would be no doubt of it, I suppose, that that was so?—A. I don't know; I told you what arrangement Mr. Murphy represented he had made.

Q. The arrangement was that $25,000 were to be given for the purpose of getting the contract?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, now, will you tell us whether, after the contract had been given, you gave a note for $7,500?—A. Yes.

Q. For what reason?—A. To represent my share of the twenty-five thousand that they were giving.

Q. What was the object of that, as you were bound as a partner?—A. Yes; but the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., were risking their names on paper for twenty-five thousand, and they thought it was proper to hold me for my share of it in case the consideration was not carried out.

Q. The consideration was for the getting of the contract?—A. I don't know.

Q. That was what was stated to you?—A. It was stated to me.

Q. And the contract had been awarded to them?—A. It had been awarded.

Q. Then the consideration for which the payment was made had been accomplished?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Then, why did they require your note for $7,500?—A. Because they had no security from me.

Q. But you were a partner, and had signed a partnership agreement?—A. I had no security.

Q. You looked upon a note as security?—A. They appeared to do so. It was not my action. I was acquiescing in their request.

Q. It was because they wanted security from you they took your note?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you look at the letter from Mr. Ennis, Secretary of the Public Works Department, produced as Exhibit "P1," and state whether or not the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co. was not accepted on the 30th May, or whether the letter informing the Commissioners of the acceptance does not appear that day?—A. Yes; that is the letter from Mr. Ennis. I think they were notified before that day.

Q. How were they notified?—A. I think their notification was from some officer on the 26th May.

Q. From some officer?—A. Somebody—that the contract was awarded that day. That is my impression.

Q. Who was the officer that wrote that?—A. I heard it somewhere at the time.

Q. Can you be a little more specific, and say what you heard and who you heard it from?—A. If there is no correspondence showing 26th May I must have heard it from Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Can you tell us what took place on the 26th May?—A. I don't know what took place.

Q. What did you hear? What is your memory of what occurred?—A. I heard some person at the time say that it was on the 26th May the contract was awarded.

Q. Was not the Order in Council accepting the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co. passed on the 28th of May?—A. Orders in Council are generally passed four or five days after the work is awarded.

Q. You do not attach any importance to the Order in Council?—A. Oh, no.

Q. It is a mere formality?—A. Sometimes the tenders have been awarded a week before.

Q. Does it not appear by the Cross-wall contract, Exhibit "Q1," that the Harbour Commissioners accepted the tender and awarded the contract in accordance with that Order in Council on the 4th June, 1883?—A. Yes, that appears so.

Q. So that the signing of those notes must have been after that?—A. Not necessarily.

Q. Was it or was it not?—A. I think the signing of the notes was immediately after getting official intimation that they had the contract.

Q. Would it be after the 28th May or before it?—A. It may have been before it.

Q. They would get an official intimation that the contract was awarded them before the Order in Council accepting their tender was passed?—Oh, certainly.

Q. How would it come?—A. It might come to me.

Q. How did it come in this particular instance?—A. I do not know.

Q. If it was official intimation it must have come from an official of some kind. Who was that official?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Did it come from the Department of Public Works?—A. It may have.

Q. Did it or did it not?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Will you swear that these notes were given before the 1st of June, 1883?—A. I will not.

Q. They may have been given after?—A. Yes.

Q. How long after?—A. I would not say.

Q. Between the 1st and the 10th of June?—A. I cannot remember how far back.

Q. Will you swear that the notes were not given after the 10th June?—A. I will not.

Q. Will you swear that they were not given after the 15th June?—A. I will not.

Q. You say they were not given after the 30th June?—A. I am not sure.

Q. They may have been given after the 30th June?—A. They may have.

Q. You state you gave those notes either the day you got them, or the next day, to Thomas McGreevy?—A. I did not say so. I said that or the day following.

Q. I see, according to page 608 of your Evidence, you say you gave them to him on the same day?—A. Did I say so? My impression was that I gave them the same day.

Q. But you are not sure; it may have been the next day?—A. It may have been.

Q. When did you see those notes again?—A. After that?

Q. Yes.—A. I cannot recollect seeing them after that until I see them here.

Q. You say that?—A. I do.

Q. You are quite certain of that?—A. I am not quite certain.

Q. But as far as your memory goes, you now say that you never saw those notes again after they were surrendered to Thomas McGreevy on the day they were given or the next following day, until they were produced before this Committee?—A. I will make an exception to that; there was the one I was asked to change.

Q. Which one was that?—A. I think it was the 12-months note.

Q. How long after you had given them to Thomas McGreevy were you asked to change that 12-months note?—A. It must have been a week or ten days, probably.

Q. By whom was that 12-months note signed?—A. I could not say.

Q. To the best of your recollection, who was it?—A. I do not know. I have no memory as to that. There was so many names—Larkin's, Connolly's, Michael Connolly's.

Q. Did Michael Connolly sign any of the notes?—A. I do not know that he did.

Q. To the best of your belief, did he sign any?—A. I cannot say. The notes are here.

Q. I want your memory on the point?—A. I could not say.

Q. You decline to say?—A. I do not decline; if I knew I would state.

Q. Whom did you see in reference to the exchanging of this note?—A. Mr. Murphy.

Q. How long was that after you gave it to Thomas McGreevy?—A. Within two weeks.

Q. What did you say to Mr. Murphy?—A. I intimated to him that 12 months was rather long; that if a shorter one were given it could be renewed.

Q. How long was it after Thomas McGreevy had given it to you that you saw Murphy?—A. I would have seen him that day or the day after.

Q. Did you give him that 12 months after?—A. I did, if I got another for it.

Q. You did not give it up without getting another for it?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you get another for it?—A. I think I did.

Q. What was the denomination and the time of that note?—A. The denomination would be $5,000.

Q. And the time?—A. I am not quite sure about that; it was reduced considerably anyway. It was made negotiable.

Q. To the best of your belief, what was the time?—A. I would not like to venture to say whether it was 3 months or 4.

Q. It was either 3 or 4?—A. 3, 4, 5 or 6 months.

Q. Was it a demand note?—A. Oh, no.

Q. You are quite sure about that?—A. It could not have been made payable at 3, 4 or 5 months and be a demand note.

Q. Are you quite sure it was not a demand note?—A. I am pretty certain.

Q. Were any of the notes demand notes?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. To the best of your recollection, when did you effect this exchange?—A. If I effected the change I expect it was about the same time that I broached the matter—about a couple of weeks after.

Q. You say "if" you effected the change. Did you do it or did you not?—A. I do not know as I did. My impression is that I did.

Q. Have you any doubts that you did?—A. I think I effected the change.

Q. Why did you use the word "if" about effecting the change?—A. Because I am not quite certain that I did.

Q. What did you do with the exchanged notes?—A. I gave it to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. How long was that after you got it from Murphy?—A. It must have been about the same time.

Q. You never saw any of those notes afterwards, after they were produced here?—A. That is my impression.

Q. You are firm and certain on that point?—A. Certain as an opinion can be.

Q. Is it not the case that Thomas McGreevy gave you some of those notes to get them discounted to meet the judgment in the case of McCarron & Cameron?—A. He may have done so.

Q. Did he or did he not?—A. He may have.

Q. Did he not give you those notes in the course of the month of July or August, 1883, for the purpose of getting some of them discounted to pay the judgment in the case McCarron & Cameron?—A. He may have given me one, but I know that John Hearn and Mr. Chaloner, his book-keeper, got some of them to get discounted.

Q. You did not see those that were given to Chaloner and John Hearn?—A. I may have seen them.

Q. But have you not just told us that you did not see any of the notes since the time they were given until they were produced before this Committee?—A. Did you see the notes at the time they were discounted by John Hearn?—A. I may have seen some of them.

Q. Which ones?—A. I would not say. The one the Union Bank got, for instance. In a conversation that I had with Mr. Chaloner he told me regarding one of those notes, or perhaps two, that Thomas McGreevy told him that he had sent Thompson to go and get the notes discounted. Chaloner told me that he had seen Thompson, and Thompson said to him that Thomas McGreevy had never said a word about a note to him, so he had to do all the negotiating himself. That is that $5,000. That is why I know I did not handle it.

Q. Did you handle any?—A. I may have.

Q. Did you handle those that were discounted by John Hearn?—A. I may have; possibly from this circumstance I would remember. Going to John Hearn to get Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s paper discounted there would naturally a suspicion arise which would reflect on Thomas McGreevy. He therefore told me to tell John Hearn that it was for some plant that he had sold to Larkin, Connolly & Co., so as to keep John Hearn from having any knowledge of any connection between them and him.

Q. Who told you this?—A. Thomas McGreevy.

Q. He told you to go to John Hearn and discount those notes?—A. That is my impression.

Q. And did you tell Hearn what Thomas McGreevy had told you?—A. I did.

Q. That these notes represented the sale of plant?—A. That is my impression.

Q. What did you go to see John Hearn about?—A. Possibly to explain to him.

Q. To the best of your belief, did you or did you not go to see him?—A. I cannot say any more than what I have said.

Q. You say you have told us you never saw these notes to the best of your belief until they were produced before this Committee, and now you tell us that the probability is you went to see them at John Hearn's. Which of these probabilities are true?—A. Either of them might be accepted.

Q. It is the toss up of a penny?—A. It is no toss up of a penny. When I delivered over the notes my functions were at an end.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, THURSDAY, 30th July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10.30 a.m., Mr. GIBOUARD in the Chair

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Cross-examination of Mr. R. H. MCGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you look at these notes produced in this case as Exhibit "W7," and state whether you recognize any of them?—A. I recognize the three last as forming part of the $25,000.

Q. Have you ever seen the other two?—A. Not to my recollection; I have not.

Q. Will you look at the two cheques of the 14th May, 1883, and 1st of June, and say if you have seen them before?—A. I have no recollection of seeing either of them.

Q. Those cheques according to the books are cheques that paid the two demand notes, Exhibit "W7"?—A. I do not know anything of them.

Q. According to the audit also, those cheques are the two cheques that paid those two notes?—A. I do not know.

Q. You have told us you went through the books, signed the audit and signed the books?—A. I did not say I went through the books.

Q. You told us you examined the books?—A. I said I glanced over certain entries.

Q. Will you refer to your bank account, and state the amount of your deposits in the month of May, 1883? Here is the copy of the account produced by the Quebec Bank, Exhibit "Z9."—A. I prefer seeing my bank book that I gave in to the Committee.

Q. I am told you did not produce the bank book covering that period?—A. I am told that I did. The bank deposits to my account for the month of May, 1883, appear to be about $9,000. I have not made it up exactly.

Q. Are those cash?—A. Cash and discounts.

Q. How much cash?—A. About $5,000—between the 4th and 31st of May on different dates and different amounts. I will give you the dates if you wish: 10th May, $600; 16th May, $3,500; 21st May, $404.

Q. How much did your cash deposits for the month of June amount to in the same year?—A. For June 1883, as follows: 1st, $4,000; 9th, $270; 12th, $200; 15th, $198; 18th, $2,007.09; 21st, $646; 26th, $1,606.60; 30th, $120. The total is $8,947.

Q. Will you state where these moneys came from?—A. I really cannot tell you where they came from.

Q. Produce your books and say where these moneys came from?—A. These deposits represent the business transactions I had on various accounts, and I cannot now say where any particular sum came from; but I will say, without fear of contradiction, that none of that money came out of that $25,000—positively.

Q. Where did you get the money?—A. That is none of your business.

Q. But it is some of the business of the Committee?—A. Let the Committee want to know where it comes from, and I will tell them all I know.

Mr. STUART asked that the witness be compelled to answer.

By the Chairman :

Q. How long would it take you to find out from your books where this money came from?—A. I do not know. I am not able to find that out there at all. From memory. I tell you that the $4,000 came from the Intercolonial Railway—from the St. Charles Branch wharf.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Where does that appear in your books?—A. I do not know. There was a deposit required, and that deposit came back in 1883.

Q. How was that deposit made?—A. I cannot tell you. It might be cash or a cheque I deposited at the time.

Q. It might be a great many things. Was it a cheque that was deposited?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Will you verify?—A. I would not know by this. The bordereau of the bank would tell. I am told that the bank sent all the bordereaux up.

Q. Where is the St. Charles Branch account in your books?—A. It is not in at all.

Q. Where did you keep it?—A. I opened the books after that in 1883.

Q. How did you keep an account of the St. Charles Branch?—A. I kept it in a book; David Power was clerk at that time. I kept a separate account for the St. Charles Branch; I had not the books opened then.

Q. You say you had not the books opened at that time?—A. No.

Q. Well, if you will take up your books you will see that the books brought before this Committee were opened at that time?—A. I have made a statement that the books were not opened at that time.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. What kind of a contract had you in regard to the St. Charles Branch—were you the contractor?—A. I was really the contractor, but it was taken in the name of Lachance.

Q. Who was interested in that contract?—A. I alone.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you look at your journal produced in this case, marked Exhibit "U13" and state on what date it begins?—A. This journal appears to begin 1st June, 1883.

Q. We are asking you with reference to a deposit on 1st June, 1883?—A. Well I know you won't find it.

Q. Was this St. Charles Branch money paid by cheque?—A. It would very likely be a returned cheque.

Q. A cheque from the Department?—A. A cheque from Moncton.

Q. For the Intercolonial Railway?—A. Yes.

Q. All Intercolonial Railway payments on contracts are made by cheque, are they not?—A. As far as I know.

Q. Will you look at the deposit bordereau of the 1st June, 1883, on the Quebec Bank, Exhibit "P14" and state what deposit was then made and how the money was deposited?—A. The deposit made on the 1st June, 1883, to my credit, was $4,000 deposited by Charles McGreevy in forty $100 bills—four thousand—making it still more decided that it was an Intercolonial deposit.

Q. Will you look at the cheque 1st June, 1883, being the second cheque of Exhibit "D8," and state how that cheque was drawn from the bank, and what were the denominations of the bills?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Look at the face—what is marked on it?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Well, just read it?—A. I see 50 x 1.

Q. 500 x 100, I think?—A. Yes 500 x 100.

Q. Will you look at the notes produced here as Exhibit "X7," all dated 2nd June, 1884, and state whether you have ever seen these notes?—A. Yes; those are the notes I have seen before.

Q. When did you first see them?—A. About the time they are dated.

Q. From whom did you get them?—A. I think I got them from Mr. Murphy.

Q. What did you do with them?—A. I gave $14,000 of them that same day to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Did you give the notes themselves to Thomas McGreevy?—A. The notes themselves.

Q. Which of the notes?—A. I gave him the four months of $5,000, the three months of $5,000 and the five months of $4,000.

Q. What did you do with the other two?—A. I kept them.

Q. Why did you keep them?—A. For future use.

Q. Did you discount them?—A. No.

Q. You did not discount them?—A. One of them I may have discounted.

Q. Which?—A. The $2,000.

Q. When?—A. I could not say when I discounted it; my impression is I did discount it.

Q. You cannot say when?—A. No.

Q. With whom did you discount them?—A. I could not say.

Q. Are you quite sure?—A. I am not quite sure; I could not say.

Q. That you don't know where you discounted them?—A. I don't know now.

Q. Will you refer to your diary of the 5th of August, 1884, and see what entry there is there with reference to any of these notes?—A. Where did you get these diaries?

Q. Those are the diaries you produced?—A. I did not produce them here. I want to know by whom they were produced.

Q. Put your question to some one else. In the meanwhile, I want to know what the entry of the 5th August, 1884, was, in reference to these notes?—A. The diary entry is: "5th August, note of Larkin, Connolly & Co. due, $2,000."

Q. Is that one of those notes—the $2,000?—A. It looks to be. I am not sure whether it is or not.

Q. Do you know of any other note due at that time?—A. No other note of that amount due about that time. Two months from the 2nd of June would be the 5th of August.

Q. What was done with the note of $6,000?—A. Towards the time of its coming due Mr. Murphy paid $2,000 on it, either by instalments of $1,000, or $2,000 at one time.

Q. To whom did he make the payment?—A. To me.

Q. What did he do with the balance?—A. He gave me two notes—new notes of four and five months—for $2,000 each as a renewal for the $6,000.

Q. What did you do with the two renewal notes of $2,000 each?—A. One of them I gave to Thomas McGreevy, with the $3,000 note from Mr. Murphy on the British Columbia Dock, making the $5,000 he required.

Q. Will you refer to your diary of the 6th September, 1884, and say if there is an entry there in reference to any of those notes?—A. There is no entry on the 6th but there is one on the 5th December, which reads as follows: "Note, $6,000, to Larkin, Connolly & Co., due; settled as follows: cash, $2,000, note 4 months, $2,000, note 5 months, $2,000. This one I gave to T. McG. with the $3,000 on B.C., to make up $5,000. I will get it back."

Q. What do you mean by "I will get it back"?—A. I meant I would get the money back when the amount would be discharged.

Q. That is, it was your money?—A. No; it was not.

Q. Why will you get it back then?—A. I told you I would get it back after the British Columbia funds would be appropriated.

Q. Why would you get it back if it was not your money?—I could not tell you.

Q. Will you refer to your diary under date 31st March, 1885, and give us the entry?—A. The entry on that date reads thus: "Note from Larkin, Connolly & Co., $2,000, due, reduced to $1,000 on the 28th January; 3 months' note."

Q. Now, refer to the same year, date May 1st, and read the entry?—A. "Note of Larkin, Connolly & Co., $2,000, due. Ross & Co. have it. This I gave T. McG. on account of B.C. as if coming from them for that; it belongs to me, though."

Further down I read, "$1,000 of Larkin, Connolly & Co. due to-day; discounted by MacNider."

Q. What do you mean by the entry, "it belongs to me though"?—A. I presume it is some money that I gave on account of that.

Q. Will you trace it up and say if you gave any money on account of it? I want you now to refer to the diary of 18th May, 1885, and read the entry?—A. "Note of Ross & Co., to me for $4,875 due. This was given in exchange for Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s note of $2,000 and $3,000, less 2½ off for commission."

Q. Is that the whole entry?—A. That is the whole entry. Further down there is another entry.

Q. Referring to that matter?—A. I do not know if it refers to that; it refers to moneys, May 18th, the same day, "gave T. McG. $1,000 for Ottawa."

Q. It would appear from the entries in those diaries that you kept the notes for $2,000 and $6,000, and that when these were renewed you marked in your diaries that you were to get the money. Will you state to the Committee how you came to be entitled to this money?—A. I do not by these entries show I was entitled to it at all. I show that it is to be got back for another purpose.

Q. Will you show to the Committee why you were to get it back?—A. Most probably to repay advances I had anticipated.

Q. Will you show us the advances?—A. I cannot show any now. I will have to go through my memorandums. I may tell you I never got it back; most of it any way.

Q. Will you look at that account (Exhibit "Q13"), being a copy of the account produced as rendered by you to Thomas McGreevy, and state whether under date 9th November, 1887, you did not charge him with $5,000 paid by you to him?—A. "November 9th, 1887, $5,000," that I charged him with as having given to him.

Q. In this account you give credit in connection with the Baie des Chaleurs transaction for a certain sum. Will you state how much you gave credit for in that account as having received?—A. I give him credit for having received $18,000, that I have received from the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. I call it $18,000, but there is a discount on the draft of three or four dollars. There is no use in talking about that.

Q. How much did you charge Thomas McGreevy with in that account as disbursed on account of Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I do not charge him particularly with any amounts. I give him credit in this way: The total credit to him is $20,939 or $23,891. There is an addition here of $2,952, making $23,891. The amount is $20,939.25, with interest amounting to $2,952, making the total credit $23,891.25.

Q. I asked you how much you charged in that account as having been paid out in connection with the Baie des Chaleurs to Thomas McGreevy?—A. I cannot tell you particularly.

Q. Will you look at the entry of 6th July, 1886, and read it to the Committee?—A. "July 6th, cheque of yours $250, cheque of $603.19. Expenditure and services in connection with the construction of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, $5,000."

Q. In the litigation between yourself and your brother, did you claim from him any part of the moneys received from Baie des Chaleurs?—A. I did.

Q. How much?—A. I claimed $21,000, less $5,000 already charged.

Q. Subsequently, did you claim the whole?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. I would like you to be quite sure on that point?—A. I would not like to be sure.

Q. To the best of your recollection did you or did you not?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. Will you read the fourth item of the defendant's bill of particulars in the case of McGreevy vs. McGreevy, filed in this case as Exhibit "P13"?—A. "1886 to 1888: To half amount received by you from Baie des Chaleurs Railway $42,000, equal to $21,000 less $5,000 in the account already rendered, $16,000."

Q. Will you look at this affidavit of the defendant in the amended bill of particulars and state whether that is your signature?—A. That is my signature.

Q. Sworn to by you?—A. It looks like it.

Q. The affidavit reads as follows, in French :

No. 1731.

DANS LA COUR SUPÉRIEURE, QUÉBEC.

T. MCGREEVY, Demandeur,

vs

R. H. MCGREEVY, Défendeur.

Motion de la part du défendeur.

Vu que par erreur et omission involontaires, le défendeur a déclaré par son état de compte produit en cette cause au soutien du plaidoyer de compensation, que le montant à lui dû par le demandeur à compte des opérations en rapport avec la compagnie de chemin de fer de la Baie des Chaleurs est de la moitié du montant total réalisé, savoir : de la moitié de $42,000, soit $21,000 moins $5,000, déjà chargées au demandeur dans le compte à compte du défendeur pour lequel crédit lui est donné au montant de $64,805.95 dans l'exhibit 401 du demandeur et que le montant dû au défendeur par le demandeur pour matériel, outillage et outils en rapport avec la construction du chemin de fer du Nord, est de $15,000.

Vu que des admissions du demandeur, entendu comme témoin en cette cause et aussi de la preuve faite en icelle par le témoin Power et par les livres du demandeur, il résulte : 1o. Que le montant pour lequel le défendeur doit être crédité et pour lequel il a droit de faire une réclamation contre le demandeur, en rapport avec les opérations de la compagnie de chemin de fer susdite, est de $36,482.57; et 2o. que le montant pour lequel le défendeur a droit d'être crédité en rapport avec le matériel, outillage et outils (plant) par lui fourni au demandeur, en rapport avec la construction du chemin de fer du Nord susdit, est de $21,938.81;

Vu qu'à raison du grand nombre d'item dont se composent les comptes en cette cause, de la nature compliquée du débat, de la longueur du temps écoulé depuis que les dites opérations ont eu lieu, le défendeur n'a pu établir, dans son dit compte de particularités, le montant exact des item ci-dessus;

Vu que l'erreur qu'il avait faite dans son dit compte n'a été portée à sa connaissance que par la preuve faite en cette cause, le douze et le treize du présent mois;

Le défendeur demande qu'il lui soit permis d'amender son dit compte de particularités produit au soutien de son dit plaidoyer de compensation, produit en cette cause sous l'intitulé : Defendants' Bill of Particulars filed with his pleas, en substituant aux sommes mentionnées aux items deux et quatre du dit compte, savoir : $15,000 et $16,000 les montants suivants : au montant porté à l'item deux du dit compte, celui de $21,938.81, et au montant porté à l'item quatre celui de $36,482.57, le tout aux conditions que la cour adjugera.

Québec, 14 novembre 1890.

The CHAIRMAN.—It is ordered that the whole document be printed in the proceedings, in French, together with the translation.

The translation is as follows :

No. 1731.

“ IN THE SUPERIOR COURT, QUEBEC.

vs.

“ Motion on behalf of defendant :

“ Whereas by an involuntary error and omission, Defendant declared by his statement of account filed in this case in support of the plea of compensation, that the amount to him owing by Plaintiff on account of operations in connection with the Bay Chaleurs Railway Company is one-half of the total amount realized, to wit :— the half of $42,000, say $21,000, less $5,000 already charged to Plaintiff in Defendant's contra account for which credit is given him to the amount of $64,805.95 in Exhibit No. 1 of Plaintiff, and that the amount owing to Defendant by Plaintiff for material, tools and implements (plant) in connection with the North Shore Railway is $15,000 ;

“ Whereas from the admissions of Plaintiff, examined as a witness in this case, and also from evidence given therein by the witness Power, and from the books of the Plaintiff, it appears :

“ 1. That the amount for which Defendant must be credited and for which he is entitled to make a claim against Plaintiff in connection with the operations of the aforesaid railway company is $36,482.57 : and,

“ 2. That the amount for which Defendant is entitled to be credited in respect to material, tools and implements (plant) by him furnished to Plaintiff, in connection with the construction of the North Shore Railway aforesaid, is $21,938.81 ;

“ In view of the vast number of items covered by the accounts in this case, the complicated nature of the arguments, and the length of time elapsed since the operations aforesaid were carried on, Defendant was unable to show, in his said account of particulars, the exact amount of the above items ;

“ In view of the fact that the error he made in his said account was brought to his knowledge only by the evidence given in this case on the 12th and 13th of this present month ;

“ Defendant prays that he be allowed to amend his said account of particulars filed in support of his said plea of compensation entered in this case under the heading : ‘ Defendant's Bill of Particulars filed with his pleas,’ by substituting for the amounts named in items two and four of the said account, to wit,—$15,000 and $16,000, the amounts following : for the amount set out in item two of the said account $21,938.81, and for the amount set out in item four $36,482.57, the whole on such conditions as the court may order.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. As I understand it, it was not intended that you were to bring in any capital into this partnership?—A. That was not the intention.

Q. Were you to do any work—that is to say, were you to take any active part in the carrying on of the works?—A. Not in a practical carrying on of these works.

Q. And as I understand it, you were there simply and solely in order that the influence of your brother, Mr. Thomas McGreevy, might be secured?—A. Well, I don't know that it was entirely that, but I suppose to a great extent it was.

Q. Well, now, to what extent?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Why were you there? You brought no capital, and you did no substantial work. I want to know incisively and clearly the reason why you were there?—A. Well, I did substantial work.

Q. In what way? The reason of your being there to receive the 30 per cent. is what I want to get at?—A. Well, I don't know; my reason for getting the 30 per cent was that I should have some occupation out of which I could make money.

Q. Yes; but you were not to either occupy your capital, or devote your time to the execution of the contracts. I want you to state to the Committee why you were there?—A. That is my reason why I was there, and I think it would come better from Larkin, Connolly & Co. why they thought I was there.

Q. Just kindly answer my question. Give me the reason why a bargain was made by which you were to get 30 per cent.? You were not to contribute capital and you were not to be known in the concern—just give me very shortly the reason why you were there?—A. I was there for to occupy myself with those works, and that I should make money out of it.

Q. Yes; but why, when you were not to be known as a partner, and you were not to be seen about the works, and you were not to contribute capital, what was the reason you got 30 per cent.?—A. Well, I told you the reason; that is my reasons for it; that is what I went into it for.

Q. You went into it to make money; no doubt that was the ultimate object?—A. Yes.

Q. But people don't give away 30 per cent. for nothing, you know. What was the reason of your having that position?—A. Well, I gave you my reason.

Q. Your reason was to make money?—A. And to occupy myself in connection with these works.

Q. What reason was there with reference to your brother?—A. You are asking me other people's reasons.

Q. You know very well what reason there was why the arrangement was made—the ultimate object was to make money; but what had Thomas McGreevy, for instance, to do with the arrangement? I simply want to get in a clear, incisive way just your position in that contract. It is to be gathered, perhaps, from what you have already said, but I would like to get it in a short way?—A. Well, I got into those works relying a good deal on my brother's influence.

Q. Your brother's influence to do what?—A. To do what he could to help the work.

Q. In what way?—A. Applying for changes.

Q. Yes, go on?—A. And other ways of facilitating the carrying on of the work.

Q. And increasing the profit of the work?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, was there any understanding between yourself and Thomas as to what should be done with the 30 per cent. that you were to receive—had Thomas any share in it?—A. It was understood without explaining that he was.

Q. It was understood without explaining that he was to have a share of it?—A. Yes.

Q. How much?—A. Well, that was not defined either.

Q. It was left in a cloudy sort of form?—A. Yes; a cloudy sort of form.

Q. So that you could give him 5 per cent. or 95 per cent. as you liked?—A. Well, no.

Q. Well, then, how more defined?—A. There was no particular sum.

Q. Let us get at what it was to be if there was no agreement?—A. It was not defined, but it was understood he was to get some benefits.

Q. You say it was understood—was understood by yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. Was it understood by writing?—A. By inference, not by writing.

Q. The inference was what?—A. Through the inference: "That now I am aiding you in this work, and of course certain benefits, a certain share, belongs to me."

Q. Yes; but was that said?—A. Well, no it was not said.

Q. Well, then, how was it inferred—you see it is a serious thing?—A. Well, it is inferred—

Q. This is a charge against a member of Parliament, and I just want to see what the base is. Now, when was the arrangement made and what was the arrangement, or was there no arrangement?—A. There was an arrangement understood.

Q. How was it understood. You could not understand things by sitting together merely, and saying nothing. It must either have been by words or something else?—A. It was understood between us.

Q. How understood? Were there words or writings, or what?—A. There were words.

Q. I do not suppose you can remember the words. Do you remember their effect?—A. The words were these: "You would not get this contract; you could not get these extras or additions without my influence." That was the inference I drew from him that he wanted a part of this money.

Q. You drew it from the fact that he told you you could not get the contract, you could not get the extras, you could not get the changes, without his influence?—A. Without his influence from the position he held.

Q. Was there any understanding beyond the specific $25,000, which we won't go over again, on the Cross-wall, and another specific sum spoken of? Was there any general understanding as to the amount of contribution by the firm beyond the 30 per cent. that you were to get?—A. I did not make those agreements for those donations or contributions. They were made by other members of the firm.

Q. Were you there as a representative of Thomas, representing his interest to some extent?—A. In the firm? Not further than what I have said already.

Q. But to the extent of the interest you understood Thomas was to have you did represent him; otherwise, why should you be there? Would you be there except for Thomas' influence?—A. I do not think I would.

Q. If your reason for being there then was because you were supposed to control the influence of Thomas, how was it that these various arrangements were made by Thomas McGreevy and Murphy?—A. I could not explain that.

Q. In round sums, what amounts of the share of the profits have you paid to Thomas McGreevy?—A. I paid him about $70,000.

Q. That is to say, of your 30 per cent. in some contracts, 20 per cent. in the Esquimalt Graving Dock, and the total you have received from profits, you have paid him for what reason it may be $70,000?—A. It is what I consider represented half of what I got.

Q. You paid him the half of what you got?—A. Yes.

Q. Or as near as you could get at it?—A. As near as I could get at it.

Q. That was your intention?—A. That was my intention.

Q. You say you have substantially paid the half?—A. Yes; up to the time of the quarrel. That was uppermost in my mind—the half.

Q. That sum is quite independent of the contributions for what we may call irregular purposes?—A. Quite outside of that.

Q. What was your first knowledge of these irregular or improper payments?—A. My first knowledge was the Cross-wall sum.

Q. That was the $25,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Generally speaking, you took notice of the amount of these payments at the dates of the audits and knew in a general way what was going on?—A. Yes.

Q. I notice that your protest is written after the quarrel—some months after the quarrel. I refer to your protest against certain irregular appropriations.—A. After the quarrel with Thomas McGreevy? Yes.

Q. And after the process which I think you have described as "the freezing out" had been done?—A. No; it had begun.

Q. It had begun, but the freezing was not quite complete?—A. No.

Q. It was getting cold weather, but was not quite ice. You stated that, "in the early part of 1889 we were frozen out." The letter was dated in April of same year, so that it was getting close down to 32°?—A. That letter was sent while the accounts and audits were being prepared.

Q. Which accounts and audits you have accepted?—A. I did not. My last acceptance was March, 1888.

Q. Was the price you got to go out based on the audit?—A. They did not buy me out.

Q. You went out?—A. Yes; I was shoved out.

Q. You signed the document?—A. I signed the document of sale by Murphy to Larkin, Connolly & Co., or the Connollys.

Q. Do you know anything of these various donations that appear so thickly through the books?—A. I knew of none.

Q. Did you know they were going on?—A. Which ones do you allude to?

Q. Donations made, for instance, by Murphy. Did you and he ever talk that over? You two were intimate. There is a lot of donations recorded in Mr. Murphy's diaries, for instance.—A. I knew of none but those to Thomas McGreevy and those that I have already explained.

Q. Indicate those more definitely?—A. One was the $10,000 that Nicholas Connolly said he paid to Sir Hector.

Q. But outside of those?—A. Outside of those, I do not know of any irregular payments.

Q. Did not Mr. Murphy tell you about what he was paying in donations to charities?—A. No; not a word.

Q. You saw, however, in some of the audits that these sums were being carried into account. For instance, in the earliest audit you passed we get an item of "Gratuity, $700." Did you know of that?—A. No, sir; that would only be presented in the bulk sum.

Q. Did you know of these bonuses—take, for instance Schedule F, page 7 of the Accountants' Report (Appendix No. 2), and tell me whether you knew of any of these?—A. I only knew of three.

Q. Can you name them?—A. I can.

Q. Kindly name the three?—A. I know of the one to Mr. Foote, one to Mrs. Boyd, and I think the Jacques Cartier monument. There may be another.

Q. As a rule, you did not know the details. Did you never talk over with your partners the moneys that were being paid out for these purposes?—A. I never talked about any of these payments, or never paid any attention, all of them being small.

Q. You knew such payments in small sums were being made from time to time?—A. I did not; I stated in my evidence in chief that at the end of 1887 I began to learn something of the kind.

Q. Now, here is an entry in your diary that I want explained. It is in the memoranda at the back of the diary for 1885, and I read the entry as follows: "Dredging contract, cubic yards 423,000; added by Boyd, 160,000; extended, 583,000. Done in 1883, 89,000; 1884, 304,000; 1885, 22,000. Added up, 450,000. This, deducted from the above total leaves a balance of 168,000." Will you kindly tell me what is the meaning of the words "added by Boyd"?—A. That was a memorandum I made from a report furnished by Mr. Perley.

Q. What is the meaning of the words "added by Boyd"?—A. It is what Mr. Perley's report said, "added by Boyd."

Q. A report from Mr. Perley giving the particulars that are there?—A. Giving the particulars almost in the same way.

Q. Did you add those figures, done in 1883, 1884 and 1885, which add up 415,000 yards?—A. I would have added that.

Q. The memorandum that you got from Mr. Perley would give only—? A I did not get it from Mr. Perley.

Q. Where from, then?—A. I must have got it from Thomas McGreevy.

Q. When did you get that?—A. It would be about the end of the—

Q. Dredging season of 1885?—A. No; it would be about the winter of 1884-85.

Q. You see your analysis brings down the dredging to 22,000 yards. Who was the Boyd mentioned there?—A. Mr. Boyd was the Resident Engineer.

Q. Can you explain, or do you now explain the words “added by Boyd”?—A. I took it from the report.

Q. What did you understand from the report?—A. That 160,000 yards more would be required to be done.

But it is “added by Boyd”?—A. Yes; that he would require that much more to be done.

Q. What shape did you see this report in?—A. They were assuming or making up an approximation of what would be required to be done for the next season.

Q. But why did you carry down this balance of 168,000? That is as if you were checking whether the amount added by Boyd was really correct. You go over the figures for three years and bring down the balance, as if you were comparing your dredging account with the figures that were given. It is important, because Mr. Boyd was the Resident Engineer, and is not here to explain, and it is fair that everything possible should be ascertained of that nature?—A. I cannot make any further explanation. I was trying to ascertain from the memoranda furnished the amount of dredging.

Q. We want this explained, because your memorandum book alone appears to give the full figures. Did you see that report?—A. I think I did.

Q. Who was it a report to?—A. It was a report, if my memory serves me well, from Mr. Perley to the Harbour Commissioners of Quebec, showing not only the dredging but other works that were going on and would be required for next season. You would find I possibly made the figures in 1884, and at the end of 1885 I went to see what remained to be done.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understand that at this time Boyd had discovered that his estimate of the dredging was 160,000 yards short?—A. It is, as I explained before, in the report from Perley that came from Ottawa.

Q. Now, passing to an entry in the diary of 1887, which is in these words—“Memoranda, dredging in 1886. Later statement shows total cost to be $38,554.47. Revenue 335 cubic yards—106,323 cubic yards paid 32 cents, or profit of 27 cents clear. Cost for wire rope, fuel, revolving derricks, etc., $29,732. Wages to “Sir Hector,” $5,986. Wages “St. Joseph,” $5,186. Sand levelling, $2,006; total, $42,911. Revenue, 323,000 cubic yards $87,293. “Sir Hector” at Graving Dock, $10,000; total, $97,293.” Then carried on “17 cents a cubic yard profit; total, $54,382.” Where did you get that information?—A. I got all that information out of Larkin, Connolly & Co.’s office.

Q. From Larkin, Connolly & Co.’s office?—A. Yes, sir; there is some of them papers in.

Q. Now, this is the estimate of the profit in dredging, during the season immediately prior to the 35 cent contract?—A. Yes—1886.

Q. And from that you find your profits at 27 cents a yard were 17 cents?—A. That shows that.

Q. So that the cost of dredging in the season of 1886, if this memoranda is correct, would be 10 cents per cubic yard?—A. Precisely, if the information I received from the office be correct.

Q. There is no sinking fund apparently there?—A. I took it as I got it.

Q. But, of course, a sinking fund, which you put at 2½, but other witnesses more correctly at 10?—A. I did not; I beg your pardon.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. What would be the depth of water?—A. In all depths up to 27 feet.

Q. What was the character of the dredging in 1886?—A. Well, some was in the Tidal basin outside, and others was inside—most outside.

Q. In what depth of water?—A. Oh, it is from 15 to 27 feet.

Q. From 15 to 27 feet. Where were the dredgings put?—A. In that season they would be dumped to a great extent in the river, and put in the Cross-walls, or used in masonry and other works required.

Q. And the actual cost of that dredging and disposing of the dredgings was 10 cents a yard?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. I now put in your hands, referring to the entry "added by Mr. Boyd," the only report found in the Commissioners' papers for 1885, as to dredging. It is a report by Mr. Boyd to Mr. Verret. Is that the report you looked at? You see it does not correspond, although it does suggest there is 100,000 more yards to be done?—A. That is not the report.

Q. We cannot find any report—I have had a search made, and it is reported to me that there is no document from Mr. Perley?—A. I can almost speak to a certainty that there does exist such a report.

Q. A report from whom?—A. From Mr. Perley to the Harbour Commission.

Q. A general annual report?—A. No; a report showing the probable amount of money and work required for the ensuing year. I believe I could lay my hands on a copy of it.

Q. Well, make a memorandum, please, of that, because it is of some importance. This report to which I allude is dated 9th July, 1885, directed to Mr. Verret, Secretary Treasurer of the Quebec Harbour Commission. It "acknowledges the receipt of letter of 6th instant, and reports, in reply, that the dredging of the Tidal basin to a depth of 25 feet at low water over an area sufficient to admit of the entrance of a large ocean steamer will require the removal of about 100,000 cubic yards more, at an average price of 35 cents, equal to $35,000. This includes the cutting away of the bank as far as the line E F, distant 500 feet from the entrance, and the deepening to 25 feet, the part dredged by Messrs. Peters, Moore & Wright. The dredge is now working on the line C D. (See plan).—JOHN BOYD, Engineer-in-Charge."

WITNESS.—May I add to my explanation?

Q. Any explanation you desire.—A. I want to add to that, that I know the memorandum in my diary has no improper reference to Mr. Boyd, or anybody else.

Q. That is to say you were satisfied that in your own mind you never had knowledge that there was to be an added yardage by Mr. Boyd improperly?—A. Quite certain.

Q. Whatever construction might be put upon that entry, you never had in your mind to write it down as an improper one?—A. No.

Q. I find in the diary for 1887 this entry: "Cross-wall, May, net $8,600; June, $24,000; July, $34,000. South-wall, June, $19,000; July, $10,000. Then there are other figures, $18,000 and $800." What is the meaning of that entry?—A. I was evidently watching closely the work, and I would take that to be the amounts of the monthly estimates, or perhaps, deducting, it is the net profits of the various works for that month, or the season.

Q. Here is another entry, dredging, 1887: "May, 26,000; June, 76,000; July, 51,000—total, 153 cubic yards, costing $25,160. That amount includes coal wire, &c., $19,577; wages, $3,794; monthly men, $1,789. This would equal 16½ cents." I suppose it is per cubic yard. "Cost of one tug, $12 per day, and two scows, $8 per day for both to be added and the $19,577 includes coal, wire, &c., for season. Dredging to the 31st of August, 315,000 cubic yards at 35 cents, $110,250; expenditure, $29,791; profits, $80,459." Is that memorandum got from the calculations made at the time from the books?—A. Yes. I had no other source of information of either the expenditure or the revenue, except from the office.

Q. You see that is merely a part of the year. Look at what the dredging cost for the whole season (Exhibit "G5") and what you got for dredging that season.—A. This would be in 1887. The total cost was $46,552.12.

Q. And the total receipts?—A. $176,680.15.

Q. Making a total profit of—A. $130,128.03, plus the drawback, I suppose.

Q. And not counting sinking fund on the plant.—A. Not counting sinking fund on the plant. That trial balance sheet does not mention whether it is the net estimate or whether it includes the drawback.

Q. In 1889, I find a memorandum which I will ask you to give me the meaning of. It reads as follows:

Cross-Wall.....	$25,000, June, 1883.
Graving Dock.....	14,000
	8,000, Oct., 1886.
“ to Sir H .....	10,000, Jan., 1887.
Dredging.....	37,000, Feb., 1887.
To yourself.....	5,000, Aug., 1887.
B. C.....	25,000, 1884.
	3,000, Dec.
	$127,000,

except $20,000 to H. L. and $2,000 to O. E. Murphy in election of February, 1887, all the above was paid to you, and except 14 M and 10 M. I have to pay my share out of the above.” What is the meaning of that entry?—A. That was a memorandum in reference to the sums paid to Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Has that to do with your account with Thomas McGreevy?—A. No; it is only a memorandum making it up and showing—

Q. What explanation have you to give of these entries? They do not correspond with the profits received and there are details there that we do not get elsewhere. I would like you to give a full explanation of that entry?—A. Well, the Cross-wall, $25,000.

Q. We know all about that.—A. The next, Graving Dock, $14,000 and $8,000, October, 1886, is included for the elections of 1886, that I gave to Thomas McGreevy. The $10,000 was to Sir Hector, as stated by Mr. Connolly. “Dredging, $37,000,” that includes the $27,000. “To yourself, $5,000. August, 1887,” that is to Thomas McGreevy. Then, there is B. C., $25,000 and $3,000, December. The last is the sum paid to T. Chapais and is supposed to have went to the Courrier du Canada. Then this memorandum, “except the $20,000 to H. L. and $2,000 to O. E. Murphy in elections of February, 1887, all the above was paid to you,” that means Thomas McGreevy. “And except $14,000, and $10,000, I have to pay my share out of the above.” I had no interest in the Graving Dock $14,000, nor in the $10,000, from the Graving Dock.

Q. You have not produced to the Sub-Committee the particular diary from which that entry was taken? Have you got it now?—A. I have not been to Quebec since I was asked to produce it.

Q. It is in Quebec?—A. Yes; I must get an order to go down.

Q. You kept a letter book, did you not?—A. I kept a private letter book.

Q. Have you any correspondence with the members of your firm, Mr. Larkin for instance?—A. I think I had only one letter from him.

Q. What has become of the copy of that letter?—A. I cut it out of that book and filed it here.

Q. That is the letter cut out of the book and filed here?—A. Yes.

Q. What letter was cut out of page 76?—A. I think it must have been on some other matter, and perhaps cut out to forward to somebody.

Q. Have you any recollection of it?—A. I have not, indeed.

Q. That is page 76 in December, 1887; the page immediately previous to it is the 10th December, and the next is the 14th December?—A. I know if it suited my business to cut out these copies and send them along I would do so.

Q. Is the copy of your three page letter here?—A. Yes, either two or three pages.

Q. There are three pages missing?—A. Here they are.

By the Chairman :

Q. You will please get that diary, Mr. McGreevy?—A. I will be able to bring that for next Tuesday.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You have just been examined upon the operations of dredging in 1886 and 1887. Will you refer to Exhibit "D5" and say whether you find—being cash trial balance Q.H.I. from March 1st, 1883, to May 1st, 1885—the cost of the plant, that is the dredging plant, of the firm?—A. This is the first trial balance. The dredging plant is put down at $106,902.16.

Q. Mr. Nicholas Connolly, in his examination, has put it down at about $200,000. Had you any other plant then than the one mentioned in that trial balance?—A. At that time there was no other. There may have been added next season, perhaps $10,000, at most, necessary to carry out the dredging.

Q. Mr. Nicholas Connolly has also stated that dredging has been a losing work. Will you see by that trial balance whether the dredging up to 1885 turned out to be a loss or a profit?—A. You mean the dredging up to the close of 1884?

Q. Yes?—A. This is made out to May, 1885. This trial balance shows the receipts from dredging to be $115,193.60, which I believe would be plus the drawback; and the expenditure under the same head would be, in round numbers, $77,000.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. What would be the profit then?—A. That would be a gross receipt of $128,000, and $77,000 from that. I take it that that is the net estimate.

Q. There is an item there under the head "Equipment." Did it apply to the dredging plant or does it refer to the other machinery?—A. It might be to either, but my impression is that it would be charged to plant account.

Q. You have referred to the statement which had been prepared by Martin P. Connolly and of which you made a copy—although this is in re-examination. Is part of this document a copy of the statement you refer to?—A. I have the manuscript which I took at the time.

Q. Refer to the manuscript and say which were the notes begun by you?—A. This is it.

Q. Will you file it?—A. If you like. (Manuscript filed as Exhibit "R14.")

Q. Which part of the document was copied from the statement prepared by Martin P. Connolly? I see there are notes of yours.—A. I took this down to, and including $59,817.88. Down to that is taken from the statement submitted.

Q. Will you look at your own paper now—the original. What do you say now as to what part is prepared by Martin P. Connolly?—A. Down to $59,817.88.

Q. The balance of the document is notes?—A. Taken from his books and statements.

Q. But not copies of his statements taken from the books?—A. From his statement submitted.

Q. You said that $70,000 would be about one-half of the profits you received from the contracts. Well, have you any explanation to offer as to the amount of $187,000 mentioned as your share of the profits in Schedule C, in page 5 of the First Report of the Accountants (Appendix No. 2)?—A. As far as I know that is an incorrect statement shewing that I have received $187,800. I have no knowledge of having received $5,000 as stated, nor $1,604. When I wrote to Thomas McGreevy on the 14th January, 1889, I stated there was about $135,000 that I received from Larkin, Connolly & Co. as my share of the profits. Martin Connolly, the book-keeper's statement up to April following, four months after, was $147,000. In the interval between the two periods Thomas McGreevy had received from Larkin, Connolly & Co. $10,000. With the $135,000 that I spoke of, that would be $145,000, agreeing with the statement of the book-keeper, $147,000.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. You say these ten thousand were charged to you. Can you say where?—A. One of them I gave to Mr. Murphy, to give to Thomas McGreevy.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. One of what?—A. One of the fives in January; the other five there was no authority.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. What date was the letter?—A. 14th January.

Q. Was it subsequent to this five thousand?—A. The letter was written before.

Q. The letter was written before the five thousand were given?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. And the other five?—A. They had no authority for paying it at all.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Did they take a receipt for it?—A. I learned that that five was paid in this way. In the month of February, 1889, I thought I had traced the five thousand paid by the Connollys to Thomas McGreevy from a broker's office, and, one way or another that I gathered, and when the law suit came, I pleaded there was five thousand received by him in February from the Connollys—a stray shot, I must admit—but the answer to that plea was admitting the five thousand from the Connollys in February.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. February of what year?—A. 1889; at the same time I gave the five to Murphy. Now, as to the thirty-five thousand charged to me in the same statement Schedule "C" in page 5 of the First Report of the Accountants (Appendix No 2), I cannot see any ground for that charge, because Mr. Murphy sold out his interest to Larkin, Connolly & Co., or Connollys and Company, for the sum of seventy thousand. Why thirty-five thousand should be charged to me I am not aware.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. The last item of $35,000, I see is mentioned as having been paid on January 31st?—A. It was paid after it was due.

Q. So that your letter could not have anticipated that item alone?—A. Oh, no.

Q. You were asked to look at the entry in your diary of the 18th May, 1885, and say you read the words, "Gave T. McG. $1,000, for Ottawa." Will you explain that?—A. He asked me for $1,000 to be sent to Ottawa. I gave it to him.

Q. T. means Thomas McGreevy?—A. Certainly.

The Committee then adjourned.

THURSDAY, 30th July, 3:30 P.M.

Cross-Examination of Mr. R. H. McGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you turn up your diary of 1885, and verify the payment of $1,000 for Ottawa, on the 18th May?—A. It is here under date 18th May, 1885.

Q. You state "$1,000 for Ottawa." What do you understand by "Ottawa"? For whom would the money be, when sent to Ottawa?—A. I understood, when he asked it, it was for Sir Hector Langevin.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. How did you understand that—from anything he said, or simply that he was sending it to Ottawa?—A. I was in Ottawa the week before and he asked me when I went down to send $1,000 up to Sir Hector.

Q. He mentioned Sir Hector's name?—A. Yes. I delayed in doing it until he got down, and then I gave it to him.

By the Chairman :

Q. How does the entry read?—A. "Gave T. McG. $1,000 for Ottawa."

By Mr. Osler :

Q. When was it you spoke to your brother about that?—A. It must have been about eight or ten days before.

Q. Before he had asked for it?—A. When I was in Ottawa.

Q. You were in Ottawa?—A. I was.

Q. Where did you give him the money?—A. When he was in Quebec.

Q. In Ottawa it was asked for?—A. I was asked to have it sent up.

Q. And on the 18th he was in Quebec and you gave it to him there?—A. Yes.

Q. Where?—A. Either at his office or house.

Q. In what shape did you give it to him?—A. I could not tell.

Q. Bills or cheque?—A. Bills.

Q. Obtained on what cheque?—A. I could not say.

Q. On a cheque drawn that day?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. On what bank?—A. I could not say.

Q. Was there a cheque?—A. It might have been my own.

Q. Do your books give any information as to it?—A. I do not know that they do. The bank book might.

Q. Or your cash book?—A. I did not keep a cash book.

Q. Have you any entry, except your diary entry?—A. That is all.

Q. Have you traced up a voucher for it?—A. No.

Q. Is there a voucher for it?—A. I do not think there is.

Q. What is this in the diary of 1886? Does that refer to the same matter?—A. It does partly.

Q. Read it.—A. It is in brackets, "see diary 1885, 18th May. Note it and $2,000 cheque from L. C. & Co, would be for $1,000 paid T. McG. for Ottawa."

Q. Then this is a note that you made to inquire about that $1,000?—A. Yes. I saw it in the books of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. Having seen it in the books of Larkin, Connolly & Co., you were then to look it up in your diary?—A. Having seen it in 1886, I made a memorandum to look it up.

Q. And in that memorandum you also say you saw in your diary of 1885 an entry of $1,000?—A. Yes.

Q. It did not come to your mind at the time?—A. What time?

Q. The time you made the entry?—A. The $2,000 did not come to my memory.

Q. What was the date of the $2,000 cheque?—A. I could not say.

Q. Was this entry made under the date of Wednesday, 19th May, 1886, or was it just casually made on the first blank page in the diary to jog your memory?—A. It was put down as a memorandum to look at another.

Q. You notice that in the entry of 18th May, 1885, there were three different varieties of entry under that date; one in ink, one written in pencil in a back hand, and the entry in question at the bottom in a different handwriting, although perhaps they are all yours?—A. These are all my handwriting.

Q. So those three entries were made probably at different dates?—A. No.

Q. Different hours on the same day?—A. That one in ink would be made sometime before that, because it was the time the note was due.

Q. I see; the entry of the 18th would be an entry of a due date and therefore made perhaps three months before?—A. When I got the note.

Q. Well, then, were the two entries in pencil made the same day?—A. I don't think it.

Q. Then the word "gave" above the last line seems to have been written afterwards to better keep it in mind?—A. There is a memorandum "for D. Smith" here, that is not a payment.

Q. When were those two last pencil entries made relatively?—A. This one (pointing to the entry) would be made on the day.

Q. And you wrote only "T. McG., one thousand for Ottawa" and afterwards the word "gave"?—A. Yes.

Q. And that gave it a subsequent date, probably when you were making this entry?—A. It is very likely.

Q. So the original entry was "T. McG., one thousand for Ottawa," whatever that might mean?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, where you say "Saw one thousand paid T. McG. for Ottawa," in quotation marks, that is referring to the entry under 1885?—A. After I had seen it.

Q. The item on page 141 of your journal, Exhibit "U13," would that $1,000 be included in the $6,050 that is there charged to the amount "paid T. McG. for his share"?—A. That $6,050 I gave him.

Q. In one payment, independently of this $1,000?—A. Independently entirely.

Q. Have you a voucher for that?—A. I gave a cheque, I think, to Mr. Chaloner to pay it.

Q. A cheque for the whole amount?—A. Yes.

Q. One and the same cheque?—A. I think so.

Q. Well, is there any doubt about it?—A. There may be a doubt.

Q. What would be the doubt?—A. I don't know what would be the doubt.

Q. Supposing we find that voucher is for a smaller sum, and there was $1,000 to make it up, what would you say?—A. The only thing I know is I gave him the $6,050 as the amount agreed upon for the North-West Land Company, and that $1,000 was not included in it.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Did I understand from you the other day, that you were still a member or shareholder in the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. Yes.

Q. In the present company?—A. In the present company.

Q. That is the company now seeking incorporation here?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you a director in the new company?—A. No.

Q. Who are the directors?—A. Well, I could not say I am sure; there is Cooper and Thom—I don't know them all. I have very little acquaintance with the new company.

Q. Could you ascertain who are the directors of the present company?—A. I could; yes.

Q. Will you make a note of it, and give us the information when you come back next week?—A. Yes.

Q. Are these shares that you have the same that you had in the old company, or are they other shares?—A. The same; the remainder of the shares I had.

Q. Did I understand that all the other shareholders in the other company sold out, and to whom?—A. I think the most of them sold out to this new syndicate.

Q. Who are the men composing this new syndicate?—A. It is Cooper, of Montreal, and Thom and Loneragan, the lawyer of Montreal.

Q. How much did that syndicate give for the shares of the others?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Had you any knowledge of these transactions and arrangements that were made between the shareholders in the old company and with the new syndicate?—A. No; I had none at all.

Q. When was that made?—A. Some time during the winter or spring.

Q. Last winter?—A. Last winter.

Q. Is Mr. Armstrong, of Sorel, interested in that syndicate, or interested in the new company, either as a director, a contractor or a shareholder?—A. He was present at the meeting that we held on the 11th May last.

Q. Was it at that meeting these arrangements were made?—A. It was at that meeting that I presided as vice-president, over the election of the new directorate.

Q. You were not elected as a director?—A. I did not belong to that.

Q. Have you made any arrangements for the sale of your stock?—A. No.

Q. With what money were the notes of the old shareholders bought?—A. I could not say.

Q. Is it to your knowledge that the company received a certain amount of money from the Local Government at Quebec?—A. I don't know.

Q. So you know nothing about the arrangements between the new company and the shareholders of the old company?—A. Nothing at all.

Q. There are two statements of accounts filed from that case of Thomas McGreevy against you produced before us. What are those statements of accounts? Are they yours or are they Mr. McGreevy's?—A. This is the account of my own (Exhibit "Q13").

Q. Is this an account prepared by yourself?—A. Yes; this is the one which was rendered with that letter of the 14th January, 1889.

Q. That is the account you sent to your brother when you wrote that letter of the 14th January, 1889?—A. Precisely.

Q. And this was filed subsequently by him in the case?—A. It was filed by the plaintiff as admitting the amount, and was filed with his pleadings.

Q. Did he accept all these payments that appear to have been made by you?—A. He accepted it as a satisfactory statement of account.

Q. With what moneys were these payments made?—A. Part was made with the money from the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. A greater part was made from the moneys from Larkin, Connolly & Co., other than those special ones mentioned, and some couple of thousand from other sources—from the sale of property I had made on his account—making about $20,000 altogether from other sources than Larkin, Connolly & Co.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. When you say from Larkin, Connolly & Co., you mean from your portion of the profits?—A. Exactly.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. There is a question about the note of $400,000, which was transferred to you by Mr. Murphy. Do you remember that?—A. Yes.

Q. Was that a complete sale? Did Mr. Murphy divest himself of any interest in the note?—A. Yes.

Q. So it became entirely your property?—A. Altogether my property.

Q. Was there a question of any action to be taken in court upon that note?—A. No. He did not know what I was going to do with it—whether I was going to frame it, or anything else.

Q. It was a complete sale and divestment by him of the instrument?—A. It was a complete business transaction.

Q. And after it went into your hands he had nothing to do with it?—A. Nothing whatever.

Q. It became completely yours?—A. Absolutely.

Q. He pretended he had furnished some value for that note?—A. Yes; and he gave me a memorandum at the time of the selling of what it was.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. The consideration which you say he gave you as having been furnished at that time is filed with the Bill of Particulars?—A. Most of it.

Q. There is nothing else besides what is in the Bill of Particulars?—A. No.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Mr. Ouimet was asking you about the shares you were holding in the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. Are they shares acquired by you?—A. I will state it over again. Thomas McGreevy held 1,000 shares in the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, capital stock. I held 500. That is 1,500. When I made the agreement with Armstrong it was for $75,000, representing the 1,500 shares. For the $42,000 that he paid I transferred him shares to represent that sum, and the rest are mine in my own name.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. It is because you were not paid upon the whole amount agreed upon that you transferred only a portion?—A. I transferred sufficient to cover the amount he paid.

---

Mr. RICHARD R. DOBELL sworn.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. You reside in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. And are a merchant, I believe?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. A member of the firm of Dobell & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been engaged in business in Quebec?—A. Thirty-three years.

Q. Have you any position in connection with the Board of Trade of Quebec?—A. I am a member. I was President for some time.

Q. You became one of the Harbour Commissioners of Quebec under the original Act under which the Commission was established?—A. Yes.

Q. In what year?—A. About the year 1870.

Q. Will you state what the constitution of that body was at the time you became a member of it with regard to the sources from which the positions on the Board were filled?—A. The initiative was taken by the Board of Trade, who petitioned the Government here to allow us to make certain improvements in the harbour which we thought would be desirable for the future trade of the city. We had several interviews with the Minister of Public Works at that time—Sir Hector Langevin. I myself urged the formation of the Quebec Harbour Commission, and we had considerable contention at that time with the Government as to the formation of it. The Government wanted a majority on the representation. We contended that should not be granted.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. About what year was that effected?—A. At the formation of the Quebec Harbour Commission, about the year 1870, I think it was. We had considerable discussion on that point; the Government wanting a majority on the Board, we contending that as we were voluntarily paying a special tax on our exports, besides the ten cent duty on shipping, that we should have a majority, and the responsibility of the Commission. Finally, the point was granted to us, the payers of the tax having four nominees on the Commission, the Board of Trade of Quebec one, and the Government three representatives. We, therefore, had the control and we were responsible for the work done.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. That is to say, the persons interested in the trade of Quebec constituted the majority of the Board of Harbour Commissioners?—A. Exactly, and the Government had merely a representation of three.

Q. Did that mode of constituting the Board continue, or was it changed afterwards, and when?—A. It continued until there was a change of Government and Mr. Mackenzie came into power. Our constitution was amended then, and the Government—I am speaking of one of the conditions that we insisted upon that we should have no paid Commissioners, no paid chairman, and that the only officers to be paid were to be the Engineer and the Secretary, so that there would be no object whatever in seeking membership on the Commission except for the purposes for which the Commission was constituted, viz., to improve the Harbour of Quebec. Well, when Mr. Mackenzie came into power that was all changed. The Government claimed a majority on the Board, and amended the Act providing for a majority of five out of nine, paying the chairman $2,000 a year, and paying the Commissioners.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. All that is in the books.—A. Yes; but few men know it, for all that. I think myself it is very desirable that the public should know that, because it shows the Government of Mr. Mackenzie took the responsibility of the Commission and the work.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. That is the way the Board has been constituted since?—A. Ever since—yes.

Q. You remember that Messrs. Kinipple & Morris were originally the Engineers of the Quebec Harbour Improvements?—A. Yes.

Q. And the Dock, and so on?—A. Yes.

Q. They were removed from that position?—A. Yes.

Q. If I remember rightly, both yourself and Mr. Rae, as members of the Board, objected to their removal?—A. Yes; we protested.

Q. And Mr. Rae made a formal notarial protest against that course, and you made a protest less formal?—A. The protests are those recorded in the minutes.

Q. You had objections, which were expressed at that time, to their removal?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. What year were they removed?—A. About 1882.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. But after your protest against their removal, some time subsequently, something occurred which induced you to change your mind on the subject?—A. At first I protested strongly against their removal, but shortly afterwards some matters came to my knowledge as to the action they had taken in the construction of the Graving Dock which led me to change my view. I found that the Resident Engineer had written or cabled to Messrs Kinipple & Morris, telling them that it was impossible to put the dock gates where they were trying to do and that they had spent 12 months trying to do this. Instead of coming out and making a proper survey Messrs Kinipple & Morris merely cabled out: "Move them 70 feet back," and so further work was gone on with 70 feet back. Finding that they could not succeed there the Engineers cabled out to put the gates 70 feet still further back. I thought myself that that was a sufficient reason for making a change.

Q. What was the cause of the difficulty in placing the gates where it had been originally intended to place them?—A. They sounded and found rock, and when they came to try 70 feet back, when they came to get the foundation, they discovered boulders on a bed of sand, and it was impossible to put the gates there.

Q. And as to the second attempt which was also advised by cable, they were in the same predicament?—A. Exactly the same predicament.

Q. Then you ceased to have any confidence in these Engineers in respect to their attention to the work that you had previously?—A. I believed when that came to my knowledge it was sufficient to discharge any engineers.

Q. And you then agreed with the course that had been taken in discharging them?—A. Most certainly.

Q. And you are now of the same opinion that you were then?—A. Entirely.

Q. Was your loss of confidence in them attributable to want of skill or want of attention?—A. Want of attention.

Q. The Resident Engineer of whom you spoke, but whose name you did not give, was Mr. Pilkington, was it not?—A. Yes.

Q. You remember Mr. Pilkington leaving the work in consequence of infirmity, or ill-health?—A. Yes.

Q. Were the members of the firm present when he left?—A. I really forget.

Q. Mr. Pilkington was not dismissed, any way, as far as you know. Do you remember if he remained for some time after Kinipple & Morris were dismissed in the employ of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Some short time.

Q. Some months, as a matter of fact?—A. Yes.

Q. But the sole cause of his leaving, and his position being occupied by somebody else, was his ill-health?—A. Yes.

Q. You remember the receipt of tenders for the Cross-wall in 1883?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether, considering the circumstances under which the tenders were received and opened by the Harbour Commissioners, there was, or was not, any opportunity for persons present—for members of the Board, or otherwise—to form any opinion of the relative position of the tenderers?—A. Not in the least.

Q. They were not worked out at all?—A. The tenders were not worked out; it was impossible to tell how, relatively, they stood.

Q. And the nature of the mode in which the work was proposed to be done was such as to make the reading of the tender insufficient for the purpose of giving any idea of their relative value?—A. There was no possibility of our having any idea which was the highest and which was the lowest.

Q. And, as a matter of fact, you had no idea?—A. We had no idea, and we were ordered to send them to Ottawa, and they were sent.

Q. What was done with them after they were formally opened?—A. They were handed over to the Secretary, to be sent to Ottawa.

Q. What was the object of opening them?—A. We had no knowledge how the tenders would be made. We did not expect that they would be in this form, and that we should be able to work them out, but we received instructions from Ottawa that after opening them they were to be sent up there.

Q. And you complied with those instructions?—A. We complied with those instructions.

Q. But you are perfectly clear and positive in your statement that nobody, from what was done when the tenders were opened, could form any idea of their relative value.—A. Certainly.

Q. Now, you ascertained, at some time or another, that Robert McGreevy had an interest in some of these tenders, or in the contract which was afterwards awarded upon one of them?—A. Yes.

Q. When did you first become aware of Robert McGreevy having any interest in that contract?—A. Well, I forget the date, but it was some time after the Cross-wall contract had been given out.

Q. Well, can you state with any more definiteness the minimum or maximum period of the time from the granting of the contract until you found it out?—A. It was perhaps two years.

Q. It may have been as much as two years?—A. It may have been eighteen months, or two years, but I think about that time.

Q. Had you any reason to believe, up to that time, that he had any interest?—A. Not in the least.

Q. Or had you any suspicion?—A. Not the faintest.

Q. Nor had any of the members to your knowledge?—A. Not to my knowledge—not one.

Q. Was it the result of anything fortuitous that you became aware, or rather that you heard he had an interest?—A. I was informed as I was walking along Peter street, by, I might state, Mr. Owen Murphy. He told me that I ought to know that Robert McGreevy was a partner in those works—the real Owen Murphy, I mean; I only know him as Owen Murphy.

Q. Owen Murphy, M.P.P. for Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you find out from Owen Murphy?—A. He simply told me that he knew, from information that had reached him, that Robert McGreevy was a partner in that Cross-wall contract.

Q. And did you take any action upon that information?—A. Yes. I mentioned it to our chairman at the next meeting, Mr. Thomas McGreevy being present, and he emphatically, and with some anger, denied it.

Q. That was Thomas?—A. Yes.

Q. Denied his brother had any interest in that contract?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Do you remember the date of that?—A. It was about fifteen months or two years.

Q. Is it in the Minutes?—A. No; I do not think so. It would be an informal matter. It is not the thing that would be put in.

Q. Were you or were you not satisfied at that time on that point?—A. I took Mr. McGreevy's word that it was as he said.

Q. And believed Robert had no interest in the contract?—A. I did.

Q. Did any other members of the Board take part in that discussion?—A. They all heard it.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. And the matter was dropped?—A. The matter was dropped.

Q. Can you state when you did become aware of the existence of an interest in that work in Robert McGreevy?—A. Never until this enquiry. Of course, it became common talk that there was.

Q. It is only fair to state that you mean until the disclosures were made which led up to this enquiry?—A. Yes—the disclosures connected with this enquiry.

Q. Speaking of Mr. Thomas McGreevy's position upon the Board in relation to the Department of Public Works and the Minister of Public Works, what would you say you understood it to be?—A. Nothing irregular. Nothing that I would regard as other than, being one conversant with large contracts, he gave the benefit of that experience to the Harbour Commission.

Q. And in respect of the mutual interests of Sir Hector Langevin and the Dominion Government, have you anything to say with regard to his position?—A. I had no reason to doubt any action he took while on the Commission.

Q. Were you or were you not aware that on account of Mr. Thomas McGreevy's double position, as it may be called, it would be convenient—and it was so treated by the Board—that he should communicate with the Department of Public Works at Ottawa in respect to matters of common interest—as a member of Parliament and a member of the Board?—A. Coming up to Ottawa so frequently, he was the natural medium by which we would learn what the Minister of Public Works' views were.

Q. You regarded, as I understand from your last answer, his communications with the Minister as perfectly proper, on that account?—A. Quite.

Q. Were or were not the works in question within the limits of Mr. McGreevy's constituency—I mean, geographically?—A. No; because the Graving Dock is quite out of Quebec.

Q. I mean the Harbour improvements?—A. I do not think so. I do not know whether they are or not.

Q. Then, during your membership, which has lasted from the first to the present time, you were not aware of any impropriety in the relationship between Mr. McGreevy and any person whatever, either contractor or persons in authority in connection with the work?—A. No. I may state that I had no suspicion of anything wrong, except when the dredging contract was given, and then I protested. I did not like that dredging contract. It was forced upon us, and in a way I did not like.

Q. You thought there was too much work being done?—A. I had suspicion that the work was not being properly done.

By the Chairman :

Q. What was your protest?—A. That they should not be allowed to throw any more of the dredging material into the river, and I thought the price was far too much for the work performed. Large portions of the work were forced upon us time after time.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. What dredging are you speaking of?—A. The thirty-five cent contract. My suspicion was that this work was being forced upon us and that it was not done as we wanted it.

Q. Then, you did not consider the way it was being done was in the interest of the trade of the place?—A. Of the public; and I believed the dredging could have been done at far lower cost.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. State your reasons.—A. We decided that we would have no more dredging done after the $100,000 contract was completed; still we found them going on with it. After the Commission, as a body, decided that no more material should be dumped in the river, and instructed the Engineer to that effect, the Engineer having told the contractors that no more dredging would take place, we still found the dredging continued, and we then claimed that they should not be paid for that dredging, but they were paid.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. When you speak of the $100,000 contract, do you not refer to the dredging that was to be done at a uniform price of 35 cents per yard, but the amount in the season of 1887 was not to exceed $100,000 worth?—A. That is it.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. I think we should have a statement in reference to the objections of the Harbour Commissioners.—A. I think there are three or four objections. I can give you the dates if you wish. The first objection was taken in July, 1886, then August, 1887, September, 1887, and June, 1888.

Q. On the ground, you have told us?—A. Yes.

By the Chairman :

Q. Are those objections in the Minutes?—A. Yes.

Q. I think we had better have them.—A. (After Minute-book had been produced). Minute-book No. 5, page 485, under date 20th July, 1886, “Mr. Boyd, the Engineer in charge of the harbour works, having been called, answers the various questions put to him in connection with the material dredged in the harbour works, and he is directed to allow no more dredged material to be dumped into the river as long as there is not enough material in the embankment to complete its filling.” That was the first objection.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. They were not to dump the material into the river?—A. No. The dredged material was to be put on the embankment and levelled. They were then beginning to dump it into the river, to which we objected.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. It was less expensive to them?—A. Yes; but it was also an injury to the river. On the 31st August, 1887, Minute-book No. 6, page 182, the following appears, “Moved by R. R. Dobell, Esq., seconded by William Rae, Esq.:

“That after the expenditure of $100,000 be completed, the contract be closed as provided for in resolution adopted at the meeting held the 10th May last.

“The consideration of said motion thereupon takes place, and the Resident Engineer, Mr. St. George Boswell, having been called, gives all the information required in relation to the dredging done and still to be done. He is directed to prepare for the next meeting a report on the dredging still required.

“And Mr. Dobell consents to withdraw his motion, with the understanding that the dredging will be continued till the next meeting and that all the material dredged will be dumped in the Louise Embankment or elsewhere, but none into the river, and instructions are accordingly given to Mr. Boswell, who retires afterwards.”

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. That was on the 35-cent. contract?—A. Yes. The next is on September 7th, page 185 of the Minute-book, “Moved by R. R. Dobell, seconded by E. Giroux, and resolved—

“That the contractors be again instructed that they must not dump any more dredged material in the river until the quantity required to fill up the embankments on the Cross-wall be completed, and any further quantity required to be deposited on the embankment as directed by the Engineers.”

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Was this motion carried?—A. They were always carried, but still the contractors went on. Then on June 11th, 1888, page 326 of the Minute-book, the following appears:—“The Minutes of the three last meetings are read, and the usual question being put by the acting chairman as to whether the Minutes just read were correct, Mr. Dobell stated that they are correct, with the exception of the portion of those of the last meeting referring to the permission to dump dredged material into the river, he (Mr. Dobell) declaring that such a permission was not granted, and one of the Commissioners having stated that some dredging had been so dumped since the last meeting, the Resident Engineer, Mr. Boswell, was then called, and to questions put to him declares that it is true that dumping in the river has taken place, but could not state to what extent before consulting the Inspector. Being asked if he could ascertain before the end of the meeting, he answered that he believed he could. He then leaves, and after an absence of about 15 minutes returns, and reports that dumping in the river since the last meeting had been restricted to 10 scows. He is thereupon instructed to allow no more dredged material to be dumped into the river, and then withdrew.” I think there are more, but those are all we could find to-day.

Q. Can you find a letter of the 10th September, giving effect to your motion?—A. I will endeavour to find it.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. I understand you represented the merchants of Quebec, particularly?—A. I represented the Board of Trade.

Q. They were composed of merchants?—A. Yes.

Q. You had a large interest in this matter as a merchant?—A. I think we have been about the largest contributors.

Q. What amount would you contribute yourself yearly?—A. I think about $5,000 or $6,000, perhaps, every year, since its formation, twenty-five years ago.

Q. You would then have a business interest as well as a civic interest?—A. Yes. The total of our tax was one-tenth of one per cent. on our exports, and the 10 cents on our tonnage dues.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Have you uniformly represented the Board of Trade?—A. I have never varied. I am the only original member of the Commission, and I have always represented the Board of Trade.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. The actual tax on the shipping of Quebec was one-tenth of one per cent. of the exports?—A. No; that is not on shipping but on the trade—one-tenth of one per cent. Each merchant pays a clearance on each cargo that he ships.

Q. And is there any special tax on the shipping at Quebec—when the ships arrive loaded with merchandise?—A. They pay the equivalent of that one-tenth of one per cent. on the merchandise they bring into the country. It is both in and out a tax of one-tenth of one per cent.

Q. That is additional to the other tax by the Government?—A. Of course, to the revenue tax.

Q. Especially for the Quebec Harbour?—A. Especially for the Quebec Harbour and devoted to that purpose.

Q. And that is specially to defray the expenses incurred in the building of the Dock?—A. Exactly.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. Whether they used the improvements or not?—A. We have never used the improvements.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. That does not apply to ships that pass Quebec for Montreal?—A. No.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. This tax does not exist in Montreal?—A. No.

Q. So the ships that go to Quebec, either to bring in goods or to carry away goods, have got an additional tax to pay now on account of these works?—A. Certainly.

Q. And those works and those improvements, since the law has been changed, I think from 1873, have been decided by the majority of the Commission appointed by the Government?—A. Certainly.

Q. And the majority of either the city or the corporation have never had control as to alterations to be made or decisions about the works?—A. Certainly.

Q. They have been entirely in the hands of the Government?—A. Certainly.

Q. And those very large works which have been carried out there have not, properly speaking, been yet used by the Quebec commerce or shipping?—A. No; we did not expect they would be used.

Q. But, as a matter of fact, they have not been?—A. Not yet. They are being used now to a small extent; they are beginning to use them.

Q. Of course, you are in a position to say that, as far as you are concerned, you never found anything incorrect in your share, or in any share of the Commissioners in the decisions about contracts, and so on?—A. None.

Q. They have generally decided at Ottawa and you carried out the decisions from Ottawa?—A. Well, the first contract that was given out from Ottawa direct was the Cross-wall. Previous to that we shared in the responsibility in the awarding of contracts.

Q. But the Cross-wall, that was in 1883?—A. In 1883. Then the tenders were all sent up to Ottawa and they were there dealt with, and an Order in Council passed authorizing us to accept such-and-such a contract. It was taken out of our hands.

Q. It was the same thing, I suppose, in regard to the South-wall?—A. Yes; the South-wall.

Q. And the change in price to 35 cents in regard to the dredging for the deepening of the harbour and the dumping?—A. That was done by the Commission.

Q. At 35 cents?—A. 35 cents.

Q. You received a letter from Mr. Perley advising the Commission to do that?—A. Stating that he thought it was fair and reasonable price.

Q. It was on those instructions that the Commission decided to grant the 35 cents?—A. Certainly.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Did you consider it instructions, or simply his opinion?—A. Simply an opinion—emphatically.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. You had all possible confidence in Mr. Perley?—A. Certainly.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. I understood you to say you yourselves were of opinion that 35 cents was altogether too high?—A. For dumping it into the river. If they placed it on the embankment and levelled it I don't know that it would be too high—I would not have raised a difficulty about it; but it was taking it out of the bank and throwing it into the river—taking what we had been protesting against for years and allowing it to be thrown into the river.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. If you had been aware they were going to be paid 45 cents a yard for the portion of this excavation which they put into the Cross-wall, would you not have thought that 45 cents in place of 35 cents was somewhat of a high figure?—A. I should not have approved of it.

Q. If you had known—as a matter of fact, I think I can tell: I have been informed it will be proved here that out of the dredging under that contract which was paid for at the rate of 35 cents a yard these contractors filled in all the Cross-wall and were paid over $79,620 for it—how would you have characterized such a thing?—A. I leave it to every gentleman present to know.

Q. But you were a party to giving the 35 cent contract, and you were unaware that they were going to be paid during that contract 45 cents a yard for part of this stuff they were taking out at the rate of 35 cents a yard?—A. I stated distinctly the Cross-wall section we had nothing to do with, but I should say, with everyone here, if we were paying 70 or 80 cents for what ought to be done at 35 cents we were paying too much.

Q. They only got 27 cents, before that, for the fifteen feet dredging?—A. Yes; but the deeper you go the more expensive it would be.

Q. But, do you not remember this 35-cent contract was not to exceed a depth of fifteen feet below the low water line?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the price they got previously on their former dredging for that depth—from 15 to 20 feet?—A. I know there was an advance, and while we were hesitating about it a letter came from Mr. Perley, recommending to give more. We need not have accepted it, unless we thought it was a fair rate.

Q. And you acted largely upon Mr. Perley's advice?—A. There was no question we were very much influenced by the recommendation of our Chief Engineer, as I think any other Commission would be.

Q. With reference to Kinipple and Morris, do I understand you discovered this want of judgment on their part?—A. Want of attention.

Q. Did you discover that before they were dismissed by the Board, or after?—A. Before, certainly.

Q. Why did you put in a protest then?—A. Ah, they were not dismissed then. When they were dismissed I agreed, but I disagreed when it was first brought up.

Q. I think you are mistaken?—A. No; I think I am quite correct; it was a long time before we agreed finally to dismiss them.

Q. I will read a copy of the extract from the Minutes. It is proved in our Evidence here, on June 14th, 1883, taken from the Minute-book No. 4, page 507:

“ Resolved,—That the further services of Messrs. Kinipple and Morris be dispensed with, and that the legal adviser of this Board be instructed so to inform them, and that the further works now to be begun and the completion of those commenced will, from this date, not be considered as under their charge or supervision, nor as entitling them to any salary, remuneration or commission. The following protest is then lodged by Messrs. Dobell and Rae:—Messrs. Dobell and Rae desire to record their protest against the authority of this meeting to deal with the above question, as notice of motion was not given at the last meeting of the Board; nor did the notice of the Secretary calling the meeting give such intimation.”

Q. You and Mr. Rae were agreed?—A. We agreed on most things.

Q. Later on in the same month I think you will find that Mr. Rae himself put in a special notarial protest?—A. Certainly he did.

Q. Up to that time you had opposed their dismissal?—A. Certainly.

Q. Because you had not been informed of the errors?—A. It brought out the question of why these dock gates had been put where they were, and it was then the Resident Engineer made a statement to us, he had kept back before he had privately written to Kinipple and Morris telling them of the nature of the bed where they were trying to make the gates.

Q. You made this discovery after this resolution of the 4th of June?—A. Certainly.

Q. You were at the Board, and the Board had not been informed of this inattention?—A. We had complained several times of their want of attention.

Q. But you supported them up to and after the 4th of June?—A. I did.

Q. I want to know if, as a member of the Board, you and other members had been made aware of that inattention on their part before this dismissal?—A. Not before. It was after that. I stated it was after I had protested that I then found out they had made this gross error in the Graving Dock, and which led to a very considerable expenditure more than should have been made in the construction of that Dock.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. I understand you to say that the Government were the parties who let the contract for the dredging at thirty-five cents?—A. To the extent of $100,000.

Q. And that contract was let with the understanding that the earth so dredged should be put in the embankment?—A. Yes.

Q. And the thirty-five cents was intended to cover both of these works?—A. Yes; both the dredging and the placing.

Q. I understand you also to say that you, as a Commissioner, had nothing to do with letting the contract for filling at thirty-five cents?—A. No. That is the Cross-wall.

Q. When did you become aware that such a contract was let?—A. When we had instructions to accept the tender of Messrs Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. Did the Commissioners make any protest or representation as to that?—A. No; because it was some time after that that the filling took place.

Q. It was the Resident Engineer of the Harbour that recommended this filling or advised the Department with regard to this matter?—A. I cannot tell that. All these tenders were sent up to Ottawa.

Q. As a matter of fact, the work that was subsequently contracted for at forty-five cents was already embraced in the contract let by the Commissioners at thirty-five cents?—A. Not at all, and I am prepared to say that the gentleman opposite is incorrect in saying that the material dredged out of the Dock was put into the Cross-wall. I think he is wrong. I did not take exception to it at the time because I did not feel responsible for the statement. My belief is that the Cross-wall was not filled with that material but filled largely with blue clay. No one Commissioner could pretend to follow all these works in their details, and I think that the Cross-wall was filled up with a good deal of material that was taken elsewhere than from the inner basin.

Q. Do you know that?—A. I know a portion was.

Q. I think we have had the testimony of the Engineers themselves?—A. The quantities would speak.

By Mr. Ouimet:

Q. You are not aware that that part of the work known as earth filling was made with the dredging and that both were done at the same time?—A. I am not aware of the details of that Cross-wall contract; but I should have said at once, if I had been aware that they were getting forty-five cents for the filling as well as thirty-five cents for the dredging, that it was not right. I admit that at once, but it never came to our knowledge, and I think it was the part of the Engineer to point out to us if anything of that kind was going on.

Q. Your impression is that the earth filling in the Cross-wall was made with blue clay and material which could not be dredged from the bottom of the river?—A. I do not know to what extent, but to a large extent.

By Mr. Langelier:

Q. Was the contract for the South-wall given from Ottawa or by the Commissioners themselves?—A. I was in England when that contract was given, but the Secretary informs me that it was let by the Commissioners while I was away.

Q. Were the plans for that South-wall made at the instance of the Harbour Commissioners themselves, or were the plans prepared at Ottawa, without submission to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. They were prepared at Ottawa by our Engineer.

Q. Were the plans sent down to Quebec before the tenders were officially asked for?—A. They were laid before us.

Q. Was only one plan exhibited at the Harbour Commissioners' office or was there more than one plan?—A. I believe there was only one.

Q. Did that plan contemplate the very wall that has been executed since?—A. Yes; I think so.

Q. Did that plan necessitate any expropriation of private property?—A. It necessitated the expropriation of a right of way that one individual had, I think, from the harbour into his deal yard. Mr. Clint was interfered with, and it may have also interfered with Mr. Dinning.

Q. Was any other property expropriated?—A. No; I am sure not.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Did you ever ask your Engineer, when this contract was being tendered for for the Cross-wall, to take the plans and work out the quantities to see what was the relative character of each tender?—A. No.

Q. That work was not done?—A. No; but I was not there when these tenders were received and discussed. I was in England.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You have always taken a great deal of interest in the enterprises of Quebec?—A. I have tried to.

Q. To promote our commercial interests in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. You did not suspect when the works were going on that the contractors were making immense profits?—A. I did not.

Q. It was impossible for anyone in Quebec to guess that?—A. I think so. If we had had any suspicion we should have looked closely into it.

Q. Were you informed by somebody or by the Engineer that the dredging was made at a greater depth than fifteen feet?—A. No.

Q. Never?—A. Never.

Q. It was entirely out of your knowledge?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you informed that there were any changes—that the plans were not exactly followed for the South-wall?—A. No; I never heard of that.

Q. You were never informed that the Inspectors over-estimated the quantity of dredging made?—A. No, sir; never.

Q. All these things were kept hidden from you and the Commissioners?—A. Certainly.

Q. You were not informed that the report prepared by the Engineer about the actual depth of the harbour was honestly stating the actual depth of the harbour?—A. We had it from the Engineer that it was properly dredged.

Q. So that the Commissioners are not responsible for that?—A. We took every pains to find that a lower depth was reached and that the outer basin was dredged to a certain depth; and not only dredged, but what they called "cleaned" afterward.

Q. How many engineers have you got now?—A. We have two, Mr. Boswell and Mr. Langevin, the assistant.

Q. The Chief Engineer is Mr. Perley?—A. No; Mr. Boswell. Mr. Perley is no longer engineer.

Q. Since how long?—A. Some time; perhaps two years. No; it was about a year.

Q. About a year?—A. Yes.

Q. Before that you had Mr. Perley in Ottawa?—A. And Mr. Boswell. That was all then. When Mr. Boswell was made Engineer-in-Chief, Mr. Laforce Langevin was appointed Assistant Engineer.

Q. Are the works going on now?—A. No; there is nothing doing.

Q. But the pay of the Engineers is going on?—A. Yes.

Q. When you were advised to take Mr. Perley as Chief Engineer, was it represented to you that there would be no salary to pay him and that he was a very competent Engineer, by which you were induced to accept his services?—A. No; we did expect we would have to pay him some salary for the additional duties that would be laid upon him.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. You are quite clear upon that point?—A. Quite clear.

Q. Were you satisfied?—A. We were quite satisfied to pay him something.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you ever pay him anything?—A. Yes; but I do not quite remember what it was. If you ask me I would state that the first year it was $1,000; afterwards it was increased, but really I cannot remember the exact date.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. It was not a uniform amount?—A. It was not.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You knew that Mr. Peters had been dredging in the Harbour of Quebec?—
A. I knew the contractors, Peters, Moore & Wright, did some dredging there.

Q. What were their prices?—A. I think 27 cents, if I remember aright. May I refer again to the question of Mr. Perley's salary. From a statement handed me by Mr. Woods, the Secretary of our Commission, it appears that we paid Mr. Perley $1,000 the first year, the next year $1,250, and the next year $1,000; the next year $1,000; the next year $1,500, and the last year $1,500.

Q. What was the last year?—A. January 8th, 1889.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. And the first year?—A. January 15th, 1884.

Q. Those were the amounts paid by the Commission?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You are aware that Peters, Moore & Wright made some profit on their dredging at the price of 27 cents per yard, or the price they got?—A. I do not know.

Q. They never complained of having lost money?—A. If I remember right, Col. Moore did complain that the dredging did not pay. I am speaking now from the recollection of a great many years ago, and the impression left on my mind is that Col. Moore did make such a complaint.

Q. At all events, you knew they tendered again for dredging when the new dredging contract was offered?—A. I knew they tendered.

Q. You do not remember the price at which Peters, Moore & Wright tendered?—A. I believe their tender was higher than before.

Q. Is it not a fact that they did the work under the first contract at 17 cents?—A. I am sure that is not correct.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. When the 1887 contract for dredging was given it was given, I understand by the Harbour Commissioners themselves, and not by the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. Were the Commissioners unanimous in awarding the contract?—A. They were.

Q. And you did not desire to have them dump the material into the river?—
A. We did not care to have it dumped into the river.

Q. Under the contract, had they the power to dump it in the river?—A. We never agreed to it, and that is why I continually protested against its being done.

Q. The provisions of the new dredging contract, which had been carried on by the same contractors, was for an increase in price from 27 cents to 35 cents, the material not to be dumped in the river but thrown on the embankment and spread over it?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you not struck by the increase of price to 35 cents, even if it was to be put on the embankment? Was not the price too high, in your opinion?—A. We did not think so, because we were actually dredging deeper in the basin and were covering everything.

Q. Did not the contract of 1887 provide only for dredging in the inside basin?—A. I think not.

Q. Still, seeing that the new dredging contract was for dredging in 15 feet of water, would you not consider that 35 cents was too big a price, compared with the previous price?—A. We did not consider it so, seeing that we were supported by a very strong letter from Mr. Perley that the price was reasonable.

Q. You did not rely on your own judgment, but on the judgment and opinion of Mr. Perley?—A. It was really a question probably of perhaps 2 or 3 cents in the rate; everything was getting more expensive in Quebec, and we did not think it was a very great additional cost.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Could you tell us whether Mr. Boswell and Mr. Perley were paid as Engineers at the same time? The evidence shows that Mr. Boswell was appointed to the position of Chief Engineer several months before Mr. Perley resigned.—A. I knew Mr. Perley wished to resign before, and when we appointed Mr. Boswell Engineer-in-Chief I concluded that Mr. Perley was literally superseded.

Q. Do you know whether they were both paid as Chief Engineer during that time?—A. I should think not. Mr. Perley had got no money since 1889. Even as it was, we did not consider it a salary, but merely as a recognition of the labour put upon him; $1,000 or $1,200 was little or nothing of a salary for a Chief Engineer like him.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. I think you said that the Commissioners relied mostly on Mr. McGreevy because he was a man of great experience in public works?—A. I do not think I said that. I did not say we relied on Mr. McGreevy, but I said we looked upon him as having great experience in public works, and being a member of Parliament he naturally would be the medium of communicating with the Minister of Public Works.

Q. Is it not a fact that you also took into consideration his relation with Sir Hector? Was it not a fact—had it not come to be a matter of notoriety in Quebec—that his influence with Sir Hector was paramount?—A. We did not look upon it as anything that we need be afraid of in communicating with Sir Hector through Mr. McGreevy.

Q. But was it not a fact generally known among the Harbour Commissioners that Mr. McGreevy's influence with Sir Hector was paramount?—A. No; our chairman claimed that he was all-powerful in Ottawa.

By the Chairman :

Q. What is his name?—A. Mr. Valin. He laid claim that he was running you all here.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. Why was he continued in that position?—A. I voted against him from the beginning and have maintained a steady fight against him, as I believed him incapable of performing the duties properly. I thought if he was the kind of man to run you gentlemen here in Ottawa it did not say much for those in Ottawa.

Q. How comes it then that he was in that position so long?—A. The same reason put him there as led the Mackenzie Government to put an exceedingly high-toned honourable gentleman on the Board. I refer to the Honourable Mr. Chauveau. No more gentlemanly, honourable man could be found than he, but he was totally incapable of discharging the duties properly. Not only was he put there, but he was given a salary of $2,000 a year by the Liberal Government. That is really what weakened the usefulness of our Harbour Commission.

Q. How long had Mr. Valin been there?—A. About ten years; he claimed he was going to be made a Senator.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. That is interesting, but it is not answering my question. Was it not considered by the Harbour Commissioners, as well as by the general public of Quebec, that Mr. McGreevy's influence with Sir Hector Langevin was paramount—that he could blow hot and cold, and do what he liked with the Department?—A. I do not think so. My experience of Sir Hector has been that no one could blow hot and cold with him. He has always appeared to me to be better up in the details of his Department than any man I know. He was always at us in regard to the tremendous cost of the works at Quebec, whether they were going to be useful, &c. His anxiety was always, I believe, very great to keep the cost down.

Q. Do you think his anxiety was very serious all the time?—A. I do.

Q. You think he was always in earnest?—A. I do. I believe no man had ever the interest of Quebec more at heart than Sir Hector Langevin, and I have always claimed that whether these works are successful or not we owe a great deal to Sir Hector for the zeal he showed in the interest of Quebec; and I believe those works yet are going to pay; I have full confidence in it.

Q. Can you mention any single instance of the Government doing anything with regard to the Harbour Commission against Mr. McGreevy's advice?—A. Why, certainly.

Q. Do you know of any instance where Mr. McGreevy, having expressed an opinion, that opinion was not acted upon by the Ottawa Government?—A. I do distinctly, in a very important matter. I will tell you what it was. Mr. McGreevy advocated the construction of an independent South-wall, instead of making the present wall that we now have, running along St. Andrew street, with sewers at its base. He wanted an independent South-wall constructed running parallel with the Louise Embankment, which would have had the effect of making that place nothing but a great big cesspool. We contested with him on that point. We pointed out the evils that would arise if it was carried out; we came and saw Sir Hector about it, and it was abandoned. That was a most important thing, for it would have had the effect of ruining all the property along St. Andrew street.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. From your acquaintance with Sir Hector during all this time you have been on the Harbour Commission, you consider that he was very careful about details, and looking after all the matters himself, giving personal attention to them?—A. I never knew a man that seemed to be able to take in every detail as completely as Sir Hector has been in these works, and he did not seem to neglect it. He seemed to be familiar with them all.

Q. He was perfectly au fait with all the details of the contracts?—A. With everything.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. So he must have known the dredging was paid at the rate of thirty-five cents and then forty-five cents?—A. I should say he must have known.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. As a question of influence, has the Hon. Thomas McGreevy a very large influence in Quebec?—A. I don't know what he had, sir; I don't think he has to-day.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you authorize the Hon. Thomas McGreevy to communicate with Mr. Perley previous to the letting out of the dredging contract of 1887?—A. No; I don't think he did, but at the same time I allow every Commissioner perfect liberty to communicate with the Chief Engineer.

Q. Did you have at the time communication of this letter of the 26th April 1887, from Mr. McGreevy to his brother—"I have just seen Perley on dredging. I think he will report on thirty-five cents and put some conditions which will amount to nothing"?—A. You may depend he did not show us that letter; I never saw that letter before it appeared in print.

Q. Then he had never been authorized to put himself in communication with Mr. Perley?—A. No; or his brother either.

Q. You told us that the dredging work of 1887 was forced upon you?—A. Not the contract, but that the dredging was exceeded and forced upon us continually, over and above one hundred thousand—I don't know how much was expended—instead of confining it to that figure.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. By whom was it forced on you? You are not ready to accuse the Department of Public Works?—A. No; I accuse the Government members on the Commission.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. It was the Commission continued it?—A. They continued it, and I protested against it.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. The Commission passed resolutions against it?—A. Yes; two or three times, and then it went on. It was the only thing that disturbed me—that dredging contract—and I stated it frankly.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. You stated when the hundred thousand had been exceeded it should be stopped?—A. I thought so repeatedly. When I went away and came back I found a new dredging contract.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. After the hundred thousand dollar contract was exhausted, just about that time a notice was given by the Engineers to the Commissioners that the appropriation was about run out?—A. I think it is likely.

Q. After that is it not the case that the Commissioners themselves visited the works, and themselves ordered the continuation of the dredging?—A. I think it is quite likely.

Q. Without the intervention of the Engineers?—A. I think it is quite likely.

Q. And is it not the case that this dredging so ordered was not paid by the certificate of the Engineer, but paid directly by the Commission, and was only included in the estimate afterwards by the Commission?—A. I think it is quite likely that certain corners were dredged off afterwards to make certain lones; that they had dredged into places, and it was necessary to clean up once or twice. I remember we were called upon to sanction something of the kind.

Q. I mean, when the question of the continuation of the dredging came up the Commissioners visited the works themselves, and gave a direct order themselves that the dredging was to go on, without the intervention of the Engineers?—A. I know, and I stated that the Commissioners repeatedly gave orders for more dredging, and I always protested against it.

Q. I understand from the wording of the resolution in the Minute-book produced, your objection was principally to the dumping in the river—that you had previously objected to the ballast being dumped into the river by the ships, or the dredging material being dumped there?—A. Certainly.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. That is not what the resolution says?—A. It is stated distinctly we should not exceed $100,000.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. During the first season?—A. Yes.

Q. That part of the contract is in these words: "And shall place and level the dredged materials on the Louise Embankment, &c., the balance to be dumped in the river?"—A. That was the $100,000 contract.

Q. At page 354 of Minute-book 6, I direct your attention to this (reads minute permitting the contractors to dump in the river until further notice).—A. That was done while I was away.

Q. Is it not a fact that it was from a commercial standpoint you objected to the river being filled up?—A. That was my strong objection, that no dumping should be allowed in the river. As long as we could utilize the material I did not mean to have it dumped into the river. It was pushing a thing that would have kept perfectly well.

Q. There was a question here with reference to the two prices that were paid for the filling of the Cross-wall. Is it not a fact that the Cross-wall contract of 1883 provided a price for the filling at forty-five cents a yard, entirely independent of the dredging?—A. I claim that the Cross-wall contract was taken out of our hands completely.

Q. As a matter of fact, that was what occurred?—A. Yes.

Q. It did not provide for the dredging; and was the price tendered for, and accepted for the filling of the Cross-wall?—A. Yes.

Q. Subsequently, in 1887, there was another contract let for dredging?—A. It was a separate contract.

Q. It was simply an accident that these two men happened to be the same contractors for different parts of the work.—A. If we had anything to do with the contract for the Cross-wall we should have provided that the dredged material would have been dumped in there the same as the dumping had been done in the Louise Embankment. There was dredging going on all the time in the inner basin. It should have been provided that the dredged material out of the basin should have been used to fill up the Cross-wall. In accepting the tender I would have made the provision that that filling up should have been made with the material out of the inner basin. It is quite easy though that anyone might make a mistake and overlook a thing of that kind.

Q. With reference to the dismissal of these Engineers, there had been a great deal of dissatisfaction between the previous contractors, Peters, Moore, & Wright, and the Engineers?—A. There was a very stupid error in the contract of Kinipple & Morris.

Q. But is it not a fact that in the carrying out of the work there was a great deal of friction and irritation on the part of the contractors, Peters, Moore & Wright, against the Chief Engineer?—A. I do not know that there was any more than usual between Engineers and contractors.

Q. There had been other errors beside this clerical error in the Peters, Moore & Wright contract?—A. Not of any moment.

Q. Was there not a material change in the crib work of the Louise Embankment, which was claimed to be an error of the Engineers?—A. There were changes made. At first, rubble was the backing of the Louise Embankment. It was found that the ice would carry off that rubble, and instead of that we put in wood facing, which increased the cost; but I believe that generally the decision Kinipple & Morris came to as to the site of the Graving Dock, for instance, has been very beneficial to the country at large. If a certain portion of the Commission had carried out their idea of attempting to put the Graving Dock in the St. Charles River, I question whether it would have been finished to-day. The pressure was very great, and we got into very great disfavour by urging the Point Lévis site. Kinipple & Morris certainly deserve that credit, if we pitched into them afterwards for inattention.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. You got into great disfavour with whom?—A. The Quebec people generally. They did not like the Quebec Graving Dock being placed at Point Lévis.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You said the Resident Engineer at that time had kept back from you the double mistake?—A. Yes.

Q. That was Mr. Pilkington?—A. Yes.

Mr. JOSEPH LACHANCE sworn.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Did you do anything with reference to the election of 1887?—A. Yes, sir; I went up to Three Rivers.

Q. It is suggested by evidence that you had taken a large sum of money down there; what do you say to that?—A. Not any money, except some of my own.

Q. Did you take any large sum? Did you take $5,000 down there?—A. That is too much for me.

Q. To be more specific, three or four days before polling day, in the elections of February, 1887, it is said that you went up to Three Rivers and that you had $5,000 with you for the purposes of the election. Is that true?—A. No, sir.

Q. It is said that the money came from the Connollys? Did you ever get any money from the Connollys for election purposes?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you get it either directly or indirectly from a third party?—A. Not a cent from anybody.

Q. Did Mr. Connolly ask you to take any money to Three Rivers?—A. No, sir.

Q. And you never did?—A. No.

Q. You just went down there?—A. I went up there and voted and helped my friends. I have a right to vote up there.

Q. And you did vote?—A. I did vote.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you get any such money from Laforce Langevin?—A. No, sir. I did not see Laforce Langevin before I went up to Three Rivers.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. There is no other man bearing the same name as you do in Quebec?—A. There are six or seven Joe Lachances in Quebec—maybe more.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. What position do you hold in Quebec?—A. I am Superintendent of the Harbour works.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Is there any other Joe Lachance that has a vote in Three Rivers?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. You are the Three Rivers Joe?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You say you went there to vote?—A. I did.

Q. How long before polling day did you go there?—A. I do not remember exactly, but I think it was probably 8 or 9 days.

Q. How far is Three Rivers from Quebec?—A. About 77 miles.

Q. Did you go walking?—A. No; I went by rail.

Q. In order to be there on polling day, you went there seven or eight days before—A. I did, so that I would not make no mistake.

Q. Being there eight days before polling day, did you talk about politics?—A. I did. I went to help my friends and help the party.

Q. You took part in the elections?—A. I went to see all my friends; to do all that I could do.

Q. Then you were not exactly correct when you said you went there for the purpose of voting? You went there to vote?—A. I did, and did vote.

Q. Was that the only object that took you there? Had you any other purpose in going there?—A. I went there as I would go anywhere else, because that used to be my home.

Q. Tell me whether your object was only to vote or to see your family?—A. I went up there to work for the elections on my own hook.

Q. So you did not go only to vote; you went for the purpose of working in the elections?—A. I did.

Q. On your own hook?—A. I did.

Q. And spending your own money?—A. I did.

Q. Did you go to Three Rivers only the once, or did you come back to Quebec?—A. I did come back to Quebec on the Sunday morning and returned to Three Rivers in the afternoon.

Q. The same Sunday afternoon?—A. Yes.

Q. What brought you to Quebec?—A. Family business, and to see my lady; that is all.

Q. And coming to see your lady, you went back the same evening?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you so much needed in Three Rivers that you could not stay with your lady until next morning?—A. Well, I had had enough.

Q. Had your lady had enough?—A. Probably more than she should have.

Q. You say you went there on a Sunday?—A. No, sir; I went down to Quebec on a Sunday morning and back on a Sunday afternoon.

Q. On the same day in the afternoon?—A. Yes.

Q. Was it the Sunday preceding polling day?—A. Yes; before the poll day.

Q. The polling day was on Tuesday?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you see any body else but your wife in Quebec?—A. I did.

Q. Did you see Nicholas Connolly?—A. No.

Q. Did you see Laforce Langevin?—A. No.

Q. You did not give him any news about his father's election?—A. No.

Q. You did not give any news about the election to any body?—A. Yes, may be to some of my friends at the station or to some one else during the afternoon.

Q. You had no special message, anyhow?—A. No.

Q. You went to Quebec on your own hook, as you say?—A. I did.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. Did you bring any letter from Quebec to Three Rivers?—A. No.

Q. Neither on the first trip or the second?—A. No.

Q. No message of any kind?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. When you first went up to Three Rivers you took no parcel with you at all; you had been entrusted with no message at all?—A. No.

Q. You had not been instructed to see anybody there at all?—A. No.

Q. No one from the committee in Quebec gave you instructions to see anybody in Three Rivers?—A. There may have been. Probably there was something spoken of like that, but nothing particular.

Q. Did you tell anybody that you were going to Three Rivers?—A. I told lots.

Q. What did you tell them you were going for?—A. I told them I was going to help Sir Hector.

Q. To whom did you make such a statement—to whom did you speak about that?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. Did you tell Laforce Langevin?—A. Oh, well, Laforce Langevin must have known it, but no more than any other.

Q. Had you not occasion to see him often?—A. We were in the same house together—in the same building.

Q. Your offices were in the same building?—A. Next door.

Q. Have you any idea that he knew you were leaving for Three Rivers?—A. I do not know.

Q. Did you give him any message for his father?—A. I do not think he knew the day I left to go to Three Rivers.

Q. You did not tell him you were going?—A. I do not remember. Probably I did; probably not.

Q. Have you seen him since you were in Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. Where did you see him?—A. Last night at the cars.

Q. He met you at the station?—A. I do not know whether he met me, but I saw him there.

Q. You met him on the platform?—A. I came up on the train and saw him at the station.

Q. You saw Laforce Langevin on the platform at the station?—A. Either I met him or he met me.

Q. You found him there, anyhow?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you speak to him?—A. Yes; I spoke to him; I came to the hotel with him and he left me there.

Q. Did you know what he was doing at the station?—A. No.

Q. He did not tell you what he was doing there?—A. No.

Q. What was the time?—A. About half-past twelve, I think.

Q. He was taking the fresh air there?—A. Likely enough.

Q. Was it raining?—A. No.

Q. Meeting him there, you had not the curiosity to ask him what he was doing there?—A. I had not.

Q. You drove with him to the hotel?—A. I did, because he asked me to get in with him; I was going to take a buss up to the hotel. He asked me to get in with him, and we went to the hotel and he left me there.

Q. It was last night?—A. This morning at half-past twelve.

Q. He drove you to your hotel?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any conversation about this case?—A. No.

Q. Did he tell you he had been here as a witness?—A. He told me that he gave evidence here, but he did not tell me what he said.

Q. He did not tell you what he had been asked?—A. No.

Q. Did he tell you his name had been mentioned in the evidence?—A. He did not tell me, because I had seen it in the paper.

Q. And having seen it in the paper, you did not ask him any further particulars on the way from the station?—A. No.

Q. You did not want to talk to him?—A. No.

Q. You avoided the subject? I don't say you were wrong in talking, but I want to know whether you talked to him about the questions he had been asked?—A. I told you I did not.

Q. There was no reference at all?—A. No.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, FRIDAY, 31st July, 1891.

The Committee met at 10.30 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. H. F. PERLEY re-called.

By the Chairman:

Q. You produce the books asked for. Will you leave them at the disposal of the Committee—do they belong to the Department or to you?—A. They are both mine. This book (Exhibit "S14") contains letters in connection with the Quebec Harbour works.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Is that your letter-book as Chief Engineer?—A. As Chief Engineer of the Quebec Harbour works. It contains copies of my reports, but I might explain there are letters I have written that were press-copied in a book left in the office at Quebec. I kept this book here, so that when I wrote letters in Ottawa I could have a chance of copying them. This is my own private letter book—my own private property. (Book filed as Exhibit “T14.”)

By the Chairman :

Q. Does it contain matters personal to yourself?—A. Nothing except my own personal letters ; nothing connected with any work. I have been asked to produce the letter-book containing all letters written by me during the month of September, 1886. That book contains it. I was also required to produce diaries and private letter books for the inspection and examination of the Sub-Committee. I have no diaries, and I never kept one. My private letter book is here, showing what I wrote in November, 1886.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you keep copies of letters you sent to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I think so.

Q. Have you produced copies of those letters?—A. They ought to be either in the book produced or in the book at Quebec.

Q. This book refers to the Quebec Harbour works?—A. Yes ; to the Quebec Harbour works.

Q. I want to call your attention to the fact that you may have written letters about British Columbia Dock, and we have not copies of those letters here. Have you got copies of those letters?—A. All the letters I have written as Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department would be on file or in the press-book in the Department.

Q. Will you kindly look for this book?—A. I am forbidden to.

Q. Where would be the letters that you have received?—A. They would be in the Department of Public Works.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. What clerk in the Public Works Department if summoned here would be able to produce them?—A. Mr. Lightfoot.

Q. If we summoned him, would he know what letters there were, and where to find them?—A. You had better summon him through Mr. Gobeil, because all papers of that kind are supposed to be under the control of the Deputy Minister. Whatever there is, would be there on file.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. We find in a diary a memorandum of a dredging calculation by the witness, Robert McGreevy, apparently showing what the position of things was in June or July, 1885. We find these words “ Added by Boyd 160,000 yards.” There is just all the information we have upon it. Mr. McGreevy upon being asked as to that “ added by Boyd ” says he got the information from some report of yours. His words hardly bear that construction, but he speaks very specifically of this having come from some report of yours. That report for 1885 cannot be found in the papers, but we find an estimate of Mr. Boyd’s, showing 100,000 required for the dredging at that particular time. Can you give any evidence on that point?—A. I cannot ; I know nothing of it.

Q. Did you make a report in 1885?—A. I have no knowledge of making any report in 1885. I looked over my letter book after reading that statement in the newspapers, and I cannot find a copy in my letter book of any report to the Commissioners. I have no recollection of making it, but the press-book which was left in the office at Quebec ought to show if I made a report. As I stated, I had two press-books, one that I kept in Quebec, and if I made a report it would be to the Harbour Commissioners of Quebec, and that should have been produced.

Q. That would be in the Harbour Commissioners' papers?—A. It should be amongst the Harbour Commissioners' papers.

Q. Do you remember any occasion calling for a report being made by you in the early part of the season of 1885, in which an estimate of 160,000 yards, or anything like that, would be referred to?—A. No.

By Mr. German :

Q. The practice in your Department has always been, I believe, prior to asking for tenders for public works, to make an estimate of the quantities and an estimate of the cost of the particular work to be tendered for?—A. Yes.

Q. There was such an estimate made of the quantities in the Cross-wall?—A. There was.

Q. Where is that estimate? It has never been produced here?—A. Do you mean how the quantities were arrived at?

Q. The estimate of the quantities made by you, or some person under you, prior to the tenders being called for?—A. The only thing that I know of with reference to the quantities are those that are entered on the schedule that has been laid before the Committee.

Q. Was there not an estimate made of the quantities of the Cross-wall made by you, or some one in the Department, prior to the tenders being called for?—A. No; not to my knowledge.

Q. In the Blue-Book (Exhibit "N5") there is a letter from you in which you say that Gallagher's tender appears to be lower than the work could actually be done for. It appears at page 20. Will you please read it?—A. This is a memorandum that I prepared on the 13th May, 1890: "I advise that Mr. Gallagher be permitted to withdraw his tender in accordance with his request, and also because I believed that the amount of that tender was far below that for which the works could be executed." You have to go back to a previous letter to get the connection.

Q. You say there that Gallagher's tender was far below that for which the work could be done. You must have had some basis on which to make your calculation?—A. I did not make any calculations in 1890.

Q. But you make this statement in 1890?—A. Yes.

Q. You say that your opinion at that time was that Gallagher's tender was far below what the work could actually be done for?—A. My opinion at that time was based on what I knew in 1883.

Q. What you knew in 1883?—A. What I knew in 1883 came from the officer who made up the quantities and who extended the tenders.

Q. But this is put in as a reason why the Gallagher tender should not be accepted. The report by you to the Minister was that the Gallagher tender was far below what the work could be done for?—A. This has nothing to do with the acceptance of the tender. This is a memorandum I wrote in May, 1890. The tenders were received in 1883, and were adjudicated upon then.

Q. Does not that statement show why one of the tenders was rejected?—A. No.

Q. So that the Minister of Public Works would not have that report before him?—A. Will you let me see the report.

Q. Do you remember what the report is?—A. I would rather see it.

Q. You say, then, there never was an estimate made of the quantities in the Cross-wall prior to the tenders being asked for?—A. No. Prior to the tenders being opened there was an estimate.

Q. Where is that estimate?—A. That I do not know.

Q. Is it not usual to keep that?—A. Those are matters of calculation that are kept sometimes, and sometimes they are not kept. I explained to the Sub-Committee that I had nothing to do with the getting up of the plans of the Cross-wall, taking out the quantities of the work to be done or of extending the tenders; that the first

I saw of it was when they brought to me the schedule sheet prepared by Mr. Boyd, who drew my attention to the errors which resulted in the letters being written. That is all I know about it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. The plans were certainly prepared under your directions?—A. They were generally prepared, like all plans are, under my direction; but I did not go and stand over them as they were being prepared.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. In this memorandum, which appears on page 20 of the Blue Book (Exhibit "N5") you give the different tenders and the different amounts—Gallagher, Larkin, Connolly & Co., Beaucage, Peters & Moore, and J. & A. Samson. After applying the quantities to the amounts they tendered for, the totals are given. Then you go on to say, "and I explained my course with respect to the 'errors' and attached copies of letters sent and returned on the subject. I advised that Mr. Gallagher be permitted to withdraw his tender in accordance with his request, and also because I believed that the amount of that tender was far below that for which the works could be executed." Now, if you believed that at the time the tenders were opened, you must have had some data on which to form the belief?—A. I would like to see what I wrote.

Q. This is what you wrote?—A. I wrote that in 1890; but I want to see what is written in 1883.

Q. This says you then believe that Gallagher's tender was far below what the work could be done for. If you believed that you must surely have had some data for it? I would like to have that data?—A. I have not got it.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. What report is that which you are speaking of?—A. The report I made in May, 1883.

Q. In regard to the Cross-wall?—A. On these particular tenders.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Would that report show all the data on which you advised the Department in 1883?—A. Yes; it does.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. I want to know how these things occur. First of all, you prepared the plan in the Department of Public Works for the Cross-wall?—A. Yes.

Q. Upon those plans you prepared the schedules for the tenders?—A. Yes.

Q. Those tenders were given at Quebec?—A. They were received at Quebec.

Q. And opened at Quebec?—A. And opened at Quebec.

Q. And sent from Quebec, without being touched, to the Ottawa Department?—A. They were sent to the Department at Ottawa.

Q. Without being touched?—A. That I do not know.

Q. Were they figured up—were the quantities applied to the tenders at Quebec or Ottawa?—A. At Ottawa.

Q. By whom?—A. By Mr. Boyd.

Q. You took no share in that?—A. Not a share.

Q. And you based your report to the Minister on the figures of Mr. Boyd?—A. I did.

Q. On nothing else?—A. On nothing else.

Q. You never verified them yourself?—A. I never verify anything.

By Mr. German :

Q. I see in your report to the Minister (Exhibit "Y3") you say, speaking of Gallagher's tender. "This withdrawal I beg leave to recommend, because I believe that the amount of his tender is far below that for which the works can be executed." That was on the 23rd of May. What data did you have on which to form that opinion?—A. The data I would have would be the amount as figured up in the schedule sheet—the total amount.

Q. Had you not taken any trouble to acquaint yourself with the fact as to whether or not that schedule sheet was right?—A. No; I did not.

Q. You did not take out the quantities?—A. It was not my business.

Q. I thought it was your duty to see which tender was actually the lowest?—A. The whole of this matter was put in the hands of a capable man, who prepared the plans, who took out the quantities and to whom the tenders were given to prepare that sheet. He prepared it.

Q. You saw all the tenders?—A. I do not know that I ever saw them.

Q. They were laid before the Minister?—A. Yes.

Q. And before being laid before the Minister they would go through your hands?—A. No, sir.

Q. I think you stated in your evidence that the tenders were open before you and pinned together with the cheque and all laid before the Minister?—A. Not by me. The tenders never came before me and I never opened them.

Q. The general practice was that the tenders when received, the envelope would be opened and the letter, cheque and tender would be all pinned together?—A. That is another thing. That is as regards tenders received by the Department; but in this case the tenders were not received by the Department. This work was not advertised by the Department but by the Quebec Harbour Commission, and the tenders were received by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners and opened by them and sent to the Department.

Q. Then you say your only data was this schedule of prices?—A. That is all.

Q. There was no estimate prior to that of the quantity?—A. None prior to that.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Does that paper show that Gallagher's tender was the lowest on the face of it?—A. It does.

Q. And you saw that?—A. I did.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. There is the paper, and there is Gallagher's tender I see made up. It is lower than the others, according to the summing up, whether right or wrong. Was that all the evidence you had that it was too low to do the work?—A. That is all the evidence.

Q. Can you show us where it was too low?—A. I cannot.

Q. It is so extraordinary. Was it not possible that it might be the lowest and still not too low?—A. I just took the figures as they came literally. It is none of my business to discuss whether this value is right or this value wrong.

Q. You say this is all the information you had to report to the Minister that you thought Gallagher was taking the work too low?—A. That is all.

Q. What justified you? The fact that they were lower than anybody else? What did you compare their total amount with in your own mind?—A. That I cannot tell you, for I do not remember.

Q. You had something then to compare it with?—A. If I had, it was a comparison prepared by Mr. Boyd. I must have had something.

Q. You could not possibly, from looking at that, say it was too low?—A. No; not by looking at the addition; but if I had anything it must have come to me from Mr. Boyd, but what it was I do not know.

Q. You do not know where it is?—A. No.

Q. You do not remember anything about it?—A. No; I do not, honestly.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Might it be a conversation with Mr. Boyd?—A. It might be. There is nothing on record.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. All these quantities must have been moneyed out to see who was the lowest?—A. Yes ; they were.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. To express your opinion to the Minister on whether the tender should be accepted, you must have had some reason for believing the tender to be far below what the work could be executed for. You would not have formed that opinion on a mere desultory conversation, where $100,000 of loss to the country was involved?—A. I know nothing about it. I know nothing about this matter. I took no more interest in it than I did in any of the other works generally—that is, no special interest in it. It became to us a pure matter of detail in the Department, and like all other works that are left to assistants, they do the work and I have to bear the responsibility.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Does this throw any light on your judgment at that time (exhibiting the schedule). We take the price of units, comparing Gallagher's with theirs. Did you know the price that these works were capable of being done for?—A. I have been asked for this comparison of units this morning by Mr. Jennings. I made no comparison of units. It is not the custom of the Department nor the habit to make a comparison of units. All tenders are received for what they bear on the face, and whether they are one above or one below another, I do—

(At this moment the witness was seized with a fainting attack, and it was found impossible to continue his examination.)

Mr. SIMON PETERS recalled.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Are you aware that a certain testimonial was subscribed for in favour of Sir Hector Langevin?—A. Yes. I received a paper from Mr. Carrière, at Ottawa. Knowing that I was a friend of Sir Hector's he sent me a list to be filled of subscribers, and after receiving the list I saw the late Senator Ross, knowing that he was a wealthy man, and I was anxious to get him to head the list. He said he would subscribe, but a few days after he told me: "This matter is put off; Mr. McGreevy told me this matter was put off." So hearing that, I took no further steps, and I did not subscribe.

Q. When was that?—A. I don't remember the date.

Q. Are you aware that in June, 1882, tenders were called by the Harbour Commissioners at Quebec for dredging?—A. Yes ; I remember.

Q. Will you look at pages 9 and 10 of the Blue Book, (Exhibit "N5") and say whether this tender is referred to?—A. Yes ; that is the tender.

Q. It is dated 22nd June, 1882. Did you intend to put in a tender?—A. No ; I had no dredging plant of my own, so I did not put in any.

Q. Your partner did, I believe?—A. My colleague, Mr. Moore.

Q. Did you about that date, receive a letter from Sir Hector Langevin, and is this the letter you received?—A. If it is marked "private" on the envelope I decline to speak on this letter.

The CHAIRMAN.—You are obliged to say.

- Q. It is not marked private.—A. Yes ; I received that letter.
 Q. How is it dated?—A. It is dated 17th June, 1882.
 Q. Addressed to you?—A. Yes, sir.
 Q. Will you read it?—A. It is as follows :

(Exhibit "U14.")

" OFFICE OF THE MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS,
 " QUEBEC, 17th June, 1882.

" MY DEAR MR. PETERS,

" You promised to send me something about the elections. Will you kindly do so to-day ?

" Yours truly,
 " HECTOR L. LANGEVIN.

" S. PETERS, Esq., Quebec."

Q. It refers to a promise you have made. What was the promise?—A. A promise to give something towards the elections.

Q. And did you comply with the request contained in that letter?—A. Yes ; I presented Sir Hector with $1,000—$400 of my own money and $600 of my colleagues, Moore & Wright.

Q. To whom did you send that cheque?—A. It was not a cheque, but money ; I gave it to Sir Hector himself at his house.

Q. Had you any correspondence with Sir Hector also in 1883 in connection with the Cross-wall tenders?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you read this letter, and state by whom it is signed and to whom addressed?—A. It reads :

(Exhibit "V14.")

" OTTAWA, 7th May, 1883.

" MY DEAR MR. PETERS.—Your letter of the 26th reached me some days ago, but it was impossible for me to answer you before to-day. I cannot fix a day to have an interview with you. If you want to see me during the Session you must run your chance, inasmuch as I cannot foresee, from day to day, whether I shall be free the following day or not.

" Yours very truly,
 " HECTOR L. LANGEVIN.

" SIMON PETERS, Esq."

Q. Did you answer or was this letter of the 7th May followed by a letter from you?—A. It is followed by a letter from me, yes.

Q. Is this a copy of the letter you wrote?—A. Yes. It reads as follows :

(Exhibit "W14.")

" QUEBEC, 9th May, 1883.

" MY DEAR SIR HECTOR.—I am this moment in receipt of yours of the 7th instant, will have to do as you say, run my chance.

" I would now ask your favourable consideration of my tender for Cross-wall, we are the only parties having all the plant required for immediate carrying out of this work. The experience acquired in constructing the Louise Embankment fits us in a special manner for the successful performance of this contract ; besides, Colonel Moore, with whom I am associated, has had much experience in the building of coffer dams which would be of great advantage in the present work.

" Trusting that it will be in your power to award me the above contract, as being a continuation of the work I commenced, including the ballast wharf in 1864.

" Believe me, dear Sir Hector,
 " Yours faithfully,

" SIMON PETERS.

" Sir HECTOR L. LANGEVIN,
 " Minister of Public Works."

Q. When you received an invitation to subscribe to the Langevin Testimonial Fund, were you known in Quebec as a contractor?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. Were you under contract with the Government at that time?—A. I had just finished the harbour works.

Q. When did you finish, in 1882?—A. 1882, yes; we were contracting at that time, in 1881.

Q. But were you also a public contractor in June, 1882?—A. Yes; we had finished our contract in 1882.

Q. But your accounts were not settled with the Government?—A. No; nor yet settled.

Q. When I say against the Government, I mean the Harbour Commission?—A. Yes; the Harbour Commission of Quebec.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. And that is in the shape of a suit now standing for judgment in the Supreme Court of Canada?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. What was the amount of your claim?—A. The amount of our claim was for $170,000.

Q. What was the date, Mr. Peters, as nearly as you can recollect that you subscribed?—A. I did not subscribe.

Q. What was the date you were asked to subscribe?—A. I cannot give the precise date.

Q. The list of subscribers to the testimonial fund runs from 1880 to 1883—can you give me the year you were asked to subscribe?—A. About 1880. (List of subscribers filed as Exhibit "Y14.")

Q. Who was the person who asked you to subscribe?—A. Mr. Carrière; he was a Civil Service employé.

Q. In the employ of the Public Works Department?—A. I could not say.

Q. Did he come to you personally, or did he write?—A. He wrote to me enclosing one of the circulars.

Q. From what Department did he write?—A. I do not remember.

Q. What Department is he in?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Do you know his first name?—A. No.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. You do not know which Mr. Carrière it was?—A. No.

Q. The letter was from Ottawa?—A. Yes.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you not know that Mr. Carrière was the Manager of the Banque Nationale at that time or about that time?—A. I did not know that.

---

Mr. CHARLES MCGREEVY SWORN.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You are a son of Robert McGreevy who has been here as witness?—A. I am.

Q. What is your occupation?—A. I have none now.

Q. Were you employed in the Harbour works?—A. Yes.

Q. In what capacity?—A. As Assistant Engineer.

Q. Have you any personal knowledge of what took place when the tenders for the Cross-wall were prepared first?—A. I was not with the Harbour Commission then.

Q. Have you any personal knowledge of how they were prepared; were you connected with the preparation of some of those tenders?—A. I was present when they were finally made up.

Q. How many; whose tenders?—A. The three tenders—Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s, Gallagher's, and Beaucage's.

Q. Where was it?—A. In my father's office.

Q. Where?—A. Dalhousie street, Quebec.

Q. Where is that office—on the ground floor?—A. On the ground floor.

Q. Near Mr. Thomas McGreevy's office?—A. Underneath.

Q. Is there a private communication between the two offices?—A. Not now, I think, but there was then.

Q. Without being obliged to go outside?—A. Yes.

Q. What kind of communication was there between the two offices?—A. A trap door in the floor and a staircase.

Q. Did you work at some of those tenders yourself?—A. No.

Q. Who were working at them?—A. There were present at that time, Mr. Nicholas Connolly, Mr. Larkin, I think, my father, Mr. Murphy and myself. That is all I remember: there may be more.

Q. You had nothing to do with the figuring of those tenders?—A. No, but when they were finally figured out by the different parties there I took them and copied them all on one sheet.

Q. After they were prepared?—A. After they were prepared.

Q. You copied the three of them on one sheet?—A. Yes; on one statement.

Q. Showing the three prices?—A. No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Q. Do you know where that copy is which you say you made from that tender?—A. Mr. Tarte has got it.

Mr. TARTE.—I gave it back to you.

WITNESS.—No, sir, I saw it the other day.

Mr. GEOFFRION.—I have it. I apologize to the Committee. Is this the paper?

WITNESS.—That is it. The first and second sheets. (Papers filed as Exhibit "Z14.")

Mr. AMYOT.—Is it all in your handwriting?

WITNESS.—All in my handwriting.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. You swear that this was then a correct copy of the tenders as they then read?—A. It was made at the time. After the three were prepared I copied them down taken from the originals.

Q. Have you any knowledge about the South-wall tenders also?—A. How do you mean?

Q. Had you anything to do with the preparation of those tenders?—A. No.

Q. Did you see the tenders at any time?—A. I did.

Q. When and where?—A. On the afternoon of the day they went in I was told to call round at my uncle's house, Thomas McGreevy, between half-past 7 and 8 that night.

Q. Who asked you to go there?—A. Either Mr. Murphy or my father; I could not say which. I think it was Mr. Murphy.

Q. Did you go to your uncle's, as asked?—A. I did.

Q. To his private house?—A. To his private house, on the Esplanade.

Q. Whom did you meet there?—A. I saw my uncle there and Mr. O. E. Murphy.

Q. Was your father there?—A. No; he had gone before I got there.

Q. You knew he had been there before you?—A. Yes.

Q. But you did not meet your father there?—A. No.

Q. You found Mr. Murphy and your uncle Thomas?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you do when you arrived at your uncle's?—A. He said he wanted me to fetch the tenders he had there. He took them and put them in an envelope and asked me to give them to Mr. Perley at the St. Louis Hotel.

- Q. You saw him take the tenders and put them in an envelope?—A. Yes.
- Q. How many were there?—A. I think there were four. I did not count them, but I know there was more than one.
- Q. More than one document?—A. Yes.
- Q. Did he close the envelope?—A. He did.
- Q. And he asked you to take it to Mr. Perley?—A. Yes; at the St. Louis Hotel.
- Q. Did you take it the same evening?—A. I took it right off.
- Q. And gave it to Mr. Perley?—A. Immediately.
- Q. You saw Mr. Perley there?—A. I did. I handed it to Mr. Perley. I told him, "These are the papers my uncle gave me to give to you." He said "all right," and put them in his pocket.
- Q. You stated that you worked as Assistant Engineer?—A. Yes.
- Q. Can you give us an exact idea of the distance to the dumping spot in the river from the works, from the Wet dock, or—?—A. The Tidal harbour and Wet basin?
- Q. To the dumping spot in the river?—A. From the inside basin it is about a mile from the centre of it out to the dumping ground.
- Q. Did they change the spot or was it generally about the same spot?—A. I think it was generally about the same spot. I think there was no change. It was pointed out by the late Mr. Gourdeau, the Harbour Master. It was in a very deep spot this side of the Graving Dock, between the two churches.
- Q. Is that a simple estimate of the distance, or did you measure it?—A. I measured it on the plan of the Harbour Commissioners made from a report of Commander Maxwell in 1877. (Plan filed as Exhibit "A15.") The dumping ground is where the water is 189 or 190 feet deep.
- Q. Will you measure it?—A. There is no particular spot between a few hundred feet.
- Q. On the scale of this plan give us the distance from the centre of the basin?—A. (After making a measurement.) About one mile.
- Q. What is the length of the South-wall?—A. I do not know exactly, but I think it is between 3,500 and 4,000 feet. I make it 3,500 feet on the scale. That is including the wooden sewer and stone sewer and wood piling at the gap.
- Q. Do you know what part of that sewer was raised?—A. I know it from seeing it.
- Q. Do you know what was the length of the raising?—A. I know it was raised, and I think it runs the whole way up to Ramsey street. I know it is a good distance. It must run a good distance. Boswell will be able to tell you.
- Q. Do you know whether Mr. Peters had another dumping ground?—A. Except what I heard him say about the ballast ground. The ballast ground was supposed to be up two and a-half or three miles. I do not think there was any particular spot, for I have seen ships dumping fully three-quarters of a mile different. I know it is opposite Wolfe's Cove.
- Q. Did you make any soundings in the Wet dock?—A. Yes, frequently in the wet basin and Tidal harbour, both.
- Q. Did you make reports of your soundings?—A. I did.
- Q. Did you see the map that was exhibited by Mr. Boswell?—A. Yes.
- Q. Was that prepared upon the soundings made by you chiefly?—A. It was me who put the soundings on.
- Q. Were you assisted by anybody in that work?—A. Sometimes I was assisted by the Inspector, John Dick.
- Q. Did Mr. Boswell do any of the soundings with you?—A. Now and then he did. In the winter time and the fall he did.
- Q. But this part of the work was done by you?—A. Yes. That is, mostly after 1886, after Mr. Boyd died. Then Mr. Boswell was in charge.
- Q. Is the depth uniform in the Wet dock?—A. No.
- Q. Did you find any depth below 15 feet?—A. Yes, especially around here (pointing to the chart.)

Q. Are you in a position to swear to the correctness of the figures reported to Mr. Boswell?—A. Yes.

Q. Whilst you were working on these works were you connected with the dredging?—A. According to my appointment, I was not.

Q. Had you anything to do with it?—A. Yes, I used to take the reports from the Inspectors.

Q. Where did you take these reports?—A. They would leave their books in the office.

Q. Would you transfer them to the books or make a statement from them?—A. I would take them and prepare a statement from their books and make a report to Mr. Boswell.

Q. These Inspectors were not under your orders?—A. Not immediately. They were under Mr. Boswell. I was under him. He used to give orders to the Inspectors without asking me.

Q. Were you instructed to give orders to the Inspectors? Did you superintend them?—A. I had no written instruction to that effect.

Q. Their duty was to go on the dredge and remain until the work would stop?—A. They were to go on the dredge and see how much was dredged and see where it was put and make a note of it in the book.

Q. In 1887, at the time of the new dredging contract, do you know whether the exit from the Wet dock was more difficult from the river than in previous years?—A. No, it was not.

Q. Had they to pass by what is marked as the gate entrance or was there another entrance left?—A. There was another entrance left at Pointe-à-Carcy Wharf—about 180 to 200 feet wide. A crib was sunk there and a place on it to show by a light at night the position of the crib.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you repeat your answer and point out on the map as it is there, where the opening was left by which they could pass whilst the gate was being constructed whilst the caisson was there?—A. It is between the pencil lines marked "A" and "B."

Q. Now, did you ever write any letters in the name of your uncle, Thomas McGreevy, and sign his name to those letters?—A. I wrote letters for Thomas McGreevy, but he always signed them. I only recollect writing one, and that letter he signed.

Q. You only recollect having written one letter for him, and that letter he signed?—A. Yes; that was a letter I think to the Honourable Henry Starnes.

Q. He generally employed a secretary when he was writing to strangers, I suppose?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever write for him a letter to Mr. Perley?—A. No; I don't think I did.

Q. And if you did would you have signed his name?—A. No.

Q. You are sure as to that?—A. No; I did not sign his name. If I signed his name I put "per C. McG." showing I was authorized to sign it.

Cross-examined by Mr. Osler :

Q. When did you go into the Harbour Commission?—A. In January, 1884.

Q. Were you an engineer by profession?—A. I have been studying. I was on the North Shore Railway from 1878 to 1880. I was on Public Works with Mr. Guerin from 1881 to 1882.

Q. Are you still in the employ of the Harbour Commission?—A. I am not.

Q. When did your relations with them cease?—A. On the 1st August, 1890.

Q. There being nothing for you to do?—A. I don't know whether there was anything to do or not.

Q. But you ceased to be with them?—A. Well, Laforce Langevin and I both got orders we were no longer required, as there was nothing to do.

Q. And what have you been doing since?—A. Generally nothing.

Q. It was the tenders for the Cross-wall that you took the copies from?—A. The tenders for the Cross-wall.

Q. And it was the tenders for the Cross-wall that you had in your possession and delivered to Mr. Perley?—A. Yes.

Q. Was anything done at the meeting, with those tenders for the South-wall?—A. I believe they were opened.

Q. Opened at the meeting that you have spoken of?—A. Well, they were opened when I got there; at least, they were not opened; they were not in the envelope.

Q. There was McCarron's, and Michael Connolly's, and Owen Murphy's and John Gallagher's. Now, when was that figure in Mr. Murphy's tender altered?—A. That is more than I can say.

Q. Was it altered at that meeting?—A. I could not say; I was not there.

Q. You were at the meeting, were you not, when the tenders were opened.—A. I was not.

Q. I mean, when they opened the tenders—the four?—A. They were not opened, because they were folded up ready for me to take away.

Q. Murphy was there, was he?—A. He was.

Q. And they were opened when you got there?—A. Yes; they were in this condition (illustrating it).

Q. When they were out of the envelope—you see where Mr. Murphy's is produced there is a distinct alteration, is there not? What I want to know is, whether that alteration was made at that meeting?—A. That is more than I can say, because I told you I was not present.

Q. You did not hear any conversation in reference to that?—A. No; it is not likely I would.

Q. You see an important item which is at $5.50 in McCarron and Cameron's tender, in Michael Connolly's has been written originally at some other figure, and that has been scratched out, has it not, and this other figure written over it?—A. It has evidently been a mistake or altered.

Q. It is not as originally written, but altered in a different handwriting over one of the most important items in the tender—the concrete?—A. I could not tell you the figures.

Q. You cannot give us any explanation as to that?—A. No.

Q. Whose handwriting is Murphy's in?—A. In his own.

Q. When did you first see, or have your attention drawn to, that alteration?—A. Now.

Q. Item 57, where Murphy's is extended at present as it stands is ten thousand; item 57 in McCarron's is two thousand; that "3" in Michael's looks as if it had been altered?—A. It looks as if it had been at the time it was made.

Q. You were on the works in 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were on the works in 1887?—A. In a different position in 1887.

Q. How did the dredging plant as to capacity compare in 1886 and 1887?—A. I think there were two dredges. There were about the same, I think, and there were two small dump scows.

Q. There were two small extra dump scows?—A. In 1887 or 1888.

Q. Was there any difference in the capacity to dredge and produce results?—A. I do not think there was.

Q. Is there any element which would strike you as an engineer to make a better result in 1887 than in 1886?—A. I do not think it would be easier in 1887, because in 1886 the inside basin of the Wet dock, except what Peters took away, was above the surface of low water.

Q. Would you look for a better or worse production in 1887 as compared with 1886?—A. I would not; except those two small dump scows.

Q. Would you look for a better or worse result in 1887, taking everything into consideration, and comparing it with 1886?—A. As I have shown since, I do not think they could have done more in 1886 than in 1887.

Q. That is to say, having regard to the location where they were working, having regard to the dredges, and having regard to the accommodation for dumping, you think that the result in 1887 would have been about the same as 1886?—A. Yes; taking the comparison with the two small dump scows into consideration, they should not have done any better.

Q. Taking one consideration with another, there should have been about the same result?—A. About the same.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. In 1886, I understand, they worked 22 hours a day, and in 1887 11 hours?—

A. In 1886 they worked night and day.

Q. And in 1887 they worked the one shift?—A. They worked the 11 hours.

By Mr. Osler:

Q. With reference to that 160,000 yards “added by Boyd”—have you anything to say with regard to that?—A. If you will give me Mr. Boyd’s book I will show it you. (Book produced.) What date is it?

Q. About May or June, 1885.—A. May, 1885—“from the 12th to the 31st of May, 21,738 yards, making a total to date of 416,020 yards.”

Q. What I want to know is, when that “added by Boyd” comes in?—A. It comes in here, after this 22,000 yards.

Q. In the diary of Mr. Robert McGreevy there are the words “added by Boyd” at a point when in the works, in 1885, there would be about 22,000 yards done. At the time this memorandum was made there would be about 22,000, which is in effect the 21,738 yards you have just mentioned? Will you tell me what explanation there is of the memorandum in your father’s diary, “added by Boyd, 160,000”?—A. The dredging contract of 1882 amounts to 423,500 yards, and Mr. Boyd must have taken it that the work required 160,000 yards more than was calculated in the contract of 1882 to complete the area. Adding that 160,000 to the 423,500 it makes 583,000 yards.

Q. There was done in 1883 so much, in 1884 so much, and in 1885 so much, leaving so much. Now, how did that appear in Mr. Boyd’s memorandum book?—A. It shows according to this that there was done 416,000 yards, and then in the month of June they dredged 64,000 yards. On the 9th July he makes a report that 100,000 is required, and adding that to the 64,000 dredged in June it gives the quantity 164,000 yards.

Q. So, in Mr. Boyd’s report he reports 100,000 yards more to be done?—A. Yes; on the 9th of July.

Q. You point out that from the date of the completion of the 22,000 yards up to the time he makes his report 64,000 yards were taken out, and adding 64,000 to the 100,000 that gives 164,000, which is about the quantity mentioned as “added by Boyd.” Is that your explanation?—A. That is my explanation of it.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. How long were you Assistant Engineer?—A. From the 1st of May, 1884, to August 1st, 1890.

Q. How long did this dredging work continue night and day?—A. Up to 1887 they did. I do not think that in 1883 or 1884 they did, but in 1885–6 they did work night and day.

Q. But in 1887 they did not?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Nor subsequent to 1887?—A. No.

Q. How many hours a day did they work?—A. From half-past 6 or 7, to 6 o’clock at night. I never saw them start, because I was not down early enough.

Q. That would be 11 hours a day?—A. Yes; 11 hours.

By Mr. Edgar ;

Q. Night work was extra ?—A. There was night work in 1885–6.

By Mr. Davies ;

Q. Is there a statement here showing the quantity of work done in 1886–7–8–9 ?
—A. I do not know. There is a statement in my handwriting of what was dredged in 1887.

Q. Will you produce that ?—A. I have not got it in my possession. It is in the Engineer's possession.

Q. Is it in evidence ?—A. No, it is a tabular statement.

Q. There is such a document of the dredging of 1887 prepared by you ?—A. Yes. It shows each day's dredging.

Mr. F. C. LIGHTFOOT re-called.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Mr. Perley this morning stated that you would be the employé in the Public Works Department that could more easily find certain documents which he was asked to produce—namely, letters written to Larkin, Connolly & Co.—A. I have already given to the Deputy Minister a number of documents, and I must know what you want.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Have you copies of the letters which Mr. Perley sent in connection with the British Columbia Dock from 1884 to the present time ?—A. Certainly; any letters that have been sent copies would be in the press-books.

Q. Let us have those books ?—A. It will take a cart to bring them over.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. In the Department are the letters written on the subject of the British Columbia works in separate letter books from the other letters of the Department, or did you only keep one letter book for all the work of the Department until it was finished ?—A. In the Chief Engineer's office we have no letter books in connection with the Department as a Department. As the Chief Engineer's Branch, we have our own letter books, which are totally and distinctly separate from the Department itself.

Q. In that Branch you keep copies of letters which the Chief Engineer writes to the Minister or the Deputy Minister, I suppose ?—A. Any of his official letters to the Department.

Q. And copies of any official letters from him to outsiders ?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you keep separate books for separate works ?—A. No, sir, we have never done so.

Q. So the letter books we are asking you to produce now include all the letters of that period ?—A. Written by the Chief Engineer on every subject.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. These books also contain letter-press copies of the reports made by the Chief Engineer ?—A. Certainly they would. An official report is looked upon as a letter.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I suppose they are carefully indexed ?—A. No, sir. We have a separate book for that. If you wish to have all the letters in connection with the British Columbia Graving Dock from 1884 to the end of the work, it will be my business to set someone looking them up and putting slips of paper in the pages so you can find them.

Q. And make out a slip of the letters?—A. That would take a long time.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. There is a letter book produced by Mr. Perley to-day; is that one of the series?—A. No, that is something that has nothing to do with the Branch. We do not use such a press book in the office.

By Mr. German :

Q. Will the letters and reports of Mr. Perley with regard to the Quebec Harbour Works be found in these books?—A. Some will and some will not.

Q. Where will they be found?—A. I am asked to produce about the British Columbia works, and they will all be found in these books.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. I understand from you that you think there are some letters connected with the Quebec Harbour Works among your departmental letter books?—A. There may be; I am not sure.

Q. You have not yet looked to find out?—A. No; I have not.

Q. If there are any letters in those books connected with the Quebec Harbour Works, will you also make a note of them too?—A. For the same period?

Q. 1882 to 1889?—A. Yes, sir.

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—The judgment in the case of McCarron & Cameron, referred to in Robert McGreevy's evidence, was paid on or about the 2nd of August, 1883, and amounted to $16,125. I can give you the exact amount and date later on. It was paid to the firm of Judge Larue who were Attorneys for McCarron & Cameron.

Mr. CHARLES MCGREEVY recalled.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Were you present when Mr. Owen E. Murphy transferred to your father a promissory note to the amount of $400,000—a note by Mr. Connolly?—A. I was immediately after he got it, because he shewed it to me.

Q. Who shewed it to you?—A. My father.

Q. And where did you see that?—A. In Mr. Beudet's office.

Q. At Quebec?—A. At Quebec, corner St. Paul and Dalhousie streets.

Q. Was there any question about a suit going to be taken, or was the sale absolute to your father, without conditions?—A. There was no question of a suit at all; I did not know what he was going to do with it.

Q. And he had taken the promissory note absolutely?—A. Absolutely.

Q. It became his absolute and exclusive property, and Mr. Murphy had nothing more to do with it?—A. Nothing more, because he endorsed it that way.

Q. Did Mr. Murphy tell that to yourself too?—A. Yes.

The Committee then adjourned till 3.30 p.m.

FRIDAY, 31st July, 3.30 P.M.

Mr. PATRICK LARKIN sworn.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. When was the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. formed?—A. It was formed I think in October, 1878.

Q. Who composed it?—A. It was composed of Nicholas Connolly, Thomas Nihan and myself.

Q. How did it come to be formed at that time—for what purposes?—A. On our receiving the contract for the Lévis Graving Dock.

Q. How long did it remain so constituted?—A. It remained with those members in until March or April, 1880.

Q. Then what change took place?—A. Nicholas Connolly purchased Nihan's interest and sold it to Murphy.

Q. Had you known Murphy prior to that time?—A. No.

Q. Were you consulted by Connolly before he made the purchase or the sale?—A. He did not consult me before purchasing, but he spoke to me about taking Murphy in.

Q. What did he represent to you as to Murphy's position?—A. I do not know that he made any representations particularly about it. He asked me if I had any objection to allowing Murphy to join the firm. I was not very well satisfied about the way he purchased from Nihan and the way that Nihan sold, and I told Nicholas Connolly he could take him in or not just as he pleased.

Q. Were you aware of the relationship between Connolly and Murphy at that time?—A. I was not.

Q. How long did the firm so remain?—A. It remained so up to the time I left. I sold out on 3rd or 4th of March, 1888.

Q. These were the only three full members of the firm?—A. Yes; but there were other interests.

Q. Was the firm registered?—A. Yes.

Q. Where?—A. At Point Lévis.

Q. Where you were carrying on business?—A. Yes.

Q. Did any serious difficulties arise in the prosecution of the work on the Lévis Dock?—A. Yes; there was a good deal of difficulty as to the location.

Q. And as to the finding of a proper foundation?—A. Yes. The outer part of the Dock was on fine sand and the plans showed blue clay. The outer walls, or the wing walls, were built on piles, and when driving the piles the same length of pile would not answer in fine sand that would do very well in blue clay; and there were one or two occasions that a sea coming up there washed them out. The Resident Engineer wanted Mr. Connolly to put in piles ten feet longer, and Connolly told him he would do so if he gave him an order and paid for it. He did not give the order and consequently we did not put them in.

Q. Who was the Resident Engineer then?—A. Mr. Pilkington.

Q. Acting for whom?—A. Kinipple & Morris.

Q. Kinipple & Morris were the English Engineers who designed the dock?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you make any representations to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes, I think I wrote two protests that were sent in.

Q. What was the result finally?—A. The result finally was that it was proven that the plans were wrong, and on the lines we were then trying to build the Dock it could never be completed.

Q. Was there any change in the location?—A. Yes, which shortened the dock. When Mr. Perley was chosen as Engineer he shortened it by sixty-five feet.

Q. Going inward?—A. Yes, to the rock. That got the inways and caisson chamber on rock in place of fine sand as then located.

Q. That was done after Mr. Perley became Engineer?—A. Yes.

Q. It has been stated that you used efforts—I mean you or some members of your firm—to get Kinipple & Morris dismissed from the position of Chief Engineers of the work, and did you take any action other than by formal protest to the Commissioners?—A. That is all the action that was taken that I know of. That action was not to dismiss the Engineers, but pointing out to them the defects.

Q. Had the Government anything to do with the Dock at that time?—A. Not then.

Q. When did the Government first intervene in the matter?—A. I think it was in 1884.

Q. When did Mr. Perley become Engineer of the Commissioners?—A. I am not certain whether it was the latter part of 1883 or the beginning of 1884.

Q. The position was not changed up to that time?—A. No.

Q. It was under Mr. Perley that the change took place?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you find any prejudice against your firm owing to you being western men and having no connection with Quebec in any way?—A. I found there was quite a prejudice. They looked upon us as foreigners and having no right there.

Q. When did Mr. Robert McGreevy become interested in the firm?—A. In 1882.

Q. What led to his coming in, so far as your own knowledge extends?—A. The Commissioners would not pay very much attention to our protest. I thought we were not treated very fairly by them, and the conclusion I came to with other members of the firm was that we had better have some Quebecker who had some influence to lay our case before the commissioners. That was my conclusion, although I do not know what may have actuated the others.

Q. After that discussion among members of the firm did you meet Robert McGreevy and make arrangements with him?—A. No, I did not. I did not meet him for sometime. We had a meeting in our office sometime after it was decided to give him an interest in the business.

Q. Did you have any previous acquaintance with him?—A. No; I had met him a few times. The first time I met him was here.

Q. You had no financial relations?—A. No.

Q. Only a business acquaintance?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any knowledge or acquaintance with Thomas McGreevy at that time?—A. The first occasion I met him was when I called upon him here when I tried to get him interested in releasing the security that we had up for the Dock. The Commissioners held security to the amount of $50,000, given by the Imperial Bank, and for that security we gave the Imperial Bank $60,000. Nicholas Connolly had $20,000 in cash, not owning any property in Canada, and my portion of the $60,000 was $10,000 in cash and $10,000 in property. Nihan's was all property. That security remained there from 1878 to 1883, and many times in that five years we were much in need of that money; and I wanted it released. That was my first acquaintance with Mr. McGreevy.

Q. Had you spoken to him before?—A. No.

Q. In what capacity did you communicate with him on that occasion?—A. As a Harbour Commissioner.

Q. Was that before or after Robert McGreevy became interested in the firm?—A. Some years before. I think it was in the early part of April.

Q. It did not result in the security being released at that time, nor until some years after?—A. No.

Q. When did you first have communication with Robert McGreevy?—A. The first interview of any consequence that I recollect of, occurred in our office at the Graving Dock. It was between Robert McGreevy, Murphy, Nicholas Connolly and myself.

Q. Was Michael Connolly here at that time?—A. No, he was not.

Q. He was not in Canada?—A. No.

Q. He had no interest in the firm then?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. At that time, when Robert McGreevy became interested, were you contemplating negotiations for some future work?—A. No.

Q. Or did you get some future work?—A. No, nothing further than the Dock. It was spoken of that it was likely that there would be some dredging tenders asked for.

Q. Was Robert McGreevy to be interested in the Dock or future contracts?—A. He had no interest in the Dock.

Q. But in any future contract that you might get in connection with the Quebec Harbour?—A. Yes.

Q. When did you get your first dredging contract?—A. In 1882—I think in July or August.

Q. That was after the time that Robert McGreevy became interested?—A. Yes.

Q. What proportion of the interest in the firm had he?—A. Nicholas Connolly proposed he should have thirty per cent. I did not think he should have so much; but I did not say much about it.

Q. There were articles of partnership prepared then?—A. Memorandum of partnership, as appears in the evidence here.

Q. It was stipulated in this memorandum that he should put up his proportion of the capital required?—A. When it was given him he said "Then I shall have to put up thirty per cent of all the necessary capital."

Q. Did you require considerable capital then?—A. Yes. I asked Murphy after they put in the tender why the firm tendered when they had no dredges to do the work. Murphy said he tendered on the strength of the dredges I then owned.

Q. Were those dredges then at work of yours?—A. They were at Owen Sound. I told them when I found out they had the contract—I did not know anything about their putting in the tender; but when I learned they had the contract and that they were the lowest tender and I supposed the contract would be awarded them, I went to Quebec, and told them that the dredges I had would not be fit for working in that depth of water; that they would have to build dredges suitable to do the work in that depth of water. That was one of the reasons I did not say much about McGreevy having thirty per cent, because he would have to furnish thirty per cent of the capital.

Q. How much did you expend at that time for dredges and plant?—A. The first dredge, as near as I can find out, cost $40,000.

Q. How much for the other?—A. It was built the following year. If I was rightly informed in the office she cost a great deal less, but in addition to the dredges we had to have the necessary large scows. I think these scows were very large and cost $6,000 each. At least, they told me in the office they did.

Q. You say they told you in the office. You did not exercise any personal supervision over the accounts?—A. Not over the accounts at all.

Q. How often were you in Quebec?—A. Sometimes, while I was doing work in the west, when I had a day or two to spare I went down. From 1874 to 1878 I had work in the west.

Q. Of what nature?—A. I had finished on the Welland Canal and the work at Port Dalhousie, and I had Owen Sound harbour in 1881-82, and a portion of the Ontario and Quebec road in 1882-83, and a portion of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1884.

Q. So that your time was fully occupied with your own independent business at that time?—A. Yes.

Q. Speaking of the Welland Canal works, had Nicholas Connolly been connected with you in that?—A. Nicholas Connolly was the sub-contractor with me. I gave the lock masonry, and sub-let to him Section I of the Welland Canal enlargement and the excavation, I think, in the month of December, 1875.

Q. He was the sub-contractor, under you?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Michael Connolly a sub-contractor also?—A. No; he was working for his brother.

Q. He was employed apparently by his brother?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any previous business connection with either of the Connolly's prior to that?—A. No.

Q. And it grew out of that business connection that you went in with them, and took them in with you for the contract on the Levis Dock?—A. Yes; when he had the masonry as far completed as he could get it at that time, 1878, I saw a notice in a paper that came to me of an advertisement of Lévis Dock, calling for tenders. I think the tenders were to the 16th May of that year, 1878, and I suggested to Nicholas Connolly that as his part of the work on the masonry was nearly completed, he had better tender for that work. I started our Engineer, Mr. Hume, to Quebec, to make out the tender.

Q. And was it then he allied himself with Nihan?—A. Nihan, he and I were the tenderers.

Q. That led to your taking that contract?—A. Yes.

Q. And you stated how Robert McGeevy became interested in that?—A. Yes.

Q. Subsequently, and Murphy at an antecedent period. Had you any experience or knowledge of dredging work yourself?—A. I had; because I had been dredging at Port Dalhousie Harbour from 1875. The late John Brown—I sub-let the dredging to him at the start. He died, and I bought the dredges afterwards and completed the work.

Q. You were also dredging at Owen Sound?—A. Yes; that was in 1876, I think. Brown died, and we bought the dredges some time afterwards. It was in 1879 I took the dredges to Owen Sound and Kincardine Harbour.

Q. There was a subsequent dredging contract entered into in 1887—had you anything to do with the terms of it, or preparation of it?—A. No; I was not here at the time that contract was entered into; I was in British Columbia.

Q. That was at 35 cents a yard, and it has been represented as an excessive price for such work. Will you state what your opinion and experience is as to a fair price for dredging work?—A. For my dredging contract at Port Dalhousie I can say the prices were considerably higher. We had only to dredge the entrance to the Welland Canal. There was a soft material over a very large area that we had to go over. It was very soft stuff; very easy indeed. I had 29 cents a yard for that, and there was some clay and soft deposit outside of that again, for I don't know how many hundred feet, and we had 50 cents for the balance.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What year was it?—A. In 1875; I completed the work in 1879.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. It went on for four years?—A. Yes.

Q. And what price did you get at Owen Sound?—A. For the stuff there, 21 cents.

Q. What was its character?—A. It was silt and sand—a mixture.

Q. Where had you to dump it?—A. We dredged in the harbour, and we just dumped it over the piling.

Q. You had no distance to haul it?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What year was that?—A. 1881 and 1882.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Is that kind of dredging work in inland waters, such as Lake Ontario and Owen Sound, easier or more difficult to do than in a tidal harbour like Quebec?—A. Well, in still water it is very much easier work to dredge than tidal water, because you have to allow your dredge to rise and fall with the tide, and in still water we do what we call "pinning," where the anchor is down and we put a pin in the anchor, and that keeps the dredge perfectly still until you have to shift again. You cannot do it so easily in tidal water.

Q. Then on the whole do you consider 35 cents was a reasonable or unreasonable price for that work?—A. I don't think it was an unreasonable price.

Q. Now, as to the Cross-wall contract, had you anything to say as to the preparation of tenders for that?—A. I had not.

Q. Were you in Quebec when they were put in?—A. I was in Quebec.

Q. When they were put in?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you consulted, or did you take part in the figuring of it?—A. None, whatever.

Q. Mr. Charles McGreevy, I think, stated to-day that you were present when the three tenders were figured, or when he transferred the three to one sheet?—A. I was not present when he did that.

Q. But you were in Quebec and knew that the three tenders were being put in?—A. I knew of the three tenders being put in.

Q. You were told?—A. I was told by the other members that three tenders had gone in.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Or were going in?—A. I dont know whether it was going in or that they had gone in. I presume they had gone in, because I was there before they were put in.

By Mr. Hector Cameron:

Q. Do you recollect which member of the firm—whether it was Murphy or the Connollys that spoke to you about it?—A. I think both did.

Q. Did you know about Gallagher's tender?—A. Yes.

Q. You knew of course that Gallagher was the firm's foreman at the quarries?—A. Yes.

Q. I suppose you understood the firm had control of that tender?—A. Yes, I understood.

Q. What were you told about the Beaucage tender?—A. I dont know; I had heard something of another tender that Robert McGreevy was putting in but I dont recollect anything about it.

Q. Did you know Beaucage personally?—A. No, I never saw him in my life.

Q. You did hear something about a third tender that Robert McGreevy was putting in?—A. I did hear something about that.

Q. Well, you did not sign the tender of Larkin, Connolly & Co. yourself?—A. I believe I did not; I think I signed it when I was signing the contract.

Q. You signed a transfer of it?—A. Yes. But not when it was put in.

Q. You were away, and returned to Quebec for the purpose of signing the contract?—A. Yes.

Q. You recollect the fact of your signing the contract before a Notary?—A. Yes.

Q. After the contract was awarded will you state what communication was made to you which led to the making of the $25,000 notes?—A. Well, I think it was about the time that the contract was signed,—it may be a day or two before or afterwards, I don't recollect—but Murphy came to me and said that Robert McGreevy was in need of money, and wanted to know if he would give the firm's note for $25,000 to him, and after thinking the matter over a little while, I said I had no objection to do so, with the distinct understanding that he should retire these notes as they matured. I made the further remark that we were then making a very large outlay for new dredges and the other plant, and that he had put in no money and we could not afford to loan him money.

Q. Had you realized the profits at that time that would belong to him?—A. Oh no; we had not commenced work, or just about; I don't know whether the dredging was ready or not.

Q. You had not covered expenses?—A. Oh no; we had not earned anything.

Q. Was the firm indebted at that time?—A. They were.

Q. To banks, I suppose?—A. Yes; and to individual members of the firm, to Nicholas Connolly and myself.

Q. Do you recollect the occasion of a note being made?—A. I do very well.

Q. Will you state what occurred on that occasion?—A. Well, I think there was Murphy, Robert McGreevy, and, I think, Nicholas Connolly; we met in an office on Dalhousie Street, on the river side. I had never been in the office before, but I understand it was Robert McGreevy's office.

Q. You had never been there before?—A. I had never been there before, and I do not recollect being there since except that day; I may have been there two or three times that day.

Q. How did you go into the office?—A. Walked in off the street.

Q. You did not go through that trap-door they talk of? Do you know anything about a trap-door there?—A. No.

Q. Who took you there—who went with you?—A. I said Robert McGreevy and Murphy.

Q. Did you all go there together?—A. I am sure three of us went together, and I think Nicholas Connolly was with us; that I am not sure about.

Q. Who prepared the notes?—A. Murphy.

Q. And were they all signed at the same time?—A. Well, they were all signed that day.

Q. And you endorsed one note?—A. One note; yes.

Q. Do you know anything more than that?—A. I heard nothing more about it. I did not know anything positively about it until the audit of the books, in 1885—there was no audit in 1883 or 1884—and much to my astonishment I found, when the audit was made out in 1885, that these $25,000 was charged to the firm. I thought the worst that could come of it would be, they would be charged to McGreevy himself. Instead of that they were charged to the firm.

Q. Did you object to that?—A. I did. There was considerable of a disagreement between my auditor there and Murphy at the time. So my auditor told me.

Q. About those notes?—A. About those notes. Murphy would not produce the vouchers, and Kimmitt would not pass the accounts.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Did any other member of the firm object?—A. I do not recollect that any of the others did.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. He would not produce the vouchers?—A. No.

Q. Were you there yourself?—A. Not at the time of the altercation. I was there when they concluded.

Q. You do not know anything about it yourself?—A. I have it from my auditor

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

You were not in Quebec while the audit was being prosecuted; but you were there when it was concluded?—A. Yes.

Q. Did any other members of the firm back you up in your objection to the notes being charged to "Expense" account?—A. They did not.

Q. What did you do?—A. I did not do anything, I could not.

Q. You had to submit to it?—A. I had to submit to it.

Q. When was the Esquimalt Dock contract entered into?—A. It was entered into in November, 1884.

Q. That was the next contract you undertook?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you state what occurred in reference to that contract; have you any knowledge in reference to it; were you consulted about that tender?—A. I was not consulted about it. The first intimation I had that the tender was in, was by seeing it in one of the Toronto papers.

Q. By seeing it stated that the contract had been awarded to you?—A. That we were the lowest tenderers.

Q. The first you knew of the firm tendering for the work at Esquimalt, was in seeing the announcement in the newspapers, that the tender of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. was the lowest?—A. That is the first I heard of it.

Q. Did you receive any communication subsequently about it?—A. A day or so afterwards, I received a letter from Nicholas Connolly in relation to the matter.

Q. As a result, did you go down to Quebec?—A. I went to Quebec.

Q. What occurred there in reference to the tender?—A. When I arrived there, I told Nicholas Connolly—his letter, I may state, before going any further—

Q. Have you got his letter?—A. No.

Q. Do you destroy your letters periodically?—A. That letter is in existence.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Where is it?—A. It is in St. Catharines at the present moment.

Q. You have been asked to produce all the letters?—A. You can have it.

The Chairman—Take a memorandum of it Mr. Larkin, and produce it at the next meeting.

By Mr. Hector Cameron:

Q. Do you recollect the date of the letter?—It was sometime in October, 1884. I think it was October.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. Have you any other letters and documents concerning this inquiry?—A. I have several letters here.

Q. And none but that one at your home?—A. Not that I know of.

By Mr. Hector Cameron:

Q. What is your recollection of the contents of the letter?—A. The contents were, Mr. Connolly stated he did not expect to get the work, and if I did not wish to go into it why they need not go any further.

Q. Was there anything more in the letter that you recollect than that?—A. Yes. A portion of the letter stated that some person in Quebec advised him to take the contract and sell it out; that he could get about $20,000 for it, but he would not be a party to any such arrangement.

By Mr. Davies.

Q. That is Mr. Nicholas Connolly?—A. Yes. He said further that if the Government chose to give the work to anyone else, they might have it.

By Mr. Hector Cameron.

Q. After you arrived in Quebec, what communications had you with them in reference to the matter?—I told Mr. Connolly that I did not want anything to do with the work; that I would not go into it. I suggested to him that he and the rest might take it.

Q. What were your objections to taking the contract?—A. I did not want to go out to British Columbia and another thing I wanted to get out of the firm.

Q. Were you dissatisfied at that time?—A. Yes.

Q. For what reason?—A. There were various reasons. I did not care much about staying.

Q. What did Connolly say to that?—A. When I suggested that he and the others might take it or that he should take it himself he said that he would be breaking up the firm and he did not want to do that. He said further that they were then six months of the year without doing anything, and for that reason they had put in a tender.

Q. Six months of the year without doing anything in Quebec?—A. Yes; and that he could go out to British Columbia with Hume our Engineer, and do the work while we were lying idle at Quebec. That was a strong argument in favour of going there, and I finally consented.

Q. Did anyone else speak to you about the matter before you finally consented?—A. Yes.

Q. Who?—A. Sir Hector Langevin spoke to me about it one day. He happened to be at the Graving Dock. He asked me if I was going to take the British Columbia contract and when I would be ready to sign the document. I said I thought not. I told him that I knew nothing about the putting in of the tender and I was not in favour of taking the contract.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. When was this?—A. It was on the Monday previous to the signing of the contract. I think the contract was signed on Saturday the 8th, if I am not mistaken.

Q. So that this conversation took place on the Monday before the contract was signed?—A. Yes.

Q. Sir Hector Langevin happening to be at the Graving Dock asked you if you were going to Ottawa to sign the contract; you told him you did not think you were going; that the tender had been put in without your knowledge and that you did not want to take the contract—is that it?—A. That is it. He said “you had better think the matter over and if you change your mind telegraph to the Secretary.” It was after that that I had the long conversation with Nicholas Connolly.

Q. Did you telegraph the Secretary and then come to Ottawa?—A. I telegraphed the Secretary that I would be up on a certain day and I came up.

Q. What occurred when you came here?—A. I went to the Department. The first thing I did was to get the specification and form of tender, everything connected with it and read them over. I then looked over the list of plant which we had to take over, everything connected with the specifications, tender and all. This was in the afternoon that I got them. The following morning I went to Sir Hector Langevin's office. I drew his attention to the amount of material that we were called on to take over and pay $50,000 for. I told him that one-half of that stuff was no use to us. In reading it over any man accustomed to contracts could see at a glance that the stuff represented there was good for nothing at all. There were derricks, and those sort of things which are never used with us. When I mentioned the matter to him Sir Hector sent for Mr. Perley and Mr. Perley came in. We had some sharp words over the thing. I wanted a clause added to the contract that we should only pay for what material we could use. Mr. Perley would not consent to putting any such clause in. On that we got very warm over it, the pair of us.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. Sir Hector was present then?—A. Yes.

Q. What did he say?—A. He said, “we will look into the matter.” We looked over the items and I pointed out the items which were no good to us. There was one item of stone, for instance, which I said was of no use.

By Mr. Lister:

Q. Did he say he would make a reduction?—A. He said he would have the thing looked into, that is all.

By Mr. Hector Cameron:

Q. Relying upon his assurance that he would have the matter looked into, you signed the contract?—A. Yes; that is the reason I signed.

By Mr. Lister:

Q. Because Sir Hector promised to look into it, and have a reduction made?—A. I took it for granted that it would be looked into, and that a reduction would be made. He did not say a reduction would be made.

By Mr. Hector Cameron:

Q. There was no promise of a reduction made?—A. No; but I assumed that any person who went there and looked at it would see that the stuff was no use.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you make it up with Mr. Perley before he left the room, or did you remain at loggerheads?—A. I did not see him after that for some time.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. If you did not have some understanding that a reduction would be made you would not have signed the contract?—A. No.

By Mr. McLeod :

Q. But you merely assumed that a reduction would be made?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Had you or any member of your firm been in British Columbia?—A. No; never saw the country. We knew nothing about it.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Did you have any conversation with either of the Mr. Connollys or Mr. Murphy in reference to the plant before you saw Sir Hector?—A. Before I saw Sir Hector? No I had not. I had not seen any of them, because they were not here.

Q. When you went to Quebec to discuss the question whether you would contract or not, was the subject of the plant talked of?—A. No; because I had not seen it. I did not see what it was until I arrived here.

Q. Did they consider the question of plant?—A. There was none of them here to consult with or speak to about it.

Q. But in Quebec?—A. No; because I knew nothing about it.

Q. Before you put your name to the contract did you discuss the subject with them?—A. They were not here. I had a power of attorney from Nicholas Connolly to sign for him. Murphy signed for himself, and he was the only man who came here.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. There was no discussion of the plant or the terms of the contract when you came?—A. No; I had no one to consult with. I went to Sir Hector with no one to consult with.

Q. Did any members of the firm know anything about this plant which you were being charged $50,000 for until you came here and read it?—A. I did not.

Q. And you acted on your own judgment, and on behalf of Connolly you ultimately signed the contract as you have stated?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, did you desire Bennett's removal?—A. I did not.

Q. Were you out in British Columbia while the work was going on?—A. Yes, I was there from July, 1885, until November of the same year.

Q. In the subsequent year were you there?—A. Yes; I was there from May, 1886, until the fall. I was there in the year 1887, from March along in April.

Q. And in 1888?—A. I was not there in 1888. In 1887 the work was completed.

Q. Were you interested in any other contract in British Columbia?—A. I built fifty miles of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway.

Q. When was that built?—A. At the same time as the Dock was going on, in 1885 and 1886.

Q. When was the Dock finished?—A. Practically, the Dock was finished in June, 1886; but we were detained there until the summer of 1887 from the fact that the Government let the contract for the caisson to be built inside the Dock, and the result was we could not get away from there. We had to keep the pumps going and have a staff of men on until such time as they completed the caisson. It had to be completed before we could remove the coffer dam, and we did not get away until the fall of 1887.

Q. Then you did take a somewhat active part in the work in British Columbia?—A. I was there all the time it was going on.

Q. Who else was there?—A. All the time I was there, Michael Connolly was there.

Q. And was Nicholas Connolly there also at any time?—A. He was there in the winter of 1885, and went back there in the fall of 1885. He went out there in 1884, I should say, and came back in the spring of 1885, and went back there in the fall of the same year.

Q. He spent his winters there. Was Michael Connolly there all the time?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were there during the two summer seasons?—A. Yes.

Q. I asked you as to Bennett, whether you personally, or the firm, as far as you were aware, were anxious to have him removed?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. Was there any dissatisfaction with him?—A. Not after I got there.

Q. Was there any complaint about his slowness in putting in the estimates?—A. I used to complain of that myself. I do not know whether he was so much to blame, or the person from whom he got his instructions.

Q. Who was that?—A. Mr. Trutch.

Q. Had you any difficulty with Mr. Trutch?—A. Yes; I made some complaint about this $50,000 we paid for the plant. It used to be deducted from our estimates monthly. Mr. Trutch used to deduct the 10 per cent. from the whole, and then deduct the $4,000 from the balance. I considered that that was not the fair way, but that they should deduct the $4,000 odd from the gross amount and the 10 per cent. from the balance, as that would not pay for the work as we went along.

Q. Did you have this difficulty with Mr. Trutch or Mr. Bennett?—A. It was with Trutch.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you write letters as you went along?—A. I think Michael Connolly did.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You never wrote letters to the Government?—A. No, nor to Mr. Trutch.

Q. Did you write to any members of your firm?—A. No; I think Michael Connolly was the correspondent of the firm.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you see any of his letters before they were sent?—A. Yes, some of them; but I see a great many letters were sent while I was absent.

Q. Can you remember which?—A. No, I do not think I can. I saw one letter. I think it was one sent to Mr. Trutch. I forget what the subject was. I do not know whether I saw any that went to the Government or not. I think there was either one or two that went to Mr. Trutch.

Q. You saw those before they were sent?—A. Yes, and approved of them.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. If you had not approved of them, Michael Connolly would not have sent them?—A. No; I do not think he would while I was there.

Q. Were you out much of the time on your railway work?—A. I was at the Dock most of the time. I did not spend much time on the railway.

Q. Was your railroad work next to Victoria?—A. No, it was the other end.

Q. Forty or fifty miles from Victoria?—A. Twenty miles from Esquimalt.

Q. You began your railroad work 20 miles north of Esquimalt?—A. Yes.

Q. You say you did not yourself desire Bennett's removal, or take any steps to procure it?—A. I did not. He was a good man and understood his business thoroughly, and the worst kind of man a contractor could have is an incompetent engineer. If he has a man who knows his business he can get along much better.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. He was an able man?—A. Yes, he was a good man.

Q. An honest man?—A. Thoroughly.

Q. Always to his work like a man?—A. Only he used to be a little slow in getting out his estimates; that was the only fault I had to find with him.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. I believe he had occasionally another trifling fault, had he not?—A. I don't know.

Q. When was the contract for the finishing of the Lévis Dock entered into?—A. In the early part of 1884.

Q. Will you state what occurred in reference to it?—A. The defects in the work annulled the contract that we had, and the Commissioners and Engineers had us I think in 1883, the whole of that summer, if I remember rightly, doing the work by the day.

Q. In other words, the original contract was broken up by the defects in the plans you have already spoken of?—A. Yes.

Q. And then you went on doing day work?—A. At a percentage for the material and the labour.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. How long had you been going on by day work?—A. I cannot tell when it commenced.

Q. About what time?—A. I would not be positive about it, but I think it lasted for the whole season of 1883.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You were doing the work under the Commissioners, and under the direction of their Engineers, being paid your outlay and fifteen per cent as profit on it?—A. I don't know what percentage we got; I don't recollect that.

Q. But the percentage of profits allowed you, you were content with?—A. I was content to allow the contract to be completed in that manner, because it was sure. It was a difficult piece of work and we had a great deal of difficulty; the water working in and filling the Dock and it would be weeks before we would get it empty again, and we got on what I considered a sure basis, and we could not lose anything.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You were making money all the time?—A. It was the only work we had then.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. What led to the alteration, then?—A. The other members of the firm seemed to be very much in favour of taking a lump sum for it. I was not, and protested against doing anything of the sort, but I was overruled and a lump sum was agreed upon.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You were overruled, you say?—A. I was, yes.

Q. Was there a meeting of the firm?—A. It was spoken of amongst one and the other; the Connollys spoke to me about it.

Q. The two Connollys?—A. Yes.

Q. And Murphy?—A. Michael Connolly was opposed to it; he took my view of the thing and he was opposed to it—but our Engineer and, I think, Nicholas Connolly and Murphy were in favour of it.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Had you anything to do with the fixing of the amount, or the negotiations for the lump sum?—A. I had not.

Q. Were you there when it was fixed upon or agreed to?—A. I don't know that I was there when it was agreed. I was there, of course, when the contract was signed, and signed it.

Q. You signed the contract and knew what the amount was?—A. Yes.

Q. It was $64,000 and $10,000 additional for the caisson?—A. Yes; for the building of the caisson—I think that is it.

Q. Did you know, or were you told at all, of any arrangements for giving a drawback, or any portion of that $74,000 to anyone?—A. No; I was not aware. I think—in fact, I am sure—after the contract was signed, Murphy came to me and said he wanted to give some friends notes for $22,000. Well, I asked him to whom were those notes going? Well, he said it was not for me to know anything about it.

By Mr. Turte :

Q. You were overruled again?—A. Precisely; that was all the satisfaction I got. I protested against it and remonstrated.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You were an “innocent abroad”?—A. If you had been in my place you would be more innocent than you are now.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Did he give you any other reason why the notes must be given?—A. He said he had promised the notes, and if they were not given it would be very injurious to the firm; that was the substance of his remarks.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Had you any doubt at all in your own mind as to what these notes were for?—A. I had very grave doubts they were going for a purpose they should not go.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. What purpose was that?—A. I do not know what it was for. I knew we had no business to pay any such thing, and I remarked at the time, “Why should we give this? We have got the contract; it is signed, and I don't see why this thing should be given.” Murphy's reply was, he had promised it and it would be very injurious if it was not given.

By Mr. Turte :

Q. And you signed?—A. I consented to that with a firm determination to get out of the firm when I could.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. You were like “Captain Scott's coon,” you came down?—A. I came down, yes.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Had you any suspicion these notes were really going to anybody outside the firm?—A. Well, I did not form any opinion where they were going, but I told Robert McGreevy sometime afterwards—months afterwards—I never took to this giving $22,000 very kindly. I told him one day in Quebec that they—meaning him and Murphy—grabbed $22,000 out of the contract when we could not afford it.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick.

Q. To whom?—A. I said to Robert McGreevy; I felt very sore about that $22,000 always.

By Mr. Edgar.

Q. Your proportion of it would have been how much?—A. One third, sir; I had one third interest in the Dock.

Q. $7,000?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Davies.

Q. Still you let it go all the same?—A. Yes, I did not want to quarrel all the time.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You said you had made up your mind to get out of the firm?—A. I had. I did not tell them so, but I made a resolution to get out as soon as I could.

Q. What prevented your getting out at the time?—A. Well, I had a good deal of interest in it. I owned a considerable amount of the plant, one third of what there was in the Dock, seventeen and one-half per cent. of all that was on the Quebec works, and there was a considerable percentage retained by the Harbour Commission. It was not a very easy thing to get that altogether.

Q. Were the other members of the firm in a position to have bought you out at the time?—A. They were not that I know of. Besides, that same spring of 1884 I had to send them $20,000 there to help them along.

Q. You had to send them $20,000 of your own money to help the Quebec firm along?—A. Yes. In addition to that they drew several drafts on me, $1,000 at one time, $2,000 at another, $1,500, and so on, when they were short of funds.

Q. You were liable also to the Harbour Commissioners for the fulfilment of those contracts?—A. Yes.

Q. And would you have required their consent to your being discharged?—A. Yes.

Q. The other monetary transaction that has been referred to is the payment out of the funds of the firm of $25,000 in or about February, 1887. What do you know about that?—A. I think that I was sent for either by letter or telegram in the latter part of January, 1887, to go to Quebec on important business. I went there. On the first day of February I arrived at Quebec—

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You were sent for by whom?—A. By Connolly.

Q. Nicholas Connolly?—A. I do not know whether the letter was from the firm or from Nicholas Connolly himself; I do not even remember whether it was a letter or a telegram. I arrived, however, on the morning of the 1st of February, and we had a meeting that afternoon.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Where?—A. In Nicholas Connolly's house.

Q. Who were present?—A. There were present Nicholas Connolly, Murphy, Robert McGreevy and myself.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Michael Connolly was not there?—A. No; he was then in British Columbia. The question was brought up as to giving $25,000 for election purposes. The general election was then pending and they wanted these funds for it. The fact of the matter is, I do not know as my memory will be quite so good about it had it not been that for searching for some papers in my house a week or two ago I came across the memorandum which I took that afternoon after the meeting. That is how I came to know the date so accurately.

By Mr. Wood (Brockville) :

Q. Did you find it in a memorandum book?—A. Oh, no; just as it is now. I found it among some papers in a drawer.

Q. Read it, please?—A. (Exhibit "B15.") "Quebec, February 1st, 1887.—Memo. of meeting this afternoon at the residence of N. K. Connolly, between N. K. C., O. E. Murphy, R. H. McGreevy and P. Larkin, and agreed that 'twenty-five,' it does not go any further, but I know that that 'twenty-five' means $25,000. The memo. goes on, "and agreed that 'twenty-five' should be given and charged to dredging contract if obtained. If not obtained, to be charged to B. C. and Q. H. I., and that a former proposal, a memo. of which was taken by M. Connolly, should be cancelled." That memo., I never knew what it was at all; I did not know anything about it, but it was mentioned there to be cancelled.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. In whose handwriting is that memo?—A. Mine.

Q. When did you write it?—A. That afternoon, because I left Quebec that night.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Having given your consent to that you left?—A. Yes, I left that night.

Q. Do you know anything of the subsequent payment?—A. I do not. I do not know anything about them.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. The contract was obtained?—A. It was got while I was away. I went to British Columbia afterwards.

Q. The contract referred to in that memorandum was obtained?—A. The dredging contract—yes.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. It has been said that there were improper payments made to the dredging Inspectors who were inspecting the work of dredging on behalf of the Harbour Commissioners. Have you any knowledge of any such payments having been made?—A. I have no personal knowledge of any such payments. In February of 1888, however, a week or ten days before I sold out my interest to Nicholas Connolly, Murphy told me that such payments had been made.

Q. By whom?—A. He said by Nicholas Connolly—by his instructions or something to that effect. I do not think he said they were paid by himself. Anyway Murphy said they were paid for that purpose.

Q. Were Nicholas Connolly and he on friendly terms then or otherwise?—A. I am inclined to think there was quite a bit of friction between them at that time.

Q. Did you speak to Nicholas Connolly about the matter?—A. I spoke to Nicholas Connolly and Michael the first opportunity I had to get them together.

Q. What did you say to them?—A. I just repeated what Murphy told me.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Repeat the conversation?—A. I simply said that Murphy told me that payments had been made to the Inspectors during the season previous. This was in 1888, and of course would refer to the previous working year—that money had been paid to the Inspectors. Nicholas Connolly remarked that Murphy was the last man to say anything about things of that sort.

Q. He did not deny it?—A. He neither acknowledged it nor denied it. I had no conversation about it since. It is passed almost out of my memory.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You say you retired from the firm a week or ten days after ?—A. I sold out my interest on the 3rd or 4th March following.

Q. On the 3rd or 4th of March, 1888, you sold out to the two Connollys ?—A. No, to Nicholas Connolly.

Q. You have produced the transfer, I believe ?—A. I have not, I have got it. I can tell you the date of the signing of the document. I went home immediately after and had it prepared by my book-keeper from my dictation. I came down about a month afterwards. It is dated the 5th of April, but the sale was actually made on the 3rd or 4th of March.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. When you made your sale what value was put upon the plant in which you had a pecuniary interest ?—A. Well I just jumped at the thing. I sold out for what I considered was half it was worth. I was determined to go out and I told Nicholas Connolly that I could get out and he could not, and he had better relieve me. I was determined to get out if I had to give it away.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Why ?—A. I do not think I am obliged to answer that.

Q. You must answer.—A. Well in the first place I did not like my associates. I neither liked Murphy or McGreevy. That is one reason.

Q. Give us all the other reasons, please.—A. Well for another reason there was a little transaction of Michael Connolly's that I did not consider just what it should be.

Q. What was that transaction ?—A. It was a charge of some things in British Columbia that he wanted to put to my account in Quebec. I did not consider that a fair transaction and that was one with the other reasons. The reasons were accumulating then.

Q. And that Inspector affair, did that not strike you ?—A. I did say it was a very dangerous thing to do anything of the sort.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. What was the danger ?—A. To tamper with the Inspectors.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You say you did not approve of being charged with some money ?—A. Yes.

Q. By Michael Connolly ?—A. He brought a memorandum in there to be charged to him.

Q. He wanted to charge you with some money ?—A. Yes.

Q. And why did you object ?—A. Because it was not just.

Q. Was it a partnership transaction ?—A. It was a transaction for the benefit of the firm there. The fact of the matter is, I may as well relate it : There were a lot of horses belonging to a brickyard we owned at the time, and Michael Connolly asked me if I could send these horses out on the railway so as to save their keep during the winter, as we had nothing for them to do. I spoke to my partner about buying the horses, but he said he did not want to buy them. I asked him if he would take them and do what work he could with them for their keep. He took them. The horses were returned together with the carts next spring, and the brickyard was sold shortly after along with the horses and all. Then Michael Connolly had a bill against me for some $1,500 afterward which I did not think was fair.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You say you then sold out for half of what you considered your interest was then worth ?—A. That is what I consider. I just jumped at the amount. I did not sell out any interest I had in the Quebec Dock or the British Columbia Dock. They were not settled up at that time. I mean that the Lévis Dock and British Columbia Dock were completed and handed over, but not settled for. The Quebec Cross-wall and the dredging—what is called the Harbour Improvements—were going on at the time.

Q. You ceased to have any future interest in the Quebec Harbour Improvements?—A. It is distinctly mentioned in the articles of sale.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. We should have that produced.—A. That is a very important document and I do not want that carried around the country. I have it at the hotel and you can get a copy of it.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You reserved your proportion of the money coming from the Esquimalt Dock and Lévis Dock?—A. Yes.

Q. But you gave up all interest in the plant and Quebec Harbour Improvements?—A. Yes; it was specially mentioned, the Cross-wall and the dredging and the plant appertaining thereto.

Q. How much did you get?—A. It appears in the document.

Q. How much did Mr. Connolly pay you?—A. $20,000.

Q. You considered that was about half what you should get?—A. Yes; but I would have taken less.

Q. Since March, 1888, you have had no interest in the business of the firm?—A. None whatever.

Q. But you were obliged to leave your name in it?—A. Yes, the agreement provides for that until such time as the Lévis and British Columbia Dock were settled for.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Have all your claims as against the Government been settled up?—A. No, they are not settled.

Q. Are they paid?—A. No, they are not.

Q. You are interested in some claims?—A. I am interested in some $10,000 that has been due for some three years on the Lévis Graving Dock.

Q. Extras?—A. It was a settlement we had with the Harbour Commissioners three or four years ago.

Q. Is there anything in British Columbia you are interested in?—A. Yes, there was this pumping. We had to keep the Dock pumped out while the people were building the caisson inside.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. What is your claim there?—A. The claim there is still $49,000.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Have you any other claims?—A. None that I have any interest in.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. The British Columbia claim is not adjusted?—A. No.

Q. But the Lévis Dock is?—A. Yes.

Q. And all that remains to be done is for the Government to pay the agreed amount?—A. The Harbour Commissioners. I do not know who pays it now. I think perhaps it is the Government.

Q. The British Columbia claim remains a matter of claim, not admitted and not adjusted?—A. Not adjusted, owing to the Chief Engineer's illness. He left the office about two years ago.

Q. That has caused the delay in the settlement of that claim?—A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Robert McGreevy stated here the other day that he had a conversation with you probably three months before he wrote that letter of April, 1889, and that you then did not tell him you were out of the firm. Do you recollect any such conversation?—A. The only conversation I recollect having with him was in the St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, and I did not tell him I was out of the firm because I did not think it was any of his business. I told it to Murphy, however. He asked me if I had sold out, and I said I had.

Q. When did Murphy ask you that?—A. It was the following winter after I sold out. It was in January or February of 1889, I happened to be in Montreal and met them at the St. Lawrence Hall.

Q. Murphy asked you the question direct?—A. Yes.

Q. Did McGreevy ask the question?—A. No; he did not.

Q. If he had asked you would you have told him?—A. Yes; I would have. I did not think it was necessary to volunteer any information on the subject.

Q. Did you ever receive the letter from Mr. McGreevy, a copy of which has been produced here, dated April, 1889?—A. No; I do not think I did.

Q. Did you ever see it?—A. No; I do not think I did. I overhauled all my letters and could not find any such document.

Q. Did you hear anything of any such letter?—A. I heard one time when I was in Quebec that there was such a letter.

Q. From whom did you hear it?—A. Somebody in the office. I do not know whether it was Nicholas Connolly or Michael or the book-keeper. I think it was Nicholas.

Q. Did Robert McGreevy ever speak to you about having written such a letter to you or a letter similar in character to the contents of that letter?—A. No.

Q. Had you any intimate relations with Robert McGreevy?—A. No.

Q. Had you often any business conversations with him?—A. We would meet occasionally in the office in Quebec.

Q. Had you ever any communication or conversation of any kind with Thomas McGreevy about the affairs of the firm?—A. I never had. Did you say conversation?

Q. Yes.—A. All the conversation I had with him, as I repeated here before, was in relation to the security that was to be released. I may have seen him down on the works, and he would ask me how we were getting along, but nothing more.

Q. But you never had any dealings with him except about getting the security released? Were you ever informed that any money of the firm had directly or indirectly been paid to Thomas McGreevy?—A. I never heard of it.

Q. Did you ever hear, or were you ever informed directly or indirectly, that any money of the firm had ever been paid to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I did not; I never heard anything of the kind.

Q. Then, if Mr. Murphy states, as I think he did, that some time after he states he made a payment of $10,000 to Sir Hector Langevin—not at the time but some time afterwards—you knew of it, is that true or not?—A. It is not true, I knew about the charges in the book; I never looked over the books myself.

Q. Did you ever know, or were you ever told, that any of the moneys that were charged in the books, were paid to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I never heard anything of the kind. I heard there was charges of money of the Company paid out without any inspection.

Q. In other words that there were large items charged to expenses, unexplained?—A. Unexplained, yes.

Q. Had that anything to do with your desire to get out of the firm?—A. Well, the $22,000 had something to do with it, and other things coming afterwards I knew very little about, and as I have stated here I was not in Quebec, but was absent from the beginning of June 1885 until November, and in May 1886 until November, and the charges you find there I don't know anything about.

Q. Did you examine the books yourself?—A. Never. I sent my own book keeper and trusted to him altogether.

Q. Mr. Kimmitt?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever hear, or have any knowledge or information, as to the present of jewellery to Mr. Perley?—A. I never heard of it until I heard of it in this room.

Q. Had you any interest in the contract for the gates?—A. It seems I had not.

Q. Well, should you have had?—A. I should have thought I had. It was Connolly telegraphed me to British Columbia if the firm would bid for the gates, and I replied to him "yes."

Q. And Mr. Connolly bid for the gates on his own account, and I see by the Accountant's report here, the other four members of the firm divided the profits amongst them and left you out in the cold?—A. It looks that way.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. When did you discover that?—A. I discovered it here.

Q. Did you not know that you were not interested?—A. I heard Nicholas Connolly had the contract himself, but never knew there was a division of profits, the way that was stated here since this investigation.

Q. You never knew that the other members of the firm were interested with Nicholas Connolly?—A. No; I did not.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. You had no interest in the South-wall?—A. No.

Q. Did you expect any in the South-wall?—A. I did not; I did not wish for it, and if I had been asked to join, I would not have joined.

Q. But the contract for the gates, it was different?—A. It was different. I thought it was a thing belonging to that work; I had not sold out of it at the time. If I had sold out, I would have thought differently.

Q. Mr. Murphy was questioned as to a transaction with Colonel Forsyth, and he stated that you authorized the charging of the amount paid to Colonel Forsyth, to the firm?—A. I authorized the charging of an amount that I thought was a disputed account for timber.

Q. Which was the firm's business?—A. Which was the firm's business; that was what I thought it was for.

Q. Did you understand that the claim arose out of some private or individual transaction of Murphy's with Colonel Forsyth, about some grading on a railroad?—A. No; I did not.

Q. Were you aware of any dispute about that?—A. I did not know there was any dispute; I heard Murphy had something to do with the grading of the road.

Q. Had Murphy been getting timber from Colonel Forsyth?—A. I understood so.

Q. And you understood there was a dispute in reference to some of that timber?—A. That is what I thought at the time.

Q. And you were under that belief when you gave your consent to charging that account to the firm?—A. I gave consent, yes.

Q. Under that belief, though?—A. Under that belief.

Q. Do you recollect what Murphy said about it, or how it came about?—A. No, I don't recollect that.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. What was the railway?—A. I don't know anything about it at all. I know nothing about it, but I understood Murphy and somebody else took it.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Was the road far from Quebec?—A. It is the upper end.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. I suppose you had a pretty clear idea of what the railway was for, and how came to be started?—A. No, I was not one of the contractors.

Q. That was not my question.—A. I know it is not.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Were you one of the candidates?—A. Well no, not exactly.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Was it a political railway?—A. I don't know anything about the politics down there.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Was that in the early part of 1887?—A. I suppose so.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Was there any member of the House of Commons that expected to reach here on that road?—A. Well, I scarcely think they would reach here. They might reach the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway and get round here.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Did you ever receive any salary, or allowance, or expenses, or anything else out of the firm?—A. Never.

Q. Not even in connection with British Columbia?—A. Not any.

Q. Did you base a claim for any allowances or travelling expenses?—A. I made a claim the first year I was there, for about $600 for expenses going to British Columbia and remaining there about four months—it is an expensive place to live in.

Q. $600 was a very large claim, was it allowed?—A. Mr. Murphy was very economical; he wanted to economize at the time, and he would not allow it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You were overruled?—A. I just wanted to find out what people would do. $500 or $600 was not much in all when we were lavishing thousands in donations here and there.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. I notice that there were some pretty handsome profits from the British Columbia work?—A. They were very handsome profits. It was a combination of circumstances which made them so. In the first place the work was well managed. In the next place there was a fine quarry, which is the great source of expense as a general rule. In this case the quarry was an admirable one; it was easy of access and easily worked. About that time also the C.P.R. was just completed, labour was abundant, and those two years, 1885-86, things were very dull in California and we had all the skilled labour that we required. Instead of paying $5 a day for stone cutters, as we expected to pay, we only paid $3.50 a day, which is a gain of 40 per cent.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You got out your stone very reasonably?—A. Very cheap, and the cutting and everything else connected with it.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. There was not much loss made on the different alterations from time to time?—A. Nothing very extensive.

Q. Were there not large gains made in the alterations?—A. There was some gain I know in the increased size of stone.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. And the recourcing?—A. And the recourcing.

Q. About how much would you say?—A. I could not tell you. I would not attempt it because I had not the figures. However, there was nothing done there that had not been done at the Dock in Quebec.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. There was a circular head also?—A. I think you will have to leave that question for our Engineer. He has the facts and figures for that and he can give it better than I could.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. There was no loss on that?—A. There was no loss, but a gain to the Dock of 50 feet in length.

Q. And a gain to the contractors?—A. As I understood we were paid for the circular head by the cubical contents of the stone there and nothing more. It was an expensive part of the work, the stones having to be cut circular for that.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. It would appear that the circular head gave 50 feet additional length of dock without increasing the expense?—A. As near as I understand it. I cannot go into that, however, because I do not know. I understood that the invert to the second entrance head, as it is called—it is the most foolish thing in the world except where there is a succession of docks opening one into the other—the masonry that was in the proposed second entrance and the expense of building it would have come to as much if not more, than the circular head itself. I am told that that is the case, but not of my own knowledge.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You had an increase of $35,000?—A. I am told that was never paid. Our Engineer told me it was not paid; he tells me positively it is not in the estimate.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. That forms no part of your claim against the Government?—A. Not at all.

Q. You did it for nothing?—A. We got paid for the masonry we cut. We are like lawyers we do not work for nothing.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. Your claim against the Government arises out of the delay and detention caused by the construction of the caisson?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you any knowledge of Mr. Murphy's antecedents in New York at the time he became a member of your firm?—A. I had not.

Q. When did you first learn of that?—A. Some time after he became a registered member of the firm.

Q. How?—A. By some person sending me a newspaper called the Sun published in New York.

Q. It contained a paragraph on the subject?—A. Yes.

Q. That was some time after he was registered as a member of the firm?—A. Yes; some time afterwards. Had I known his antecedents before, I should not have allowed him to enter the firm.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. When did you hear that?—A. About a year and a-half afterwards. He was a registered member of the firm immediately after he went to Quebec.

Q. That was in 1881?—A. I would not be positive about it.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. When did you first become acquainted with Murphy?—A. In March or April 1880.

Q. Had you had any business transactions with him at that time?—A. None whatever. Our books were brought up from Quebec to St. Catharines for audit—a sort of audit.

Q. Did you ever lend or borrow money from him at the time?—A. No, sir, I did not require it. If I wanted to borrow money, it would not be from such people as Mr. Murphy.

Q. You did not know him then?—A. No. I would not go to a stranger for money.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You did not borrow $3,000 from him?—A. I did not.

Q. There is no reason why you should not?—A. A very good reason.

Q. Why?—A. Because I did not want it.

Q. Did the firm borrow any from him?—A. I do not know anything about that.

Q. You did not sign a note for the firm for that amount?—A. I do not know that I did. I have no recollection of signing a note for any such sum.

Q. To Murphy?—A. No. I do not think you can show me a note with my name or for that purpose either.

By Mr. Oster :

Q. At page 180 of the printed Evidence, Mr. Murphy, in giving his testimony with reference to a payment of $10,000 alleged to have been made by the firm to Sir Hector Langevin, says: "Q. Mr. Larkin was there?—A. He was either there, or his agent, Mr. Kimmitt, who had a power of attorney from him. Q. And yet you said Mr. Larkin was there?—A. I believe Mr. Larkin was there. Q. Where did the discussion take place?—A. In the office. Q. At Quebec?—A. Yes. Q. In the office of the company?—A. In the office of the company. Q. And the two Connollys were there?—A. I do not know whether Michael was there; Nicholas was there." This was with reference to the payment of $10,000 in two fives. At the time of the examination the date is not immediately given. What do you say to that statement?—A. I say, personally, I know nothing about it. As far as any person representing me with power of attorney, immediately after the elections of 1887 I went to British Columbia. The audit had not closed then and I gave Kimmitt a power of attorney to sign the audits for me, as I did not know when I would be back.

Q. We come on further, and it is at the auditing of the books: "Q. Was it in 1888?—A. We would begin, say, in the spring, at an early date, to audit the books for the previous year. Q. So the discussion would be in 1888, then?—A. I suppose so." Did any such matter come to your knowledge?—A. No.

Q. I speak generally, not only as to your being present when it was discussed; but it is suggested that the discussion may have taken place with Mr. Kimmitt, who represented you. Did Mr. Kimmitt represent you?—A. He told me after my return from British Columbia that sums of money had been paid, and he could not get any vouchers for them.

Q. In either 1887 or 1888 did you ever hear of a payment to Sir Hector?—A. I did not.

Q. Either by discussion with your partners or hearing it through Mr. Kimmitt?—A. No.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Before you leave that, did you hear of payments to Perley or McGreevy?—A. To what McGreevy?

Q. Thomas?—A. No; I did not hear.

Q. So far as your payments to Sir Hector, they stand in the same position as the payments made to McGreevy and Perley?—A. I did not hear of any of them.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you agree to them?—A. If they were paid to the parties they would not be mentioned to me, you may be sure.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Then it is said you had something to do with the suggested changes in British Columbia, and the mistake the firm made in asking for the substitution of granite for sandstone. You are said to have been in communication with Mr. Perley arranging that matter?—A. I never had any arrangement with Mr. Perley about that.

Q. You remember there is a letter from Mr. Michael Connolly to Mr. O. E. Murphy, in which he said: "I am sorry such a mistake should have been made," and then he speaks of Perley and you having been together?—A. That is an error. I took some part in it. I heard of the negotiations. Nicholas Connolly wired me to see that the changes were not made, that it would retard the completion of the work and they could not complete it in the time.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Have you that telegram?—A. I have not. I have not any telegrams four years later than that. I do not hoard up these things.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Do you remember the funeral of Mr. Nicholas Connolly's wife? Were you at it?—A. I was.

Q. Did you see Mr. Murphy on that occasion?—A. I did.

Q. Mr. Murphy says that upon that occasion, near Niagara Falls and in Buffalo, when you were at dinner, the question came up as to the removal of Mr. Bennett, and that Mr. Murphy was then instructed to pay as high as $5,000 to Thomas McGreevy for the removal of Bennett. What do you say as to that?—A. In the first place, on that occasion I was not at Buffalo at all. Nicholas Connolly wired me from Whitcomb, Indiana, where his wife died, that he was leaving there at a certain time and to make arrangements for the funeral. But the body did not arrive on the morning train at the time I expected it at Suspension Bridge. They did not arrive until after dark that evening, and I was there with the hearse and carriages to meet the party. I had not gone away from there, because I had to see to the grave, and that sort of thing, at the Falls.

Q. Was there any conversation there about the removal of Bennett?—A. No conversation took place in my presence.

Q. Did you hear of any such conversation taking place?—A. I did not hear of any discussion on that occasion. There was no discussion occurred in my presence.

Q. What was the position with reference to Bennett at that time? Were you wanting him removed?—A. No; certainly not. I had been there for the whole summer, and I have mentioned before my opinion of the man.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What year was it?—A. This occurrence mentioned now was in the latter part of December, 1885, and I had been there all the summer of 1885, and knew him very well.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You say no such conversation took place to your knowledge, nor was it in your mind at the time to have the removal of Bennett?—A. No; I would not have had him removed if I could.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Was there any present given to Bennett?—A. While he was in British Columbia?

Q. No; in the east?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember the present given to him?—A. Yes.

Q. What was it?—A. A ring.

Q. When was it given?—A. It was given in February, 1888, when he was taking his departure and leaving Canada altogether.

Q. Who contributed?—A. The firm. It was suggested to me by Michael Connolly that we should give something to Bennett to remember us by.

Q. How much did it cost?—A. $112. He was on the eve of leaving the country, and I never expected to see him again, and I have not seen him since.

By Mr. German :

Q. Did you see Murphy at all on the occasion of Mrs. Connolly's funeral?—A. Yes; certainly he was there.

Q. Did you have a meeting there either before or after the funeral that day?—A. We had dinner at Ellis' Hotel at the Bridge, and we started for home immediately—I for home and he for Quebec, I suppose.

Q. You and he were at dinner?—A. There were some three or four there. Albert Chatfield, of St. Catharines, was there, and I think my book-keeper was there.

Q. Was there any discussion between you about this?—A. No discussion.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. On that payment of $10,000 there is some confusion, from the fact that both Nicholas and Murphy are alleged to have paid money to Sir Hector. Did you know of either or any of them?—A. I did not.

Q. Then, as I understand it, all you know of irregular payments is this $25,000 and $22,000?—A. That is all.

Q. Do you want to say that, although $170,000 seems to have been paid irregularly, you only knew of these?—A. I knew of these. There was the $25,000 which I knew about, and the $22,000 which was for election purposes.

Q. Did you know of other demands made upon the firm?—A. I did not. There was a demand from Murphy at one time; $5,000 was asked for.

Q. Is that the $5,000 that is referred to in your letter of February, 1886?—A. I wish I had the letter that that was a reply to.

Q. The letter (Exhibit "F7"), reads: "I have just got your letter of the 17th inst. Our friends' call for another $5,000, on account of British Columbia, is not in accordance with the agreement." What agreement is referred to there?—A. At the close of the work in 1885 there was $50,000, to our credit with the Harbour Commissioners—that is, dredging, Cross-wall, and the rest of it.

Q. The division of profits?—A. Yes; I contended no division should be made. The Quebec Harbour works was largely indebted to the Lévis Dock. I think it was at one time $140,000 indebted. Some of this had been paid off; but I contended there should be no division as long as there was an indebtedness.

Q. Who were the friends referred to in this letter: "Our friends' call for another $5,000 on account of B.C. is not in accordance with the agreement we had when the $50,000 was divided"?—A. I used the same terms as the letter.

Q. Well, give me your explanation. First, who were the "friends" who called?—A. That I could not tell you, but my explanation in wording it in that way is this—

Q. Now, that is a letter addressed by you to O. E. Murphy. What I want to know is, who the "calling friends" were, and what was the agreement, and also about "another" being given?—A. Yes; subject to that meaning, but that is not intended. There was no $5,000 given from the time of the $50,000 until the writing of that letter. All I know of the $5,000 is, it simply means the $5,000 in addition to the $50,000 that was divided.

Q. Who were the "friends" that called?—A. The "friends" are mysterious individuals to me.

Q. You spoke of them as "our friends"?—A. I simply meant the friends there as it is in the letter.

Q. "Our friends"?—A. Precisely—the same words used in Murphy's letter; I don't know who they are.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Let us have the letter?—A. I have not got it, my dear fellow; I would be most happy to give it to you if I had.

Q. Are you sure "our friends" is there?—A. Yes; I am sure it was there. You will find it in some of the letters. You have not got all these letters. Wait until you get all of them, and you will find "our friends" right along.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Whenever you used that in your correspondence, to whom did you refer?—A. To whoever Mr. Owen Murphy called "our friends"; I am not quite certain who they were.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. And you never asked him?—A. I did not want to go into these things at all.

Q. You never asked him?—A. I have no recollection of asking him. One of "our friends" I supposed to be Thomas McGreevy; the others I know nothing about.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. You did not want to know?—A. I did not want to know, to tell you the truth.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. This letter calls for some explanation from you, and I think it is right that you should have the opportunity of giving an explanation?—A. Just what I want.

Q. There is another sentence here—"bear in mind, my dear fellow, that there is a large amount due you, Connolly and myself, and that if we continue donating as we have been doing there will be nothing left to pay us, except old plant." This is the one in which we have got the eleventh commandment "keep the eleventh commandment in view"—that is "look out for yourself." Do you remember this?—A. I do very distinctly.

Q. And you have no other explanation?—A. The explanation about the cheques is we had donated $20,000, and we had donated $25,000, and I thought we were donating more than our means would allow.

Q. There is a question my learned friend, Mr. Geoffrion, suggests, and that is in reference to this part of the letter "should we get an order to lengthen the Dock 100 feet or even 75 feet I would be quite willing that $5,000 should be given at once"?—A. Well yes, I can explain that. It would cost as much to start $100,000 of work as it does $50,000 and when you get there to the quarries, and everything opened it would be very easy to get another change of 75 feet.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. And who were to get the $5,000?—A. The parties who got all the rest.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. "Our friends"?—A. "Our friends," yes.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Do you mean the parties who got the enlargement of the Dock for you?—A. Oh no; the parties to whom the $22,000 and the $25,000, and various other little sums were given, and donations, were the parties I supposed would get it.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. There was a mysterious stranger and Thomas McGreevy?—A. Mysterious strangers. I said one of the friends I looked upon as Thomas McGreevy.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You said a mysterious stranger, was not that so?—A. It was so certainly; not a stranger, but strangers.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Could you form any opinion as to who those distinguished strangers were?—A. I think not.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you suspect they were influential at Court?—A. I don't know anything about it, and as I said before I did not want to know.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. What did you know of the relations of the firm with Thomas McGreevy?—A. Mr. Murphy led me to believe he was on most intimate terms with him, that is all I know. I don't know that he stated so.

Q. Well did you know anything more?—A. No.

Q. Are you sure about that?—A. Yes, he represented to me anything he required to be done he could get Thomas McGreevy to do it.

Q. In this record we have in your hand writing a letter marked Exhibit "L 8," and dated January 2nd, 1885, containing this sentence "I hope that Uncle Thomas will succeed in getting the percentage"—A. Yes, that is all; I wanted it very badly too at the time.

Q. What is your explanation of that particular language used?—A. The percentage?

Q. No "Uncle Thomas"?—A. It was common conversation used among the people of Quebec "Uncle Thomas."

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. What had he to do with it?—A. He was one of the Harbor Commissioners and they retained 10 per cent.

Q. Was not the money as a matter of fact with the Government?—A. I was not supposed to know where the money was, all I wanted to know was who were the people to pay it.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Who do you mean by "Uncle Thomas"?—A. Thomas McGreevy.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Your interview with Sir Hector Langevin was in January, 1885?—A. What does it say there?

Q. Was the interview you have been speaking of in January, 1885?—A. I think so.

Q. Your letter, Exhibit "M8" is the letter to Mr. Murphy describing what took place at the interview?—A. Yes; that is the time I wanted to change the security.

Q. That is the only interview?—A. Yes.

Q. I am speaking of the change of security?—A. Yes, when I brought the certificate from the Bank of Toronto down to substitute for the Union Bank certificate.

Q. That is on record in your letter? All that I want to know is, if that is what you are referring to?—A. That is all I was referring to.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. On the 28th February, 1885, you wrote a letter to Mr. Murphy in which you say, "My dear Sir, Your letter of the 26th instant received and contents carefully noted. I cannot see why our friends"—A. Excuse me, will you be good enough to read the letter, that is the answer to the one you are reading. I handed them in with my ledger, and they will explain what you are wanting.

Q. Well, let me read the extract, "I cannot see why our friends should be disappointed, or that they have cause to think that we have treated them in any way discourteously, either at Quebec or at Ottawa." What "friends" do you refer to at Quebec?—A. The friends that have always been referred to.

Q. At Quebec?—A. At Quebec—yes.

Q. Who were the friends at Ottawa?—A. The letter of the 26th February will explain that.

Q. Will you read it?

(Exhibit "C15.")

"QUEBEC HARBOUR IMPROVEMENTS,

"124, Dalhousie St., 26th February, 1885.

"P. LARKIN, Esq.

"DEAR SIR,—Your letter just arrived, and in reply, would say that our friends here are greatly disappointed in the way we have treated them both here and at Ottawa, after everything was done to suit us, then, it has to be undone again. I cannot understand Nicholas, as you know, Mr. Trutch stated, there would be a letter in Quebec, giving a detailed statement of what we wanted in the way of changes and proposed costs of the same. However, there came none, of course, when Michael's letter came to me, I had our friend send dispatch to Ottawa, stopping the substitution of granite, you see the position this places our friends in there before the Council.

"When Mr. Cloney came here, he stated that Connolly and Hume left on the 15th for here, and of course I wanted them to stop at Ottawa on there way down, and I wrote to Ottawa to that effect expecting them there to-day or to-morrow. Now, Mr. Cloney tells me that Mr. Kimmitt told him. However, after a while we will have matters mixed up somewhat in reference to Boyer coming down, he is of no use, there is none of the men from there any good, unless John Manly and young man named Drennan; these are all we want, the others are no good and of no use to us, when Manly and Drennan was leaving, I told them to come back which they agreed to. We can get all the men we want there and good ones at that—when I hired the cooks or woman one year ago, I agreed to $20 per month with Mrs. Light-heart's brother-in-law here, but when I came to settle, she told me that Mr. N. Connolly agreed with her for twenty-five, so I had to pay it; then, they want their fare paid up and down, this we will not do, any person coming here must pay there own fare both ways. The best thing I think for you to do there, is to let any person come who wants too. Then, if we want them, we can make our own terms here. In reference to Mr. Decker, Mr. McGreevy thinks we can do as well here, and that it makes a bad feeling here bringing men from above, but in his matter do as you please, and as I have spoken to you on the matter when here. Of course I write to you in this way so that we will not get all mixed up in matters of this kind. On Tuesday, I will deposit another five thousand dollars to the credit of British Columbia works. There is nothing else here worth relating to you of matters here as everything is about the same as when you were here. I expect letters from British Columbia to-morrow, I enclose letter from Ottawa which you will please return.

"Respectfully yours,

"O. E. MURPHY."

Q. Having read the letter, have you any further explanation to add to the answer you have given?—A. You asked me who were "the friends" at Quebec, and "the friends" here? I have just replied in the language used in that letter of Murphy's.

Q. Seeing that you were two partners corresponding together I want to know from you who is meant by "friends at Ottawa?"—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. What is that letter from Ottawa which was enclosed in the one Murphy sent you?—A. I do not know.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Who is the "friend" before council?—A. It is "our friends" before the Council. I cannot tell you that.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Will you kindly read this letter. Is this letter in your handwriting and signed by you?—A. Yes.

(Exhibit "D15").

"St. CATHARINES, 14th January, 1885.

"O. E. MURPHY, Esq., Quebec.

"MY DEAR SIR,—Yours of 10th to hand. I wrote you on the same day which no doubt you received yesterday. This morning I received a long letter from Nicholas. It is the first communication of any sort that I have had from him or any of the party since they left here. He writes in a cheerful strain and appears pleased with the country and matters generally. So far, I suppose, in his letter to you he has given details the same as he has to me, so there is no necessity of my repeating them. I note what you say about Perley and the drawback. We must get it some-way, otherwise we will not be able to get clear of the Union Bank for sometime, and what is of greater importance placing us in funds to carry on the B.C. work without a hitch financially. That we must avoid to keep up our reputation. Should you have an interview with Sir H. and talk over B.C. affairs make no definite arrangements until Nick's arrival as he may have things to suggest that we at present know nothing about. Dick will write Mrs. Hume to-day stating that we have a letter and that Pete is well.

"Yours truly,

"P. LARKIN."

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Who is Sir H. ?—A. Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works. The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, SATURDAY, 1st August, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m., Mr. BAKER in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works resumed

Cross-examination of Mr. P. LARKIN resumed.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. In the intercourse which you had with the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. relative to the different contracts, you had frequent interviews and communications with Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I had not.

Q. You had not?—A. No.

Q. Had you several?—A. I had probably three or four altogether. The principal ones was about the signing of the Esquimalt contract.

Q. Will you look at this document (Exhibit "M15") and say whether this is a letter written and signed by you?—A. Yes. This is written by me.

Q. Please give the date?—A. St. Catharines, April 28th, 1881.

Q. Will you read the last part which is included in pencil marks—in brackets?—A. "The Dominion Board of Arbitrators are now here. I had them all at my house last night. One of them, Simard, of Montreal, is a first cousin of Langevin's. He said that whenever I wanted anything done with Langevin to let him know. This is not a bad card."

Sir JOHN THOMPSON objected to this letter being presented in evidence.

Letter withdrawn pro tem.

Q. I find in the letter from you, dated 19th February, 1886, printed at page 184 of the Evidence, (Exhibit "F 7") that you say: "I was in Ottawa on Tuesday last and had a long interview with Mr. Perley, he assures me that the Dock will not be lengthened before completion, as Sir H. is bound to have it completed by the time specified in the contract, even if it has to be lengthened immediately afterwards." Had you an interview with Sir Hector on that occasion?—A. If I mentioned so there, I did.

Q. No, the letter does not say so. You say you had a long interview with Mr. Perley in reference to statements that would appear to have been made by Sir Hector. I want to know whether you were informed by Mr. Perley, or saw Sir Hector himself?—A. I saw Mr. Perley on that occasion. Mr. Perley told me what Sir Hector's views were on that subject.

Q. Then the same letter concluded on the next page, I see that you make the following statement: "If Trutch was removed we could get along with Bennett all right, but as long as he is under Trutch's influence we cannot." Will you explain to the Committee why you wanted Trutch to be removed?—A. I did not want him to be removed, nor did I say so. I can explain that matter. Mr. Trutch as I explained here yesterday, was, I thought, taking money from our estimates that he should not have taken, and in addition to that, he ordered a lot of work, or the Engineers through him—extra work—which was put in the estimates, and was thrown out by Mr. Trutch.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You mean deducting, not taking money?—A. Yes, deducting, I don't mean taking; and the extra work that he ordered us to do, he would not allow the Engineers to put into the monthly estimate, nor yet would he allow us for the extra stone that was put in. That is the cause of that remark.

Q. The deductions you complained of were made on account of the plant?—A. Yes.

Q. Was not Mr. Trutch acting within the limits of the contracts?—A. No, not according to my interpretation. I had better repeat it again.

Q. No, it is not necessary.—A. It will be better understood. Mr. Trutch deducted from the gross estimate monthly the ten per cent., and from the balance he deducted the $4,000 odd. I contended he should have deducted the $4,000 from the gross estimate and the ten per cent. from the balance. That is one reason, and not allowing for the extra work was the other.

Q. That is the reason why you wanted Trutch removed?—A. I did not say I wanted him removed.

Q. You wanted Bennett and you wanted Trutch removed?—A. I did not say so. I did not say I wanted him removed.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You wanted him to stay?—A. I was not very particular whether he remained or not.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You also say that "Trutch was very much annoyed before the order was given to measure the increased masonry." Is that a statement to your personal knowledge?—A. Yes.

Q. Who made the change? Mr. Trutch was the man to do it.—A. The change was made by the Chief Engineer here.

Q. Had you anything to do with making that change?—A. I had not.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you know if anybody had?—A. Yes, the rest of the party had. Those who were here.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. At page 206 I see a letter (Exhibit "K 8") written by Michael Connolly dated 17th December 1885, in which he says "Captain Larkin has gone over now to make a social call on Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe, and as I am not acquainted with Sir Hector I remained behind." Is that correct? It is dated "The Russell" Ottawa, December 17th 1885?—A. I have no recollection of calling on Sir Hector. I called on Sir Adolphe Caron, owing to the Engineers he had making surveys for forts out there, who were frequently at our office getting information from us. I spoke to him about that. I say I did not call upon Sir Hector upon that occasion.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. That statement then is incorrect?—A. Yes. I think I called on Sir Adolphe as I stated.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. On the 17th of January, 1887, you said in a letter (Exhibit "M 8") that you had an interview with Sir Hector?—A. Please read the letter.

Q. "My dear Sir,—I arrived here yesterday morning at ten o'clock. I went to the Public Works Department and had an interview with Sir Hector and gave him the Bank of Toronto certificate to take the place of the Union Bank one." Do you remember that?—A. Very well.

Q. You also said: "Sir Hector is not going to do anything in the British Columbia Dock matter until Trutch arrives; then I think all the changes we looked for will be made; that is the inference to be drawn from what Sir Hector and Mr. Perley say." Was that inference drawn by you from that interview?—A. It was drawn by me.

Q. From conversations with both?—A. Yes, with both.

Q. You stated yesterday that you thought it advisable to take a partner in Quebec on account of your being strangers, from the place. Will you explain why you took Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. I think I stated so yesterday.

Q. Repeat it please?—A. It was to have some person, as we were not treated fairly by the Engineers, and I thought by the Harbour Board, to state our case to the Harbour Board, who had some influence with them. That is in relation to the Dock. That was my reason.

Q. Were you aware that Robert McGreevy had some influence with the Board?—A. Certainly; his brother was a Commissioner.

Q. You had in view his brother in taking him as a partner?—A. Yes, certainly I had. His brother would listen to him sooner than to us.

Q. Had you any conversation with Mr. Thomas McGreevy about that when you took his brother in?—A. None whatever.

Q. Did he make any statement to you? Did he talk to you about his brother being connected with your firm?—A. No.

Q. How could you believe that it would be an influence upon Mr. Thomas McGreevy if he was not aware that his brother was interested with you?—A. That is easily arrived at. All these representations as to the influence Robert McGreevy had were given me by Murphy.

Q. You were satisfied that Thomas McGreevy must have known it?—A. I do not know anything about that.

Q. How could it influence Mr. Thomas McGreevy if he was not made aware that his brother was interested?—A. I looked upon it that Robert McGreevy would have the ear of his brother more than an outsider, and he could state our case.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. It was not to the Board; it was Thomas McGreevy. You did not yourself make Robert McGreevy a partner in order that he might make any representations to the Harbour Commissioners as a Board, but that he might make private representations to his brother Thomas?—A. And through his brother to the Board.

Q. But not to the Board direct?—A. No, I did not look upon him as making representation direct.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you let any of the Harbour Commissioners know that Robert McGreevy was your partner?—A. I did not.

Q. Do you know whether Thomas McGreevy was informed of that partnership?—A. I do not know that he was.

Q. In spite of that you gave thirty per cent. interest to Robert McGreevy?—A. I did not.

Q. Your partners did?—A. Yes.

Q. And you went on sanctioning that, and you shared in the donations of the two amounts of $25,000 and $22,000, and divers other amounts?—A. I think I fully explained that $25,000 yesterday, as far as I was concerned. It was distinctly understood that it was a loan to Robert McGreevy and not a gift to him.

Q. That is one $25,000?—A. Yes.

Q. The other was for election purposes?—A. I stated so here yesterday.

Q. And the $22,000, what was that for?—A. I know nothing about what it was for. It was only represented to me by Murphy that he had promised it, and if it were not given it would be injurious to the firm.

Q. You stated that the partnership was registered at Lévis. Was it registered as having Robert McGreevy as a partner?—A. No.

Q. Why did you hide that?—A. I had no particular object in hiding it.

Q. Did you not know that the law of the Province of Quebec subjects a person to heavy penalty if registration is not made?—A. I never looked upon it as a partnership, between Robert McGreevy and the firm. I looked upon it that he would receive a certain interest, but not as a partner.

Q. It amounted then to a donation to him?—A. Not as a partner.

Q. Then in what capacity was he connected with the firm?—A. That he should for his interest do anything he could. The interest, as far as I was concerned, was that he should put in 30 per cent. of all the funds that was necessary to get new plant.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. How could he put that in without his being a partner?—A. He got an interest.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Without ever putting in a cent?—A. Not one.

Q. Did you exact anything from him?—A. I left that to my partners to do. They were in Quebec and I was not. I remonstrated on several occasions because they did not force him.

Q. Did you remonstrate against Robert McGreevy drawing his money at the division of the profits?—A. He had the money drawn before it was made out.

Q. And you allowed him to participate in the contract without exacting one cent from him?—A. I told you just now that I left that to my partners. They were the managers. There were only two of us furnishing the money—Nicholas Connolly and myself. I spoke to him on several occasions.

Q. I want to know all about the interest you found in taking Robert McGreevy in? You say he did not put in one cent of money?—A. No.

Q. Is his name on the registry as a partner in the Registration office at Lévis, or I presume it is in the Court House at Quebec?—No.

Q. You never informed Mr. Thomas McGreevy that Robert was your partner?—A. Never.

Q. Had you no conversation with him about it?—A. I had no conversation with him on the subject.

Q. You never spoke about the matter to one of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I did not.

Q. You never said to any man or communicated to any one that Robert McGreevy was a partner.—That fact was kept hidden?—A. I have mentioned it to people that he had an interest.

Q. When?—A. I cannot say. I have mentioned it, however.

Q. To whom?—A. I cannot tell to whom.

Q. Is it not a fact that the partnership was unknown generally to the public?—A. I am not supposed to know what the public knows.

Q. You heard Mr. Dobell swear here the other day that he did not know it; that Thomas McGreevy denied it. Therefore the public did not know it?—A. I do not know whether it was known by many, known by any, or known by none.

Q. If the Harbour Commissioners did not know it; if Thomas McGreevy was not informed of it, whom did you expect to have the ear of, by getting Robert McGreevy in as a partner and giving him 30 per cent. There must have been some object when you were to deal with millions?—A. When Mr. Robert McGreevy was taken in I supposed that his brother would know that he was in; at least, as receiving a certain interest in the work; I supposed he would know that. I did not ask his brother or any body else.

Q. Then you supposed that Thomas McGreevy's personal influence on the other Commissioners would be sufficient to carry your point?—A. I looked upon him to fairly state our objections and our protests and as a practical man, when at the works with the other Commissioners, he would be in a position to explain matters to the Commissioners when it was needed.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You expected Thomas McGreevy was to get justice for you?—A. That is about all I asked.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you ever write a letter in which you would have said "urge our friends to use their influence with Sir Hector Langevin"?—A. For what?

Q. For obtaining something in the interest of your firm?—A. If you will show me the letter I will tell you.

Q. I want to know from you. Did you ever suggest or ever ask that from Murphy?—A. Show me the letter.

Mr. CAMERON objected to the question unless the letter were produced.

Mr. TARTE.—I withdraw the question.

WITNESS.—I will answer the question. I did not, without you show me the letter.

Q. Did you ever urge Mr. Murphy to tell those whom you call your "friends" to use their influence with Sir Hector Langevin?—A. For what?

Q. For obtaining advantages for your firm?—A. What are the advantages?

Q. Answer my question?—A. I want the letter.

Q. Answer my question?—A. You asked me if I wrote such a letter. I answer that I have no recollection. If you have such a letter show it to me.

Mr. TARTE hands letter to witness.

WITNESS.—I recollect that letter very well.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. By whom was the letter written and to whom?—A. This was written on the 18th of December, 1880, by me to Michael Connolly, and reads as follows :

(Exhibit "E 15.")

"ST. CATHARINES, December 18th, 1880.

"MY DEAR MIKE,—On Wednesday and Thursday of this week I was in Toronto and met Tomlinson at the Queen's, we had a long talk about the Dock, he said that he was afraid that he unintentionally did us some injury in the following manner: Before leaving Quebec he called at the Commissioner's office and told Valin (Verrett being present) that the foundations were bad in design and that the walls would have to be taken down and new foundations put in and that it was impossible for any one to work from the present plans. He supposed that what he said would be strictly confidential but Verrett at once went and told Pilkington. Old Pilky got on his ear and said that in any case we were responsible for the work and that he would not give us any more estimates. Tomlinson added that the Government would not allow an injustice to be done to any contractor and that we need not be alarmed.

What about Shanly, has he been appointed yet? I have heard nothing definite about it. I am afraid that Parliament duties absorbs all of Langevin's time and that he is neglecting it. Urge your friends to immediate action. Tomlinson has sent his report in to the Minister. He says it is short and to the point. I did not ask direct any more information on the subject but judge from remarks dropped in course of conversation that it is very favorable to us.

Write on receipt and give me all the information you have. When will N. K. be here? I expected him some time ago.

"Yours truly,

"P. LARKIN."

Q. The friends of that date are the same friends as to day?—A. The friends of that day—well, they were Mr. Murphy's friends, and some of the others round there, I supposed he was getting.

Q. Did you know at the time that Michael Connolly was very intimate with Thomas McGreevy; he wrote the letters we have produced here? No answer.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. You said that your object in having Mr. Robert McGreevy as a partner, was to be able to have your case placed before the Harbour Commissioners, and you also said better place before the Engineers?—A. I don't think I mentioned Engineers at all, I mentioned the Harbour Board but did not say anything about the Engineers.

Q. Yes you did?—A. I don't recollect that I did.

Q. You knew the Chief Engineer was Chief Engineer of the Public Works Department?—A. He was not then.

Q. But you knew the contracts were granted by the Minister of Public Works, at all events?—A. They had to be approved by the Minister of Public Works—I so understood

Q. And the appointment of the Engineers had to be ratified by the Minister of Public Works?—A. Well, I don't know whether he ratified the appointment of the Engineers that were there then, or not.

Q. You knew that the money at the disposal of the Harbour Commissioners at Quebec, was obtained by virtue of a law passed by the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada?—A. I did not enquire very closely into that—I supposed it was money from the Dominion Government, to their aid.

Q. Were you not watching the Estimates every year to see the amount of estimates that was put in, and that the Commissioners were authorised to issue debentures?—A. I was not. I did not know where the money was got. We had the contract, and I supposed when it was done we would be paid for it.

Q. You went blind at it?—A. There was nothing blind as to that, my dear sir. If you enter into a contract with a corporation like the Quebec Harbour Board you feel sure you will get your pay, just the same as you would from the Government.

Q. As a matter of fact did you know that the Harbour Commissioners were under direct control by the majority who were appointed by the Government of the Dominion?—A. I knew nothing about it when I went to Quebec.

Q. But when you got Robert McGreevy as a partner did you know?—A. I did not.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

A. You stated yesterday that you had nothing to do with the preparation for the tenders for the Cross-wall?—A. I had not.

Q. Were you not in Quebec when they were signed?—A. I was in Quebec when they were put in, but I did not sign them to my recollection, I signed them only when the contract was being signed. My name was not on that tender when it was put in; that is my recollection.

Q. But when you were in Quebec, you knew that one tender was put in the name of the firm?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were acquiescing in it?—A. Certainly, but I did not see the figures or help to make it.

Q. You did not see the figures?—A. No, I did not.

Q. There was also another tender in the name of John Gallagher?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that the same tender was prepared in the same room, and at the same time, as the one of the firm?—A. I suppose so; I know nothing to the contrary; I was not there when they were prepared.

Q. Is it not a fact the cheque of $7,500 accompanying John Gallagher's tender was your own cheque, or rather was made good with your own money?—A. Yes; I brought a deposit, or rather a certified cheque, to Quebec, with a view of putting it in with our tender. Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s cheques, I understand, were put in with my tender, and my cheque went in with Gallagher's.

Q. Are you sure it was your cheque?—A. I was told so; I would not be certain whether it was or was not.

Q. Is it not a fact the necessary money was deposited in the Imperial Bank in St. Catharines, and the cheque was drawn by John Gallagher?—A. No; I don't think that; I don't see how it could be.

Q. At page 85 of the Evidence I find the following letter (Exhibit "W 3") coming from Mr. Ennis:

" DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS,
" OTTAWA, 9th June, 1883.

" SIR,—An Order in Council having issued to allow Mr. John Gallagher to withdraw his tender for the construction of a proposed Cross-wall, Quebec Harbour works, and return to him the bank cheque for $7,500 submitted with his offer, I am directed to enclose herewith the cheque in question to be transmitted by you to Mr. Gallagher.

" I have the honour to be, Sir,
" Your obedient servant,
" F. H. ENNIS,
" Secretary."

Does this refresh your memory?—A. No; I don't know anything about that. I don't see how that would be required, for it is my cheque; that is the only cheque I know about.

Q. That was not your tender?—A. I have no doubt the firm put my cheque in, I believe, with the tender.

Q. But it turns out by the public documents they put in Gallagher's cheque. How can you explain that?—A. I cannot explain it, as I don't know anything about it.

Q. It was your money then?—A. One cheque was mine.

Q. So you were aware that two tenders were put in, in which you were interested?—A. Yes, I was aware of it; I was told so by the other members of the firm.

Q. In which you were interested?—A. Yes.

Q. After these tenders were put in, I think you came to Ottawa?—A. I did; not on matters relating to Larkin, Connolly & Co., though.

Q. Did you see Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I have no recollection of seeing him.

Q. At page 16 of the Evidence there is a letter (Exhibit "B 2") from Mr. Thomas McGreevy, dated Ottawa, 5th May, where he says:—"Larkin was here yesterday. I told him that it would be useless to get Peters out of the way as it would be tantamount to giving the contract to the highest tenderer, that you would have to stick to Beaucage's tender as it was fair." Do you recollect now having had any conversation about this tender?—A. No, I don't recollect anything about it; I don't think I saw Mr. McGreevy.

Q. You don't think you saw Mr. McGreevy?—A. I don't think I did; I have not the slightest recollection. If I had, I think I would have had some recollection.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. About that time did you send a telegram to Quebec to your firm stating that you would have to stick to No. 2 tender—that is Beaucage's tender. Did you send such a telegram or not?—A. I do not recollect sending such a telegram.

Q. Is it possible you may have sent such a one?—A. I do not think it is possible. I was here on business connected with the Welland Canal and not with Larkin, Connolly & Co. at all.

Q. It is not possible you may have seen Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I say I have no recollection of it. I do not say it is not possible, but I have no recollection of it.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You recollect to have been here early in May. Can you explain why Gallagher's cheque was not returned at the same time as the other cheques, as represented by Mr. Ennis at the foot of page 86? Had you anything to do with the retaining of that cheque?—A. Nothing whatever. I do not know anything about it.

Q. Now, you state that you were anxious to sell, and you sold your interest in the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., in what year?—A. On the 3rd or 4th of March, 1888.

Q. Had you not been urged by your partners since several years to sell, and you were refusing?—A. Urged by them to sell? By what partners?

Q. By the Connollys. Were you invited to sell your share, and were they offering to buy?—A. No. Nicholas Connolly and myself were talking of Robert McGreevy and Murphy once, to sell out our interest to them.

Q. But they would not buy?—A. We could not come to terms. I would have sold out quick enough.

Q. At page 207, (Exhibit "N8") under date 12th February, 1885, Michael Connolly writes as follows: "Captain Larkin is here yet, and gets a letter from Kimmitt occasionally, one of which he read to me, or rather a part of it, a day or two ago, from which I learned that Nick has been telling Kimmitt it would be a good plan for Larkin and him to sell out, and Dick advises Larkin to the same effect. But it is no use in talking; you have formed a correct estimate of Larkin, for I firmly believe one could not drive him out, as you say with a club, for he entirely disapproves of the advice Dick sends him. There is no way of getting rid of Larkin, except to leave him out in any work that is to be taken."—A. The first I ever saw of British Columbia was in July, 1885. There is something wrong about that. I arrived first in British Columbia, at Victoria, on the 26th July, 1885.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did I understand you to say that you did not write that letter?—A. There is a reference to my being in British Columbia, and I say I was not there for months after.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Had you been urged by Kimmitt to sell?—A. Yes.

Q. Why didn't you sell?—No offers had been made. Kimmitt had urged it but no offers had been made by the other members of the firm. Had they made me an offer that I considered favourable I would have taken it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you take some part in the intended change from sandstone to granite in the Esquimalt Dock?—A. Murphy and McGreevy spoke to me when I was in Quebec, but they were negotiating about it long before I knew anything about it. My knowledge of it is, that that originated in British Columbia and not with the people here at all.

Q. Did you urge or did others?—I had nothing to do with urging at all. I did not; never.

Q. You never urged your friends to have that change made?—A. I could not do so in face of the telegram which I received from Nicholas Connolly, and which I mentioned yesterday, to see that no such change was made. Other parties may have wanted that change made, but I did not in the face of the telegram from Nicholas Connolly.

Q. Did you urge your friends not to have the change made?—A. I showed Murphy the telegram I had received from Nicholas Connolly.

Q. You did nothing towards that to your recollection?—A. No.

Q. You did not express your opinion as to whether it would be better to have granite or sandstone—nothing at all?—A. I do not know whether I expressed an opinion or not. I was guided by a letter I think I received from British Columbia. I said something in one of my letters: "You had better let the thing alone until we hear, and not take any action."

Q. Will you kindly look at this letter and see if it has been written by you?—A. Yes; that is written by me.

Q. I will point out to you the part I want read.—A. This (Exhibit "F 15") is dated St. Catharines, 24th February, 1885. The latter part has nothing to do with it.

"As to the sandstone, if they can make as much out of it as they can out of granite it would be as well to stick to the former if we can, as it is far more convenient. No doubt Nick, on investigating the matter, has come to this conclusion, and since writing you first about substituting granite and—"

WITNESS.—That is a letter not written by me, but by Nicholas Connolly to Murphy. You must not make any mistake about it, Nicholas Connolly is writing to Murphy about substituting granite.

"He is on the right track now. The last I received from Mike stated that Nick and Hume would leave some time this month."

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you ever receive any communications either from Mr. Michael Connolly or Nicholas Connolly about having that change made?—A. Except the telegram that I have mentioned.

Q. Was there no letter?—A. My recollection is that the letters were sent to Murphy, and Murphy communicated them to me.

Q. You are sure you have not received any letter from them about that?—A. I have no recollection.

Q. Will you look at this letter, dated the 18th of February, 1885, and read it?—A. This letter was written by me, and addressed to O. E. Murphy.

(Exhibit "G15.")

"ST. CATHARINES, 18th February, 1885.

"O. E. MURPHY, Esq., Quebec.

"MY DEAR SIR,—After posting my letter to you yesterday, I received a letter from Mike dated the 8th. You may have one of same date and to the same purport. In case you have not, I will give you the main points. The first is, that they are working the sandstone quarry. It has turned out first rate. A steamer calls there alternate days, making communication with the dock easy, and that the substitution of granite, even at a dollar a foot, will not pay as well as the present contract for sandstone, and Mike does not want the change. The granite is good, but hard to cut; and the quarries are 180 miles from the dock, and no regular steam communication to them as there is to the sandstone quarries. The latter is only 45 miles from the dock. Of course Nick is anxious for the lengthening, but nothing more. Better see our friends on this matter."* * * *

" Yours truly,
" P. LARKIN."

Q. This letter is dated the 18th of February. Are you aware that on the 21st of February, 1885, a Report from Mr. Perley, recommending the substitution of granite for sandstone was approved by the Minister, and that at the foot of that very document the Minister said he could not carry that Report through Council?—A. I was told about the Report having been made. Murphy told me that the Report had been made to substitute granite for sandstone.

Q. But, that it was put back to sandstone?—A. It was put back to sandstone yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. In spite of the Report of the Engineer?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. And the Minister?—A. I suppose so; I did not see the report. I know nothing about it.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Is it not a fact that the substitution of granite for sandstone would only have cost $45,000?—A. I do not know.

Q. This, at the time you were urging Murphy to urge upon your common friends to have all these things done?—A. I think, if you look that letter over, you will see there is no urging.

Q. Did you or did you not urge Murphy at the time?—A. He had all the communications about it, and if they wanted it, it was his place to urge the "friends," whoever they were, to see it was done. I did not urge him.

Q. You enquired how things were going on?—A. Perhaps, I did.

Q. Is it not a fact, that on the 17th February, 1885, you wrote a letter to Murphy, in which I find these words—read them?—A. "I have not heard what they are doing in Ottawa. I presume, things are going all right in the B. C. Matter." (Letter filed as Exhibit "H15.")

Q. Did you have numerous interviews with Mr. Perley about all these changes?

A. I have only had one interview with him as to changes. I had several interviews with him in getting percentages and that sort of thing; release of security.

Q. Did you arrange with him for some kind of a trip to Quebec with Mr. Trutch, and Mr. Perley, agreed with you, that in your interest Mr. Trutch should be taken down to Quebec?—A. To see the Dock? Yes; there was a conversation of that sort—if Mr. Trutch had time to go down to Quebec. I was to go down there with him.

Q. You state that you were pleased with Mr. Bennett?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it within your knowledge that Mr. Bennett was opposed to the recouring of the Esquimalt Dock, unless your firm signed a written statement that you would not ask for any extras for the extra quantity of stone put in?—A. Not to my own personal knowledge. I had heard there was some objection by Mr. Bennett, but it was a mistake as to asking anything additional for the size of the stone.

Q. I think you were one of the partners in the Graving Dock at Lévis?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you a partner in the supplementary contract of 1884?—A. I was.

Q. If I am not mistaken the price was $64,000 and $10,000 for the caisson?—A. For building it—yes.

Q. You undertook at the time to finish the work during that same season of 1884; it was part of the contract?—A. I believe it was.

Q. Was it completed that same season?—A. It was not; it was not built for two years.

Q. Are you in a position to tell us if besides the $74,000 that you undertook to complete the Dock for, an extra of $49,000 was paid to your firm?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. You never received the money?—A. I do not know if they received it. I do not know anything about it being received. It would appear on the books if it were. It was not there when the Dock was completed.

Q. Is it not a fact that having received the $49,000 on the 5th July, 1889, your firm put in a new claim for the Graving Dock?—A. There were some claims put in for extras. I did not know anything about them until they were all in.

Q. You have no recollection that that claim was approved by Mr. Perley on the 24th January, 1887?—A. I dare say it appears on the books, but I do not know anything about it.

Q. You have no recollection that on the 1st March, 1888, a new claim for $30,000 was put in by you and paid to you?—A. There may have been; I know nothing of it.

Q. How can you explain to us that having made such a claim to complete the Dock for $64,000 you received such a large sum for extras?—A. I cannot tell anything about that. I was very much opposed to entering into any contract for a lump sum.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You were not opposed to receiving the extra payment of $49,000?—A. No; I was not.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Is it to your knowledge that after the Dock had been shortened, that the stone that was there on the spot had been paid for to you before—to a certain amount at any rate?—A. That is the usual custom, to advance on material on the grounds.

Q. Do you know, that having received that advance, the very same stone that was going to be put in the bottom of the dock was taken back to the Harbour works at Quebec and paid for a second time?—A. No; I don't know anything about that.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Do you know whether any stone, that was paid for in the Lévis Graving Dock matter was subsequently taken by the firm, or some member of it, or some person acting for the firm, to the Quebec works, and paid for again?—A. I know there was stone taken from the Dock to the Quebec works, but that that stone was paid for at the Dock before being taken to Quebec, I know nothing about it.

Q. Do you swear it was not paid for—that it was not done?—A. I don't know anything about it; but I know in such a business there is often a lot of over stone. There is a very large quantity of stone in British Columbia we did not use.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Was there any change in the Lévis Dock that rendered the use of this stone unnecessary?—A. I do not know that there was.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Is it a fact or not that the Dock was shortened?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. How many feet?—A. I understood from the Engineers it was shortened 60 feet in the first place.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. That would leave a large amount of material?—A. Not so much as one would suppose; but the walls would have to be the same length, because the wing walls were all built. Although the dock was shortened, we had to make connection between the dock proper and the wing walls, so that we would have the same amount, except on the floor, where we would not have masonry.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. At the inception of the works you felt that you would need pretty large changes to make that Graving Dock at Lévis pay, did you not?—A. Well, I don't know anything about it; whether we really required changes or not to make it pay, personally, I don't know anything about it.

Q. Did not Sir Hector Langevin pledge himself to help you in a very considerable way in that matter?—A. To help me? Not me.

Q. Your firm, I mean?—A. I don't know that he ever did.

Q. Will you kindly read this letter?—A. It reads :

(Exhibit "I 15.")

"ST. CATHARINES, 16th June, 1881.

"MY DEAR MIKE,—I have your letter of the 12th inst. As you say, we are very much disappointed. Matters are not turning out at all as we anticipated. I am in hopes, however, that Sir Hector will not recede from what he said about furnishing the funds for work controlled by Kinipple & Morris; in that case all may be right yet, and if not the changes contemplated must be of considerable advantage if proper prices are obtained, which, no doubt, you will look sharply after. I am glad to hear that for once Hume has plucked up courage to talk plainly to Pilkington. Urge him to cultivate nerve so that in future he will be able to meet them at every point and on all occasions——"

* * * * *

"Yours truly,
"P. LARKIN."

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. To whom is that letter addressed?—A. It is written to Michael Connolly.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Was that promise made to you by Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I never had any conversation with Sir Hector upon the subject.

Q. How can you explain that letter?—A. I had such information probably from Michael Connolly.

Q. Did you know at the time that Michael Connolly was a personal friend of Sir Hector Langevin?—A. No.

Q. I think that you took a certain interest in a percentage question in 1885?—A. Yes.

Q. In what work was that?—A. There was a percentage on the harbour works; we obtained 10 per cent. on the works as well.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understand you to say you went out to British Columbia about June, 1885?—A. I landed there the 16th July, 1885.

Q. Previous to that you had no personal knowledge of the actual construction of the Graving Dock there?—A. None whatever.

Q. But you were in possession of knowledge you received in letters from Nicholas Connolly?—A. I only received one letter from Nicholas Connolly. I received most of my letters from Michael Connolly.

Q. You had most of your information from letters received from Nicholas and Michael Connolly?—A. Yes.

Q. They were on the spot?—A. Yes.

Q. And knew all about it?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you produced those letters?—A. No.

Q. That is rather unfortunate. Where are those letters you have kept back and have not produced?—A. I cannot tell you where they are at the present time. Some of them have been destroyed.

Q. Some of them were destroyed and others are not?—A. I do not know that they are not.

Q. Where are those that are not destroyed?—A. They may be in the vault in my office. There may be some there put away at the end of the year by my book-keeper. Anything that was not left there I destroyed.

Q. You can produce those?—A. If they are there.

Q. You must produce them. With reference to those destroyed, when did you destroy them?—A. I destroyed letters, as I stated before, at the end of the year.

Q. But you are speaking of some letters of which you had some particular knowledge. Do you remember so as to be enabled to swear that letters received by you from Nicholas and Michael Connolly were destroyed?—A. I remember that some of them were.

Q. Where were they destroyed?—A. In St. Catharines.

Q. About when?—A. I generally did that business about January.

Q. I am asking you with reference to specific letters which you remember were destroyed. When do you recollect they were destroyed?—A. I say I do not recollect anything about specific letters at all.

Q. I asked you with reference to specific letters received by you before you went to British Columbia—received from Michael and Nicholas Connolly—and you said you had some, but you know some were destroyed. Now, by whom were they destroyed?—A. By myself; and I should take it to be in January, 1886.

Q. Had you any special reason for destroying them?—A. Nothing more than I did not want my office lumbered up with letters.

Q. There may be some put away yet?—A. I say there may be some put away by my book-keeper. I did not put any away.

Q. You may be able to produce some?—A. I might be.

Q. I understand you to say that the original contract provided for sandstone to be used in the facing of the Dock?—A. Yes.

Q. You learned that from your partners?—A. I learned that from the contract and the specification.

Q. Did you learn afterward that it was considered desirable a change should be made from sandstone to granite?—A. I heard so.

Q. Did you learn so from your partners?—A. I heard so from Murphy.

Q. Did you correspond with Murphy on that subject?—A. I did.

Q. Why was it desirable, did you learn, that such a change should be made?—A. I never learned any reason why it should be made. I understand that the agitation first commenced in British Columbia and the change was asked for by the people there.

Q. Did you not have a quarry then at a certain distance?—A. Yes.

Q. But were you not to receive a dollar extra per foot for the granite?—A. That is what we asked,

Q. And that was what was conceded?—A. I was told so.

Q. Have you not stated that over your own signature?—A. What I stated was that I heard so from Murphy. I had no communication with the Department when that was passed. I had a conversation with Mr. Perley about it.

Q. And from the conversation you had with Mr. Perley and the correspondence you had with Murphy had you any reason to doubt that was the fact; that you had applied for the alteration and your application had been granted?—A. Not me, but the firm had.

Q. As a matter of fact, the original contract provided that sandstone should be used and you determined to apply for the substitution of granite at the additional price of a dollar per foot; and the substitution was granted you, and I want to ask you whether you did not subsequently ask to have the contract restored to sandstone?

—A. I have told you a little while ago that Nicholas Connolly telegraphed me from British Columbia not to allow any change to be made.

Q. Therefore, when the change of mind was made on the part of the contractors was it a fact that the Government also changed their mind and allowed the original contract to stand?—A. It was stated so in one of Mr. Murphy's letters.

Q. Is it a fact that you built it of sandstone?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it a fact that you were written to by your partners to use your influence with your friends to get this done?—A. I do not know that I was.

Q. Did you hear your own letter read a little while ago?—A. There was a letter from Mr. Murphy.

Q. This letter is signed P. Larkin. I acknowledge your memory is capital on most matters, but there is one point on which you are short.—A. That is all right.

Q. Is it not a fact that you wrote on the 18th of February yourself. I must ask the pardon of the Committee for repeating it but I must do so. (Reads from Exhibit "G 15.") I want to ask you whether you came to the conclusion that it was not to your advantage to have the substitution, and you wrote to Murphy to get your friends to stop that being done. Who were your friends, on your oath?—A. Just as I stated to you yesterday, the friends were an unknown quantity. There was Thomas McGreevy, and the rest I do not know.

Q. You were always in blissful ignorance as to who this mysterious stranger was who could influence the Public Works Department?—A. I did not know who he was.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. About that interview you had in Quebec. Yesterday you told us that you went to Quebec on the 1st February, 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. You mentioned you went in consequence of a communication you had received—a telegram or a letter—from whom?—A. It was from the firm—one of the firm.

Q. Since your examination yesterday have you found that communication?—A. No.

Q. And you cannot even from memory speak of its contents?—A. Nothing but to come to Quebec on important business.

Q. Did you arrive on the 1st of February?—A. Yes, the memorandum is here.

Q. That is why you are able to speak so accurately?—A. Yes.

Q. You had a meeting that day?—A. Yes.

Q. The meeting took place where?—A. Nicholas Connolly's house.

Q. What time did it begin?—A. According to the memorandum I should judge it was afternoon. I see that it says "this afternoon."

Q. How long did that interview last?—A. A very short time. I do not think more than an hour altogether.

Q. There were present at that meeting, who?—A. Robert McGreevy, Murphy, Nicholas Connolly and myself.

Q. At this meeting there was reference made to a prior agreement or memorandum?—A. Yes, there was.

Q. At that meeting it was agreed between the members of the firm present that the firm would give $25,000 for certain purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. And how were they to be recouped that $25,000?—A. There was nothing said about the recouping.

Q. To what account was the $25,000 to be charged?—A. It was to be charged, according to the memorandum I have, in the event of our getting a contract for dredging. You had better read it. That it should be charged to the dredging contract, and if a dredging contract was not obtained, one-half to the British Columbia Dock and the other half to the Quebec Harbour works.

Q. In the meantime, the firm was to make an advance on the chance of getting the contract?—A. They were to give it outright.

Q. To whom?—A. For election purposes.

Q. To whom?—A. It was not mentioned to whom.

Q. And you expected to get a contract for dredging from the Department of Public Works?—A. It was so stated there.

Q. Out of the earnings of that contract you expected to get back the $25,000?—A. I do not know about getting it back; it was out of the earnings that the $25,000 was to be paid.

Q. At that meeting, having confirmed the previous arrangement spoken of by other witnesses, there was a reference made to a previous memorandum, I believe?—A. Yes.

Q. Who referred to that previous memorandum?—A. I cannot remember which one did. It was mentioned there.

Q. It was mentioned there that there was a previous memorandum?—A. Yes.

Q. And it was to be superseded by the arrangement of that day?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever see that document filed here as Exhibit "M 5" which I now hand to you?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Do you recognize the handwriting?—A. Yes.

Q. Whose handwriting is it?—A. Michael Connolly's.

Q. It is signed by the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. Read it, please.

Witness read Exhibit "M 5" which is printed on page 114 of the Evidence.

Q. There is a blank left here. Can you tell me from your knowledge what name or names were to go into this blank on Exhibit "M 5"?—A. I do not know.

Q. It says: "We give 25,000." Do you know what name was intended to go in there?—A. No, because I never saw it before.

Q. Does your recollection of the conversation that took place enable you to say who was to receive the $25,000 or what was to be done with it?—A. It was stated plainly that it was to be given for election purposes. It was prior to the election of 1887.

Q. Was this the agreement that was to be cancelled?—A. I suppose that is the one.

Q. Was there any other agreement that you know of?—A. None other that I heard of. One memo. was spoken of there and that was cancelled.

Q. You have no doubt that this was the agreement referred to?—A. I have no reason to doubt it.

Q. Did you get back the $25,000 in question?—A. I do not know whether we did or did not.

Q. To what account was it ultimately charged?—A. To the Quebec Harbour Dredging.

Q. To the dredging contract?—A. Yes.

Q. You did not get that contract for two months after?—A. I was not here, I was in British Columbia.

Q. But the money was paid in the early part of February, 1887?—A. I do not know. It appears in the book, I presume.

Q. Do you remember the date of the elections in 1887?—A. The 22nd of February.

Q. When do you say you got the contract for the dredging?—A. I cannot tell you; sometime afterwards.

Q. Do you remember that Mr. Perley wrote a letter on the 27th April, 1887, asking the firm at what rate they would do the dredging?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. You have seen the letter?—A. I have seen it since.

Q. And the answer made by the firm?—A. I saw that.

Q. And the contract that followed?—A. I do not know that I saw the contract.

Q. You have worked on the contract?—A. Oh, yes, we have worked on it.

Q. What did occur was that a memorandum was made at your meeting on the 1st of February, 1887, by Michael Connolly, on behalf of the firm, to grant a donation that then you agreed to modify that previous arrangement, and you carried out your part of the bargain and gave the $25,000?—A. I suppose so.

Q. The other part of the bargain, the consideration in question, was also carried out?—A. I think so.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Who was going to receive that $25,000?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. It was not decided?—A. No. It was a matter that I did not want to know anything about—these election affairs. To whom the money would be given would not be told to me anyway.

Q. It was one of your partners who would receive the money?—A. They were to give it or distribute it themselves—they were to pay it out.

Q. You had nothing to do with all these things that were doubtful, from the beginning to the end?—A. No, Sir, I had not.

Q. In whom did you trust for that part of the business?—A. I did not trust anybody. My bookkeeper would tell me about the amount of money paid out.

Q. Surely you knew when you promised to give $25,000 what it was for? It was a large amount.—A. Certainly.

Q. And you knew you would be recouped by extras for the new contract of thirty-five cents?—A. I did not know that we would be recouped. I knew this much, however, that I might just as well consent to giving the money. It would have gone anyway.

Q. The new dredging contract was for eight cents more than you had before?—A. Thirty-five cents was not discussed. All that my memorandum mentions there is that if we get the contract for dredging, we would give this sum, but the rate of the contract was not mentioned.

Q. You had then the contract for dredging?—A. Oh, no; that had expired, as I understand it. We had completed what we had to do under the former contract. This was a new one.

Q. So you decided to grant $25,000 without receiving any advantage for that at all?—A. It was agreed to.

Q. What induced you to give such a large amount?—A. It was the amount asked for.

Q. By whom?—A. By my partners.

Q. Which of them?—A. Murphy and McGreevy particularly.

Q. You had always relied upon Mr. Murphy for the distribution, I suppose?—A. I had no reliance in him either for distribution or for anything else.

Q. Whom did you rely on for the divers amounts, besides the two sums of $25,000 and the one of $22,000?—A. Do you mean the amounts of between $30,000 and $40,000—I have not the correct amount by me? I never knew about them, or, at any rate, the principal part, until I saw them published in the report of the Expert Accountants. The $25,000 I knew was going for election purposes. I have already said so.

Q. We have the two sums of $25,000, which makes $50,000, and then the $22,000, giving a total of $72,000. Add to that $40,000, which makes $112,000. You say, however, that the report of the Accountants places the amount at $120,000?—A. Yes.

Q. How do you account for the balance?—A. I account for it that it was paid out without my knowledge.

Q. And if the payments were irregular they were made without your knowledge?—A. Yes.

Q. And if the Inspectors certified to false returns they did so without your knowledge?—A. Entirely.

Q. You will therefore be perfectly ready to reimburse the Harbour Commissioners for the money fraudulently obtained?—A. I am not prepared to reimburse anybody for things I had nothing to do with.

Q. But you had something to do with receiving the money?—A. How long was this continued with the Inspectors after I left?

Q. You would plead prescription, I suppose?—A. I should plead that.

Q. At all events, you took a share of the money, whether it was received by improper means or not?—A. It was put in the receipts for the year, and I suppose I got my portion.

Q. And you intend keeping it, of course?—A. I certainly do.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. About that substitution of granite for sandstone. Which was the best for the durability of the works? Was it granite or sandstone?—A. I should say that the granite is always looked on as the most durable stone of any, but the most expensive by nearly double.

Q. So it would have been in the interest of the country to substitute granite for sandstone?—A. Well, probably in the end, but for immediate use the other was just as good, and for years to come.

Q. But in the end, do you think it would be for the good of the country?—A. For a hundred years, or something like that time, it would be very much better.

Q. So, Mr. Perley was right, in his report of the 21st February, 1885, when he said: "By substituting granite for sandstone at those points not only would a greater degree of solidity be given," etc. Mr. Perley was right in that report?—A. I don't know. I had no experience of sandstone or granite either. I don't know that the report is correct.

Q. From what you said a moment ago—A. I don't know whether that report is correct or not.

Q. According to you, at all events, granite would be more durable than sandstone?—A. No doubt about it; it is admitted on all hands.

Q. So you would not blame Mr. Perley for agreeing with the contractors' request and substituting granite for sandstone?—A. I would not blame him—no.

Q. Which would you prefer—Mr. Perley agreeing with your request to substitute granite for sandstone, or Mr. Perley deciding to keep the sandstone?—A. Well, I don't see, without the consent of the contractors, how he could change from one to the other.

Q. But you had given your consent?—A. So I believe.

Q. So, when you gave your consent it was all right, and when you withdrew your consent it was again all right?—A. Well, I suppose the people who knew all about it—the Connollys and our Engineer—came to the conclusion it was better to allow these things to remain as they were.

Q. You say in your letter of the 19th February, 1886 (Exhibit "F7"): "Should we get an order to lengthen the Dock 100 feet, or even 75 feet, I would be quite willing that $5,000 should be given at once." Were those $5,000 given?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. You say that positively?—A. If you read the whole of the letter you will see.

Q. Will you kindly tell us to whom these $5,000 were given; was it to "our friends"?—A. To "our friends," who were approached by Mr. Murphy.

Q. You were trusting Mr. Murphy to approach the "friends"?—A. "To approach them"? Well, I had grave doubts about some of the friends.

Q. Well, never mind whether they existed—whether they be angels or the contrary—he was doing that part of the work?—A. He was doing that part of the work.

Q. When did you learn for the first time that Mr. Murphy had appropriated some of the funds entrusted to him in New York?—A. I learned that definitely, as I stated yesterday, through a New York newspaper, I think in 1881 or 1882, I am not certain which.

Q. Since that time, I see you have been in the habit of writing to him as "My Dear Murphy," or something like that?—A. I don't think you will find any of my letters where there is "My Dear Murphy." I used "My Dear Sir."

Q. I find a letter of the 19th February, "My Dear Sir" and "Dear Murphy"?—A. No; hold on.

Q. It is "My Dear Sir"—yes. Since that time, not only were you writing "My Dear Sir," but you were also going on with contracts with him—is not that a fact?—A. The contracts we had entered into at that time were going on, but no new ones.

Q. The Cross-wall contract of 1883, and the Esquimalt contract, are they not later than 1881?—A. Yes.

Q. Well, you knew all that time?—A. I never wrote to Murphy in 1881 or 1882 at all.

Q. But two years afterwards you wrote to him, and frequently since?—A. I never wrote to him until the Connollys left Quebec to go to British Columbia, and then it was necessary, as a member of the firm, to find out what was doing in Quebec and to communicate in regard to matters generally with Murphy. It was necessary to write to him on account of the contracts.

Q. Since 1881—since you have known of his dealings in New York?—A. Since that—yes.

Q. And it was necessary to keep him posted, so that he would communicate with "our friends"?—A. I did not think it was necessary to keep him posted; he was much better posted than I was, and I was getting posted by him.

Q. And so, all you knew about it came from him?—A. Yes.

Q. So he is still a party to post you. Do you say positively you had no idea whatever who that mysterious party was?—A. No; I don't know who they were; mere surmise is not evidence.

Q. His name was never given to you?—A. His name was not given—no.

Q. You say that most positively?—A. I say it most positively.

Q. When did you suspect it the first time?—A. I did not suspect at all.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. You say it was only surmise?—A. I say I might have surmised.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Whom did you surmise?—A. I shan't answer that question.

Sir JOHN THOMPSON objected.

Q. When did you surmise first?—A. When I heard the names of "our friends" mentioned so often.

Q. When was that?—A. It was in 1885 or 1886.

Q. Did you surmise it in 1883?—A. No, I did not; I did not think about the matter in 1883.

Q. What makes you think it was in 1885 that you first surmised?—A. Well, thinking over matters; you don't want an answer to that question?

Q. I would like so much to have it from you?—A. You would?

Q. Yes. What makes you remember it was 1885?—A. 1885 or 1886, along that way.

Q. What makes you remember that?—A. When those large sums of money were being paid out I surmised that Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. Owen Murphy were pocketing a good deal of that themselves.

Q. They were the mysterious friends?—A. They were part of the friends.

Q. Did you surmise they would pocket the $25,000 subscribed for elections?—A. I did not think they would do that; I think they would give a portion, and my belief is they would pocket a portion.

Q. To whom did they give it?—A. I don't know anything about it; I was not there.

Q. But whom did you surmise?—A. I don't know anything about it, except they pocketed some themselves.

Q. When we wish to reach something definite there is a blank in your memory?—A. There is no blank in my memory.

Q. These amounts of $72,000 you admit, but the amounts over that, up to $170,000, which are reported by the Accountant, you have no idea to whom they were given?—A. Except as mentioned in the report by the Auditors.

By Mr. Daly :

Q. What are your politics?—A. I am a Liberal—a Reformer, as they used to be called.

Q. Have you taken an active part in politics during your lifetime?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you President of the Liberal or Reform Association of Lincoln?—A. I was at one time, but not now. I was for six years.

Q. While you were President of that Association, and since, have you taken an active interest in politics?—A. Not of late years.

Q. When were you President of the Reform Association of Lincoln?—A. I think from 1876 to 1882.

Q. Did you contribute to the campaign fund of the Reform party during that time?—A. Yes; when I was asked to contribute I did so.

Q. Both while you were president of the Association and since?—A. Yes; and since.

Q. Do you recollect the agitation that was going on in British Columbia for the enlargement of the Esquimalt Dock?—A. Yes; I heard of it. I was not there at the time.

Q. Do you recollect the Globe newspaper opposing that enlargement?—A. There was an article to that effect from the Ottawa correspondent.

Q. You recollect that?—A. Yes.

Q. It is referred to in Exhibit "I7" as follows: (Reads). Do you recollect if, after this appeared in the Toronto Globe, the Globe published an editorial favouring the enlargement of the Dock?—A. I do not recollect that.

Q. Are you a stockholder in the Globe?—A. Yes; to a small extent.

Q. Were you at the time of the agitation?—A. No.

Q. When the enlargement of the Dock was asked for?—A. No.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Is it for the Liberal party you were subscribing $25,000 in Quebec?—A. No; I should think not.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You say you surmised in 1885 and 1886 that Murphy and Robert McGreevy, your colleagues, were manipulating some of the funds for their own benefit?—A. I so stated to Nicholas Connolly at the time.

Q. You have sworn you surmised it?—A. I did.

Q. Nevertheless, I find that in 1887 you agreed to pay $22,000 from the British Columbia contract to the friends who were manipulating for you?—A. I did not do anything of the kind. It was $25,000, and afterwards $27,000.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. Your contributions to the party to which you belong up there, were they charged to the Larkin, Connolly & Co. contracts?—A. They were charged to myself.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. I ask leave to have certain letters identified by the witness, and used later on for the purposes of cross-examination. They are eleven letters that were picked out of those that this witness brought here, and Mr. Osler was good enough to mark them from 1 to 11. Identify these letters, and say whether these are the letters brought in by you?—A. I identify them.

By Mr. Daly :

Q. In Exhibit "L 8," a letter dated St. Catharines, 2nd January, 1885, printed at page 206, you say: "I have had Dunn write to his newspaper friend in British Columbia to agitate the lengthening of the dock 100 feet, to meet the growing requirements of the shipping trade on that coast. It will not take much agitation to accomplish it." Who is that Dunn?—A. A friend of mine. He is not connected with this matter at all. He had a newspaper friend in British Columbia.

Q. Where does he live?—A. He used to get the British Columbia papers, and he mentioned the matter to me one day.

Q. Did you approach the Globe newspaper in this matter?—A. No.

Q. Did any person for you?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. This is another letter I wish you to identify?—A. It is a copy of a letter which I have sent to Murphy. It is dated the 23rd March, 1885—the only copy I ever kept.

Mr. OSLER.—Bearing directly on one of the charges, I put in this extract from a letter of O. E. Murphy to the witness, Mr. Larkin, of the 8th January, 1885:

"Mr. Connolly is much pleased with Trutch, and Engineer in charge of the works, and says they all treated him very kindly and want to do everything to help him along."

By Mr. Daly :

Q. Coming back to that question, I was asking you: Did you approach any person for the purpose of influencing the Globe to agitate for the enlargement of the Dock?—A. No.

Q. Did you write to any person?—A. Yes; not on that subject.

Q. What subject?—A. I wrote to a director, calling his attention to the article in the Ottawa correspondence, and saying that we wanted the facts stated.

Q. Have you a copy of that letter?—A. No.

Q. To whom was it written?—A. J. D. Edgar.

By Mr. Edgar :

Q. What did you want Mr. Edgar to do about that?—A. All I wanted was, as mentioned in a letter I stated I had written to a friend in Toronto, to see the Globe people and not have things like that appear. It was doing me no good, or them either.

Q. Was it to correct a mistake?—A. Yes; to have a mistake corrected.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You have been a contractor for a great many years, I believe?—A. About sixteen years.

Q. You have been connected with a great many public works of different sorts?—A. Several of them.

Q. You consider you have considerable experience as a contractor?—A. I have some—yes.

Q. You stated that in 1878, when you first took up with these works, you had been previously connected with Nicholas Connolly?—A. Yes, I said he was a sub-contractor with me on the Welland Canal.

Q. By occupation he is a stone-mason?—A. So I believe. He was a good man at masonry. I was always satisfied with him.

Q. You joined with him and a man named Nihan to build the Graving Dock at Lévis.—A. Yes.

Q. When the work began the practical man for the work was——?—A. Nicholas Connolly. We understood when we went there that he was to attend to the practical part.

Q. What about Nihan?—A. He was not supposed to be there.

Q. Was he supposed to be at the work occasionally?—A. He was there for a year, but was not supposed to be. There was a distinct understanding that Nicholas Connolly should take charge of the work.

Q. After a while Nihan was bought out by Connolly and Murphy went in?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if Murphy had had any previous experience as a contractor?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. Well, what work did he do on the works?—A. He was a sort of foreman over the boys and men, who were breaking stones, mixing concrete, etc. That is all.

Q. As a matter of fact, what did he do in connection with the work of the firm?—A. I have just mentioned. Up to the time, I think it was the fall of 1881 or the beginning of 1882, Michael Connolly used to do the banking and handle the cash. After he went to Texas Murphy took it up

Q. He handled the cash for a considerable time?—A. Yes.

Q. Up to 1886 or 1887, when Mr. Murphy handled the cash, the practice of the firm, I understand, was to give him the money and the notes he required during the year and at the audit; at the end of the year he would account for the moneys he had received?—A. I do not know how the thing was done.

Q. At the end of the year the custom was to ask Mr. Murphy to account for the payments he had made?—A. In all things I don't think that was done. There were a great many items at the end of the year, as I understood from the auditors, that were put in by Murphy.

Q. Is it or is it not a fact that at the time of the audits—take specially the audit of 1885—Murphy was asked to account for certain moneys that had been expended without the knowledge of the other members of the firm and that he then said for the first time what had become of the moneys?—A. So I understood from the auditors.

Q. Were you not there in 1885?—A. Not until after the audit was completed.

Q. Did you not, in 1885, at the time of the audit, call on Murphy to explain certain accounts in the books which were unaccounted for?—A. Perhaps I did, not the large expenditures, I don't think, because that matter had been settled before I went down.

Q. You were in Quebec on the 2nd of May, 1885?—A. Yes.

Q. At that time, I want to know if you did not call on Murphy for explanations of certain items of expenditure?—A. I do not remember that I did.

Q. As a matter of fact, at the audit of 1885 was there not a sum of $25,000 charged to Murphy and for which you asked explanations?—A. I do not recollect my asking him to do it, but the auditors did.

Q. Did not the auditors do it to your knowledge?—A. My auditor was acting the same as if I was there myself. I was not present.

Q. Do you not remember that in 1885, when the audit was first started, on the 2nd of May you were about to close the audit, but no vouchers could be produced for this item of $25,000?—A. I don't recollect it.

Q. Do you not recollect that the audit was not closed for a month from the 2nd of May, 1885?—A. It was not closed until June, I understand that, but I do not know that the audit was kept open on that account.

Q. Do you not remember that Kimmitt, your auditor, reported to you that he would not consent to the closing of the audit, because no vouchers had been produced by Murphy for that $25,000?—A. He did object so.

Q. Was not that the reason?—A. I do not know that it was.

Q. But is it not a fact that until the vouchers were produced the audit was not closed for a month afterwards?—A. I do not know how long it took to produce the vouchers. I know there was a difficulty.

Q. You remember there was a difficulty?—A. I remember there was a difficulty between Kimmitt and Murphy as to the production of vouchers.

Q. You stated in your examination in chief yesterday that in May or June of 1883 these five notes of $5,000 each, amounting to $25,000, were given by you or by the firm with your consent to Murphy for the convenience of Robert McGreevy?—A. I said so—yes.

Q. At that time was there any suggestion made by any person—Murphy, McGreevy or any person else—that these notes were to be used for any purpose other than the purpose indicated by Murphy?—A. There was nothing said to me about it.

Q. At the time of the audit in 1885, when the difficulty arose in reference to this specific payment of $25,000, was there anything said that the money had been for any purpose other than the purpose indicated when it was got?—A. It was mentioned by Murphy at the time of the audit in 1885 that the $25,000 was appropriated, not for Robert McGreevy's benefit, but the people outside. That is the explanation that was made.

Q. Is it not in terms, as far as you can recollect the explanation Murphy gave in 1885?—A. I cannot recollect that. The explanation was first given to Kimmitt, the auditor.

Q. Did he report to you?—A. He reported to me that there was a large sum of $25,000 and that he would not pass the amounts until he had the vouchers for it.

Q. That no vouchers had been produced?—A. Yes. The vouchers had not been produced. When he saw my name to two of the notes he passed it.

Q. One of them?—A. No; but there was twenty-two thousand and twenty-five thousand.

Q. At that time, in 1885, did you ever hear yourself in the course of conversation with Murphy, McGreevy, or through anything that might have transpired, or through Murphy, McGreevy, or Kimmitt, that any portion of these notes ever went to Thomas McGreevy?—A. No; I never heard that.

Q. Was it ever suggested, or intimated in any way, that he got any portion of those notes?—A. No, it was not.

Q. Was it intimated to you then, or at any other time, that this money went to Thomas McGreevy?—A. No.

Q. You were as largely interested in the firm as Mr. Murphy, were you not?—A. Yes.

Q. And your financial interest was as great as that of Mr. Robert McGreevy, was it not?—A. Yes; the $22,000 I was interested in altogether; I mean to say, in part of the $22,000, and he had nothing to pay in it.

Q. You stated yesterday, in the course of cross-examination, that the term "your friends" used in some correspondence that took place between Murphy and yourself, you understood to apply in part to Thomas McGreevy?—A. At least, I said I thought so.

Q. I notice that this term "your friends" begins to be used by you in the course of your correspondence with Murphy as far back as 1880. Do you mean to say "our friends" would apply to Thomas McGreevy at that time?—A. In 1880 I don't think you can find anything like that.

Q. I think in the letters produced this morning you will find "our friends" referred to?

Sir JOHN THOMPSON.—18th December, 1880.

A. That was before Robert McGreevy had anything to do with it.

Q. And therefore, "our friends" as used in December, 1880, did not apply to Thomas McGreevy?—A. It might apply to Thomas McGreevy and Robert McGreevy both.

Q. In 1880 what had you to do?—A. Murphy had; I had nothing.

Q. Did you at that time consider that the term "our friends" was used in the same sense that it has been used throughout subsequent correspondence?—A. Well, no, I don't think I did.

Q. Then the signification of the term "our friends" changed?—A. Well, I suppose it changed after Robert McGreevy became interested with us, if there was any change in it.

Q. Was there a change in it?—A. I don't know that there was.

Q. As a matter of fact, is it not a term frequently used by Murphy, in the course of his correspondence with you, and adopted by you, without attaching any particular significance to it?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you now present before your mind any fact or any conversation with Murphy upon which you can base the statement you made yesterday, that the term "our friends" was intended to be applied to Thomas McGreevy in part?—A. I was asked the question if there was any person I could name as one of the friends, and I named Thomas McGreevy; I thought so at the time.

Q. It was purely a matter of surmise on your part?—A. Purely surmise, nothing else.

Q. If that term can be construed as applying to any improper interference of any person for the purpose of influencing contracts by you, can you say you have now present before your mind any fact upon which you can base the assumption that Thomas McGreevy was one of those who improperly influenced contracts for you?—A. No; I cannot say anything of the sort.

Q. Can you say, if the term "our friends" is used as indicating people who have received any of those corrupt payments that have been referred to, there is now present to your mind anything that would justify you in saying Thomas McGreevy was one of the men who received such payments?—A. No; I don't apply it in that way at all.

Q. Mr. Murphy is a man who is extremely discreet—more than ordinarily discreet, is he?—A. No; I don't think so.

Q. Is he the sort of man that would keep carefully his business to himself, and not communicate anything that was going on outside to you?—A. He would communicate business outside the firm.

Q. As far as the firm was concerned?—A. As far as the firm was concerned, he never told me anything of what was going on.

Q. Did he tell you he had made any bargain with Thomas McGreevy, by virtue of which, in consideration of money, Thomas McGreevy was to lend the firm his influence to secure contracts?—A. No; he did not.

Q. Did he ever intimate, either directly or indirectly, that any such bargain had ever been made for the benefit of the firm?—A. No, he did not.

Q. When he was called upon to account for those payments that had been made did he ever say, in any way, whether Thomas McGreevy had benefited by them?—A. Not to me; he did not say so.

Q. Did he ever say it to you or in your presence?—A. No.

Q. Murphy says that when these notes were made in 1883 that the tenders for the Cross-wall had been prepared. Three tenders had been prepared in the interest of the firm, and he says further that it was suggested to him, or to the firm, that an error should be made in these tenders in order that you might subsequently obtain an undue advantage. Did you ever hear of that?—A. No.

Q. Did you hear that portion of his evidence?—A. I was here when it was given.

Q. Is it true or not true?—A. It is untrue, so far as I am concerned.

Q. Did you see these tenders before they went in?—A. I did not look them over. I saw them folded up ready to be carried over to the Commissioners' office.

Q. In connection with the contracts you have had—I do not speak of those now under investigation—did you ever see any changes in the works as carried on?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it the rule that the original estimate of the cost of a contract is almost invariably exceeded in the final completion?—A. It is generally understood that the gross amount given for the tender is simply approximate.

Q. Do you mean in the Public Works Department here?—A. In all Departments.

Q. You had a contract on the Welland Canal?—A. Yes.

Q. When was it awarded to you?—A. 1875.

Q. When were you settled with for that?—A. I did not get paid until 1885.

Q. What was the difference between the original estimate and the amount finally awarded?—A. I cannot tell you exactly the final sum. The approximate sum was $434,000. I remember that well; but what the other amount was I do not know. I know it was something over $600,000. That was with Mr. Page, a very exact man.

Q. The dredging contract that has been referred to here—it has been suggested that the 35 cents which was given in 1887 was a very high figure. Do you know anything of the difficulties connected with the dredging work in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. You have also stated you have had dredging contracts in Ontario?—A. I had the dredging of the Port Dalhousie Harbour, which lasted for two years, and I had dredging contracts at Owen Sound and Meaford.

Q. Was the work done in Quebec more difficult than the work in Ontario?—A. Yes; in tidal water it is much more difficult to dredge than in still water.

Q. What amount per yard did you get for the dredging work in Ontario?—A. In Port Dalhousie, for soft silt and decayed vegetable matter in the bay, 29 cents; and for the other parts of the work I had 50 cents.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. When was that?—A. In 1875.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. In Quebec there were tenders called for in 1882?—A. Yes.

Q. Was the work you did in 1887 more difficult of execution in connection with the dredging contract than that which was awarded to you in 1882?—A. I do not know that it was.

Q. In 1882 you say the work was just as easily done as in 1887?—A. I think it was.

Q. In so far as the contract in 1882 was concerned, there was a tender called, to see at what price the work could be done?—A. I say that it was a little easier in 1883 than it was in 1887, because it was deeper water, I think.

Q. In 1882 tenders were called for in the usual way?—A. I do not know how they were called for. I suppose they were.

Q. You made a tender?—A. I knew nothing about the tender until I saw about it in the public press.

Q. If you did not know anything about it, it would seem that at that time Larkin, Connolly & Co. tendered for 27 cents for dredging in 15 feet of water?—A. I suppose it is all right if you say so. I had nothing to do with it.

Q. At the same time, and for the same work in 15 feet, it appears that Moore asked 47 cents a yard?—A. I believe that is so. It has been so stated here.

Q. At the same time 47 cents was asked for by Moore for the same work?—A. So it is stated here. I did not know until I saw the document here.

Q. Was it a very great crime awarding a contract, in 1887, for dredging at 15 feet below low water level at 35 cents, when the lowest tender besides yours for the same work in 1882 was 47 cents?—A. I should not think it was any crime at all. It was very reasonable, I should think.

Q. You said that on the 1st of February, 1887, that bargain was made about the $25,000 for election purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. That was quite a novel experience, to be asked to subscribe any money for elections?—A. Oh, no.

Q. You never heard of any such thing before?—A. It was novel to apply for such a large amount.

Q. You had never heard of $25,000 before?—A. I had heard of it, but I had nothing to do with it.

Q. Did you hear Mr. Thomas McGreevy's name associated with that $25,000?—A. No.

Q. Was it suggested that he should give you some advantage in consideration of that $25,000?—A. No.

Q. Was that $25,000 advanced by you on any bargain that has been previously made, or any suggested bargain at that time, that you would get this contract for 35 cents?—A. It was not.

Q. Was anything said to you before on that subject?—A. There was not on that subject.

Q. Do you remember having received this letter from Mr. Murphy, dated January 27th, 1885, 124 Dalhousie street, Quebec?—A. Yes; I received that letter.

Q. Read it please?—A. The letter reads as follows:

(Exhibit "J 15.")

" 124 DALHOUSIE STREET,"

January 27th, 1885.

" P. LARKIN, Esq.

" DEAR SIR,—I received certificate of deposit from Ottawa yesterday, but did not return in the bank until the Board of Comrs. meeting. McEwen was all taken aback. He did not know what to think of the matter. I told him that you arranged elsewhere and with your own personal security for amount required by the Department of Public Works. I had a telegram from Michael to have customs on goods shipped to B. C. properly bonded and statement of value invoiced. This Michael forgot to do when shipping.

" I arranged to-day to have \$5,000 sent there next Saturday. This is the best I could do. Dave and Dick with two others left here this morning to B. C., also 2,600 feet of  $\frac{3}{4}$  crucible steel wire from Cooper, Fairman & Co.

" I have heard nothing from Mr. Perley as yet in reference to the B. C. Dock or Trutch, but Mr. McGreevy leaves here to-morrow and he will look after the matter. I also learn that the Speech from the Throne in the B. C. Parliament they ask to have the dock made 500 feet, and of course that is all that is needed on our part. Nothing new here, except the great scandal about the water-works contract. It is all the talk. The rascals had a fight amongst themselves and the whole thing is shown up. This must hurt Beemer.

" Respectfully yours,

" O. E. MURPHY."

Q. You stated yesterday that you sold out to the Connollys?—A. I sold out to Nicholas Connolly.

Q. Did he offer to sell out to you on the same terms as you offered him—or about the same?—A. Oh, no; they could not sell out to me. Nicholas Connolly had to stay there to complete the work.

Q. Was there any suggestion that Nicholas Connolly and you should go out and that the others should finish the work?—A. That was years before, in 1883, I think.

Q. Was not that in 1885? Did you not want to get out from the firm and let the others have it?—A. I do not think it was in 1885; I think it was before.

Q. Do I understand that Nicholas Connolly did not make an offer to you?—A. No.

Q. He made no counter offer to you?—A. No, he said he would be willing to take what he gave me. That did not say he could get out. He had to stay there.

Q. You did not understand from him that it was a bonâ fide offer on his part to sell?—A. No.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You said that he could not get out?—A. Either he or Michael Connolly had to stay there.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You have stated that by "our friends" Mr. Thomas McGreevy was meant. Will you take communication of a letter written by O. E. Murphy, on the 19th of January, 1885, (Exhibit "K 15") and say whether you have more than a simple surmise there as to who is meant?—A. "I talked with each of the Commissioners, and they intimated that we would be paid, and friend Thomas stated that he would see we were paid. On this assurance I started."

By Mr. Baker :

Q. Paid for what?—A. For work—levelling.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you look at this letter, dated 1st February, 1885, (Exhibit "L 15") addressed by you to Murphy, and also say whether the reference there is to Mr. McGreevy?—A. "I met our friend Thomas at the St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, Tuesday, in reference to changes."

Q. Is "Friend Thomas" Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Hector Cameron :

Q. A letter was read this morning in which you spoke of having seen Mr. Simard at St. Catharines, and in which you refer to an offer on his part to use any influence he could with Sir Hector Langevin in any matter affecting you. In that communication had you reference to any other matter than the Quebec affairs, or were they before your mind at the time?—A. I had reference to matters on the Welland Canal which I was trying to have adjusted. I did not have them adjusted until 1884—three years later. I wanted some influence at Ottawa, as I did not have any myself. I wanted some one to get me an arbitration to straighten it out.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You wanted a friend at court?—A. I wanted somebody.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I see by your letter of the 28th April, 1881, a reference which I would like explained. I will read the letter.

(Exhibit "M15").

"ST. CATHARINES, 28th April, 1881.

"MY DEAR MIKE,—I am in receipt of your letter of the 22nd inst., also the newspapers. The Telegraph has decidedly the best of the argument. The Chronicle article was inspired, no doubt, but by whom you can judge for yourself. Yesterday I drove Mr. Page to Port Dalhousie and we fully discussed the Graving Dock question. In the course of our conversation he said, did you see a short article in the Mail about Perley being in Quebec and stating that the Dock and Harbour works, as far as the engineering was concerned, was all right, and that the contractors was responsible. I said that I had not seen the article, nor had I, as I then had not received the Chronicle. I said, "Mr. Page, your name has been frequently mentioned as the proper person to inspect that work, if you are asked to do so, as a special favour to myself will you kindly do so." He said: 'I will.' Now, if you get the parties that is working up the business to have Mr. Page called on to report on the plans and work, it will be greatly to our interest. The Dominion Board of Arbitrators are now here. I had them all at my house last night; one of them, Simard, of Montreal, is a first cousin of Langevin's. He said that whenever I wanted anything done with Langevin to let him know. This is not a bad card. Write soon.

"Yours truly,
"P. LARKIN,"

Q. Who were the "parties working up the business" for you?—A. The Government had sent a gentleman to investigate the affairs of the Dock, and it was then discovered that the plans were all wrong and changes would have to be made. The Government had taken it in hand and the Resident Engineer would not do anything. It was found the work was a failure according to their plans.

Q. What do you mean by "to have Mr. Page called on to report"?—A. To have a Commission appointed.

Q. Did you not mean to have him substituted for Mr. Perley?—A. Oh, no; as one of the Commissioners; that is all. Mr. Page located the Dock.

Q. Did you not want Mr. Page substituted for Perley?—A. No; as a Commissioner only.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. What work was that?—A. The Graving Dock at Lévis.

Q. Not the Welland Canal?—A. Oh, no.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. "If you get the parties that is working up the business to have Mr. Page called on to report." That must be somebody who had influence to get Mr. Page appointed? What did you mean by that?—A. I meant if they had influence with the Government to have a Commission appointed.

Q. Who were the parties that you referred to in that letter who had influence with the Government?—A. Mr. McGreevy was one of the parties.

Q. Mike was to get Mr. Thomas McGreevy to use his influence to get Page appointed?—A. Yes; because Mr. McGreevy did not approve of the plans and saw that the thing was a failure, and it would be necessary to have a Commission.

Q. He was the party whose influence you wished to have to get Page appointed?
A. Yes; to get a Commission appointed.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. This letter was written on April 28, 1881?—A. Yes.

Q. In view of that conversation with Mr. Simard that has been referred to, I ask you if it is a fact that Simard had that conversation with you at your house, in which he spoke about if anything was wanted upon which to see Sir Hector Langevin to let him know?—A. I spoke to him about the Welland Canal work—that I could not get a final estimate of it, and I had not influence in Ottawa with any person.

Q. For what purpose?—A. To try and get the final estimate on the Welland Canal. There were a good many things in dispute there, and finally it had to be arbitrated, and it was not arbitrated until 1884. We did not succeed in getting anything done, getting it into shape; I tried for a couple of years.

Q. In whose Department had that work to be done?—A. Railways and Canals.

Q. What had Sir Hector Langevin to do with it?—A. Nothing more than that he might use his influence with the Minister of Railways and Canals, and he was Acting Minister at the time.

Q. At that time was he?—A. I don't think at the time the letter was written.

Q. Then the conversation, I understand, amounted to this: You had claims unsettled with regard to the work on the Welland Canal, and you were anxious to get your final estimate and get the matter closed?—A. Yes.

Q. And there was a delay of which you complained?—A. Yes.

Q. And you desired the help of Mr. Simard to get Sir Hector to hasten the settlement of the matter?—A. That was it—yes, sir.

Q. He had that conversation with you in your house, as you stated in your letter, I suppose?—A. Yes; I mentioned the matter to him.

Q. With regard to the first part of the letter which has been read to you by Mr. Davies, I want you to state what facts and transactions it refers to. You spoke of newspapers having been sent to you by Mr. Connolly—the Telegraph and the Chronicle—and there having been an argument between those papers, because you refer to one of them as having got the better of the argument—was there any public discussion at that time about the condition of the Graving Dock?—A. Yes; I think there was a good deal in the Quebec papers at the time.

Q. As to the suitability of the work, or what?—A. Well, the location, and the plans being a failure, and the work altogether a failure, and working on other lines.

Q. These two papers had an argument on the subject?—A. Yes; I should judge so from that letter.

Q. You go on to say: "There was a short article in the Mail about Perley being in Quebec, and stating that the Dock and the Quebec Harbour works, as far as engineering was concerned, was all right." Had Perley gone to Quebec?—A. I do not know anything about that. I referred to an article in the paper.

Q. What was the idea about a Commission you referred to a few moments ago?—A. The Commissioners were decided, and it was acknowledged by a great many people in Quebec, that along the lines we were then working we could never complete the Dock, and I wished and other parties wished the Government to send some competent person to examine the location and plans and all.

Q. For the purpose of ascertaining what?—A. Whether the plans were faulty or the location.

Q. Whether there was a fault in the location, or the plans, or the work?—A. Yes.

Q. And that was in consequence of the statement that had been made public respecting the location and engineering?—A. There was a very great fault, too. The plans represented when we signed them that the bottom was blue clay, but after taking off a little of the top we found it was all fine sand. The wing-walls were built on piles, and it was supposed that they would be water tight-underneath by reason of a circular dam between these two walls; whereas the tide would rise just as fast inside the Dock as outside.

Q. I understand the difficulties met with, referring to the location on clay as compared with the sand and piling, would affect the stability and usefulness of the work, and it was not a question of what was profitable to yourselves alone?—A. Not at all.

Q. Was it this question you wanted the opinion of Mr. Page on?—A. That is it.

Q. I ask you that inasmuch as you use the expression in this letter?—A. I may say that Mr. Page located the Dock.

Q. You say: "If you get the parties who are working up the business to have Mr. Page called upon to report upon the plans and the work it would be greatly in our interest." What did you mean by that?—A. That members of our firm were trying to get people there of influence to have a competent man sent to examine these defects.

Q. That is all you had in view?—A. That is all.

Q. How were your interests as contractors affected by the faults in engineering?—A. We had a large amount of money up as security and we had a large amount of stone on the ground on which we had no advance, and we were out a very large amount of money at the time.

Q. Would the work cost more as it was actually found in construction than as compared with the representation made by the plans?—A. Yes.

Q. If a Commission had been appointed, in what way did you see it would have been greatly to your interest?—A. I knew that any competent man, particularly such a man as Mr. Page, would change it.

Q. In what respect?—A. He would shorten it. We had only to go 100 feet further in to get a foundation of rock.

Q. I want you to state whether you had any expectation of any undue or improper influence with regard to Mr. Page?—A. Not at all.

Q. Had you any communication with him, business or otherwise, that gave you to understand that he would give a favour to you as compared with the public?—A. No; not at all. What I wanted was his unbiassed judgment.

---

Q. You considered that if you had his unbiassed judgment or that of any competent men forming a Commission, it would be to your interest, because it would improve the work itself and lessen the cost you were under as well?—A. That is it.

Mr. HECTOR CAMERON produced original assignment to N. K. Connolly of Patrick Larkin's right, title and interest in the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. as regards the Cross-wall and dredging contracts, dated 5th April, 1888.

Mr. HECTOR CAMERON, on behalf of Mr. Larkin, requested leave to withdraw the original and substitute a copy.

Mr. LARKIN.—The Committee will understand that it is very important to me that I should retain possession of the original, and so I trust that I will be allowed to deposit the copy instead.

Permission to substitute a copy of said assignment was granted. Copy was accordingly filed, and marked Exhibit "N15."

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, TUESDAY, 4th August, 1891.

The Committee met at 10.30 ; Mr. GIROUARD in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, etc., resumed.

Mr. E. J. MILNE sworn.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. Where do you live ?—A. St. Joseph de Lévis.

Q. Had you any employment under the Quebec Harbour Commission in 1883 ?
—A. Yes.

Q. How long previous to that ?—A. From 1879.

Q. Up to what date ?—A. Up to 1888.

Q. In what capacity ?—A. Inspector of masonry and concrete, and timber.

Q. Were you employed in that capacity from 1879 until 1888 ?—A. Yes, 1888.

Q. Your occupation was the same throughout those years ?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you employed continuously through the year ?—A. No ; only during about seven months in the year.

Q. During the working period ?—A. Yes.

Q. And were paid by the month ?—A. By the month.

Q. During that period did you receive money from the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., or any of the members of that firm ?—A. I had instructions from the Engineer in charge to act as superintendent over the men, both day and night. They had a difficulty with the foreman, and I reported that it would be necessary to make a change ; that there was injustice. He directed Mr. Murphy, in the presence of me, to make that change.

Q. Do you say that Mr. Pilkington instructed Mr. Murphy to employ you and pay you for the same period that you were paid for by the Harbour Commissioners ?
—A. Extra labour.

Q. What time of the day was this work done ?—A. Taking charge of the men ? Frequently during the day.

Q. What were your hours of work for the Harbour Commissioners ?—A. Eight or ten hours a day. From seven o'clock in the morning until six at night.

Q. It was between seven o'clock in the morning and six o'clock at night that you did this work for the contractors ?—A. It was during the night.

Q. What sort of work did you do during the night ?—A. I took charge of the men.

Q. What hours ?—A. Sometimes during nearly the whole night ; sometimes four or five hours in the night.

Q. What kind of work was it you were doing ?—A. Measuring timber, cubing stone, stopping leaks during the night in the wall and receiving coal and cement.

Q. Will you now repeat the conversation which you say took place between Mr. Pilkington, yourself and Mr. Murphy ?—A. Mr. Pilkington directed Mr. Murphy to get me to act as foreman, and to pay me for extra labour.

Q. Was it the interest of the work of which Mr. Pilkington was Engineer that made it desirable that you should be appointed ?—A. It was to see the work properly done.

Q. That is, you were to see the work properly done for the Commissioners and to be paid by the Commissioners during all the day, and you were to act as foreman for the contractors at certain hours during the night and get paid for that from them ?—A. Get paid for it.

Q. Who was Inspector during the time at night you were working for the contractors?—A. There was no inspector at all.

Q. You were working only for the contractors at night?—A. I took charge at the same time. I looked after the interests of the Commissioners at the same time.

Q. Your story is, that you were paid during the night exclusively by the contractors and received no pay from the Commissioners?—A. Yes; that is the case.

Q. Did you do anything for the contractors at all during the day time while you were being paid by the Commissioners?—A. I took charge of the men and wrought myself the same as a common labourer.

Q. During the time you were paid as Inspector you were working as a common labourer?—A. I was seeing that the men did their duty.

Q. You were working for the Commissioners and the contractors at the same time?—A. Sometimes during the day.

Q. In point of fact, you did more work for the contractors during the hours of the day than during the night?—A. I did a great deal more during the night. The principal work I was paid for was during the night.

Q. I asked you if you did not do a large amount of work for the contractors during the day and get paid for it?—A. No, sir, during the night.

Q. Did you do some work?—A. I did.

Q. You say that you worked for the contractors during the day?—A. It was for the Commissioners as well as the contractors.

Q. And you were paid by the Commissioners?—A. I was paid by the contractors.

Q. You were not paid by the Commissioners for the work that you did for the contractors?—A. I was paid by them for looking after their work.

Q. And you were paid by the contractors for your labour?—A. Yes, for the labour.

Q. What is your salary from the Commissioners?—A. $70 a month.

Q. What were your duties as Inspector for the Commissioners?—A. My duty for the inspectors were merely to see that the proper material was put in, that there was a proper quantity of concrete, sand and stone, &c.

Q. That required fairly close attention to see to the work from hour to hour that the proper materials were put in?—A. The work was under my jurisdiction all the time.

Q. You say you were accustomed to labouring at the very same work?—A. Certainly I was. To see that the concrete was there; I was there with my shovel to see that it was properly put in.

Q. What about timber?—A. I was measuring and culling timber.

Q. Did you do any work on timber yourself for the contractors?—A. I measured the timber. I took charge of it for the contractors—I took the amount of the cubical feet.

Q. What else did you do for the contractors?—A. I received the coal and cement and looked after the measuring of the stone.

Q. In point of fact you were doing double work all the time?—A. Certainly I was.

Q. You worked for the Commissioners and the contractors at the same time and were paid by both?—A. Yes, as a labourer I was paid by the contractors.

Q. How much labour did you get paid for from the contractors?—A. I could not exactly state; I could not swear that.

Q. Were you on their pay-roll?—A. I could not say whether I was.

Q. Do you know if you were?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Will you swear you were not?—A. I swear I do not know.

Q. Did you get regular wages by the month, week, or day?—A. No, sir.

Q. Is there any method by which the amount you were paid by the contractors could be ascertained?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you keep any account of the hours you worked day or night for the contractors?—A. I worked sometimes the whole night.

Q. I am not asking you that question. I want to know if you kept any account of the number of hours that you worked for the contractors, either day or night?—

A. I suppose I worked for the contractors—

Q. Did you or did you not keep any account of the number of hours you worked for the contractors?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you keep any account of any of the work you did for them?—A. I could not say.

Q. You do not know if they did or not?—A. No.

Q. Were you paid at regular intervals by them?—A. I was paid sometimes.

Q. I asked you were you paid at regular intervals by the contractors?—A. I was paid sometimes once a month and sometimes every two months.

Q. You say there were different kinds of intervals, monthly and every two months?—A. Yes; at different periods.

Q. Were not the payments at irregular intervals?—A. Yes; they were irregular.

Q. Was there any mode of ascertaining the value of your service that you know of?—A. I solemnly swear that the service was done by me.

Q. Was there any method of ascertaining the value of the services that you rendered to them?—A. Yes.

Q. What was it?—A. I could take my affidavit that I did the work for the money I received.

Q. I am not asking you about an affidavit—did you make an affidavit?—A. It was not necessary for me to do so.

Q. Did you report to the contractors the work you had done?—A. Most certainly I reported.

Q. Did you do it in writing?—A. In memorandums. I did not keep the exact account of the work I did.

Q. What was the longest interval between the payments for this work?—A. Sometimes two months, sometimes three.

Q. Will you swear that there were any as long as three months?—A. No, sir.

Q. Will you swear that there were any as long as six months?—A. I could not exactly say.

Q. Will you swear you did not receive money from them for supposed services extending back six months before the time of payment?—A. I cannot swear that.

Q. Will you swear you did not receive money from them covering six months of supposed work?—A. I cannot swear that.

Q. Why cannot you swear—is it because you do not know that?—A. I will swear that the money I have received I gave them labour for; that is all I can swear.

Q. What is the date of this agreement which you say was made between Mr. Pilkington and yourself and Mr. Murphy?—A. In 1880.

Q. What time in 1880?—A. About the beginning of May.

Q. Did you ever receive any money from the contractors before that?—A. No.

Q. Do you know anything about what became of Mr. Pilkington?—A. No, I cannot tell you.

Q. You know he left there?—A. Yes; when he left there he was in ill-health.

Q. You have never seen him since?—A. No, sir.

Q. When did you get the first payment from the contractors?—A. I kept no note of that.

Q. Have you no idea? It was an important thing for you to get pay from them?—A. I left it entirely for them to give me what my services were worth.

Q. I know that; but have you not just told us that you gave memorandums to them?—A. I said I gave memorandums for the amount of labour that was done.

Q. Can you tell us when you first received the payment from the contractors?—A. I did not keep the date.

Q. What year?—A. About 1881, I think.

Q. Will you swear that the first payment you got was 1881?—A. To the best of my opinion. I cannot swear positively.

Q. What time in 1880 was the agreement of Murphy made when Pilkington was present?—A. I have already told you it was in May.

Q. And you did not get any pay until the beginning of 1881?—A. No.

Q. Have you any idea whether it was the beginning or the latter part of 1881?
A. I cannot say.

Q. How much did you get in 1881?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Have you no idea?—A. No; I can swear to the total amount I received altogether.

Q. Did you get as much as $500 in 1881?—A. No, sir.

Q. Will you swear you did not get that much?—A. I will swear that for the time I worked there for them during day and night, I only received on an average $200 a year.

Q. You think the payment would not exceed more than $200 a year. For how many years would that be?—A. Eight years.

Q. That would be about $1,600 altogether?—A. Yes, during eight years.

Q. What was the largest payment you ever got at one time?—A. I think $150, to the best of my opinion. I cannot swear exactly.

Q. When did this arrangement end; was it in 1888?—A. Yes, in 1888.

Q. You got no money from the contractors after 1888?—A. No, sir.

Q. You are sure of that?—A. I am sure of that.

Q. They had no check on you at all as to what you did; you could do as much work as you liked?—A. Yes.

Q. They left it entirely to you?—A. They left it entirely to me. It was for the Engineers, however, to see that my work was done.

Q. So it was a matter of honour with you, so far as the contractors were concerned, as to how much you had done?—A. Yes; they left it to me to say what I had worked.

Q. With whom were these transactions of yours?—A. Mr. Murphy.

Q. You never had anything to do with any other members of the firm?—A. No, sir.

Q. Can you state what payments you received in this way after 1883?—A. No, I cannot tell you.

Q. You have already told us you got about $200 a year?—A. On an average.

Q. For the years between 1880 and 1888?—A. No, between 1879 and 1880.

Q. And speaking generally you wished to say that you got the amount you have told us for your work?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. So that the whole $1,600 which you received would be divided into average yearly payments of $200?—Yes, that is for day and night work.

Q. In that case you would get about $1,000 since 1883?—A. I got $1,600 from 1879.

Q. You have already told us that you got on an average of $200 a year from 1879, but how much would you receive from 1883 onwards?—A. I got $1,600 during the years from 1880 to 1888?

Q. For the years 1879 to 1888, you got about $200 a year, year in and year out?
—A. Yes, for working day and night.

Q. And you received on an average each year about $200?—A. Yes, on the average.

Q. Then from 1883 to 1888, just the five years you would get $1,000?—A. I have given you the average.

Q. Will you answer my question?—A. I cannot answer your question. I cannot do it. I have answered your question.

Q. I ask you if you would not have received during the years from 1883 to 1888, about $1,000?—A. I have answered you the question that I received $200 per year on an average. I will answer no other question. I give you that upon my oath.

Q. Will you give us any idea how much you received altogether since 1883?—
A. No, sir, I will not. I cannot do it.

Q. Can you give us no idea of it?—A. I have given you an idea already. I have told you the average I received every year. I can give you no more.

Q. You have given us the average for the 8 years at $200 a year. Cannot you give us another average from 1883 to 1888?—A. No, sir.

Q. Well, that is a most extraordinary thing?—A. It is not.

Q. Do you know what you received between 1883 and 1888?—A. I have given you the amount I received already.

Q. Do you say you cannot give us an idea of the money you have received since 1883?—No sir.

Q. Did you receive any money since 1883?—A. Of course.

Q. I suppose it was probably about $200 a year, since it was part of the period covered by your average?—A. That is the average I received. I gave you that.

Q. You say you have received about $200 a year since 1883-88?—A. From 1879 to 1888.

Q. Can you tell us anything about the payments made since 1883?—A. No, sir.

Q. You have no idea?—A. No, sir.

Q. When did you get the last money from Mr. Murphy; was it in 1888 the year you speak of when you stopped this work?—A. I cannot answer that question.

Q. Are you unable to answer the question because you do not know?—A. I have given you the total amount of what I have received already. I will give you no more.

Q. You swear that from 1879 to 1888, you were paid $200 a year?—A. On the average.

Q. Did you get pay for the last work that was done?—A. I have answered you already. I told you that I got $1,600 from the contractors from 1879 to 1888. I can answer no other question.

Q. Did you get any money in 1888, or since 1888, from the contractors or Murphy?—A. No, I received it before.

Q. You did not get any in 1888?—A. No, sir.

Q. Nor from the contractors in 1887?—A. I think the last money I received from Murphy was 1886.

Q. Then you did not get any in 1887?—A. No, sir.

Q. How much did you get in 1886?—A. I have given you the average.

Q. That won't do. I want to know how much you got in 1886?—A. I have given you the average. I cannot say any more.

Q. Did you receive $500 in 1886?—A. No, sir.

Q. How much did you receive in 1886?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. You swear you got some money in 1886?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you get any in 1885?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Did you get any in 1884?—A. I cannot say.

Q. But in each of these years you received on an average $200 a year?—A. It was probably more.

Q. You have said so?—A. That was to the best of my opinion.

Q. So that in 1886, 1885 and 1884, you may have got more? You said you probably had?—A. Yes.

Q. How much?—A. I could not say.

Q. Can you give us no idea; did you get about the same back to 1879?—A. I took an average of $200. I cannot say any more.

Q. Look at that receipt. (Exhibit "B12.") Read it, and say by whom it is signed?—A. That is correct; it is signed by me.

Q. Read the date?—A. The date, I think, is 1885.

Q. Cannot you read it?—A. Perfectly well.

Q. Then read it aloud.—A. "Rec'd, November, 1883, from Mr. O. E. Murphy. the sum of thirteen hundred dollars in cash ($1,300), and previous cash and sundries, $300; total, $1,600. E. J. Milne."

Q. Who signed it?—A. It is signed by me; that is correct.

Q. Will you look at this memorandum on the top, and say what it means?—
A. I know nothing at all about that; it is not mine.

Q. That has nothing to do with you?—A. Nothing to do with me.

Q. Look at it carefully and say whether it has anything to do with your transactions?—A. I cannot say exactly.

Q. Try and say exactly. Take your time and look at it.—A. I did not take a memorandum; I took an average.

Q. We have done with that average business. You did not have an average on the field glass, compass and watch, did you?—A. It is not my business to answer that question.

Q. Do you remember getting a field glass from Murphy?—A. Yes, sir; I got it.

Q. Do you remember getting a compass from him?—A. A small compass, yes.

Q. Do you remember getting a watch and chain?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. You got a gold watch and chain?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, look at that memorandum, and say whether that is a reference to the transaction between you and Murphy?—A. That is all included in the $300.

Q. I am not asking you about that. Look at the memorandum and say whether it also refers to the transaction between you and Murphy, and whether or not you recognize that memorandum?—A. It is included in the $300.

By the Chairman :

Q. You say it is included in the $300?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. Answer my question: Whether the memorandum on the top refers to your transactions with Murphy?—A. If it is included in the $300, it does.

Q. Does it or not?—A. If it is included in the $300.

Q. Look at that memorandum. Can you say from the items in it whether it purports to relate to a transaction between you and Murphy; look at the items—field glass, compass, watch and chain?—A. That is included in the $300.

Q. Does it refer to the transaction between you and Murphy?—A. That is included in the $300.

By the Chairman :

Q. Does it refer to the transaction?—A. That is included in the $300.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. Then you got a watch and chain, compass, and field glass from Murphy?—
A. Yes.

Q. And that is included in the $300?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. What were the proportions of sand and cement with which you would make the concrete?—A. The instructions were, five wheelbarrows of sand, and five of stone, to each barrel of cement.

Q. And you say these proportions were strictly adhered to in the preparation of the concrete that was used?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you swear that positively?—A. I will swear positively.

Q. That you never put a larger quantity of sand than you have just mentioned?—
A. No, sir, but I sometimes used to put more cement.

Q. Would you be surprised to hear, that the people working with you say quite the contrary?—A. I don't care what the people says; I did my duty to the Commissioners.

Q. Will you be surprised to hear that a larger proportion of sand was put into the concrete?—A. Not to my knowledge.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You say you sometimes put more cement?—A. Sometimes in stopping leaks there was more cement put than was required.

Q. What proportion?—A. Sometimes two or three barrels of pure cement to stop a leak.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. Were the watch and chain you are now wearing given you by Murphy?—A. This chain, and the watch also.

Q. Will you show that watch to the Committee?—A. (Witness exhibits the watch.) That is included in the $300 I received.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Were the $1,600 for which you gave a receipt paid you before the close of 1883?—A. No, sir, it was later.

Q. The date of the receipt is what?

Mr. OSLER.—22nd November, 1883.

A. The receipt I think is dated wrong; the amount is correct.

Q. The receipt is dated 1883.

Q. Did you receive any money after that?—A. Certainly I did, sir.

Q. So that the $1,600 is not all?—A. I can swear the $1,600 I received is correct, and that is for labour done by me both by day and night.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. It is correct you received $1,600 as mentioned in the receipt; the receipt is correct?—A. The receipt is correct.

Q. Then up to 1883, you had received $1,600?—A. The date is wrong.

Q. That is what I wanted to know—what should be the date?—A. The date to the best of my opinion, should be 1886.

Q. Well, then, you never gave any other receipt before 1886?—A. No, sir.

Q. That was the first receipt you ever gave?—A. The first and only receipt I ever gave.

Q. Did you write the receipt yourself?—A. No; this is written by Murphy, it is only signed by me. The amount is correct for labour performed by me.

Mr. MARTIN FOLEY, Junior, sworn.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Where do you live?—A. Quebec, sir.

Q. What is your employment there?—A. Merchant tailor.

Q. Are you the only one of the name?—A. The only one of the name in the business.

Q. Were you in Quebec during the elections of 1887?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. I find an entry in Mr. Murphy's diary of payments made to you, in reference to the elections of 1887, amounting to somewhere about $1,100—two payments. Did you receive any money from Murphy immediately prior to that election or in February, 1887?—A. Never for the reason assigned.

Q. Did you ever receive any other money from Mr. Murphy?—A. I did for legitimate business.

Q. In 1887?—A. Prior to that, for clothing.

Q. Just in your trade?—A. In my trade.

Q. You never received any money at all, for election purposes, from Mr. Murphy?—A. Never.

Q. Do you remember Mr. Carbray?—A. I do, sir.

Q. What do you know of a payment, or transaction by which it is said Mr. Carbray was given $250; do you know anything about that?—A. I don't know anything at all, sir.

Q. Who was Mr. Carbray?—A. Mr. Carbray is engaged in his father's business at Quebec.

Q. A merchant?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is said that you were in company with Carbray on the occasion of getting $500 from Murphy; is that correct?—A. No, sir; I never was in Mr. Carbray's company on the date mentioned.

Q. Murphy in his evidence says: "He came on election day for $500 more, in company with Herbert Carbray?"—A. I was never in Mr. Carbray's company on an election day.

Q. Did you call on Murphy on election day, in February, 1887, for the purpose of getting $500?—A. No, sir.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Did you take any active part in that election?—A. I did, sir.

Q. In Quebec West?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you work for several weeks?—A. I worked for about, I suppose, ten or twelve days before election.

Q. Attending committees?—A. Attending committees.

Q. Canvassing?—A. Canvassing.

Q. And holding meetings?—A. Holding meetings.

Q. Hiring halls for meetings and so forth?—A. I never hired any hall.

Q. It was not the first election in which you were an active canvasser, eh?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you make any expenses during that election?—A. Not that I remember.

Q. Can you say whether you made any?—A. Not to my knowledge, no.

Q. You cannot remember?—A. No.

Q. Were you entrusted with money for the purpose of meeting expenses?—A. No, sir.

Q. You received no money whatever during that election?—A. No money whatever.

Q. Not during that election, or any other election about that date?—A. About that time, no.

Q. Were you informed where some money could be found subject to your order, or that you could dispose of?—A. No.

Q. You had nothing to do with money matters during that election?—A. Nothing at all.

Q. This is the first election you had anything to do with money?—A. It was after that election I handled any money.

Q. How long after?—A. Mr. Robert McGreevy's election.

Q. For Mr. Thomas McGreevy's election you did not handle any money?—A. No.

Q. This was the only occasion you worked for Thomas McGreevy?—A. I worked for him in all elections.

Q. But the only time you handled money was in the election of Robert McGreevy?—A. That was all.

Q. Did you go near Robert McGreevy during the election of his brother?—A. I met him at several places of meeting.

Q. Did you never give him any names of places where money was wanted—at certain corners?—A. No.

Q. You never instructed him to put any money at certain places?—A. I did not instruct him. I guess he knew where to put it.

Q. You gave him information?—A. I gave him all the information that was necessary to help the candidate.

Q. But you never took any money yourself?—A. None myself. No person else required to handle money when Robert McGreevy was around. He did it all.

Q. Do you know whether Mr. McGreevy was working in that election?—A. I believe he was. I never met him at any committee meeting. Robert was the principal man.

Q. Were there many committee rooms?—A. Two or three in every ward.

Q. And there were printing expenses?—A. The necessary legal expenses.

Q. And carriages to help in the canvassing?—A. I was not his legal agent and I cannot tell. It was the same as in all elections.

Q. Is it not a fact there is a good deal of expense to be met in Quebec West?—A. Generally there are.

Q. You did not see any difference in that election from any of the others?—A. Nothing; the same usual way.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you know Mr. Chaloner, from Mr. McGreevy's office?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he give you any money that year?—A. No.

Q. Did he in the election between Robert McGreevy and Owen Murphy?—A. Yes.

Q. How much?

Mr. STUART objected.

Q. Did you not know that money was coming from Mr. Murphy?—A. No; I knew nothing of the kind.

Q. Is it not a fact that you received $350 from Mr. Chaloner coming from Mr. Murphy?—A. No.

Q. You got the money always from Mr. Chaloner?—A. I said once.

Q. Have you any objection to stating the amount?—A. To the best of my knowledge, I cannot state the amount. I can state about.

Q. How much?

Mr. STUART objected.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Will you state the amount of money that you so received?

THE CHAIRMAN.—Is it connected with this enquiry? I do not think the evidence ought to be admitted.

Q. Will you state whether you reported that the money was necessary at the time you received it?—A. I may have stated to Robert McGreevy where money was necessary.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. What year?—A. 1887.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Was this the first election that money was necessary?—A. In all elections. I think the election of Robert McGreevy and Owen Murphy was in 1889. I said that to the best of my knowledge when I found money was necessary I told Robert McGreevy.

Q. Did you report so in many instances?—A. No, sir; not in many instances at all.

Q. Did you report the amount of money that would be required?—A. No, sir; no special amount was mentioned.

Q. When you were conducting the canvass in what way was the amount necessary ascertained? Who else was there?—A. There were several parties.

Q. All canvassing over the same ground?—A. In different wards.

Q. When you reported that money was necessary, what was it that led up to a report of that kind?—A. There were different clubs gotten up, and there was reports of money being necessary.

Q. Either by the clubs or by parties who were not members of the clubs?—A. Sometimes clubs and sometimes in parties.

Q. But in no case did you distribute money?—A. No, in no case.

Q. Was this, in 1887, the first election in which you took part in the canvass?—A. No.

Q. How came these parties to ask you?—A. They did not ask me for it. They said they wanted it.

Q. Did they state for what purposes it was required?—A. Sometimes.

Q. What were the purposes?—A. Sometimes they did not care much about any canvassing, and if they got something—

Q. In the course of the canvass for Mr. Thomas McGreevy did they tell you they did not care much about the candidate?—A. Not particularly.

Q. You engaged in the canvass and reported that money was required, but did not report who required the money?—A. How not report?

Q. You said that money was required?—A. Certainly.

Q. Did you state who required it?—A. Yes.

Q. Who were they?—A. It would be hard for me to tell you now.

Q. Do you remember who asked you for money?—A. No special ones I can name now more than anyone else.

Q. I think you said the clubs that were organized asked for money?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you name the district in which these clubs were?—A. They were in all parts of the division.

Q. Then you visited every part of the division?—A. I did.

Q. You did not confine your canvass to a part of the division?—A. No.

Q. You were a general canvasser in the election of 1887?—A. I do not know what you would call me.

Q. Did you visit every one of these clubs?—A. Clubs? No; I never visited any clubs.

Q. Did you visit the electors then in every part?—A. I made a regular canvass.

Q. Have you your canvassing book with you?—A. Yes.

Q. So it was individual electors who told you that money was required?—A. Sometimes.

Q. You have said that you never visited any of the clubs?—A. No; never visited any of the clubs.

Q. Then it was the individual electors who told you that money was required?—

A. Individual electors formed themselves into clubs—so they said.

Q. What position did the clubs hold in the canvass?—A. They took no part in the canvass. They were organized to make money.

Q. And you reported that fact?—A. Certainly.

Q. That they were organized to make money?—A. Yes.

Q. Did they tell you the amount required?—A. No.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. I understood you to say that the chairmen of these clubs would inform you how much money was required for each club?—A. I do not know anything about these chairmen.

Q. Some person whom you recognized as the mouthpiece?—A. I knew no chairman.

Q. Someone you understood to be the mouthpiece of the club?—A. I did not understand.

Q. Did you report that money was to be given to any person, whether he belonged to the club or not?—A. No.

Q. How would you know whether a man was authorized to speak on behalf of his particular club?—A. Sometimes they came with a memorandum.

Q. Do you remember that?—A. On one occasion.

Q. How did you know of other occasions?—A. I heard so.

Q. From whom?—A. I cannot tell you from whom.

Q. Did you go to members of the club to find out how much was required?—A. I did not.

Q. How did you find out?—A. I heard there were other clubs.

Q. How much did you find out was required for the other clubs?—A. I never found out.

Q. You said you canvassed every part?—A. I might do that and not know what every club wanted.

Q. Will you swear you never knew except what one club wanted?—A. I do.

- Q. Never heard?—A. Never heard.
- Q. What club was that?—A. In Champlain Ward.
- Q. How much did they want?—A. They wanted so much for furniture, coal oil lamps and other things; and I told them to go about their business.
- Q. How much did they want?—A. $800 or $900.
- Q. You reported that to whom?—A. I sent the memorandum they gave to me.
- Q. Who did you send it to?—A. To Robert McGreevy, to the best of my knowledge.
- Q. Did you know Robert McGreevy personally?—A. He was sitting in the council with me.
- Q. In a general way you know him as one of the workers in the election?—A. Yes.
- Q. And you know Murphy in the same way?—A. No. I never spoke twenty words to Murphy in my life.
- Q. You never carried a message from him to anybody?—A. No.
- Q. Are you quite sure you did not carry any parcel in that election?—A. I am quite sure.
- Q. How long were you engaged in this canvass? You must have been a very busy man?—A. From the time the canvass opened; about a couple of weeks.
- Q. You spent that time in doing what you could for the canvassing?—A. Yes.
- Q. Although you knew there were a large number of clubs you only heard of one that wanted money?—A. I did not swear that.
- Q. You heard of one and had a memorandum from a member of one, and gave me to understand that you only received an application for money from one?—A. I did not.
- Q. Did you receive information from other clubs?—A. Yes; that they wanted money.
- Q. From whom?—A. From persons who—
- Q. Who were members of the club?—A. Connected with some society.
- Q. How did you know they were members of the club?—A. I did not know they were members.
- Q. Who were these persons?—A. What persons?
- Q. We are only speaking of one set of persons. This sort whom you received information from. You need not twist. Tell me from whom did you receive this information?—A. I have told you already.
- Q. Tell me again?—A. From persons I met in connection with the election.
- Q. Who were they?—A. I do not remember.
- Q. You swear you do not remember?—A. I swear I do not remember.
- Q. From how many would it be that you received information? Can you tell me the name of one single man who spoke to you as to the money requirements of these different clubs?—A. Only the one I spoke of before.
- Q. Can you give me the name of a single individual in the city of Quebec, from whom you received information as to the requirements of these clubs?—A. No, I cannot.
- Q. You cannot tell me, although you received information of several?—A. I heard of them by the way.
- Q. Did you hear it from Robert McGreevy? How much was required?—A. I did not.
- Q. Were other people aware that the money was required?—A. Yes.
- Q. And although you heard that others knew it was required you cannot give me the name of a single individual who told you of it?—A. No.
- Q. How did you hear that these clubs were requiring money?—A. I would hear it mentioned at committee meetings by some of the members that such and such a club required money. I did not pay any particular attention to it.
- Q. You communicated the fact that money was required to Robert McGreevy?—A. I did not communicate any fact.

- Q. Did you communicate the fact that money was required in certain places?
—A. The facts that I knew specially myself.
- Q. That is that money was required in certain places, did you or did you not communicate that? Swear as you like about it, but swear something.—A. Swear as I like? I do not swear as I like. I did not come here to tell lies.
- Q. Did you communicate the fact to Robert McGreevy that money was required?
—A. Sometimes I did.
- Q. For how many places?—A. I do not remember.
- Q. I knew that. You cannot remember who told you and you do not know the number of places?—A. I cannot.
- Q. It must have been Murphy?—A. No.
- Q. How do you know it was not he?—A. If it was he I think I would remember.
- Q. You did not know him at the time?—A. I knew him to see him.
- Q. I asked you if you knew Murphy in 1887 and you said you did not?—A. I did nothing of the kind. I misunderstood your question if I said that.
- Q. Did you know Murphy in 1887?—A. To see him.
- Q. Where did you see him?—A. I saw him going up and down the hill passing my place of business.
- Q. Did you see him at any of these meetings?—A. No, sir.
- Q. Did you speak to him at all?—A. I do not suppose I have spoken more than 20 words to him in my life?
- Q. Where did you see him?—A. I saw him once in the ante-room of the City Council chamber of Quebec. He was with Robert McGreevy; they were passing through.
- Q. Before the elections of 1887?—A. No, sir.
- Q. I am talking about the time before the elections—not since, and you knew that?—A. And I am answering in the same manner.
- Q. Were you a member of the City Council of Quebec, in 1887?—A. No, sir.
- Q. Was he a member?—A. No.
- Q. I want to know if before that time you knew Murphy?—A. I knew him to see him.
- Q. It is sworn here in the evidence that you met him. I want to know whether you did meet him before the election?—A. I may have met him in company with Robert McGreevy on the sidewalk.
- Q. You may have met him on the sidewalk or met him alone?—A. I never met him alone.
- Q. Why were you not alone with him?—A. Because I would have no business to speak with the man alone.
- Q. Did you meet him in company with Robert McGreevy?—A. Robert McGreevy may have stopped me sometime when Murphy was in his company, and we have exchanged conversation.
- Q. How often did these conversations take place?—A. Not more than once or twice.
- Q. You won't deny that you met him twice before the election?—A. I may have, to the best of my knowledge.
- Q. And on both occasions you think you were in company with Robert McGreevy?—A. To the best of my knowledge.
- Q. You won't swear positively?—A. I will not.
- Q. He swears that he met you twice. You say that you met him on the sidewalk twice?—A. Yes, to the best of my knowledge.
- Q. You are therefore agreed on that. You had some conversation with him?
A. Yes.
- Q. Do you remember the nature of the conversation? A. No, sir.
- Q. Your mind is a perfect blank on it.—A. It is, because I do not think it was anything pertaining to business which would require that I should take special notice of it.

Q. Previously to 1887, with the exception of meeting Murphy twice on the sidewalk you had no communication with him of any kind and did not know the man?—A. I had once as regards an order for clothing which he gave me.

Q. Then he was in your store?—A. Yes.

Q. And he gave you an order for clothes?—A. Yes, two suits.

Q. How many hundred dollars was it?—A. No hundred dollars at all.

Q. How much were they?—A. The two suits would be $36 to the best of my recollection; $18 each.

Q. So you are a cheap tailor?—A. Yes; you had better give me an order.

Q. In regard to the ordering of these clothes you met him two or three times?—A. No; only the once.

Q. Now, will you undertake to swear that you did not mention money to him?—A. I do not think any man would undertake to swear about any conversation he had several years ago.

Q. Did you ever get any money from Murphy?—A. I never received anything from Murphy in my life, with the exception of the pay for the clothing.

Q. He says he gave you money for election purposes?—A. He has sworn a lie then, when he says that.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did the club you spoke of get the $800 or the $900?—A. I do not know whether they did.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. How many clubs were there?—A. There were quite a number.

Q. Is it the ordinary way of forming clubs to get money?—A. Yes.

---

MR. H. J. W. CARBRAY SWORN.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are known in Quebec as Herbert Carbray, I believe?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know anyone else of that name in Quebec?—A. No.

Q. It is stated on page 281 of the printed Evidence that you were present with the last witness, Mr. Foley, when he approached Murphy on election day, 1887, and asked for $500 more? Did that take place?—A. No, sir.

Q. Did you meet Murphy on that day in company with Foley?—A. To the best of my recollection I do not think I saw Foley on the day of the election until I met him at the Central committee rooms at the Clarendon Hotel when the returns were coming in after the poll closed.

Q. You did not see Foley on the street that day, or anywhere else that you remember except as stated?—A. No, except as stated.

Q. He also says, "I gave him (Mr. Flynn) $250 to send four men to Chicago at the time Mr. Carbray was arrested for bribing voters." Do you know anything about that $250?—A. I do not sir.

Q. Are you the man named there as having been arrested?—A. I do not know that you can call it arrest, I heard there was a warrant out against me and I went to Judge Chauveau's office to give bond to appear whenever they wanted me. I do not know whether you can legally call that an arrest.

Q. Did they ever arrest you?—A. I really do not know. They gave me a great deal of trouble and I know I danced attendance at the Court of Queen's Bench for a number of terms.

Q. Nothing came of it?—A. Nothing came of it.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. There was a true bill against you, was there not?—A. I understand there was after some time.

Q. And you had to give bail?—A. Yes.

Q. And the trial never came off?—A. And the trial never came off.

Q. Are you aware that one of the witnesses were travelling for their health about that time?—A. Well, no; I am not. I am not consulting physician for people going away.

Q. Are you aware that some of them were absent?—A. I heard they were, but have no knowledge of it myself.

Q. Do you know Maurice Flynn?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you ever have any conversation with him?—A. Very, very often.

Q. Was there not a man by the name of John Hanlon connected with that little affair of yours?—A. What little affair do you mean?

Q. The trifling little matter which you spoke about and in which there was a true bill against you?—A. I am not aware that I said it was a trifle. I said it gave me a great deal of trouble.

Q. Was John Hanlon implicated in the matter?—A. Yes.

Q. Was he called as one of the witnesses?—A. He may have been.

Q. And you know he was away; he did not turn up?—A. Yes, he turned up.

Q. After the affair was abandoned?—A. Not at all; he came back of his own accord.

Q. Did you see him?—A. Yes.

Q. What was it that you were accused of?—A. Bribery and corruption in the election, I believe.

Q. You have heard Mr. Foley speaking of clubs in that election?—A. I have.

Q. Were you approached by any club for money?—A. The one club.

Q. What connection had you with that club—what happened about the $400?—

A. I am prepared to swear that I have never received any money from anybody connected with this investigation for the purpose of using it in elections.

Q. You had to deposit $400 for one of those clubs anyhow?—A. I really could not swear as to the extent of the amount; it is something in that neighbourhood.

Q. Cannot you remember whether it was $400?—A. Really I cannot.

Q. At any rate it was something about that?—A. I know it was odd money.

Q. Between $350 and $400?—A. Something like that. It was odd money; something in the vicinity of $400.

Q. This was deposited on polling day?—A. Yes.

Q. Where did you procure the money?—A. I am not prepared to state, because the parties are not connected with this investigation.

Q. Was the man from whom you procured the money the only man in the election you had anything to do with of that nature?—A. As a matter of fact, I could not swear where the money came from; it came in an envelope to me early in the morning of polling day.

Q. It had been asked for, I suppose?—A. Not by me.

Q. And you sent a messenger to say a certain club wanted a certain amount?—A. No, sir.

Q. Well, somebody must have told you about the money?—A. There was a memorandum put in the envelope saying as to how the money was to be deposited.

Q. Did this man who came with that parcel containing money give you verbal instructions?—A. No, sir.

Q. He told you what the instructions would be in the envelope?—A. Simply handed me the envelope, after asking me if I was the person to whom it was addressed.

Q. And you cannot say where the money came from?—A. No, sir.

Q. Nor where the party who brought it had got it himself?—A. No, sir.

Mr. MULOCK.—As I read the evidence of Murphy on page 281, it does not bear out the statement of Mr. Osler of what Murphy said. The evidence is: "Q. Do you know Foley?—A. I do. Q. I find in your diary an entry accounting, or purporting to account, for the payment out of this $7,000, and I see against Foley, tailor, the sum $1,150. Does that mean that you paid out this sum to Foley, the tailor, $1,150?—

A. It does. Q. And you did pay him?—A. Yes. Q. When and where?—A. By order of Robert McGreevy. Q. Where and when?—A. I cannot go into these details. Q. Where did you pay it?—A. Quebec. Q. What did you pay it in?—A. Bills. Q. What sized bills?—A. That I cannot tell. Q. Where did you pay it?—A. I believe as far as I can recollect he came to 124 Dalhousie Street—the office. Q. And got the money there?—A. Yes. Q. You are quite sure about that?—A. He came also on election day for $500 more in company with Herbert Carbray.”

Mr. OSLER.—I am not contradicting by this witness the receipt of any money, but merely contradicting the statement of Murphy.

Mr. MULLOCK.—I do not find any evidence of the statement just read by the stenographer, and which he purposes to contradict.

Mr. OSLER.—What I asked him was this ; if he ever met Foley on the street, whether these two together met Murphy, and whether there was any conversation as to $500.

Mr. MULLOCK.—That is not the statement the stenographer read. You are making him contradict Murphy, whereas Murphy never swore to what you say.

Mr. OSLER.—Very well.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Were you with Mr. Foley on election day in 1887?—A. I was after 5 o'clock on that day.

Q. You may have been with him during the day?—A. I was not.

Q. You can remember clearly now as far back as 1887?—A. Very clearly because I have something to jog my memory ; that evening when I met Foley he asked : “ Where have you been all day ; how is it I never came across you before ? ”

Q. You have got a remarkable memory to remember from 1887. Who else did you meet on election day ; name another person?—A. Stuff and nonsense, I met thousands.

Q. Stuff and nonsense?—A. Yes, stuff and nonsense.

Q. Can you swear to any other man you met that day?—A. Yes, lots of people.

Q. How can you tell, from memory?—A. I met a clerk of the post-office, the postmaster, Holliwell, the stationer, and lots of people.

Q. And the man with the envelope?—A. No, I did not meet him.

Q. How did you get that envelope from him?—A. It was my reception day, that day he called upon me.

Q. And when a man calls upon you you don't meet him?—A. No.

Q. You are an excellent witness, you are ; you don't meet a man when he calls upon you?—A. You are asking me whom I met on election day, on the street I presume.

Mr. GEOFFRION.—Not necessarily the street.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You swear when a man comes to you, and hands a paper to you, you don't meet him ; that is what I understand to be your oath?—A. My dear fellow, you can understand just whatever you like.

Q. That is all you care about your oath, is it?—A. As regards you, certainly.

Q. You don't care what you swear to about that question?—A. I beg your pardon.

Q. I understand you to say that when a man comes to you and hands you a paper, you are prepared to swear you don't meet him?—A. I beg your pardon.

Q. Do I understand you to swear, when a man comes to you on a certain day, and hands you a paper, you are prepared to swear you don't meet him? Take your time?—A. I certainly will ; I am waiting for the lawyers in this case to decide whether I am to answer the question.

Q. Answer the question please, you have heard it twice now.

The CHAIRMAN.—You had better answer the question.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. Don't make a goose of yourself, answer the question?—A. I don't make a goose of myself.

Q. Answer the question?—A. I appeal to the Chairman against any such remarks. I don't think it is a proper remark to make, and I don't propose to stand it.

By the Chairman:

Q. Will you answer the question?—A. Put the question, certainly.

The question was then read to the witness by the stenographer.

A. I am prepared to swear when a man comes to me, as that man did with the envelope, and comes into my house to see me, I would not consider that as meeting him.

Q. That is your oath?—A. That is my oath.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. And that is the sense in which you use the expression "meeting" all through, in your evidence?—A. When the gentleman asked me the people I had met, I presumed he alluded to people I had met on the street.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. Why did you presume that?—A. Because it was my manner of interpreting your question.

Q. Your oath is only to be interpreted in reference to people you meet in your house in that way?—A. I gave my evidence to the best of my ability, and of course the interpretation depends upon how it strikes you.

Q. Then we are to understand when you took that oath of meeting these gentlemen, you meant you did not meet them on the street?—A. I meant that I did not meet them on the street, or any other way.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. The question is this, are you quite sure about your statement in reference to seeing Mr. Murphy. Murphy was asked a question in reference to giving money to Mr. Foley and his answer is this: "He came also on election day for $500 more, in company with Herbert Carbray." Is that true or not?—A. That is positively not true, sir.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. You state the person from whom the $400 came, had nothing to do with this enquiry?—A. I did.

Q. Then you know from whom the money came?—A. The statement I made, and I am prepared to swear to it, was that I had not received any money, from any person connected with this investigation.

Q. Then the $400 were received from a person not connected with this investigation?—A. Well, not as far as I am concerned; as far as I know.

Q. Well, of course you know or you could not swear. You swore he was a party not connected with this investigation—the party who sent the $400?—A. As far as I know he was not connected with the investigation.

Q. Then, who are the parties?—A. I don't care about saying, sir.

By Mr. Chapleau:

Q. Who are the parties connected with this investigation?—A. I understand the parties connected with this investigation are the contractors, Robert McGreevy, Murphy, the Connollys, Sir Hector Langevin and Thomas McGreevy.

Q. And it did not come from them?—A. No, Sir.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. The question was, from whom, $400 were received, and he answered the question by saying it was not the parties connected with this investigation. Who was the party?—A. I don't know, Sir.

Q. Then you don't know whether he was connected with this enquiry or not?—A. I don't know whether he was connected with this enquiry.

Q. You have sworn that the party from whom the $400 were received had nothing to do with this enquiry?—A. I still say so.

Q. Who was he?—A. I don't know.

Mr. OSLER objected to the examination unless it was for the purpose of testing the credibility of the witness.

THE CHAIRMAN—The question is a fair one.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. Who is the party?—A. I don't know.

Q. Then you did not tell us the truth when you said he had nothing to do with the enquiry?—A. Yes, I did. I don't know who the party is: I don't know if he is connected with this enquiry.

Q. How can you swear he is not connected with this enquiry if you don't know who he is?—A. Because I had every reason for supposing it was not one of the parties I have just mentioned who sent the money.

Q. How can you state or swear this party has nothing to do with this enquiry?—A. Because I have not got the slightest doubt in my own mind about the matter as regards those persons connected with the enquiry.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. Can you say it was any of the employés connected with the enquiry?—A. I am sure I don't know; it is a very vast field to cover.

Q. Can you speak of Mr. Chaloner?—A. I am not supposed to.

THE CHAIRMAN—You had better answer the question.

WITNESS—A. I might have my suppositions, but I would not like to mention a name here, simply on my own supposition.

Q. So, that when you stated positively in the beginning of your evidence, that the party from whom that money came, was in no way connected with this enquiry, you swore on your supposition as to the facts?—A. Well, I told you, I had a supposition as to where the money came from.

Q. You swore on the supposition?—A. I swore that as far as I knew.

Mr. DAVIES—No, you swore positively.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. Do you or do you not know from whom it came?—A. Not to swear to.

Q. So, you cannot, as a fact, swear whether or not, the party from whom the money came, is connected with this enquiry?—A. Well, of course, on the same ground, I suppose, I could not swear.

By Mr. Curran:

Q. You just have a suspicion where it came from?—A. Simply a suspicion.

Q. You don't know where it came from?—A. I do not.

Q. The party whom you suspect of having sent that money in the envelope through the messenger is not one of the contractors, you feel satisfied?—A. Or the other gentlemen I mentioned.

Q. But whether Mr. Chaloner, or others, you are not prepared to say, because it is merely a suspicion in your mind where the money came from?—A. That is it.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You don't know the man who got the money?—A. No.

Q. You don't know yet?—A. No, I don't think I do.

Q. Don't know yet who brought you that money?—A. I have an idea who the party is, but not to swear to it.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Did you recognize the handwriting of the memorandum?—A. No.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Did you know then whose money it was?—A. I did not know whose money it was.

Q. How did you know whose money it was not?—A. The same answer goes.

Q. Did you know anything about where the money came from?—A. Not the slightest.

Q. Did you not know whether or not it concerned this enquiry?—A. The answers I gave to Mr. Curran put the thing straight.

Q. What did you do with the money?—A. I deposited a portion of the money with the Redemptorist Fathers.

Q. How much did you deposit with the Redemptorist Fathers?—A. Somewhere about $400.

Q. They will be able to say how much was deposited?—A. It is on record.

Q. For what purpose did you deposit it with them?—A. For the purpose, as they told me, that legal expenses—

Q. Who told you?—A. Hanlon and Nolan.

Q. Where did you meet them?—A. It was on the morning of the election somewhere between nine and ten o'clock. They said they had gotten up a Conservative club in Quebec and it was usual for members of the party to help such clubs. They said it was not only for the purposes of the election of Mr. McGreevy, but of helping Conservatives all over the Dominion. They claimed to be members of certain labour organizations and said they could use arguments on these people to try and get them to vote that way. They said they did not wish the money for their votes but that it was for the purpose of founding a club which they wished to carry on. They gave me a memorandum of certain expenses that they had incurred. They would have to pay a secretary and find fuel and oil and furniture and some stationery; and their figures came to a great deal more than $350, or $400 that I gave them. I said "If you will take my word for it, I will see that you get the money after the election is over, as there might be trouble about it and it might be supposed it was for the purpose of influencing your votes." They said that as far as they were concerned they would; but there were some twenty or forty members in the club and they wanted something tangible. One said "Will you put the money in Father Burke's hands?" I said "No, I will not bring any clergymen into this." Another said "There is a savings bank in connection with the church and will you deposit it in there?" I said I had no objection. Three of us went in there and I saw the brother in charge and told him there was a certain transaction in connection with these gentlemen which I wished to consummate after five o'clock that day. I said "Will you receive this money on deposit and pay it to these gentlemen after five o'clock."

Q. You had the money at that time?—A. I had the money at that time.

Q. Why didn't you deposit it in a regular bank where you could have drawn it on a cheque yourself?—A. I did not know whether a bank would have taken a deposit in that way.

Q. To be paid out after five o'clock on election day?—A. In trust for a few hours.

Q. Did you think it was legitimate to pay out money for this furniture in that way?—A. I thought it might save trouble and wrong impressions.

Q. You want us to believe this was a bonâ fide club in your opinion. Did you think so?—A. At the time.

Q. Did you think that the details of expenditure were legitimate and yet had to be kept secret, that you had to resort to this irregular method?—A. I told you that my only reasons were that money going around in the course of election time is liable to be misconstrued.

Q. I want an answer on your oath. Did you believe that the account of the club of its purposes and the expenditure that was referred to by your informant and which you detailed a moment ago—did you believe that was all honest for the purposes named or was that a cover for some other form of expenditure?—A. It was not a cover.

Q. Did you believe the representation made by Hanlon and Nolan?—A. I certainly thought that their appreciation of the value was a little bit exaggerated.

Q. Did you believe their representation?—A. As to whether they were a bonâ fide club? I did.

Q. Did you believe that the money in question was for legitimate expenditure or not?—A. They gave me—

Q. Do you believe or do you not believe what they told you in that regard?—A. I suppose I must.

Q. Did you or did you not?—A. To the best of my recollection I certainly did believe that what they wanted was—

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Money. Is that not what they wanted?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Did you believe that this money was to be expended legitimately, according to the representation given by these two men?—A. I have no reason for believing otherwise.

Q. Did you believe that this was to be an honest disbursement which required to be paid after five o'clock?—A. I wanted it to be paid the parties after five o'clock for the reason I have given you.

Q. Did you believe it was to be disbursed legitimately?—A. I have no reason for believing otherwise.

Q. What was your absolute belief?—A. I do not know that I had any belief in the matter.

Q. Did you believe it was an honest disbursement after five o'clock on election day?—A. I had no reason to believe otherwise.

Q. What did you believe?—A. It was a long time ago.

Q. I want to know what impression it made on your mind?—A. I remember that the conversation took place, and I have never had an opportunity of explaining that before, and—

Q. We don't want a speech from you. Did you believe it was to be honestly disbursed after five o'clock?—A. I had no reason for believing otherwise.

Q. I am asking you what you did believe?—A. I told you I had no reason to believe it was otherwise than legitimate.

Q. Did you believe it was legitimate?—A. I had no reason for believing otherwise.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you believe that the money was to be used for election purposes?—A. I had no reason for believing so.

Q. From your knowledge of the facts?—A. From my knowledge of the facts I thought it was going to be used for the purposes indicated.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. For legitimate purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you want the Committee to believe that?—A. I am here to give my evidence.

Q. Do you know whether Hanlon and Nolan went away after you were indicted for bribery?—A. I have heard so.

Q. How long did they remain away?—A. I don't know.

Q. Did they remain away until the indictment lapsed?—A. I have seen several of them around while the matter was before the election courts.

Q. Do you remember seeing Robert McGreevy on election day?—A. I think I saw him for a few moments on election day in the suburbs.

Q. Did you see him in Montcalm Ward?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him?—A. Yes.

Q. Was any one present?—A. I don't think so.

Q. What was the nature of the conversation you had with him?—A. Robert McGreevy told me that there were some seven or eight young men who wanted $2 a piece and he gave me three five dollar bills and asked me to give it to them. I think one of these parties, or two or three, were delegated to receive the money. They went into a house and I gave them the money.

Q. Who else was there besides these three men?—A. I do not remember anybody. I cannot state who was there. I was driving past, if I remember correctly, and Mr. McGreevy called me, and we went up three or four steps; but to the best of my recollection there was no one heard the conversation between Mr. McGreevy and myself. He slipped the money into my hand.

Q. That was a legitimate payment. You gave the money to the men?—A. I gave the money to the men.

Q. Where did you give the money to the men?—A. I think as far as I can remember it was on the corner of—anyhow, it was one of Mr. McGreevy's committee rooms.

Q. You didn't take a receipt?—A. No; I simply carried out Mr. McGreevy's instructions.

Q. You did not know what the purposes were?—A. They talked about having got up some torch light procession or something like that.

By Mr. Dickey :

Q. Is this indictment still outstanding against you?—A. It has never been disposed of.

MR. WILLIAM H. CROSS sworn.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are an Expert Accountant?—A. Yes.

Q. You were appointed one of the Accountants by this Committee to make certain enquiries and report?—A. Yes.

Q. According to the Resolution of the 10th of July you were ordered by the Committee to report on oath. Do you now report on oath?—A. I do.

Q. Do you produce your report?—A. Yes (referring to First Report, Appendix No. 2.)

Q. Is this Report correct?—A. As far as we know it is.

Q. You have given the figures as you find them in the books and the vouchers submitted to you, and where there is a doubt you have explained it in the notes you have given?—A. We have found a large amount of matter more than is here, but about all this we are satisfied. There may be some other matters we may amend.

Mr. J. B. LAING sworn.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You were named with Mr. Cross as one of the Accountants to examine into the books and papers of Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. ?—A. Yes.

Q. And the Report presented is your joint work with Mr. Cross. Is it correct?—
A. It is correct.

Q. With the extensions and notes that are printed?—A. Yes.

By Mr. German :

Q. In preparing your report had you the cheques, notes and stubs of cheques to examine?—A. We had the stubs.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Had you the vouchers filed here, the cheques and notes?—A. We had the stubs.

Q. But you had not the cheques?—A. No.

Mr. W. H. Cross re-called.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Did you examine the vouchers that have been filed here before the Committee?—A. I did not examine them as there was no object in examining them for the purposes of this Report. I saw the vouchers and for the purposes of our Report they furnished no information. As far as the statement now submitted is concerned, they were quite immaterial.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You say they were of no use to you in preparing your Report in conjunction with Mr. Laing?—A. None whatever. I saw the notes referred to filed as exhibits but they are immaterial as far as this Report is concerned. We dealt with the actual payments concerned, and these we found from the books and bank accounts of the firm.

Q. Taking the five notes of the first of May, 1883, and the five cheques, one of the 14th May, one of the 1st June, one of the 6th November, one of the 4th December and one of the 4th February, 1884, can you not make any comparison or statement which will go to show that these cheques according to the books of the firm went to the payment of the notes in question?—A. We could not do that; nor should we do it. We would not be justified in doing so.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Why not?—Because we were dealing with the payment by the firm of $47,000. We show the cash as paid, how it was paid and from what bank it was paid. We found it charged in the bank account of Larkin, Connolly & Co. We found again entries identified, which went to form the round charges of $25,000 and $22,000, the particular items here referred to.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Where did you find the entry identifying the notes making these sums?—
A. At folio 299 of Exhibit "F3" we found the first $40,000 of this identified. We then report, that as far as the $7,000 is concerned, there is a difficulty of identification which is clearly stated in this note L. from our Report. As far as the earlier payments are concerned we are quite clear about them, but as regards the later ones we show to what extent the books are inconclusive.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. At page 105 of the Evidence I find that Exhibit "B5" purports to be the disbursements in connection with the Quebec Harbour Improvements. In April, 1885, there is a charge of $25,000. Can you not, with the assistance of the documents here, find any vouchers for that $25,000?—A. Yes. We produce the cheque of the 14th May, 1883, the cheque of the 1st of June, the cheque of the 6th November, cheque of the 4th December and cheque of the 4th February, 1884. These five cheques are the vouchers for that payment.

Q. Can you establish any relationship between that item of $25,000—these cheques which you say are the vouchers for the item, and the notes which have already been produced, dated the 1st of May, 1883?—A. As to the last three, they bear a striking resemblance—I should say they were the notes retired by the cheques.

Q. What about the two first?—A. I say nothing about that.

Q. Can you find any entries by the books of Larkin, Connolly & Co. which go to show how the two demand notes were paid?—A. You mean the two first notes?

Q. Yes. Can you establish any connection between the first two demand notes of $5,000 each and the cheques of the 14th May and 1st June?—A. I could not say.

Q. Can you show anything in the books as to how the demand notes were paid if not by these two cheques—is there no other way of explaining it?—A. There is no other.

Q. According to the books of the firm, they have not been paid except by these two cheques?—A. No.

The Committee then adjourned till 4 o'clock.

TUESDAY, 4th August, 4 P. M.

Mr. JAMES WOODS re-called.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You were requested to send for certain papers which were in your custody. Have you brought with you those papers?—A. I have them now, sir.

Q. Will you now file the papers that you have found?—A. I have placed the following papers with the clerk: Statement of payments to H. F. Perley and J. E. Boyd; Statement of payments made to St. George Boswell since 1883; Statement of payments made to Kinipple & Morris for Cross-wall plans; Letter of St. George Boswell, dated 10th September, 1887, ordering contractors not to dump in the River; Report and final certificate of H. F. Perley on Graving Dock, of 24th January, 1887; Joint Report of H. F. Perley and Sandford Fleming, dated 27th February, 1886; Report of 18th August, 1886, of H. F. Perley; Letter of 25th August, 1886, of A. Gobeil, transmitting Perley's Report; Letter of 14th March, 1887, of H. F. Perley, transmitting reasons for amending final certificate for dredging; Letter from Larkin, Connolly & Co., dated 18th February, 1887, requesting that dredging accounts be checked, as they are entitled to an additional $13,000; Report of H. F. Perley dated September 21st, 1887, on the claim of $110,000 by the contractors; Report dated August 24th, 1887, of H. F. Perley, on what is required to make Graving Dock a complete docking establishment; Protest of December 6th, 1884, for non-completion of Graving Dock; Letter of Larkin, Connolly & Co., dated December 9th, 1884, in reply to protest; Report dated December 23rd, 1886, of H. F. Perley, recommending the appointment of engineers; Letter dated August 27th, 1888, Larkin, Connolly & Co., regarding dumping in the River; Letter of August 27th, 1888, ditto; Letter dated October 3rd, 1883, from Larkin, Connolly & Co., asking to be allowed to erect a building on embankment; Reports of H. Laforce Langevin of February 8th, 1887, and October 14th, 1889; Letter of U. Binet dated July 21st, 1890, reporting the loss of $25; Shopping accounts of Larkin, Connolly & Co.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Have you any report from Mr. Perley of 24th January, 1887 and of 14th September of the same year?—A. I will take a note of them and make search.

Q. Have you a letter from Larkin, Connolly & Co., to the Harbour Commission, refusing $30,900 as full settlement, about November, 1887, I think; also letter of Mr. Verret of February 11th, 1888, acknowledging letter of 4th November, 1887; letter of February 13th of Larkin, Connolly & Co., naming John J. Macdonald as their arbitrator; letter of Mr. Verret of February 17th, agreeing to Mr. Macdonald, and naming Mr. Keefer as the arbitrator of the Commission.—A. I will take a note and make search for those papers.

Q. Did you prepare a statement of the expenditure and revenue of the Harbour Commission, and also of the interest paid on those works every year?—A. No.

Q. Will you kindly take a note of it and prepare such a statement?—A. The yearly reports are here.

The CHAIRMAN.—Just prepare a statement giving the totals.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. I would also like the certificate in regard to the Graving Dock at Lévis for $38,000 in 1888; also, Mr. Perley's estimate of 24th January, 1887, of $49,000. You could not find Mr. Perley's Report of 19th March, 1884?—A. No, sir; I have got all the reports I could find.

Q. Are you aware that Mr. Binet's office was broken into?—A. The office was not broken into. The key hangs at the door, the door was open, and the drawer was found broken into—the drawer in the desk.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. Who is Binet?—A. Binet is the messenger.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Do I understand that you have filed a letter in which he complains about this occurrence?—A. I have.

Q. Is it to your knowledge that the Harbour Commissioners reimbursed Binet?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of the sum that was stolen from him?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it a fact or not that your own keys were lost for one day?—A. They were never lost, Sir, they were mislaid.

Q. Well, the word lost may be wrong?—A. These are the keys (showing keys); they were mislaid. They were laid on my desk, or some part of my own office, and found in my own office.

Q. How long were they missing?—A. Two or three days.

Q. You could not find them?—A. I could not find them.

Q. When was this?—A. Shortly after Mr. Verret gave up the secretaryship. Those were his keys, and I had my own keys.

Q. What are those keys?—A. That is a duplicate key of the cash box. The Secretary always had a duplicate key of the cash box; the other keys are the keys of notarial boxes, that held notarial papers, or filed papers, or other things like that. The Secretary always had a duplicate key of my cash box.

Q. But one of those keys was the key of the cash box?—A. Yes.

Q. And in that cash box was that notorious cheque of which we have heard, of $25,000, and Mr. McGreevy's letter?—A. The cheque was there.

Q. And the letter, too?—A. And the letter was there, too.

Q. And the key was mislaid two days?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Or three days, you say?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is it not a little more than that?—A. No, sir; I don't think.

Q. Are you sure?—A. I am pretty sure.

Q. About three days?—A. About three days.

By Mr. Kirkpatrick :

Q. When was it that Mr. Verret left?—A. He left in February, 1890.

Q. A year ago last February?—A. Yes.

Q. It was shortly after that you mislaid the keys?—A. Yes; shortly after that I mislaid the keys.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Where did you find those keys?—A. I did not find them. I asked the messenger where he found them, and he said he found them in one of the drawers.

Q. At any rate, you could not find them; for two or three days they were lost?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you kindly tell me to whom that letter from Mr. McGreevy, and that cheque of $25,000, were shown first?—A. I could not tell you, sir; I don't know anything about who it was first shown to. All I know about it is it was handed to me, and I kept it in the safe.

Q. I mean afterwards?—A. The first person I showed it to? Mr. Valin.

Q. How is it that Mr. Valin could happen to know that there was a change in that letter?—A. In 1891, I think, about the month of February, Mr. Valin asked me to show him the letter, cheque, and enclosure. I took out the letter and without reading it or noticing it, I handed it to Mr. Valin—that is only, remember, about February of this year—and I put it back in my box without noticing it.

Q. Did you ever show the letter to Mr. McGreevy?—A. No, sir; not that I know of; he only heard of it after the meeting.

Q. What meeting, if you please?—A. The meeting of the Board.

Q. When did that meeting take place?—A. I could not remember the date exactly. I suppose some time in April.

Q. Had Mr. Valin gone to interview you about that before that meeting?—A. Not that I remember.

Q. Then you showed the letter to Mr. McGreevy before showing it to Mr. Valin?—A. I did not, sir.

Q. No?—A. If you will allow me I would state, Mr. Valin brought the matter up before the Board, stating there was some change in cheques. The Board ordered me to examine the minutes and see whether there was any authority for the change in the cheques. After the Board adjourned our present Chairman, Mr. Giroux, came over and asked me: "Let me see those cheques, letters and receipts, Mr. Wood?" I took out the letter, cheque and receipt, and showed them to Mr. Giroux, and read it; that was the first time I myself noticed the thing. Nothing more was said about it to anybody, until the letter was placed before the Board at the next meeting when I reported.

Q. You have just stated that Mr. Valin brought the matter before the Board?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Saying at the same time that he heard there was a change?—A. No, sir; I beg your pardon.

Q. What did he say, then?—A. I say Mr. Valin brought the matter before the Board, saying there had been some change in the cheques—not a change in the letter; a change of security—and the Board ordered me to see if there was any authority in the minutes for it. Mr. Valin was not aware of the reading of the letter, nor was I myself.

Q. You were not aware yourself? You never read the letter before?—A. I could not have; I must have just glanced at it, and been deceived, like all the others who took the letter.

Q. You stated that Mr. Giroux asked for the letter afterwards?—A. After the Board had ordered me to look at it, not before I brought it before the meeting, he came down to see the letter. I took out the letter out of my box, and read it to him, and read it the right way.

Q. All this took place, of course, after your keys had been lost?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. How long afterwards, if you please?—Well, the keys were lost in 1890; this was in 1891; it must have been pretty nearly a year. The keys were not lost, but mislaid.

Q. From my point of view, it might mean just the same. Is it not a fact that the door of Mr. Binet's office, if I can call it so, is the same door through which access is gained to the office in which those papers were kept?—A. No; my office has been upstairs for the last two years.

Q. Where was your cash box?—A. It was in an inner office, you had to go through Mr. Binet's office. Until Mr. Verret left and until I took his place, as acting secretary, my office was down stairs, and you had to go through Mr. Binet's office to reach it.

Q. Were all the inner doors locked?—A. Not usually.

Q. Then a man in possession of your keys might have been able to open the cash box?—A. I don't think, it, sir; if my cash box had been touched I would have known it.

Q. But is it a fact or not, that a man in possession of your key, would have been able to open the box.—A. No, because my cash box would have been in the vault.

Q. Where was the key of the vault?—A. The key was always in my pocket, but Mr. Binet has a duplicate key of the vault too.

Q. You don't know if Mr. Binet had that key all the time in his pocket, of course?—A. Always. The reason he lost his money was because he did not put the money in the vault.

Q. Did you make any search in regard to that robbery, or so called robbery, of Mr. Binet?—A. We tried to watch as well as we could, but we could not detect anything.

Q. Did you find nothing at all?—A. Nothing at all.

Q. Except that the money was gone, and the drawer was forced?—A. That is all.

Q. And your keys were mislaid?—A. Yes, at a different time.

Q. Different times?—A. At a different time, I said.

Q. Did you put in Mr. Perley's letter?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you put in Larkin, Connolly & Co's letter in which they ask for $13,000?—A. Yes.

Q. At page 9 of the Evidence I see there is an extract from the Minute Book, reading as follows:

"Moved by Mr. McGreevy, seconded by Mr. Edmond Giroux, Mr. Rae dissenting, and Resolved, that the Secretary-Treasurer be directed to inform the Honourable Minister of Public Works that this Commission have dispensed with the services of their Engineers in chief, Messrs. Kinipple and Morris, and to respectfully request the Honourable Minister of Public Works to recommend an engineer to take charge of the works now under contract with this Commission, in connection with the harbour improvement at the mouth of the River St. Charles."

Q. Did you ever get an answer from Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Will you take a note of that. I know you did. Did you put in the supplementary estimates for Lévis?—A. You have that already.

Q. We have not the estimates. On pages 14 and 15 I see that a certain number of cheques, of long accepted cheques, have been given back to Larkin, Connolly & Co. I would like to know when the substitution of non-accepted cheques for accepted cheques took place?—A. I cannot tell you, nor can I find anything in the minutes about it.

Q. Was it made before you were Secretary-Treasurer?—A. Yes; I know nothing about it.

Q. Except you found those non-accepted cheques?—A. Yes.

Q. These cheques were for security on the Cross-wall?—A. These cheques have undoubtedly been exchanged for cheques held previously.

Q. Were you not all the time the custodian of these securities?—A. I think it was a deposit receipt. It was changed without my knowledge. All Mr. Verret would do would be to get the envelope from me and return it again. I kept the cheques in my cash-box as the safest place.

Q. You do not find anything in the Harbour Commissioner's books to show when this change took place?—A. No, and I have looked pretty carefully.

Q. You told us a few days ago that you succeeded Mr. Verret?—A. Yes.

Q. Did I understand you to say that you draw his salary?—A. Yes, Sir. I draw the same salary as Mr. Verret got. Since I am filling Mr. Verret's place and the position I formerly occupied, the Board has allowed me to draw the same salary.

Mr. ST. GEORGE BOSWELL recalled.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. In the absence of Mr. Edgar, I may remind you that you were requested by him to prepare a statement?—A. Yes; here they are. One statement is showing the working time of the dredges for July and August, 1886, and the other is a memorandum of quantities of material dredged by Larkin, Connolly & Co. under their contract with the Quebec Harbour Commissioners, dated 23rd May, 1887, and subsequently placed by them in the Cross-wall for filling. They are as follows:

(Exhibit "O15.")

Memo. of quantity of materials dredged by Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., under their contract with the Quebec Harbour Commissioners, dated 23rd May, 1887, and subsequently placed by them in the Cross-wall for filling:—

I find by this statement that the two dredges "St. Joseph" and "Sir Hector" worked 259 hours and 13 minutes in July and 769 hours and 32 minutes in August; and have dredged in July 8,540 cubic yards and in August 62,929.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. I asked you to prepare a statement for me.—A. I find that the filling was paid for by place measure and not scow measure. I was asked to find out how near the $100,000 was expended the first year. The only record I can find is the 5th of August, 1887, a letter from the Chief Engineer in which he refers to the estimates, and adds: "You will note that I have called the attention of the Secretary to the fact the amount set aside for dredging will be expended during the present month.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What does that mean?—A. I read a letter here in which I notified the Chief Engineer that the appropriation was nearly exhausted, and I was told to produce his reply. This is the only reply I got, that he has notified the Secretary of the fact.

By the Chairman :

Q. Is that signed by Mr. Perley?—A. Yes.

Q. That is his signature?—A. Yes, and the letter is in his own handwriting.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You had nothing to do but to obey Mr. Perley?—A. Certainly.

Q. You were not responsible for what was going on?—A. I acted under instruction.

Q. Your only work was to supervise the work and make reports?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. The other day, if you are reported correctly, in speaking of the amount of dredging done, did you place the dredging done by Peters, Moore & Wright at 518,000 yards?—A. That was reduced to scow measurement. The quantities are a little mixed up.

Q. Was not the Peters, Moore & Wright contract a lump sum contract?—A. Yes.

Q. They were not paid by the yard at all?—A. In the extra dredging they were.

Q. But by their original contract they were not paid by the yard at all?—A. No.

Q. I find by looking at the estimated quantities that they tendered for, that the estimated quantities were 709,000 yards. Now where did you get the 500,000 odd yards?—A. This dredging that I took here is a different dredging altogether.

Q. I think not.—A. Allow me to explain. The dredging under the original contract was dredging for the crib work, trenches and channel-ways.

Q. No, there was extra dredging for channel-ways. There was a deep trench for the Wet-dock and northern crib work &c. and there was a total dredging done by Peters, Moore & Wright of 917,000 yards.—A. Yes, but not under the bulk sum contract.

Q. But in the area which we were discussing the other day?—A. Not in the area I was referring to.

Q. I think so.—A. The trenches and channel-ways were—

Q. How do you distinguish when you say that Peters, Moore and Wright only did 518,000 yards? How do you get at that quantity when they are mixed up with the bulk sum contract and the special dredging and the dredging that was increased from one and a half to two to one. How did you get at that?—A. It was over a different area altogether. If you will allow me to explain I will do so: The bulk sum dredging was for the Tidal-harbour cribs and Wet-dock cribs. It was for a channel-way along the face of those cribs. The only part of that dredging that is included in this calculation is that channel-way in front of the Tidal-harbour cribs, which is 1250 feet long.

Q. How much did you allow for that, when they were paid by lump sum?—
A. It was measured, and a deduction of $31,000 was made from their bulk sum prices.

Q. That is what you called the clerical error?—A. Yes; and the quantities in that general and extra dredging were paid for by the yard. That is what is taken into the calculation.

Q. I am instructed that over the area you have given, that in reality, instead of 518,000 yards, they removed 517,000 yards?—A. I produced the figures.

Q. Where did you draw the line?—A. I will get the plans.

Q. Where did you get your data?—A. I say they were paid so many yards for the channel-way in front of the Tidal-harbour cribs, by actual measure, owing to that error.

Q. You know very well that that clerical error has been a matter in litigation, and that it was shown not to exist, and that two or three judges of the court have given judgment in their favour, and that it stands, with a strong expression of opinion on the part of the Supreme Court judges that such a deduction was all wrong?—A. That does not alter the fact of how many yards was in the channel. I say that the channel was calculated to hold so many cubic yards, and that they were paid for. They claimed an extra payment owing to a clerical error.

Q. No; you claimed a deduction.—A. You may put it either way.

Q. How was it measured?—A. By sounding.

Q. When?—A. During the progress of the work.

Q. Before the work was finished?—A. No; when it was finished.

Q. You measured it?—A. I did.

Q. With a view of seeing the clerical error?—A. With a view of seeing whether it was 24 feet down.

Q. Where was the deep trench, 100,650 yards?—A. That was under the Tidal Harbour crib-work, which is filled up now by the crib-work itself.

Q. And the Wet dock trench?—A. That was filled in by the crib-work, too. These are both obliterated, and the Wet dock trench is not taken in the calculation which I have made, because the soundings were made after that was dredged.

Q. I am informed that Peters, Moore & Wright were allowed a slope to the bank of the trench of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 in your estimate of quantities?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know that the former contractors had to make that slope 2 to 1, in order to get it to stand, and do you know that that area, the area which they had to take down, reducing the slope of the banks from  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 1, is included in the area allowed to Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. I do not know that. The area is bounded by two walls.

Q. But the walls did not exist at the time of the trench?—A. Yes; they existed at the time the calculation was made.

Q. And you only allowed up to the walls?—A. The area used in this calculation is bounded by the walls of the Louise Embankment and the Cross-wall. There is a stone wall on the north, another stone wall on the west, and a wharf on the east, so that the area calculated is bounded on three sides by practically perpendicular walls. Soundings have been taken over that area as it exists to-day, and the total quantity of dredged material in that area has been calculated.

Q. Without leaving anything for slopes?—A. Certainly, allowing a slope on the south side.

Q. But you have calculated the area between the walls, and you have not allowed, as any of the material dredged, the natural slope which the material would take under water?—A. There is no slope there now.

Q. There is no slope there now, but there was when Larkin, Connolly & Co. commenced?—A. No, sir.

Q. I am taking the cubical contents?—A. I am taking the cubical contents of that area as it exists to-day. From that I deduct what has already been allowed to Peters, Moore & Wright on that particular area, and the difference is what Larkin, Connolly & Co. must have dredged.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Have you got any knowledge that Mr. Boyd deducted 5 cents from every yard of material thrown into the St. Lawrence by the contract of 1882?—A. He deducted 5 cents for a great portion of it; I do not think he did for the whole. He commenced, I think, in 1885 to deduct 5 cents.

Q. For all material that was thrown into the St. Lawrence?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you got any knowledge that the 5 cents is paid back to the contractors later on?—A. Yes; they got 35 cents for all the dredging.

Q. They were paid back, then?—A. They were paid back.

Q. On your report?—A. On no report of mine. They were paid from the final estimate.

Q. On whose report?—A. The 5 cents, as I understand it, was a temporary reduction to compel them to put the material required into the bank.

Q. How many letters did you write to Larkin, Connolly & Co. to oblige them not to throw any more material into the St. Lawrence?—A. Quite a number.

Q. Were you obeyed?—A. No.

Q. What steps did you take to be obeyed?—A. I did not pay them.

Q. Were they paid finally?—A. They were.

Q. By whom?—A. By the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. In spite of all your reports?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you ordered by the Commissioners to make those protests against dumping material into the river?—A. Certainly, the Commissioners would instruct me not to allow dumping into the river and I would instruct the contractors accordingly, but still it went on.

Q. And in spite of your report they were paid full prices?—A. Yes:

By Mr. German:

Q. Did they know that you would report against their being paid if they continued to dump in the river?—A. I told them I would not include it in the estimates.

Q. And still they continued to dump into the river?—A. Yes.

Q. I want to press you a little more about the Inspectors' payments. I think you had special charge of the Inspectors. Am I right or wrong?—A. I had not special charge, more than being the Resident Engineer, and of course I was over them. Mr. McGreevy was supposed to look after the dredging more particularly. I had not the time.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. Which Mr. McGreevy?—A. Charles McGreevy.

Q. Son of Robert?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. How was he charged with supervising the Inspectors?—A. I told him to look after that specially.

Q. What do you mean by "specially"?—A. It is the only thing he did, to supervise their work, make out the returns and check their books.

Q. Was Mr. Charles McGreevy ever charged by you to supervise the work of the Inspectors or the figures of the Inspectors?—A. Certainly, it was his duty, if he saw anything wrong, to report it. He took the books and added up their returns and sent them in to me.

Q. I admit that, but I want you to go further, and say whether you ever charged him by letter or otherwise to see that these reports of Inspectors were right—not simply by adding up the figures, but by personal examination on the spot?—A. I do not know that I ever did that exactly on these works, but naturally I would suppose, if he saw anything going wrong, it was his duty as Assistant Engineer, to report it without definite instructions.

Q. You never had reason to suspect that the Inspectors were paid by the contractors from 1885-6-7-8-9?—A. No; I had no reason whatever. I did not suspect it at all.

Q. Still, you have heard the evidence here?—A. Yes.

Q. And you have learned that they were paid?—A. There appears to be no doubt about it.

Q. Did you ever supervise the Inspectors yourself?—A. As I say I had very little time to look after them at all, I took their returns and just made out the estimates.

Q. You never went on the spot?—A. Oh yes; I was on the spot sounding lots of times.

Q. Are you aware that payments were made to the dredges when these dredges were idle at the wharf?—A. No.

By Mr. German :

Q. Do you know where they should have dumped the material, as soon as the dumping into the river was protested against?—A. In the work.

Q. In the Embankment?—A. In the Louise Embankment.

Q. It was part of their contract, was it, that the material should be dumped into the Louise Embankment?—A. Yes; or into the Cross-wall, or any other property belonging to the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. Were they paid nothing extra for filling the Louise Embankment?—A. They were in 1886.

Q. Not during the time they were dumping this material into the river against your protest?—A. No.

Q. When they were dumping material in the Cross-wall they were paid for both—for filling the Cross-wall as well as for the dredging?—A. Oh, yes; any filling that was put into the Cross-wall they were paid for.

Q. As a fact, though, did the specifications require any particular kind of earth filling in the Cross-wall?—A. No.

Q. It is not mentioned there should be any particular kind of clay?—A. No.

Q. It would not be sand they would fill with?—A. In the Cross-wall, certainly, it is all sand.

By Mr. Tarie :

Q. Can you tell me when the Graving Dock at Lévis was completed, and taken over by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I think it was in the summer of 1886, but the records will tell you; I could not speak from memory at all.

Q. Have you any knowledge that stone was carried over from the Lévis Dock to the Quebec Harbour works?—A. What sort of stone?

Q. Well, dressed stone, I suppose?—A. Building stone?

Q. Building stone that required to be used?—A. Probably so.

Q. Have you got any knowledge of it?—A. No. I know there was a certain amount of stone left in from the Graving Dock, and they probably sent it somewhere or other.

Q. Well probably is not clear evidence?—A. I have no positive knowledge.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Was the whole of the material dredged about the same character right through?—A. Yes; all sand and boulders.

By the Chairman :

Q. When did you first discover these Inspectors were receiving any pay from the contractors?—A. I knew nothing about it until it was stated here.

Q. When did you first know they were doing extra work for the contractors?—A. I never knew they did any extra work, except during the winter, when they were levelling sand.

Q. Was that work of any duration?—A. They were there for two or three months, I think, in the winter, working for the contractors.

Q. Every one of them?—A. No; there was Pelletier, Brunelle, and, I think, Germain.

Q. What year was it?—A. In the winter of 1884 and 1885, I think; there were two winters I think.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. They went out after that?—A. No; I don't think so.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. At the same time were they paid by the Government?—A. No; they were not.

Q. They were paid during the winter by the contractors?—A. Yes; I think there is a letter, by Mr. Boyd, instructing the contractors to pay the Inspectors for the work during the winter.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. When were you first engaged as Engineer on this work?—A. In 1877.

Q. By the Harbour Commissioners?—A. By the Harbour Commissioners, but by Kinipple & Morris actually.

Q. Did they appoint you, or the Harbour Commissioners?—A. The Harbour Commissioners appointed me on their recommendation.

Q. And what were your duties at that time?—A. Assistant Engineer, looking after the outside work, the construction of cribwork, putting in concrete, and different things of that kind.

Q. How long had you acted in the capacity?—A. I was Assistant Engineer until 1886.

Q. Then you were Assistant Engineer under Mr. Perley?—A. Under Mr. Boyd.

Q. But after Mr. Boyd's death?—A. Well, after Mr. Boyd's death, in 1886, I then became Resident Engineer, and I was then directly under Mr. Perley; before that, Mr. Boyd was between Mr. Perley and myself.

Q. And you were Assistant Engineer then, at the time that Messrs. Peters & Moore were engaged in dredging?—A. I was, Sir.

Q. Did you take soundings, at that time, of the work that was done?—A. I did; yes.

Q. And after the work was discontinued by Peters & Moore, did you take soundings and ascertain the quantity that remained by actual measurement?—A. Yes. The soundings were taken and they were actually paid for what they had really done, but they claimed and they wanted to be paid what was put in the bills of quantities which was an excessive amount, and more than they had actually done.

Q. Then you have taken soundings, and measured the quantities, or estimated the quantities, removed by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Mr. McGreevy and myself have both taken soundings, over the ground as it is at present, and the difference between these two sets of soundings would show what Larkin, Connolly & Co. had done.

Q. Who appointed Mr. McGreevy Assistant Engineer?—A. The Harbour Commissioners.

Q. And when was he appointed to that position—was it before you?—A. It was in 1883 or 1884, or somewhere about that time.

Q. About the time you were appointed Resident Engineer?—A. No, it was about three years before that.

Q. So that when you gave an estimate of the quantities dredged by Larkin, Connolly & Co., you ascertained it by bearing in mind the condition of the soundings at the time that Peters & Moore quit their work?—A. Yes, certainly. I have taken the total quantity in a certain area, and deducted from that quantity what Peters, Moore & Wright were paid for doing in the same way.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. I think it was intended that the depth in the Wet basin should be 27 or 25 feet?—A. In the Wet basin?

Q. Yes?—A. It was originally intended to be dredged at 10 feet below low water.

Q. And afterwards you made it fifteen?—A. Yes, afterwards made it fifteen, which means with a fifteen foot tide, 30 feet of water.

Q. Which means 30 feet of water then?—A. We do not always get the same tides.

Q. Did you inform the Chief Engineer and Commissioners, that the contractors were dredging deeper than 15 feet?—A. As I have already stated I did mention it to the Chief Engineer and he said he thought it was an advantage to the Commissioners to get the dredging done a little deeper than was called for by the specifications.

Q. There were no letters about that?—A. No, there were no letters, it was a detail of the work.

Q. The contractors began to dredge deeper in 1887?—A. I fancy it was about 1887.

Q. In the Wet basin?—A. Yes, it is the Wet basin we are talking about.

Q. They were dredging by the contract of 1882 at 27 cents?—A. Certainly 27 cents and 30 cents for putting it into the bank.

Q. Besides?—A. Besides, in 1886.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Did you know that Robert McGreevy was one of the contractors?—A. I did not know.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You never were informed?—A. No.

Q. You never knew it?—A. Well, I suspected he had some sort of interest in it.

Q. Did you often see him on the embankment?—A. No, I never saw him, but he seemed to be a great personal friend of Murphy's and I thought perhaps Murphy was borrowing money from him—that is the only thing I suspected about it.

Q. You suspected that he was interested in it?—A. I suspected there was some private arrangement, perhaps, between himself and Murphy. I did not think he was in the firm at all; I never suspected that.

By the Chairman :

Q. When did you find out that Mr. Milne had received a present of a gold watch from the contractors?—A. I never knew he had.

Q. You learned it to-day, I suppose?—A. No, not until you spoke. I was not present this morning.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Was he employed as a dredging Inspector in Quebec?—A. He may have been, once or twice, for a day at a time—something like that; he never was constantly.

Q. Do you know whether Pelletier, Germain and Brunelle worked during the nights?—A. Well, I suppose they did; they were paid for it.

Q. Did you see them working during the night?—A. No, I did not.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you refer to Exhibit "H14" and state to the Committee how many hours of dredging work was done in the month of August, 1887?—A. The dredge "St. Joseph" did 288 hours and twenty-seven minutes, and the dredge "Sir Hector," with Germain inspecting, did 231 hours and 55 minutes. The dredge "Sir Hector," with Mr. Brunelle inspecting, did 68 hours and 35 minutes.

Q. That is a total of 587 hours; and what was the number of yards or the result of the operations during the month of August, 1887, for 587 hours?—A. 106,737 cubic yards.

Q. Will you look now to the same month, in August, 1886, and say how many hours?—A. 769 hours and 31 minutes.

Q. What was the number of yards?—A. 62,929.

By the Chairman :

Q. How can you account for that difference?—A. In 1887 the dredges were working constantly. In 1886 they were not. They appear to have been waiting two or three hours without doing anything.

Q. But the hours of working are greater?—A. There are the hours when they began in the morning and left off at night. In 1886, you can see that sometimes during the whole day they would only load one scow or two scows, and there were only two or three hours in which they did anything. The hours are counted just the same from morning until night.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. In August, 1886, it appears they worked 769 hours and 32 minutes. Did they work for that time?—A. No. As far as you can tell from the books, there are apparently places of two or three hours in which they were doing nothing, loading only two or three scows a day.

Q. So, in the case of 1886, there may not have been the same amount of work as for the time in 1887?—A. You cannot tell the actual working time. The whole of the time is put in while the dredge was there—from morning until night, whether she was working or not. These are taken from the Inspectors' books.

Q. Can you show us from any information which you have in your possession the actual number of hours that the dredges worked in August, 1886?—No, I cannot; but I can tell the time in the different years to load the scows, and from that, I can see that they were not working the whole time.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Can you explain why in 1886 they were not working all the time, and had an average of 14 hours 45 minutes a day; while in 1887 they were making 11 hours?—A. They were working at night.

Q. Why were they doing night work if they were not busy all the day?—A. I can merely say what the books show. Here are two or three hours of intervals between the scows and leaving the dredges.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Have you that work tabulated, so that we can see that worked out day by day?—A. I can show the number of scows each day. All that the books do, is to show that the start was at 7.30 in the morning and the next scow which would leave would be at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. You cannot think that it takes all that time to load a scow, when you know that when the dredges are working the same scow can be loaded in an hour.

Q. The Committee has no tabulated statement of that?—A. You can get a copy made out of the books.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you tell the Inspectors to be always on board?—A. Always on the dredge.

Q. Are you in a position to swear that they were always on both of the dredges?—A. No.

Q. Do you know that they were not always on board the dredges?—A. They ought always to be able to see the dredge and to be on the ground.

Q. Do you know that they were not always on both the dredges when the dredges were at work?—A. I have seen them on the bank myself, but that is a proper place for them to be, as long as they could see what was going on.

Q. If the dredges were working at night, do you think that when they were not on board they could see?—A. At night I fancy they were on board. They were paid for being there and it was their duty to be there. Whenever I went to find them they were there. They may have been asleep sometimes; but they were there.

Mr. Henry asked permission to file the following letters:

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Wednesday, 5th August, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

HON. THOMAS MCGREEVY SWORN.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You are member of Parliament for the Electoral division of Quebec West, are you not?—A. Yes.

Q. How long have you represented that division?—A. Since 1868, the general elections.

Q. You were then elected by acclamation?—A. By acclamation.

Q. And you have continued to represent the division up to the present time?—A. Yes.

Q. What have been your politics during that time?—A. Conservative.

Q. You have been closely identified with your party during that period?—A. I have.

Q. I understand that you have taken an active part in the management of the affairs of your party in the district of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Previous to the time of your election what was your occupation?—A. I was a contractor.

Q. Were you a contractor in a large way of business?—A. Yes.

Q. Which contracts were you specially connected with at the time of your election, or just previous to your election in 1867?—A. The Parliament Buildings, here at Ottawa.

Q. You, of course, severed your connection with that contract at the time of your first election?—A. Yes, but as a matter of fact there was little remaining to be done. The plant and other stuff I sold to my brother.

Q. By your brother do you refer to the witness Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. You handed over to him whatever was to be done in connection with the completion of that contract?—A. Yes. I may state that it was an item contract and I need not have continued, if I did not wish.

Q. However, you handed it over to him?—A. Yes.

Q. Since 1867, when you first entered politics, have you done any business?—A. I built the North Shore Railway under contract in 1874.

Q. Except that contract with the North Shore you have not had any other business enterprises?—A. Nothing.

Q. Your occupation during that time—from 1867—has been to look after your investments and matters connected with financial and banking concerns?—A. From about 1881, when I finished the North Shore contract.

Q. But independently of the North Shore you are not engaged in any business enterprises?—A. I had nothing else.

Q. Since its formation, you have been, I understand, vice-president and director of the Union Bank of Quebec?—A. Since 1865.

Q. And are you the President of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co.?—A. Yes; for the last three years.

Q. Except the North shore Railway contract, have you been in any way connected with any other contract?—A. In no way.

Q. Had you any financial or pecuniary interest in any other contract?—A. Not one.

Q. Your brother when examined as a witness said he had been connecte<sup>d</sup> with you in business since 1850?—A. He was employed by me during the construction of the Parliament Buildings here and on the North Shore afterwards.

Q. That is to say while you were contractor for the Parliament Buildings here at Ottawa, he acted as a sort of foreman or superintendent?—A. He acted as superintendent.

Q. Did he also act in the same capacity during the course of construction of the North Shore Railway?—A. Yes.

Q. Independently of that had you any other business relations with him in the way of advancing money to him in connection with different enterprises?—A. I took notes of his for what I sold to him in the year 1866. I think it was three notes but they have never been paid, neither principal nor interest. After that he got into difficulties and I advanced him another large sum of money. That remains unpaid to-day, and with interest too. After that he went into a contract with Jones, Shanly & Co., of Pittsburg. I made large advances to him during that time, but I never got the capital or interest out of it. The last occasion was when he took the contract on the Intercolonial Railway when I advanced him money and lost there again.

Q. The result of your business relations with your brother was that you suffered a financial loss. Of how much?—A. About $400,000.

Q. During all these times to which you have referred you were on very close terms with your brother—were you not?—A. Yes; very much so.

Q. Were your relations more intimate than those which usually exist between two members of the same family?—A. Well, I trusted him in everything. I did everything I could for him and helped him through.

Q. In any enterprise that he had or with which he was connected?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he take the management of your private affairs?—A. Yes.

Q. As far as your political relationships were concerned, in matters affecting your constituents, did he act for you?—A. Yes; he generally managed them.

Q. This intimate relationship continued on between you until what time? When was the first rupture? He has referred to it in his evidence, as having taken place in connection with the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co.—A. It was in the commencement of 1889.

Q. Will you state briefly what were the circumstances which led to the difficulty between you and your brother in connection with the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Co.? What was your connection with the Company at that time?—A. I had been a director of the Company for several years. I became a director of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co. on account of the amalgamation with the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Co. and the Saguenay line. I had been President of the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Co., and it was stipulated when the amalgamation took place that I should become a member of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co.'s Board. That is the way I became to be connected with the Company.

Q. During the course of your connection with the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co., did your brother endeavour to get on the Board or do anything which brought about the conflict between you?—A. It was at the end of 1888 or the commencement of 1889, before the elections took place, that in February some person told me that my brother was trying to get on the Board of the Richelieu Co. I think it was Mr. Michael Connolly who told me. He was a director at the time, and we were on our way from one of the meetings of the board when he said to me, that Robert McGreevy was trying to become a director. I said to Mr. Connolly, "what business has he to go there; he does not own any stock or has he any money to put into investments; he is too much in debt and has no right to go there." I said further that I thought it was to create a division by putting a number of the then directors off. I stated at the time that some of the other directors would think that I was intriguing to get some of them off the Board, and I was very much annoyed about it.

Q. You have just stated that the first difficulty between you and your brother, arose out of a statement which had been made to you by Michael Connolly, to the effect that your brother sought election as a director of the Richelieu Company?—A. Yes.

Q. And you thought that was impossible, as he had no means to buy stock nor was he then in possession of the stock which would give him an interest in the affairs of the company?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you then say to Michael Connolly, and what did Michael Connolly say to you on that subject? Did he give you to understand that you were in error about your brother's means?—A. He disclosed to me that Robert McGreevy was a partner in the firm, and had a large amount of money there in the company; that he was speculating with Murphy in the stock of the company.

Q. He then said you were in error as to the financial condition of your brother?—A. Yes, and that he was a partner in the firm.

Q. He then stated that fact to you for the first time?—A. For the first time.

Q. And you say that was in 1888 or the beginning of 1889?—A. Coming down from a meeting of the directors of the Richelieu Company.

Q. Did you have any conversation with your brother subsequently?—A. Yes. The next time I met him I reproached him for the whole thing, in my office at Quebec, and we quarrelled about it, and I said some very hard things to him. We never spoke since that day, or never had any conversation.

Q. Your brother has referred to a letter produced here, written in February 1889 to you. Can you remember whether that letter was written as the result of the interview to which you have just referred?—A. Yes, it was.

Q. After that do you remember if anything was done, or any proceedings were taken by the Union Bank in which you were then interested, to recover the indebtedness of Robert McGreevy to the Bank?—A. Yes. There was some person went to the bank—Robert McGreevy had a note running there of which I was the endorser for a sum of eighteen thousand and some odd dollars, and which had been running for a number of years—and some parties outside knowing all about these transactions went to the bank and offered to take the note and recover it, stating he had large amounts outside, and they knew he could pay it. At that time he was paying the interest of notes on renewal.

Q. What was the amount of that note?—A. $18,800—somewhere about that.

Q. You say some person went to the bank?—A. I am told some of the directors; that if they wanted it paid, they would see and get it paid for him.

Q. At any rate this resulted in a suit being taken by the bank against your brother Robert?—A. The matter was to be taken up by the board. I retired from the board, and they resolved afterwards that unless he paid a large amount at each renewal they must sue for the note.

Q. It resulted in a suit being taken?—A. I will explain. Murphy went on his behalf to the bank and offered to give $12,000 on the note—$4,000 in cash, and two notes of $4,000—time notes.

Q. It resulted in a suit, and that suit resulted in an action being taken by your brother against you in warranty?—A. When they were pushing him very hard for the recovery of the note, he took an action against me, for I had guaranteed him the note, and they let me off and sued him.

Q. That is to say action was taken on a note made by Robert and endorsed by you?—A. Yes.

Q. And the maker of the note, Robert, called you in warranty?—A. Not at the first suit, sometime afterwards.

Q. At any rate it resulted in settlement of that claim?—A. Yes, it was settled by Murphy.

Q. Do you remember if, immediately after that action, Robert McGreevy and Murphy left the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. and ceased to have any interest in it—in the spring of 1889?—A. Yes, I think that the Connollys had sold out to him for $50,000 their interest, and they came before the board. Murphy came with a letter before the board and the board refused to entertain the matter; inasmuch as the principal names of the firm would disappear they would not entertain it.

Q. Then after he had left the firm the next event of any importance was the election of December, 1889, for the local Parliament, between Owen Murphy and himself?—A. Yes, I think it was in the end of 1889.

Q. I need not ask you if you supported your brother?—A. I did not take any part in it at all, I left.

Q. Then the next event was the placing by your brother, in the hand of Senator Robitaille, of certain type-written documents, charging you with substantially the same offences as are charged now by Mr. Tarte?

Mr. GEOFFRION—You might ask him if something like that took place

Q. After 1889, do you remember whether or not you heard of any charges, that your brother had made against you, both as a Harbour Commissioner, and as a Member of Parliament?—A. Yes, I was in Ottawa here and I went in to see Senator Robitaille in his room; he was sick here and confined to his room, and he had two papers which he showed me, by my brother. I think it was in the month of February.

Q. Who were those papers signed by?—A. They were signed by Robert McGreevy, O. E. Murphy, and Frank McGreevy as a witness.

Q. Then subsequently, when did you see those same documents again; did you ever see them published anywhere?—A. Well, I took copies. I asked Senator Robitaille to allow me to have these, and I took copies of them which I initialled.

Q. Did you see them published any place afterwards?—A. I saw them first published in Le Canadien.

Q. Towards the end of April, 1890?—A. I think it was the 30th of April.

Q. A short time before the elections for the Legislative Assembly in Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. When did you first become acquainted with any members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. I think I became acquainted—

Q. Perhaps in connection with that, I might first ask you when did you first become a member of the Board of Harbour Commissioners of Quebec?—A. I think it was the end of 1879; I don't think I was there before that time.

Q. When you first became Harbour Commissioner had the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. any contracts with the Harbour Commission?—A. Yes; I think there was the Graving Dock at Lévis.

Q. At that time, or a short time after you became a member of the Board, did you become aware that there were difficulties existing between the contractors and the Harbour Commissioners or the Engineers, with reference to the work that was then being carried on at Lévis?—A. I think there had been correspondence between the contractors and the Harbour Commissioners, and I think a number of the Directors went over there to pay a visit shortly after.

Q. The difficulties which then existed, arose out of some defect in the plans, or in the foundation upon which the work was being built, did they not?—A. On the plans which was marked—

Q. Answer the question straight?—A. Yes; it was the foundation.

Q. At one time it was understood and agreed the Harbour Commissioners should appoint members to see what these defects were?—A. Yes; to visit the place.

Q. Up to the time that you were on the Board, and those difficulties arose, and they were brought to your knowledge officially as a member of the Board, had you any communication whatever with the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I have no recollection.

Q. You do not recollect having any?—A. No.

Q. To the best of your recollection were those the first relations you had with them?—A. Of course.

Q. They were contractors long before you became member of the Board?—A. Yes.

Q. At that time you were presumed to have had considerable experience as a contractor?—A. Yes; I had.

Q. You had been connected with different large enterprises?—A. Yes; I had considerable experience.

Q. And you were then engaged with the North Shore Railway, between Quebec and Montreal?—A. Just about that time.

Q. At that time, during the course of the relations you had with them, you had occasion to know what their difficulties were, and did you then try to give them such assistance as you could as a member of the Board, to help them with their enterprise?—A. I was quite prepared to give them fair play, and see they got what was right, that was all.

Q. Did you know Murphy at all, at that time, 1879, 1880, or 1881, and did you see him at any time in connection with the work?—A. He was always about the doors of the board room, where the Commissioners met. When we were coming in or out he was always about the door, waiting and interviewing the members that went in and came out.

Q. For what purpose?—A. For different things connected with these works.

Q. To find out what was going on?—A. To find out something; he was mostly always at the door.

Q. You, at all events, during 1880, 1881 and 1882 knew very little of it?—A. Or 1883 either, or 1884. Later on I became—

Q. Are you now in a position to tell us what was the system adopted and followed in connection with the letting of contracts by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners. In the first place, about plans?—A. Which contracts do you mean?

Q. All contracts, speaking generally—the system followed with reference to letting of contracts by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners. Who were the plans submitted to before tenders were called for?—A. I think all plans had to be approved of by the Government Engineers.

Q. In the first instance, the plans were prepared by the Engineer of the Harbour Commissioners, and referred afterward to the Government Engineer for approval?—A. Yes, for approval.

Q. After that, the tenders were called for by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes.

Mr. GEOFFRION objected that the witness was being led.

Q. And when the tenders came in, of course, as a rule they were opened and examined by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes.

Q. Then, in the usual course, they would be referred to your Secretary and Engineer for report?—A. To report. I think in 1882 that was the case, but in 1883—

Q. There may have been one exception and we will come to that in proper time. I am talking of the general rule?—A. That was the rule.

Q. Then, the contract was, as a rule, awarded after this report was made by your Engineers to whoever the Engineer might report as being entitled to it; but before final signature it had to be referred to Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. And approved of by the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. Finally, the contract was awarded and signed by the Commissioners. They were parties to the contract?—A. Always signed the contract. The contract was made with them.

Q. If I remember rightly, the contract had to be finally approved of, or the plans, both by the Minister of Public Works and the Minister of Marine?—A. I think so; I think that was the case.

Q. Now, coming to the contract of 1882, do you remember when the tenders were called for that contract? About what time of the year was it?—A. I think it must have been—let me see—in the fall of the year, the month of September. It was some time in the fall of the year; I am not sure of the month.

Q. Do you remember if in the spring of 1882 tenders were called for two different undertakings: one, for the dredging of the Louise Basin and the other for the closing of the opening in the Louise Embankment?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember if in connection with these works there were different sets of tenders called for—that is to say, were the contracts awarded on the first tender, or were there new tenders called for?—A. You mean for the dredging of 1882?

Q. The first contract?—A. I really did not remember that until I heard it mentioned here. I know there were tenders called for, and we had a number of tenders in.

Q. You say that you remember that tenders were called for that work?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember whether the first tenders were opened or not; and if they were not opened do you remember whether the contract was not awarded on the first tender?—A. Yes. There were some of the Board of Trade and the Harbour Master who requested that there might be deeper dredging in order to accommodate vessels drawing a larger draught of water.

Q. Do I understand you to say that the first tenders were not acted upon or opened, because it was determined on the report of the Harbour Master to increase the depth of dredging?—A. That is my recollection of it.

Q. Who was your Harbour Master then?—A. François Gourdeau.

Q. Gourdeau is now dead?—A. Yes.

Q. He died about two years ago?—A. No, this summer; about a couple of months ago.

Q. Have you got that letter from Gourdeau? Do you remember if other tenders were called for or not?—A. I cannot recollect that. I think there was, but I am not quite sure. There must have been, I think; but I have no personal recollection of it now.

Q. Do you remember now if, in connection with these tenders, any security was asked from any of the parties tendering?—A. I think not. There was an omission, I think, because usually it is customary to ask for security.

Q. Would you look at page 9 of the Blue-book (Exhibit "N 5") and say whether or not you find at the foot of the page, and on page 10 following, the notice to contractors on which the tenders for the dredging contract were invited?—A. I see a notice for tenders here, but there is no date.

Q. You will find it on the other page.—A. Yes; 22nd of June, 1882.

Q. You will observe that in the notice for the tenders there is no reference to security.—A. No.

Q. Can you recollect if many tenders were put in on the 4th July, the date fixed here on which they were to be filed, and who the tenderers were?—A. There were several tenders; I think there was Peters, Moore & Wright, Larkin, Connolly & Co., there was Askwith, and Fradet & Miller—five or six tenders.

Q. Will you look at page 429 of the Evidence and say whether or not the tabulated statement of tenders received by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners, found on that page, shows the result of the statement prepared by your Engineer?—A. There were six tenders I see here.

Q. The usual course was, that these tenders would be referred to the Engineer for a statement?—A. Always. In the usual course, I would assume that.

Q. Who was the Resident Engineer at the time?—A. Mr. Pilkington.

Q. The gentleman who prepared the Report (Exhibit "U") which is to be found on page 429 of the printed Evidence?—A. Yes.

Q. According to that report, who was the lowest tenderer?—A. I think it was Fradet & Miller.

Q. Do not think about it. Please look at the statement?—A. The lines are not opposite one another here. I think the lowest tenderer is a man by the name of Blake, of Portland, according to this statement.

Q. What is the remark in the column alongside Blake's name?—A. "Not in terms of the advertisement."

Q. And therefore he was counted out?—A. Therefore he was counted out.

Q. Outside of his, the next lowest was Fradet & Miller?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know them?—A. I knew them very well. They do very good work but were without means.

Q. They were of no financial standing whatever?—A. None whatever.

Q. They had not the means to carry on a contract of that sort?—A. No.

Q. Do you remember anything about security being asked for from them?—A. Yes; I think there was a Resolution of the Board awarding them the contract provided they could put up the necessary security.

Q. Do you remember how much it was?—A. $10,000.

Q. Who made the motion that the contract be awarded to Fradet & Miller provided they gave the security required?—A. On looking over the matter, I think it was Mr. William Rae and myself. I seconded his motion.

Q. Fradet & Miller did not give the security required?—A. No; they could not come up to it.

Q. Then the next lowest tenderer was Askwith, was it not?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember if the contract was offered to him?—A. Yes, it was.

Q. Can you remember whether he accepted it or not?—A. I think he did, at first.

Q. He accepted the contract at first, and then he said he could not take it. For what reason did he decline?—A. I do not remember the reason, but I think he did accept it, and then said he could not take it.

Q. Do you remember anything about the meeting at which the contract was awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co.? Do you remember if you were there or not?—A. Really I cannot remember just now, unless I saw the minutes of the Board. I cannot remember that.

Q. Can you recollect whether or not, when the contract for the dredging in 1882 was awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co., you took any part whatever or were even present at a meeting at which it was determined by the Harbour Commissioners to give them the contract?—A. I cannot say that. I could not state that unless I saw the Minute books.

Q. You cannot recollect whether you were present or not at the meeting at which the contract was awarded?—A. I cannot recollect for the moment, I have not gone over the books.

Q. Can you recollect that you took any part whatever at the meeting at which this contract was let to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I must have been at some of the meetings.

Q. But did you take any part in, or were you even present at the meeting at which this contract was awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I cannot really recollect without seeing the Minute books.

Q. The minute is of the 26th of July, 1882. Do you remember whether or not, in the usual course of events, after it was determined to let the contract to Larkin, Connolly & Co., the tenders were referred to Ottawa?—A. The tenders for the dredging of 1882?

Q. Yes. I am speaking of that altogether just now?—A. I think they were sent to Ottawa. I think so, but there were so many contracts that I cannot state positively about them.

Q. Do you not remember that the matter was referred to Ottawa after Fradet & Miller had failed to accept the contracts?—A. I think so. I think they had been referred up here.

Q. Do you remember whether or not a letter was received by the Harbour Commissioners on the 5th of August, 1882, from the Minister of Public Works, Sir Hector Langevin, asking for explanations whether the contract was let to the lowest tenderer?—A. I think there was something of that nature.

Q. Will you look at the document now produced, and say whether that is not the letter written by Sir Hector Langevin in connection with these tenders?—A. Yes. I think I remember that.

Q. Read it please?

"CABINET DU MINISTRE DES TRAVAUX PUBLICS DU CANADA,
OTTAWA, 31 juillet 1882.

"MONSIEUR,—Votre lettre du vingt-neuf juillet avec l'état qui l'accompagnait, m'est arrivée. Avant de pouvoir considérer la soumission à laquelle MM. les commissaires voudraient donner la préférence, je désire savoir : 1° Si les commissaires ont lieu de croire que les soumissions reçues, et qui sont plus basses que celle qu'ils préfèrent, ont été faites de bonne foi et qu'il n'y a pas eu collusion dans le retrait de ces soumissions. 2° Si les commissaires après renseignements pris de leur ingénieur considèrent que le montant de la soumission qu'ils préfèrent est un montant raisonnable et non disproportionné avec l'ouvrage à faire.

"Une prompté réponse m'obligera.

"Votre bien dévoué serviteur,

"HECTOR L. LANGEVIN.

"OFFICE OF THE MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS OF CANADA,
OTTAWA, 31st July, 1882.

"SIR,—Your letter of 29th July, with accompanying statement, has reached me. Before being able to take into consideration the matter of awarding the contract for which the Harbour Commissioners indicate their preference I desire to know :—
1. Whether the Commissioners have reasons to believe that the tenders received which are lower than the one they prefer, have been made in good faith, and that there has not been any collusion with respect to the withdrawal of these tenders.
2. Whether the Commissioners, after inquiring from their Engineer, consider the amount of the tender which they prefer is a reasonable amount, and not out of proportion with the work to be done.

"An immediate answer will oblige.

"Yours very truly,

"HECTOR L. LANGEVIN.

"A. H. VERRET, Esq.,
Quebec."

Q. Do you remember if there was an answer given to that letter?—A. I think there was an answer sent by the Board.

Q. Do you remember who drafted the answer to that letter?—A. I think it was Mr. Verret, the Secretary.

Q. Which of the Commissioners drafted the answer?—A. Perhaps Mr. Rae; I think he was in the habit of doing this.

Mr. FITZPATRICK :—The following minute appears at page 377 of Minute book 4 of the Harbour Commissioners, under date 5th August, 1882 :—“ Read letter from the Hon. Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, acknowledging the receipt of the letter of the 29th, together with the statement, and before considering same desiring to know whether the Commissioners have reason to believe that tenders lower than the one they preferred had been made in good faith, and there has not been collusion with regard to the withdrawal of those tenders. Second, whether the Commissioners, after having taken advice of the Engineers, consider the tender they prefer represents a reasonable amount, and not disproportionate to the work to be done. A draft of a reply to same, prepared by Mr. Rae, is then submitted and approved, and ordered to be translated into French, and addressed to the Hon. Minister of Public Works.”

If my learned friend will admit it, I will now read a copy of a letter of the 8th August sent at that time by Mr. Verret and produced by Mr. Woods.

“ QUEBEC, 8th August, 1882.

“ The Hon. Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN, K.C.M.G., C.B., “ Minister of Public Works,

“ Ottawa.

“ SIR,—I have the honour, by direction of the Commissioners, to add the following information to my letter to you of the 27th ult., having reference to the tenders that have been received for the dredging and timber work required in connection with the Harbour works in course of construction, viz.:

“ The contract for timber work was offered to Messrs. Poupore & Charlton on the condition that they would make a cash deposit of $3,000 for the due performance of the work they had tendered for. Their reply was that, they would comply with the new conditions on being allowed to amend their tender by correcting an error which had been discovered after the tender had been filed, and which, if corrected, would have added $7,600 to the sum mentioned in same. The Commissioners having refused to comply with their request, and the next lowest tender—Mr. Beaucage’s tender—having been withdrawn, the contract was thereupon awarded to the next lowest, Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co.

“ I have the honour to be, Sir,

“ Your most respectful servant,

“ A. H. VERRET,

Mr. STUART.—Here is a letter of the 8th August, in French, addressed by the Commissioners to Sir Hector, which I would like to read :

L’Honorable Sir Hector L. Langevin, K.C.M.G., C.B.,

Ministre des Travaux Publics, etc., etc., etc., Ottawa.

“ MONSIEUR LE MINISTRE,—En réponse à votre lettre du 31 ultimo, j’ai reçu instruction de déclarer respectueusement que les commissaires considèrent qu’il n’est pas nécessaire qu’ils se défendent du soupçon de la connaissance de leur part de collusion entre les soumissionnaires pour les travaux du havre.

“ Les plus bas soumissionnaires se sont simplement retirés, et, suivant l’ordre naturel, les deux contrats sont échus à Larkin, Connolly et Cie, et l’adjudication leur en a été faite, mais sans faveur aucune de la part des commissaires.

“ Je vous transmets, sous ce pli, une copie du rapport de l’ingénieur sur ces soumissions, et les commissaires osent espérer que vous le trouverez satisfaisant. Ils me prient de vous dire qu'ils ont obtenu, pour leur propre gouverne, avant l'adjudication des contrats, toute l'information que ce rapport renferme.

“ J'ai l'honneur d'être, monsieur le ministre, avec un profond respect,

“ Votre très humble et très obéissant serviteur,

“ Minister of Public Works, &c., &c.,

“ Ottawa.

“ SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 31st ultimo, I am instructed respectfully to declare that the Commissioners consider that it is not necessary that they should defend themselves against a suspicion of a knowledge on their part of collusion between the tenderers for the Harbour works.

“ The lowest tenderers simply withdrew, and in the natural course the two contracts fell to Larkin, Connolly & Co., and were awarded to them, but without any favour whatsoever on the part of the Commissioners.

“ I enclose herewith a copy of the Report of the Engineer on those tenders, and the Commissioners trust you will find it satisfactory. They ask me to say that they secured for their own guidance, before awarding the contracts, all the information included in this Report.

“ Sec.-Treas.”

Mr. STUART.—I would like also to read the following letter addressed by the Harbour Commissioners to Sir Hector Langevin, to be found at page 376 of their letter book of 1882. It is as follows :

(Exhibit “ W15.”)

“ 27th July, 1882.

“ To the Honourable Sir HECTOR L. LANGEVIN, K.C.M.G., C.B., “ Minister of Public Works, &c., &c.,

“ Ottawa.

“ SIR,—I have the honour, by direction of the Commissioners, to submit to you the enclosed tabular statement showing the various tenders that have been received for the dredging and timber work required in connection with the Harbour works in course of construction, and to inform you that the contracts for both works have been awarded to Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co.

“ Messrs. Fradet & Miller's tender for dredging, being the lowest, the contract was offered to them, on the condition that they would make a cash deposit of $10,000 as security for the due performance of the work they had tendered for. Those gentlemen having failed to comply with the request of Commissioners, and the next lowest—that of Mr. George Beaucage—having withdrawn his tender, the contract was offered to the next lowest, Mr. John E. Askwith, who immediately made the required cash deposit of $10,000.

“ Mr. Askwith having afterwards withdrawn his tender, because he could not secure the suitable plant, the contract was therefore awarded to the next lowest on the list, Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., who have made the required $10,000 cash deposit, and who are ready to begin the work as soon as you will have sanctioned the award made to them.

“ With reference to the tenders for the timber work, the contract was offered to the lowest, Messrs. Poupore & Charlton, on the condition that they would make a cash deposit of $3,000 for the due performance of the work they had tendered for. Having failed to do so, and the next lowest on the list, Mr. George Beaucage, having withdrawn his tender, the contract was thereupon awarded to the next lowest, Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., who have made a cash deposit of $2,000 as security for the due performance of the work they have tendered for, and who are prepared to go on with their contract, as soon as your sanction will have been obtained.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your most obedient servant,

"A. H. VERRET,

"Secretary-Treasurer."

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Do you remember who, or which, of the Harbour Commissioners finally moved that the contract be awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co. ?—A. I cannot remember.

Q. You do not remember who it was—which of the Harbour Commissioners ?—A. I think Chabot was one of them.

Q. You cannot recollect who they were ?—A. My mind is struck with the idea that Chabot was one of them, but I am not sure.

Q. According to the records of the Harbour Commission of 13th September, 1882, it would appear that it was moved by Mr. Rae and seconded by Mr. Dobell that the contract be awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co. Have you any recollection of that ?—A. It might be. I have no recollection of it.

Mr. GEOFFRION.—I am quite willing to allow extracts from these books (the Minute books) to be put in as if proven by the Secretary.

Q. You do not remember that ?—A. No.

Q. Do you recollect whether or not that contract was submitted to and approved of by your Engineer before being finally signed ?—A. I know it was.

Q. Who was your Engineer then ?—A. Pilkington.

Q. He was the Resident Engineer ; but who were the principal Engineers ?—A. Kinipple & Morris.

Q. Referring to this contract, Mr. Murphy, when examined as a witness, said, at page 31 :—"Q. Did you put in a tender the first time ?—A. No. Q. Why ?—A. I had it made out, and was going to the Harbour Commissioners to put it in when I met Mr. Thomas McGreevy, who told me not to put it in ; that they would not be opened ; that the Commissioners intended that the contract would be re-advertised. The consequence was, I did not put it in. Q. Did he give you any reason why you should not put in a tender ?—A. There were considerable reasons, but I have no remembrance of any other one than that he said they would re-advertise to show Moore & Wright that we were not going to tender and that we would have an advantage in the next tender put in." What do you say to that ?—A. It is not true. It is incorrect. I have no recollection of seeing Murphy on that occasion at all.

By the Chairman :

Q. And gave him no information on that occasion ?—A. Not at all.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. If such a conversation took place, in which you would have suggested to Murphy not to put in a tender in order to deceive other tenderers, would not such a conversation likely fix itself on your mind ?—A. He never spoke to me on such a subject.

Q. On page 33, referring to the same contract, Murphy says again :—"Q. You have said Mr. Robert McGreevy became interested with you in this contract ?—A. Yes. Q. Why did you take Mr. Robert McGreevy with you at the time ?—A. To get the influence of his brother and help us along as best he could to make money and— Q. Did you not want to secure any other influence but that of Mr. Thomas McGreevy ?" There was then some discussion as to the question, and the examination proceeded :

"Q. You stated that you wanted to secure Mr. McGreevy's influence. I asked you with whom ?—A. With the Minister of Public Works."

Then further down on the same page, the questions are continued :

“ Q Did the Hon. Thomas McGreevy at that time know, or rather did you discuss with him, the position that his brother Robert was going to have in the Cross-wall contract?—A. Yes. He knew all about it.”

Q. Did you discuss with Mr. Murphy the position your brother was to have in that contract?—A. No, never. It is untrue.

Q. Did you at that time, in connection with the letting of the dredging contract, or the other contract for the closing of the opening in the embankment, have any discussion with Murphy about the position your brother would have in the contract?—A. No. I did not know Murphy at that time more than simply to see him.

Q. Did you have any discussion with your brother about the interest he was to have?—A. He always denied any interest.

Q. Did you know your brother had any interest in that contract?—A. I certainly did not.

Q. You are positive as to that?—A. Positive.

Q. Did you receive either when the contract was awarded, before the awarding of the contract, or at any time during the execution of the contract?—A. That is of 1882?

Q. Yes. Any sum of money whatever, as a consideration for any influence you might have given to award the contract to any particular person?—A. No; certainly not, and no person ever spoke to me on the subject.

Q. You are absolutely certain there was no money payment of any kind made to you?—A. I am quite certain there was not.

Q. Nor at any other time in connection with the awarding of that contract?—A. No.

Q. And you are quite certain that your brother if interested would not let you—

Mr. Geoffrion objected.

A. I gave my answer. He denied it.

Q. Do you remember if, coming now to the Cross-wall contract, there was any change in the way in which that contract was let from the other contracts?—A. I think there was a special law that the whole thing had to be referred to Ottawa, plans and all, and they had to deal with it all. I think the law, passed in 1882, was that the Harbour Commissioners were to submit the whole plans to Ottawa.

Q. Do I understand you to say that there was a deviation by which the whole plans had to be referred to Ottawa?—A. Yes; there was a special law in 1882.

Q. That Statute is to be found at page 21 of the Blue book (Exhibit “N5”). There is a provision there providing: “That the plans for such Cross-wall and lock, after being prepared by the Engineers of the Public Works Department, shall be subject to the approval of the Governor in Council, and that public tenders for the said works shall be called for, and the contract awarded by the Governor in Council.” Now, that contract appears to have been awarded in the spring of 1883—about the 6th of June 1883?—A. Somewhere about that time.

Q. At that time were you on close terms of intimacy with your brother Robert H. McGreevy?—A. I was.

Q. Had you any acquaintance, and if so what, with Murphy the witness examined here?—A. I knew very little of him.

Q. You said that your relations with your brother were of the most intimate character?—A. Certainly.

Q. Do you remember anything about the plans for the Cross-wall as to who they were prepared by?—A. By Kinipple and Morris.

Q. Do you remember whether they were referred to Ottawa or not?—A. I think they were.

Q. Do you remember anything about it?—A. Yes, they were referred to Ottawa.

Q. After they had been referred to Ottawa, was anything done in connection with the plans here?—A. I think they were sent back to the Harbour Commissioners. Some changes were made and then they were referred back to the Harbour Commissioners, and they approved of those changes. That is as far as I can recollect.

Q. On those plans, as they came back from Ottawa with the changes, the tenders were called for?—A. Yes.

Q. The tenders appear to have been received about the 2nd May, 1883?—A. Yes, I remember that. I was present at the meeting.

Q. At that time you were a member of Parliament?—A. Yes.

Q. The session was then going in Ottawa?—A. Yes, the session was going on.

Q. When the tenders first came in, do you remember what was done with them?—A. They were opened by the Board and the items were read over of every tender and noted I think by the Secretary, and then they were handed back to the Secretary to be sent to the Engineer at Ottawa for extension.

Q. When the tenders were read over in Quebec, was it possible for any person having some knowledge of contracting work to form a fair estimate of the relative position of the tenderers?—A. You might of some of them.

Q. Were there some items in particulars?—A. There were three or four items and by these items you might get an idea of what the tender might be. There would be three or four items which were the bulk of the whole amount.

Q. Did you take any notes at that time of the items in the different tenders?—A. No.

Q. Do you remember, after the meeting at which the tenders had been read, what the impression was at the Board as to the relative position of the different tenders?—A. I was given to understand from the items that Gallagher was the lowest tenderer. We thought he was the lowest tender, judging by the large items. The other tenders we could not tell anything about.

Q. Can you recollect at all from the conversation which took place between the different members of the Board, and whatever transpired at that time, whether or not you had any idea, either indicated by members of the Board or any person else, on information gathered from the tenders themselves, as to what the relative position of the tenders were other than Gallagher's?—A. The impression was that Beaucage was the next lowest. I think I learned that outside. I took no calculations, but I think that was the impression given.

Q. Do you remember now what was the impression at that time as to the relative position of Peters and Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No; I could not tell. I do not know that we could tell at that time. I could not tell at the time of the meeting.

Q. You could not tell what took place at the Board?—A. No; there were too many items in the tenders.

Q. Did you leave for Ottawa shortly afterwards?—A. I think I left the same evening or the day after. I am not sure which.

Q. You came up here to attend to your Parliamentary duties?—A. Yes.

Q. The tenders came up here shortly after they were opened in Quebec?—A. They were sent to Ottawa.

Q. And until the tenders were worked out here, did you know anything of their contents at all?—A. I was constantly learning from day to day. Parties were talking about the tenders, but I had nothing definite; nothing sure.

Q. As a member of the Harbour Commission you were especially interested in knowing what the result of the tenders would be?—A. I was.

Q. Who had those tenders, as far as your knowledge goes, when they reached Ottawa?—A. I think it was Mr. Boyd who had the extending of them—the working of them out.

Q. Do you recollect having seen any other person other than Mr. Boyd in connection with those tenders?—A. I saw Mr. Boyd. I met him in the Square, and he told me that the calculations were nearly completed. He gave me to understand that his work had been handed in to Mr. Perley. He told me, as a Harbour Commissioner, that some errors had been made by different contractors in their items.

Q. You say you were then here attending to your Parliamentary duties?—A. Yes.

Q. And, naturally, as a Harbour Commissioner, you would be expected to some extent to know what was being done with the tenders, and in that respect you had a conversation with Mr. Boyd?—A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Boyd was doing this work for what corporation?—A. For the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. During the time that Mr. Boyd was doing this work, and during all the time that the tenders were before him, had you any conversation with him, until such time as you met him in the Square after his work was completed?—A. I do not recollect, except on that occasion. I may have, but I would not swear I had.

Q. Did you at any time, during the period the tenders were in Mr. Boyd's hands, approach Mr. Boyd for any purpose whatever?—A. No, he came to me. I did not approach him. I met him on the Square and I think he told me he was coming to see me.

Q. Did you attempt in any way, directly or indirectly, to influence Mr. Boyd in the making of his extensions?—A. I did not.

Q. You are quite positive as to that?—A. I am quite positive as to that.

Q. Did you at that time, or at any time after the tenders were opened in Quebec, and until such time as the contract was finally awarded, discuss with Mr. Boyd anything with reference to the quantities to be applied to any item of the contract?—A. No. Until he gave me the information himself, that he had finished his work.

Q. Did he give you any quantities?—A. He did not give me any quantities. He simply gave me a few items where mistakes were made.

Q. During that conversation did you at that time or at any other time attempt to influence him about the quantities about to be applied to any item?—A. No. I did not. I knew nothing about the quantities.

Q. Do you know whether or not at that time your brother had been in the habit of making tenders in the names of other people?—A. He had constantly done so.

Q. Can you give me any names of anyone in particular?—A. George Beaucage was a constant tenderer of his for many years.

Q. Mr. Murphy when examined as a witness says at page 43 of the printed Evidence: "Q. How was Peters' tender got rid of?—A. That is for somebody else to answer besides myself.—Q. Were you told?—A. We were told he was figured over Larkin, Connolly & Co.—Q. Who told you that?—A. Thomas McGreevy. In other words, the answer was given to me that instead of being figured down they were figured up." Is it true or not true that you ever gave such information as that to Mr. Murphy?—A. Not to Mr. Murphy; never.

Q. Is it within your knowledge that any figuring down or figuring up was done with reference to Peters' tender by any person?—A. I never heard of it until the day I heard it here.

Q. Until you heard it here. What do you mean by that?—A. I mean when it was given in evidence.

Q. In the course of this inquiry?—A. Yes.

Q. At page 264 of his evidence, Murphy says: "Q. Was that the condition of things when you saw Mr. McGreevy first?—A. I believe it was.

"Q. At page 42, you say that there was some figuring up or figuring down. Do you know anything about that, or are you speaking from hearsay? Do you know anything about that, or is it surmise?—A. What is it?"

"Q. About figuring up and figuring down?—A. That is the statement Mr. Thomas McGreevy gave me."

"Q. That is from Mr. Thomas McGreevy's statement. Do you know of your own knowledge whether there was any figuring up or figuring down?—A. Not to my own knowledge."

Q. Any information which he got he says here was obtained from you—Is that correct?—A. I had no conversation with Mr. Murphy at all.

Q. Did you speak to him on the subject?—A. I have no recollection of having spoken to him at all.

Q. Do you remember, while the tenders were here at Ottawa, seeing Mr. Perley in reference to them?—A. I think I may have met him once. I may have seen him about the time, because there were a good many letters written up to me from Quebec, as they were very anxious down there to know who had got the contract. Contractors always are anxious.

Q. In any interview or conversation which you had with Mr. Perley at Ottawa, on this subject, did anything take place between you by which you assumed, or endeavoured in any way, to influence him in reference to the awarding of the contract?—A. Oh, no. Mr. Perley had nothing to do with it. Boyd was taking out the tenders and Mr. Perley simply received his report.

Q. You say you made no attempt in any manner to influence Mr. Perley?—A. None whatever.

Q. You know Mr. Boyd was intimate with your brother, Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes; for years they were very intimate together.

Q. They had been engaged together in a contract, or in some kind of work on the North Shore?—A. Yes, Mr. Boyd was one of the Divisional Engineers. There was three Divisional Engineers between Quebec and Montreal. He was the Western Engineer, and was with Robert for five or six years, and he used to be in constant connection with him. I knew him very well, but Robert knew him better than I did.

Q. Do you remember, or had you any knowledge, of an assignment which is to be found on page 601 of the Evidence, Exhibit "P12," by Beaucage to Larkin, Connolly & Co., of his rights in the tenders that were put in for the Cross-wall?—A. By Beaucage?

Q. By Beaucage?—A. I don't remember having anything to do with Beaucage at all.

Q. Have you any recollection of ever having been informed of that assignment?—A. Not at that time, but afterwards I do.

Q. When were you informed the first time?—A. It must have been some time afterwards.

Q. Some years afterwards?—A. Oh, yes; I don't recollect the time of that.

Q. Not at the time of the awarding of the contract at all?—A. No. I knew nothing about it; I heard about it afterwards.

Q. Murphy, at page 37 of the Evidence, says: "Q. Who put up the money for the three tenders?—A. Mr. Thomas McGreevy told me that he did on the Beaucage tender, and he complained that the Union Bank charged him 9 per cent., I think it was, but it may be a cheque was put up." Further on in the same page he says: "Q. You stated a minute ago that Mr. Thomas McGreevy said to you that he had put up the deposit for Beaucage?—A. Yes."—A. That I told him so?

Q. Yes.—A. That is not true.

Q. Are you certain as to that?—A. Of course it is not true; I had nothing to do with it. He might have got it from the Union Bank, I don't know whether he did or not; I had nothing to do with it.

Q. As a matter of fact had you anything to do with furnishing the firm the security or deposit that was put in with Beaucage's tender?—A. Not at all.

Q. Did you do anything whatever to assist Beaucage in obtaining that security required?—A. Well, I don't know. I have no recollection of it; I don't know whether it ever came before us or the bank.

Q. Otherwise than as a director? Had you anything to do with it individually?—A. No.

Q. I am asked by Mr. German to ask you whether you knew how Beaucage got the security which he put up with his deposit?—A. Well, I learned since that he got it from a man named Samson—an advancer of money.

Q. Did you learn that since?—A. I think it was from Mr. Chaloner or somebody, I cannot say which now, and I am not going to mention any names. I learned since he got the money from Samson.

Q. Is it since this investigation you learned that?—A. No, before that I heard he got money from Charles Samson who is an advancer of money; he was advancing money to him for St. John's Church, which I think he was building.

Q. In connection with this tender, in the public statement that has been referred to here, Mr. Murphy says:—"In the spring of 1883 we (Larkin, Connolly & Co) tendered for the construction of the Cross-wall in connection with the Harbour Improvements, Mr. Robert McGreevy becoming interested to the extent of 30 per cent. by an original agreement signed by us all. The Hon. Thomas McGreevy was aware of this before the tenders went in. We (Larkin, Connolly & Co.) became aware of the position we held as tenderers, before being informed officially, and governed ourselves accordingly, by the withdrawal of John Gallagher and Beaucage's tenders." The statement here is that Robert McGreevy became interested previous to the tenders going in. To your knowledge is that true or not?—A. It is not true.

Q. In his evidence printed at page 38, Murphy says:—"Q. How did you get that work (the Cross-wall contract)? A. We were instructed to have Gallagher ask for the withdrawal of his cheque or tender—to send a letter to Ottawa to that effect, and it was done. I met Mr. Thomas McGreevy in Dalhousie Street, Quebec, and he told me that he had promised Beaucage, after Robert McGreevy had got the assignment of the contract to him that he would give him (Beaucage) $5,000, and he wanted Larkin, Connolly & Co. to give it to Beaucage or else that he should get it from them to give to Beaucage. I then proposed that I would give $25,000 if Larkin, Connolly & Co. got the contract"—A. That is not correct.

Q. Is it true or not true?—A. No.

Q. In the public charge—I mean the charge published in Le Canadien of 30th April, 1889, Mr. Murphy further says: "In consideration of $25,000 paid to R. H. McGreevy, in the presence of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy"—A. It is not true.

Q. "This payment of $25,000 was made in June, 1883, by promissory notes, made by one member of the firm and endorsed by another, which notes were subsequently retired by the firm at maturity, and charged to expense account." Now, is that statement, in which he says that the money was paid to Robert McGreevy in your presence, true or not?—A. Not true.

Q. In the plea to the libel case the same charge is made in this way: "Subsequently, about the month of June, 1883, in consideration of obtaining the contract, Larkin, Connolly & Co. paid to R. H. McGreevy, in presence of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy, the sum of $25,000 in promissory notes, which notes were repaid finally to the Hon. Thomas McGreevy by R. H. McGreevy." Is that true?—A. Not true.

Q. At page 45 of the evidence Murphy varies the statement a little. He is asked by Mr. Lister: "Q. You say you agreed to pay $25,000 to get the contract awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co. Was the contract awarded to you?—A. Yes. Q. Did you pay the $25,000?—A. Yes. Q. Who to?—A. If there is no objection I will explain: As I made the proposal I expected it would be money paid as we got it out of the work; but as soon as the contract was signed Robert McGreevy came to me and said his brother wanted notes, and of course the firm all met in Thomas McGreevy's office. We went in and went down through a trap-door in the office, and I drew the notes, one for Mr. Larkin, one for Nicholas Connolly, myself signing them for Larkin, Connolly & Co., they were then endorsed by the different parties. When I got all the notes endorsed, the several members handed the notes to me and I handed them to Robert McGreevy. When the notes became due I paid them." You see he does not say there that they were given to Robert McGreevy in your presence; but what I want to know is whether or not you had any knowledge of the transaction spoken of in this evidence?—A. They never came into my office at all—any of them.

Q. Did you send your brother to Murphy to ask him for notes in payment of the corrupt bargain to give you $25,000 to get the contract?—A. I never heard anything at all about it.

Q. Referring to the same matter Murphy says: "Q. You say you delivered the notes to his brother Robert? Was Thomas McGreevy present?—A. I am not clear on that point where he stood. We all went out to Dalhousie street. I think Mr. McGreevy was present, but I am not clear on that point. I would not like to swear positively."—A. I was not there at all; I don't know anything about it.

Q. Referring to the same matter on cross-examination, page 258 of the Evidence Murphy says, referring to Thomas McGreevy: "Q. Do you say whether he was there or not at the time the notes were handed to Robert?—A. Of that, I have no recollection, but to the best of my opinion, he was not." That is another version. Is that true or not true?—A. That I was not, is quite true.

Q. Have you any knowledge whatever of any notes having been given by Murphy to your brother Robert as stated by Murphy?—No.

Q. Referring to the same matter, Robert McGreevy says at page 608:—"Q. After the notes were completed, will you be good enough to explain to whom they were handed?—A. I handed them all to Thomas McGreevy. Q. Then, they were first handed to you?—A. They were handed to me, as I said before, by Mr. Murphy. Q. You handed them to Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes. Q. Where?—A. I do not know exactly where; either in his office or his house. Q. When?—A. The day I got them. Q. On the same day?—A. Yes."

Q. Did you receive from your brother about the time this contract was signed, on the 6th of June, 1883, or at any time that summer, did he hand you any notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co., amounting to $25,000?—A. No.

Q. At page 608 of the Evidence, Robert McGreevy says: "Q. Have you any personal knowledge of the use which your brother made of some or all of those notes?—A. I have a personal knowledge, that an obligation was imposed upon him at that time, by a judgment of over $17,000 which I know some of those notes went to pay. Q. Do I understand you to say that the creditors took the notes in payment, or that these notes were used to levy money for the payment?—A. The notes were used to get the money to pay the debt. Q. What judgment was it; what case was it?—A. It was a judgment of the Supreme Court in McGreevy vs. McCarron & Cameron." Who were McCarron & Cameron?—A. They were contractors on the North Shore Railway. They had a sub-contract.

Q. They had a sub-contract; but you had the contract?—A. Yes, McCarron was the brother-in-law of Robert McGreevy. They took a contract from me through the recommendation of Robert, who was the local manager of the road.

Q. In any event, the result of your dealings with McCarron & Cameron was a law suit?—A. Yes.

Q. Law suits were quite the usual circumstance in connection with the North Shore?—A. Quite usual, I am sorry to say.

Q. It finally reached the Supreme Court?—A. Yes.

Q. Who managed your part of the case?—A. Robert McGreevy looked after it.

Q. Finally, judgment was rendered in the Supreme Court, condemning you to pay judgment to the amount of $17,000?—A. I think, interest and all, it came to about $17,000.

Q. Who informed you that the judgment was rendered?—A. I think I got it from himself.

Q. You mean Robert?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him then, as to the way in which this judgment was to be paid?—A. I did have a conversation or discussion with him about it.

Q. What took place at that time between you and Robert?—A. I told him I had no money at the time to meet the judgment without selling stocks, and as he was so largely indebted to me, if he could provide for the judgment, or in the meantime, until I could get a chance to sell the stocks.

Q. At that time, was he largely indebted to you?—A. Yes, at that time. That was in 1883. He must have been about $400,000 in my debt.

Q. You say that at that time you had no ready cash?—A. I had not, without selling stocks or securities that I would have to lose on.

Q. You spoke to him about it, and did he volunteer to come to your assistance about it?—A. The conversation came about in this way: I asked him if he could provide for it; if he had any means. I think he was then finishing some work on the Interecolonial Railway, in connection with which he had a contract with a man named Lachance. He told me that he had some accommodation notes and would provide for the judgment. On the 13th of July, he said: "I want a note of yours—"

Q. Leave that out for the present. Were you at that time about to go away?—A. I went below, and was sick below during the month of July.

Q. When you were going away from Quebec at that time, did you ask any person to see your brother Robert about this judgment?—A. Mr. Chaloner.

Q. Who was he?—A. My manager.

Q. Your confidential man?—A. In fact he looked after my private affairs then.

Q. You told Mr. Chaloner that he was to see your brother Robert?—A. Yes, and that he was going to arrange for the judgment—to provide means for it.

Q. You informed Chaloner that he was to supply the means necessary to satisfy the judgment?—A. That he had arranged with me to do so.

Q. In that connection, did you give a note to pay part of the amount?—A. He asked me for a note on the 13th July, and I signed a note for $3,000, which was to make up part of the $17,000.

Q. To go to make up the $17,000?—A. Yes.

Q. You gave that note?—A. I gave that note.

Q. Did you subsequently pay it or was it charged against you by Robert?—A. He charged it against me in his account.

Q. Did you subsequently ascertain how Robert provided the portion of the $17,000 which he did provide to satisfy that judgment—how he got the money?—A. Not at the time.

Q. Did you ascertain it subsequently?—A. I think so, later on—that he got some notes which he discounted.

Q. When did you ascertain that?—A. I think it must have been the year afterwards.

Q. You were aware afterwards that he got some notes which were discounted and the proceeds of which went to satisfy this judgment against you?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you say what notes they were?—A. I found out afterwards that they were three notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co., amounting to $15,000—three notes of $5,000 each, I think. I do not know that I have seen them.

Q. That is to say, the portion of money which Robert McGreevy contributed to satisfy this judgment was so contributed by a discount of three notes of $5,000 each made by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. That is what I learned sometime afterwards.

Q. At the time you had the conversation with Chaloner about the judgment and directed him to see Robert McGreevy had you any conversation with Robert as to his getting notes from Larkin, Connolly & Co. and did he tell you he had got any from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. He told me he had some accommodation notes.

Q. From Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No. He told me he got them from Murphy.

Q. Did you give them to Chaloner to discount?—A. No.

Q. You had nothing to do with the discounting of them?—A. Nothing whatever.

Q. You had nothing to do with drawing the proceeds of the notes?—A. No. It was Chaloner entirely.

Q. The whole transaction that then took place was between Chaloner and Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. The statement made here by Murphy and your brother as to the fact that five notes of $5,000 each were given to you after this contract or about the time of the contract of the 6th of June, was untrue?—A. It is not true.

Q. At that time or subsequently did the notes reach you?—A. Nothing more than I have stated.

Q. Did you make any bargain with Murphy under which he was to give you $25,000 in notes or otherwise, of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No. I have had nothing to do with Murphy at all.

Q. Did you speak to Murphy when the time came to pay this judgment in the suit of McCarron & Cameron?—A. I never spoke to him on that subject.

Q. From his testimony he appears to be more intimate with you than your brother?—A. I scarcely knew the man at all at the time.

Q. When this amount was first paid by Robert for you how did you look upon the transaction at the time—when the transaction was first entered into?—A. I looked upon it that it was a payment towards the debt which he owed me.

Q. That it was in part payment towards liquidating his indebtedness to you?—A. Yes.

Q. Had you subsequently any conversation with him by which you were informed that the notes were to be applied in a different direction?—A. Not until next year.

Q. What took place?—A. He told me afterwards that the notes belonged to the firm and that they had to be paid. He had to provide subsequently for that amount. I had spoken to him about some money being wanted for a political purpose and he said I might substitute this $15,000 for that.

Q. For that particular purpose?—A. He said that he would not exact the amount.

Q. Did you do it or not?—A. I did.

Q. Did the $15,000 which were applied in the first place to the payment of a judgment of McCarron & Cameron, subsequently go to a political purpose or not.—A. Yes.

Q. You are certain of that?—A. Yes, I am certain.

Q. Did you benefit personally in any respect whatever by the payment of $15,000?—A. Not one cent.

Q. During the year 1883, did you get any other money directly or indirectly from your brother Robert?—A. He may have made some smaller payments on my account. But they must have been very small, perhaps a few hundred dollars.

Q. But if there was anything else it would be down in the account produced in this case?—A. Yes. That account runs from February, 1883.

Q. So that there would be no other payments, except the payment on account of this indebtedness, than the $15,000?—A. Except that, nothing.

Q. To justify this payment of $25,000, we have had produced here five notes of $5,000 each, dated the 1st of May, 1883, two on demand, one at 6 months, one at 7 months, and one at 9 months. According to the report of the Accountants it would appear that the demand notes were paid, one on the 14th of May, 1883, and the other on the 1st of June, 1883. Now, on either of these two dates, the 14th of May and the 1st of June, 1883, did you receive any sum of $5,000, either by note or by cheque or in any other way, from your brother or Murphy?—A. No.

Q. So that not only did you not get the notes, but you did not get the cheques supposed to represent them?—A. I neither got the notes nor the money.

Q. And of this $25,000 all that reached you and that was applied for your benefit, was the $15,000 to which you have referred?—A. That is all I remember.

Q. And that was applied to your benefit in the way you have described?

Q. Do you remember if in the autumn of 1882 or the spring of 1883 there was any difficulty between the Harbour Commissioners and the Chief Engineers, Messrs. Kinipple and Morris?—A. Yes, I think there was.

Q. Do you remember what the cause of the friction was—what the difficulties were at that time?—A. It was about the foundations of the Graving Dock at Lévis.

Q. Were there other difficulties arising out of the estimates for Peters, Moore and Wright?—A. I do not remember that part of it.

Q. Yes, certificates?—A. There may have been, I don't remember.

Q. Do you not remember that a legal difficulty arose out of the final estimate?—A. Oh, yes, I remember now. They had completed their contract—Peters, Moore and Wright—and wanted to get their final estimate which was required by the contract should be made out by the Engineers, so as to get their final certificate. Messrs. Kinipple and Morris were both in England at the time, and they were cabled over to come along and make out the final estimate as the contracts were completed. They declined to come out, but they sent out one made in England by themselves, and we referred that certificate to our legal adviser, and he said it was not worth the paper it was written on and we could not act on it, and in consequence we asked them to come out and they refused to come.

Q. Did the difficulties continue, until finally, there was an arrangement between the Harbour Commissioners and themselves?—A. Well, I think it was because of the lawsuit that was involved afterwards. They came out a long time afterwards, and made a certificate out here, and gave it a considerable time afterwards. The question of the foundations—

Q. In any event they had the two difficulties you have mentioned—that is the difficulty of the foundation of the Graving Dock, and the final certificate for Peters, Moore and Wright?—A. It was the final certificate.

Q. The difficulties with Peters, Moore and Wright, culminated how?—A. There was a committee appointed.

Q. To meet Peters, Moore and Wright?—A. There was an arbitration afterwards, I think, before the Dominion Arbitrators.

Q. Anyway, it ended in a lawsuit?—A. Ended in a lawsuit.

Q. And the services of Kinipple and Morris were dispensed with?—A. Except they were retained as consulting Engineers.

Q. Were they expensive men to have dealings with; what were the rates they were getting?—A. The rates they got were 5 per cent. on all the works.

Q. That were being done?—A. Plans and work, and supervision.

Q. Then, Mr. Murphy, speaking of the question of their dismissal, says on page 34:—“Q. Before Robert McGreevy was taken into the firm, did you have conversations with Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes. Q. About these contracts?—A. Yes. Q. In what regard? About what?—A. About the removal of Kinipple and Morris, the Engineers. Q. They were the Engineers on the work?—A. Yes; they were the Engineers on the work of the Lévis Graving Dock for that time for the Harbour Commission. Q. You wanted them removed?—A. Yes.” Do you remember having had any conversation with the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly and Company, or Murphy in particular, about the removal of Kinipple and Morris, for any other cause than you have stated?—A. I have no recollection of wanting even to have them removed; I don't remember ever wishing to have them removed.

Q. Then referring to another conversation with you at page 35 he says:—“We knew the Cross-wall work was about being advertised and we wanted, if possible, to have other engineers instead of Messrs Kinipple and Morris control the contract.” Was any suggestion of that sort made to you?—A. No.

Q. You had no such object in view at the time, in 1882?—A. No, sir. It was altogether on the foundation and the final estimate.

Mr. FITZPATRICK.—There is also the supplementary contract for the Graving Dock at Lévis, but I cannot go into that without having the papers I asked for from Mr. Robert McGreevy. We produce here a report from Mr. Tomlinson with reference to the defects in the Graving Dock at Lévis; he was the Engineer appointed.

Mr. JAMES WOODS re-called.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Will you state if this is the Report signed by Mr. Tomlinson on the Harbour Works at that time, on the subject of the Graving Dock at Lévis?—A. To the best of my knowledge it is; it forms part of the papers in my custody. (Report filed as Exhibit "X15.")

Q. Whose endorsement is that upon it?—A. It is Mr. Verret's signature, and it is annexed to F. H. Ennis' letter registered under the number 505, A.D. 1882.

The Committee then adjourned till 3.30 p.m.

WEDNESDAY, 5th August, 3.30 p.m.

Mr. ROBERT H. MCGREEVY recalled.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You were asked to get some particular productions. Have you got them?—A. Yes.

Q. You were asked, first, to produce the note for $7,500, referred to at page 603 of the evidence.—A. I cannot find it.

Q. You were asked, second, to produce the note for $3,000, referred to in Bill of Particulars produced by defendant in the case of McGreevy vs. McGreevy?—A. I produce that.

Q. It has apparently not gone to any bank?—A. Not gone to any bank.

Q. "Third, all letters which he may at any time have received from Hon. Thos. McGreevy, and which were in his possession or under his control on the 1st day of January, 1890; and not already produced, during the period from 1st January, 1882, till 1st January, 1890."—A. I produce nine, not only written by myself, but as given to me by others. I take that order to extend beyond those written to myself.

Q. "Fourth, all letters which he may now have in his possession which were written by said R. H. McGreevy to said Hon. Thomas McGreevy, or letter-press copies, if originals have been destroyed, during last-mentioned period."—A. I produce this one—a draft of a letter. There is one here, but as there is only one paragraph of it, I do not want any other part of it read but that. The rest is very strictly private.

Q. "Quebec, 19th July." What year would that be?—A. 1883.

Q. The paragraph is as follows: "McCarron matter will run until next week. However, it is well to be ready, which Hearn is not yet." That is the part you say is relative?—A. Yes.

Q. There is no year date.—A. No; but it would be 1883.

Q. It is Thomas' letter to Robert. The next production you were asked for was "Fifth, detailed statement of the account referred to in the letter of 14th January, 1889, written by said R. H. McGreevy to Hon. Thomas McGreevy."—A. I am not in a position to give any statement called for under that heading, inasmuch as my books are here in the possession of the Committee; and further, the account which I rendered at that time is in the court case.

Q. "Sixth, statement of account, showing in detail the date and amount of each payment which goes to make up the sum of $70,000, or thereabouts, which R. H. McGreevy alleges he paid Hon. Thomas McGreevy, as his share of the profits made out of the contracts referred to in this enquiry."—A. I produce the details.

Mr. OSLER.—Showing $76,800, according to the typewritten copy, which reads as follows:

Amount referred to in letter of January 14th, 1889, and detailed in account therein referred to, and subsequently admitted by Thomas McGreevy, at $64,800 as correct.....	$58,000 00
Amount paid him in January, 1889, by O. E. Murphy, and admitted by Thomas McGreevy, in his pleadings .....	5,000 00

Paid his share of joint p.n. given to La Banque Nationale in settlement of our account .....	8,800 00
If the $5,000 admitted by Thomas McGreevy in his pleadings as received from Messrs. Connolly, though not authorized by me, is true.....	5,000 00
	$76,800 00

The next production asked for is : " Seventh, memorandum of quantities alleged to have been furnished to said R. H. McGreevy by Hon. Thomas McGreevy, and referred to at page 602 of the Evidence."—A. I produce under that head three papers : Figures of Cross-Wall tender ; memorandum comparing tenders, and quantities moneyed out of Cross-Wall.

Q. " Eighth, all books of account and bank books and other memoranda containing entries of the different amounts received by said R. H. McGreevy as his share of profits on the different contracts, &c., referred to in the Accountant's Report."—A. I cannot give anything further than that report.

Q. You were asked to produce your other diaries ?—A. I produce 1889.

Q. 1882 was asked for, too ?—A. I did not know it.

By the Chairman :

Q. Did you look for it ?—A. No.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. In your search, have you found anything besides those which were immediately described ?—A. I have found these letters from Thomas McGreevy to myself, from which I have selected out one that has no bearing on the present case, and I do not think it is prudent in his interest that it should be exposed here. For myself, I do not care.

Q. Seven letters from Thomas to yourself ?—A. Yes.

Q. Which you are willing to produce but which you say in his interest should be looked over before they are produced ?—A. That is my opinion.

Q. Anything else ?—A. There are some cheques of 1886 which I found in my search. Forty-four cheques on my own bank account.

Q. Anything else ?—A. That is all, sir.

Q. What are these documents (referring to a bundle of papers in witness' hand) ?—A. These are private memoranda.

Q. Connected with any branch of this enquiry ?—A. Some of them are.

Q. They should be submitted to somebody to see if they have any bearing ?—A. I will produce them at a later stage.

Q. Is that the whole of what you were asked for ?—A. Yes, under that order.

Q. Count these letters so that we will be able to identify them afterward ?—A. Twelve pieces.

Q. On what subject do these treat ?—A. Baie des Chaleurs Railway.

Q. Why do you not now produce them ?—A. Because they do not come within the order I got.

Q. But being here in court, are they not matters connected with the enquiry here, as the Baie des Chaleurs Railway is one of the items of the charge ?—A. Most of them have a bearing on it. Some have not.

Q. Then I ask that they should be produced ?—A. Here they are.

Q. Then the diary of 1889 will be under the same order as the other diary, I suppose ?—A. I wanted the Committee to permit me to get these letters back again before the trial in the autumn, under the same condition as before.

The CHAIRMAN.—Yes ; after the investigation is closed.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Is the note of the 16th October, 1883, at six months, for $3,000, signed by your brother, and made to his own order, the renewal of another note ?—A. I cannot tell you. Perhaps the account that is filed may throw more light on it.

Q. You do not recollect now if this note given in renewal in 1883 was given in renewal of a note for a similar amount, dated 13th July, 1883, at three months?—A. I do not recollect.

Q. Do you remember what consideration you gave for this note of the 16th October, 1883?—A. The consideration? Cash.

Q. At that time?—A. Yes.

Q. On the 16th October or previously?—A. I don't know whether it was that date or not, but it was cash I gave for it, because I got Murphy to give it to me. I had to go to him at the time I borrowed it.

Q. You cannot recollect when Murphy gave it to you?—A. No.

Q. You cannot recollect its being given on the 13th July, 1883?—A. No.

Q. Or you cannot recollect if Murphy went to James MacNider and got it on that day?—A. I don't.

Examination of Hon. THOMAS MCGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Do you remember that a contract was made by the Quebec Harbour Commissioners, to secure for a lump sum, the completion of the Graving Dock at Lévis?—A. Yes, I remember the circumstance.

Q. Do you remember that the contract at the Graving Dock at Lévis was being carried on by the day previous to the making of this contract I have just referred to?—A. I think there was an arrangement come to after the report of Mr. Tomlinson, that the contractors were not responsible for the foundations, and they went on doing it by day work and we were paying them for it and the material as well.

Q. So that after Tomlinson made a report that the contractors were not responsible for the foundations, the work was then done by the contractors by day work?—A. By day work.

Q. Then in 1884, Mr. Perley being Chief Engineer, this supplementary contract we have referred to was entered into?—A. I think about that time; I remember the contract.

Q. Referring to that supplementary contract at Lévis, Mr. Murphy, at page 110 of the Evidence says :—"Q. Was there any talk of it before the tender was made, about future donations?—A. Yes; Mr. McGreevy made this statement : That Sir Hector's paper was not paying. Q. Which Mr. McGreevy?—A. Thomas. He said if some lump sum could be made so as some of his friends could be pleased, he could make something out of it. After several conversations, carried on chiefly by myself and Thomas McGreevy, they figured up to us what it would come to and I finally came to the agreement with Mr. McGreevy that all over $50,000 himself and his friends could take, and we submitted a plan or estimate in pencil made by our Engineer, that amounted to some $43,000; and on the shortening up of the Dock—it was to be shortened a certain number of feet—the increase would shew $64,000; and then there was to be $10,000 allowed for building the caisson, which made it $74,000; and after we agreed on that and got the contract there was some misunderstanding between Mr. McGreevy and myself about $2,000. It was a trifling data, and that is how the notes for $22,000 came to be given instead of $24,000." Now in the first place do you remember anything about the conversation, or about an agreement such as referred to here, that all over $50,000 should be paid for the work under the supplementary contract and go to any person in particular?—A. I never heard anything about it until I saw it in the public newspapers.

Q. Was such an agreement as that, according to your recollection now, ever proposed or submitted to you, by Murphy or anybody else?—A. Never.

Q. He says that subsequently, or about the same time possibly there was an arrangement made by which you were to get $24,000 originally, and finally $22,000, as a consideration for the awarding of this contract. Is that true or not?—A. That is not true.

Q. Did anything of the sort take place between you—any conversation of that sort?—A. Never.

Q. At page 112, referring to the same matter, Murphy says, after speaking of some notes which were to be given for those $22,000 :—“Q. At whose request had you prepared those notes?—A. I made a bargain with Thomas McGreevy and Robert McGreevy came to me and told me that his brother wanted the notes. Q. This is prior to when you received any money on your contract?—A. Yes. Q. You made a bargain with Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes. Q. And you agreed on the amount?—A. Yes. Q. Originally it was for $24,000, but you finally settled for $22,000?—A. Yes, for $22,000.” Was there any such bargain as that made?—A. No, there is no truth in it.

Q. Mr. Robert McGreevy being examined on the same point, at page 611—you will remember Mr. Murphy stated there was an agreement that he was to give you $22,000—said :—“Q. And you were subsequently informed they had written a letter based upon it?—A. Yes. Q. Was it subsequent to this part taken by your brother in these negotiations, that you were informed that a sum of money was to be paid by Larkin, Connolly & Co. to him?—A. It was during those negotiations. Q. What was the amount agreed upon or mentioned?—A. I learned from my brother Mr. Thomas McGreevy, that the amount was $14,000.” Now, Murphy says the amount was $22,000, your brother says you told him it was $14,000. Did you tell him anything of that sort?—A. No; never.

Q. Did you tell your brother that you had made a bargain?—A. Never.

Q. With Murphy? By virtue of which you were to get these $14,000?—A. I never discussed anything of the sort.

Q. Murphy says at page 111, that an answer to a letter received from Mr. Perley was prepared by Larkin, Connolly and Co., marked as Exhibit “K 5,” and set out here, and the draft of that answer was submitted to you. At page 111 it is said :—“Q. Will you look at these papers and see whether you will find there the draft of the tender or letter which you had sent in the name of the firm?—A. This letter is dated 19th May, 1884. It is in the handwriting of Robert McGreevy; I believe I received it from Thomas McGreevy, and Thomas McGreevy made some arrangements and gave me instructions that our firm should send in as soon as we could a copy of this to the Department of Public Works. The other writings are in the handwriting of the same. I (that is, Murphy) took the letter to my partner, and the other is in the handwriting of Mr. Peter Hume, our Engineer.” Now look at the letter, Exhibit “K5,” and say whether that letter was submitted to you and whether you made any alteration in it?—A. I never saw the letter until I saw it here the other day.

Q. At page 111, referring to Exhibit “J5,” this question is put: “this is in Hume’s handwriting?—A. In Hume’s handwriting. Q. And the total is $43,980?—A. Yes. Q. After having shown that to Mr. Thomas McGreevy, you were authorized by your firm to accept $50,000 for the work?” Will you look at the document prepared by Hume (Exhibit “J5”) and say if it was shown to you as stated by Murphy?—A. Murphy never showed me any such document; I never saw it.

Q. At page 111, Murphy says, referring to the payment of these notes for $22,000 :—“Q. How many notes, do you remember?—A. There was one of $2,000 made to the order of Michael Connolly for two months. There was one of $5,000 made to my own order for three months. There was one made to Nicholas Connolly of $5,000 for four months. There was one made to Michael Connolly of $4,000 for five months. There was one made to Patrick Larkin for $6,000 for six months. The $6,000 note Mr. Robert McGreevy afterwards gave to me and told me his brother wanted smaller notes. I paid him $2,000 in cash and gave him two notes to the order of Michael Connolly for $2,000 each.” Further down he says: “Q. To whom did you hand the notes when they were signed and completed?—A. To Robert McGreevy. Q. At whose request had you prepared these notes?—A. I made a bargain with Thomas McGreevy, and Robert McGreevy came to me and told me that his brother wanted the notes. Q. This is prior to when you received any money on your contract?—A. Yes. Q. You made a bargain with Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes. Q. And you agreed on the amount?—A. Yes. Q. Originally it was for $24,000, but you finally settled for $22,000." Robert McGreevy says, referring to the same matter, on page 611: "Q. Was the amount paid?—A. I received the $22,000 in notes from Mr. Murphy." Further on, on the next page: "After having received the notes what did you do with them?—A. I gave three notes making $14,000 to Thomas McGreevy that day and the other $8,000 later on, not the notes but the product of them later on." About the 6th of June, 1884, when this contract was made, did you receive three notes or any notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co., amounting to $14,000 from Robert McGreevy?—A. I have no recollection of having received any notes in 1884 from Robert McGreevy.

Q. When cross-examined, Robert McGreevy said that the three notes which he gave you were two notes of $5,000, and one of $4,000, and that these notes formed part of Exhibit "X7." Will you look at the two notes for $5,000, and one of $4,000, all dated the 2nd of June, 1884, and say whether or not they were ever handed to you?—A. (After examining Exhibit "X7") I have no recollection of ever having seen these notes before.

Q. Do those notes appear to have ever been discounted or put through a bank for collection?—A. The one for $4,000, which is for 5 months does not appear to have ever gone through a bank at all, and not even for collection as far as I can see.

Q. Do either of the two notes for $5,000 each?—A. The one for 3 months $5,000 does not appear to have ever gone through a bank at all for collection. The one for 4 months also, $5,000, does not appear to have ever been through the bank.

Q. Look at the note of 3 months for $5,000, and say how it is endorsed?—A. It is endorsed "O. E. Murphy" with the word "paid" above.

Q. In his own handwriting?—A. I do not know his handwriting very well. I know his signature.

Q. The other one for $5,000, how is that endorsed?—A. It is endorsed by Nicholas Connolly and the word "paid" is marked below.

Q. The one for $4,000 is endorsed "Michael Connolly," is it not?—A. $4,000 at five months. It is endorsed Michael Connolly.

Q. The first note of three months endorsed O. E. Murphy would mature on the 4th of September, would it not?—A. The 5th of September. That is what is marked on it in pencil.

Q. Did you receive or were you ever given in payment of that note, or in payment of any value represented by that note, the cheque produced here as part of Exhibit "D8," dated 4th September, 1884, made to the order of O. E. Murphy and signed "Larkin, Connolly & Co. per O. E. M.," for $5,000?—A. I have never seen that cheque before. I have no recollection of it.

Q. Look at the other two cheques given after in payment of the other two notes?—A. 4th of September, $5,000, endorsed N. K. Connolly per O. E. Murphy.

Q. It is made in the name of Murphy and signed in the name of Larkin, Connolly & Co., and he endorsed it in the name of his partner?—A. Yes.

Q. See the other $4,000, and see if it is made by Murphy and endorsed in the same way?—A. Larkin, Connolly & Co. per O. E. M., and endorsed M. Connolly per O. E. M.

Q. There is nothing to indicate that these were used for any other purpose than for Mr. Murphy?—A. It appears so.

Q. Did you receive any money from your brother in the year 1884?—A. Yes. I did.

Q. What did you receive from him?—A. $10,000.

Q. How did you receive it?—A. I received it in bills.

Q. You mean in cash?—A. Bank notes.

Q. That money was paid to you by whom?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. Do you remember at what time?—A. I think sometime in the fall of 1884.

Q. Was it all paid at the same time or were there two different payments?—

A. I think there were two different payments.

Q. What was the amount of each?—A. $5,000 each.

Q. Was that money given to you for a specific purpose?—A. Yes.

Q. For your own personal use in any way?—A. No.

Q. Did you apply it for the purpose it was given to you?—A. Yes.

Q. Was that purpose a political purpose?—A. I would say yes.

Q. Was that $10,000 so given to you as a consideration or as a reward or remuneration—

Mr. DAVIES objected.

Q. I will change it. What was the consideration of these payments so made by your brother to you?—A. There never was any consideration mentioned in the bargain.

Q. What was the reason you gave which justified the application you made for it?—A. I discussed the matter of what it was for with him, and he stated that he would be able to give me that amount.

Q. In connection with that amount of $10,000, which you received from your brother in bills then, did you pay any other amount out at that time or about the same time, for the same purpose?—A. There was another amount.

Q. How much did you pay out?—A. It was altogether in that year $25,000.

Q. Where did the other $15,000 come from?—A. From the money I mentioned in my evidence this morning—the repayment of the $15,000.

Q. So far as you are concerned, in 1884, you paid out $15,000, and $10,000 which you received from your brother?—A. $15,000 and $10,000; yes, sometime at the end of 1884 and the beginning of 1885.

Q. Personally, there was none of that money remained with you?—A. No.

Q. You said a moment ago that there was no bargain or agreement that there was to be any consideration furnished by you, or given by you, or which had been given by you, for this payment of $10,000?—A. Such a thing was never mentioned, and I was never asked to.

Q. Murphy, in his evidence, at page 112, referring to the awarding of this contract—the supplementary contract at Lévis—says: “Q. You made a bargain with Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes. Q. And you agreed on the amount?—A. Yes. Q. Originally it was for $24,000, but you finally settled for $22,000?—A. Yes, for $22,000.” That is to say, there was a bargain made at that time for the payment of $22,000 in consideration of the awarding of that contract. Is that true or not true?—A. It is not true.

Q. I understand you to say, now, that you are positive that in 1884, and the beginning of 1885, you did not receive any other money than these two sums of $5,000 each from your brother?—A. No.

Q. You are sure of that?—A. Not for the purpose mentioned.

Q. For any of these occult purposes—political purposes?—A. No.

Q. Coming now to the Esquimalt Dock contract. In the month of November, 1884, you were a member of Parliament?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you look at the letter produced here (Exhibit “R6”), and say whether or not you ever saw that letter before it was produced at this enquiry?—A. That is Mr. Perley’s letter. I have no recollection of ever having seen that letter until I saw it here, when it was exhibited here in the commencement.

Q. Do you recollect now having written a letter to which this purports to be an answer?—A. I have no recollection whatever about it.

Q. In regard to the statement that Charles McGreevy wrote this letter for you, do you remember having authorized him to write Mr. Perley in your name?—A. No; I never authorized him or anybody else to write a letter in my name, unless I was present, and sanctioned it, and read it.

Q. And so far as you can now recollect, you can recollect no such letter as that referred to in the letter of Mr. Perley, as having been sent by you?—A. I have no recollection of ever having written a letter to Mr. Perley in my life, and no recollection of having received an answer.

Q. In the charge published in Le Canadien, to which I have already referred, it is stated: "On or about November, 1884, Larkin, Connolly & Co., signed a contract with the Public Works Department, Canada, for the construction and completion of the Graving Dock, Esquimalt, British Columbia, Mr. Robert H. McGreevy being with his brother's (the Hon. Thomas McGreevy) knowledge a partner in the said contract. That immediately after signing the said contract, I (that is Murphy) paid the sum of $5,000 in promissory notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co. for obtaining said contract, and for his services to be given to have changes made for the benefit of Larkin, Connolly & Co., and later on and to the end of the work various large sums were paid to, or for him, on said contract, amounting in all (exclusive of R. H. McGreevy's share of the profits) to $30,000, as per statement of the Accountant of the firm." Now, I ask you whether or not, about the time the contract for the Esquimalt Dock was awarded, in November, 1884, the sum of $5,000 was paid to you in promissory notes, as alleged by Murphy in his statement?—A. No.

Q. At page 294 of the Evidence, Mr. Murphy says, referring to this contract and the payment made under it: "Q. When?—A. Immediately after we signed the contract I think. There was $5,000 paid, but we did not keep a run. These things it is impossible for me to remember, as it was a verbal agreement. Q. You said it was made up to Thomas immediately after the contract, and that you paid him immediately after the contract, $5,000. Did you pay it or did the firm?—A. The firm, I am speaking now on behalf of the firm." Was any payment of $5,000 made to you either by Murphy or the firm at that time?—A. Under an agreement? No.

Q. On account of the Esquimalt Dock of 1884?—A. No.

Q. Did you receive in the autumn of 1884, at the time the contract was awarded any sum of $5,000 other than the sums which may have been made in connection with Le Monde from your brother Robert, Murphy or Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No.

Q. At page 612, Robert McGreevy says: "Q. I think you had better give the explanation now?—A. When the $6,000 note came due, or near about due, I got $2,000 in cash from Mr. Murphy. I got a note of $2,000 part renewal of four months, and a note of $2,000 of five months. In November, 1884, about the 28th November, on an application for money for the British Columbia Dock, I got Mr. Murphy to give me a six months note for $3,000 on that account and I put with it one of these notes I now speak of and made it $5,000 and gave them to Thomas McGreevy." Is that true or not?—A. I got no notes.

Q. You did not get these notes as mentioned here by Robert McGreevy?—A. No; no notes.

Q. Therefore in so far as the year 1884 is concerned you got no payments, except the two payments of $5,000 cash which you have already stated?—A. Which I have already stated.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Do you deny that you may have received $5,000 from one or other of these parties about the 20th November, 1884?—A. I did not receive any amount that year, only the $10,000 I have stated.

Q. Did you receive any money about that date?—A. I received two fives, making $10,000 that year.

Q. I asked you, did you receive one $5,000 in the month of November, 1884?—A. I received $10,000 during that fall, but there was nothing mentioned to me about agreement or bargains.

Q. As a matter of fact you got money?—A. I got $10,000.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. As you have stated before, you got $10,000 that fall?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Was the $15,000 to which you have already referred before or after that?—
A. Before.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. In a letter found on page 18 (Exhibit "F2"), I notice there is a paragraph which refers to the Dock at Esquimalt. It says: "I have had a conversation with Shakespeare on the lengthening of the B. C. Dock. I told him to unite with the others and push it. He is prepared to do so. I told him to write and get the length of steamers chartered by the Canadian Pacific Railway from the Cunard Company. He has promised to do so. Connolly had better wait until next week to come up. When I come down we will talk the matter over." At page 177, Murphy says: "Q. State to the Committee what passed then between you and Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. I was instructed by my partners to try and get the Dock lengthened an additional 100 feet—that we would give $50,000 to have it done——." Was there any such proposition as that made?—A. Never.

Q. At page 175, Murphy refers to another question in reference to this Dock. He was asked: "Q. Will you state to the Committee what passed at that first interview and what was the result?—A. My partners at British Columbia wanted a change made from sandstone, as the Dock was originally started with, and to have granite substituted, and they gave me an idea of about what it would cost. I told Mr. McGreevy if this substitution could be made, that I would give 25 cents a foot—we had a price made for granite which was in the tender—that the company would give 25 cents for each foot of granite that would go in the works."—A. I have no recollection of anything of the sort. Robert may have spoken to me about it, but I have no recollection of it.

Q. Did Robert speak to you about a bargain under which you were to get a sum of money?—A. Never.

Q. Did he ever speak to you at all about it?—A. About the lengthening of the Dock? I think he wrote to me about it.

Q. Or of the substitution of granite for sandstone?—A. I have no recollection of anything of that at all.

Q. Do you mean to say that if an offer of that character were made to you you would not recollect it?—A. What offer is that?

Q. The offer of 25 cents a foot?—A. Such a thing was never made to me.

Q. At page 178 Murphy says that the firm had a claim for extras in British Columbia, amounting to about $23,000, and that he made an agreement with you that all the firm would get over $50,000 you should have. He says further "to the best of my opinion we got $71,800. I think that was got, but I am not positive on that point, and this item of $17,000 and $5,000, making $22,000 would account for it." Was there any such bargain as that made to give you anything over $50,000 if the extras were obtained?—A. No.

Q. Was there any such questions as that at all, discussed between you and Murphy?—A. The only time Murphy ever discussed the matter of the Graving Dock at British Columbia with me, was one day when he met me on the street. He told me the amount of their claim against the Government, and that if he could get it settled he would give half of it for political purposes. I said to him that things were not done in that way. That is the only time I ever spoke to him on that matter.

Q. Did you ever receive any money from Murphy for political purposes during this time?—A. No.

Q. Whom did you apply to when you wanted any money and whom did you get it from?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. Altogether?—A. Yes.

Q. Referring to the removal of Mr. Bennett, will you explain under what circumstances the question of the removal of Mr. Bennett was discussed between you and your brother?—A. Being a director of the Union Bank, the bank was under heavy advances to these people and the directors asked me to look into it, and report about the estimates and send them word what the progress estimates would be each month. I was to send word to the manager of the bank at Quebec. I was constantly watching on that account. One month, I think, the estimates were behind, and in regard to this, I think I did complain to the Minister and Mr. Perley about the estimates not being forthcoming. According to agreement each month the amount of the estimate was to be telegraphed to the bank and the Department would give credit to the banks for the amounts. This was neglected and that was the reason why I complained.

Q. Now, did you at any time have any other purpose or object in view in so far as the removal of Bennett was concerned?—A. I do not know any other reason.

Q. Was any offer made to you in connection with that removal of Bennett?—A. No, never.

Q. I notice in that letter of the 2nd May, 1885 (Exhibit "G 2"), you ask your brother to try and get $72 for Chaloner. Did he get it?—A. He would pay amounts for me.

Q. Was that amount advanced by him and charged afterwards?—A. It is charged in his account. Even a telegraph is charged in his account.

Q. Referring now to the dredging contract, it is stated here that in February, 1887, a bargain was made under which the contractors were to obtain a contract for thirty-five cents a yard in consideration of the payment of $25,000 for election purposes. Do you know anything about that?—A. No. I will relate to you the history of that: When the elections were on in 1887, I met Robert McGreevy and asked him "What is the firm going to subscribe for the general fund for the election?"; and he went and seen them and came back and reported that they were going to subscribe $25,000. But he never mentioned anything about dredging. That dredging matter had been going on for some time before that and after.

Q. What did they actually subscribe, and how much did you get?—A. He promised $25,000; but during the election I only got $15,000. In the months of January and February I got $10,000 and $5,000.

Q. Did you get any other sum afterward, which was used in connection with the election?—A. I got another $5,000 later on.

Q. What was that used for?—A. It was to pay some balances and for deposits and different things.

Q. As a matter of fact, you actually received in connection with the election of 1887, $20,000?—A. Yes; $20,000.

Q. During all the time that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had contracts from the Harbour Commissioners of Quebec, did you receive different sums from them for political purposes?—A. Not from Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. From your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. How much in the aggregate did you receive?—A. I think as far as I can recollect about $55,000.

Q. In what year?—A. In eight years—from 1883 to 1887 or 1888.

Q. Including the $20,000?—A. Yes.

Q. And the $15,000 paid in connection with the McCarron judgment?—A. Yes, and the $10,000. The whole thing—about $55,000 in all.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Was that $55,000 for political purposes?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Referring to the letter which was written to Mr. Verret in connection with the deposit of security that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had put up with the contracts for the Cross-wall, that letter was produced here. From the day you wrote that letter to the day it was produced had you seen it?—A. I never saw it until it was brought up in the Harbour Commission.

Q. When?—A. During the winter I seen it then before the Board. It was brought up before the Board then.

Q. You never saw that letter until it was produced before the Commission?—
A. No, in February or March.

Q. You heard Mr. Dobell, when examined as a witness here, speak of something that took place at a meeting of the Board with reference to your brother's interest in the contracts of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you speak to your brother about that time with reference to that subject; and what took place between you?—A. As far as I am concerned, I think Mr. Dobell was a little out about the date. I think it was in 1886 that Mr. Dobell spoke of it. Sometime in the fall of 1886. In 1887, after the general election took place, there had been some articles in L'Electeur reflecting on me and my brother, and about his son being Assistant Engineer. They referred to his father being a contractor, and reflected upon myself as a member of the Harbour Board. I got into a conversation about it and spoke to him about it and said "While you have a perfect right to be a partner in the firm, and you might as well declare it, your son should not be there as Engineer. Nobody could find fault with you having a right to be there." We discussed that, and he said his son had as much right to be there as anybody else.

Q. Did he admit that he was a partner?—A. He did not admit it.

Q. Did he say anything about the special relations that existed between himself and Mr. Murphy?—A. It was very common that he was very intimate with Murphy and that they were speculating together. He admitted to me that they had large transactions together.

Q. In connection with the South-wall tenders, it has been stated here by Mr. Charles McGreevy that these tenders were brought to your house on the day that they were produced before the Harbour Commissioners; that after they had been referred to Mr. Perley by the Board they were examined by Robert McGreevy and yourself; and that afterward you gave them to Charles McGreevy to take to the St. Louis Hotel to Mr. Perley who was there?—A. The whole story is untrue. I never saw the tenders after they were opened that day, and they were handed to Mr. Perley at the meeting.

Q. He got them afterward?—A. Yes, and I did not get them at all. I had no occasion to have them. In connection with these tenders we well understood that there was not many items and it was pretty well understood how it was. They were no use to anyone. There were so few items that it was known exactly who was the lowest tenderer.

Q. What position did Charles McGreevy occupy to them?—A. He was Assistant Engineer. At that time he was Mr. Boswell's Assistant, who was under Mr. Perley.

Q. I put the question to you, as to whether Charles McGreevy, as Assistant Engineer, would have access to those tenders?—A. I do not know. They were handed to Mr. Verret, and whether he got them to give to Mr. Perley or not, I do not know.

By the Chairman :

Q. You say you got $55,000 for political purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. You did not say on behalf of which party. I think, the Committee would like to know that?—A. The Conservative Party.

Q. Exclusively?—A. Exclusively.

Q. Nothing went to any other party?—A. No.

Q. You mentioned another thing too. You know that something had been said about that word "No" as omitted in that letter you sent to Mr. Verret. Could you have omitted that yourself?—A. I will explain how that occurred first: Mr. Valin came to me and asked me about these cheques. He said Murphy wanted to get his cheques back, and that they were paying interest. He represented that there was a lot of work done and that the cheque ought to be given back; that they had done the same with the others. I asked him about the others. He said he had given back the other two—he and Mr. Verret themselves—in the same way. I told him he had no business to do that; that it should have come before the Board. I had no no objection and would have voted for it; but he should have brought that before the Board. We would have voted for them getting back the cheques. They had a large amount of drawback, a very large amount of plant on the works, and I would have voted to give them back the security but he should have brought that before the Board. He said "You object?" I said: "Yes, without going before the Commission." He wrote me a letter afterward that if I saw any objection to write Mr. Verret. I wrote to Mr. Verret just as it is.

Q. Was it intentionally so?—A. I would not swear that.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You intended to write that you had no objection?—A. I found fault with it not being given up with the sanction of the Board. He, as President, had no right to do it. I would have no objection myself.

Q. You had expressed objection previously, and all I wish to know, is, did that letter express your views at that time that you had objection?—A. I had in the way he meant.

Q. When the letter reads "I see objection" did it express what was in your mind?—A. My mind was that he should have brought the thing before the Board.

Q. Then you did not intend to write him and say you had no objection?—A. No, I did not.

Q. Is the statement that the original letter contained the word "no" incorrect from your point of view?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. And, as a matter of fact, it did not contain it?—A. No, it did not. I gave the letter myself to Verret. Murphy never saw it.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. You were willing the security should be given up?—A. If it was brought before the Board I would have voted for it, but not in the way it was asked.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Referring to the matter of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, you were originally a director in the road were you not?—A. I was.

Q. Did you help to furnish any portion of the subscribed capital required to get the company organized?—A. Well, I did give a cheque for an amount.

Q. How much did you give your cheque for?—A. I think it was for 10 per cent. on a thousand shares. I don't know what the shares were but I think the cheque was for $50,000.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. A cheque for $50,000?—A. 10 per cent. on a thousand shares.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. 10 per cent. on a thousand shares at $50 a share?—A. Whatever it was, 10 per cent. was the amount subscribed.

Q. Subsequently, did your brother charge you with any moneys he had received in connection with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway subsidy, or credit you rather with any money that he had received?—A. Money he had received?

Q. Yes.—A. He did furnish an account.

Q. And in that account did he credit you with $17,996.25 he had received from Armstrong?—A. That account he furnished is filed here. I think he did, but I don't remember the amount.

Q. Look at the account produced here, as Exhibit "Q13," and say whether or not your brother credits you with $17,996.25 which he says was received from Armstrong on the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. This is a copy of the one filed in Quebec, and furnished by Robert himself.

Q. Look at the credit side of the account, at the item of May the 7th, 1886?—

A. "C. N. Armstrong, $2,996.00."

Q. The next item?—A. Seven thousand.

Q. November 22nd?—A. Eight thousand.

Q. That money was expended by Robert McGreevy, was it?—A. It was expended by him; I never knew anything about it until he produced these accounts.

Q. Until he produced these accounts and you came to go through them?—A. Yes; before I sued him. It was in the month of January, 1889, I think.

Q. When examined here as a witness, he said he got $42,000 from the Baie des Chaleurs Railway subsidies, which sum, he says, he applied for you, or gave to you. Is that true or not?—A. That was stated in his account at the time he said he got it.

Q. And that was the only amount he gave you credit for?—A. Would this be charged?

Q. Charged on the other side of the account, of course. In any event, do you remember having received from him any amount out of this $42,000?—A. Well, the matter came up in the courts in Quebec—this account—and we went over the items. This does not appear to be the same.

Q. Independently of the accounts at another time, and in another way, did you receive any other money from him out of this Baie des Chaleurs subsidy?—A. I received one $8,000.

Q. When did you receive that?—A. I think it is the same one that appears somewhere in the filed statement.

Q. In December, 1886, did you not receive $8,000?—A. Yes; $8,000.

Q. Independently of that did you receive any other amounts?—A. None but what he charged me for.

Q. And that is here?—A. Yes, in that account; but that cheque came direct, I think, from Mr. Noel. It was ordered to be sent.

Q. In the litigation you had with Robert did he make any particular claim with reference to this particular amount of $42,000?—A. He charged it in the account against me.

Q. The whole amount?—A. The whole amount of $42,000.

Q. And claimed it as belonging to him?—A. He then claimed half of it himself—of the amount.

Q. Do you not remember, after his claiming that, he amended the bill of particulars and claimed the whole?—A. I don't remember that point. There is some more explanation required as to the $8,000. When I was examined in detail in the Court below upon the account, the amounts were read over to me, where he mentioned several sums of money which were not paid to me, but for other purposes, not for me, and this $8,000 was to reimburse me for an advance. It was for the local elections of 1886.

Q. Now, referring to the matter of the "Admiral," will you state the nature of your connection with that vessel, and how it originated?—A. Yes, I will. I was President of the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company, I think it was for the last five years, and in 1882, and some years before, the company had a boat called "The Clyde."

Q. Where was that boat?—A. At the same place the "Admiral" is now, and there was complaints against the boat; that she was not sufficiently fast, was not a strong enough boat, nor a sufficiently a worthy boat to continue; and I think the Postmaster General wrote to me as President of the company, at that time, and complained that we would have to get another boat.

Q. Finally, it was decided by the directors that a new boat was required?—A. That we would have to get a new boat.

Q. Did you go with Mr. Chabot to buy a boat?—A. The matter came before the Board, and there was a resolution passed authorizing Mr. Chabot to go to New York to buy a boat. He was to consult with me, and he and I were to purchase another boat suitable for that service, on condition the Government would give a long term of five years contract, as it was too short a time to buy a new boat for one year, and at the time it was a very doubtful thing. The Company was not in good credit and had not got means, and the directors stated at the time that they would assist the Company, either by paper or advancing money. Mr. Chabot went to New York to purchase the boat, and he said he found a boat suitable, and asked me to come along. I went to New York, and he said: "We have not much time, there is other people who want to purchase this boat now, and we will have to pay an amount in order to secure the boat at once." I told him, I would draw at once, and I drew upon my own credit, and advanced the money to pay the deposit.

Q. What was that amount?—A. A couple of thousand dollars, perhaps, I don't know. However, I advanced the money, and he then made the sale.

Q. Made the purchase rather?—A. He made the purchase afterwards, and after that he then had to go to work to repair the boat and put her in order, and another amount of money had to be advanced to pay the outfit, and rig out the boat. Then, there was the purchase money. Before she left, she had to be paid for. In the mean time, I went to Quebec, and saw the directors, and there tried to get Marine Insurance. They refused to give Marine Insurance going down to the Baie des Chaleurs. I could not get it, and then I came down and saw the other directors, and they declined.

Q. To take the boat?—A. They declined to make any advances in consequence of which I had to provide the amounts myself and I told Chabot, in the meantime, until we could see what could be done, as the manager of the company, to take the boat in his own name until the company got means or we received credit from the company. He took the contract and the boat in his own name. That went on in that way for sometime afterwards. We could not, however, get the directors to come to any understanding. I should say that when the steamer was coming to the Baie des Chaleurs from New York, she struck on a rock outside of Halifax and got so much damaged that she had to go into dock by which a great expense was incurred. The directors would not do anything and I was in a fix. I did not know what to do; so I told Chabot to hold the boat until we got means or the company got means to pay for her. That was the way of it.

Q. You were advancing all the payments on the boat?—A. Yes.

Q. You were largely interested in her?—A. I was largely interested.

Q. She continued to run in Chabot's name, although she was your property?

A. Yes.

Q. And she was your property all the time she ran there?—A. Yes. I had a desire to get her off my hands as soon as I could. I had no interest in keeping her.

Q. She remained your property until January or February last?—A. She was sold before the elections. Mr. Connolly had a mortgage on the boat for $25,000 and the whole thing was sold for $31,000 to him.

Q. Was that mortgage of $25,000 a bonâ fide mortgage?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. That mortgage was taken on the boat to get money to pay off a previous mortgage owned by Mr. James Ross?—A. Yes.

Q. You acknowledge freely and frankly that the boat was yours all this time?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. And that you received all the subsidies?—Yes.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick:

Q. There is one statement on page 179 of the evidence, in which Murphy says: "Go on?—A. I called at Mr. Thomas McGreevy's house, and he asked for $5,000. His brother was present, and there was quite a disagreement as to which works it should be charged to. Robert objected to it being charged to the Cross-wall or British Columbia, and said it ought to be charged to the Graving Dock, Lévis. I stated that my partners would not stand that, as I made a bargain that whatever came to the Lévis Graving Dock nothing should be paid out of it. I went round to Mr. Nicholas Connolly and stated the case—that there was $5,000 asked for—and he refused, and we both got a little excited over the matter, and he there admitted that he had already paid $10,000. I then came around and reported the fact to Mr. Thomas McGreevy in the presence of his brother Robert, and he asked if Mr. Connolly had stated to whom he paid it. I stated the case in the presence of his brother, and he got in a great passion to think that any one else was getting money but himself. We then—Robert in company with myself—went down to the books and examined them, and found that there was $10,000 charged to the Cross-wall. It was there we discovered also where the Inspectors were paid. We then came back to Mr. McGreevy's house and reported, and he himself found a great deal of fault with the way things were done—and that is how I came to discover this money. Mr. Connolly made this statement to me that he got a letter from Sir Hector——

“Mr. Osler objected.

“Witness continued:—I asked him how he came to give this money and he stated that a letter was brought to him by Laforce Langevin. He said he gave the money the first time to Laforce. I asked him how he gave the second and he told me he gave the second direct to himself.” Is that true?—A. The whole statement as far as I am concerned is untrue. I never had anything to do with Sir Hector Langevin.

Q. Is it untrue that Murphy said in your presence that Nicholas Connolly had alleged that he had made a payment to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. He never said anything of the kind.

Q. Did you at any time ever have any knowledge of any statement being made by Murphy in your presence, and in the presence of your brother that Nicholas Connolly had said to him that he had paid money to Sir Hector Langevin?—A. No.

Q. You had no recollection of anything of the sort having been said?—A. No.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. One or two questions about the “Admiral.” Mr. Chabot you say went to New York and bought the boat?—A. Yes; for the company.

Q. That is what I wanted to get at. The boat was bought for the company?—A. Yes; for the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company.

Q. Subsequently the directors refused to co-operate with you and pay for it?—A. They could not provide the means.

Q. The company had no means?—A. They had no means.

Q. And you were forced to advance the money yourself?—A. Yes.

Q. You stated that there was no insurance effected upon the steamer; that it could not be effected where you bought her on account of the dangerous route on the Baie des Chaleurs?—A. The companies refused insurance.

Q. Was there ever any insurance on that steamer during the whole time she was fulfilling the contract?—No; we could not get any.

Q. The steamer was constantly running at enormous risk?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the annual amount of the contract?—A. $12,500.

Q. And this contract extended over——?—A. It was for 5 years and it was then renewed for 5 years.

Q. Mr. Chabot in his evidence the other day stated that the profits of the steamer were $10,000 a year, or something like that?—A. It was nothing near that average.

Q. About how much would it be?—A. It was nothing like that. It may have been so for the last two or three years, but for several years there were no profits at all. There was a large expenditure on her when she went into the dock at Halifax; then the next year a new boiler was put in; then she was re-coppered, and she went into the dock at Quebec. These expenses took away nearly the whole of her earnings. She may have earned, but it was all expended on the boat.

Q. First of all there was no insurance, and secondly, I wanted to ask you if that profit that was mentioned by Mr. Chabot in his evidence included in the account you received any profit from general traffic?—A. Both together; all combined.

Q. Was the traffic pretty considerable?—A. Not a great deal. I do not think it amounted to as much as the subsidy. The little "Clyde" had $10,000 a year before, and she had not half the capacity of the "Admiral."

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. How many years had the subsidy been paid over?—A. There was the first five years, and I think this is the third on the second.

Q. That would be about $100,000—eight years at $12,500?—A. You could not run without it.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. In connection with that steamer "Admiral," in the month of May, 1890, I find at page 4567 of Hansard a declaration which was made in your name by Mr. Curran. Was this declaration authorized by you?—A. I had left the papers with Mr. Curran myself.

Q. Had you signed it or was it written at your dictation?—A. I do not remember whether I signed it or not. Mr. Curran can say.

Q. Did you read it before you put it in the hands of Mr. Curran?—A. I think so.

Q. Did you prepare it yourself?—A. I think so.

Q. You had written it yourself?—A. I think so. It was a copy of my own declaration.

Q. Will you read it again, unless you have read it lately. I will read it to you:—

"With reference to the charges made against me I am moved by feelings of sorrow as well as indignation.

"Of sorrow at the thought that my own brother, who has received nothing but favours at my hands and who has grown rich at my expense, should, now at the latter end of our days, be found conspiring against me, in the company of a fugitive from justice.

"And of indignation that a man who has taken shelter in this Dominion to escape the penitentiary of the country from which he fled, laden with the spoils of a plundered treasury, should dare become the accuser of men known in this community to be above suspicion, and that any honourable member of this House should be so far imposed upon by the two conspirators, as to lay before it so transparent a series of calumnies.

"The accusations, although apparently specific, are mere insinuations against myself and others, and the only way I can meet them here, is by a simple but positive denial.

"I deny that I had knowledge of my brother's alleged connection with the contracts or contractors mentioned in the accusations.

"The statement that I personally participated in profits accruing to my brother out of such contracts—or that I benefited by them, or that I was paid any sum or sums of money—or that any consideration was ever promised to me, are totally unfounded.

"Therefore, as a member of this honourable House, of twenty-three years standing, I assure you, Sir, in all candour, that in so far as I am personally concerned these accusations are false; they are only a part of a deep conspiracy to try to ruin me and two or three other gentlemen, who, in a fair contest, and to protect our own property, defeated these conspirators in their attempt to gain control of a large navigation company. Having been baffled on that occasion they now seek revenge.

"To this end Murphy concocts his accusations, and my brother endorses them and says they are true.

"I have now to deal with the supplementary accusations added to Mr. Murphy's by my brother, Robert H. McGreevy.

"In the year 1866, upon my retiring from active business, he bought out my plant and material, becoming my debtor in a large sum, which with the other large sums of money I have frequently advanced since, to extricate him from the many unfortunate enterprises in which he embarked, has gone on increasing until it has reached nearly half a million dollars. Whenever he was in difficulties he came to me.

"It is true he has paid me various sums on account, but feeling myself obliged to press for settlement, I, some months ago, sued him for $354,000 balance still due me.

"I now come to the last accusation relative to the Admiral. I never owned the steamer, nor never was I contractor with the Government for same."

—A. I consider that correct. Because I did not own her at the time. I only advanced the money. I did not make the accounts. It was made by Mr. Chabot in his name.

Q. I think you have answered Mr. Fitzpatrick that you owned the steamer all the time?—A. It was forced on me.

Q. I do not want to know how it came to be your property?—A. You know now by my explanation.

By the Chairman :

Q. The title was in the name of another man?—A. I stated so.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You had received yearly your subsidies?—A. Yes, to get back my advances, to purchase supplies and keep up the boat and equip her.

Q. That was your object, do you swear, in receiving the subsidies?—A. Mr. Chabot received them.

Q. For whom was he receiving them?—A. I suppose he was receiving them to pay over to me, as I had advanced the money.

Q. To whom did you advance the money?—A. I advanced the money to Mr. Chabot.

Q. Do you claim that Mr. Chabot was ever your debtor?—A. I claim it was for the company I got her first, and the company declined.

Q. Then the ship remained your property?—A. It remained that way, because I could not get rid of her.

Q. Notwithstanding that you declared to the House that you never owned the steamer and never contracted with the Government for the same?—A. As far as that goes it is true.

Q. How far is it true?—A. I understood then that it was not for my advantage.

Q. Then I will also read to you the declaration which you made during this present session of Parliament, when these charges were made against you :

"Last year when this matter was brought up before the House I was absent, but I left a statement with my hon. friend the member for Montreal Centre (Mr. Curran) to be read by him to the House. That statement was read by him in my absence. I adhere to that statement, and I state to the House to-day that the whole charge is false and untrue from beginning to end. It is a foul conspiracy concocted by a clique to damage me for their own benefit, because I would not be their tool and instrument to obtain for them what they wanted. They used my name on more than one occasion, not only by writing letters in my name, but even by forging my name. I am prepared to prove that there are letters written in the Department in my name which I never signed. They made these statements because I would not do the work they wanted me to do. I am very glad this charge has been made, and I hope a speedy investigation will take place. I am prepared to defend myself, and the result will be that the whole thing will be proved a conspiracy and false from beginning to end. The hon. member for Montmorency (Mr. Tarte), who takes up the case for those two parties whom I might call his associates, because the hon. gentleman has associated himself with them, has made statements and taken a position out of which I think he will have some difficulty in getting. I am prepared for a speedy and thorough investigation."

Q. Do you still adhere to that?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you also then understand that Mr. Chabot was the owner of the ship?—A. Well, I have already explained that part of it as fully as I could understand it. Perhaps I did not understand—

Q. Could you, being a man of experience and a man of 23 years' standing in Parliament, have mistaken the nature of the charge and the extent of your denial, when about the steamer "Admiral" the following item is in Mr. Tarte's charge:—

"That by an Order in Council dated 10th May, 1888, the Government of Canada decided to pay a sum of $12,500 yearly during five years to Mr. Julien Chabot, on the condition of his causing the steamer "Admiral" to ply between Dalhousie and Gaspé, forming a connection with the Intercolonial Railway.

"That the said sum of twelve thousand five hundred dollars ($12,500) has since been paid in the manner prescribed in the Order in Council and the contract made thereunder.

"That the said Julien Chabot was merely a screen for the benefit of the said Thomas McGreevy, who then was and continued to be for a long time thereafter, the proprietor of the 'Admiral' in whole, or at least in great part.

"That previous to the 16th of May, 1888, to wit, since 1883, or 1884, the same subsidy of $12,500 was paid for the said steamer 'Admiral,' then also owned by men representing the said Thomas McGreevy.

"That the said Thomas McGreevy received in that connection a sum of about $120,000, while being a member of the Parliament of Canada."

You said this was all false. Do you persist in that statement?—A. I have given my explanation about it.

Q. No; it is not explanations I want. I want to know if you persist in your denial of these charges?—A. I deny that I was the registered owner of the vessel, and I deny that I was the personal contractor.

Q. Is it not a fact that it is charged that during five years, Julien Chabot was the registered owner of the ship?—A. Yes. I stated I was not the registered owner of the vessel, nor the contractor with the Government. That is what I intended to state and if I stated anything else I stated wrong.

Q. You were aware, were you not, that the subsidy mentioned in the Order in Council, dated 12th May, had been voted to Mr. Julien Chabot?—A. Yes.

Q. You were a Member of Parliament at the time those subsidies were voted?—A. I was.

Q. And when you saw the vote, were you aware Julien Chabot was representing you?—A. I was aware he was the registered owner of the boat.

Q. But were you aware that he was representing you, as owner of the ship, when you voted those subsidies?—A. I was aware, certainly.

Q. Is it not a fact that Mr. Julien Chabot yearly accounted to you for those subsidies?—A. Some years he did.

Q. Did he keep any of those subsidies? Did he account to you for each subsidy he received?—A. He accounted for the whole amount of the earnings of the boat each year. He shewed what was earned, and what the balance was each year.

Q. Is it not a fact that these subsidies were included in those earnings?—A. Certainly, yes.

Q. And not only did he account but he paid you whatever might be the amount?—A. He paid me a certain amount each year. It varied every year.

Q. Did he pay you all that was coming to you for each season. A. He paid me a certain amount. He did not pay all but kept a certain amount. He always kept a certain amount each year.

Q. Was he your debtor for the difference?—A. I don't know that, sir, now, because I have sold out my interest.

Q. But you have only sold out your interest since the 28th February last?—A. Yes.

Q. Well those amounts must have been accounted to you before by Mr. Chabot. How did he account?—A. I cannot say that.

Q. Had you any statements from him?—A. I cannot say that.

Q. But years previous? Do I understand you to say Mr. J. Chabot was your debtor for any amount at the expiry of the year 1889?—A. I cannot say because he did not send me any statement.

Q. I want to know whether he remained your debtor—whether he was your debtor at the end of the year 1889?—A. I have said that he was; I sold out without getting a statement.

Q. That is not an answer. Did Mr. Chabot keep any of the money representing the earnings of the boat?—A. I think so.

Q. Did he keep it, with your knowledge?—A. That I cannot say.

Q. Did he charge anything for his trouble or commission?—A. I cannot remember those accounts now.

Q. I understand very well that Mr. Chabot had to pay for repairs, wages and perhaps salary to himself, but whatever amount would remain after all those charges and expenses were made would be paid to whom?—A. He never paid sums to me, he paid me certain sums on account.

Q. And you never asked him where the whole of the money was, did you?—A. I did not want to have any particulars at all.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Mr. Chabot swore that you told him that you wanted the vessel in his name because you were a member of Parliament and could not have it in your own name.—A. He was telling what was wrong. I intended to bring that matter up.

Q. Is that true or not?—A. It is not true.

Q. You never told him that?—A. I did not tell him anything of the sort. He must have imagined it.

Q. How do you explain a vessel for which you paid going in his name?—A. Because it was intended to be a boat for the company, and he was to hold it until the company would provide the means to pay for it, he was the manager of the company.

Q. Well, when the company did not do that, how do you explain that when you paid for her she still remained in his name?—A. She still remained in his name because we could not get rid of her, we could not get paid for her.

Q. But after it was known the company would not take her?—A. I always expected that the time would come when they would have the means.

Q. After you found out ultimately, the company would not take her how do you explain that she still remained in his name?—A. Oh, well, I supposed he was a steamboat man and he could manage her better than I could.

Q. You never had such a conversation as he swore to, at all?—A. I don't think such a thing could pass, he must have imagined that himself.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. When you went to New York, with Chabot to buy the boat, you went on behalf of the company?—A. Yes, by resolution of the Board. Mr. Gaboury, the secretary of the company, will tell you about that. I understand that he is to be here as a witness.

Q. Mr. Chabot was authorized to buy the boat for the company?—A. Yes, by resolution of the Board.

Q. And the company refused to take her?—A. The company would have taken her, but they had not got the money to pay for her. The company was not in a solvent condition, and therefore they could not furnish the means to pay for the boat.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Was the company an incorporated company?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. They did not take the ship anyway?—A. They did not, because they had not the money.

Q. That was in 1884?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Did you ever account to the company for the earnings of the boat?—A. No.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You appropriated the earnings yourself?—A. I paid the money.

By Mr. Wood (Brockville) :

Q. Aside from the question as to who owned the boat in law, did you think the ownership was really in the company or in Chabot?—A. There was no question about that.

Q. What was in your mind at the time that Mr. Chabot was the owner of the boat?—A. Virtually. He could have got the boat if he had wanted it.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Did you say that this resolution having been passed by the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Co. it was through that company that the steamer was put in the name of Chabot?—A. Exactly. He was the manager of the company.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You paid the first $2,000 for the boat?—A. Yes.

Q. And when the company did not pay the balance you paid it?—A. I had to pay it or lose the boat.

Q. You put her in Chabot's name. What object had you in putting her in his name?—A. He was the manager of the company.

Q. And you let the boat remain in his name?—A. He made the contract with the Government in his own name.

Q. I understand that, but before he made the contract with the Government the boat was in his name?—A. Oh, yes.

Q. And at the time the boat was in his name you had paid the money on her?—A. I had.

Q. Chabot had paid no money?—A. He paid none at all.

Q. After the money was paid the boat being in his name, he entered into a contract with the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. From that time the subsidies were paid to Chabot and accounted for by him to you?—A. They were always paid to him.

Q. And handed over in the accounts by him to you?—A. He put them in the accounts.

Q. Every year he accounted for the earnings received and the amount of disbursements he had paid?—A. That is it.

Q. Did he receive anything for his personal benefit beyond his salary and wages?—A. He never gave me the full amount every year.

Q. Do you swear here that Mr. Chabot got from you any part of that money for his personal benefit beyond his wages?—A. I do not think so.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You are satisfied Mr. Chabot gave you faithful accounts?—A. No doubt of it.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, THURSDAY, 6th August, 1891.

The Committee met at 10 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Cross-examination of the HON. THOMAS MCGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You stated yesterday that the profits which you made by running the "Admiral" through Mr. Chabot did not amount to eight or ten thousand dollars?
—A. I did not; not through the whole average—not through the average of years. I must tell you this before commencing, that I never went into the average, never made it up, therefore I could not state positively.

Q. You must have an idea of the amount of money you received?—A. Yes; but I never made it up. I received money every year, but never made up the total.

Q. Mr. Chabot stated he had an account with him, and offered to file it next day. Are you in a position to contradict him; he had refreshed his memory from the account?—A. No; I am not in a position to contradict him.

Q. You stated that in those profits so mentioned you had considered insurance; you could not insure the boat?—A. I could not get marine insurance.

Q. You could not get the boat insured at all?—A. I could not get marine insurance. They would not insure the boat in New York, when it came around the Baie des Chaleurs. The only insurance I had was against fire.

Q. And you only had insurance against fire?—A. That is all. I had to run the marine risk.

Q. You stated that, seeing that the company for whom you intended to buy the boat would not take it, that things remained in that state until you sold your interest to Connolly?—A. So remained; yes.

Q. Nothing was done?—A. No.

Q. Are you really positive of that; that you did not take any action as to the title of the ship from 1883, when you bought it, until you sold your interest to Mr. Connolly?—A. I did try to dispose of the boat, but I could not get any person to take the risk.

Q. Is it not a fact the ship was transferred to your brother Robert?—A. It was for a time; I think for a short season.

Q. Why?—A. It was not by me; it was by the owner, not by me personally.

Q. But at your request?—A. I think so; yes.

Q. Why did you have the ship so transferred to your brother? Why not have it transferred to you?—A. It was never in my name.

Q. I know that; but as it was your property from 1883, whilst you were relieving Mr. Chabot from the apparent ownership, why did you not take the ownership yourself?—A. I did not want to take the ownership; I wanted to get rid of it.

Q. That was not getting rid of it?—A. It was for a purpose—for raising money on it.

Q. Was it the only purpose?—A. In the position in which it was.

Q. Could you not have raised the money if the ship had been registered in your name?—A. No; because it was never registered in my name.

Q. If it had been registered in your name you could have raised some money?
—A. I suppose so.

Q. So that was not the purpose? What was the purpose for which you took the ship from Chabot's name and had it placed under your brother's name?—A. I don't know whether he was the registered owner or not. I don't know whether it was registered in the name of my brother or not.

Q. Will you read Exhibit "D 12," printed at page 563 of the Evidence, which purports to be a letter dated Quebec, 28th November, 1884, and say whether this letter is signed by you?—A. That is my signature.

Q. Will you read it?—A. It reads :

"QUEBEC, 28th November, 1884.

"JULIEN CHABOT, Esq.,

"SIR,—I hereby admit that the mortgage granted by you this day in favour of James G. Ross, Esq., of the City of Quebec, Merchant, for thirty thousand dollars on the Steamer 'Admiral' was so done on my behalf and at my special instance and request; also, the transfer of the five policies of insurance—the Imperial, $5,000; the North British, $10,000; Queen, $5,000; and Lancashire, $5,000, be made to James G. Ross as collateral security—also at my request.

"THOS. MCGREEVY."

Q. It is addressed to Mr. Julien Chabot, is it not?—A. That is my letter addressed to Mr. Julien Chabot.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. Are those insurance policies that are mentioned?—A. It was insurance against fire on the boat, yes.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. So you see from that, that you could have raised money on the ship without transferring her from Chabot to your brother?—A. I have no doubt—at least I think so.

Q. You did raise the money?—A. I think so. I could have raised it on my own name as well.

Q. That is another way of putting it. You could not raise money without transferring the ship to your brother, because you did in 1884 raise $30,000 in the name of Chabot?—A. It was because Chabot would not take the responsibility.

Q. He took it for a time?—A. No, he did not; he had a letter I think.

Q. Did he give a mortgage?—A. He would not take the responsibility of the vessel, at all, himself, unless I guaranteed him.

Q. Did he not sign the mortgage as soon as you gave to him a letter assuming the responsibility?—A. Yes; when he got a letter from me, of course, but he would not take any responsibility.

Q. Will you read the letter, Exhibit "E12," sent by Mr. Ross, addressed to Chabot, and say whether it refers to the same mortgage?—A. I would like to see the original if you please.

Q. I can give you the original?—A. I prefer that (after examining the letter) yes, that is a letter by Mr. Ross releasing Mr. Chabot from the responsibility of the boat.

Q. And looking to you only for the amount?—A. Exactly; because he would not become responsible for anything—he was afraid.

Q. I suppose you have no doubt now that Chabot never claimed any right of ownership in the boat?—A. I have always admitted so; that he was not the owner of the boat.

Q. You stated yesterday he could have claimed to be the owner had he liked?—A. He could have done so.

Q. If he had been dishonest?—A. Exactly. If he had been dishonest he could have done so.

Q. Exhibit "F12," also printed at page 564, refers to the same transaction. Here is the letter, dated 2nd February, that you wrote to Julien Chabot authorizing him to transfer the vessel to your brother?—A. Yes, that is correct; that is my signature.

Q. Will you look at Exhibit "H12," printed at page 565, and say whether the second part of the document is signed by you?—A. Yes, that is signed by me.

Q. About that date, that is to say in February, 1888, Mr. Chabot is requested to transfer the "Admiral" to your brother Robert?—A. Yes.

Q. And later on, in 1889, when you quarrelled with your brother, Mr. Chabot became again the registered owner of the ship?—A. I think so, and he refused to deliver the vessel; he refused to give it up to go through the Custom House.

Q. Who refused?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. Was he in possession of the ship?—A. It appears so at the time he refused to give it up.

Q. Did he not at the time, according to Exhibit "H12," place Mr. Chabot in full management of the ship as before?—A. It was in the same management, but when it came to release the mortgage Robert McGreevy had, he would not do it.

Q. He refused to sign?—A. Yes.

Q. Then you had to take another mortgage, and pay off the old mortgage?—A. We had to sell it again to get clear of the Custom House—to get clear of his name altogether.

Q. By looking at Exhibit "G12," printed at page 564, dated 8th July, 1889, have you any doubt that at that date Mr. Robert McGreevy had abandoned all his rights in the "Admiral," and that Julien Chabot had become again the registered owner?—A. That is correct.

Q. So that in July, 1889, Mr. Chabot had become again the owner of the ship?—A. Yes.

Q. Mr. Chabot has sworn that the reason why you avoided becoming registered owner of the ship, was because you were a member of Parliament. Having seen all these documents now, what do you think, is Mr. Chabot right or wrong?—A. I think he had no reason to say so, because I did not say so to him; because the company was not prepared to take it over, as it was a boat for the company.

Q. The company was not prepared to buy her in 1883, but I am speaking now of your being in possession of the ship in 1889. In 1888 your brother had taken possession of the ship, but having quarrelled with your brother, Chabot was again requested by you to take the registered ownership?—A. Yes.

Q. During all these communications, do you swear that you did not speak to Mr. Chabot why you wanted him to go to the trouble of registering or taking the vessel in his name?—A. Not in the first instance.

Q. In the second instance? Did you tell him what the reason was why you wanted him to take the register in his name?—A. I never told him at all.

Q. You did not tell him in 1889 why you wanted him to take the ship in his name?—A. He knew the vessel was bought for the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company, and that they could not pay the money.

Q. In 1883, he knew, but in the fall of 1889, when you again asked him to become registered owner, he knew you were the owner?—A. I was then in possession.

Q. In 1889, did you tell him that you were the owner of the ship?—A. I admitted all that in the beginning. Mr. Chabot was still the contractor with the Government and the subsidy was in his name. The thing was carried in his name all through.

Q. However, until the fall of the year he had not been the full owner of the ship? Robert McGreevy had had her?—A. Yes; but Chabot still held the contract.

Q. But if Robert could have held the ownership of the ship in 1888, though the subsidy was voted to Chabot, why should you not take the ship in 1889?—A. Because I did not want to take it.

Q. Why did you not want to take it?—A. Because I could not take it.

Q. Why could you not?—A. Because I would not.

Q. Why would you not? Is it not because you were a member of Parliament?—A. I would not take it and I did not take it.

Q. Did you refuse to take it as a simple caprice?—A. Perhaps that may have to do with it. The boat was never bought for me.

Q. Did you state that the reason why you did not take it was because you were a member of Parliament?—I knew I could not hold the vessel as a member of Parliament. There is no getting over that.

Q. Was that the reason why you would not take the ship in your own name?—A. The ship was never bought for me in the first instance. That is the reason I would not take it in my own name. Circumstances forced me to take the boat.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. I understand you admit the circumstance?—A. I admitted it from the beginning.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. About the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, you stated yesterday that you had a thousand shares of $50 each?—A. I could not exactly remember how many. I have had nothing to do with it since I resigned from the company four, five or six years ago. If you have the list there I could tell you.

Q. When did you resign, do you say?—A. Four, five or six years ago.

Q. Try to state when it was?—A. I am not going to state, because I cannot tell positively. It must be five years ago.

Q. You first of all resigned as a director?—A. I first resigned as president, and then as director afterwards. I was provisional president.

Q. Subsequently you transferred all your shares?—A. Yes; to Robert McGreevy. All the shares I had.

Q. When was that?—A. When I resigned. I cannot state the month.

Q. Nor the year?—A. Nor the year. After I resigned I transferred all my shares to him.

Q. Would it be in 1886?—A. Perhaps it was.

Q. Would it be in 1887?—A. I could not tell you. I would have to get the books. I am sure it was five or six years ago, but I do not want to say positively. I am not sure because it has never entered my mind since.

Q. You say you paid for the shares by cheque?—A. I gave a cheque for whatever the stock was.

Q. When did you give the cheque?—A. Some time before I resigned.

Q. When the call was made?—A. When it was made by the directors.

Q. When was the call made?—A. At the time they were going to organize and elect permanent directors.

Q. Would that be in 1885?—A. Perhaps so.

Q. Or sooner than that?—A. It may be.

Q. Was not some work done before 1885?—A. That was under the provisional board.

Q. Could you give the date when the directors were elected?—A. No; I cannot.

Q. On what bank did you give the cheque?—A. I think it was the Union Bank.

Q. For what amount was it?—A. It was 10 per cent. of what I subscribed, whatever that might be.

Q. Was the cheque honored?—A. The cheque was never honored that I remember.

Q. You do not remember?—A. All the directors and shareholders gave their cheques at one time to Mr. Riopel, who was the custodian at the time or to Mr. L. A. Robitaille. Each of them gave their cheque to those gentlemen. I understood, however, that they were not to be used at the time, but held there as a payment towards the first call?

Q. And you gave the cheques to the secretary of the company?—A. I think so.

Q. On the understanding that they would not be presented for payment?—A. I think that was the understanding.

Q. Was it not rather a promissory note that you gave?—A. I do not think it was a promissory note. I think it was a cheque.

Q. Will you look at page 581 and read Exhibit "J12" which is a notarial protest served in your name by Mr. Austin, notary, and say whether it is not stated there on your behalf that these payments on calls were made by notes?—A. I do not know whether they were notes or not, but I think it was cheques.

Q. From this protest I read, "and whereas no part of the stock subscribed for as aforesaid, has been paid by the parties subscribing for or holding the same, but on the contrary the call thereon, of 10 per cent, is represented by the promissory notes of the parties holding the said shares."—A. I think that is a mistake. I think it was cheques.

Q. This protest is in your name?—A. Yes. It may be so, but the notary may have made a mistake. I think the cheques should be brought here. My impression is that it was cheques.

Q. But the protest says they were notes?—A. Whether it says that or not, I think it was cheques.

Q. Well, whether they were cheques or notes, it was understood that the cheques would not be presented for payment?—A. I think that was the understanding.

Q. And if they were promissory notes, they were not to be collected?—A. I do not think they were promissory notes; I think they were cheques. Promissory notes would not pay a call to my mind.

Q. Would you make a full statement in that notarial protest?—A. The notary may have put that in wrong. I was always under the impression that they were cheques. I think that could be found out by the cheques.

Q. Did you pay the cheques?—A. I do not think so. I was never called upon to pay it.

Q. Was the cheque returned to you?—A. I do not think so. Robert McGreevy may have got the cheque.

Q. When you sold your shares to your brother, did he pay you for them?—A. I did not sell them. I transferred them without any payment or consideration whatever.

Q. Later on, were you a party to an agreement between the President of the Company, Mr. Robitaille, Mr. Riopel, Mr. Armstrong, your brother and yourself?—A. I do not think I ever signed any such agreement. I have no recollection of having signed it.

Q. Had you an interest in that agreement, and were you made aware of the nature of that agreement?—A. I think my brother may have told me the nature of the agreement.

Q. Are you positive you did not sign the document?—A. I would not swear I did not. My impression is, however, that I did not sign it.

Q. Your brother might have told you what had taken place?—A. I think he did.

Q. How did it turn out in the long run? Did he account to you for the money he received in virtue of the agreement?—A. He sent me an account last year as to how the money was disposed of.

Q. I want to know whether you received any of the money?—A. I received one cheque to reimburse me for the money I advanced for the local elections in 1886.

Q. What was the amount of that cheque?—A. $8,000.

Q. Did you not receive other money in connection with that arrangement?—A. Not any, except that; nothing except what he charged against me.

Q. When did you receive that cheque?—A. I think it was in November 1886.

Q. Will you take communication of a letter addressed to you by C. N. Armstrong dated the 17th August, 1887, and say whether you ever received that letter?—A. (After examining letter) I do not understand this very much.

Q. I will read it.

(Exhibit "Y15.")

"BAIE DES CHALEURS RAILWAY CO.,
 "Contractor's Office, 17 Place d'Armes Hill,
 "MONTREAL, 17th August, 1887.

"MY DEAR SIR,—I telegraphed to-day hoping to have favourable reply from you about the payment of the $8,000 as spoken about last week. I suppose your brother will have seen you about it on Tuesday as you passed through. I understood he was to be in Quebec to-morrow, but I am writing him to-night to Rivière du Loup in case he should be there. I think that under the circumstances the delay should be granted to me. The security offered is ample and is really making your security better than it is at present. I offered your brother to get my father's endorsement in addition to that of Messrs. Gervais, and Fosbrooke, but that is really unnecessary, still I would get it to arrange the matter. The note would be made at 3 months and be paid then, even if the next payment of subsidy had not been made. I would very much like an answer tomorrow as I wish to leave on Friday evening for Baie des Chaleurs.

"I remain,

"Yours very truly,

"C. N. ARMSTRONG.

"Hon. THOS. MCGREEVY,
 "Quebec."

This letter was written in 1887 and refers to an amount of $8,000 to be paid out of subsidies?—A. That must be a later subsidy than was paid. It strikes my mind that way.

Q. But did it not strike your mind also that it had something to do with the payment of that $8,000?—A. I did not take any interest in it. He might think perhaps I had, by that letter. The matter was altogether in the hands of Robert McGreevy.

Q. Did you answer the letter?—A. I do not think I did. Perhaps I may have but I have no recollection of it.

Q. Then from this letter he appears to have spoken to you about this $8,000 the week previous?—A. I do not remember the circumstances.

Q. Had you any interest in the matter at all?—A. I think it must be something about a note he wanted to get discounted or something to get through.

Q. You think he wanted to discount a note due on the payment of the subsidy?—A. It appears like that in the letter. Is that a copy or the original?

Q. It is the original. How did it come into your possession?—A. I must never have seen it. I do not remember seeing it before. It must have been taken by Robert McGreevy otherwise it would be in my possession to-day.

Q. That is not an answer to my question. I want to know whether Mr. Armstrong wrote the truth when he said he had spoken to you about a week previous in reference to the $8,000?—A. He might have spoken to me to advise Robert McGreevy about it. I have no recollection of seeing that letter before.

Q. Had you any interest in the road in 1887?—A. I had no particular interest at all. It was all in the hands of Robert McGreevy.

Q. But it appears from this letter that sometimes you were referred to, in connection with the affairs of the road?—A. I knew nothing about it until I saw it in the account rendered in 1889.

Q. Can you swear you knew nothing about this $8,000 transaction when you received this letter?—A. I do not think I ever received that letter. All the letters written to me were taken away.

Q. But this does not appear to be a forgery as Mr. Armstrong refers to a conversation which he had with you?—A. That may be.

Q. Therefore supposing you had not received the letter have you any recollection that Mr. Armstrong had any conversation with you about a sum of $8,000?—A. He may have had.

Q. If he had any conversation with you how can you say you had no knowledge of it at all?—A. I do not remember it I say.

Q. You do not remember?—A. I do not. I sold out and got rid of the thing altogether.

Q. You said a minute ago that you did not sell out but that you transferred your shares?—A. I gave it to him.

Q. Made a gift of it?—A. I gave everything to Robert.

Q. You were very anxious that he should be paid. You took the trouble to see that he should be paid for what he sold?—A. That is your view of it, not mine.

Q. About the consideration you received for the transfer of your shares?—A. There was no consideration at all. I simply transferred the shares.

Q. There was no agreement that he should pay you anything?—A. No agreement.

Q. You did not consider that your brother was your debtor for the consideration of these shares?—A. I made no bargain.

Q. He was not to pay you anything for them?—A. Not unless he liked.

Q. Later on, did you not file a claim against you brother for the value of your shares?—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. In the litigation that you had with your brother, in one of your pleas do you not claim the value of these shares?—A. He sent an account in, and he credited me with a certain amount of money he had received; then he makes charges and in explanation of the thing I show how this money was got. That is the way it went.

Q. What money?—A. The moneys that he had received and that he charged me with. I explained in my examination down at Quebec in the case where the money went. You will find it there.

Q. How is it that you had to explain about money you did not receive?—A. I was explaining it by his account being filed. He brought it into the account.

Q. I want to know whether in one of your pleadings you have not claimed the value of these shares?—A. I do not know.

Q. In 1886 you had not yet sold out your interest or transferred your interest?—A. Perhaps not. I think I transferred them on two different occasions.

Q. On page 22 there is a letter of yours printed there, bearing date 3rd March, 1886 (Exhibit "N 2"), in which you say: "Nothing new in the Baie des Chaleurs matter, except that Sir Hector wanted me to come to terms and asked me to state the terms. I have not done so yet, but I am told that they have entered into a contract with one Refel, who is a partner of Isbesters."—A. I wanted to get clear of the responsibility of the shares I held in my name.

Q. Why did Sir Hector ask you to come to terms if you wanted to get clear?—A. I think it was through Mr. Armstrong it came around.

Q. What terms were you making?—A. I wanted to get clear of the responsibility altogether—the payment of the stock. That was one of the terms I know.

Q. Is that all?—A. That was one of my principal ones, to get relief from the payment of calls on that stock.

Q. What were the others?—A. That is as much as I can remember at the time.

Q. At page 23 there is a letter dated 9th March, 1886 (Exhibit "P 2"), printed, wherein you say: "I had a meeting this afternoon with Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe on Baie des Chaleurs. Sir Hector insisted on an understanding being come to. I refused to do so, and told him at last to let Robitaille make a proposition himself; that I was not going to make brains for him forever, and let him take advantage of it. They propose (not Caron, Sir Hector) to give me control of road to St. Ann's, with subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if I would withdraw my opposition to B. de C. Railway and relieve you and me of our stock. They are in a complete fix. The Armstrongs can't get anybody to touch them. Isbester sent word by Mitchell that as long as the Armstrongs had anything to do with it, they would not." Will you give an explanation of this letter?—A. I wanted to get rid of the responsibility of the stock. That is what I wanted.

Q. Why was the proposition made to you to get control of another railway?—
A. I did not want it. I would not take it. They wanted to make terms, but I insisted on getting out of it.

Q. That is all you wanted. That is what you said: "All I want is to get rid of my shares." That is what you wanted?—A. I would not take it.

Q. You stated repeatedly that you became aware of your brother's interest in the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., only in 1889?—A. That is it. I think it was in the end of 1888 or the commencement of 1889.

Q. You had no knowledge of the interest he was taking in the execution of these contracts?—A. I had no knowledge that he was interested as a partner—that he was a partner.

Q. Let us explain. You did not know he was a partner?—A. I did not.

Q. Were you aware that he had an interest in the result from the execution of these contracts?—A. I put him down more as a contractor's broker. He was peddling everything. Where anything was going on he was always around.

Q. You appear to have had many conversations and much correspondence with that pedler?—A. Yes, a great deal. A great deal too much.

Q. Were you not peddling as much as he in these contracts?—A. No, I was not.

Q. Your brother, you said, had no means in 1883? He had no money?—A. He represented himself as not having any. I understood so more from the fact of his owing so much and could not pay it, that he had no money; unless he had put it away. He was still going on with contracts.

Q. He had no means and he owed you $400,000?—A. Thereabouts.

Q. Though he had no means he succeeded in procuring for you $15,000, in the month of August 1883, did he?—A. I think so; yes.

Q. Did he explain to you how he got the money?—A. No. He told me he had some accommodation notes, and he took a note of $3,000 from me and said he would look after the judgment.

Q. He said he had procured accommodation notes?—A. Yes, that he had some accommodation notes.

Q. Did he tell you where he had procured these accommodation notes?—A. I think he did intimate that Murphy was giving him some accommodation; that he had some transaction with Murphy.

Q. You understood that they were Murphy's notes?—A. I did not know whose notes they were at the time, for I had not seen them. I saw them here afterwards.

Q. When did you have that conversation with him about these accommodation notes?—A. I think it was some time in July—the beginning of July.

Q. Where was it; in Quebec?—A. It must have been in Quebec. I do not exactly know the place. Quebec or River du Loup.

Q. As they were accommodation notes you must have understood that he would have to pay them?—A. In the meantime he was going to provide for the judgment and he came to me on the 13th July and got a note of $3,000 to make up what he wanted.

Q. You stated that he was a man of no means, and he informed you that he was only using accommodation notes?—A. He always had something going on. I think he had a contract for the Intercolonial Railway for $60,000 or $70,000 at the time.

Q. Did he receive any money to your knowledge from those contracts?—A. He must have. I did not meddle with his business. He never told me anything about his own business.

Q. When was this contract?—A. Somewhere in 1883 it was finished.

Q. Next year you found out that these notes had been paid?—A. Yes.

Q. Had been paid by whom?—A. I do not know who paid them. He never told me; but he said he had made an arrangement about them and had to pay them himself. First he told me that, and afterward he said he had arranged the whole matter and told me that I would not be called upon then. I will tell you how it came around: I asked him for a certain amount of money for a purpose—for a political object—and then he said or said afterward: “I have arranged about that; you can keep that $15,000,” or to that effect. Sometime during the summer of 1884 it was. The whole thing was arranged by my accountant, and I think he can give an explanation. He ought to be able to. He made the payment himself—Mr. Chaloner.

Q. Of this $15,000?—A. It was he who fixed it with Robert McGreevy.

Q. The following year?—A. It was him who arranged with Robert McGreevy about the payment of that judgment. I told him at the time that I had lots of securities that were not saleable at the time, and I did not wish to dispose of them.

Q. Mr. Chaloner did not tell you whose notes they were?—A. I do not think he did. I was absent out of town a good deal.

Q. How long were you away?—A. I was not there when they were paid.

Q. Having so large a judgment as $17,000 to pay, you did not enquire how it was paid?—A. It came about through McCarron, his brother-in-law, who threatened to sue me, and he got me into it.

Q. The judgment was against you?—A. Yes.

Q. You had been condemned to pay $17,000?—A. Yes.

Q. You went away after a week or two?—A. Yes.

Q. And when you came back the judgment was paid?—A. I arranged before I left that he would arrange about the judgment.

Q. You ascertained that the judgment was paid?—A. I knew it was paid while I was absent.

Q. How did you learn?—A. I got letters from him. It was all arranged for.

Q. What have you done with those letters?—A. I have not kept any letters; I had a good many of them stolen.

Q. Coming back home, did you enquire from Chaloner whose notes had been discounted?—A. I do not think I did.

Q. Did you ask Robert whose notes they were, when you came back?—A. Well, I don't remember anything about it. The judgment was paid and I did not bother myself any more about it until the next year.

Q. And next year was because you wanted some money for special purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. And you did address yourself to Robert for that money?—A. Yes.

Q. How much did you want from him?—A. I wanted a pretty large amount that summer.

Q. From him?—A. Well, I wanted a large amount for special purposes. He promised to give the amount, and after he came he said I could keep that amount towards the object we had in view at the time.

Q. Did you ask the money from him or was he to procure it somewhere for you?—A. He offered this himself at the time, as he said he had to arrange about it and he would give this money.

Q. Did he say where he would get that money?—A. He did it himself; he kept his own affairs to himself.

Q. Did he tell you where he was to procure that money?—A. He was a pretty close man.

Q. Did he tell you where he would procure that money?—A. I think so.

Q. Then and there, he told you he got it as a donation from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes; for the object I had asked.

Q. And according to your statement yesterday he brought you only $10,000?—A. Oh, that was for another one.

Q. When did he bring you this?—A. That was during the fall. I accounted for the money myself, and I paid an amount, I think, of about twenty-five thousand that fall.

Q. You paid $25,000 before you had received any more from Connollys?—Oh, no; I did not.

Q. Well, you paid $25,000 during the summer of 1884?—A. I think the summer and the fall of 1884.

Q. This $25,000 was composed of $15,000 you were reimbursing to the political fund. Some of this had been used for your own private use?—A. I don't know.

Q. But since you found out that $15,000 of political money was used for you, you reimbursed it the following year?—A. I think $20,000 or $25,000 was paid that fall, and the other in the elections.

Q. You then having discovered that $15,000 had been appropriated, you at once reimbursed it?—A. It did not come that way; it came from himself. I stated there was money wanted for certain purposes, and he (Robert) said that amount would go towards it.

Q. What amount?—A. Whatever proceeds was paid for the judgment—some $14,000 or $15,000.

Q. It came from himself?—A. It came from himself.

Q. It was only then you discovered this money had been used to pay your judgment?—A. I don't know that it was that money; I don't know how he had arranged for it.

Q. You only gave your note for $3,000 to pay for $15,000?—A. That is it.

Q. When you discovered it in 1884, you agreed to reimburse the amount?—A. When he told me, I thought he was going to pay that towards what he owed me, because he was constantly paying small things for me in that way. His accounts will show that.

Q. I want to know whether you, in 1884, agreed to reimburse that $15,000?—A. It was paid to me for the object for which it was obtained.

Q. And made up of your money?—A. My own money.

Q. You say you paid $25,000?—A. During that year from the beginning to next year there was $25,000 paid.

Q. Did you pay the $25,000 in one payment during that year?—A. During that summer and up to the beginning of January next year, 1885.

Q. Where did you take the other $25,000?—A. I got ten from him, and as I stated yesterday he charged me with the full fifteen.

Q. So you did not pay him the money, you only agreed you should be charged with it?—A. I did not give it to him at all, it went for another purpose, but he accounted for it in that way. It was out of my own money to pay that $15,000 with another $10,000 I got for the object. This is as far as I can remember.

Q. When you reimbursed that $14,000 or $15,000, did you reimburse all the money at once?—A. No.

Q. In different amounts?—A. In different amounts.

Q. Gradually?—A. They were paid at different times as required.

Q. Can you give the dates when those payments were made?—A. No, I cannot give any dates; I have never kept any dates.

Q. Have you any objection to saying for what purpose the money was paid?—A. No. Of course if I am obliged to state it, I will state it.

THE CHAIRMAN. You had better say it, if it was money received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.—A. It was paid for Le Monde; to purchase Le Monde.

Q. It was purchased during that year?—A. Yes, during that year.

Q. And during the course of 1884 or the beginning of 1885 you paid about $25,000?—A. Yes, about $25,000.

Q. The $25,000 was for Le Monde?—A. Yes.

Q. You say the amount was asked. It was asked from you for Le Monde?—A. There was an organization getting up a company to purchase Le Monde. There was a lot of gentlemen I think, who wanted to purchase Le Monde, came to visit me several times. I had meetings with them about it and the consequence was they made a bargain to purchase. There was some other disbursements to make, after the payment was made of stock and plant and other things wanted.

Q. But do you remember that Le Monde was purchased?—A. I think it was in the fall of 1884. I know there were negotiations carried on during the whole summer about it, but I did not keep any dates.

Q. A company was organized, I believe?—A. Yes.

Q. Incorporated with letters patent?—A. Yes, exactly.

Q. The capital was $50,000?—A. I don't remember about that. I took no interest in the meetings. I furnished a certain amount of money, that is all I know about it.

Q. Did you make any gift to the company, or pay that for stock?—A. I had no stock. I took no stock; I gave it all straight to the company.

Q. It was not for stock?—A. No.

Q. At whose request did you furnish that money to Le Monde?—A. There was a gentleman came to me, Mr. Vanasse, Mr. Lassard, and a number of others, and I think, Mr. Charlebois the notary, if I am not mistaken, had something to do with it. A company was formed.

Q. The money was never reimbursed to you?—A. No.

Q. After your brother had finished his contract with the Intercolonial Railway, are you aware whether he undertook any other contract?—A. He had always contracts going on in different names—in other people's names.

Q. If he always did it, can you name some under those names he had contracts, from 1882 to 1887, and 1889?—A. Any number of them. I think he had one under the name of Joseph Lachance, that was on the Intercolonial Railway—crib work.

Q. In what year?—A. I think that was in 1882 or 1883.

Q. Any other contract you know of?—A. I may be mistaken as to dates. I don't want to be held accountable for dates—that is my impression.

Q. Between 1883 and 1889, try to remember when he had any other contracts; whether he was interesting himself in any other contracts than of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. He had contracts in the name of George Beauceage—several contracts at different times.

Q. Between 1883 and 1889; is it not a fact it was anterior to that time?—A. I don't remember. He had some in the name of Lortie. I think, since 1883, he had several wharves in the name of Lortie, and he had some contracts in the name of Beauceage and in the name of Girard.

Q. During that period, from 1883 to 1889, your brother, though without means according to you, succeeded in paying you, in different amounts, $64,800?—A. No, it was not what you might call payments, although the bill amounted to that, for you must take off $10,000 or $12,000 of interest and money given for election deposits—election notes. You will find he charges the whole amount to me. If you look over the bill you will see charges for various things, notes he could not recover, political notes, that he charged to me. He did not pay that money to me, but he paid some of it. If you took off these things, the whole amount he paid on his debt during those years would come to $29,000.

Q. If he did not pay the money to you, he made disbursements to the banks?—A. Would you call paying $25,000 for elections payments to me; would you call notes discounted for political men and not paid, but charged to me, payments to me?

Q. My question does not mean that. The object of my question is to show the Committee you were aware your brother had disbursed some $60,000, and which he charged to you?—A. No, not of $60,000. Take off the interest, about $10,000 or $12,000, that is not a payment. Then there was $5,000 he charged me for the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. Then there was three or four election deposits, which would make $4,000 or $5,000 more.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Money for election deposits?—A. He deposited them; I don't know where he got the money.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. As he had no means how could he procure this $60,000?—A. He was always going on with contracts; he had always work going on.

Q. When he sent you that account did you contest it?—A. No. I accepted it as the whole. There was such a large margin I gave him credit for the whole amount without saying a word.

Q. I dont speak of when you went to litigation?—A. He only sent me that account that same year. I only got that account in 1889 after I quarrelled, with him.

Q. Do you remember having received a very large account?—A. I think I did receive a letter, but I did not understand it in the same way it is given now. I received a letter with the account. That was on the 14th or 15th January 1889.

Q. After receiving that account did you contest it or not?—A. Well, I went to Mr. Chaloner, and I said: "Mr. Chaloner look at this money he charges to me?" Mr. Chaloner says: "I don't remember these amounts, I cannot check them over." I said: "As there was a large margin off $300,000 or $400,000: It is better not to dispute them but give him credit for all." I said so to my lawyer. That is the view I took at the time.

Q. Will you look at this letter, which is dated 24th January 1889?—A. Is it signed by you?—A. That is my signature.

Q. Please read it?—A. It is as follows:

(Exhibit "Z15.")

"QUEBEC, 24th January, 1889.

"DEAR ROBERT,—Your letter dated the 14th January, 1889 with enclosed statement of payments and charges against me, from 20th February, 1883 to date, with also an interest account for same and also statement of moneys collected on my account has been duly received by me. I have handed your statement to Mr. Chaloner who has given you credit for the full amount with interest.

"I would be obliged if you would see Mr. Chaloner and arrange with him, our respective proportion of the National Bank Account.

"Would you also send me statement of other properties or securities which you hold belonging to me.

"And in future you will make no further transactions in my name or on my account. I shall attend to it myself.

"I remain,

"Yours truly,

"THOMAS MCGREEVY."

Q. What is that letter?—A. In answer to the account.

Q. You say you heard of Robert's interest in the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., only in 1889 or about that date?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you not have a discussion about that with Mr. Dobell in 1885?—A. No. I think Mr. Dobell brought it up—he mentioned it at the Board sitting as one of the Commissioners, in 1886. I think he may be a little astray as to dates. I think he stated a little after the contract was given, I think it was in 1886 the thing became known first. He brought the matter up and I told him I did not know anything about it. I denied it, and I have said I stated so at the Board in answer to Mr. Dobell.

Q. After this statement made before the Board, did you have any conversation with your brother about it?—A. I had after the general elections of 1887.

Q. Not before that?—A. That was very shortly afterwards. The elections were coming on just at that time—the general elections of 1887—and there was some very severe articles written in L'Electeur, throughout my election, accusing me of the fact that he was a partner, and that his son was an engineer measuring his father's work. I spoke to him about it. I said: "You have a perfect right to be a partner if you like in the contracts, nobody can fall out with you. I can take care of myself, but your son ought not to be there, you ought to get your son out of that, being engineer as stated in the article." He denied it.

Q. You spoke to him when the papers mentioned it?—A. Yes, exactly; some-time after the elections.

Q. But when it was brought up before that before the Board of Commissioners. it never occurred to you to speak to your brother about it?—A. I did not have an opportunity of speaking until after the elections, when I stated what Mr. Dobell had said.

Q. Always taking it for granted that Mr. Dobell was mistaken that it was in 1885?—A. I think it was in the year 1886.

Q. What part of 1886?—A. The end of the year 1886; that is my impression, because it became circulated about the streets then through some correspondence that was intercepted.

Q. When that conversation took place before the Board of Harbour Commissioners in 1886, did you tell them that your brother was a habitual pedler of contracts?—A. I think I answered to Mr. Dobell at the Board meeting that I did not believe there was any truth in the statement. I think I denied the statement, as far as I know.

Q. Did you inform them that your brother had taken an interest with Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I did not go into any discussion at all. I think there was no discussion over it—at least, I have no recollection of there being any discussion. I would not have known it if Mr. Dobell had not reminded me by his statement.

Q. Will you read your letter dated 5th May, 1883 (Exhibit "B 2") printed at page 16 of the Evidence, and explain to the Committee why you wrote the last part of that letter if you were not aware that your brother had an interest with Larkin, Connolly & Co.: "Larkin was here yesterday. I told him that it would be useless to get Peters out of the way as it would be tantamount to giving the contract to the highest tender; that you would have to stick to Beaucage's tender, as it was fair." Will you explain why you made such a statement to Larkin?—A. I think it must have been his letter that he wrote me at the time which drew out that explanation, because I think he told me that he had an interest in Beaucage's tender. I understood him afterwards that that was so. I believe it because he was always tendering in the name of Beaucage.

Q. But if your brother's interest was only in Beaucage's tender, what interest had he in that of Larkin, Connolly & Co. What necessity was there to tell him to stick to Beaucage's tender unless he was interested in any of the other tenders?—A. He may have changed his ground.

Q. I think you are changing your ground?—A. I am not changing my ground.

Q. Why did you speak to Larkin?—A. I met him in the corridor—

Q. That is not an answer. I want you to say why you spoke to Larkin?—A. He must have spoken to me about it, otherwise I would not have written.

Q. Why did you state to Larkin that it would be useless to get Peters out of the way, as it would be tantamount to giving the contract to the highest tenderer; that they would have to stick to Beaucage?—A. Because I suppose Larkin must have said something to me at the time.

Q. But is it not a fact that in writing thus to Robert it shows that Larkin and you were then aware that Robert was interested in these tenders?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. You cannot give any other explanation to the Committee about that letter?—A. I explain that, that Larkin must have spoken to me or written to me about the matter in order to draw forth that answer.

Q. I will refer you now to another letter of yours on page 17, dated 7th of May, 1883 (Exhibit "C 2"), in which you say: "Have your arrangements right with Beaucage before result is known. I will give you timely notice." What were the arrangements that you wanted to be made right?—A. I had some letters which he wrote me, and they have all disappeared. I cannot remember them now. Mr. Boyd met me in the square and he told me he had concluded his arrangements, or something like that; that he had concluded his calculations and handed them to Mr. Perley. He was coming to see me when he happened to meet me on the square.

Q. From this same letter I read, "I hope to let you know to-morrow about the result of the Cross-wall tenders"?—A. They wanted to know who was going to get the contract. All contractors are anxious to know the result of the tenders they may have put in, and, of course, being in Ottawa, I suppose they thought I would let them know the result as soon as I could find it out.

Q. Then also, if Murphy or Larkin were not interested in Beaucage's tender, why did you write in the same letter as follows:—"Inquire how O'Brien is doing, or what is his intention about work on examining warehouse. I think if he was promised to be reimbursed, he might give it up, and if Charlebois got out of the way, it might reach Beaucage's tender, but you must not do it. It must be done by someone else. Murphy might approach O'Brien about the matter, but he would have to promise to get Charlebois away"—A. I do not remember anything about that. It must have been some letter he wrote me to draw forth that answer.

Q. Why would Murphy approach O'Brien about the matter if he had no interest in the tender?—A. I think it was something connected with the examining warehouse that they wrote me about. I do not remember at all.

Q. Now on the 17th of May you wrote your brother as follows:—"as I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan and as quick as possible in answer to the letter that Gallagher and Beaucage will receive about their tenders, to bring them over L. & C., so as their tender will be the lowest. The contract will be awarded from Ottawa direct." Now if Beaucage's tender was your brother's solely, what interest had he in so arranging matters that Larkin, Connolly & Co. should get the contract?—A. That is best known to himself.

Q. I would like to know from you?—A. That is best known to himself.

Q. You have made the statement here in your letter, and I want to know, why your brother should seek to arrange so that Larkin, Connolly & Co. should get the contract?—A. I tell you he wrote me—

Q. Did you tell him to try and get a good plan, &c.?—A. If it is in the letter, I must have said so. It must have been in answer to him.

Q. I ask you once more, if your brother was interested only in the Beaucage tender, why should he seek to make such arrangements that the tender would go to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. What I wrote was in answer to his letter.

Q. That is the only explanation you can give?—A. That is about it. He was always writing me. He would mention 50 people's name in a week.

Q. I am asking you about what you wrote, not what he wrote?—A. It was in answer to his letter. Had I his letters in my possession I would explain better what he wanted, but the letters have been removed.

By the Chairman :

Q. Where are those letters?—A. Some of them have been produced here. We have just had Mr. Armstrong's letter produced here but nearly all my letters were taken out of my drawer.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. You have not got the letters?—A. No, they were taken out of my drawers in my house. Some of them have been produced here. He stole them out of my place; that is the shortest name I can call it.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Did you not destroy some?—A. I used to destroy my private letters every year. I looked for some of that year, but could not find one of them.

Q. I think it was your custom to destroy all your letters every year?—A. Yes, every year, but these were some that I received that year and they were all gone when I came to look for them.

Q. According to that you were taking care of these letters?—A. I said that all private letters from public men I destroyed every year.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. At page 20, you wrote to your brother on the 17th of March, 1886 (Exhibit "I 2") as follows: "Larkin and Murphy are here. Larkin has learned a good deal of what has been done. The estimate for February is through and amounts to over $25,000; that makes nearly $75,000 gone out within a month." What was your object in writing this to your brother if he had no interest in that contract?—A. I was a director of the Union Bank which had made large advances to the contractors. The directors asked me to look after their interests and see what the contractors were doing. I was to get the estimates sent along as quick as possible.

Q. The bank asked you to do that?—A. Yes, the bank.

Q. And instead of writing to the bank you wrote to your brother?—A. I wrote to him because he must have written to me about that.

Q. Did he write to you in the interest of the bank?—A. He must have written to me something about it. I was looking after the interests of the Union Bank, as the firm was indebted to it for between $70,000 to $80,000; It was then that I went to see Mr. Boyd to see what money was coming to them, to ascertain what the bank might expect.

Q. This explanation would have been all right if you had written to the bank, but what interest had your brother to know it?—A. As I said he had his paddle in everything.

Q. You say that Larkin, Connolly & Co. were largely indebted to the Union Bank?—A. They were, yes. Under large advances.

Q. How much did they owe to the bank in 1886?—A. I cannot say what was owing at that time.

Q. Was it a large amount in 1886?—A. I do not know exactly about any particular time, but at one time it was $80,000.

Q. Is it not a fact that they were indebted to the bank in 1884-5?—A. Later on.

Q. And in 1886, their obligations to the bank were very small?—A. It may be; the cashier could tell you that better than I.

Q. Is it not the case that in 1886, they were owing nothing to the bank?—A. The board asked me to look after the estimates—to see after the money to pay the estimates.

Q. You say, "they ought to be flush out there now." Was the account for the British Columbia Dock kept in Quebec?—A. The bank was advancing all the same.

Q. You say that Fradet & Miller, who were the lowest tenderers in 1882, had no means to carry on the contract?—A. No, they had no means.

Q. Had you not, yourself, recommended Fradet as a public contractor previously?—A. In such a large work as that, I did not think it right to give such a large contract to those without the necessary means without getting security from them.

Q. As a matter of fact although the contract was awarded in 1882 the work was only begun in 1883?—A. I think so. I think the dredging was only commenced the next spring.

Q. Larkin, Connolly & Co., had no more plant for dredging than Fradet & Miller?—A. Fradet & Miller would not have been able to have carried it on.

Q. You think so?—A. I think so.

Q. You have also said that the reason why the first tenders were cancelled and the second set of tenders called for, was that there was a change in the depth of the dredging?—A. I think so, on the recommendation of the Harbour Master through the intervention of the Board of Trade.

Q. The depth was to be 26 feet?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that that depth has not been dredged?—A. I do not know.

Q. Is it not a fact that it has only been dredged to the original depth of 24 feet?—A. I do not know; I think it is more than that.

Q. You are a Harbour Commissioner and you do not know?—A. I do not know exactly. I think we tried to get as deep as we could. I think it is 25 or 26 feet.

Q. I see that a letter has been filed from Sir Hector Langevin making inquiries about the contract not having been given to the lowest tenderer?—A. Yes; that letter was filed yesterday.

Q. Are you aware that in the Cross-wall tenders the contract was not even granted to the lowest tenderer?—A. I think not; no, it was not.

Q. Were the Commissioners called upon to give explanations, and did they give any to the Minister in reference to the contract?—A. I think the contract was given direct from Ottawa.

Q. So there was no explanation to be given?—A. No, everything was sent up here.

Q. When this letter was shown to you, you said you thought you had seen it before, but by the Minutes of the Harbour Board, it appears that you were not present when the letter was read?—A. It may have been referred to in the Minutes when they were read at the next meeting, and then I called for it. It was likely that.

Q. One of those explanations given in that letter is that Beaucage was allowed to withdraw. Do you remember why Beaucage was allowed to withdraw?—A. Because he could not furnish security. We was called on to furnish $10,000 security and he could not to do it. You are now speaking of Fradet?

Q. No; I am speaking of Beaucage?—A. I do not know anything about that. The reasons were sent here in that letter?

Q. There are no reasons at all. The letter says Beaucage was allowed to withdraw, and Fradet & Miller could not give the guarantee?—A. You are now at the first dredging contract of 1882? I thought you were referring to the Cross-wall contract. He was allowed to withdraw because he could not give the security. He was required to put up $10,000 within a certain number of days, but could not do it. No security had been called for in the tenders but that was a mistake. It was then given to a man of the name of Askwith, of Ottawa.

Q. Is it not a fact that the Minutes show that Fradet & Miller were called upon to put up security?—A. Yes.

Q. And that they declined?—A. They would not.

Q. And then they withdrew?—A. Yes.

Q. But it does not appear at all that Beaucage was called upon to put up any security. It appears pure and simple that he was allowed to withdraw?—A. I do not know anything about Beaucage. He must have withdrawn himself.

Q. Why was he allowed to withdraw and take back his cheques?—A. The reasons must be in the books.

Q. You say that you saw Mr. Boyd on the square, here, and that he gave you certain information about this?—A. Yes.

Q. Had he any written notes on him, or did he speak from memory?—A. I think he had a slip of paper in his hand showing where the mistakes had been made by the different tenders, and he said his duties were then performed and he had handed his calculation over to Mr. Perley.

Q. Here is a piece of paper where the exact quantities are written in your handwriting?—A. Let me see it. I examined it yesterday.

Q. Did you take these notes at the time of this interview with Boyd?—A. I think he showed me the slip of paper. I am not quite sure; but I think he did. It showed what the result was as he had finished his calculation. He came over to see me, or he told me he was coming.

Q. While we are at the Cross-wall tender, you say that Mr. Samson advanced the money to Beaucage?—A. That is what I understood afterward.

Q. From whom?—A. From some person. I think Samson told me himself. I had no conversation with Beaucage since about the matter. I have never seen him on the subject since.

Q. Is it not a fact that the money was procured from Samson by you?—A. No.

Q. To be handed to Beaucage?—A. No.

Q. Are you not in the habit of transacting money matters with Beaucage?—A. No; not in that respect. No, I did not get the money from him. I am sure of that.

Q. You received $15,000 during the election of 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. From whom?—A. From Robert McGreevy.

Q. And $5,000 after the election?—A. Some time after.

Q. From whom?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. In connection with the British Columbia Dock you stated yesterday you received no payment on an agreement. Did you receive any payment without any agreement in connection with that contract?—A. I have no recollection. As to the agreement I may say distinctly I never had. I never heard anything of it.

Q. Did you receive any donations from that contract?—A. I do not know anything about any coming from that particular contract.

Q. You were examined in a certain case with your brother. You said you received between $50,000 and $30,000 from Larkin, Connolly & Co. through Robert?—A. Yes.

Q. Between what years would you receive that amount?—A. Between 1884 and 1887. I think it was from 1884 to the end of 1887.

Q. Would it not rather be 1883; because you only discovered $15,000 in 1884?—A. I considered that 1884.

Q. Will you give us how much you received in 1884? You have already stated to us $25,000.—A. Yes, $25,000.

Q. And in 1885?—A. $10,000. 1885 and 1886, $10,000.

Q. In 1887?—A. $20,000.

Q. That makes only.....—A. About $55,000.

Q. Where they received in different amounts or lump amounts?—A. I do not know, except I got one $10,000 in the month of January or February 1887 during the election. There was one $10,000. I do not know whether I got that in one sum or not in the fall of 1884; but I think I got it in two fives, and then the other $15,000 I have accounted for. They were all fives except that.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. At page 19 of the Evidence I find a letter signed by you (Exhibit "H 2") dated at Ottawa, 4th May, to this effect:

"DEAR ROBERT,—As I telegraphed you this morning, no estimate has been telegraphed. Everything and every order has been sent out to them that was possible to make them understand. But still there was a despatch from them to-day which cost $15, which they had in writing for over a month out there." Who showed you at the time that long telegram which cost $15?—A. I think I went over to the Department and found out about the estimates from British Columbia.

Q. Will you kindly tell me who showed you that telegram?—A. I think I may have gone to the Secretary about the money coming along, as I was acting for the bank on that occasion—looking after the estimates.

Q. Then you wrote that very letter to Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. I may have written through him. The bank may have got the information. I was asking for this information for the bank and for nobody else.

Q. On page 18 of the Evidence I find this letter (Exhibit "G 2."):

"OTTAWA, 2nd May, 1885.

"MY DEAR ROBERT,—As I telegraphed you this morning about estimate for Graving Dock at British Columbia, Perley has telegraphed Trutch to send amount of estimate to-day without fail and to make no deduction on account of material this month, so the whole will be allowed in the estimate this time, and only 12½ on future estimates and all new material, the value to be allowed less 10 per cent., so the matter is now settled."—A. That was about the progress estimates.

Q. Did you write this letter in the interest of the bank to your brother?—A. I did not write it in the interest of the bank to him. I wrote to him because he made enquiries, I suppose.

Q. Did you write this letter in the interest of the bank?—A. I was acting in the interest of the bank for the estimates.

Q. That is, I believe, no answer. If I can make it understood, I want to know when you wrote this letter you were acting in the interest of the bank?—A. Robert McGreevy was always writing to me.

Q. That is a plain question. Did you write this letter in the interest of the bank to Robert McGreevy?—A. I wrote it in answer to enquiries from him.

Q. Did you write this letter in the interest of the bank?—A. I told you I answered because he wrote me about it, but I was acting in the estimates in the interest of the bank. That is the truth of it.

Q. At page 20, on the 17th of March, 1886, I find this letter (Exhibit "I 2").

"MY DEAR ROBERT,—Larkin and Murphy are here. Larkin has learned a good deal of what has been done. The estimate for February is through and amounts to over twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), that makes nearly seventy-five thousand dollars gone out within a month. They ought to be flush out there now." Did you write this letter in the interest of the bank?—A. He was writing, and I answered his letters when he wrote.

Q. I would like to know if you are in a position to swear that you wrote this letter in the interest of the bank?—A. Whenever I went about the estimates it was for the bank and nobody else.

Q. Is it in the interest of the bank that you wrote this: "Larkin has learned a good deal of what has been done here"?—A. That is, talk about the lobbies. They used to come to me and speak to me.

Q. What did Larkin learn at the time?—A. I do not know.

Q. I find a letter written by you, from the Department of Public Works on the 1st of March, 1886?—A. I never wrote a letter from the Department of Public Works in my life. It was in the little office I used to occupy in the Parliament Buildings.

Q. You say this in your letter (Exhibit "J 2") at page 20: "I have had a long interview with Perley on Harbour Works and Graving Dock at British Columbia. Fleming was to have signed his Report to-day on Harbour Works. It will be shown to me as soon as signed. I will see it to-morrow and Sir Hector and myself will decide what is to be done for future." Was it in the interest of the bank you write this letter?—A. Not at all. I wrote it for the information he asked me for; that was not for the bank, that has nothing to do with estimates.

Q. About estimates?—A. It was about the general plans of the Harbour Works that was referred to Mr. Fleming and the two Commissioners.

Q. Do you know that a Report was made at the time by Messrs. Fleming and Perley?—A. It was about that time.

Q. On what works?—A. On Harbour Works of Quebec.

Q. On the South-wall I think?—A. On the general plans for the whole construction.

Q. Was it not specially the South-wall?—A. I don't know exactly, but they were sent to report upon the whole construction and the whole plans to be adopted.

Q. I see at the end of the letter marked Exhibit "J 2," page 20, a statement: "I think the Graving Dock at British Columbia will be lengthened, they are now making estimates of it. I think he is going to put another $150,000 in estimates for it." What ground had you for making such a statement to your brother?—A. From letters that he wrote to me enquiring about it; of course I gave him the information I had.

Q. From whom did you learn that $150,000 were going to be put in the estimate for B. C.?—A. Well I don't know because there was nothing done. I must have learned it by surmise or something; I cannot answer that question, because I don't remember.

Q. Again, sir, I find a letter on page 21, marked Exhibit "K 2" dated March 11th, 1886, in which you say:—"My Dear Robert—I enclose you the amount of estimates for December and January. The January one includes the new system of measurement." From whom did you get those two estimates of December and January?—A. I used usually to go to the Accountant of the Public Works Department to get the information, because I had to telegraph to the Bank. I used to go and find out from the Secretary and the Accountant what the amount was.

Q. I would like to know from whom you got those two estimates?—A. I must have got it from the Accountant and Secretary of the Public Works Department. I used to go there often to find out what the amount of estimates was that I might telegraph to the Bank.

Q. "The January one includes the new system of measurement." What was that new system of measurement?—A. I don't remember now; I gave them the information as I got it at the time.

Q. You don't remember what it was?—A. No, I gave it as I got it at the time.

Q. In the same letter you say: "The advance of $20,000 on drawback has been passed and will be sent at once to B. C." From whom did you get that information?—A. I must have got it from the Secretary of the Department.

Q. Who was then Secretary?—A. I don't remember who was Secretary at these different times; there was different Secretaries. I went to get the information to send it to the Bank.

Q. Was it in the interest of the Bank?—A. If I went there to get the estimates it must be, but Robert McGreevy was writing enquiries every day about everybody's business.

Q. Again, sir, in a letter dated 13th May, 1886 (Exhibit "O 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ ") addressed to your brother from Ottawa, you say: "Estimates for April, B. C., was passed on Monday last. The amount was \$36,000." From whom did you get this information?—A. I went to the Department and got it.

Q. From whom did you get that information?—A. Either from Mr. Dionne, the Accountant, or from the Secretary.

Q. And did you send it to Mr. Robert McGreevy again in the interest of the Bank?—A. I always sent to the Bank first, and he was always anxious to know; he always wanted to inform those about. I have no doubt he wanted the information for them.

Q. And who were "those about" who wanted to be informed?—A. I don't know.

Q. You have no idea who they are?—A. No.

Q. You told us that you only knew in 1859, that your brother was interested with Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes, I said so.

Q. I find a letter at page 27, under date of the 18th June, 1885 (Exhibit "Q 2") written from the House of Commons. Are you quite sure that at that time you had no knowledge that your brother was interested with Larkin, Connolly & Co.—in 1885?—A. I stated so distinctly, and I state so again.

Q. To refresh your memory, I find a letter written by you from the House of Commons, dated 18th June, 1885, which reads as follows:—"Your letter and telegram received. Valin has telegraphed to Verret to give Beaucage the jacks. The amount on hand in the books here to credit of Commission on 15th June that includes $50,000 asked for and has been sent from here on the 16th instant, in all $220,000. It now remains at $170,000 after paying the $50,000, the estimate for $23,000, comes out of the fifty sent down, so after that estimate paid there remains about $200,000 for the season for Harbour works alone. There is about $100,000 for dock yet, so according to your estimate and mine here the other day, only $190,000 will be required for the summer and the $23,000 included in that." If you had no knowledge at all that Mr. Robert McGreevy had any interest in the works, why should you have made calculations for him for the works?—A. I suppose he came to me and asked me and I gave him the information he asked for, as far as I could do it. He wrote to me as he was writing to me about everybody.

Q. You have no other explanation?—A. No other explanation.

Q. You told us that you had met Mr. Boyd in the square here?—A. Yes; he was coming to see me at the time I met him.

Q. I find a letter written by you on the 8th May, 1883, and printed on page 602 as Exhibit "Q12," which contains the following:—"I seen Boyd this morning; he has not finished Cross-wall yet. I will meet him this afternoon about it and know the result."—A. Well, I did not meet him "this afternoon," but if I wrote it I must have done so.

Q. You must have done so?—A. If I seen him.

Q. And you wrote that?—A. I don't think I seen him until it was finished. When it was completed he came to see me when the thing was finished; I wanted to know what the result was.

Q. And you wrote it to your brother?—A. I sent him information.

Q. And you sent it to your brother?—A. Yes, what I had, I think.

Q. You wrote this on the 8th May, and the contract was not awarded until the latter part of May, was it?—A. I think the result was known about the 17th or 18th, somewhere about then.

Q. No.—A. I did not know the final result, but Boyd gave me a statement when he finished his work.

Q. Is it a fact or not that you met your brother at the Windsor Hotel in Montreal?—A. I have no recollection of that at all.

Q. Can you swear you did not meet him there?—A. I would not swear I did not.

Q. Can you swear when you met him there you had not with you the figures that you got at the time from Mr. Boyd?—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. You have no recollection?—A. No recollection; but I would not swear I did not.

Q. Will you kindly tell us when you made the acquaintance of Murphy for the first time?—A. I don't remember much about it.

Q. Well, try to?—A. It must have been some time after I came on the Harbour Commission; I don't think I knew him before that.

Q. Is it a fact that he came there in 1880?—A. Murphy?

Q. Yes.—A. I don't know what time he came there.

Q. In 1882 did you know Murphy?—A. I knew him to meet him; he was round the doors of the office.

Q. Make any business with him?—A. No.

Q. No services, or work, or anything of the kind?—A. I never recommended men for work there.

Q. Not at all?—A. Very seldom. I don't say I did not recommend some men, but very few.

Q. You say in 1883 you did not know Murphy?—A. I did not say I did not know him; I knew very little about him.

Q. Not to ask anything from him?—A. I think not.

Q. Not to have any business intercourse with him?—A. I think not; none of any consequence.

Q. I find this statement in a letter written by you on the 7th May, 1883, and marked as Exhibit "C2," at page 17: "Enquire how O'Brien is doing, or what is his intentions about the Examining Warehouse. I think that he was promised to be reimbursed, he might give it up, and if Charlebois got out of the way, it might reach Beaucage's tender, but you must not do it. It must be done by someone else. Murphy might approach O'Brien about the matter; but he would have to promise to get Charlebois away?"—A. That is my letter to Robert McGreevy.

Q. But you did not know Murphy at the time?—A. I don't say I had no transactions with him.

Q. But was that not a rather delicate transaction? You were suggesting there the withdrawal of the lowest tender in a public contract?—A. I don't know anything about it.

Q. Your letter is proved and you must know something about it?—A. It was in answer to a letter from Robert McGreevy.

Q. You had written asking Robert McGreevy to see that man and make a request to him?—A. That letter does not say that I suggested that.

Q. "Murphy might approach O'Brien about the matter, but he would have to promise to get Charlebois away"?—A. This was all political affairs. These parties had written to me about these things. They were people all in my division, and I was their representative. If they wanted information I gave it to them. That is the long and short of it.

Q. When you wrote "all the others might be passed over," did you mean what you wrote?—A. I do not know anything about that.

Q. This was on the 7th of May, 1883, about the Cross-wall and the Examining Warehouse?—A. I do not recollect anything about the Examining Warehouse.

Q. You wrote the letter, however?—A. I wrote the letter.

Q. At page 17 of the printed Evidence there is your statement, "all the others might be passed over." What did you mean by that?—A. You do not give the other subjects. There were several others mentioned, the Intercolonial and other matters for himself.

Q. Were you in a position to tell him that all the others might be passed over?—A. I do not remember anything about that. It was something about the Examining Warehouse. It must have been in answer to some request to me for information.

Q. When did you learn for the first time that Mr. Murphy was a fugitive from justice?—A. I learned it sometime or other; I do not remember well.

Q. Can you recollect when you learned for the first time that Mr. Murphy was a fugitive from justice?—A. It was talked of in the streets from the time he came there. I have no knowledge whether it was true or not.

Q. From the time he came there?—A. From 1884 or 1885.

Q. And you a member of the Harbour Commissioners' and a member of the House of Commons suggested on the 7th of May to your brother that he should associate himself with a fugitive from justice?—A. I think it was after that that I heard he was a fugitive from justice.

Q. You have just stated that you learned that about the date he came to Quebec?—A. It was talked of on the streets.

Q. When was it talked of?—A. All the time.

Q. From what time?—A. It was not known positively I think till 1887.

Q. From what date was it known to you?—A. I cannot tell you the date. I do not know every man's business.

Q. I want to ascertain from you what date you knew it?—A. I cannot remember it.

Q. Did you know it in 1882?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you know it in 1883?—A. I do not think so. It may have been known in the streets, but I had no information proper until 1887.

Q. But you said it was known on the streets from the time Murphy arrived in Quebec?—A. You cannot rely on everything we hear on the streets until we can get some proof.

Q. Did you know it in 1887?—A. It was published in the newspapers then.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. What time of the year in 1887?—A. I think it was during the elections.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. You said you knew it in 1884?—A. I said it was talked of in the streets.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. When you had known in 1887 that Mr. Murphy was a fugitive from justice, did you continue doing business with him?—A. I never had any transactions with Murphy but once in my life.

Q. When was that?—A. I think it was in 1888.

Q. Was that the only transaction you ever had with him?—A. I think so.

Q. What was that transaction?—A. He came to me in the fall of 1888, some time before the Richelieu elections. I did not know whether he wanted to keep the stock up or not. He asked me to take an interest with him in 250 shares of the company, and he said that he could get the money for 4 per cent. or 5 per cent. I had no money to put in at that time.

Q. Did you speculate with him before 1887?—A. Never. This was in the fall of 1888, that he came to me. He bought 250 shares, and I gave him my cheque for $4,000. Then he wanted $500 more to pay the 10 per cent. on margin. I sold the stock back in the following May, and that is all there is about it. I was a director of the Richelieu and Ontario Navigation Company at the time.

Q. He was a director at the same time?—A. He never was a director.

Q. Did he help you to become a director of the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co.?—A. I think one year 1888 or 1889 he got control of the stock and he had everybody under his control, because he loaned money to different parties on the stock at a low rate of interest. He was going to reform the Board and put those there that he wanted to.

Q. You never had any other dealing with him than that?—A. What do you mean?

Q. About the Richelieu stock?—A. No, that is the only transaction.

Q. You sold him shares?—A. I sold him the interest I had in this 250 shares.

Q. What was the amount?—A. I paid $4,500 on margin. They advanced a little and I think I sold at a slight increase. It was about $5,800.

Q. In 1888?—A. Yes, in 1888.

Q. Please look at this cheque and say what it is and the year it was given?—A. That was exactly the transaction I referred to.

Q. Will you read the cheque, (Exhibit "A16")?—A. "Quebec, May 13th, 1889—Union Bank of Lower Canada. Pay to Hon. Thomas McGreevy or order $5,540. Signed by O. E. Murphy." That is the proceeds of the sale of the stock which I sold to him in the spring after the elections were over. I wanted to get rid of it.

Q. You never got from him a sum of money to be given to other people in any way whatever?—A. I have no recollection whatever of receiving any money from him except from stock transactions. I think it advanced some three or four points and he gave me $5,800 for it.

By Mr. McLeod:

Q. Is that Murphy's cheque?—A. Yes, for the balance of the stock I sold.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. You were speculating together?—A. That is the only transaction that we had together because the elections were coming on.

By Mr. Curran:

Q. The Richelieu County elections you mean?—A. Yes, the Richelieu elections of 1889. At this time he had control and was going to put everybody off the Board.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. You never broke off with him when you learned that he was a fugitive from justice?—A. I was more careful.

Q. Will you read this letter, and say if that is your signature?—A. I wrote that letter. This is my signature.

(Exhibit "B16.") Private.

"OTTAWA, 31st January, 1889.

"DEAR MR. MURPHY,—I regret not having seen you before leaving Quebec for to discuss matters connected with the Richelieu meeting, but I intend leaving here for Montreal at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and will be at the Windsor at 7.30 or 8 o'clock Saturday evening. There will be no meeting of the R. & N. Co.'s directors on Saturday morning, but on Monday morning there will be one before the annual meeting. I would like very much to meet you either on Saturday night or Sunday to try and arrange matters before the meeting takes place.

"Yours very truly,

"THOS. MCGREEVY."

Q. You were trying at the time to "arrange matters" with a man whom you say was a fugitive from justice?—A. I was a director of the company at the time. He had control of the stock and his object was to put off certain men from the board. For one he wanted to put off Mr. Michael Connolly who had been a director previously. I would not consent to that and I opposed him all through. He wanted to leave Michael Connolly off, and that Mr. Beauchemin and Mr. Stearns should go off. I said I would not take any part in anything of that kind. That was his course and I tried to persuade him all I could against it. That is the whole secret.

Q. Is it a fact or not, that in all these public contracts that we are enquiring into now you have been in frequent communication with Mr. Murphy?—A. I have not. He might meet me at the Board, outside of the door of the Board meeting; but I had no communication with him at all.

Q. You do not mind anything at all about him?—A. I had no secret communication with him at all.

Q. You did not mind anything about him?—A. I was very careful—as careful as I could be.

Q. I find at page 20, on the 1st of March, 1886, speaking about Mr. Fleming's and Perley's Report, this from you: "I will see it to-morrow, and Sir Hector and myself will decide what is to be done for future. He will adopt my views. I will see you and Murphy about it before doing anything." That is for the future?—A. I was the representative of Quebec, and I think that—

Q. "I will see you and Murphy about it before doing anything."—A. That is a political letter.

Q. No allusion to business?—A. No.

Q. Still you speak here of the Report from Mr. Fleming and Mr. Perley?—A. Yes; it was a public thing.

Q. A public contract, was it?—A. Yes, certainly.

Q. Was it a public contract?—A. It was a general outline of the whole system.

Q. Was it to a public contract that you alluded when you say: "I will see you and Murphy about it before doing anything?"—A. I wrote that to Robert McGreevy.

Q. We know that. What I want to know is that you were writing that you would do nothing before seeing Murphy about a very important contract?—A. I did not know that there was any contract in it at the time. It was a grand scheme for the whole Harbour.

Q. Is it a fact or not that Mr. Murphy himself and Gallagher got that work?—A. That is the South-wall?

Q. Yes. It is about the South-wall. Is it a fact that Messrs. Gallagher and Murphy got that South-wall contract?—A. It was given to him by the Harbour Commissioners because he was the lowest. It was not Murphy got it. It was Gallagher; but he associated himself with him.

Q. Did not the Board accept Murphy?—A. He gave the security.

Q. I heard you stating that in 1889 the Harbour Commissioners would not hear anything about Murphy?—A. That was later on. Let me explain: I think it was in 1889 that Murphy came in before the Board with a letter one day and said "I have purchased the Connollys out, and I want to be substituted for them." My remark was, that that could not be done, that the names of Larkin and Connolly must remain in the firm.

Q. That was your own remark?—A. Yes, at the meeting of the Harbour Commissioners; that the names of Larkin and Connolly could not be removed from the contract.

Q. Is it not a fact that on that very day Larkin was no more a partner in the firm?—A. Listen to me. We did not know anything about that. His name was not dropped. His name remained in the firm, and we could not change the contract.

Q. Is it a fact or not that you, as a member of the Harbour Commission, consented to have Murphy and Gallagher's name alone in the South-wall contract?—A. Gallagher was the lowest tenderer, and Murphy associated himself with Gallagher and gave the security. The Board gave the contract.

Q. Did you know Gallagher?—A. No.

Q. Never knew him?—A. No. I did not see him.

Q. Never saw him in Quebec?—A. I do not remember ever seeing the man.

Q. Did you not see his name among the tenders?—A. His name was in one of the Cross-wall tenders.

Q. Do you know if he is a man of means?—A. I do not think he is.

Q. Then it was not on account of Mr. Gallagher that you consented to Mr. Murphy's name being in the South-wall contract?—A. It is on account of the security which he put up. We accepted him because he put up the required security, and Gallagher was the lowest tenderer.

Q. I would like to call your attention to page 18 of this Evidence. I find in a letter written by you on the 2nd of May, 1885, these words:—"On Monday morning I will have the Department of Public Works notify the Bank of British North America here the amount of estimate which will be paid them, and get them to telegraph amount to their bank at Quebec. If this arrangement does not suit Mr. Murphy, telegraph me what he wants done and I will have it done for him."—A. That is all right. It took such a long time to bring the estimates over the distance from British Columbia. It took nearly a month at the time. Two or three weeks at least, and they asked me to get the Department to have the estimates telegraphed along.

Q. Who asked you?—A. Robert, or some of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. would have asked for that. I went to the Department and arranged that the estimate was to be telegraphed each month and the amount was to be put to their credit here.

Q. You arranged that?—A. I certainly did. There is no doubt about that.

Q. I find some other things on page 21 in a letter written by you from the House of Commons, 26th February, 1886 (Exhibit "M.2.") I see this: "I wrote you yesterday about Halifax Graving Dock. Sir Hector will be glad to recommend Murphy." What ground had you for saying that?—A. What date is that?

Q. 26th February, 1886. What ground had you for stating that Sir Hector Langevin was prepared to recommend Murphy at the time?—A. Because Robert McGreevy wrote me a letter asking me to get the recommendation that they were well known contractors for building docks, and I spoke to Sir Hector. It was a political affair and I did it in my capacity as a Member of Parliament, as I think I had a right to do. I did not give up my rights altogether.

Q. In a letter written by you on the 8th March, 1888, I read:—"MY DEAR ROBERT,—Tell Murphy I have seen Perley, and he will report to Arbitrators or to Commission of the amount to be submitted to them, which will be on their total claim of $814,000; at the last meeting they wanted to make it out that the amount to be submitted was the balance of $110,000 for damages." You were still at the time in frequent?—A. What date is that?

Q. 8th March, 1888. You knew at the time that Murphy was a fugitive from justice?—A. I have no doubt I knew it at the time; but I was still the representative of Quebec. He was an important factor in the elections.

Q. You have told us that you were acting in the interest of the Bank only in every step you took?—A. Generally so.

Q. Did you take some interest in Mr. Bennett the Resident Engineer in British Columbia?—A. I did; a particular interest in him. I complained against him.

Q. To whom did you complain?—A. To the Minister and Mr. Perley both, because he was not sending along the estimates quick enough. He neglected it for a couple of months.

Q. Will you tell me what estimates had been delayed?—A. It was the estimates from the British Columbia Graving Dock which were not sent along, and the Bank at the time asked me particularly about that—why they did not get the estimates and that they were a long ways behind.

Q. Was it at the request of the Union Bank that you made a complaint against Mr. Bennett?—A. I may have done it for both. I was watching the interest of the Bank for the estimates.

Q. You have just stated that you may have done it for both. One was the Bank; who was the other?—A. Larkin, Connolly & Co. may have asked me.

Q. As a matter of fact, did they ask you or not?—A. They may have done so. Who would they write to unless to me as the representative of Quebec. I was the representative.

Q. Did you enquire about the complaint made to you by Larkin, Connolly & Co. against Mr. Bennett?—A. It was the delay in the estimates; neglecting to send them along.

Q. You did not hear any other complaint?—A. I heard nothing else.

Q. Then what step did you take about that man Bennett?—A. I went to see the Minister about him; that he had not been sending the estimates according to arrangement. I think I saw Mr. Perley or someone in the Department at the same time, and they said they would see to it.

Q. Both of them said they would see to it?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you approach Mr. Williams of Quebec?—A. His whole statement is a mystery to me. He is a man I would not recommend for any such position.

Q. What I find in your letter of the 2nd of May, 1885, is this: "It is now understood that Bennett, the Engineer at British Columbia, will not suit, so the Minister and Perley are prepared to change him. He asked if I could recommend one." Who asked you?—A. I have no recollection of that part of it. It must have been asked, inasmuch as I wrote it.

Q. He was one of the two men you had seen?—A. I did not recommend anybody.

Q. Stick to that point: "So the Minister and Perley are prepared to change him. He asked if I could recommend one." Who asked you that?—A. It must have been both together. I think they were both together. I have seen both of them.

Q. "If I could recommend one," and you added this much— A. I am not sure whether that is strictly correct.

Q. You wrote it, and you added: "Could you think of one that would suit, and I would have the Minister appoint him." Is it not a fact that the man who would suit was that very man Williams?—A. He would not suit.

Q. What were the complaints against Bennett at the time?—A. It was about the estimates I complained. I did not complain of anything but the estimates.

Q. Is it a fact or not that at that very date Bennett and Mr. Trutch were both of them resisting Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s pretensions in British Columbia?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. You dont know anything about it?—A. No.

Q. You swear you dont know anything about it?—A. I dont think so. They may have complained to me but I dont know anything about it.

Q. Do you swear that at the time you did not know that Mr. Bennett and Mr. Trutch, resisted all the efforts made by Larkin, Connolly & Co. to have the changes made?—A. It may be true.

Q. If you dont remember I shall be obliged to draw your attention again to one or two letters?—A. It may be so.

Q. I find at page 19, this letter of the 4th May, 1885, marked as Exhibit "H 2:" "As I telegraphed you this morning no estimate has been telegraphed. Everything and every order has been sent to them that was possible to make them understand. But still there was a despatch from them to-day which cost $15 which they had in writing for over a month out there."—A. Yes.

Q. You had sent that telegram?—A. I may have sent it; I am not sure. They may have been telegraphed to send the estimates along.

Q. Is it not a fact that the telegram to be found on page 163 was sent and that at the time you read that telegram?—A. I dont know whether I did; perhaps I did.

Q. Perhaps you did?—A. I dont remember.

Q. Then if you had read at the time, that very telegram— A. I dont know whether I did or did not.

Q. But you know there were complaints about Bennett?—A. I may have been told about it, but I dont know that I seen it at the time. Such a thing may have been told to me.

Q. Did you take any other steps to have him removed?—A. I dont think so, I have no remembrance of it. I did not take steps to have him removed. I simply complained. Then his estimates came regularly after that; there was no complaint after that about the estimates.

Q. You told us that Mr. Beaucage used to tender for Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Did you know that in 1882?—A. Oh he had been doing it for a long time. He was under me as a sub-contractor on the North Shore Railway and he supplied me with quarries. I knew the men very well.

Q. Did Mr. Beaucage take any proceedings against you in connection with the awarding of the Cross-wall contract?—A. Yes.

Q. Did he write some letters to you before taking proceedings?—A. No.

Q. Did he see you before?—A. Never.

Q. He never spoke to you before about it?—A. He never made any claim upon me. I sent for him last fall to enquire about how many contracts he had for Robert; that was the only conversation I had with him.

Q. That was the only conversation?—A. That was the only conversation. I think Mr. Chaloner brought him to me and told him I wanted to see him.

Q. In one of your letters to your brother, about the Cross-wall you say: "As I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan" What was the plan you suggested?—A. I don't know. I don't remember how it was. Whatever I suggested must be in the letter. It is from a letter of his that he wrote to me.

Q. Listen to me. "As I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan and as quick as possible". You have no recollection of the plan suggested?—A. I dont think I suggested any plan.

Q. There it is "As I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan"?—A. It was for him to get the plan, not me.

Q. And you also say "in answer to the letter Gallagher and Beaucage will receive about their tenders"? From whom did you know that Gallagher and Beaucage were going to receive letters?—A. I must have been told by Mr. Boyd. If I did state so. I must have known it from him, from the statement he gave me.

Q. You say you believe it was Mr. Boyd?—A. I think so. I had no information from any body else; I told you in the beginning.

Q. You should not forget one thing. It has been proved here by letter of the 17th of June that you wrote yourself, that the letter is written by Mr. Perley himself?—A. It is because the quantities were made out and extended and handed in by Mr. Boyd after it was completed, and he simply wrote on account of this statement.

Q. How can you tell it was Mr. Boyd who shewed you that letters were going to be sent, when the letters were sent by Mr. Perley?—A. I saw no body else but Mr. Boyd.

Q. You have no other explanation?—A. No. Mr. Boyd had to write the letters and hand them to his chief.

Q. Were you in the habit of seeing Mr. Perley often, about public contracts in Quebec and British Columbia?—A. I met him when he came to the Harbour Commission.

Q. Were you in the habit of seeing him often in Ottawa?—A. Not unless I was sent by the Harbour Commissioners, to act in their interest.

Q. Will you swear you never saw him unless you were sent by the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I won't swear anything of the sort.

Q. When you write about the dredging contracts on the 16th April, 1886: "I have just seen Perley out dredging. I have arranged to meet him on Monday to discuss his dredging report before he sends it to the Harbour Commissioners." Were you authorized at that time to see Mr. Perley? By the Harbour Commissioners?—A. He often seen me about it himself.

Q. Were you authorized at the time you wrote that very letter by the Harbour Commissioners—they are here to-day. Were you authorized by them to see him at that time?—A. That dredging inside was under negotiation for a long time. We were building four walls enclosing a bank of sand. The appropriation was made for the dredging and it had to be done and it was no use enclosing the four walls, and all the expenditure without talking it over.

Q. I understand that. Don't wander from the question. You have just sworn you were in the habit of seeing him without being authorized by the Harbour Commissioners. I want you to explain clearly and distinctly whether you were authorized to see him by the Harbour Commissioners when you wrote this letter of the 16th April?—A. I may have gone to see him as a Harbour Commissioner to talk the matter over.

Q. Were you authorized by the Board?—A. I don't know whether I was or not. They often spoke about it without Resolutions. I won't say whether I was or not, but it was often spoken of by the Board without Resolutions.

Q. In a letter of the 26th April, printed at page 18, as Exhibit "E2" you wrote again: "My dear Robert,—I have just seen Perley about dredging. I think he will report on thirty-five cents and put some conditions which will amount to nothing." Were you authorized by the Harbour Commission to make such a bargain with the Engineer-in-Chief?—A. I made no such bargain. I did not make a bargain. He told me what he was going to do, and I reported what he was going to do.

Q. Yes, but you say "And put some conditions which will amount to nothing"?—A. I think they amounted to a great deal.

Q. They amounted to a great deal?—A. Yes, they did.

Q. What did they amount to later on?—A. They amounted to this—that the Harbour Commission was not bound to do more than $100,000 worth.

Q. Is it a fact or not that that very condition of $100,000 was immediately set aside?—A. Ah, well that is a question. They could have stopped at any time they liked.

Q. Is it not a fact that from the first year of dredging there was more than $100,000 done?—A. I don't know what was done. I did not keep an account. They could have stopped at any time they liked.

Q. Then the letter also says: "He will return when I will be there." Were you there then?—A. I don't think so; I was not present.

Q. Are you sure you were not there?—A. I think not; I don't think I was present at the Board.

The Committee then adjourned till 3:30 p.m.

THURSDAY, 6th August, 3.30 p.m.

Cross-examination of Hon. THOMAS MCGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You told us yesterday, I think, that Mr. Robert McGreevy may have spoken to you about changes in the contract executed by Larkin, Connolly & Co. ?—A. What contracts do you allude to ?

Q. You did not state what changes, but you said this much that Mr. Robert McGreevy may have spoken to you about some changes ?—A. I would like to see that part of the evidence first.

Q. Without going back to the evidence do you remember if Mr. Robert McGreevy spoke to you about some changes that the firm wanted to have made—in the British Columbia Dock, for instance ?—A. I think he may have spoken to me about the lengthening of the Dock ; I think I said him or some member of the firm.

Q. If it was not he who might it be ?—A. Some of the firm.

Q. Whom of the firm ?—A. I do not know which just now. Some of them who spoke about the lengthening of the Dock.

Q. With which members of the firm had you most frequent intercourse ?—A. I do not know particularly. They would speak to me up here and sometimes below.

Q. Had you an interview with Mr. Larkin ?—A. I met him a few times ; not often.

Q. Where ?—A. I may have met him here and perhaps occasionally at Quebec.

Q. About what works did you speak with him ?—A. I think he was the one I referred to in the letter this morning. He may have spoken to me a couple of times, but I have no present recollection of what he spoke about.

Q. Did you have many interviews with Michael or Nicholas Connolly ?—A. They may have spoken to me on occasions.

Q. About what ?—A. About various things. I do not deny they may have spoken to me.

Q. What was the purport of their conversation with you ?—A. Sometimes about the works, or their grievances or something.

Q. Their grievances ?—A. Sometimes.

Q. I believe they asked you to take some steps to help them ?—A. That is too general. I think they spoke about the lengthening of the Graving Dock.

Q. All of them ?—A. Some of them ; I cannot tell you which. It is too long ago.

Q. Can you remember if they spoke to you about some of the other works when they were going on ?—A. They may have.

Q. Did they ask you to help them with the Minister of Public Works to present their case or their grievances ?—A. They may have done so.

Q. Have you got any recollection of having written letters or spoken to the Minister on their behalf or in their interest ?—A. I do not think so. If I did it must have been in conversation. I may have spoken to him, but I do not remember writing a letter to him. I did not write to him often.

Q. You told us yesterday that you had only one interview with Mr. Murphy about the works and that it was about some final estimate ?—A. I did not say I had only one. I met him often as I stated before. I used to meet him near the entrance of the Harbour Commissioners' office. He would speak to me about the works very often.

Q. About the works ?—A. Yes ; he was always around there.

Q. Did the firm ask you to urge your influence with the Minister of Public Works on their behalf ?—A. On what subject ?

Q. About those works ?—A. I have no particular remembrance of that. I may have spoken sometimes about anything they spoke to me about.

Q. Did you receive this letter from Sir Hector Langevin ?—A. This letter appears to be addressed to me and must have been one of the letters taken away from me.

Q. I will read the letter :
(Exhibit "C16.")

" OFFICE OF THE MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS, CANADA,
" OTTAWA, 20th September, 1886.

" MY DEAR MR. MCGREEVY,—The contractors for the Lévis Graving Dock should ask a settlement of their account from the Harbour Commissioners, who then will most likely consult with their Engineer. For the Esquimalt Dock it is different, because the work there is altogether under my control.

" Yours very truly,
" HECTOR L. LANGEVIN.

" HON. THOMAS MCGREEVY, M. P., Quebec."

Q. When you received that letter were you aware that the contractors for the Lévis Graving Dock had brought large claims against the Government?—A. I think they had. Not the Government; it was against the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. And it was about these claims that you wrote a letter later on in 1888, that was alluded to this morning?—A. I may have done so.

Q. You have just stated that that is one of the letters which was taken away from you?—A. That seems to be one of them.

Q. This morning you stated the letters were stolen. Do you swear or not that your letters were stolen?—A. Perhaps that was too harsh an expression. They were removed out of my drawers; they were taken away.

Q. Did you not swear before the Sub-Committee that you did not believe that the letters had been taken away from you for any bad purpose?—A. I think not.

Q. What was it you said?—A. When I gave my evidence before the Sub-Committee I said the letters had been removed from my drawers or some place. Of course, that was in answer to the order to produce the letters. I knew they had been removed, and now we see them produced here every day.

Q. Can you swear whether those letters were taken away from you or not?—A. They must have been taken away, or else why should they be produced here by the other side?

Q. Is it not a fact that on different occasions you gave to your brother letters addressed to you?—A. I do not believe so.

Q. On different occasions, have you not forwarded letters you speak of as enclosures to your brother?—A. I may have shown him letters, but I never gave him the letters to keep.

Q. When you were in Ottawa, would it not be possible that you would send one of those letters to your brother to show what was doing?—A. It is not my custom. It is not very likely that I would send to him a letter belonging to another party.

Q. I speak of a letter belonging to you. Was not your brother your confidential agent?—A. He was my confidential agent, but not for such a purpose as that to get confidential letters away.

Q. You have admitted this morning to have sent him down figures given to you by Mr. Boyd?—A. There was no signature to that. It was only a mere memorandum.

Q. But would it be worse to send him a letter than a confidential memorandum?—A. Send him another man's letter and a memorandum made out on a slip of paper?

Q. Anyhow, you have no recollection of sending him any letter of the kind?—A. I have no knowledge. I may have shown him it, but it is not a likely thing.

Q. Did you interview Mr. Perley on these works?—A. Not very often.

Q. How many times?—A. I am not going to answer that question. I cannot tell.

Q. Which year?—A. I cannot tell. I never seen him only during the years that he was down at the Harbour Commissioners on business or during the session.

Q. Did you then see Mr. Gobeil?—A. Certainly. I think I saw him on one occasion to speak to him about these estimates.

Q. You mentioned his name this morning and you have said you got from him certain information?—A. I did not say I got information. I went to enquire about the estimates and he would refer to Mr. Dionne, the Accountant. Do you understand now?

Q. I do, and I will try and make you understand too.—A. I understand pretty well.

Q. You say now that when Mr. Gobeil was spoken to about the estimates he referred you to the Accountant?—A. Sometimes when he did not know himself he would send somebody.

Q. What I mean to ask you is this: In your letters of the 2nd May, 1885, 4th May, 1885, 1st March, 1886, 17th March, 1886, and 11th March, 1886, you say that you have seen the estimates, or “The estimate is passed,” and so on. Do you mean to say that you got that information from Mr. Gobeil?—A. Through Mr. Gobeil or the Accountant. I could not get it from anybody else.

Q. Did you tell him at the time that you wanted that information for the Union Bank?—A. He did not mean that. He did not ask any questions. There is no secret about that. Any member could get that information if he was requested by parties whom he represented.

Q. When you saw the long telegram that you spoke of, was it Mr. Gobeil that showed that to you?—A. I have no recollection of that just now. I think I heard something about it at the time.

Q. You wrote something about it?—A. I may.

Q. You do not remember who showed you that telegram?—A. I do not know, I am sure. I forget who showed it to me. It must have been shown to me by some person.

Q. Was it Mr. Perley?—A. It may have been.

Q. Do you believe it was Mr. Perley?—A. I made a complaint about the estimates not coming as quick as they should.

Q. You believe, then, it was Mr. Perley?—A. I would not swear it was Mr. Perley. I got the information from some person or other.

Q. In one of your letters that we have alluded to this morning, you say: “I have seen Mr. Perley on dredging. I think he will report on thirty-five cents, and will put some conditions which will amount to nothing.” That letter was addressed to Mr. Robert McGreevy. Did you, at the same time, inform the Harbour Commissioners of that intention of Mr. Perley?—A. I don’t remember that I did.

Q. How long have Mr. Robert McGreevy and Mr. Murphy been intimate friends to your knowledge?—A. I suppose it must have been since the dredging in 1882, when he tells us he was a partner then. It must have been since then or before that.

Q. Did you ever caution him against Mr. Murphy’s company?—A. No. I cautioned him in this way: that he was too much about the place with Mr. Murphy: that people would suspect he had an interest in it.

Q. You cautioned your brother about that?—A. Yes; I spoke to him.

Q. Did you caution him often?—A. I spoke to him, I know, and he said he had large transactions with Murphy.

Q. Did the Union Bank ever ask you to communicate with them through Mr. Robert McGreevy’s agency?—A. No, no; I do not think so.

Q. Might you not be positive about that?—A. I do not think so.

Q. As a matter of fact, are you not sure that the Union Bank never charged you or authorized you to communicate with them through Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. I do not know what you mean.

Q. You stated this morning that you communicated such and such information through Mr. Robert McGreevy in the interest of the bank?—A. I did not say that I communicated to him in the interest of the bank; but I said that I went to look after the estimates in the interest of the bank. He wanted to know what was coming and I wrote him back.

Q. Why did Mr. Robert McGreevy, if there was no interest, want to know?—A. He was a kind of broker.

Q. With whom?—A. Some of these contractors—working in their interest in some way or other, because he was constantly writing to me about them.

Q. And you were constantly answering him about them?—A. Whenever he wrote me I generally answered him.

Q. Then you suspected he was a kind of broker for these men?—A. Yes.

Q. And you still suspect it?—A. I would infer it.

Q. Suspecting that he was a broker for them you were sending him information?—A. There was no harm in sending him that. The men had a right to know that, the moment that the estimates were passed.

Q. Was there any harm in sending to these contractors through their broker Robert McGreevy the information that you sent him about the Cross-Wall? In your estimation was it wrong to send him the figures before the contract was awarded?—A. The contract was known. Everybody knew it. The principal figures were known.

Q. On the 5th of May and 8th of May and 10th of May they were known?—A. After the tenders were opened in Quebec it was pretty well known who was the lowest tenderer.

Q. Do you swear you knew it yourself?—A. I do not swear; but I suspected it. By the larger items we could tell who was the lowest.

Q. Who was the lowest?—A. Gallagher.

Q. Who was the highest?—A. Samson.

Q. Who was the second highest?—A. That I do not know.

Q. You did not know?—A. I did not know at the time, but we knew the two extreme figures.

Q. After the tenders were opened did you know?—A. After the tenders were opened, the four or five large items would tell by comparing them who was the lowest. You could tell by five or six items.

Q. You say Mr. Gallagher was the lowest?—A. It was well understood that Mr. Gallagher was the lowest.

Q. Who came after him?—A. I cannot tell.

Q. You could then only tell two things: That is, who was the lowest and the highest?—A. The lowest or the extreme high one, that could be told.

Q. But you could not know at the time the medium ones?—A. Not the medium prices.

Q. And it is the reason why you were looking for information here?—A. I wanted to let them know when the thing was decided. They wanted me to get the first decision.

Q. Well, sir, you did not tell that at the time. What you said is to be found at page 17: "Have your arrangements right with Beaucage before result is known." The result was not known then?—A. Well, I don't know, they knew it then pretty well.

Q. Do you swear that at that time they knew the result?—A. I don't swear that it was known.

Q. Then, how is it that you wrote to your brother that you would let him know the result, before the result was known publicly?—A. To let him know the result of the tenders when they were completed.

Q. They were not then completed?—A. They were completed when Mr. Boyd handed them over to Mr. Perley.

Q. On the 7th May?—A. Not at that time; it was not known then.

Q. Then on the 8th May you wrote to him that you were just going to see Boyd?—A. It was known on the 16th.

Q. Then you sent them the result privately before the result was known publicly?—

A. No; I did not.

Q. You did. I am very sorry to insist, but you said that this morning?—A. When it was known, about the 16th or 17th May, somewhere about that date, I gave them what I got from Boyd.

Q. But you promised to send the result before the result was known publicly?—A. I don't know whether it was published or not. It was known when the figures were out; he did not know it through me.

Q. You wrote those letters?—A. I wrote those letters.

Q. When you made your statement in the House during the present session, you said that some person had forged letters. You said: "They used my name on more than one occasion, not only by writing letters in my name, but even by forging my name. I am prepared to prove that there are letters written in the Department in my name which I never signed."—A. That is Mr. Perley's. I never wrote to Mr. Perley that letter. That letter to Perley was signed in my name, but I never wrote the letter.

Q. When did you see the letter?—A. Which letter?

Q. The letter you wrote to Mr. Perley?—A. I did not write it; it was written in my name.

Q. Then I want to know from you did you write a letter to Mr. Perley?—A. I did not.

Q. Are you sure?—A. I am pretty well sure I did not.

Q. You say this letter has been forged?—A. I think so.

Q. Did you see the forged letter?—A. I never saw it.

Q. How could you tell that it was forged if you did not see it?—A. If I did not write it somebody else must have written it.

Q. At any rate you have never seen that so-called forged letter?—A. I have never seen it, and I don't believe I ever wrote it—that is my conviction; and the other letter of Perley's was intercepted, and I never saw it until I saw it here.

Q. You have told us many times that you did not recollect the facts.—A. Well, I recollect that pretty well, as far as I can. We can always know something when we write a letter—something about it; but I was pretty much astonished when I saw the letter published in the papers. I came to the conclusion I had never written that letter; I never received the answer.

Q. When Mr. Perley was heard here, of course he began by stating that he had no recollection whatever, just as you say now; later on he said there was a letter he thought was written by Mr. Charles McGreevy and signed by another person. Again I call your attention to this fact: You never saw the letter, and you say it was a forged letter?—A. It must have been forged when I did not write it. I came to that conclusion that when I did not write it somebody else must have written it in my name. I came to that conclusion.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. How did you know such a letter had been written?—A. It was published in the papers.

Q. And seeing that it was published in the papers, you said to yourself: "I never wrote such a letter as that?"—A. Mr. Perley's answer to my letter; my letter was never published.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. When did you see that letter published for the first time?—A. In Le Canadien for the first time.

Q. Did you at the time state that it was a forged letter?—A. I stated I never remembered having written that letter.

Q. Do you consider Mr. Perley's letter contained wrongful information?—A. I don't think there was anything very wrong about it, even if it was written to me.

Q. Then what would be the object of forging the letter?—A. I cannot agree with that; there was not much crime in the writing of it.

Q. But you say this much: "They used my name on more than one occasion, not only by writing letters in my name, but even by forging my name"?—A. Well, these letters were forged.

Q. This letter is only one occasion, what were the other occasions?—A. There will be some other perhaps.

Q. Where are they?—A. That is my business.

Q. I think it is our business too?—A. I will have it by-and-bye.

By the Chairman :

Q. Are they produced ?—A. I have produced none.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Then you don't know of any other forged letters ?—A. I may get them by-and-bye.

Q. Do you know of any other forged letters, amongst those that have been produced or elsewhere, because this is a grave accusation ?—A. I think all the accusations are grave.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. What letter is this and where are we to find it ?—A. It is Mr. Perley's letter in answer to one supposed to have been written by me, that I never wrote. Mr. Perley says he could not find it.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. You say you never received a letter written by Mr. Perley ?—A. Yes.

Q. That letter was intercepted and never reached you ?—A. Never reached me.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. In what year was that letter supposed to have been written ?—A. It is on it ; I don't remember the dates.

Q. It is in 1884 ?—A. I cannot remember, there is too many dates.

Q. And you are quite positive not to have seen the letter ?—A. Quite positive I had not seen the letter. The first I ever saw was published in your own paper, in Le Canadien.

Q. Did you authorize any one to open your letters at that time—in 1884 ?—A. No, I authorised no one.

Q. Had you a box in the post office ?—A. I had.

Q. Who had access to that box ?—A. I think the clerk I had at the time had access—I don't know whether I had a clerk at the time—and Robert McGreevy used to come to my box and take the letters out.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Had he the right to open them ?—A. He used to go and take them, I did not object, but he had no right to open them except they were handed to me first.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Regarding Baie des Chaleurs Railway you made this statement in a letter printed at page 20 : (Exhibit "I2") "I sent you to-day Votes and Proceedings about what Edgar asked about Baie des Chaleurs R.W. Pope sent for me to ask what answer he would give." Who is the Pope mentioned ?—A. It is the late Hon. John Henry Pope, then Minister of Railways.

Q. The letter goes on to say : "I agree that he should give the required information, but will state that I have notified him of withdrawal from the direction, and severed my connection with the company" ?—A. What is the date ?

Q. It is the 17th March, 1886. At the time you made that statement to Mr. Pope had you really severed your connection with the company ?—A. I think I had before that.

Q. How long ?—A. What date is that ?

Q. The 17th March.—A. It must have been not quite a year before. It was in 1885, I think seven or eight months before.

Q. I find we have a protest here made by you, dated the 23rd January, 1886, only a month or two before that, and at that time you had not severed your connection ?—A. I had left the Board and I never went back. The election took place in 1885.

Q. You had not yet severed your connection with the company at the time of the protest?—A. My object in making the protest was to get clear of my liability for the shares I had subscribed for. I did not want to be called upon to pay for them.

Q. When you made the protest on the 23rd of January, 1886, had you severed your connection with the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. I had so far severed my connection that I did not go back. I had left it the previous general election.

Q. Were you not still in possession of your shares?—A. I transferred them after that, because I wanted to get rid of the responsibility.

Q. Were you still in possession of any shares when you made the protest?—A. I think I left the board at the beginning of the season of 1885, after the election of the regular directors took place. I left then. I wanted to get clear of the responsibility of the stock.

Q. After you had made your protest you did not take any more interest in it?—A. No.

Q. I find a letter written and signed by you of the 20th March, 1886, sometime after that. Will you identify the signature and say if it is yours?—A. That is my signature.

(Exhibit "D16.")

"HOUSE OF COMMONS, OTTAWA, 20th March, 1886.

"MY DEAR ROBERT,—I received the papers to-day put in by the Baie des Chaleurs Company, in answer to mine.

"1. Put in copy of the minutes and proceedings of all that was done under the provisional board.

"2. Proceedings of the annual meeting and the election of directors.

"3. All the meetings held since and what was done at each meeting except on the meetings held 29th and 30th December, 1885, when they voted $25,000 to themselves. They have omitted that, for I see nothing of this vote to themselves. I am getting them all copied. There is also a certificate put in dated the 1st March, signed L. A. Robitaille, certifying that $30,000 has been paid in, but it does not say how, and I understand that they have sent a bank certificate of a certain amount deposited to the credit of the company. I have not seen it yet, but the Deputy Minister of Justice tells me there is no date to it. I will see it and examine it myself on Monday. The Minister of Justice, after examining the papers has asked them for a statement of the shareholders on the date of the meeting, 26th of August last, and the amount paid by each. They have not given it yet. I will send you copies of everything as soon as I get them, that is if you are not coming up. Keep what I say to you private, say nothing to anybody until I get them to put everything in, then we will examine everything thoroughly.

"Could you state to me what date and the amount that they voted to each of themselves (the exact amount) and who proposed and seconded it, as I cannot find it in the proceedings anywhere.

"Weather very bad and drifting to-day. Expect Chabot here to-day. Hope to be home by next Thursday morning.

"Yours truly,

"THOMAS MCGREEVY."

Q. You wrote this letter?—A. Yes.

Q. After you had severed your connection with the company?—A. Yes, because I had not got released from my stock. I wanted to get released from it as speedily as possible.

Q. Was the transfer of your shares made at the time you wrote this letter?—A. I think not. I will not swear whether it was or not.

Q. As a matter of fact you say you had no more interest in it?—A. Once I got the shares transferred I had no more interest.

Q. When you wrote this letter had you not a financial interest in the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. I do not remember.

Q. I want to know if on the 20th March, when you wrote the letter which you just read, whether you had or had not any financial interest in the Baie de Chaleurs Railway Company?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Had you not on the very day transferred your shares?—A. Perhaps I had. That is just what I wanted to know. I have nothing before me to give me the dates. You do not want me to swear without dates.

Q. Were you not at that time opposing the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company, with all your might at Ottawa?—A. I was doing all I could until I could get released from those shares.

Q. In what way?—A. Until I got released from the shares.

Q. In what way?—A. I did not think the company was properly constituted.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You said you were doing all you could in some direction. What do you mean—was it in support to the Bill, or in opposition to it?—A. I am not aware of any Bill going through Parliament at that time.

Q. In support or in opposition to the proposals of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company, which were then before the House?—A. I do not know that there was anything before the House that year affecting the company.

Q. Or the Government?—A. I was objecting to that going on until I got release from the shares.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. What did you mean by being relieved of your shares?—A. The responsibility of paying ninety per cent. on them.

Q. At the time, did you want to sell your shares or not?—A. I wanted to get released from them.

Q. What was the difference between that company and yourself at that time, in March, 1886?—A. In 1885, I think.

Q. I call your attention to 1886. What was the difference in March, 1886, between the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company and yourself?—A. I think I have stated it a dozen of times.

Q. State it again?—A. That I wanted to get released from my responsibility of paying these shares.

Q. On account of this difference?—A. Yes; they were paid in cheques that were not accepted—by a lot of men who had no means.

Q. Did you suggest to them any means of relieving you of your shares—what did you want?—A. Release.

Q. What would that mean?—A. I told you I wanted to get relieved from my shares, and I cannot answer any more. You do not want to be here a month.

Q. You will be here a month if you don't answer me. Is my question fair or not? Will you tell me what you mean by being relieved of your shares at the time?—A. I wanted to get out of the responsibility of paying the ninety per cent. that was still unpaid.

By the Chairman :

Q. In what way?—A. I wanted to get relief. I wanted to get them off my hands.

Q. By the company taking your shares?—A. Somebody else taking them off my hands. Transferring them.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Transferring them? Now it is clear. Then you wanted to transfer your shares?—A. To get rid of them.

Q. Transferring your shares to whom?—A. I transferred them all to Robert McGreevy after that.

Q. To whom did you at the time want to transfer your shares and your brother's shares, because you speak of your brother's shares and your own shares in your letter.

You say "They proposed (not Caron, Sir Hector) to give me control of road to St. Anne's with subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if I would withdraw my opposition to Baie des Chaleurs Railway and relieve you and me of our stock."—A. That is bearing out what I have stated fairly; that I wanted to get relief from the shares.

Q. You wanted to oblige them to buy your shares?—A. You do not find that there.

Q. That is the reason I put the question. What did you want from them?—A. I wanted to get released.

Q. By selling your shares?—A. By getting rid of them.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Was there anybody in the company who could buy them?—A. I do not think there was a man who could.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You said that later on you transferred your shares to Robert McGreevy. You transferred your shares without any consideration?—A. There was no understanding about consideration.

Q. I want to know if in one of your pleas in Quebec you did not claim the whole amount of these shares?—A. You had better ask my lawyer about that.

Q. I want to ask you now?—A. He may have put it in. I have no recollection of it at the time. It was a supplementary plea or something after the case was entered.

Q. Did Sir Hector Langevin take any part in the settlement of your difference?—A. I think he did. I think he was anxious that there should be no difference of opinion amongst his friends.

Q. Did you not deposit something in his hands?—A. Not me.

Q. Who, to your knowledge?—A. I do not know who done it.

Q. You say "not me."—A. I say I did not.

Q. Have you any knowledge whatever that some deposit has not been made into his hands?—A. I know nothing at all about it.

Q. Never knew anything about it?—A. It may have been talked of.

Q. Talked with whom?—A. I do not know. I am not going to swear to things people talk about. I have no personal knowledge of it.

Q. It may have been talked of with whom?—A. Robert McGreevy may have talked of it with me; but I do not remember.

Q. What was the purport of that conversation?—A. I do not know.

Q. What was the deposit made in Sir Hector Langevin's hands?—A. I have no personal knowledge of it.

Q. What was the nature of the deposit by the talk you heard?—A. I never saw it to my knowledge.

Q. That is no answer?—A. I cannot speak for what others speak. I had no personal knowledge.

Q. Is it true or not, that to induce you to withdraw your opposition to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway Company, Sir Hector Langevin offered you another road with $6,000 a mile subsidy?—A. That may have been proposed, but I never entertained it for a moment. I did not want the road.

Q. Is it true or not that Sir Hector Langevin made that offer to you?—A. I do not know whether he made it or not. I have no remembrance that he did.

Q. Would you read this letter. You might remember it?—A. Perhaps so.

Q. "Sir Hector insisted on an understanding being come to. I refused to do so, and told him at last to let Robitaille make a proposition himself; that I was not going to make brains for him forever and let him take advantage of it. They proposed (not Caron, Sir Hector) to give me control of road to St. Anne's with subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if I would withdraw my opposition to Baie des Chaleurs Railway and relieve you and me of our stock." Is that statement you made to your brother true or false?—A. It must be true if it is there.

Q. Then, sir, you cannot after refreshing your memory as much as possible remember what your brother told you about the deposit that was made with Sir Hector Langevin?—A. That is a verbal thing.

Q. Can you tell me from whom you got the $1,000—from what member of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.—that was paid in the Langevin Testimonial fund by you?—A. I do not remember. I sent up some money which I collected in Quebec. I do not know who I got it from.

Q. Did you get $1,000 from the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. for the testimonial fund yourself?—A. I have no recollection of it now. I sent up what I got and who I got it from.

Q. You have no recollection that in the month of June, 1883, a few days after the contract for the Cross-wall was signed, you got $1,000 from the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. for the Langevin testimonial fund?—A. I saw it the other day, and I came to the conclusion I had sent it; otherwise, I would not have remembered it.

Q. This morning, you told us that in connection with the dredging contract of 1887 there was inside work conducted before the contract was awarded?—A. How do you mean?

Q. You stated that inside work was done. At any rate, in the month of February, 1886—16th February, 1886—you were writing your brother that you had an interview with Perley?—A. What about?

Q. Did you have an interview with any other members of the firm on the same subject?—A. On dredging?

Q. Yes.—A. On which dredging; the last dredging?

Q. In 1887?—A. I may have.

Q. You told us, I think.—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. You told us that you asked Mr. Robert McGreevy how much the firm would subscribe for the general elections of 1887?—A. I did.

Q. Was it yourself?—A. Yes; it was myself.

Q. At what date did you speak to him that way?—A. It must have been in the month of January, I think, 1887.

Q. Can you remember what was the purport of the conversation?—A. I think I asked him how much the firm would subscribe towards the fund for the general elections coming on. I think that is about it, as near as I can remember.

Q. Why did you go to Mr. Robert McGreevy about subscriptions for the elections, from the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Well, I would rather he would ask them than me.

Q. Was that at the time you had known your brother was their broker, as you say?—A. Him and Murphy was great friends. He told me they had great transactions together, him and Murphy; they were intimate and had large transactions together.

Q. Do you remember having seen Murphy about that subscription?—A. I have no recollection of having seen Murphy about it; I spoke to Robert McGreevy about it.

Q. Alone?—A. Alone, yes.

Q. You are sure of not having spoken to any one else?—A. I did not speak to Murphy about it.

Q. You never spoke money to Murphy?—A. Very seldom; I never spoke money.

Q. Do you remember when that money was paid to you?—A. Yes; I think I got the ten thousand from Robert in the end of January, or the beginning of February, 1885.

Q. You never got any money from any other members of the firm?—A. No.

Q. You never asked for any money from any members of the firm?—A. No.

Q. At any other occasion?—A. No.

Q. When did you break your relations with Mr. Murphy?—A. Well, it was after the publication of those things here. I was on speaking terms up to that time with him. When he published those documents—

Q. Nothing had happened before to break your relations?—A. Not that I am aware of. I did not speak to him after that, I cut him.

Q. Before that you were still on good terms?—A. I used to speak to him when I met him; I was not on particularly good terms.

Q. How did you come to be associated with Mr. Michael Connolly and Mr. Nicholas Connolly in the Richelieu Company?—A. Well, after the election—I think it was the election of 1888—I was sick during the time of the election of that year, and I think Murphy and the Connollys had a good deal of stock. I did not go up. I gave my proxies to Mr. Chabot and sent him up to represent the St. Lawrence Steam Navigation Company. He had 1,500 shares, my own, that I had to vote at the election for the board, so they agreed at the time at the board, to take in Mr. Michael Connolly.

Q. Was it the first time you had occasion to meet them?—A. No; I met them often before that.

Q. When did you meet Mr. Michael Connolly for the first time, do you remember?—A. I think I met him before I met Mr. Murphy.

Q. About 1879, I suppose?—A. About 1878, I think. I met him during the time I was constructing the North Shore Railway. He was introduced to me.

Q. How did you happen to meet at the time?—A. I suppose I must have met him about the doors. I had my office at the Exchange Building and must have seen him going backwards and forwards, and some one introduced him to me.

Q. They were working at the Graving Dock Lévis?—A. I think so, about the commencement.

Q. And from that date, that is to say from 1879 to the present time, you have always been friendly together?—A. I think Murphy disappeared for a long time, he went away West.

Q. You mean Michael Connolly?—A. I mean Michael Connolly. He went away West for a long time then he returned again.

Q. How long had he been away from Canada?—A. I don't know whether he was away during that time from Canada; I thought he had gone away.

Q. Did he write you any letters while he was absent?—A. No.

Q. Never?—A. He was not on intimate terms enough with me at that time to write letters.

Q. How many years had you lived in Ottawa in the same house with Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I think we lived together first in 1875 or 1876—I think when he became member for Charlevoix. I was there at Ottawa, and he had a room and I came to live with him, and just after that he became a member of the Government.

Q. Go on?—A. I lived up to last year with him.

By the Chairman :

Q. You continued up to last year?—A. Up to last year.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. About 15 years?—A. Up to 1889, I think.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. During the session?—A. Yes; during the session only.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. You did not stop at his place when you came to Ottawa during the recess?—A. If he was in town I used to go there. I would be very seldom up, but whenever I came up I went to his place.

Q. Have you got any recollection of dredging which took place on the Fly Bank?—A. Oh, that is a channel that was cut through; it was no dredging.

Q. Who was doing the work at the time?—A. A man named Giguère.

Q. Had not the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. any connection with it?—A. They made some offer to get the blue clay for the coffer dam—at least we compelled the man to put the clay in there—the Harbour Commissioners. We had a channel through the Fly Bank because ships could not go through before. We had to have steamboats go through and we petitioned the Government, and allowed them to make the channel through.

Q. Did you interest yourself in their behalf on account of the work?—A. No, I did not more than anybody else. I must tell you I was friendly disposed towards them.

Q. How many times did you interview the Minister of Public Works, in connection with those works, from 1882 to the present time, on their behalf?—A. I could not tell you that.

Q. Give us an idea?—A. Oh, I could not.

Q. Did you interview him ten times? A. Oh, well, don't ask me that question, I could not tell.

Q. You cannot remember?—A. I could not tell.

Q. Was it frequently?—A. At different times, not often. When there was something special, some grievance they had, they would ask me to speak on their behalf.

Q. When you wrote in your letters here in connection with the report on the South-wall or the Quebec works, when you say: "the report will be shown to me" by whom was it going to be shown to you?—A. That had been going on for 12 months before.

Q. At page 20, I read: "I have had a long interview with Perley on Harbour works and Graving Dock at British Columbia. Fleming was to have signed his report to-day on Harbour works. It will be shown to me as soon as signed." By whom was the report going to be shown to you?—A. I think it was shown to me as a Harbour Commissioner. It was in the Department; it was a public document at the time. I think the report had been made to the Government.

Q. You say: "I have had a long interview with Perley, &c. ? Fleming was to have signed his report to-day."—A. We were waiting then to see it.

Q. You also say: "it will be shown to me." By whom was it to be shown to you?—A. I do not know who, but it must have been somebody who—I forget now. Mr. Fleming and who else?

Q. Mr. Perley?—A. I must have seen it from some of them, I suppose.

Q. You say it was as a member of the Harbour Commission?—A. Yes.

Q. When you say: "I have had a long interview with Perley on Harbour Works and Graving Dock at British Columbia," was the British Columbia Dock within the province of the Quebec Harbour Commission? In what capacity had you that day an interview with Mr. Perley in reference to the British Columbia Dock?—A. He may have said something to me about it. Perhaps, some of the firm asked me to speak about it. I do not remember.

Q. But it was not as a member of the Quebec Harbour Commission that you saw him about the British Columbia Dock?—A. Not likely.

Q. Is it not a fact that you always took great care not to let anyone know about the source of the moneys paid to you by the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. and by your brother?—A. Whatever I got was from Robert McGreevy.

Q. You took care not to let anyone know where the money was coming from?—A. As much as possible.

Q. If I understood you well this morning, I think you said that in 1884, after having learned that $15,000 had been got out of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. in 1883, after having learned that that sum of money had been obtained from them, you stated that you reimbursed that sum of money to the political fund?—A. Robert McGreevy stated that it might go for what I was looking for at the time—money for Le Monde.

Q. In 1883, $15,000 in notes were applied to pay a judgment of the Supreme Court in re McCarron & Cameron?—A. Make it short.

Q. I will make it as I please to do. Then you learned the year following that application had been made?—A. It was an arrangement come to.

Q. You learned the source of the money?—A. Yes.

Q. Then you stated that you reimbursed this $15,000 to the political fund?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us where you took this $15,000 from?—A. I want you to understand that Robert McGreevy only informed me then of that ; where I took it from was from my own moneys.

Q. When did you get the $10,000 you spoke about this morning?—A. Late in the fall of the year,

Q. At what date did you reimburse to the political fund the $15,000?—A. It was paid during the fall or summer of 1884, and the beginning of 1885—the whole $25,000.

Q. Was it all paid at the same time?—A. No, at different times.

Q. But I thought you told us before that it was paid at the same time—paid in one sum?—A. How could I say it was paid in one sum ; it was between the fall and the spring of the year.

Q. When was the $15,000 paid?—A. There was paid in the fall $15,000, $17,000 or $20,000, and there was some money paid in the beginning of the year 1885.

Q. You are not in a position to tell us by your books or memory where you took the $15,000 from that you wanted to reimburse to the political fund?—A. That will come later. It is my own funds at any rate.

Q. I have been instructed that you got the money from the Graving Dock at Levis?—A. I admit I got $10,000.

Q. But I have been instructed you got more, and my duty to myself and to you is, to find out where you got the money?—A. I had plenty of money that year. I paid the $25,000.

Q. Where did you get the $15,000 from?—A. There was payment made to me during that summer by Robert H. McGreevy on account of his debt to me from the Intercolonial Railway of $84,000 or $86,000.

Q. You took this $15,000?—A. I took the money. As I tell you, it was paid in different amounts between the fall of 1884 and the beginning of 1885 for Le Monde.

Q. You swear you did not get more than $10,000 out of the Graving Dock?—I do not know where it came from. I won't say whether it was from the Graving Dock or where.

Q. To whom did you apply for the money?—A. Robert McGreevy handed me the money. He knew I was getting up a charter for Le Monde newspaper. There were some meetings about it some time before that. I had told him before that.

Q. Did you take any part in the supplementary contract of 1884 of the Graving Dock at Levis?—A. No.

Q. You never interfered with that?—A. As a Harbour Commissioner, I suppose I had the right to interfere.

Q. Did you interfere or not? Have you got any recollection of some step you may have taken?—A. I do not know of anything more than at the Harbour Board. I do not remember anything.

Q. You never had any interview with your brother about that supplementary contract?—A. I had many interviews with him.

Q. You do not remember what was the purport of the conversation which took place between you?—A. He never talked to me about anything of the sort. He never talked to me about a bargain, or money, or anything like that. He never once mentioned a bargain to me.

Q. Did he talk to you about the supplementary contract at Levis?—A. I do not know whether he did or not. I cannot remember that.

Q. Are you in a position to say if this $84,000 that you received from your brother was entered in your books?—A. I think the most of it was.

Q. Who was your book-keeper at the time?—A. Mr. Chaloner ; I think he can tell you about that.

Q. Do you say the whole of it was entered in your books?—A. I think it was entered in my books.

Q. The whole amount?—A. The whole account was fixed by Mr. Chaloner and Robert H. McGreevy. It was a payment on account of the advances I had made to him.

Q. Was Mr. Chaloner your financial agent?—A. He had charge of my books, and charge of any transactions I had.

Q. What was the reason why you sometimes told your brother to hide some money affairs from Mr. Chaloner?—A. I never remember anything of the sort. These moneys paid for political purposes I never made any entries of. I never made entries of money received for political purposes.

Q. In a letter that I find here, written from the "Windsor," Montreal, signed by you, I find this: Please identify this letter first.—A. I think that is my writing. I wrote that letter.

Q. The letter reads as follows:

(Exhibit "E16.")

"MY DEAR ROBERT.

"MONTREAL, 10th March, 1888.

* * * * *

"Let me know what you can give me before you leave, or send it to Ottawa to me. I have to pay an amount to Hudson Bay Company before the 15th, or they will take judgment against me; also Milne for old Samson.

* * * * *

"Don't tell Chaloner anything about money."

"Yours truly,

"THOMAS MCGREEVY.

Is it not a fact that on many occasions you told Mr. Robert McGreevy not to tell Chaloner about the money he was giving to you?—A. Political money; never about anything else.

Q. That time was it political money?—A. Which?

Q. The money mentioned in your letter.—A. I do not know what he mentioned. I say I did not tell him about political money—never him or anybody else.

Q. Is it not a fact that it does not mean political money at all?—A. I do not know what it means.

Q. "Let me know what you can give me before you leave, or send it to Ottawa to me."—A. It is a small amount.

Q. You have stated that you never told your brother, except it was political money. This is not political money.—A. It was some instalment on lands.

Q. Now, sir, did you write this letter to Mr. Robert McGreevy? Identify your signature.—A. That is my writing.

Q. The letter reads as follows:

(Exhibit "F16".)

"HOUSE OF COMMONS, 16th May.

"MY DEAR ROBERT,—I received your letter about the Fly Bank. Perley has nothing to do with that. It must come from the Board; so it must wait, unless they can get Forsyth to bring it up. It would be better he should, and when I go down I will do the rest." Can you tell us why you say Perley has nothing to do with that? Did not your brother Robert ask you to see Perley?—A. I do not remember anything about it. That Fly Bank business was a special affair, and had nothing to do with this.

Q. Then you are quite positive that you never got more than between $50,000 and $60,000 from Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. That is all.

Q. For political purposes?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you in a position to state more distinctly the dates of those payments?—A. I cannot state dates at all.

Q. You never entered those payments in your books?—A. No.

Q. These were political payments, and you never entered them?—A. No.

Q. You have no means of ascertaining when these payments were made?—A. No.

By Mr. Amyot:

Q. By looking at the pass book?—A. No; they were never paid in cheques.

Q. Were they deposited?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did I understand you to swear that you never got in your house the Sout-hwall tenders?—A. Never, never.

Q. You never gave them to Mr. Charles McGreevy?—A. Not a bit of it, never handled them after they were before the Board.

Q. You never handed them to Murphy and Robert McGreevy?—A. I do not care if ten people swear to it. I did not. I never saw them after they were before the Board. The Board instructed them to be handed to Mr. Perley and I never saw them since.

Q. Were they handed to you?—A. No; to Mr. Verret. They were handed to him to be handed to Mr. Perley.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. There is a suggestion before the Committee that you knew of Robert McGreevy's position as a partner in the works and various contracts, and that in the inception of his position with the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. you had been consulted—that you had consulted Sir Hector and he had consented to it. What truth is there in that suggestion?—A. There is no truth whatever.

Q. You apparently knew from what you have stated that Robert had some position with reference to the firm—as broker, you put it?—A. He stated to me instances of transactions with Murphy.

Q. Was there any knowledge by the Minister of Robert's position through you?—A. No; not from me.

Q. It is stated that there was a change suggested with reference to the Esquimalt works, from sandstone to granite. Had you anything to do with bringing that change before the Minister or the Department?—A. I have no recollection of it at all.

Q. Then it is said there was a general talk over granite to sandstone—in other words, that the requested change was altered by the firm?—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. Did you do anything in it?—A. I do not remember it. They may have talked to me about it, but I do not remember anything having taken place about it.

Q. It is stated by Mr Murphy that he had an interview with you in your house in Quebec and that you made an offer of 25 cents per foot of granite; or rather, that Murphy made the offer to you that for each foot of granite that went into the works that he would pay you 25 cents. He said that Robert was interested. Do you remember any conversation with Owen E. Murphy with regard to that change from sandstone to granite and that offer to you?—A. I must distinctly say that there never was such an offer made to me or any such proposal.

Q. Murphy also says that on the occasion of one of those changes in the stone, when they changed back would deprive you of the profit that you were to make, that he said that he would make it up to you. What did you say to that?—A. There is no such a thing; such a thing never took place.

Q. He swears that you were consulted by him as to the change to the circular head, that he told you that these changes were suggested by the partners in British Columbia, and that you said that you would try to have it done, or words to that effect. What do you say as to that?—A. That is not correct. He may have spoken to me about it, but I have no knowledge.

Q. He also says he offered to give $50,000 to have the Dock lengthened 100 feet, and that he said that he would give that to you?—A. It would be a very large sum for the lengthening of 100 feet.

Q. The question is, whether he made it? He dealt in large figures.—A. The whole amount for the lengthening of the Dock for 100 feet is only $1,000 a foot, so that would only cost $100,000 to begin with, but he never made such a proposal.

Q. Did he ever make any proposal for a lesser sum?—A. No.

Q. He also says you spoke of having made efforts. What were the conversations?—A. Some of them, I think, spoke to me about it, and I recommended them to speak to the members on the other side. It was their business, not mine ; and I had nothing to do with their business.

Q. He says he had several conversations with you, and that you told him Robert had cheated you and had not given you your share?—A. I never stated so.

Q. This was after the quarrel?—A. I never stated so.

Q. He also stated that whenever you came for money it was always for Sir Hector?—A. I never asked him for money at all.

Q. You never asked O. E. Murphy for money?—A. No.

Q. He says you came asking for Sir Hector, and, “at one time he came asking for Le Monde.”—A. I never asked him.

Q. Your requests, as you have sworn, were through Robert?—A. Through Robert McGreevy.

Q. Murphy also swears that you came to him, wanting him to sign a paper to show to Parliament that you had got no money. What do you say to that?—A. He once came to me you say?

Q. He swears “he came to me with a paper to be signed for him to use on the charge against him”?

Mr. LISTER.—No ; Sir Hector.

Q. He had an interview with Thomas McGreevy and he (McGreevy) wanted Murphy to sign a paper?—A. Denying the charges—is that what you mean?

Q. Yes ; denying the charges.—A. I will tell you how that occurred. A man named Davis, who had been acting with Murphy in stocks, and who had been a previous director of the Richelieu Company for one year, I think, came to me. He had left the Province here in default, and I think he was permitted to come back to testify in the court at Quebec, and he came to the Richelieu office, where I was there as president, in Quebec, and spoke to me, and said it was a pity this thing was not settled—that he could settle the matter, and he says : “If you will tell me what is wanting, I think I will settle all this.” I said I could not say anything, but withdrawing what has been written—withdrawing the charges through the source from which they came. I said : “I see nothing else than that.” He says : “I will go and see if I can settle.” I never asked him. He came to the office afterwards and he said he had been speaking to Murphy, and stated that Murphy said he had signed too much already, and would not like to sign anything else ; that he would do something else that would be equal to it. I think that is as well as I can recollect.

Q. We find an entry in Robert’s diary : “Gave T. McG. $1,000 for Ottawa.” That is under date of 18th May, 1887. Robert says of this : “Thomas asked me for $1,000 to send up to Sir Hector.” The account he gives of it is that he gave you that money on the next occasion of your coming to Ottawa, and that you asked for and received it as money asked for, or going to Sir Hector. What do you say to that?—A. I never asked him for money for Sir Hector.

Q. Have you any recollection as to that specific $1,000 in May, 1885?—A. No ; I think what I got from Robert was chiefly in fives.

Q. Mr. Williams was called, and he states, with reference to the change of Bennett : “Thomas McGreevy told me to call on Mr. Perley and tell him the Department was thinking of making a change.” Do you remember an interview with Mr. Williams?—A. I really do not. When I read his evidence I was very much surprised.

Q. What do you say to the evidence? Does it put you in mind of anything?—A. I can’t remember the circumstance, because I am sure Mr. Williams is not a man I could recommend for any such position.

Q. You know him?—A. I know him very well.

Q. And he would not be fitted for the position?—A. He would not be fitted for the position.

Q. And Mr. Valin in his evidence, at page 493 makes this statement : “Q. Had you also any conversations with Thomas McGreevy with regard to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?”—A. I had several.” “Q. Will you say on what subjects said conversations turned?—A. The conversation sometimes turned on the contractors, particularly in 1887. I asked him whether the contractors had given him any money to help in the elections. He told me that he was very well satisfied; that they had been very generous; and then that they were excellent fellows; that they ought to be taken care of; and that they had subscribed largely, and that Sir Hector was very well pleased with them.” Q. That is Mr. Valin’s statement?—A. That I had stated?

Q. That you had stated.—A. I don’t think I mentioned Sir Hector’s name to him; I was not in the habit of mentioning such things. I may have said that they had subscribed, and they had done so, too, but I have no recollection of ever mentioning Sir Hector’s name.

Q. Had you any authority for mentioning Sir Hector’s name?—A. No; I had not.

Q. Or a reason for mentioning Sir Hector’s name?—A. There was no necessity of mentioning it that I know of.

Q. Again, at page 494 Mr. Valin says: “Mr. McGreevy told me it was necessary that Kinipple & Morris should go, as it was understood that Sir Hector would give us Mr. Perley.” What do you say to that?—A. I never remember stating anything of the sort—I have no recollection. He was chairman there himself at the time that the difficulty arose between the Engineers and the Commissioners.

Q. At page 492 Mr. Valin also spoke as follows: “Mr. McGreevy has the air of taking the control of matters, and always made use of Sir Hector’s name.” This is charged not only in Mr. Valin’s evidence, but in the order of reference, viz.: That you, before the Board of Harbour Commissioners, were in constant use of Sir Hector’s name, speaking for him. What do you say to that—the general charge?—A. I do not think that is correct. Whenever there was any application by the Board to be made to the Government, or to Sir Hector, or to his Department, the Board would ask me to communicate with Sir Hector about any change wanted for the Commission.

Q. But in any other way, did you make use of his name, except in the getting of information as a member of Parliament?—A. That is all.

Q. You have in the letter that has been put in, commencing at page 16, spoke of information obtained in Ottawa which you were communicating to Robert from time to time. You wrote from Ottawa, for instance, on the 5th of May, where you give information as to what is going on: “I believe no report will be made on any of them for this session, or for the estimates, only after the close. The tenders for Cross-wall only arrived here yesterday and are locked up until Monday.” I want to know from whom in the Department you got this information that you were communicating—what was the source of your information?—A. I think the tenders were despatched up from the Harbour Commission and sent to the Department.

Q. We know that, but what I want to know is this: Not only in this letter, but in the letter that follows, on the 7th of May, you say: “I hope to let you know tomorrow about the result of Cross-wall tenders.” Where were you obtaining your information—what was your source of information?—A. Any information I had was from Mr. Boyd.

Q. Any information you had with reference to the Cross-wall tenders was from Mr. Boyd?—A. Yes.

Mr. LISTER.—He said likely.

Mr. OSLER.—Do you say “likely” or “positively”?—A. I say positively.

Q. Again, what relations had you with Mr. Perley? I see in your letters in the spring of 1887 you refer to Mr. Perley in this way: “I have just seen Mr. Perley about dredging; I have arranged to meet him on Monday to discuss his dredging report before he sends it to Harbour Commissioners.” Again, on the 26th of April I read: “I have just seen Perley on dredging; I think he will report on 35 cents and put some conditions which will amount to nothing.” In what capacity and why did you see Mr. Perley?—A. About dredging being done because of the wall.

Q. It is more than that. You say it is dredging at 35 cents; it is not simply that dredging be done?—A. They may have written to me about it. What date is that?

Q. April 1887. You commence on the 16th, and then on the 26th you state about the price of 35 cents?—A. I must have seen him then.

Q. Why did you see him?—A. Because the dredging had to be done. We had to do it that summer before the Cross-wall was completed. Otherwise, it would have cost much more. The dredging had to be done before the Cross-wall was built, so as to prevent the gates being opened and closed all the time.

Q. In what capacity did you see Mr. Perley?—A. As a Harbour Commissioner.

Q. Did you understand that the $100,000 worth of dredging was a matter entirely in the hands of the Harbour Commission, and outside of the Department?—A. I think so. The money was appropriated for the different parts of the work.—a certain part for dredging, so much for the Cross-wall, so much for the South-wall. This amount of $100,000 was set apart for the dredging.

Q. What right or authority had you on the 1st of March, 1886 for stating this: "I will see to it to-morrow, and Sir Hector and myself will decide what is to be done for the future. He will adopt my views." What authority had you for making such a statement?—A. I suppose I had discussed with him the division of the work—how the work had progressed. I discussed how the work was to be appropriated—what amount was to be expended each year.

Q. Why did you say that Sir Hector would adopt your views?—A. Being a Harbour Commissioner, to adopt my views as far as the amount to be expended each year.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. With regard to what?—A. Harbour works.

By Mr. Osler:

Q. That is your only explanation?—A. That is my explanation. I don't think he did adopt my views afterwards. He did not carry out my views—showing I was wrong.

Q. You were promising more than you could perform?—A. Yes; the South-wall was built on a different plan to what I proposed at the time. It was built differently from that which I suggested.

Q. Now I take up the charges which affect the Public Works as they are printed in the Order of Reference. I am not going into anything which the Department of Public Works are not interested in. It is charged in the 17th paragraph in the Order of Reference: "That while all the tenders were being examined and the quantities applied in the Department of Public Works of Canada, the said Hon. Thomas McGreevy, then and now a member of the Parliament of Canada, and a member of the Quebec Harbour Commission by appointment of the Government, promised to obtain and did obtain from the Department of Public Works of Canada, and from the officials of that Department, in relation to the said tenders, to figures in connection therewith, and to the amounts thereof, information which he offered to communicate before the result was officially known, and which he did communicate to the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co., and to certain members of the said firm individually." That is a specific charge of your dealings with the Department. Have you anything to add in explanation of that charge to what you have already stated either in evidence or cross-examination?—A. Nothing.

Q. The 18th paragraph is: "That to the knowledge of the said Thomas McGreevy, the tenders of Messrs. Gallagher and Beaucage were lower than those of Larkin, Connolly & Co., but that in consideration of the promise of the sum of $25,000 to be to him paid, he, the said Thomas McGreevy, agreed to secure the acceptance of the tenders of Larkin, Connolly & Co., and that he suggested to that firm and to certain members thereof individually, to make arrangements in connection with the said Gallagher and Beaucage, and to so manipulate matters as to render the tenders of those two parties higher than those of the said firm, or at all events to secure the contract for Larkin, Connolly & Co., and that the said arrangements and manipulations were carried out as suggested by him." Now, upon that charge we have the evidence of your own letters which have been read, and your testimony already given on the subject. Have you anything to add in explanation of that charge or of your letters?—A. I have already answered that.

Q. That is a separate paragraph. It charges you with the knowledge that Beaucage's and Gallagher's were lower than Larkin, Connolly & Co.; that you had a personal knowledge of that, and that you made a bargain for $25,000 to— —A. I deny the bargain.

Q. To give the contract improperly to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I deny the bargain; it is not true.

Q. Had you any communication with Mr. Boyd except the communication you had in the Parliament Square here?—A. I think I must have seen him more than once.

Q. Did you see him before figuring out the result?—A. I may have seen him; but I know I met him when he had the result made out on a sheet of paper.

Q. In what shape did he give you that result?—A. He only told me that there were some difficulties about it, some misunderstanding about the items that would need to be explained.

Q. Which, rightly or wrongly, you communicated?—A. Yes.

Q. To Robert?—A. I suppose so.

Q. To anyone else beside Robert?—A. Nobody else.

Q. The next charge is that you directly participated. We need not ask you about that. On the Esquimalt Dock you are charged, in paragraphs 27, 28, 30 and 33, that you obtained from the Department of Public Works figures and calculations which you communicated to Larkin, Connolly & Co.; that you, in that contract, acted as their agent and obtained important alterations in the plans and works and more favourable conditions, enabling the contractors to realize large sums from the public treasury improperly. What do you say to that charge that is contained in those four paragraphs? Did you act as the agent of that firm?—A. Certainly not.

Q. Were you concerned in obtaining those alterations?—A. No.

Q. You remember the alterations there: the change of the second entrance to a circular head, and the change in the stone from the small face stone a foot deep to the large stone. Had you anything to do with those changes?—A. No.

Q. Had you anything to do with the mode of measurement by which they were paid for more stone and less concrete?—A. No.

Q. Had you any communication with the Department of Public Works on that subject?—A. No.

Q. On the South-wall contract you are charged with receiving the tenders; that you showed the tenders to Murphy, Connolly and Robert McGreevy, in order to give them an undue advantage over the other competitors. The story told in evidence is, that these tenders were gone over in your house one evening and that they were sent back by Charles McGreevy to Perley. What do you know of such a transaction?—A. It is untrue. The whole story is untrue.

Q. In connection with this South-wall it is charged that through your intervention and influence changes detrimental to the public interest were made?—A. The South-wall?

Q. Yes.—A. I never suggested any changes and there never was any changes made against the public interest.

Q. There were none made, and therefore you were not concerned in them?—A. Any changes that took place came before the Commissioners. The substitution of large stone for brick, that was expected always; and I think the whole Board was very glad to have stone in place of brick, without extra cost. It cost less, in fact.

Q. You did no more than your duty as a Harbour Commissioner in that respect?—A. Yes; it cost less.

Q. What about the sewer level being changed?—A. I had nothing to do with it. I do not know whether it came before us. It was a question between the Engineer and the City Engineer.

Q. Did you interfere?—A. Not at all.

Q. On the dredging of the Wet basin—the thirty-five cent contract—what did you do with Mr. Perley? Is it true you unduly influenced him as to that thirty-five cents a yard?—A. I simply repeated what he had told me himself, as to what he was going to do.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Was that change in the sewer made without reference to the Harbour Commissioners?—A. It was the matter of the city sewer.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. And the city was most interested?—A. Yes; it was built to protect them.

Q. It was a city work being carried through a public work?—A. Yes, it was to save all the drainage going through the basin.

Q. And the general elevation of that sewer was made at the instance of whom?—A. The City Engineer, who gave the levels.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. The Commissioners did not in that interfere?—A. It was submitted to them for the change and they approved of it.

Q. It had been agreed on?—A. I think it was in connection with the substitution of stone for brick. I am not quite sure.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. That was a matter which originated in the necessity for the city's sewage being properly provided for?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, as to 35 cents a yard for dredging, what do you say to that? It is charged that you, having made a corrupt bargain with Larkin, Connolly & Co., used your influence with the Department, and particularly with Mr. Perley, to induce him to report in favour of paying 35 cents a yard, and that it was through your interference that no public tender was called for. What do you say to that?—A. As far as interfering with Mr. Perley, I never did; the whole thing was done by himself. I discussed the matter before that on more than one occasion with Mr. Boyd. The dredging was being done inside, and I was told at the time they were losing money on it, and the price was too low for the dredging, but I did not influence Mr. Perley in the slightest. He did not tell me what he was going to recommend. I was in Ottawa at the time.

Q. I find a letter here, that is in Mr. Robert McGreevy's productions of yesterday, in which this occurs: "It is my intention to leave here and attend a Richelieu meeting in Montreal on Saturday, and leave that night and arrive in Quebec Sunday morning, and remain till 1:30 p. m. Tuesday. If there is anything to bring before the Harbour Commissioners by our friends there, advise them to have everything ready." Who do you mean by "our friends there"?—A. Well, I don't know about it.

Q. You have no explanation to offer?—A. No.

Q. You see that is in your handwriting?—A. That is my signature; it is one of my clerks' handwriting.

Q. The responsibility of the letter is yours?—A. Yes; it is written from Ottawa.

Q. Who do you refer to?—A. I don't know who he refers to.

Q. It is your reference?—A. I don't know who.

Q. "By our friends there"?—A. I don't remember it.

Q. And you have no explanation to give?—A. No.

Q. Then the next paragraph says: "I understand that Perley has his final report ready on B. C. G. D. I was trying to find out what the report is. I told Perley to send everything down for the Harbour Commissioners that he may have ready." Have you anything to explain after that?—A. No.

The Committee then adjourned till 8.30 p. m.

THURSDAY, 6th August, 8.30 P.M.

MR. EDMOND GIROUX SWORN.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. What is your name?—A. Edmond Giroux.

Q. You are a member of the Quebec Harbour Commissioners?—A. Yes.

Q. Since when?—A. Since 1883, I think.

Q. What position do you now occupy?—A. Chairman.

Q. Since what time?—A. Since three months.

Q. You are one of those named by the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. About what date were you named, in 1883?—A. In the fall.

Q. Then you will have no personal knowledge of the contract of 1882 and the Cross-wall of 1883, which contracts had been awarded before you were named to the board?—A. I have no knowledge of contracts of 1882, if the Cross-wall was given in 1883. I came in during the fall of 1882, because I was on the board when the contract was given.

Q. Was the contract awarded by the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you state with reference to the general carrying out of works whether the Commissioners inspected them personally or whether they were carried out under the superintendence of the Engineer?—A. Under the superintendence of the Engineer entirely.

Q. Have you any personal knowledge of the giving of the supplementary contract for the Graving Dock in 1884?—A. I think so.

Q. Will you state under what circumstances that contract was given?—A. I do not understand you.

Q. What I want to get at is whether it was due to the intervention of any one member or more of the Commission or whether it was given on the report of the Engineers?—A. It was on the report of the Engineers.

Q. Did the report of the Engineers meet with approval on the part of the Commissioners?—A. I think so.

Q. Was there any attempt by any Commissioner to influence the Commission in any direction?—A. Not that I am aware of.

Q. As far as you know it was done wholly on the report of the Engineers?—A. Yes.

Q. And on the report recommending itself to the Commissioners as it did?—A. Yes.

Q. You approved of it as best under all the circumstances?—A. Yes.

Q. And accordingly passed the order, believing all the Commissioners thought likewise?—A. There were no dissensions.

Q. Do you recollect the dredging contract in 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. And the circumstances?—A. Yes.

Q. State how it came to be given without tenders being asked?—A. The contract of 1882 came to a conclusion, I think, and the Commissioners desiring there would be no delay in the continuance of the works concurred in Mr. Perley's recommendation to give the contract for 35 cents per yard.

Q. Was that price considered by the Commissioners as a reasonable price?—A. As far as the Commissioners knew it was, because it was strongly recommended by Perley as a reasonable price.

Q. From what the Commissioners knew in view of the contract of 1882, and of the possible difficulties in connection with the work do you yourself consider it reasonable as a business man?—A. I think I compared these prices with the dredging done in Montreal, and I came to the conclusion it was a low price. (See Exhibit "W 18." Page 1186 of the Evidence.)

Q. Do you recollect at any time after the contract of 1882 while the contract of 1882 was being carried on or afterwards, the Commissioners went and visited the localities and gave specific orders with reference to the contractors of the work?—A. I think we did.

Q. After making personal inspection of the work, and seeing the work in the place and seeing the difficulties of the work?—A. We certainly did.

Q. Might you have given orders which you deemed wise at the time?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, will you state with reference to the Hon. Thos. McGreevy. Was he a more prominent member of the Harbour Commission than others?—A. I do not think so.

Q. Did he appear to take the direction of the Commissioners?—A. Certainly not.

Q. Now, substantially Mr. Valin said that Mr. Thos. McGreevy led in all matters connected with the commission, and frequently spoke in the name of the Minister of Public Works. Is that the case?—A. No, sir.

Q. Have you any recollection that McGreevy stated at a meeting of the Commissioners that he represented the views of the Minister of Public Works, and imposed his views, and those of the Minister upon the Board?—A. I do not recollect it.

Q. Have you any recollection that the Hon. Thos. McGreevy at any time spoke as being the mouthpiece of the Minister of Public Works or of the Government upon matters before the Board?—A. My recollection is that the Hon. Mr. McGreevy being a member of Parliament, we often requested him to put before the Minister of Public Works any matters in which we were interested. We very often did that, and it was by request of the whole Commission.

Q. In any case, did he hold himself forth as being the organ of the Minister of Public Works, or as being specially instructed?—A. I do not think so.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. You wanted to know from Sir Hector his views on these matters?—A. Generally. It was for payments that Mr. McGreevy was asked to look after.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. For payments to the contractors?—A. Yes. It was because the Union Bank had made large advances to the contractors to enable them to go on with the work, and very often the payments were not made regularly, and the Hon. Mr. McGreevy was asked to see about this by the Commissioners.

Q. About payments to the Union Bank?—A. The payment of the progress estimates.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. That was to get money from the Government for the Commissioners?—A. Yes. To pay the progress estimates to the contractors.

Q. Why did you apply to Mr. McGreevy rather than to the Chairman?—A. I must say that when Valin was a member of Parliament we applied to him in the same way.

Q. Was Mr. Valin an efficient Chairman?—A. Well, I do not think he was.

Q. Was that the universal opinion of the Commission?—A. I speak for myself.

Q. Did the other Commissioners share your views?—A. You will find it out by putting the same question to the other Commissioners.

Q. Now, Mr. Giroux, will you state in reference to any one of the contracts which were awarded, with which the Harbour Commissioners had anything to do, whether there was any reason or any wish on the part of the Commissioners to favour one contractor over another?—A. None.

Q. To the best of your knowledge, were these contracts all awarded on merit or was there favouritism of any kind?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. No favouritism of any kind?—A. No.

Q. Did you yourself follow carefully the proceedings of the Commission?—A. As far as I could.

Q. You gave it the best of your attention at the time you were here?—A. I did.

Q. And from your knowledge as one of the Commission at the time, can you say whether there was any favouritism or undue advantage given Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. None at all, that I know of.

Q. Do you know the firm of Fradet & Miller?—A. I know Fradet.

Q. Do you know whether he was in a position to carry out the dredging contract of 1882?—A. I cannot say. I do not know the man sufficiently.

Q. Was he in a financial position to make any heavy outlay for dredging plant?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. It is only from your knowledge in your position that I ask you?—A. I have no knowledge of his position.

Q. What is his business?—A. If it is a business, I think it is a diver.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. A man that is a diver would not be a dredger?—A. I do not see that there is any objection at all.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. From what you know, was he in a position financially to carry out the dredging contract of 1882 if it had been awarded to him?—A. I cannot say. I did not know the man only en passant.

Q. Quebec is not a large place; his natural reputation is fairly well known?—A. From what I know, I do not think so.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Do you know Mr. Gallagher?—A. I never saw him.

Q. Was he not the contractor for the South-wall in Quebec?—A. I believe so.

Q. You never saw him before?—A. No.

Q. Do you know if he is a man of means?—A. I do not know him at all. I never heard anything particular about him, only that he is a contractor for the work.

Q. You do not know if he has got a financial standing in Quebec?—A. I do not know him at all, Mr. Tarte.

Q. But you are a banker—do you not know if Mr. Gallagher's financial position in Quebec is a good one?—A. I cannot answer that question; I never saw him in my life.

Q. But do you not know as a banker if he has a financial standing in Quebec?—A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know that he is a man in the employ of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I understood that he was one of their foremen.

Q. When did you understand that?—A. At the time the contracts were given.

Q. Do you know whether he has more means than Mr. Fradet?—A. No; I do not think so; but as I have already said, I do not know him at all.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Fradet has been a member of the Legislative Assembly of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know if Mr. Fradet had, previous to 1882, some work to do for the Harbour Commission?—A. No, sir; I do not know.

Q. You have just stated that the dredging contract of 1882 came to a close in 1886?—A. In 1886 or 1887. I could not be precise as to the date.

Q. Cannot you tell us if the Harbour Commission ever put a close to the contract—put an end to the contract?—A. I do not think we did.

Q. Are you able to say that the contract of 1882 came to a close in 1886 or 1887?—A. I understood that it came to a close then, because they would not continue the contract.

Q. Did you ever get any notice that they would not continue the contract?—A. I do not remember.

Q. How are you able to say that the contract of 1882 came to a close?—A. All that I can remember is, that a letter came from Mr. Perley, recommending that a new contract should be given to the contractor.

Q. That is no answer to the question. How is it that the contract of 1882 came to an end, and you are not in a position to say that you had any notice of it yourself?—A. I think the contract provided for that. It came to an end.

Q. What I would ask is this—you have just stated that the contract of 1882 came to a close in 1886? What was your ground for such a statement?—A. Well, I believe that the contract came to an end at that time.

Q. What is your ground for saying that the contract came to an end then?—A. I can hardly answer that.

Q. It is a plain question—what is your ground for stating that the contract came to an end?—A. I cannot say.

Q. I understand you have stated that the contract of 1882 came to an end in 1886 or 1887?—A. I believe it did.

Q. Now, I want to ask you for what reason you came to that conclusion?—A. I cannot say.

Q. Did you get a notice from Larkin, Connolly & Co. that they would not go on with the contract?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you give them notice that they should not go on with the contract?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Then, how is it that you are able to state that the contract came to an end?—A. Well, my belief is that when it came to an end they opened work under a new contract.

Q. Was it that contract I have got in my hand?—A. I have never seen the contract.

Q. Then you have no ground, except a supposition, that it came to an end?—A. I think that would be a good answer, because the contract came to an end.

Q. The contract was made in 1882—was it intended that it should come to a close in 1886?—A. I do not know; I was not a Commissioner then.

Q. You were not. Did the contract provide that the work should be finished on the 1st day of November, 1883?

Counsel objects.

Q. Again, can you say how is it that the contract came to an end in 1886 or 1887?—A. Well, really I cannot make any other answer than I made a while ago.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you authorize the Hon. Thomas McGreevy to interview Mr. Perley in the month of April, 1886?—A. I have no remembrance of it at all.

Q. No recollection whatever?—A. No.

Q. Did Mr. McGreevy communicate to you at the time the answer he got?—A. No, sir; nothing but the letter from Mr. Perley.

Q. That letter was the first intimation you got about the new contract?—A. The first intimation, as far as I can remember.

Q. Then, is it not a fact that his letter was addressed to you on the 6th May, 1887. I have the letter here?—A. I believe it was, but I cannot remember it.

Q. Did you read the information you got from that letter?—A. Yes.

Q. And Mr. McGreevy was not authorized by the Board to interview Mr. Perley or anyone else about the works of the Board?—A. Not that I remember.

Q. What he has done, then, is on his own behalf—on his own hook?—A. Yes.

Q. You told us that you were not a member of the Commission in 1882?—A. I said I thought I came in during the fall of 1882. You will find the date in the minutes.

Q. What share did you take in the supplementary contract for the Lévis Graving Dock.—A. What share?

Q. What part did you take? When did that contract come before you?—A. We had a great deal of trouble, as you know, with the Graving Dock, the work being done partly by the day. I think at one time it was decided by the Commission to give a block sum, so that they would take the whole responsibility of finishing the Dock.

Q. To whom?—A. To the contractors.

Q. And that supplementary contract was made in 1884, you think?—A. I do not remember—1884 or 1885.

Q. In your opinion, that contract was to cover the whole cost of the work?—A. Yes.

Q. To complete it?—A. To complete the Dock.

Q. Do you know the price that was agreed upon for the completion of that work?—A. I cannot tell the exact figures. It was something like $60,000 or $70,000.

Q. Now, Sir, do you know if the Graving Dock at Levis had been completed during the season it should be?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Is it a fact or not that the supplementary contract was to complete the work during the season of 1884?—A. I cannot remember.

Q. Are you in a position to tell us when the Harbour Commission took possession of the Graving Dock at Levis?—A. Repeat the question.

Q. Tell us in what year they took possession. When it was completed?—A. It was to be in 1886 I believe, but I am speaking only from memory.

Q. Are you aware that outside of those $74,000 there were large sums of money paid Larkin, Connolly & Co. for the same work?—A. Under the work so completed or before the contract for the bulk sum.

Q. That is not my question. I mean that outside of this $74,000 for the completion of the work, large sums were paid for the same work?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Now you have just told us that Mr. Valin is not a first class chairman, or is not an efficient chairman. Do you persevere in that statement?—A. I do.

Q. Well then, how is it that he has been so long a chairman?—A. I have no explanation.

Q. You have been on the board since 1882. Was not Mr. Valin elected by the board?—A. Not during my time.

Q. When was he elected then?—A. Before I became a member of the board. He was a fixture, I think.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. There were annual elections?—A. No, Sir.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did you make any complaint against Mr. Valin?—A. Never.

Q. Did any member of the Commission make any complaint against him?—A. Not that I know of.

Q. In what way was he not a good chairman, or an inefficient chairman? Was he not present at all the meetings?—A. He was present at nearly all the meetings.

Q. Did he do anything dishonest?—A. Oh no, Sir.

Q. Is he not a respectable citizen of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. Has he not been once associated with the late James Gibb Ross at Quebec?—A. I think so.

Q. Has he not a large ship business in Quebec?—Possibly he has. I do not know.

Q. Has he not been a member of the House of Commons?—A. Yes.

Q. By whom was he appointed Chairman of the Commission?—A. By the Commissioners, but at that time I was not one.

Q. Was it in the power of the Commission to dispense with his services?—A. Certainly.

Q. Did you try to do that?—A. Not before three months ago.

Q. As a matter of fact did you ever try to have him dismissed?—A. No, Sir, not before that time.

Q. You have just stated that for the dredging contract of 1887 you accepted the report of the Chief Engineer as your guidance?—A. Certainly.

Q. As your only guidance?—A. Certainly.

Q. You have stated that you believe it was a fair price?—A. It was hard for me to know anything else but what was recommended by the Engineer. I had no experience as an Engineer myself. So I took our Engineer's word that the price was a just and fair one.

Q. That is your only ground for stating that that is a fair price?—A. I have no experience at all.

Q. Were you aware that by the contract of 1882, dredging was made from 15 to 20 feet for 27 cents?—A. I believe so.

Q. Then are you aware that the contract of 1887 is for 15 feet deep dredging?—A. If I remember rightly, they would not continue at that rate.

Q. That is not my question. Is it a fact or not that the contract of 1887 is for dredging 15 feet deep?—A. I believe it is.

Q. You have just stated that they would not go on at that work at the former price. Are you in a position to give me any kind of evidence that your statement is right?—A. None whatever.

Q. Then how is it that you can say that?—A. Say what?

Q. Say that they were not prepared to go on at the former price?—A. I have already answered that—I cannot say anything else.

Q. Then your statement cannot be substantiated?—No answer.

Q. You have said that no favours at all were shown to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Are you in a position to tell us if you know that the South-wall sewer has been raised?—A. I learned that only since this investigation commenced.

Q. From whom did you learn it?—A. By the public press.

Q. Did you learn it from your Engineer, Mr. Boswell?—A. I saw it in the papers before learning it from Mr. Boswell.

Q. But did you enquire from Mr. Boswell?—A. Yes; after I had seen it in the papers.

Q. What was his answer?—A. He said it had been elevated.

Q. Did he give any reason?—A. No other reason than that he got orders from Mr. Perley.

Q. Were the members of the Harbour Commission ever warned about this before?—A. Never.

Q. You never heard about it before?—A. Never.

Q. Were you warned about the securities of the South-wall?—A. I had only but to know this, in a letter received from Mr. Murphy.

Q. Before that you knew nothing about it?—A. I never heard a word about it.

Q. Were you ever warned by some of your Officers or Engineers that Larkin, Connolly & Co. were dredging deeper than 15 feet in the Wet basin?—A. I never heard a word about it.

Q. Then all that dredging has been made without the Harbour Commission being informed about it?—A. Without a single word being said.

Q. You have said that Mr. McGreevy was charged by the Union Bank?—A. Not by the Union Bank, by the Commission. The contractors kept their account in the Union Bank and they received large advances to carry on these works. At one time they had overdrawn their account. Sometimes they drew more in one month than they ought to have done. They would draw at the commencement of the month. Sometimes the payment did not come down very regularly from Ottawa to the Union Bank and necessarily the bank would cease to advance money to the contractors if they were not paid regularly every month, and when we did not receive any money from Ottawa, as Mr. McGreevy was a member of Parliament, he was asked by the Commission to use his authority so that we could meet our engagements with the contractors.

Q. He was asked by the contractors?—A. Yes. To see that they sent down money to meet the contracts.

Q. Was Mr. McGreevy ever charged to look into the account of the British Columbia dock?—A. I know nothing of the British Columbia Dock.

Q. Was Mr. McGreevy ever charged, to your knowledge, to look into the estimates or accounts of Larkin, Connolly & Co., in connection with the British Columbia Dock?—A. Never to my knowledge.

Q. Is it a fact or not, that Mr. McGreevy used many times Sir Hector Langevin's name before the Harbour Commissioners?—A. No, sir.

Q. He never used it to your knowledge?—A. I cannot say that he never used it.

Q. You told us that you have a recollection of the cross-wall contract? A. Yes.

Q. Can you tell us if the tenders were opened in Quebec, if you knew who was the lowest tenderer?—A. No, Sir.

Q. Were the members of the Harbour Commission in a position to state who was the lowest tenderer?—A. It was impossible for them.

Q. All those tenders as you say, were sent to Ottawa and re-posted, and then they were on that occasion, as on many other occasions, acted upon under the advice of the Engineer-in-Chief?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. You state that you knew the first contract was 27 cents for dredging from 15 to 20 feet?—A. It was from 15 to 20 feet.

Q. When you acted upon the advice of the Engineer that 35 cents was a proper amount to give, did you think it was? Did you think that you were paying the additional amount in the interests of the contractors?—A. We were guided entirely by our Engineer's advice.

Q. How would that prevent you from taking any measure on behalf of the city?—A. We acted on the recommendation of the Engineer in Chief.

Q. Ordinarily you would pay attention to the contract?—A. I suppose so.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You said before that Mr. McGreevy did not use the name of Sir Hector several times. Did he use it occasionally?—A. Not that I remember.

Q. In what way did he use his name?—A. I cannot remember; when you go over seven or eight years one cannot remember.

Q. You are not in a position to contradict Mr. Valin's testimony when he says to his knowledge Thomas McGreevy was using the name of the Minister of Public Works, and you cannot say as to that because you cannot recollect?—A. I cannot recollect.

Q. Would you undertake to contradict Mr. Valin?—A. I cannot recollect, that is all.

Q. You stated in your examination in chief that you agreed to pay 35 cents for dredging in 1887, first, because your Engineer recommended it?—A. Yes.

Q. And also by what was paid by the Harbour Commissioners in Montreal. Do you speak from personal knowledge or from statements by your Engineer?—A. From the annual reports of the Montreal Harbour Commissioners themselves. (See Exhibit "W18," Page 1186 of the Evidence.)

Q. From those reports do you undertake to say that the Commissioners in Montreal paid 35 cents for dredging to 15 feet?—A. I cannot swear to that because I have no recollection of the depth of the work.

Q. Is it not a fact that they paid 12½ cents?—A. I do not think so.

Q. And that they did the dredging themselves?—A. You do not take the plant into consideration.

Q. Everything is allowed for in the sinking fund. Is it not a fact that the Commissioners at Montreal paid 12½ cents?—A. I cannot remember the figures.

Q. You cannot remember how much Montreal was paying in 1887?—A. I cannot remember. I think the prices we were paying were as low as Montreal.

Q. If you have sworn that you were agreeing to pay 35 cts., because Montreal was paying as much, will you swear that Montreal was paying 35 cents?—A. I will not swear.

Q. Now, you say that the account of Larkin, Connolly & Co. was overdrawn. How do you know?—A. Because I am a director of the bank.

Q. When was it overdrawn?—A. Very often. The monthly account was often overdrawn.

Q. Is it not a fact that after 1885 there was always a balance in their favor?—A. I cannot answer to all the time.

Q. Is it not a fact that with the inception of the contract, in 1885, overdrawing ceased altogether?—A. I cannot say. At one time they were overdrawing.

Q. And then you requested Hon. Thomas McGreevy to press for the payments of the estimates.—A. Yes.

Q. Was it the directors of the Union Bank?—A. It was not the Commission.

Q. When you so instructed Hon. Mr. McGreevy it was not as a Commissioner, but as a director of the Union Bank?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Cannot you tell when the Cross-wall was completed. Was it in 1888?—A. I think it was in 1888. I am speaking only from memory.

MR. STUART read the following extract from the Minutes of the Quebec Harbour Commission of July 4th, 1885, page 331 of the Minute Book :

“The Secretary is directed to request the Engineer in charge of the Harbour Works, Mr. Boyd, to prepare as soon as possible a report on the cost of completing the dredging of the corner of the bank of the Tidal basin to an extent that will allow a large steamer to enter the basin.

“The Secretary is also directed to instruct the Engineer in charge to notify the contractors that the Commissioners will have to stop the dredging if they do not succeed in making arrangements that will allow to proceed with the extra dredging the contractors are now executing, and to notify them also that it must be understood, however, that all works performed by them or that may be performed out of their contract, not especially agreed upon, are and will be considered, as forming part of the contract, it being established by certificate No. 13 read at this meeting that the moneys already paid on account of dredging have exceeded the total amount of the contract.”

Mr. Stuart also read the following letter from the letter book of the Commission, page 370 :

“6th JULY, 1885.

“JOHN E. BOYD, Esq., M.I.C.E.,

“Engineer in charge,

“Harbour Works, Quebec.

“SIR,—I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 3rd instant in which you report that the contractors have dredged the 30,000 cubic yards which they were permitted to dump in the River St. Lawrence and in which you state that you will await further instructions before ordering them to stop, and am directed in reply to instruct you to allow them to go on removing such further quantity of material as interferes with the entrance of a large ocean steamer into the Louise Basin on the terms stipulated in the letter I have addressed to the contractors the 29th May last, a copy of which has been enclosed in my letter to you of the same date.

“I am further directed to request you to prepare, as soon as possible, a report on the cost of completing the dredging in question, that is to say of dredging the corner of the bank to an extent that will allow a large ocean steamer to enter the Basin.

“It being established by your certificate No. 13 that the moneys already paid on account of dredging have exceeded the total amount of the contract, I am moreover directed to instruct you to notify the contractors that the commissioners will have to stop the works if they do not succeed in making arrangements that will allow to proceed with the extra dredging in question, it being understood, however, that all works performed by them, or that may be performed out of the contract, not especially agreed upon, are and will be considered as forming part of the contract.

“I have the honour to be, sir,

“Your obedient servant,

“A. H. VERRET,

"Quebec Harbour Commissioners, Quebec.

"DEAR SIR,—The letter of A. Gobeil, Secretary, Department of Public Works, dated 31 ultimo referred by you to us is at hand, and in reply thereto we beg leave to state that we will accept the conditions therein stated with regard to the resumption of dredging the tidal basin provided the engineers certificate of the amount of money due us is issued to us every month as usual to enable us to secure funds to carry on the works, such certificate to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from date of issue.

"Your obedient servants,

"LARKIN, CONNOLLY & CO."

Mr. Stuart filed a copy of the dredging contract made by the Harbour Commissioners, 3rd September, 1885, marked Exhibit "J16," and read the following extract :

"And whereas, notwithstanding that the dredging, &c., under the contract of the 2nd day of September, 1882, is now complete, the Commissioners are still desirous of continuing the said dredging in the same way and manner, for all intents and purposes, and at the same rates and prices as are mentioned in the said contract."

"DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS, CANADA,
"OTTAWA, 21st August, 1885.

"SIR,—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 12th inst., enclosing a copy of a letter dated 31st ult., addressed to you by this Department, in which the consent of the hon. the Minister of Public Works is given under certain conditions named therein, to the resumption by the Harbour Commissioners of Quebec of the dredging of the Tidal basin forming part of the Harbour works under their control, and informing this Department of the statement made by the Hon. Mr. McGreevy, a member of your Board, that instead of the conditions above referred to the understanding arrived at between the Minister of Public Works and himself was as follows, namely, that the Harbour Commissioners will pay out of the funds at their disposal all the certificates which will be issued either for dredging or other works under contract in connection with the Harbour works, and that only after the said funds will be exhausted they will be allowed to expend on the same works a sum not exceeding §50,000, provided the commissioners so arrange with the contractors that they not call for payment until Parliament has authorized the Government to advance that sum or any further sum to the commissioners.

"I am directed by the hon. the Minister of Public Works to inform you that the understanding in the matter was as stated by the Hon. Mr. McGreevy, and to authorize your Board to act accordingly.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,

"Your obedient servant,

"A. GOBEIL,

"Secretary."

Q. Are you aware that on different occasions the Commissioners attended at the works to give instructions generally as to the dredging?—A. Yes.

Q. You were asked by Mr. Tarte whether Mr. Gallagher was a man of any means? Will you state whether, when the contract was to be awarded he put security, whether he put an accepted cheque?—A. Security was put in.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. They all did that?—A. They all did that.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. Are you aware that when the South-wall contract of 1882 was awarded they did not call for security?—A. I was not aware of the fact.

Q. You stated that in the comparison of prices of the dredging in the Montreal Harbour, when the Chief Engineer recommended 35 cents, you were guided by him in making the comparison, did you take into consideration the different circumstances that one was made in waters that did not vary in depth?—A. I certainly cannot answer that question. It is so long ago.

Q. To the best of your belief, did you take into consideration the varying condition of the places? Or did you depend absolutely on the prices?—A. I acted on the prices to the best of my belief. I got the best information possible as a Commissioner.

Q. And you exercised your independent judgment?—A. Yes.

Q. And your recollection is that the price was a reasonable one?—A. Yes.

Q. Particularly after having the recommendation made by Mr. Perley the Engineer of the Commission?—A. Yes.

Q. You have stated that the sewer of the South-wall was raised without the knowledge of the Commissioners. Are you aware that it was a work in which the Commissioners had no interest, and was done for the purposes of the City?—A. It was done for the purposes of the city.

Q. It was to accommodate the City that the sewer was built?—A. Yes, it was to keep the sewer from going into our basin.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. To keep the water in it?—A. Certainly.

Q. Are you aware that the raising of the sewer was naturally an advantage and entailed a less removal of earth and hastened the termination of the work?—A. I do not recollect—it never came before us.

Q. You do not know anything about it?—A. Only what I saw in the public press.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. You have stated that you do not recollect whether Mr. McGreevy used the name of the Minister of Public Works before the Commission, and Mr. Geoffrion has asked whether you would believe Mr. Valin's word upon that—I wish to know whether, if Mr. McGreevy had been in the habit of using Sir Hector's name, it would have left an impression upon your mind—in other words that he used it with such frequency as to show a desire to be considered the mouthpiece of the Minister of Public Works?—A. I never considered that he did so.

Q. Would you recollect that fact if it had been so?—A. I think so.

Q. Is it a fact that would be likely to leave an impression upon your memory?—

A. I think so.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. The majority of the Commission is appointed by the Government?—A. Yes.

Q. And has been since you were there?—A. Yes.

Q. Are the Commissioners paid?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the Chairman?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Commissioners are paid $1,000 a year and the Chairman $2,000?—A. No, Sir. The Chairman is paid $1,000, and the Commissioners are paid $5 for every sitting.

Q. You say that when you accepted the 35 cents you acted upon the recommendation of the Chief Engineer?—A. Yes.

Q. I suppose that was generally the case for all the contracts?—A. Yes, in all the contracts.

Q. Naturally, not being a practical man, you received instructions from the Chief engineer, whoever he was, whenever there was any contract, either for the Cross-wall, the South-wall, the dredging or the Graving dock at Levis?—A. It was the same thing in all circumstances.

Q. The Government furnished the money which was obtained from Parliament and advanced the money from the public purse at Ottawa, and it was operated by you, and the contractors paid out of it?—A. Yes.

Q. Then as to the execution of the contracts—while the contracts were executed, you had, of course, the advantage of the Engineer's knowledge and they were entrusted with the proper execution of the works?—A. Yes sir.

Q. Your responsibility did not go to that?—A. No.

Q. You trusted to the Chief Engineer and the staff of officers?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you tell me in what way, Mr. Valin was not a very efficient chairman? Because it is a very serious matter and he feels it too. I want to know exactly in what way he was inefficient, and whether there was any necessity for there being a practical man as Chairman—how is it that he would be inefficient through not being practical while you would be efficient, he belonging a little to the marine and shipping and having a great number of ships—in what way was he inefficient?—A. In my opinion he as Chairman did not take enough interest in the works.

Q. What was the suffering from that want of activity?—A. That is all I can answer.

Q. You do not speak of course against his honesty?—A. Not at all.

Q. He is a man that you would believe on oath?—A. Certainly, I would believe him.

Q. You would believe Mr. Valin on oath?—A. Certainly.

Q. And that is the only explanation you can give of the inefficiency? He was not bound more than you to find out the profits that the contractors derived from the contracts?—A. It was only after their completion that that could be found out.

Q. And he was not bound more than you to find out the defects and the plans?—A. No, sir.

Q. Are you sure about the over-drawing of the accounts in the Union Bank?—A. Certainly.

Q. You are sure of that?—A. Certainly.

Q. Then, what proof have you that the contractors did not build the works out of their own funds, and that they had to receive the ordinary estimates every month?—A. I do not think you would find any contractors that would build large works like those out of their own funds.

Q. Of course, in this instance as in other instances, the contractor received money from the party giving the contract, to enable him to do the work out of it.—A. Well, he pays the money out of that.

Q. So, the actual solvency of the man is not important, provided he deposits the necessary security, he may be a poor man, if he has enough to furnish the amount of his security the amount of his possessions is not important?—A. No; men do a great deal on credit.

Q. But you said he had to pay out the money received from this to go on with the contract?—A. No; I do not say that. I say that the contractors are obliged to get large advances to go on with the work, because they only got paid after the work was done.

Q. Is it not true that Larkin, Connolly & Co. had very very largely overdrawn in the bank when they began the work?—A. Not very very largely. The monthly account was overdrawn in the bank.

Q. Is it not a fact, that when they began the work, they had no more money than Messrs. Fradet & Miller?—A. I do not know as to that, because I was not a member of the Commission when tenders were put in.

Q. You cannot state to the Committee the reason the tenders of Fradet & Miller were not accepted?—A. I was not Commissioner.

Q. You do not know whether it was because they were too low?—A. I know nothing about it.

Q. You state that the sewer was changed in the interests of Quebec and not in the interests of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I explained that by saying the mouth of the sewer opened into our basin. We could not allow that so the sewer was made in the tight wall.

Q. There were changes made in that without your being consulted?—A. We never were.

Q. Is it not a fact, that you were supposed to represent the interests of the city of Quebec and were entitled to be consulted?—A. We should have been.

By Mr. Choquette :

Q. Had you business transactions with Mr. Murphy, in Quebec?—A. Through the contractors.

Q. He was their agent?—A. He was the confidential man.

Q. Has he always acted honorably as far as you know?—A. Certainly.

Q. Would you believe him under oath?—A. I judge a man as I find him. I would certainly believe him under oath.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. There is nothing against his character in Quebec?—A. Certainly.

Mr. WM. RAE sworn.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. What is your name?—A. William Rae.

Q. You are an important ship owner?—A. Allan, Rae & Co. are—

Q. I believe the firm have the largest steam vessels on the St. Lawrence?—A. Allan, Rae & Co. have.

Q. They are interested to a considerable extent in the Quebec Harbour improvements and the Lévis Graving Dock?—A. Especially the Graving Dock.

Q. Is it not a fact that you personally have superintended as far as lay in your power, the works at Quebec?—A. Simply as a Harbour Commissioner. Nothing more than that.

Q. You have taken special interest in them?—A. Yes, especially in the Dock.

Q. Your firm was one of the first to use it.—A. Yes, unfortunately.

Q. You used it in connection with the "Polynesian"?—A. Yes.

Q. You were a member of the Commission since 1877?—A. About that time.

Q. The firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. began contracting with the Commissioners in the vicinity of 1878?—A. I have no idea of the year, none whatever, I am simply Harbour Commissioner and attend to its business from week to week.

Q. You are a member at the present time?—A. Yes; representing the shipping interests.

Q. You have followed closely the doings of the Commissioners as far as was in your power?—A. Certainly.

Q. You were a member in the spring of 1882?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember anything about the tenders that were called for the first dredging contract in that year, also for the close in the opening of the Louise Eembankment?—A. I have no recollection of the details in connection with any work in 1882. My attention was called to the minute book to-day, and I saw then what had taken place; I do not keep a note book of what goes on.

Q. Any diaries?—A. No diaries. I attend to business of my own and everything passes out of my mind afterwards. I may say that I have opposed the Harbour works from the outset. I protested against the expenditure of money believing it an unnecessary tax upon trade. My protest with Mr. Henry Fry is in the Minute book. I simply wish to say this in short metre, I have opposed the expenditure of money throughout. I consider it my duty as a Harbour Commissioner, as far as I can, to limit the expenditure. I simply wish to say that no money was drawn to my knowledge, and not one dollar was ever spent by the Harbour Commission without a certificate of the Engineering Superintendent.

Q. You were not the only person in 1877 who objected to the expenditure at the place in which it was made. What was the objection? People objected to digging the mud hole of St. Charles for these improvements?—A. I objected to making artificial improvements when we had natural advantages elsewhere.

Q. The natural advantages were along the city front?—A. It was not because they were in that locality.

Q. Now Mr. Rae, getting back to 1882—I ask you from your present information whether gathered from the Minute book or from your own recollection of what took place, whether you can tell us anything about the awarding of the dredging contract?—A. Simply from the Minute book. I saw who the tenderers were.

Q. And subsequently the Minister of Public Works asked for explanation how the tenders came to be awarded?—A. Yes. And I happened to be the Commissioner who drew up the explanation.

Q. Do you not remember in connection with these tenders that there was a reason given why it was accepted?

Counsel objects.

Q. Tenders were called and the lowest was not accepted? Do you remember what the reason was, and if so, will you now give it?—A. I do not remember?

Q. You do not remember?—A. No.

Q. Would you recollect it if it occurred?—A. It seems to me I would.

Q. Have you any recollection either from what took place at the time or from information gathered from the Minute book why a second set of tenders were asked for?—A. I do not remember the details at all.

Q. Do you not remember that when the first tenders were sent in, there was a suggestion made?—A. My memory is entirely blank. There is no use taking up the time with questions about this.

Q. I am going to put the question though—do you not recollect that at the time the first set of tenders were sent in, one of the officials of the Quebec Harbour Commission, Mr. Gourdeau, the Harbour master, at the request of the Quebec Board of Trade, suggested that new tenders should be called for and an increase made in the depth for the convenience of the trade in Quebec?—A. I do not remember.

Q. You have no recollection whatever?—A. None whatever.

Q. You will remember, perchance, that amongst the tenders sent in was one from Fradet & Miller?—A. I learned that from the Minute book to-day.

Q. Do you remember whether or not at that time any security was asked from Fradet & Miller, previous to the awarding of the contract?—A. Nothing beyond what I see in the Minute book.

Q. From the Minute book have you ascertained that you are the gentleman who moved a resolution requiring that the tenderers Fradet & Miller should give $10,000 security before the contract was awarded?—A. Yes.

Q. You would not ask them to give such security unless there was good reason for it?—A. Not likely.

Q. Will you now recollect the reason why you asked for security?—A. Nothing beyond my knowledge of Mr. Fradet.

Q. Will you give us your recollection of that?—A. I did not consider him to be in a position, financially, to undertake that contract.

Q. You were satisfied at the time that it was impossible for Fradet & Miller to do the work at the price stated, and in consequence of this you asked that they should give security?—A. Yes, it must have been so.

Q. Do you not recollect that the next lowest tender was from a man named Askwith?—A. I find from the Minute book that that is so. I see that he withdrew his tender and was not able to perform the work.

Q. It was after Fradet & Miller failed to put in this security to the amount required, that the contract was awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. And Beaucage withdrew?—A. I see that from the book.

Q. And you learned from the book that on your motion, seconded by Mr. Dobell, the contract was given to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?

Counsel objects.

Q. Have you ascertained from the Minute book, that you moved that the contract be awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I do not recollect, but I have no doubt whatever, that I did. If it is in the Minute book, I have no doubt I moved the resolution.

Q. Will you look at the resolution of the 13th September, page 390, of Minute book 4,—it appears to be moved by William Rae, Esq., seconded by Allan Dobell, Esq., "Resolved, that the Chairman, and the Secretary-treasurer be, and are hereby authorized to sign on behalf of this Commission the contract awarded the 26th July last to Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co., for the dredging in connection with the Harbour Works at the mouth of the River St. Charles, the said award having been approved by an order in Council issued on the 21st ultimo." Is that correct?—A. Yes, of course.

Q. Now, Mr. Rae, do you remember whether there was any pressure exercised of any sort by you to influence you or any other of the Harbour Commissioners, to your knowledge, to have that contract awarded to Larkin, Connolly & Co., otherwise than on merit?—A. I may as well say at once and for all time, that I never was present at a meeting of the Harbour Commission that I did not to the best ability exercise it, in discussing anything that came before us, and as for pressure of any description, the very possibility of being influenced in favour of any particular contractor is absolutely impossible. The only thing in my mind in connection with any business transacted before the Commission was what is best in the interest of the work, and when we were giving a contract we were particularly careful as regards that.

Q. And in giving a contract, you were careful that the men were abundantly able to fulfil it?—A. I have no recollection of details, but it is absolutely unnecessary to question me. When I left the Harbour Commission room, I left the Harbour Commission business behind me. I never spoke of the business outside of the Harbour Commission room if I met a contractor, I stopped him at once. I never spoke of Harbour Commission business outside the Harbour Commission room. It is absolutely unnecessary to question me any further. I do not remember.

Q. Now, let us see if I can get you to remember one thing. Are you in a position to state with absolute certainty that you never at any time concurred in the award of any contract or payment of any sum of money to any contractor unless you were absolutely certain it was in the interests of the public?—A. I cannot use stronger words than yours. I never would have acquiesced if I thought otherwise. I agree most positively without reservation in what you have said.

Q. Do you recollect that in 1885 there were 130,355 yards of dredging done at 35 cents and paid for?—A. I have no recollection now of such details. If it was done and paid for it was correct.

Q. It was right according to your judgment.—A. With regard to that 35 cent contract, I will say it included not only the dredging, but the placing of the material on the harbour works, not only the harbour works in possession of the Commission but any future land that might be acquired by them.

Q. Was that under the contract of 1887?—A. Yes; was that not the same?

Q. I am speaking of 1885?—A. I cannot remember all the details. I can only repeat that in connection with the 35 cent contract, when I saw the opinion of Mr. Perley that these figures were reasonable and that we could not do better than accept them, of course it was perfectly understood to include that the dredging material was to be placed to such an extent as the Commission might direct on the embankment. I added a resolution that not only must they put the material on the property of the Commission but upon any property which they might acquire. That circumstance is fixed in my mind. If it had not been for that it would have passed from my mind altogether.

Q. Now, you acquiesced in the granting of the contract of 1887, for 35 cents because it was contemplated that the material might be placed not only on existing works of the commission but upon future works?—A. I have so stated. I cannot say whether it was in 1887, I referred especially to the 35 cent contract.

Q. Did you buy the additional ground?—A. No.

Q. That contract provided that the dredging material is to be placed on any portion of the works of the Commissioners, then in progress or any future work, at the discretion of the Engineer?—A. That is my recollection.

Q. That is the reason you acquiesced in it?—A. The reason I acquiesced was that the Chief Engineer recommended it. We never had anything else to guide us, but his skill and authority.

Q. Now you are interested in large wharves at Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. You have the special knowledge of dredging?—A. No.

Q. You have some experience?—A. I have nothing beyond the knowledge that an intelligent man would possess on the subject. I have no practical or scientific knowledge.

Q. Do you consider yourself as having sufficient knowledge to be able to appreciate the value of the work done under that contract?—A. No; not at all.

Q. You do not?—A. Of course not.

Q. Do you consider that 35 cents was a fair amount?—A. I consider that as Perley had figured out the thing and advised us, that it was the best that could be done. I had no opinion myself beyond exercising my intelligence upon the opinion given by him.

Q. Do you remember that in 1886, 30 cents per yard was allowed in addition to the 35 cents under the contract?—A. No recollection whatever. Not the least use to ask me any such question as that.

Q. Do you recollect that in 1886, the Commissioners allowed in addition to the contract price of 35 cents per yard, 30 cents for dredging material placed upon the Louise Embankment?—A. No such recollection.

Q. Do you remember anything about prices paid in Montreal, for dredging?—A. Not a bit. I simply attend to my own business.

Q. Are you still a member of the board?—A. Yes; I am principally for the purpose of looking after the pilots. I would not be there if it was not for that.

Q. Did you acquiesce in the change of Chairmen?—A. I was not present.

Q. Did you protest afterwards?—A. I did not.

By Mr. Turte :

Q. What is the depth of the Tidal basin?—A. It is understood that the depth is 25 feet at low water.

Q. Did you have a vessel put there?—Yes; we had a vessel drawing 25 feet put in, which met with an accident on the way to Montreal. We brought her into the basin. We were drawing 25 or 24½ feet. We repaired her there.

Q. Is it true that in the Tidal basin there are forty-nine spots that are not 24 feet deep?—A. I have no idea of it.

Q. Now I want to call your attention to this motion passed by the Board in 1882 : “Moved by the Hon. Mr. McGreevy, seconded by Wm. Rae, Esq., resolved that inasmuch as it appears on the recommendation of the Harbour Master to be advisable that a depth of water in basin and docks, new harbour works, be increased from 24 feet at low water to 26 feet ; it be decided not to open the tenders for excavation on the 24 foot basis, but to advertise for tenders on the 26 foot line, and they be required to be sent in by noon on Tuesday, 4th July prox.” You have said you are aware that there are only 25 feet of water?—A. I am aware that there are 25 feet, and that it is stated to the Commission that there is 25 feet.

Q. Had you yourself any knowledge of that?—A. None. I know nothing except that we had shipping there.

Q. Did you go through the whole basin?—A. To the furthest end of the basin quite close to the Cross-wall.

Q. Were you told about the changes in the sewer?—A. No, I never heard anything about it. It never came before us.

Q. You are aware, of course, Mr. Rae, that some Inspectors were employed by the Harbour Commissioners to watch over the dredging?—A. I am aware that Inspectors were appointed.

Q. You were never aware that they were employed at the same time by the contractors?—A. Most decidedly not, I had no idea of it. I remember that we had a great deal of trouble in selecting the Inspectors. That we had a great many applications and we went carefully over the people who applied. The Commissioners exercised their best judgment in the men selected.

Q. Were you ever warned or told that Larkin, Connolly and Co. were dredging deeper than 15 feet in the wet basin?—A. I do not remember anything about it.

Q. You do not know anything about it?—A. No, I cannot say anything about it, because it was for the Engineer to attend to all these matters.

By Mr. Langelier :

Q. You stated a few moments ago, that you remember that your views were that all the dredging material taken from the dredging of the Wet basin was to be spread on the property of the Commissioners?—A. It was understood that the Commissioners should have a right to it, but it was not understood that the whole of the dredging was to be placed on the property of the Commissioners, but they had a right to direct the Engineer to order where the dredging was to be placed.

Q. That is what I understood, and during the execution of the dredging, did it come under the notice of the Commissioners that the contractors instead of putting the dredging material on the embankment, as you wanted them to do, they were dumping it in the river?—A. There was a portion dumped in the river with the consent of the Harbour Commissioners.

Q. Was not a portion dumped there without the consent?—A. I do not recollect that.

Q. Did the question come before the Harbour Commissioners at all?—A. I do not recollect.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. Do you remember whether any portion of it was put on the ground of the Harbour Commissioners?—A. I understand so, a very large quantity.

Q. You know that personally?—A. Yes.

JOSEPH BELL FORSYTH, called and sworn.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Are you a member of the Harbour Commission of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. How long have you been a member?—A. Since 1879.

Q. Have you any recollection of some scheme about the South-wall in Quebec in 1886?—A. Some plan was prepared at the time.

Q. The plan was to go from near the Cross-wall to near the gas works?—A. I think so.

Q. Will you tell us what that was?—A. I remember a plan was submitted by Mr. Perley to make the wall from the Cross-wall up to near the gas works.

Q. Was the plan submitted in a written report?—A. I do not think it was. I remember seeing the plan. The plans were at the Harbour Commissioners' office, but I do not remember any report. There may have been one, although I do not remember it.

Q. Was the plan of Mr. Perley approved at the time by Mr. McGreevy, to your knowledge?—A. I believe it was. When the plan first came down it was approved by Mr. McGreevy.

Q. As a matter of fact, was there not at the time a pretty big fight between Mr. McGreevy and the other members about that plan?—A. There was great opposition on the part of some of the Commissioners to the building of the wall.

Q. And he could not carry his point?—A. Well, I may say that I for one was opposed to it.

Q. You carried your point?—A. Well, it never came to a vote—that scheme was abandoned.

Q. Have you any recollection of the dredging contract of 1887?—A. For 35 cents, —Yes.

Q. By what were you guided at the time in granting the contract?—A.—Well, as has been stated before to-night, the old contract had expired the year before, and Mr. Boyd, who was our Resident Engineer, said that the contractors would not go on—that there must be another price fixed. I do not think that we heard of it for some time—not until we received a letter from Mr. Perley recommending or enclosing a letter to Larkin, Connolly & Co., recommending the adoption of that price, and stating that he considered it fair and reasonable.

Q. It was the first time when you got that letter that you heard about that new offer?—A. As far as I can remember it was the first I had.

Q. You never authorized Hon. Thos. McGreevy to arrange with Mr. Perley for a contract for dredging with conditions attached that would amount to nothing?—A. I do not think so.

Q. As a matter of fact, when you received that letter from Mr. Perley, it was the first time you had heard about it?—A. To the best of my knowledge and belief.

Q. Did you ever receive any notice from Larkin, Connolly & Co. that they would not go on on the former prices?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Were you ever informed that Larkin, Connolly & Co. were dredging deeper than 15 feet?—A. I do not think the Commissioners were so informed. I do not remember any information as to that question.

Q. Were you informed that the sewer for the South-wall was raised 2 feet 9 inches?—A. We were not. Are you correct in stating 2 feet 9 inches. The Commissioners were not apprised of that.

Q. You never knew anything about it?—A. No.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Have you any reason to think the Engineer's Report was not correct after the condition of the dredging and the depth of water?—A. Certainly not.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Had you dealings with Mr. Murphy at that time, you know him?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Do you remember in 1885 there was dredging done at 35 cents?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Was there in 1886 some done at 27 cents, some at 29 cents, some at 45 cents and some at 55 cents?—A. I remember that the old contracts went from 27 to 45 cents.

Q. You do not know if the contract was in existence in 1886?—A. I do not think it was.

Q. Frequently during the course of the work did not the Commissioners go to the work and examine how it was progressing and what were the rates to be given?—A. They went there and spoke to the contractors and Engineers.

Q. And watched as closely as you could with the work in progress?—A. Yes.

Q. In 1886 do you remember that 30 cents were allowed in addition to the 35 cents for other dredging done, making in all 65 cents?—A. I do not remember that.

Mr. MICHAEL FLYNN sworn.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. Mr. Murphy has said that he paid you in 1887 two sums of $250 and one sum of $50. Is that true?—A. No ; it is untrue. He paid me one sum of $250.

Q. Was that for yourself?—A. It was for parties in Quebec for the elections.

Q. Had you any conversation with him recently?—A. About what?

Q. Any conversation in the course of last spring in which you spoke of the Hon. Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes, I had several conversations with him about Mr. McGreevy.

Q. Will you say now if you had a conversation with him at the Belvedere club?

Mr. AMYOT objects.

The question is not pressed.

Q. Do you know the general reputation that O. E. Murphy enjoys in Quebec?

Counsel objects.

Objection sustained.

Q. Do you know the general reputation of O. E. Murphy?

Counsel objects.

Question allowed.

Q. Do you know the general reputation that O. E. Murphy enjoys?—A. Not very creditable.

Q. Would you believe him on his oath?—A. That is a question I am not prepared to answer.

Q. Would you believe him on his oath?—A. It is a question I do not care about answering.

Q. From the reputation he has, would you believe him under oath?—A. I won't answer the question.

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Friday, 7th August, 1891.

The Committee met at 10:30 a.m.; Mr. Girouard in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, etc., resumed.

Hon. JOHN HEARN sworn.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You are a member of the Legislative Council of Quebec?—A. Yes.

Q. You have known Mr. Thomas McGreevy for a considerable length of time?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you recollect at any time discounting or taking part in the discounting of two promissory notes made by Larkin, Connolly & Co. for $5,000 each?—A. Yes.

Q. About what time was that?—A. July, 1883.

Q. Can you state who applied to you to have those notes discounted?—A. I cannot say positively whether it was Robert McGreevy or Mr. Chaloner; but I am quite satisfied it was one or the other of those two.

Q. Can you recollect whether in connection with that transaction you had any interview with Mr. Thomas McGreevy on the subject?—A. Not at all.

Q. Have you satisfied yourself you did not have any such interview?—A. I have taken a good deal of pains to refresh my memory and recall the circumstances to my mind from the moment that I saw a reference made to it before this Committee, and the conclusion I have come to was that I have nothing to say one way or another of Thomas McGreevy.

Q. Was there any conversation when these notes were discounted or when you were seen on the subject as to these notes representing a sale of plant made by Thos. McGreevy—

Mr. GEOFFRION objected.

Q. Can you recollect what conversation took place on the subject?—A. I cannot. My impression of the whole matter is that I was asked if I would discount these notes, and that after very little consideration I said I would endeavour to have them discounted, and I did so.

Q. Can you recollect whether there was any reason given to you why these notes were presented by either Mr. Chaloner or Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. No; beyond that money was scarce at the time. The banks were not doing much and on that account I was applied to—an unusual thing for parties wanting to discount paper of that kind to apply to my humble self.

Q. What were your functions in the matter? Did you derive any benefit from this transaction?—A. Not a cent. I find by reference to my cash book of that date that I discounted notes of the late Mr. James Ross for an amount equivalent to the net proceeds of the notes given to me, and that on the same day I gave a cheque on the Montreal Bank for the full proceeds of the discount of the Ross notes, which will be equivalent to those I had received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. I will now read to you the statement of Mr. Robert McGreevy, on page 740. and ask you whether that statement is true: "Q. Did you handle those that were discounted by John Hearn?—A. I may have; possibly from this circumstance I would remember. Going to John Hearn to get Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s paper discounted, there would naturally a suspicion arise which would reflect on Thomas McGreevy. He therefore told me to tell John Hearn that it was for some plant that he sold to Larkin, Connolly & Co., so as to keep John Hearn from having any knowledge of any connection between them and him." Q. To the best of your belief did any such conversation ever take place?—A. I am quite satisfied there was no such conversation at all. Either he or Mr. Chaloner, I cannot say positively which of the two it was, called upon me—but whichever of the two called—I have a very distinct recollection of their making such representations to me as to lead me to believe that by having the notes discounted, I would oblige Mr. Thomas McGreevy; and under that impression, I lent myself to procuring the money and charging nothing for it.

Q. Can you state whether such a representation, from recollection, was ever made to you as to the source of the notes?—A. I am fairly certain, considering the length of time that has elapsed, that there was no conversation of that kind.

Q. Did you discount any other notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co, for any person else or for any person?—A. I think I did. At a latter date I think I discounted two notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co., per O. E. Murphy.

Q. For whom did you discount those notes?—A. Robert McGreevy. At least for a money broker who came to me telling me that they had been given by Robert McGreevy.

Q. Did you subsequently have an interview with Robert McGreevy to render it certain that that statement was true?—A. Yes.

Q. What were the amounts of the notes?—A. One was for $500, and the other for $1,000.

Q. At what date were they discounted?—A. The smaller note was for a short time, and it came due very soon after I received it; but the larger note came due some months afterwards, and not-being paid at maturity, there was a protest noted, and Robert McGreevy spoke to me on the subject, saying that it would be attended to next day.

Q. From the information that you obtained at the time, are you able to state whether it was a personal note of Robert McGreevy for which these notes were given?—A. I am pretty certain it was to enable him to make things easier in connection with the purchase of the property that he then got and in which he has since been residing.

Q. What are the circumstances that make you make that statement?—A. I cannot swear positively to the truthfulness of the statement and representations which were made to me by Mr. Burroughs, who was the broker in the matter.

Mr. GEOFFRION objected.

Q. Were the statements made by Mr. Burroughs corroborated by what you ascertained from Mr. Robert McGreevy?—A. To some extent confirmed by Mr. Robert McGreevy's concern in the larger note when it went to protest—his calling upon me to tell me that it would be attended to in a little while.

Q. What were the statements and circumstances which make you say that?—A. That he bought a property from Mr. Beaudry, I think; that he had no means at the time; that these notes were taken as so much cash; that representation was made that so much cash had been paid on the property and he was enabled to borrow from the building society the balance of the purchase money to pay to Beaudry. As to the correctness of that I say nothing. That was the representation made to me.

By Mr. German :

Q. To whom was the cheque made payable that you gave for the proceeds of these notes?—A. Either to Robert McGreevy or to Chaloner. I have done everything in my power to try and recall my remembrance, upon that head, but it would not be right to swear positively to which of them I gave the cheque. I am pretty sure I gave the cheque to whichever of them it was who brought me the notes.

Q. You have a record of the cheque?—A. Yes; I made reference to my cash book, and the cheque is for $9,441 on the Montreal Bank. The very day I discounted the notes I gave a cheque for the full amount of the proceeds.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. I was not here at the beginning of your evidence. Have you stated who Mr. Chaloner is?—A. He is a gentleman who has been for a very long time in the employ of Mr. Thomas McGreevy.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understood you that you were under the impression that the notes discounted, either by Robert McGreevy or Mr. Chaloner, were for Mr. Thomas McGreevy?—A. That representation was made, because for neither of these gentlemen would I be likely to make any discount.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. Then you accepted their representation that it was for Thomas McGreevy?—A. I most decidedly would at that time. I would have believed anything they said concerning Thomas McGreevy.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Has your opinion changed since?—A. I would believe nothing they would say presently.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Whom do you refer to now?—A. I mean Mr. Robert McGreevy. I would believe nothing he would say or swear to to-day.

By Mr. Choquette :

Q. He might say the same of you?—A. I should be very sorry if he would have the same cause to say that of me that the world has reason for thinking and saying of him.

Cross-examination of HON. THOMAS MCGREEVY resumed.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I understand that far as the "Admiral" is concerned, it is now distinctly admitted by you that you knew you could not hold the "Admiral" in your own name whilst she was receiving subsidy from the Government?—A. It is true.

Q. And I understood you further to say that you put her in Chabot's name so the subsidy might be received?—A. I did not say that, in the first instance.

Q. But you continued the boat in Chabot's name so that you might receive the subsidy?—A. So that I would be clear myself. It was first, in the purchase.

Q. I understood you to say that the boat was bought for the Company, but afterward that the Company could not pay for her and you paid for her yourself. You practically became the owner of her?—A. That is so.

Q. And that you continued her in Chabot's name because if you had put her in your own name you could not get the subsidy?—A. I did so to protect myself.

Q. By keeping the boat in Chabot's name?—A. Yes.

Q. As a matter of fact, you admit that all the subsidies that came were paid to you at the hands of Chabot?—A. They came to me through him.

Q. How much did you sell that boat for?—A. $31,000 and something. The deed is here and it is in the deed.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. How much did she cost—$20,000?—A. She cost a great deal more than the first price owing to the accident she had coming around.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. About how much altogether?—A. Over $25,000 altogether.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Mr. Chabot states that as far as his name was concerned it was simply a screen?—A. Not in the first instance.

Q. But afterward?—A. Not being able to get rid of her, I continued her in his name.

Q. The contract was entered into with the Government for five years?—A. Yes I think so.

Q. And renewed in 1888?—A. Yes,

Q. And again in 1889?—A. No; renewed in 1888 for five years.

Q. That is the whole of the explanation?—A. I may tell you that Mr. Chabot would not take the responsibility; he had to be guaranteed against any responsibility.

Q. He had to be guaranteed against any responsibility?—A. Yes.

Q. I want to ask you one or two words about the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. I understand you to say that the original stock you held in the company you paid ten per cent, upon it, giving a cheque or note?—A. I think it was a cheque.

Q. That cheque was never paid?—A. No, no.

Q. It was only just put in?—A. Yes it was never used.

Q. So that practically you paid no money out of your pocket at all for the stock?—A. I was simply responsible for the stock. I paid nothing except the cheque.

Q. And that cheque you did not pay?—A. I did not.

Q. The cheque was never charged against you by anybody?—A. I am not aware that it was.

Q. Afterwards you sold all the stock or transferred it to your brother?—A. Yes to Robert McGreevy.

Q. And eventually a large sum of money was paid by the Armstrong people for your interest in the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I explained already how it was paid.

Q. I want you to tell me again please—that large amount was paid?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it not a fact that you claim that your brother Robert was not entitled to any part of the money arising from the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. Well that claim was put in by Counsel with my consent.

Q. As a matter of fact did you claim that all the moneys from the Baie des Chaleurs Railway belonged to you and not to Robert?—A. I do not think I would be entitled to the whole of it. I would be entitled to portion of the stock.

Q. What portion would you be entitled to?—A. I do not know how much. There never was any agreement as to the amount that each had.

Q. You say you had no agreement. Can you not state more specifically than that what the position of matters was?—A. No.

Q. As a matter of fact you claim in the dispute with your brother that you were entitled to the whole?—A. I authorized my Counsel to make the claim in the papers.

Q. In the papers forming part of the proceedings?—A. Yes.

Q. After the dispute arose and when the pleadings were put in you authorized your Counsel to claim the whole of it. You do not deny that?—A. I did. What my Counsel did I am responsible for.

Q. What I want to find out is with respect to the actual moneys that you had received. I find as a matter of fact that in the suit between you and your brother in the accounts filed between you you admit a payment of $3,000 in May 1886?—A. No, I do not admit it.

Q. You admit it in your suit?—A. No, I gave him the aggregate for the whole.

Q. In the pleadings in the account filed between you and your brother you gave him credit for $3,000 on the 7th of May, 1886, and $7,000 on June 28th?—A. I gave him credit for the whole amount en bloc but not for the separate items at all. I will not be responsible for the items. It may be that in giving him credit for the whole these particular items would be included.

Q. The whole account was composed of six different items?—A. I have already explained those.

Q. The items were, May 7th, 1886, $3,000; June 28th, $7,000; October 6th, $8,000; November 22nd, $8,000; December 20th, $8,000, and September 20th, 1887, $8,000; making a total of $42,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, I will take the three first items—they are charged and admitted by you?—A. I admit the whole account.

Q. There is no other whole account I see except this?—A. There is account for $64,000. It is taken off the original of the whole.

Q. I am not interested in the rest of the account here at all. I want to ask you if the account containing those three entries was an excerpt from the Baie des Chaleurs Railway—$3,000, $7,000 and $8,000?—A. I believe it was.

Q. For the purpose of that suit at any rate you admitted those payments?—A. They were in the account. I admit the whole account.

Q. That would make $18,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Then again you received in addition to this $8,000 from Mr. Noel at Ottawa?—A. It was a payment, I think, made on the 22nd November.

Q. I don't care when it was. You tell us that you received it?—A. I won't be definite about the cheque as to the date, but I received payment. I think on the 22nd or at any rate late in November.

Q. That cheque went to you?—A. I admit that.

Q. That is that $8,000 in your brother's account given as coming direct from Mr. Noel?—A. Yes.

Q. That would make $26,000 out of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. Yes.

Q. The $8,000 I am now speaking of did not go through your brother's hands at all?—A. No.

Q. But it is in the same account although it came direct from Mr. Noel?—A. Yes.

Q. Did Mr. Noel make a cheque payable to yourself?—A. I got it as a cheque payable to myself. It was endorsed over to me but it was payable I think to Robert McGreevy.

Q. Will you pledge your memory to that?—A. No.

Q. You have no memory about it?—A. I don't say that.

Q. Your memory is so defective that you won't pledge your oath to it?—A. I will not swear to it. I admit I received a cheque direct from Mr. Noel.

Q. And a letter from him?—A. I would not say who the letter was from, but I got the cheque at any rate.

Q. I ask you if your memory is sufficiently clear to enable you to say one way or another?—A. I don't remember. All I can say is that it came from Mr. Noel.

Q. Do you know whether the cheque was payable to yourself or anyone else?—A. I think it was endorsed over to me.

Q. Well, that would make $26,000 that you admit; do you admit in the account the other two $8,000?—A. I do not think so. I only really admitted what went in the first account.

Q. What does the aggregate stock amount to?—A. I think $64,000 put altogether.

Q. You cannot separate the accounts?—A. I admit the payments altogether.

Q. Now, at the time you received these payments, whatever they amounted to—we need not dispute very much over certain amounts—you had been relieved of your shares, you had signed them over?—A. I think I had transferred them.

Q. To whom?—A. I think I had transferred the whole of the shares to Robert McGreevy.

Q. There is no doubt about it?—A. I have no doubt about it.

Q. As a matter of fact, before you received these payments you had divested yourself of any interest in the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I had transferred the shares.

Q. But the question I want you to answer is whether before you received this payment you had transferred all the shares to your brother?—A. I would not like to swear to that either. I think I transferred them all at different times, but I would not like to say that it was before this payment; there may have been some of them afterwards.

Q. Have you any memory to enable you to say when you transferred them to your brother?—A. It is hard for me to swear exactly to these transactions.

Q. What is your belief as to whether you had transferred the shares before you received the $8,000 from Mr. Noel?—A. I think I had transferred them.

Q. Can you tell me whether you had transferred the shares at the time Mr. Noel sent you that cheque?—A. That cheque was not sent at the direction of Mr. Noel; Mr. Noel did not send it without being directed.

Q. It was payable to Robert McGreevy, was it not?—A. I believe so.

Q. It was payable to Robert McGreevy because the shares were vested in him?—A. I think so.

Q. Have you any doubt about the matter?—A. Well, I don't want to give you anything more than I know myself.

Q. Is it true or is it not true that at the time you got the payment you had transferred the shares?—A. It is my impression that I had.

Q. This was in May, June, October, November and December, 1886, and September, 1887. The first one is on May 7, 1886 for $3,000?—A. Mind you I did not get that account until 1889.

Q. Did you get the moneys?—A. I got that one money. I tell you I did not know how the money was disposed of until I got the account in 1889—his own statement.

Q. I understood you to have said so, but I also understand you to have received in December, 1886, the $8,000, so that there can be no doubt about that?—A. So he says, according to his account.

Q. So you say, as coming from Mr. Noel, direct to yourself?—A. I told you I got $8,000.

Q. Do you remember the time when you received the $8,000?—A. I got that in 1886.

Q. And I understood you to say you had then transferred your shares?—A. I believe so.

Q. Can you tell me when you transferred your share?—A. I cannot. I have never looked at any of the books since I left the concern.

Q. In the spring of 1886 had you any negotiations with Sir Hector Langevin in respect to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. There was trouble about it.

Q. I did not ask you about trouble. I want to know if you had any negotiations with Sir Hector Langevin in respect of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. There was some trouble in which he interfered; he was trying to bring peace among some of his friends.

Q. I ask, have you, Thomas McGreevy, had any negotiations with Sir Hector Langevin respecting the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I believe there had been some.

Q. Between you and Sir Hector Langevin?—A. Not me personally, but between him and some other friends.

Q. Had you personally any interviews with Sir Hector respecting the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I believe there was trouble; they are all his friends, and he wanted to settle up the question.

Q. That is not an answer to my question. Answer me yes or no—had you personally any interviews in the spring of 1886 with Sir Hector Langevin on the subject of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. I believe there had been some.

Q. Had you numerous interviews on the subject?—A. I do not think so. There was some.

Q. Several?—A. May be one or two.

Q. Did he make any proposition to you?—A. There was some proposition, I think.

Q. Did he make any proposition to you; did Sir Hector Langevin, personally, make any proposition to you?—A. There was some proposition made.

Q. Did Sir Hector Langevin make any proposition to you respecting that road?—A. Whatever was in my letter at the time.

Q. I am not speaking of your letter, I am asking you from your memory now?—A. My memory is not perfect altogether.

Q. Will you swear there were no negotiations between Sir Hector and yourself?—A. I won't swear that.

Q. Will you swear that he made no proposition to you?—A. I am after stating there was.

Q. Then he did make a proposition to you? Will you state to the Committee what proposition he made?—A. He was wanting to settle up the difference between the Robitailles.

Q. That was his object, but not the proposition. His object may have been the best in the world, but I want to know what proposition he made to you?—A. There was some proposition of some other road there.

Q. What was the proposition?—A. According to the letters, I think he proposed to give some other road a subsidy, but I did not entertain it for a moment. I did not entertain it. I think there was some talk about that.

Q. You were doubtful as to his power to carry out the undertaking. I am asking you what the proposition was itself?—A. There was some talk about it.

Q. Some talk to give you what?—A. It was something about this Montmorency Railway subsidy: to build that road. I cannot remember all these things. It was a thing that never came to anything.

Q. Do you state on the responsibility of your oath that you do not remember anything about it?—A. I do remember something, but I cannot swear to the thing exactly.

Q. Do you state you do not remember what his proposition was?—A. It was a proposition of a subsidy of $6,000 a mile.

Q. To give $6,000 a mile to you?—A. No, not to give it to me. To give it to a company.

Q. To a company?—A. To a company or something.

Q. What company?—A. Some company or other. I cannot remember what company. This is a thing too long ago.

Q. Had you any connection with the proposed company that was to get the subsidy?—A. It did not turn out.

Q. What had you to do with the company that was to get the $6,000?—A. Nothing in the world. I had not a share or anything to do with it.

Q. Then you state the proposition was to give $6,000 to some other people and you were not to have any interest in it?—A. I did not say that.

Q. Then what interest were you to have in the company?—A. There must have been some interest. I was to be one of them, I suppose, some way or other.

Q. As a matter of fact, Mr. McGreevy, were you not to be one of the beneficiaries in that $6,000 subsidy or not?—A. I had no confidence in that at all. I did not entertain it.

Q. Do you say you had no confidence in Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I had confidence in him, certainly, but I did not know whether he had power to carry it out or not.

Q. Were you or were you not to be one of the beneficiaries in that $6,000 subsidy?—A. I have no recollection personally of what was to be done or how it was to be done. There was talk that some such thing might be done.

Q. I did not ask you that. Do you recollect whether or not you were to be one of those to benefit from the subsidy?—A. I think that was perhaps the object in offering. If that was the intention I do not know; but I do know it was to settle up a difficulty.

Q. What was it you wanted?—A. Nothing came of it.

Q. What was it that you wanted, I asked?—A. I did not want anything but to get rid of my shares in the other company and my responsibility.

Q. And to induce you to get rid of your shares, Sir Hector Langevin offered to give for some company in which you were to be interested a subsidy of $6,000 a mile?—A. I do not think he made it so definite as that.

Q. You state that your only object was to get rid of your shares in the Baie des Chaleurs road?—A. Exactly.

Q. Could you not get rid of them by assigning them over?—A. They were not in a position to get rid of them in that way.

Q. Was not the real reason that you desired to get compensation for your shares?—A. I do not remember making any proposition of the kind.

Q. I did not ask you that. I asked you, was not your object in making these negotiations to get some money value for your shares?—A. Perhaps it might be so.

Q. In consideration of a money value that you were to get, Sir Hector Langevin proposed something about giving a subsidy of $6,000 to another company?—A. I said that was to settle a difficulty between his friends. I do not know that there was anything else in it than that.

Q. I will call your attention to the following letter, Exhibit "P 2," printed at page 23: "I had a meeting this afternoon with Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe on Baie des Chaleurs," is that so?—A. I suppose so, if I stated so at the time.

Q. When you say "Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe," did you mean Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Have you any doubt about it?—A. Their names are there. I wrote the letter.

Q. I want to know if you are honest and sincere, and desirous of telling the truth. When you used the names "Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe," did you mean Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron?—A. I suppose so.

Q. You are not capable of answering that question straight?—A. I am answering as straight as I can.

Q. Will you answer the simple question whether you meant Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron, when you used the names "Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe"?—A. If I wrote that at the time it must have been so.

Q. Have you any doubt about it?—A. I do not know.

Q. If you have a doubt, who might you have meant?—A. I suppose it means them, if I wrote it.

Q. Have you any doubt that you wrote the letter?—A. I do not deny that.

Q. Have you any doubt that the people to whom you referred were Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron?—A. It is very hard to say when things never turned out to anything.

Q. That is your answer to my question whether you have any doubt that the parties referred to here are Sir A. P. Caron and Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I do not think there is any doubt about those two, if I wrote about them.

Q. You have come to the conclusion now that there is no doubt?—A. I think that is the case.

Q. If you did not refer to Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron, to whom did you refer? Suggest some other parties?—A. I referred to them, if I wrote about them.

Q. Their names are mentioned here in this letter "Sir Hector and Sir Adolphe." Does that mean Sir A. P. Caron and Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I suppose so.

Q. Did not this refer to Sir Hector Langevin and Sir A. P. Caron?—A. I suppose it was so.

Q. That is the most positive answer you can give?—A. That is the most positive answer I can give you.

Q. You won't give me any more definite answer than that?—A. That is the most positive answer I can give. I supposed it to be them when I wrote the names at the time.

Q. Do you know any other Sir Hector or Sir Adolphe?—A. They are the two names that I mentioned.

Q. Are there any other two bearing these names in Canada?—A. No. If I wrote about them, they were the men that were meant.

Q. I read from your letter again, Exhibit "P2": "Sir Hector insisted on an understanding being come to." Is that Sir Hector Langevin?—A. Yes.

Q. "I refused to do so, and told him at last to let Robitaille make a proposition himself; that I was not going to make brains for him forever and let him take advantage of it. They proposed (not Caron, Sir Hector), to give me control of the road to St. Anne's, with subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if I would withdraw my opposition to B. de C. Railway and relieve me and you of our stock." Here is a definite and distinct proposition. Did you write the truth or a lie?—A. I wrote the truth.

Q. So that the proposition Sir Hector made to you at the time was that he would give you control of the road to St. Anne's?—A. He proposed it.

Q. With a subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if you would withdraw your opposition to the Baie des Chaleurs road?—A. That is it.

Q. You did not think that was enough?—A. I wanted to get rid of my stock.

Q. "To relieve you and me of our stock?"—A. The negotiation never took place.

Q. Did you refuse that proposition?—A. Yes.

Q. Because you did not think it enough?—A. That is not the reason. I did not want anything to do with it. I did not want any more railways. I had enough before that.

Q. You did not like the character of the proposition he made?—A. That was not the reason.

Q. You said you did not want anything to do with other railways. What you wanted was the cash value?—A. I did not want any value at all. I wanted to get rid of my stock and the responsibility of paying up $50,000.

Q. Why did you refuse the offer of the control of the road to St. Anne's with a subsidy of $6,000 per mile?—A. Because I did not want it.

Q. Was it because you thought it was not enough?—A. I swear that I did not want anything to do with it. That is, the road down to Charlevoix.

Q. How many miles was that?—A. Sixty miles. A man must be a madman to try and build a road for $6,000 a mile over the mountains.

Q. The proposition was not enough?—A. I have given my answer. I refused it. I did not want it.

Q. This was the St. Anne's road. You were to get control of the road to St. Ann's. That is not the road to Charlevoix?—A. It is the Quebec and Charlevoix Railway.

Q. This is the road to St. Anne's?—A. It is the same road.

Q. He did not propose to give you control of the road to Charlevoix?—It did not only go to St. Anne's, but—

Q. At any rate, the particular offer you had you would not accept?—A. I did not accept.

Q. You did not accept because you had them in a fix?—A. I did not say that.

Q. Read your own letter then: "They proposed (not Caron, Sir Hector) to give me control of road to St. Anne's with subsidy of $6,000 per mile, if I would withdraw my opposition to Baie des Chaleurs Railway, and relieve you and me of our stock. They are in a complete fix?"—A. I suppose they were. I wanted to get rid of my stock, and I wanted to keep them there until I got rid of my stock.

Q. You had them in a fix?—A. I did not think the organization was a legal one, and I wanted to get out of it.

Q. You afterwards sold out for $42,000?—A. I got no money. Robert McGreevy got the money and it was paid out in various ways.

Q. And you admitted it?—A. I think I stated how it was paid in another Court below. Some $19,000 or $20,000 went to the local election in Quebec.

Q. And $8,000 went to Thomas?—A. I want to finish. I got that $8,000 to reimburse myself for moneys spent on the local election.

Q. I am coming to that in a minute. In the meantime, I want to make it clear that you did not accept Sir Hector's proposition, but you afterward took the money proposition that Armstrong made to you.—A. I made no bargain with Armstrong or anybody, because I transferred all the shares to Robert.

Q. You were still the beneficiary owner?—A. I knew nothing about it until he furnished his account.

Q. You claim in a plea in a suit with him that you were entitled to the whole of it?—A. I may have done it. The pleas he put in must be millions in different ways.

Q. Was there another $8,000 that you were in negotiation with subsequently with Mr. Armstrong?—A. No. I have no recollection of that. Mr. Armstrong had no right to pay me any money and I received no money from him.

Q. You know Armstrong's writing?—A. I do.

Q. Look at that letter which is on file.—A. I saw it yesterday.

Q. Is that Mr. Armstrong's writing?—A. I think so. It is addressed to me but I have no recollection of ever seeing the letter. It is not in my possession.

Q. This is a letter in Mr. Armstrong's writing addressed to the Hon. Thomas McGreevy Quebec, which I think has been read, in which he is seeking to get time for the payment of $8,000. What did he write to you for asking an extension of time for a payment?—A. I do not know why.

Q. "I offered your brother to get my father's endorsation &c." He is asking you there for delay in the payment of $8,000. Did you grant that delay?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. Your memory is a blank?—A. Yes, on that and on the letter too. That letter was not in my possession. You see how it is brought here. It should have been in my possession.

Q. I ask you, is your memory a blank upon it? If it is I will stop.—A. I am prepared to admit anything I have done.

Q. Is your memory a blank with respect to the application of Armstrong for delay?—A. I see Armstrong's letter to that effect.

Q. Answer my question.—A. I saw the letter here for the first time.

Q. I ask you if you have any memory outside of that letter?—A. That is my answer.

Q. Have you any memory with respect to the $8,000 mentioned in that letter?—A. That is my answer.

Q. You won't answer me if you have a memory on that?—A. I have a fair memory.

Q. On that subject?—A. Every subject.

Q. Have you with reference to Armstrong's $8,000, for which it is alleged he applied for an extension of time?—A. What have I to do with Armstrong?

Q. What do you say?—A. I do not know.

Q. Do you know whether you have a memory on that subject?—A. I have answered that, too.

Q. Listen now. Do you recollect anything about that $8,000 and Armstrong applying for an extension of time with regard to its payment beyond what you see in that letter?—A. I remember seeing the letter and I do not remember anything else about it. I have no doubt he must have written me the letter, and the letter has got out of my possession.

Q. Do you have any doubt of the facts which he wrote about and that they are not mythical; that the $8,000 he applied for an extension of time to pay must have existed? He must have owed it to you?—A. He did not owe it to me. The letter was put in here by Robert McGreevy, I suppose.

Q. Do you believe that Armstrong was applying to you for an extension of time for $8,000 he did not owe you?—A. I tell you again that he did not owe it to me.

Q. What did he want an extension of time to pay you for?—A. I suppose he asked me to speak to Robert about it.

Q. "I telegraphed to-day hoping to have a favourable reply for you about the payment of $8,000 as spoken about last week." Did he speak to you about $8,000 in the previous week?—A. I have no recollection of it.

Q. "I suppose your brother will have seen you about it on Tuesday. I understood he would be in Quebec to-morrow, but I am writing him to River du Loup in case he should be there. I think an extension of time should be granted to me." He is pleading for a delay about the $8,000 about which he spoke to you. Is that all imaginary?—A. I do not remember that he spoke to me about it.

Q. Do you say this is a pure matter of imagination?—A. I suppose he had money to pay to Robert McGreevy.

Q. This is to you.—A. He might write fifty letters to me. I tell you I had no negotiation with Armstrong—no agreement with him. That should be satisfactory; call Mr. Armstrong.

Q. Why should he write to you about the payment of $8,000 and offer you new security?—A. I have no right to give an opinion about what he thinks.

Q. If he did not owe you the money?—A. I told you I have no recollection of the transaction at all. I had no connection with Armstrong or any agreement with him. I have explained that about twenty times.

Q. I want to see your cash book for 1883 which you have produced here. While it is coming I want to bring you to the payment of the moneys you received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.—A. I received no moneys from Larkin, Connolly & Co. What do you mean?

Q. I wanted to bring you to the payment of the moneys you received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. For the amount of contributions? Yes.

Q. You understand what we are talking about?—A. Yes.

Q. How much do you say you received from them?—A. $55,000.

Q. You are very clear about the amount?—A. Pretty much so.

Q. In what payments did you receive it?—A. There was $15,000, as I explained in the first instance.

Q. What year?—A. I knew it in 1884 for the first time. The $15,000 that was to be given to the fund—the political fund—and then in the fall of that year—

Q. In what year was that?—A. 1884, and $25,000 during the same year.

Q. Did you not get $25,000 in 1883?—A. No, I did not.

Q. You did not get the notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co. for $15,000 in 1883?—A. I did not understand anything of the sort.

Q. I ask you, as a simple matter of fact, did you receive Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s notes—three for $5,000, each in the year 1883?—A. I did not.

Q. Then you have a clear memory about that?—A. Yes. I have gone over it pretty often.

Q. You are quite sure about that, and I need not press you any further?—A. I am quite clear.

Q. You say that there were $15,000 which you received in the first place, and then afterwards how much?—A. $10,000.

Q. That was in the year 1884?—A. In the end of 1884.

Q. And these two payments make $25,000, that is the $15,000 and the $10,000—that you paid to Lamont?—A. Yes.

Q. To whom did you pay that?—A. To Mr. Vanasse.

Q. Have you any entries in any of the books showing the payment and to whom it was made?—A. No, I keep no entries of that kind.

Q. Why?—A. On account of the character of the transaction.

Q. You don't keep entries of transactions of that character?—A. No.

Q. You think you paid that to Mr. Vanasse?—A. Yes.

Q. But your books would not show any entries of any kind or description?—A. My books would show nothing of it. I never entered these payments in the books at all.

Q. So that whatever moneys you received from Larkin, Connolly & Co. they would not appear on the books, so that we could not have any opportunity of tracing them there?—A. No; there were no entries made respecting them.

Q. Now, subsequently to this, in 1887, how much did you receive?—A. During 1884, 1885, or 1886, there was $10,000 more.

Q. About what date?—A. I have no dates to give; I never kept any dates.

Q. You can tell somewhere nearer surely than 1885 or 1886?—A. I made it a rule not to keep any dates.

Q. You kept no dates?—A. That is correct. You may take it as the truth.

Q. I am admitting the cleverness of it. I think it is an excellent idea. So there is no entry, no memorandum or anything of the kind. You simply state that you received $10,000. Can you tell us from whom you received it?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. In what amounts?—A. Two sums of $5,000 each. I think they were $5,000 each.

Q. You are not sure whether it was $5,000 more or less?—A. I think it was $5,000 each time.

Q. That would make $35,000?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the next?—A. I received $15,000 during the election in January and February, 1887, $10,000 and $5,000. The $5,000 was later on.

Q. This would make up $55,000?—A. Yes.

Q. So that you are perfectly sure about the amount apparently?—A. Pretty sure. The amounts are pretty large, and I have no doubt about them.

Q. Will you be enabled by your memory, which appears to be very bad in many points, to say how you can trust your memory as regards those amounts?—A. I had memoranda from time to time.

Q. Do you produce them or any of them before this Committee?—A. No, I destroyed them.

Q. That is a pity. These memoranda would enable us to see exactly what the amounts were?—A. I know the amounts but nothing else.

Q. Do you remember being examined about this matter in the Court of the Province of Quebec?—A. I do.

Q. Were you as particular about the exact amounts then as now?—A. I do not know whether I was or not.

Q. Do you remember what you said the amount was then?—A. I said then it was between $50,000 and $60,000.

Q. Then you went over the thing afterwards and found it was $55,000. Is that so?—A. It was $55,000.

Q. I will read you what you said before the Court in Quebec:—"Q. Well, about how much did you get from Larkin, Connolly & Co. in this way?" Objected to. Objection over-ruled. "A. Oh, I could not state—about in the vicinity of $50,000 or $60,000 in the eight or nine years, at different times. As to the amounts and when I received them I cannot tell exactly. I did not give any receipts for it, and didn't keep any particular account for political money. Q. Now, is it not a fact that you received over $100,000?—A. I did not. Q. You did not?—A. I did not. Q. How can you be so positive?—A. I am positive because I would have known. I would have found it somewhere." Now where would you get the amount that you would have found?—A. I would have found it somewhere.

Q. That shows you had some memorandum of it?—A. I had some bits of sheets of paper, but I made it a rule to destroy them. I kept no memorandum relating to political money. I did it so that nothing could be discovered.

Q. Then you proceeded to say in the Court below: "Q. How can you be so positive if you say you kept no account?—A. I am positive because I looked over it, it is on the little small slips where I paid it to—generally—sometimes, and I never could find out anything more than about $50,000 or $60,000." Now, it was because you could not find some slips of paper that you came to that conclusion?—A. I found out pretty nearly what I had got.

Q. How did you find out?—A. By examination of the slips of paper.

Q. When did you examine them?—A. Oh, I had them from time to time.

Q. When did you have them?—A. I do not think I had them for the last two years.

Q. Did you have them at the time the examination took place?—A. No. I wont say when I had them.

Q. Did you have those slips of paper at the time the examination was made?—A. I do not think so. I went there quite unprepared.

Q. How long previously to that had you destroyed them?—A. They had been destroyed from year to year,

Q. Just now you said that about two years ago you destroyed them. If you had destroyed them from year to year how were you able to swear in the Court below that you looked over the little slips of paper, and that you could not find more than $50,000 or $60,000 from them?—A. Yes.

Q. So that you must have had the slips of paper to look over?—A. I must have had them previous to that for some time.

Q. How long previously?—A. I can not tell you.

Q. You must have kept them up to a certain date, because you say you looked over them and found that it was from fifty to sixty thousand dollars according to these slips given to the people to whom you paid the moneys?—A. Yes.

Q. You were asked: "How can you be so positive, if, as you say, you kept no account of it?—A. I am positive because I looked over it. It is on the little small slips where I paid it to."—A. Oh, no; that is a mistake.

Q. Did you not say so?—A. That is not what I said.

Q. The Court below is wrong then?—A. That is not taken down right.

Q. Did you sign it?—A. The answer is put down wrong, because it was intended for the amount I received and not paid.

Q. Then you did not say what is sworn to here?—A. I did not give an account to whom I paid it.

Q. You do not adhere to the statement that you had little slips of paper showing to whom it was paid?—A. I only showed the amount of money I received.

Q. That you received—that makes it all the worse. So that you received moneys and you put them on little slips of paper?—A. There were little slips.

Q. Those little slips did not show to whom you paid the money out, but from whom you received it?—A. Yes; they had the amounts I received, but I put no names down.

Q. Why did you destroy the papers then? They could give no evidence against anybody?—A. Because I did not want to keep them.

Q. How long before this examination took place had you these papers?—I cannot tell exactly. It was sometime before.

Q. You must have had them some little time before to make this up?—A. I think it is a year and a half ago—more than a year and a half ago.

Q. Q. How long before that had you destroyed the slips of paper?—A. It must have been after the 1887 elections.

Q. How long after?—A. Sometime during that year.

Q. Had you the slips up to that time?—A. I believe so.

Q. Was it after the revelations made by Mr. Tarte?—A. No.

Q. Will you swear that?—A. I will swear that.

Q. Will you swear that you kept them all those years up to 1887?—A. I cannot tell. I put the amounts on those slips of paper, ten, fifteen, five and so on.

Q. There was no object in destroying them?—A. Well, no; it was done because I did not want to keep them. I am speaking plain enough.

Q. But you were speaking far from plain in the Court below. You stated what is not true if the report is correct?—A. I did not say that. I say that is misunderstood in the way it is put down. I was speaking at the time of the moneys I received.

Q. You were asked: "How can you be so positive if you kept no account," and you said: "It is on little small slips of paper where I paid it to."—A. I say again that is a mistake.

Q. All right. It is a mistake.—A. That must be a mistake, because I was speaking of the amounts I received at the time.

Q. You say you were enabled to tell by the slips of paper showing to whom you paid it, but that is not what you say now?—A. I did not say that. I was dealing with the amounts received, not the amounts paid.

Q. Do you say that you never took receipts from people showing how you paid the money. (Counsel objects.)—A. I have taken no receipts for the money I paid.

Q. Did you say that you did not take receipts from the parties to whom you paid the money?—A. I object to answer that.

Q. I am not asking you for the parties now. I am asking you did you take receipts?—A. Not in all cases.

Q. In many cases?—A. I think I have no right to answer that question.

Q. Will you answer it?—A. I must refuse to answer.

Q. You refuse to answer whether you took receipts or not?—A. Yes. Because you wish me to explain a private matter.

Q. I do not want to pry into private matters outside the inquiry. You will find I treat you fairly in the matter. I do not want to go into matters that we have no business with. But I want to know, as a matter of fact, did you take receipts from the parties to whom you paid the money?—A. Well, I had other moneys besides that.

Q. That is not an answer to my question. Please answer this one question: Did you or did you not take the receipts from the parties to whom you paid the money?—A. Not that money particularly.

Q. In the political moneys that you paid out?—A. In some cases I did.

Q. Would you make any exceptions in the political moneys received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Well, I will tell you this money was spent in the general election of 1887. I had other moneys besides that, and they were all mixed together.

Q. I am going to put my question plainly and simply. I ask you, did you yourself take receipts when you paid that money out?—A. Not for this particular money.

Q. Will you swear you took no receipts at all?—A. I do not remember, it was all mixed up together.

Q. Cannot you give some more sensible explanation than that?—A. I am not a lawyer. I am trying to give it as well as I can, without making a breach of confidence.

Q. Do I understand you to say that you took no receipts for this money?—A. I could not distinguish them from the others. I may have mixed them all up together.

Q. Have you got any receipts?—A. I think I have.

Q. Would they enable you to tell how much money you did get?—A. They would not. They are mixed up with others—the other moneys I had; I got them in confidence. I will not make a breach of confidence.

Q. I will ask you again to answer my question?—A. I have a large number of receipts covering a much larger amount than that but there is no distinguishing between them. The money is all mixed up together; I cannot distinguish between the two.

Q. The receipts which you have may be for this money or other moneys?—A. I could not say which is which. This was given to me in confidence and I could not distinguish one from the other.

Q. You put it into the general fund and this $55,000 formed part of the general fund?—A. $35,000 went to Le Monde newspaper; it was about that altogether and the other $20,000 went for the elections.

Q. And that $20,000 is mixed up with the other moneys?—A. Yes.

Q. You have receipts for that money and you decline to produce them?—A. I decline because it would not give the amount.

Q. You refuse absolutely to produce them?—A. Yes.

Q. Have you any memorandum or data besides the receipts to enable you to determine how much you received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No.

Q. The only data you had, was a piece of paper you destroyed a couple of years ago?—A. Sometime ago; yes.

Q. I understand you to say that O. E. Murphy was not a man with whom you had any dealings particularly in 1883?—A. No.

Q. You hardly knew the man?—A. I did not know him to have any business transactions with him. I saw him about the place.

Q. Business transactions between you and him in 1883 would be out of the question, and you had none? Would it surprise you if part of the very money with which you paid off the judgment obtained against you in the Supreme Court was received by you from O. E. Murphy?—A. It would surprise me very much. I told you here yesterday that I gave a note for $3,000 to my brother. He came and asked me for it.

Q. You say you raised part of the money by a note?—A. I gave a note to my brother for $3,000.

Q. That note was payable to yourself and Robert McGreevy endorsed it?—A. Yes.

Q. Are you aware that you got part of that money from O. E. Murphy?—A. I know nothing about it. I gave the note to Robert McGreevy. I will tell you that had not known anything about it until I saw that note charged in the account he furnished to me afterwards, as having been got from Murphy.

Q. That was many years afterwards—about a year and a-half ago?—A. Yes.

Q. But the transaction I am speaking of was 6 or 7 years ago I am talking about 1883 at a time when you swore you had no business transaction with Murphy and hardly knew him?—A. I knew very little about him.

Q. And you swore that you had no business transactions with him?—A. No.

Q. As I understand it you got the $15,000 by three notes of hand in 1883?—A. I did not get it at all. I got no notes at all. I explained that yesterday.

Q. I want to see now if you know anything about this matter at all. Is it not a fact that all the $15,000 you say you received, came to you in three notes of hand of Larkin, Connolly & Co.'s and which you discounted with Mr. Hearn and Mr. Thomson?—A. I did not.

Q. Do you deny that?—A. I never saw the notes.

Q. Is it not a fact that they were discounted for you and the money got by you?—A. I said before that it was Robert McGreevy who undertook to settle the judgment of the Supreme Court against me. He undertook to settle it and I gave him a note of $3,000 as I did not want to sell any stocks at that time when they were low. He undertook to settle the judgment for me.

Q. Here are the notes of $5,000 each (Exhibit "W7") two of them endorsed by Mr. Hearn, a gentleman from Quebec who swears he discounted them for you when they were presented to him by Robert McGreevy or your clerk Chaloner. Do you doubt that?—A. I do not doubt that at all.

Q. Do you doubt that this is the medium through which the $15,000 came to you?—A. I did not know anything about the notes at the time.

Q. Will you look at your cash book?—A. I have never seen my cash book. It was Mr. Chaloner who kept it.

Q. Your clerk Chaloner kept it?—A. Ask him to explain. I understand he will be here.

Q. That is your cash book, is it not?—A. That is mine. It is in Mr. Chaloner's handwriting.

Q. At page 170 on the date July 23rd, 1883, I see this entry :

“ To Thomas McGreevy—Ck. John Hearn.....	$9,441 36
“ Andrew Thomson, proceeds $5,000.....	4,903 15
Immediately below that I see, to R.H. McGreevy per O.E.M.	2,500 00

Making a total of..... $16,844 51 in all.

On the other side of the account I see :

“North Shore Railway, McCarron and Cameron, (that is the judgment $16,541.59 and some $4,500 of your own.) Is that entry in your cash book, dated the 23rd of July showing where the money came from, true or false?—A. You will have to get Mr. Chaloner to answer that. I never saw the entry.

Q. Are not those the notes?—(Exhibit “W 7”)—A. I told you I never saw the notes.

Q. Do you know Mr. Hearn's signature?—A. I know it very well.

Q. Is that his signature on the notes?—(No answer.)

Q. Do you mean to tell this Committee that there may be a doubt about the correctness of your cash book?—A. I wont swear to the correctness or non-correctness.

Q. You furnished $10 of the amount from your own pocket and got $2,500 from Murphy? Have you no explanation of that?—A. I have not.

Q. That satisfies you altogether that you were in error when you said you got nothing from Murphy?—A. Not at all.

Q. Did you get the money from Murphy?—A. I never got it from Murphy, I got it from Robert McGreevy.

Q. Although it is entered in your cash book as obtained from Murphy?—A. You must get Chaloner to explain that. I never saw the entry until we began to examine the books here the other day. It is in Mr. Chaloner's handwriting.

Q. You swore yesterday that the $15,000, which came from them went to pay the judgment?—A. Afterwards.

Q. You stated at the time?—A. From the statement he gave me I understood he was going to pay it himself on account of his debt.

Q. Did you not ask him if he could raise the money and he told you he could?—A. Yes. He told me he had some accommodation notes.

Q. Some accommodation notes of Larkin, Connolly & Co?—A. He did not mention any names, until he mentioned that they came from Murphy.

Q. These notes (Exhibit “W 7”) you are satisfied now are the identical notes?—A. I see the names of those people on them.

Q. Have you any idea of their being the identical notes entered in the cash book?—A. I never saw the notes at all. I told you that before.

Q. The Accountant informs me that the $10, I referred to had nothing to do with the $16,844.51?—A. Mr. Chaloner will explain everything about those entries.

Q. At any rate, we have got so far that you got the $15,000?—A. I got it as it was explained by me before.

Q. You said afterwards you reimbursed that amount?—A. I stated that in an interview the summer afterwards, or the next year, he told me that he would, in place of me charging it to his own debt, contribute it for the company we were getting up for Le Monde newspaper. He allowed that $10,000 to go toward the $15,000.

Q. You stated that when you subsequently found out the source from which that $15,000 came, that you yourself reimbursed it to the political fund?—A. So I did.

Q. When?—A. The next year after. As far as the political fund was concerned, it was largely in debt to me even at that time.

Q. Will you tell the Committee when you reimbursed that $15,000?—A. I have already stated between the fall of 1884 and 1885.

Q. Can you give me the date?—A. I cannot. I gave it for the purpose of Le Monde newspaper.

Q. Can't you give me the dates?—A. I tell you I paid the money.

Q. Can you give me the dates?—A. I tell you I paid the $25,000.

Q. Can you tell me the date? You say that some time afterward you discovered the source from which this $15,000 came, and you then reimbursed the political fund with $15,000 of your own. If you did that we can trace it in your books somewhere. Can you give me the date when you repaid that $15,000?—A. I paid Le Monde newspaper $25,000 for 1884 and the beginning of 1885. That is all I can give you.

Q. The money you paid Le Monde newspaper you have explained already. It is the $10,000 you received from Robert the following year. I want to know when you repaid the $15,000 to the political fund?—A. When I gave it to Le Monde newspaper.

Q. When?—A. I cannot tell. I gave this without receipts.

Q. Can you tell within the year?—A. Yes; I think I have already stated that I paid the amount sometime between the summer or fall of 1884 and the commencement of 1885.

Q. You made it in two payments to Le Monde?—A. Two or three payments.

Q. You do not remember the payments?—A. I do not.

Q. Have you any entry in your cash book, bank book, private book or any other book to show when you made this payment?—A. Nothing.

Q. Nothing but your simple word?—A. That is all I have.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. Was it paid in money or cheques?—A. That I cannot tell either.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. You do not even remember whether it was paid in money or cheques?—A. I think it was chiefly paid in money. It might be cheques. I do not remember. There might be some in cheques and some in money.

Q. You are delightfully uncertain in these matters?—A. Very much so.

Q. I want to ask you the question that was asked Mr. Robert McGreevy by Mr. Stuart, whether or not you handed these notes to Mr. Robert McGreevy so that he could go and get them discounted. "Is it not the case," Mr. Stuart asks "that Thomas McGreevy gave you some of those notes to get them discounted to meet the judgment in the case of McCarron & Cameron." Did you or did you not give them to Robert to get them discounted?—A. I did not. I never handled them.

Q. Mr. Stuart asks: "Did he not give you those notes in the course of the month of July or August, 1883, for the purpose of getting some of them discounted to pay the judgment in the case of McCarron & Cameron?" To this the witness replied: "He may have given me one, but I know that John Hearn and Mr. Chaloner, his book-keeper, got some of them to get discounted." Did you or did you not?—A. I never handled them or saw them until I saw them here.

Q. With reference to your communication with Robert I understand you to pledge your oath that you did not know of his connection with Larkin, Connolly & Co., as a partner of the firm, for years afterward?—A. I did not know anything about his interest in the firm until 1888 or 1889.

Q. And you had yourself no interest in the firm whatever?—A. Not a cent.

Q. At the time when the Cross-wall tenders came in, did you take any means to let them know what was going on in the Department at Ottawa?—A. I gave them such information as I have explained.

Q. Why did you give any information to Robert McGreevy about the Cross-wall when he had nothing to do with it?—A. He was writing to me, and these men were political supporters of mine.

Q. Who?—A. Larkin, Connolly & Co. I would be glad to help them without doing anything wrong.

Q. You were interesting yourself because they were political friends?—A. Nothing else.

Q. At page 17, in your letter to Robert, of the 7th of May (Exhibit "C 2"), you say: "I hope to let you know to-morrow about the result of the Cross-wall tenders."

Have your arrangements right with Beauceage before the result is known. I will give you timely notice." Why did you want him to have his arrangements made with Beauceage?—A. I do not know. I explained it all before.

Q. What interest had you in it?—A. I explained it before. I had no interest more than being a friend. I would do anything I could to help them.

Q. Why did you want to have arrangements with Beauceage before the result was known?—A. It was in answer to a letter from him that has disappeared.

Q. Was it not that if the tender fell to Beauceage they would have control of that tender?—A. I do not know that particularly.

Q. What did you mean by saying you would give them timely notice?—A. Particulars of the tender.

Q. Did you not mean to hasten that arrangement?—A. I did.

Q. How?—A. What I gave them was from Mr. Boyd.

Q. Nothing you received was from Mr. Perley or Sir Hector Langevin?—A. They did not know anything about it, either of them. They could not do anything about it until Mr. Boyd made his report.

Q. Although the tenders were in the Public Works Department and were being opened by Perley?—A. They were opened in Quebec.

Q. And the extension figures put in by Mr. Boyd had to be added up by Perley and a report made by Perley to the Minister?—A. That is not the way of it.

Q. Mr. Perley has sworn he added them up and reported to the Minister.—A. Everything was extended by Mr. Boyd.

Q. Are you prepared to say that Mr. Perley's statement here on that point is false?—A. I will not say anything about Mr. Perley.

Q. Mr. Perley swore he added up these columns himself.—A. They were all extended by Mr. Boyd.

Q. And Perley made the report to the Minister; are you prepared to say that Perley and the Minister had nothing to do with it?—A. Not up to this time.

Q. What time?—A. Up to the time Mr. Boyd made his extension, and then he handed them to Mr. Perley.

Q. You are writing about the result of the tenders; that is the result that was expected?—A. That is after going to Council; but he knew the relative position in which he stood.

Q. "I hope to let you know to-morrow about the result of the Cross-wall tender." Does that not mean what tender would be accepted?—A. No; it is only when it comes from Council I would let him know the result. The items had been extended according to the prices, and they would be all added up so as to show the relative position of each.

Q. Did that show which was the lowest tenderer?—A. Yes.

Q. You said that you would let them know?—A. That was after it went to Council.

Q. What right would you have to know the result of these tenders before they were reported upon by Mr. Perley and by the Minister to Council?—A. Mr. Boyd came to me. I met him in the square here, and he told me he had finished his extensions and had given them to Mr. Perley, and that there was some difference in some of the items that they could not explain; that he had to refer the matter to Perley to get explained; but he was finished.

Q. He did not give you the result?—A. He told me about how things stood.

Q. Did he tell you how the tenders stood, and which was the highest and lowest?—A. He could not tell.

Q. If he could not tell, and you could not get it from Boyd, and you wrote to your brother that you would let him know to-morrow the result, and asking him to have his arrangement made with Beauceage, and you would give him timely notice—where did you expect to get that information from?—A. I had no information from any other person.

Q. You say Mr. Boyd was not able to give you that?—A. He could give me the amount of each tender with the exception of some error in the words.

Q. But you have just stated not two minutes ago that Mr. Boyd was unable to give you that result?—A. He reported that to Mr. Perley; but he could not tell what Mr. Perley would do on those things.

Q. You promised to obtain information and give him timely notice. What did you mean by that?—A. He wanted to know as soon as possible.

Q. If your brother had no connection with the firm, what were you writing to him to make his arrangement with Beaucage for?—A. I have explained that a dozen of times already.

Q. And you have no further explanation?—A. I have nothing further than I have already explained.

Q. In that very year you wrote to your brother saying that "Murphy might approach O'Brien about that matter?"—A. That is not that matter.

Q. I know. But when you wrote to your brother about what Murphy might do, could you say you had no relation with Murphy?—A. I had no relation or business with Murphy.

Q. This letter must be understood?—A. It is in answer to Robert McGreevy.

Q. You say "Murphy might approach O'Brien about the matter. All the others might be passed over?"—A. Some of the Quebecers wanted that job down there.

Q. Why did you recommend Murphy?—A. I did not recommend him. He was a political friend at the time.

Q. In this letter of the 17th of May you wrote to your brother Robert: "As I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan and as quick as possible in answer to the letter that Gallagher and Beaucage will receive about their tenders?"—A. I have already explained that.

Q. "To bring them over Larkin and Connolly so as their tender will be the lowest?"—A. I have explained that.

Q. "The contract will be awarded from Ottawa direct." Where did you get that information from?—A. I have already explained that before.

Q. Explain it again?—A. I have explained it already.

Q. What letter did you mean Beaucage and Gallagher would receive?—A. Something about the differences or errors in their tenders.

Q. From whom did you get your information?—A. From Mr. Boyd.

Q. Now, sir, Mr. Boyd did not write the letters, and the letters are here in evidence?—A. Mr. Boyd told me what would take place. He gave the figures to Mr. Perley. He was the Engineer of the Harbour Commissioners at the time.

Q. Why were you anxious he should get a good plan as quick as possible to bring Gallagher and Beaucage higher than Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. It was in answer in his own letter.

Q. Why were you anxious to bring Larkin, Connolly & Co. down below Gallagher and Beaucage?—A. I have explained that.

Q. Are you able to give any explanation except on the assumption that you wanted them to get it?—A. I would be glad for them to get it. I was in favour of them getting it.

Q. Why did you want them? For political reasons?—A. It might have been.

Q. Or that they might contribute to the funds?—A. That might be. You can put it that way if you like.

Q. If I put it that way, I would not be far wrong, I suppose?—A. I suppose not.

Q. Now, you never saw Mr. Perley at all about these matters? How is it that on the 16th of April you wrote "My dear Robert,—I have just seen Perley about the dredging. I have arranged to meet him on Monday to discuss his dredging report before he sends it to the Harbour Commissioners; also other matters about the Graving Dock?"—A. I was a Harbour Commissioner, and I think I was right in doing so, acting in that capacity.

Q. Did you not see him about the dredging and induce him to recommend the 35 cents?—A. I did not.

Q. Did you discuss it? A. I think not.

Q. Did you report to your brother that he would recommend it?—A. I suppose I might have done so.

Q. Did you report to your brother that they were going to recommend it with conditions attached that would not amount to anything?—A. I suppose he wrote to me asking for information.

Q. The conditions were trifling?—A. The conditions were important. The conditions were that the Harbour Commissioners might have stopped it at any time they wanted to get the dredging done, because the Cross-wall was about finished.

Q. Then, sir, you wrote a statement which was not true, to your brother?—A. What is that?

Q. The statement to your brother, "My dear Robert, I have just seen Perley on dredging. I think he will report on 35 cents and put some conditions which will amount to nothing. He will report when I will be there." Did you write that to your brother?—A. I wrote him after that.

Q. Did you write that to your brother?—A. I must have written it.

Q. Did you go on to say he "will report when I will be there?"—A. I did not happen to be there. As it turned out I was not present.

A. What did you mean by that, saying that "Perley will report when I will be there?"—A. Well, he reported when I was not there.

Q. What did you mean by that?—A. I cannot remember.

Q. You have no explanation to give of these letters then?—A. No, nothing further than I have already given.

Q. Now, there is one more question that I want to ask you, in connection with the statement made in your letter of the 1st March, 1886. You say there, to your brother Robert, "Fleming was to have signed his report to-day on Harbour Works. It will be shown to me as soon as signed. I will see to it to-morrow, and Sir Hector and myself will decide what is to be done for the future. He will adopt my views. I will see you and Murphy about it before doing anything. It is a big thing for the future." What ground had you for stating that Sir Hector would adopt your views?—A. I was discussing this matter of the South-wall with him. I had a different view from what some of the others held. Mr. Boyd was there. I discussed the matter and told him what the Harbour Commissioners thought. I think he partly agreed with me.

Q. You were perfectly satisfied that he would adopt your views at the time?—A. Yes.

Q. You say, "Sir Hector and myself will decide what is to be done for the future, it is a big thing for the future?"—A. Yes, for Quebec.

Q. There is no "Quebec" here?—A. No.

Q. It was necessary to see Mr. Murphy—Was he interested in the future of Quebec very much?—A. Yes, he has property there.

Q. Are you serious in that?—A. No, I am not serious.

Q. We will come down to serious swearing. You say, "I will see you and Murphy about it, before doing anything." Why did you want to see these men?—A. I have already explained the whole thing.

Q. What explanation can you give?—A. It was written to Robert and Murphy as political friends. I was glad to show that I was doing something for them to help them.

Q. What explanation have you for saying I will see you and Murphy. Does it not show that you were in consultation with Murphy over the work?—A. It was a matter that Robert inquired about.

Q. Did you write falsehoods?—A. No, I do not think I did.

Q. You cannot give any other explanation of your use of the words: "It is a big thing for the future?"—A. It was a big thing.

Q. Might I venture to suggest that you thought it was a big thing for Larkin, Connolly & Co., and their friends?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Your memory is a blank upon this?

No answer.

Q. This man Murphy appears to crop up nearly everywhere. I will take a letter of the 26th February, 1886, you say: "I wrote you yesterday about Halifax Graving Dock. Sir Hector would be glad to recommend Murphy. The way for them to do would be to apply to the company in England, offering to build the dock for them, stating that they built the one in Quebec, and were finishing the one in British Columbia, and referring to the Minister of Public Works of Canada as to their ability to do the work." Did you recommend Murphy as a contractor—is that correct?—A. It is perfectly true. I think I spoke to Sir Hector about it.

Q. When you say: "referring to the Minister of Public Works of Canada as to their ability to do the work" had you the authority of Sir Hector about that?—A. As a political friend I had his authority.

Q. Had you his authority for writing that statement?—A. I must have spoken to him. I think I did speak to him.

Q. Is it not a fact that you and Murphy were on confidential terms, and that you were prepared to recommend him for the Halifax dock?—A. I tell you he was a good political friend.

Q. You were prepared to recommend him?—A. Yes, I spoke to Sir Hector.

Q. At that time did you know Murphy's history?—A. I know his political history in Quebec.

Q. Did you know about his transactions in New York?—A. I do not think I knew much about him until 1887.

Q. You heard about him?—A. I heard something, but I never saw the New York papers.

Q. But you heard the matter spoken about?—A. Yes. I may have heard it.

Q. Still, notwithstanding that, you were prepared to recommend him yourself and Sir Hector gave you to understand that he would recommend him?—A. I think so. It was a political recommendation.

Q. Oh, it is all political, of course. Now, sir, one more question. You spoke about recouping this money that went to the contributions that went for the local elections in 1886. What does that amount to?—A. I think they amounted to—Oh, I cannot remember.

Counsel objects.

Q. I would ask you, sir, quietly, can you tell us how much you contributed to the local elections in 1886?

Counsel objects.

Q. Will you answer?—A. I will tell you that this money was contributed to the local elections of 1886—in the fall of that year. It came from the moneys of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway. I did not contribute it.

Q. How much was it?—A. I cannot remember; it is in Robert's account.

Q. How much was it?—A. It was a certain amount—I cannot tell how much. It was given in the Courts at Quebec.

Q. Was it $10,000?—A. Oh, it was more than that.

Q. Was it more than $14,000?—A. It was somewhere about that; a pretty large amount.

Q. It came out of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway?—A. Yes.

Q. All the contributions you made in 1886 were contributions you made out of the shares of the railway?—A. That is for the local elections.

Q. And the amount was $14,000 or $15,000?—A. I cannot state the amount now.

Q. Was it more than $10,000?—A. It was more than $10,000.

Q. Was it $14,000?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Was it between $10,000 and $15,000?—A. I do not remember; at any rate it was a large amount.

Q. Can you or can you not give me any idea as to the amount you paid in the elections of 1886 out of the Baie des Chaleurs Railway fund?—A. I cannot state exactly.

Q. You cannot give any idea?—A. I cannot. I think I gave some idea of the cheques when they were shown to me before.

Q. I am willing to take your word for it. If you say you cannot give me any idea as to whether it was $15,000 or $20,000 I will ask no more?—A. I do not think it was as much as $20,000.

Q. Was it somewhere in that neighbourhood?—A. No, it was less than that.

Q. Less than $20,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you swear how much less?—A. I cannot.

By Mr. German :

Q. You say that the $15,000 which came from your brother to pay the judgment of McCarron & Cameron, that these three notes were a portion of the $55,000 you received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. You have stated that in 1884, when you wished to raise $15,000 for political purposes, you spoke to your brother about it and you paid that $15,000 out of your own pocket?—A. I paid that with another $10,000 during that year and the next for Le Monde newspaper.

Q. $10,000 you got from your brother?—A. Yes.

Q. And the $15,000 came out of your own pocket?—A. Yes; to reimburse what had been paid for me.

Q. Where did you get the $15,000?—A. I could not tell you.

Q. Did you not get it from your brother?—A. Yes; I got $84,000 on account of the amount paid him on the Intercolonial Railway contract. He owed me the money.

Q. You got $84,000 from the Government?—A. No; from Robert McGreevy; he owed me.

Q. You knew that that money was to come to you?—A. Yes; because I had advanced him the money.

Q. When it was voted you knew it would come to you?—A. I did. Yes; I expected it.

Q. You were a member of Parliament and voted the money?—A. That has nothing to do with it.

Q. Is that a fact?—A. That was in 1884.

Q. I know it was in 1884. You were a member of Parliament at the time and voted the money?—A. I had no interest in the contract. I made the advances to him to carry him on through a difficult time, and I had to wait for my money.

Q. You let him have the money to carry on the work and you knew when it was voted in 1884 by Parliament that it was coming to you?—A. I expected he would pay his honest debts.

Q. Did you know when the money was voted that it would come to you?—A. It would not come to me direct. He owed money to me.

Q. Was it not deposited to your credit at the bank at Ottawa?—A. No, sir.

Q. Where was it deposited?—A. It was deposited to Robert McGreevy's credit in this city, and he chequed it back to me.

Q. He chequed it to you?—A. Yes.

Q. In small sums or in one sum?—A. In odd sums.

Q. Was that $15,000 a portion of the $84,000 or of other moneys?—A. I could not say; I mixed them all up together.

Q. Then can you say that the $15,000 did not come from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. It did not.

Q. How do you know?—A. Because I paid it myself.

Q. But he had paid it for you previously?—A. He had paid the judgment.

Q. With respect to the $15,000, which you say you raised yourself in 1884 to pay Le Monde newspaper—you say Robert McGreevy had paid it to you?—A. He did not pay me the money in 1884. I said I reimbursed him for the amount of the judgment which he paid for me. He gave it to me, and I gave it to Le Monde newspaper.

Q. You have already stated that during the summer of 1884, Robert McGreevy had paid you this $15,000, with other moneys?—A. I did not say so. He paid me $84,000.

Q. Did he pay you any more than $84,000, in 1884?—A. He paid me on account of the election fund $10,000 besides.

Q. Did he pay you any more than $84,000?—A. That is all he paid me.

Q. You have accounted for $25,000 out of the $55,000. I want to know where the other $30,000 went? $25,000 you say went to Le Monde?—A. No, $35,000.

Q. What became of the balance of the money?—A. The $20,000? I have already explained that it went to the elections of 1887?

Q. To whom?

MR. FITZPATRICK objected to the question.

WITNESS—I decline to answer that question.

Q. You decline to answer?—A. I do.

Q. You have told us you got $55,000 from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. $35,000 of which you paid to Le Monde?—A. Yes.

Q. What did you do with the other $20,000?—A. It was spent in the election of 1887.

Q. To whom did you pay it?—A. I explained that to Mr. Davies. I had other moneys which were mixed up with it, and I could not give you an answer.

Q. Do you decline to say?—A. I decline, because I cannot separate them from the other moneys.

Q. I don't want you to separate them. You paid out large sums of money for the elections of 1887?—A. Yes.

Q. Of which this $20,000 was a portion?—A. Yes.

Q. To whom did you pay it?—A. I cannot tell you. I could not separate the moneys.

Q. You paid out a large amount of money, of which this $20,000 was a portion?—A. Yes.

Q. To whom did you pay the money?—A. I decline to tell you.

Q. Do you decline to answer?—A. I do.

By the Chairman :

Q. You decline to answer?—A. Yes, because I cannot separate the amounts.

Q. Do you remember to whom you gave it?—A. I decline to answer.

By Mr. German :

Q. I want to know if you decline to answer the question?—A. I do, because it was given to me in confidence.

Q. Is that your only reason?—A. I decline, because I could not properly separate it.

Q. You decline?—A. I decline because it has nothing to do with this.

Q. You decline to give the names?—A. I decline to give the names.

By the Chairman :

Q. Why do you decline?—A. Because I was a trustee of those funds, and it was to be kept in confidence. I am not going to make a breach of confidence.

By Mr. Curran :

Q. When you gave me that declaration to make in the House, did not you state that that declaration was true?—A. I believed it to be true when I gave it.

Q. In regard to this $20,000, did you not show me receipts of Mr. Tarte's for $3,000?

MR. FITZPATRICK.—I object to that. That is unfair.

MR. TARTE.—As this matter has come up, I want my receipt to be produced here now. I now make application, if I ever gave such a receipt, that it be produced here now.

WITNESS.—I decline to produce the receipts.

MR. TARTE.—As the question has been raised, it implies a thing which is not true.

WITNESS.—I refuse to produce them.

MR. TARTE.—As my name has just been mentioned by Mr. Curran, who says that he has been told by Mr. Thomas McGreevy when he was authorized by him to make a statement to the House that I got $3,000 from him, I distinctly state here that I have not the slightest objection to Mr. McGreevy answering any question about me. I had political dealings with Mr. McGreevy. I have been a pretty large subscriber to the political funds of 1886 and 1887—to the direct political fund. I am not ashamed of what I have done at the time. I never gave any money for any improper purposes. I did not receive any for improper purposes. As far as I am concerned myself, I have not the slightest objection that the whole thing should be ventilated here.

MR. CHAPLEAU.—I must say that I was a little surprised by the question that was put; but we must all remember one thing, that the witness has not answered it.

The Committee then adjourned till 3:30 p.m.

FRIDAY, 7th August, 3:30 p.m.

Cross-examination of Hon. THOMAS MCGREEVY resumed.

MR. GERMAN.—I ask the ruling of the Chair on the question which I put to Mr. McGreevy this forenoon. The question is: To whom did Thomas McGreevy pay the $20,000, the balance of $55,000 that he received from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?

The CHAIRMAN.—I think the question can be put.

WITNESS.—I decline to answer. It is a matter of confidence.

MR. GERMAN.—I will move then that the refusal of Mr. McGreevy be reported to the House.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Will you allow me to put you one single question: Did you ever tell me that you got money from Larkin, Connolly & Co. in your life?—A. I have no recollection of it.

By Mr. Masson :

Q. Did those who received this money from the fund, that you say was a mixed fund comprising the $20,000 and other money, know you had received money from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. They did not know who I had money from.

By Mr. German :

Q. You understood that Bennett the Engineer on the Graving Dock at British Columbia did not suit the contractors?—A. I think I fully explained that yesterday.

Q. Is that the fact?—A. No; I did not say that. I give the same answer as I gave yesterday.

Q. What was that?—A. It is in the report. It was on account of the estimates not being returned.

Q. Did you understand that Bennett, the Resident Engineer on the Graving Dock at British Columbia, did not suit the contractors?—A. I did not say anything of the sort. I said that it was because he did not send the estimates according to instruction.

Q. Did you say he did not suit the contractors?—A. No.

Q. Who was it that Bennett did not suit?—A. I made a complaint, as I said yesterday, on account of the estimates not being returned, as the bank had asked me to look after it, and see that they were sent down. There was an arrangement that they were to be telegraphed at the beginning of every month. They had not been received.

Q. Was it yourself whom he did not suit?—A. No; I complained of his not sending the estimates.

You say in your letter of the 2nd of May, 1885: "It is now understood that Bennett, the Engineer at B.C., will not suit?"—A. That was the reason.

Q. Who did you refer to as being the person that Bennett did not suit?—A. It was not me at any rate. He did not send the estimates as instructed, and I made a complaint. I fully answered that yesterday.

Q. I must insist on an answer to that question. Who did you refer to in that letter as being the person whom Mr. Bennett did not suit?—A. For the reasons I gave. I did not know any person in particular. The bank asked me to look after the estimates.

Q. You say: "It is understood." Between whom was it understood?—A. Perhaps I did not put it down right; but that was the reason.

Q. Between whom was it understood that Bennett would not suit?—A. I understood at the time that if he did not be more prompt in the future that he would not suit.

Q. Who did you understand that from?—A. I suppose I spoke to Mr. Perley and the Minister.

Q. Then you say that it was the Minister and Mr. Perley he would not suit?—A. I made the complaint. I have no objection to stating.

Q. Was it you he did not suit?—A. I had nothing to do with it.

Q. There was some person, as you say: "It was understood?"—A. He would not suit if he would not send the estimates more regularly. I give the same answer as yesterday.

Q. I want to know who it was that Mr. Bennett did not suit?—A. I may have put down that expression.

Q. I do not care what you may have done. I want to know who it was?—A. It was on account of the estimates.

Q. Was it yourself whom he did not suit?—A. It was on account of the complaint I made.

Q. Was it yourself he did not suit?—A. He would not suit the Department if he did not do his duty as instructed.

Q. Was it yourself?—A. I had nothing to do with it. It was not me.

Q. Who was it?—A. It was the Government.

Q. You say it was the Government?—A. Yes, because he had not done his duty.

Q. How did you learn that?—A. I complained of him not returning the estimates as instructed every month by telegraph. The bank asked me to see the Department about it and I had complained that the estimates had not come along.

Q. Then it must be the Government that Bennett did not suit?—A. I complained against him.

Q. Was it the Government?—A. I cannot tell what passed five or six years ago; but I am giving it to the best of my ability.

Q. You can tell, I think, if you will, who you were referring to there that Bennett would not suit. Who was it?—A. I made no other complaint. I made a complaint then.

Q. You say it was not yourself?—A. I say it was because I made the complaint that he did not send his estimates. I have repeated that so often.

Q. It is not an answer to the question?—A. It is as good an answer as I can give.

Q. Here is a very plain, explicit statement: "It is now understood that Bennett the Engineer at B. C. will not suit."

The Chairman—He has given you an answer to that question.

Q. Do you say now that it was the Department that Bennett would not suit?—A. You can just interpret the question as well as I can. I have given you my reasons and I cannot give you any other answer.

Q. It is a plain question and it requires a plain answer, and a plain answer can be given?—A. I had no interest in the matter. I made the complaint on behalf of the bank, because the estimates were not coming as regularly as promised and they were behind.

Q. You further say: "So the Minister and Perley are prepared to change him. He asked if I could recommend one." Who is "he"?—A. The Minister and Perley together. I saw them together.

Q. Either one or the other, or perhaps both?—A. Yes.

Q. Asked if you could recommend one. On the strength of that you wrote to your brother asking him to recommend an engineer?—A. Perhaps I did. I do not know.

Q. "Could you think of one that would suit."—A. Perhaps so.

Q. Is that not so?—A. There was none appointed. Bennett finished the work.

Q. Why did you write to your brother?—A. I have already explained that, too.

Q. I have failed to hear it?—A. I have explained it over and over again.

Q. Explain it again?—A. Because he wrote to me.

Q. Where is his letter?—A. You will have to get it where the others came from.

Q. You have not got it?—A. I have none that I have not submitted here.

Q. There is a letter of the 13th May, 1886, written from Ottawa to your brother: "Will be home on Saturday morning. The tenders for Cape Tormentine work were opened to-day by Sir Hector." How did you know that?—A. Because I enquired, I suppose. It might be from outsiders. You can find out these things in the street or round the hotel.

Q. Did you ask at the hotel?—A. I do not know whether I did or not. I must have got it from some one.

By Mr. Ouimet :

Q. It was mentioned by your brother Robert, I think, that $3,000 were required for the assistance of Le Courrier du Canada. Do you know anything about that?—A. No.

Q. Is it to your knowledge that $3,000 was given to Le Courrier du Canada or any one connected with it?—A. No.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. On the 5th of May, 1883, you wrote to your brother amongst other things: "The tenders for Cross-wall only arrived here yesterday and are locked up until Monday, when he will commence his calculation. I will write you Tuesday and let you know the result. Larkin was here yesterday. I told him that it would be useless to get Peters out of the way as it would be tantamount to giving the contract to the highest tender, that you would have to stick to Beaucage's tender as it was fair."

On the 7th of May you wrote to your brother amongst other things as follows: "All the Supplementary Estimates will be finished in Council to-day, and laid before the House to-morrow. That is the last of them. I hope to let you know to-morrow about the result of the Cross-wall tenders. Have your arrangements right with Beaucage before result is known. I will give you timely notice. I think the House will close about the 15th. Inquire how O'Brien is doing, or what is his intentions about work on examining warehouse. I think if he was promised to be reimbursed he might give it up, and if Charlebois got out of the way, it might reach Beaucage's tender, but you must not do it. It must be done by some one else. Murphy might approach O'Brien about the matter, but he would have to promise to get Charlebois away. All the others might be passed over. I am told that he has done nothing yet."

Then on the 8th May you wrote to your brother amongst other things as follows:

"I seen Boyd this morning. He has not finished Cross-wall yet. I will meet him this afternoon about it and know the result."

Then on the 17th May you wrote to your brother amongst other things as follows :

"As I told you yesterday to try and get a good plan and as quick as possible in answer to the letter that Gallagher and Beaucage will receive their tenders to bring them over L. & C. so as their tender will be the lowest. The contract will be awarded from Ottawa direct."

Then on the 2nd May, 1885, you wrote as follows :

"As I telegraphed you this morning about estimate for graving dock at B. C., Perley has telegraphed Trutch to send amount of estimate to-day without fail and to make no deduction on account of material this month, so the whole will be allowed in the estimate this time and only 12½ on future estimates and all new material the value to be allowed less 10 per cent., so the matter is now settled. On Monday morning I will have the Department of Public Works notify the Bank of British North America here the amount of estimate which will be paid them, and get them to telegraph amount to their bank at Quebec. If this arrangement does not suit Mr. Murphy, telegraph me what he wants done and I will have it done for him. It is now understood that Bennett, the Engineer at B. C. will not suit, so the Minister and Perley are prepared to change him. He asked if I could recommend one. Could you think of one that would suit, and I would have the Minister appoint him."

On the 4th May you wrote to your brother :

"As I telegraphed you this morning, no estimate has been telegraphed. Everything and every order has been sent to them that was possible to make them understand. But still there was a dispatch from them to-day which cost $15, which they had in writing for over a month out there. Perley went to see Page this morning to try and get another engineer to send out at once and dismiss Bennett. He that goes out will get his instructions before going out."

On the 18th June, 1885, you wrote to your brother :

"Valin has telegraphed to Verret to give Beaucage the jacks. The amount on hand in the books here to the credit of Commission on 15th June that includes $50,000 asked for and has been sent from here on the 16th inst., in all $220,000. It now remains at $170,000, after paying the $50,000, the estimate for $23,000 comes out of the fifty sent down, so after that estimate paid there remains about $200,000 for the season for Harbour works alone. There is about $100,000 for Dock yet, so according to your estimate and mine made here the other day only $190,000 would be required for the summer and the $23,000 included in that."

And then on the 26th February, 1886, from Ottawa, amongst other things you wrote to your brother as follows :

"I wrote you yesterday about Halifax Graving Dock. Sir Hector would be glad to recommend Murphy. The way for them to do would be to apply to the Co. in England, offering to build the dock for them, stating that they built the one in Quebec and were finishing the one in B.C., and referring to the Minister of Public Works of Canada as to their ability to do the work."

On the 1st of March you wrote your brother in these terms :

"I have had a long interview with Perley on Harbour works and Graving Dock at B.C. Fleming was to have signed his report to-day on Harbour works. It will be shown to me as soon as signed. I will see it to-morrow and Sir Hector and myself will decide what is to be done for future. He will adopt my views. I will see you and Murphy about it before doing anything. It is a big thing for the future."

And then at the end of the same letter :

"I think he is going to put another $150,000 in estimates for it."

On the 3rd March, 1886, you wrote to your brother :

"Nothing new in the Baie des Chaleurs matter, except that Sir Hector wanted me to come to terms, and asked me to state the terms. I have not done so yet, but I am told that they have entered into a contract with one Refel, who is a partner of Isbester's. I have put Mitchell on the scent. Others told me that Armstrong is working on the line. I will know more before evening."

On the 9th March, 1886, you wrote to your brother :

"The Senate will adjourn from to-morrow until the 16th, so you will have Robitaille in Quebec, as his pay will be going on. I am told that Isbester will not have anything to do with Baie des Chaleurs contract until they are in a legal position. I have received no proposition from them yet. Sir Hector wants me to make one, or state what I want them to do."

And then on the 11th March, 1886, you write to your brother :

"I enclose you the amount of estimates for December and January. The January one includes the new system of measurement. The advance $20,000 on drawback has been passed and will be sent at once to B.C. The amount of estimate for February has not been telegraphed yet. I will let you know when it comes."

On the 17th March, 1886, from Ottawa, you write :

"Larkin and Murphy are here. Larkin has learned a good deal of what has been done. The estimate for February is through and amounts to over twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000); that makes nearly seventy-five thousand dollars gone out within a month. They ought to be flush out there now. I sent you to-day the Votes and Proceedings about what Edgar asks about Baie des Chaleurs R. W. Pope sent for me to ask what answer he would give. I agreed that he should give the required information, but will state that I have notified him of my withdrawal from the direction and severed my connection with the Company. Other questions will follow. Pope told me that he has put in some answer which he has sent to the Minister of Justice. I will go and examine them to see what they have put in. Your letters received; I will attend to what you ask."

Then on the 19th March, 1886, amongst other things you write :

"I enclose you a letter from Stephen Ryan, in Champlain Street. I hope you can do something for him as I believe he is in want. Larkin and Murphy have been here. Larkin left yesterday at noon. I have not seen Murphy and do not know whether he has left or not. I have not seen him since yesterday afternoon. Both seem pleased with their visit here. As you will see by the Hansard, Pope answered Edgar's enquiry as respects the Baie des Chaleurs Railway and agreement and contract. He asked me not to have him to state that he had received a letter from me withdrawing from the Company. He asked me to let that remain till later on. I have no answer from Caron yet about balance of works in the Citadel."

On the 13th May you wrote to your brother, amongst other things :

WITNESS.—Call him Robert McGreevy, if you please. Make a distinction.

Mr. Amyot reading: "The tenders for Cape Tormentine work were opened to-day by Sir Hector. The lowest is an Ottawa man. He is $134,000. His name is Perkins. The next after him is another Ottawa man. Perley says the estimate of the work is $170,000. You know what the tenders were that you were interested in. It is a great pity that a fine job like that should go so low. Give enclosed to Mr. Chaloner."

Then on the 16th April, 1887, writing to your brother :

"I have just seen Perley about dredging. I have arranged to meet him on Monday to discuss his dredging report before he sends it to Harbour Commissioners, also other matters about Graving Dock, &c.

"I have arranged with Fuller to have office in Quebec opened as Public Works office and put Lepine in charge and let Peachey be architect. I want you to get O'Donnell to write a letter to Fuller as enclosed, so as they may get another month's pay. They may not get the balance of their pay until the money is voted."

And then again on the 26th April, 1888 :

"I have just seen Perley on dredging. I think he will report on 35 cents, and put some conditions which will amount to nothing. He will report when I will be there. I have had a conversation with Shakespeare on the lengthening of the B. C. dock. I told him to unite with the others and push it. He is prepared to do so. I told him to write and get the length of the steamers chartered by the Canadian Pacific Railway from the Cunard Line. He has promised to do so. Connolly had better wait until next week to come up. When I come down we will talk the matter over. I intend leaving here on Thursday evening, if you do not telegraph not to come."

And then on the 8th March, 1888, you say :

"MY DEAR ROBERT,—Tell Murphy I have seen Perley, and he will report to arbitrators or to Commission of the amount to be submitted to them, which will be on their total claim of $814,000; at the last meeting they wanted to make it out that the amount to be submitted was the balance of $110,000 for damages; that would be about $80,000, instead of $274,000, so that matter is settled. I seen Lavalle this morning; he has gone off satisfied. Foley and Leonard are here on business; I have seen and trying to do what I can for them, and will get all the information on the Sault Canal before long. The Connollys have not come yet."

The question I have to put about these letters is this: Are there any of these letters which are forgeries?—A. I have answered all those questions before, and I have not time to answer them again.

Q. Are they genuine? Are they your own letters? Say yes or no?—A. I do not know that any are forgeries.

Q. Are they all the truth?—A. I have answered that all in detail.

Q. I do not do this to bother you?—A. I have but the same answer.

Q. Is it not true that when you wrote them you thought you wrote the truth?—A. I believe so.

Q. You speak in your letter of the 13th May, 1886: "Your letter received, will be home on Saturday morning. The tenders for Cape Tormentine work were opened to-day by Sir Hector. The lowest is an Ottawa man. He is $134,000; his name is Perkins. The next after him is another Ottawa man. Perley says the estimate of the work is $170,000. You know what the tenders were that you were interested in." What tenders did you mean?—A. They wrote me to see if I could find out what the decision was. I learned that outside, wherever I got the answer I sent them.

Q. Addressing your brother, you are saying to him, you know what the tenders were that you were interested in?—A. I do not know what the tenders were now.

Q. You do not know what tenders they were referring to?—A. Not now.

Q. Surely at the time you answered that you knew?—A. Whatever it was, I answered it. I cannot give you any more information.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. Will you look at this letter and say whether it is signed by you. I do not intend putting it in?—A. I think that is my signature.

Q. In whose handwriting is the body of the letter?—A. I cannot tell you.

Q. Is it not in the handwriting of one of the sons of Robert?—A. It may be, but I cannot tell you.

Q. Were you in the habit of having some of your letters written by the sons of Robert?—A. They would come to me sometimes, when their father would want some recommendation for me to sign.

Q. You have signed some letters occasionally like that?—A. That is my signature—at any rate, I believe so.

Q. Did you ever use these young men as your secretaries?—A. Sometimes. They would have written for me sometimes but not often.

By Mr. Masson :

Q. In the Second Report of the Accountants, (Appendix No. 2) handed in yesterday I notice that a reference is made to a certain account of yours starting a long way back, in which a payment purports to be made to Tarte and Desjardins, amounting to $15,072.47. The question I wish to ask you is this—Is the Tarte referred to there, the gentleman conducting the prosecution?—A. I do not know any other Tarte.

Q. I notice at the close of the account that amount is transferred to the news paper accounts—were these payments intended as donations when they were made? Or was it intended that they should be advances?—A. They would be donations. I assisted the paper at the time. I made this as a donation.

Q. They were made as donations—you wiped them out?—A. They were altogether given to assist the paper.

Q. Do you know to whom they were paid?—A. They were paid to Mr. Desjardins. Mr. Tarte was in the paper at the time.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Which Mr. Desjardins?—A. The member for L'Islet, I think.

By Mr. Masson :

Q. He was acting with Mr. Tarte in the paper?—A. Yes.

Q. Who owns the paper now?—A. Le Canadien belongs to Mr. Tarte now. He is the registered owner.

Q. Mr. Larkin, in his evidence referred to the fact that he had subscribed to some stock in the Globe. Do you know whether any other members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co. subscribed to the newspapers?—A. I have no personal knowledge of the fact.

Q. Do you know of any subscriptions to the Montreal Herald for taking up stock?—A. I do not know anything about them.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Will you kindly tell us at what date these payments were made to Messrs. Tarte and Desjardins?—A. Oh, it was before 1880, during my connection with the North Shore Railway.

Q. Do you know that Mr. Tarte was elected to the Legislative Assembly of Quebec in 1877?—A. I believe so.

Q. Are you aware that from 1877 to 1879, Mr. Tarte was not the proprietor of Le Canadien and was not personally interested in it?—A. I do not know anything about it.

Q. You have just told us that Mr. Tarte was the proprietor of Le Canadien?—A. When we went to take the names for these proceedings we found you to be the registered owner.

Q. Do you know when he became proprietor of Le Canadien?—A. Some years ago.

Q. Have you any recollection of the circumstances under which Mr. Tarte bought the paper Le Canadien the first time?—A. Not much. I cannot remember much unless my attention is drawn to it. The paper was bought from Mr. Blumhart.

Q. Is it a fact or not, to your knowledge, that at that time, Sir Hector Langevin insisted very much upon Mr. Tarte buying the paper?—A. Yes; I think both him and Sir Narcisse Belleau.

Q. Is it a fact that at the time Mr. Tarte bought the paper it was bankrupt, that no one would touch it at all?—A. I do not know anything about that part of it. I believe it was in difficulties.

The Chairman objected, but subsequently allowed the question to be put.

Q. Am I to understand that at the time it was sold from Mr. Blumhart, the paper was in a bankrupt condition?—A. I think it was pretty well used up.

Q. Is it a fact that the paper was indebted to the amount or more than $25,000?—A. I think I paid myself for most of the purchase of the paper.

Q. That is not the question—A. You did not pay as much as that for it, I think.

Q. I know what was paid—A. I think the paper was sold because it was in difficulties, but as to the indebtedness I cannot tell.

Q. I did not look into all these accounts. Of course I will look into the matter, but are you sure that you gave Mr. Tarte and Mr. Desjardins, $15,000?—A. I believe so, but I did not look into it myself.

Q. You remember that the paper was in a bankrupt condition—that is when Mr. Blumhart had it?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember that at the time I was insisted upon to take the paper by Sir Hector Langevin, Sir Narcisse Belleau and yourself and friends in Quebec?—A. I think at the time they were anxious that you should take the paper and run it. You know that at the time you were a poor man.

Q. I am not here under oath, but I am quite prepared to state that I never made a cent out of the paper.

By Mr. Masson :

Q. I asked you if you knew of any payment being made to the Montreal Herald by Larkin, Connolly & Co.; did you make any payment yourself to the Herald?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Since we have gone into this, are you in a position to state from what funds this money was taken?—A. The money that was paid to Mr. Desjardins and Mr. Tarte at that time, was my own money.

Q. Were you at the time a public contractor of any works?—A. The North Shore Railway.

Q. Did you ask any kind of political services from Mr. Tarte and Mr. Desjardins?—A. I do not remember.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You had nothing whatever to do with the preparation of the Accountants' report?—A. No.

Q. Did you give any information to any person as to the way in which this report should be prepared?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Did a dollar of these sums of money paid to Mr. Tarte and Mr. Desjardins come from Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. Oh, no. It was a long time before that. It was all my own money, my own private funds.

Q. Are you aware that after Mr. Desjardins bought the paper from me, the paper became again in a bankrupt—in an embarrassed condition?—A. I do not remember that. I think it was in the hands of Mr. Demers afterwards. I do not remember. These moneys were paid before I was member for Quebec.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. I want to read you a paragraph from the Report of the Accountants, with respect to which Mr. Masson asked you a question or two, but he did not ask you any questions except with regard to Mr. Tarte's name, which is not likely to be understood without reading the context. I want to read you this whole paragraph: "These books show direct dealing with Sir Hector L. Langevin, notes amounting to $10,100 having been current from early in 1879 to June, 1891, the notes $3,000, $3,300 and $3,800 have recurred each four months as bills receivable, unchanged as to amount, through these twelve years." This part Mr. Masson did not ask you anything about. I find on reference to your ledger that there has been an account opened from 1879 down to the present date showing the notes to be renewed every four months by Sir Hector Langevin amounting in all to $10,000. From that time down to this, the notes have been renewed from time to time; now, who paid the interest?—A. I think I paid the interest.

Q. Are you sure?—A. It must be entered there; I think I paid it.

Q. Are any of these notes discounted anywhere?—A. They were discounted in the Union Bank.

Q. They amounted to $10,000 in round numbers—$3,000, $3,300 and $3,800. It is only fair to the Committee, as they have not got the report, to read the whole paragraph: “These books show direct dealings with Sir Hector L. Langevin, notes amounting to $10,100 having been current from early in 1879 to June, 1891. The notes, $3,000, $3,300 and $3,800, have recurred each four months as bills receivable, unchanged as to amount, through these twelve years. The account ‘H. L. Langevin’ begins on 12th March, 1878, as a note account. The transactions can be traced back to 21st June, 1874, when a note of $1,500 is charged to the account of Tarte and Desjardins. Later, between 8th July and 7th September, 1874, fourteen cash payments, amounting in all to $2,000, are charged to the same firm’s account and are offset by a note H. L. L. for $2,000, due 2nd Nov., 1874. On 9th June, 1877, the advances to Tarte and Desjardins amount to $8,534.98 and are carried to an account at folio 129, headed: ‘Stock, Newspaper Canadien,’ in which account other ‘H. L. L.’ notes appear and the account remains unchanged at $15,072.47, since 30th Dec., 1879.” As to this Tarte account, the matter appears to have been closed in 1879. There is no entry since. It appears to have been stock of Le Canadien—had you any stock?—A. I do not know whether I had any stock in it or not.

Q. These other notes of Sir Hector Langevin’s have been continued from that day to this?—A. Yes, and they are still running.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Will you allow me one question? Is it not to your knowledge that Mr. Tarte offered Sir Hector Langevin before 1877 to take back the paper?—A. People were speaking about it. It is far back and I cannot remember the details.

Q. I would like you to try and recollect about it. Did I not offer to take back the paper which was to me a source of embarrassment all the time?—A. I do not remember that. If I could recollect I would say so.

By Mr. Masson:

Q. When you were examined by Mr. Tarte you referred to the fact that he sold out to Mr. Desjardins, and that Mr. Desjardins carried on the paper and that it again became bankrupt. After it became bankrupt were you a creditor in the estate?—A. I think I was.

Q. Did you file any claim against the paper, or did Mr. Tarte file any claim?—A. I cannot tell that without going back into the books; I might make a mistake and I do not want to make any mistake.

Q. The insolvent estate was then wound up, and it passed into the hands of Mr. Tarte, did it not?—A. No; I think it was sometime after that.

Q. Let us understand that. Were there insolvency proceedings in the matter at all?—A. There was an insolvency, but I cannot remember the details.

By Mr. Stuart:

Q. Would you state the origin of the notes that appear connected with Sir Hector Langevin’s name in your books?—A. I think that they occurred in connection with two or three contests in Charlevoix.

Q. At the time of the election?—A. Yes; in 1876 or 1877.

Q. And neither you nor Sir Hector Langevin have been paid?—A. No.

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. Is it a fact or not that you had been for a long time endorsing notes for Sir Hector Langevin’s private use?—A. No. Only for this lot of notes, that I know of. There may have been one or two that I do not remember.

Q. Is it a fact or not that you have been endorsing notes for the private use of Sir Hector Langevin?—A. There may have been sometimes, but not very often.

Q. Is it a fact or not that I did myself over and over again come to you with Sir Hector Langevin's notes to get endorsements from you?—A. It may be so; I cannot recollect that.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. It appears that as far back as 1879, this transaction with Sir Hector Langevin began, viz.: he became your debtor to the extent of $10,000?—A. I think it commenced in 1876, as far as my knowledge goes; I cannot speak to the details.

Q. It was in 1876 that this indebtedness was created?—A. It was either 1876 or 1877. It commenced about that time.

Q. And in 1879, notes were given for the amount of the indebtedness?—A. I think there were notes running before. I cannot remember.

Q. Do you say notes were given from the time the indebtedness commenced, viz.: 1876?—A. Part of the notes, and then they were increased afterwards.

Q. The account in 1876 was not as great as in 1879?—A. I think not.

Q. It increased then in 1879, to what it is now?—A. I cannot tell you the year exactly. It was somewhere about that time they commenced.

Q. So about 1879, it increased to the amount it now is?—A. The bill book will show that.

Q. They were $3,800, $3,300 and $3,000 in 1883?—A. It must be before that that they commenced.

Q. The indebtedness was about $10,000 in 1879?—A. It is the same still.

Q. And every four months you have renewed the notes given by Sir Hector?—A. That is so.

Q. And you have paid the interest?—A. I think so.

Q. Have you added the interest to the amount of the indebtedness?—A. No.

Q. You have paid the interest out of your own pocket?—A. It has been paid in the meantime.

Q. Was it or was it not paid by you?—A. It has been paid by me out of my own private means.

Q. Have you taken any security from Sir Hector Langevin for the amount of interest paid by you for him?—A. No.

Q. And you have not added the interest to the notes?—A. No.

Q. You have not taken any security for the interest by way of note or otherwise?—A. No.

Q. Were not these notes originally given for the Charlevoix election?—A. Some of them, not altogether.

Q. Were they not given originally to elect Sir Hector?—A. Some of them commenced there.

Q. Can you tell me what proportion of the indebtedness commenced there?—A. There was two contests, and two contests in the courts and the Supreme Court.

Q. You cannot tell me how much of that indebtedness commenced there?—A. I could not tell you exactly; I could not tell you correctly.

Q. Not within $1,000?—A. No, I could not.

Q. Could you tell within a thousand?—A. Not without going back.

Q. What rate of interest are you paying?—A. I think 6 or 7 per cent.

Q. That is about sixteen years ago?—A. I do not remember the number of years.

Q. Thirteen years ago. You have no account of that interest paid by you?—A. No.

Q. You do not charge it up against Sir Hector?—A. I think I have paid the interest.

Q. Do you charge it against Sir Hector?—A. I think not.

Q. You have not charged anything against him for interest?—A. No.

Q. If a part was for the Charlevoix election, what was the balance for?—A. I cannot tell. For some outlay or other.

Q. What were the outlays?—A. I said it commenced there. I cannot go back so long as that. The amount is there, and I have told you all the particulars I can tell without going to the books.

Q. You swear you cannot tell what the indebtedness was for?—A. I said part of it was for the Charlevoix election.

Q. What was the rest for?—A. I cannot tell you that without going back.

Q. Well, go back.—A. I cannot.

Q. Go back in your memory. You swear you cannot remember?—A. I cannot. I have told you all I know or all I can think of.

Q. How much money have you loaned Sir Hector Langevin besides what is entered here?—A. None at all.

Q. What have you paid for him?—A. There is no other money that I have paid for him.

Q. You swear you paid no other money for him?—A. I cannot swear that. I am not in the habit of paying money for Sir Hector Langevin.

Q. Did you give him other money for elections?

Counsel objected.

Q. Did you lend Sir Hector Langevin other money for elections other than is charged here?

Counsel objected.

Q. Did you lend or pay, I don't care which it is, money for Sir Hector Langevin, other than the moneys charged here for election or other purposes?

Counsel objected.

The CHAIRMAN.—I don't think, Mr. Lister, he has any right to answer that question; I don't think it is a proper question. I understood the witness to say that he had lent no more than what had been stated in the accounts; the question was sufficiently answered.

WITNESS.—Out of my own moneys?

Mr. DAVIES.—Out of any moneys.

Mr. LISTER.—That is the question—out of any moneys for election or other purposes.

HON. Mr. CHAPLEAU.—Limit the period.

Mr. DAVIES.—In 1878?

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Have you paid any, in addition to the amounts entered in this book?

Counsel objected.

WITNESS—From Larkin, Connolly & Co.? If it is from Larkin, Connolly & Co., I don't know.

Q. I will put the question this way. Take from 1882 down to the present time, that is the period that my question will apply to, I ask you whether, during that period, you have paid out of your own money or otherwise for Sir Hector Langevin, or to him, moneys in addition to the amount set forth in this ledger?—A. No.

Q. For election purposes or otherwise?—A. No.

Q. You have never done so?—A. No.

Q. Or to any person in the interest of Sir Hector Langevin?—A. I won't answer that question.

Q. Eh?—A. I won't answer that question.

Q. Why do you refuse to answer the question?—A. Because it has nothing to do with this enquiry.

The CHAIRMAN.—I think in justice to the witness, it should be said that he refuses on the same ground that he refused before—that is implied in the other.

Q. Did you contribute anything towards the expenses of Sir Hector Langevin at the last election?—A. I did not contribute anything.

Q. Did you pay anything out of any funds in your hands towards his election expenses in 1887?—A. I decline to answer on the same grounds as before.

Q. You decline to answer on the same grounds as previously? On the ground that the question is not relevant to the inquiry?—A. Yes.

Mr. DAVIES.—I ask the Chairman to compel the witness to answer.

The CHAIRMAN.—You must answer, Mr. McGreevy?—A. I refuse to answer, even to the Chairman.

The CHAIRMAN.—You must answer the question?—A. I refuse to answer the question on the same ground as before.

Mr. DAVIES.—Then I move that the fact of the witness having refused specifically to answer several questions put to him, be reported to the House.

The motion was adopted.

By Mr. Davies:

Q. I have one more question on another matter. The accountants in their second report on page 20 say, "the accounts with the three banks named above show a large volume of business reaching a maximum of over a million and a-half of discounts and deposits during 1883. The cancelled cheques produced for four years with one bank deal with only a fraction of this volume of business. Four cheques made to the order of O. E. Murphy (this is the part I wish the witness to pay special attention to) and endorsed by him may have some direct bearing upon the inquiry. The dates of these cheques are from the 30th of October, 1888, to the 8th of June, 1889." Will you produce those four cheques?—A. What are they?

Q. Cheques made by you payable to the order of O. E. Murphy. I want you to produce them?—A. What is the amount of them?

Q. I have no other information than that which I have just read: "Four cheques made to the order of O. E. Murphy and endorsed by him, may have some direct bearing on the inquiry; the dates of these cheques are from the 30th of October, 1888, to 8th of June, 1889."—A. I will tell you what they are. I explained that yesterday, I think. These were notes on some stock. Murphy bought 250 shares of Richelieu stock on margin. That was in the spring, and I paid him $4,000 and subsequently $500. I think one cheque was for interest, which would make three; I do not know about the fourth. He bought the stock again from me in the spring, and the cheque which I received from him has already been filed here. (Exhibit "A16.") I acknowledged that yesterday to Mr. Tarte. He mentioned a stock speculation with Murphy; that is the only one I had with him.

Q. And you and he were speculating in stock?—A. Only the once.

Q. Here is the cheque drawn by Thomas McGreevy to the order of O. E. Murphy and endorsed by Murphy, 3rd of October, 1888, $4,000?—A. That is what I have just explained to you. It has reference to the 250 shares of Richelieu stock that he asked me to buy with him to hold on margin until the Richelieu Company's elections were over. It was bought on a margin of 10 per cent.—250 shares.

Q. And you paid the margin?—A. I paid the margin.

Q. The margin was $4,000?—A. No, $4,500.

Q. It includes the other cheque of $500?—A. Yes.

Q. These two cheques represent a margin of 10 per cent. on Richelieu stock which Murphy bought for you?—A. He asked me to go in for this 250 shares as he wanted to carry a good deal of stock during the elections. I gave him my cheques for these amounts to hold the shares on margin.

Q. Did that stock stand in Murphy's name?—A. He got it from the bank.

Q. And what security did you take?—A. A broker's note.

Q. Who held the stock?—A. A broker held the stock.

Q. Then you and he, at that time, were very good friends?—A. That is the only time.

Q. At any rate you were not sworn foes at that date?—A. It was about the latter part of the fall of 1888.

Q. Then, in 1889, you appear to have given him a cheque for $49.19?—A. That was for interest.

Q. Look at it and see.—A. I don't know of any other thing.

Q. Then, on May 13th, 1889, you gave him a cheque for $2,240.94?—A. I don't recollect this one; this one I cannot answer.

Q. You had dealings to a large amount?—A. Only the one.

Q. Well, here it is, you see, twice?—A. That is the only transaction.

Q. What is that for? (Showing cheque.)—A. I don't know what it is. It must be something connected with the same stock. You will find another one there.

Q. At that time you and he were friendly?—A. Of course we were.

Q. And you had advanced him $4,000 or $5,000 when occasion required?—A. There is no loan about that; it is a business transaction.

Q. You advanced money?—A. No, I did not advance the money; I gave him a margin on the stock.

Q. You must have been on friendly terms at that time, it was for Murphy's accommodation you gave these cheques?—A. No; it was not for Murphy's accommodation, but for my own self.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You were interested in the Richelieu Company, and it helped you to hold your own in the Richelieu Company by getting the proxies for the stock, is that it?—A. I don't think that was it, because Murphy had control of everything.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Did not Mr. Murphy buy that stock for you, under your directions?—A. Certainly he did.

Q. Mr. Murphy bought that stock for you under your direction?—A. He must have done so. There is another cheque here for stock which I sold and he gave me his cheque.

By Mr. Daly :

Q. At whose risk?—A. The risk was mine altogether.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Have you ever received cheques from Murphy?—A. I received one cheque when I sold out that stock in the company.

Q. Which cheque?—A. The cheque Mr. Tarte shewed me yesterday. I sold him shares in the following spring, and here is his cheque for it to me.

Q. Those same shares?—A. Those same shares, $5,440.

Q. You sold them to Murphy and got his cheque for them?—A. Yes; here is the cheque for the stock.

Q. Did you ever receive any other cheque from Murphy, which you gave to anybody else?—A. Not that I am aware of.

Q. You cannot recall the occasion of receiving any other cheque from Mr. Murphy?—A. I don't remember.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Do you remember the year when Le Monde was bought?—A. The negotiations commenced in the spring of 1884 and continued until that fall.

Q. And in that fall, the then proprietors were, I understand, Senecal and Lemaître?—A. They sold it to the new company.

Q. Do you remember who were the purchasers?—A. The purchasers, I cannot tell you exactly.

Q. Was Mr. Chapais one of them?—A. I don't know anything about that; Mr. Vanasse is the president of it.

Q. Do you know Mr. Chapais?—A. One Mr. Chapais; yes.

Q. Does he occupy any position on Le Monde?—A. I don't know.

Q. Did he ever?—A. Not that I am aware of.

Q. Do you know who the shareholders were?—A. I stated I never got a list.

Mr. HUGH STEWART sworn.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You were a member of the firm of Baskerville & Co.?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember your firm tendering for the construction of the Esquimalt Dock?—A. Yes.

Q. What year was that?—A. About 1884, I think.

Q. In the early part of 1884?—A. Yes.

Q. After your tender was in, had you any communication with Mr. Perley, of the Department of Public Works, in regard to that tender?—A. Yes.

Q. What was the nature of that communication?—A. He sent for us to see if our tender could not be brought down below the appropriation that was given for the dock.

Q. You had a conversation with him in regard to it?—A. Yes.

Q. And made some suggestion, I believe, about changes?—A. Yes.

HON. MR. CHAPLEAU.—What were the suggestions?

MR. MULOCK.—They were all set forth in the record. (To witness.) You did not see Mr. Perley afterwards yourself?—A. I did not see Mr. Perley afterwards.

Q. You were partner?—A. I was a partner in that contract.

Q. You were a practical man?—A. A practical man.

Q. And had been out in the West?—A. I was out in British Columbia twice looking after that same work and missed it——

Mr. WILLIAM BASKERVILLE sworn.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. You reside in Ottawa?—A. Yes.

Q. You have heard what Mr. Stewart said?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you confirm what he said?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you present when he had an interview with Mr. Perley?—A. Yes; I think I was present at all the interviews.

Q. What did you do in consequence of that suggestion?—A. Mr. Perley claimed that we were too high on the contract, and if it should be brought down, some change made to bring it down, we could get the contract. Mr. Stuart made a suggestion that he could by putting——

Q. We won't go into the details. You saw Mr. Perley in consequence of the suggestions, I believe. Mr. Perley sent for you, and, afterwards, what occurred?—A. He told me if I would put them in writing the contract would be awarded to us.

Q. And you did put it in writing, I believe?—A. Yes.

Q. The upshot of it was the letter, to be found at page 88 of the Evidence, dated Ottawa, 8th May, 1884? Is that the letter you sent?—A. I think that is the letter or the substance of it anyway.

Q. What did you do with that letter?—A. I handed it to Mr. Perley, and he handed it to the messenger who was there waiting to take it over to Council. The Ministers were in Council at the time and it was after 4 o'clock that I went to his office.

Q. You handed it to him in the Departmental building?—A. It was Mr. Perley, in fact, who dictated that letter.

Q. It was dictated by Mr. Perley and he made you sign it?—A. I wrote it.

Q. What was the next communication you had from the Department in regard to the contract?—A. I never had any after that. After I wrote that letter Mr. Perley told us to hold ourselves in readiness to take the contract, that we would get it.

Q. Did you get it?—A. No.

Q. When did you learn that you were not going to get it?—A. Oh, it must have been two or three months afterwards, perhaps not quite so long, but some time afterwards.

Q. How did you get that answer?—A. I think Sir Hector went away the next morning and did not return for some weeks after that—he went to Quebec.

Q. Yes; and do you remember his returning?—A. I remember him returning. Then they had it commonly rumoured afterwards that the work was going to be put up for tender again.

Q. Well, did you see Mr. Perley upon it?—A. No; I never went to see him after that.

Q. Did any person see you afterwards about your tender?—A. Well, there were parties came around and stated they heard it was going to be put up for tender again. I did not go and see the Minister.

Q. I asked you if anyone saw you in regard to your tender?—A. Not that I remember of now.

Q. Did anyone come and see you—did you have any conversation with anyone in Ottawa with regard to your tender?—A. Yes; I had conversations with several people.

Q. In regard to your tender?—A. Yes.

Q. Can you name anyone?—A. No; not particularly.

Q. Did anyone come to you and propose you to do something to get your tender accepted?—A. Not in that tender.

Q. In your amended tender?—A. I cannot remember.

Q. Do you know a man in this city named John Heney?—A. Yes.

Mr. OSLER objected to the question being put on the ground that the subject dealt with was not included in the order of reference, but on Mr. Mulock explaining why the question was put he withdrew his objection.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. I was asking you when we stopped the examination whether any person in this city had any conversation with you in regard to your tender, and then I think I asked you if John Heney had a conversation with you. Do you know John Heney, of this city?—A. Yes.

Q. What is his business?—A. A wood merchant.

Q. When did you ever have any conversation with John Heney in regard to the tender?—A. I think some time after Sir Hector came back, some months afterwards.

Q. Will you tell the conversation?—A. He came to me and said that if I would give an accepted cheque for $10,000, we would get the work. I did not know at the time whether he meant it as a joke or not. He told me he had authority for making the offer.

Q. Did he tell you from whom he had the authority?—A. No.

Q. Did anything else occur at that time that you remember?—A. I asked him at the time who it was for and he told me that would make no difference to me. I could give him the cheque in such a manner that if we did not get the work I would not have to pay it.

Q. Did anything further occur?—A. I do not remember.

Q. Did you close with him at that?—A. I told him we would not do it.

Q. Did you have any other conversation after that about it?—A. I did.

Q. On more than one occasion?—A. I saw him afterwards once or twice and he made substantially the same offer.

Q. Were any names mentioned—did you mention any names?—A. I did. I made the remark, I asked him if it was for McGreevy, this $10,000.

Q. Which McGreevy?—A. I do not think I mentioned any particular one. I was under the impression at the time that it was Robert McGreevy. Robert McGreevy and Heney were very intimate.

Q. Now I will apologize to Thomas. Is this the Mr. John Heney who furnished wood and coal to the Government for the Parliamentary Buildings?—A. I believe it is, but I do not know about that.

Q. You said this man was a contractor, and wood and coal merchant. Do you know if he is a contractor for the Government?—A. I understand so.

By Mr. Lister :

Q. Can you say from your own knowledge if Mr. Heney, the gentleman you spoke about, takes a prominent part in politics in the city?—A. I do not know; I cannot answer that question. I know he is generally round about election times.

Q. What year was this, Mr. Baskerville?—A. 1884.

By Mr. Chapleau :

Q. What did he say to you when you asked him who it was to go to?—A. He said it did not make any difference to me, as long as I got the contract.

Q. Did he give you to understand that he had the means of getting the contract for you?—A. He did, but I thought it was more a joke than anything else.

By Mr. Mulock :

Q. Your tender was not accepted?—A. No.

Q. New tenders were advertised for?—A. Yes.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Do you believe Mr. Heney knew that you were one of the tenderers, from his own knowledge, or was the information obtained from some other source?—A. Oh, he knew of it. It was well known at the time.

By Mr. Chapleau :

Q. Did you believe him or not?—A. I thought at the time it was only a joke.

Q. Even if you had believed him, you would not have given the $10,000 to get the contract?—A. No.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. Do you know that these tenders were called for again, that for some reason neither your tender nor any other tender was accepted?—A. Yes; I knew they were not accepted.

Q. Did you tender again?—A. I think we did, but I am not quite certain about that.

Q. Was this before or after the second tenders were advertised for?—A. It was before the second tenders were advertised for.

Q. Was it after you heard that it was decided that second tenders would be called for?—A. Yes; I believe it was after we heard that.

Q. Can you tell me what month this took place—you say it was 1884. Can you bring the circumstances any more closely to your mind?—A. No; I cannot. It was sometime during the summer of 1884.

Q. And where was it you met Heney?—A. I think it was some place on Sparks street.

Q. And this just passed as a joke between you?—A. That is as I understood at the time.

Q. You understood it as a joke, and you have not come to look upon it as anything else but a joke since?—A. I won't say that, I think I did.

Q. When did you begin to think the joke was serious?—A. When the tenders were called.

Q. And when you found you did not get the contract?—A. Yes; because Mr. Perley told me he had instructions from Sir Hector to give us the contract,—that is when I put this matter in writing.

Q. Then you understood that when the second tender was called for?—A. I never knew it; I did not believe tenders would be called for until I saw the advertisement in the paper.

Q. And when you saw it in the paper you concluded to tender again?—A. I think we tendered again.

Q. You cannot recollect whether you tendered again, or not?—A. No; I am not so clear upon that.

Q. Should you not remember a business fact of the past?—A. I don't think it.

Q. Do you remember what tenders you were in competition with at that time?—A. The first time?

Q. Yes?—A. Starrs and O'Hanly were the only ones that were in.

Q. And your firm was Baskerville, O'Connor, Cassidy & Stuart?—A. Yes.

Q. And you were the highest?—A. We were the highest.

Q. And you thought that you would get the contract on that occasion although you were the highest?—A. Well, no, I did not think it at first. It was after Mr. Perley sent for me and told me if we would make the change we would get it.

By Mr. Davies :

Q. Sir Hector had told him to tell you you would get it?—A. This was the time. Mr. Stewart and myself had been speaking to him, and Mr. Stewart pointed out how he could make this change, and make it cheaper. A few days afterwards Mr. Perley sent Mr. Lightfoot for me and said Sir Hector had come to the conclusion that if we would put that in writing we would get the contract. I told him that it would be better to write the letter then, so there would be no mistakes afterwards. I wrote the letter, and after I wrote it he told me we would get the work, sure.

Q. You knew an Order in Council had been passed on the 19th April, 1884, with reference to these two tenders, Starrs and O'Hanly, and your own, and that the Order in Council was as follows :

“ In a memorandum dated 17th April, 1884, from the Minister of Public Works, submitting that in answer to public advertisement two tenders have been received for the completion of the Graving Dock at Esquimalt, B.C., and that on applying the quantities to the prices the tenders are found to be as follows :

A—Messrs. Baskerville, O'Connor, Cassidy & Stuart .....	$465,309 54
B—Messrs. Starrs & O'Hanly.....	315,240 58

The Minister represents that Messrs. Starrs & O'Hanly state that on looking over the duplicate of their tender they have discovered clerical errors which amount to about $25,000, and they ask to be permitted to amend and increase their offer by that amount, or if not permitted to do so, to be allowed to withdraw their tender and to have their cheque returned.

The Minister referred the matter for report to the Chief Engineer of his Department, who reports :

“ I am of opinion that tender 'A' is greatly in excess of the actual value of the work to be done, whilst tender 'B' is as much too low, and that the persons who have submitted the last tender, viz., tender 'B,' cannot possibly execute the work for the prices named, and as they have asked to amend their tender, which is a course not usually pursued, I would recommend that neither tender be accepted, and that the cheques be returned to the several parties.” Did you get your cheque back?—A. I cannot remember.

Q. Will you tell me whether your cheque was got back before or after the conversation?—A. Which conversation?

Q. That conversation with Heney?—A. No, I cannot remember that either just now.

Q. You cannot remember that?—A. No.

Q. Will you swear you had not got your cheque back long before that conversation?—A. No, I won't swear to it, but I cannot remember.

Q. You know that you tendered again?—A. Well, no, I think we did, but I am not positive about that either.

Q. You tendered at $401,367 with concrete backing, and $498,377 with rubble backing. Do you know whether it was rubble or concrete in the first?—A. I think it was concrete in the first, if I remember, and it was Mr. Stewart that suggested the rubble backing.

Q. So your second tender was some $50,000 lower than your first. Have you got your cheque, or any letter returning your cheque?—A. I don't think I have.

Q. You have nothing that will aid your memory, to give you the date of this little joke which took place between yourself and Mr. Heney, if joke it was?—A. About the cheque coming back, I don't know whether I have got it or not.

Q. Did you understand that offer to be a joke when it was repeated over, as you say, two or three times?—A. It was repeated more than once. I could not say how often. Really, at the time I thought it was a joke.

Q. Do you mean you thought it was a joke all through?—A. After I found we did not get the contract, then I commenced to think whether there might be something in it. At the time Mr. Perley sent for me he told me distinctly Sir Hector Langevin had concluded to give us the work.

Q. Were you aware Mr. Perley was as good as his word, and recommended your tender to be accepted, in pursuance of his statement to you?—A. No, I did not.

Q. I find he wrote a letter, on 9th May, 1884 (Exhibit "I4") which is printed at page 89 of the Evidence, in which he states:

"Having submitted to Messrs. Baskerville & Co. a proposition to amend their offer by the substitution of rubble backing in lieu of concrete backing, brickwork, &c., they now offer to build the masonry for the sum of $16 per yard, which would have the effect of reducing the net bulk sum of their offer to (say) $362,000, which, in view of the high cost of labour and materials in British Columbia, may be accepted as a fair value of the work to be done to complete this Dock.

"As Messrs. Baskerville & Co. have executed for the Department of Railways and Canals, the new works on the Ottawa at Ste. Anne's, and as contractors possess experience and means for carrying out large works, I beg leave to submit for consideration by the Honourable the Minister the desirability of arranging with that firm for the works at Esquimalt under the terms of their tender as amended by them, and the alteration on the plans whereby rubble backing shall be used instead of concrete backing, and that such other changes be made as will dispense with the use of brick work in connection with the walls." So that you will see he was as good as his word?—A. I never knew really.

Q. Then I ask you, did you come to the conclusion or not that this was a serious offer or a joke?—A. Well, I did not come to the conclusion until after I saw tenders advertised for again.

Q. What was your conclusion then?—A. Then I thought it was serious when I saw the tenders advertised; before that I did not think so.

By Mr. German :

Q. Do you remember whether it was before or after your letter to the Department of the 6th of May, 1884, that you had a conversation with Mr. Heney?—A. It was afterwards. It was after Sir Hector came from Quebec.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are quite sure it was with reference to the first tenders and not the second.

Q. You have the order of the Committee to give your reports on oath. Is this your Second Report?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it correct?—A. Yes, as far as we know. (See Appendix No. 2.)

Q. The figures you have given on information appear to be on information?—
A. Yes.

Q. It is correct in the substance that is given?—A. Yes.

Q. Is this your Third and final Report?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it correct?—A. Yes. (See Appendix No. 2.)

The Committee then adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

SATURDAY, 8th August, 1891.

The Committee met at 10.30 a.m.; Mr. McLEOD in the Chair.

Investigation into certain circumstances and statements made in connection with the tenders and contracts respecting the Quebec Harbour Works, &c., resumed.

Mr. OSLER.—I now put in the Second Report of the Engineers upon the Esquimaux Graving Dock contract, in accordance with the order that it be referred to the Engineers to ascertain: first, as to the changes made in the works; second, as to changes made in the executions of the works; and third, as to the cost of the several changes made. That report is now filed. (For Report see Appendix No. 3.)

Mr. W. T. JENNINGS SWORN.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. You are one of the Engineers appointed by this Committee to report in accordance with the orders made?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. You have presented two reports to the Committee?—A. We have.

Q. And those reports are correct, according to the material you had before you?—A. They are.

Q. And you have pointed out the material on which you have founded your report?—A. We have.

Mr. ALAN MACDOUGALL SWORN.

Q. You are one of the Engineers instructed by this Committee to report according to the terms of the two orders made?—A. Yes, Sir.

Q. And you have had before you the two orders of reference, and you have reported upon them?—A. I have.

Q. Are those reports correct, according to the information upon which they are based?—A. They are.

Q. And the information upon which they are based is contained in the report?—A. Yes, Sir.

By Mr. Masson :

Q. I would like to ask Mr. Jennings, had the Engineers the Kinipple & Morris plans before them?—A. We did not use the Kinipple & Morris plans in connection with the report, as they were made out many years prior to the letting of the contract on the basis upon which it is carried out, and had nothing whatever to do with the work as contracted for. I have examined the Kinipple & Morris plans placed in my possession, and they commence with a plan showing a very inferior class of work, in value, according to their estimate of about $250,000, and gradually increasing in design and cost, according to their estimate, to about $400,000. They show several designs, all executed prior to the letting of the contract, and a statement will be found in the Public Works and the Quebec Harbour Works Reports for the years succeeding 1874. We used the Kinipple & Morris plans simply to, if possible, follow up the subject from the beginning, and with the hope of getting at the manner in which Mr. Boyd obtained his schedule of quantities as applied to the prices submitted by the tenderers. The plans used by us are the ones sworn to as having been made before the contractors.

Q. You made this comparison of the plans with a view of finding out how Mr. Boyd had obtained his quantities? Did you discover any relation between the old plans and Mr. Boyd's works?—A. We did not. So far we have not been able to discover any connection between his set of quantities and those of Kinipple & Morris, as they relate to a different class of structure. There may possibly be a report from Kinipple & Morris, but we find nothing leading up to such a report, except a communication to the Harbour Commissioners of November, 1878, in which they refer to plans 1, 2 and 3 as alternatives to their original scheme.

Q. These plans 1, 2 and 3, were not the ones upon which you reported?—A. They were not. We simply had them as a matter of study, and to thoroughly understand the subject, not that they had any connection whatever with those laid before the contractors, or which were used in taking out the result laid before your Committee.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. The wall constructed was based upon the plans that were before you at a subsequent date?—A. Yes, they were of a subsequent date to those of Kinipple & Morris. None of the plans are actually dated, but from the records we know that they are of a subsequent date to the Kinipple & Morris plan.

Q. And which were before the contractors when the contract was let?—A. The plans were sworn to by witnesses, and we were informed they were the originals laid before intending contractors.

Mr. JOHN HENEY SWORN.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. Where do you reside, Mr. Heney?—A. At Ottawa.

Q. How long have you lived here?—A. 47 or 48 years.

Q. You have been an alderman of the city?—A. Yes; for over 30 years.

Q. Do you know Mr. W. G. Baskerville?—A. Yes.

Q. You have known him how long?—A. I have known him nearly the most of that time—since he came to the country as a boy.

Q. Mr. Baskerville stated yesterday, in effect, that he met you in Ottawa at the time when certain tenders for the construction of the British Columbia Graving Dock were under consideration, and that you told him if he would pay you, or secure to you, the sum of $10,000, you would guarantee that he should have the contract. What have you to say with regard to that alleged conversation?—A. I believe I might have said that. It all passed through a joke, when we were on the bridge, near the Russell House one night. I had no grounds for saying that. It was only a joke that I said it.

Q. Had you any instructions from anybody, or had you had communications with anybody whatever, previously to that conversation which would authorize you or suggest to you making such an offer to Mr. Baskerville?—A. There was some contractors—

Q. I asked if you had any authority, from anybody, or any conversation with anybody, which induced you to make any such offer to Baskerville about getting money from him?—A. I never had any right from anybody. I believe we had a joke about it one night near the Russell House. It was nothing more than a joke on the street one night. I never had any authority from anybody.

Q. You never had any instructions from anybody in that direction?—A. Never.

Q. Have you any idea whether, from the manner in which you spoke to Mr. Baskerville, he could judge you were joking or not?—A. I cannot tell what he thought, whether it was thought fun or in earnest, but we were talking near the Russell House and I said it only in fun.

Q. Only in fun?—A. Only in fun.

By Mr. Osler :

Q. There was no money at the back of it?—A. Not a cent.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. You say this was a joke. Do you remember having a joke in 1873 with Mr. Cunningham, who was a member of the House?—A. Yes, I do.

Q. Was this joke exactly a similar joke?—A. There might be a little more in Mr. Cunningham's than there was in this.

Q. And did you joke with Mr. Baskerville on this subject more than once?—A. I do not think I had more than one. It was one night that we met near the Russell House and we had a talk. He was talking about this job, and I probably said it. It was in a joke. There was no ground for it at all. We were talking about contractors and contracts.

Q. Did you talk about it several times?—A. We used to meet nearly every evening near the Russell House and talk of one thing or another.

Q. Is Mr. Baskerville a man on whose word you can place reliance?—A. Yes, I always knew him to be that.

Q. If he said you repeated this joke two or three times, would he be saying what was not true?—A. I do not mind repeating it more than once. It might be more than once, but I cannot recall it to mind. It had passed from me altogether until this investigation commenced. I never mind the first thing about it until this investigation commenced.

Q. You repeated it to him once?—A. Yes; just for the fun. I had no ground for saying so.

Q. Do you remember how much you offered Mr. Cunningham?—A. I offered Mr. Cunningham—the man is dead and gone now. He told a bundle of fabrications in the House.

Q. You were arrested in the House?—A. I was; there is no mistake about that.

By Mr. Henry :

Q. You said you repeated it to him once; do you mean that you spoke to him more than once?—A. I think I had only spoken to him once about that near the Russell House.

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell) :

Q. If Mr. Baskerville swears you had two or three conversations, would you believe him?—A. It might be the case, but I did not mind anything about the matter until Mr. Baskerville reminded me of it.

Q. You must have thought it to be a clever joke to repeat it?—A. I might do worse than joke on such things.

By Mr. Fraser :

Q. You were going to say something about some other contractors. What were you going to say?—A. I say we often met at the Russell House of an evening.

Q. You said there were some contractors, and you were going to say something about this contract. What was it?—A. I have nothing to say. I say we met several times at the Russell House and there discussed matters.

Q. Did you tell him about any contractors at the time?—A. I might.

Q. What did you tell him?—A. I do not mind now.

Q. Try and refresh your memory?—A. I did.

Q. What did you say about them?—A. I said there was a contractor who told me that they would give him $10,000, if he would give up this job.

Q. $10,000 if he would give up the job; you told him that?—A. Yes.

Q. Who was the contractor?—A. I don't mind now. My memory is not good.

Q. Anyway there was a contractor who told you that?—A. Some person told me that.

Q. Some contractor told you that he would give $10,000 to get the job? And you told Baskerville about this $10,000 that the contractor would give?—A. I did.

Q. Did you believe that was a joke?—A. I did not believe that was a joke.

Q. If it was not a joke from the contractor to you, was it a joke from you to Baskerville.—A. I do not think it was a joke about giving $10,000 for the job, but it was a joke about my giving the $10,000 in that way.

Q. Did you tell Mr. Baskerville he would get $10,000 if he gave up the contract?—A. I did. After the contract was given out, I began to fun him. When the work was advertised for again I said that to him. That is the way I spoke to him about it as a joke.

Q. When had you this conversation with this other contractor?—A. About the same day.

Q. Do you know who the contractors were for the job?—A. Not until after the contract was given out.

Q. Who were they?—A. Larkin, Connolly & Co.

Q. Was it Larkin, Connolly & Co. that spoke to you?—A. I cannot tell. If I could tell it, I would tell it as plainly as I am talking to you now.

Q. Do you remember any other of the contractors who asked for the job?—A. No, I did not know anything about them.

Q. Just try and refresh your memory for a moment. Were they Ottawa men that spoke to you?—A. I cannot tell for ever since Baskerville spoke to me I was jogging my memory and never could mind.

Q. Were you well acquainted with the members of the firm of Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I was well acquainted with the Connollys and Larkin, years ago.

Q. Were you acquainted with the McGreevys? A. Yes, with both the McGreevys.

Q. You do not remember whether it was any of them who spoke to you?—A. No.

By Mr. Mills, (Bothwell) :

Q. You have a contract in the Public Works Department at the present time, have you not?—A. I have.

Q. How long have you been a contractor for the Public Works Department?
A. For 15 or 20 years.

Q. For what length of a period does your contract run?—A. It has generally gone out every three years.

Q. Is it awarded by competition or not?—A. Sometimes. In a few instances I had it without competition.

Q. How often have you had competition in your contract during the time you have been supplying the contract?—A. Seven or eight times during that time, I think.

Q. Have you any lands belonging to the Ordnance Department that you occupy?—A. Only the wharf, I use it the same as other public men use it.

Q. You use the wharf?—A. The same as the other public men when there is stuff there.

Q. Any other lands?—A. No, there is no other lands.

Q. What area do you occupy?—A. It might be a couple of hundred feet square perhaps.

Q. You pay no rent for them?—A. No, I pay no rent.

By Sir John Thompson :

Q. Tell us what contract you have and how closely it is connected with the Quebec Harbour Works and the Esquimalt Graving Dock, or with both?—A. I have no knowledge about it.

Q. What is this contract that Mr. Mills has asked you about? The Committee want to know about it?—A. It is about the wood he has asked me.

Q. You have not told us yet what the contract is. We do not know but that it is for a steamship or something of the kind?—A. I am a contractor for fuel for the buildings.

Q. Do you furnish the coal?—A. No; I have not furnished the coal for the last 15 years.

Q. Only wood?—A. Yes.

Q. What is the property that Mr. Mills says you occupy as a reserve?—A. Well, it was a reserve on which I left the wood for the Parliament Buildings here. It is marked here and kept for that purpose.

Q. Is it marked on your contract?—A. Yes, it is a part of my contract to get that yard.

Mr. H. J. CHALONER SWORN.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. You have been connected with Mr. Thomas McGreevy for several years past as clerk, have you not sir?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember anything about the judgment in the lawsuit in the Supreme Court in the case of McCarron and Cameron against McGreevy in 1883?—A. I do.

Q. Had you anything to do with the payment of the amount of judgment?—A. I paid it.

Q. To whom did you pay it?—A. I paid it to Augers, Casgrain, Caron, Lavery & Co.

Q. They were the lawyers acting in the case for McCarron and Cameron?—A. Yes.

Q. From whom did you get the money to pay the judgment?—A. I got it from three sources.

Q. What were the three sources?—A. John Hearn, Robert McGreevy (through O. E. Murphy) and Andrew Thompson.

Q. What was the amount of the judgment?—A. $17,000.

Q. You paid $17,000, you say?—A. I did. It was $16,844.

Q. What portion of the money did you get through O. E. Murphy from Robert McGreevy?—A. $2,500.

Q. How did you come to get that amount?—A. Mr. McGreevy told me he would give it to me.

Q. You applied to Murphy for it?—A. Yes.

Q. And he gave it to you?—A. Yes.

Q. Would that amount of $2,500 complete the $16,000 that you paid?—A. Yes, I paid altogether about $17,000.

Q. Were you requested by Thomas McGreevy to go and see Murphy or to refer to him in any way?—A. No. It was Robert Greevy who supplied the money. He suggested it. I did not ask him.

Q. It was he who referred you to Murphy for the $2,500?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether there was any connection between that and the $3,000 note entered in the books?—A. Yes, there was, but I do not know what it was for. I knew there was a note.

Q. Did you know whether it went to Thomas McGreevy?—A. No, it was debited in the books to Robert McGreevy.

Q. When did you get the note?—A. I got it in July, I suppose about the same time that the money was paid.

Q. Was it about the time the judgment was paid or not?—A. It must have been after that, I think.

Q. Was it long after?—A. No, it was before August, I think.

Q. The judgment was paid in July?—A. Yes.

Q. Is it to your knowledge that in 1889, Thomas McGreevy received any money?—A. Yes.

Q. A large amount of money?—A. Yes.

Q. How much did he get?—A. $84,000.

Q. From whom?—A. Well, Robert McGreevy got it.

Q. And paid it to Thomas McGreevy afterwards, did he not?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether or not any arrangements were made as to the amount Thomas McGreevy was to pay out of the $84,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you requested by Thomas McGreevy at the time to prepare a statement of the amounts that were to be paid at the time out of this sum of $84,000?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you produce the statement which you then made?—A. Yes. (Exhibit "M16.")

Q. On that statement which you now produce I find the words: "McCarron and Cameron, special, $18,462.55. Will you say what that refers to?—A. That is the judgment, with interest up to date.

Q. Did you at the time calculate the amount you had received from Robert McGreevy with this judgment of McCarron and Cameron with interest up to the time of this statement?—A. I did.

Q. Have you now the figures which you then prepared, showing how you ascertained this amount of $18,462.55?—A. I have. (Exhibit "N16.")

Q. Do you now say positively that the Exhibits which you produce, "M16" and "N16," the figures were prepared in 1884?—A. I do.

Q. In connection with that payment of $84,000 to which you have referred?—A. I do.

Q. These documents have remained in your possession from the time they were prepared up to a few days ago?—A. Up to eight days ago, when I found them.

Q. Did you get at the time of the payment of this judgment any notes from Thomas McGreevy which were made by Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. No.

Q. How did you come to apply to Robert McGreevy for the amount that was to be given for the payment of these notes?—A. I do not remember. I suppose we must have talked about it.

Q. Who referred you to Robert McGreevy?—A. There were only two, and it must have been one of them. I cannot give all the particulars, it is too long ago. I know I got the money for them.

Q. To pay the judgment against Thomas McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. Was Thomas McGreevy in town at the time the discount was made?—A. No; nor Robert McGreevy either.

Q. The matter was left in your hands to liquidate the judgment?—A. I find a memorandum which shows that Mr. McGreevy was due in Chicago: "Wanted in Chicago Wednesday next."

Q. You had occasion to examine the account produced by Mr. Robert McGreevy in the action taken against him by Thomas McGreevy, or the account furnished to him in January, 1889?—A. I made a copy of it.

Q. Will you look at the account produced here as Exhibit "Q13," and say what the item: "26th April, cash on your note to O. E. Murphy, dated 16th October, 1883—$3,000," means?—A. It fits that note about.

Q. That is the note for $3,000?—A. It fits. I do not know anything about it. It was not paid to my knowledge by Thomas, and is charged in the account.

Q. Has that amount of $3,000 any reference to the amount of $18,000 in the statement which you prepared?—A. I do not know. Not to my knowledge.

Q. Do you know how that amount was made up, if the $3,000 is not in it?—A. It fits. I was told to get $3,500 from O. E. Murphy, and I got it.

Q. You were told by Robert McGreevy?—A. Yes.

Q. To make up the balance of this judgment?—A. Yes.

Q. Who kept Mr. McGreevy's books—those that are produced here?—A. I kept what are produced here.

Q. Did Mr. McGreevy know anything about book-keeping or the entries?—A. He never saw these books.

Q. The entries referring to these transactions were made by yourself from information you had?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You mentioned as one of the sources from whom you obtained the money to pay McCarron and Cameron, Mr. Thomson. Who is he?—A. A merchant, and President of the Union bank.

Q. Did you get that from him personally, or from the Union Bank?—A. Personally, I understood. I find it is marked to him, and I assume it was. I thought so.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. What was the date of the notes of 1884?—A. 18th November, 1884, I have entered.

Q. How much was paid?—A. $28,000. I do not know anything about it. I merely have a note of it.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. You have noted it as a private memorandum. How could you have made that private memorandum?—A. I got it from Mr. Bellew, of Montreal.

Q. Who was that Mr. Bellew?—A. We were enquiring about the date and I marked it down.

Q. Was he not one of the employees of Mr. McGreevy?—A. No.

Q. Not connected with Mr. McGreevy?—A. No.

Q. Was he not connected with the Richelieu Co.?—A. No. He was a sort of broker. We were talking about the change in Le Monde, and I marked it down at the time.

Q. When did he tell you?—A. This book is only two or three months old.

Q. Not more than that?—A. No.

Q. You did not know personally?—A. No.

Q. Had you any conversation with Mr. McGreevy about the purchase of Le Monde?—A. It must have come out of this. We were trying to find out when Le Monde was sold.

Q. When it was sold?—A. It must have come up in that way.

Q. And you asked Mr. McGreevy when it was sold?—A. I was not trying to find out. I am not interested. It was Mr. McGreevy. I am not mixed up in this at all. I know nothing about it.

Q. If he did not make any entries himself, they must have been made by his orders?—A. This is not his book at all. It is my private memorandum.

Q. But I am speaking of his books. You kept his books and when you made entries it must be with his knowledge and consent?—A. Yes; but there is nothing about Le Monde in his books.

Q. You need not be uneasy. When did Mr. Thomas McGreevy receive this $84,000, in 1884?—A. During the month of May.

Q. In one payment?—A. Robert McGreevy was the cashier. He gave it out as we wanted the money. He made the cheques himself. The money was in his name.

Q. Where was it?—A. Ottawa.

Q. And he checked it off by different cheques?—A. Yes, by different cheques.

Q. This amount was all paid during the course of May?—A. May and by the end of June it was all finished.

Q. When did you make the calculations which I see are written on that Exhibit "M 16"?—A. At that time.

Q. What time?—A. May, 1884.

Q. What did you do with the amount, $18,462.55?—A. I did not do anything with it.

Q. The amount marked "McCarron and Cameron, special"?—A. I did not do anything with it.

Q. What was the object of making that calculation?—A. To show how he would spend the $84,000.

Q. Why should he have to know it if the judgment was paid the year previous?—A. I would take from that, that he had to pay it back again.

Q. To whom?—A. It is "special." I do not know who it was.

Q. You do not know to whom he would have to pay it back?—A. I know nothing about his private affairs.

Q. But did you make these calculations at his request?—A. At his request, yes.

Q. And when he asked you to make the calculations, did he tell you what his object was?—A. He would not tell me because I am intelligent enough to understand it.

Q. What was the object of paying it back?—A. To use up the $84,000.

Q. After he had given his note for $3,000 in part payment of that amount, why should he return to Robert McGreevy the whole amount with interest?—A. I don't know anything about the note, whether he gave it to him or not.

Q. But you have here an entry to that effect?—A. I say there was a note in a book marked: "private, $3,000."

Q. You say you received $2,300 from Murphy?—A. I did.

Q. And you had seen an entry of a note of $3,000 in connection with that payment?—A. No, I did not.

Q. When did you make the entry of the payment of $3,000?—A. Produce the book and you will see it.

Q. I want you to find out when you made the entry about that $3,000?—A. From the book I find that the note is dated 13th July.

Q. What year?—A. 1883.

Q. You never saw the note?—A. No sir, I did not get the note then, I don't know if I ever got it. I have entered it after the 23rd July, I got the particulars afterwards.

Q. From whom would you get the particulars?—A. Oh, well, I could assume Mr. McGreevy.

Q. You would not make entries in his book without his knowledge?—A. Oh no, because it is marked private. I got it after the 23rd July, between that and the 23rd August, I don't know which.

Q. Were you told by Mr. Thomas McGreevy where you would procure the money to pay McCarron and Cameron's judgment?—A. It is quite possible we had a conversation, but I cannot remember the particulars now.

Q. How did you happen to apply to three different sources for the money?—A. I did not apply to three different sources; I did not go to John Hearn, and never interfered with it.

Q. Who went to Mr. Thomson?—A. I did, to get the money, yes.

Q. Who went to Mr. Murphy?—A. I did; but I did not go to John Hearn.

Q. Did you receive the money from John Hearn?—A. Well, I suppose I got his cheque, but I cannot remember now.

Q. You were aware this judgment had to be paid?—A. Certainly; yes.

Q. And Mr. Thomas McGreevy also knew there was such a judgment against him?—A. Certainly.

Q. Had you any conversation with him, being his agent and bookkeeper?—A. I was not his agent; please stop.

Q. Well, then, his bookkeeper?—A. I was not his book-keeper; this is a matter of friendship.

Q. And you kept these books through friendship?—A. Certainly I did, from 1882 to 1887, through friendship.

Q. Through being his confidential man?—A. I was not his confidential friend.

Q. His friend?—A. Yes.

Q. Cannot you remember, seeing you paid the judgment, whether you had any conversation with him as to how he intended to pay that judgment?—A. I cannot give particulars, but I suppose we understood it.

Q. You understood from Mr. Thomas McGreevy how the judgment was to be paid?—A. They were both away.

Q. They were both away from the city?—A. Certainly.

Q. When the judgment was paid?—A. Certainly.

Q. When did they get the money?—A. I must refer to the cash book for 1883. I think I got Hearn's money on the 23rd, O. E. Murphy's on the 28th, and I think I got Thomson's on the 27th.

Q. Did Mr. Thomas McGreevy tell you before going away how the money was given to pay the judgment?—A. I presume he did; that he was satisfied his brother would fix it—he never spoke to me about Owen Murphy though.

Q. Who spoke to you about Murphy?—A. Robert McGreevy.

Q. And you have no personal knowledge whether these amounts, mentioned in Exhibit "M 16," were paid or not?—A. Some were paid, and some were not paid.

Q. But to your knowledge?—A. Well, Robert McGreevy gave the cheque, and I presume they were paid; I handled no money at all.

Q. But you say that after he received $84,000 from his brother Robert you made calculations, which are represented in Exhibit "M 16"?—A. Yes.

Q. These calculations, I understood from you, were to show how the money was to be invested or employed?—A. To be employed, yes.

Q. I want to know whether you were aware that the intended employment took place?—A. No; I don't think so.

Q. You don't at all?—A. Some of them were paid, I know.

Q. Which?—A. I would have to get the cash book. I know that the amount to Andrews, Caron & Andrews was paid. Hogan was paid; the National Bank got money; the Quebec Bank got money; the Union Bank got money, and Robert McGreevy got money.

Q. What part of that money did he get?—A. It is not there. He drew it himself, about $3,500, and chequed it out.

Q. After he had paid his brother?—A. Oh, he never paid the money; it remained always, I think, under Robert McGreevy's name, I think so. I think he chequed it out himself.

Q. The $84,000?—A. Yes.

Q. It always remained in Robert McGreevy's name, even when it was transferred from Ottawa to Quebec?—A. It only came to Quebec by degrees.

Q. To whose name did it come?—A. I think his own name.

Q. His own name?—A. I think so.

Q. You don't know?—A. I would not be sure, I think he had an account in the Merchants' Bank.

Q. How is it he is credited with $84,000 in Thomas McGreevy's books, if he got the money in his own name?—A. He gave it up, but of course I am telling you not at one time.

Q. Did you state he gave it by degrees in May and June?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. After the last instalment was drawn from Ottawa, in whose name did the money stand then?—A. I think it stood in Robert McGreevy's name.

Q. That is a queer declaration, if he was drawing money from Ottawa and paying it in Quebec and crediting it in the books of his brother?—A. Mr. Robert McGreevy asked me to put it in a bulk sum. I did it to oblige him.

Q. You charged his brother with it?—A. I did.

Q. And you say he gave it by degrees in May and June?—A. He got it by degrees, certainly.

Q. Would the books kept by you show where all the money went?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you ascertain where the $18,462.55 went?—A. That was not paid; I do not think. Not then.

Q. When did you come into possession of this paper again (referring to Exhibit "M 16.")?—A. I was telegraphed to send some books up here and I found it in them.

Q. You found it among Thomas McGreevy's paper?—A. In my papers.

Q. They were in your possession?—Yes, sir.

Q. And had always remained in your possession since 1884?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that memorandum (Exhibit "N 16") was also found in your possession?—A. That was in the 1883 papers.

Q. And it was also in your possession?—A. It was also in my possession?

By Mr. Mills (Bothwell):

Q. What amount did you get from Andrew Thomson?—A. The proceeds of a note of $5,000.

Q. Whose note was that?—A. It was Connolly & Larkin's.

Q. Larkin & Connolly? By whom was it endorsed?—A. I could not tell now. I cannot remember that.

Q. From whom did you get it?—A. I have been thinking for several days. I cannot place who gave me the note, But I got the money, I know.

Q. From whom must you have got it?—A. From either of the two McGreevys. It did not come from heaven.

By Mr. Geoffrion:

Q. I understand there is no entry in the books about the $28,000 for Le Monde?—A. It is only a memorandum like as if for the Citizen.

Q. Have you any knowledge by whom this amount was paid?—A. No, sir.

Q. You do not know whether it was by Thomas McGreevy or anybody else?—A. No, sir; I do not know even if it was paid.

Q. Could you ascertain by your books how the $84,000 was disposed of?—A. I could. I can tell you if I got the cheques, I suppose.

Q. Could you ascertain by your books how it was paid out.—A. I suppose I could.

Q. Would it take you many hours?

By Mr. Tarte:

Q. They were all paid in the same year?—A. All in a month and a-half.

Q. The whole $84,000 was paid in a month and a-half?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. Disposed of altogether?—A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. This was only a memorandum (Exhibit "M 16")?—A. That is all.

Q. You do not say it was executed as it is there?—A. No, it shows the disposition at the time.

Q. What does that mean before the $7,700?—A. "Nationale Bank." It looks also like "interest."

Q. You know it is the Nationale Bank?—A. I know it is the Nationale Bank.

Q. What are the next hieroglyphics?—A. "Sir N. F. Belleau."

Q. Then "Quebec"?—A. "Quebec Bank."

Q. "O'C., Ottawa"?—A. That is D. O'Connor, Ottawa.

Q. And "Hogan"?—A. That was Michael Hogan.

Q. He was working for the Intercolonial Railway?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. He was looked upon as the contractor, but I think Mr. McGreevy was interested?—A. I know nothing about that.

Q. What is this here (referring to Exhibit)?—A. "Sharples."

Q. Do you know his first name?—A. William

Q. "Costs." To whom?—A. I do not know. Law costs I suppose.

Q. Montreal $12,000?—A. "Montreal Bank" of course.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Are you quite certain that you cannot give the small details at the foot of the page?—A. No.

Q. Are you sure you cannot?—A. No.

Q. If we gave you a little time, could you not find out?—A. No sir.

Q. This document here (Exhibit "M16") is what you might call a programme of good intentions?—A. Yes, that is what it is. Good intentions. It is not book-keeping; it is a memorandum.

Q. The entries in Mr. McGreevy's books were made by yourself sometimes, by his orders and sometimes they were made on your own responsibility?—A. Yes.

Q. So that this note of $15,000 and the money got from Murphy refers to a transaction of which you personally have no knowledge?—A. Yes.

Q. Do you know anything about the entry referring to it?—A. No, nothing.

Q. You said that $84,000 came to you from Robert McGreevy that is he paid the amount of which the $84,000 were made up at the time—how were these paid?—A. They were paid direct to the parties to whom the money went. They must have gone to the person for whom the money was intended. I think they were all notes and cheques.

By Mr. Amyot :

Q. Were these Mr. Robert McGreevy's or Mr. Thomas McGreevy's notes?—A. Thomas McGreevy's.

By Mr. Fitzpatrick :

Q. Will you prepare a statement about the $84,000 to show the money was received?—A. Yes, but I cannot do it at once. I want to go home this afternoon.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. The books are here, you can do it before going home? It is required in your evidence?—A. I do not object to do it, but I want you to understand that I did not carry the whole business in my head. It will require time.

Q. You will get all the time that is necessary. These books are in our possession?—A. I will prepare it.

Mr. A. P. BRADLEY sworn.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You are Secretary of the Railway Department, Mr. Bradley?—A. Yes.

Q. Will you state in whose name the contract for the crib-work of the St. Charles Branch of the Intercolonial Railway stood in 1883?—A. I could not say from memory.

Q. Did you look up?—A. I sent a memorandum round to the clerk.

Q. Did you get it? No, I received no memorandum.

Q. I sent you a memorandum asking whether you had any papers to show whether Joseph Lachance and Robert McGreevy in May or June, 1883, had any payments in connection with that branch?—A. I looked up and I find that no payments were made in either of those months in connection with the St. Charles Branch of the Intercolonial Railway.

By Mr. Geoffrion :

Q. In a letter written by Thomas McGreevy, dated 13th May, 1885, from Ottawa (Exhibit "L 2") I read the following at page 21 of the Evidence "Bradley told me he has sent to Larkin, Connolly & Co. what they asked for by my telegraph." Can you explain what Mr. McGreevy is referring to?—A. I could not, without reference to the books.

Q. Could you find in your Department a telegram about that date in connection with Larkin, Connolly & Co.?—A. I doubt very much, for Larkin, Connolly & Co. had no contract with us. I cannot say how my name would be there at all.

Q. It is a telegram supposed to have been sent from you to Larkin, Connolly & Co. Do you know of any such telegram?—A. I do not know. I cannot imagine how it would be in our Department at all.

Q. Is there any other Mr. Bradley in the Public Works Department?—A. I am not aware of any. There is no other Mr. Bradley that I know of.

Q. In 1885, was there any that you were aware of?—A. Not that I am aware of.

By Mr. Tarte :

Q. Had you anything to do with any matters connected with a deposit in that branch?—A. I believe I saw something. There was a return deposit receipt in connection with some tender. I remember something about that.

By Mr. German :

Q. Do you think it would appear in those books, when a return was made of a deposit—a cheque put up with a contract?—A. Yes; it would be returned when we saw that it was from contractors whose tenders were not accepted.

Q. In answer to the question put by Mr. Stuart, you said it did not appear that any payments had been made on account of any contract in connection with the Intercolonial, in the months of May or June of that year?—A. Yes.

Q. Now, if the deposit that had been put in as security for the carrying out of the contract, had been returned to the contractor, would it have appeared in the books as a payment?—A. It would not appear as a payment on account of work done.

Q. Do you know whether there was anything down in this month?—A. I can find out by referring to the books. I cannot tell now. If there was no money paid in the contract, there must have been a return of the deposit.

Mr. C. BAILLAIRGÉ sworn.

By Mr. Stuart :

Q. You are City Engineer of the city of Quebec?—A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have been for some years past?—A. Yes.

Q. You occupied this position in 1886, 1887 and 1888?—A. Yes.

Q. Were you cognizant in your official capacity of the works carried on through St. Andrew and Dalhousie Streets in connection with what is known as the South wall of the Tidal basin of the Quebec Harbour Works?—A. I was cognizant of that in so far as that it contained a certain sewer which was being built for city purposes.

Q. Will you state whether this sewer was intended for the accommodation of the city or whether it was a necessary part of the Harbour Works in themselves?—A. It was more necessarily required for city purposes, but partly for the purpose of the harbour, to prevent the drainage from running into the Dock. It was partly required for the Harbour works, but more particularly for the city.

Q. It was rendered necessary because the water-tight wall which the Commissioners were building intersected the other sewer?—A. Yes; and blocked the sewer.

Q. Do you recollect whether you were consulted by Mr. Boyd, the then Resident Engineer, as to the level of the sewer?—A. I was certainly consulted by someone, I do not remember who, but the letter I sent in answer was to Messrs. Larkin, Connolly & Co. Whether they consulted me or Mr. Boswell, I am not sure now.

Q. I am now speaking of the original plan, as to whether you were consulted as to the datum of the level of the sewer. Have you any recollection on the subject?—A. I do not recollect that I was ever consulted.

Q. In 1888 were you consulted, and was your consent asked as City Engineer to the raising of the level of the sewer higher than that which was originally contemplated?—A. There was no question as to whether it was raising or lowering. I was merely asked what was the minimum depth which I, as City Engineer, would require for city purposes for my scheme of carrying out this drainage in the limits of the city. My answer was that fifteen feet would be the minimum depth required.
