The Call.
(By Dr. Frank Crane.)
You have as much sense as the next man. Use it. Rely on it. And it will grow.
You have two good hands, two good eyes, two good ears, your lungs and lights are in good working order, you have just as good a physical machine as Vincent Astor. Use them.
You have as much faith as Francis ever had, if you don't use it, you have as much hope and courage as Mark Twain. Use it.
You have as good an education as Rockefeller had.
You can read the same newspapers, magazines, and books as Mr. Howells read.
You can see the same pictures in the galleries that Charles Dana Gibson can see.
You have as many funny experiences as George Ade.
You have a pen and as much paper as Rudyard Kipling.
There's as much adventure calling you as ever called General Funston.
You have twenty-four hours a day, just the same as Woodrow Wilson.
What's the matter with you?
Why don't you make good?
All the wide seas want ships; where is yours?
The quarries are full of stone waiting to go into houses, the mines are gorged with ore, the forests are thick with building material.
Bridges need built, leg. inventions are piling to be born, the world is hungry for interesting books. Build, invent, write!
Every magazine editor is searching diligently in his mail for the real story; send one in.
Every business house is crying for salesmen, every woman wants a good husband, children want teachers, the demand for the right man everywhere is tremendous.
What do you mean you have no chance?
Opportunity's knuckles are all a-knocking at your door.
Farmers can't find laborers, housewives can't find cooks, theatrical managers can't find the right actors.
The scariest thing in the world is a man, a real man!

Red Cross Week in Nova Scotia July 8-15
July 8th 15th - In Red Cross week in Nova Scotia. That week the great crimson banner, symbol of all messengers of merciful ministry, will call the people of the province to rally to the support of all for which it stands—every man, woman and child in Nova Scotia will be invited to contribute to the Red Cross fund. The Red Cross fund is the most far-reaching, all embracing of the war funds. It stands for ministrations to our fighting men and for aid to war sufferers, almost infinite in kind. The Red Cross has become a phrase with which to conjure throughout the civilized world (save in recent Germany). Even the Sultan of Turkey, we are told, recognizes the appeal of its red and white insignia. Will Nova Scotia do her part? We will believe she will—we are confident that she will.
July 8-15 then is the week during which you are asked to place something into that treasury of which it may be truly said, that it is the Lord's.

Mascots.
Our boys 'Over There' have found new mascots. As they are fighting for Democracy and Humanity, so are they praying that they preach and fight for. The mascots are French waltz tunes destined by German devilshood. Every company of American soldiers is allowed to adopt one or more. These orphans are led, clothed and sent to school. Total cost of each soldier is approximately 25 cents a month and each company is enthusiastically doing its share.—The Wall Street Journal Straws.

THIS WOMAN SAVED FROM AN OPERATION
By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, One of Thousands of Such Cases.
Black River Falls, Wis.—"As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation, I cannot say enough in praise of it. I suffered from ovarian troubles and my side hurt me so I could hardly be up from my bed, and I was unable to do my housework. I had the best doctors in Black River Falls and they wanted me to have an operation, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am telling you I feel like a new woman. It is just such experiences as that of Mrs. Miller that has made this famous food and herb remedy a household word from ocean to ocean. Any woman who suffers from inflammation, ulceration, nervousness, headache, or any other ailment of the kind should not fail to get this. It is a trial, and I feel sure it will do you good. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Black River Falls, Wis. Made by the Littlefield-Carter Dispensary."

Nervous Breakdown.
THE BLOOD IS OUT OF ORDER OR NERVES ARE IN A STARVED CONDITION.
The nervous system is the governing organ of the whole body, controlling heart, lungs, digestion and brain. It is not surprising that nervous diseases should cause acute distress. The first stages of nervous disorders are noted by irritability and nervousness, in which the victims are depressed by their nerves, and are unable to do their ordinary duties. A complete breakdown. The victim, however, need not despair for even severe nervous disorders may be cured by improving the conditions of the blood. It is because Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new, rich blood that this medicine has cured extreme nervous disorders after all other treatment had failed. The nerves thrive on the new blood made by these Pills; the appetite improves, digestion is better, sleeplessness no longer troubles the former nerve-shattered victim, and he generally takes on a cheerful aspect. Every sufferer from nerve troubles, no matter how slight, should lose no time in giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, thus regaining their old-time health and comfort.
Mrs. Victor Booth, Parry Sound, Ont., offers proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in nervous troubles. She says: "Some years ago I was taken ill with typhoid fever. The attack was not a severe one and after a few weeks I was around again. But I did not regain my former strength, and my nerves began to give me trouble. The trouble went on from one stage to another until finally Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were developed. I was under the care of our family physician but my condition appeared to be growing worse. It was at this stage I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking a couple of boxes I could see they were helping me. I continued to take the pills until I used eight boxes when my health was fully restored, and I have since continued to enjoy that blessing. I have recommended the pills to others and I have seen them in the house, having been given them by the doctor."

Milk and Corn Meal.
Use milk and corn meal in as large quantities as possible during the summer months, is a food conservation suggestion of the United States food administration. The summer season is the season of abundance, and even at the present price is not an expensive food, considering its splendid nutritive and sustaining qualities. Of corn meal there is also an abundance, and its more general use by the housewife will prove a most important factor in reducing the flour consumption, the most essential portion of food conservation to-day. Milk and corn meal are good and wholesome and their use along with larger quantities of vegetables will permit of a substantial saving both of flour and money for export. Every individual of understanding must realize that the food regulations and the suggestions of food experts are efforts to bring about necessary conservation without resort to drastic rationing regulations, such as now exist in all of the European countries. The way to help tide over the time until the next crop is harvested is to pay close heed to the advice of those in authority and get along without the things that are on the conservation list.—Ex.

Be Ready For Emergencies
The best way is to always keep a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house, ready for emergencies. Then when colds or coughs come suddenly they can be promptly cured before they have time to reach an acute and dangerous stage. To meet this requirement we have put the syrup up in family size bottles which contain nearly three times as much as the 25 cent bottle and sell at 60 cents.

Seaweed Hay.
One of the most important discoveries which French scientists have found time to make since the war began has been announced by chemists of the Ministry of War—a method of treating seaweed to make it a forage said to be nearly equal to oats and hay, when fed to horses. Experiments were begun as the result of the threatened shortage of oats and at a time when it seemed possible that the Uboat campaign of the Germans might cut off imports entirely. The seaweed, which grows abundantly along the coast of Brittany, was washed to extract the salts, and when analyzed was found to contain less than half as much carbonic matter but more protein than ordinary hay. Tests were made by feeding to a troop of cavalry horses, which gained an average of nearly thirty pounds each in two months, while animals fed on oats merely kept their own.—Portland Oregonian.

ALFRED STOKES, General Sec'y.
The saying credited to Napoleon, 'that the British seldom won any battles but the last one,' is being widely printed in these days, and one of the reviewers supplements it by words credited to Wellington. When asked if he considered the British troops braver than those of any other nation he is said to have replied: 'I do not know that they are any braver but they remain brave about five minutes longer.'

In Private Homes.
While the regulations governing public eating places and the orders of the Canada Food Board prohibiting or restricting the manufacture of certain varieties of biscuits, cakes, etc., which involve wasteful use of wheat, sugar and shortening are not compulsory in the case of private households, they are being observed voluntarily in thousands of homes. These regulations have not been issued for amusement, but because there is a real necessity for their observance. It lies to the fullest possible extent. Consequently, their observance is a test of patriotism and good citizenship.
A moral obligation and responsibility rests upon every citizen to follow these regulations just as closely as circumstances possibly will admit, and to use his or her influence to secure more general observance in private homes. If every Canadian realizes a personal duty to be food controller, there will be an eagerness to adopt the suggestions and advice of the Food Board and not to shrink that food service which is necessary in order to feed those who are bearing the brunt of the fighting and suffering.

Sunday Battles.
Some of the fiercest engagements of the present war have been fought on Sunday, the so-called Day of Rest, for the Hun, with all his cant, seems to like that day for a bombing raid on some defenceless town, as well as for such bigger operations at the front, possibly on account of the old adage about the better the day the better the deed.
The fiercest of the battles in the Wars of the Roses was actually fought on Palm Sunday. This was the Battle of Tewkesbury in 1471, and two years later the Battle of Barnet was fought on Easter Sunday.
What is known as the glorious First of June, the big naval battle won by Howe, was on a Sunday; the 'soldiers' battle' of Inkerman, also, while the Indian Mutiny actually broke out on a Sunday.
Both Bull Run and Pittsburg, two of the worst defeats in the American Civil War, were fought on Sunday, while the Peninsula War saw its last general action at Toulouse on a Sunday. It was on Sunday evening that Wellington issued that famous order: 'Claydon Rodrigo must be carried by assault this evening.'
A glad Sunday for this Empire was that 'fated Sabbath' when Wellington defeated Napoleon at Waterloo in the last attempt on the part of one man to dominate the world.

Canada Has Developed Into Full Nationhood.
Mr. Root showed his customary keen perception of the historic significance of events when, at Toronto a short time ago, he said: 'We bow to this warrior country.' Our own half-million soldiers in France certainly stand at their proudest salute when the half-million of Canadians who preceded them there pass by. The response of Canada to the call of this war was not merely the response of obedience to the British Empire. It was a brave, an instant, a most spirited answer to the call of civilization, liberty and that enduring peace of the world which can be based only on the triumph of right over wrong. Canada did not falter, nor bargain, nor question. She responded with her noblest manhood, and the blow which she has struck against a power which has proved to be our enemy will be remembered as one of the noblest in the history of the world.
The capture of the German invader from the sea lands, on Vimy Ridge, that advanced point to which the Canadians carried the standard, they still stand like a rock. If the United States had answered the great call with the promptness and with the proportion of its man-power with which Canada responded, the German armies would have been hurled back beyond the Rhine long ago. Yes—we take of our hats to Canada. Mr. Root did not go a step too far, neither when he spoke of the elimination of annexation sentiment both in Canada and in the United States. Unquestionably the Canadians have exercised their right of self-determination, and probably they have exercised it once for all. They have developed into full nationhood, but they choose to maintain their connection with the British Empire. It is quite evident that the connection does not gall them, and that is because it is free. Their support of the Mother Country in a crisis which has proved to be the world's crisis, does not qualify their nationhood. Neither does their rapid assimilation to the ways and the thought of our own great republic. Their growing intimacy with the United States, through the constant exchange of manhood and the strengthening ties of business interest has not weakened their disposition to be politically quite independent of us. And it seems that the more independent they are the better the terms become the two peoples. We have a league of peace on this continent which bids fair to stand and prevail forever.

Gaza Historic City.
FIGURED IN WARFARE LONG BEFORE THE BIRTH OF SAVIOUR
The capture of Gaza by the British brought forward into the light of public interest an old, old city, scene of a thousand battles, veteran of a hundred wars, to whom, it such be possible, even the terrible Armageddon of to-day must come as only one more struggle in a long life of war. Incidentally, the fall of Gaza went far toward opening the road to Jerusalem to the English.
Gaza had not been taken by men of western Europe since it fell to the armies of Napoleon more than a century ago. It has always been recognized as a key-point in any campaign in the Holy Land. Although it is hardly more than a big village today, surrounded by dead sand dunes, only redeemed from complete barrenness by a surrounding grove of banana trees, it was one of the principal cities of the earth.
Such indeed it was, in time past, in the days of the glory of the Philistines it was one of their principal cities, and that was many centuries before the birth of Christ. The Philistines took Samson to Gaza; and this was the city where that muscular hero tore down the gates. Even today there is a tomb in Gaza which is pointed out as his tomb; but speaking both literally and figuratively there is 'nothing in it.'
Gaza seems to have fallen to the British quite easily. In older times it was wont to put up a stiff resistance. It baffled the full strength of Alexander the Great for 151 days. Later it was twice destroyed in warfare. The hosts of Islam captured it eight centuries ago, and held it, except for the brief triumph of the French, until the British victory.

Used For Shaving.
Many men are troubled, more particularly in the cold weather, with a sort of roughness of the skin or irritation caused by shaving. The application of Dr. Chase's Ointment after the shave soon cures the trouble and by using it after each shave you keep the skin soft and prevent irritation and soreness. Because of its antiseptic qualities this ointment prevents and cures Barber's Itch.

Conservation, A Moral Issue.

The conservation issue is a moral issue. When a few men set possessors of one of the necessities of life, either through ownership of a natural resource, or through unfair business methods, and use that control to extort undue profits, as in the recent cases of the Sugar Trust and beet growers, they injure the average man without good reason and they are guilty of a moral wrong. It does not matter whether the undue profit comes through stalling competition, by rebates, or other crooked devices, through corruption of business officials, or through seizing and monopolizing resources which belong to the people. The result is always the same—a toll levied on the cost of living through special privileges.

Active Service Flags.

The Active Service Flags have been designed to honor the absence of our men and women on military duty. They should be displayed in a conspicuous place, in the home from which the person has gone. The flag is of red and white, and on the center field of white is placed the number of service leaves corresponding to the number of persons on service from that home. Blue leaves represent those who are on Active Service, and gold leaves are for those who have made the supreme sacrifice.

Those families who have members on service or returned are proud to display their Service Flags.

The Service Flags may be obtained from the Civil Service Bureau for seventy-five cents, and are of the regulation size and pattern. Societies, Lodges and Churches desiring Service Flags communicate with the above Society for prices.

Surely the British Premier will suit you if you want the whole alphabet before you, both capitals and small letters and no extra work at the mill key. This type is much preferred by those doing their own Typewriting.

"The Ghost At Chateau Du Mont."

LEWIS ARCHIBALD, in Philadelphia Ledger.

In an area of the British Front honored by the presence of our division in the earlier stages of the war, on the one prominent feature of the landscape, and in close proximity to the firing line, was situated a handsome old French chateau, which for the sake of convenience may be called "Chateau Du Mont". The censor, in this instance, deems it advisable to withhold the name by which it was known on French ordnance maps, just to be on the safe side.

For months it was the Chateau Du Mont had been weathering the ravages of the battle, when one day, for tactical reasons it was considered necessary to erase it from the landscape. The removal of this fine old pile was by no means decided upon rashly, nor in haste. Every conceivable plan had been considered whereby it might be left to grace its beautiful grounds, but to no avail. The only action which could correct a very grave evil was to level the structure to the ground, thereby removing from the German artillerymen a highly valuable aiming mark, as, on account of its nearness to the front line, and prominent situation, the German gunners could get "direct alights" or hit and by carefully observing their "burefs," then switch on their adjacent targets with unerring precision in "aiming" and "range." Chateau Du Mont must be rased, and our instructions with regard to the matter were designed to accomplish this desirable result, and in due time it was done.

The demolition was to take place at two P. M. on a certain night, and about dusk of the same night I proceeded to the chateau in company with my Section Sergeant and about a dozen Sappers. The "blowing up" was to be done with gun-cotton, and the several hundred pounds of this commodity with accessories were moved to the scene in a "G. S." (general service) wagon drawn by two mules of highly uncertain temperament.

After a careful examination of the rather spacious and elegant structure, we decided where best to place the "charges" to achieve the greatest results. By midnight each of the twenty odd packages of destruction had been prepared, laid and connected, so that all that remained to do was more gaping wound to an already horribly mutilated country de, was to push down the handle of an exploded. Two hours still remained before our night's work could be completed, and this time, to a large extent, was made use of by the men in tours of exploration. In the building things stood pretty much as they had been left by the owners. The wing nearest the enemy had suffered considerably from the ravages of shell fire, great gaping holes and shrapnel-pocked paneling, together with mangled and broken furnishings standing out in strong contrast with the elegance in other and more fortunate regions of the structure. These journeys of exploration and investigation were to a certain extent being combined with not altogether illegitimate acts of pillage, as it did seem empty when all this stuff was to be blown up, anyway, little black marks such as the grand piano, the dining room table and the kitchen range were being gathered up, when all of a sudden the riot started.

One of my Sappers, Higgins by name, and a gentleman who on more than one occasion had stimulated after proceedings with me more portion of zest, had in his wanderings located the linen closet. Selecting a nice large white sheet he then donned his gas helmet, and with the sheet loosely draped about his generous front he scuttled forth. As he entered the upper hall, Hayes, one of his mates who was slightly nervous, indulged, was just emerging from mademoiselle's boudoir accompanied by a generous portion of that young lady's bedroom suit. The head of the stairs was but a said from him, and with a yell, Hayes jumped. It was

Every Farmer Needs a Ford

THE Motor Car is a greater convenience to the average farmer than the telephone, the rural mail or even the grain binder.

The binder which is considered as a very useful implement is rarely used more than a few days during the entire year. The rest of the time it stands idle, taking up space, while the automobile is available for use throughout all seasons, and both day and night.

It is ever ready to run down the lane to the back field or the pasture with a parcel or a message, or take you and your family to town for shopping purposes—or on an errand to the neighbors.

The motor car is called upon whenever anything is wanted in a hurry. It is the most useful implement or convenience for the farm. It helps you conserve your energies and time for productive work and enables you and your family to accomplish more with less energy. You surely feel the need of a Ford. Why not order one today?

All prices subject to over-see charges, except trucks and chassis.

Our Soldiers Are Highly Moral and Temperate.

According to Dr. J. D. Logan, late sergeant, Canadian Infantry, France, who writes in The Canadian Magazine for June, the Canadian soldier enjoys a high moral status, and he takes to task editors who sit in easy chairs at home and only criticize, and revered doctors of divinity who vent overseas and made ill-considered investigations of our soldiers' morals, yet could possess nothing more than 'partial facts and a distorted view of the real truth'. Dr. Logan gives proof positive of the high moral standing of the fighting forces in France. His article is exceedingly readable and just now.

Opera House.

George Broadhurst's famous success 'Bought and Paid For' will be shown at the Opera House on Friday and Saturday.

As a play, 'Bought and Paid For' was the biggest hit to appear on Broadway in years.

As a motion picture production it is a masterpiece, it has sentiment, drama and fun, with plenty of the latter. After the last chapter of the story is over, the final act is mighty good.

Monday and Tuesday of next week, Mrs. Marsh, in Olive Marocco's famous stage success 'The Cinderella Man'. The ever-increasing popularity of Mrs. Marsh, Goldwyn star who appeared in the first release made under this trademark, 'The Cinderella Man' of the big top, 'Polly of the Circus' and 'The Girl in the Red Coat' who is now starring in her third Goldwyn play, 'The Cinderella Man', is attested by the widespread efforts of photography critics to find a phrase that is broad enough to describe her elusive personality. She is wonderful.

Wednesday and Thursday, Carroll O'Connor's leading roles of 'My Deserving Wife' will appear again in 'The Wife He Bought', an intensely dramatic comedy, being from the famous story 'One Clear Call'. An exceptionally good show.

Friday and Saturday there is a real treat in store for you, the late Sir Herbert Tree noted English actor who was King George's favorite actor, will appear in 'Machbeth'. Produced under the direction of D. W. Griffith, the famous director and producer of 'Birth of a Nation' and 'Intolerance'. See advertisement.

Miss Wilson's Vocal Recital.

Barly Mrs. Cora Pierce Richmond is entitled to the gratitude of music loving people, and further added to her debt, when she presented her pupil Olive Marie McCallum Wilson, at Opera House, Wolfville, on Wednesday evening, May 23rd.

The writer likes voices as people to improve with equalization, and Miss Wilson's is not only always satisfying but increasingly delightful. Such a lovely contralto voice is perhaps the rarest of voices in performance. It is the use of softness, and breath, power, volume, range, intensity, feeling and wonderful cello like tone quality, with the added charm of femininity, are not too many to describe it. St. John's Church Centenary.

A hundred years is a long period in the history of a young country like this and the hundredth birthday of a local organization is an event well worth recognition. The esteemed Rector of St. John's church and his Warden, therefore, did well in arranging for the celebration of the centenary of their church on Sunday and Monday of this week. The congregation are to be congratulated in the successful manner in which all the arrangements were carried out.

There were three services on Sunday all of which were well attended. The weather was favorable and a goodly number from neighboring sections attended the congregation to the limit of the seating accommodations.

The pretty little church which was opened first for worship on June 10th 1818, presented a fine appearance, many beautiful floral decorations being prominent.

At the 11 o'clock service the sermon was preached by Archbishop Waite. His Lordship is a practical and pleasing speaker and his address was full of interest. His text was Psalm 20, verses 9 and 10, and the general theme of his sermon was that God always honors those who honor him. He referred briefly to the present war and the part played by the different nations engaged in it; and the assurance that both sacred and secular history gives us of ultimate victory. Referring to the occasion of his visit he gave a short history of the work of the Anglican church here, which dated from 1762. He made mention of the kindness of the Baptist congregation in early days giving the use of their church for services. For many years the Wolfville church was under the supervision of the church of Cornwallis and only in 1892 did it become an independent church. Since then there have been two rectors only, Rev. K. C. Hind for seven years, and the present popular Rector, Rev. Mr. Dixon for nineteen years. The Arch bishop made a feeling reference to the death of the late Archbishop Macriell. He also referred to the pioneers of the church here making special reference to the late Rev. John Storrs, father of Mr. E. W. Storrs of this town, formerly the esteemed rector at Curamatta.

The choir rendered pleasing music, the anthem, with solo by Mr. Batesman, being particularly good. Mrs. Nicholson presided at the organ most acceptably.

At the evening service a most helpful sermon was preached by Rev. J. Woodruff, Rector of Cornwallis. A beautiful vocal solo was rendered by Miss Mildred Harvey.

The preacher's text was from Joshua 4-6. 'What mean ye by these stones?' He spoke first of the importance of the study of the history of our country and especially the importance of the study of the history of God's people in the past. He sketched the history of God's people at an important crisis when a memorial of what occurred with the making of the living faith—that the nation could repose in God. He then spoke of this district as a district of memorial and of the whole country as a memorial of the living faith. He said that the people should have in God, mental as well as physical, and religious life, and closed with the making of it all a personal message to a living personal faith.

The Song His Mother Sang

Beneath the hot summer sun
The men had munched all day
And now beside a rippling stream
Upon the grass they lay.
Tiring of games and idle jests,
As swept the hours along,
They called to one who mused apart,
"Count, friend, give us a song."
He answered: "Nay, I cannot, please;
The only songs I know
Are those my mother used to sing
At home, long years ago."
"Sing one of those," a rough voice cried.
"We are all true men here,
And to each mother's son of us
A mother's songs are dear."
Then sweetly sang the strong clear voice,
Amid unwonted calm:
"Am I a soldier of the cross,
A follower of the Lamb?"
The trees hushed all their whispering
leaves,
The very stream was stilled,
And hearts that never throbbed with fear
With tender memories thrilled,
Roded the song the singer said,
As to his feet he rose:
Thanks to you all, good night, my friends;
God grant you sweet repose."
Out spoke the captain, "Sing one more."
The soldier bent his head;
"You'll all join with me," he said,
"In singing this familiar air."
Sweet as a bugle-call,
"All hail the power of Jesus's name,
Let angels prostrate fall,
Who'drags the spell the old time
wrought;
As on and on he sang,
Man after man fell into line,
And loud their voices rang.
The night winds bore the grand return
Above the tree tops tall;
The "everlasting hills" called back,
In answer, "Lord of all."
The songs are done, the camp is still,
Naught but the stream is heard;
But, ah! the depth of every soul
By those old hymns was stirred,
And up from many a bearded lip
Rises, in murmur low,
The prayer the mother taught her boy
At home long years ago.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The United States Navy is creating an air service of 125,000 men. This force will include 10,000 aviators. For each aviator there will be ten attendants. Observers, inspectors and specialists of various kinds will complete the total. In a year, aviation forces increased 20 times. The United States Navy has 30 times the number of aviators it had a year ago, and it has 40 training schools where it had only one before. 10,000 naval aviators will be trained this year.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

The Rhodes-Curry property in Sydney has been acquired by the Sydney Milling Company, a new $50,000 corporation, which will start operating a flour mill by about July 1. Included in the plans of the company is the erection of a 30,000 bushel elevator. The flour mill will have a capacity of 150 barrels daily when complete, but there will also be equipment to produce 300 barrels of cornmeal, 40 to 50 tons of feed, and machinery for making crimped and flaked oats, oatmeal and other cereals.

Boston Globe says: United States Government is soon to take over Cape Cod canal and dig a 40-foot channel, at same time widening the waterways so that battleships and large steamships may use it. Proposed by eagle, seems to make canal 200 feet wide at the bottom and 400 on the surface. Canal, when dug and backwater, cost by excess of $12,000,000 and since the new operating expenses have been far in excess of gross earnings.

WIVES

Do not suffer from indigestion, headache, nervousness, or any other ailment, if you take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is the only food that will give you strength and health, and it is the only food that will give you a good appetite and a good sleep.

My Limbs Would Twitch

And Waken Me—Unable to Rest or Sleep, I Walked the Floor in Nervous State—When Specialists Failed I Found a Cure.

This is the kind of cure that has set Windsor people thinking and talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The action of this food cure is so radically different to the usual treatments for the nerves that everybody wants to try it. Gradually and carefully it nourishes the starved nerves back to health and vigor and the benefits obtained are both thorough and lasting.
Mr. Smithson, 27 Arthur street, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I was suffering from nervous breakdown, which was caused by a shock when my nerves were in such a state that, after going to bed I could not get my nerves quieted down sufficiently to go to sleep. I used to get up and walk around the room for hours at a time. Even when I would be dropping off to sleep my limbs would twitch and I would awake, sometimes in a cold sweat, and sometimes with my head for quite a little while. I was always so nervous that I could not get to sleep and it seemed impossible for me to get warm or keep warm. When on the street I would see two or three objects at once, and did not know who or what they were. I had consulted many very much, but I had no relief. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before long could sleep. I am now feeling so much better that I can go out on the street without any difficulty, and I am pleased to be able to write you to tell you how much good the Nerve Food has done me. It has strengthened and built up my whole system, and I am recommending it to everybody I find suffering from nervousness of any kind."

HUSSEIN KAMEL

The Man Who Helped the Reconstruction of Egypt.

For many years before the British Government called upon Hussein Kamel to assume the difficult position of the first Sultan of Egypt, he had been one of the best known and most respected figures in Egyptian public life. A keen agriculturist, and a strong believer in the benefits of education, he devoted all his energies to raising the standard of both. Thus, the hard lot of the Egyptian farmer made special appeal to him, and he did much to make it easier. He gave evidence of true statesmanship in that he recognized the impossibility of his country ever rising to any worthy position as long as its women remained uneducated. He was himself of course, a man of liberal education, and spent a great deal of his time, as a young man, in Europe. After attending various schools in Egypt, he went, in 1867, to Paris to complete his education. There he became the guest of Napoleon III., and two years later, when the Empress Eugenie visited Egypt, at the opening of the Suez Canal, Hussein Kamel was one of her chamberlains. Later on, after having, in the meanwhile, returned to Egypt, he was appointed, in 1875, to the post of first secretary of the public service. His father, Ibrahim Pasha, appointed him Inspector-General of the Province of Upper Egypt, and in 1878 he held various important ministerial posts in the country, this position, that is, in the Ministry of Affairs which was put to good use later on. Then when Ismail was deposed, Hussein went into exile with his family, but after the suppression of the Arabi rebellion, returned once more to Egypt, and once more devoted himself to his duties as Inspector-General. Hussein Kamel was a firm believer in the British occupation, and was never tired of insisting that the project of the British authorities for co-operation with the occupying power, maintaining that this might, as he felt, be the best way of securing Egyptian ideals. And so it came about that he was ever the trusted confidant of the British authorities. Lord Cromer made him his friend, as did also Sir John Gorst, whilst Lord Kitchener never failed to take counsel with him on all matters of importance on any one of the many great schemes for the betterment of the Egyptian people. Hussein was, indeed, for the most part, carried on in the background. Only those who were in a position to accept a prominent position, and that was in 1909, when, in the hope of raising the tone of the Egyptian people, an Egyptian Council and General Assembly, he accepted the presidency of that body. He resigned from that position in 1910, and in the following year, after the failure of the debates and vote on the proposed extension of the Suez Canal concession, he was elected to the Egyptian Council, and he remained in that position until his death in 1914. He was a man of high character, and his action would be viewed in Constantinople with the greatest interest. Fishing On Vancouver Island

ALTHOUGH I had always looked upon British Columbia as one of the very best trout fishing countries in the world, it was not until I came to Vancouver Island that I fully realized how superiorly good it was.

Sport which would be considered excellent in the best district of Eastern Canada, may be had at a point on this island, and that, too, without being incumbent on the fisherman to travel more than a few dozen miles from the railroad, which by the way, is now a branch of the Canadian Pacific system, although still retaining its baptismal title of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway. At any one of a dozen points on this line, the sportsman who is not ambitious to overcome some of the really big fellows, can find excellent trout accommodation within walking distance of water, which, for the reasonably skilful fisherman, may be relied upon to yield daily baskets of from three to six dozen speckled beauties, ranging all the way from 3/4 of a pound to 1 1/2 pounds in weight, and withal full of fight and as game fish as can be found anywhere in the world. There are many camping places where the best of accommodation can be secured, and the ardent fisherman who is looking for sport can make no mistake if he starts out from Victoria by train and drops off at any station on this line. He should desire a somewhat more elaborate outing with an even greater diversity of sport, let him take the simplest of camp equipment will suffice for such a trip. The fisherman who is experienced in obtaining frequent and ample supplies of gasoline, will find it really a land-locked arm of the sea, and provides splendid sport for hundreds of fishermen from Victoria. Just a little further along one reaches another fine stretch of salmon and grise water known as Tod Inlet, and here also excellent sport can be had for the asking. Leaving the inlet behind and travelling one half a dozen miles further up the line one comes to the Shawigan Lake station, from whence it is but a short ride to the lake itself. Here, while dominating in comfort as other ones of the two excellent hotels to be found on the lake shore, the very best of sport with lake trout which run as high as 14 pounds in weight and which are none the less as fat and juicy as the smaller brethren. Here may the true fisherman taste the greatest of all earthly joys, that of landing a really big fish after a battle royal of perhaps a couple of hours duration. In the evening, if the water of a rapid and difficult stream. This experience is not, however, for many, unless one can cast a long line, light as a feather, and with unerring accuracy, never a rise of light and sporting qualities as the very gamut of their smaller brethren.
