HARD UP FOR COIN.
A FURRY STATE OF AFFAIRS IN ITALY.
LONDON, Oct. 30.—An illustrating the stringency of the financial situation in Italy, travelers just returning tell amusing stories of their difficulties at the shops and railway stations. Practically there is no gold or silver money in the country, and the only currency available is paper and copper. The smallest State paper money is in 5 lire notes, and the traveler who presents one of these for payment for some article valued at half a lire will get forty ten-centime copper pieces, and five ten-centime postage stamps in change. Even in Milan, the most thriving commercial city in Italy, this condition of things prevails.

Spelled His Tongue.
REMARKABLE SURGICAL OPERATION ON A LITTLE NEW YORK BOY.
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—George Harron, a twelve year old boy, joined his happy playmates on West 10th street yesterday, for the first time in a long while, and he was so much with the tale of his spliced tongue, which he was continually requested to exhibit.

Miss Seabrook, Sailor.
SHE HAS PASSED GAZE HORN, TAKEN A REAL VOYAGE AND MARKS OBSERVATIONS.
Miss Seabrook, the step daughter of Captain Brown, of the sailing schooner W. P. Hall, Victoria, B. C., enjoys the unique distinction of being the only woman who has ever made a cruise on a sailing schooner. She went out this year on the Hall, and made the entire trip to the Japan coast, north to the Russian islands and back across the Pacific again. The voyage lasted about eight months. As might be supposed, Miss Seabrook is a good sailor. Last year she made the trip round the Horn on the schooner, all the way from Nova Scotia round two continents to Victoria. Before that she had made a number of long voyages on sailing vessels, and she estimates that she has spent more than ten of the eighteen years of her life on the water. She is a help instead of a hindrance, too, as she takes all the observations and makes the calculations, thus relieving the captain of all but the practical navigation of his craft. On special occasions, too, she goes down into the galley and gets up dishes that hardly please the old salt, but a strong attachment for her stepfather, could it with a love for the sea and for adventure, induce the young lady to brave the perils of the deep and the discomforts of the narrow quarters on board ship.

St. John's Statue Unveiled.
HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 1.—The ceremony of unveiling the memorial statue of Sir John A. MacDonald took place this afternoon. Sir John Thompson, Premier, officiating. Sir John was accompanied by Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir Charles H. Tupper, Sir A. P. Caron, Hon. Frank Smith, Hon. T. M. Daley, Hon. John F. Wood, Hon. N. Clark Wallace, Hon. J. C. Patterson, Lieut. Governor Kirkpatrick, Lieut. Col. Tisdale, Dr. Leachapell, Lieut. Col. Wallace, and many other prominent politicians and statesmen. The visitors were escorted around the city. The day was a perfect specimen of Canadian autumn, bright, warm and breezy. After a drive Sir John Thompson and his party were escorted around the corner by the bar of Hamilton and escorted over the building. After that luncheon was partaken of at the Hamilton club. The unveiling ceremony was begun at three o'clock, and there was an immense concourse of people present in spite of the fact that certain organizations had tried to throw a damper on the affair by issuing a circular calling upon its members not to attend. Hon. W. E. Sanford presided and made the opening speech after Sir John Thompson had removed the "old flag" that veiled the statue. The statue was unveiled and will long be remembered as one of the most eloquent and pathetic ever heard in western Ontario, and was followed by Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir A. P. Caron, Sir C. H. Tupper and Hon. Clarke Wallace. After dinner with Senator Sanford the premier and colleagues left for Montreal to attend the funeral of Sir John Abbott.

A Groggman's Rebuke.
A clergyman was annoyed by people laughing and giggling. He inquired, looked at the disturbers and said: "Some years since, as I was preaching, a young man who sat before me was constantly talking and making snorting grimmaces. I passed and administered a severe rebuke. After the services a gentleman said to me: 'Sir, you made a great mistake. That young man was an idiot. Since then I have always been afraid to reproach those who snort and giggle in church lest they should report that mistake and reproach another idiot.' During the rest of the services there was good order.—Church Standard.

Literary Notes.
MARK TWAIN'S LATEST ROMANCE OF AN ESQUIMAUX MAIDEN.
A magazine is usually satisfied with one common speech, and for the month. The Cosmopolitan, however, presents for November no less than five very unusual ones. Wm. Dana Howell gives the first of the letters of the traveler, who has been visiting this country, from Alzurria. We have read Mr. Howell's impressions of the Alzurrian, but in this first letter we have the Alzurrian in the person of a woman, with some comments upon government and society, calculated to awaken the most conservative minds. The second feature of The Cosmopolitan is the portion of the magazine given up to color work, no less than ten superb illustrations being presented for the first time in magazine history, accompanying an article by Mrs. Roger A. Fryer on "Change in Women's Costumes." The third feature is "American Notes" by Walter Besant, who was recently in America and is doing the United States for The Cosmopolitan as he did for the Nation. The fourth feature is an article by George W. Belden on "The Forms of Invitation Used by the Gaelic Nobility." The article is illustrated by a facsimile of cards to the Queen's drawing-room, to dinner at the Prince of Wales, and to many leading houses of England. Finally, we have a new and very curious story by Mark Twain, called "The Esquimaux Maiden's Romance."

The Gaelic Tongue.
Antiquarian Cook.
A few months ago Mr. Patrick Casey contributed to the Boston Herald a very interesting article, which is contained in the first issue. "The dear old Gaelic tongue," says the author, "is widely spoken in Ireland, where 'the dear old Gaelic' is still living and still dearly loved. An ardent lover of that ancient tongue in the old country, Mr. T. O'Neill Russell, has written a letter to United Ireland, in which he calls upon the Gaelic people to apologize for the mistake made in the post's assertion, and offers the following facts in refutation of that assertion: "There were in Ireland in 1890 over 700,000 persons who used the Irish language as their current speech; there were over 60,000 who knew no other language, and more than that, many more who knew English so imperfectly that they could hardly be said to be English speaking. There were at the same time in Scotland over 150,000 persons who spoke Gaelic or Irish as their current speech, and over 50,000 who spoke Gaelic only. The estimated number of the Gaelic speaking inhabitants of the Dominion of Canada is very nearly 75,000. There are over twenty thousand in that country in which Gaelic only is used. There is a weekly Gaelic paper called the Mac Talla, printed in Sydney, Nova Scotia, in which not only the Gaelic language is permitted to appear, but Gaelic is permitted to appear. Some may say that Scotch Gaelic is not Irish, but no one knowing anything about the matter would dare to make such an assertion. Scotch Gaelic may be corrupted and distorted, but it is, nevertheless, Irish—just as much Irish as the dialect in which Burns wrote in English. There are certainly 700,000 people in the United Kingdom who speak Gaelic, but as we have no statistics of them, they need not be counted."

The Italian "Kulturkampf."
Catholic Times.
A late despatch from Rome states that there are no less than forty bishops without excommunications owing to the relations existing between the Holy See and the Italian Government. This means that there are forty bishops appointed by the Pope to their several sees who cannot exercise their episcopal office without a permit from the Italian Government, and that the permit is withheld because the Vatican and Quirinal—the Pope and the King—cannot come to an agreement in relation to the appointment of a Patriarch of Venice.

A Prominent Lawyer Says:
"I have eight children, every one is in good health, not one of whom but has Scott's Emulsion, in which my wife has boundless confidence."
No man ever saw a woman as well as her.

Hon. J. E. Robinson, who was Attorney-General in Mercer's Cabinet and one time clerk in the late Sir John Abbott's law office, has perhaps given the best idea of the late premier's business principles. Speaking of the deceased he said: "He had the great knack of pleasing his clients and making them pay his fees. He looked upon his profession as a merchant does upon his business. All that he did he wanted to be paid for. He rarely laid a case for the reason that when one looked closely he always judged his client to come to an agreement."
