CHAPTER XXII.
LINKED WITH THE PAST.

Florin had thought that she would be permitted to live on the rest of her life in the seclusion of the cottage; but it was not to be, well, it was not to be, and there was an end of it. The wide world lay before her, helpless, and friendless, and she faced it with a touch of the old pride of self-reliance which had always distinguished her.

Over the fatefulness of her lover and the death of her mother she had shed many tears, but over the loss of her money she had scarcely expended a sigh.

Mr. Morrell, who came down almost daily, was astounded at the calmness she displayed.

Over and over again he begged her to try and think if there was not some friend to whom she could apply for help, some relation to whom she could go; but Florin always shook her head with a faint smile.

"I have no one to whom I could apply," she said. "As to friends—she thought of Lady Betty with a sigh.

She could not go to her. She could not hold any communication with her, for if she did so she might be brought in contact with Lord Norman, and that would be worse than death by starvation. There were friends in Worthing, old friends of her mother, who would have helped her, but Florin had persistently refused to see them. They were all dying of curiosity to know why the engagement had been broken off, and they would ask questions and torture her beyond endurance.

"No," she told him, "there was no friend of whom she could ask assistance."

"I think you are very—excuse me, Miss Carlisle—very proud!" said poor Mr. Morrell, in despair, and Florin had looked at him absently.

"Am I?" she said, with the same faint smile. "Perhaps I am. I used to be proud, at least they used to call me so, and perhaps I am so still. But I am not afraid. I am young and strong, and there must be something in the big world for me to do."

"Yes," he assented. "You are young and strong, and you are going to say, 'beautiful' but he stopped himself in time with his dry little cough.

"I cannot go as a companion again," said Florin, with a trace of sudden color on her face. "They would want references, and I cannot give those."

The lawyer looked distressed. He knew nothing of what had happened up in the Highlands; something dreadful it must have been, he thought to bring about so sudden and complete a separation between her and Lord Norman and to make her so determined to hold no communication with her recent friends.

"I don't see what you are to do; indeed I don't," he said, in sad perplexity.

"There must be something," responded Florin.

"If you only allow me to be your banker—" he stammered—"I mean until brighter days—"

But Florin shook her head.

"No, no," she said. "I cannot do that. You know I cannot; though I am very, very grateful. If—if I could find some work out of England," she murmured.

The little lawyer caught at once at the suggestion.

"But why out of England, my dear young lady?" he asked.

Florin's eyes drooped, and her lips quivered.

"Because I would like to leave England—forever, if I could," she said, quietly. "How long may I remain here—at the cottage, I mean?"

"Only a fortnight at the most," he said, reluctantly.

"So soon?" she said, sadly.

"You could remain altogether, if you liked," he responded. "If you would allow me, I should be glad to purchase the cottage and—" advance you enough money to start a school. I am sure—with something approaching eagerness—"that you would soon be able to repay me."

But Florin shook her head as decidedly as ever.

"You must not think of that, Mr. Morrell. Even if I could accept your kindness, it would be thrown away; I am not cut out for a school-mistress. I don't know enough to teach half the things girls require nowadays. Besides; no; I could not do that. There must be something else, surely. Do you think—I know how good you are, and how anxious you are to help me—do you think I could see some of the foreign newspapers? There might be an advertisement which I could answer."

Mr. Morrell nodded almost energetically, and seized on the idea eagerly. At each visit he had become more interested in the beautiful young girl who seemed so friendless and helpless in the midst of her sorrow.

Only a fortnight! It was not long in which to find a niche for herself—a few feet of standing room in this vast world, so crowded and jostled!

A week passed, during which she did not go outside the house, excepting into the garden, in which she walked with drooping head and listless step, thinking over the past, which seemed so long ago and yet was so recent.

People called, people who would have been glad to help her, but she shrank from seeing them, and they were told one and all by the little servant that Miss Carlisle was too unwell to see any one.

At the end of the week Mr. Morrell came down, and Florin saw by his face that he had something to communicate.

He put a small bundle of papers on the table as she shook hands, and nodded curtly, as he scrutinized her face through his glasses.

"You are looking better, Miss Carlisle," he said, in his sharp fashion. "That's right! I was almost afraid to come down, your pale face so—so upset me! But there, we'll hope things are taking a turn, eh? You are still resolved to go out and seek your fortune, like a female Whittington?" and he smiled.

"I don't want to be a Lord Mayor of London, if that is what you mean!" she said; and there was a touch of her old self in the reply that made him laugh and nod with satisfaction.

"Very good, very good, indeed! Well, if you are still resolved, I think I have heard of something that might suit you."

And he began to untie the tape around his bundle.

Florin's face flushed slightly; hope, which springs eternal in the human breast came to her.

"It was a very curious thing," he said, sorting his papers methodically; "but life is made up of curious things. Talker of fiction being stranger than reality! It's downright nonsense! I assure you, my dear Miss Carlisle, that a lawyer meets with far stranger things in the course of his professional experience than any of you young ladies read of in your novels."

"I dare say," said Florin, smiling. "Have you discovered that I am the long-lost daughter of an earl who is longing to claim me, or has an uncle in the East Indies, of whom I have never heard, left me an enormous fortune?"

He laughed; he was immensely pleased to see her in this frame of mind, little guessing how much of it was really affected, so that his kind heart should not be distressed by the continual spectacle of her sorrow!

"No, no!" he said, "I wish it was. But this is what it is. By the way, do you know anything about flowers?"

Florin opened her great, sorrowful eyes with faint astonishment.

"Botany and that kind of thing," he explained.

Florin shook her head.

"No; I am afraid not."

"Hem!" he muttered, rather discouraged; then he brightened up again.

"But that doesn't matter, I think," he said, briskly.

"After all, you could soon learn—"

"Learn botany, the science of flowers!" exclaimed Florin, almost inclined to think that the incessant worry on her behalf had turned the little man's brain.

"Yes," he said, slowly; "why not? Nothing very difficult in it. I should think, for a clever young lady like yourself."

"I am about the stupidest girl, Mr. Morrell, that even your professional experience ever met with," she said, with a smile.

He smiled and chuckled.

"I don't believe there is anything you couldn't learn," he said, confidently.

"You haven't told me why you ask-

WAR REVIEW.

Striking the enemy on a front that has been quiet for the last six weeks the French have broken through the enemy defences and advanced their lines. This new blow at the enemy was launched between Castel and Mally Rameval, on the Picardy front southeast of Amiens, where there has been but little fighting since the French, by a local attack, pushed the Germans out of Senecat wood late in May. The attack was along a front of approximately three miles, and swept the Germans back out of the Village of Castel and the Auston farm about a mile to the south, and cleared out a number of strong enemy positions. The French penetrated the German lines to a depth of more than a mile. The American attack on Chigny some time ago advanced the line materially at that point, where the Australians and Americans on July 4th and the Americans on July 5th and 6th cut deep into the enemy line at Hamel and Villers-Bretonneville south of the Somme. The French attack was launched at a point between positions of the Americans at Cantigny and the Australians further north. The French lines south of Castel have been parallel and west of the Avre River. The success gained there carries the French up to the hills to the west of the River and into positions which appear to dominate the village of Morisel on the west bank and Moreuil on the east bank of the river. If the attack continues successful the French may be able to press the foe back across the Avre and thus have an admirable defensive position to the south of Amiens. Between the Marne and the Avre the French have continued their offensive operations. It is reported that the Village of Long Pont south of Corey, the capture of which was reported on Thursday, has been taken by General Peatin's men, who have also progressed north to Courcy at the Chavigny farm east of Favorolles. According to the French official statement the Allied lines have been advanced, thus marking a southern extension of the fighting line which has heretofore not been unusually active further south than Long Pont. On the British front there has been spirited fighting, according to the German official report, which indicates that from Ypres down to the Lys salient and down in the sector as far as Albert there have been scattering attacks made by the British. Local engagements have been fought in the region of Rheims, but they have not been of great importance. The French and Italians in Albania have carried their lines steadily north. The town of Berat, the most important in South Albania, has fallen into Allied hands. It is reported that large quantities of Austrian supplies stored at Poerat were destroyed by the retreating enemy. Official reports would appear to show that the advance of the French and Italians is reaching further and further east into the mountains and toward the rear of the Bulgarian positions. Around Monastir Serbian positions near that city have been savagely attacked by the FRENCH ATTACK BRILLIANTLY and Capture Village Positions.

The Albanian Campaign Progressing Favourably. Belgium to Become a Vassal of Germany. Imperial Parliament Making Up.

WAR REVIEW.
Striking the enemy on a front that has been quiet for the last six weeks, the French have broken through the enemy defences and advanced their lines. This new blow at the enemy was launched between Castel and Mally Rainval, on the Picardy front southeast of Amiens, where there has been but little fighting since the French, by a local attack, pushed the Germans out of Senecat wood late in May. The attack was along a front of approximately three miles, and it swept the Germans back out of the Village of Castel and the Austrian farm about a mile to the south, and cleared out a number of strong enemy positions. The French penetrated the German lines to a depth of more than a mile. The American attack on Cantigny some time ago advanced the line materially at that point, where the Australians and Americans on July 4th and the Americans on July 4th and 6th cut deep into the enemy lines at Hamel and Villers-Bretonneux, south of the Somme. The French attack was launched at a point between positions of the Americans at Cantigny and the Australians further north. The French lines south of Castel have been parallel and west of the Aye River. The success gained there carries the French up to the hills to the west of the River and into positions which appear to dominate the villages of Morisel on the west bank and Moreuil on the east bank of the river. If the attack continues successfully the French may be able to press the foe back across the Aye and thus have an admirable defensive position to the south of Amiens. Between the Marne and the Aisne the French have continued their offensive operations. It is reported that the Village of Long Pont south of Corey, the capture of which was reported on Thursday, has been taken by General Petain's men, who have also progressed north of Courcy at the Chavigny farm east of Faverolles. According to the French official statement the Allied lines have been advanced, thus marking a southerly extension of the fighting line which has heretofore not been unusually active further south than Long Pont. On the British front there has been spirited fighting, according to the German official report, which indicates that from Ypres down to the Lys salient and down in the sector as far as Albert there have been scattering attacks made by the British. Local engagements have been fought in the region of Rheims, but they have not been of great importance. The French and Italians in Albania have carried their lines steadily north and the town of Berat, the most important in South Albania, has fallen into Allied hands. It is reported that large quantities of Austrian supplies stored at Peorat were destroyed by the retreating enemy. Official reports would appear to show that the advance of the French and Italians is reaching further and further east into the mountains and toward the rear of the Bulgarian positions. Around Monastir Serbian positions near that city have been savagely attacked by the

FRENCH ATTACK.
PARIS, July 12 (Official).—Our troops this morning continued their brilliant attack on a front of five kilometres between Castel and north of Mally Rainval. All of our objectives were reached and we occupied the village of Castel, and Anchin farm and a number of strongly fortified enemy positions. The French troops penetrated the enemy lines to a depth of two kilometres and took more than 500 prisoners.

ITALIAN OFFICIAL.
ROME, July 12 (Official).—Along the front in Northern Italy there has been intermittent artillery fire. In the Arsa valley our patrols destroyed two small enemy poses and captured a few prisoners. An attempted enemy attack at Cornone failed with heavy losses. In Albania our troops are continuing the work of clearing the ground from which the Austrians were driven, and gathering booty. Three cannon, eight mountain guns, four trench guns and two trench mortars have been found.

DEBATE IN CHAMBER OF DEPUTIES.
PARIS, July 12.
Last night's debate in the Chamber of Deputies on a measure providing for the renewal of privileges of the Charter of the Bank of France for 25 years beginning Jan. 1st, 1921, was characterized by bitter opposition to the bill from the Socialists, who didn't let their attack die down with the vote granting the 25 years extension. Hardly had the vote been recorded when Albert Thomas, Socialist Leader and former Member of the War Council, proposed amendment to the effect that the Chamber at any time within ten years after the cessation of hostilities could enact a law by which the privileges of the bank could be cancelled at the expiration of the ten years period after the signing of peace. Louis Klotz, the Minister of Finance, refused to discuss the amendment, making the statement that it raised the question of confidence in the Government. This caused a great uproar from the extreme left. Vehement protests were voiced amid cries for a roll call, claims of no quorum and demands for public voting. At the Speaker's tribune, shouting at the top of his voice in order to be heard above the terrific noise in the Chamber, Thomas protested vehemently against the Government making an economic question one of confidence. Klotz tried to explain in connection with the bank question that France was from two to three years behind in the collection of the income tax and other taxes, and that an extension of the privileges of the Bank of France for a long period was necessary. "I have been trying to hurry the application of the law for the collection of the income tax," the Finance Minister said. "That will bring you to jail," a Socialist interrupted. Renault, presiding in place of Paul Deschanel, in reply to the demands for public voting, said that the request must be signed by fifty members who had been present at the roll call.

RUSSIAN BANKER ARRESTED.
LONDON, July 12.
Col. Sergius Cyron, a Russian army officer, who has arrived at Stockholm, says that M. Manos, a banker, was arrested in Petrograd some days ago, according to a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co. Several documents and 2,000,000 rubles were discovered in the house where the banker was apprehended, said the Russian officer, who added that M. Manos had been in direct communication with the late Count Von Mirbach, the German Ambassador at Moscow, who was intimately connected with the monarchists.

TURNING BELGIUM INTO A FEDERAL STATE.
AMSTERDAM, July 12.
General Baron Fredrich Von Falkhausen, the German Governor-General of Belgium, has decided, says the Hamburger Nachrichten, that Belgium shall be turned into a Federal State on the lines of Austria. Flanders and Wallon, the paper adds, will live separately under one King or President under German control.

BILL PASSED.
LONDON, July 12.
The House of Commons to-day passed on second reading the Bill providing for the revocation of certificates of naturalization. Under the Bill the Home Secretary is empowered to revoke certain certificates in cases of disloyalty where the party is guilty of criminal offences or whose character is bad.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATIONS.
BASTERN THEATRE, July 12.
Near Varamina a detachment of Bulgar assault troops which had succeeded in gaining a momentary footing in our Siberian positions were immediately driven out. In Albania our troops continue to progress. On the right bank of the Devol River we have occupied the heights of Kayani and cleared the whole mountain region between the Devol and the Tomerica, with the exception of the heights which dominate the confluence of these streams, where the enemy continues his resistance. The total number of prisoners which have fallen into our hands is more than 400.

AUSTRIANS ON SHORT RATIONS.
AMSTERDAM, July 12.
The alarming state of the food situation in Vienna is described in a despatch to the Berlin Tageblatt from its Vienna correspondent, who says: The daily rations per head are fixed at approximately three ounces of bread and flour substitutes; one ounce of meat, less than a quarter ounce of fat, two and a half ounces of potatoes, three-quarters of an ounce of jam, and a quarter of an ounce of war coffee, making a total daily allowance of seven and three quarter ounces. These rations may be supplemented by recourse to secret channels and by the payment of exorbitant prices, the correspondent declares.

INDIA TO THE FRONT.
LONDON, July 12.
(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—Indian recruiting returns show that the numbers recruited in the fourth year of the war will be three times as great as during the third year. Every province shared this great development. Punjab heads the list, but the Simas, Gurkhas, Musselmans and Dogras are doing splendidly. Burma is organizing valuably. The recruiting organization has been so powerful and elastic that it should be capable of meeting all demands made.

WON'T TELL THE PEOPLE ABOUT AMERICA.
GENEVA, July 12.
The military critic of the "Tribune" at Geneva says he recently met a high German officer who declared that although the German newspapers had been prohibited from mentioning American military matters except the taking of prisoners, the American invasion of Europe and the great aid being rendered by them to the Entente Allies is causing much anxiety in the German imperial headquarters. People cannot understand, the German officer said, and why the German submarine warfare announced by the Reichstag is unable to prevent a million Americans landing in France.

The Germans, he added, are learning the truth only through foreign newspapers. The Swiss La Democratie sarcastically remarks in this connection that it is prudent and safer for German submarines to sink unarmed hospital ships than to attack a protected American troopship.

MUTINIES IN TURKISH REGIMENTS.
ATHENS, July 12.
Mutinies according to an uncensored private letter dated June 18, and smuggled out of Smyrna on the Asia Minor coast, a regiment in the Turkish village of Aiden, southeast of Smyrna which had been ordered to Mesopotamia mutinied and murdered its German officers. Many soldiers from regiments sent to suppress the mutiny joined the rebellious troops the letter declares. Talaat Pasha, the Turkish Premier, went to Smyrna and granted amnesty to the mutineers who were given the promise that they would not be sent to the Mesopotamia war area. From the same source comes the statement that the Turks have restricted cultivation of everything except food products thus causing a big rise in the price of tobacco.

AUSTRIA TO CRUMBLE AWAY.
ROME, July 11.
(By the Associated Press).—Austria is about to crumble away, is the opinion of political and military observers here. After the publication of the latest reports from Albania and the Balkans where the Entente Allies have succeeded in perfecting a single front extending from the Adriatic Sea to Salonika on the Aegean Sea, a distance of some 200 miles.

HOW MITCHELL WAS KILLED.
WASHINGTON, July 12.
Failure to buckle his safety belt and the peculiar quick snap of his scout plane when it was nosed over for a glide, apparently caused the death of Major John Purroy Mitchell, says the official report of the accident at Marston field, Louisiana received to-day at the War Department. The investigating board found that Major Mitchell's death "occurred in line of duty and not because of his own misconduct."

LONDON, July 12 (Official).
In the operations in the vicinity of the Merris, the British took 120 prisoners.

NEW SKIN REMEDY.
Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged. This—the quality of penetrating—partially explains the tremendous success of the wonderful new liquid eczema remedy, the D. D. D. Prescription.

D. D. D. is now recognized as the only absolutely reliable eczema remedy, for it penetrates the pores, washes away the disease germs and leaves the skin as clear and healthy as that of a child. This scientific antiseptic wash has been found to be especially effective in all forms of Eczema, Bad Leg, Ulcers, Pimples, Ringworm, Sores and Rash, Salt Rheum and all other skin diseases. One bottle will prove it to you. Don't delay, get a bottle of D. D. D. Prescription today. Sold Everywhere.

SATURDAY, July 13th, 1918.

The Week's War.

On the Western front, there has been no general engagement, the main activities consisting of air raids, patrol excursions, night attacks and surprise sorties, with a general maintenance of artillery fire. All these operations have accomplished the desired result of keeping the Germans in a jumpy and nervous condition. Consequently they have been obliged to alter their preparations for the new offensive which they had planned to carry forward during the week now ended. When their fresh blow will fall is not exactly known at this time of writing but the point at which the initial stroke will be delivered is in the possession of General Foch, and as it is patent that the objective will be Paris, the exact positions at which the enemy will launch his advance have been considerably strengthened, so that when the grand attack materialises the road will be blocked once more. A great deal of village fighting has taken place in the Villers Cotterets-Chateau Thierry section, British, French and American storming and capturing many small places held by the Huns, and turning them into strong defensive positions, the holding of which will enable the battle line to move forward and present an impassable obstacle to the foe onrush.

The Austrian debacle in Italy has had its effect on the Teutonic powers. Their first attempt to minimize the importance of the Italian victory on the Piave, failed, and the disaster which overtook the armies of the dual Empire is already being felt in the Austrian Capital. Peace feelers are again being put forth, but their tenor savours too strongly of the "made in Germany" type to expect that any notice will be taken of them by the Entente powers and America. German hypocrisy looms large in the statement that the political leaders and army headquarters staff of Germany are a unit regarding their readiness to receive peace proposals from the Allies if they are offered in spirit of sincerity. As a foil to this Chancellor Von Hertling makes an announcement that Germany had not and would not change her policy, however strong the idea of destruction was expressed in Allied countries. Recent speeches of Balfour and Wilson, according to this same gentleman, forces Germany to continue the struggle. If the proposed peace terms then will be acceptable on German lines, Germany is prepared to negotiate. If not, the deluge, with the accusation of bloodguiltiness made against the Allies.

In Albania, to which theatre all eyes have been turned the past week, general successes are reported, and the Italian divisions in that theatre are continuing an unchecked advance, with the Austro-Hungarians falling back over a fifty mile frontage. In this progress the armies of Italy are assisted by some French troops and the signal success of the attackers may foreshadow the possibility of an entirely new allied offensive being opened along the Saloniki front, in order to draw Austrian reinforcements from Italy and German troops from France. The Bulgars are not any too pleased with the trend of events and war weariness is adding to their other troubles, so that a new blow along the Saloniki northern front may bring about some notable military and political results.

In Russia events have been moving rapidly and surprise follows surprise but there is yet no direct evidence that the various fighting elements have any cohesion. The Czechs-Slovaks appear to be the dominant aggregation at the moment, with their energies bent on the utter destruction of the Bolsheviki regime. The assassination at Moscow of the German Ambassador to Russia, Count Von Mirbach, was one of the sensational events of the week, and it was conjectured that Germany would demand reparation. No steps, however, have been taken in this direction by the Kaiser's Government which now does not intend to hold the Soviet of Moscow responsible for the murder, the Russian Government having promised to do all in its power (which may not be much) to punish the perpetrators of the crime.

A new Sultan has been proclaimed in Turkey to succeed Mehemed V, and much speculation is rife as to his attitude toward the war. Turkey as well as Bulgaria is becoming tired of being made Teutonic catpaws, and some new developments may be looked for from the former country, under its new head.

Very little news has come through from the Macedonian front, though it is not improbable that with close upon a million men in this quarter, events will soon begin to move, in favour of the Allies.

On the Western front the British army's fighting strength is two million men, to which the Americans have contributed another million. These added to the French available make up a force equal in strength to any the German can send against them, and the anticipated fresh onslaught of the enemy may now be met man for man.

On the sea, according to the latest reports, the submarine campaign is not only being checked, but held, but as the Admiralty figures are now only published monthly, the actual loss in tonnage cannot be approximated, though figures recently quoted show that there has been a considerable falling off in the number of ships sunk, and officials announce that the situation is well in hand.

The summing up of the week's operations shows a balance in favour of the Allies, from all theatres, and with the further time given them to perfect their offensive and defensive preparations, the Germans may look out for a warm reception when they project their new attack.

Last evening's meeting, because of the severe heat, was very poorly attended, and little business was transacted. It was decided to have Mr. F. J. Woods, President of the Fireman's Local, attend the Association, to answer charges made against him by certain of the members.

The Housing Problem was not discussed last evening, as it was thought advisable to invite Messrs. John Anderson and M. P. There being no further business to transact the meeting adjourned.

Dr. Pischon Returns.

Dr. Pischon, the foot expert, who has been on a professional tour, arrived back by last evening's train. Dr. Pischon is very busy again to-day, and to-morrow will leave for Bonavista, thence to Grand Falls, and from that to Chicago.

When You are Grown Up.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"When I'm grown up," I heard a little girl say, the other day, "I'll go to every circus that comes to town." And I thought to myself, "I wonder if you will go if you will forget to go at all." Not that grown people don't go to circuses. I know of a middle-aged couple who have never missed a circus yet. But it is so dangerous prophesying, at five or ten or even twenty, what one will do when one has entered into that magic state of being where no one can forbid one to do just what one wants (I'm rather glad it isn't until one enters therein that one realizes that sad truth that circumstances can forbid just as effectually as people, and that freedom of action and responsibility for action are twins.)

A Bakeshop Opened the Flood Gates.

I was visiting this spring, in the town in which my Alma Mater is located. One day, as I was passing down a side street, I suddenly found my mind flooded with memories. For a minute, I did not know what had unlocked those flood gates; and then I consciously saw what my subconscious mind must have already seen—a little bakeshop. In my undergraduate days, when we finished our work in the afternoon, a certain two of us used to walk to that bakeshop and buy ourselves mocha cakes or eclairs. The eclairs were two for five and the mocha cakes five each. I can remember how hard it used to be to choose between them, and how swiftly they disappeared and how hungry we would still be when the last crumb of our nickel's worth had vanished! Of course, we could have spent another nickel without going bankrupt, but we didn't feel quite justified in doing it. And I used to take it out in promising myself that when I got to earning money, I would eat half a dozen mocha cakes a day regularly.

I Haven't Eaten Six Mocha Cakes A Day Yet.

It is some years since I earned my own money, but I haven't eaten half a dozen mocha cakes a day yet. I want into the bakery and bought one in memory of old times. But they weren't so good as they used to be; apparently they had left out some ingredient (can you guess what it was) and, instead of regretfully savoring the last mouthful, I gave it to a wistful puppy that I chanced to meet at home.

At the age of ten, my sister, being urgently requested to turn her attention from "Dick the Errand Boy" and "Fub the Bootblack" to some other form of literature, declared that when she was twenty-one, she would read every book that great and wonderful author wrote. I don't suppose I need to tell you what became of that prophecy.

The Man Who Did Not Forget. Occasionally to be sure, one does not forget. I know a highly successful author who never subscribes to a magazine but always buys them off the newsstands, because when he was in college, he used to hang over the stands so eagerly and never could afford to buy all the magazines he wanted.

I rather suspect there is a touch of that sympathy imagination which has made him so successful a writer in that tender memory of the wistfulness of the boy—that was.

TRIMNESS AT BREAKFAST.
 Are you an early morning groucher? Or do you open your sleepy eyes to the sun, and smile a good natured welcome? It seems as if a smiling woman in a trim morning gown sitting behind the coffee urn, would be enough to start the whole family on their busy way with a feeling that all the world was bright.

A successful business man once remarked that he owed his success to the trimness of his wife's breakfast caps. Her crispy dainty freshness sped him on his daily way through life with a heart full of cheer and courage.

A soiled negligee, no matter how beautiful embroidered, is as depressing in the early morning hours as the slow drizzle of the rain.

If your hair is of that stubborn brand and requires the nightly visit of the kid curlers, don one of the fascinating little boudoir caps which are so generous in their desire to cover all unsightly tangle heads.

If you are a negligee woman, be careful in the selection of the colors and the daintiness of your lounging robes. The early dawn is not as lenient as the soft rays of the evening lights. Harsh colors and bad neck lines will add years to your appearance. Start the day right for your family as well as for yourself.

STILL LIVING.

We've lived to see the greatest scrap that ever jarred the mundane map. Four years ago, in padded ways, we spent our money hunting for a 7 x 8 x 8 m prophets stood around and said that balmy peace would soon be dead. They pawed the air, it made them weep that other nations seemed asleep, while at their forges busy Huns were making swords and bombs. "Go to, false prophets!" we exclaimed; "you really ought to be ashamed to rend your beards and say that peace, the precious boon, will ever cease. We're civilized, we have advanced; the world is now so circumstanced that every nation only asks a chance to do its useful task, to bale its hay and put up ice, and see it always has the price. No government is so insane that it has conquest on the brain, so chase yourselves, oh dippy seers, and let us yoke our bridled steers." Four years ago we talked like this! Who said that ignorance is bliss? Our ignorance has cost a lot since we were handing out such rot. We've lived to see the planet torn, we've lived to see the nations mourn. And we shall live to see the Hun, who wished a go-place in the sun, into the outer darkness cast and groping in a horror vast.

WALT WILSON

Your Boys and Gisl.

Every mother likes to see her small daughter look dainty at all times. But girls as well as boys, get their clothes soiled at play, and while boys can be put into overalls or rompers, according to their age, few mothers will like to see their little daughters dressed in these comely garments. But there will be no objection to miniature bungalow aprons on the order of these worn by the mothers, especially if a pretty color is chosen. These aprons are quite easy to make at home.

The best kind of materials to use are the soft cotton poplins, ratine cotton and silk mixtures in the cheaper grades, and the crepe goods. In fact any fabric that does not demand too much in the way of laundering will answer, provided, of course, it is fairly substantial. To make the apron measure off twice the length from the shoulder of the wearer to the edge of her dress, allowing for a deep hem, fold this and cut the top in kimono fashion, taken out under the arms to below the waist line, then cut straight across to the selvedge edge. This fullness is plaited or gathered and set on after cutting slits in the body of the apron to fit.

A strip of the material holds the fullness down. If preferred, the skirt part may be gored all the way down, but the child does not get the freedom the fullness allows. The neck is cut square and edged with a white band, so are the kimono sleeves. The closing is in the back from neck to waist lines or for convenience in laundering it may be closed all the way down.

Fads and Fashions.

Linen dresses have an unusually strong resemblance to suits.

Satin promises to be the greatest favorite among silks for fall.

Indian reds include light and burnt orange and amber brown.

The new leopard skin coats are to be trimmed with Hudson seal.

Trim the little girl's white lawn frock with polka-dotted material.

A great deal of valencienne lace is used on dainty figured cottons.

Red Blocked crash toweling is used for exceedingly novel dresses.

Trench hats of soft silk trimmed with narrow fringe are now in style.

Tams are worn this summer, they are made of linen with woolen tassels.

The girdle makes the costume and especially when trimmed with wooden beads.

We are promised two coat slouchettes for fall—one the severely straight and military, the other inclining to the circular.

SOUL AND SKILL.

The deed men cheer is born of skill. The mob is dazzled by success; It leaves one god, and always will, For one who wears a finer dress— To-day it fawns, to-morrow frowns— Brief is the role the favorite plays; It raises high the man it crowns, Then seeks a stronger man to praise.

The multitude is swayed by skill; It cannot read the souls of men; It little knows the good and ill, Between the lines its victors pen. Its ear is not in tune with all The finer melodies of life; Its only passion is the brawl! And scramble of the fretful strife.

Who seeks the praises of the throng, Must miss the glories of the few; The little circle and its song, The joy of constant friends and true; The love of them who know him best And catch the tender words he speaks; For soul, not skill is what the thoughtless seeks.

But few may rightly know a man. Only the nearest feel his soul; And know the detail of the plan By which he strives to reach his goal.

And he may never rise to fame And share the pomp and power of state Nor play with skill life's bitter game, And still be counted with the great.

For lasting worth is standing firm Against the lure of gold and fame, And living out life's little term By never stooping once to shame. It's being tender, brave and true, Unflinching through good or ill, Scorning one selfish deed to do To reap the brief rewards of skill.

Unless waves are more becoming to the face do not wave your hair, as straight hair is very fashionable.

Sailor hats are so practical and generally becoming that they hold first place in the military world.

Very chic is a foulard with white ground and black dots. It is combined with black satin and piped with the same.

A dainty blouse is made of lawn with a yellow stripe and the collar and cuffs are of yellow handkerchief linen.

NOTHING TO REPORT.

LONDON, To-day. The official statement issued by the War Office to-night reads: A raid attempted by the enemy this morning near Bucquoy, southwest of Arras, was driven off with loss to the enemy. Except some hostile artillery activity in the Hinges sector and at other points, there is nothing to report from the British front.

VON HERTLING HOLDS THE REINS

LONDON, To-day. Debate on the general political situation was opened in the Reichstag on Thursday by Imperial Chancellor Von Hertling, who discussed the retirement of Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the Foreign Secretary, the foreign policy of the Government and the economic problem which had arisen because of recent developments in the East, according to a German official wireless received here. The Imperial Chancellor said at the conclusion of a long speech, "The name of the man who is proposed as Dr. Von Kuehlmann's successor is well known to you. Admiral Von Hintze possesses a thorough knowledge of Russian affairs, which is a matter of great importance in the present situation, but it goes without saying that I will give my counter signature to the appointment of Admiral Von Hintze only on conditions that he follow my line of policy and not his own. However, as far as I am concerned, I have a sure guarantee for this in Admiral Von Hintze's promise. I will direct the line of foreign policy and the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has merely to follow out my policy. The proposed Secretary of Foreign Affairs is absolutely clear on this point, and the course with which the great majority of the Reichstag declared itself in agreement, in November last year, will still be followed."

NEW GOVERNMENT FOR ALLIES.

LONDON, To-day. The Allied Powers will have the full support of the new Siberian Government, according to assurances sent by Lt-General Horvath, who has been proclaimed provisional ruler of Siberia, to the correspondent of the Daily Mail at Harbin. From his headquarters at Pogradits in Eastern Manchuria, General Horvath has telegraphed the Mail correspondent as follows: Paragraph five of the programme of my Government which established the renewal of all treaties with the Allied Powers is at once confirmation of the firm intention on our part to act in complete accord with our brave Allies and return to their Russian ranks those who are fighting with the enemy.

LONDON, To-day. Commenting on developments in Russia, where it says events are moving with great rapidity, the Times contends that the Czechs-Slovaks, who have seized all Siberia, must be helped without delay and manifestly Japan is in the best position to send help quickly. The Times adds, "but we trust that eventually all the Allies will participate in an enterprise so full of promise."

FRENCH FORWARD MOVEMENT.

PARIS, To-day. In an operation carried out last night on the front between Mont Didier and the Oise, the French pushed their advanced posts forward a distance approximately 500 yards, in the vicinity of the Porte Farm, the War Office announced to-day. The Porte Farm is in the vicinity of Compiègne. This farm, together with the Loges farm nearby, was captured by the French in a local operation on the evening of July 8th. The text of the statement reads: Between Mont Didier and the Oise the French in the course of the night advanced their forward posts some hundred metres in the region of the Porte Farm. Several raids were carried out by French troops north of the Arve, southeast of Amiens, in the region of the Oise, on the Marne and in the Champagne, resulting in the taking of prisoners.

CODDLING THE HUN AGAIN.

LONDON, To-day. Charges made by Naval Paymaster Collingwood Hughes that a captain of a captured derelict German submarine left four British seamen on board the U-boat, when he knew that it was about to be destroyed by a patrol boat, were unauthorised, according to a statement issued by the British Admiralty last night. The statement reads: There is no information in the possession of the Admiralty in confirmation of the statements made by Mr. Hughes which were made entirely without authority.

MINOR ENTERPRISES.

LONDON (Bulletin) To-day. Successful minor enterprises were carried out by the British last night, on the Flanders front, near Vieux Boquin and Marris, as a result of which 68 prisoners were taken and a few machine guns captured, the War Office announced to-day. A German raiding party which advanced upon the British lines in Flanders, in the Mezeran sector was repulsed. The German artillery developed activity during the night on the Flanders front and opposite Beaumont Hamel.

PLAGIARISING LORD MORRIS.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. How the German Emperor pictures the future of Germany is recorded by his favorite war correspondent, the faithful Karl Rosner, of the Lokal Anzeiger. One evening after a busy day in surveying operations from a chain of observation posts, the Emperor chatting with his entourage spoke with glowing enthusiasm, says Rosner, of the time when the forces now let loose for destruction would again be placed in the service of peaceful pursuits. He sketched far-reaching advances in the technical domain, in physics, chemistry and scientific farming. The Emperor's forecast that all of Germany's needs in nitrates would be covered by extracting nitrates from the air. The Emperor then described "the marvellous possibilities of the new gas motors and how purified waste waters from metal works would serve to fertilize the fields so that deserts will bloom like roses, and make arid regions self-supporting. As regards food, with daring flights of fancy continues Rosner, the Emperor predicted the harnessing of the rays of the sun and discovery of oceans' innermost treasures. This will all come to pass, the Emperor assured his hearers, once Germany secures the "strong peace" for which he is working.

A Working Department

Undoubtedly the busiest of all Government departments since 1914 is the Colonial Secretary's Office, as the officials are on the job till 6 p.m. every day, often at night, and on many occasions have the officials spent the greater part of the Sabbath attending to urgent and very important business. Since the outbreak of hostilities and up to the formation of the Militia Department, all the records of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment were kept in this department, which demanded of the clerks every moment of their time. Secret documents that would be of untold value in the hands of the enemy have been handled with the greatest of care. The issuing of Passports, which run up into thousands in the course of a year, no less than 1500 being disposed of within a short period, has been carried out without a single complaint against the department, which is indeed a record to be proud of.

Collegians and Stars Draw.

Some of the old-time enthusiasm among the players (on the grand stand) was much in evidence at last night's football match between the Stars and Collegians. The game all through was good, but might have been better had there been a little less individual play and more combination. The game opened with a rush into the Star territory by the Collegians forward, who was blocked by Karanagh who sent the ball to centre field. Going west the Stars made a try, but Chancy, the defence man for the Collegians, lashed the leather down east, and following up with a neat bit of combination Quick sent a hurried one to Cooney, who cleared well but was soon called on to repeat the trick. In doing so he overlooked the rules and walked some distance with the ball in his hands. This called for a kick off near the Star goal, and for a few minutes it looked as if the Collegians would score. On changing over, the Stars worked hard to draw first blood but their shooting was far from the mark. Drawing near the end of the game the players settled down to work in real old-time form and for a period of ten minutes the leather was kept travelling up and down the field in a manner that aroused the enthusiasm of spectators to a degree not seen for some years. In a scrimmage near the Collegian net the goalkeeper was pushed into the goal with the ball in his hands, the referee allowing a foul against the Star. The final whistle sounded with no goals scored.

Mr. J. J. St. John acted as referee and the players were: STAR—Cooney, goal; Sullivan, Kavanagh, backs; Duggan, Hart, Dalton, halves; Evans, McGrath, Jackman, T. Evans, Cornors, forwards. COLLEGIANS—Heath, goal; Joffie, Chaney, backs; Pike, Goble, Elton, halves; Gushue, Quick, Smith, Bartlett, C. Smith, forwards.

Duggan and Hart, halves, and Evans, left wing, for the Star played a good game.

Quick for the Collegians was seen in old-time form, while Goble, Pike and Heath showed up well.

The "King" occupied a throne on the grand stand and was surrounded by a number of the former football princes.

Jim and George did not agree on the points of the game, but everybody can't be of the same mind.

The gate receipts were encouraging and it is hoped that on Monday night the attendance will be a record one.

Wedding Bells

WHELAN—ROSE.

A very fashionable wedding took place at Placentia on the 10th inst., when Miss Maggie Whelan, Principal of Jersey Side School was united in bonds of matrimony to Mr. F. J. Rose, of Goble's stores, St. John's. The ceremony was charmingly stirred in the Church of The Sacred Heart, the officiating clergyman being the Right Rev. Monsignor Reardon. The bridesmaids were Misses Tessie Whelan and Kitty Rose, whilst Messrs. J. Delaney and A. Whelan supported the groom. The bride was charmingly attired in white silk with georgette net, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses and asparagus fern. The bridesmaids wore silk with overnet and hats to match. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous repast was partaken by the festive assembly. Flags were displayed in profusion on the residences and along the waterfront of the town, testifying to the popularity of the wedded pair. The presents received were numerous and costly, amongst them being several large cheques. The happy couple left within a few days subsequent to the deed mentioned in dispatches, and for which the Military Medal was awarded. The hero of the exploit is a nephew of Mr. G. McF. Hennebury of the Telegram staff. We offer congratulations and trust that Pte. Hennebury's captivity in the enemy's hands will not be of long duration.

GOT THE SAVINGS OF IMMIGRANTS
NEW YORK, July 12.—How the Austro-Hungarian Government got control of the savings of its immigrants to this country through the Trans-Atlantic Trust Company, now seized by Francis P. Garvin, investigating for the alien property custodian, Austro-Hungarian immigrants upon their arrival in New York before the war he stated were met at the dock by an agent of the bank who directed them to the boarding houses, the keepers of which were representatives of the Trans-Atlantic Institution. Even the services of clergymen were utilized by the bank officials to impress upon Austro-Hungarians the importance of placing all their funds and savings with the establishment whose controlling hand reached even from Vienna. Millions of dollars worth of Austro-Hungarian and German war bonds advertised by the bank in George Sylvester Viereck's weekly paper called "The Fatherland" were sold to those immigrants.

GERMANY MUST ACT.

AMSTERDAM, July 12.—German official circles are of the opinion, says a Berlin despatch to the Rheinische Westalische Zeitung of Essen, that in the event of civil war breaking out in Russia the vital interests of Germany would force her to act on her own account in order to eject the British in the north. The reference here is evidently to the Murman coast region where Allied troops have been landed for the protection of supplies sent to Russia by the Entente. Intervention by Japan in Siberia, adds the despatch, is regarded of secondary importance because Austria having no interest divergent with those of Japan would soon succeed in arriving at an understanding with her.

GERMAN BONDS SOLD IN UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Busch family of St. Louis bought at least $1,000,000 worth of German war bonds which the government believes were sold in this country for the propaganda and for the purchase of the New York Evening Mail and other New York papers, according to a statement issued last night by Alfred L. Becker, Deputy State Attorney General. Mr. Becker added that probably more than $100,000,000 worth of the bonds had been sold in the United States.

Want Dog Laws Enforced.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Dogs have destroyed sheep and cattle to the value of five hundred dollars in the month of June of the present year. Last year people of this town lost heavily by the same dog nuisance. Repeatedly the sufferers have made representation to the local authorities and got no redress; they also notified the Government with the same results. Later the new Inspector General of Police was notified, and he immediately became thoroughly interested and promised to administer full justice. He gave details relating to the law in connection with the keeping of dogs. He went so far as to order a number of rounds of ammunition to be packed and sent to the police station at Carbonear, and he notified the local police to carry out the law to its fullness.

To-day, July 11th, from close observation, there was but one dog in the whole of Carbonear with a log chained to its neck, but not in keeping with the law, as read by the Inspector General. From memory, I believe that the law calls for a seven-pound log, and this dog at Carbonear appeared to be wearing a two-pound log.

I also understand that all game dogs should wear a collar with the owner's name, and pay a regular game-dog license, but this does not prevail here, and the quicker that the law is carried out to the full extent, I say this without prejudice, the better for the sufferers and the country at large, especially now in these strenuous times when the whole world is calling for the conservation of food and the improvement of wool crops.

Mr. Editor, it is really a disgrace that the Government and all in authority treat this matter of carrying out the law, relating to the keeping of dogs, in such a light manner; what encouragement is there for people of this district to invest their money in good breeds of sheep and cattle, if the authorities will not protect them? Just imagine, you let out a flock of sheep, and within the space of ten or twelve hours they are devoured by a pack of hungry dogs, roaming at large, without a log or muzzle. How long shall we suffer these losses, and without any compensation or protection in any shape or form.

Let the authorities get busy to-day and prevent future losses of sheep and cattle. Carry out the law, compensate also people who have met with such heavy losses during June, 1918. Do it now.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.
Carbonear, July 11th, 1918.

LLOYD'S GEORGE'S BRITISH SPEECH.

The Prime Minister's brief but telling speech at the annual festival of the Printers' Pensions Corporation not merely brought his audience to their feet but almost drew the enthusiastically cheering crowd back to Downing Street with him. Not content with shouting themselves hoarse, with waving handkerchiefs and serviettes they followed him into the street and cheered him till he was out of sight. It was not that the speech had any very new message to the nation, but it was in the right vein of eloquent stimulus and appeal—the kind of note upon the bugle-horn which is worth a thousand men. It set in strong relief the opposed ideals which are at the back of the great world war, and though it did not minimize the harrowing price which is being paid and is still to be paid for victory, it rightly emphasised the fact that the cost will still be less than the value of the cause the Allies are defending. Much had been said about Ludendorff's great hammer blows "Hammer blows," said the Prime Minister, "crack and crumble poor materials; hammer blows harden and consolidate good metal." This country, which had faced great crises in the past, would stand this test also, France and Europe were threatened with the deluge. Let Britain stand like a breakwater against this torrent. God willing, we will break it in the end. An appeal of this kind—

KINGS TAKE COVER.

James II. left his perch on a pedestal behind the Admiralty offices in London some months ago and disappeared, Roman costume, baton and all, into some safe shelter known only to the Board of Works. There Sir Alfred Mond, the chief of that department, will probably keep him until the war ends. Now a more famous statue, that of King Charles on horseback at Charing Cross, is being built in with sandbags. I believe that its bronze is too weather-worn to stand removal safely. The statue lay high for years during the Commonwealth which had ordered its destruction. The blacksmith who bought it sold it to Royalists purporting to be of its metal, but at the Restoration produced the whole statue. Less substantiated is the legend that its sculptor committed suicide on discovering that he had mounted the king on a horse without girls.

his for membership of the House of Commons. In fact, one argument frequently heard was that the conferring of the franchise would lead to an agitation to permit women to sit in Parliament. The Courts, however, interpret statutes in quite independent of any views which may have been expressed in Parliament as to their significance, and a counsel who had the temerity to cite in court a passage from "Hansard" as throwing light on the intentions of the Legislature would receive a speedy reproof.

AEROPLANES AFTER THE WAR.

It is often urged that more ought to be done now to develop aerial mail and transport without waiting for the period of peace. Official opinion is against expenditure of material and effort in this direction, chiefly for the following reason. It is true that we have plenty of machines that are no longer of any use for fighting, that might be used for transport, but these machines are far more usefully employed in training aviators for the front. It is also true that we have pilots who, owing to nervous strain, are no longer fit for fighting, but these men are of the greatest value in training work and the thousand and one "ground duties" in which men with flying knowledge can be employed. Neither men nor material can be spared at present from the business of winning the war. At the same time the authorities are fully alive to the necessity of having everything ready for a big development of British air transport as soon as the war is over. It should be remembered that the experience now being gained at the front in every branch of aviation is enormous, and can all be turned to account when the time comes to make Great Britain the leader in the peaceful paths of the air. Invention and experiment are now concentrated on producing a machine which will go the maximum distance with a maximum weight of bombs. When peace comes the bombs will be replaced by passengers and mails.

EMBARGO ON AMERICAN FILMS.

Ninety per cent of cinema films exhibited in this country are produced in America. Recently there has been a difficulty in getting delivery of these films owing to a restriction on exports, and a considerable quantity of films has been held up on the other side. Through this will not mean an immediate shortage of subjects for exhibition, as the production of films is carried on on a very extensive scale and bookings to picture houses are made far ahead of the time of showing. It is nevertheless causing a great deal of anxiety to the industry in this country not only from the trade standpoint, but also from the broader aspect of national interests. Many of the films which are or may be held up are subjects of propaganda value. It is urged that as the storage space required for the reels in shipment is so very small special consideration might be extended to them, and this plea has been met to a certain extent by the authorities concerned. It is understood that the films already waiting shipment will be allowed through, while subsequent consignments will be limited to specially licensed films. In granting licenses the United States Government is, it is stated, guided by the views of the British War Mission, and the Board of Trade is prepared to recommend through the Mission the granting of licenses for suitable films.

PARLIAMENTARY CANDIDATURES OF WOMEN.

Uncertainty exists as to the eligibility of women for membership of the House of Commons. The Government is to be asked whether the Law Officers of the Crown have examined the matter and given an opinion on it. A full authoritative decision of course can only be obtained from the Law Courts in a specific case, and the Home Secretary pointed this out some weeks ago. With ladies coming forward as candidates for Parliament this question will no doubt be thus tested, and the crucial point. I am told, will turn upon the existence or non-existence of a disability at common law as interpreted in the light of the recent enfranchisement of women. The assumption upon which the debates on the Reform Bill proceeded was that it did not make women eligi-

THE SOLDIER AS A "NUT."

The very newest "nut" has nothing to do with the pre-war soft hat, nicely wasted coat, well creased trousers, and starting socks. He is the comely, well-dressed soldier in the new hospital "blues." It is as a "nut" that he is known by his less fortunate comrades still condemned to wear the ill-fitting monstrosities in grey and blue which we have known since the far-away days of August, 1914. The new suits are a great success, and the authorities hope that in time all our wounded men will be supplied with them. They are nicely cut and they make some good pretence to fit their wearers, which is something that could never be said of the earlier hospital clothes.

Shell Shocked Nerves
Shattered nerves are the source of greatest suffering to many a returned soldier. The doctor can give something to relieve physical pain, but when the nervous system breaks down and you are sleepless, nervous and mentally worried, real cure only comes when the exhausted nerve cells are nourished back to health and vigor by such restorative, upbuilding treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Named in Honor of U. S. A.
H.M.S. EAGLE LAUNCHED.
Mrs. Page, wife of the American Ambassador, has launched a new British warship on the Tyne, christening her "H.M.S. Eagle" on the First Lord's invitation expressly approved by the King.

The Royal Naval Ensign and the Stars and Stripes flew side by side over the ship. Mrs. Page spoke of her privilege in christening the Eagle, and told how deeply she was touched by the graceful courtesy of America's comrades-in-arms in naming a new man-of-war after the United States national bird.

Admiral Halsey acknowledged the effective co-operation which has existed for more than a year between the American and British Navies.

St. Bon's "Old Boys."

The St. Bon's Association holds the annual meeting on to-morrow (Sunday) for the election of officers and other business. Under the amended rules, officers may hold office for only one year, so that an entirely new ticket will be elected at the coming session.

The annual re-union takes place on Thursday, July 18th, and the Association will pay a solemn tribute to the memories of their gallant brothers who won immortal fame for themselves, the Association and their native land, on many a bloody field in Gallipoli, in France and Flanders. His Grace the Archbishop will celebrate a Solemn Requiem Mass for the repose of the souls of those who "died" "at the front," and also those who went down in the Florist. His Grace also will impart Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Amongst the soldiers now in the city are a large number of returned veterans, and a goodly showing of Volunteers, who have not yet received their baptism of fire. The Acolytes and Servitors have been selected from these and it will lend picturesqueness as well as solemnity to the occasion to see these gallant young fellows in uniform paying the last tribute to their brothers deceased. After the Breakfast a special photo as a souvenir will be taken of the "Old Boys" in uniform, and which will include His Grace the Archbishop and visiting clergy. The Military Authorities have graciously consented to give leave for a couple of hours to the soldiers so that all may attend. The Services in the Sanctuary include Capt. Gerald Byron, M.C., Capt. Leo Murphy, Lieut. Stephen Smith, Corporal Robert Alop, Pte. Oliphant, L.-Corp. Leonard Burke, and L.-Corp. Jos. O'Driscoll. The committee in charge has completed every detail, to make this Reunion one of the most notable of the series.

"Royalo" Port Wine. Creme De Menthe. Black Cherry Brandy. London Dock Sherry. Sloe Gin. Ginger Wine Cordial.

266 Water Street, St. John's, July, 1918.

Dear Sir, or Madam:

I beg to approach you as one whom I am of the opinion appreciates the good things of life with regard to some new drinks I am about to place on the market.

The wines in question, a list of which you will find at the head of this letter, are manufactured by a Toronto concern who, since that Province went "dry," have made a special study of wines that were popular in the "good old days" and have endeavored to imitate these wines as closely as it is possible to do when same have to be made according to the Prohibition law.

The Wines which I am now offering are the result. Nothing like them has ever been on the market since Prohibition days, and they should in no way be confounded with brands of non-alcoholic wines which have previously been on the market and which in the main are syrupy and nauseating.

Especial care has been taken to imitate the original flavors as far as it is possible, in fact it is practically impossible to distinguish the two Liqueurs mentioned above from the real thing, while the other wines are very similar in flavor to their namesakes. A not unattractive feature is that the drinks are bottled in quart bottles, absolute counterparts of their real namesakes.

It is my desire to get a sample bottle of each of these wines into your home, for I am of the opinion that once you try them you will become a steady user of one or other of the kinds offered. I am therefore going to ask you to give me an order for One sample bottle each of "Royalo" Port Wine, London Dock Sherry, Creme de Menthe, Sloe Gin, Black Cherry Brandy and Ginger Wine Cordial at One dollar per quart bottle delivered (the same price as in Canada), that is Six Dollars in all.

(These sample orders will be filled through one of the St. John's dealers handling these goods, and delivery will be made as soon as the first shipment is received, probably some time in September.) Orders may be phoned to my office—telephone number 60.

Special prices to the trade upon application.

I am sure you will be pleased with this sample order and I hope to hear from you at your convenience.

With best wishes,

Yours very truly,
P. E. OUTERBRIDGE,
Agent for The Gordon Wine Co., Toronto.

Serious Accident.

Yesterday afternoon, at 5.30, James Fogarty, driver with the Reid Express Co., met with a serious accident that all but ended fatally. He was driving a horse to which was attached a van laden partly with express matter, which was to go out by train, and was bound for the station by way of New Gower Street. When about 50 yards east of the West End Fire Hall the fore wheel of his truck hit the hub of a wheel of a large slow-driven by a man named Churchill, who had held up his team to allow a carriage to pass by, the three being abreast on the road at the same time. When the collision came Fogarty was thrown from his seat on the van into the street, falling on the head with much force. His horse bolted and he was picked up in an unconscious condition and taken in to the West End Fire Hall, where the Armory was phoned for medical aid. Drs. Arch Tait and Campbell reached the Hall within a few minutes, and a brief examination showed them that although the skin had not been broken, the bone had, and was pressing against the brain. Nothing could be done there, so an ambulance was summoned, in which the injured man was taken to the hospital, accompanied by Dr. Tait. The patient was too bad last evening to undergo an operation, but did so this morning, and is somewhat improved.
