

The All Weather Ignition Unit

THE Reliable Ignition Unit is the all weather ignition unit. Fair or foul,—the Reliable Ignition Unit will always supply the spark to take you there and bring you back.

The Reliable Ignition Unit is bedded in pit-ah and set in a caulked box. As long as the connections are dry, bilge water or flying spray will not stop the fat hot spark from the Reliable Ignition Unit. It is water-proof.

The Reliable Ignition Unit is made of Reliable dry cells, which are fitted with the Big Brass Cap that prevents waste energy, and are tested three times before being sealed in the caulked box. This assures you of Reliable quality.

Equip your engine with a Reliable Ignition Unit No. 8216, and put an extra one in your locker for emergency purposes.

Ask your dealer for a Reliable Flashlight—the handy, safe light for hunting engine trouble or to drive away the dark.

He also has a Reliable Battery No. 6—unsurpassed for your engine, bell, telephone or for any other battery use.

CHAPTER XL
"ALL IS SAFE—ALL MUST BE SAFE."

"Three, sir," replied the youth.
"Three!" repeated Reginald Dartmouth. "So! Are you aware, my young friend, that the punishment our law inflicts upon a runaway apprentice is a matter of twenty stripes and some years' imprisonment?"

The youth started and stared for a moment.
The captain went on:
"And that if I did my duty I should hand you over to the nearest magistrate to be returned to your unfortunate master?"

"Oh, sir, I implore—I entreat!" said the youth, piteously, dropping on his knees before the cruel face and holding up the small, brown hands imploringly.
"Well, well," muttered the good captain, with a smile, "I am too soft-hearted, my young friend. Get up! I am inclined to give you a trial. Will you show me a little gratitude?—you ought to be grateful."

"Oh, I will, sir—I will—I am!"
"Good!" nodded the captain, lounging to the table. "I will take you into my service, as you request, informing you as I do so that I never forgive any servant and never forget one—you understand me? Dishonesty, falsehood, bad faith—ay, one slip only is unpardonable. I never forgive. Should you repeat the mistake you made with your former employer I, unlike him, shall not rest until you are in jail. No words, please! Stand here. These letters require answering. The purports of their replies I jot down in the corner of each. You will amplify them as in the sample here in my hand, and leave them open for my signature. When this is done go into the next room and wait till I send for you."

The youth murmured a respectful assent, took his seat at the desk, and commenced his task.
Reginald Dartmouth leaned against the mantel-shelf—all carved and gilded in Louis Quatorze style—lighted a cigar, and for a few moments watched the apt fingers as they flew across the paper.

Then, with the one word "Remember!" and a glance from his dark eyes that said much more, to wit: "You are in my power—do not forget it!" strolled from the room.
The secretary waited until his master's languid footsteps died away in the distance of the huge marble hall, and then, with a suddenness that shook the gilt table, started to his feet, snatched off the disfiguring and disguising spectacles, and said, with flashing eyes and voice husked and intense:
"You deep-dyed villain, I will have you in my toils!"

There never was so discreet a servant as John Stanfield.
Vigues, the machine-like valet, could not be more noiseless, serpent-like, and silent.
The impassive, blue-spectacled secretary was more like a shadow than a human being—nay, more than once when he was seen, by mere chance, by some of the guests gliding noiselessly along to or from some mission of the all-powerful captain, the guests wondered, and jokingly asked, if he really were life and substance or shadow and phantom.

He seemed deaf and dumb as well as almost sightless, as he was supposed to be.
He turned his head neither to the right nor to the left if he was met on staircase or terrace, but was always to be seen, with lowered head, impassive, expressionless face, looking straight before him, as if the responsibility of the captain's correspondence, and the captain's secrets, perhaps, were weighing down or lifting him up and carrying him far away from this mundane world.

THE MISERY OF BACKACHE

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mesford, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for backache, and I also had a female weakness. I felt dizzy and nervous, and was without energy. I had to force myself to do my work, and was always tired. Saw a Pinkham advertisement which induced me to take the Vegetable Compound, and my back gradually stopped aching and I felt lighter in spirits. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound with pleasure to all I meet who complain as I did."—MILDRED BROWN, Mesford, Ont.

and ways of living. Every meal at its time, every particular walk to its particular day and proper hour.
"Method, you call it?" asked the countess, in her broken English, looking up with a smile to the pale face of the youth.

"Yes, method, madam," replied the youth, in a monotonous tone, but with a sharp, searching glance through the disguising spectacles that seemed to read the innermost soul of the beautiful woman.
"Method!" repeated the captain.

"Mr. Stanfield is all method, countess. What I should do without him I know not. My correspondence is heavy, and grows heavier and heavier each day, and it says much for Mr. Stanfield's method and discrimination that no fraction of it is neglected."

The countess inclined her head gracefully and, looking up, expected to see a flush of pleasure upon the secretary's face at this unusual commendation; but the pale face remained pale and the well-formed lips never moved a muscle.
The methodical secretary might have been stone deaf for all the effect his master's praise had upon him.

"Have you heard—have you seen any one from the Warren as you passed?" asked Reginald Dartmouth, languidly.
"Yes, sir; Mrs. Lucas," replied the secretary, lifting his eyes as he spoke the name and noting the shadow of impatience, anger, and irritation that flashed across the captain's face as he heard it.

"How is Sir Charles Anderson?"
"Mr. Stanfield," said he, "is a machine as regards his peculiar habits."

"Better, madam; but still ill," returned the secretary.
Then, after waiting a moment to see if any further information was wanted, he made his formal, methodical bow and trudged slowly up the terrace.

"Strange young man—very," murmured the countess, looking after him.
"Yes," drawled Reginald Dartmouth; "but invaluable. He is as quick as a needle—and as insignificant."

Meanwhile the strange young man gained his room, and, seating himself in the writing-chair, leaned his elbow on the table and seemed lost in thought.
Thought of a painful and exciting nature seemingly, for after a moment or two he rose and took a turn or two across the room, stopping his short-stepped pacing for a second to turn the key in the door, and murmuring, as he recommenced his promenade:
"Fox—sly, wicked fox! There has been some dark, foul play. I am sure of it—sure of it. Something within me"—and he touched his breast with his little, well-shaped hand—"tells me that Reginald Dartmouth has gained the Dale by some dark deed—some deep, well-executed plot. Day by day the certainty grows, and with it my hate. Hate? Let me think. Yes, hate; and yet there is something mingled with it."

Death of George Makinson, Esq.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)
A cable was received in town yesterday from British Columbia announcing the death of George Makinson, formerly of Harbor Grace. The deceased was the son of the late George Makinson, for many years owner of the steamships Ellen Gibson, Lizzie and Lady Glover, operating between the various ports in Conception Bay, and conveying freight, passengers and mails to Portugal Cove, where the well-known coaches of the late faithful public servant, Wm. Coughlan, conveyed them by land to St. John's. George was the youngest son, his venerable mother being still alive. She is the daughter of the late famous merchant-planter and seal-killer, Capt. Nathan Norman, of Brigus, who represented that district in the House of Assembly about fifty years ago. The deceased, who left Newfoundland about ten years ago, was engaged in the lumbering business, and was one of the young Newfoundlanders who made good in the land of his adoption. We have not received reliable information as to the cause of his death, but we understand that it was accidental. George was thirty-nine years of age, and was a young man of marked ability, as well as great push and energy. He has left to mourn a widow and one child, his venerable mother, three sisters, Mrs. Jas. D. Mann, Harbor Grace, Mrs. Elliot Smith of Wolfville, Nova Scotia, and Mrs. David Baird of the firm of James Baird, this city. Also two brothers, Thomas, at the Goulds, near Brigus, and Norman, engineer in New York, who served in the U.S. Navy Yard with Capt. Bob Bartlett during the Great War. The Telegram extends its sincere sympathy to the family and friends in their bereavement.

House of Assembly.

Thursday, July 8.
The House met at 3 p.m.
Mr. MacDonnell presented a number of Petitions from St. George's dealing with the proposed motor road. The resolutions relating to loans for railway improvement and coal development were deferred.

The St. John's Municipal Act in the committee stage, brought forth no discussion, Mr. Higgins stating that its contents had been in the hands of a commission for a long period and except for a few minor alterations there was no objection to the bill. He suggested that instead of reading each section, the whole bill be treated as if read by sections and that the committee rise and report progress. This course was pursued.

The Education Act passed the second reading and also the committee stage without amendment.

Sir Michael Cashin said he endorsed the bill and he believed it had the sanction of the heads of the various denominations.

Mr. MacDonnell thought the Minister gave a nice explanation of the bill, but as far as he could see there was nothing in it except the normal school for the training of teachers. He advocated that no person should be admitted for training who was under 18 years old, as we are in need of mature minds to teach children, but with the present scale of remuneration he did not think many teachers would stay in the profession after receiving the training. He would ask the Minister of Education would the 10 supervisors be selected along denominational lines, to which Dr. Barnes, Minister of Education said "Yes."

Mr. McDonnell—I think party politics will interfere, as it is absolutely impossible to keep the department out of it, as the Minister of Education is a politician. According to the Act there did not seem to be much work for the Minister and it is a pity he has not more scope. He would like to know who will be the Deputy Minister.

Dr. Barnes thanked the member for St. George's for his helpful criticism, as it was evident that he had been a school teacher. That there are defects in the bill we all admit. In the educational world great minds are to-day altering and modifying the educational systems. Our system has not had a thorough overhauling since 1873 to '74. It is of fundamental importance that teachers get a professional training. The appointment of supervisors, said the Minister, is one of the biggest things in the bill, and as for taking a lead from Switzerland, that country has an educational system second to none. We may take a tip from them in that they pay a great deal of attention to the training of their teachers. Dr. Barnes, in his remarks stated that 1,108 teachers had dropped out of the profession in the 10 year period up to 1919.

From 1909 to 1919 there were 468 C. of E. teachers left the profession and 640 R.C.'s. He had no record of the number of Methodists who had left. As regards the C.H.E. it would not be abolished. Time was when he thought the C.H.E. was absolutely necessary. He admitted that teachers were worth more salary than they will get under the Act. In reply to Mr. McDonnell he said the Governor in Council will appoint the superintendents. In reply to other questions Dr. Barnes said, My first duty will be to Education and not to Party. The bill in no way interferes with the present denominational system. As to the work being done by the C.H.E. he admitted that there was a difference of opinion, and he thought that something else could replace it.

Mr. McDonnell—I think that some system of competitive examination is necessary but if any alteration in the C.H.E. is to be made, it should be in the personnel of the examiners.

Mr. Higgins—However much the educational programme of the Government falls short of what was expected, all agree that the government has made a splendid selection in the person of Dr. Barnes. He wished his programme well, and hoped that the departure would prove a step in the advancement of education. He advocated a change in the syllabus of the C.H.E. Examinations. He tendered Dr. Barnes his congratulations on this his first Educational Budget.

Mr. Samson supported the bill as far as it went. He thought that every educational bill was important and deserved careful consideration. He held the opinion and spoke from intimate knowledge, having been engaged in teaching for seventeen years, that the Bill was not strong enough, did not go far enough and fell short of that which was actually required. He felt that the Teachers who would soon be in Convention in St. John's, would likewise be of the same opinion, and would show that the Bill was too weak altogether.

The Committee then rose and reported the Bill. "A Bill relating to the Registrar of the Supreme Court, acting as Trustee in certain cases," was introduced, passed, and sent to the Upper House for concurrence.

Trouble in Banks Reported.
According to the Daily News something unexpected occurred yesterday evening which completely upset the Government's plans regarding last night's session of the House. When the House rose for tea, the order paper had been completed except the consideration of the resolutions respecting the loan for railway improvement and coal development, which should have been the first business of the sitting, but was deferred until a late hour, and it was generally understood that the night session was to be specially devoted to a discussion of these resolutions. And, indeed, there was no other reason for the House to meet after tea. But at 8 o'clock when the House should have reassembled, there were no members of the Government party present, and it was not until an hour later that the sitting resumed. In the meantime it developed that following the afternoon session, the Government had called a party meeting, which was unexpectedly postponed, and it was nearly 8 o'clock before the members got away to tea. The object of the meeting, it is said, was to submit the railway resolutions for approval of the party before bringing them before the House, and it was currently stated around the Colonial Building last night that they were not very kindly received, that indeed strong opposition was shown to them by a section of the Government party, who are still unconvinced. Be this as it may it was significant that when the House reassembled last night the Minister of Finance was not ready to proceed with the resolutions and they were held over. Report says that the resolutions provide for a loan of one and a half million dollars, one million which is to be devoted to railway improvement and the balance to the purchase of the St. George's C. Fields. Altogether, it is stated, the Government purpose expending three millions on railway work, the greater portion of which amount will be taken from the surpluses of the past two years. Whether it is the amount or the conditions under which it is to be spent, that has raised the ire of some of the government party is not intimated, but that they are very much dissatisfied was plainly indicated last night.

The bride was attended by Miss Gladys Saunders of Carbonara, and Miss Elsie Reid, whilst Mr. Ernest Reid acted as best man. After the ceremony, being performed by the Rev. J. Brington, the happy couple received the congratulations of the many friends gathered there. Breakfast was served at the residence of the father-in-law, Mr. Geo. James, 106 Circular Road, after which the wedding party motored to Mannula. They received many presents, notable among them being a splendid silver tea service from Roper & Thompson's, where the bride worked. The groom's present to the bride was a set of white fox furs, and old links to the best man. On return to town residence will be on Victoria street.

World's Future Lumber Producer.
 South Africa is now pointed out by a leading authority as one of the world's best fields for timber growing. The work, he says, must be done on a large scale, by the Government, as individuals cannot wait for the returns. Various kinds of pine are declared to be the trees most suitable. The variable winds exert such a twisting upon growing trees that straight-grained timber of certain kinds is difficult to obtain. Pine seems to withstand the contorting influence more effectively than other kinds, and very fine, straight-grained timber of this sort is produced.

GENEROSITY.—The milk of human kindness flowed freely from a laborer who a day or two ago was paid off after discharging a ship, with $88.00 for 3 days' work. A collection for a fellow worker, who was sick, was taken up, and he said some of the workers subscribed liberally, but this Aaron Burr gave only a 20 cent piece.

Beating H. C. L.

Perhaps alligator steaks would never appeal to the fastidious diners in first class restaurants, but United States marines attached to the Legation Guard at Nicaragua, say they are the real thing for adding piquancy to the daily fare. Marine sharpshooters make a specialty of bagging young alligators. When the skin is removed steaks are cut from the fleshy part of the tail. The meat is white, palatable and has a flavor similar to halibut. Another variety in the bill of fare is broiled lizard. The iguana, or giant lizard, has been used for food by the natives for many years. The marines say that iguanas make fine chowder, but they prefer alligator for steady diet.

Old King Coal.

(From the Regina Post.)
 "Canada must have coal, sulphur, kaolin and eyes from the United States." This is a quotation from a recent committee report to the United States Congress. The statement is directly challenged by the Canadian Mining Journal. All these materials we can supply from our own resources if we care to, declares the Mining Journal. Ontario can produce the sulphur, Quebec can supply the kaolin, and either Nova Scotia or Alberta can supply the coal and the dyes, if it is considered necessary. There is one thing, however, that Canada cannot do. She cannot maintain her national independence unless she will proceed to make the Dominion self-supporting in coal supply.

Monster Eggs.

An egg, equivalent in size to 150 hen's eggs, and in volume to two gallons, is on view in the museums. The egg was laid centuries ago by a now extinct fowl, the aepyornis, and is designated as a fossil by archaeologists. The aepyornis, according to the results of expert research, was a huge wingless creature, the largest and most formidable bird of prey that ever trod the earth. In life it has been variously estimated to have stood from seven to twelve feet in height, possessing massive and powerful limbs. This great bird surpassed the ostrich, the king of modern birds, both in size, herculean strength and build. It formerly lived in considerable numbers on the Island of Madagascar.

Ford Owners, Attention!

When your Ford car is in need of a doctor, don't forget that we have a full line of Ford parts and we are prepared to do your "repair" work at the shortest possible notice. Please bear in mind that we have the most up-to-date towing apparatus in the country, and we can take your car out of any ditch or tow you home, no matter how far you are away. We also have an emergency wheel, with which we can bring home your car if you should have the misfortune to break an axle off short. Call us day or night. A trial will convince you. "Service" is our motto. Rates reasonable.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

ANOTHER EXPERIMENT TO WATCH.

We were talking about houses the other day. I said I had always loved a third-story bedroom, especially one with the irregularity of a slightly sloping roof and dormer windows.

"I can't bear dormer windows," said my neighbor, "they look like a maid's bedroom."

My neighbor is a very kindly person. She is representative of the best disposed, most comfortable class of women. And yet her feeling toward the people who serve her—that they are such an alien class of creatures that doesn't even like a room that she thinks of the kind of room they live in.

View of such unconscious testaments that to the fence which the person puts about the service, is it any wonder that in the wonderful wages, in spite of the hours, in spite of the innumerable privileges, it is hard to get women to fill the domestic positions that yawn for them? No, it is not to be thought of as a mark of mankind by such a fence.

Why They Are Treated in England.

There is an excellent article in one of the recent magazines on the attention as it asks itself in England. An American woman sets up a room in a furnished apartment from an aristocratic Englishman, who still retains the upper as her home. In the room there is not even a little of carpet on the bare floor and the lady landlord promises but never supplies them.

The American woman brings a bit of mirror for the maid, a superfluous rug from her room to put by the maid's bed, at the lady landlord surreptitiously carried back the bit of rug, she is such a kindhearted that she beseeches her tenant to fill the mice she catches in her trap, but to carry them a mile to the nearest park and let them go! First Solve the Mistress Question.

As the author of the article well concludes, "Now who is to solve the servant question over here when no one has begun to solve the mysteries of the mistress who engages the servant?"

True, we do not stint on the rug or the mirror on this side of the water, but we are still responsible for the point of view which the maid in the above article expresses when being reproached for preferring ill-paid factory work: "You can't get in the same set if you're working private. Kitchen work is work in a kitchen and factory work is business."

I Hope It Will Work.

When we make kitchen work a business—with business relations between employer and employee, with fixed hours, with well defined duties—then we shall have helped solve the eternal question. Doubtless you have heard of the experiments in community houses which are being tried, houses in which the maids live and from which they go but at so much the hour to work, just as the girl who works in office or factory.

It will be one of the many interests of the next few years to see how such houses work out.

Household Notes.

Linen is very easily dyed at home. Wash milk stains out in cold water. Flour sacks make good dish towels. Old nightgowns make good dress covers.

Tree-Wool.

Cotton was once called tree-wool and it was first mentioned under that name by Herodotus. The word cotton is said to have originated from the Arabic "Kutan." The Moors are credited with having introduced cotton manufacture into London in 1590. Linen gets its name from "Linum," flax, from the stalks of which it is made. Damascus derives its name from having been originally brought from Damascus. And silk-damask, which was for a long period used for all state dresses, was first woven in England by the Flemish weavers, who sought refuge there in 1567. Calico first came from Calicut, in the East Indies. Muslin originally was not made of cotton—the name being derived from the fact that it was first made at Mosul, in Mesopotamia. Marco Polo referred to "These cloths of gold and silk which we call muslins." Velvet comes from the old English word "velvet," and was first woven in Italy. The French quickly learned the art from their neighbors, and some, who were expelled from their homes by the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, established the art in England.

TRY FOR IT.
If it's a goal worth the getting, Try for it!
Don't work to win it by fretting, Try for it!
Get up and go for it, Strike a hard blow for it, Make a brave show for it— Try for it!
Boy, if it's fortune you're after, Try for it!
Don't be a beggar for laughter, Try for it!
Don't sit and wait for it, Battle with fate for it, Dare to be great for it— Try for it!

What if the hazards are many? Try for it!
Wishing won't lighten them any, Try for it!
Hustle and fight for it, Work all your might for it, Dare to be great for it— Try for it!
If there's a goal that you long for, Try for it!
That is what God made you strong for, Try for it!
Don't merely pray for it, Work day by day for it, Be willing to pay for it— Try for it!

France's Wonderful New Gun.

France has a new long-range gun cannon, which is said to excel Germany's "Big Bertha" and to be capable, when placed at Calais, of knocking Nelson off his pedestal, which stands in Trafalgar Square, London. One of the Paris newspapers prints the following description of the cannon by an artillery expert: "The cannon burns powder in a certain kind of a reservoir, and the lateral grooves of the cannon's walls are so disposed as to permit all the burning gas to escape in the rear, which has the effect of creating a reaction against the recoil. This arrangement makes possible a very high pressure from the reservoir to give a tremendous velocity for the shell and a very low pressure in the barrel of the cannon, whence the shell is ejected. We obtained an initial velocity of 700 metres a second, and there is no reason why this should not be increased tremendously."

THE WINNERS.

Have you read the helpful stories which are printed now and then, dishing up the dazzling glories of the big successful men? This one made a million dollars, that one made a million seeds; so the awe-struck author hollers, he celebrates their deeds. This one's living in a palace, built of pink imported rock, and from out a golden chalice he consumes his private stock. And I think it rather funny, and I think it rather odd, that the measure's always money, always is the big man's wad. For there are some four-time winners you have heard of once or twice, men who went without their dinners when they couldn't raise the price; and I hold them great successes though they never had a roll, though privations and distresses kept them always in the hole. And I'd rather stagger under the renown of Edgar Poe than be burdened with the plunder of the biggest plute I know. And poor Bobbie Burns was busted till they put him in a crate, but I'll surely be disgusted if you say he wasn't great. We should caution be in choosing those who win and those who fail, for the gent who's surely losing may be loaded down with kale.

The gas oven should stand open for a few minutes after being used.

Some Sailing Records.

(From the "Dolphin.")
 Asked the question "What is the fastest kind of sailing craft?" nine people out of 10 (writes "E.C.B." in the Daily Mail) will at once answer "A racing yacht." Their astonishment is always extreme when they are told that they are quite wrong, and that the finest racing yacht ever built cannot hold a candle to a big sailing ship in the matter of speed. In strictly racing trim yachts, such as the Shamrocks, Vigilant, Defender, and Columbia, have been credited with speeds of 14 knots for short spurts. The big British schooner Rainbow, in a race from the Borkum lightship to Heligoland, achieved what is believed to be a world's record for a yacht by covering the distance, a matter of 60 miles, within 4 hours. On two occasions during that race the log registered 16 1/2 knots. That was in 1898. A few years later, the Clara sailed from Lover to Ostend, a distance of 70 miles, in exactly five hours. These are racing records. In cruising trim and making long passages the speeds recorded are not so great. In June, 1894, the celebrated Vigilant, crossing from New York to Scotland, made a best day's run of 255 miles, or at the rate of 10.62 knots. This was beaten by another American yacht, the Atlantic. Crossing from America in May, 1905, she set up the astonishing record of 341 miles in a day and a night, averaging 14.2 knots. But the Atlantic, it must be remembered, was a big craft, a three-masted fore and aft schooner measuring 185 ft. over all. Turning to the old records of the big clippers of the middle of the last century, we find that there were many which could give points and a beating even to a yacht like the Atlantic. Of these ships, then world-famous, the fastest were the James Baines, the Red Jacket, the Sovereign of the Seas, and the Lightning. An extract from the log of the James Baines reads as follows: "June 18, 1856, 8-30 p.m. In all starboard tacks, ship going 21 knots with main sails set." On that date this marvelous clipper travelled 418 sea miles in 23 hours 23 minutes. So far as can be ascertained, this is the world's record for speed under sail, yet the margin is a very narrow one, for the Lightning, of the famous Black Ball Line, is recorded to have sailed 420 miles in the 24 hours, while in 1853 the Sovereign of the Seas ran 411 miles in a similar space of time. In July, 1854, the Red Jacket did a voyage of 3,185 miles in 10 days. Her lowest speed for any one day was 245 miles, her highest 400. Her average was 318.5 miles a day, a speed which few modern steamers, always excepting the Atlantic passenger cracks, can rival. The Red Jacket was of just over 2,000 tons burden. What a pity that some modern millionaire does not build a yacht of similar size and on the same lines and show a wondering world the real possibilities of speed under sail.

Some Old Customs.

Flags are lowered to half-mast when an illustrious person dies, space above being left—the depth of a flag—for the flag of the angel of death.
 Again, a ship is invariably spoken of as of the feminine gender. This is generally traced to the ancient Greeks, who called all ships feminine names out of respect to Athens, Goddess of the Sea.
 Friday is believed to be an unlucky day by those who are superstitious. It is derived from the fact that it was the day of Our Lord's Crucifixion, as well as the one on which, according to one tradition, Adam and Eve ate the forbidden fruit.

 "Uncle" adopts his familiar sign of three balls over his shop, because the balls form part of the old arms of Lombardy, the people there being the first pawnbrokers in existence.
 It is a common belief that peacock's feathers are unlucky. This is due to the tradition that the bird opened the Gate of Paradise to the serpent.
 The nick in the lapel and the back of a coat has been a puzzle to many. It is said to date back to the time of Napoleon. A general named Moreau had many followers, but they were afraid to openly express sympathy with him. It was therefore agreed to put a nick on their coats as a secret sign. The letter M can be seen in the lapel representing the initial letter of the general's name.

Spanking by Machinery.

The Philadelphia correspondent of the Pall Mall "Gazette" says that there is at least one prominent public man who is a firm upholder of the old saw, "Spare the rod and spoil the child." He is Mr. Arthur C. Whitaker, Mayor of Bridgeton, and he proudly boasts that by establishing a barrel-stove "spanking machine" at the local City Hall, he has made Bridgeton a town of well-behaved boys and girls. Since the institution of the machine more than 100 boys and a few girls, too, have gone through it, and only one boy out of that number ever came back for more. "When I went into office I decided," said Mr. Whitaker, "that no Bridgeton boy should be railroaded through to the county jail or reformatory for some petty offence if I could help it. So when the boys were brought before me for petty crimes and thefts I conceived the idea of the 'spanking machine' as offering the best solution for their cases. At times I find as many as a dozen boys waiting here at my office to talk to me about their problems—every one of them a boy that I had previously sentenced to be spanked." Mayor Whitaker has used the "spanking machine" exclusively for juvenile offenders, but he believes that, if properly geared up, it would be quite effective for wife-beaters.

Mainly About People.

Madame Luisa Tetrazzini, the great singer, doesn't believe in rehearsing, because "it is a waste of time." Her idea is that a competent conductor, with properly trained musicians, ought to be able to accompany a real artist without rehearsals. Damroch, the famous conductor, with 100 musicians, waited an hour for her recently, but the prima donna let him wait, and as a consequence that morning's rest cost her $4000.
 Uncle Joe Cannon has had his picture taken recently. It represents him standing amid four generations: His daughter, Mrs. E. X. Le Seure; his granddaughter, Mrs. William Houghling, and his great granddaughter, Miss Lucretia Houghling. The picture was taken on his 84th anniversary.
 Sir Douglas Brownrigg, one of the big men of the British navy, the official naval censor during the war, takes great enjoyment in a prank if it doesn't transgress the rules. He had a clock that would not go, and in the dead of night he exchanged it for one that would. Next morning his servant told him that Mr. So and So "wanted to know when he wanted his own clock back." It was marked "Chief Naval Censor," a fact which he had forgotten when he substituted it for another officer's timepiece.
 Charlie Chaplin engaged a screen-struck girl to play a part in one of his comedies. To put it kindly she was "homely" to look at, but was quite oblivious of the fact. After hearing Charlie stiff with the story of her talents, she wound up by saying, "I do hope, Mr. Chaplin, the part you have chosen for me will do me justice." "Justice!" exclaimed Charlie, "it's not justice you want, but mercy!"

 Mrs. F. J. Runyon, wife of a physician of Clarksville, Tenn., is the president of the first woman's bank in the United States, if not in the world. Mrs. Matt Lyle, wife of the county attorney, is cashier. Women do all the work. The board of directors consists of leading women of the town.
 Miss Evan Burrows Fontaine, a "lineal descendant of Patrick Henry," has danced her way around the world, starting in her native State of Texas and winding up in New York. She was educated in Petrograd and a convent near Paris. She is oriental in thought and carries two Buddhas with her.
 Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, when not troubled over the visitor, Mr. Hohenzollern, has a smile that helps her popularity and a graciousness that is winning. She is typically Dutch, with a round profile and extremely well-rounded figure. She is a good skater, a good eater and immensely wealthy. She spends her money erecting public buildings, hospitals, theatres, music halls, gymnasiums and baths and public parks for her people.
 Ex-Emperor William is reported to be speculating with a considerable amount of success on the stock exchange of Amsterdam, where his financial adviser and business man has now become quite a familiar figure. Indeed, the ex-Kaiser is credited with several extremely remunerative speculations.

One of England's most beautiful women, Lady Eden, who is to act in the films, is extremely popular among the miners and other people of the ham where her country seat, Washstone, is situated. It is probable she has more admirers than any other woman. The wife of the chief concern of the town has practical views on their education. A mother, she contends, the best of teachers, although she has her sympathies, which some of hers do not recognize.
 The Earl of Iveragh, recently presented to the House of Lords, is a lineal descendant of Arthur Guinness, of "Guinness Stout" fame, who was butler before he started as a brewer. His son, Benjamin Guinness, by rich, rebuilt and reformatted Patrick's Cathedral (Episcopal) in Dublin. Benjamin's son, Arthur Guinness, Dublin's Tory representative, afterwards made Lord Ardilaun. He and his childless, and another of Benjamin's sons, Edward Cecil Guinness, Lord Iveragh, got the property made into a corporation. This Guinness has given Dublin Stephen Green millions far better houses. He has sons in the House of Commons, and Walter, designated by the name as stout and pale ale.

Tilsit and Copenhagen.

The Treaty of Tilsit, signed July 7, 1807, represents the high-water mark of Napoleonic domination in Europe. While, under it, the Russian Czar entered into a kind of partnership with the French Emperor, Prussia was reduced to the level of a second-class State; and England, it was hoped, was to be excluded definitely from the Continent. In addition, there were secret articles, under one of which the Danish fleet was to be placed at Napoleon's disposal to be employed at Fads of Great Men.

Julius Caesar, the ruler of an empire and the mightiest man of his day, was sensitive regarding his baldness. So much did this worry him that he became ill. When the day came on which Caesar discovered that there was no remedy, he had a crown made that covered the entire top and back of his head, but it was a torture to wear it.

Daniel Webster had a curious fancy for painting the faces of his cattle. One week the poor beasts would walk around with blue faces, and the next would appear with red ones. The effect was so novel that it pleased him, and from that time forth he changed the color whenever he had a few minutes to spare, and would laugh heartily at the astonishment of his friends when they saw the queer-looking beasts on his premises.

Napoleon occupied all his idle moments in making up puzzles. He said it relieved a man's mind when tired. He would sit for hours trying to devise a puzzle that his comrades could not solve.

Peter the Great had a passion for being carried about in a wheelbarrow. He said he liked the motion. After a campaign, he would return home with a number of guests, and at once order wheelbarrows to be got in readiness. Peter, on more than one occasion, visited large cities in such a conveyance.

William the Conqueror said he derived much pleasure watching dogs fighting. His subjects all over the kingdom sent him dogs by the hundred. From these he would select the fiercest, and sit for whole days watching the fight.

George Washington's principal diversion was training baby foxes. He was fond of fox hunting. He took the animals home, and trained them in all kinds of tricks, which he often exhibited to his friends.

Francis Bacon was so fond of fine clothes that he spent his odd time in trying to devise new styles and features of dress. During his life he made some 1200 drawings of freakish costumes. When he could not get anybody to wear them, he hired a number of men to don the grotesque attire, and to promenade the streets for his pleasure.

President Cleveland liked to paint the children's toys and little odds and ends of household furniture. Seated on a stool, with the youngsters of the White House around him, Mr. Cleveland would amuse himself for hours decorating their toys in the liveliest shades.

"Fenimore Cooper couldn't write unless he had gumdrops to chew," said a librarian. He bought gumdrops in ten-pound lots. As some men are the slaves of tobacco, so Cooper was the gumdrop slave. Without he couldn't write.

Chateaubriand dictated his works in his bare feet. Elegantly attired down to the ankles, he padded softly up and down the floor, his thin, white extremities very conspicuous on the dark rugs.

Gluck could only compose in the open air. When the spirit of composition took hold of him, he dragged his piano out on the lawn and then evolved his beautiful harmonies.

Bossuet worked with a hot cloth bound round his head, Balzac in a monk's hood, Gautier in a scarlet cloak, and Milton in a brown robe.

Lord Derby, when he wrote, ate branched cherries. Byron, writing, ate truffles.—Success.

Lost City Found.

New British Possession in Mesopotamia.

An ancient city has been discovered in Mesopotamia, bordering the Tigris River for some twenty miles, yet so well "lost" that a traveler, approaching it under ordinary conditions, would have merely noticed the presence of a number of low, scattered mounds, and gone his way, without realizing that here was once a city. One must go higher up and look down on the arrangement of the mounds before one realises their relation to each other, and sees the plan of the city; and this is what happened, says the London Sphere, when Lieut.-Col. C. A. Beazeley noticed the mounds from an aeroplane, and took aerial were made from the photographs, and when these were supplemented by the measurements of surveyors working on the ground, the plan of the city was revealed as it might have been by its own architects and builders, if such plans were then customary. The ruins extend above and below the present town of Samara, and show that the forgotten city, here following the left bank of the river, was from one to two and a half miles in width, with wide streets intersecting at right angles, and with larger blocks near the river, indicating that here were the homes of the wealthier citizens. One sees in the plan what was probably a large public garden, with a pavilion in the centre, and discovers also the square forts that protected the town from enemies, or perhaps the authorities from mobs, as well as the remains of the irrigation system that helped its gardeners. How old the city may be is not yet determined, but evidence of considerable antiquity have been discovered in the ruins.

A Vessel Which Helped to Make History.

The "Lion," a sixty-gun ship, in her early career was not successful, for she was one of the fleet defeated by Admiral Tourville off Beachey Head, but she saw victory in 1692. In 1741, Admiral Vernon sailed proudly away to reduce Cartagena, and the "Lion" formed one of his squadron, but dissensions broke out and, the Admiral returned to Jamaica without having done anything. However, on July 9, 1745, this same vessel helped to make history. When the Young Pretender made up his mind to have one final attempt to regain the throne for the Stuarts he engaged the brig "Doutelle" to carry himself and arms to Scotland, and he also managed to obtain the 67-gun warship, "Elizabeth," to convoy him. Unfortunately, he fell in with the "Lion" four days after leaving the French coast. The latter was commanded by Captain Butt, a capable officer, who had been with Anson, and who determined to defeat the enemy in spite of his superior force. For five hours the fight raged furiously, both the English and French ships suffering severely although the "Doutelle" did not take a very energetic part in the combat. At last the Frenchman had enough of it, and drew off, the "Lion" being in too bad a state to give chase. She had been very severely handled and had lost 107 men, but the "Elizabeth" was even worse off, her loss amounting to 200. By this action the Young Pretender lost all the arms he had gathered for his invasion, and had to sail to Scotland alone. This same "Lion" also took part in Hawke's victory off Finisterre, in October, 1747, and was at the capture of Guadalupe twelve years later. Her name is perpetuated in the vessel which fought at Jutland under Admiral Beatty.

Gems of Thought.
 The greatest results in life are usually attained by simple means and the exercise of ordinary qualities. These may for the most part be summed in these two: common sense and perseverance.—Feltam.
 In the moral world there is nothing impossible if we can bring a thorough will to do it.—Man can do everything with himself; but he must not attempt to do too much with others.—W. Humboldt.
 The whole faculties of man must be exerted to call forth noble energies; and he who is not earnestly sincere lives in but half his being, self-mutilated, self-paralysed.—Coleridge.
 Wealth is like a viper, which is harmless if a man knows how to take hold of it; but if he does not, it will twist around his hand and bite him.—St. Clement.
 I have heard it said that spies and talebearers have done more mischief in this world than the poisoned bowl or the assassin's dagger.—Schiller.
 Opinion is the main thing which does good or harm in the world. It is our false opinions of things which ruin us.—Marcus Antonius.

BOYS' CLOTHES Are Cheap.

This is a fact! Still we know some of our readers are going to stop and say—"Tain't so, nuthin is cheap!" But you are wrong, and there are various things cheap to-day, but the trouble is most people don't want cheap things. Times are changed since we were boys, when the sign of a good healthy boy was to go round with—well, patche on his trousers. Accidents would occur sliding down trees and roofs, and getting over fences. But our story is,—we have just opened a range of

Boys' Am. Grey Tweed Suits,

Two-Piece Suits to fit ages 9 to 14 years. Price Range being $9.60 to $10.60.

Boys' Heavy Khaki Drill Suits,

Ages 4 years to 10 years. Only $4.90 suit, for all sizes.

These Khaki Suits will wear like a bit of iron. They are made Military Style but can be altered if required. The coat comes with four pockets, each with a Buttoned Flap, and Coat Buttons are detachable Military Metal Buttons. The Pants have two front pockets and one on the hip, and also Belt Support Straps. Consider this price of $4.90 and you will find nobody will even just make a boy's suit for that price to-day (excluding the materials), unless the boy's mother. And she will do this even if she doesn't get a vote; and who will say that a capable woman like that doesn't deserve one.

We have some other Boys' Tweed Suits in stock in odd sizes at prices of some time ago.

We have Boys' Tweed Pants in stock at low prices.

We have even some Boys' Odd Vests in stock at the moment.

TALKING ABOUT

Older Stock and Older Values,

ALL OUR BOYS' COTTON SUITS AND BLOUSES ARE SELLING AT LAST YEAR'S PRICES, SO THEY ARE CHEAP AS WELL AS GOOD STYLES.

We had more Boys' Cotton Suits and Blouses last year than we had Summer. This year we will have more Summer.

We Have a Good Range of

Cotton Rompers for Little Chaps

To tell the truth we purchased some of these this year, but you will find good values here in spite that.

If the boy is going camping this Summer he may want an Oil Coat. We have them at last Fall's prices. Goods bought at this Spring's prices were mostly high, but the prices quoted for Fall staggered us. We can therefore advise you in all faith to buy before newer prices come into effect.

HENRY BLAIR

Reasons for Not Marrying.

A well known man of letters once confessed that he had consistently shirked the ordeal of marriage, because it involved what was to him a still greater ordeal, that of proposing. And there were at least a score of women known to this man and his friends who would have been only too glad to have been led to the altar by him! That none was destined to be so escorted was due, simply and solely, to his rooted aversion to proposing.

An actor, famous in his day, once declared that his reason for remaining a bachelor was that he preferred breakfasting in absolute peace and quietness! It was his custom, on rising at 9 o'clock, to have his breakfast by the fire, instead of at the table in the usual fashion. The meal was laid ready, and he simply helped himself, allowing no one to disturb him until 10.30, while he read his letters and papers in silence. To marry, he said, would mean the breaking of a long-established habit, and because of this he declined to take the step.—Boston Globe.

Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

LIONS VICTORIOUS OVER CUBS

4 TO 3.

As we predicted, the game last night between the Cubs and last year's champs—the Lions—produced one of the classic exhibitions ever seen here. Hill's bunch had the Cubs hopelessly outclassed in every department except pitching, and the way the field acted behind Claude Hill was awful. The Lions' battery—Coke Cahill and Robble—worked with clocklike precision, and the latter showed himself to be a hundred per cent. ball player. This gives the Lions the lead, though in the second round they will have to meet the Cubs again, when it is hoped that a little more common sense and judgment will be displayed by the Cubs' management in positioning their players.

'Atta boy, Hillz!

We'll tell the world it was some game, but who in Halifax picked the Cubs' infield.

The Lions' team is weak—like Samson.

Robbie and Coke are some birds, we'll inform the universe.

The bonehead steals of Hill, Manning and Gosse were nothing more or less than criminal. If they were as fast and as dangerous as the famous Ty Cobb they might get away with it, but their chance would be 99 to 1.

Cheer was too wise for Cahill's stall of being hit with a pitched ball. Adam and Eve stunk, Coke!

There was a Cub pitcher named Claude, who had all the ath-a-letes awed. He sure was a bear. When his stuff was all there. But when he went wrong, oh my gawd.

Tommy Duggan is all balled up on the man bet on the Cubs. Hooks seriously, Demon!

Do players ever realise that fans sometimes make bets on the results? Oh, see the man! Is the man glad? Is the man damn much not glad. Why is the man not glad? The man be on the Cubs.

These men are players. Are these men fierce? No, these men are not fierce, but their playing is. Then why do the fans pay their money to see 'em? Because there is a new one born every minute.

You tell 'em, Mac, you'll sell some more. (Overlands.) You tell 'em, Coke, you'll burn 'em. (Both by J. W. Cleary, 109 Long's Hill.)

Hill did noble work in the box last night, but his infield was like a sieve—full of holes.

Spaldings are going out of business. Ches and Tim are issuing a new book of rules but they can't be applied to baseball.

Fans would like to have an explanation from their majesties regarding the re-playing of that famous sixth. Won't you oblige, gentlemen?

Both outfields played errorless ball, particularly Quick, though we can't but mention Ellis's marvellous stop of DeMer's long drive.

Cocky Munn fixed Canning—much to the disappointment of the fans.

Looks if rain declines to give baseball a chance.

Billy Callahan had two missions to perform—guard the keystone, and get Claude's angora. He succeeded admirably.

"Fred Chesman" said a fan at the Blue Puttee last night to Demon Dug "is one grand old 'un. He has been calling 'em now for seven years and is still going strong." And the Demon holding his nose said "STRONG is right."

Josh Driscoll, that terrible feller. Emitted a terrible beller. But in rage and despair Josh swung in the air. And his average slipped to the cellar.

How the Cubs would love to hear Joe Murphy sing—"I'm coming."

LETTERS THEY NEVER RECEIVE.

Morning after C.E.L.-B.I.S. Game.

Dear Mr. Chesman—On behalf of myself and team-mates kindly accept our sincere apologies for the rather outrageous manner in which we protested against your decision in calling last night's game owing to the lateness of the hour.

You were perfectly right in doing so, and although we are quite sure we would have won had the game gone a full nine innings, still we appreciate your position and admire the stand you took. An umpire's duties are at the best of times hard and we fully realize that our attitude last evening must have caused you considerable mental annoyance.

Assuring you that in future we will curb our somewhat boisterous spirits, and again seeking your kindly forgiveness, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
DUGGY FRENCH,
Capt. B.I.S. Team.

He may not be the Hillz of old—He may be drifting back; He may not have the same old flash—the same old timely whack; But if his prime has faded out Where youth and speed have gone—If Time has beckoned him at last Along the backward trail he's passed Nobody coming on.

(From The St. John Telegraph.)

Sir Robert Borden is, for many reasons, the strongest Conservative leader in the country. Of all men available he had the greatest chance of carrying on successfully. His retirement means the end of Conservative rule. It is a confession that Conservatives as such do not propose to appeal to the country under their own banner, feeling that such a course would be hopeless, but intend to seek to borrow at the next election enough Liberal strength to tide them over by the clearly apparent device of pretending that the so-called new party stands for Liberal principles.

A Gasoline Blaze.

The Central and West End Fire Companies were called out last night about eleven o'clock. The alarm was rung from near Springdale Street. The services of the firemen were not needed, however, as the blaze, the result of some gasoline which was spilled, igniting, was quenched by a hose from the garage of Mr. Silverlock. The motor car owned by Mr. F. Connors, which was receiving the gasoline, was not damaged. Some hundreds of people were on the scene in remarkably short time, watching the shaft of flame as it shot upward from the gasoline reservoir, the damage to which, fortunately for the owner, was but little.

Mrs. Pitcher is Well and Happy, States Husband

"We Had About Given Up In Despair When We Got Tanlac," He Declares.

"The way Tanlac has improved my wife's health has been amazing," recently declared Joshua Pitcher, well known carpenter, living at 7 Boncluddy Street, St. John's, Newfoundland.

"For five years she was in very poor health and was in a very badly run-down condition. She had no appetite and the little she did eat would sour on her stomach and bloat her up with gas until she could hardly breathe and her heart would palpitate fearfully. She complained a lot of pains across the back and was often almost frantic with headaches. She was so nervous that any unusual noise or excitement would upset her for hours and she could not sleep at night. She became so weak at last that her housework was a burden to her and she couldn't go down town shopping without having to rest before she returned. We could find nothing to help her and had just about given up in despair when we got Tanlac.

"One day my wife was reading the papers and came across a statement from St. John's woman which just described her own case exactly, and told how Tanlac had put her right. So I bought my wife a bottle and in a very short time she was like a different woman. She soon had such an appetite that she wanted to eat all the time, and all her stomach troubles disappeared. Headaches and pains in the back are a thing of the past, her nerves are now strong and she sleeps like a child the whole night through. She is so much stronger that she can do her housework without getting at all tired and in fact is now enjoying the best of health. All who suffer as my wife did ought to know about Tanlac, for I am satisfied it would do them good."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cap. Boyle; J. W. Smith, Baine Harbor; W. A. Burdock, Belleoram; John Morey, Fermeuse; Mrs. Jos. Quinn, Renewes.—adv.

Queen Elizabeth's Health

Instead of being the amazon represented. Queen Elizabeth, it is claimed by a contemporary historian, was an intermittent invalid. She was afflicted with frequent nervous attacks, or fits, with habitual melancholia, which lasted many hours. She was always very thin, except when attacked by dropsy. The execution of Seymour, the knowledge that her mother was killed by her father, and the general conditions under which she lived, indicated abnormal gravity amounting almost to melancholy. She was, however, extremely accomplished, and could speak and write six languages, other than English, at a very early age. She once told the French Ambassador that there was no difficulty in teaching a woman to talk—the difficulty was to teach her to hold her tongue.

As the North Sees It.

(Twillingate Sun.)
THE BAY-DE-VERDE ELECTION.
The victory of Cave over Puddister with a majority of over 400 in Bay-de-Verde, is taken by most people as a substantial sustaining of the Government by the Bay-de-Verde electors, and even Opposition papers admit that Mr. Cave's election is an endorsement of the Government's programme.

People who look into matters beyond the surface did not expect that the people of Bay-de-Verde would be enticed to return a man on the Opposition side, especially when it would have no appreciable effect in altering the Government's majority. As politics is played in this country the people know that a member in Opposition has little chance to secure any public works for his district, and they know that a live mouse (a representative with the Government party) is better than a dead lion (a representative in Opposition)—not that Mr. J. C. Puddister strikes us for a moment as having many of the qualities of the king of beasts.

It is this feature of the matter that accounts for Mr. Cave's substantial majority, rather than any acts of the Government or promises of the Opposition.

AN ARMY OF OCCUPATION.

The Budget Speech of Minister Brownrigg was given in the House this week, and he estimates a revenue of eleven million dollars for the coming year. With business dull, imports below level and the indications for the fishery not the brightest, it is presumed that there must be some considerable increase in taxation to produce such, but as no papers have yet arrived as we write, we must wait to discover what they are.

One thing is certain every cent of the estimated revenue will be needed as officials are becoming as thick as flies around molasses.

The increase is particularly noticeable in the department of education. The market is now flooded with these people. They are most of them old schoolmasters, whose methods are entirely out of date, and are no acquisition to the educational progress of this country.

As worn out teachers they are entitled to proper pension retirement, but as inspectors they are a stumbling block to education, and one would have expected better from a man of modern ideas like Dr. Barnes.

The Grab of Ottawa.

(From the Winnipeg Free Press.)
That the indemnity of the members should be higher can be readily established; but it was not seemly for the existing parliament to raise the indemnity for its own membership. A new rate of indemnity, beginning with the next Parliament, would have excited no opposition throughout the country. But this Parliament, in the view of a very large number of electors, has outlived its powers and its usefulness; and those of this way of thinking will say, with practically the unanimous support of public opinion, that if the Commons felt underpaid they were under no obligation to stay on the job. The taking of an enlarged indemnity by the members indicates an intention, if this be possible, to keep Parliament alive for the remainder of its term; to gather in the extra "iron mer." while the gathering is possible.

The whole thing is a scandal, for which the members on both sides of the House are equally responsible with the Government. Out of it there may come some good, however. The disgrace of inadequate salaries to our judges is partially removed, while there ought to be no objection by the public to the increases in the salaries of Cabinet Ministers. These except in the case of the Prime Minister, have not been changed for thirty years. This simple statement is all that is necessary to establish their entire inadequacy.

The Prince's Tour.

(From the London Times.)
The Prince, as he has shown in Canada and New Zealand, has only to be seen and known to become an established favorite with all sorts and conditions of men, women and children. There is a magic spell about his personality that no one can resist. The King has telegraphed to the Governor-General to say that the visit of his eldest son recalls to his memory the affectionate greeting offered by the people of the Commonwealth to the Queen and himself nineteen years ago. In Australia, as in Newfoundland and Canada and New Zealand, the Prince will have the inestimable advantage of renewing acquaintance with large numbers of officers and men whom he met on active service at the front. They and the whole people of Australia are united in the determination to give him a reception the warmth and affection of which shall be second to nothing that he has experienced in any of the other dominions.

Another Royal Suggestion PIES and PASTRIES

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

CHEER UP! There is no further reason for worrying about table variety. The new Royal Cook Book gives new suggestions for every meal every day. The book is so full of surprises there will never be another dull meal in the home. Here are a few suggestions from the new Royal Cook Book.

Plain Pastry

This recipe is for one large pie with top and bottom crust.
2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Royal Baking Powder
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup cold water
Sift together flour, salt and baking powder; add shortening and rub in very lightly with tips of fingers (the less it is handled the better the paste will be). Add cold water very slowly, enough to hold dough together (do not work or knead dough). Divide in halves; roll out one part thin on floured board and use for bottom crust. After pie is filled roll out other part for top.

Rich Pastry

2 cups pastry flour
1/2 teaspoon Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup cold water
Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add one-half shortening and rub in lightly with fingers; add water slowly until of right consistency to roll out. Divide in halves; roll out one half thin; put on in small pieces half remaining shortening; fold upper and lower edges in to center; fold sides in to center, fold sides to center again; roll out thin and put on pie plate. Repeat with other half for top crust.

Apple Pie

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
4 apples, or 1 quart sliced apples
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon milk
Sift flour, baking powder and salt; add shortening and rub in very lightly; add just enough cold water to hold dough together. Roll half out on floured board, line bottom of pie plate; fill in apples, which have been washed, pared and cut into thin slices; sprinkle with sugar; cover with cinnamon or nutmeg; wet edges of crust with cold water; roll out remainder of pastry; cover pie, pressing edges tightly together and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes.

Oldest Artificial Leg.

Oldest artificial leg in existence that in the museum of the College of Surgeons of England was found in a tomb at and is of Roman origin. This member accurately represents the form of the human leg. It is made with pieces of thin bronze, held by iron bands having holes. Two iron bars having holes at free ends are attached to the extremity of the bronze; a quadrilateral piece of iron found near the position of the foot is thought to have given strength to it. There is no trace of the foot, and the wooden core had nearly crumbled away. The skeleton had its waist surrounded by a belt, probably used to fasten a leather lining. Three painted vases lay at the feet of the skeleton. The vases belong to a rather advanced period in the decline of art, about 300 B.C.

Schleswig Transferred.

Hon. Tasker Cook, Counsel in St. John's for Denmark, received the following cable message from Copenhagen this morning:

Treaty between Denmark and Allied Powers by which the Sovereignty of Schleswig is transferred to Denmark has been signed. King Christian X will sign act concerning incorporation of province on to-day, July 9th, which will be celebrated as the day of Reunion. Please hoist Danish flag.

Either way ends every corn

Use Blue-jay as you like best. Apply liquid Blue-jay from a bottle, or use the Blue-jay plaster.

The effects on the corn are identical. The pain stops. And the entire corn quickly loosens and comes out.

Blue-jay now is ending some two million corns a month.

It has so reduced corn troubles that most folks never have them.

It will end them all when all folks know about it.

The Blue-jay method is easy, gentle, sure.

It is scientific—the creation of a world-famed laboratory.

For your own sake, stop paring corns. Cease the old, harsh, inefficient methods.

Learn what millions know—that corns are folly, the pain is needless. Anybody can be kept forever free from corns with Blue-jay.

Prove this tonight. Buy Blue-jay from your druggist.

Notes From Brigus.

On Saturday the 3rd inst., while engaged in painting the lighthouse, Mr. Walter Wilcox, lightkeeper at the point, fell and broke one of his fingers. It appears the ladder on which he was standing gave way with the aforementioned result. In the absence of the M. D. the bone was set by Mr. J. P. Hearn.

Mr. S. V. James, agent for the Catholic Record, left by Sunday's express for the westward.

The best sign of codfish for some time was found on Saturday the 3rd inst., by hook and line men and several boats took 1/2 quintal on that date.

The first caplin for the season were taken on the 1st inst., and sold for the modest sum of 50c. per barrel. Some friction was caused at the wharves because one boat's crew sold for 40c. The crossing that ensued between the parties concerned, would—if reports be true—place that of the Hon. Members of the Assembly in the shade. Next morning the crew of the boat that tried to beat the H. C. of L. found their boat pinned to the wharf by a bolt, which, when the tide fell, caused her to heel over and throw their oars, etc., overboard. The day was lost in repairing the damage, and collecting their gear. Such a deed could only be performed by a low minded individual whose act should receive the condemnation it so richly deserves.

Miss Daisy Chafe, assistant teacher at the C. of E. school, Carbonear, arrived home on Thursday last to spend her vacation.

The S. S. Sagona arrived here at about 11.30 a.m. on the 7th inst. As she "hove to" her decks were lined with passengers and judging by appearances accommodation on her must have been limited. Amongst those who took passage were:—Capt. William Bartlett, Jr. and crew, Mr. George Roberts, new lightkeeper for Manuels Island, to replace Mr. Chas. Power, pensioned; Mr. and Mrs. John Donovan and Capt. Moses Bartlett, Sub-Collector of Customs at Battle Hr.

On Wednesday, the sad news was received in town, of the drowning, at Toronto, of Mr. Moses Metcalf. The deceased was of a quiet, amiable, disposition and recognised for his industry, in providing for the wants of his family. He leaves, to mourn their loss, a widow, four small children, the eldest of whom is a girl of 15 years and two brothers, one residing here, the other at Toronto. To the bereaved we extend our sincere sympathy.

The "Effie M. Morrissey," Capt. Harold Bartlett arrived yesterday from Sydney with a cargo of coal. The Capt. reports a rough passage of eight days, during which gales of wind were continuously encountered.

Mrs. William Cantwell who had been visiting friends at the "Cape" returned home by to-day's train.

J. W. Hiscok, Esq., and daughter, went to the city by motor on Sunday evening.

Master G. Winter, who had been attending St. Bonaventure's College, returned home on Saturday. He was accompanied by master G. Murphy, who came to spend a few days at the former's home.

Miss Ethel Chalke, has been dismissed (through no fault of her own), from the Postal Telegraph Office and Miss J. Gushue given the position. —NEMO.
Brigus, C.B., July 8, 1920.

Rumors.

(Western Star.)

Various rumors have been in the air for some time regarding pending changes in magistrates of the West Coast. The rumors as they have reached us are as follows:

That the present incumbent of the office at Bonne Bay is to be transferred to a place in Trinity Bay, in accordance with prayer of petition from the latter place to the Assembly during the early part of the present session, and that a local man, who already has considerable experience, will succeed him at Bonne Bay.

That the present Magistrate at Curling is to be given an East Coast appointment, and that a local man, at present a member of the Customs Dept., gets the appointment here, and that the building used as Magistrate's residence is to be transferred to other purposes.

That the Magistrate at St. George's, who has reached a good old age and rendered faithful service, is to be placed on the retired list and that a lawyer of St. John's, who once represented this district in the Assembly, is to be appointed to the office, which is to be raised to the status of district judgeship.

As we stated above these are but rumors. They came under our notice some weeks ago, but we took no notice of them at the time. But of the past week or so they have been talked of very generally, and our object in publishing this at this juncture is to show that they are as yet but rumors, though some, if not all, might be shadows of approaching events.

Capt. Hayes Caned.

SACHEM'S SKIPPER PRESENTED WITH WALKING STICK.

In order to commemorate the occasion of the docking of the first transatlantic liner at this port, Captain G. C. Hayes, of the S. S. SACHEM, was presented with a gold-headed cane at the Board of Trade rooms last Friday. The SACHEM, which arrived here on Thursday, July 1st, is the first liner to arrive at this port from overseas. She landed passengers and freight here.

Present at the special meeting were Colonel Montgomery, manager of the Furness Withy Company for the Maritime Province; R. A. Isnor and J. J. Bates, of the same company. The presentation was made by A. N. MacLennan, President of the Board of Trade. Captain Hayes thanked the members for their kind remembrance. Short addresses were also made by Col. Montgomery, J. A. Young and J. A. McIsaac.

The SACHEM is one of the Furness Withy liners and Sydney has been made the regular port of call for the vessel on her voyages from England.

The S. S. Digby, another of the Furness Withy liners, is also on the same route and will arrive here this month from Liverpool. The SACHEM is here from Liverpool.—Sydney Record, July 5.

Orphan's Outing.

The children of the Methodist Orphanage were given an outing yesterday at the country residence by Mr. Harold Macpherson. The evening was a pleasant one for the children who were provided with various games by their benefactors. Cakes, candy and teas were also provided. The thoughtfulness of Mr. and Miss Macpherson is highly appreciated.

Germs Do Not Freeze to Death.

We are accustomed to think that the freezing of any form of animal life means the certain death of the victim, and while this is true as regards the larger and more highly developed forms, many minute organisms and some larger insects are not injured by freezing. In general it may be said that any caterpillar which normally passes the winter in cold climates can be frozen hard and live, and the grubs of the daddy-longlegs type may be frozen so hard that they may be easily broken into fragments, and those not broken will in due course thaw out and live. The idea that a freezing temperature is fatal to all forms of insect life is the basis for the popular belief that freezing weather is healthful. As a matter of fact, germs—that is, microbes or bacteria—are not "bugs" at all, and very few of them will be killed by a temperature no lower than the freezing point 32 degrees Fahrenheit, and some are unharmed by a temperature of 50 degrees below zero.

Mistletoe Superstition.

Mistletoe is in many counties not admitted to the house before New Year's Eve for fear of some dire disaster. This seems a relic of the religious ban long placed upon the Druidic plant, which by reason of its historic connection with heathenism has been excluded from the decoration of churches and from Christian sculpture. It appears in old English ecclesiastical art only at Bristol Cathedral, where both leaf and berry are carved upon the remarkable tombs which were probably designed by some artist monk in the household of the Berkeleys. The association of the mistletoe with Christmas did not arise until long after the Reformation. Knowing nothing about the parasite—which is not native in Scotland, and is still rare there—Sir Walter Scott commits a terrible "howler" in his introduction to the sixth canto of "Marmion." Describing the delights of a mediaeval Christmas, he sends his "merry men" to gather mistletoe "in the wood," where they could not possibly have found it at that period.

Diana Reached Battle Harbor.

The S. S. Diana, Capt. Norman, arrived from Straits of Belle Isle on Thursday evening. She succeeded in reaching Battle Hr. but encountered considerable ice, and was jammed four days off Bonne Esperance. The Diana is the first ship to reach Battle Hr. this season. She reports cod very scarce along Newfoundland side of the Straits. There is a good sign of cod west of Bonne Esperance, but eastward there is nothing yet. The Diana when she got back here was said to be leaking about thirty inches an hour, the encounter with the ice having removed some oakum. A diver and ship's carpenter arrived at Humbermouth from St. John's on Monday's express and repairs are being effected.—Western Star, July 7.

Personal.

Lient. Jack McGrath, M.C., son of Mr. T. R. McGrath, and nephew of Sir P. T. McGrath, who has been in hospital in England since last November, where he underwent an operation for serious wounds sustained in France, is a passenger by the Digby due here on Tuesday next from England, and is reported as much improved as a result of his treatment on the other side.

With the Rod.

Salmon continues unaccountably scarce in the Crabbes River. Mr. Wells is still camped near the White Cliff Pool, but we have no record of catches since our last issue.

At Robinson's river there was some good salmon fishing the last week in June. Records are as follows: Mrs. A. Phillips, staying at Dean Gales, caught two, weighing 4 lbs. each. J. Ford landed five, the biggest 8 lbs., and the other four 3 lbs. each. The heaviest fish taken was by Mr. Comstock, it weighed 28 lbs. Mr. Comstock landed four others, ranging from 6 to 8 lbs. each.—Western Star.

Sydney Murder Case.

The case of the Crown against Alice Marinelli for the murder of her husband last December, the trial of the accused being held at Sydney, was expected to have finished on Monday afternoon last, when the case was given the jury, but no report of their verdict has been received from the county capital, so far. Mike Koval the Russian, who was first charged with the murder, pleaded not guilty, and was acquitted by a jury last week, has been arrested on a charge of perjury in connection with his evidence given at the opening of the trial of Miss Marinelli.

PARK CONCERT—The large gathering of people at Banqueting Park last evening was treated to a feast of music by the C.C.C. Band and many regretted that the entertainment did not last longer.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mr. Leslie Fitzgerald, an ecclesiastical student at Holy Heart Seminary, Halifax, is spending the summer vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Fitzgerald, of this town.

Another football match was played here on Wednesday last between a team from Carbonear and a Harbo Grace team, which resulted in a win for Carbonear by 2 goals to 1.

Caplin have been fairly plentiful here the past few days, but not so plentiful as in other years, and farmers and others are very busy gathering the valuable little fish for fertilizing and other purposes.

Up to the present codfish have been very scarce, none of the traps getting fish. Now that the caplin are in it is thought that very soon there will be a good "spurt."

Mrs. Davis, wife of Mr. Llewellyn Davis, of Sydney, N.S., formerly of this town, is spending a time with Mrs. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, of the West End.

Messrs. Gerald Strapp, Leo Foley and Edward Foley, students at St. Bonaventure's College, are also in town for the summer vacation.

Mr. Brooks, representing John Carter & Company, of Boston, Mass., is in town on a business trip. Mr. Brooks is a Hs. Graclan by birth, the son of Mr. Brooks, whom our older townpeople will remember as a clerk in the employ of Messrs. Bidley & Co., about thirty-five or forty years ago.

The last of our Labrador fleet, the schooner "Willie C." belonging to Messrs. T. & J. Dunn, sailed on Saturday last for Turnavik. We join with our townpeople in wishing our fishermen a good catch and a safe return.

The residents of the West End are complaining that the public wharf on which repairs were begun last year, has not since been finished. Now as this wharf is very necessary to fishermen and others for landing and mooring their boats, they find the stoppage of repairs very inconvenient, and it would be a move in the right direction for the authorities to see that it is put in good condition as soon as possible.

Mr. Edward Sheehan, of the Cable Staff, at Heart's Content, has been in town the past few days. Edward's many friends are very pleased to hear of his welfare.

Miss Fannie Parsons, assistant teacher of the Methodist Superior School here, left on Monday for St. John's en route to Little Bay Islands, where she will spend a time with her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Ernest Davis.

Mr. T. O'Mara, of James Baird, Ltd., on a motor trip around the bay, was in town on Monday.

Mr. F. H. Archibald, M.H.A., left for St. John's by motor car yesterday. Mr. Arthur Thomson also left by motor for the city yesterday.

We would like to suggest to the trustees of Shannon Park the advisability of getting the football section put in a little better condition. The application of a roller and lawn mower would go far to make the players who frequent the park every evening lock pleasant, when they shoot for goal, whereas now the crease is so uneven and the grass so high in some places, that several players have been suffering from the effects of kicking the "ground" instead of the ball.

Personal.

Rev. Canon Field, of St. Michael's returned by the Rosalind yesterday after a visit to New York.

Miss Mildred Coen, who had been taking a course in nursing at Boston, returned yesterday by the Rosalind.

Rev. W. J. Wilson, Grand Chaplain of the P. G. Lodge, L. O. A., of Newfoundland, who has been attending the session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of British North America, at Calgary, Alberta, arrived here on Wednesday, and left to-day for Musgrave Town, where he is stationed. Mr. Wilson had a most enjoyable trip and is looking remarkably well.

Concert On Rosalind.

The local seamen's fund will benefit to the amount of $52 as a result of a concert held on board the S. S. Rosalind Tuesday night while the ship was en route from Halifax. Amongst those taking part in the concert were Miss M. McCarthy who was returning from Boston where she is taking vocal and music lessons, Mr. J. Syme, son of the late John Syme, while Mr. D. Martinez of Buffalo, N.Y., acted as treasurer.

STRIKE NOT SETTLED—Up to yesterday no settlement of the Shipwrights' strike had been arranged. The men are asking for $6.00 per day of eight hours to which the employers did not agree. A compromise wage was offered, but so far has not been accepted.

Bedrooms & Beds

There's nothing more important to the bedroom than the Bed itself, is there? From the point of usefulness or ornament it ranks first. Does your Bed suit your taste? Does it harmonize with your room? Does it give you the sleep-comfort you need? No? Well, then it's time to discard it and get another, quick.

We are showing All-Brass, Brass and Enamel, and All-Enamel Beds in all sizes and very fine designs. Each and all of which Beds can be fitted with Springs and Wool or Felt Mattresses if desired.

Prices quoted on request.
