HARBOR BONDS WILL BE KEPT AWAY FROM LONDON MARKET CIVIC POLICY WELL DEFINED

Local Brokerage Firm Indignant Because Guaranteed Bonds Are Sold in the U. S. Market—Explanation Is That City Does Not Want Competition With Its Own Regular Issues.

Toronto securities continue to be edged in the United States. The large block of harbor commission bonds just sold were taken at about 94. It was an insurance company in the United States, and not a banking house in London, England, that purchased the bonds.

The harbor commission has let contracts for dredging that will total over $4,000,000. From the sale of bonds from time to time, and from the federal appropriation, funds will be provided for the dredging.

The reason we are interested in the matter is owing to the fact that we submitted a bid yesterday for $2,500,000 of these bonds, and our offer was declined as the City of Toronto absolutely refused to guarantee the bonds.

ROADS COMMISSION HOLDING SESSIONS

Program For Highway Improvement Campaign Is Expected Shortly.

TO CONDUCT SURVEYS

Special Meetings Will Be Held to Explain Government's Plans.

The special commission on Ontario highways is plunging wholeheartedly into business this week.

Chairman McGrath stated yesterday that the board was not prepared as yet to state their intentions.

It is thought that because of this and in view of the different demands existing in varying sections of the province, one of the first moves will be a survey of the different highway centres.

In order to make evident to the people the exact aim of the government, it is probable that a series of public meetings will be arranged, at which members of the commission will speak.

The ultimate appropriation of the government to the good roads propaganda is understood to be between five and ten million dollars.

The local demonstration, which, owing to the champion's brief stay here, was of a purely informal character, was none the less enthusiastic, and was participated in by a group of marksmen and militiamen which was thoroughly representative of these bodies in the ancient capital.

Heading the delegation which waited on Private Hawkins to tender him the first, oral welcome in Canada, was Col. Landry, the officer commanding the fifth division. He was supported by a number of other officers.

CURTAIN FALLS ON BIG CONGRESS

Geologists Bidden Good-Bye by Faculty of Toronto University.

IMPRESSIVE OCCASION

Conferring of Degrees on Seven Delegates Is Marked With Special Features.

No finer curtain could fall on the close of the International Geological Congress than the special convocation of Toronto University yesterday afternoon—a convocation at which geologists and geologists alone were conferred on seven outstanding men, not because they needed them, but because of the splendid work that they have done and considered that in honoring them (the university) as a special tribute to the science of geology but brought further honor to itself.

Sir William Meredith, the chancellor of the university, in his black and white robe, entered the hall at 4 o'clock, followed by President Falconer, members of the faculty and the geologists to receive degrees. As the men took their places on the platform the massive pipe organ sent out the strains of "O Canada" and the audience in the hall stood until the chancellor then took their seats. The organ stopped and without further ceremony the conferring of the degrees began.

Dr. Walker arose to propose the name of Dr. Richard Beck of Freiburg, Germany, and as the German geologist arose to his feet, Dr. Walker to the contribution Dr. Beck had made to geological literature in his book "The Alps Deposits." Sir William then conferred the degree, and after the usual nandulake Dr. Beck was escorted across the platform to the LL.D. register where he signed his name James Broder, the registrar of the university, witnessing the signature.

Dr. Thomas C. Chamberlin of Chicago University was the next man to receive his degree in introducing him. Dr. Coleman told of the philosophic work he had done for the science, and in replying Dr. Chamberlin referred to the prestige of Toronto University. He had become acquainted with many of the products of the university in 1891 and year by year his appreciation of the work being done by Toronto had grown. The graduates who are to be conferred degrees are: Prof. W. G. Miller, a classmate of Dr. A. T. DeLury, a classmate of Dr. Miller, proposed the degree, explaining that Dr. Miller was already an "alumnus of Toronto." He then spoke of the work Dr. Miller has done since the Cobalt and Porcupine silver camps were opened.

Dr. Miller was glad to see that the university had conferred the honor of geologists of other countries. "We used to thank you for it," he said. Dr. J. J. Sedholm, director of the geological survey of Finland, was proposed by Dean Fernow, who told of the work he had done on the pre-Cambrian rocks, and in reply Dr. Sedholm referred to Finland, his home and as the "Little Europe of Europe," the name being due to the fact that Finland has almost the same rock formation as Canada.

Spoke in English. He spoke in English and ended with a practical turn on the Finnish immigration that was coming to Canada. The geologists from Finland, he said, had been in Canada during their visit to Canada, but what made a bigger appeal to him was the hospitality extended by Canada to the Finnish immigrants who had come to the country in the last few years.

There were three foreign geologists joined in the honor. Dr. Aubrey Strahan of London called a foreigner, President Falconer, who proposed his name, called him an "Englishman," and referred to his career at Eton and Cambridge and his life career as director of the geological survey of England and Wales. Dr. Strahan's reply was short, and Prof. De Champ then proposed the name of Dr. Terrier of Paris, France, who after receiving his degree, spoke in "beautiful French" to the delight of the hundred or more women who were in the audience.

Dr. Tschernyschow of St. Petersburg, Russia, who was proposed by Prof. Parks, brought the ceremony to a close with a reply in French, and while the audience stood for the singing of "God Save the King," the chancellor and faculty marched forth.

The full programs for both concerts will be published tomorrow.

SECURES REDUCTION OF HIS ASSESSMENT

H. H. Ball of North Toronto Wins Case Before Revision Court.

Among the numerous property owners in North Toronto who are appealing against this year's assessment, H. H. Ball has established a case which has been accepted by the court as a basis of reduction.

Mr. Ball's property is on the northeast corner of Yonge and Merion streets, and has considerable double frontage. It is a high bank, and therefore not available for business purposes until the bank has been removed. He was assessed at $100 per front foot. It was lowered by the court to $80.

THE GARDEN CONDUCTED BY RACHEL R. TODD, M.D.

Some Good Plants for The Border. There are certain small flowering plants that are eminently suited for the special and only purpose of forming narrow lines of edging for the outside lines of flower beds.

Because of their dwarf, compact growth, and their excellent habit of not spreading and therefore sprawling over their neighbors, they help in maintaining the tidy appearance so often absent from flower beds at this time of the season.

The lobelia, a small dwarf plant that produces tiny dark blue flowers in a great abundance is one of these good edgers. Almost no time of the season, from early spring, until late in fall, pretty shining blossoms are peeping. True, it does send out short trailers, but these are easily kept within bounds.

This is the lobelia erinus, named after a Flemish botanist, who discovered it about the year 1550, by name Lobel. Its native spot was the Cape of Good Hope.

No prettier plant for window boxes or hanging baskets and vases could possibly be found. But it really excels in the border. In company with small pale green geranium, whose perturbed leaves are marked with a single wavy line of white, this lobelia helps to make a border little short of perfect. One can always buy these small bedding plants of geranium at little cost from the florist for this purpose. But the lobelia plants can easily be raised from seed at home.

Plant the seeds early in March, in the "flats" we learned about early in the spring, and in less than five weeks the shoots will be ready for transplanting to the beds. No plant is easier to grow. Simply water and keep the earth watered about the roots, and it will take care of itself. There is also a small dark maroon red coleus that lends itself readily to borders. Often whole borders will be seen, especially in the large public gardens, completely outlined with this brilliant, small plant, giving a splendid finished look to the beds. This plant also gives no trouble in its cultivation. Being a dwarf and compact habit, it does not spread beyond its own limits.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING BY HENRIETTA D. GRAUEL DOMESTIC SCIENCE LECTURER

Pickles, Vinegar and Brine. THERE are so many kinds of pickles, chilis and chow-chows that everyone can have their own favorite if they but know the way to prepare the dressings. The choice of good vinegar is of utmost importance, but it is also necessary to use porcelain or stoneware cooking utensils, and silver, or wooden, forks for handling the pickles to insure success.

Very small pickles, called Tom Thumbs, or gherkins, are best for bottling. Larger ones may be kept in open wooden kegs or stone jars.

Whether you are making cucumber or gherkin pickles the first operation is the same—to soak them in brine. Mix this in the proportion of two pounds of dairy salt to two gallons of water. Pickles should stand in this brine for thirty-six hours. Remove the pickles and throw away the brine. Now put the pickles in a pan of boiling, fresh water and let them stand in this until it is cold.

For Sweet Gherkins.—Three quarts of cider vinegar will be needed, five hundred small pickles. To it add two ounces each of cinnamon, allspice and cloves; three pounds of light brown sugar, a few strips of sweet red pepper and a bit of alum as large as a hickory nut. This alum keeps the pickles firm. When this vinegar mixture is almost boiling add the pickles and cook three minutes. If a grape leaf is packed in every jar of pickles it preserves their bright green color.

Sour Gherkins.—Proceed as above, but in place of spice and sugar, add a few slices of horseradish root, a blade of mace and more sweet pepper. Dill Pickles.—These are made from large pickles. The vinegar is diluted with water almost one-half and a bunch of dill is boiled with it and the pickles. This dill is kept in the pickle jar for seasoning.

Mustard Dressing.—This may be used on chow-chow, sliced cucumber pickles or mixed pickles. To a gallon of best cider vinegar add the following mixture: One pound of French mustard, ground, four cups of sugar, one cup of flour, one ounce of tumeric. Mix this by running thru a sieve and then making into a paste with some of the cold vinegar. Heat the remainder of the vinegar and when it is just beginning to boil add the mustard mixture and cook, stirring with a wooden spoon until it thickens.

Add the vegetables that are to be pickled and continue cooking until they are well heated thru. A very agreeable relish is made with this dressing when equal parts of cauliflower, small white onions and small cucumber pickles are used.

THE TRIPLE TIE BY A. H. C. MITCHELL

A triple tie! Never was there such an ending of a championship pennant race. Possibly in some bush league, possibly in some obscure baseball organization that no one ever heard of, such a thing had happened, but it had never been reported. Not even a double tie—a tie between two clubs—had ever been recorded in the American League. There had been close races for the championship flag, season-long battles, that were not decided until the final game at the very end of the season, but never a tie, much less a triple tie.

Of course the triple tie involving the Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago clubs played off, but there was no rule in the American League to cover the point. The eight members of this organization had questions that might arise in the easiest possible manner, and their method was simply to turn the matter over to President John B. F. Johnson, to whom they paid a salary of the United States in Grant's time. But the settling of the details of the triple tie was a matter of such importance that Mr. Johnson declined to assume the entire responsibility and called upon the clubs to nominate representatives to consult with him in Chicago at once. It was necessary to have the triple tie disposed of as quickly as possible, in order that the regular season should not be interrupted by the winning club of the National League in the annual series of games for the world's championship. The first week in October had gone by, the season was growing late and it was imperative that the triple tie should be hurried to a conclusion.

The Magnates Meet. The Boston Club wired one of its stockholders who lived in Chicago, C. M. Randie, to act for the Red Sox. The Philadelphia Club selected President T. M. Chivington of the American Association Baseball Clubs, who headquarters were in Chicago, to represent them, while Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago Cubs, was named to represent these three men met in President Johnson's office in the Fisher building, Chicago, on Monday morning, Oct. 6, at 10 o'clock. Johnson opened the meeting with the remark: "Gentlemen, it is absolutely necessary that the triple tie be played off on neutral ground, it is also absolutely necessary that no time be lost in beginning the series. Am I right?"

"I move the triple tie be played off on the Polo Grounds," said Comiskey. "Second the motion," said Chivington. "I opposed, unless Chivington, but as a matter of fact, I heartily agree with you, gentlemen. The Philadelphia Club votes for the Polo Grounds." "The next question to be settled," said Johnson, "is the schedule. There are but two ways of settling it. The first is to draw lots to determine which two clubs shall play the first game, and second to select the teams arbitrarily on the ground of expediency. If the Boston and Philadelphia clubs could start in tomorrow afternoon and play the first game, while the Chicago Club was traveling to New York on the fastest train. This plan would allow a slight hardship on the Chicago Club, because it would have to play the loser of the first game on Wednesday afternoon after a tiresome ride on the train. I would like your views on this question."

Arrangements Complete. "As far as I am concerned, the question is settled right now," declared Comiskey. "The members of my club are up at my ball park right now waiting to hear the news of the triple tie. The first is to draw lots to determine which two clubs shall play the first game, and second to select the teams arbitrarily on the ground of expediency. If the Boston and Philadelphia clubs could start in tomorrow afternoon and play the first game, while the Chicago Club was traveling to New York on the fastest train. This plan would allow a slight hardship on the Chicago Club, because it would have to play the loser of the first game on Wednesday afternoon after a tiresome ride on the train. I would like your views on this question."

Half a hundred newspaper men were in the corridors waiting for the conference to come to an end, and as soon as they heard of the triple tie, they crowded into the room, demanding the news. The American League president told them that the triple tie was arranged for the play-off, and added: "The schedule takes care of itself. The Boston and Philadelphia Clubs meet in the first game tomorrow afternoon. The loser of this contest will play the Chicago Club on Wednesday, and on Thursday the Chicago Club plays the winner of the first game. In case there is another tie—that is, if each club wins one game and loses one game—they will start right over again, until the tie is decided by one club defeating the other two clubs. If this should come to pass—the tie is not decided in the first round—I shall suggest to the three clubs that they play morning and afternoon games on the second round, for we must get the tie disposed of just as quickly as possible, in order that the world's series games can start."

Tennis Fine Exhibition on Toronto Courts

MAYES BEATS SHERWELL A DOUBLE FAULT FINALE

Interesting Games in Lawn Tennis Championships on Toronto Club Courts.

The Toronto tennis public who went to the Canadian championship tournament at the Toronto Club yesterday saw several magnificent exhibitions. Perhaps the most notable match was the contest between Sherwell, the Toronto crack, and Mayes of Winnipeg, one of the Canadian International Lawn-Tennis from the world's tournament in England.

It took three long sets to return Mayes a winner. Sherwell took the first set 6-3 after a stubborn contest. His cross court volleys had the Winnipeg international puzzled and he was steadily over-whelmed. Mayes is a heady player, and by clever tactics turned the tide in the second set. The third set was a long, grueling battle, Sherwell finally losing a double fault.

In the ladies' championships all calculations were upset when Miss Best of Toronto defeated Mrs. Marty of Cincinnati in long hard game. The score tells its own story, the second set, 11-9, being especially noteworthy.

Great interest was shown this afternoon. Mayes plays Burns, the Toronto veteran, who is playing in old form. Many of the shrewd pick this as one of the great games of the tournament. This contest starts at 4 p.m.

The other semi-final in the open singles will be played at 4 p.m. between Baird and Allen. Allen was former doubles champion of the United States, and the Toronto man should give him a hard workout.

The ladies' doubles at 2.30 should be well worth seeing. —Championship Open Singles—Mayes defeated Sherwell, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3.

Parton defeated Legge, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3. Burns defeated Parton, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. Baird defeated Legge, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3. Allen defeated Spenser, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2. Mayes defeated Baird and Parton, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

DARK HORSE LEADS FOR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP. J. Burck of Fort William Ahead in Two Rounds With the Murray Brothers Second and Third.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—(Staff special)—On form one might pick the new open golf champion of Canada, but as Colonel Burck may take it into his canny head to dissemble some, the leaders, it would only be pure guess work. There are two rounds of real hard and nerve-racking golf to be played tomorrow, before the contest is ended, and in that time several would-be champions will be made and unmade.

Jack Burck, of Fort William, pure and simple dark horse, leads the thirty aspirants at the conclusion of the first day's play here today with a score of 142. This is the first time that he has ever been seen in a Canadian tourney, from the States. Last year he won the inter-state championship, representative of the professional title for the states west of Chicago. He also won the Pennsylvania title a few years ago. He won by consistent and clever golfing, as his scores will show. In the morning he went out in 29, came home in 39, making a total of 74. His afternoon performance he bettered going out by one stroke, making this mark 38, and came home in 35. His best round score of the day, 73. His performance practically guarantees a duplicate one tomorrow, the Murray Brothers, Charlie and Albert, are tied for second place and either may fall off in the final struggle. Charlie tied with his assistant, A. Desjar-dine, for the lowest gross score in the morning, but added three strokes to this mark of 72 in the afternoon. Albert played consistently, his scores being 74 and 75 respectively. There are even in the third place and Davey Black, River-meder, N. Thompson, Hamilton, and R. Holden, Lambton will have a battle royal between them, and in the meantime try to catch the leaders.

They returned cards of 15 each, only four strokes behind the leader, and their chances are good. Holden, who is on an apprentice as yet, brought home the fine card of 74 in the morning session, but he over-whelmed a lot of trouble in the afternoon and lost three strokes. A. Woodward is still in the money, and a dangerous man at any stage of the game. The work of the day was done by the Montreal golf apprentice, in the morning was the surprise of the day, and when the young Frenchman tied with his employer's low score of 73, he was hailed by the critics as the coming champion. Unfortunately he fell down on his second round and his card of 80 only entitled him to sixth place, while the town's favorite, J. Burck, The interest in tomorrow's play prom-

AUSTRIA WILL NOT ASK FOR REVISION

Special Cable to The World. Copyrighted by The Toronto World and N. Y. Herald. LONDON, Aug. 13. 3.30 a.m.—The Daily Mail has a Vienna despatch this morning, saying: "From an authoritative source we hear that Russia has informed Austria she intends to withdraw from participation in the demand for a revision of the Bucharest peace treaty in deference to French opinion. Austria seeing that she would be quite isolated in her intended action has come to a decision not to act alone. Austria has decided to withdraw her demand also."

"Great excitement has been created in political circles by the sudden withdrawal of the Austrian demand, as it was considered vital for the Austrian foreign policy."

"It is confidently predicted that this withdrawal will entail the fall of the foreign minister, Count Berchtold, who saddled himself with responsibility of the decision."

MAPLE LEAFS MAKE IT A CLEANUP WITH TWO RUNS

Toronto Lands Both Ends of Double Bill From Skeeters—Pick Was the Batting Hero With Seven Hits in Two Games—Kent Makes Good.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—True to his promise, Manager Joe Kelley made a clean-up in his farewell series with Jersey City on West Side Park this afternoon by pulling off a two-ply victory in today's double header. The eighth bases on balls and a steal by Gilbooy and an error by Midkiff gave the Royals the other run that won the game.

In the second game Baltimore took the joke on the Canucks and in the first four innings made matters take to the ball timbers, in the seventh inning a like trick. Fast base running by Daniels and Midkiff aided in two runs. The score: Baltimore—First Game—A. B. R. H. O. A. E.
