Ballard is Elected As Teachers' President on a "Double-Cross"

Usual Custom of Unanimously Endorsing Inspectors' Section Nominations Was Unexpectedly Disregarded and Dr. Waugh is Deprived of Intended Honors.

W. H. Ballard of Hamilton, public school inspector, is the president of the Ontario Educational Association for 1908, he being elected at last night's session over Dr. John Waugh of Whitby by the close vote of 68 to 58.

The election came as a big surprise and it has also given rise to considerable dissatisfaction and even bitterness and resentment. It is felt that somebody engineered a "packed" convention and in so doing not only did Dr. Waugh grave injustice, but also insulted the gentlemen who compose the public school inspectors' section of the association.

It is for this reason, it has been recognized custom for the inspectors' section to select and endorse a president whose election is formally ratified at the general meeting. Following the custom, the section yesterday afternoon selected John Waugh, Ph.D., of Whitby, as next president of the association, the nomination being made by J. J. Craig. Dr. Waugh is regarded as one of the most prominent educationists in the province.

Last night, however, on the nomination of some public school teachers from Dundas, Mr. Ballard was placed in the field and on a vote being taken was elected by 68 to 58. Dr. Waugh's friends say that a great many who would have voted for him, not acting in the usual manner, but according to custom, did not attend last evening.

Inspectors Are Angry.

The inspectors are naturally aroused, inasmuch as it is a reflection on their judgment, passed by those who are under their supervision. Mr. Ballard, who was present at the afternoon meeting of the section, was not present last evening to receive his intended honors. No one was heard to impute any intentions of discourtesy to him, and it may be that Mr. Ballard may have received the news, himself, with surprise. However, the public school inspectors will discuss the matter to-day and will likely place their views officially on record by resolution.

Mr. Ballard has been actively engaged in educational work for about forty years and is well known for his attainments in mathematics. He is a liberalist in this branch, having graduated from Toronto University with that honor. Mr. Ballard was engaged for some years as a public school teacher, afterwards becoming mathematical master of Hamilton Collegiate, the institution at that time serving as a teachers' training school. For the past twenty-five years he has been a public school inspector at Hamilton. He collaborated in the production of the High School Arithmetic.

More Trouble.
R. W. Doane, principal of Dufferin School, who has been secretary of the association for a number of years, is an opponent of Mr. Ballard. Mr. Doane, principal of Church-street School. He was nominated after the chairman, Inspector Embree, had declared the nominations closed, but his supporters insisted upon his candidacy, and by a standing vote it was decided to allow his name to stand. The proceedings became slightly tinged with acrimony, the right of Mr. Ward to compete being challenged, by some of the directors of the association. The chairman, however, ruled his nomination to be in order. Mr. Doane receiving a majority of 24 votes.

Superannuation Fund.
The committee appointed to deal with the superannuation fund reported that the provincial government had inserted $1000 in the estimates for the year, to be used in investigating the scheme of superannuation submitted to it by the committee two years ago. The committee believed that nothing more could be done to further the scheme at the export actuary, to whom the present proposals will be submitted, reports to the government.

RUSSELL IN TORONTO EAST

Nominated to Contest as Independent Conservative in B Class.

Joseph Russell, brickmaker, 437 Jarvis-street, was last night nominated by the riding of East Toronto Conservative Association as an independent candidate in East Toronto, B Class, for the legislature.

There were also nominated Wm. Worrell, Geo. A. Gilmore, Samiel R. Healey and Albert Smythe. Messrs. Worrell and Gilmore retired in favor of the candidate, and the nomination was made unanimous.

Mr. Russell will run against the candidates nominated by the ward associations in class B, if the associations decline to support him. He is understood to be well supplied with the staff of war and will make an active canvass of the constituency.

It was resolved that the meeting pledge itself to everything that would elect Mr. Russell in a fair, square and honorable manner.

Mr. Russell thanked the convention for his selection, and promised that if not a speaker he would be a worker. The next thing after getting the endorsement of the convention would be to get the endorsement of the people, and that could only be done by hard work.

Pleas for Public Ownership.

In the interval, while waiting for nominations to be put in, the chairman, William Worrell, called on A. W. Wright for an address. Mr. Wright is a Conservative, as he believed that it was the Conservative party which would give public ownership to Canada, both in provincial and federal legislation. He was a good party man, and believed in the party system. He did not, however, desire to offer any suggestions about the selection of candidates. He thought the organizer who interfered in this way was to be censured.

But Mr. Wright did not believe in slavish adherence to party. He had dissented from the bargain made with the C.P.R. syndicate, and believed it would have been better for Canada had the railway been built on the public ownership system.

Half the people in the United States own no property whatever, and less than one per cent own the property which makes half the wealth of the nation. This was the result of private ownership.

ENGLIN AND MABEE FOR CABINET SAYS RUMOR

Montreal Politicians Speculating on Possible Changes—A View From the Outside.

MONTREAL, April 22.—(Special.)—There is a rumor going the rounds in Montreal political circles that Judges Mabee and Englin are to be asked by the prime minister to accept office in the government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the one to replace the Hon. Mr. Scott, secretary of state and the alleged representative of the Irish Catholic population of the Dominion, while the other jurist will step into Sir Richard Cartwright's shoes when he becomes lieutenant-governor of the Province of Ontario.

THE OPENING GUN.

A. W. Wright to Hold a Meeting in Brockton Hall.

The first shot of the Toronto provincial campaign will be fired by A. W. Wright, the public ownership Conservative candidate, on Friday evening, in Brockton Hall, corner of Dundas-street and Brock-avenue, Major Hugh Clark, M.L.A. for Centre Etoupe, and Mr. Wright will be the speakers, but as a discussion is invited and there are many dilettants in the field in West Toronto there will probably be others. Besides Brockton meetings are usually lively, the people in that "neck of the woods" having the reputation of being able to get all the enjoyment out of a meeting that is fairly coming to them. It won't do for a speaker in Brockton to say, "I'm a Tory," "I'm a Grif," or one thing or the other, and expect the audience to let it go at that. Brocktonians are more interested in Toronto, and they have to be shown. It's a fair guess, and even a pretty safe bet, that Friday night's meeting will neither be tame nor uninteresting. You'll need to be on hand early to avoid the rush.

EX-PREMIER ASSESSES OVER

Death Comes Peacefully to Bannerman—Burial Takes Place From Abbey.

LONDON, April 22.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, former British premier, died at 2.15 o'clock this morning at his official residence in Downing-street, after a long illness. The end was peaceful. The cause of Sir Henry's death is officially given as heart failure.

There will be a funeral service in Westminster Abbey at noon on April 27, attended by representatives of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, diplomats and members of parliament, and the final interment will occur at Melbie, Perthshire, beside the body of Sir Henry's wife on the following day.

Messages of sympathy were arriving all day long from every part of the world and a continuous stream of people called at the late residence of the former premier.

In the death chamber when the ex-premier breathed his last were his niece, Mrs. Campbell, who had acted as Sir Henry's hostess since the death of the late Lady Campbell-Bannerman, a little more than a year ago; Dr. Burnet, who was Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's constant attendant during his long illness, and Sir Henry's butler.

Unconscious Three Days.

The ex-premier had been unconscious most of the time during the last two or three days, and his sinking was gradual. A few hours before his death, telegrams were despatched to King Edward, who, with Queen Alexandra, is visiting the Danish royal family at Copenhagen; the Prince of Wales, and the cabinet ministers. In the immediate vicinity newspaper reporters were keeping vigil before the house of the dying statesman, but the only news bulletin more than an hour after his death, a few minutes thereafter a crowd assembled in Downing-street, but persons were barred from approaching the house by a cordon of police from Scotland Yard, near by.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's final illness dates from Feb. 12, when he last appeared in the house of commons and moved the closure of the Scotch land bill, also he had been ailing since Nov. 18, 1907, when he participated in an entertainment in honor of the Emperor William at the Grosvenor.

Few invalids have been the object of so much solicitude and attention as Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, there having been a constant stream of callers at his Downing-street residence, including King Edward, who visited him on two occasions; Queen Alexandra, the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and many prominent men in public life.

Last Published Utterance.

Sir Henry's last published utterance was a warm letter of thanks to his Scottish friends, who presented him with a portrait of himself.

It is known that the ex-premier was opposed to a public funeral, and it is believed that he will be buried with quietness beside the body of his wife at Melbie, in Perthshire, Scotland.

The bride, daintily attired in a semi-empire gown of crepe-de-chene, over white chiffon taffeta, was unattended, save by two pretty little boys, Miss Margaret Bailey of North Bay and Master Jack Dymond of Barrie, niece and nephew respectively of the bride. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Whitney of Toronto, and after the ceremony, Jack Power, brother of the groom, sang De Koven's "O Promise Me." Mr. and Mrs. Power left Toronto at 11 o'clock.

WOULD CHANGE SITE OF TECHNICAL SCHOOL

Proposed New Location in North-west Section is Favored, But Means Increased Outlay.

The board of control was called upon yesterday afternoon to deal with the situation arising out of the objections taken by public bodies to the site for a technical school on East Bloor-street, chosen by last year's board of education.

The main argument against the location was that the noise of the street cars would prove distracting, and that it was a noisy location. The board, however, is of the opinion that the noise is not so great as is claimed.

The discussion arose out of the application of the Connor-Rudby Company for permission to establish large overhead signs at several points. The company's contention was that the city could not prohibit the signs provided they complied with the regulations.

THE FARMER HAS HIMSELF TO BLAME

The Weekly Sun, in its issue of yesterday, has an article on the comparative decline in the influence of the farmer in the legislature of Ontario. It points out that New Ontario is getting four more members and Toronto four more members, and speaks of this change as "an encroachment" made "by other interests on the political power formerly possessed by agricultural Ontario."

The facts are not disputed by us, but surely The Weekly Sun will not deny the application of the principle of representation by population, and of the right of all citizens of the province to an equality of influence in public affairs, whether they live in town or country. As a matter of fact, the cities have been very unfairly represented up to the present time, and especially is this true of Toronto.

The Sun also recalls that once the farmers of this province had complete control of it. We do not propose even to dispute that statement; but the point we want to make, and to make it good and strong in the hearing of all the farmers of Ontario, is this: that the farmers in the provincial legislature and in the parliament at Ottawa have themselves to blame for the condition of affairs that exists, and especially for the extravagance in government which The Sun deploras. There is hardly a farmer in any of the legislatures that is of commanding influence, or that stands up for the right and for justice, for economy as against extravagance, against encroachment on public rights, and for the full enforcement of the law.

The farmer in these legislatures is too often dumb; he doesn't even speak out in caucus; and he is the first man that the exploiter gets his hands on when he seeks to work a graft thru a committee, or thru the government. All the raids on the cities that have been made by gas companies, electric light companies and street railways, and the like, have been worked thru committees of farmers who didn't realize that what they were imposing on the men in the city would come to themselves some day, and that they, too, would pass under the rule of some kind of a monopoly. As we have said, every raiding monopoly in every city of Ontario has gone thru the legislature by the aid of the farmer's vote.

Take a case like that of Mr. Charles Calder, the member for South Ontario in the legislature, who sat on the private bills committee, and lined up with the street railway lobby when Toronto asked that the railway be made to live up to its agreement. And it was the same with other farmers on that committee, with the exception of three or four at Ottawa—Peter Christie is as shining an example as Mr. Calder is the contrary—a farmer gets up and votes for the people as against the railways. It will not do for The Farmer's Sun, or for the farmers to merely deplore the passing of political power from the farmer to somebody else. They duty is to send men of courage to represent them in parliament, and in the legislature, and they must insist on frequent accountings from these members; the good old system of public meetings, where representatives were asked to give an account of their stewardship, has largely fallen away.

Another feature now of our public life is that political leaders have a knack when an election is on of starting two farmers to pummel one another, one Crit and the other Tory, thus supplying the countryside with a couple of weeks of a perambulating scrap. When such a fight is on the real interests of the country and of the people are neglected, and the attention of the public is centred on the work in the ring. These "fights" are skillfully designed to obscure the real issues. Six farmers standing up in the legislature at the right time and rebuking Mr. Whitney for his guarantee of two and a half millions of the Canadian Northern bonds would have stopped that proposition; but the men were not there.

The World to-day could tell the farmers of Ontario, and does propose in a short time to tell them, how by a change of policy in connection with one of the great affairs of this province enough money could be saved to build magnificent gravel roads thruout the province, and to maintain them forever without local taxation; but it is a question whether the farmers would rise above party and insist on the reform that we could suggest, or whether they would not more gladly listen to the party bugle, and do whatever they were told to do by the party leaders.

The World hasn't lost faith in the farmer. The World appeals to more farmers than any other paper in Canada to-day, and we are making our paper especially interesting to farmers; but we want to get the farmers in the right frame of mind, by impressing on them that it isn't up to them to deplore a decline in political power, but it is incumbent on them to see that the representatives they send exercise to the full the power which they undoubtedly possess. The farmers of this province can do anything they want to do if determined on it, but if willing to be tools in the hands of others they must take everything that is given them. Why should not be there enough independent farmers in the Ontario Legislature to be at least a brake on the machine?

COBALT COMING TO ITS OWN

Cobalt appears to be coming into its own, after having passed thru the vicissitudes which all great mining camps usually experience. It is quite natural that the exuberance generated by a new and highly important discovery of minerals should engender a buoyancy which displaces caution and good judgment. A reaction, therefore, is inevitable, and for the time being is likely to create as much pessimism as the original movement turned sentiment in the opposite direction.

This is clearly what happened in Cobalt when the Canadian public first became seized of the tremendous values which were promised from this rich silver camp. They flew into ecstasies over each new promotion presented to them, without regard to their capitalization or to the worth of the properties covered by the flotation. It was this condition that admitted of the presence of the manipulator and wildcatter, who foisted on the public in Canada, the United States and Europe, shares which were absolutely valueless, and which, when the truth became known, exerted a depressing influence on the really good properties and shares of this wonderful camp. When it became impossible a year ago to get the people to buy paper shares, the adventurers abandoned the mining district to legitimate owners and practical miners.

During this period good development work has gone on in almost every property of merit. It has shown that even the first apparently inflated estimates of the wealth of this district were by no means overdrawn. A camp which four years ago was practically unknown produced last year in silver and by-products more than six million dollars, and if the shipments since the first of the year are kept up it is quite possible that the output will reach ten millions during 1908. On the basis of the development which has taken place during the last few months, it has become possible in various cases to make a fair estimate of the value of the ore bodies actually in sight, and it is stated that several of the leading properties have already blocked out ore of greater value than their entire capitalizations.

During the early enthusiasm aroused by the wonderful richness of the properties as shown from the surface downwards, dividends were paid almost from the inception of some of the companies. There is no doubt now that mistakes were thus made in distributing the first earnings, for when ore had to be won from a greater depth, much more money was necessarily required for development work than could be immediately obtained from the ores available for shipment. In recommending the payment of dividends, as was done yesterday at the annual meeting of the Silver Queen Company, it is believed that they will be hereafter maintained, and that shareholders in the better companies will be enabled to regard their securities as investments rather than speculations. The outlook has certainly brightened. Ontario should feel proud to possess in Cobalt and the immediately surrounding territory possibilities of mineral wealth of exceptional—it may well be unprecedented—value and extent.

SENATOR ROSS AND SENATE REFORM

Experiences of the political ways and methods of Senator Ross, such as he afforded ample material for amassing during his active provincial career, is a necessary preliminary for correct appreciation of his address to the Canadian Club on Senate Reform.

During his premiership he accustomed the citizens of Ontario to consider him a politician yielding lip-homage to high principles and ideals, but prepared at any moment to weigh them as dust against the retention of place and power. What he has then, as apologist for his administration, he is now as apologist for the ministerial majority of the senate. When our second chamber was of Conservative complexion senate reform was an imperative necessity. Now it is an admirable institution. In that illustration of the cynical maxim that circumstances alter cases the true character and position of the senate in the body politic is sufficiently disclosed.

Needless to say, Senator Ross can't dissent freely and appropriately on the place a second chamber ought to hold in a self-governing state just as he had at command a sheet of commendable platitudes about the duties and responsibilities of a representative government. And he attempts to demonstrate that the senate of today fills that place just as he was always prepared to contend that the government he controlled was obedient to the heavenly vision. So he declared the senate is not partisan; and the senators to be personally independent, the real trouble is that it is partisan and they are not independent. In fact, the senate, by the judicious filling of vacancies, has now become the appanage of the temporarily dominant party. Being that, it is the best possible and reform is to be deprecated. Even the eloquent periods of Senator Ross cannot disguise the exquisite irony of the situation and the contemptuous indifference to the higher political morality.

STRATHROY, April 22.—(Special).—A new Liberal convention, to be called at West Middlesex, where Duncan Ross, M.L.A., was nominated yesterday.

John Elliott's friends claim that the convention was packed, and that Elliott is the popular choice.

Hon. A. J. Matheson is going out of the city today to attend his nominating convention to-morrow.

Political Gossip

Col. A. E. Belcher, mayor of Southampton, has issued a statement announcing that "owing to continued delay in calling convention again, by the advice of friends here and in Toronto, I announce myself a candidate for the legislature in North Bruce, supporting the Whitney government. I am satisfied the convention (if any is called) will endorse me."

"In the past I have been loyal to other candidates, many times sacrificing my own political ambitions to do so. At my age the time has come when I cannot afford to treat lightly the large and enthusiastic support so kindly tendered to me; and think the time is ripe for me to take a stand, which I hope my old and other friends will be generous enough not to attribute to any ulterior motive. I am confident I shall secure what many think is now due to me. So much notoriety has been given to me, not only by the local but by the metropolitan press, that I cannot afford to have my name discredited; nor do I intend to. While there are other deserving men in our party, many of them are young enough to wait."

"I may say that I am heartily in accord with and approve of the course of the government and its policy since its advent to power. For many years I have advocated additional railway facilities, cheaper transportation, development of cheap power, public ownership of public utilities, free rural mail delivery, lightening the burdens of the wage-earning classes, simplifying and cheapening the process of law, issuing of school books by the government and giving them to the people at cost price, the national school—the poor man's university—freeing the farming community with that spirit of fair play which regard to taxation, which would bear more heavily on moneyed corporations, and less on them, giving my whole attention to the duties of office and less to private gain, as I have done as mayor of Southampton."

W. K. McNaught, manager of the American Watch Case Co., and representative of North Toronto in the Ontario Legislature, has taken a very active and prominent part in connection with the proceedings of that body. Among other useful measures he has procured the passage of a law, limiting the weight and stamping of bread. It is regarded as probable that long he will be honored by the offer of a seat. From The Jewelers' Circular, New York, April 15.

The Ottawa Citizen (Con.) says: "To those who are on the inside of affairs in the provincial Liberal party there is a peculiar significance in the fact that, in the public notice of a letter by Joseph McDougall from the field in East Ottawa, comes the announcement that Hon. Richard Harcourt is also to resign. In the public notice also are assigned for this foregoing of political honors, a more substantial reason is said to be dislike of the leadership of Hon. A. R. Borden and resignation of the fact that, under such leadership, the party cause assumes indefinitely the character of a futility."

Approaching Liberal conventions are: South Essex at Kingsville, April 23; Brockville at Brockville, April 23; Hamilton West, April 23; Huron North at Wingham, April 23; Wellington South at Guelph, April 25; Monck at Wellandport, April 27; Sturgeon Falls, April 29; Ottawa East, April 30; Huron North at Woodstock, April 30; Renfrew South at Renfrew, April 30; Prescott at Alfred, May 4; Simcoe West at Creemore, May 4; Huron North at Woodstock, May 6; Huron Centre at Seaforth, May 12.

Sam Charters, the Conservative candidate in the coming campaign for the County of Peel, notwithstanding the fact that the Liberals so far have not nominated a candidate. Already a majority of public meetings have been held and the southern portion of the county well organized. The retirement of the veteran John Smith and the result of the redistribution is said to be disheartening Liberals, although the county has been held by them for 36 years. The name most prominently mentioned for the Liberal nomination is that of James Newlove, an ex-creeper of the Township of Albion and man of considerable municipal experience.

Approaching Conservative conventions are: Brant South at Brantford, April 25; Brockville at Brockville, May 5; Hastings East at Roslin, April 24; Huron North at Wingham, April 23; Harold N. at Carleton Place, April 23; Monck at Wellandport, April 27; Muskoka at Bracebridge, April 25; Norfolk North at Simcoe, April 23; Northumberland East at Warkworth, April 24; Oxford North at Woodstock, April 24; Prince Edward at Picton, April 28; Renfrew South at Renfrew, April 29; Wellington South at Guelph, April 27; Algoma at Blind River, May 13; Elgin West at Alton, April 30; Huron South at Henshaw, May 5; Wellington East at Fergus, April 24; Simcoe South at Beaton, May 7.

Hon. Frank Cochrane has gone to New Ontario on a short campaign tour, the chief object of which is the Temiskaming convention at Cobalt to-day. Hon. Mr. Cochrane will decline to stand in this constituency, but will be nominated in his home constituency of Sudbury. There will be a meeting this evening at Cobalt, as well as a convention in the afternoon. In Huron County a meeting will be held on the following day. Arrangements for which have still to be completed locally. Hon. Mr. Cochrane will return to Toronto at the end of the week.

Hon. Frank Cochrane is accompanied by a secret ballot, R. R. Gamey, W. R. Smyth and J. A. Babin.

NOT HIS SENTIMENTS.

Some One Issues Bogus Election Cards for Mr. O'Leary.

Nominations for the third ward candidacy on the separate school board yesterday resulted in M. J. O'Leary and Rev. Father Whalen taking the field. Eugene O'Keefe proposed and William Dineson seconded the nomination of Father Whalen. Mr. O'Leary's nomination was moved by Joseph Gibbons of 82 Macpherson-avenue, and seconded by W. B. Boyle of 76 Macpherson-avenue.

Mr. O'Leary declared that the words, "vote for freedom," and "no clerical influence," which appeared on some cards issued with his name had not been placed there by his orders, nor did they represent his ideas. "I have just as much respect for the clergy as any other Catholic in Toronto. I ask your support for two reasons—first, because my people have been taxpayers in St. Basil's parish for 55 years, and because they have consistently supported separate schools for that length of time," he said.

Mr. O'Leary declared his sympathies for a secret ballot and Mr. O'Keefe said that "this was the first move to have matters as they were in France to take Christ out of the church."

"I'll just heads and tails you," said Mr. O'Leary to Father Whalen, "to see who is the trustee right now," but Father Whalen said he had more respect for the trustees.

Fined $100 for Pointing Weapon.—Tham Nixon was yesterday fined $100 and costs for pointing a revolver at Robert Plummerfeld. Nixon is an ex-county constable. He has also been placed there by his order. He had only told Plummerfeld "in the name of the King and Queen to cease beating his wife with a poker," but a witness pointed out that he had brandished it.

Henry Block at Rodney Burned.—ST. THOMAS, April 22.—Fire destroyed the Henry Block at Rodney at 3 o'clock this morning. The damage amounted to $10,000.

A SHRINER'S WELCOME.

George Primrose to Be Guest of Local Members of the Order.

George H. Primrose, the famous minstrel, and the pride of London, his native city, is one of the most popular of the theatrical people in the Masonic order. Mr. Primrose is a Shriner of Mecca Temple, New York, and his visit to Toronto next week has awakened interest among a number of the members of Ramesses Temple in this city, who are arranging to give the leading minstrel a reception in keeping with the well-known hospitality of the wearers of the fez. An effort is being made to hold one big night at the Grand, but as there appears to be difficulty in getting the members together for one particular night, the reception will likely take the form of a series of theatre parties during the week.

Fractured a Limb.—John CHATHAM, April 22.—Mrs. John Yeomans, an aged lady, well-known in this district, met with a serious accident this morning at her home on Adelaide-street. She was descending the rear steps of her home when she fell and broke her left leg above the ankle. She remained lying on the ground for some time before her cries for assistance were heard. The unfortunate woman is in a very serious condition.

First Municipal Abattoir.—Guelph will have the first municipally-owned abattoir in the province. At last night's meeting of the council the committee presented its report, recommending the erection of a municipally controlled abattoir, at an estimated cost of $2500.

A competent inspector will be placed in charge, and the abattoir will be placed under the control of the board of health.

WHEN A BY-LAW IS A BY-LAW.

Even if the Copy's Lost, Legislation Holds Good. Chief Justice Mulock yesterday reserved judgment in the application to quash the local option bylaw of the Township of Hensall. The bylaw was finally passed on Jan. 14, 1907.

The total vote cast was 212, of which 140 were for local option, and 72 against. There was a margin of 14 over the required three-fifths vote.

Sir William Mulock attached no importance to the fact that the names of one of the polling booths had been put in the bylaw after it had been voted upon, nor upon the argument that the original bylaw having been lost, the copy was not sufficient upon which to take a valid vote.

"A bylaw is a bylaw whether it is lost or not," he declared. "Do you suppose after its second reading it could not be given a third reading?"

Mr. Mackenzie, however, argued that the Liquor License Act had been amended between the third reading and the judicial court, in the case of the Duncan and Midland, had held that the physical presence of the original bylaw was necessary on the third reading. In the case of the bylaw as in Osgoode Hall at the time.

NECKTIES FROM THE CHORUS. New Wrinkle to Attract Coy Youths to Burlesque Stage. "Oh, won't you come up! "Come up! "Oh, won't you come up! "This chorus, with a necktie proffered by a pretty girl, was the proposition put to the audience at the Star Theatre last night. About 24 girls sang and as many applicants for cheap clothing and a pleasant smile went up. The first coy youth took a pearl-grey suit of clothes to a handsome blonde for a striped waistcoat. The "next gentleman" switched his religion, for he took off a bright orange scarf for a bright red one. One spick and span little fellow couldn't see the way back to the audience at all and headed for the wings, but was rescued and persuaded into the pit—and the laugh.

TAUGHT TO STEAL CHILDREN DECLARE

Little Girls Say Woman Encouraged Them and Took the Proceeds of Their Pillaging.

A female Parin was revealed in the police court yesterday morning, when Clara Cook was arraigned on a charge of receiving stolen goods. She elected to be tried summarily, and it was the evidence of two little girls that brought out the facts that caused an adjournment till to-day to get the evidence of another girl.

The children are Florence Marshall, 10 years old, and her 7-year-old sister, of 12 St. David-street, and Olive Pettigrew, 10, of 83 Regent-street. The girls stole a quantity of goods of every variety from Eaton's and from William Bros., Queen-street. Detective McKinney traced the thefts to the children and their confession implicated Clara Cook.

On April 15 McKinney and Inspector Cuddy went to the corner of Duchess and Jarvis-streets, where the woman lives, and there found Olive Pettigrew and Florence Marshall under a bed. Searching further they discovered a quantity of cloth, trinkets, etc., hidden in various places around the room.

Florence Marshall told her story in the witness box, and all the ingenuity of T. C. Robbette, who is counsel for the prisoner, failed to embarrass her. She said Clara Cook had lived with them about two weeks ago, the woman met her and a younger sister, and Olive Pettigrew on the street and induced them to steal. They did so, and handed the stuff over to the prisoner. When asked if the woman had ever given them any money, she shook her head, but said she had been given a drink, which she was told was pop, but afterwards found to have been beer.

Olive Pettigrew would not talk until her mother went into the box with her, and then she told the same story as the other child.

GOVIN HAS TROUBLES. Too Many Government Men Crowd the Field.

MONTREAL, April 22.—(Special)—Hon. Lomer Gouin is evidently in for some little trouble as soon as the writs issue on account of too many Liberals possessing a real desire to run in the same constituency. The most serious case is that of A. G. Gaudin, expressing the determination to oppose G. Langlois, M.L.A., for St. Louis, one of the most independent and able of the not too able deputations behind the warm prime minister.

Then, again, Gouin is a warm personal friend of the sitting member and cannot but take the stump for him in the division. As a matter of fact, Gouin declares he is a strong supporter of the government, this act will cause no end of trouble to the local powers that be.

Mr. Langlois, if anything, has been a little too advanced for certain people in the province, but he is looked upon as a man who sincerely desires to do something for his race. His speeches, instead of assuring the French-Canadian mind that they are not being ruled by the great masses of the English, have abounded in plain, hard facts, and the stand he has taken in matters concerning the schools of the province have won for the young legislator a great many friends all over the province, which it is gratifying to see has not been reached so high. But if the country should be deprived, by any reactionary element, of his services, public opinion will be behind Mr. Gouin if he sticks to Mr. Langlois.

CHAIRMAN WANTS TIME TO CONSIDER THE LAW. Canadian Northern Application for Power to Expropriate Don Railway Lands.

OTTAWA, April 22.—At his first sitting as chairman, Justice Mabee of the board of railway commissioners heard the application of the Canadian Northern Railway for power to take over some sixteen acres of land along the Don River in Toronto for use as railway yards. This case came before the board in connection with the proposed re-location of the park drive which would be affected by the proposed expropriation of the railway company's land, and the application should be granted, but he himself would like to have an opportunity of considering the legal considerations which are involved before pronouncing upon it.

The present sitting of the board will last three days, and will conclude with a conference with the representatives of the various railway companies and of the railwaymen's unions in reference to uniforms, operating rules, hours of labor for employees, etc.

In connection with the C.N.R. application, H. S. Oslar, K.C., appeared for A. E. Kemp, M.P., and the St. James' Cemetery Corporation, and C. A. Moss appeared for the Police board, urging that the property-owners along the portion of the park drive which would be affected by the proposed re-location of the drive in accordance with the agreement with the city. They contended that the city should be allowed to have a voice in settling the location of the new highway, but apparently the board will be allowed to proceed in its own way without consulting in any way the actual owners of the land affected.

Mr. Ruel, for the C.N.R., stated that if the property-owners could show good cause for locating the new park drive otherwise than as now intended, the board would have a right to so order.

To Fight Scott Act. FREDERICKTON, April 22.—(Special)—To offset the strong campaign in favor of the Scott Act in this city, the Conservative party has engaged W. F. Summerhayes of Toronto to deliver a series of addresses in their behalf. The contest is warm.

Fowler Probable. LONDON, April 22.—(Special)—Harry Fowler is the probable candidate of the Liberals for the legislature.

A Tribute to the Dead

Mr. H. W. Haggarty, who presided at the funeral of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, in British politics for the past forty years. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was not long survived by his resignation, yet that brief period suffices to remove from his death the overpowering political atmosphere which would otherwise have obscured the more personal and intimate tributes that will now have unrestrained utterance. For with retirement from the heat and burden of the day comes the end of public life, and with it the passing from the public eye. When the veteran minister of the prime minister's office died, he left behind him a name which stands for the last time and doffs his battle armor he soon becomes little more than a memory. Sir Henry has not outlived the first flush of sympathy and appreciation that came with his demission of office, nor the gratitude and affection of colleagues and supporters, whose remembrance is still sharpened by actual knowledge of all that he accomplished in the blackest hour of the party fortune. This relieves the poignancy of regret that the evening of his days did not darken more slowly into night.

The late Sir HENRY CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN, a Notable Figure in British Politics for the Past Forty Years. heavy task, but set his hand resolutely to its accomplishment. And it was when, when he faced the problem of reconstructing the rent and given Liberal party that he revealed his reserve of power. Again, these worst moments when the war fever raged furiously in the land, brought to light his moral courage and the strength and tenacity of his character. For the expression of these qualities it matters nothing what the ultimate verdict of history might be regarding the South African imbroglio, Sir Henry was on the unpopular side and did not fear to stand by his convictions.

Peoples of British stock respect a man who does not fear unpopularity, and Sir Henry was no exception in this respect even while they abuse, and they continue to respect when the abuse is forgotten or remembered only to be deplored. That nation is fortunate which produces men of the stamp of the late premier. Posterity may not rank him among the masterminds of his time, nor justify all his policies with which he was immediately associated. But there is another standard by which his greatness may be judged, and that is his high standard of public and personal morals and his unflinching courtesy in the conduct of parliamentary affairs, which will remain a lasting inspiration to his fellow-countrymen and to the British race.

WIFE MURDER THE CHARGE. Trial of Omer Rochette Proceeds at Quebec.

QUEBEC, April 22.—Evidence in the trial of Omer Rochette for the murder of his wife, Marie Plamondon, was taken in the criminal court here this morning before Justice Cross of Montreal, replacing Judge Blanchet, who was taken ill a few days since. The case has aroused profound interest throughout the entire district, and this morning the court room was crowded to its utmost capacity.

Rochette is accused of having administered arsenic to his wife and the evidence elicited at the coroner's inquest showed that doses of poison must have been taken into the system of the deceased in small quantities. The story of Rochette's marriage to a young French-Canadian girl 12 days after his first wife was buried, his subsequent marriage to the present wife, and his return to Quebec has been told.

The only witness heard this morning was Dr. Marois, who conducted the autopsy. He declared that he found sufficient poison in the stomach of the deceased to cause her death. He also found traces of arsenic in the brain and intestines, which went to show that the deadly drug had been absorbed by the deceased for several days at different intervals. He declared emphatically that he attributed the death of Rochette's wife to arsenical poisoning.

Rochette, who is a young man of 28 years of age, is tall and fair, and evinces keen interest in the legal battle which his attorney is making to save his life.

The trial was continued this afternoon. Dr. William Verge gave testimony as to being called on Oct. 26 to visit Mrs. Rochette, who was ill and unable to leave her room, and on Nov. 18, when she died. Dr. Verge told the prisoner at the time that the illness of Mrs. Rochette was probably due to eating canned food, as at that time he had no reason to suspect anything criminal. Mrs. Telephone Rochette, sister-in-law of the prisoner, and his sister, Miss Valda Rochette, were examined this afternoon. Both testimonies were strongly in favor of the accused.

London Convention Called.

LONDON, April 22.—(Special)—The Conservative convention will be held here May 1. "Billy" Gray will make a bid for the nomination against Hon. A. B. Campbell, and it is said that several members of the association are active in the movement to nominate the "minister of power." With Conservatives as a whole in this city the movement is regarded with contempt.

NEGOTIATIONS PROCEED WITH MUTUAL FRIENDS

Coal-Steel Difficulty is "As Open to Settlement as Ever It Was."

Negotiations are continuing between the Dominion Steel Co. and the Dominion Coal Co., according to the statements of the two presidents, J. H. Plummer and James Ross, last night. Mr. Ross and Mr. Plummer did not meet yesterday, however, and have not met for several days. The negotiations are being carried on through third parties, or, as Mr. Plummer put it last night, through mutual friends.

These mutual friends are William Mackenzie, D. B. Mast and Byron E. Walker, president of the Bank of Commerce. Mr. Walker expressed himself yesterday as still hopeful that a settlement without further resort to the courts will be effected.

"The matter is as open to settlement as it ever was," said Mr. Plummer last night.

Mr. Ross refused to make any statement in regard to the progress of the negotiations. During the day he spent several hours at Mr. Mackenzie's office.

No change in the literature course for entrance examinations was recommended.

This report was also adopted. Owing to the lateness of the hour, the reading by Principal E. W. Haggarty of a paper on the graduation of pupils from the public and high schools was postponed.

Applied Design. James P. Haney of the New York department of education contributed a highly interesting address on "Applied Design," illustrated effectively with colored chalk. Mr. Haney showed there was no need of the subject, and his deft sketching frequently drew applause.

Mr. Haney summed up the designer's problem and dilemma as "strength, simplicity and variety." The main object of such training was to give the child sensitive eyes and appreciation of color values.

To Discuss Exams. An interesting discussion was expected to take place this morning with regard to public and high school examinations. Principal E. W. Haggarty was to have presided over the subject last night, but owing to the lateness of the hour debate was postponed. In his paper Mr. Haggarty says the present situation is complicated.

The education department has been quoted as in favor of this or that policy when it is merely giving the way and looking for advice from the teachers. The same principles could be supplied to both sets of schools.

THE TUBERCULOSIS PANIC

By E. S. Turville.

The tuberculosis problem is to-day a live issue, and to those who have aided in making it such much credit is due. But it would seem that public interest in the subject is passing the mark of rational and serious consideration, and is verging on a condition of panic. To quote from Dr. Lawrence F. Flick, medical director of the Philips Institute for the Study, Treatment and Prevention of Tuberculosis, "much unnecessary fear of the contagion of tuberculosis has been stirred up, and the hard-liners of the consumptive poor have increased correspondingly. The public has been thrown into a panic, so that the people turn out to the poor consumptive as a pariah, without regard to what shall become of him." It is true that there are some slight signs that the panic is abating. The provincial secretary of Ontario, in an address at the opening of a sanatorium in that province, stated, in fact, that it had entirely subsided, remarking in support of his statement, that communities were not now objecting to the removal of tuberculosis patients from their midst, as they had formerly done. It would seem to be a question, however, whether the cases cited are the greatest that have yet reached these particular vicinities, or as a matter of fact, in those districts of the province where the work of prevention has been carried on most vigorously, and for the longest time, there seems to be a "unnecessary fear." It is difficult to see how it could be otherwise when one considers the opinions held by large masses of the people, and the loose, unscientific and sensational statements with which popular literature on the subject is so replete. Of course, we must be careful to distinguish between the fear of tuberculosis, which is based upon well-established facts of its contagious nature, and the panic, which appears to have no such foundation for its existence. To an extent, however, which has not been shown elsewhere, the various theories abroad, which have contributed to the panic or have aided in its spread, would form a good deal of space, and would not be rather more amusing than instructive. However, a number of them are important and worthy of the widest consideration, and we cannot afford to ignore them. I would mention: (1) The belief in the bacilli; (2) in its power to lie dormant for years, and in its teachings, still retaining its virulence; (3) in the possibility of out-of-door infection; (4) in the possibility of a patient rapidly spreading the germ of his disease; and (5) in the possibility of a similar infection from a consumptive while in the act of coughing (not expectorating), sneezing, or when using the expositives in speaking. Of course, the onus of proving the truth or falsity of these theories rests entirely with medical science, but this once established the facts should naturally become the property of social science. spray from the patient's mouth, either directly or indirectly. The public health officers of such a community argue quite logically, if a nurse endangers her life by going within five feet of a consumptive in a hospital where he is therefore under medical care and surveillance, much more must we when we sit beside one in a street, car, church, house, store or other place, which they are to hope for, and in crowded streets. It has been argued by some, that if the theories here mentioned are all along the line of caution, they could do no harm and should be accepted, at least until it was shown positively that they were not true. Such a plan is surely open to question, and must at least have limits. For society to accept and act upon all theories that happen to be along the line of caution would in all probability result in much complicated, faulty and unnecessary legislation, having the effect of defeating by its weight, rather than of furthering, the end sought. Furthermore, the theories are capable of serious positive harm. Can it be wondered that persons are frightened away from the great social task of stamping out tuberculosis, if they are thus misled to them the absolute impossibility of such a work? A statement ascribed to Dr. William Osler, to the effect that tuberculosis would be unknown in 25 years, was described by an acquaintance of mine, a layman and a believer in the theories under question, as "an idle dream of a dreamer." Can you blame him? Or should you not rather say that any person who can believe in the theories of out-of-door infection and infection by breath of droplets, and at the same time, hope for the complete extermination of tuberculosis, deserves to be specially complimented on his optimism? So much for the popularity of the theories and for the social importance of learning concerning them, the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Let us now consider some of the popular opinions as to what this really is. It is true that the quotations following are largely from one authority, a German doctor and scientist, Cornelius. But when we consider the standing of this man, in medical science, and the further fact, that in arriving at his conclusions, Cornelius has made a most liberal use of the best medical authorities of the day, such a course seems to be justifiable. Referring to the ubiquity, or widespread existence of the bacilli, Cornelius says: "On theoretical and practical grounds the belief in the virulence of the bacilli is completely disproved. The tubercle bacillus is found, as a rule, only in persons who are uncleanly and who maintain themselves, otherwise it occurs but rarely." On the matter of the life of the germ, the same authority says: "After about six months, even large quantities of expectorated material contain not a single tubercle bacillus further development—the bacilli have died off. It is, therefore, illogical to speak of a place or a dwelling as being infested with the bacilli, or of the years of bacilli." Also, "this experimentally determined maximum of a half year's existence is distinctly and very exceptionally by bacilli dried under ordinary conditions. It has already been shown that tubercle bacilli perish within from a minute to an hour when exposed to direct sunlight and within a few days when exposed to light." Further, he says, "The effect of the bacilli which are cast abroad become lost in the immeasurable expanse of atmosphere." On the next subject, that of the possibility of contagion out-of-doors, the author writes: "I have already quoted has a bearing, especially those parts dealing with the rapidity with which the bacilli are disseminated by direct or indirect light, either direct or diffuse. After describing at length and in detail the effect of the elements, moisture, frost, sunlight, etc., on the bacilli, the author concludes the argument by saying: "It is therefore conceivable that only a minimum proportion of virulent bacilli remains and that a vast quantity scattered thus such an enormous quantity of air that it hardly comes into play; and its inspiration is, in a similar extremely improbable event." In another place, the author in declaring for the absence of virulent bacilli in dust of streets, says: "The assumption is confirmed, as I showed at the time, by the fact that street sweepers who breathe this dust continuously are not affected with tuberculosis." In further support of the argument against out-of-door infection, he quotes from the author of the book mentioned in this article, Dr. Flick, as head of the Henry Phipps Institute, his statements may be allowed weight: "Unhastily it may be said that there is no chance of getting tuberculosis on the street or in the open air." In another place he says: "It is a question whether a consumptive could produce a fertile environment out-of-doors, even in the drying stage of his disease, and within a limited space, and a woman with trailing skirts undoubtedly may pick up tubercular matter from the pavement. The fact that she can pick up such a quantity, however, even if it were all shaken out in a sleeping room, would not produce an environment fertile enough to give implantation." The next theory on the list is that of danger from the ordinary breath of a consumptive. As this theory is not very generally held, it will be sufficient to note the two following quotations from Cornelius: "The air of expiration of the consumptive is sterile and harmless." "The air of expiration contains no bacilli." The next and last theory is one of much importance. It is the question of the possibility of infection by small particles of spray or droplets that might be accidentally thrown off by the consumptive while in the act of coughing, sneezing or speaking. Of course, the theory depends for its support on the absence of tuberculosis in the mouth or nose, except perhaps (?) in the case of extremely heavy coughing by people who have tubercular infection. Treating of the subject, Cornelius says: "Researches upon this subject show that the saliva is either free from the bacilli or contains only a few rare cases and in small numbers." "The best proof that infection by droplets plays a role of no importance is the fact that I have never been able to discover tubercle bacilli on the walls, or otherwise distributed, in the cases of consumptives who were careful with their sputum, in spite of the fact that there was ample opportunity for the dissemination of droplets." Tubercle bacilli were found in the immediate environments of consumptives only when they were careless with their sputum. Cornelius also describes some interesting experiments in this connection. To save space, I shall describe these rather than quote from the author. In experiment I he selected

Says Heinrich, (the maltster); "WHEN I see so many of our men drinking twenty and thirty glasses of R-e-g-a-l Lager every day, it makes me wonder why some people insist that lager beer is an intoxicating drink. Brewery hands look on their lager ration as food,—and what hearty, sturdy, sober men they are as a class! Of course you wouldn't want to drink as much beer as they do,—you don't work a fourth as hard. "But if you would drink two bottles of R-e-g-a-l a day with your meals, you'd find yourself lots better for it,—and you'd know then that this pure, delicious, nourishing drink is no intoxicant. Sanitarium treatment has proven itself to be of much value and afflicted ones would be only too willing to avail themselves of its advantages and glad to carry out the precautions which would make them safe members of society, providing the doing of these things did not carry with it penalties of so grave a character. On this phase of the question, namely, the hardships which the sufferer from this disease are made to endure because of the paucity of the public feeling, it is hardly necessary to comment, for, if society will to her own self be true, it must follow as a matter of course that she cannot then be true to any man.

INDUSTRIAL PEOPLE NEED MANUAL TRAINING

Inspector Haney of New York Declares That the Boy of To-day Should Be Taught to Use His Hands as Well as His Brain

—Proceedings at O. E. A. Convention.

"We are an industrial people. Eight out of every ten of the boys going thru our schools will have to make their livings with their hands. Is it not a crime to twist and bend those boys away from the vocational ends they must pursue? It is to send them to keep books and studies which will do no good to them in the work they have to do. The demands of the commercial world set our present standards of education. The call is now heard from the industrial world for a new method of education."

James P. Haney, inspector of manual training in the New York City schools, was expounding to the Ontario Educational Association, at its annual convention, yesterday afternoon the gospel of manual training. His lecture was illustrated with examples of work done by the children in the New York schools, and brightened by many witty and illustrative stories.

Education, he said, was the effort to relate the child to his environment. The arts were a means to this end. They now realized that the child was not merely a little man, but a changing, living, beautiful being, interested in movement, filled with a desire for expression and with instincts that the school should be endeavoring to cultivate.

Following these instincts of the child they would learn not only the process of education but the value of the process.

Assistant to Three R's.

The advocates of the little red school house, with its three "R's", forgot that the boy and his environment are one. The child got most of his education out of school. He was a social unit, and his activities were not confined to the classroom. He was a social unit, and his activities were not confined to the classroom.

The manual arts were not merely a means to an end, but a means to an end. The manual arts were not merely a means to an end, but a means to an end.

DR. PATTERSON DECLINES. Cooke's Church Unable to Secure Former Pastor.

The congregational meeting held in Cooke's Church last night to moderate a call for pastor, amounted to nothing, owing to the receipt of a letter from the Rev. Dr. William Patterson of Philadelphia, a former pastor, declining the invitation.

It is understood that the meeting last night would have endorsed a call for Mr. Patterson, but that the congregation will have to hear a number of other men to find out which one they would like to have in the pulpit.

Mr. Patterson, however, is not coming, and he is considered his work lay in his present church, Bethany Presbyterian, Philadelphia, that he was getting many new converts and did not want to leave just at present.

AGONIZING PILES CURED BY ZAM-BUK. Mr. F. Astridge, of 8 St. Paul Street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes: "For five years I suffered untold agony with protruding piles. No one knows the suffering one has to endure only those who have been so unfortunate as to have them. The pain was so great at times I would almost scream. I went down in weight and had no appetite. I tried everything I heard of for piles, but got no relief. I went to several doctors, but they would give me little hope of ever getting rid of them, and I finally gave up in despair. One day a friend gave me a sample of Zam-Buk. I bought a box and the piles kept on diminishing and the pain was getting less. I used three boxes and am now completely cured. I wish I could have found Zam-Buk years ago; it would have saved me a great deal of misery. One thousand dollars would be none too small an amount to give for such a cure as mine. I wish I could convince every sufferer of the value of Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, chapped hands, cold sores, itchy humors, eczema, running sores, catarrh, piles, bad legs, abscesses, face sores, spring eruptions, and all skin diseases. It is good also for rheumatism, sciatica, etc., when well rubbed in. Of all druggists and stores, 50c, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

MORNING COUGH, BAD BREATH PROVE CATARRH IS ACTIVE

Act To-day — Prompt Measure May Keep the Germs From Your Lungs.

We have yet to hear of a case of Catarrhal Cough, Bronchitis, or Asthma that failed to yield to Catarrhoxone; its success among the people of many nations has been phenomenal. No remedy could accomplish so much without true merit.

Miss Courtney of Windsor, Ont., says: "I contracted a heavy cold that settled on my lungs and resisted all treatment. After I had tried several doctors here and specialists in Detroit without benefit I went to my druggist, Mr. D'Avignon, and asked him for the best remedy he had for cold on the lungs. He recommended Catarrhoxone, which cured my cold in a week. It brought back my voice, and I have ever since been free from my old trouble. For coughs, colds and lung trouble I am sure that Catarrhoxone is the best remedy. It goes right to the sore spot, gives quick relief and makes a lasting cure." (Signed) M. Courtney.

HORSE SHOW BOXES.

Sale Takes Place This Afternoon.—List of Six Hundred Entries.

The entries for the Canadian Horse show are now all received and there are close on to 600 in all classes, or an average of nine a class. This is a slight reduction from last year, but whatever has been lost in quantity has been more than made up in quality. It was known that there was a scarcity in the horse market of horses of show ring quality. This was due to the fact that owners were not selling due to the fact that many high priced horses were not prepared to sell to the dealers who were asking very high prices. This fact, however, did not deter many gentlemen, with the result that Mr. Langdon Wilks of Galt bought the notable pair in President and Vice President and several Toronto gentlemen made purchases in New York, notably J. D. McMillan, which brought four gold-chestnut pairs that are said to be the finest pair of show horses in the list with 23 gold-chestnut pairs in the list with 23 entries and has some splendid new hunters.

LICENSES OF PEDDLERS HURT BY RESTRICTIONS

BECK GIVES ASSURANCE ON THE COST OF POWER

And They Claim That the Police Commissioners Have Exceeded Their Privileges.

There Will Be No Change in the Figures Quoted — Estimates Allow Safety Margin.

A nice point at law was brought up in the afternoon court yesterday before Magistrate Kingsford, when four Italian street peddlers were charged with selling their wares in the district recently "closed" by the police commissioners. The men hold licenses secured before the order went into effect.

Reginald Byro, their counsel, pointed out that the regulations say that a license shall be granted on the payment of $10, not that it shall be granted subject to the bylaw.

"Streets which cross the car tracks, such as Adelaide-street, for instance, are the most profitable stands for these men, and they have been largely closed to them since the recent enactment, without any compensation, he said, and argued that the men had bought their licenses in good faith and now found themselves out off from their most profitable stand."

"The fact that they paid before the bylaw was passed has nothing to do with the bylaw itself. The board of police commissioners cannot bind its own hands nor the hands of its successors, as my learned friend suggests. If it grants a license to these men it does not follow that it cannot pass regulations restraining or modifying them. There is no limit of time for these licenses; they might just as well be for two years or two hundred years as for one year."

"I am not quite sure, however, that these men cannot get a high court injunction restraining the city from interfering with them in the exercise of their business," said Magistrate Kingsford.

"I have thought of that," said Mr. Byro, "but these men are poor, and the cost of it has prevented the action."

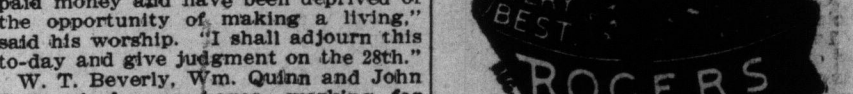

"The most serious phase of the question is the fact that these men have paid money and have been deprived of the opportunity of making a living," said his worship. "I shall adjourn this to-day and give judgment on the 28th."

W. T. Beverly, Wm. Quinn and John Calley had gum-boxes working for them on Sunday and were called to account. They were remanded for sentence.
