CAMBRIDGE WINS GREAT BOAT RACE WITH OXFORD

Sixty-Fifth Rowing Contest Between Crews of Big Universities Witnessed by Enormous Crowd of People—Criticism for Oxford.

PUTNEY, Eng., April 4.—The sixty-fifth boat race between crews of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge took place this afternoon over the ancient course on the Thames from Putney to Mortlake.

CAMBRIDGE WON.

PUTNEY, April 4.—The official time of the race is 19 minutes, 12 seconds. The record is 18 minutes, 41 seconds, established by Oxford in 1883 and equalled by Cambridge in 1900. The time last year was 20 minutes and 26 seconds.

The contest brought out the customary crowds of enthusiasts, and long before the race started the banks of the river were lined with people, who also massed themselves on the bridges spanning the Thames and on the roofs of buildings affording a view of the stream. All sorts of river craft, house-boats, launches and row boats of every description were moored along the banks. The day appeared dark and cold and there was a threat of rain. A northwest wind ruffled the water and promised to make the course difficult. Although the race was not scheduled to start until half past three, people began gathering from all directions as soon as it was daylight.

Cambridge was a strong favorite in the betting which was 4 and 3 to 1 in her favor. Her smartness in getting off in practice leads everyone to expect her to take the lead at the start, and the crew has shown also the best starting powers. Both crews appeared for short practice spins before noon to test their boats. The Cambridge crew is because of its recent secret trial over the course. There was a tremendous stream of profits from the newspaper criticism because of its recent secret trial over the course. There was a tremendous stream of profits from the newspaper criticism because of its recent secret trial over the course.

Each crew was stroked by a veteran, each had a veteran coxswain and two other old men. Cambridge's style as shown in training gave them extraordinary pace for a short distance, while that of Oxford seemed to produce more lift in boat and more pace in the long run.

OBJECTS TO CALLING KAISER ENGLISH

German Newspaper Resents Terms Used by Press of Great Britain.

HAMBURG, April 4.—Commenting on the insinuation "sometimes met with in the British press, that the Kaiser regards himself as half an Englishman," the Hamburg Nachrichten says:

"We have no doubt that the Kaiser, if the question were put to him direct, would deny point blank this absurd insinuation, even though, being the son of an Englishwoman, he may confess to liking Great Britain. The German Emperor has the right and the duty to be German first and all the time; his sympathies must be entirely German, and he must be wrapped up in Germany so completely that no other country appeals to him. One suggesting that the German Kaiser regards himself as half an Englishman insults him no less than the German people. The Kaiser's claim to be half an Englishman is a most unwarranted piece of arrogance. Let them remember at the same time that such insinuations as they are throwing out about the Emperor are not calculated to promote good feeling; that on the contrary, it houses the suspicions of German patriots."

BONI FURIOUS AT SUCCESS OF PHINC

PARIS, April 2.—Count Boni De Castellane, cousin of Prince Helle De Sgan, is represented as being furious at the confirmation of his suspicions that his former-wife, Mme. Gould, intends to marry the prince. The Paris newspapers are having fun over the idea of Mme. Gould's re-entry into the French aristocracy as the Princess de Sgan, "with a reduced fortune of only $60,000 a year," that sum being regarded as prodigious in France. The GH Bias is hilarious over the prince's alleged reply to an insinuation that he was a fortune hunter in that he said, "at my own age a man only marries for love."

GANGS TO FIGHT NELSON.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—Joe Gans and Battling Nelson were matched last night for a fight to take place here sometime in May. Gans agrees to make 123 pounds ring-side. Nelson will fight at catch-weight.

PRINCESS TIRED OF HER LATEST REGRETS HER MARRIAGE TO ITALIAN MUSICIAN

And Will Seek Divorce in the Courts—Author is Her Next Choice—An Unpleasant Incident.

BERLIN, April 4.—Private despatches from Florence state that serious disputes have arisen between Signor Toselli and his wife, who was formerly Countess Montini, the ex-crown princess of Saxony. Mme. Toselli is said to thoroughly regret the marriage, and to be determined to obtain a divorce in order that she may marry the latest object of her affections—a young author.

According to the Berliner Zeitung, the quarrels between the Tosellis began soon after the wedding, and frequently assumed a violent form which developed into serious scandals. Several times Signor Toselli's relations intervened to restore peace between the husband and wife, but the differences between them have steadily grown more and more acute, with the result that it is now understood that a separation will take place shortly, to be followed by a complete divorce.

One of the causes of the matrimonial quarrels was the recent scandal at Warsaw. Almost immediately after his marriage, Signor Toselli signed a contract to give a concert at Warsaw, and the husband and wife, who had been separated by his side on the platform.

Signor Toselli refused to go to Warsaw and when Signor Toselli appeared alone he was loudly hooted and mobbed by the audience. Signor Toselli returned home and unbranded his wife for leaving him in the lurch and exposing him to public insult, as well as serious financial loss for breach of contract.

MONCTON HOTEL MEN UNDER ARREST

MONCTON, April 4.—George McSweeney, proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, and O. S. Legeux were arrested this morning on warrants charging them with Scott Act violation. McSweeney was fined fifty dollars and costs and the other case is being tried. Liquor dealers are being given very little chance at present. Every person arrested for drunkenness is closely questioned as to where the liquor was procured and used as a witness. This was done this morning in the case against the Brunswick when Walter Skilton arrested yesterday for drunkenness, was a principal witness.

HAVE BEACONS UNDER WATER

A Novel and Practical Channel Device

Lights on the Harbor Bed to Show the Way to Mariners—People are Interested

The question of harbor navigation by large vessels at night is a serious one at best. The usual lights designed to guide the vessels are too few and far between, and when they are obscured by fog the task of the pilot is a hopeless one and highly dangerous. Realizing the advantages to commerce of illuminating New York harbor so that it could be navigated at night, the lighthouse department has recently installed a series of buoys along the outer Channel fitted with gas lamps, which serve as lamp posts along the highway of the harbor. The lamps are provided with sufficient gas to keep them burning night and day for a month. They need no attention unless injured by collision with some vessel or by the force of the waves, says the Scientific American.

A new system of illumination has recently been proposed, in which the lamps instead of being placed above water are situated along the bed of the channel, and are arranged to direct their light to the surface, where the outline of the channel may be traced by illuminating the water. By placing the lamps under water they furnish no obstruction to navigation of smaller vessels, which are obliged to follow the deeper channels. They can also be placed low enough to clear the bottoms of the largest vessels as well.

A cable is laid along the channel, preferably on the side of the channel, and at intervals along this cable the lights are attached. These consist of a tubular buoy provided with a lens at the upper end and fitted with an incandescent electric lamp inside, the light of which is focused by the lens in a veritable shaft, which rises to the surface water. The lamps are supplied with current from a dynamo or battery on shore, where they are under the control of an operator. Following the usual custom, one side of the channel will be outlined with light of a different color from the opposite side. These lights could be placed at much more frequent intervals than the usual buoys.

However, experiments conducted by the inventor, Leon Dion, point to the fact that three or even two a mile would be ample in a straight channel. The cables would be securely anchored to the bottom, but the lamps, owing to their flexible connection with the cable, will be free to sway slightly with the motion of the water. The buoyancy of the lamps is merely sufficient to hold the light and not strain the main cable.

CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN IS GETTING BETTER

Prospects for Recovery Brighter Than They Were a Week Ago.

LONDON, April 4.—The prospects for the recovery of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman seem brighter now than a week ago. Convalescence, however, under the best of circumstances, will be very slow. The Prime Minister has now indicated to his colleagues his desire to be relieved of office and a public announcement of his resignation may be expected any day. It is understood that communications on the subject are now passing between London and Biarritz, where King Edward is staying.

KID MCMANUS MAY GO FREE.

MONTRÉAL, April 3.—Unless the French Consul files extradition papers tomorrow Kid McManus will be liberated. The American Express Company which charges McManus with robbing a safe in Paris in 1894, has withdrawn the accusation and though France made a demand for extradition, no further step has been taken. If no papers are filed today the accused will go free.

Irishman Goes Against Priest and Neighbors and Finds Out His Mistake—Fickleness Punished

DUBLIN, April 4.—A little Irishman who jilted a girl and married another in spite of the parish priest is having the worst time of his life at the hands of his neighbors. He lived the notorious Ballynagarragh district of County Leitrim, where a pitched battle took place a few weeks ago between two armies of police and peasants, and for years had been courting the local beauty. A little while ago he transferred his affections to her rival, also of Ballynagarragh.

The jilted girl's relatives did their utmost to prevent the wedding taking place. They were supported by the parish priest, who is a power in Ireland in these matters. He refused the necessary certificate. The young man thereupon went to the bishop of the diocese, but the bishop upheld his priest.

The young man, however, is a person of resource, and told the clergy that he would go and get married in a registry office in the distant town of Enniskillen. Nobody in Ballynagarragh believed that he would fly in the face of the parish priest but he did.

FULL LIBERTY OF SPEECH TO ITS MEMBERS

SAYS CHANCELLOR DAY

NEW YORK, April 3.—Chancellor Day, of Syracuse University addressing the Laymen's Association of the New York Methodist Conference tonight declared that the New York Conference was not so narrow as to hamper or refuse liberty of speech to its members. Dr. Day's remark was called forth by headlines which he quoted from afternoon papers. The conference elected delegates to the general conference today and as usual, in a series of ballots, Dr. Day was not chosen on the first ballot, but was named in the second vote. The first vote only was immediately made public and as a result of confusion, the impression was given to the public that Dr. Day had been defeated.

With Vessels 1000 Feet Long White Star Line Will Eclipse All Previous Attempts at Steamship Building in Next Two Years

NEW YORK, April 4.—It is a rapid race in which we live. So are the new Cunarders that one has not had time to lose wonder over these gigantic liners, to cease to marvel at their immensity of length and tremendous power. It looked as though these 700-foot steamships were to be the last word in marine construction and that their 65,000 horse-power marked the limit of motive strength.

But now, while one is yet marveling at these new marvels, the cables bring announcement that the White Star Steamship Co., has contracted for the construction of a steamship that is to have the amazing length of 1,000 feet, a length of 100 feet greater than that of the Lusitania and 200 feet more than was the length of Brunel's great failure—the Great Eastern.

Such was the word the cables brought the other day, Bruce Ismay, the general manager of the White Star Line, who arrived from England a few days ago, not only confirmed the report, but added still further interest to it by the statement that the company was planning to build not one but two of these giant vessels; to send one down the ways six months after the other had gone overboard, and to place both of these great vessels in the New York-Southampton service.

"These two steamships," said Mr. Ismay, "are intended to be far ahead of anything yet designed. They are to be approximately 1,000 feet in length, perhaps a few feet more or perhaps a few feet less. But if not exactly 1,000 feet it will be but a trifling difference from that figure, one way or the other. That length will make them considerably greater than any other vessel that has been decided upon, but this will naturally be compensated with extra length."

Will Require New Docks. "This is the first time in its history that the White Star line has been able to enter the field of ship construction without a handicap. Hitherto we have been restricted by the limitations of our former home terminal—that of Liverpool; and in planning for new ships it has always been necessary for us to keep in mind the fact that our vessels must be kept within certain limitations. But now that we have moved our terminal to Southampton, that restriction no longer exists, and so, for the first time, we are now able to enter the field without any handicap of our former home terminal. It is true that docking facilities on this side must be considered. The longest piers on the North river, where our vessels now dock, are but 800 feet in length, but we are quite sure that longer ones will be constructed." (Continued on page nine.)

The first vote only was immediately made public and as a result of confusion, the impression was given to the public that Dr. Day had been defeated.

Dr. Day referred to the published stories and said that he found much amusement in the world without violating the Methodist discipline. Dr. Day then formally discussed the topic "The Relation of the Clergy and the Laity." The chancellor said that he was disturbed at times over new fangled movements and the intimation that the church must compromise its in-herent principle of preaching the gospel to all men.

HACKENSCHMIDT QUIT
IN WRESTLING MATCH
WITH FRANK GOTCH

American Champion Won First Fall, and the Russian Gave Him the World's Championship by Default—First Defeat in Russian Lion's Career

DEXTER PAVILION, Chicago, April 3.—George Hackenschmidt quit in his match with Frank Gotch for the catch-as-catch-can wrestling championship of the world tonight giving the title to the Iowa man by default.

Seldom has a sporting event of similar character aroused so much interest in Chicago and the surrounding cities as the big wrestling match to-night between George Hackenschmidt and Frank Gotch. Many persons came from outside places to see the bouts in the great Dexter pavilion at the stock yards.

After more than two hours of unavailing tugging and desperate scrambling the Russian said to Gotch: "I'll give you the match."

Referee Smith at once declared Gotch the winner.

The end came so unexpectedly that the great crowd of 6,000 which witnessed the contest could scarcely comprehend what had happened. Not until the referee had announced that Hackenschmidt had surrendered the championship of the world to Gotch did the full significance of the event strike home. Then the excited men swarmed into the ring, surging about Gotch and shouting their approval. He drove the crowd back through the ropes. The match served to mainly to show that Gotch has a defensive system which is hard to break down.

For an hour and forty-five minutes he eluded every attempt of the Russian to fasten a grip on him. Gotch side-stepped, rounded his man's features with his knuckles, bit him under the chin and generally worsted him, until the foreigner was at a loss how to proceed. But when, in the clinch that finally came, Gotch slammed his opponent down on the mat and came within an ace of getting a toe hold and following this up by lifting Hackenschmidt clear of the mat and throwing him on his shoulder with great force, the European was broken. The lines depended in his face, the hoots of the crowd hurt his feelings and after considering the matter for a few seconds, he decided that it was time to quit. Few of the spectators but were willing to give Gotch full credit for his victory. The Iowa farmer was in the better condition, was quicker and trickier and showed a better knowledge of the game.

First bout—Hackenschmidt crouched and they sparred with Gotch circling around for three minutes. Then Hackenschmidt clinched, but they broke again. Gotch seemed nervous but the champion was cool. After ten minutes of tugging, Gotch started to roughing it and Hackenschmidt kept his temples with difficulty.

Hackenschmidt finally tried for a body grip, but could not reach Gotch. The Russian complained to the referee about Gotch's butting. He missed a leg hold next. A half hour of hauling and sparring failed to satisfy the crowd.

Both missed leg and body holds, Gotch taking the offensive for the first time. One hour after the start nothing approaching a hold had been gained by either man.

Fifty minutes after the bout started, Hackenschmidt slapped Gotch to the mat. The latter bounded to his feet and the pulling and hauling continued. An old cut under Hackenschmidt's left eye was opened and bled profusely. Fifteen minutes more of the tiresome work followed. Then Hackenschmidt suddenly attacked with fury but Gotch wriggled away and the shoulder-to-shoulder tactics began again.

Gotch wins first fall; Hackenschmidt quits.

LOW PARIS THIEVES LIE
IN WAIT FOR AMERICANS

Systematic Blackmailing Carried on—The Story of a Jealous Blind Man Who Killed His Faithless Wife.

PARIS, April 3.—Paris is honored by the presence of gangs of "confidence" fellows, who devote their attention principally to Americans on a visit here. Speaking on the subject to an interviewer, the American Consul-General in Paris said that ever since the 1900 International Exhibition Americans had been victimized by swindlers in the French capital to a greater extent than other foreign visitors. One reason, he believed, was that Americans do not care for it to be known that they have been robbed, and above all do not wish to return from America to France to appear as witnesses against the thieves. The latter, in his opinion, can escape too easily to London, and he noted the fact that in a recent important robbery the men were known to have been in London the following morning. Another method by which Americans, as well as other foreigners, are frequently victimized in this certain disreputable guides in Paris do a thriving blackmail business by taking people to rather improper places and then threatening to expose their movements to their families at home, or, of course, with regard to the blackmail business, it may be said, when it succeeds merely to illustrate the truth of the saying that "fools and their money are soon parted." Many of the so-called guides, however, are positively dangerous characters, and foreigners when they require the services of one would do well to apply to the manager of their hotel instead of accepting the offers that may be made them in the street.

Another wealthy American was robbed this week under very queer circumstances. He was strolling along the boulevard, when a trim-looking individual went up to him, saying, "You are an American, is that right?" "You are an American, I do not speak French, so can you tell me the way to the Rue Talbot?" "I am so pleased to meet a fellow-countryman in Paris," the stranger informed was being given, when another well-dressed man appeared. He let fall his pocket-book, which the rich American picked up and handed to him, whereupon he exclaimed, "You have done me a great service. I am an American, as you are, judging from your accent. You see that my pocket-book is crammed with banknotes. I have also some precious stones. Allow me to offer you this ruby, it is worth $5,000." The gift was declining, and then the man said, "At any rate, you will come into this safe with me?" The trio entered a small shop, where they were refreshing themselves, the individual who had let his pocket-book drop asked the American to take one of the new United States banknotes. The American had scarcely produced his pocket-book, which he had matched it from his grasp and bolted out of the safe, followed by the other individual, who carried out that he must catch the thief, but he never returned. The snatcher of the pocket-book is said to be a notorious English pick-pocket.

What is probably one of the strangest cases in criminal annals has just come before the Assize Court of Douai, the accused being a blind man who, in a fit of jealousy, shot his wife and then tried to commit suicide. The man has been found from insanity, and was brought up in a public institution, where his ability as a musician was early recognized, and he became an expert pianist. In time he obtained an appointment at a cafe-concert at Dunkirk, at a fair salary, and constituted quite an attraction. A young woman who happened to be engaged in the same establishment about a year ago took his fancy, and he fell in love with her, blind as he was, and shortly afterwards married her. The young woman, however, does not seem to have been so devoted to him as he was to her, and while he was at the cafe-concert, which was for the greater part of the evening, she used to visit her former friends. One evening a person pretending to be a friend whispered into the blind man's ear that his wife was deceiving him, and that if he wished to be sure of it he had only to go to his room and find her out. Mad with jealousy, the blind man rushed home, and, in fact, his wife did not return till a late hour, when a heated discussion ensued. On the following day the blind man bought a revolver. His wife again remained out till a late hour, and when she returned her husband, after a few angry words with her, fired five revolver shots at her and then tried to kill himself by firing the sixth shot at himself. The woman was most instantly killed. Her husband, however, having succeeded only in wounding himself in the chest, flung out the door and continued his going, and he was taken to a hospital, and after he had recovered was remanded for trial. In view of the facts, considered it a "crime passionnal" and rendered a verdict of not guilty, whereupon the blind man was acquitted.

OF ILLEGAL OPERATION
Cause of Her Death Revealed by Autopsy at Hospital Where She Died—The Three Days Preceding Her Death Were Spent at Rooms of a Man Named Rudd, on Pond Street—Coroner Will Investigate.

Attracted by the glamor of city life, Abbie Appleby, a Kent County girl, came to St. John several months ago, only to be led into evil ways and finally to die, the victim of an illegal operation.

The cause of the girl's death was revealed by a post mortem examination at the General Public Hospital, where she died this week, after having been removed from a house on Pond street, where for three days she had been cared for by William Rudd, a young carpenter, who had known her for some time.

As the girl made no ante-mortem statement, it will be difficult to secure evidence against those responsible for death, but no effort will be spared in that direction.

For a time the girl was employed at Clark's Hotel on King Square, and while there she was inclined to be somewhat wayward, and lost her position for that cause. She afterwards worked at several other places in the city, and became acquainted with the real young man, among whom was William Rudd, a carpenter, who occupied rooms with a friend on Pond street.

On Sunday a man calling himself an uncle of the girl called at the hotel, and later William Rudd asked to see her, but was refused. However, on Monday she met Rudd and went to his rooms on Pond street, where she remained for three days. On Wednesday she suffered so severely that Rudd called in Dr. Douglas, a lady physician.

Dr. Douglas, after her arrival, decided to have her sent to the hospital, where she was taken in the ambulance about an hour later.

The suffering girl did not reveal her true condition to Dr. Douglas and shortly after arriving at the hospital, she died.

Wm. Rudd was located last night by a Sun reporter, and learned from him that he had first met the girl some months ago. He said he took her to his rooms on Monday because she had one one to care for her. He kept her there for three days, and finally on Wednesday she seemed to be so sick that he sent for Dr. Douglas.

Rudd is no relation to the girl and the same day that she was removed to the hospital, he moved away from the house on Pond street, giving as a reason for his action that the rent was too high.

Dr. Douglas refused to say anything regarding the case, but considered it a disgrace that the societies in St. John whose object is to protect women, should be doing so little and allowing cases like this to occur daily.

Coroner Berryman said he would investigate the case, but declined to say what information was in his possession.

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART.
MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE.

There is no one, we imagine, sets about deliberately to injure to the heart, yet in the excitement and excess of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of one means disease and disorder of the other.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhyme, your nerves unstrung, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

Mrs. John C. Yesson, Little Rock, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with a stab-like pain through my heart. I tried many remedies but they seemed to do me no more harm than good. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I was completely cured. I cannot praise them enough for the world of good they did me for I believe they saved my life."

Price 50 cents per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Canada's Youngest Prima Donna at Princess

May Alcorn, the youngest prima donna in Canada, has been engaged by the management of the Princess Theatre to sing at the special children's matinee this afternoon. Miss Alcorn is only five years of age and has made a hit at all the amateur shows, taking four firsts out of five amateur performances she has sung at so far. Mr. Sayce, the Princess' excellent baritone, is singing one of the latest illustrated song hits of the United States, namely, "Sweetheart Days."

Seaside Pictures at the Nickel

Saturday afternoon is children's day at the Nickel, and the very clever "Fairy Story Picture." The Genie of Fire, will please immensely.

The management has planned to make this feature a special one, and have also selected a catchy march song for the little ones. Grow-ups too enjoy these brief trips back into the childhood of memory. The matron is always in attendance to give that personal attention that the children desire. This feature alone has won many friends for the last time the funny Bear picture, "A Good Joke," and it's a corker. Also, "Captain Kidd," a novel comedy, that has caused the "blues" to give the Nickel patrons a wide berth.

Thomas had been asked to leave the hotel grill room. Mr. Regan turned the papers over to his counsel. Later he said that he did not look at them long enough to find out just why Mrs. Thaw was suing him, whether it were for being put out of the hotel or because he had said he put her out. She has denied having been there. Mrs. Thaw's complaint will be filed in the Supreme Court tomorrow.

Conservatives Oppose New Steamship Service Between France and Canada and Demand That Treaty Reductions Shall Not be Confined to Canadian Ports

OTTAWA, April 3.—In the Commons today, Sir Wilfrid Laurier replying to Mr. Borden, said he had received a letter from Mr. Justice Casseils, in which in substance that gentleman said he would consent to act as royal commissioner in respect to charges made by the civil service commission as to the Marine and Fisheries Department officials on two conditions. These were that no extra remuneration should be given him, and secondly, that the work should not be allowed to interfere with his duties as judge of the Exchequer court.

The prime minister said he would bring down the correspondence on Monday next.

Mr. Borden then moved the adjournment of the house for the purpose of discussing the following: "The urgent and public importance of having printed copies of the report of the royal commission on the civil service members of this house and the still greater importance of effective action by the government and parliament to redress the defects and abuses disclosed by that report."

Mr. Borden's Inconsistency

Sir Wilfrid Laurier pointed out that when some time ago Mr. MacLean of Lunenburg proposed a new rule requiring that at least two days notice be given of matters that were not on formal, and like this, would involve discussion, Mr. Borden had stated that it was not necessary, it was sufficient to rely upon courtesy extended by one side to another. The leader of the opposition had not lived up to his own rule, said the Prime Minister, amid Liberal cheers. He had not the slightest intimation that Borden had intended to bring up such a motion, otherwise, too, might have had opportunity to look up authorities. With regard to the printing of the report he did not think Borden's remarks to the point. The report had been sent to the King's printer without loss of time. The articles forming part of it were most voluminous, and it was these no doubt that had caused the delay, which had not been of great moment. On the question raised by the leader of the opposition as to the responsibility of the administration of the things referred to in the commission's report, he pointed out that the desire to ascertain the true conditions, so that they might be dealt with, was the very reason for the appointment of the commission. If he understood his hon. friend aright that gentleman laid down the principle that the government was responsible for everything that took place. Would his honorable friend seriously contend that this was to be applied where the government took action to stop abuses and correct them? The limit and extent of responsibility of a government was to see that the business of the country was properly discharged. Did it follow that if an official or a minister failed to do their duty or were delinquent in regard to it that the government was to be condemned absolutely and collectively for their failure?

The government would be responsible if when they know or were informed of wrong doing or delinquencies they failed to take the necessary steps to correct them.

As an example in 191—and he was sorry to have to bring up the matter—was not an officer or a Deputy Minister, but a member of the floor of the House by a member of being guilty of certain delinquencies. To that extent the government was responsible, and the discharge of their duty was when they dealt with that matter and the government was forced out of the government. If that man had been defended by the government, then the whole government would have been responsible as the Minister himself, but the public duty of the government was discharged the moment it was shown that he was no longer a member of the government. This was laid down too, he noted, in England in a case dealt with in the House of Commons in 1881 by Sir Charles Wood.

A Proper Course

The Prime Minister said the government was, as in the cases he had cited, adopting a very proper course in dealing with the charges made by the commission against the Marine and Fisheries Department officials with giving any names. He quoted from a speech by Foster, delivered in the House last week in support of his view of the correctness of the government's attitude.

The commission, he continued, had complained of two things—the efficiency and honesty of the officials. The former it was the duty of the minister of the department to deal with, but the question of dishonesty and lack of conscience which had been alleged was one on which another investigation should be taken and that was what the government had decided on.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said in dealing with the argument that the civil service commission should be entrusted with the further investigation, that the members of that commission had by their acts said this was had. Their powers were not exhausted until they made their report. They might have gone beyond the point at which after many months' work they had stopped, but they chose to stop where they did and make their report, thus practically saying they did not want to investigate the matter further. It had, therefore, not seemed fair, or just, or equitable, or advisable that they should be asked to go beyond where they had selected for themselves to stop. That was why Mr. Justice Casseils had been selected and he was glad that Mr. Borden agreed with the government as to the wisdom of that selection. They would have from him a measure of investigation that would give to the country the true conditions of affairs without fear or favor and that was what the government was looking for when they appointed the commission.

"It does not matter to us," he concluded, "upon whom the blow may fall. But in the discharge of the duty which we owe to the people of this country we want the whole truth. We will have the whole truth and nothing but the truth." (Loud and prolonged Liberal cheers.)

Hon. Mr. Haggart supported views of Mr. Borden and the latter briefly replied to the Premier, maintaining the correctness of his attitude.

Trade With France

Mr. Brodeur moved the following resolution: That it is expedient to authorize the governor-in-council to enter into a contract for a term not exceeding five years with any individual or company, for the performance of a steamship service between a port or ports in Canada and a French port or ports, on such terms and conditions as the governor-in-council deems expedient and to grant therefor a subsidy based upon a minimum service of eighteen round voyages a year and an amount not exceeding one hundred thousand dollars, and so in proportion for a more frequent service.

Mr. Brodeur explained that the object of the resolution was to improve and extend the steamship service existing between France and Canada. The contract with the Allan Company, which entered into in 1902, had practically expired and a new service was particularly desirable in view of the French treaty. If they did not maintain a direct steamship service between Canada and France they would lose the benefit in many cases of the French minimum tariff and be obliged to pay a surtax. He had found that most of the goods exported to Canada from France had been shipped via the United States. The resolution was based on a service of 18 round trips at $5,555.50 each, but the subsidy might be increased, and the intention was to increase it to $200,000 if the requirements of trade demanded it.

Mr. Henderson thought that, seeing France was not to contribute anything to the subsidy, the ministers should have insisted upon Canadian goods, whether they went via England or any other way, being relieved of surtax.

Mr. Brodeur said that Canada was obtaining the same advantages as the other countries. Vessels might call at English ports, but if the goods were transferred to other vessels the surtax d'entrepot would have to be paid.

Mr. Monk complained that the ministers had not asked France to concede the benefits of the minimum tariff on all goods or to contribute to a subsidy.

Dr. Sproule thought the time covered by the contract was too long and doubted whether the service would be a paying proposition.

Mr. Monk moved that there be added to the resolution the words "provided that the freight rates on all goods shipped to and from France shall be subject to the control of the governor-in-council."

Capital Eagerly Seeking Investment Here

Hays Easily Floated $15,000,000 G. T. P. Bond Issue

MONTREAL, April 3.—Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific, returned from England this morning after having successfully floated the new $15,000,000 bond issue of the road on the British market. He is most optimistic over the opportunities Canadian securities are bound to have in the old country, and says that although there is not the same avidity for investment as there was six months ago, still Canadian offerings are considered amongst the good things, and that it is not exactly for the want of cash that trading is quiet, but more from the fact that so many golden chances are springing up after the cold and stormy financial winter that it is hard to choose the best ones.

"I am pleased to tell you for one thing," said Mr. Hays, "that the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific are on top in the English market, and that Canadian things all stand well with the public. They are getting to know more and more about Canada, and the more they know the more enthusiastic they become. Let me bring a man with money, an investor, over here. That is all I want. I am ready to guarantee that the trip over and what he sees here will send him home a converted enthusiast. Publicity and knowledge are going a great deal of good for Canada."

MONDAY WILL BE LAST PRIVATE MEMBERS' DAY

Government Orders Have Precedence From This On

OTTAWA, April 3.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier has given notice that on Tuesday next he will move that government orders have precedence on Mondays. This means that Monday next will be the last private members' day and government measures will have precedence from now till the end of the session.

There are a considerable number of resolutions by private members still on the order paper, but all of the more important ones have already been discussed to some extent, and the fact that they will not have an opportunity to come up again this session will not have a regrettable effect on the country. Included among them are Mr. Miller's and Mr. Lewis' senate reform resolutions, Mr. Knowles' resolution approving of the government construction of the Hudson's Bay Railway, Mr. Macdonnell's resolution for a royal commission on the Canadian merchant marine, Mr. Lewis' resolution providing for an export duty on pulpwood, Mr. MacLean's railway act amendments, Mr. Emmerson's resolution for the extension of the Intercolonial railway to Georgian Bay, Mr. Guthrie's resolution for a commission of inquiry to investigate the needs of Canada in respect to technical education and Mr. Blain's anti-cigarette resolution.

The house has now been in session four months and little could be gained by allowing further latitude to private members to debate resolutions from which no legislation may be expected this session.

A MEDICINE FOR SPRING

Do Not Dose With Purgatives; A Tonic is All People Need

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That's the way most people feel in the Spring. Easy tired, appetite variable, sometimes headaches, and a feeling of depression. Perhaps some serious eruptions appear, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order; that the in-door life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble. Don't dose yourself as many people foolishly do with purgatives in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. What you need in spring is a tonic medicine that will make new, rich blood, build up the weakened nerves, and thus give you new health and strength. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the one medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich, red blood, strengthens the appetite, clears the skin, and makes tired, depressed men and women bright, active and strong. Mr. Henry Higgins, Ottawa, Ont., says: "I don't think there is anything equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for nervousness, indigestion and a run down condition. I was a great sufferer from these troubles. I tried several remedies, but that it is not exactly for the want of cash that trading is quiet, but more from the fact that so many golden chances are springing up after the cold and stormy financial winter that it is hard to choose the best ones."

Government Now Demands Compensation From the Republic—An Amazing Story of Tyranny.

LONDON April 3.—The British government is demanding compensation from the negro Republic of Liberia for the deaths of two Englishmen who it alleges were slowly poisoned by prominent Liberians at Cape Palmas one of the principal ports of the West African Republic. Evidence now in the possession of the Foreign Office thoroughly justifies these serious charges, and reveals an amazing story of systematic persecution and tyranny at the hands of negroes who live under this so-called "model" black Republic.

NOVELTIES TO BE SEEN IN THE PARISIAN SUITS FOR SPRING

DESIGNS IN SUITS THAT WILL FIND FAVOR

THE models of the suits for spring wear show that the bolero, popular last year, has had to give way before the all-conquering three-quarter coat. In fact, the fashion of the time seems to lean toward a straightness of line, a simplicity in contour, except at the neck, where the jabot is placed to balance the effect.

Hats are smaller and more piquant. The plain, unbroken line of the basin has been displaced by the smart little twist to one side and the straight military trimming of aigrette and quill.

THERE is something most appropriate about a three-quarter coat and a walking skirt. Short coats look somehow out of place and a long coat seems only suitable for stormy or wintry weather.

Cashmere cloth in soft shades of brown is the most popular material for French suits, and they are prettier when finished with buttons and braid of the same color.

Trimmings for Spring Gowns

FILET net is, without doubt, the material most used in the making of waists and costumes for the coming season, for it is combined with Valenciennes or Irish, or sometimes is heavily braided with narrow soutache.

A Summery Hat for a Little Girl A CHILD'S hat for spring was of a pink tuscany straw of a quaint bonnet shape and bent into a scallop in front, each side of the brim showing a tiny cluster of pink flowers.

MATERIALS FOR HOUSE WEAR

NEW spring dresses are all modes that require lightness of material, and therefore nothing could be better than voile, which, as ever, holds sway, and never was it so bewitchingly beautiful as at present.

There are also the mercerized cotton voiles, dainty and cool, with enough sheen to make them appropriate for dress occasions, and Jacquards, with brocaded self-toned flowers in the ground, while the broad lavender is lightened with pink dots of white.

brodered flairs in black and white on a pastel ground. The silk mousselines are especially attractive this year with a bewildering variety of new patterns, while those with hollow rings in black and heavy coin dots in colors on a white ground are fascinating.

Instead of being sold in double width, they are now made single width, so that one veil cannot by any stretching of imagination serve for two, but this is, of course, brought about by the fact that so many of the new veils have fancy borders, and even yet impossible to cut them in half.

in such variety, and this year there are to tempt our pocketbooks marvelous combinations and effects in this familiar material. Those with sprays of Dresden colored peonies thrown here and there on a white or colored ground are exquisite and are formidable rivals of the favorite dot. Then there are many attractive designs in bordure effects.

A silk, especially beautiful in a dark, peculiar blue, while a trosselline was shown that was fairly startling in the beauty of its coloring, known by the technical name of serponin. The new foulards are newer in weave than design, as the usual rings, dots and geometric ornamentations have a ground that is crossed with stripes.

Shoes and Stockings for Jaunty Costumes

THIS spring we have at our disposal the styles of all the seasons in shoes and stockings. Oxford, pumps, colonial ties, three eyelet shoes, and white-all are foremost as a popular choice for spring wear, but in all these shoes the toe are quite pointed, even as pointed as they were a good many years ago, when this characteristic became so exaggerated that the pendulum of compensation swung back to square-toed boots.

SOME of the new styles are being lined with soft crepe de chine, and are worn without any redoubtable whatever. The unusual shape at the foot, which was heralded as the coming fashion, is quite unpopular, and the skirt, if anything, curve inward at the foot line.

Gowns for the Elderly Woman

ONE are the days when matrons must array themselves in sober blacks and sad grays, or, at the grimmest, lavender, after the arrival of the first grandchild. Now those who are passing through the chrysalis of the passed thirties know that it is only for a little while, only a few years until time silvers duncolored locks and turns the wisp-over-crow's-foot and wrinkles into the "character lines" and "patience furrows" of age.

At a recent social gathering was a dear old lady, and her gown was the daintiest and most appropriate of the many there congregated. It was of dark magenta messaline, lustrous and soft, and throwing on her kind, sweet face almost the soft flush of youth. The bodice was draped from shoulder to waist and finished with a narrow piping of velvet of the same shade.

Angel Sleeves Again

EVENING gowns are delightfully things of especial beauty. They are almost invariably of thinnest material and are arranged in such a manner that they permit the whole arm to be seen, even while they protect it. The draperies of chiffon, tulle or other transparent materials falling low under the arm they own right up to the shoulder, although sometimes they are light chaps or knot of velvet. Women with thin arms will find sleeves of this kind most flattering, as the soft angular outlines and show a lovely shadow on a yellow skin.

TWO OCEAN MONSTERS FOR ATLANTIC TRAFFIC

Mr. Ismay would not commit himself to any further statement about New York plans but since his company has definitely planned to bring out two 1,000-foot ships with the intention of putting them in the New York service it is fair to assume that the White Star Line has received definite assurance that the city will have suitable piers ready when the ships make their first appearance here in the spring of 1911.

"What new or unusual features will these new vessels have?" Mr. Ismay was asked. "I may not tell you that," he replied, "for if I did all of our competitors will know, but I will repeat what I just said—that they will be far ahead of anything that has yet been projected."

But there were some features which Mr. Ismay felt free to discuss. The new Cunarders, as all the world knows, are fitted with turbine engines. Mr. Ismay said that the new White Star vessels would be equipped with both turbine and reciprocating engines. They will operate triple screws, the two main screws being propelled by engines of the reciprocating type, the central one being driven by a turbine.

Will Not Try for Speed.

"The company already has under construction two other vessels whose motive power is of this combination type. But these are very much smaller. They are the Alberta and the Albany, which are now under construction in the Belfast yards of Harland & Wolff. These two are to be placed in the Canadian service of the company in the coming spring, but they are relatively small size, this displacement being only 14,000 tons. The new ships will probably displace about 20,000.

"Extraordinary speed," Mr. Ismay continued, "will not be sought for in these larger vessels. About 20 knots an hour, I should say, will be their goal. We have some very good reasons for not fitting them up with engines and coal bunkers. There is always a certain percentage of people who are always in a hurry, but we do not believe that percentage is large, nor is there any reason to believe that it is considerably increasing. To the ordinary voyager a day more or less is not a matter of extreme importance but two or three additional knots an hour is a matter of extreme importance to the operating company. That the vast majority of ocean travelers are not insistent on high speed seems to be proved by the popularity of such vessels as the American of the Hamburg-American line, and our own Adriatic."

The two vessels which Mr. Ismay had selected as an example have no pretensions to extraordinary speed, but it is a well-known fact that these two and the type which they represent are exceedingly popular with the traveling public. The patrons of this class know of the many features which by the sacrifice of a knot or two of speed it was found possible to install in them. One therefore wonders about the many unknown features which the White Star company can place in these tremendous big vessels of a relatively slow speed. Elevators are already a familiar feature. Will these roomy new leviathans have trolleys or moving sidewalks to carry passengers up and down their far-reaching decks? Will they have theatres and shopping arcades? When the low reaches port will it be necessary to telephone the fact to the other end? Where, anyhow, is this era by era increase in the size of ships to end? In a comparison that was outlined in the first of our interesting calculations were made. These showed that the increase in steamship dimensions should be maintained for the next hundred years at the same ratio that they increased from 1857 to 1907. The ship launched at the end of the next century would have a speed of 6,327 knots a day and would be able to cross from New York to England in about 13 hours. The vessel would be nearly a mile in length and would have accommodations for 32,000 passengers.

History of the Company.

The original flag of the White Star line was taken over in 1867 by the late Mr. T. H. Ismay and who then proceeded to found the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, later known as the White Star Line. The first vessel that was sent afloat was the Oceanic, of 3,800 tons and a length over all of 430 feet. This was but 40 years ago. The two new vessels which the company has not contracted for, might almost host two of these first Oceanics on board, yet they were considered very superior vessels in their time. Following them came a fleet of steamers, and in 1878 the line led all others in speed. The Britannic was followed by the Germanic of the same size, and which succeeded in attracting considerable attention by her performance in crossing the Atlantic in a little under eight days. Later on the Teutonic and the Majestic were placed in the transatlantic service, these being vessels of 10,000 tons. Since then events moved rapidly in the affairs of the White Star line. The company now owns nearly a half hundred steamers, 27 of which are of the twin-screw type. But although this aggregation constitutes one of the largest merchant fleets afloat, the line has many other features which attract attention. One of these is the fact that the average tonnage per steamer is greater than that of any other company. Nor is this superiority to be attributed to the possession of that fleet of titanic craft represented by the Baltic, the Celtic, the Cedric and the Oceanic, but to the fact that among the steamships owned by the White Star there are, in addition to these, no less than eighteen vessels, each having more than 10,000 tons register.

"SPRING FEVER" The need of a spring medicine seems to be universal. This is due to the fact that during the winter the blood becomes impure on account of the hearty food eaten. This causes that tired, weary, all-gone, don't-care-to-work feeling which is so prevalent at this time of year.

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. THAT TIRED FEELING. USES IT EVERY SPRING. "SPRING MEDICINE"

THAT TIRED FEELING. Mr. F. H. Leard, Saskatoon, Sask., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters as a blood purifier and think it an excellent remedy. Everyone should take it in the spring to cure that tired feeling that comes to so many at this time of year."

GENERAL DELAERE FORESEES A UNITED DUTCH AFRICA. An Extraordinary Speech Dealing With the Success of the Boers—Automobile Figured in Highway Robbery.

CAPE TOWN, April 3.—On the occasion of the unveiling of a monument to fallen Boers at Burgersdorp, an extraordinary speech was made by General Delaere. There was a great gathering, composed almost entirely of Dutch birth, many of whom lost limbs in the late war, their relatives having gone into rebellion against Colonial and Imperial Governments. General Delaere, whose words were listened to with the utmost keenness, told the gathering that by the late war the Afrikaner people had become "more than conquerors." The war had consolidated them (meaning the Boers of all the Colonies) into one band of brothers, who would never be deprived of South Africa. Like the word "Huguenot," the term "rebel" had once been one of contempt, but now it was an honorable designation. Continuing, the speaker hinted that the victory of the Bond party in the Legislative Council elections was the commencement of a great struggle. For a hundred years their kinsmen in the Cape remained loyal to the British Government, but when the war broke out they helped the burghers of the two late Republics, a fact that never must be forgotten. Blood was thicker than water. The Cape rebels who helped the two Republics by throwing in their lot with the burghers of the North did that which was noble and honorable. General Delaere, who had also come down from the Transvaal, asked the people to remember how America won her freedom. He reminded them of Malibala in 1831, and counselled them not to forget the late war. Muller described the monument as "a beacon of blood," and urged the people to teach their children the lesson conveyed by the heroes whose names were inscribed on it.

"De Transvaal," published in Johannesburg gives one cause of discontent in that the Dutchman finds his language practically taxed. Documents such as wills, powers of attorney, etc., drawn up in Dutch, have to be translated into English for the convenience of English officials, but at the expense of the Dutchman. In the Courts of Law the Dutchman has to depend on the interpreter who very often puts a wrong construction on the actual tenor of words and expressions. English trouble is caused by the language of the one being unknown or ignored by that of the other, and as a rule it is not the Englishman but the Dutchman whose taxed bill of costs is the heavier. In the schools English gets the preference, Dutch being a mere matter of choice. So English is forced down the throat of the Dutchman in a country where there are said to be "equal rights."

Speaking at a Eet Volk, Mr. Jacob de Villiers, Minister of Mines, outlined the new Transvaal Gold Law and criticized severely the increasing tendency of amalgamate companies. At present, he said, it was proposed to amalgamate fifteen into five. He hinted that some of the amalgamations were rotten concerns which would depreciate shares and shake the confidence of the European investor. When the government came to legislate, the whole position of the companies would be placed before the world. Open prospecting would not be provided for, but the Government would open all crown lands. The Land Owners' Association had expressed its willingness to do the same, but private rights would not be interfered with.

The motor-car as an adjunct to robbery seems to have made its appearance in the Transvaal almost as soon as in England. Two officials of the Witwatersrand Mine, S. G. Foster and Herbert Allen, recently left the office in an open cab for Germiston Station, with gold to the value of $20,000, derived from the mid-monthly smelting, which it was intended to take to Johannesburg. Passing the left shaft they saw a motor-car standing in the road ahead of them and as they came nearer the car was drawn across the road and the two occupants delivered a couple of revolver shots at the cap, with the summons, "Hands up!" Instead of obeying the summons, the driver whipped up his horse, and Mr. Allen quickly returned the revolver fire, hitting one of the robbers in the abdomen, and putting a stop to further molestation. As the cab continued its journey the wounded man staggered back to the car, from which he was thrown, and the machinery was set in motion; but, unfortunately for the prospects of escape the revolver bullet had found its mark. By this time the noise and the machinery was set in motion; but, unfortunately for the prospects of escape the revolver bullet had found its mark. A few months ago the branch of the National Bank at Langhorne, "holdup" by armed robbers shortly before closing time and $8,000 abstracted from the tills. Since then three men have been known to the police as the robbers and the police have now discovered the man who planned the robbery. He was identified as George Rasor, living with his wife and children at Troyville, died in Bokorburg hospital on the following day.

Collingwood plied his brains against the entire detective force, and for a time more than held his own. It was part of his method to keep in touch with police, and he was a frequent visitor at the police stations, whether he went on the most flimsy pretext, or the last acting chief of criminal investigation department, Mr. Mayrood, discovered the identity of his clever opponent, and after many attempts, brought home to him a serious crime, for which Collingwood was sentenced at Pretoria in January, 1907, to twelve years' imprisonment, with hard labor, for culpable homicide. The crime was committed in the course of a robbery which he had planned, which he found it necessary to get rid of a native "tool" who knew too much. At the same time Albert Manners received a similar sentence. Manners, though not of the same calibre as Collingwood, was a dangerous man, of the "Bill Sikes" class, whose convictions began at Birmingham, in 1896. In common with many of his class he drifted to South Africa in one of the contingents during the war, and at the close of hostilities returned to his old career of crime. After Collingwood's removal from the active list, Kirby appears to have assumed command of the operations of the gang, and he has not succeeded in getting the implicit trust of his followers. Horsey and Burke were three men actively concerned in the attack on the Louisa bank—were "tools" of Collingwood, and when their master had taken them they lost their confidence. Kirby's downfall, following the capture and sentence of those three is the last act in the operations of a gang of criminals who have been a nuisance to the public safety for years.

There still, unfortunately, many criminals on the loose, who have been a nuisance to the public safety for years. Figures compiled at the end of the year show that the Transvaal gold mines paid dividends to their shareholders in 1907 amounting to practically $5,000,000 or an increase of $700,000 on the previous year. This is a little short of the totals of 1903 and 1904 combined. Since the resumption of mining operations in 1901, Rand mines have announced dividends amounting to over $135,000,000. Shareholders are now receiving $137,125 out of every sovereign's worth of gold produced, against $118 in 1906.

PARIS, April 3.—A letter from a doctor with the French forces in Morocco relates that near Settat, during a force engagement, a soldier of the Foreign Legion was struck by a Moorish bullet and fell flat on his face. "He's dead," said the corporal, leaning over him. Lifting a battered face, the Legionary exclaimed: "No, corporal, not dead, but badly hurt."

"Where is your pocket of lint?" demanded the corporal. "I have forgotten it," said the soldier, trying to wipe away the blood. "Two days' arrest," shouted the corporal, and lifting the wounded man on to his back he staggered to the nearest doctor amid a hail of bullets.

HAD ANARCHIST SCARE. MADRID, April 4.—The police of Madrid had a bad anarchist scare yesterday as King Alfonso and Queen Victoria were driving to the British Embassy. A youth suddenly dashed after their carriage. Gardarmes immediately seized the lad who later was identified as a damaged son of one of the chief police officials of Madrid.

MILL DIDN'T START ON ACCOUNT OF WEATHER

Murray & Gregory are Likely to Stick to the Rate of Wages Given in 1906.

Murray & Gregory's mill which was to have begun sawing this morning did not start, owing to the unfavorable weather.

It is said that Messrs. Murray & Gregory will endeavor to start their mill at the same rate of wages as that paid in 1906, which is 10 per cent. lower than the rate paid last year. It is thought that there will be little difficulty so far as the spruce and of the mill is concerned but there is a strong probability that the shingle sawyers and bunched will stay.

There are three shingle machines at Murray & Gregory's mill. There is every indication that if the shinglemen refuse to work at the reduced rate the shingle machines will not be started, but that the spruce mill will begin sawing as soon as more favorable weather begins.

EQUITY COURT.

In the Equity Court this morning before Justice Barker argument of counsel was heard in the case of George Harris on behalf of himself and others, of the Moncton Exhibition Association, vs. Fred W. Sumner and David L. Welch and other directors, F. Taylor and J. D. Hazen for the plaintiffs; M. G. Teed for the defendants.

Mr. Harris is seeking to set aside of the balance of the unused stock of the company amounting to 467 shares made by the directors of the company for about $4,000. It consists of about 20 acres of land in the heart of Moncton and the new Government shops now are at the west of it and as a result the land has greatly increased in value, so that it is estimated that it is worth from $20,000 to $75,000 by different witnesses. The defendants contend that the directors had power to sell this stock to Mr. Welch by virtue of the original stock subscription.

Mr. Harris wanted to get control of the company's land and the directors to sell some for building lots. Judgment was reserved.

Monday is Children's Day. SEE THE APPAREL FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

NEARLY EVERY SPRING WE HOLD A CHILDREN'S SALE and Monday is the day this year. This occasion is one of especial interest to mothers, those devoted parents who strive to keep their little ones comfortably, prettily and sensibly dressed. It is a day when every mother in St. John may view to her heart's content the good things in store for their boys and girls in the line of apparel for spring and summer. There will be thousands of garments, small enough for the infant only days old, and then again as large as a 16-year-old would need. Our clerking staff in the Juvenile Sections will be enlarged, so that many visitors will be carefully waited upon, and the New York, French and English, not to forget our own Canadian goods, will be on open view in great profusion. Pratty little Coats, Reesfers, Bonnets, Pin-flores, Creepers, Rompers, Frocks, Dresses, and dear only knows what else. No mother should miss this show.
