BIG GAME.

Receipts for Licenses Largest Yet.

AMOUNT TO $764.00.

Several Parties Successful
In Bringing Down the Lordly Moose.

Deputy Game Warden Verge informs us that the receipts for big game licenses for September exceed all previous records. The total receipts amounted to $764. Of this sum $550 is from non-residents. While the increased license fee no doubt accounts for the good showing, there will probably be a larger number of licenses issued this year than ever before as the big game hunters have only about got on the move to the grounds.

Several parties have already returned from the woods bringing their trophies with them. Among the number are Mr. Wende, of Buffalo, with a very fine specimen of moose. Jeff Morrison was his guide. Among the successful local sportsmen are Walter McGovern, Fred O'Leary and Geo. Sargeant, O. C. Kelly.

NOVEL SIGHT.

Large House Moved on Lighters Towed by Gasoline Launch.

Dalhousie, N. B., Sept. 30.—W. S. Montgomery, the enterprising president of the Restigouche Woodworking Co., owned a valuable residence about a mile and a half out of town. A short time ago he gave a contract to W. H. Wallace contractor, formerly of Sussex, N. B., to have it moved into town, which called for moving it about a thousand yards to the shore, then being placed on two large lighters so that it could be taken by water, and moved about a thousand yards to a beautiful lot of land. The moving by water was successfully accomplished yesterday, and it was a novel sight, which was witnessed by a large number of citizens.

Several snapshots were taken of the building by local artists as it neared the shore. The moving by water was done under the superintendence of Mr. Montgomery. It was rather a grand sight to see a large building 35 by 50, two stories high, with bay windows, etc., being towed into port by a gasoline launch. The weather was beautiful, and several prominent citizens accompanied the moving of the building to the shore.

Town Council So Decides at Tuesday Evening Meeting.

All Action Rescinded and a New Start Made. Water Com. to Purchase Electrical Pipe-Thawing Outfit.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening. His Worship Mayor Murray and Couns. Blackhall, Ferguson, Joudry, Vautour, Miller, Taylor and Blair being present.

The Clerk read a communication from Wm. Taylor stating he now felt capable of taking his former position as caretaker if required. Referred to P. P. & S. Com.

A letter from McAlister & Mott re claim of $10 of Dr. Pinault for services rendered to sailor in 1902 was referred to Police and License Com.

Resignation of Policeman Miller was read and on motion was accepted.

A letter from McAlister & Mott setting forth that the town was liable for trespass on Jos Duncan's land at reservoir and also a drain had been opened by the town across his land near Sugar Loaf St. and unless these matters were promptly attended to by the Council, legal action would be taken for damages. The letter was referred to Finance Com.

The second writ in the R. L. Duncan case against the town was read and on motion was accepted by the Clerk.

The special arbitration committee was empowered to employ Mr. H. F. McLachy as Counsel in the suits of R. L. Duncan against the town.

Accounts of the different departments passed as follows:—
I. C. R., ashes $5.00
Wm Currie, Feed, 27.66
Duncan & McLennan, supplies, 18.98
W. P. Gray, sawdust, 9.00

Coun. Joudry reported that the estimated expenditure upon the streets to date would be about $1450.

Coun. Joudry asked if policemen were instructed to see that all pedlars had a proper license. He was of opinion that the great majority of pedlars did not pay a license fee.

Coun. Blair said the policeman had received their instructions. He further said that the policemen had two cases against the liquor dealers for violations of the license act but no justice could be found before whom the case could be tried.

Coun. Miller, from the Assessment Com. reported on the bill of the Assessors, recommending payment as follows: $60 for assessin, $30 for extra work; $20 for clerical work. This is a reduction of $20 in the amount for extra work.

Coun. Taylor moved, seconded by Coun. Joudry, that the town refuse to pay R. L. Duncan $3,250 for the lands required for the purpose of enlarging the reservoir of the water system. Carried unanimously.

Mayor Murray suggested that the town purchase an electrical pipe-thawing outfit for water services.

Coun. Taylor said he intended asking authority from the Council for this purpose and felt confident that the outfit would pay for itself many times over during the winter. After some discussion the Water & Sewerage Com. were authorized to purchase one of these outfits.

It was decided that between Nov. 1st and May 1st in each year no applications for water or sewerage connections would be received as the cost was too much of a burden upon the town during that period.

Council adjourned to meet Tuesday evening.

On Council reassembling on Tuesday evening, Deputy Mayor Blair took the chair in the Mayor's absence.

A communication from Frank McCullam asking for extension of sewer on western end of Gerard St. was referred to Water and Sewerage Com.

The following accounts were passed:—

Anslaw Bros. $12.00
I. C. R.'y, freight, 3.10
Ric'd Murray, rebate, 10.00
C. F. Clare, supplies, 12.00

Mayor Murray entered and took the chair.

Coun. Joudry reported in re letter from Wm Taylor for position as caretaker, that Robert Hickey had been appointed to the position adopted.

Coun. Taylor, from the special arbitration committee, brought before the Council a series of resolutions rescinding and cancelling all steps taken by the Council in the arbitration matter such as the resolutions providing for arbitration, the notices sent to R. L. Duncan and Jos. Duncan, the letter to Lt. Governor, requesting appointment of arbitrator and the appointment of W. S. Smith as arbitrator for the town.

The several resolutions were carried unanimously.

Another resolution to the effect that as lands owned by R. L. Duncan were required for reservoir according to survey of D. W. Burpee, C. E., the sum of $825 be offered to R. L. Duncan for the said lands, with a request that he communicate his answer to the town council as early as possible, was also carried unanimously.

Meeting then adjourned.

SHOOTING FATALITIES

Two Young lads Fatally Shot.

WHILE HUNTING.

Jimmie McRae, Woodstock, and Alfred Howarth, Moncton, the Victims.

Woodstock, N. B., Sept.—A shooting accident happened this afternoon by which the bright thirteen year old son of Mrs J. B. McRae, a widow, lost his life. The inquest was held before Coroner W. W. Hay tonight and the verdict was that deceased was accidentally killed by a shot from a gun in the hands of Willie Blake. The evidence of Master Blake follows:

"I am 14 years of age, and knew deceased, Jimmie McRae. We went shooting partridge this afternoon, back of Col. Dibble's, in the parish of Northampton, My brother, Jasper, and John Kyle, about the same age as myself, were with us. We had dinner at Mawberg, Jasper and John Kyle left for home at 2.30. Deceased and myself remained.

"We could not find any partridges, but we saw a squirrel. Each of us were watching for the squirrel, as it came down the tree. The bushes were quite thick, and I did not see deceased. When the squirrel was near the ground I fired. I don't know what became of the squirrel, but I saw my friend fall. I thought he was fooling and went to him and turned him over. I saw he was hurt, asked him to speak, but he only said 'mother, pray for me.' I noticed he was breathing hard and I left to get help, but when I returned with help I could not find the body." The search lasted for two hours before finding the deceased, but he was dead.

Dr. Nelson Grant sworn said: When he arrived in the woods life was extinct, death was caused by a gun-shot wound in the upper part of the chest and left side, extending across the front in the region of the heart, more especially the shot was found in the back wall. Death was instantaneous, the left arm was badly lacerated with shot, and there was evidence of external hemorrhage. Deceased had been dead an hour.

MONCTON LAD ANOTHER VICTIM.
Moncton, Oct. 1.—Alfred Howarth, the ten year old son of Matthew Howarth, weaver in the Moncton cotton mill, was the victim of a fatal shooting accident that occurred a short distance from town yesterday afternoon.

Matthew Howarth, accompanied by his son and Charles Banks and young son, Charlie, all went out the M. and B. Railway track on the 19th.

BROTHERS KILLED.

Corey and Stanley Floyd Struck by C. P. R. Express at Bloomfield.

Bloomfield, Kings Co., Oct. 2.—Two young men of this place, Corey and Stanley Floyd, brothers, while driving across the track at Bloomfield station, about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, were struck by the east-bound C. P. R. Express while it was going at full speed. Corey was killed instantly and the younger brother, Stanley, was taken to the St. John hospital where he died at 4:30 Sunday morning without having regained consciousness.

The two horses they were driving were also killed and their wagon shattered.

The terrible accident has cast a gloom over the whole community. The parents and brothers and sisters are nearly frantic with grief. This is the second accident of this kind at that place within a few years, and there is a strong feeling that something ought to be done to prevent any third.

The train was No. 26, the C. P. R. east-bound, in charge of Conductor W. J. Dickson, with Driver Theodore S. Wilkins and Fireman Charles Waldron. The train was a few minutes late and as it makes no stop at this place, was running at about full speed. The main road crosses the railway just west of the station, and a milk house on the north side of the track partly hides the view of anybody approaching from that direction.

A short distance farther back on the road there is a house, which would cut off the view of any one behind it.

With the exception of these two buildings, however, there is nothing for quite a distance to prevent a person, under ordinary circumstances, from seeing an approaching train.

The young men, sons of John M. Floyd, had been out in the country threshing, and were driving home with a sledge load of grain. They were approaching from the north side of the track, coming up the road, Stanley, who was driving the team, was sitting near the front with his back half turned to the horses and so directly turned to the approaching train. Corey was also sitting down near the rear of the wagon, with his back to the train.

This explains why they knew nothing of their danger. The rumbling of the wagon, which was quite heavily loaded with grain, would help deaden the noise, but as the engine bell was ringing, some thought it strange they did not hear it. The whole thing occurred in the twinkling of an eye, and it is doubtful if the young men had much knowledge of what had happened.

The doomed young men learned too late of their danger. About as the train struck they jumped to their feet, but all to no purpose. The engine caught the team square in the centre, between horses and wagon, knocking both men into a culvert only a few feet away, killing Corey instantly.

His body was badly bruised, and his skull fractured. Stanley suffered a severe gash in the left leg, and many bruises about the head. The two were found close together, the head of one near the feet of the other.

Stanley was carried unconscious into the waiting room, where his wounds were hurriedly dressed by Dr. Stewart of Halifax, who was a passenger on board. From a hurried examination, Dr. Stewart could only say he did not consider there was much hope for his recovery. After the train left, the I. C. R. authorities dispatched a light engine from Conductor Armstrong's gravel train, on the siding, to Hampton for Dr. Smith, who came and prepared Stanley for his removal to the hospital in St. John. The injured man was placed in a car and taken to St. John.

Both horses were instantly killed. One was thrown against the siding, while the other was hurled fifty or sixty feet up the platform. The station agent's garden, and a young lady who had just stepped out of the way, had a very narrow escape from being struck and hurt.

Two years ago Mrs. F. J. Brown, mother-in-law of Stanley and Corey, in a very similar way, was struck across the track in this place. The two accidents have caused a feeling of grow up among the people, and the crossing should be made safer. There is a good deal of feeling about the matter, and it is likely that the inquest the whole affair will be probed to the bottom.—Telegraph.

LUMBER IN GREAT BRITAIN

Outlook for 'Autumn Trade is more Hopeful.

Recent views expressed by British importers are of a more optimistic character and in general business there has been a slight improvement. The textile industries are gradually getting into better shape, and this will sooner or later benefit the lumber trade.

Reports are current of contracts closed with leading importers, and it seems to be generally believed that shippers have given a very slight concession. A dealer who recently returned from Canada speaks very hopefully of the spruce market, which he expects to recover materially before the end of the year.

A few sales of 3 x 9, third and fourth qualities, have been made at £8 10s. and £8 per standard respectively, c. i. f. London. The stock of spruce in Liverpool is not very large, and is not likely to be greatly increased during the balance of the season. At Cardiff, Hull and other ports stocks are below the average, which will give the seller a decided advantage when the market becomes more active. There is a good demand for battens and small boards. A Hull correspondent states that Quebec pine has advanced 10s per standard, second quality now being quoted at £21.

PIRATICAL ATTACKS

Of Arabs On British Must be Stopped

Constantinople, Sept. 30.—The arrival at Haedra, Yemen province, Turkish Arabia, of the British cruiser Fox promises to lead to a speedy settlement of the British claims in connection with the piratical attacks of Arabs on British dhows in the Red Sea.

The commander of the Fox has been instructed to see that the local authorities inflict punishment and destroy pirate dhows and pay compensation to the owners of the British vessels.

COAST STORM

Hundreds of Persons Killed Heavy Loss Feared

New York, Sept. 30.—A despatch last night from New Orleans to the Tribune says: Although no details have been received here up to the present time, it is believed that the entire Gulf coast has suffered from one of the worst storms in the last ten years. Tonight the barometer registers the same as it did in 1894 when 2,000 persons were killed and their bodies were found in tops of trees along the coast. Telephone messages received indicate that for the last twenty-four hours a terrible storm has been raging along the entire Gulf coast, and that a number of vessels have been swept ashore. So far no bodies have been found.

At 9 o'clock to-night the barometer registers just as it did in 1894, when the fishing camps all along the Cammandier Islands suffered and hundreds were killed. Reports received show that bath-houses and other buildings have been swept away all along the coast, and that the storm is constantly increasing in violence. At Galveston the water is already over the railroad wharf, and the same is true at Milneburg and other points.—Globe.

Could not be Better.

The uniform success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has won for it a wide reputation and many people throughout the country will agree with Mr. Chas. W. Mattison, of Milford, Va., who says: "It works like magic, and is the best preparation I know of. It couldn't be any better." He had a serious attack of dysentery and was advised to try a bottle of this remedy, which he did, with the result that immediate relief was obtained. For sale by all druggists.

THE AMERICAN EXODUS TO CANADA

The Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph discusses in admirable spirit the effective methods devised by the Canadian Government to attract people from the western United States to the Canadian west. The occasion of its comments on the situation is the completion of the census of the population of Iowa, taken in 1900, under the auspices of that State.

The last census of the United States was taken in 1900, and the population of Iowa was then found to be 2,318,553, an increase of 319,957 in the ten previous years. Instead of a proportionate increase during the past five years, the State census shows an actual decrease of 15,000. There is no apparent disposition to question the accuracy of either census, and the Iowa officials find themselves constrained by a rather startling situation to ascertain its promoting cause.

The fact that the decrease is most perceptible in the rural districts of the State suggests two explanations: The enlargement of Iowa farms, and the emigration of Iowans to States where cheaper lands are available. Possibly these are at bottom one, for it is not unlikely that the enlargement of farms is due to a widespread desire on the part of farmers to sell out for the purpose of emigrating. The Chronicle Telegraph says it would be both interesting and important to know to what extent similar causes have worked elsewhere, and whether the cheap free lands in the Canadian have not been even more influential than the stimulus of cheap lands in other States. Oklahoma comes in for special mention, but is dismissed with the remark that its growth cannot account for the whole of Iowa's loss.

The propaganda kept up by the Department of the Interior to bring settlers into Canada is unprecedented in its ingenuity, persistence, and success. It has brought a large contingent across the Atlantic, mainly from the United Kingdom. It has brought many Scandinavians who make excellent pioneers. With these have come less desirable people, like the Galicians and Doukhobors, but if these receive no further encouragement the settlers now in

The country will eventually be completely fused in the general mass. The best of all the contingents is just the class whose departure the state of Iowa regrets.

Its loss is Canada's gain, and the same statement is true of other parts of the Union. It is pleasant to be assured, as we are by our Pittsburg contemporary, that "the promises made to Americans who were induced to take up land in Canada have been substantially redeemed." This is of itself a valuable advertisement, for the best emigration agent is the contented immigrant.—Toronto Globe.

CHASED BY MOOSE

Two Bold Hunters Hunted by an infuriated Bull—They Shot at Him and Flew

Moncton, N. B., Oct. 2.—It is reported that two young men belonging to Paines Junction had an exciting chase by a bull moose yesterday. The young men went into the woods near Paines Junction in search of partridge and unexpectedly came upon a bull and a cow moose lying down. They put a charge of shot into the bull and the latter, infuriated, chased his tormentors. The hunters ran for their lives and barely had time to reach a lumber camp and climb to the roof when the moose came up. The report says the animal tramped about the shanty and kept the young men there for four hours.

Can Eat Anything Now.

How many Dyspeptics can say that?

Or perhaps you are dyspeptic and don't know it.

Have you any of these symptoms?

Variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and souring of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, constipation, or are you gloomy and miserable? Then you are a dyspeptic. The cure is careful diet;

avoid stimulants and narcotics, do not drink at meals, keep regular habits, and regulate the stomach and bowels with

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS,

Nature's specific for Dyspepsia.

Miss Laura Chicoine, Belle Anne, Que.,

says of its wonderful curative powers:—

"Last winter I was very thin, and was fast losing flesh owing to the run-down state of my system. I suffered from Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood.

I tried everything I could get, but to no purpose; then finally started to use

Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effect of the medicine, and am now feeling strong and well again.

I can eat anything now without any ill after-effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for

I feel it saved my life."

CANADA AND JAPAN

The treaty of peace between Japan and Russia and the new treaty of alliance between Britain and Japan will probably ensure a long period of peace in the countries bordering on the Pacific Ocean, and immense development of trade may be expected. The Pacific coast of Canada lies opposite to Japan. Canada is, in fact, Japan's nearest civilized neighbour, for Siberia can scarcely be called a civilized country. In the great expansion of Japanese commerce which is about to begin, Canada should have a larger share than any other country if we take full advantage of our geographical situation.

For some time past there has been a tariff discrimination against Canada which was a serious obstacle to trade between the two countries, but the Canadian Government has now completed arrangements with Japan for the removal of this discrimination, and Canadians are no longer at a disadvantage. The long railway haul to the Pacific coast will no doubt make it somewhat difficult for most of the manufacturers of Eastern Canada to export extensively to Japan, but the manufacturers of British Columbia will be in a peculiarly advantageous position for trade with their neighbours across the ocean. —Industrial Canada.

WELL DONE COUNCIL

We congratulate the Town Council on the step taken at Tuesday evening's meeting in regard to that arbitration case. If for no other reason than to avoid the carping criticism which some of our citizens have ever been ready to heap upon the members of the Council, the fresh start in the arbitration proceedings cannot but meet with approval. At any rate the Council seem to have settled down to handle the business in a definite and intelligent manner and we may now look for united action on the question. The citizens will now be able to watch the developments in the case with greater interest because of the recent discussion and altogether there will be a general feeling of satisfaction at the new turn of affairs.

Capt. Von Tossberg who recently observed British manoeuvres in defence of the City of London has sent in a confidential report to Emperor William of the tactics used and states that an army of 300,000 men could reach London three days after "landing at Hull." We suppose the critic has taken into consideration the "Little" British Navy!

Another double fatality has occurred at a dangerous crossing at Bloomfield, Kings Co., by which two highly respected young men lost their lives. Two years ago a woman and a little child were killed at the same crossing. Campbellton has not only one dangerous crossing in the town limits, but five or six of them. And these crossings have to their credit several deaths and serious accidents. Why not have these crossings made safe now. Do it before another casualty is added to the list. Our city fathers can do something in the matter. Surely the railway authorities can be prevailed upon to protect the lives of pedestrians.

Despatches sent out from Berlin indicate that "political circles" in that city have reached the conclusion that "events in the far east" and particularly the British-Japanese treaty, have rendered a united Russo-German policy necessary. This was, perhaps, to be expected under the circumstances; and it is well known that the German Emperor has been anxiously hoping for it. This is the Emperor who, a few weeks ago, declared that the only way to keep peace was to maintain a large army and navy. —Globe.

Campbellton is to have the very latest apparatus for thawing out water service pipes this winter. The new method is by electricity and an ordinary pipe can be thawed out in about five minutes without any expensive digging in the frozen ground. Last winter it cost the town about $500 to keep some of the services open while others had to be left frozen until spring. The new pipe-thawer will cost only about $150 so that it will mean quite a saving to the town.

That story of the whale towing a steamer fifteen miles an hour with its engines reversed and working for all they were worth should spur some of our local fish story tellers to renewed efforts. —Ex

There seems to be a great scarcity of eggs just now in town. We hope the hens have not organized a union.

SHOOTING FATALITIES

Saturday afternoon shooting. A short distance beyond the I. C. R. crossing the party overtook Everett Blacklock, who was also going hunting. He carried a breech loading shot gun on his shoulder and in passing the Elder Howarth asked him if he was aware his gun was cocked.

Blacklock swung the gun over his right arm, pointing the muzzle behind him and struck the hammer with his other hand. The gun was discharged and Young Howarth, who was a few feet behind Blacklock, received the full charge of shot in the left side of the face, tearing away his ear and leaving a gaping wound in the cheek.

Blacklock did not see the boy and was not aware of his presence until alarmed of his terrifying scream as he fell to the ground in awful agony. The wounded boy was conveyed to the city hospital as quickly as possible but he was very weak from loss of blood and died a few hours later from his injuries. Blacklock, who was responsible for the shooting, gave himself up to the police Saturday night but was released this morning upon representations of the boy's father, who was an eye witness of the accident, and was satisfied it was purely accidental. —Telegraph

WEDDING BELLS

McMILLAN—COOPER

A quiet wedding took place at the home of James A. McDonald, of this town, Sept. 28th when Grace Cooper his adopted daughter was united in marriage to Wm. F. McMillan, of the Freight department of the I. C. R. Owing to the recent death of Mrs. McDonald's mother only the nearest relatives of the bride and groom were present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Keirstead. The bride was the recipient of many valuable presents not the least of which was a handsome quartered Oak Rocker from the Choir of the Baptist Church of which she has been an honored member. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left by the Maritime Express for Sydney and Halifax and other points in N. S.

BULMER—PRATT

Cupid that little fairy god who has been causing such commotion in other communities has not passed by the village of Matspiedia as is evidenced by the event which was celebrated at the home of Mr. Nathan Bulmer Sept. 27th, when his eldest daughter was united in marriage to Porter Pratt, of the Pratt Brothers Lumber Co. The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion and a large number of guests were present. The bride was dressed in white silk and made a very fine appearance as she came into the room leaning upon the arm of her father and took her place beneath the bridal arch beside the groom. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Dawson and the nuptial knot was tied by Rev. J. W. Keirstead, B. A., assisted by Rev. Mr. Hardy, B. A. The bride received many useful and valuable presents, perhaps, the most handsome of which was a gold watch from the groom.

IRVING—MANN

The home of Edward Mann, Mann Settlement Sept. 27th was the scene of an event of more than usual interest to that quiet community when his daughter Martha J. was united in marriage to Wilford Irving, son of William Irvine of the same place. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Keirstead assisted by Rev. Mr. Hardy. A very large company of friends were present to witness the important event and to do honor to the wedding feast. The wedding presents were numerous.

Some Seasonable Advice

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season of the year to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted, and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by all druggists.

appear to think that it makes no particular difference where they buy shoes—that all shoe stores are about alike and that it's about the same thing everywhere.

Partridges, after three years of legal protection, are scarce, and one lot was most successful sportsman suggests that this may be due to the increase of hawks that resulted from keeping guns out of the woods. I. C. R. Police Officer Noble, of Campbellton, has returned home from Fredericton. About the first of this month, at Vanhorne's Cliff, two stones had been thrown at the I. C. R. express car, while the other hit a man who was in the baggage car. This offence by some clever detective work on Officer Noble's part, was fastened upon Fraser and Irvine Vanhorne, aged 12 and 14 years, and will be reported to headquarters.—Transcript.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS SICK?

Let your morning urine stand for 24 hours in a glass or vessel, and then if it is milky or cloudy, or contains a red-dish brick-dust sediment, or if particles or germs float about in it, your kidneys are diseased. If the kidneys are well they filter just so much blood, but if they are sick or weak from any cause, they leave the poison in the blood, and this poison affects the entire system.

It is natural to pass urine three times a day, but many who regard themselves as healthy are obliged to pass water six to ten times daily and are obliged to get up frequently during the night. They have sick kidneys and bladder and don't know it. Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills cure Rheumatism and all kidney and bladder diseases, and make new, rich blood.

We will send you a generous sample post paid free, together with our large book on the above mentioned disease.

THE RETURN OF SHERLOCK HOLMES...

BY A. CONAN DOYLE

"That settles this exit. Then no doubt the lady went out the way she came. I understand that this other passage leads only to the professor's room. There is no exit that way?"

"No, sir."

"We shall go down it and make the acquaintance of the professor. Hello, Hopkins, this is very important—very important indeed! The professor's corridor is also lined with coconut matting."

"Well, sir, what of that?"

"Don't you see any bearing upon the case? Well, well, I don't insist upon it. No doubt I am wrong. And yet it seems to me to be suggestive. Come with me and introduce me."

We passed down the passage, which was of the same length as that which led to the garden. At the end was a short flight of steps ending in a door. Our guide knocked and then ushered us into the professor's bedroom.

It was a very large chamber lined with innumerable volumes, which had overflowed from the shelves and lay in piles in the corners or were stacked all round at the base of the cases. The bed was in the center of the room, and in it, propped up with pillows, was the owner of the house. I have seldom seen a more remarkable looking person. It was a gaunt, aquiline face which was turned toward us, with piercing dark eyes which lurked in deep hollows under overhanging and tufted brows. His hair and beard were white save the latter was curiously stained with yellow around his mouth. A cigarette glowed amid the tangle of white hair, and the air of the room was fetid with stale tobacco smoke. As he held out his hand to Holmes I perceived that it was also stained with yellow nicotine.

"A smoker, Mr. Holmes?" said he, speaking in well chosen English, with a curious little mincing accent. "Pray take a cigarette. And you, sir? I can recommend them, for I have them especially prepared by Ionides of Alexandria. He sends me a thousand at a time, and I grieve to say that I have arranged for a fresh supply every fortnight. Bad, sir, very bad, but an old man has few pleasures. Tobacco and my work—that is all that is left to me."

Holmes had lit a cigarette and was shooting little darting glances all over the room.

"Tobacco and my work, but now only tobacco," the old man exclaimed. "Alas, what a fatal interruption! Who could have foreseen such a terrible catastrophe? So estimable a young man! I assure you that after a few months' training he was an admirable assistant. What do you think of the matter, Mr. Holmes?"

"I have not yet made up my mind."

"I shall indeed be indebted to you if you can throw a light where all is so dark to us. To a poor bookworm and invalid like myself such a blow is paralyzing. I seem to have lost the faculty of thought. But you are a man of action—you are a man of affairs. It is part of the everyday routine of your life. You can preserve your balance in every emergency. We are fortunate indeed in having you at our side."

Holmes was pacing up and down one side of the room while the old professor was talking. I observed that he was smoking with extraordinary rapidity. It was evident that he shared our host's liking for the fresh Alexandrian cigarettes.

"Yes, sir, it is a crushing blow," said the old man. "That is my magnum opus—the pile of papers on the side table yonder. It is my analysis of the documents found in the Coptic monastery of Syria and Egypt, a work which will cut deep at the very foundation of revealed religion. With my feeble health I do not know whether I shall ever be able to complete it. Now that my assistant has been taken from me. Dear me, Mr. Holmes, why, you are even a quicker smoker than I am myself."

Holmes smiled.

MCGILL'S BUTTERNUT PILLS FOR YOUR LIVER AND BOWELS.

"I am a connoisseur," said he, taking another cigarette from the box, his fourth, and lighting it from the stub of that which he had just finished. "I will not trouble you with any lengthy cross examination, Professor Coram, since I gather that you were in bed at the time of the crime and could know nothing about it. I would only ask this: What do you imagine that this poor fellow meant by his last words, 'The professor—it was she'?"

The professor shook his head.

"Susan is a country girl," said he, "and you know the incredible stupidity of that class. I fancy that the poor fellow murmured some incoherent, delirious words and that she twisted them into this meaningless message."

"I see. You have no explanation yourself of the tragedy?"

"Possibly an accident, possibly—I only breathe it among ourselves—a suicide. Young men have their hidden troubles—some affair of the heart, perhaps, which we have never known. It is a more probable supposition than murder."

"But the eyeglass?"

"Ah, I am only a student, a man of dreams. I cannot explain the practical things of life. But still we are aware, my friend, that love engenders strange shapes. By all means take another cigarette. It is a pleasure to see any one appreciate them so. A fan, a glove, glasses—what knows what article may be carried as a token or treasured when a man puts an end to his life? This gentleman speaks of footprints in the grass; but, after all, it is easy to be mistaken on such a point. As to the knife, it might well be thrown far from the unfortunate man as he fell. It is possible that I speak as a child, but to me it seems that Wiloughby Smith has met his fate by his own hand."

Holmes seemed struck by the theory thus put forward, and he continued to walk up and down for some time, lost in thought and consuming cigarette after cigarette.

"Tell me, Professor Coram," he said at last, "what is it that cupboard in the bureau?"

"Nothing that would help a thief—family papers, letters from a poor wife, diplomas of universities which have done me honor. Here is the key. You can look for yourself."

Holmes picked up the key and looked at it for an instant; then he handed it back.

"No! I hardly think that it would help me," said he. "I should prefer to go quietly down to your garden and turn the whole matter over in my head. There is something to be said for the theory of suicide which you have put forward. We must apologize for having intruded upon you, Professor Coram, and I promise that we won't disturb you until after lunch. At 2 o'clock we will come again and report to you anything which may have happened in the interval."

Holmes was curiously distrustful, and we walked up and down the garden path for some time in silence.

"Have you a clew?" I asked at last.

"It depends upon those cigarettes that I smoked," said he. "It is possible that I am utterly mistaken. The cigarettes will show me."

"My dear Holmes," I exclaimed, "how on earth?"

"Well, well, you may see for yourself. If not, there's no harm done. Of course we always have the optician clew to fall back upon, but I take a short when I can get it. Ah, here is the good Mrs. Marker! Let us enjoy five minutes of instructive conversation with her."

I have remarked before that

"YES, SIR, IT IS A CRUSHING BLOW," SAID THE OLD MAN.

when, volunteered the information that she believed Mr. Smith had been out for a walk yesterday morning and that he had only returned half an hour before the tragedy occurred. I could not myself see the bearing of this incident, but I clearly perceived that Holmes was weaving it into the general scheme which he had formed in his brain. He suddenly sprang from his chair and glanced at his watch. "Two o'clock, gentlemen," said he. "We must go up and have it out with our friend the professor."

The old man had just finished his lunch, and certainly his empty dish bore evidence to the good appetite with which his housekeeper had credited him. He was seated in a wicker chair as he turned his white mane and his glowing eyes toward us. The eternal cigarette smoldered in his mouth. He had been dressed and was seated in an armchair by the fire.

"Well, Mr. Holmes, have you solved this mystery yet?" He shoved the large tin of cigarettes which stood on a table beside him toward my companion. Holmes stretched out his hand at the same moment, and between them they tipped the box over the edge. For a minute or two we were all on our knees retrieving stray cigarettes from impossible places. When we rose again I observed Holmes' eyes were shining and his cheeks tinged with color. Only at a crisis have I seen those battle signals flying.

"Yes," said he, "I have solved it." Stanley Hopkins and I stared in amazement. Something like a sneer glimmered over the gaunt features of the old professor.

"Indeed! In the garden?"

"No, here."

"Here? When?"

"This instant."

"You are surely joking, Mr. Sherlock Holmes. You compel me to tell you that this is too serious a matter to be treated in such a fashion."

"I have forged and tested every link of my chain, Professor Coram, and I am sure that it is sound. What your motives are or what exact part you play in this strange business I am not yet able to say. In a few minutes I shall probably hear it from your own lips. Meanwhile I will reconstruct what

Holmes had, when he liked, a peculiarly ingratiating way with women and that he very readily established terms of confidence with them. In half the time which he had named he had captured the housekeeper's good will and was chatting with her as if he had known her for years.

"Yes, Mr. Holmes, it is as you say, sir. He does smoke something terrible. All day and sometimes all night, sir. I've seen that room of a morning—well, sir, you'd have thought it was a London fog. Poor young Mr. Smith, he was a smoker also, but not as bad as the professor. His health—well, I don't know that it's better nor worse for the smoking."

"Ah," said Holmes, "but it kills the appetite."

"Well, I don't know about that, sir."

"I suppose the professor eats hardly anything?"

"Well, he is variable. I'll say that for him."

"I'll wager he took no breakfast this morning and won't face his lunch after all the cigarettes I saw him consume."

"Well, you're out there, sir, as it happens, for he ate a remarkably big breakfast this morning. I don't know when I've known him make a better one, and he's ordered a good dish of cutlets for his lunch. I'm surprised myself, for since I came into that room yesterday and saw young Mr. Smith lying there on the floor I couldn't bear to look at food. Well, it takes all sorts to make a world, and the professor hasn't let it take his appetite away."

We lolled the morning away in the garden. Stanley Hopkins had gone down to the village to look into some rumors of a strange woman who had been seen by some children on the Chatham road the previous morning. As to my friend, all his usual energy seemed to have deserted him. I had never known him handle a case in such a half-hearted fashion. Even the news brought back by Hopkins that he had found the children and that they had undoubtedly seen a woman exactly corresponding with Holmes' description and wearing either spectacles or eyeglasses failed to rouse any sign of keen interest. He was more attentive when Susan, who waited upon us at is past for your benefit, so that you may know the information which I still require.

"A lady yesterday entered your study. She came with the intention of possessing herself of certain documents which were in your bureau. She had a key of her own. I have had an opportunity of examining yours, and I do not find that slight discoloration which the scratch made upon the varnish would have produced. You were not an accessory, therefore, and she came, so far as I can read the evidence, without your knowledge to rob you."

The professor blew a cloud from his lips. "This is most interesting and instructive," said he. "Have you no more to add? Surely, having traced this lady so far, you can also say what has become of her?"

"I will endeavor to do so. In the first place, she was seized by your secretary, and stabbed him in order to escape. This catastrophe I am inclined to regard as an unhappy accident, for I am convinced that the lady had no intention of inflicting so grievous an injury. An assassin does not come unarmed. Horrified by what she had done, she rushed wildly away from the scene of the tragedy. Unfortunately for her, she had lost her glasses in the scuffle, and as she was extremely short sighted she was really helpless without them. She ran down a corridor which she imagined to be that by which she had come—both were lined with coconut matting—and it was only when it was too late that she understood that she had taken the wrong passage and that her retreat was cut off behind her. What was she to do? She could not go back. She could not remain where she was. She must go on. She went on. She mounted a stair, pushed open a door and found herself in your room."

The old man sat with his mouth open, staring wildly at Holmes. Amusement and fear were stamped upon his expressive features. Now with an effort he shrugged his shoulders and burst into insouciant laughter.

"All very nice, Mr. Holmes," said he, "but there is one little flaw in your splendid theory. I was myself in my room, and I never left it during the day."

"I am aware of that, Professor Coram."

"And you mean to say that I could lie upon that bed and not be aware that a woman had entered my room?"

"I never said so. You were aware of it. You spoke with her. You recognized her. You aided her to escape."

Again the professor burst into high keyed laughter. He had risen to his feet, and his eyes glowed like embers.

"You are mad!" he cried. "You are talking insanely. I helped her to escape? Where is she now?"

"She is there," said Holmes, and he pointed to a high bookcase in the corner of the room.

I saw the old man throw up his arms; a terrible convulsion passed over his grim face, and he fell back in his chair. Her face, too, was streaked with grime, and at the best she could never have been handsome, for she had the exact physical characteristics which Holmes had named, with, in addition, a long and obstinate chin. What with her natural blindness, and what with the change from dark to light, she stood as one dazed, blinking about her to see where and who we were. And yet, in spite of all these disadvantages, there was a certain nobility in the woman's bearing, a gallantry in the defiant chin and in the upraised head, which compelled something of respect and admiration.

Stanley Hopkins had laid his hand upon her arm and claimed her as his prisoner, but she waved him aside gently and yet with an overmastering dignity which compelled obedience. The old man lay back in his chair with a twitching face and stared at her with brooding eyes.

ALARMS RUSSIA

New Treaty gives Great Britain and Japan such A free Hand.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 27.—The first comment heard here on the Anglo-Japanese treaty can be conservatively characterized with the word "alarming." It was fully expected that it would prove to be a very significant and important document. The first study not only confirmed this view but strengthened it. When officials were questioned on the subject today the invariable answer was that it was too soon to express an opinion in such a weighty and important matter. But there was no doubt that the first opinion of the treaty is a fearsome one. It is considered to be most broad and far-reaching. The use of the terms "protection of common interests" and "measures which should be taken" are regarded here as being open to any interpretation the signatories desire to give to them.

Also coupled with the use of the words "East Asia," apparently applying to all Asia east of India, including the East Indian Islands and the Indo-China they are considered to prove clearly that the signatories' purpose is to act in the part of the world specified with the freest kind of a hand. This conviction cannot but create alarm in Russia.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance in its extended form is regarded by some commentators as tending to bring Russia and Germany closer together. Germany seeks close agreements with Russia, and Russia may feel the need of such agreements in consequence of the extension of the British Japanese alliance.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. editor replied: You are right and the minister who at all times and under all circumstances tell the whole truth about his members, alive or dead, will not occupy his pulpit more than one Sunday, and then he will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The press and the pulpit go hand in hand with wash brushes and pleasant words, magnifying little virtues into big ones. The pulpit, the pen, and the grave stone are the great saint-making triumvirate. And the great minister went away looking very thoughtful while the editor turned to his work, and told of the surpassing beauty of the bride, while in fact she was as homely as a mud fence.

TYPHOON KILLS MANY AT MANILLA

Eight Thousand Persons Homeless and Two Hundred Injured

New York, Sept. 29.—The "Evening Sun" prints a despatch from Manila reporting a destructive typhoon in that city. The native districts were swept away, 3,000 persons are homeless, five Filipinos were killed and 200 hundred persons injured. Hundreds of buildings were unroofed. Thousands of electric light wires were blown down, filling the streets with flames until the current was turned off. The city was in darkness when the despatch was sent, and all street traffic was suspended. It was believed that shipping in the bay had warning of the approach of the storm, but up to the time the despatch was sent, the ships were invisible on account of the rain, and had not communicated with the shore.

A HOLE 110 FEET DEEP

Effect Of Explosion in Suez Canal—East Bank Of Canal Damaged

Port Said, Sept. 29.—The forepart of the wreck of the British steamer Chatham, which was blown up yesterday, has entirely disappeared, but the stern must be further demolished by dynamite.

There is a hole 110 feet deep at the spot where the wreck rested. By the explosion a huge column of water, sand and the ship's wreckage was thrown 2,000 feet in the air, and in falling destroyed 600 feet of the east bank of the canal. Divers immediately commenced removing the debris.

The canal population near the scene of the explosion left early in the day for the seashore, closing the banks and stores, which were guarded by police.

TRADE WITH MEXICO

Canada's Chance to Sell Railway Ties and Get Raw Material

There promises to spring up between Canada and Mexico a trade in railway ties, as a result of the recent contract between the Elder-Dumpster Steamship Co. for a service between the two countries. Sir William Mulock has informed the steamship company that Mexico affords a large market for ties—probably a million a year for renewal alone. The ties are worth 60 cents each delivered in Mexico. There would also be a demand for ties for new railways. As a result of this information the steamship company is endeavoring to open business between the two countries in this kind of lumber, which is very plentiful in eastern Canada. Another advantage that they may be gained by the operation of the line of steamships between Canada and Mexico will be the opportunity afforded this country to procure raw material from Mexico for the manufacture of binder twine and cordage. Every year about 6,900,000 pounds of binder twine is used in Canada, so that the question is of vital importance to Canadians.

Confidence Betrayed

In our local columns last week we started that Mr John H. Brown, formerly in the employ of Mr. C. F. Clare, had been married to an Antigonish young lady. This was not correct. It was currently reported about the streets however, that such was the case, and when the item was furnished us, by one whom we believed to be a friend of Mr. Brown, we published it believing it to be true. Since the publication of the item referred to, and upon inquiries made, we find that the person who handed in the same—John Bisson—had started to several parties that he intended having the item published. We gave the name of our informant, not as an excuse for the publication, but to show our readers how little confidence can be placed in some people, and at the same time to show them how much care is required in turning out a good newsy paper, without being continually making contradictions regarding the news published.—Tribune.
