Alexander W. Munnoch, in a Letter to Mother, Describes Recent Fearful Fighting in France.

HELD TRENCH 60 HOURS

Without Sleep and Amidst a Hail of Shot and Shell, Boys From Canada Stood Firm -Praised.

In a letter to his mother, Alexander W Munnoch, who enlisted for overseas service with the 1st Canadian Contingent, and who is now in France fighting with the 90th Rifles. Winnipeg, tells of the fearful havoc wrought by the Germans in their use of poison gases. Of the horrible slaughter at Langemarck, and since then, he gives graphic description, and, although not wounded, woncers how he came through such fire unscathed. The letter reads:

Belgium, May 1, 1915. My Dear Mother,-Was so pleased to receive your letter of the 12th, but am sorry you are not in better nealth, and I suppose after seeing the account of the regiment in the napers you will be worrying about me, but I have come through the ten days with nothing worse than awful cramps caused from the gas which the Fluns sent down on us. it's terrible, mother, to look around and see so many of the boys we know missing. Charlie Hallwood got shot in the back coming out of the trench, but was able to walk to a drassing station unassisted, but not know. He may have gotten back far enough to get sent to the hos-pital, or he may have been made a prisoner If he did not get away. Our Col. Lipsett is the pride of the Canadians. He read us all the messages he received and made us a ittle speech yesterday, and we are all proud of him, as we are too of all our officers, who have proved themselves to be cool and brave, steadying the men and setting a fine ex-

Gas Fumes Awful. We had been in the trenches two days, and there was just the ordinary sniping and shell fire, when word came to us the Germans had used gas and driven the troops on our left back; the next morning the wind was towards us and we saw ground. It's the worst stuff imagincrazy, and made all of us have an awful cough, though we tied handkerchiefs over our noses and mouths then they started heavy shelling. could just drop shells wherever they wished, it seems, Our left trench got it the worst, in fact the company holding it were pract cally wiped out. We stood to our loopholes for 60 hours, and we were short of rations, as they could not be got up. The Germans were on our front, left and rear, and We hung on, though, and our relief two days later than we expected them, and we were ordered to file out to go in reserve, and it was daylight. We were in the open under shell fire, machine guns patch nearly all day, and the colonel formed us up and advanced up the hill, but we had to retire again. I guess Canada will be proud of the boys, but there will be many sad

All the boys are well, mother, that you know, except Charlle, and I right. Give my best to all the famlly. By the way, mother, the picture you saw in the paper wasn't me, though It sure is a good likeness: boys had a good laugh over it. We will be resting up to get reorganized after this scrap is over, but we are all anxious to get another rap at the enemy. The papers will give you a better account of the boys than I can, but remember ther, our regiment was the only one that did not retire: we held our trenches till relieved. Love.

ANOTHER LETTER. This letter was written one day following the first, and reads:

The Dugout, Belglum, May 2. My Dear Mother,-Sunday again, and It's kind of a miserable day, with a fine rain, and seems so much worse after the beautiful weather fine again, mother, having got rid of the effects of the fumes, and we are having a lazy time 'getting rested up, and we sure needed a

We got shelled out of our billets, and we have all made little homes out in the field, but the shells still keep dropping about 200 yards in our left, but we are safe enough. hope your health is improving, mother dear, and that things are running as well as can be expected

I had a letter from Alex. Loughead today. He is sending me some cigarettes. I was also notified by the Canadian Express Company that they had forwarded a parcel. I guess it's the tobacco George is inding to the boys.

We spend our time sleeping, play-Ing football and pitching horseshoes, and yesterday we had a little drill, but we can't form up here for any th of time, as they will shell us.
y best love to you, my own mother. Your son, ALEX. MUNNOCH.

London Standard Bearer of Liberal Party Speaks At Banquet To Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Toronto.

George S. Gibbons, of London, proposed the toast, "Canada," to which Sir Wilfrid Laurier responded, at the banquet of the Liberal Clubs Federation of Ontario at the Ontario Club, Toronto, last night, and made an eloquent address. He pointed out that the federation was giving the young men of Ontario an opportunity to play their part in the politics of the country. Genius for organization could not alone accomplish such results if there had not been that militant Liberalism in the province which made the clubs possible and answered the need of the young men for political expression.

Nincteen years ago, in 1896," he said, "the cry swept Ontario, 'Laurier, Mowat, and Victory.' In 1916, after a cycle of twenty years, the cry will go out, 'Laurier and Vic-

Liberal Opinion Dominates.
It is a unique paradox in Canada that Liberalism is the dominating opinion, although in the minority The Liberal party is the only party free to blaze the way to democratic ideals, the vision of the Canadian nation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is the master-mind. He is the greatest constructive statesman in Canadayes, in the Empire. After this war there will be a sharp conflict between the principles of Liberalism and others." Sir Wilfrid, he declared, had led Canada from a position of comparative obscurity to prominence in the Empire. A greater triumph by Sir Wilfrid than his triumph as premier, than his triumph as Liberal leader, was his triumph as a man. He was setting the ideal for young Canada, so pure in private life, so honorable in public life, so elo-quent and son honest at heart." Sir Wilfrid, at the outset, paid a tribute to Mr. Gibbons as a speaker, and reminded his hearers that Mr. father was a personal

London, May 22.—Work is progressing chequer at the present time as a dis-slowly on the formation of the new aster." national cabinet, but decisions have nold a few of the portfolios. It is retions. This decision is due to the strong feeling in London financial and banking circles in favor of Lloyd George remaining chanceller. A deep impression has been made by the financial ability he the latter country. He was ordained has displayed in dealing with the situation since the outbreak of the war. If he retains his present position, it is believed Andrew Bonar Law will go to the war office.

It is announced by the Times that Lord Lansdowne will become a member of the Cabinet, probably taking some position which will require little exertion, as his health is far from good. The inclusion of the Conservative leader i the new combination, however. is ex pected to strengthen the Cabinet with that party.

It still is regarded as certain that A. . Balfour will become first lord of the admiralty, although he already has been giving assistance to Winston Spencer Churchill in that position and there is fear in some quarters that his appointment might result in renewed friction with Admiral Fisher. Birrell to Remain.

Another certainty is that Augustin Birrell will remain as chief secretary for Ireland, and it also is understood that Sir Edward Carson, the Ulste leader, will enter the Cabinet, but in what capacity is not known. One of the problems presenting the greatest difficulty is what disposition is to be made of Mr. Churchill. He is regarded by many Liberals as the man responsible for the crisis, and accordingly is blamed for bringing about a coalition which is extremely repugnant to a majority o Liberals. The suggestion has been mad in some Liberal quarters that he should be excluded altogether from the new combination. It appears to be the present intention, however, to have him come the secretary of state for India. The United States had never received a reply to its note of March 30, in which the British order-in-council, proclaiming an embargo on all neutral commerce directly or indirectly with Germany, was declared to be a violation of international law. In view of the continued detentions of American argoes under the order-in-council, a note was prepared a week before the disaster occurred, which is to be sent to the allies as soon as further data on interference with American shipping could be secured. In some official quarters there has been a disposition to urge the dispatch of the note to Great Britain at this time because of the conviction it might con-

An Open Letter to Presbyterians Comes From E. Scott, Editor of Presbyterian.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: Sad would it be, if the church which should be a source of unity and strength and comfort to the nation at this sad time, should be made, instead, element of division and weakness May I suggest a way to avoid it, without anyone surrendering what he thinks to be right? The situation in brief is as

The majority of the union committee at its meeting in December last, agreed to recommend to our assembly, which meets in Kingston in June, to proceed this summer to another vote on organic church union. On the other hand, the minority of the union committee has the present, the matter of organic union, other royal proclumation will be adif the assembly should now proceed to another vote, it could only create division. Pressure only leads to further steps in resisting that pressure; as witness the following: At the recent meeting of the Synod of British Columbia, early in April, there frontler from Italy, however, were present about fifty members. Twenty of these, ministers and elders, gathered at a meeting called for the tions were held last night in Rome and purpose, and organized for the province for the preservation and continuance of the Presbyterian Church.

These two committees are in two of the largest Western Home Mission prov inces, and include well-known pioneers and leaders who have been active, in furthering home mission work for a generation. The Alberta committee has just issued a statement claiming "the almost complete elimination of overlapping in that province, through the co operation of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches," and quoting the report to the Synod of Alberta of its home nission convener-"that out of a total of 600 preaching points under the care of this committee there is overlapping with the Methodist Church in only 21 cases. Still further, there has been recently organized a "Woman's League for the Preservation and Continuance of the

That assembly can deal with these reports in the light of conditions then existing.

The great body of the best people in both political parties have been strongly opposed to a war election; and when our Empire is in a struggle for life when so many members of our church are absent at the front; when families are in anxiety and bereavement and sore sorrow all over our land; when even the negotiations for reunion be tween the two great Presbyterias churches in Scotland have been entirely discontinued during the war; when no true interest can suffer by referring these two reports to the following assembly; would it not be unwise, un worthy, unpatriotic, strangely lacking in sympathy with the one tremendous issue, to force a needless vote which can only bring division and strife. If contention must come within, let it be de ferred till the war without is ended. E. SCOTT. Montreal, May 14, 1915.

Veritable rivers of humanity poured through the streets leading to the palace of the King. Thousands were packed into the great Quirinal square. The scene which was enacted when his majesty and the members of his family appeared upon a balcony overlooking the square has few parallels in the history of Rome. It was estimated that the crowd numbered several hun-dred thousand. The Roman hosts were carried away upon a flood-tide of Latin enthusiasm when the monarch appeared.

The multitude was so vast that all the people could not enter the square. From the crowd came a sound like the roaring of the sea. The windows on a balcony of Quirinal Palace were opened, and a red damask covering was thrown over the stantly receiving compliments upon its parapet. [Canadlan Press.] Toronto, May 22.—A rather unique case was heard at Osgoode Hall when W. A. Cole, assignee of J. K. Paisley, sued himself as assignee of the Carleton Hotel Company. The plaintiff, as assignee of Paisley, and acting under the assignment act. furnished to himself, as assignee of the Carleton Hotel Company, an affidavit proving a total indebtedness of the company to the Paisley estate of $17,215 under a chattel mortgage, and valued the security at $13.000. As assignee of the company he disputes the claim purporting to impos on himself the necessity of bringing action or forfeiting his right to act as creditor, so he brought action against himself as assignee of the Paisley estate and set up that the notice he furnished himself was irregular. Judge Lennox held that the notice was irregular, and nakes declaration without costs, adding that it was not too clear that the action was necessary. Ten Minutes With the Short-Story Writers

THE FIRE-EATER

BY EDWARD LYNDALL As Col. Stillwell finished reading the missive which he found lying on his writing desk his face flushed with fury and indignation. He struck his fist and exclaimed: "No man shall apply such terms to me and go unscathed!" Then beginning again, he reread the nissive more slowly aloud:

You yellow-hearted cur! You whining whelp! You are the sorriest exhibit of a two-footed anthropoid that ever disgraced the streets of this city! You are too despicable to be worth the cost of this postal to tell you just what you are! But if you will come to the East St. Louis side of the Eads bridge at 1 p.m. today, the writer will have yet more to tell you!

Better come armed; and with a couple of detectives to back you up! It will give you courage! I await ANON. you defiantly! Col. Stillwell was a fire-eating Southerner-a man who, in this base commer

It was 12 o'clock (noon) in St. Louis so lacked just an hour of the time men ioned for the appointment. Without a moment's hesitation he left his office took a hasty lunch, then rode to the end of the bridge which connects St. Louis Missouri, with East St. Louis, Ill.

He had nearly half an hour to spare; but he knew it would take him twent minutes to walk across. And as the day was pleasant he decided to walk. As usual at noon, quite a throng were traversing the bridge on foot, in equipages, or in the cars. The colonel sauntered along slowly, his teeth gritted from time to time mutter-

A Tale of Two Widows

One receives each month a cheque for $100 from The Imperial Life. She lives comfortably in her own home, free from worry or anxiety over money matters.

Her husband, when alive, invested his savings in Imperial monthly income assurance, adding an extra policy every time he felt he could save another dollar a week.

The other woman is a janitress in a down-town office building. Her husband earned just as much as the first man. But he speculated with his savings, and at his death left his widow penniless—in fact, with family debts to pay.

Now what about your widow? Will she be the respected and welcome guest of your present neighbours and acquaintances? Or will she be forced to join the ranks of poorly paid female wage-earners? There's only one answer-if you care.

Write for our booklet "That Home of yours." It's free.

London Tecumsehs Beat Guelph Leafs in One-Sided and Long Drawn Out Contest by Score of 17 to 6 -Three Pitchers Fail To Stop Reisling's Men

[BY BERT PERRY.] oblivious that 6 o'clock is the "quitting time for any hard working official scorer, ball player or sport writer, and that "the eats" were growing colder and colder on the supper table, the London Tecumsehs and the Guelph Maple Leafs played on and on yesterday afternoon until the ninth nnings hove in sight. It wouldn't have been so bad had there been any dougt as to the winner of the said con-test until the ninth inning was played. There might have been something in that to keep one's mind from wander-ing back to where that supper was grow-ing more and more zero-like every monent. But such was not the The game was won, sewed up and carted away by the London ciub along about the sixth inning. There was no doubt about it after that inning, and every-thing that happened after that was merely incidental in playing out the regulation nine innings. It took two long hours and a longer 40 minutes to get those nine innings packed into Canadian League history. London won by the score of 17 to 6, and today our demon athletes top the league standing without a dea streak of generosity that would do credit to Andy Carnegie or Jack D. Rockfeller. Mr. Carney issued four Rockfeller. Mr. Carney issued four passes to the London team during his stay in the box, but Mr. Page made him look like a piker. He produced seven passes in the two and 2-3 innings he remained in the game and four of them came in a row in the sixth inning when the home boys went out and garnered eight runs. Mr. Page just couldn't seem to get along without a few Londoners decorating the bases and he kept putting them on the sacks almost as quickly as they got off them. Tony Dorbeck, the noted fork hand deception dispenser, was finally injected into the pitcher's box and he managed to finish out the game without adding greatly to the wildness of the occasion.

Then the Lonout, and grabbed Isaacs' short fly. It netted a pair of run. Then the London club went out and got that big inning. After that Joseph merely tried to get them over and let them hit. The result was that in the last three innings, the visitors annexed a pair of hits an inning and managed to put across four more runs.

of hits an inning and managed to put across four more runs.

A few of the home folks seized the epportunity of breaking into the league. Ray Whiteraft, Harry Myers and Jack Schaffer, who had not previously offended with a base hit, came through in great style. Harry Myers almost overdid it. The first two times he was up, he couldn't hit anything but two-baggers. The third time he walked and the fourth time, he obliged with a single

The visitors played a loose game in the field, four of the eight runs London got in the sixth coming in on two fly balls that should have been easy outs, but were misjudged.

Nice catches in the field were made by Reidy, Isaacs and Grieves.

The game was all London's. In the third inning, the locals cut loose and from then on it was a parade. The Knotty Lee boys weren't in it for a minute after that third frame. Lee tried three pitchers in his efforts to stop the hard hitting Reisling men but it wasn't a bit of use. A gent named Carney started grooving them for the Leafs but he only lasted a little over three frames. The carnage had started when he was lifted and Mr. Page, who was heated up to succeed him, was blotted out in a little over two spasms. Mr. Page was a most generous person. In fact, both he and Mr. Carney showed a streak of generosity that would do a streak of generosity that would a str

Joe Birmingham Resigns Charge of Cleveland Club

President Somers Not Satisfied With Showing of the Indians This Season. Cleveland, May 21 .- Joe Birmingham for three years manager of the Cleveland

American League Club, today was asked by President Somers to tender his resignation. The request was acceded to at once. Who will take charge of the Indians for the remainder of the season, and whether Birmingham will continue as a player, was not stated. Birmingham took charge of the team in the fall of 1912. In 1913 the team finished third. In 1914 it was last. As a result of claims that the manager was hampered by factions in his team, a clean-out was made. The Indians are now sixth in the race.

President Somers, it is understood, has not been satisfied that Birmingham is getting all out of the team that is possible. The shift of Jackson to first base it is believed, displeased the ownership.

ALL LEADING FED TEAMS

TORONTO, May 21.—With the opening of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting at historic Woodbine Park tomorrow afternoon thoroughbred racing for the season in Canada will be ushered in. As usual, the initial day's proceedings will be featured by the running of the King's Plate, the fifty-fifth renewal of this important annual fixture, when the best of Ontario's produce will face the flag to be despatched on their way over the trying journey of 1½ miles.

From present indications an even dozen will contest for the honor of winning the King's Guineas tomorrow and a more evenly-balanced field has not been seen in this event in twenty years. The many candidates were all given their final work at the O, J. C. course this morning, which was mostly confined to slow jogging or smart breezing at short distances.

The Brookdale stable's Lady Curzon was the only one to be sent any distance. She put in six furlongs in 1:16 2-5. Beau Cheval, her stable companion, went a second slower. The Plaudit-Belle of Mayfair filly, the logical favorite, has done all that has been asked of her with considerable assessince coming to the Woodbine. As the sun pushed its scarlet rim up into the edge of the dawn and stared in pleased surprise at the beautiful girl who was speeding toward the marshy shore, a low gray skiff with a portable motor attached to its stern skipped in and out of the dimness among the black hulls at the river's edge. But the general photoplay public from the first demanded the high-class production. The patrons are not satisfied with horse-play and suggestiveness. The theatre that caters to that class of pictures soon finds itself in the class of undesirables.

Quick to grasp the significance of the public's wants, the theatre owners have selected from the catalogues of producers the class of pictures that will please the most refined tastes. This applies to the comedy as well as the drama or feature film. Among the reels that the photoplay audience of today will not for a moment tolerate is the slap-stick comedy. Not content with staging the commonplace love drama, the big companies are turning to the reproducing of entire books, by eminent novelists, and standard plays. Most recent in this line of photoplay is the "filmizing" of "Enoch Arden," an adaptation of Tenny-son's famed poem, Works of Shakespeare and other matters of English are being faithfully poris that through the medium of the movies the old masters of the language are being brought before ousands, to whom the name of Shakespeare, unfortunately, means less than the nom de plume of the writers of so-called popular fiction.

"The Wicked, Beautiful Face

According to New York artists and sculptors, the most fascinating-ly wicked and seductively beautiful face in the world belongs to Madamoiselle Theda Bara, the Parisian beauty and late leading woman of the Theatre Antoine, Paris, the "house of thrills of the French cap-Famous the country over as the vampire woman of the William Fox productions, "A Fool There Was," "Kreutzer Sonata" and "The Clemenceau Case." Mlle. Bara has probably a bigger personal following today than any other actress on the screen. Her serpent-like beauty and compellingly alluring methods have made her name famous from coast to coast.

In the new screen drama in which she is shortly to be seen, a film version of the famous Gabriel D'Annunzio's "La Giaconda," Mile. Bara portrays an even more ruthless siren than in any of the dramas mentioned in which she created such a sensation. As screened for William Fox, La Giaconda, the masterpiece of the famous author of Cabiria, brings out to the full Mlle. Bara's extraordinary gifts for portrayal of beautiful but soulless women, whose lips scorch like living fire, and whose kiss is destruction. The author himself, who saw "The Clemenceau Case" in Italy, insisted on Mile. Bara's playing the vampire role of Giaconda before he would sign with William Fox for the film main outlines of the battle have been dealt with already. We know what troops took part in it and how they hore themselves, but the thousand vivid and intimate episodes seen between two blasts of gunfire or recounted by men met by chance in some temporary shelter can never all be Yet they are too characteristic in their unconsciousness to be left without an attempt at a record, so I give a little handful from a great harvest.

Paymaster Takes to Trenches. In the days before the battle when the Canadian lived for the most part in and about Sailly whence one saw, as I have already written, the German rench flare like northern lights on the horizon, Hon.-Captain Costigan, of Calgary, was the field cashier and lived as the field cashier must, decently remote from the firing line. Then came the great attack that proved Canada. and the German flares advanced and adof the question. Capt. Scrimger, medivanced till they no longer resembled | cal officer attached to the Royal Monlickering auroras but the sizzling electric arc lights of a great city. Captain stigan locked up his pay chest and abolished his office with the words: "There is no paymaster".

Next, sinking his rank as honorary captain, he applied for work in the trenches and went off, a lleutenant and Lieut. Thompson (3rd Brigade of the 10th Canadians who needed officers; he was seen no more until Monhis office, which had been moved to a cellar at the rear and was at the noment in charge of a sergeant. But he had only returned to invelgle some officer with a gift for accounts into the paymastership. This arranged, he sped back to his 10th Battalion. Capt. McGregor's Gallantry.

He was not the only one of his department who served as a combatant on that day. Hon.-Captain McGregor, of British Columbia, for example, had been paymaster of the Canadian Scot-16th Battalion. He too, armed with a cane and revolver, went forward at his own desire to hand-to-hand lighting in the wood where he was killed fighting gallantly to the last.

The case of Major Guthrie, of New Brunswick, is somewhat similar. He the 12th Battalion, still in England, but was then at the front, in some legal military capacity connected with courtmartials.

He, like Captain Costigan had asked might quite possibly find himself in comrades with their wounds dressed, command of what was left of the 10th, dead of fresh wounds by the bayonets. when he found it. "I'll go a lieutenant, of course," he said, and is a lieutenant he went.

French-Canadian's Bravery. The grim practical joking of fate illustrated by the adventures of Captain Hercule Barre, a hard-bitcal attendance continued unbroken and ten French-Canadian who fought well and spoke English imperfectly. Of the men working in the school, perhaps half have been mobilized and subsequently sent back to Bourges from their regiments, because what they can do there is of more value than their presence in the trenches. Thus, one beholds a soldler in uniform sitting on the same workbench with a girl or old man, all intent on the same task.

The manufacture of fuses alone keeps many hundreds busy. There are four hundred machines engaged on this work, and half of them are of American make. I saw a change-gear table, printed in English, on the wall of one loom made by the Acme Company of Cleveland.

After her arrest evidence was found that she was the leader of an espionage band, but though she confessed being a German agent she denied the existence of confederates. She died very gamely, they say, and what little she had learned of military mysteries per-lished with her.

Chicago, Ill., May 22. — Unfavorable domestic crop reports and higher foreign quotations gave the wheat market today an upward slant. In particular, the bulls made much, of statements that late seeding throughout Southern Illinois was virtually a total failure. Notice was also taken of advices that most of the reserve stock in Argentina had laready been shipped or arranged for. The market here, after opening unchanged to 1%c up, scored material gains all around before beginning to react.

Winnipeg, May 21.-Trading on the wheat market was quiet in all departthe face of the delightful hospitality extended to me by officials of the workshops, how thick is the wall which screens the secrets of armament from too curious eyes. Yet in the double lines of sentries outside and inside, the feeling of being under constant observation and the knowledge that specially-trained military detectives were at every hand, there was ample evidence of incessant watchfulness.

At Le Creusot, which lies in a hollow among steeply rising hills, one catches sight against the skyline of big antiaircraft guns, awaiting the possible coming of Zeppelins or Taubes. They haven't come yet, but the distance from the nearest point in the German lines is easy by air route.

For miles around both Bourges and Le Creusot motor cars are constantly halted and their occupants interrogated by territorial highway guards, and a vast cordon of outcoats stands always.

Wheat market was quiet in all departments. News is being awaited regarding the political situation, few traders being inclined to do business at the moment. Fluctuations were within narrow limits, prices holding steady. The weather chart shows temperature more favorable over the Canadian west; at only one or two points freezing was reached.

The cash demand was much quieter, or inquiry for No. 3 northern was the extent of business in wheat; other grades were not asked for. Low grade odats, barley and flax were wanted, but offerings were few.

TRADING IN STOCKS DROPPED CONSIDERABLY

New York, May 22.—Weekly market summary: The foreign situation continued to dominate financial affairs this week, increased caution being manifested in all quarters. Trading in stocks fell to an average daily output of 200,000 to 350,000 shares, instead of the million shares sessions of previous weeks.

In the main prices held steady.

There was occasional evidence of further foreign liquidation, and the very delicate state of Europe's finances was reflected in new low rates for exchange reflected in new low rates for exchange to all European centres.

Domestic developments were mostly favorable, although reports of damage to winter wheat affected prices of grain. All trustworthy accounts agree that many mercantile lines of trade show steady improvement, but disappointment is expressed at the continued lack of demand for railroad equipment.

Making Rent

said a London builder to our manager a few days ago. "More houses are going up in London on that basis this year than ever before: and if more Rent Payers only knew the simple method of making their Rent Money buy their own homes, we would be swamped with building orders."

This information and particulars is of tremendous value to all persons paying rent, and the saving made in one year by those who know and use this method, is so startling that you should have the benefit of this knowledge today. It is yours for the asking.

10 acres in a thriving village, soil half black and half sandy loam, 1½-story frame house, cement foundation and cellar, 4 bedrooms, frame barn, henhouse, wire fences, town water in the house, ½-acre orchard of peaches, pears and plums, ¼-acre raspberries, one block to school, three blocks to church. This is a first-class property to subdivide. Write or call for further particulars. Price has been reduced from $2,500 to $2,000, half cash and balance to suit purchaser. Work started on four more houses in Manor Park this week. This makes twenty new homes for Manor Park this season, and many more will be added to this number before long. At the present time the following well-known building contractors - Mr. Thos. Baker (of Dyment-Baker Lumber Co.), Geo. Roberts & Son, the London contracting Co .- and others have gangs of men building houses in Manor Park. A great many homes will be built on this property this summer, and as an investment we recommend the buying of Manor Park lots

Nothing Is Too Good For That Boy or Girl of Yours

You try in every way to shield them from hardships of all kinds. You buy the warmest clothing in winter and the coolest in summer for them. If they become ill you immediately send for a physician. You will not allow them trashy candy or cakes containing adulterants. But are you as particular about the bread you use at each meal? Do you give your children and your family the most important article of their diet without considering how it is made, of what it is made, and under what conditions it is made? In a nutshell, do you feed them bread made in a bakery that you know

Parnell's Breads

Are made of only the purest of ingredients: Purity Flour, Fleischman's Yeast, Redpath's Sugar, Salt, Malt and London water filtered. Men who have had years of experience in making bread are employed by us, and our bakery is the most sanitary and up-to-date building of its kind in Canada. Why, even our drivers take particular pride in delivering our bread to you in the cleanest way possible.

If you have never tried PARNELL'S breads, we want to send you a sample loaf today. A phone call or a postal will bring it to you. We would also like to have you make a tour of inspection of our bakery.
