Local Council of Women Will Start Campaign to "Swat the Fly"

Cash Prizes Are Offered and Will Be Paid to Those Who Prove Themselves the Most Successful "Swattists."

CAMPAIGN OPENS AUGUST 1 AND WILL CONCLUDE SEPT. 1

It Will Be Run in Conjunction With th Health Department of London---Flies To Be Brought to Dr. Hutchinson, M. H. O.

As announced in The Advertiser some days ago, the city of London is to have a "Swat the Fly" cam-

Some time ago, Mrs. H. A. Boomer, of the Local Council of Women, donated the sum of twenty-five dollars to be given away in prizes for the killing of flies.

The Local Council of Women at once took the matter up, and have decided to begin the campaign on Aug. 1 and to continue the battle until Sept. 1.

The prizes are as follows: First prize, $10. Second prize, $5. Third prize, $2. Fourth prize, $1.

In addition, a number of other one-dollar prizes will be given.

COUNTING THE FLIES.

The flies are to be taken to Dr. T. V. Hutchinson, medical health officer of London, at his office in the city hall. He will weigh the flies, and the person who has the greatest number will be given first money, and the person with the second largest number second

The campaign is being run in conjunction with the health department of the city.

In Ottawa, it is estimated that 458,000 flies were killed in the campaign there.

Here is what one fly will do in a single season: A fly will lay six or more batches of eggs of from 150 to 200 each, and in the course of a summer will be the head of a family of children, grandchildren and other relatives numbering a million able-bodied flies.

Every fly is a scavenger. It lives on filth, and is not satisfied alone with living on it, but it carries it around as well. A miscroscope will show a fly to be covered with microbes. These are carried from the sewer, the slaughter-house and the carrion to the baby in the cradle, to the food on the table, and to the room of the sick. Swat the fly. Stop its traffic. Every time you kill a fly you stop the carrying of disease by it and probably wipe out the root of a family tree of a million

WATERS RACE

Telephone Warns of Cloudburst and Inhabitants Make Wild Rush for High Ground.

[Canadian Press.] Pittsburg, Pa., July 25. - Early morning hours brought at least one joy to thousands of flood sufferers in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, and West Virginia, and that was day light. Camp fires, candles and oil lamps had shown the scene of devastation wrought by torrential rains in weird fashion, and all were thankful that darkness had passed.

Everywhere there was a picture of widespread desolation—a vivid reminder of the swirling, raging waters that had taken many human lives and caused much ruin. Three Score Dead.

During the night meagre reports filtered that, if later verified, will run the list of fatalities up to 61. The places and the number reported to

AMITY FOR ALL SAYS MR. ASQUITH

And British Premier Singles Out Germany for Special Mention.

MUTUAL CONCESSIONS

Questions That a Decade Ago Might Have Caused War Are Easily Smoothed Out.

[Canadian Press.] London, July 25. - Amity and goodwill for all, with Germany singled out for special mention, formed the keynote of a statement made by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons this afternoon in connection with the estimates for the committee of imperial defence.

For the past decade, Mr. Asquith undergoing construction on perfectly settled and definite lines. He continued:

"We have cultivated with great and growing cordiality on both sides our special international friendships. They have stood the test of time and the test of bad as well as of good weather, and questions which ten or fifteen years ago might have caused ill-feel-

"But our friendship for them is not in any sense exclusive. I say deliber-ately we have no cause for quarreling with any country in any part of the world. We view without the least suspicion and with perfect equanimity such special conversations as that be-tween the Emperor of Russia and the German Emperor. Our relations with the great German Empire are relations of amity and goodwill."

The Conversations.

The Premier mentioned that the "conversations" started at Berlin by Viscount Haldane, former British secretary of state for war, and now high chancellor, had been continued since "in a spirit of frankness and riendship on both sides."

Mr. Asquith added a word of welcome to the "distinguished diplomatist," Baron Marschall Von Bleberstein, the new German ambassador at London, whom Emperor William has sent to

MORAL ASPECT IS SPLENDID

Lads Are Going Through Some Strenuous Drills and Are Standing Course Well.

Today has been the banner day for the cadets at the London camp. The cool weather and the rain of Wednesday have made ideal conditions adapted to camp life, with the result that the drill instructors and the boys themselves are putting forth their best efforts and are working hard to attain efficiency in their work. They have not forgotten, either, the trophies which can be won through their behavior in camp, and are striving to have some of the good things come their way.

All morning exercises in military drill, physical drill and field skirmishing have been going on, with short intermissions for breathing spells. The oys are standing the test well. The officers and supervisors are well satisfied with the results that are being Advertiser reporter this morning, all expressed favorable views.

Mr. J. E. Tom, public school inspector for West Huron, and who accompanied the Goderich corp to London, "I am greatly pleased to think that the boys are getting such a splendid course. Everything is orderly, supervision good, grounds are excellent, and it certainly will be a well-spent week. What has been done this year will quickly spread, and will bring a much larger number from Goderich next year. GUN-MEN STILL AT LARGE

New York Police, Nine Days After Crime, Fail to Land Rosenthal's Slayers.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, July 25 .- Efforts to disclose the real conspirators who plotted the death of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, have been balked for the time by the fallure of the police to round up the gang of gun-men who murdered Rosenthal in front of the Metropole Hotel. Nine days have now clapsed since the gambler was slain, Meeting Rev. R. Segsworth, pastor and with the exception of Harry Valby the police, though several of the gun-men have been seen in the city during the past week.

District Attorney Whitman is giving his undivided attention to unravelling the tangled threads of evidence, and Commissioner Dougherty, Witman and Dougherty believe that "Bald Jack" Rose was the managing mind behind the murder plot, and from one of two of the prisoners now held in connection with the case they hope to obtain a confession that will vince Rose that he had better turn state's evidence. Will Rose "Squeal"?

Rose is still firm in the belief that the "Police System" will protect him and halts at turning state's evidence, though the public prosecutor has made it known that Rose will be treated with leniency if he discloses the names of the real conspirators. The grand jury planned to continue today its investigation into the gamb-ling charges made by Rosenthal, and will probably recall Otto Aversik, the chauffeur, who drove Police Lieut. Becker around town the night of the murder. It has been learned that Aversik, after his recent testimony before the grand jury, scurried at once to Becker and told him all that he

the Incinerator Next Week.

Work on the garbage incinerator will be commenced next week, it is stated, and it will be erected on the stub end of Waterloo street on the banks of the Thames, just off Nelson street.

The contract was awarded to a Montreal firm in May last it being stipulated that work must be com-menced within 90 days. To this the Montreal firm agreed and at the present time have notices out that tenders for the building, etc., will be received by them. It is under-stood at the city hall that the contract will be awarded on Friday, so that the successful tenderer may commence work the next week. The plant will be in operation in October. "The Montreal firm agreed to have as much work done in London as possible, said City Engineer Wright. "In accordance with that promise tenders are being called for the brick work, etc. Construction will be commenced shortly, and the building will be erected on the stub end of Waterloo street, on the river bank."

Failure of the MacKenzie-Mann Interests to Secure Money to Finance the Big Merger Will Have Some Effect in This City—The Situation at Present.

Power and Development Company of Hamilton will have some influence on the local power situation. The reason given for the end of negotiations, mainly the failure of the combination to raise the necessary money in England for the purpose of merging the electrical interests, is accepted here as true. The sale of the London Electric Company will not be seriously interfered with, the deal having been practically consummated, and as the purchasers are responsible there is no reason to prevent the shareholders from obtaining the purchase price.

The Merger. According to the statement made here, it was the intention of the Mac-Kenzie-Mann interests to merge all the power companies in the province to make a united stand against the The Electrical Development Company, the Cataract Power Company, the Toronto General Electric Company, and many others of less importance, were to be included in one large company that would dominate, not only the power situation, but the traction situation throughout the province. The first intimation of the accident received was when the canoe with Scott's ceived was when the canoe with Scott's coat was picked up below the rapids by a party coming from the Michigan Soo. Webber later made his way to the police station and gave details of the trip down. The body has not yet been recovered, but Captain Scott, of Collingwood, will remain in the Soo today and attempt to find it.

Assistant District Attorney Moss then testified to the story Reissler had told previously to the district at-torney and himself, Reissler was then questioned by H. T. Marshall, counsel for Webber. The witness seemed more terrifled than ever and to each question replied:
"I think so, but in all the excite-

New York, July 24.-No apparent progress was made today in locating the men who are wanted for the actual killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, or in tracing the plot back to the policeman that the district attorney and Deputy Commissioner Dougherty believe had most at stake in the mur-

Rose himself tells for the first time of his relations with Rosenthal and with Recker. He denies that he had any knowledge even that Rosenthal was to be killed, and he says that his activities in obtaining the afridavit from Dora Gilbert were as much on his own account as on Becker's. Rosenthal had attacked him as well as Becker in the affidavit, and he was just as sensitive about aspersions on his character as Becker was.

Burns on the Job.

The W. J. Burns detective agency informed the district attorney that their men have gone to work on the Rosenthal case, and that every bit of resourcefulness and energy they possess will be directed toward g tting at the truth. It was said that 23 Burns men have a ready been detailed for the work, and that Mr. Burns himself, when he returns to New York in a day or two, will devote his entire time to the investigation. #### MINISTER OF MARINE TALKS OF THE NAVY

Says No Partnership With the Mother Country Is Wanted Without Voice in Councils.

London, July 25.—Replying to a deputation of the Maritime League yesterday, Hon. J. O. Hazen declared the question of protection to trade routes in time of war by the conversion of merchant ships into cruisers hadn't been overlooked by the Canadian Government and, further, he was sure he revealed no confiden by saying this important question had been the subject of negotiations by the admiralty.

"Speaking of our mission here, I think there is a very strong feeling among the people and the electorate of Canada in favor of Canada doing something that may be regarded as fairly substantial towards the defence of the Empire. We realize we owe a great deal to the protection of the British power ways. tish navy. We realize our existence as a Dominion in very large measure de-pends on it at the present time. It would be premature and improper for me to say what will be the result of our visit here," he said.

Referring to the question of a permanent naval policy, Hon. Mr. Hazen said if the Dominion participated she must be adebuately represented at the ouncils. The feeling in Canada is that there can be no partnership with-out a voice in the management of

Yet Missouri was one of the pioneer states within living memory. If it is feeling the drain to the less-developed states, and even to the Canadian west, it is no wonder that Ontario has been depopulated by the same causes. Ontario has mothered the four western provinces, and is still mothering them. It is her farms that suffer from the double attraction of the west and of her own industrial centres. How to repeople the soil is her greatest economic problem. The paragraph in the St. Louis Republic may be applied to Ontario with the change of a few words: "With all her population and many of our sons and daughters to other lands and other provinces. We need them at home-cannot spare them to the west, A great new programme of provincial development must be worked out. We have scores of water powers to harness, millions of acres of hich lands not yet settled or not being worked to their full productivity, mineral wealth untold crowing! awaiting the pick, infant industries whose development will bring tens of thousands of new citizens in at our gates."

NO CAUSE FOR PANIC.

"Britain, under Churchill's programme, is to proceed, with almost feverish haste, to strengthen her naval forces. Canada can well afjoin in the task. A permanent naval policy for this country is much to be desired, and the principle underlying the Laurier policy is as sound today as wher first propounded. But that policy did not shrink from immediate contributions of ships, money and men if the need arose. It may well that the need is close at hand. It may well be If there is danger, and if to meet that danger the people of the British Isles are straining every nerve, then we Canadians canno wait for the development of a permanent policy to range ourselves our brethren, but must act promptly, in helping to present to the world the spectacle United Empire."-Montreal Herald.

The usually well-poised Herald has evidently misread Mr. Churchill's speech. "Feverish" action of any kind he deprecated, In the cabled summary, of his speech on Monday is this warning against "raw haste, half-sister to delay":

Mr. Churchill, discussing the general question of the growth of mod-ern navies, said cool, steady and preparation prolonged over successive years could alone raise the margin of naval power. "It was useless flinging money about on the impulse of the moment. strain we should have to bear would be long and slow. No relief could be gained from impulsive and erratic We should learn from our German neighbors the way in which policy marches unswervingly to its goal. We must have an ample marof strength instantly There must be steady and systematic development of our naval forces, untiringly directed and pursued over a number of years."

Again Mr. Churchill yesterday de clared: "There is no cause for panic or alarm." The policy laid down by the First Lord of the Admiralty ought to take the fever out of the naval situation. The maintenance of a margin of 60 per cent, over the German naval strength is ample security and is to be attained, as Mr. Churchill says, by cool, steady and methodical measures. A Canadian gift of Dreadnoughts to the mother country at this juneture would be "impulsive and erratic," a flinging about of money "on the impulse of the moment." It would, of course, increase the margin of British superiority by over 60 per cent, but as 60 per cent. is sufficient, the increase would be useless expenditure. The money should be put into Canadian ships. Had the past year not been wasted by the partisan exigencies of the Canadian Government, a number of Canadian cruisers would now be almost ready for launching. It is now proposed to further postpone the construction of a Canadian navy for some years because the Borden Government is averse to a general election in the immediate future. In the meantime from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000 of Canadian money is to be spent abroad, on the pretence of an emergency which the First Lord of Admiralty says does not exist.

THE CANADIAN-WEST INDIES TREATY ATTACKED.

There is some acrid criticism Great Britain of the trade treaty beween Canada and a number of West rice; the cocoa beans of Ceylon, which have been found peculiarly suitable to the Canadian market, will be displaced in favor of the cocoa beans of the Western Islands. "These are merely examples of the incongruities which make the agreement as much an em- line arts. pire-dividing as an empire-binding instrument," says the Manchester Guar-

The Imperial tie is stronger when it is not a fetter. In this country last year politicians were preaching that if Canada regarded her purely economic interest by securing a free American market the tie would be weakened. It was not good reasoning then, and it is not good reasoning now. If we can do a profitable stroke of business with the West Indies, we should not be prevented by our political relationship to the East Indies. The present treaty even involves discrimination by Canada against the West Indian Islands which refuse to subscribe to the treaty, but even this should be permissible. The Guardian, however, makes out a stronger case against the treaty when it says: "The articles on which a preference is to be conceded to Canada, and on which, therefore, protective duties will have to be placed when they are imported from foreign countries, include most ordinary commodities of food and clothing. The West Indian negroes are near enough as it is but negroes are poor enough as it is, but their case will be worse when and if the new duties become operative. The cost of living will be raised to ill-paid natives for no other reason than in order to comply with the commercial demands of comparatively small groups of white inhabit-ants, and to enable Canadian traders to undersell Americans."

If it is true that the treaty will raise the cost of living to the poor blacks, wealth, Ontario is an empire but it. The Guardian advises the British half-developed. We have lost too Government to veto it, on the ground Government to veto it, on the ground that the West Indies are crown colonies, not self-governing communities. But it would not be politic to cross the white inhabitants of the islands who favor the treaty. And what cruelty to Mr. Foster to kill his lone chick, over which he has done so much Imperial

SECRET SOCIETIES [By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

THE EARLY

A great many religious people enertain a prejudice against secret societies. The Order of Freemasons receives probably more criticism than any other order, and yet this society bases all its ritual upon the Bible, and is throughout profoundly religious. It is true that Freemasonry in France has renounced religion, but, so far as I know, this is the only instance of defection among all the modern brotherhoods. It ought to be interesting to the uninitiated to learn that not only are the modern orders religious throughout, but the earliest secret societies of which we have knowledge were deeply spiritual in their aims. In the Graeco-Roman world private associations of the worshippers of some local god or hero existed as far back as the fourth century before Christ. The data available regarding the Eleusinian and other mystery societies are very meagre, but students of the classics have succeeded in gathering together some important material, which shows that men banded together in secret associations owing to the pressure of religious need.

The latest results of patient research on this question have been set forth by Professor H. A. Kennedy, late of Knox College, Toronto, in a learned English review, "The Expositor." As Professor Kennedy is a New Testament scholar, he entered upon this task with the hope that he might discover the indebtedness of St. Paul in metaphor and public generally.

Hitherto Labor journals have been thought to the ancient mystery societies. New York, July 25 .- The Roosevelt, the steamer on which Rear Admiral Peary sailed into the Arctic seas in his trip to the North Pole, has been sold at auction here. After bids started at $10,000, and jumped by thous-ands and then by hundreds, the Roosevelt was bought for $35,200 by H; E McDermott.

The Arctic vessel was one of six of the wrecking fleet owned by the late John Arbuckle, the Brooklyn coffee man, who is said to have paid about $40,000 for the Roosevelt. Her original cost was more than $100,000, owing to the construction of the hull to meet ice pressure.

A Tailored Suit by Beers Is Described in Today's Foreign Mail From Our Dress Expert.

(By Mabelle Mortimer)

Beers makes as near "strictly tailored suit" as is possible for a French designer to conceive, Permo cloth -which is a soft wool satin-is much used by the house of Beers for its costumes this coming fall. The threepiece suit of which I am sending a picture is made of Permo cloth of pastel olive green. It shows the use slightly more material in the skirt. This is provided, however, by additional length through a draped effect -and not through increased width. ... The skirt is mounted to a high inside belt, and is finished with a folded sash, having double loop ends, which show at the side.

The coat has a slightly draped front and is belted at the back. The Directoire collar and revers are of white satin. The buttons are of brown and green galalith inlaid with silver. The sleeves are full length, coat

Notice the queer little slash at the back of the bottom of the skirt and the peculiar way the back of the coat is cut to button over the belt. There is a good deal of fullness over the hips and the length of the skirt will be abhorrent to Americans, who have become used to the freedom of the short skirt.

A Mother's Kind Offer

Dear Miss Grey: I am a reader of your paper. I have never written you before; am now going to ask you to help me. I have a little boy of ten years, whose health is not very good, but is able to go about; he has no little brother or sister, as he is the youngest of seven, and the others are all grown up. I was reading your page and saw where a farmer's wife had asked for a lady to visit her; now, I do not want a lady to visit me, but if there is a nice little boy that would come and spend his vacation with my little boy, I would consider it a great pleasure, as my boy is so lonely. He is gentle and unselfish, and I am sure any little boy 8 or 10 years would put in a delightful vacation with him. Anyone wishing to let me have their boy for the holidays will get my address at The Advertiser office.

Wanted-More Guardían Angels By Beatrice Fairfax.

The girl who has a good, sensible mother, and who heeds that mother, has

e guardian angel sufficient for all earthly needs.

But there are girls whose mothers are weak, inane, and lack judgment, chough it be heresy to say it. And there are also girls whose mothers are with the real angels. For the girls who are motherless in either way, there should be more

Suardian angels. Relatives, good friends, teachers, the policemen and all the laws of the land are not sufficient to keep such girls from destruction when they once set their feet that way. They fall in love with the wrong man. All who are interested in a girl's hest interests argue, command, threaten and implore. All of which does no good. The girl, apt in the language of romance, believes she is "constant," and takes pride in the word. There is a word not so pretty which describes her better—"stubborn." So tubborn is she that with a realization of the pitfalls before her she walks right into them rather than turn about and admit she has been travelling a Under this word "stubborn," I would class the writer of the following let-

She concedes that all the warnings her relatives give her are based on fact, but continues on the path which will lead to her sorrow. PLENTY OF ADVICE.

She asks advice. Are not her relatives giving it till they are black in the face? Haven't they shouted themselves hoarse with their warnings?
"I keep company," she writes, "with a young man who is very kind to me. de always dresses neatly and comes to see me three times a week. I have no father or mother. I live with my older sister.

"My folks say he is not truthful, and that he is a heavy drinker. I have been told by friends, also, that after he has left me at night he has been seen coming out of saloons drunk as can be. Half the time he does not work, and everyone says he can hardly support himself, much less a wife I have seen him often when he had drink in him. "Because I go with him, I am on bad terms with my brother and brother-

Do? What shall she do? Run from the fire as fast as she can! There an be no half way measures. The man isn't truthful. He doesn't earn more than enough to support himself, and he gets drunk, To offset all these vices, she enumerates but one virtue: He is "kind" It would be more to her interest, if she knew how to be kind to herself.

If she were kind to herself she would know that no man who drinks can be kind to a girl by paying her attention.

The only way he can be kind is to never go near her, or write.

THE ONLY WAY. The only way left for him to be kind to any woman is to let that woman remain in ignorance of his existence. If he can't reform, in no other way can he be kind, and he is not kind to the woman to whom he gives the task of reforming him. If he cut her to death by inches he would be more humane.

The advice this girl's relatives give her is the best there is. No one could give her better. She owes it to them to take it.

She need not hope for anything but sorrow if she marries him, and it is may earnest opinion that sorrow is what she wants, unless she goes to her relatives and acknowledge she has been in the wrong.

It may be hard to admit he has been stubborn. But such an admission fastened under the white leather will be easy compared with what the future has in store, unless she does.

A READER OF YOUR PAPER. A.—Mother's Day was instituted five years ago by a Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia. The observance was begun by a notice being inserted in a church magazine, asking every son and daughter to honor the name of mother by wearing as a token a white carnation on the second Sunday of May Miss Jarvis' request met with immediate response by subscribers to the magazine. The next year notices were inserted in the daily newspapers, and the movement soon became most popular, not only in American cities, but also in many parts of Canada, Eng-land, Japan, and Germany. It has been recognized in London for the past three years.

A Correction.

In the article re the Royal Colonial Institute published in a recent issue t was implied that Mr. A. R. Roche occupied a Government office in Winnipeg, when that city was known as Red River. This, Mrs. Boomer states, is slightly erroneous. She writes: "He never was in the old settlement himself, but his articles on the subject of the Hudson Bay Company crept in at ntervals, arousing much feeling for and against. It was my brother-in-law, Judge Johnson (afterwards Sir Francis G. Johnson), who was at one time governor there under the Hudson Bay Company, and afterwards sent there by the Canadian Government to install the new order of things under their changed legal aspect. The founding of the Royal Colonial Institute was an aftermath of that first seed-planting when Canada had asserted her rights.

THE REJUVENATING OF AUNT JANE By "Ine Nomad."

It was perfectly clear that Aunt Jane needed rejuvenating Everybody in the Skimins' household said so, when she arrived for a two

She did not play bridge, Had no use for suffragettes. Hated ragtime music. Didn't care for baseball. Wore old-fashioned clothes.

So nicely persistent were the Skimins' family, that presently Aunt Jane herself began to think she needed rejuvenating. Then they set about the good work

She was corseted a la mode. High-heeled shoes were purchased. They squeezed her into a tight skirt. Some "peek-a-boo" waists were bought. So was a freakish hat.

And she looked "quite elegant," said the Skimins' folks. But felt thoroughly miserable and uncomfortable. Then they took her to a band concert. The selections were excellent-what one could hear of them. But everybody talked so loud the music was nearly drowned out, and Aunt Jane, tramping about in the semi-darkness with her new high-heeled shoes, nearly sprained her ankle.

But she was being rejuvenated. The next step in the process was a "pink" tea. Here Aunt Jane was to meet. number of women whose ideas would help her to "broaden out."

And the afternoon passed. In turn, a suffragette, a bridge fiend, and a baseball enthusiast, devoted half-an-hour to Aunt Jane. And she was bored Keep your microbes for older people if you feel that you must kiss someto death, but listened to each, and dutifully strove to feel "broadened out."

Thus the rejuvenating went on, steadily and systematically. Transmit your million or so of germs to someone your own size. Baby's mouth should be washed out daily with a weak solution of boracic Picnics were held in honor of Aunt Jane, and she smilingly swallowed salad, and cucumber pickles, and ice cream cones, and suffered torment afterwards. acid. This will, perhaps, counteract the trouble made by someone who kisses

But it was worth everything to be rejuvenated, and up-to-date. So the Skimins' said, Then a terrible thing happened. Johnnie Skimins fell ill. Father was out of town. Mother was playing bridge, somewhere.

Sister was out canoeing,

Brother was at baseball game.

What was to be done? Aunt Jane rose to the occasion. She sent for the nearest doctor. She re-lieved Johnnie's sufferings all she could. Then deliberately and daringly, Aunt Jane went to her room.

She discarded her high-heeled shoes and stylish clothes! Donned a plain muslin dress, rather old-fashioned, and a pair of house shoes. Then delving down into her trunk she brought out a white apron. The original Aunt Jane had returned! And how comfortable she felt!

Then she ministered to Johnnie until the doctor came. And the doctor commended her work, and as he talked, they discovered two wonderful truths. They were old sweethearts, Had quarrelled over a trivial matter, But loved each other very dearly, still,

And he laughed when she told him about the rejuvenating. Said he liked her best just as she was. So the rejuvenating of Aunt, Jane ceased, She is as old-fashioned as ever.

And the Skimins' say it is very unfortunate.

But Aunt Jane is perfectly happy.

London R. C. be played this afternoon between Skip R. B. Rice's Queen City four and Skip A. A. Langford's Thistles, of this city. The semi-finals were reached early last evening, and the rinks named justified the good opinion held of them by bowlers, by winning from their opponents.

The semi-finals were well played games. Rice was pitted against Hoover, of Clinton, one of the best skips attending the tourney. The northerners had been playing great bowls all through the tourney, and it was expected that the game would be the most brilliant of the tourney. The large gallery following the play were large gallery following the play were not disappointed, as the bowling was excellent, but the Clinton rink did not show the form expected of them. Not one of the four played the kind of a game shown in the earlier contests, game shown in the earlier contests, and Rice got away to a running start. The Queen City quartette were all up to their best game. Sykes, the lead, kerr, the second man, and Phelps, the third player, could be relied upon to deliver the necessary bowl in the right place, and Dr. Rice himself was in rare form. It is seldem that four players can be gathered on a rink, who play such a uniformly good game. who play such a uniformly good game. After the first few ends there was no doubt who would be the winner. It was a fine contest, truly played.

Langford and Tom McCurdy fur-nished the most exciting contest of Langford and Tom McCurdy furnished the most exciting contest of the series, so much depending on the result. McCurdy lost literally by a hair's breadth in the last end.

During the whole game the two rinks see-sawed in the leadership. First one would be ahead and then the other until the interest of the spectators was worked up to a high pitch. When the last end was commenced, McCurdy was one up, and bowling splendidly. Owing to good work on King's part, the Stratford man was lying shot. Claude Bluett placed a beauty within a few inches of the kitty. Manion could not get the shot away, and it was up to Langford to draw another shot to win the game. "Longboat," as he is called by his club mates, did not fail his rink, but laid down a beautiful bowl. London lying two. Tom McCurdy endeavored to trail the kitty a few inches into a cluster of Stratford bowls, but missed it by a bare fraction with his first bowl. Langford's second was not good. It was up to McCurdy on his last bowl. He again tried an overthrow to take the kitty, but again missed by a bare inch. It looked as if his bowl would be shot, but it wobbled just out of range. There was no question about Langford having one shot, but it was necessary to measure for second, and fortune favored the home skip, and he contained the contained the home skip, and he contained the home skip

A large gallery followed this game. The Thistle rink skip is president of his club and his club mates did not fail to show how much they thought of him. McCurdy was not with-out his friends, and the brilliant Stratford skip was given many an ovation for his great playing.

Hoover's Clinton four bowled a wonderfully good game against George Nightingale's Thistles in the fifth round. Courtice, the lead, and Tayround. Courtice, the lead, and Tay-lor, the third player, were in particu-larly good form, and repeatedly made almost impossible shots. It can be said, without detracting from the consistently good bowling of Skip Hoover, who is one of the most reliable players in the game that it was the work of Courtice and Taylor that made the Clinton four so comfortable winners. Nightingale did not show his usual ability with running shots.

Langford trimmed Dr. Wiley, of the Brantford Heathers, a former winner of the Labatt trophy. It was a tight game until the last few ends, when Langford drew away, winning by a comfortable margin. comfortable margin.

The Tecumseh trophy competition has reached the sixth round, the rinks remaining being Frank Smoke, Paris:

Montreal, July 24.- "Stop booking passengers westbound from England until further notice." This is a cable just received by the agents of the Canadian Northern Steamship Com-pany. The homeward rush of Canadians and Americans has begun and will be on in earnest next month. All C. P. R., Allan, White Star and other boats of leading lines due to sail for the next few weeks from British ports for Montreal and New York are booked up to the limit, Many passengers who did not buy return tickets when they left here, now find they cannot buy first or second class accommodation on any boats sailing westbound during next month, and have been forced to reserve accommodation in the steerage. Some wellto-do passengers, it is said, have bought a third-clas sticket.

CLEMENCEAU ATTACKS NEW ELECTORAL BILL

Letter to Former French Premier Poincare.

[Canadian Press.] Paris, July 24. - Senator Clemenceau, formerly premier, today opened the senatorial opposition to the electoral reform bill, adopted by the Chamber of Deputies on July 19 by a vote of 339 to 217. M. Clemenceau's takes the form of a somewhat sensational open letter addressed to Premier Raymond Poincare, attacking his attempt in carrying the bill through the Lower House of Parliament. The bill provides for the abolition of the system of small constituencies, established in 1876, whereby each elector votes for one deputy only, and substitutes for it the system of list voting, by which each elector votes for as many deputies as the entire department has to elect. It also introduces a system to provide for the representation of minorities, by which after the poll is taken the total number of actual voters in the department is divided by the

M. Clemenceau, who is the leading opponent of the plan to extend representation to the minority party in the election of deputies, in substitution for the majority system, argues that Premier Poincare carried the bill in the Chamber of eputies, not by the normal Republican majority, but with the help of the votes of reactionaries and revolutionists, who will desert at the first opportunity. He contends that the majority rule made by the French revolution is the foundation of the French Republic, and is the surest guarantee for the future, and any abandonment of it will be a "disas-trous mistake." The complicated system of proportionate representation will, according to M. Clemenceau, never be understood by and never please the voters, and at the very least will cause Frenchmen to lose interest in the future in elections, which as hitherto conducted, have been a "high guarantee of civil peace." An Adams Express Train In Wreck by Collision With Freight. [Canadian Press.]

Stonington, Conn., July 25.—Three men were killed and four injured in the side-swiping of a freight train by the eastbound Adams express train at the Stonington Junction yards of the N. Y., N. H. and H. Railroad this morning.

The freight which was also towing another locomotive, was coming into the yards when the express came along. There was not sufficient clear room, and the express engine struck the freight engine, both toppling over completely wrecked. Two cars of the express were also wrecked, the wreckage taking fire. The flames were put out by the Stonington fire department. In one of the wrecked cars were a number of polo ponies, and two of these were killed. In the wrecked car of the express were three automobiles, and these were ruined.

QUAINT OLD FLORIST ENDS HIS CAREER

Addresses Sensational Open Bowery Loses Picturesque Character in Death of Adolph Le Moult.

New York, July 24.-There was note of sadness along the Bowery today when word came down from the Bronz that Adolphe Le Moult, the old florist, whose Bowery shop long has been the source of much sentiment in that supposedly unsentimental thoroughfare, had committed suicide at his home in a fit of despondency by a rubber tube and slashing his wrists. He was found dead in his bathroom It was grief over the death of his wife two months ago that convinced him that life no longer was worth living.

Le Moult had lived among and loved his flowers for nearly half a century, and the people of the Bowery loved him, not only for his flowers, but for himself. His fame, however, extended far beyond the confines of the Bowery, and though he chose to maintain his principal shop on the old, much-loved street, he established branches uptown and his fashionable patrons vie with the people of the Bowery in their admiration for him. He was versed in the language of flowers and many a wooer learned from him just exactly the kind of posies to send to his best girl at exactly the right time. The girls also consulted Adolphe and the florist often said he believed that the information he gave them made smoother the love matches of many a pair of sweethearts. BROOKLYN BRIDGE AFIRE

Firemen Adopt Novel Method in Fighting

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 25.—A fireboat lying lmost in the centre of the East River last night drowned out a fire under the south roadway of the Brooklyn bridge, by shooting a stream of water almost straight up in the air, a distance of about 125 feet. The stream was so nearly perpendicular that the water fell back from

This novel method of fighting fire was ecessitated by the position of the blaze, which the firemen were unable to reach to advantage from the bridge structure. The fire, which was supposed to have started from defective insulation, was quickly extinguished, but traffic over the south roadway was held up for nearly an hour and a half, until the structure near the fire had been examined and found not

Montreal Women Bound Over for Mak ing Threats During Strike.

Montreal, July 25.-Mrs. Noodleman, Mrs. Jacobson and a man named A. Sommer were yesterday, before Recorder Dupuis, bound over to keep the peace and all to furnish two sureties of $200

The three accussed, on July 4, congregated outside the house of Mrs. Harry Albert, 10 Josephine avenue, and told Mrs. Albert that they would kill her and her husband if he continued to work during the garment workers' strike. The complainant was in a delicate condition at the time, and the shock occasioned by the threats and the crowd of screaming women and shouting men, which had, according to the testimony of the constables, gathered about the house, had resulted in her being under the charge of Dr. S. "Confound your impudence!" growled D'Este angrily. "Isn't it enough that you threaten me with your letters? What do you mean by coming here and making such demands?"

I shall expect you to place the sum in banknotes upon this table'—he tapped the top of the desk lightly with his finger—"at twelve o'clock tonight."

This time the Count did not laugh. The This time the Count did not laugh. The fellow might be a madman, but his methods certainly did not lack directness. "What for, I should like to know?" he demanded furlously. His rage had no effect upon the calm assurance of his visitor. "So that I may come and get it." returned the latter with an agreeable smile.

"Very obliging of you, I'm sure. Quite a good joke. And have you the slightest idea that I will do as you ask?"
"I am convinced of it, Monsieur."

Emile D'Este was a young man whose principal object in life was to avoid be-ing bored. His father, the Count's bro-ther, had died some years before, after ther, had died some years before, after a life spent in the service of his country, as an officer of one of the crack regi-ments of the Imperial Guard. He left at his death only Emile and a large as sortment of unpaid bills. His son, educated at a fashionable school not far from Paris, was barely eighteen at the time of his father's death. For a short time he endeavored to earn a living in the office of a stockbroker, but the latter soon found of a stockbroker, but the latter soon found that the young man possessed a far greater aptitude for wearing expensive clothes and frequenting the Boulevards than for attending to the duties of a stockbroker's clerk. It was lucky for young D'Este that his uncle soon after contracted the marriage which brought him such a handsome financial return. The young man at once placed his case before the Count, and the latter, who was not ordinarily given to generosity in matbefore the Count, and the latter, who was not ordinarily given to generosity in matters in which money was concerned, was, through some sentiment concerning the honor of his family, persuaded to make his nephew a small allowance. Upon this Emile lived to the best of his ability, expending the bulk of his money on clothes and in the cabarets and restaurants frequented by the young men of his ants frequented by the young men of his acquaintance. Occasionally he would have a little luck at cards, or in betting upon the horses, and was thus able to eke out a sort of butterfly existence, sleeping until a sort of butterfly existence, sleeping until noon, and spending his nights in the gay life which centres about Montmartre.

He was of moderate height, slender and elegant in appearance, with the pale face and small black moustache characteristic of the young Parisian dandy of the day. Nothing pleased him so much as to loll for an entire afternoon at a table before his favorite cafe in the Boulevard destitalians, where, with a glass of absinthe or a vermouth et cassis, he was able to eye the pretty girls who thronged the sidewalks. His uncle had often urged His uncle had often urged sidewalks.

D'Este seemed stupefied by this piece of information. How this fellow, this criminal, should know of his appointment with Monsleur Lefevre was something he could not fathom. "The devil!" he cried, starting back. "How did you know that?"

"Ah, Count, in my business it is necessary to know many things. For instance, you and Monsleur the Prefect, for whom, in spite of his position, I entertain feelings of the highest respect, will shortly meet here to make plans for my arrest. See what an excellent opportunity I now afford you. By placing the money upon the table here as I request, you will be making money without effort.

the money."

"You think so?" asked the Count, with an incredulous sneer.

"I feel certain of it. And make no mistake, Monsieur. See that the money is here, on this table, at a few minutes before twelve. I shall come at twelve."

The cool and deliberate assurance with which he said this exasperated the Count beyond measure. "Well, of all the impudence!" he fairly shouted.

"Not impudence, Monsieur; confidence." Girard stepped from the side of the table, took up his hat, and with a bow and a smile turned toward the door. "Permit me, Monsieur," he said easily, "to wish you a very good morning."

Orange Juice Is Beneficial Says Emile Bailly.

[Copyright, 1912.] People sometimes criticise our French cooking and say that it is too elaborate and over-decorated. A good cook knows enough about the chemistry of the body to realize the need of appealing to the eye as well as to the taste.

You who cook for a small family remember this: Men who sit all day long in stuffy offices, and women who spend much time in badly-ventilated rooms, both need an artificial stimulus for a good appetite, and sufficient gastric juice. This stimulus can often be found in viewing spotless napery, flowers and shining silver, and one or two well-cooked and daintily-served Juice the Best Part.

The best part, in fact the only part, of the orange, which should be eaten, is the juice. Consequently that method of preparing it which gives one the pure juice without pulp is the best. Many people object to drinking this out of a glass and want to see the peel and smell the delicate aroma of the oil in the orange peel. That is another appeal to the gastric juices, which are also stimulated by the sense of smell.

A Cuban method impales the peeled orange on a fork after it has been neeled with a characteristic and the sense of the sen peeled with a sharp knife. A round slice is taken off both the top and bottom of the orange. One of these pieces it put on the fork, making a resting place for the orange, which comes next, and the last piece is placed over the

Fats as Food

Fat, chemically speaking, is a combination of glycerine and certain fatty acids. It is furnished as a food by both the animal and the vegetable kingdom. When we say "animal fat" we mean such things as lard, suet, fat meat, etc.; when we say fat of animal origin we refer to cream, butter and eggs.

Vegetable fats are found in nuts, rains and fruits. Certain nuts furnish an abundance, particularly the pecan, cocoanut, Brazil, pine nut and peanut. Among grains, oats and corn contain the largest supply of fat. It s also found in three fruits-to large extent in the olive, and a trace only in the banana and strawberry.

There are three forms in which fat used as a food-emulsified, free fat, fried fat. Emulsified fat is represented by cream, olive oil and nuts - fat blended with other substances. Butter and other animal fats are free fats -here the tiny globules of fat, each surrounded by a little film of casein, are crushed and united into a solid mass. The third form—fried fat—is fat chemically changed by heat, which causes some irritating acids to be de-

One of France's Greatest Scientists Meets Death in His Old Age.

[Canadian Press.] New York, July 25.-According to dispatches published here today Henri Fabre, a noted French poet and scientist, whom Victor Hugo described as "The Insect's Homer," is dying of hunger in Provence, neglected and well nigh forgotten by his beloved France. Fabre is 88 years old. He has been nearly sightless for some time, it is said. Darwin called Fabre "one of the greatest of the world's chosen men." The Frenchman devoted his life to the study of insects and their habits, but he was not a scientist alone, for he had the soul of a poet. He spent weeks, months, even years, in minutely observing the habits of insects. The results of these obervations he combined, not in mere books, but in prose of majestic simplicity, which reads like a poem of nature. It has been observed that "It was Fabre who rendered possible such works as Mae-terlinck's "Life of the Bee," and Ros-tand's "Chanticleer." Where others dissected he observed and learned the secrets of the insecta-side by the force of the water. The deluge was a startling shock to the train crew and passengers. All believe it was due to a mysterious convulsion of nature. Harbison quick-ly recovered, stopped his train at a afe distance, and with members of the crew went back to investigate.

They found that the deluge had been caused in a most peculiar way. An insurance inspector had decided to test the water supply and pressure at the Norwalk Mills. He attached hose to a hydrant and fixed the nozzle to a fence to direct the stream across the Norwalk River. Just as the water was turned on the express train passed close to the fence and the great stream of water, with a pressure of 100 pounds to the square inch behind it, hit the sides of the passing cars.

DESULATION IN FLOODS

Many sections have not been heard from up to daylight today. What has taken place at these places is not known.

Driven From Homes, When the disastrous storms, cloudbursts and floods swept over the large area yesterday, scores of the towns afflicted were just recovering from a similar deluge, which occurred last Sunday evening. Cellars and homes had been freed of flood water; streets cleared of debris and communication by wire and rail had been adjusted. Then came yesterday's storms and the towns were again plunged into desolation. Hundreds of families were driven from their homes and suffered greatly; residences and buildings were damaged or completely demolished. Streets were torn up by the waters, which were piled high with tons of debris carried by the flood waters. Poles were uprooted and wires drop-ped to the streets, effectually blocking communication from many points and causing darkness at many others. Railroad and street car facilities were repaired or debris moved along some of the routes. Dunbar, Pa., nine miles west Uniontown, is the centre of the region of desolation in Pensylvania. The flood waters swept away homes and business houses, did serious darage to mines, furnace and coke plants, and spread terror into the hearts of thou-

Purnell Bluestone quarries, two miles above the town, "There's an awful flood coming; warn the people. All the dams above here have burst," Dunn shouted to Fenner who dropped the receiver and rushed into the street. With all the strength of his lungs Fenner shouted to the people in the streets to run for their lives to the hillsides. The warning spread like wildfire and in an instant buildings and stores were evacuated mell for safety on high ground.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 25. - Death and desolation spread broadcast over the southwest counties yesterday, and last night, through cloudbursts and overflowing streams, three score or more lives are the toll, while the damage to homes and industries cannot be esti-Fifteen lives were snuffed out in Superba mine No. 2 near Uniontown, 75 miners narrowly escaped death, while from many other sections come reports of lives lost by the mountain torrents rushing into mine slopes. Hundreds of families deserting homes in a mad rush for safety on the mountainsides sought shelter by the improvised shacks and tents, toward the construction of which every available piece of debris was turned to account. At daybreak shivering women and children gazed over a scene of desolation in the Upper Youghiogheny Valley, and as the waters receded, upturned dwellings, shattered buildings, and crumbled piles were held in a mass by a railroad bridge or trestle, or the progress of the debris had been impeded by some larger and stauncher building. An Annual Affair.

It was long after midnight before the waters began to recede. Rain had ceased to fall some hours earlier, but the heavy precipitation soon made the usually dry beds of mountain streams veritable cataracts. Floods in these regions are of an annual occurrence, for which preparation is made, and comparatively little damage is done. Freshets caused by heavy summer rains occur several imes a season, but the heavy waterfalls are carried away with but little damage. The cloudburst of yesterday, however, came before the district had recovered from more than 24 hours of torrential rains on Sunday, and with every stream bank full, soon all were Cleou Handley, Jimmie Vittie, Vers out of their banks.

KATSURA'S TOUR

Ex-Premier of Japan to Visit Several European Countries

[Canadian Press.] St. Petersburg, July 25. - The improvement reported here yesterday in the condition of the Emperor of Japan may permit Prince Taro Katzura, former premier of Japan, to continue tour, which comprises several European countries. Premier Katzura has had a number of long conferences with the Russian premier, Alexander Kokovsoff, but not a word has been allowed to leak out as to what was the nature of the discussions. It is surmised, in a more or less general way that the conferences were arranged in order to enable the Russian and statesmen to learn each other's point of view, policy and attitude upon Asiatic matters, all of which have followed closely by Premier Kokosoff as minister of finance, in which posi-tion he controls the Chinese Eastern Railroad. It is noteworthy that the public dis cussion of the question of a Russo-Japanese alliance has not called forth any protests from certain chauvinistic writers, who have hitherto defended the thesis of revenge.

All the members of both committees were present, and the outline of the proposed agreement was discussed, that the members would be fully conversant with the proposition when they meet the special committee of the city council on Friday evening. As no definite proposition has been offered the two communities, the discussion was only general.

Those who will meet the special city committee are: Rev. W. L. Steeves, H. E. Finch, Walter Gould, Richard H. Sanders, J. Homister and ex-Ald. Henry Pocock, from Ealing; George Angus, M. J. Morrison, Geo. Cairncross, R. Orr, George Reavely, and George Haney, from Pottersburg.

TO REORGANIZE MEDICAL FACULTY

Physicians of City Are Being Invited to Join By the Western University.

Over 85, But An Advisory Board Will Include These.

The medical faculty of the Western University will be reorganized, as the result of a meeting of physicians on Menday night, and a circular is being issued today, asking the co-operation of all the medical men in the city in accomplishing this end.

The work is divided into various departments, such as chemistry and physics, biology and comparative anatomy, anatomy, embryology and histology, physiology and biochemistry, pathology, parasitology, and bacteriology, medicine, and clinical medicine, surgery, clinical surgery, and orthopedics, gynaecology and obstetrics, therapeutics, pharmocology, toxicology and materia medica, pediatrics, eye, ear, nose and throat, psychiatry, legal medicine and medical jurisprudence, hygiene, preventive medicine and public health.

The circular asks the physicians of London to join the staff. They are also invited to state the branch they would like to teach, and forward their applications at once to Dr. H. W. Hill, head of the Hygienic Institute.

Heads of Departments.

At the head of each department will e a professor, and his assistants will all be properly designated. It will require from 45 to 60 men to properly quip all the departments. Each department head will be re-consible for the organization of his department, and its direction afterwards. He will have a place on faculty, and will be consulted at all times on matters touching his section. The teachers will not be paid for their services during the first three years of their term. The appointments will not be permanent.

Advisory Council.

Physicians who have already taught medicine, and, having determined that their forte does not lie in that direction, have already resigned teaching positions for that reason, are not respectively. quested to assume teaching capacities again—nor will physicians over 55 years of age, who have had no teaching experience at all, be asked to assume active duties on the staff.

But in order that the experience, advice and co-operation of all the London profession may be made available for the success of the whole, physicians over 55, whether having had teaching experience in the past or not, are invited to join the advisory council of the medical faculty. To this council will be added all those members teaching staff past, present or future, who reach the age of 55, as well those who have not had teaching experience. It is proposed that this body, although self-governing, should join with the medical faculty at its regular meetings, and be prepared to give advice and counsel there.

Already a number of physicians have taken a deep interest in the matter, and it is expected that no difficulty will be encountered in filling all the places on the faculty.

Dr. Hill is meeting with much encouragement in his work.

MAY ISSUE DEBENTURES

Water Commissioners May Do So to Pay for Parks Improvements.

Five-year debentures will probably be ssued by the water commissioners to cover the cost of the new road at Springbank, and the ornamental lighting system being installed there. At the meeting of the parks commision held yesterday afternoon, the question was brought up, but it decided to call a special meeting next week to further consider the matter. No estimates of the cost of the improvements have been prepared as yet, and it was decided to have them presented.

Commissioner Marr and others were of the opinion that it would be better to issue debentures for the work. would not be possible to pay the whole The action will be taken up next week.
Superintendent Dilger submitted plans for an ornamental entrance to Victoria Park, but the commissioners laid that matter over until the next

Handsome New Sample Rooms

Ald. Hubert Ashplant has commenced work upon his handsome new sample rooms building, which is to be erected on Carling street, at the rear of the Ashplant shoe stores. The sample rooms will be a credit to the city, and will do much to attract travellers to London. There will be every modern convenience in each room, including running water, electric light and gas. No expense is being avoided in order to make the rooms attractive and comfortable. The building, which will be 33 feet 6 inches by 75 feet, and four stories in height, will embrace at once 36 sample rooms, with room for twenty more when necessary. The location of the rooms is very convenient for travellers and their customers, being in the heart of the business district, only one short block from Dundas street, and between Richmond and Talbot streets.

MACHINERY IS SAID TO HAVE BEEN FAULTY

ing the Death of Walter

"That the deceased, Walter Toll, came to his death on Friday last from injuries sustained at the Molsons Bank building by being struck by a boom used in hoisting a by means of a crane to the walls of the building. "In our opinion, the crane was insufficiently manned, and further, the mechanism intended to control the 'dog,' or clutch, was incomplete." Such was the verdict of the jury last night empanelled by Coroner Dr. Robt. Ferguson, to inquire into the death of Walter Toll, a workman, who lost his life while at work on the Molsons Bank building on Dundas street last Friday afternoon. Chris. Anderson, of 480 Charlotte street, carpenter, employed on the building, was the first witness. At the time of the accident he was standing about twelve feet from the building and a short distance from the deceased. He saw the crane descending, but did not know what Toll was doing at the time, nor know that he had been hurt until he saw him being brought down the steps. Alfred Corbett, 296 Grey street, testifled that he saw the boom of the crane fall and strike a man on the head.

Full Instructions. Clement Cross, 114 Wellington road, the operator of the derrick stated that he had been employed in that position for a period of three weeks. He had had full instructions from his employers how to run it before he had assumed charge. Witness testified that there had been no mishap previous to the fatal been no misnap previous to the latal accident, and that the heaviest stone which had been lifted by the boom would be 1,000 pounds, while the one being lifted at the time of the accident was about 600 pounds. The stone had been raised from the ground to the scaf-folding of the first floor, after which he had received the signal to raise the boom. He then put the boom out of gear. Later he followed another signal to raise the stone for the purpose of swinging it into position. While in the performance of this order, and when the stone was about in position he heard a crack in the derrick. He immediately shouted, "Look out below." With the handle still in his hands he saw the boom fall and the stone released at the same instant.

Mr. Mitchell's Evidence. Ex-Ald. F. G. Mitchell was the next witness on the stand. Mr. Mitchell, who is a machinist of 30 years' experience, made an examination of the crane on Monday last. The trouble had originated by a rupture taking place in the boom gear in which the dog had been oper-ated. The gear itself had several successive teeth broken. Then there was a short interval where the teeth were still undamaged, and then followed more broken teeth. The nose of the dog had failed to clutch in the gear and broken off parallel to the body of the dog. The same jar had al. broken the wheel on the far side. On examination, he had seen no flaw in the boom or cable, but if a small projection pin had been operated the accident would have been probably averted. been probably averted.

The Accident

Robert Heard, 542 Adelaide street, had Robert Heard, 542 Adelaide street, had assisted in attaching the stone which fell to the cable. He had given the signal to raise the stone, which was done. When the boom fell he had been standing close to Toll and had both hands on the stone at the time.

practically new no specialist had been called to examine into its fitness. The derrick had been warranted to lift 11/2 ons, whereas the stone lifted was only
