Then why go to the United States for rails? The answer is to be found on page 4277, Hansard, June 9th, 1903 The following - resolution, moved by Mr. R. L. Borden, was defeated by a solid Liberal vote:

"This house is of the opinion that the tariff of customs duties should give such protection to iron and steel industries as will not only secure to our own producers and manufacturers the Canadian market in articles now produced or manufactured in this country, but will also devellon and sustain the manufacture in Canada of other iron and steel products which at present are imported in large quantities from other countries. (Supplied to The Planet by Pres Agents.)

"The Burglar,' Grand Opera House Friday night.-A play somewhat different from the usual order of dramatic offering. Probably no other drama of the kind has the notency in drawing from all classes and conditions of people that is experienced by "The Burglar." Young and old rich and those less favored with the world's goods, are equally absorbed with the story. In a home of wealth and refinement are all the scenes enacted, where the burglary is attempted, frustrated by the artless endea vors of a bright child of six years.

Discontent With Work. That there is much discontent with work among the so called middle class-es in America is due in large part to the pampering of children, to the supplying of their natural and artificial wants and to the sentimental idea that "their day of toil will come soon enough." In general, work is not a curse, but a blessing, a positive means of grace. One can hardly begin too early to impress upon children lessons of self help by tasks appropriate to their age and forces and to beget in them scorn of idleness and of dependence on others. To do this is to make them happy through the self respect that comes with the realization of power and thus to approximate Tennyson's goal of man, "Self reverence, self knowledge, self control."-Century.

Two Views of the Bells. A clergyman on his way to church one Sunday morning pulled up to rebuke an angler. "Don't you hear the bells summoning you to church?" he asked. The fisherman put an inquiring hand to his ear. Encouraged, the cler gyman repeated the question. But once again the fisherman asked for a repetition, and then again, and even yet again. Flushing from overmuch bawling, the parson was about to proceed on his way when the fisherman spoke. "Very sorry, guv'nor," he said, "but them bloomin' bells makes such an infernal clatter that I can't hear a word you says."-- London Globe.

LEAMINGTON. This Celebrated Spa Is a Favorite Resort

One of the favorite resorts One of the favorite resorts in Warwickshire is Leamington, the celebrated spa. It is much frequented by invalids on account of its healing mineral springs, and is also a convenient stopping place for sight-seers who wish to visit the famous castles and towns in the vicinity. Learnington is an ancient town, and passed in early days through many vicissitudes. In the old book of records, called the "Domesday Book," is found the earliest mention of this place. Here, in the year 1086, it is recorded as a manor, owned by one of the Warwick family. After this time it passed into the After this time it passed into the hands of many proprietors, and among these was a brother of the Earl of Leicester. Toward the close of the eighteenth century it was a quaint village, of which a few small cottages even now remain to tell of its original simplicity. There is also an ancient church, with its attendant phyrchyard not far from the form thurchyard, not far from the ford across the little River Leam. The of which for many years has rejoiced in the name of "Dog Inn." These old buildings date back to the end of the eighteenth century, when the discovery of saline springs had created a reputation for the town. Everything was at this time on a very small scale, and arrange-ments were extremely simple. As the visitors came in greater numbers, it was found necessary to have more conveniences, and the authorities caused a tub of considerable size to be sunk in one of the ditches near the spring. A man was retained as a "regular dipper," and many invalids attributed their cure to immersion in this primitive bathtub. When sulphur and other mineral springs were discovered in 1784, the first bath was built, and Learnington grew rapidly into the well known spa it has been for many years.

In 1803 the Royal Pump Room and baths were built over one of the springs, and the buildings are well equipped and luxurious. are situated near the beautiful Vic toria Bridge, and contain swimming baths and reading and reception rooms. They are surrounded by well cept and extensive grounds.

When the town is full of invalids and their families the "Parade" is the favorite resort, and many people go up and down, exchanging the greetings of the day. The central position of Learnington, in War-wickshire, makes it attractive as a dwelling place, especially in the hunting season, when the devotees of the chase disturb somewhat the us ual quiet of the town.

Among the modern patrons of Lea-mington, Dr. Jephson easily ranks first, and he is often spoken of as the "Father of Leamington." many ways he advanced the interest and increased the reputation of that town, and now an imposing monument stands as a memorial to his hame and public spirit.

It is a beautiful drive from Leam-ington to Kenilworth. The first view of the ruins of Kenilworth Castle is somewhat disappointing, and it is accessary to invest the reddish stone structure with all the romance that Sir Walter Scott has created before its real charm and inspiration car be felt. In many places the protect-ing ivy has thrown its green mantle over decapitated towers and broken columns, and rendered beautiful the remains of a once imposing castle.

It is as old as the time of Henry L, and fell into the hands of various noble families. At one time a church and priory were established here, and the castle also became a royal jail, of which Simon de Mont-fort was the keeper. The priory is said to have been destroyed by said to have been destroyed by Henry VIII., who mercenarily sold the materials of which it was built. When Queen Elizabeth came to the throne of England she gave the grant of Kenilworth Castle to her favorite courtier, Dudley, Earl of Leicester, and by him it was altered and much improved. It was here that his unfortunate wife, the beautiful Amy Robsart, was hidden for a time, from the outside world, until carried away to Cumnor Palace, where she came to her most untimely end. The shadow of this dreadful murder has always rested heavily upon the character of the "Lord of Kenilworth," whether he was, as some claim, in-nocent of any knowledge of it, or whether he secretly instigated it, in-spired by the ambition to become the husbard of Elizabeth, and so King of England.

The Queen's visit to the castle is a

The Queen's visit to the castle is a matter of history, and she was received and entertained there with great splendor and hospitality. At the time of the visit the battlements of the great high towers were covered with giant guards, with clubs and warlike implements, representing soldiers of King Arthur's time. The royal pageant is said to have approached the castle by the broad highway, which, for more than two miles, afforded lovely views of lake and towers. This was in the year 1575, and as the little town of Stratford is not far away, it is thought that Shakespeare may have witnessed the princely welcome which the Earl of Leicester gave to the Queen at Kenilworth.

MEXICAN HOUSES.

Little Wood Used In Them, and They Are Practically Fireproof.

There is a minimum of wood use or house construction in the cities of Mexico, and there is absolutely nothin to burn except what furnishings the houses may contain. The walls are solidly built of stone and brick or in the less costly structures of adobes, which are thickly plastered inside and out with mortar or stucco. The floors are of brick, stone or tiles, while the roofs are of brick laid in mortar or in some cities of semicylindrical clay tiles. Many roofs are arched with brick laid flat, not on edge, and it is marvelous how slight a curve some of these arches have. Yet they support heavy weights and have lasted through Flat roofs are supported by 6 by 6 inch hewn pine joists placed eight inch-es apart. These joists are often twenty feet in length. The doors are heavy hanging upon ornamented wrought strap hinges and secured by strong, handmade locks, which have remark ably large complicated keys. Practically the only wood used in construc tion is for the doors and joists which support the roof. The church roofs are invariably of brick arches, usually sev fire traps in Mexico as those mansard roofs of French and American cities or the frail dwellings of China or the universal wooden structures which have made fire insurance so great a burden in the United States and which cause so great and continuous expenditures for fire protection.—Arboriculture.

Speaking and Stopping. The knowledge of when to sit down is invaluable to public speakers and to their audiences. Perhaps the best plan is to secure a candid friend who will pull you down by your coattails. A man "on his legs" is one with whom time gallops; he has spoken for half an hour, and to him it seems but five minutes. The excitement of the brain suggests new and ever new ideals, and the extemporary talker in the pulpit or after a public dinner flounders in pursuit of these will-o'-the-wisps through swamps and thickets of bad grammar haunted by the anacolouthon and other fearful wild fowl. In the pulpit there is no man to pull the preacher down, and many are his "two words more, my brethren." After pub-lic dinners a bored audience begins to absorbed public speaker. In short, the knowledge of when to sit down is rare and hard to acquire.—Longman's.

OLD MOTHER EARTH Wanted to be HARDLY ANY TWO SCIENTISTS AGREE Heard From! AS TO ITS AGE.

Some Speculation About the Tiny Atom In the Boundless Universe Upon Which We Dwell-Theories

Hardly any two scientists agree as to the age of the earth—that is, as to the ength of time which has elapsed since the earth's crust became solid. Considering the very slow rate at which rocks are deposited by water and the immense thickness of the beds of these

"stratified" rocks, as they are called, it seems that at least 1,000,000,000 years have passed since the globe evolved in its present shape out of the whirling mass of incandescent matter which it must once have been.

But Lord Kelvin, arguing from the known rate of loss of heat, declared that not more than 100,000,000 years is the limit of time which has passed by since firm rocks appeared and life be-gan upon the earth. More recently Pro-

Lord Kelvin's estimate might be nearer the truth. All geologists, however, de clare that the latter estimate is too

We know with the utmost exactitude how heavy our little world is. If you put down the figure 6 and follow it by twenty-one naughts, you have it within very few million tons. Roughly speaking, this implies that the earth is five and one-half times as heavy as a globe of water of the same size.

But, in spite of this accurate knowledge of the earth's weight, we have no real idea of what is the condition of things inside our planet. Thousands of experiments made in all parts of the world show that the temperature rise on an average about a degree for every sixty feet below the surface. If this rate of increase continues regularly toward the center, that part of the globe must be at a heat so appalling that imagination is unable to grasp it.

When this fact of increase of temperature with depth first became ascertained geologists got the idea that we ere living upon a furious furnace, of which volcanoes were the escape pipes.

Now we know better than that. We have found, among other things, that an earthquake in Japan is able to register itself in England. This actually happened in the case of the disaster in orth Japan some years ago, when 30, 000 people lost their lives. A tremor of this kind could not pass unless the earth had a rigidity approaching that of steel, and observations of tides and the attractions exercised upon us by sun and moon have made it pretty cer tain that our world is just about as hard and solid as so much steel.

This does away with the liquid inte rior theory and makes it fairly certain that the earth is solid all through, with perhaps occasional accumulations of fluid rock here and there in parts

It also upsets the old theory of volcanoes, and the modern idea with regard to these mountains of death and de struction is that water from the surface finds its way through a few miles below the surface, and then, being sud-denly turned into steam, causes an explosion, or series of explosions, like boiler burstings on a gigantic scale.

Every schoolboy knows that the shape of the earth is an oblate spheroid that is to say, that it is flattened a little like an orange at the two poles. The polar diameter of the earth is actually twenty-seven miles less than its diam-eter at the equator. But it is as yet not bsolutely ascertained whether the flattening is similar at both poles. Some arctic explorers appear to be of the opinion that the flattening is greater at

There is a reasonable prospect that one of the most magnificent species of game birds to be found the world over may be acclimatized to Canada, and, in future, delight the palates of epicures. Efforts which seem likely to be crowned with success are being made to establish in Algonquin Park the capercallizie, or great grouse which is held by many to be even a finer bird than the wild turkey.

Among the different species of the British grouse the capercallizie is placed by naturalists at the head. It became extinct in Scotland in the sarly part of last century, but later There is a reasonable prospect that

QUEEN VICTORIA PARK. $60,000 Refectory to Be Erected t Replace Unsightly Structure Known as the Dufferin Cafe.

The general scheme of the improve ment of Victoria Park at Niagar. Falls has been advanced considerably by the commissioners of the park, who have completed arrangements for a new refectory, which will add much to the beauty of the grounds.

The refectory building will replace the present unsightly blot on the landscape known as the Dufferin Cafe. It, will be constructed of boulders, stone and shinglework, designed picturesquely to harmonize with the surroundings of trees and shrubbery. The contract for the erection of the building has been let. The cost of the improvement will be about $60,-

A very decided improvement may be expected.

EFFECTS OF "WHINING." Has a Distinct Physical Influence on the

A recent number of Medical Talk has an article on the evil physical effects of "whinning." Complaints, says the writer, are invariably made in a minor key. This monotony rasps the vocal chords, taxes nasal nerves and muscles that should not be brought into play at all in speaking, and tends to shallow, uneven breathing. The whiner, too, is almost without exception a more or less without exception a more or less idle, lazy person. The habit of whin-ing itself tends to sap initiatives, ANOTHER VIEW OF THE CAPERCAILLIE.

Sweden, to attract the hens about him. This is usually from the first dawn of the day to sunrise, or from a little after sunrise until it is quite dark. He begins his song with a call something resembling the words, "Peller, peller," and proceeds until he finally makes a sort of gulp in his throat and finishes by drawing in his breath.

On hearing the call of the cock, the hens, whose cry in some degree resembles the croak of the raven, assemble from all parts of the surrounding forest. The male bird now descends from the eminence on which he was perched and he and the female birds join company.

The capercaillize hen makes her nest upon the ground, and lays from six to twelve eggs; these are of the pale reddish brown, spotted all over with two shades of darker grange brown. It is said she sits for four weeks. Her young keep with her until towards the approach of yis-

Moro Position Captured

Manila, Nov. 25. — General Wood Manila, Nov. 25. — General Wood captured the Moro position in the hills of Jolo, north of Taglibi, on the 20th instant, and destroyed the earthworks they had thrown up there. Private Martin Brennan of the 14th Cavalry was killed during the engagement, and two privates were wounded, one seriously. The loss on the Moro side is known to have been 75, probably more, as the ground is covered with brush and bodies are hard to find. The expedition returned to Jolo and pending an investigation General Wood says that so far as he can see there will be no more opposition on the part of the Sultan's men who led the fighting. According to his understanding this action of the Moros abrogates the Bates treaty.

Gorgeous Picture of Autumn-Tinted Canadian Mapies in the Laurentides-Moose Ki.led Near St. Alexis.

Mosse Kiled Near St. Alexis.

The glow of an autumn sun on Canadian maples in the Laurentides last week made pictures gorgeous beyond anything the painter with either pen or brush might convey to either eye or senses. One could only gaze in wonderment and adore the land of such manifeent landscapes, with veneration for the creator of it all. Quite a few Montreal gentlemen and ladies who visit Ste. Agathe have talked of the beauties of tree-clad hills, slashed all with the flame-tinted maple, softened by the flame-tinted maple, softened by the yellow-tinted birch and the deep green cones of the spruce and balsam shooting between like spears. Having seen our own glorious Mount Royal and the woods of Montreal Is-land, with journeyings through the Eastern Townships, one might think he had seen all that there could be of autumnal forest beauties. They were fortunate travelers that passed along the Great Northern Railway last Friday and Saturday—perfect days—and saw the fringe of the Laurentides. The railway is splendidly built and the passenger cars very comfortable and clean. After passing New Glasgow, the blaze of glory of the woods was with us all the way, even to St. Paulin Station, where we stopped for a dive ibto the heart stopped for a dive ibto the heart the great masses of the woods for miles, says a writer in The Montreal Witnes Montreal Witness.

Lac a l'Eau Claire, nine miles drive from St. Alexis, was the objective point—the country seat of the Hon. George W. Stephens. St. Alexis was a ten-mile drive from St. Paulin. The way was along the banks of the pretty winding river and the term pretty winding river and the term. pretty winding river, and the farmers and their homes, the flocks of cattle and the milk preparations for the creameries were pleasant to see, with in two or three places a saw-mill, where the power is good. To see farmers painting their houses means the presence of good times, for paint is a luxury. So paint is a luxury. So, those farmpaint is a nuxury. So, those farmers who were doing this were generally fairly well off—the result of the high price for cheese and their ability to produce it economically and In St. Paulin there storekeepers actually laying water pipes for house service indoors Gen-erally the farmers were thrifty, and their families well looking. The sun-light upon the home house, boat-house and bathing-house tinged the house and bathing-house tinged the white paint with mellow light and the yellow sheen of the mirror-like surface of the lake was only dimpled here and there with a fly or trout ripple. The forest fringes of the lake ware reflected vividly and one might ripple. The forest fringes of the lake were reflected vividly, and one might easily imagine from the opposite island the lady of the lake and the boat coming to meet us at the silver strand—only the strand was rather of the golden hue. It is safe to say that never in all his life did Sir Walter Scott view a more romants scene than this. Neither did he hear the cry of the loon—nor the swish and scream of Canadian wild duck. But the sunset left no gloaming, bright as was the setting it gave to the picture, when the shadows were cast by its going down.

picture, when the shadows were cast by its going down.

Flip went the fly-cast at early morning, the deft hand dotting the lake surface with the life-like fly hooks and feathers. Again and again the cast, and here and there the flies danced and flecked, until suddenly came a leap and the surge of life from the water. A flusty trout was at its battle for life with the angler at the other end of the line. Five minutes and a beauty three and a half pounds in weight was in the landing net.

Exploring the lake, inlets or bays, and examining the island wore away much more time than fishing. Then the log fire in the spacious fireplace, the library and the story followed. The farmers had killed a moose three miles on the railway side of St. Alexis, and considered the feat no small one. They had not heard of these animals having been so far into the cultivated area before, and it was explained that the incident was not to be taken as indicating any increase in the moose family, but merely that one had lost its way and had thus been discovered and shot on sight by the farmer who could get in the first load of buckshot.

In Orillia and in Collingwood it is proposed to follow the example of Penetanguishene, and set apart a space in the public library as a museum for the collection of Indian relics. Orillia has been moved to this step by the fact that Mr. C: W. Hartman of New York, who was in that locality this summer, went about among the people and bought up at small prices a lot of rare Indian relics which he carried off to New York to be presented to a public museum. There are many private collections in Simcoe County. Museums for Indian Relics.

"Lord, God Almighty," he began, his "Lore, God Aimignty," ne began, nis lewer lip hanging and quivering, as were his hands clasped in the scat of his chair, "thou knowest the struggle thy creatures are makin' on the face of thy green globe to live up to the best of the'r lights an' standards. As I bend before thee this mornin' I realize how small a bein' I am in thy sight an' that I ort to bow in humble submission to thy will, an' I do. For many yeers this family has enjoyed thy bounteous blessings. We've had good health an' the influence of a Bible readin', God fearin' community, an' our childern has been educated in a way that raised 'em head an' shoul-ders above many o' the'r associates an' even blood kin. I don't know exactly whar an' how I've sinned, but I know have displeased thee, fer thy scourge has fallen hard an' heavy on my ambitions. I wanted to see my boy heer a good, obedient son an' my daughter thar in Atlanta able to hold the'r heads up among the folks they mix with, an' so I reached out. Maybe it was forbidden fruit helt out by a snake in the devil's service. I don't know—thou knowest. Anyways, I steered my course out o' the calm waters o' tent an' peace o' soul into the whirl-pool rapids o' avarice an' greed. I lowed I was in a safe haven an' didn't dream o' the stormclouds hangin' over me till they bust in fury on my head. Now, Lord, my Father, give them hearts of patience an' forgiveness fer

Bishop hesitated. It seemed as if he had even then to tear himself from the clutch of his natural stubbornness. He looked into all the anxious, waiting faces before he spoke, and then he gave in.

CHAPTER V.

HE following Saturday Alan went to Darlow went to Darley, as he fre-quently did, to spend Sunday. On such visits he usually stayed at the Johnston House, a great, old fashioned brick building that had survived the civil war and remained untouched by the shot and shell that hurtled over it during that dismal pe-"refugeed farther south." It had four stories and was too big for the town, which could boast of only 2,000 inhabitants, one-third of whom were black. However, the smallness of the town was in the hotel's favor, for in a place where no one would have patronized a second class hotel opposition would have died a natural death. The genial proprietor and his family were of the best blood, and the Johnston House was a sort of social clubhouse the church people held their affairs dances. To be admitted to the hotel without having to pay for one's dinner was the hallmark of social approval. It was near the ancient looking brick car shed, under which the trains of two main lines ran, and a long freight warehouse of the same date and archi-tecture. Around the hotel were clustered the chief financial enterprises of the town—its stores, postoffice, banks and a hall for theatrical purposes. Darley was the seat of its county, and another relic of the days before the war was its courthouse. The principal side-walks were paved with brick, which in places were damp and green and some-times raised above their common level by the undergrowing roots of the sycamore trees that edged the streets.

In the office of the hetel, just after registering his name, Alan met his friend Rayburn Miller, for whose business ability, it may be remembered, Abner Daniel had such high regard. He was a fine looking man of thirty-three, tall and of athletic build. He had dark eyes and hair and a ruddy, outdoor complexion.

"Hello!" he said cordfally. "I thought you might get in today, so I came round to see. Sorry you've taken a room. I wanted you to sleep with me Sister's gone, and no one is tonight. there but the cook. Hello, I must be careful. I'm drumming for business right under Sanford's nose."

"I'll make you stay with me to make up for it," said Alan as the clerk behind the counter laughed good natured.

ly over the allusion to himself.
"Blamed if I don't think about it," said Miller. "Come round to the of-fice. I want to talk to you. I reckon you've got every plow going such weather as this."

"Took my horse out of the field to drive over," said Alan as they went out and turned down to a side street where there was a row of law offices, all two roomed buildings, single sto ried, built of brick and bearing bat-tered tin signs. One of these buildings was Miller's, which, like all its fellows, had its door wide open, thus inviting all the lawyers in the "row" and all all the lawyers in the "row" and all students of law to enter and borrow books or use the ever open desk.

Rayburn Miller was a man among ten thousand in his class. Just after being graduated at the state university he was admitted to the bar and took up the practice of law. He could undoubtedly have made his way at this alone, had not other and more absorbing talents developed within him. Having had a few thousand dollars left him at his father's death, he began to utilize this capital in "note shaving" and other methods of turning over money for a handsome profit furnished by the unsettled conditions, the time and locality. He soon became an adept in many lines of speculation, and as he was remarkably shrewd and cautious it is not to be wondered at that he soon accumulated quite a fortune.

"Take a seat," he said to Alan as they went late the office, and he threw himself into the revolving chair at his littered desk. "I want to talk to you.

himself into the revolving chair at his littered desk. "I want to talk to you. Iftered deak. "I want to talk to you. I suppose you are in for some fun. The beys are getting up a dance at the actel, and they want your dollar to selp pay the band. It's a good one this time. They've ordered it from Dhattanooga. It will be down on the 1:35. Got a match?"

Alan had not, and Miller turned his head to the open door. An eld negree

In their zeal to perform deeds in this world too many women forget their duty to home and family and insist upon devoting time, money and strength to the labor of sustaining a pet charity. Nothing is more commendable than true charity, but nothing is sadder than to see the modern Mrs. Jellybys neglecting home, children and al home life in a mistaken idea of doing a noble work. There are some women who seem to be perennially youthful. The grown daughters are companions as well as children, and the color in the mother's cheeks, the brightness in her eyes the roundness of her form, all speak of abounding health. What is her seof abounding health. What is her secret? She is at the middle age of life when so many women are worn, wasted and faded, and yet time has only ripened her charms. The secret of this matronly health and beauty may be told in the brief phrase, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The general health of woman is so intimately related to the local health of the delicate womanly organs, that the delicate womanly organs, that where these are diseased, the whole where these are diseased, the whole body must suffer. "Favorite Prescription" dries the deblitating drains, heals ulceration and inflammation, cures female weakness and imparts to the delicate female organs natural vigor and vitality. Women who have lost their health and their beauty have been made "robust and rosy cheeked" by the use of this marvelous medicine.

Where sympathy is so broad and deep that each member of this family knows and feels that no human life, however humdrum and uninteresting it may appear to a looker-on, is really commonplace. Where cach knows such charity as gives the privilege to judge truly of human life.

The Blood Reyal.

A volume has just been published entitled "The Blood Royal of England," by the Marquis of Ruvigny, containing the names of all the known legitimate descendants of the Kings Edward IV. and Henry VII. of England and James III. of Scotland. It contains 620 pages, and gives the names of 11,723 living persons who have royal blood in their veins! And even this lengthy list is incomplete, the author admitting that there are several families whose descendants he has been unable to trace.

All ranks of life-kings, nobles and common people—are represented in The Blood Royal.

All ranks of life—kings, nobles and common people—are represented in this work. Many of the higher nobility of Great Britain, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Poland, Bohemia, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Russia are here, and, on the other head, there are the names of thousands of commoners—Smiths, Browns, Jones' and Robinsons—some of them pursuing the humblest of avocations. The compiler is surely well justified in claiming that this is the largest pedigree ever published.—London Daily Mail.

THE CITIZEN AND ART. Canadian Side of Life That Is of the Ma

Then there is the further question of the art side of the citizen's life. The houses of the people are too much alike, both the exteriors and the interiors. Architecture in the better sense is almost unknown except in a few districts in the cities and at some of the summer resorts. mentation is usually heavy Orna The more meney a man has to spend on a house the more ornamentation he tries to secure and the greater the confusion that reigns. It is so with the interiors. The wood is painted and grained by universal custom; the wallpaper is put on in the same way; the carpets are all alike; the furni-ture of Mr. Smith's house is the same as that of Mr. Jones; the pictures and the bric-a-brac are the same; lace curtains are omnipresent; the lamps and candelabra are of the one type. There is no individuality. One gets the impression that every citizen had bought his house furnish ings at the same departmental store.
One house furnisher in Toronto advertises: "You get married; we furnish the home." Heaven help the young couple who start housekeeping on that plan! Far better the rude benches and tables and beds which our fathers hewed out with the axe.

Mobs Do a Great Deal of Damage-Private Detective Attacked. Chicago, Nov. 25, 2 a.m.—The street car strike is settled

Chicago, Nov. 25.—During the past twelve hours strike sympathizers did more damage to the car lines than on more damage to the car lines than on any previous time since the strike was begun. Wires were cut in many crosstown lines and all manner of blockades were put on the tracks in higher piles than ever. In State street manholes were filled with stone debris, so that the grip could not pass over. It took hours to remove the obstructions.

John Cepher, twenty years old, a private detective employed by the Chicage City Railway Company to guard tolley wires at Archer and Ashland avenues, was attacked by seven men yesterday. They beat and kicked him, leaving him in a semi-conscious condition. After assaulting him they stripped him of his outer garments and took $6 and a revolver.

The police on the cars to-day were ordered by Inspector Hunt that if compelled to use their revolvers they were to fire into the mob with the intention of hitting somebody. There is to be no more shooting over people's heads the Inspector declared.

After the conference between the Mayor and representatives of the company and the men to-night, it was declared that the chances of an agreement

Mystery of a Brutal Chicago Crime Cleared Up.

Chicago, Nov. 25 .- The mystery surounding the hold-up of the cashier's ffice of the Chicago City Railway last office of the Chicago City Railway last August, during which two of the employees of the office were shot and killed without warning, was cleared up by the confession of Gustav Marks, who was arrested last Saturday night for the murder of Detective John Quinn, whom Marks shot down while trying to escape arrest. Harvey Van Dyne and Peter Niedermyer are named by Marks as his accomplices in the car-barn murder. According to Marks' story, the three men went to the office of the railway company for the purpose story, the three men went to the office of the railway company for the purpose of robbery. Marks says that when he ordered the men to throw up their hands they obeyed, but Niedermyer burst in the window of the office and commenced shooting. In all, $2,230 was secured. The next day Marks and his two companions went to Design is two companions went to Denver From Denver they went to Denver. From Denver they went to Cripple Creek, and in a week they came back to Chicago, since when, according to Marks' confession, they have been implicated in a number of hold-ups and shooting affrays.

TO DISCUSS MILITIA BILL. Sir Frederick Borden Will Go to

England. Ottawa, Nov. 25. - Sir Frederick Borden is going to England to discuss the provisions of the proposed nilitia bill with the War Office. The oill provides for an increase of the per manent force by about 500 men, and also gives the Canadian Government power to appoint a Canadian officer to the command of the militia of this the command of the militia of this country. The measure was introduced at the last session of the Dominion Parliament, but at the request of Mr. Chamberlain was postponed until a conference could take place between the Minister of Militia and the War Office in England. Before the conference could take place Mr. Chamberlain resigned, and the matter was allowed to stand for a time. Lately negotiations stand for a time. stand for a time. Lately negotiations were resumed, ffand Sir Frederick Borden received a cable asking him to come to England. It is understood that he will try and leave about Satur-day by the Cunard Line.

TO PROTECT THEIR DEAD. Veterans Want to Avoid the Anato-

mist's Knife. v Toronto, Nov. 25.-A deputation representing different veterans' associations of Toronto waited on Hon. J. M. Gibson, yesterday and urged that the Government take steps to protect the bodies of veterans who die from the hands of the medical schools for study of anátomy. The agitation arose out of the case of the late John Gilbert, whose body was handed over to the School of Anatomy, although he had relatives in town. The deputation included the following:—Major Collins, President of the Army and Navy Veterans; Ex-Mayor Howland, Dr. G. Sterling Ryerson, Col. Shaw, Rev. J. P. Lewis, Rev. Wm. Brookman, John Nunn, Sergt-Major Cox, C. E. Hobbs, J. J. Glouster, James Constable (Secretary Veterans of 1866), Geo. Hatt (nephew of the late John Gilbert), and Capt. H. P. Drayton. representing different veter-

The Attorney-General, in his reply, said the request might involve some amendments to the act, and he would give the matter careful consideration The veterans will also apply to the Dominion Government to have the old military burial ground on Strachan avenue handed over to them as a plot for the burial of old soldiers.

FREE FOODERS RALLY.

OF DEVONSHIRE.

Retaliation Plan Favored in Special Cases-Mr. Chamberlain's Scheme

London, Nov. 25.-The Duke of Devonshire presided and was the principal speaker at a great demonstration in Queen's Hall here last night, under the auspices of the Free Food League. It was the Duke's first public speech since his resignation as Lord President of the Council, and the first really important meeting of the Free Fooders as an offset to the active propaganda of the Tariff Reform League. The hall was packed, and the prominent personages were given a tremendous reception. The Duke of Devonshire was given a great welcome. He said in part:—"There might be difference of opinion concerning the extent to which retaliation might legitimately go. Some members of the league were not altogether opposed to some form of protection; but they were all united and prepared to result to the time. and prepared to resist to the utmost the imposition of any protective tax-ation on food, or protective duties generally. He, himself, claimed the ation on 100d, or protective unites generally. He, himself, claimed the right to oppose anything in the nature of a return to protection. Prolonged cheering followed this stafement of the Duka

Continuing, the speaker said that while the fiscal policy was not yet a party question, there was nothing which the advocates of the scheme, which emanated from the brain of a size of the scheme, which emanated from the brain of a single eminent statesman, would like better than a general election, which would turn on this question alone. The Duke said the meeting was one of Unionists desiring to urge on the Government the danger of taking a certain course, and the expediency of resisting a certain course. It was not the policy of the Unionist Government which was before the country. The public liked a clear issue, and such an issue had been placed before them by Mr. Chamberlain, who left the Government in order that he might be free. Cheers and hisses followed this mention of Mr. Chamberlain.

The Duke urged that the policy of the Government must be more clearly defined. At present it was indefinite. He had tendered his resignation because he could not, as the representative of the Government in the House of Lords, express unqualified confidence in the policy of the Cabinet, concerning which he had grave misgivings and insufficient knowledge. Had he been assured that a moderate use of the proposed power of retaliation the proposed power of retaliation would be made by the Premier he might would be made by the Premier he might still be a member of the Oovernment. With certain limitations much might be said of the policy of retaliation, but it would only make matters worse if, in addition to the existing hostile tariffs against themselves, they built up walls which would prohibit and restrict the importation of goods which for their own advantage they took from other nations.

The Duke said he was opposed to the The Duke said he was opposed to the taxation of food because he thought that such taxation was the keynote of the entire policy to which he took exception. Should the price of food be nized the great services of Joseph given to the workingman. He recognized the great services of Joceph Chamberlain. He was prepared to prove that Mr. Chamberlain's Glasgow budget would entail a tremendous loss prove that Mr. Chamberlain's Glasgow budget would entail a tremendous loss to the consumer, while the workingman's expenses would be increased ten per cent. He believed that no greater fallacy has ever been produced than that the prohibition or restriction of imports from abroad would increase the profitable employment of capital and labor at home. The country was prospering everywhere, vet Mr. Chamberlain asserted that only stagnation existed.

Alluding to Mr. Chamberlain's charge that he (the Duke of Devonshire) was "a drag on the wheels of progress," the speaker said he was content to act as a drag on the engine which was running down grade against all signais.

Lord Goschen moved and Lord

George Hamilton seconded the following resolution, which was passed by an ing resolution, which was passed by an overwhelming vote :—

"This meeting, while prepared to consider in a friendly spirit any measures the Government may submit to Parliament i special cases for mitigating the effects of hostile tariffs, is of the opinion that strenuous opposition should be offered to any fiscal policy insolving the protective tayation of food volving the protective taxation of food, and the establishment of a general pre-ferential or protective system."

WOMAN HORSE-THIEF.

Chief Jarvis of Bowmanville Makes an Arrest.

Bowmanville, Nov. 25.—An allegd wo-man horse-thief was arrested here yes-terday about 7.30 o'clock by Chief Jarvis, just about fifteen minutes after he re-ceived the message from Napanee to be on the look-out for such a character. on the look-out for such a character. About a week ago some woman hired a horse at a livery stable in Napanee and drove to Colborne and then to Bellewille, and disposed of it. She went to another livery stable and hired another horse, saying her husband was sick and she was going to take him for a drive. She then went to Cobourg, where she sold the horse and took the train to Port Hope, but, as she would not pay, she was put off the train and walked to Bowmanville. The prisoner registered at the Balmoral Hotel here to-night as Miss Ryan, but in some other places the name given was Mrs. Jones. She is about 45 years of age, and has been in the habit of putting up at the best hotels and of always "getting slok" shortly after arriving and ordering some drink, promising that her husband would settle in the morning. Chief Jarvis had her placed in safe keeping, and telephoned Napanee. The constable from that town will come in the morning and take charge of her. and has been in the habit of putting up at the best hotels and of always "getting sick" shortly after arriving and ordering some drink, promising that her husband would settle in the morning. FOOTBALL THE CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

When the teams met a week ago and played a tie game, the consensus of opinion of the rooters who watched the contest was that Darrell did not play the game of which she was capable and that Sandwich would forfeit her hold on the cup when the teams met in Sandwich on Saturday. Sandwich made a hippodrome of it They scored four goals by superior play and at the same time neid the Darrellites safe all the way. It was a case of the Sandwich line against the Darrell back division from start to finish. Brady, Will'ams, Dixon and A. Beeman scored the goals. — Windsor Record.
