President L. E. Allen in Ottawa Yesterday

Ontario Good Roads Association Visits Journal

Mr. Lucius E. Allen, president of the Ontario Good Roads Association, who was in the city, found time to visit The Office to convey his appreciation of the part The Journal is playing in the good roads movement. With regard to the Ottawa-Prescott highway, Mr. Allen stated that in an interview with the Hon. F. C. Biggs recently, the minister had expressed his determination to push the work of construction during the coming summer. It was expected that the road would be completed this year, provided no serious difficulties as to labor were encountered. Although the macadam road, which is now to be built, did not compare with the concrete one which had been proposed, Mr. Allen thought that it would prove a satisfactory start anyway and be a good foundation when it was decided to construct a better highway. The annual convention of the Dominion Good Roads Association, which is to be held in Winnipeg in June, will be attended by a very large delegation from the Ontario body. The secretary, Mr. McNamara, expects that it will be the biggest convention in the history of the association. Mr. Allen said the executive of the Ontario Good Roads Association was considering the annual tour to some section of the province during the summer. It had not been definitely decided on as yet, however, and the direction was still under consideration.—Ottawa Journal, March 23.

River Settles Down Again

No Further Trouble Anticipated From Flood.

A fairly large field of ice cakes came down at 4.45 yesterday afternoon from Corbyville but did not cause any damage, and did not raise the water. The field easily accommodated itself in the section of the river between the new Citizens Dairy and Pringle's Mill, forcing the ice before it past the lower bridge. West Bridge and Coleman streets are free from the water element again. Water is subsiding on lower Front street and on the west side of the river on Coleman, James, Dundas and Coburn streets. Water still remains high in the yards, basins and basements on the east side of Front street. The danger of further trouble is now considered past. The ice is melting very rapidly and a couple of days should see the end of the jam near the C.P.R. bridge. The water on Front street near the city hall reached its highest level so far about eleven o'clock this morning, after a shove of ice took place. The ice is disappearing rapidly under the blaze of sunlight of the past few days. By noon today the rearward of the ice jam was south of the footbridge. At the C.P.R. and C.N.R. bridges the ice has not moved any further south. In the harbor the ice is melting. In places below the C.N.R. bridge the ice seems firm yet. This afternoon about two o'clock the footbridge passage was clear of water and at three o'clock the end of the ice was at the lower bridge. Water subsided in all the up-street yards and cellars rapidly after the noon hour.

Flood Inundates Lower Section of the City

Situation on Sunday Afternoon Worse Than Many Anticipated—Lower Murney Ward and Front Street Section Received Baptism—Some Damage Accompanied the Freshet.

The annual breakup of the Moira River occurred on Sunday afternoon about twenty minutes to two o'clock. Today a portion of the lower town is under water as a result of the freshet.

The loss this year is much less than it was two years ago. Cold weather last week saved the situation, and rotted the ice, so that the blockade was not so great and much smaller area was flooded. The antics of the Moira two years ago led merchants and many citizens to take all the necessary precautions with their stocks and household furnishings. Still dozens with the record of two years ago were unprepared.

Yesterday's flood was more extensive than was anticipated by many. Friday night's snow storm provided the water that set loose an avalanche of ice at Lazier's Mill pond. The sun was very strong yesterday morning and the temperature went up to about 40 degrees with a consequent melting of snow and ice. About 1.30 in the afternoon sufficient changes had taken place in the water level and ice conditions at Lazier's to set in motion a field of broken ice held up there. The news was phoned to the city from the power station on the west side of the river and the result was that many were in waiting. When the ice preceded by a head of water came into the city portion of the river, the blockade at Pringle's Mill broke under the pressure. The ice in front of the blockade was heaved up and broken into large cakes which were raised high as they reached the footbridge. Accompanied by roaring noise and the sound of crushing ice, the whole field as far as Lett's dam moved slowly. The shove was the greatest in recent years, for the weight of ice drove the head past the lower bridge and under the C.P.R. and C.N.O.R. bridges over the east side of the river mouth. There it halted. Meanwhile the water rose in all the stable yards and sheds along the east side of the river from the upper bridge to the car bridges.

The first rush sent water and ice over Coleman street above McLaughlin's garage and twisted fences and buildings on the river bank. The footbridge "stood up like a man" and came through the flood with only minor damage. The footbridge gandy was flooded. At the footbridge the level of the ice was about thirty inches below the level of the big flood of two years ago as the scoring on the walls of the stone buildings shows.

The lower bridge suffered damage along the north walk, where boards were torn up and an ice post snapped off.

Below the lower bridge water broke across to the west and east. East of the river, the water came out on Front street below the Queen's Hotel and flooded across towards Pinnacle street. Ice followed the rush. With a few minor changes in level, this water has remained and the street from near the city hall to the C.P.R. track is running with water.

At No. 1 Fire Hall Chief Brown had the fire equipment taken out, but it was returned shortly after as there seemed little danger of a worse situation.

Several shops and garages on lower Front street are flooded and business is accordingly hampered. Vehicles and autos plough their way through the element however.

West of the river conditions were much worse. Lower Murney ward generally gets anything that is coming in the way of a flood, and yesterday's event was no exception. Several houses on the east side of Coleman street above Bridge were flooded for a short while. Fences and buildings along the river were twisted and moved.

Water rushed across Panter's park then swept below Springer's and in that way got across James, Brock, Colborne, Mary and Dundas streets. In this area houses were flooded in the old style and boats were soon in sight playing along the streets carrying out the residents who had been caught within. There were some cases of sickness and these had to be moved. Aid Hanna and others of his confederates worked like Trojans. Wearing rubber boots and using the city car and a boat they got out one family, using the boat to convey the people from their door step to the car at the edge of the sidewalk. Those who did good work were those who wore top boots and went about into the endangered houses, lifting pianos and furniture and getting out the inmates.

Aid Hanna had put at the service of the police several pairs of long boots so that they might in case of a flood do some rescue work. Sergeant Naphin and P. C. Jack Truistich, who happened to be on duty in the afternoon did good work on the west side in the vicinity of James and Colborne street.

A jam came down at 3.45 which raised the level of the water in the river and on the east and west sides. The stream poured past McLaughlin's garage over to Everett street between Bridge and Jane Sts. and crossing Bridge, resulting in a tie-up of traffic except by cars for an hour or so. This second wave swept as far west as Mary street and just missed invading the houses in that district. About four o'clock a boat or two appeared on Everett St.

Motion picture men caught the flood with films at the footbridge and in all parts of the flooded area, wherever a good story was to be told. One artist of the camera held his position on the footbridge while the structure was swaying and twisting about the floating ice cakes.

The big flood of 1918 took place at 3.30 o'clock on Wednesday, Mar. 20th. Yesterday's occurred at 1.30 March 21st.

There were not so many sensational features of the flood this year. The day was Sunday and there was less danger of people and animals being caught in barns along the river bank.

A big metal clad building behind the Hastings Hotel was swept clean around back of Mr. H. E. Fairfield's place by the ice on Sunday afternoon.

Business as far as the barns and yards on the west side of Front St. are concerned is at a standstill, as there is water everywhere.

Some poultry sheds in the southern part of Murney ward were surprised and hens were caught out sunning themselves. They took to trees or the high spots of land.

Ald. Chas. Hanna rescued a horse which had been left in Ross' stables near Mr. J. W. Walker's premises. The poor animal had to be led out of the water.

A boy sight-seeing near the Albion Hotel fell into a deep hole from an ice cake and had to swim for his life.

Another story is told of a man who went into a stable and had trouble to get out as the water kept forcing the door closed.

The ice that caused the trouble yesterday came from as far north as Cannifton. The cakes that spilled out of the mill pond at Mr. W. H. Lingham's mill were huge chunks thirty or more inches in thickness. They were the biggest he had ever seen, a Cannifton resident stated today.

At noon today it was learned from Cannifton that there is a considerable amount of ice in the mill pond at Cannifton and much farther up the river. All along the banks are stranded huge cakes, weighing three or four tons each.

EX-MAYOR PLATT WRITES FROM FRISCO

Editor Ontario—

I was thinking of you therefore a few lines. Thus far Mrs. Platt and myself have had a delightful trip. After leaving Toronto we went to Winnipeg, Edmonton, through the Athabasca country, and by way of the Rockies to Prince Rupert. We then sailed down the coast of B. C. to Vancouver and over to Victoria, where we stayed some time. Victoria is a bit of Old England dropped into the Pacific. We left Victoria last week, coming to Seattle and Portland. This is a wonderful scenic route till you get to Frisco. At present we are enjoying the sights of Frisco. It is some city, believe me. We went to the First Congregational Church last Sunday and whom do you think was the preacher—Dr. Gordon, the evangelist, who was at Belleville. He was drawing immense crowds. Next week we intend going to Los Angeles and will stay there for a while and pass on to Mexico, whence I think we shall return home. Hoping you are well and with best wishes to all, I am yours truly, losing the historic number of the battery in the reorganization. The intention was to make Belleville the headquarters of the 32nd battery and to transfer the 32nd to another place and it was only by representation of local soldiers and men that the old number and name have been preserved to Belleville. The significance of the local interest in the battery is shown by the fact that the Thirty-Fourth was the only local peace unit that went overseas and was able to go overseas and that hundreds of young men who served in the war were associated with this unit.

Dr. E. O. Platt,

MELISSA HARRIS

On Tuesday, March 2nd, 1920, Melissa Broad, widow of the late Coleman Harris, passed peacefully away at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. J. Harrison, Mount Pleasant, Michigan. Mrs. Harris was born in Madoc township 7 years ago last December. She was a daughter of the late Joshua Broad, of Hazzard's Corners, and sister of J. R. Broad, of the same place. Fifty-one years ago she became the wife of the late Coleman Harris and resided on the home-occupied near Hazzard's Corners, now occupied by her step-son, George Harris. Her husband predeceased her about twenty years. Her only child, Bertha, wife of the late W. F. Farrell, died, some years ago. Four step-sons, Charles, of Sidney; Thomas, George and Warren, of Madoc; also several brothers and sisters survive her. There are also left to mourn her loss her two grandchildren, Ray and Ross Farrell, of Belleville, and several step-grandchildren. At the age of eleven years she became a member of the Methodist church at Hazzard's Corners, and was ever a regular attendant and faithful worker in the church. She was a member of the Sunday School, Epworth League, Prayer Service and W.M.S. About twelve years ago she came to Madoc to reside. Here also she was an active member of the church, having filled the positions of teacher of the Primary Class, president of the Epworth League, president of the W.M.S., of which she was a beloved and honored life member. At the time of her removal to make her home in Belleville she was teacher of the Girl's class of the Hope Sunday School Class. Mrs. Harris was a member of the Women's Institute and in the labor of love and loyalty to the boys overseas. Hers was a beautiful Christian character, ever young in spirit; a true friend always ready to comfort and cheer. Her life was a benediction and a blessing. She has left behind her a blessed memory and there are many to whom Heaven will seem brighter because she is there.

New Guns For "Thirty-Fourth"

Famous Local Artillery Unit to Be Reorganized—New Guns Have Arrived

Four eighteen pounder field guns arrived in Belleville on Saturday and are now being set up for the 34th Battery C.F.A., which is about to be reorganized under Lt. Col. W. R. Rierdon, D.S.O., the former G.O.C. of the old 34th which gave heroic service in the Great War. The battery headquarters on Church street, adjacent to the Griffin Theatre are being remodelled for artillery purposes. This summer will likely see the 34th go into camp at Potawawa.

Immediately the guns are in shape, reorganization will begin, followed by instruction. Belleville had a good many artillery men who fought in the war and it will be easy to fill the ranks of this scientific branch of the service.

The Thirty-Fourth Battery, which was organized in the year 1912 under Major Rierdon made its name illustrious in the Great War. The call to arms in August 1914 found the members practically to a man responding and in the course of a week or two the battery had its full complement. Almost every boy in the unit was a Belleville boy and it is no wonder that the public cherishes the memory of the boys who fought in the Thirty-Fourth. Overseas the battery was broken up, but in their new associations the boys continued to give the same good account of themselves. Numbers of these boys gave their lives in the cause of liberty and justice and many others have returned home. During the war many reinforcements for the artillery were sent overseas from Belleville and vicinity and the four guns which left Belleville on the outbreak of war gave excellent service for the King. They far exceeded their original purpose. Finally one was destroyed by a direct hit from the Hun's artillery and another later was struck in the muzzle by a shell, the result being that a portion was broken off. The remaining two guns continued the fight until the bore was worn out and they were sent back to England to be re-bored. What became of them thereafter is not known.

Belleville was within an ace of the Methodist church in charge of Rev. Wm. Higgs, chairman of Madoc district. Among those present and taking part in the service were Rev. George Brown, of Belleville, Rev. Dr. MacTavish, Rev. T. H. Hall, of Madoc, Rev. Carman Hie, of Eldorado, and Rev. W. H. Webber, of Actinolite. Impressive and worthy tributes were paid to the memory of a good faithful man. Only one son, Rev. E. Geo. Sanderson, M.D., was present at the public service. He gave a most beautiful and touching tribute to the memory of his father who had lived to impress the character of his children with the supreme duty of living to serve God. Many followed in the procession to the cemetery, where after the burial service of the church the Orange brethren rendered the impressive funeral service of their order.—Madoc Review.

OBITUARY

MRS. ELIZA HASLIP

The death of Mrs. Eliza Haslip, widow of the late James Haslip, occurred last evening at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. George Garrison, 21 Brown St. She was born in Hungerford in 1854 and was in her 66th year. Mrs. Haslip was a daughter of the late Wm. Harrison and had lived in Belleville nearly all her life. She had been ill two weeks. She leaves two sons, William Haslip and Edward Haslip, of Belleville, and two daughters, Mrs. G. Garrison and Mrs. J. Lafferty of Belleville and one sister, Miss Mary Ann Harrison. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

MRS. MATILDA BOYD

A former resident of Marmora died in Campbellford yesterday morning in the person of Mrs. Matilda Boyd, widow of the late George M. Boyd, who was born in Seymour township in December, 1844. When quite young she came to Marmora where she lived until her marriage about 55 years ago, when she went with her husband to the Boyd Settlement a few miles west of the village. Her husband predeceased her about 22 years ago and about nine years ago she went to Campbellford to live with her daughter. She was very highly esteemed by all who knew her. Two sons and three daughters survive. They are William G., of Marmora; Isaac, of Campbellford; Mrs. Joe. Doupe, of Seymour; Mrs. Robert Wood, of West Huntingdon; and Mrs. Chas. Duncliffe, of Campbellford. The funeral will take place tomorrow, service being held at the home of Mrs. Duncliff, and leave at 10 a.m. for Marmora for interment.—Marmora Herald.

HELEN FLYNN

A deep gloom was cast over the surrounding country when death claimed a most promising little girl of two years and nineteen days. Deceased was little Helen Flynn, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flynn, residing near Tamworth. On March 2 she developed influenza-pneumonia, followed by pleurisy, and all that medical aid or loving care could do were not equal to that power above, who claimed our darling, as His own Wednesday morning at 8.30. Some Briscoe Facts You Can Easily Prove

THE appearance of this car must appeal to you. But you, who know cars will look deeper for your motor satisfaction. You'll want to be assured of its "staying power." That assurance you can get from any of the hundreds of Briscoe owners. Jump in and drive the car. You find your foot falls naturally on the clutch pedal. You lift your foot and the car starts smoothly, surely the clutch engages.

And now for the speed change. The gears "mesh" noiselessly and you slide into second, then into high with an ease that is surprising. You find yourself in complete control of the "mechanical marvel" you're driving—able to stop instantly—able to slow down to a mere crawl without gear shift—able to go up steep hills on high—and taking the ruts so smoothly you never notice them.

Armstrong, Peterborough, Miss Elizabeth and Miss Sarah Richards, of Belleville and one son, Mr. C. W. Richards of Toronto.

Chinese Are Very Thrifty

NUMEROUS things which are not worthy of consideration by peoples of other nations are being turned into good use by the people of China, and the ingeniousness in utilizing things of no value whatsoever is shown by scavengers who collect peaches in the street.

These peaches have several uses. Broken into pieces and dried in the sun they furnish good fuel. But the kernel, which has a good market value, is being sold to the native druggists for making medicines.

Another profitable use of peaches is by selling to native artists or engravers, who carve them in different forms of animals. Some of the large stones, however, are routed enough, are carried into finger rings, which cost between 20 and 30 cents each.

When full, they will pick out fish shells and even broken potteryware, for everything has its use in China. The broken bowls and cracked potteryware is broken into small pieces and used as a good material for making foundation of brick walls after being mixed with cement.

Another interesting collection of waste material in Shanghai alone has brought not a small amount of money to many poor children and women, and this is the collection of tin cans.

So far as the frugality of the Chinese is concerned nothing is wasted in China and even the dirt of the street costs money when it is carried to a farmyard where farmers will buy it to turn it into fertilizer.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg bids fair to become a millionaire from his writings, according to the Berlin Gazette. It is reported that he has sold some of his works in America for $12,000, which, at present exchange, would amount to about 2,000,000 marks.

The only dentists of China used to pull teeth with their fingers. They practiced by pulling pegs from a wooden board until they had a grip with a lifting power of 300 or 400 pounds.

HOW SURRENDER CAME

GEN. LUDENDORFF HAS STATED HIS CASE.

His Memoirs Reveal Many Interesting Phases of the War—He Knows in August, 1918, That the Allies Were Sure to Win But Wanted Longer War in Hopes of Securing Better Terms.

THE books written and about to be written by the defeated rulers of Germany in defence of their deeds and omissions during the world war will soon fill a moderate sized library.

Everybody is doing it, from the Kaiser, who has expressed his grief over the German debacle by raising a beard, to Great Admiral von Tirpitz, who did the same by shaving off ditto. Now comes Ludendorff with a volume of memoirs, soon to be off the presses of a foremost German publisher.

As to the book itself, the London Times says: "The general endeavor to put all the blame for the war on the civil authorities. In the beginning of July Gen. Ludendorff informed the foreign Secretary, Admiral Hintze, that he expected to be able to force a desire for peace upon the Allies as a result of the next blow.

"Ludendorff speaks of further concessions, of Bulgaria's secession, of how Austria-Hungary's collapse was clearly bound up with this secession, and comes to the conference held at Spa on September 28. At this conference, taken part in by Ludendorff, Hindenburg and Hintze, the report to the Kaiser was that the situation was presented to the Kaiser was discussed. In this report Admiral Hintze recommended a change in the political course in Germany, while Ludendorff urged speed in the sending of the Kaiser and the Kaiser, having agreed to Ludendorff's and Hintze's view of the situation, said the note would be sent by September 30.

"Ludendorff and Hindenburg now had no doubt that the war ought to be continued. 'We could have kept the war going for several months longer. By exerting all our strength we could, perhaps, have impressed the moderate forces in the enemy countries, strengthened the peace parties there, and obtained a dictated peace.'

"On October 25 Hindenburg and Ludendorff stated their views to the Kaiser, and Vice-Chancellor Fyver. But the two army leaders were now convinced that the Government not only had no intention of continuing the war, but that they were prepared to accept the hardest terms. On October 26 Ludendorff prepared his application for permission to resign, but at Hindenburg's request did not send it in immediately. Thereafter he learned that the High Command had been vehemently attacked with Hindenburg's telegram on the receipt of President Wilson's third note. (This was the one which Hindenburg sent to the Kaiser.) The meeting Ludendorff received the impression that he no longer enjoyed the confidence of the Kaiser and requested permission to resign. That afternoon the desired permission was granted."

GIANT NEWS.

Long-Extinct Species Was Often Five Feet Long.

Over in Europe, quite a while ago, bones were dug up of some new creature which in life had been about five feet long.

Every boy is familiar with news, which he calls "salamanders." They are commonly found in brooks and ponds, and when five inches long is doubt he deposited in the water a whopping big one. But five feet—phew!

Of course, these giant news were of long-extinct species. But the joke was that a learned investigator declared the bones to be those of human beings, presumably drowned in the sea, and which Noah and his family escaped in the Ark. It would have been interesting to live in those distant days, when so many queer monsters (mostly of aquatic habits) swarmed on the earth. They seem to have been among nature's earlier experiments, abandoned later.

There were no mammals then; and the supposition is that all the mammals of to-day, including man, were originally derived from a reptilian ancestor. We cannot say for certain that this queer reptile (which lived about 4,000,000 years ago) was not actually an ancestor of our own.

It was dug up in Texas, and has been named Dimetrodon. About eight feet long, the most curious thing about it was the enormous fan carried on its back—the ribs of the fan being a series of bones extending from the vertebrae.

Now the King Rat is being declared in deadly earnest on the most voracious of all pests, rats, no doubt there will come to light more examples of this peculiar phenomenon, the King Rat.

When Napoleon was a young cadet he went on one occasion to witness the ascent of a balloon in the Champs de Mars. He entered unperceived the enclosure which contained the balloon, which was then very nearly full and about to ascend, and requested the aeronaut to allow him to enter the car. The request, however, was refused, the reason given being that the feelings of the boy might embarrass the aeronaut. "Though I am young, I fear neither the powers of earth nor of air!" Bonaparte is reported to have exclaimed. On being requested to retire, the little cadet, enraged at the refusal, drew his sword and, slitting the balloon in several places, destroyed the apparatus which had been constructed with such infinite labor and ingenuity. Such was Napoleon's first and last attempt to ascend in a balloon.

Band's New Uniforms

Through the generosity of James Spalding, the members of the Perth Citizens' band have been presented with a set of uniforms which were in use many years ago by the Fountain Fire Brigade band. Since the demobilization of the Fountain band the uniforms have been in the possession of Mr. Spalding and they have been well cared for and are almost as good as new.

Declined the Principalship

Rev. Dr. Barclay, who died in Scotland on Friday, was in 1903 offered the principalship of Queen's University, in succession to Principal Grant, but declined the honor, preferring to remain in the ministry. In recognition of his services at St. Paul's, Montreal, Lord Mountstephen fifteen years ago made a gift of $75,000 in securities to Dr. Barclay to maintain him in his declining years.

Glen Tay Dam Goes Again

On Wednesday the Glen Tay dam gave way with the water pressure and took with it the bridge, leaving the connection broken from one side of the country to the other. This is a serious proposition both for the country around and for Perth. This dam should be built substantial enough to hold back any pressure that might come. Perth depends on the water coming from that source and to ensure good clean water it is essential that this dam should be maintained.

To Sail the Pentland

The steamer Pentland, of which Capt. John J. Powers, of Ogdensburg is master, will sail this year in the coal business between Erie, Pa. and Montreal. The owners will receive a rate of $2.50 per ton and the captain will also receive a bonus on every ton carried if he goes through the year. Capt. Powers sailed the Pentland the past season. He formerly was in the old Rutland line, where he began sailing, and before joining the Pentland was a master in the Hall Line.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Bridges Are Needed

The constantly expanding automobile motor truck and other vehicular traffic between Eastern Ontario and the Island of Montreal, is such as to emphasize the necessity for the construction of bridges across the Ottawa river at Vaudeville and St. Anne's. The Government is asked to generously subsidize the work. With these bridges there would be splendid traffic over what is perhaps the most beautiful scenic drive in any part of Canada, east of the Rocky Mountains, that extending along the shore of Lake Ontario and immediately on the north bank of the St. Lawrence river, with its strikingly impressive views of its many rapids.

The Chinese proprietor said that the boys had been bothering him all week and every window on the side of the house and most of those in the front were broken. The Chinamen in the house were all asleep last night when the window breakers came along the street and threw stones or other things at the windows and doors. Frong Bros., owners of the place, are determined to catch the guilty parties and have them brought to time.

Allan Cup System Unfair

Kingston hockeyists, who have followed the O.H.A. games for years cannot understand why Toronto Granites are compelled to play so many games to hold the Allan trophy. As soon as the Granites won the senior O.H.A. they were entitled to the trophy, and according to the rules they are not called upon to play more than two games. The local hockey fans think that instead of Granites playing Sudbury, the latter outfit should have played some other western teams which were challengers for the trophy, the winner to meet the Granites.

LAST DAYS—THE APOSTACY

Written by Rev. W. H. Wallace.

"But know this, that in the last days grievous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of self, lovers of money, boastful, haughty, railers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unlovely, without natural affection, implacable, slanderers, without self-control, fierce, no lovers of good, traitors, headstrong, puffed up, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God; holding a form of godliness, but having denied the power thereof: from these also turn away." II. Timothy 3:1-5.

Chapter I. of this epistle deals with the past and draws lessons therefrom. Chapter II. takes up the present and points out what our attitude should be. "As good soldiers of Jesus Christ." Chapter III. our lesson for today, gives a vision of the future. The prophetic gift was freely used by the apostles, as the New Testament clearly proves. We find a number of prophecies similar to the one before us. We recall that one of Paul's in the book of acts, when the apostle gave warning to the Ephesian Church: "I know that after my departure shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock, and from your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them." (20:29.) The epistles to Timothy prove that this prediction was already being fulfilled in Paul's lifetime. There is also the prophecy which refers to the great falling away and the revealing of the man of sin. (II. Thess. 2:3-7.) The apostle Paul has a third and similar prophecy in I. Timothy 4:1-3. There we recall that prophecy by Peter about the rise of false teachers. (II. Peter 2:1, 2.) and the first epistle of John (2:18 and 4:3) foretells about the coming of antichrist. If we compare those in II. Thess and I. Peter with the one before us we see what some objects to—a mixture of the present and the future. But that was a common method and conception of all the prophets. They talked of future things as if they were in the present and transpiring before their very eyes. We know that prophecy, like the gift of faith, gives the substance of things hoped for, also the evidence of things not seen.

The Signs of Apostacy. The apostle draws a very dark picture of the corrupt forms of Christianity and anticipates by warnings, that the history of the church has vindicated, viz: the seedbed of greater corruptions that follow up to the present time. We can not refer to all the black catalogue of vices the apostle enumerates here, but point out, what others have noted, that its beginning and the middle and the end are very significant. It begins with "lovers of self"—that has been the sin of weakness of humanity from the beginning of human history, and is the root of all forms of sin. But it seems more prevalent today than ever before, as seen in the competition of business, also in politics, and even in the realm of religion. The spirit of the age is in the oft quoted saying, "Every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost." We must guard against the soul-destroying sin of selfishness in the home and the church and the community and keep ever before us, in all relations in life, the moral and Christian principle, "No man liveth by himself."

In the centre of the list stands "lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God"—that is the outstanding sin of today. The playhouse, the dance hall and every other place of amusement can be found full and overflowing and long lines of people waiting for admission; on the other hand, the house of God is barely half full. This is the tendency of the times in which we live—pleasure seeking rather than seeking after God. This attitude is maintained in spite of the strong warning from God's word, "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth." As we look upon our fellow-men we watch the movements among the nations, even those who are supposed to be Christianized and most civilized, we find that the fear of God and the love of God are conspicuous by their absence. This is seen not only in the attitude toward God's House, and God's Word, but the Lord's Day. The promise for keeping the Lord's Day holy is not at all realized in our day, for the simple reason that the conditions are not complied with. Listen to the words of the prophet: "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day, and call the Sabbath delight, the holy of the Lord, honourable and shall honour him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: Then shall thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." (Isaiah 58:13, 14.) The apostacy of the present age is plainly evident in the attitude of the masses in Britain and America toward God's House, God's Word, God's Days and God Himself—"lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God."

The real apostacy finally reaches its climax in the end—"Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." This is a very common condition. In England a leading man of another denomination said to one of our own, quietly and as a matter of course: "Our communions are so many hundred thousands, I reckon that a quarter of them, or thereabouts, are truly spiritual men!" and he seemed to think that nobody would question the correctness of the calculation and the proportion. Our leading man replied: "Why, Christianity is largely a mass of pagans masquerading as Christians. Every communion and every church must have the real spiritual atmosphere lowered by the presence of those who have the form of godliness but deny the power thereof. They are like the icebergs that float in the Atlantic and lower the temperature of the summer all over Europe. "Godliness" in the New Testament, means not only piety, but practical religion. We deny it when we ignore its spiritual power, which makes true Christian life and effective service possible. Uniting with the church or taking part in religious forms can never be a substitute for godliness. Union with the Lord Jesus Christ is the chief demand; then the true attitude for the present age is easy, "denying ungodliness and worldly lusts. We should live soberly and righteously and godly in this present evil world."

Address and Presentation

On Wednesday evening, March 3, a large number of friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parks, Latta, to bid them fare well before their departure to their new home, and presented them with a beautiful mantel clock and a dozen silver spoons, and the following address:

To Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parks:— On this the eve of your departure to your new home we have taken this opportunity of coming together to spend a social evening with you. We very much regret that you, having spent the last eight years amongst us, think it feasible to leave our community in order to benefit your conditions. Your kindly attitude, cheerful spirit and generous disposition towards us in community life will not be easily forgotten, but we realize our loss will be another's gain. As a token of our esteem and goodwill we ask you to accept these gifts. As the clock ticks the hour of time may it ever remind you of your many friends at Mount Pleasant, and when you are comfortably settled in your new home we wish you every success and trust that every blessing to which you are entitled may rest upon you.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors, Thomas Shannon, Arthur Glass.

Golden Rule Has Place in Trade

Continued from page 3 counter and gives a full pound of sugar to the man who asks for a stand on the other side of the counter and pays his money for the pound of sugar.

Does Customer Do His Part? The consumer expects the merchant to be honest and square and give him his money's worth for every penny that he spends with him, but how often does the consumer stop and ask himself the question, "Am I being as fair and honest with the merchant as he is being with me?"

Now, look on the other side of the picture. Mr. Consumer decides that he needs a new suit of clothes, or she wants a new kitchen range, or some of the little consumers express a desire for a train of cars or a bobbed haircut. Mr. Consumer picks up the big mail order catalogue which the mail order house has printed with his money or that of others like him, and he looks it over until he finds a picture that strikes his eye. It's a picture of a "nifty" looking suit of clothes. Of course, he can't feel the picture to see whether the cloth is as good as it looks; he can't look the mail-order man in the eye and ask him whether he will guarantee it to wear for at least a month or six weeks; he can't tell the mail-order man that he will drop in the first of the month and settle for it; he can't tell the mail-order man that he would like to have a little of his business or a chance to do a little carpenter work or painting or plumbing work for him, as long as he is buying his goods from him, for the mail-order man hasn't any business or any work to give him. But the picture is a pretty one, so Mr. Consumer digs out his hard earned cash, goes down to the postoffice, buys a money-order and sends it to the mail-order man.

After a week or ten days, or possibly two weeks, the suit arrives. It may be nothing like the picture. The cloth may be of poor quality. The chances are that it doesn't fit at all. But there is nothing for Mr. Consumer to do but put the suit on and wear it. He can't get his money back. He might send the suit back and the mail-order man might send another in its place, but the chances are that it won't be any better than the first and Mr. Consumer will only be out the additional express charges.

Found Golden Rule Pays. Mr. Consumer found that it pays to remember the Golden Rule in business. If he had done unto the merchant as he would like the merchant to do unto him, he would have got more for his money and he would have aided in making it possible for the merchant to help him and his town when they needed help.

The world has discovered that the Golden Rule is not for use only on Sundays, but that it is value on every day of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Foreman, of Campbellford, spent over Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Farman and sister, Mrs. J. Grille.

Obituary

WILBERT MORTON SHOREY Wilbert Morton Shorey, passed away peacefully to his well deserved rest at his home on the 4th Line of Sidney in the 70th year of his age. He was born on the 4th Line of Sidney and apart from two years spent in Belleville, all his life was spent on his said line. For years he was a faithful member of the Wallace Methodist Church and the community testified to his worth by making him superintendent of their Sunday School, Class Leader and exhorter. He was a man quiet in manner, ready to assist in any good work and just as ready to give the honor attached to any church office to others his conduct was most consistent and his character an ideal to be copied. His home was ever open to the ministry, and he did much for the cause of God. He was an ideal father and the impress of his life has been left not only on the family who revere his memory but on the community also. In 1872 he married Sarah Marie Sharp, and the union was a happy and faithful one until he was called away to the Homeland.

On March the 4th, 1920, after an illness of several weeks, without a struggle his earthly tabernacle was dissolved and the living spirit took its departure to the bidding of God. There are left to mourn his loss, his wife, four sons and a brother, Edgar L. of Belleville, Morley J. of Maine, Hilton J. and Frank J. of Sidney and Mr. Chester Shorey, of Belleville.

On the afternoon of March 7th, the funeral service was held in the home, where the pastor, Rev. T. Wallace preached to a large crowd of relatives and friends, taking as his text: "He being dead yet speaketh," after which all that was mortal was conveyed to the Belleville cemetery, where his body awaits the voice of Him that will bid the sleeping dust to awake on the morning of the resurrection.

JOHN REID John Reid passed away this morning in his 89th year at the home of his sister, Mrs. Bradshaw, of Foxboro. He was born in Thurlow and had lived there all his life. He was a member of the Methodist Church, Surviving are three sons, Ernest and Morley, of Rochester and Armour of Trenton.

DESERONTO It makes us think of spring now that we see a few cars running about.

Mrs. A. Wilson and son, of Onshaw who has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. Ed. Lereque and Mrs. Jack Martigan left for home again on Monday.

Sunday surely looked like spring. The bay is open by Forester's Island but there's still a lot of drive across the bay.

Mrs. Fred Solmes left for Toronto a few days ago.

Mr. Frank Whitton was rushed to Kingston hospital a week ago Saturday night. On Sunday he underwent an operation for appendicitis. His case was hopeless for a few days but latest reports says he is improving some. His brother, W. Whitton has been with him all week.

Margaret Marcell, relict of the late J. M. Marcell, died, Mar. 9, at her home on College St. Death was due to apoplexy. Deceased was a member of the Plymouth brethren and 78 years of age. The remains were placed in the vault at the Deseronto cemetery.

Come and see the great comedy to be shown at the Deseronto Methodist Sunday school room on Friday evening, Mar. 26. It is to be given by the Epworth League and entitled, "The Oak Farm" in three acts. All are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patterson and three kiddies arrived in town on Saturday night to visit Mrs. Patterson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Perry. Mr. Patterson has been in Quebec but on returning home will take up residence in Montreal where his work calls him. They have been on a visit to Toronto for the past two weeks.

The fire bell rang on Saturday morning but before the firemen could get out word was sent in that everything was all right. It was at Mr. Earl Lucas' east Main St. On going upstairs, Mrs. Lucas found the bedding of the cradle on fire, which must have caught by being too close to the stovepipe. A pall of water fixed it so they could manage it themselves.

Belleville Organizes a Humane Society

Major Osborne, Sec.-Treas. for the Provincial Branch, Toronto, also Manager of the Toronto Society, Addressed the Meeting. Last evening a public meeting was held in the council chamber and an association to be known as the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Belleville branch was organized.

County Crown-Attorney Mr. Wm. Carnw, opened the meeting and in a few words expressed himself of being very much in favor of such a society being formed in Belleville. Judge J. F. Willis was then appointed chairman of the meeting and Mr. W. H. Nugent as secretary.

Major Osborne pointed out the many tasks they were called upon to perform every day. The Toronto Humane Society has a paid office staff of four. Four paid inspectors who work from 8 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock at night and then all telephone calls are answered during the night.

Every day they have from thirty to forty calls that animals have strayed. They receive calls that a dog has been run over or a horse is down and cannot get up and also a long list of complaints of horse whippings, driving horses under the whip, lame and sore horses, and of overloading. These complaints are sent in by the members of the society.

They have started a campaign in Toronto on checking. They are asking the people to not check up the horses, especially those used for delivery.

An inspector is in the stock yards at Toronto inspecting each car of live stock that comes into the yards. Hogs and sheep are loaded in the same car with but a weak partition between them that is often broken down by the hogs which sometimes kill the sheep.

The Jewish method of killing animals is cruel, but it is a matter of form of their religion. The inspector of each society has power of constable in any municipality. Major Osborne is one of the four inspectors of the Toronto Society.

Mr. Ed. Brown as Peter Callaghan and Mr. Thomas Barrett as his son Peter, had unsympathetic parts to play but did themselves full justice. Patrick Kavanaugh was taken by Mr. Lou Howe who gave a very satisfying study. Mr. James Boyle played Gerald Kavanaugh with emphasis and the emotion of the true lover. Master Felix Blanchard, Tim made a decided hit. He was not self-conscious and gave a good study of the boy.

Miss Priscilla Doran as the heroine Kate Donovan drew well merited applause for her fine work. Miss Hilda Foltz as Dora Kavanaugh left nothing to be desired in an arduous presentation of the character. These young ladies were presented with beautiful bouquets during the performance.

Miss K. Bowden sang several fine numbers during an intermission and was roundly applauded. The management in charge of the production by St. Michael's Dramatic Club was composed of Business Manager, Mr. Geo. A. Lee; Assistant Manager, Mr. T. V. Scanlan; Stage Manager, Mr. L. E. Young; Accompanist, Miss Helen Foltz.

The orchestra played a fine program. The following took part: cornet, E. R. Hinchey; violin-cello, Mr. Elliott; violin, W. Weymark; piano, Miss May Williams. The costumes for the production were furnished by Joseph Ponton, of Montreal.

and without answering. Having once decided on his course, he wasted no time. He rolled back the big door and saw Cherry already harnessed in his beast.

Together they backed the animal between the shafts, fastened the traces, and Mr. Stag leaped quickly to the seat and gathered up the reins.

"You'll hafter take the Fallow road," the carpenter shouted after him. "And have a care drivin' Cherry."

Home and backboard whirled out of the yard and his voice was lost to the hardware merchant.

Cherry stepped out splendidly, and they left a cloud of dust behind them as they rolled up the pipe, not in the direction of the abandoned camp.

Cherry stepped out splendidly, and they left a cloud of dust behind them as they rolled up the pipe, not in the direction of the abandoned camp.

"Oh, God, spare her!" he burst forth. "Spare them both!" Then he kissed the glove again and hid it away in the inner pocket of his vest.

The hardware dealer tried to think of just what the fugitives might have done when they escaped from the cabin.

If it were true that Amanda would not turn toward the fire, then also more than likely had taken the opposite direction, leaving the cabin.

Suddenly Joseph Stag dragged Cherry's head around. The horse snorted and hesitated for the smoke was blinding him.

"Praps that's so," he agreed, and he held in the nervous Cherry for a moment till the change was accomplished.

The roaring of the fire grew louder and louder in their ears. "Suddenly Joseph Stag dragged Cherry's head around. The horse snorted and hesitated for the smoke was blinding him.

from smoke and fire for a moment, but the brands still fall. Cherry had halted on the edge of the lake, but Joseph Stag urged him on into the water, sank deep. The shore was narrow and afforded little space for refuge.

And by the way in which the woman clung to his arm it was evident that she did not propose to lose him.

"My, Uncle Joe! You are just the bestest man!" declared Carolyn May, facing her uncle. "Isn't he, Miss Mandy? And, see, his arm is all bandaged. Dear me, we must get it up for Amy Rose and let her do it up for him."

CHAPTER XVII "Two's Company" Toward the east the narrow tract was completely burned to the hands of Coaker's creek.

Joseph Stag led the horse out of the water and ordered Miss Amanda and Carolyn May to get into the seat on the buckboard again. Then he set down, reaching the horse along the narrow beach, while Prince followed wearily in the rear.

It was a rough route they followed, but the abandoned forest was still too hot for them to pass through, had they been able to find a path.

CHAPTER XVIII The Journey. It was certainly a fact that Amanda Parlow had not only survived the fire, but she had also found a way to escape.

Sad Story of Night Life in Town of Lindsay

Lindsay, Mar. 20.—A revolting story of night life in Lindsay has been revealed, and the details are so pathetic and so serious as to call for prompt and vigorous action on the part of the authorities.

The story has to do with the treatment which has been accorded a girl fourteen years of age with wayward tendencies at the hands of monsters in human form, who have taken advantage of her youth and her moral weakness, and have subjected her to indignities of a most disgusting character.

The most astonishing thing in connection with this sad case is the fact that our night authorities have been aware of the waywardness of this girl and her presence on the streets at night in the company of well known young scoundrels who delight in preying upon unfortunate females.

That such an incident could occur in a Christian community without those conversant with the facts making an effort to reclaim this mere child is almost unbelievable.

Mr. Henry Dube, sr., has been seriously ill. The town's temporary offices are over Miller's store. This is the place where the clerk may be found.

Mr. Frank Whitton was rushed to Kingston Hospital on Saturday night. On Sunday he underwent an operation for appendicitis. At latest reports Mr. Whitton was doing as well as could be expected.

Mr. D. W. Rollins, of Tweed, has leased the brick manufacturing plant of Mr. Walter Lingham, Belleville. He expects to have everything in readiness to start work as soon as weather conditions permit.

Mr. Fred W. Bradshaw, formerly of Roblin, who sold his farm there and went to Northern Saskatchewan to live, has come back to Deseronto.

Mothers' meeting report — Mrs. (Capt.) Smith.

A few remarks by Mr. Clapp, in which he voiced the gratitude of the workers and Mrs. Schuster to the "Ontario" and "Intelligencer" for their kindness in inserting notices without charge during the past year and the Hydro Electric also came in for special gratitude for furnishing us electric light free for many years.

Rev. Mr. Kerr of St. Andrew's, gave the address of the evening and his wholesome and kindly remarks were listened to by all, even by the very smallest with the most earnest attention, and he proved last evening that he not only possesses the faculty of enlisting the attention of older persons, but even the very youngest as well.

A solo by Mr. Ridley and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Kerr brought the anniversary to a close at 9.30.

Owing to the illness of Miss Peake, the librarian, no report of the library was given.

This work which began forty years ago by the late Rev. Mr. Schuster and Mrs. Schuster has continued all these years and Mrs. Schuster during these later years has been surrounded by a faithful corps of workers.

We might add that we noticed in all the reports, each department closed the year with a surplus. The churches of our city might well emulate this excellent example. No debts are contracted, everything being paid for as needed. The history of the founding of the mission is an interesting reading and too long to insert in this short notice but the words of the inscription on the tablets over the entrance may be quoted: "Asked of God April 16, 1882. Received of God Dec. 30, 1882. We commend this important work to the interest of our readers."

Mr. Walter Buckles, Bridge St., who has been seriously ill for several weeks, has showed signs of improvement since Monday last but is not out of danger.

The power was off on Sunday for most of the day on account of some changes that were being made at the power house. We understand that it was impossible to get men at any other time and the commissioners had to take them when they could come. Some inconvenience was occasioned in the churches whose organs are run by electric power.

The spring freshet reveals the fact that certain parts of the town are in bad need of draining and also that some of the old drains have been filled up. If the council were to pay some attention to providing a way for the getting rid of the surface water it would not only be a great benefit to residents in the locality drained but to the town generally as it would improve the condition of the streets.—Campbellford Herald.

Mr. Ernest W. Stafia, who is undergoing treatment at Sydenham Hospital, Kingston, was home for the week-end.—Courier and Advocate.

OVER FORTY YEARS GUARD

Kingston, Mar. 20.—John Kennedy, for more than forty years a guard at the Portsmouth penitentiary, and for the past two or three years chief night watchman, was on Wednesday granted three weeks' leave of absence, at the end of which he retired under the age limitation. Mr. Kennedy is sixty-seven years of age and his life was spent in the service of the Portsmouth penitentiary, where he was regarded as a highly efficient and faithful official.

While this worthy official does not participate in the benefits of a pension fund that would support him in his old age when his powers of earning a livelihood have deserted him, he is not likely to go entirely without something to support him until he is able to find a new occupation. He will receive a sum of money calculated on the salary he was last receiving and the length of his service, estimated to be about $4,000.

Slashed by a Circular Saw

Marshal Howard, son of Joseph Howard, of Crookston, was the victim of a painful accident on Tuesday last. He was assisting his father to cut wood at the home of Ernest Jones, and just as they were about to shut down for dinner, he stumbled and fell against the saw, with the result that he was terribly lacerated from his knee to his shoulder and the side of his face was badly cut.—Dr. Kindred was called and it required "between sixty and seventy stitches to close up the wounds, which were very deep. Had it not been for the fact that the saw was slowing down he would have been cut in two. He is progressing favorably, and no serious results are anticipated.—Tweed News.

The power was off on Sunday for most of the day on account of some changes that were being made at the power house. We understand that it was impossible to get men at any other time and the commissioners had to take them when they could come. Some inconvenience was occasioned in the churches whose organs are run by electric power.

The spring freshet reveals the fact that certain parts of the town are in bad need of draining and also that some of the old drains have been filled up. If the council were to pay some attention to providing a way for the getting rid of the surface water it would not only be a great benefit to residents in the locality drained but to the town generally as it would improve the condition of the streets.—Campbellford Herald.

ONTARIO, THURSDAY MARCH 25, 1920

AN HONOR WORTHILY BESTOWED.

Congratulations to Col. O'Flynn upon his election to the presidency of the Great War Veterans' Association of Ontario. It is an honor worthily bestowed and an honor that Col. O'Flynn will discharge with credit to himself and to the association.

For all the good sense and good will that have been displayed, we must congratulate, in the first place, the men themselves, and then the leaders like ex-President Jenkins and President O'Flynn, who have given to the movement the leadership of true wisdom and usefulness.

OLD COUNTRY POLITICS

The forming of an alliance between Lloyd George and Bonar Law for a new party, as announced by a London newspaper, illustrates the remarkable transformations that are possible in the world of politics.

As to the Coalition, there is strong evidence that it is through, that the country has lost confidence in it. During the last twelve months eight by-elections have gone against the Government, in many cases the Coalition vote being greatly reduced.

The temperance situation in Ontario is a novelty. Perhaps the prohibitionist victory was almost too sweeping, so complete that the victors feel they can afford to quarrel among themselves over points of procedure.

Prohibition is already working well in the United States, not perfectly, of course, but with good results. The "Medical Correspondent" of the London Observer reports home that the benefits already are surprising.

It is doubtful whether the new battle cruiser Hood, recently taken over by the British Admiralty, and the largest warship in the world, could go through the Panama Canal.

Some of the naval critics are inclined to think that the Hood would be more serviceable if she were of smaller dimensions, but that remains to be seen. She is nearly 14 feet wider than the Tiger, her nearest rival in size, is only 42 feet shorter than the Aquitania, the largest British merchantman, and 40 feet short of the Imperator.

A pretty Detroit girl says she married because she thought her husband, who went overseas with the American forces, would make a better fighter if he had somebody to fight for.

Marshall Field & Co.'s rules for success: To do the right thing at the right time, in the right way; to do some things better than they were ever done before; to eliminate errors; to be courteous; to be an example; to work for the love of the work; to anticipate requirements; to develop resources; to recognize no impediments; to master circumstances; to act from reason rather than rule; to be satisfied with nothing short of perfection.

The rules of various individuals for success: Give your body and soul plenty of sunlight.—Thayer. Deny self for self's sake.—Franklin. Put all of your eggs in one basket and watch that basket.—Carnegie.

Control yourself. Anger is too valuable to use except on special occasions.—Joseph H. Appel. Be of good courage; that is the main thing.—Theophrastus. Never tell business lies.—Baron Rothschild.

Work, work! that is my unfailing cure for all troubles.—Lydia Maria Child. Good, better, best, never let it rest till your "good" is better and your "better" best.—Franklin.

When in doubt, win the trick.—Hoyle. Talk of nothing but business, and dispatch that business quickly.—Aldus.

Even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is counted wise.—Solomon. If you are engaged in conversation with a fellow-employee when a customer approaches, instantly stop, excuse yourself, and turn to business.—I. e., the customer.

OTHER EDITORS' OPINIONS

WHAT TO EAT

"What to eat" generally is asked to solve the riddle of "How to live long." But Thomas A. Edison talked of it a few days ago as the solution of how to think well and work much.

SAFETY IN OIL-BURNING SHIPS

The announcement that a board of trade committee has been appointed to inquire into the question of fire dangers attending the use of oil fuel in ships, must not be taken to indicate that there is any doubt about conditions in liners burning oil fuel.

WAR AS THE SPORT OF KINGS

Such extracts as have been published of Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm's book on the war reveal the crown prince as the typical moral imbecile of the Hohenzollern type.

MR. V. P. HUNT GIVES RECITAL

Mr. Hunt gave an address on "The Appreciation of Music" and "The Development of Sonata," assisted by Miss Winnifred Pearce, Miss Stella Lane and Mr. James Booth.

Mr. V. P. Hunt, A.A.G.O., musical director of Albert College, gave a very interesting recital in the lecture hall of Bridge St. Methodist Church last night.

The subject of a composition means an entire theme or melody of several notes or measures. In Beethoven's fifth symphony four notes predominate. By repeating the melody in various forms, the motive is formed.

The sonata was first originated by Philipp Bach, son of the great composer, Sebastian Bach.

Mozart was born in 1756, so lived his life within that of Haydn's. He still further developed the sonata and wrote a child of five he composed sonatas of great merit.

Mr. Hunt, assisted by Miss Winnifred Pearce, illustrated the compositions of the three great composers on the piano, while Miss Stella Lane and Mr. James Booth sang several selections.

The programme is as follows: The Surprise Symphony, Haydn.—Mr. Hunt and Miss Pearce.

(a) Sonata in C Minor, Mozart.—Mr. Hunt and Miss Pearce.

(b) Aria from "The Magic Flute," Mozart.—Mr. James Booth.

(c) Sonata in A Major (air with variations), Mozart.—Mr. Hunt.

(d) Symphony No. 5, Beethoven.—Mr. Hunt and Miss Pearce.

(e) Andante, from Surprise Symphony, Haydn.—Mr. Hunt and Miss Pearce.
