The Earl's Son; TWO HEARTS UNITED.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Perhaps not one in a million would have so much to live for, Sir Thomas," remarked Ralph, with a grave smile.

"Humph!" said Sir Thomas, in his curt way. "That's it, is it? Well, you will have a good nurse for a wife, as well as one of the most beautiful girls I have ever seen."

"Oh, good Lord, no!" exclaimed Ralph, with dismay. "Let 'em give it to the firemen—they must have done a heap more than I did: I saw them while I was perched up there! Don't—don't, for Heaven's sake, let them both about me!"

"Who cares a blow about you?" retorted Sir Thomas. "It's those belonging to you, my dear fellow. Give the medal to that sweet young creature: she'll wear it for you, and next her heart, I expect. And now the order of the day is: chops and steaks port and stout, and—Oh, you'll do all right! You're a lucky young dog! Good-bye! She'll come again; but I tell you what, I'll turn up at your wedding, if you'll ask me, for medals or no medals, I like a brave man."

In a few days Ralph was able to leave his bed. He was as weak as a woman and as shaky as a piece of cheap furniture, much to his surprise and annoyance; but his room was transformed to a paradise by the love of the friends who brightened it for him. To say nothing of Veronica, whose presence filled it with joy, Ada and Mr. Sainsbury were constant visitors, and Martha, whose admiration for Ralph and amiable envy of Veronica were comically obvious, still took her share in the nursing.

Veronica would bring her work and sit beside him, with Ada on a stool at her feet, her head resting against her knee, and Mr. Sainsbury on the other side of the fire—it was well into autumn by now, and somewhat chilly—all their thoughts concentrated on the man who had risked his life—and so nearly lost it—for the sake of the child.

Mr. Sainsbury often sat and smoked in a ruminating silence. It had fallen on him the day Ralph's bandages had been removed and Mr. Sainsbury had been able, for the first time, to see his face distinctly. He had looked at Ralph with an air of surprise and bewilderment, as if he were trying to recall something

Weak, Tired Folks Given New Vigor

Strength Returns, Health Renewed, Vitality of Youth Re-created.

Exhaustion and Bodily Tiredness Every Day Being Turned Into Vigor and Ambition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

From Cheboque Pt., N. S., comes the following from Mrs. W. A. Reynolds: "A year ago my health began to fail, I lost appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down, I became thin, hollow-cheeked, and had black rings under my eyes. I really felt as if the charm of life had left me and when springtime arrived I was in the 'blues.' Read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my appetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. Success and happiness depend upon it. The maintenance and source of health is found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1 at all druggists and storekeepers, or by mail from the Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

to his memory; and one afternoon, when he and Ralph happened to be alone—Veronica and Ada had gone out to buy some of the chops and steaks ordered by the doctor—Mr. Sainsbury began in a hesitating way to speak of the future which Ralph was quietly and remorsefully worrying about.

"You know I'm a rolling-stone, Farrington," he said, "and rolling-stones, as you are aware, do not gather much moss."

"But they have a good time generally," put in Ralph, with a smile.

"That's so," nodded Mr. Sainsbury, as he filled his pipe. "Anyway they get some experience. And that's valuable. Now, I chanced to pick up a little moss. I've got a ranch out Ballarat way; it's not a very large affair; but it would give us all a living; I mean you and Miss Veronica, and Ada and me, to say nothing of Martha. The question is whether you would care for it—Oh, Lord, if I'd had the money I've wasted I could make a rich man of you!" he broke off with a groan.

"That's all right," said Ralph. "But you mustn't worry about me. I can go out and rough it, and try to make a fortune, and—then come back for Veronica."

Mr. Sainsbury smiled and shook his head.

"Don't deceive yourself, young man. If I know Miss Veronica, she won't lose sight of you again. No, we must all go together, for Ada—well, Ada wouldn't consent to part with you, and I— it seems to me that in addition to saving lives from fire, you have a peculiarly taking way with you, Ralph. Even if I did not owe my Ada to you, I should be loathe to lose you. No, we'll all go over together. I know the game, and you, too, know it."

He stopped abruptly and glanced at Ralph with a reflective frown.

"By the way, what was the name of the place you lived in?"

"I have been in several parts of Australia," said Ralph. He hesitated a moment. "My mother and I had recently to shift our quarters pretty frequently. Her second husband was—a bad lot, and we tried to keep clear of him. She was always afraid that he would find us—he deserted her when I was a child—and she'd take fright now and again and insist upon our moving. He never did find us, I'm thankful to say."

Mr. Sainsbury nodded.

"What was your mother's name, I mean the name of her second husband?" he asked in a low voice.

Ralph smiled bitterly.

"I scarcely know," he said. "As far back as I can remember she used to change her name for fear that he might trace her if she went by the name he bore when she married him. I say when she married him, because he had as many aliases as an habitual criminal."

He spoke so bitterly, with such reluctance, that Mr. Sainsbury forebore asking further questions; but, as he puffed at his pipe he glanced now and again at Ralph, with the same uneasy and puzzled air.

That evening they all sat round the fire, and Mr. Sainsbury enlarged upon his ranching plan. Veronica's face was suffused with quiet joy and her eyes stole with bashful stealthiness under their long, dark lashes to Ralph's grave face.

"It is a dream of an earthly paradise!" she whispered.

CASH'S Tobacco Store.

In connection with our well known tobacco business we have recently installed an up-to-date Soda Fountain, and during the summer will dispense Arolic Soda Water; our syrups are the pure juice of the fruits and make a delicious drink.

tion, and, Martha coming in at the moment, they were soon all talking together, making plans for the life of freedom and happiness promised them in that ranch in Australia, which seemed to be the only piece of moss Mr. Sainsbury had managed to retain through all his rolling.

But though man disposes, Providence disposes.

While they were talking and laughing hopefully and happily, there came a knock at the door.

"That is the man with Ralph's port," said Veronica.

"It's ridiculous, buying port for me!" he said, indignantly. "Why, anyone would think I was an invalid! And I walked quite a couple of miles to-day!"

"First rate!" remarked Mr. Sainsbury, approvingly. "But we'd better take it in, hadn't we? Come in!"

The door opened; but it was not the port. A tall, grave-faced man entered. He was dressed in a dark tuxen suit which, ordinary as it was, seemed to smack of an official uniform, and he looked round the room and from one person to another with a quick and comprehensive glance which seemed to take everything and everyone in.

"Mr. Ralph Farrington?" he said, quietly, but in a tone that seemed to defy denial.

"I am Ralph Farrington," said Ralph, with surprise, as Veronica's hand slid from his and he rose from his chair.

CHAPTER XXV.

The earl was sitting in the library, his great chair drawn close to the fire; his head was bowed, his thin hands clasped the arms of the chair, and his whole attitude was one of melancholy. Though he would not have admitted it to himself, Veronica's absence was weighing upon him; the solitude of the vast house, the loss of her beautiful presence, her sweet, musical voice, were almost unendurable. He rarely went out, and spent nearly all the day sitting thus, gazing at the fire with heavy brow and brooding eyes.

With Veronica had gone the one gleam of brightness in the life made sombre by how many dark memories!

And it was not only of Veronica that he sat and thought gloomily; for, much to his surprise and annoyance, he could not dismiss Ralph Farrington from his mind. There had been something in the young fellow's personality which had left an impression on the mighty earl, and every time Lord Lynborough had seen him he had been troubled by a vague resurrection of the past, by the memories which he had deemed buried for ever.

As he sat this afternoon listening to the wind in the trees and wondering what had become of Veronica—what had become of Ralph—the door opened and the butler entered.

"Mr. Whetstone, my lord," he said, gravely. "Can he see your lordship?"

"No," said the earl, grimly. "Ask him to write."

"Mr. Whetstone bade me say that it was important business."

hand on the table, and Lord Lynborough saw that he was much agitated; the man's thin voice shook as he said: "I am sorry to trouble your lordship, but—something terrible has happened, and the responsibility is too great for me alone."

The earl glowered at him.

"One of the roofs of those cottages you are always worrying me about fallen in, I suppose," he said.

Sydney Whetstone ignored the heartless sarcasm.

"Burchett—Burchett," he went on, tremulously, "was clearing away some faggots in the western wood this morning—and he made a discovery."

"Has he found a gold mine?" said the earl. "Nothing half so useful, I'll be sworn; some mare's nest with which you think it necessary to trouble me."

"He found a grave, my lord," said Whetstone, solemnly.

The earl peered at him grimly.

"A recent grave in which the body of a man had been buried. We think—we fear, there has been foul play, Burchett sent for me, and I thought it better to come at once to your lordship."

The earl's usual calmness did not desert him. He frowned at the fire for a moment, then he said:

"Will you order a carriage, Whetstone? I will go with you. Please tell them to send Welford with my outdoor things."

Useless Criticism.

By RUTH CAMERON.

Molly, the little stenographer lady, had been freeing her mind to the lady-who-always-knows-somehow. Molly belongs to a club of business women. At its last meeting this organization made a choice of president of which Molly disapproved. "It's not that I dislike her personally," said she. "But I don't think she's the woman to represent us. She is very fine looking but she is one of those people who talk a lot without saying anything."

"Molly," said the lady-who-always-knows-somehow, "it's all right for you to say that to me. But don't go about saying it to other people."

"Why?" asked Molly. "It's perfectly true."

"Yes, but what good will it do to say it? The thing is done. Your criticism can't help now but it may get back to her and hurt her and antagonize her. Besides, it might make people think you were jealous."

"Big sister," broke in Molly. "As if I'd ever think—"

"I know that, but other people might not understand it. You run the risk of being misunderstood and you gain nothing. It really doesn't pay."

"What do you think of the lady's advice? It seems to me that it's decidedly sound."

"What do we ever gain by talking other people down?"

Nothing.

And what harm do we do? Well, as the lady says, our criticism is very likely to reach ears for which it was not intended. Again we run the risk of being thought jealous. Or, if we are not, it is certainly very real, very powerful, and very good to avoid.

Remember, all things which are right are not expedient. Besides, inasmuch as you stand a big chance of hurting someone's feelings by such criticism and a very small chance of helping anyone, I do not think it is even right.

Ruth Cameron

There is no chance for an imputation of jealousy, of being thought to assume superiority. We may not really feel superior but that is the impression we are sure to give.

Let me tell you of a lesson I once had which ought to last me a lifetime. An organization to which I belonged was sending a delegate to a large conference. Like Molly, I disapproved of the choice, not on personal grounds but because I thought a poor representative had been chosen. I said as much to another member of the organization. "It's too bad you don't approve of her!" she retorted. "Why didn't you offer your services to the committee?"

In a flash I saw how my criticism must impress others. I can honestly say that the thought of myself for the place had never occurred to me, but I know I could not convince that woman of the fact. I think that lesson will last me a lifetime. I do not love my teacher, very far from it. But I thank her for the lesson.

Of course it is not just that we cannot criticize without being accused of assuming superiority. As a literary critic once said, when told that he could not write half so well as the man he was finding fault with, and hence had no right to pick flaws—"Not at all. Does a man have to be able to lay an egg in order to tell a good egg from a bad one?"

But whether the feeling against the self-elected critic of others is just or not, it is certainly very real, very powerful, and very good to avoid.

Remember, all things which are right are not expedient. Besides, inasmuch as you stand a big chance of hurting someone's feelings by such criticism and a very small chance of helping anyone, I do not think it is even right.

Ruth Cameron

A brightly polished bit of color is sometimes all that is necessary to give a note of color in a room.

It is poor economy to save fruit-jar rubbers from year to year. Sterilize the cans and buy new rubbers.

The corner cupboard found in many old houses, give a delightful opportunity for the display of old china.

A graver made to slide under one's sewing chair is an immense convenience for the keeping of thimbles, needles, etc.

To heat sugar for jelly-making, put it in a granite-ware basin in the oven and stir occasionally. The oven door should be open.

Paper plates are best to take on a picnic, because they can be burned then. Also, a thermos bottle is well nigh indispensable.

Canned spinach is a great resource when the winter comes; also, a supply of spinach juice should always be made for coloring.

Books for the Blind.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I have just received a contribution to the Fund which we are raising with a view to cheapening and amplifying the supply of Braille literature for blind readers throughout the British Empire, and it was accompanied by an intimation to the effect that it was to be specially applied to this purpose and not to the building of our new institute.

Obviously books, whether in Braille or ordinary print, cannot be produced unless there is a building in which to produce them, but I am glad to say that the question of the completion and equipping of this building was definitely settled some weeks ago, and I am now working to secure the largest possible Endowment Fund which will go towards equalizing the present excessive cost of Braille books.

How excessive this cost is may be judged from one example, namely, that a book of the length of "Ivanhoe" required an expenditure of £45 upon plates from which to print it, and their costs 19.6 per copy to produce.

It seems, however, quite probable that before long we shall be able to produce books of every sort and kind at prices comparing favorably with those of books which persons in possession of their sight enjoy.

I am sending you this letter in the hope that your publication of it may correct any misapprehension which may exist in the minds of your readers as to the use to which contributions from them will be put.

When I talk of our producing books for the British Empire, I should like to add in justification that we at present produce more than five times as many Braille books as all the similar institutions in the British Empire put together, and as our output will shortly be largely increased we can, without fear of exaggeration, claim to be the almost sole source of the supply of these books.

Yours faithfully,
 C. ARTHUR PEARSON.

Paid For the Pictures Once.

Sandy went for a drink, and he ordered a whisky and soda, for which he charged him a whole shilling. He complained of the price, and said that he was only accustomed to pay threepence for a nip of whisky.

"Yes, that's all well enough," said the barman. "But you've got to pay something here for the surroundings—the velvet seats and the mirrors and the beautiful pictures on the wall and all that."

Next day Sandy went into the same place again, ordered a drink, and put down threepence. It was a different barman, but he protested.

"No, no," said Sandy. "No, no, mon; that's all right! I saw yer pictures yesterday."

Fish That Eat Men.

Weird stories of fish monstrosities have been told by many disciples of Isaac Walton in this country; but it has remained for Mr. Roosevelt to tell us of some funny freaks whose performances will want a lot of beating.

During his recent lecture, at a meeting of the Royal Geographical Society, on his South American trip, he related that he came across one kind of fish, no larger than a trout, that bit off one of his party's little toes, took a piece out of another man's leg, and the tip of two dogs' tails—a fitting companion, apparently, to the fish that went bird-nesting, drove the bird away, and was found wagging its tail over the edge of the nest while gobbling up the eggs.

Mr. Roosevelt also mentioned another fish—a 9 ft. catfish—which was found with a monkey inside it. The fish, it appears, had jumped and caught the monkey when it had climbed down a branch to drink. Very extraordinary, too, is a horrible deep-sea angler fish, exhibited at the Royal Society recently. The mouth of this fish is so large, and its stomach so distensive, that it can swallow other fish three times its own length. Fortunately it lives several hundred fathoms below the surface of the water. It hangs over its snout a line and bait that shine like a glow-worm and attract many inquisitive fish.

St. John's Gas Light Company.

Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 28.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Delays Are Dangerous

News comes now of bloodshed in connection with gun-running. Three men and one woman are dead and 7 others likely to succumb. The irony of it all is that it has come about in connection with the Nationalist Volunteers and not in connection with the Ulster Volunteers. Moreover, the victims are not the Volunteers themselves, but some unfortunate members of a mob which allowed itself to be deluded into attacking an armoured battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borders with bottles and stones. It is somewhat strange that the Government should have only awoken to the danger of allowing irresponsible volunteers to organize and arm, after the Ulster Volunteers were a well-armed force. The Nationalist Volunteers have had an object lesson in lawlessness and government imbecility for the past twelve months or more. Is it any wonder then they endeavor to follow the example of their opponents in the north who have been arming and gun-running successfully? Is it any wonder that a Nationalist mob sympathizes with them and puts itself in the wrong by bottle-throwing? Such incidents must tend to embitter feeling and lead to a situation highly dangerous among a people divided into two hostile armed camps.

All of it points to the danger of procrastination. A settlement is needed. A settlement is urgent and delays are dangerous.

Baleina for Labrador.

The S.S. Baleina has been chartered by the Government to replace the Stella Maris on the annual trip to Northern Labrador. She will visit the where necessary court sessions will be held. Capt. H. #### Requiem Mass was said at the Pro-Cathedral on Tuesday morning for the repose of the soul of John Peddle who was killed at Britannia Mines, recently. Deceased was a member of New Westminster Council. The body has been shipped to his home in St. John's, Newfoundland.

The pall-bearers were Grand Knight Keary, Past Grand Knight McDonald, Deputy Grand Knight McIsaac, and Brother Gavin, Gregory and O'Connor. Brother Morse, Tacoma Council, sent an offering from the Catholic men of the mine.

To-day, Friday, a solemn Requiem Mass will be sung in St. Peter's Church, New Westminster, by Father Beck for the repose of the soul of Brother Peddle, who was a late parishioner of St. Peter's Church, and also a member of the local Knight's Council.

Brother Peddle was a young man and unmarried. R.I.P.—"Western Catholic," British Columbia, July 17th, 1914.

McMurdo's Store News.

MONDAY, July 27, 1914.

The Petrol series of skin remedies is the latest constellation to rise above the horizon of popular dermatics. Petrol, the chief star in the galaxy is recommended for skin troubles in general and especially for inflammation of the eyes, eczema, psoriasis and piles, and to relieve and render harmless all insect bites and stings; Petrol (in tubes) is for the same purposes; Petrol complexion Cream removes sunburn and is a really elegant preparation. The price of all the above is 40c. a pkg. Petrol Shaving Soap in stick is sold at 30c. each.

Petrol derives its name from the fact that it is distilled from a particular species of peat, and etats have demonstrated its value, as a curative, antiseptic and emollient body. It seems likely to become popular and to be of great service in some cases.

Third Futile Attempt

TO REACH GREENLAND—HEAVY ICE MADE HER RETREAT.

The American Ice Patrol ship Seneca, Capt. Johnson, came into port today for orders, having failed again, owing to heavy ice encountered, to reach the Greenland coast where it was intended to make scientific observations of tidal and wave conditions. This is the third time the ship was unsuccessful in trying to reach her destination, the cause on each occasion being ice. In the latter instance heavy Arctic ice was met with, and Capt. Johnson finding that his vessel was unable to but in it was forced to retreat and consequently put in here for instructions. It is not definitely known whether the Seneca will make another attempt to go north.

Man Missing.

A man named Eleazer Noseworthy, aged 27 years, belonging to Hr. Grace, left Gumbo early on Saturday morning last for Drover's Brook, a distance of two miles. He failed to reach his destination. Search parties have scoured the woods ever since but saw no sign of the missing man. The foregoing information was received today by Mr. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, from Magistrate Fitzgerald.

Carried Away a C.P.R. Safe.

Lindsay, Ont., July 21.—A daring burglary occurred here at an early hour this morning at the Canadian Pacific railway station. J. W. Anderson, station agent, on arriving at his office, found everything topsy-turvy, and the big iron safe gone.

The safe was found on the Bobcaygeon line, near St. Peter's Street. The burglars had loaded it on to the wagon, pushed it along the track and dumped it off at the spot named. They first tried to bore the safe, with the intention of blowing it open, but finally battered the door to pieces, cutting the heavy screws in the hinges. They paid no attention to papers, but secured, it is believed, about $150. The safe weighs 4,000 pounds, and in order to remove it a part of the doorway had to be cut away.

Tragedy Follows Quarrel in the West.

Lloydminster, Alta., July 20.—A tragedy occurred in this district yesterday. George Pennyworth, of Shrewsbury, England, who was home-staying about eleven miles south of the town, had a serious quarrel with C. Mason, who had been staying with him, but after a quarrel left and went to a neighboring farm.

Pennyworth followed Mason and renewed the quarrel, finally striking him and knocking him down. Mason got up and took refuge in a neighbor's house where Pennyworth followed and recommenced the attack.

Mason, after warning Pennyworth to desist, drew a Mauser automatic pistol and fired, the bullet passing completely through Pennyworth, piercing his stomach and back.

Pennyworth was brought to Lloydminster hospital, and attended by Doctors Hill and Rogers, but died a few hours later. Mason, who was arrested by Constable Allen, of R. N. W. M. P., and brought into town, is from London, England.

The Lighter Side.

"Just look at the wonderful color of the sea!" exclaimed a tourist on his first Mediterranean cruise. "See how blue it is!"

"That's not strange," growled a traveler who had lately run the gamut of the Neapolitan pensions and was therefore disillusioned. "No wonder it's blue. You'd be blue yourself if you had to wash the shores of Italy!" —July Lippincott's.

Two suburban mothers met on the train one day, and the topic of the conversation was their daughters.

"How did your daughter pass her examination for a position as teacher?"

"Pass!" was the answer. "She didn't pass at all. Maybe you wouldn't believe it, but they asked that girl about things that happened long before she was born." —July Lippincott's.

A widow posted in her front yard a rudely-painted sign, "For Sale." A party of students from a nearby college strolled past, and laughed uproariously at the little sign. One boldly called out to the widow working in her garden: "Hello, old woman, when does this house sell?"

"Whenever the feller comes along who can raise the wind," calmly replied the old lady and went on with her work.

"What's up?" asked the foreman, as he entered the sanctum for "copy," and noticed the editor's swollen forehead, broken nose, puffed red eye, and tattered, dusty coat. "Did you fall downstairs?"

"No," snapped the editor, pointing to a paragraph in the paper before him. "It's on account of the Smith-Crapley wedding. It ought to read: 'Miss Crapley's dimpled, shining face formed a pleasing contrast to Mr. Smith's strong, bold physiognomy! But look how it was printed.'"

And the foreman read: "Miss Crapley's pimply, skinny face formed a pleasing contrast to Mr. Smith's strange, bald physiognomy."

"Smith was just in here," continued the editor, throwing one blood-streaked handkerchief into the waste-basket and feeling in his pockets for a clean one.—The Eye Opener.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Word was received in town a few days ago of the death at Lisbon Falls, Maine, of Mr. Albert Webber, and his son Samuel. The father died early in June and the son a few days after. Mr. Webber left here 23 years ago, and has resided at Lisbon Falls ever since. He was about 70 years of age, and his son was 32.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moriarty on the 16th inst.

A baby boy arrived to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Rowe (watchmaker), yesterday. Congratulations.

Miss Jessie Garland, after spending a pleasant week in St. John's, returned home on Monday last.

Rev. Mr. Darby and family left yesterday for their new home at Cupids. The Rev. gentleman's many friends here, in bidding him farewell, express their best wishes for many successful and pleasant years in his sacred calling.

The Rev. A. A. Holmes, the new Pastor of the Methodist Church here, arrived from Freshwater to-day and is taking up his residence at the Parsonage. He preaches at both forenoon and evening—services to-morrow. We take this opportunity of welcoming the Rev. gentleman, and of wishing him a very pleasant sojourn amongst us.

The Presbyterian Christian Endeavor Society held its picnic yesterday. Owing to the disagreeable day's rain (farmers with please pardon us), the picnic was held at the home of the President, Miss Maud Butt, and a very enjoyable time spent. A motor boat trip about the harbor and out as far as Salvage, was very enjoyable. Rev. Mr. Wagner accompanied these young people on their outing.

At Rossley's

EXTRA BILL—NEW VAUDEVILLE.
Rossley's have a capital programme for to-night. Scully, the London actor, singer and all-round entertainer, has a very funny act, portraying the Henpecked Husband, with new patter songs. The pictures are very special ones. The finest picture for some time, is "On the Stroke of Six," by the Vitagraph players; No. 1 Company, featuring Maurice Costello and Telf Johnson; "Man's Lust for Gold," a Biography of great worth; "Longing for a Mother," a Lubin; "An Ingenious Lover," an Eclair comedy; also, an illustrated weekly budget, all fine specimens of the photographer's art and moving picture performers' ability. There is in preparation a grand burlesque on Romeo and Juliet, in which George Scully and Mrs. Rossley will take part. It will be the funniest sketch ever presented, written by Marie Rossley.

At the R. C. Cathedral.

His Grace Archbishop Howley occupied the pulpit at the R. C. Cathedral last evening, and preached an instructive sermon on the gospel of the day. At the close he briefly referred to his recent visit to the Holy See. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was imparted by Rev. Fr. Conway.

C. C. C. Meeting.

The C. C. C. Boat Club met on Saturday evening to finalize matters in relation to the new race boat Cadet. The Treasurer's statement showed that the Club is in a healthy financial condition.

Two applications were received for the new boat in the Society Race. They will be discussed at to-morrow evening's meeting.

The committee will commence decorating the Prince's Rink for the big dance Regatta night.

Through the kindness of Bandmaster A. Bulley and associates a concert of two hours duration will be given at the Lake side Thursday evening after the christening of the new boat. A vote of thanks was tendered the band by the Club.

Dr. Adams Back.

Dr. John D. Adams arrived here by the Steamer yesterday morning. While at St. Anthony hospital he operated on twenty-five cases of deformity, and leaving there proceeded along the coast in the Strathcona, attending to many more at Battle Harbor and the several ports in the Straits. He will remain here until next Saturday when he sails by the s.s. Florizel.

Wynona's Vengeance.

WITH STAR CASTE—IN 2 REELS.

The Crescent Picture Palace should draw crowded houses this week, as without exception the strongest line of pictures ever witnessed will be featured, and performances of merit will meet the favor of the large audiences that patronize this cool and comfortable resort. To-day the special subject of attraction is a thrilling two-reel war drama "Wynona's Vengeance," featuring Grace Cunard and Francis Ford. The comedy, "Hawkeye to the Rescue," is a screaming burlesque and the series of subjects in the ever favored Universal Animated Weekly the most famous in the world. Very good music, excellent song and classy pictures. On Wednesday the special feature is a three-reel spectacle "Captain Kidd" as introduced by Otis Turner.

Lumber Thieves

Sentenced.

On Saturday afternoon two young men named Carew and Lukins were before Judge Knight charged with the larceny of a quantity of lumber from the premises of the Horwood Lumber Company, as referred to by us on Saturday. They were unable to give a satisfactory explanation for their conduct and were each sentenced to 30 days hard labor, without the option of a fine. A female accomplice was let go on suspended sentence.

Maxims For Business Men.

One constantly hears the expression that So-and-so failed in his business because "he bit off more than he could chew"; in other words, took on a bigger job than he could manage. In the opinion, however, of Mr. Herbert Casson, who has been speaking on behalf of the convention of business men which was held at Toronto at the end of last month, an excellent maxim for the business man to bear in mind is: "Bite off more than you can chew—and chew it."

Among other maxims which he gave are the following:—
System is not everything. You can go to the bad systematically.

An advertising man is a saver built like a spender, just as an oyster is a fish built like a nut.

The right place to cut prices is in the factory. The man who cuts prices in the shop does so because he has not the brains to sell his goods.

The development of the motor industry is due to the skill of the salesmen, who were selling cars for seven years before the manufacturers knew how to make them.

Sell good goods. We have found out that it doesn't pay to cheat. We have found that the Golden Rule brings in gold.

Divorced Life

By Helen Herson Fueste

At the Velliquette

"You're not going way out home at this hour of the night," said the ingenue decisively, as she and Marian made ready to leave the Italian eating house. "My hotel is less than two blocks away, and I'll be glad to have you share my room."

Marian agreed. It was after one o'clock in the morning, and together they set out for the Velliquette, one of those drab side-street hotels on the outskirts of the Rialto where transient theatrical people dwell for a few nights or a week.

The streets were practically deserted as the two made their way toward the Velliquette. It was a far later hour than Marian had ever been abroad without a male escort, and she passed every hallway with nervous apprehension. It was a matter of surprise to her that the tenor, who had been chatting with them at their table for half an hour, had not insisted upon escorting them to the hotel. As yet unused to the easy familiarity and the absence of ordinary convention in the habits of stage folk, she resented the other's inattention.

They slipped into the gloomy hotel, and a drowsy elevator boy took them up to their floor. Moth-eaten carpets were on the floor of the corridor, and before several of the doors, on the floor, stood trays bearing beer bottles and dishes and scraps of sandwiches of midnight luncheons which some of the guests had had in their rooms.

Through some of the transoms came a flood of bright light and laughter and talking. Through others came the heavy snoring of tired toilers—stage folk, for the most part, playing in the city's vaudeville houses and cheaper theatres.

"Let's turn in," said the ingenue when they reached her room. "I'm dead tired."

Marian felt like a wreck. The excitement at the Italian's, the unaccustomed food, the wine, had made her head throb.

She felt very rakish for the hours

she had spent at the lively restaurant. Seated with the common crowd, she felt utterly unlike herself. It had seemed as though she were watching the bizarre events that transpired, from a distance. The wild, uncultured, free-and-easy, Bohemian atmosphere of the place had little short of nauseated her. She would have given much to have freed her memory of the entire evening. She was leagues out of her element. Had she been alone she would have burst into tears of chagrin.

Through the open window came the dull, slushy sounds of a belated cab horse, the distant clang of an owl's car bell, and the drunken song of some hoodlum.

An odd sound from an adjoining room had attracted Marian's attention.

"What's that?" demanded Marian suddenly. An odd sound, coming apparently from an adjoining room, had attracted her attention.

"Some poor little devil of a chorus girl is probably doing her Saturday night washing," returned the ingenue, listening.

"Her washing?" repeated Marian, dumbfounded.

"Oh, lots of them have to wash out their costumes at night," said the other indifferently. "Some of these cheap-skates of managers won't stand for laundry bills, and insist upon clean costumes just the same. There's a burlesque company stopping here this week. This is probably the night they've got to do their washing. Pretty rough, isn't it?"

"It's cruel! I never heard of such a thing," said the amazed Marian.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the office. An order is received at the office, its history is recorded at the office, and finally payment is received at the office. If the office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modern and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the GLOBE-WERNICKER CO. When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity, this equipment can surely be of use to you. Mr. Percie Johnson represents this world known firm in Newfoundland.—April 13

Not to be Beaten.

Lord Lonsdale, the leading spirit of the recent great horse show, has, of course, travelled very extensively; and he can tell some rather staggering travel tales. At a dinner one he related how he had come across a petrified forest somewhere in Africa, and found in it a number of petrified lions and elephants. There was an admiring "Oh, oh!" from the company, and at once an American colonel rose to uphold the reputation of his countrymen for the telling of tall stories.

"Texas has also its petrified forests," he said, calmly, "but though they contain no petrified lions they are remarkable for having petrified birds flying over them."

"But such a thing is absolutely contrary to the laws of gravity!" Lord Lonsdale exclaimed. "If the birds were petrified the laws of gravity would make them fall to the ground."

"Not at all," replied the American, blandly; "the laws of gravity also are petrified!"

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Gargantuan Meal.

A gargantuan meal for their employees was provided by the Guinness Brewery at the annual fête held at the Royal Dublin Society's grounds at Ballsbridge. Three tons of ham sandwiches were provided, over half a ton of Irish butter, 2,000 pan loaves, sixty barrels of stout, thirty barrels of ginger beer, twenty barrels of lemonade, 1,800 gallons of milk, 32,000 pints of tea, and 32,000 cups. In addition the staff luncheon represented about a thousand, and the tea-rooms for visitors provided for at least another thousand.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARGET IN COWS.

Storms at Sea.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old St. John's."

When the wind rises to a wild howl on land and distributes chimney bricks, tree branches and signs about the country with an impartial hand, the thoughtful citizen gives thanks because he is not on the ocean in the same storm.

A storm on land is disagreeable and frequently compels the onlooker to go hastily down cellar in order to avoid being assaulted by the landscapes. But a storm at sea is like an incipient case of pneumonia on shore. It may not be fatal, but there is plenty to worry over.

When the wind blows at sea the waves pile up until they are as high as a small skyscraper and charge resistlessly across the latitudes driving all before them. A wave may be a mile long, fifty feet high and traveling entirely beyond the speed limit. To be struck in the vest by such a wave is a disagreeable experience and one which seldom happens to the same person twice.

The worst storms at sea are those which are experienced by tourists who cross on the great steamships. They are terrible beyond description, the waves often rocking the ship until it is almost impossible to hold the cards on the whist table.

The storms experienced by seamen are not so terrible, but they are more fatal. Each year several thousand vessels fail to survive the storms which they meet. Going to sea is still a risky and reckless undertaking and will be until the ocean is re-inforced some distance farther from the land. It is not the restless ocean which causes the damage in storms so much as the fixed and immobile land which refuses to give way gracefully and lesson the blow when a ship strikes it.

Storms at sea were once very dangerous to the trans-Atlantic steamships. However, in this regard, man seems to have gotten ahead of Nature. A storm is easily detected on the largest steamships, but ocean liners do not go down in the gale any more. They may have a few boats swept away and some ventilators crumpled up, but when a storm wave charges down upon a 900-foot steamship coming ahead at the rate of 20 miles an hour, it separates into two parts and retires in a dismantled and abashed manner.

Man has proven superior to storms at sea and if he can only do something about the early spring iceberg which causes the fog, ocean travel will become safer than automobiling.

Balloons in a Gale.

London, July 26.—Exciting landings were made on the Welsh seashore today by three of the twenty-four balloons which started in Paris yesterday in the annual race for the Grand Prize of the French Aero Club. The balloons had crossed the English Channel before a fierce gale and were obliged to descend in order to avoid being driven out to sea.

Spirite, one of the pilots in jumping from the basket of his balloon fractured a leg, and sustained other injuries.

Marcel Doucault and Jean Laurent, two French aeronauts managed to jump clear and without injury, but lost their balloon which blew away to sea.

Politician Sets Awful Precedent.

Washington, July 17.—Congress has discovered among its members a man who is so punctiliously honest that he has actually turned back into the federal treasury $82.30, the amount of his salary for four days, which he spent away from Washington on private business.

The name of the man is Samuel Andrew Witherspoon of Meridan, Miss.

There is a kind of tradition that somewhere in the statute books is a law which says a member of congress shall not draw pay for the days he is absent and not attending to his public duties. The oldest inhabitant does not remember that the law was ever anything but a dead letter. Mr. Witherspoon tried to keep what he had done a secret. Probably he felt he ought not to embarrass some of his fellow members who are not so particular.

Too Good a Villian.

An actor in a small company was unable one night to get accommodation at the only hotel in an English town, it is said, because its proprietor, a remarkably slow going person for such a place, recognized him as the villain in the melodrama who had stolen a cash box, set fire to a house, killed a detective, damaged a race horse and betrayed the hero's sister. But something like this really did happen to George Scott, manager of the Alhambra in London. In his younger days Mr. Scott was a stage villain of the deepest dye, and one of his favorite parts was that of the wicked Levison in "East Lynne."

After playing the character a few nights in Blackpool he had occasion for wishing to change his lodgings and, knocking at the door of a house in the next street, was greeted by the good lady who opened it with a shriek and the subsequent exclamation: "What! It's Levison, the dirty vil-

Tried-New Parachute.

WAS DASHED TO DEATH.

Brussels, July 22.—Mme Cayat de Castella was dashed to death late last night from a height of a thousand feet. A new parachute which she was testing from the biplane of aviator Champel failed to work and thousands of spectators, among them her husband, saw her drop. Mme Cayat de Castella had previously made a number of successful drops by means of an automatic detachable parachute.

Prospero Back.

The S. S. Prospero, Capt. A. Kean, arrived yesterday from northern ports bringing a large freight and as passengers—

Messrs. F. Winsor, Dr. Phillips, J. Cook, Willis L. Moore, Const. Blundon, K. Burden, Dr. McDonald, Morey Fraser, A. J. Morris, Capt. Ash, A. G. Jones, W. C. Winsborrow, Joffe, Driscoll, March, Mesdames Marshall, Hann, Doody, Day, House, Mills, Misses Moulton (2), A. Will (2), Strong, Locke, Baker, Harnett, Templeman, Morey, Green and 25 in steerage.

Impeded by Ice.

The ship was unable to get to Battle Harbour owing to ice which was as heavy as Capt. Kean experienced in Early spring. The Straits was practically blockaded and it was impossible for the Prospero to get through.

Fishery a Failure.

Capt. Kean reports that the fishery north is considered on the whole a complete failure and the outlook for the remainder of the trap season is gloomy. From Cape Fogo to Cape Norman the voyage is almost a blank and crews do not average more than 3 quintals. The following is a summary of the catch to-date:—

- Shoe Cove—A couple of traps 100 qts. each.
- La Scie—A few traps 200 quintals each.
- Nipper's Hr.—A few traps, 200 each.
- Paquet—Traps about 30 quintals.
- Hr. Deep—Traps 20 quintals.
- Side Cove—Traps 3 quintals.
- Bear Cove—Not a fish under salt.
- West Port—Not a fish under salt.
- Jackson's Arm—Traps 2 quintals.
- Englee—Traps 5 to 15 quintals.
- Conche—No fish.
- Croc—A little doing.
- St. Julien's—No fish.
- Grois Island—Very little doing.
- Cochman's Cove—Traps 20 qts.
- Fisher H. Island—Strong's 8 traps total 200 qts.

Insurance of Steerage Passengers.

The Liverpool Chamber of Commerce has started a movement with the object of making the insurance of steerage passengers on board ocean steamships compulsory. The advocates of this policy contended that there would be no difficulty in slighting in increasing the passage rates for emigrants in order to cover the cost of the insurance and that such a step would obviate the necessity of making appeals to the public for funds in case of disaster. The members of the Chamber heartily approved of the proposal and decided to urge the British Board of Trade to take the necessary action to put it into force.

The Darkest War-Cloud.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day. The darkest war-cloud which appeared in the European horizon since Germany sent warships to Agadir has arisen within 48 hours. The Serbian Government refused to comply with Austria's demands for an explanation of the Sarajevo murders, for which Austria holds the anti-Austrian conspirators of Servia responsible and for a guarantee of future good behaviour of a most humiliating kind ever asked of an independent nation. Ten minutes before six o'clock on Saturday night when the Austria-Hungarian ultimatum expired, the Serbian Premier handed to the Austrian Minister at Belgrade, Serbia's reply. The Minister immediately severed diplomatic relations and started for home. The contents of the note have not been revealed, but the Serbian legation in London understands it accepted some of Austria's conditions and rejected others. Apparently Austria was resolved to have the whole bill paid or nothing. A vital question in Europe is whether Russia will come to the rescue of her little Slav brother, leading to the involvement of other powers, and making the war a dread struggle of Slav against Teuton for European supremacy.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.

VIENNA, To-day. According to rumor, the first encounter between Austria and Serbia has occurred near Semendria on the Danube, twenty-four miles southeast of Belgrade. Some vessels were conveying Austrian Infantry, are said to have been fired on from the Serbian side of the Danube and to have returned the fire.

LONDON, To-day.

Sunday's developments appear to furnish new proofs that Austria is fully determined to make war on Serbia. The possibilities of a general European war seem greater than ever confronted the present generation. A formal declaration of war is not expected because Serbia is not a party to the Hague convention which requires this. A suspension of all Parliamentary and judicial institutions, has been decreed in Austria. An iron-clad censorship has drawn a cordon of secrecy around the country, so that the outside world is in complete ignorance of everything happening there, except what the Government wants the world to know. Even now the Austrian armies may be closing in upon Serbia and launching a sudden blow, as Japan did when she sent her fleet against the Russian ships without warning. The only possibility of averting war at the eleventh hour, which Austria recognizes, is that Serbia shall reconsider her reply to the Austrian note and bow to all demands. Germany has informed other powers that she considers that the Austro-Serbian quarrel concerns those nations alone. If any other Power takes it up she declares serious consequences must follow. Germany invited the Cabinets of London and Paris to do their utmost to keep Russia in check. An official St. Petersburg message says that hopes are still entertained there that peace may be preserved. The Foreign Minister has made suggestions which he thinks should satisfy Austria and at the same time safeguard Serbia's sovereignty. A censored message conveys the impression that the people are enthusiastic for war. The British Admiralty issued orders last night for keeping the British fleet on a war footing.

Rev. Dr. Cowperthwaite was at George St. yesterday, and gave excellent discourses to interested congregations. At the morning service C. R. Mr. Guy, would be in attendance at next Friday's meeting, in the schoolroom, and advised the people to come out in large numbers and give him a good reception. It is to be hoped that this information will attract a large crowd on Friday evening next.

San-i-tex Fabric

Tally-Ho Shoes are made on sanitary principles. They are lined with the famous "San-i-tex" Cellular fabric. They are built to help nature. They are the real Health Shoes.

"San-i-tex" Cellular lining helps the functions of the skin. The skin is the guardian of the body's temperature which in health is always 98 per cent. in all climates—rest or during exercise. It closes its pores when the heat must be kept in and opens them for the evaporating or cooling process.

To be healthy, the clothing must not obstruct this action of the skin, and all doctors and scientists agree that the best clothing is that which is porous.

"San-i-tex" Cellular lining is porous.

It allows the perspiration to escape and dries quickly. It lets the feet breathe.

"San-i-tex" keeps the feet cool in summer and warm in winter. Air is the best non-conductor of heat or cold. "San-i-tex" lining by its cellular construction always keeps a layer of air around the feet.

Tally-Ho Shoes—"San-i-tex" lined—keep the feet happy and healthy.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, July 26.
Sir Edward Carson refused to consider anything at the Buckingham Palace Conference short of exclusion of the six Ulster counties, together with a promise of dissolution of Parliament this fall. Such terms were refused by the Nationalist and Liberal members of the Conference, who offered the former conditions, viz., to give any Ulster county the right to vote itself out of Home Rule for a term of six years provided a majority of its parliamentary electors so decided. It is not believed that there will be any important outbreak of violence in Ulster, but it does come the Nationalists declare that they will be prepared. They have not as many rifles as the Orangemen, but are fully supplied with the latest pattern of automatic pistols, which they regard as far handier for street fighting. In County Tyrone there are 20,000 fully armed Nationalist Volunteers, with five Maxim guns, waiting attack.

BELGRADE, July 26.
According to sources, usually in close touch with the Foreign Office, Belgrade has requested Austria for an extension of time in which to read the note, asking for delay until the Serbian Parliament, which has been summoned to an extraordinary session, shall have been consulted. It is also stated in authoritative circles that Servia is ready to grant the Austrian demands, as far as possible without damage to her national prestige.

VIENNA, July 26.
A despatch from Belgrade says that Servia has decided to accept the Austrian demands, under protest.

VIENNA, To-day.
Diplomatic relations between Austria-Hungary and Serbia were broken off Saturday night, and war is regarded by the public as almost a certainty. Martial law has been declared throughout the Austro-Hungarian Empire. The Serbian Minister and staff left Vienna to-night and military censorship has been established in the telegraph offices here. The Serbian Government waited until the last moment left it by the terms of the note. Only ten minutes before the hour of six when the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum expired, did the Serbian Premier appear at the legation and present his Government's reply. No details of the tenor of the reply have been revealed here, but a statement has been made that it was unsatisfactory, and immediately upon receiving the note, Austria-Hungary declared war.

Prime minister informed the foreign minister that diplomatic relations were broken off.

PARIS, July 26.
A challenge for a duel was sent today by Judge Louis Albanel, presiding judge in the Court now trying Madame Caillaux for the murder of M. Calmette, to Judge Louis Deagoury, one of the three judges on the Bench with him. One version of the affair says that yesterday, while a discussion about reading certain letters was at its height, Judge Albanel interposed the remark that the time for recess had arrived. Deagoury, who was seated beside him on the Bench, bent over and said in an undertone, "You disgrace us, Sir." Eventually Judge Deagoury admitted that he had said more than he had meant to say, and apologized. This morning, however, a report of the matter was made public, in a note on the front page of the Figaro, which left Judge Albanel no option but to send his seconds to his colleague.

Panama Canal's First Earnings.

May 18, 1914, marked the first commercial use of the Panama Canal. On that day three barges loaded with sugar were towed through the waterway. The official "Canal Record," dated June 10, shows that at that date 7,356 dollars had been earned in bridge tolls. The canal is being finished long before the expected date, and the very greatest credit is reflected upon the American Government for bringing to successful completion what is really the greatest wonder of the world. The engineer is usually greater than the statesman, for the alterations he brings about are of far more importance than anything the statesman can do.

Laborers' Wages.

Dear Sir,—I am writing a few lines about the Laborers' Union in regard to the money we make. Sir, the people of St. John's would think that we are the best off people in the Island. But, sir, I don't think so. Now, I am one that don't know much and I don't want to put the merchant or any class of men down. We were offered 10 per cent on our wages at our meeting; as far as that is concerned I am one that won't say anything, but I have to say this that I am not fighting the business man. If the merchant thinks that we are getting too much let him consider that he does not give it to us. Sir, I fail to see how the poor labour man can get along and be expected to live and keep pace with his brother man. To my mind there is something wrong, the sooner it is settled the better. I know it is a hard thing to solve, but it can be found out.

Yours truly,
JOHN DEMPSEY,
No. 2 Hunt's Lane,
St. John's, July 27, 1914.

Foreigner Loses Money

S. Mesoud, a Syrian, who recently arrived in the city, is now bemoaning the loss of $200, which he thinks must have gone through the pocket of a new coat purchased at a Water Street store on Saturday last. Mesoud placed the money in his pocket on Saturday and proceeded to the Bank to deposit it. He was too late as the Bank had closed for the day. After going around the city during the afternoon with the assurance that his money was safe in the breast pocket of his coat, he was surprised to find on returning home that the money had disappeared. Upon examining the coat he found that the pocket was broken and, as the lining was detached from the tail of the coat the money must have been dropped in the street or at some of the places he visited during the afternoon. He has reported the matter to the police, and they are now making a diligent search to find the missing money.

The Old Prayer.

When the evening shadows fall, oftentimes do I recall other evenings, far away, when awary of my play, I would climb on grandpa's knee (long since gone to sleep has she), and bow my head, I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep. I have seen with aching hearts, comrades to their rest depart; friends have left me, one by one, for the shores beyond the sun. Still the Youth enraptured sings, and the world with gladness rings, but the faces I have known all are gone, and I'm alone. All alone, amid the throng, I, who've lived and journeyed long. Loneliness and sighs and tears are the wages of the years. Who would dread the journey's end, when he lives without a friend? Now the sun of life sinks low; in a little while I'll go where my friends and comrades wait for me by the Jasper gate. Though the way be cold and stark, I shall murmur, in the dark, "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep."

Eighteen Years' Cold Storage.

It is an axiom of good cooking that beef should be well hung before being sent to the chef, but the owners of a certain hind-quarter which was exhibited at Smithfield Market recently have surely gone to rather extreme lengths in this matter, for they have kept it in cold storage for eighteen years. When it was taken off the ice, so to speak, and looked at by experts armed with nothing more formidable than magnifying glasses, they unanimously reported that it was still sweet and sound, and apparently lacking but little in nutritive qualities. A piece was cut off and sent to the analysts so that they might ascertain by scientific methods exactly what chemical changes, if any, it had undergone. To celebrate this achievement in scientific cold storage a banquet is to be held, at which the patriarchal joint will be accorded a place of honor, but invited guests may be relieved to know that there will be other dishes, and that they will be under no compulsion to eat the whole of their helping of the hind-quarter. The now-famous joint was shipped in 1896, and sold to a firm of military contractors at Malta, who retained it in their cold store there for experimental purposes until the Government took over their warehouse some months ago, when the quarter was sent on to London.

Leon Ames.

Red McGehee says: Now who'd a thought that this guy Ames could pitch his way through seven games an' never once be yanked? If you'd told any Giant fan that late last year he'd say: "Good man, be still. They'll a h i n k you're tanked." Ames did it, though, a few weeks back. He dodged the derick an' the jack all through the nine full frames. But that ain't all—here's what'd make that Giant fan jump in the lake. AMES WON THOSE SEVEN GAMES. That's right. With Cincy's Reds this year the castoff hasn't got a peer at termin' in the wins. "Five Innings Ames" it used to be, but since he's on this comeback spree he's made up for his sins. Buck Herzog made him understand it wasn't time yet to be celled, so Leon took a brace. Buck spilled a lot o' common sense an' Ames got back his confidence an' hit his winnin' pace. This winnin' streak I told about had one game in it that stood out an' tickled Ames to death. He went against his o' team mates an' made 'em swing like rusty gates—he fanned 'em out o' breath. His switch in form you can't explain no more than you can stop the rain.—There ain't no answer 'til the unexpected, unforeseen, is just what keeps the diamonds green—what really makes baseball.

200 Drowned in Bulgaria.

Sofia, July 23.—Two hundred persons have been drowned in floods throughout Bulgaria, according to despatches received by the Government to-day. Lowland along the Kamechik, Isker, Vide Osma and Yantra River are flooded. Enormous damage has been done to crops and railroad traffic and at some points traffic is paralyzed. The floods has followed a period of torrential rains an unusual thing for Bulgaria as the summers there generally are arid.

Boy Rescued

ON THE POINT OF DROWNING. A drowning accident was barely averted at Long Pond, yesterday. A boy named Hickey, who was swimming there, made an attempt to swim across the pond, but when mid-way gave out through exhaustion or cramps. His cries for help were heard by a farmer named Sheppard, who was nearby. The latter gave the alarm to three C.L.B. boys who were in a camp alongside. They immediately procured a boat, hurried to the assistance of the drowning lad, barely in the nick of time, as he was gradually sinking. When taken into the boat Hickey was in a serious condition and apparently was lifeless. The rescuer who had a knowledge of "first aid," worked assiduously on Hickey, who was brought around all right, but unable to proceed home until after having a long rest. Hickey no doubt, had a close call.

Female Prisoner Arrives.

An eighteen-year-old girl, who was employed as a domestic at St. Anthony, arrived by the Prospero, yesterday in charge of Constable Bundo, to serve a sentence of three months in the Penitentiary for theft. The amount stolen was over $40, and was taken during the absence of her employers. When arraigned before the magistrate at St. Anthony, she pleaded guilty of the charge, and was sentenced to three months' imprisonment. She was taken to the Penitentiary immediately after the arrival of the ship. POLICE CIRCLES QUIET.—Matters were quiet in police circles Saturday night and only two arrests for lubrication were made. One of the offenders was released yesterday on deposit and the other was up before Court to-day.

Gun-Running RESULTS in BLOODSHED

Soldiers Fire on Nationalist Crowd, Four are Dead, Many Wounded.

Special to Evening Telegram.

DUBLIN, To-day. Three men and one woman are dead, and more than sixty persons are in hospital, wounded, as the result of a battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers firing into a mob in the streets of Dublin yesterday afternoon. Seven of the wounded are expected to succumb to their injuries. The affair is the result of a gun-running exploit of the Nationalist Volunteers, who were being aided by a mob composed largely of youths and women. The wounded in hospital include three women and a boy of ten years. A consignment of rifles said to number 10,000, was landed Saturday night at Howth, nine miles from Dublin. The vessel in which the arms were brought to Howth was a private yacht. The Nationalist Volunteers cut the telegraph lines and stopped travel in Dublin roads. According to reports most of the rifles with 70,000 rounds of ammunition, were being taken away in motor cars. The King's own Scottish Borderers were ordered to capture the arms this afternoon when the authorities heard the Volunteers were bringing them to the city. The soldiers encountered a detachment of Volunteers at Clonmel Bridge, and an outbreak resulted, but no shooting followed. However, great crowds soon collected and followed the troops, jeering them and cheering for John Redmond and Home Rule. Finally, the mob began throwing bottles and stones, and several of the soldiers were injured. The battalion then replied to the attack of the mob with a scattered fusillade. In an instant, the street was covered with wounded, while terrified men, women and children ran in all directions. St. Jurez hospital is situated only 200 yards from the scene of the affray, and the wounded were quickly taken there. Four died within two hours. The soldiers and police seized 100 rifles from the Volunteers. Excited crowds filled the streets of Dublin during the night, some men carrying rifles. The Borderers are confined to barracks to prevent the people from attacking them. A street car, in which a soldier was riding, was attacked, but the soldier escaped the mob. Further rioting is feared. The soldiers fired, used their bayonets freely, inflicting many cuts. Then they had a running fight with volunteers and rapidly growing mob through the streets to their barracks. A number of policemen were suspended for refusing to try to disarm the volunteers after the troops had fired into the crowd. The angry populace in a spirit of revenge attacked individual soldiers and beat them brutally. The Lord Mayor has issued a strong letter of protest in which he declares that the troops were ordered out without permission having been asked of the Lord Mayor and he demands that the responsibility shall be fixed for calling out of the soldiers and for supplying them with ball cartridges. He adds: "Dublin and Ireland look with confidence to John Redmond and his colleagues to bring to justice those responsible for this shocking outrage. There must no longer be one law for a section of the Ulster people and another law for the remainder of the Irish people." Nationalists are indignant over the affair because they say the troops are against the Nationalists and never interfere with Orangemen. The Daily News calls the affair a massacre and demands a rigid investigation of the conduct of its soldiers. It lays the responsibility upon the weakness of the Government which allowed the organization of the Ulster Volunteers and this could not prohibit Nationalists from doing the same.

South African Veteran Suicides.

Ottawa, July 26.—Harold (Hal) Walters, aged 45, well known in athletic circles, as a member of the old Rough Riders' football team, committed suicide on Saturday afternoon in the Bodega Hotel, shooting himself through the temple in full view of a number of persons in the barroom. Walters fired two shots, the first passing through his hat and not injuring him. He then deliberately pressed the 38-calibre revolver against his right temple and discharged the weapon. Walters was a veteran of the South African war and a former member of the local police force. Recently he has been attached to the staff of the Dominion Geological Survey.

Five Killed

IN CULEBRA CUT ON PANAMA CANAL.

Panama, July 21.—A premature explosion of 4,800 pounds of dynamite in the Culebra cut yesterday, killed five workmen and severely injured 18 others. The names of four of the dead are as follows: S. F. Smith, of Philadelphia; Captain David Kett, of Amherstburg, Ontario; Cahas, Sayett, of Parkersburg, W. Va.; J. W. Jones, of Houghton, Mich.; an dan unidentified man. Michael Koenig, of Raspeburg, Md., is so badly injured that he may die. There were a number of negroes among the injured who are not expected to live, but all the killed are white men.

A gang of workmen were aboard the drill barge Teredo, which had just completed charging the last series of holes with the intention of blowing up the last rock which was obstructing the channel through the Cucaracha side, when the explosion occurred. The two men who charged the last hole escaped uninjured.

Brighter Aspect on Whaling Voyage

The whaling voyage looks a great deal more promising than it did a fortnight ago when only twenty-four whales were accounted for, landed by the entire fleet of five whalers. The "Puma" and "Lynx" have been signally successful during the latter part of July. They are operating around Placentia and to date have captured twenty whales each, whilst the Hump which is now in port for a supply of coal has seven to her credit, and the Cabot, at Snook's Arm, has ten fish landed. There is no word from the Cachlot, though it is expected she is doing well.

DISTINGUISHED FORESTER COMING.—Mr. Mathieson, Supreme Treasurer of the Independent Order of Foresters, will visit the city during the coming week, and is expected to arrive by the S.S. Morwenna. The local branch of the Order will prepare a reception for him.

America's Flight Postponed Till October.

Special to Evening Telegram.

HAMMONDSPORT, To-day. The over sea flight of the America is postponed till October. It was seen on Saturday that even working day and night, the "America" could not be made ready to ship to Newfoundland on August 1st, as had been planned. In two flights made on Saturday the boat suffered a mishap. In the morning part of the copper covering of one of the propellers flew off and tore a slice from one wing. The propellers were removed and taken to the factory where they were repaired. In the night flight a water pipe leading to the carburettor loosened from vibration. In this flight, but two motors were used, and the force of air turned the traction screw attached to the third motor.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds. Weymouth. F. M. DOUCET.

Rev. S. M. Stewart

Holds Children's Service.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart held a children's service in St. Thomas's Church yesterday afternoon. The subject of his address was: "Jesus, the Children's Friend," and he kept the attention of the children closely with the story he told them of his work among the Bethlehem. The Beulmaux boy, who is studying at Bishop Field College, was present. Mr. Stewart expressed the hope that others would follow in his steps and offer themselves for missionary work in the Arctic.

London, July 24.—It has been found out that twice within the past few months the militant terrors of England turned their attention to Sir Thomas Lipton's cup challenger, Shamrock IV. Once detectives who guarded the Shamrock night and day while she was still unlaunched, found two suffragettes in a dark lane near the building shed, and when the women were unable to give an account of themselves they were promptly not only taken out of the yards, but escorted all the way to Plymouth before being released. A more recent attempt was made when the Shamrock was docked for keel alterations. A known suffragette was half way across the gang plank, and what particular form of mischief bent is not known, but she was caught and bundled off the gang plank and the immediate premises.

NOTICE.

We wish to inform our City and Outport customers and friends that we are continuing our business as usual until further notice next building west of our old premises, having both a shop in the front and rear.

We have already received a complete new stock, which will be placed in the shelves during this week, but can be supplied at once if necessary. Our sale of damaged goods will be continued at the rear store until sold out.

Since the fire we have been compelled to sell at guess prices, but we feel our customers have received good value; but in case any persons think otherwise and are not satisfied, we would consider it a special favor if they would report either personally or by letter, and we shall be pleased to straighten up satisfactorily.

We have been great losers by the cause of the fire, nevertheless we do not wish to make this any excuse for not carrying out our usual policy, which has always been our aim, to give our customers good value for their money.
