

FOURTH YEAR.

PETER AND THOMAS.

A PASSAGE BETWEEN MESSRS. WHITE AND MITCHELL.

The effect of the N. P. subject in his late Mr. McCarthy's railway commission...

OTTAWA, April 11.—The business of private members had precedence in the commons today.

In answer to Mr. Casey, the Hon. Mr. Pope said the government had arranged for a share of the emigration from the distressed districts of Ireland this year.

A lively debate sprang up on a motion by Mr. Blake for copies of letters, memorials or representations asking for an increase in the tariff on any of the articles on which the proposed tariff resolutions alter the rate of duty.

The minister of customs, in the absence of Sir Leonard Tilley, who has been indisposed for the past two days, asked that the resolution be withdrawn on the ground that it was not advisable to reveal the correspondence which, for the most part, was private and confidential.

Mr. Blake did not ask for private correspondence, but he considered the house was entitled to know what representations the changes in the tariff were to be made.

The debate was remarkable for the speech of the Hon. Peter Mitchell, who attacked Mr. Powell for refusing the information asked for, and took occasion to say that the N. P. had not benefited a single interest in Northumberland, N. B., which county he represented.

The opposition received the honorable gentleman's remarks with great favor. The premier undertook to give his colleague a little tiff, but the honorable gentleman would not have it, and Sir John Macdonald went on to say that the motion struck at the root of obtaining full and exhaustive information on any matter that the government deemed desirable.

In replying to the premier, Mr. Mitchell was interrupted by the member for Cardwell, whoupon Peter accused Mr. White of being a rabid partisan, and said he would vote every time as the premier wished.

Mr. White got up and said Mr. Mitchell was dishonestly replying to, as it was well known what his tongue was. This made the member for Northumberland very mad, and he attempted to reply, but he was compelled to sit down amidst loud and continued cries of order.

A division then took place on the 65 for and 115 against. The house devoted the night session to Mr. McCarthy's railway commission bill. Mr. McCarthy explained that the measure was unimportant. It was not revolutionary, but merely provided a means to compel railway companies to obey the law.

Messrs. Girouard and McCallum opposed the bill, and Messrs. Casey, Orton, White (Henfrey), McNeill and Armstrong lifted up their voices in favor of it as beneficial to the country at large.

The motion that the house go into committee on the bill was lost by 65 for and 115 against.

Parliamentary Notes. OTTAWA, April 11.—A deputation of dry goods men from Montreal and Toronto had an interview with the minister today in reference to the proposed changes in the tariff affecting their business.

The deputation consisted of Messrs. Wylie, Birton, J. Simpson, George McMurrich, W. F. McMaster and T. Ogilvie, Toronto, and A. F. Gaul, John Robertson, W. Casals, Jonathan Hodgson, James Glasgow, and J. P. Cleghorn, Montreal. They presented the following as desirable changes: Oils of all kinds, 30 per cent. ad valorem; two-ply and other yarns, 20 per cent. ad valorem, and 7 per cent. ad valorem; woollens, remain as at present; specific and costume cloths, 20 per cent. ad valorem and 7 cents per lb.; dress and costumes not exceeding 25 inches in width and not exceeding 4 oz. in the running yard, 20 per cent. ad valorem; ditto, exceeding this width and weight, 20 per cent. ad valorem and 7 cents per lb.; provided that the specified dress goods now coming in, under 20 per cent. remain the same; prints, continuance of the present rate of 20 per cent. ad valorem, but if the government persist in the proposition to force be extended the time for its coming into force be extended to March 31, 1884.

The deputation made a general recommendation that in all future changes in the tariff the government should do away with a compound of ad valorem and specific duty, and impose only an ad valorem duty. The government will consider the deputation's case.

Sir Leonard Tilley is confined to his room, and unable to attend to his official duties. Col. Stephenson and several other military men from Montreal to-day had a satisfactory interview with the minister of public works in relation to the new drill shed at that city.

These are no less than eight deputations in the city at present, all endeavoring to prevent the proposed changes in the tariff from going into effect. This morning's train brought a book deputation from Toronto, who desire to have the tariff altered for them; a grocery deputation from Montreal to protest against changes on dried fruits; a rubber deputation to offer opposition to increased duties on asphalt, their raw material; a dry goods deputation in opposition to the proposed changes in the tariff on woollens. In the meantime Sir L. Tilley is away, and has to receive the deputations at his house, which has as much bustle about it as usually attends a governor's levee.

REPORTING M.P.P.

A Member for Kingston Puts Up Two Bulls of Cloths.

Yesterday the local members for Kingston, J. H. Metcalf, M.P.P., was met by a party of about twenty Piegans, who were on their way to the fair at Kingston. Mr. Metcalf seemed to be indignant that the grigs should attempt to molest him, and his manner was somewhat uppish. He declared that he would not be molested, and when the grigs mildly informed him that he would the M.P.P. fell back on his heels, saying, "Do you want to gamble anything on the result?" "Well, I don't mind if I do," said an Ontario street merchant. "I'll bet you a suit of clothes, a pair of boots, and a hat, that you will lose."

Mr. Metcalf spoke up and said, "Have you another suit to lose, James?" and he was then told quietly not to be too reckless on his betting, as they did not wish to see him keep the tailors too busy. The election would be voided without a doubt, as the evidence was ready to go to court.

PARNELL'S POPULARITY.

HIS ADHERENCE TO CONSTITUTIONAL AGITATION.

Arrangements perfected for raising the testimonial to him—Composition of the Dublin Committee.

DUBLIN, April 11.—Mr. Parnell has lately been growing steadily in popularity among the best classes of the community.

His main course in parliament, his refusal to join in constitutional agitation and the schemes of the revolutionists, and, finally, his determination not to leave Ireland for a trip to America in a time like the present, when England, incensed by the doings of the dynamite fanatic, is tempted to saddle Ireland with a perpetual crime act, have endeared him to the thinking Irish citizens of all ranks.

The project for a testimonial fund, which had rather dragged before it, received a new impetus when Lord Mayor Dawson, with his characteristic energy, took hold of the project and set about forming a committee to take charge of the work. Mr. Dawson got together a number of gentlemen, who met at a big meeting at the Mansion house, he himself being in the chair. The lord mayor presided, and the committee, which is composed of Messrs. G. S. Bishop, 190 priests, 12 members of parliament, 70 members of public boards, and 100 citizens, Mayor and Mr. Sullivan, M.P., were appointed to frame an address to the Irish race at home and abroad. The duty of framing the address and other committees are organizing collection committees, and the success of the Parnell tribute may now be considered assured.

Farrell and Carey, at the hearing, Carey's face flushed while giving his evidence. The case was adjourned.

The only plate is Michael Kavanagh, Townsend street—is battered and venerable, and is also held by the police as a link in the evidence.

KILMARNHAM JAIL. The Famous Prison Well Situated for an Attack.

Kilmarnham is singularly well situated for an attempt being made to blow up such a portion of it as would enable a large number of those confined in it to escape. A thickly wooded field bounds it on the southern side, and although there are always two sentries of the guards posted outside the walls here, yet it would not be difficult on a dark night for a number of men to get under cover of the trees near enough to the soldiers to rush upon and overpower them before they could give the alarm, and then blow up the wall with dynamite and rescue the accused in the confusion. There is also in this place a culvert leading under the prison, and up which it is quite possible for an active lad to creep far enough to place a charge of dynamite that could be exploded with great effect upon the whole building. It is singular that up to the present no steps have been taken to secure the entrance of this drain. But the authorities appear to be fully alive to the danger from the west, where there are two small cottages within a few feet of the wall. In the space between these cottages and the prison, with strict orders to be most vigilant and to allow no one to approach on any pretense whatever, unless he has the permission of the warden, there are two sentries of the guards posted outside the walls here, yet it would not be difficult on a dark night for a number of men to get under cover of the trees near enough to the soldiers to rush upon and overpower them before they could give the alarm, and then blow up the wall with dynamite and rescue the accused in the confusion. In the space between these cottages and the prison, with strict orders to be most vigilant and to allow no one to approach on any pretense whatever, unless he has the permission of the warden, there are two sentries of the guards posted outside the walls here, yet it would not be difficult on a dark night for a number of men to get under cover of the trees near enough to the soldiers to rush upon and overpower them before they could give the alarm, and then blow up the wall with dynamite and rescue the accused in the confusion. There is also in this place a culvert leading under the prison, and up which it is quite possible for an active lad to creep far enough to place a charge of dynamite that could be exploded with great effect upon the whole building. A BRIGHTER PROSPECT.

For years and years that part of Ontario east of Toronto has been behind the western section of the province in almost everything.

Natural advantages account for only a small amount of this greater prosperity in the west.

Want of railway competition, and still more want of ordinary railway facilities have been the prime cause.

Toronto is the natural outlet for the whole of Ontario, but eastern Ontario has been almost shut out from Toronto, owing to the policy of the Grand Trunk.

The facilities for getting east of Toronto are few and unreliable. The trains of the Grand Trunk to the east or from the east are meagre in number and their being on time is the exception, not the rule.

But there was of late a prospect of all this being changed. Our having a direct and competing line to Ottawa; of the Grand Trunk being forced to double-track its road and run trains faster, more reliable and greater in number than those that we now have.

THE TRADES DEPUTATION AT OTTAWA.

On Tuesday Messrs. Moor, Heakes and Shepherd, a deputation from the Toronto Trades and Labor Council, had an interview with Sir John Macdonald.

Let us place in contrast these two radically and fundamentally different views of railway policy. One is—let there be perfect free trade in railways; charter every company applying provided only that no public money be asked for; afterwards let the competitors fight it out among themselves to their hearts' content.

The other—the national policy view—is that it is the duty of government in the first place to prevent or restrict the expenditure of capital in superfluous railways, beyond the country's ability to carry, thus stopping as far as possible the enormous and needless waste of railway war, which falls both upon the companies and the public.

There has been scarcely one week's interval of fair weather, and while the autumn-grown wheat has been either washed out of the ground or irretrievably damaged, but little opportunity has been afforded for the ordinary operations of the late winter or early spring.

With respect to the expected factory bill Sir John said it would be introduced in a few days, and referred the deputation to Sir Leonard Tilley, who has it in charge, and with whom they were to have had an interview yesterday.

RAILWAY COMPETITION WITHOUT RAILWAY WAR.

On the subject of the pending arrangement between the Grand Trunk and the Canada Pacific railway companies and its probable results, Mr. E. H. Osler, president of the Quebec and Ontario company, is thus reported in the Globe:

He was very decided in his expression of the opinion that it would have no effect at all so far as the completion of the road was concerned. The contract for the work from end to end of the road was all let, and that the work would be completed within the shadow of a doubt.

This is a very pleasant and rose-colored view of what the combination means; and in placing it before the public Mr. Osler has done no more than is both proper and necessary. No doubt exaggerated views of alleged probable combination or monopoly results will be put forth, and people naturally wish to hear the other side—the combination side of the story.

It would unquestionably be a good thing for the country if this ideal combination—that of railway competition without railway war—were realized. The World can with perfect consistency advocate this as a combination, and quite avoidable by the taking of a sensible business course on both sides.

Whoever may be the democratic candidate for president in 1894, it appears set that there would certainly be a perfect right to do what seemeth best for those in their care, but have no right to fetter them, or cause them to be fettered, after they have arrived at the age of maturity.

Let us place in contrast these two radically and fundamentally different views of railway policy. One is—let there be perfect free trade in railways; charter every company applying provided only that no public money be asked for; afterwards let the competitors fight it out among themselves to their hearts' content.

The other—the national policy view—is that it is the duty of government in the first place to prevent or restrict the expenditure of capital in superfluous railways, beyond the country's ability to carry, thus stopping as far as possible the enormous and needless waste of railway war, which falls both upon the companies and the public.

both brought out from England by Miss Rye, were up for trial, one for forgery and the other for larceny. Unless the old country boards of guardians are well watched, they will ship to Canada all such emigrants as we can get to take.

The public will be pleased to learn that Professor Maclean of Michigan university has got a verdict of $25,000 against the Detroit Evening News for libel, not that they wish him the money, or desire to see the freedom of the press interfered with, but that they like to see a man of the professional reputation of the professor in question, and one who is a teacher of youth, have a clear record.

The Reason Why. At the meeting of peers in a Chicago church the other evening, there was not competition for seat No. 78, and the bids ran up to a large sum. It was finally knocked down to Brother B. "Why were you so anxious to get that particular seat?" he was asked by Bro. C. "Why?" he asked just that. "Well, what of that?" returned the other. "Why?" rejoined Bro. B. "M." as well as a jug, and he drew the files from his pocket around him. "I made up my mind to get a new year near him this year, for if there's anything I hate it is to be pestered with files when I'm—when I'm listening to a sermon." "Li-Quor!" is the leading article.

A Church, Made a Playhouse. The play of Orestes, followed by the farce of My Neighbor's Wife, formed the program of an entertainment in the Methodist Episcopal church. The pastor protested against what he regarded as a desecration of the house of God, but the trustees gave permission in spite of him.

The recent death of O. E. Freeman in Hamilton, Ont., under such exceptional circumstances, has attracted the attention of heavy life insurers. It has been found that Geo. K. Anderson, of Titusville, carries possibly the heaviest insurance in the world. It is $350,000. J. B. Steaton of Philadelphia has $310,000; Frank Jones of Portsmouth, N. H., $205,000; James Park, jr., Pittsburg, $800,000; W. H. Langley, Gallipolis, O., $300,000; John How, St. Louis, $300,000; P. Lorillard, New York city, $250,000; F. W. Devere, New York city, $250,000; Cyrus W. Field, New York city, $240,000; Alex. Wiley, Springfield, O., $201,000; Alexander Barrett, New York, $200,000; F. D. Roberts, New York, $200,000.

Komos complained yesterday that he had not referred to the case of the lady in Montreal, who, having accepted a nun's vows, is anxious to be released from their consequences. Primarily we believe every church has a right to regulate its own affairs. It has no right, however, to detain any person against his or her will unless that person be of full age and sound judgment voluntarily surrenders his or her liberty, and willingly accepts all that such surrender entails, being well advised beforehand of the nature of the contract undertaken; and if after making such contract, he or she desires to break it, it is a matter of personal freedom, the individual concerned should be allowed to do so without incurring any penalties, either civil or religious.
